Peeler Sees Bright Export Future For Grain Sorghum

BY DAN MUDD
BRAND STAFF REPORTER
Tommy Carnahan was elected president of Deaf Smith County Grain Producers Association.

Other new officers elected were: Grant Hanna, vice president; Ed Dziuk Jr., secretary; and directors, Curtis Roach, F. L. Eicke, Austin Rose Jr. and Jim Session.

R. G. Peeler of Hereford was guest speaker at the meeting, which was attended by about 50 grain producers in this area. The meeting began at 7:30 p.m.

Peeler told the group of a month-long study he recently made for possibilities of exporting grain sorghum to markets in Italy, Portugal, Spain, the United Kingdom, Netherlands, West Germany, Belgium, Greece, Turkey and Israel.

"Europe currently is enjoying prosperity, probably more than it ever has in the past," Peeler commented, adding for that reason he sees a bright outlook for expanding the grain sorghum market in European countries.

He pointed out that during periods of prosperity, a country consumes more livestock products, and that creates an outlet for feed grains.

Chief objective of Peeler's study was to appraise and give further direction to the market promotion projects which are being conducted throughout this area in cooperation with the Foreign Agriculture Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Peeler was joined by Walter Goeppinger of Boone, Iowa, as they called on foreign government officials, agriculture leaders and feed grain users as representatives of the U. S. Feed Grains Council.

Goeppinger, an Iowa corn farmer, is president of the National Corn Growers Association. The two United States travelers were joined by Charles C. Gidney of Rome, Italy, director of the U. S. Feed

Two Fined $100 Each For DWI

Two men charged with driving while intoxicated, first offense, were fined $100 and court costs and sentenced to three days in Deaf Smith County jail after entering pleas of guilty to the charges in County Court Friday.

Charged were: William Henry Downs, 38, of Amarillo; and William Roger Metcalf, 57, of Schulesburg, Wis.

Downs was arrested at 1:38 p. m. Thursday in the 500 block of E. First St., and Metcalf was arrested five minutes later, at 1:43 p. m. in the 200 block of Sampson St.

Both arrests were made by Hereford police patrolmen Ed Roberson and Claude Roper. County Judge Don Zimmerman presided in court.

Winter's First Blast Puts County On Skids

County Farmers Will Vote Tuesday On Cotton Quotas

After being notified last week that they will receive 1,050 additional acres over last year, Deaf Smith County farmers will go to the polls Tuesday, Dec. 13, and vote in the national referendum on the 1961 crop of upland cotton.

At stake in the voting is determination of whether or not marketing quotas will apply to their 1961 crops.

Glenn Robison On Crops Team That Wins Twice

Glenn Robison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Robison of Westway, was on the judging team which won the International Crops Contest in Chicago last week after previously taking top honors in the National Crops Contest in Kansas City, Mo.

Robison, 22, was one of four Texas Tech students who won several cups, plaques and medals as international seed judging champions in the International Collegiate Crops contest at the International Livestock Exposition of Chicago.

In Chicago, the Tech team ran up a total of 5,297 points to make the highest total score ever posted in the International Crops Contest. Maximum score possible is 5,400 points.

The Chicago contest saw Robison as one of the two top individual judges. Robison also was one of the three top judges. (Continued on page 5)

Work, Routing Schedule For U. S. 60 Told

Texas Highway Department this week announced its planned work schedule and traffic routing for widening of U. S. Highway 60 inside the city limits. Construction started on the project Tuesday and is to be finished by September, 1961, according to William V. York, senior resident engineer for the THD.

York explained that traffic will be routed through the project from the east city limit to the intersection of Loop 111 (Park Avenue). From this point, transit traffic will be detoured along Loop 111 to U. S. Highway 385.

The portion of the project west of the intersection of Loop 211 will be kept open to local traffic to the fullest practical extent, York said.

Barriades and warning signs will be displayed, but York warned that motorists should be extremely cautious in passing through the area of construction.

production, and their wives, are eligible to vote.

At least two-thirds of those voting must approve quotas if they are to continue in effect. Only one allotment price support program will be available to growers in 1961.

If marketing quotas are approved in the referendum, price support will be available to growers who comply with their farm allotments at a level within the range of 70 to 90 percent of parity, exact level to be determined at a later date.

If quotas are not approved, allotments will remain in effect and price support at 50 percent of parity will be available to growers who comply with the allotment program.

District Court Sentences One, Probates Four

One person was sentenced to a term in the penitentiary and four others were placed on probation after they entered pleas of guilty in 69th District Court Tuesday and Wednesday in Hereford.

All had been indicted by 69th District Grand Jury, which convened in District Court Tuesday this week.

James Loring Minton, 35, of Amarillo was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary at Huntsville after pleading guilty to charge of burglary. Eduardo Resendez, 23, of San Benito received two years' probation after pleading guilty to forgery and passing.

Ice and snow teamed up to give Deaf Smith County its first real taste of winter weather the past five days.

Snow began falling in Hereford first before dawn Tuesday morning and has continued, with intermittent rain and sleet, since that time.

A rash of minor accidents resulted from ice roads and streets, but law enforcement officers have reported no major accidents.

However, at least two persons received broken bones after falling on slick sidewalks. Mrs. Ernestine Sanders, 406 West Third, was injured Friday afternoon after a fall in the 400 block of Jackson.

Her attending physician said she received a fractured left arm and a fractured left leg in the mishap.

Mrs. Debs Knox, 133 Ave. B, received a fractured left arm and sprained right arm in a fall in front of her home Thursday.

"Fender-benders" were frequent Thursday morning as a sheet of ice about one-fourth of an inch thick covered streets, walks and put a dangerous topping on a slight snow cover.

City of Hereford employees and Texas Highway Department workers stayed busy Thursday sanding dangerous intersections. All roads leading out of Hereford, while open, were reported in a very dangerous condition.

As one veteran traffic officer said, "Road conditions are very dangerous and should not be traveled unless it is an emergency. And if you must drive, walk!"

Snow started falling heavily early Friday morning and had continued with brief interruptions through Saturday noon. Snow measured from five to seven inches, but there was very little snow on the ground. (Continued on page 3)

Around Town

Our older son is in the midst of having some teeth pulled and really believes in the good fairy, who has been leaving vast donations in return for slightly used molars, cuspids and what not.

But we also suspect the existence of a good fairy for adults. When my wife called Friday and demanded to know who had cleaned off our driveway, we suspected a trap. One of those things that ends up with saying, "I'll do it first thing when I get home." But she was serious. And we were delighted to come home and find a neat job of getting the snow out of the way. We really think that Ray Cole did the job with his little tractor and blade, but don't know for sure. Anyway, we really do appreciate it.

Farm Bureau Elects Officers

Frank Barrett of Hereford was elected president of Deaf Smith County Farm Bureau at a board of directors meeting Thursday night.

Also elected to one-year terms in the Farm Bureau were: Earl Plank, first vice president; Robert Betzen, second vice president; and A. E. Hodges, secretary-treasurer.

They were elected at the Farm Bureau's annual directors meeting in the Hereford office.

The nine directors attending the meeting were Steve Clements, Frank Barrett, A. E. Hodges, H. E. Bippus, Roy Botkins, Jerome Friemel, Robert Betzen, M. G. Duvall and Robert Jacobson. The meeting started at 8 p. m.

NEW OFFICERS of Deaf Smith County Grain Producers Association discuss plans for the coming year following an annual meeting of the group Thursday night in Hereford Community Center. Weather Puts End To Cotton, Beets Ice and a blanket of snow cut off the final stages of cotton and sugar beet harvests in Deaf Smith County this week.

About 500 bales of cotton remain to be ginned in this county, a local gin operator estimated Saturday morning. Quality of the 7,600 bales already ginned locally has been fair to good, he said.

Except for one farmer, growers of sugar beets have finished harvest of 1960 crops. Production is about average, a grower told the Brand Saturday.

Production of beets is about 20 tons per acre, the grower said. Leaf spot, he added, cut production slightly.

Cars have been available throughout the harvest season for transport of beets to Rocky Ford, Colo. Due to the plentiful supply of cars, beets were not stockpiled this year.

Payments for beets shipped in November will be made on Dec. 15.

Harvest of cotton got off to a late start this year due to heavy rainfall late in the growing season.

Some yields on sugar beets in this area reached from 26 to 27 tons per acre. Heavy rains and heavy dew caused leaf spot in some fields of sugar beets, which attributed to a below-average sugar content.

A leaf spot-resistant beet variety will be planted in this area in the near future.

SKIING IN HEREFORD may never become popular, but it was the only alternative ski enthusiast Mack Silvertooth of Hereford had when snow-covered highways blocked a trip he had planned to make to Santa Fe Ski Basin this weekend. Although he was chagrined about postponing his trip, Silvertooth refused to give up — so he took his skis to John Pitman Municipal Golf Course and turned a fairway into a ski slope. (Staff Photo)

Grains Council's European programs, as they made their visits.

While in Spain, they participated in the Second Animal Feeding Symposium which was held in Madrid as a cooperative program between the U. S. Feed Grains Council, the Soybean Council of America and Foreign Agriculture Service.

Principal host of the visitors in the United Kingdom was Walter Greenwood, president of the Liverpool Corn Exchange, along with other members of a British Feed Grain Mission which visited in Hereford and other parts of the United States recently as a part of the GSPA's foreign market development program.

In Rotterdam, which is the principal port in Europe for U. S. agricultural products, the offices of other U. S. agricultural groups located there were visited, including Great Plains Wheat Market Development Association, Soybean Council of America, American Poultry Industry's Institute and the American Farm Bureau.

The Agricultural and Industrial Institute at Thessaloniki, Greece, which is conducting livestock and poultry feeding demonstrations in cooperation with the Council, came in for close study for expansion of marketing.

Vasili Halkman of Ankara, Turkey, editor and publisher of "Yeni Ziraat" (The New Agriculture) hosted the visitors in Turkey. His publication regularly carries releases relative to the expanding use of U. S. feed grains in livestock and poultry production.

Peeler, past president and present director of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association, also is first vice president of the U. S. Feeds Grains Council, which was organized in July this year to combine the efforts of corn, grain sorghum, oats and barley growers into a unified market development program.

Grain sorghum and corn are the principal U. S. feed grains being exported to the expanding European market.

"All European countries seem interested in poultry production," Peeler said. He said the Council is conducting an education program on grain sorghum in poultry raising.

Grain sorghum, generally has been in good condition when reaching ports of entry in Europe. Corn, he added, has often been in poor condition on arrival.

The Council, Peeler said, is also trying to get some of the restrictions on imports lifted in European markets while conducting the expansion program.

B. M. McGinley of Amarillo, public relations director of GSPA, spoke briefly to the group.

McGinley pointed out the need for closer relationships with other feeding areas, such as the California market, and the need for close attention to legislative matters affecting sorghum growers as farm policy programs are reconstructed during the coming year. He also spoke on expanding potentials for livestock feeding in the area.

He pointed out that California is one of the nation's largest utilizers of grain sorghum.

California's population is increasing at the rate of more than 1,000 a day and the average Californian consumes 20 pounds more meat a year than the average citizen, or 172 pounds per person annually.

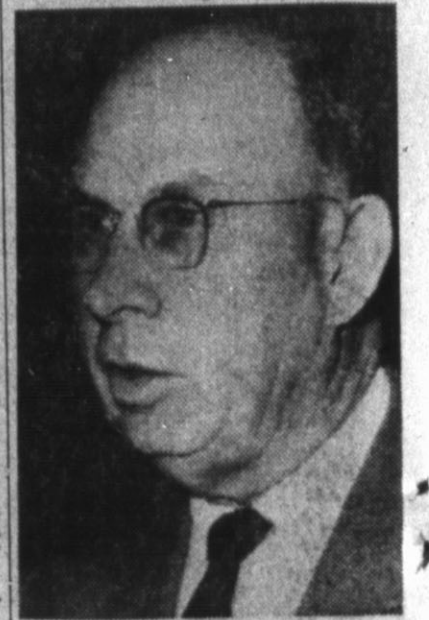

California feeders, McGinley said, have learned grain sorghums are ideal for fattening cattle.

Outgoing officers of the county GSPA were Grant Hanna, president, Charlie Hill, vice president, and Bill Messick, secretary.

Hold-over directors are: Bill Gentry, W. H. Andrews, C. C. Ellis, J. B. Haile, C. R. Dameron, J. T. Gilbreath, Earl Cole, H. E. Bippus, Frank Knabe, Ralph Hastings and Marcus Latham.

All officers and directors were elected by unanimous vote of the grain sorghum producers attending the meeting.

A SEMI-TRUCK was pulled from a snow-filled ditch on west Highway 60 Thursday afternoon. Highways and roads in Hereford were hazardous last week after a heavy blanket of snow was dropped in this area. Highways were blocked at times, and drivers in the city were urged to drive with extreme caution. Snow was still falling at press time Saturday noon. (Staff Photo) little drifting. Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperative reported that power was lost temporarily throughout the area, but was being restored in a matter of a few hours. Rural telephone service was reported out Saturday morning in the Oklahoma Lane and Hub areas of Farmer County, but workmen were on the scene and expected to have service restored by Saturday evening.

The Cooperative sent a repair crew to Lovington, N.M., on Saturday morning to aid what was termed an emergency situation in that area. Heavier accumulations of ice there had caused power lines and poles to fall, cutting off a majority of rural customers.

City crews went to work early Saturday to clear much snow and ice off downtown streets. A large front-end loader gathered the snow in piles, then dumped it into trucks to be carried away.

The heavy ice caused Hereford schools to be closed on Thursday, Friday, however, the buses brought in rural students after starting in clear weather.

But heavy snow began piling up by 8 a. m. and all buses were turned around as they arrived and took the students home. School officials said they were afraid the snow might keep several buses from getting home if they had remained in town.

Store clerks got a brief respite Thursday as weather kept all but the most daring shoppers from coming to town. With snow and better driving conditions Friday, however, stores again became busy with Christmas shoppers. Many activities which had been planned in Hereford and elsewhere across the storm area were cancelled. Others were postponed until later.

County...

Smith County under 10 acres will get no increase. But those farmers will get the same allotment they had in 1958.

Allotments were mailed to 605 cotton farmers Monday last week by the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office in Hereford. Only 572 received allotments for the 1960 crop.

During the past two years, farm operators had a choice between regular allotment and a price support rate and a larger allotment at a reduced rate of support. However, the law providing that special program applied only to 1959 and 1960 crops.

Polling places and referendum committees will include:

Community "A" — Dawn School cafeteria; Miss Roberta Campbell, Mrs. L. W. Tooley and Mrs. E. C. Hammett; Communities "B" and "C" — Driver's License Bureau in the County Courthouse; Mrs. Clinton Jackson, Mrs. R. L. Wilson and Mrs. R. W. Mitchell; Community "D" — Ford Community House; Mrs. LeRoy K. Williamson, Mrs. Hardy Benson and Mrs. Raymond Smith.

All members of the referendum committee are members of county Home Demonstration clubs.

County ASC office manager Fausse Collier reminded farmers that the allotments will remain in effect for 1961-crop cotton whether or not growers approve 1961 marketing quotas in the national referendum.

Allotments are used as a means of determining eligibility for the available price support. Figures released by the ASC office in Hereford recently showed that this county will receive an allotment of 11,381 acres in 1961. That figure is a 1,050-acre increase over the 10,331 allotted for the 1960 crop.

Allotment history acreage in Deaf Smith County for the past five years is as follows: 1955, 10,027; 1956, 9,606; 1957, 11,442; 1958, 11,533; 1959, 10,075; and 1960, 10,331.

The 1961 county base acreage average, based on a five-year average, is 10,537 acres.

The upland allotment for Texas was set at 7,949,196 acres, which includes 10,686 acres as the state's share of the national reserve. The Agricultural Act of 1958 authorizes a national acreage reserve of 310,000 acres for apportionment among states on the basis of the estimated needs for additional acreage to establish minimum farm allotments.

FALLING IS FUN . . . when you're a youngster. That's what many Hereford youngsters did Thursday, when freezing rains made roads and sidewalks slippery. Many of the older residents fell while shopping in Hereford — but not on purpose. A blanket of snow dropped in the area Friday, and snow continued to fall Saturday. Schools were closed Thursday and Friday in Hereford. (Staff Photo)

CARING FOR HORSES

BURLINGTON, Vt. — People who own horses should show horse sense in taking care of the animals during the winter months.

Dr. James Wadsworth of the Vermont Extension Service says horses need daily exercise when stabled for the winter.

"They need to move around more than do other types of live stock," he adds. "Exercise stimulates thirst and appetite, so plenty of fresh water as well as proper rations must be provided."

If horses cool off too rapidly after winter exercise, he says, "stiff muscles, cold or even pneumonia may set in. Always cover a horse with a blanket after exercise."

HUNDREDS of Hereford children braved a chilly breeze last Saturday afternoon waiting for Santa Claus to arrive in the city. Shortly after 3 p.m., Santa came down Main St. waving at his kingdom of children. The youngsters were given Christmas socks full of candy after the parade. (Staff Photo)

CARLYNN WILLIAMS of Hereford, left, is among 34 juniors and seniors named to represent West Texas State College in the 1960-61 edition of "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities And Colleges." Other students shown with Miss Williams are Don Sheffy and Judith Cleavinger, both of Dimmitt.

SANTA KNOWS BEST . . . What good are Christmas toys if you're too dressed up to play with them? Santa solves this problem by adding gay new play clothes to the toy pack this year. Even the littlest children enjoy new clothes if they're bright in color, comfortable to wear and sturdy enough to stand hard play. Pictured above are outfits that fill the bill on all counts. The small glamor girl at left wears a feminized version of the toddler overall, in bright red or mint green, with lace-trimmed cummerbund and blouse. The young-man-about-town at right wears a continental vest and slacks in red, blue or antelope corduroy, with Ivy-League paisley shirt. Both designed by George Rosenberg of Minneapolis.

SCORES OF EXCITED YOUNGSTERS crowded Main St. last Saturday afternoon for the arrival of Santa Claus. Riding on the Shrine Club fire truck, he had a magnetic effect on these eager children, shown running after him in order to get a closer look. Or perhaps they wanted to be able to crow: "I touched him . . . I touched Santa Claus!" (Staff Photo)

SPELLING STUDIED
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When an insurance executive lamented that new employees have not learned how to spell while in school, high school English teacher Myron T. Seifert directed his students to write 500 business executives about the situation.
Most replied, and Seifert's students have been analyzing their own spelling ability and learning habits in terms of what the businessmen say is necessary for success. Ohio State University's educational research bureau is making a related study.

MECHANICAL MALFUNCTION

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bank clerks take heart—even those mechanical brains err sometimes. An electric monster in the Metropolitan Budget Director's department dropped the last digit in 80,000 personal property tax bills, dropping everybody's taxes by 90 per cent. But the error was discovered before the tax bills were mailed out and now the taxpayer will not only have to pay the full tax—he'll also have to pay for all the wasted paper.

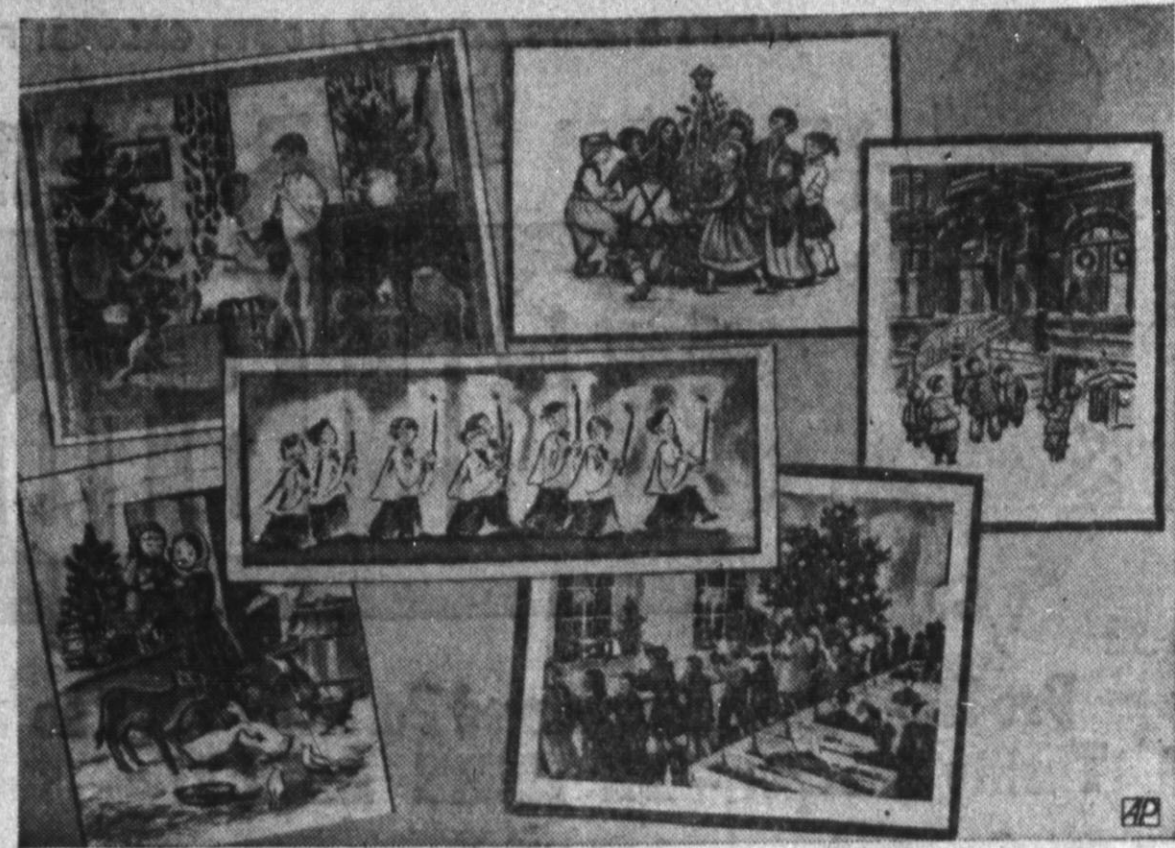

sumes command, chooses to ignore the Marine General's order and lead an attack that wins the island.

That feat earns him another promotion and supervision for still another battle.

Powell writes with ease and fluidity as he tells an intriguing story of a professional soldier who has studied his trade continuously and knows how to apply it to current situation.

The Soldier is a good piece of fiction. It is absorbing, entertaining, humorous and tender. It makes enjoyable reading.

SPRIT OF CHRISTMAS . . . Children carry the Christmas message this year on many greeting cards of the American Artist Group. Designers and illustrators and Tasha Tudor collections. Pictured are representative cards from all three groups, as each artist interprets in his own way the importance of children in the Christmas traditions: children at home on Christmas Eve, children of all nations dancing around the Christmas tree, small carol singers on a city street, the procession of choir boys, farm children with a special tree for their pets, and children in church.

OFF THE Shelf

BY H. A. TUCK

Lt. Col. William A. Farralon arrived on Zoanga Island in the South Pacific with a detachment of WACs, the first to be sent overseas early in World War II.

He was being assigned to an obscure outfit to serve out his remaining Regular Army time under a cloud.

This provides the setting for The Soldier, a novel by Richard Powell. The book is from the Deaf Smith County Library.

With his father a retired Lieut.

tenant General, Bill Farralon has spent his life trying to live up to his father. He has studied all the classic battles, but his career ended when he left Anchor Island at the opening of the war, the only man to do so. The orders he claims were sent detaching him can't be found, and he is considered a coward.

It doesn't become any better when he is assigned to work with Col. Reb Baylor, whose career Farralon has nearly ruined with unfavorable report from the 1940 maneuvers in Louisiana. And Gen. McGuire, the commander, hasn't any feelings of sympathy for Farralon, either.

Knowing that he can't harm his career any further, Farralon gets the WACs settled after they had been ignored by the rest of the command.

He saves McGuire's life on a patrol in the hills and starts a legend of using hand grenades, a legend which grows with each telling.

Farralon is picked for the dirty job of supervising the evacuation of Little Moon Island. When he arrives, he finds too many stretcher cases and almost no officers left. Instead of evacuating the island, he picks up a tame killer, named Kowalski, rallies the tired, sick troops and defeats the Japanese.

Promoted and returned to Zoanga, he becomes McGuire's chief of staff. He also carries on a romance with Lt. Claire Patriek, commander of the WAC detachment.

When trouble develops between a Marine general and an Army colonel, Farralon is detached to troubleshoot the battle on another island. Although it is difficult, Farralon relieves the Colonel, who was his roommate in military school. Then he as-

GRANDFATHER IS STUDENT

MANVILLE, N. J. — Joseph Magnella finds it much easier attending college than it was attending high school.

He finished high school during the last four years, attending classes in New York City at night and arriving home about 12:30 a. m. His day started again at 5:30 a. m. when he arose to go to work at the U. S. Information Service in New York City.

He still has a tight schedule but feels it's not nearly as bad as the previous one.

Mignella—a 53-year-old grandfather—expects to graduate in seven years with a degree in political science from Rutgers University.

YOUNG TOOTER

POWELL, VI. — Brian Pizzano, 13, is an eighth grade student, but he's good as a collegian when it comes to blowing a trumpet.

He proved it by gaining a spot as the only non-Williams man in the 55-member Williams College marching band.

Young Brian volunteered his services when Band Director Irwin Shalman lost four of his trumpeters from the 1958 band.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent N. Pizzano, couldn't attend marching practice with the band. So when the outfit maneuvered into its various positions at Williams football games, he got a stationary position.

Something always comes along to take the joy out of life. Harvey Brock is just back from Los Angeles, and was having the time of his life telling about the cold weather in California, and how glad he was to get back to Hereford where it is not so cold. Next day, what happened? The snow started, and completely ruined his story.

Everyone agrees that Thursday was probably the slickest morning ever seen in Hereford.

Francis Hardwick was one of several people who took a tumble on Main Street. He was between the post office and the Gunn store, and says he couldn't get up until he crawled and inched his way to the sidewalk.

"I have always heard of chinning yourself on the curb," says Francis, "but that's the first time I ever did it."

Rev. Hershel Thurston, Methodist pastor, recently ran across a Christmas shopping story that should amuse clerks all over the world. He was talking with an employee in a local drug store one day this week, when they were interrupted by a three-year-old who held forth two pieces of 1-cent bubble gum in his open palm.

"Please, lady," said the young man, "I would like to have these two pieces of gum—and gift wrap them in separate boxes."

The joke most people seemed to like best was about a farmer who bought, and lived by, a fancy cuckoo clock, imported from the Black Forest in Germany. The man arose, ate breakfast, went to work, came in for dinner, ate supper, and went to bed by the clock. He was prouder of it than anything he ever owned. One night he awoke, however, and started counting the "cuckoos." The clock went through 11, 12, 13, 12 — and kept on until it gave 38 distinct and separate cuckoos. The farmer immediately started shaking his wife, and yelling: "Wake up, Ma! It's later than it ever has been before!"

Doc Cowan was having a lot of trouble the other day finding a pair of light colored slacks. The salesman kept trying to get him to buy some dark ones, which he said were more in style these days.

"I don't care what's in style," declared Doc. "I've got two grey haired dogs — and if you think I am going to buy a pair of dark colored pants, you're nuts!"

German Christmas Customs Bring Back Fond Memories

BY MONA JETTE
WOMEN'S EDITOR

The little girl peered inquisitively through the parted curtains, squinting her eyes in the dim light as she tried to see into the dark street. Then, with an impatient toss of fat blonde braids, she returned to sit on a low stool placed close to a big tiled stove and resume her lonely vigil.

Suddenly she cocked her head to one side, listening intently to something outside. She heard it... the faint pealing of a little bell, moving closer and closer through the clear air until she could hear a faint stamping on the stoop outside the front door. The child rushed to the door and threw it open. It was she! The Christkind had finally come!

The Christmas angel entered the room, still swinging the bell gently to and fro. The little girl's eyes grew large and luminous as she took in the wondrous sight before her.

The angel was dressed in a beautiful white lace dress and a sheer veil fell from a golden crown sitting majestically atop her head. Two feathery wings, touched with gold, jutted from her shoulder blades.

The child's parents pushed the transfixed little girl closer to the angel, who took two small hands into her larger ones and asked questions about behavior for the year. The angel asked the child if she knew a prayer, then all four bowed their heads and recited it together. The angel turned and stepped outside the door. When she re-entered, her arms held many gaily wrapped packages which she gave to the child, who was now so excited she could scarcely contain herself.

After singing several carols, the Christkind departed for the next stop on her list, leaving behind her a happy little girl, engrossed in tearing wrappings from her gifts.

This took place in a land where there is no Santa Claus, and where there are no dreams for a white Christmas; for the people there cannot remember one that wasn't white! Mrs. Douglas Kelley, 704 Ble-vis, is now a grown woman with two little daughters of her own; but she can still remember her childhood Christmases in her native Germany.

"Over there we have no Santa Claus, Christmas Eve is a holy night, the night the Christ Child was born, I guess that's where the 'Christkind' comes from," said Betty, who still speaks with a slight accent, after coming to America seven years ago with her GI husband.

She displayed a colorful card, about 12 inches long and ten inches high, tacked to her kitchen wall. The Advent Calendar depicts various Yuletide scenes and has 24 tiny windows. Each day, starting on the first of December, her two daughters, Doris and Barbara, open a window. The biggest window will be opened Christmas Eve and contains a picture of the Baby Jesus.

Betty lived during her childhood years in a village called Sulzbach-Rosenberg, located in the part of Southern Germany known as Bavaria. She can't remember a Christmas without snow, although one year it had melted by Christmas Eve. Then, on the morning of Christmas Eve, it started snowing again.

Just in time for a white Christmas.

"On December 6, St. Nicholas always came. It usually was someone from the village, dressed in a big dark coat and wearing a beard. He carried a big sack of candy, nuts, fruit in one hand and a big switch in the other." Betty's bright blue eyes sparkled in remembrance. "He would go up and down the streets of the neighborhood and pass out goodies to the children who had been good and pretend to beat the naughty ones. He carried an extra sack, and if he had been told of a very bad child, he would put them in the sack and fool them into thinking he was going to carry them off. Oh, it was great fun!"

The women of the village started their holiday baking about three weeks before Christmas. They bake six or seven varieties of cookies, which are put in tins and hidden until Christmas Eve. And of course, there is the tame goose to be fattened for the holiday feast.

On Christmas Eve morning, Betty's father would get a permit from the mayor of the village, for which he was charged the sum of two marks. (about 50 cents). This permit enabled him to go to the nearby forest and pick out the tree he wanted. Sometimes he would stay all day, hunting for just the right tree for his family. Then he would chop it down and carry it home, to be decorated that evening.

"We used little wax candles of one color instead of electric lights on the tree," remembered Betty. "And I can remember how particular my mother was about the icicles. One time my father and I just stood back and threw them on the tree. When Mother came home, she made us take them all off and put them on just so-so. And our Christmas balls weren't like you have here. They were usually silver or light-colored."

All the shops close at 2 p. m. on Christmas Eve, and everyone goes home to get ready for Christmas. Children stay close to home, eager for the time to attend church services and the arrival of the Christkind.

Betty loved the church services, for the preacher read the simple but beautiful story of Christmas, and then the congregation sang all the old Christmas carols. It was a simple service, but one that left everyone with a peaceful feeling, bringing out the true meaning of the celebration of Christmas.

"But you know," mused Betty, "the part I liked best was when the brass band played. Our church had a high tower, which could be reached by climbing 200 or so

Legion Women Hold Meeting

The American Legion Auxiliary held a regular monthly meeting in the Rock Club House Tuesday evening, Dec. 6.

Mrs. Evalie Potter presided over the business meeting, at which time plans were completed concerning the Christmas dinner to be served by Auxiliary members for two local business firms.

It was also decided to have a social meeting jointly with the American Legion the third Tuesday night in January.

The Auxiliary and the American Legion will have a Christmas party in the Rock Club House Dec. 20, and final arrangements were made for this affair.

Those attending were Mesdames Clarence Saulcy, Frankie Bell, F. S. Smith, Mabel Wagner, C. R. McGhee, Evalie Potter, Hazel Sparks, Gertrude Nell, Cecil Wilkins, Carlos Vaughn, and W. C. Frost.

Mrs. Thurston Presents Review

The home of Mrs. Ansel McDowell was the meeting place recently for members of the Bay View Club.

Mrs. H. S. Thurston presented the program and reviewed The Second Christmas, by John Haynes Holmes.

Although this book is a work of fiction, it gives us the true message of Christ's birth and the Christmas season.

It is the story of Mary during the first year of Jesus' life, and her search for a sign of his earthly power.

Those attending were Mesdames D. H. Alexander, Philip Barkley, Colby Conkright, C. W. Fisher, W. J. Gilliland, E. W. Harrison, George Heard, A. M. Jones, W. S. Kerr, J. W. Kirby, Paul Mathers, Eugene Naugle, Carl Perrin, J. W. Spradley, H. L. Thurston, Dick Bernard, and the hostess, Mrs. McDowell.

Miss Townsend Shower Honoree

The bride-elect's chosen colors of red and white were used to decorate the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas building at a recent shower honoring Miss Sandra K. Townsend, bride-elect of Eugene Combs.

The tea table was laid with a white tablecloth and topped with a red net overskirt. Centering the table was an arrangement of red carnations, and white cushion mums. Tall red tapers in crystal holders flanked the centerpiece.

Miss Mary Sue Patton presided at the punch service and Mrs. Robert Brown sat at the guest registry.

Those in the receiving line with the honoree were Mrs. Elmer Combs, mother of the groom-to-be; Mrs. Johnnie Town-

La Plata Members Meet In McGee Home Tuesday

Miss Della Stagner presented the program on "Our Changing World in Literature" at a meeting of La Plata Study Club held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Lloyd McGee, 511 Ave. J.

It was pointed out during the program that reading means something different to every person, depending on past experience. It is never too late to appreciate good books and a person should cultivate this interest in the young child.

The gift of loving to read is one of the greatest gifts you can bestow on a child but this cannot be done unless the parents really enjoy reading. You should be critical of your choice of literature and you can excite interest for reading by sharing stories with your children.

Miss Stagner illustrated this point by telling a childhood story, "How The Camel Got His Hump." She told this in a way to be appealing to children of all ages.

During the business session, members voted to send a box of Christmas presents to the mental hospital located at Wichita Falls.

Ple and coffee were served to Mesdames Leroy Aven, Jay Boston, Jack Brown, Joel Hodges, L. G. Hutson, Don Little, J. M. Madison, Ansel McDowell, Elmer Patterson, Frank Prowell, A. J. Schroeter, T. E. Seigler, Ullin Streu, Joel Treadwell, Raymond White, Louis Woodford and the hostess, Mrs. Lloyd McGee.

L'Allegria Has Thursday Meet

The home of Mrs. Hilton Higgins was the meeting place for L'Allegria Study Club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Gilbert Davis, who was to present the program on "Christmas Wrapping" was unable to be present. A round-table discussion took the place of the scheduled program.

Mrs. Bob Bradley was welcomed as a new member by the organization.

Those present were Mesdames Ronald Baftone, Tommy Carnahan, Jimmy Easley, C. E. Hicks, James Ellis Higgins, Terry Kirby, Walter London, Eugene Noel, John Douglas Pitman, Oliver Streu, Dwayne Walker, Bob Bradley and the hostess, Mrs. Hilton Higgins.

Levelland Visitors Give Demonstration

Mrs. Dick Miller and Mrs. Buddy Evans were hostesses at a meeting of the Garden Beautiful Club held Friday afternoon in the Community Center.

Mrs. B. E. Roberson, president, presided over a short business meeting, at which the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. Roberson introduced Mrs. Herbert Ray and Mrs. Ann Perry from the Rose Garden Club in Levelland, who presented a program on Christmas decorations and assembled a variety of arrangements suitable for holiday use.

One of the most striking arrangements was a Yule tree formed of pink feathers, highlighted with fuchsia Christmas balls.

Those attending were Mesdames Ray Johnson, Homer Newton, Tom Carter, Ray Cowser, Wayne Edwards, E. W. Harrison, Charles Hood, V. O. Hennen, L. H. Lookingbill, Ansel McDowell, Dick Miller, G. P. Owens, J. B. Pool, Lloyd Pool, B. E. Roberson, Mary Seigler, W. J. Stanford, J. Howard Walker, L. W. Woodford, Helen Pipkin, Buddy Evans, and the guests, Mrs. Herbert Ray and Mrs. Ann Perry. Mrs. Jesse Roberson was welcomed as a new member.

steps. A veranda was built encircling the tower. The brass band would go up there on Christmas Eve and play Carols for hours. How I loved that!"

Her eyes took on a faraway look and you couldn't help but wonder if she was comparing our recorded music played over loudspeakers to her beloved village musicians.

It isn't that she would like to live in Germany again, for she is an ardent American now. She was very excited during the past election and campaigned earnestly among her friends for the candidate of her choice. It was a very important occasion for her, since it was the first time she had cast an American ballot.

We all remember favorite places of our childhood and sometimes get the desire to return there. If just for a short time. Betty is thousands of miles away from her family and old friends, and understandably gets lonesome to return for a visit.

Betty is a person you can't help but like. She has a wonderful sense of humor and has a delightful laugh. She also is a superb athlete and is one of the leading female bowlers in the local City Association.

When the Russians invaded Germany during World War II, Betty was attending a university in Greifswald, by the North Sea, studying to be a physical education teacher.

The Nazis closed the town and issued orders that no one was to leave. Here were hundreds of students, away from their homes and families, and anxious to leave. Betty's dorm mother somehow got permission for them to leave on the last train out for Berlin.

"I wish you could have seen me," laughed Betty. "I took all my underclothes and lighter things and rolled them up in a bathrobe, which I strapped together with belts. Then I put on a pair of slacks and over this a straight skirt. Then I put on a dress, then a sweater and finally my coat. I strapped the bathrobe roll to my back and I was ready to go." "But I had to leave my bicycle and all my books. But they wouldn't let me take but two suitcases," she said with regret.

The train was very crowded, mostly with students wishing desperately to get home before anything happened. Betty's own parents had heard that Greifswald had been bombed and didn't know whether she was living or dead.

The group changed trains at Berlin and it took them over two days to reach Nuremberg, which was 35 miles from Betty's home town. The train was forced to stop by sniper planes, as the occupants ran for cover in nearby ditches or bomb shelters. But she finally made it home and found her family safe and sound. Perhaps this experience explains some of the pride she feels in being an American citizen.

The Kelley family is now in the throes of preparing for Christmas, American style. They are ready to decorate their tree and Betty is wondering where in the Panhandle she can find a tame goose for their Christmas dinner.

She is busy preparing gifts for her family and friends. . . . but is busiest explaining to her children that Christmas doesn't mean just Santa Claus, but is a celebration honoring the birth of the baby Jesus.

But perhaps Betty sees mirrored in the eyes of her two little daughters an impatient pig-tailed little girl, anxiously pressing her nose against a cold windowpane, eagerly awaiting the arrival of the Christkind.

At a recent meeting, Thanksgiving decorations were made to take to Boys Ranch for holiday entertaining. Eighteen members were present and all made arrangements for the boys.

Reports were made on the Zone meeting held in Pampa recently, and also on the Christmas Arrangement School held in Lubbock.

Mrs. E. E. Fridley and Mrs. John N. Jacobsen Jr. were hostesses for this meeting.

Horse And Buggy Days Recalled In Many Phases Of State Government

A general need for revamping the government of Texas appears from time to time. Most recently in this connection we received a letter from George Corse, Jr., County Superintendent of Young County, who urges that there is no need for maintaining his office in most Texas counties.

As we have mentioned before, there seems little doubt but that Supt. Corse is correct. In our own Deaf Smith County, for instance, we have one common school district which is served through the superintendent's office. Our office, fortunately, is combined with that of County Judge, and comes much cheaper than in the larger population counties which maintain separate and distinct offices of County Superintendent.

From our observation, the office of County Superintendent should have gone out about the same time they started leaving the cranks off of automobiles — and for the same reason.

Today, in Texas, some counties maintain this office, and do not have even one common school district to serve. The process is needless, expensive and generally inefficient. Many of those who fill the offices, like Graham County Supt. Corse, realize and resent the condition; others prefer to remain on the public payroll, rather than admit the facts.

Consolidation, along with changes in school methods and the advent of bus transportation have completely altered demands and eliminated the need for the office of County Superintendent. Texas counties, however, follow the old course blindly in a manner similar to a herd of sheep following a leader off of a steep bluff. At the same time, our officials keep telling us that there is absolutely no place to cut expenses.

Worse still remains the fact that this is only one example of needless spending. Many other state and county departments and practices fall into the same category. When you boil it all down, you will find that our state and county government was established back in a "horse and buggy" age. Today, we are emerging from the automobile age into an era of jet propulsion — but we still govern our state and county subdivisions with the horse and buggy rules.

Should we wonder that it is expensive? Should we be surprised when some of the situations appear ridiculous? When, if ever, do you suppose we will do something about it?

Santa Letters Change Little

While we live in a changing world in many respects, it is interesting to note that most of our children, no matter how much they change later on, maintain much the same desires when they are pre-school age.

If you doubt this, take a good look at the 1960 offering of Santa Claus letters, and mentally compare them with the things you wanted at the same age; the one thing we note as missing is the "little red wagon" of yesterday. Dolls, bicycles, guns, balls and similar toys are still very much in demand, which is most unusual when you stop to consider the tremendous strides made in the manufacture of toys.

People do buy the new-fangled toys, of course, which bring up the old saw about the father who crowds his son away from the electric train and indicate that they buy the things they would like, instead of changes are acquired in school and through

Since the desires of our youth appear to alter sharply, once they pass the age of "Old Santa," it is logical to conclude that many of the modern day social changes are acquired in school and through outside associations, rather than in the home. Or, perhaps, you would rather conclude that the desire for a doll and a ball are inherent with most Americans at such an early age.

Santa Claus letters do reflect, to a great extent, home training on the part of parents, including the things which surround children in the home, and in the community. Let us also hope that some of this training may continue to stay with the youngsters as they grow into adulthood, and establish families of their own.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR THE WIFE . . .

Archie And Tex Meet Old Problem But Cannot Find A Good Solution

"I'm pooped! Let's guzzle some coffee," said Archie, when he met his friend Tex Thursday morning. "I took the morning off to do my Christmas shopping — and it's rough. Really rough, I mean."

"It must be," agreed Tex, "if you are willing to drink coffee on your own time. What's the snag, Archie?"

"Well, I can't find anything for my wife. I didn't know that women were so hard to please. Everything I figure she'd like costs too much. I reckon I married the most cantankerous woman in the world." "You just don't know anything about women," said Tex. "Buy her something frivolous. Something she never would buy for herself. It doesn't matter if she ever uses it or not. Women just plain don't like practical things. They get too much of that every day."

"You don't know my wife," argued Archie. "She'd skin my head if I come in with a fur coat, or a travel kit, or something like that. Besides, I'm gonna have to borrow the money, and I don't want to toss it out the window. What are you getting your wife, Tex?"

"A new washing machine," said Tex with a sheepish grin. "I know it's silly, but that's what she wants."

"See what I mean?" replied Archie. "You don't even believe that guff yourself. I wish our washing machine was in bad shape, but it ain't. It runs like a top."

"How about a dress or a coat?" suggested Tex.

"Heck," replied Archie. "One time I got her a brassiere, and she still declares the size I selected was a personal insult."

"How about furniture?" suggested Tex. "Well, she won't let anything comfortable come on the place. What do I do, just tell the man I want something uncomfortable, and let him pick it out?"

You're hopeless," responded Tex; "besides, I've got to get back on the job and go to lunch."

"My gosh," screamed Archie. "The morning is gone, and I haven't bought a single present. Oh, well, what the heck? It's too early to do Christmas shopping, anyway. I reckon I'll just wait until Christmas Eve, and make the rounds as usual." Which he did.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

As Christmas approached in the Austrian village of Oberndorf, in 1818, the church organ broke down. Father Joseph Mohr felt that his flock would be disappointed without the prepared organ music, it is said, and so began to write the words of a new song, Silent Night, Holy Night. It is documented that on Christmas Eve day, he handed his words to the church organist, Franz Gruber "with the request that he write for it a suitable melody arranged for two solo voices, chorus, and a guitar accompaniment. On the very same evening the latter . . . handed to the pastor his simple composition, which was thereupon immediately performed on that holy Night of Christmas Eve . . ." Thus, the seeming obstacle of a broken organ, gave rise, through the talent and spirit of two men, to the inspired Christmas carol.

It's Time For Making Your Christmas Candy

BY MRS. R. L. CRISWELL

"Deck the halls with Christmas Holly, Fa la la la la la la la." It's time to make the house look like Christmas, even if you do no more than put a big red ribbon bow on the front door. We must seek the Christmas spirit, even though it is sort of hard to find after weeks and weeks of too many decorations before the day arrives.

I guess that is one of the faults of Americans; they are inclined to overdo things just to show off a bit. But it is time to make cookies with all the red and green decorations and in many shapes and fancies.

It is also time to make homemade candies to offer to your guests as a special treat. The smell of fruit cakes and the baking make the house smell festive as well as having festive things to eat and to see.

Let's see if the good old days were as good as today. When it comes to old time baking it sort of makes one wonder. We can go to the super market and get everything we need to put in a fruit cake without any trouble at all, but there are a lot of people who can remember when these things, such as candied cherries, citron, pineapple, etc. had to be made at home and before the fruit cake could be made — but what a wonderful flavor. And the candies — and of course that brings to mind the candy pullings we have heard about, and the candy was made completely of molasses. I wonder if someone has an old time recipe to make taffy with molasses with directions to cook and when and how to pull it.

One lady said "I remember the bridge spike driven into the post on the back porch, so one person could pull the candy." It was a huge nail and it was a bit greasy around it as the hands must be buttered to keep the hands and the candy from sticking as it was pulled."

Here is a sugar taffy to be pulled until it is snowy white, then broken in bite-size pieces. It is delightful and chewy.

Three cups of sugar, 1/2 cup white vinegar, two Tablespoons of butter, 1/2 cup water. Mix and boil until the mixture is brittle when dropped into cold water. Add 1 teaspoon of vanilla and 1/2 teaspoon of soda, mix well and boil until brittle when dropped in cold water. Pour into a buttered dish and turn in edges until it is cool enough to pull. Pull until snowy white, twist into sticks or break into bite-size pieces.

Divinity: 2 cups of sugar, 1/2 cup of white Karo syrup, 1/2 cup of water. Boil sugar, syrup and water to a hard ball when dropped in cold water. Have two egg whites beaten until it stands in peaks, pour the mixture over slowly, beating constantly. Beat until it begins to peak, stir in 1 cup of whole or broken pecans and pour into a buttered dish. Cut in squares and top with a whole pecan half or English walnut half.

COTTON ALLOTMENT BOOSTED

Farmers in Ldmb County may plant 30,668 more acres in cotton next year under the federal allotment plan than they planted this year, L. D. Aten, ASC official here, said Saturday after official cotton allotments for 1961 were received. Next year's allotment for the county has been set at 211,406 acres as compared with 180,738 acres for 1960. This is approximately 18 per cent higher than the 1960 allotment and is the highest since 1954, Aten said. The 1960 allotment actually was lower than the 1959 figure by 1.86 per cent. On a national basis the cotton allotment is up a little more than 12 per cent. In the past farmers have had a choice of "A" or "B" plan of operation; however, next year the double system of operation will be eliminated. Next year all producers will be in the same category.

COUNTY REFUSES ANNEXATION

Oldham County School Board has refused to agree to the annexation of part of the Wildorado School District by the Canyon district in Randall County. Action taken Tuesday night in Vega by the board followed the August decision by the Randall County School Board which voted to annex a portion of the Wildorado district. The portion included nine sections of land which represents about 15 per cent of the Wildorado tax roll. Judge Wayland Angel, ex-officio superintendent of the county school board, said they had petitioned earlier in the year to take the nine sections into the Canyon Independent School District. Robert Fulton, president of the Wildorado board, had been advised in a recent letter from the State Department of Education that the annexation could not go through without approval of the Oldham County School Board. In the letter the annexation problem was described as "a county line case" since the Wildorado district lies in Oldham, Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall counties.

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm has mis-read another government report, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor: When eleven distinguished American leaders appointed by the President himself spend a year coming to the conclusion that the rest of the country ought to act like I do, it's something to think about.

Of course, these men, called President Eisenhower's Commission on National Goals, didn't come right out and mention me and my bindweed farm by name, but their report said: "All Americans ought to devote more of their time and energy directly to the solution of the nation's problems."

If that doesn't mean me, I don't know what does. For years, while my neighbors have been devoting their time and energy to their farms, I have been setting a pattern by devoting mine to a solution of the nation's problems. When some neighbor, wheeling his tractor around at a turn-row, glanced up and saw me sitting under a tree, ~~he~~ ^{he} knew that I was working on national problems.

Throughout this whole area, while the rest of the farmers were using up their tractors adding to the national problems by piling up more surpluses, almost single-handedly I've been shouldering the entire responsibility of working on a solution to those problems. I didn't have to wait on the President's Commission of distinguished leaders to tell me that if for example you're trying to solve the farm problem surpluses, you're off on the wrong foot from the very start if you climb on your tractor and try to do it while growing something to add a few more feet to the stock pile we've already got. It's like trying to solve the traffic problem by driving through the middle of it, or the population explosion by having more kids.

So, from being considered years behind, I'm suddenly seen as years ahead, but I don't want to brag about this I merely want my banker and a few stores in town to understand this when they get reports I'm behind in my plowing. I have simply refused to get caught up in the hurly-burly, mad rush of going up one row and down another when I should be working directly on solutions for the nation's problems. The fact I do it under a shade tree in the summer time and by a fire in the winter time has no bearing on the ultimate goals I'm striving for. And the fact I haven't arrived at any actual solutions is no valid criticism. You know anybody who has?

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Hereford B Squad Storms Past Amarillo High 58-41

BY WAIN MILLER
BRAND SPORTS WRITER

The Hereford Bees romped over the Amarillo Sandies by the score of 58-41 in basketball action here Tuesday night. This was the first downfall for the golden Sandies as they had downed Clovis last week. The Herd has four victories to its credit thus far, as Borger edged them 54-50.

Hereford roared off to an 8-2 lead with only two minutes elapsed in the first quarter. They held the lead throughout the rest of the game as the Sandies never got within seven points of the speedy Herd after the first period.

Jerry Curtsinger led the Calves as he ripped the cords for 20 points, while Allred and Cansler also hit in the two-digit range. The Herd's defense sparkled as the accurate Sandies found little opportunity to shoot.

Lynton Allred laid in a pair of field goals, while Curtsinger scored four points, Randy Dowell and Mack Cansler hit for three, and Mickey Stevens tipped in a rebound to set the record at 43-32 going into the final round.

Amarillo was held to nine points in the fourth quarter while the mighty Herd racked up 15 markers to set the final score at 58-41. Jerry Curtsinger 6-2 junior, piled in eight Hereford points. Allred added three more while Cansler and McGee scored two points.

Amario was held to nine points in the fourth quarter while the mighty Herd racked up 15 markers to set the final score at 58-41. Jerry Curtsinger 6-2 junior, piled in eight Here-

Butterscotch candy: 3 cups brown sugar, 2 tablespoons corn syrup, 4 round tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons water, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Boil sugar, water, syrup and butter to a soft ball when dropped in cold water, add 1 teaspoon vanilla cream. Add 1 cup of nuts and pour into a buttered pan to cool.

Christmas was never just right at our house unless we made two or three batches of the divinity and the butterscotch candy, and even then it seldom lasted through the holidays.

Had you ever given a thought as to why we used evergreen trees for the Christmas tree? Let me tell you of a lovely legend; I do not know from what country it came or if it was from the Christian churches when the birth of the Christ Child was celebrated.

The evergreen tree was chosen because of the everlasting love of God for his children on earth, when he gave use the first gift; His Son, so that we might have everlasting life. The red candles were chosen because of his blood, which was shed on the cross and lighted, because He was the Light of the world.

Now we have pink trees, blue trees and silver trees, but the colors have no meaning as did the real trees used for the decoration and giving of gifts. Perhaps we need to think again of the green and the red and not think of Christmas as a mad rush to do this and that.

Frosh Drop First Conference Game

BY WAIN MILLER
BRAND SPORTS WRITER

The Stanton Frosh ended up on the short end of a 49-53 score in an exciting game at Estacado Junior High at Plainview last Thursday night. This was their first Conference tilt of the season, but Stanton had taken two victories from Boys' Ranch and Springlake.

Eugene Green sparked the Dogies as he racked up 28 points during the game. Stanton gained a 10-7 lead at the close of the first period and they clung to a 21-all tie at the half. The Dogies put up a hard fight but finally came up with a four-point deficit as the game ended.

Green dumped in four points as Steve Coneway, Jim Haney, and Mike Ferguson all added field goals during the first quarter to give Stanton their three point advantage.

During the second round, Estacado racked up 14 points. Green hit for six Dogie markers, as Bill Hill and Steve Coneway sank field goals and Jim Haney tossed in one from the foul line to set the score at 21-all at the half.

Green piled in 12 points in the third stanza while Ferguson hit a field goal and Haney added another free throw for Stanton. Estacado scored 17 points during the exciting quarter to end it with the score reading 35-38.

Coneway laid in four points in the final round. Green shot six, as Haney made a field goal, and Bill Hill tossed for a bonus point. Estacado totaled 15 points in the final round to end the scoring at 53-49.

Tips Are Offered For The Thrifty Shopper

BY ARGEN DRAPER

From now until after the holidays, many stores will be featuring sales of winter fabrics, and winter dresses, suits and coats. The careful shopper can make the most of these special prices to fill gaps in the wardrobe, or add some needed pieces.

Here are some tips offered by specialists for analyzing the situation before you buy a certain fabric or clothing item on sale or otherwise:

1. Keep your total wardrobe in mind. Buy only those items that fit in with your budget, color plan, accessories and activities.
2. Consider lines, color and texture of the garment. Are they really suited to your type? Are they extreme or high fashion - likely to look wrong next season?
3. Look at the label carefully. Get as much information as possible on care and cleaning.

ning.

Other suggestions for stretching clothing dollars are given in the extension bulletin, "WARDROBE DOLLARS AND SENSE." Principles given in the publication apply to all family members.

Come to the office for a copy of the bulletin or call and we'll mail you a copy.

One of the most frequent questions being asked today is: "I BLEACHED MY DRESS AND IT TURNED A TERRIBLE UNEVEN YELLOW, WHAT CAN I DO?"

Which is followed by other questions: "WHAT KIND OF BLEACHES CAN BE USED ON RESIN TREATED FABRICS?" (Wash and wear)

"WHAT KIND OF RESINS ARE FOUND ON WASH AND WEAR FABRICS?"

General classification:

1. Chlorine retentive
2. Non chlorine retentive

HOW CAN THE CONSUMER DETERMINE WHEN A FINISH IS CHLORINE RETENTIVE OR NON CHLORINE RETENTIVE?

1. Only by chemical means or
2. By trying or testing a small scrap of the fabric. This often is not conclusive because some finishes are subject to accumulate chlorine retention. In other words, after the fifth or sixth bleaching, the fabric shows visual damage.

WHAT IS THE VISUAL DAMAGE?

A discoloration, usually yellow or tan. Therefore the consumer can never be sure a wash and wear is, or is not chlorine retentive.

The best decision about bleaches and wash and wear is to never use a chlorine bleach on wash and wear. But if the consumer "goofs"—

HOW CAN SHE REMOVE CHLORINE DISCOLORATION?

1. Commercial color remover
2. Sodium thiosulfate
3. Photographer's "hypo"

Procedure:
To 1 gallon of water
Add 1 tablespoon of sodium thiosulfate (commercial color remover or "hypo") plus ¼ cup of white vinegar

November seem to slip by so fast and a lot of things were left undone. I began to feel discouraged until I counted and found that I had attended 43 meetings in the month. Two days I attended four meetings each day. Our annual report was mailed to the district office on time and I believe that you folks will be proud of the accomplishments that Extension Service has made in 1960. The Tailoring course was completed on November 29 and the garments will be modelled at the Council Christmas party on December 12.

Bread dressing or stuffing can be frozen satisfactorily if the same care is used as in freezing any other food. Freeze the dressing immediately and serve it as soon as it thaws.

Four cups of shelled pecans equal one pound.

The rice industry has done a great deal of promotional work the last few years. This is one of the recipes which has been sent to the office.

Pink 'N Pretty Parfait is Party Pretty

As Pink 'N Pretty as its name is a parfait of plump cooked rice grains in rosy-tinted whipped cream layered with strawberries. It's an elegant dessert to make any occasion a party.

Rice, which makes the good-to-eat basis for this gay dessert, is one of our most useful foods. Fluffy grains of cooked rice appear as cereal or a hearty breakfast dish. Rice makes a rib-sticking luncheon soup or salad. It can be the basis of a nourishing casserole or a meat or fish dinner. It also appears as a glamorous dessert. Served "as is" or dressed up, rice is so easy to prepare. With little fuss and a few minutes' cooking, it's ready to serve.

For the Pink 'N Pretty Parfait, the rice may be tinted a bluish pink either with red food coloring diluted in water or by mixing with pink-tinted and almond-flavored whipped cream, as the recipe suggests.

PINK 'N PRETTY PARFAIT

- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 cups sweetened cooked rice
- ½ pint whipping cream
- A drop or 2 of red food coloring
- ½ teaspoon almond flavoring
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 package frozen strawberries, defrosted
- Additional tinted whipping cream if desired

Add 2 tablespoons of sugar to the water in which rice is cooked. Chill rice. Just before serving, whip the cream, fold in food coloring, flavoring and 2 tablespoons sugar. Fold in rice. Fill serving dishes with alternate layers of rice and drained strawberries. (Reserve a strawberry for the top of each serving.) Top with whipped cream and reserved berries. Yield: 6 servings.

How To Cook Your Own Goose

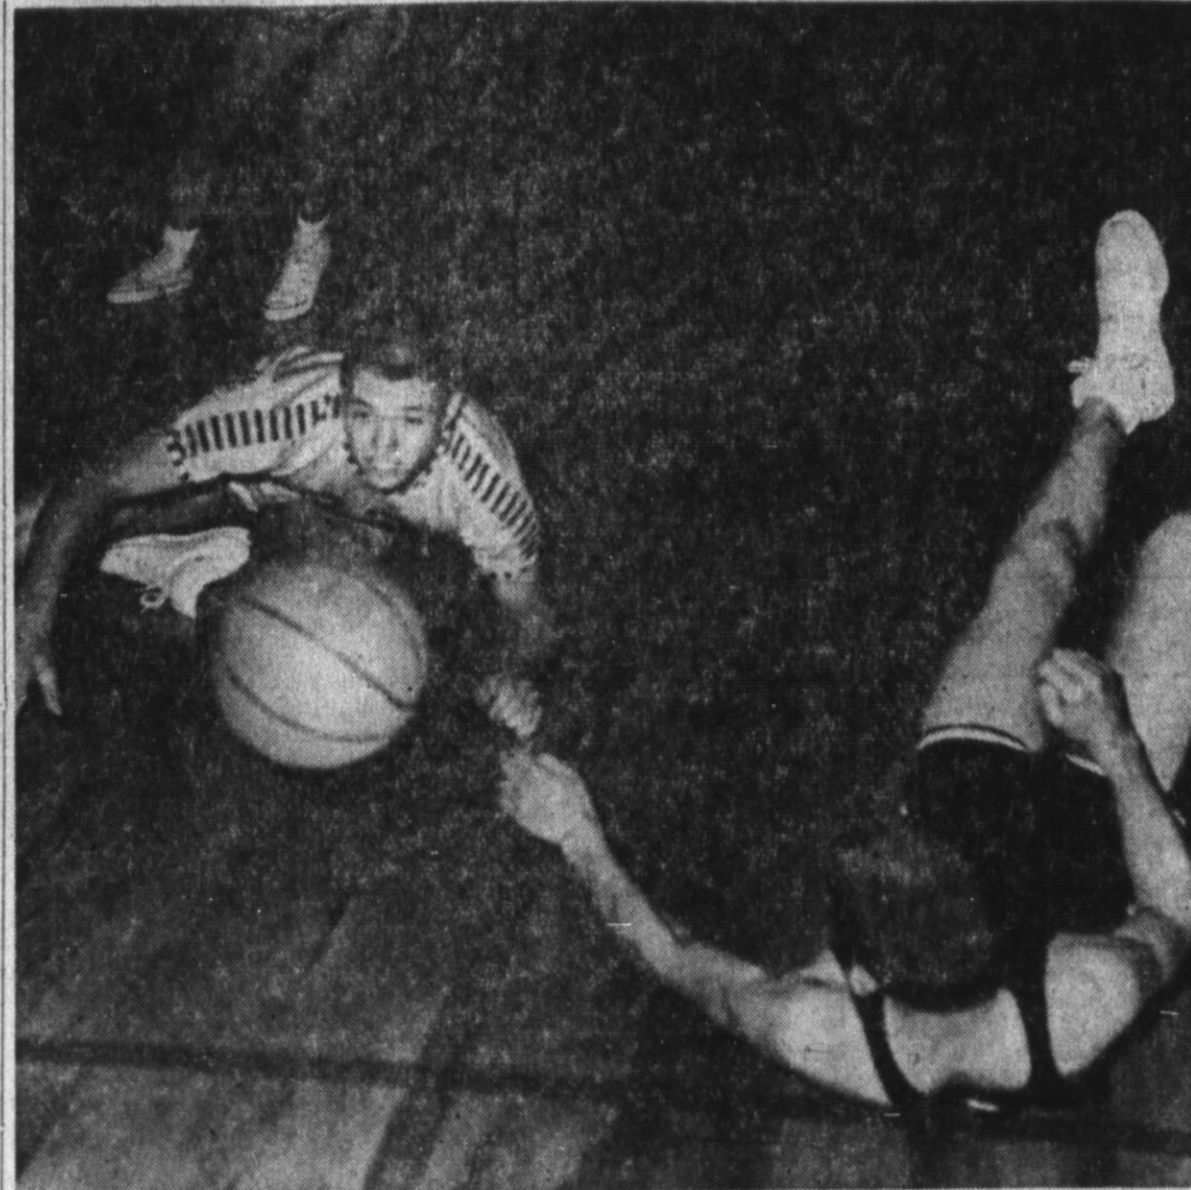

"The Conservationist," monthly letter from the Bayshore Rod, Reel and Gun Club, outlines the following method for cooking your own goose:

"Try rice dressing, apples and onions in the body cavity. Use butter or bacon strips for basting and roast like you would any old fat goose. But if the bird you bring home is a professional smokehouse or barbecue place. Serve chunks of the smoked goose as hors d'oeuvres. Another suggestion is to slice uncooked goose into chunks or strips a little larger than fried potatoes; salt, pepper and flour and fry in hot grease until almost done. Pour off the grease, and cooking wine and smother over slow fire until thickest chunks are done."

WRONG MAN

Phoenix, Ariz. — Two men picked the wrong customer when they tried to sell fake pins bearing the stamp, "Sold by a disabled veteran."

The intended customer was John J. Johnson Jr., commander of the Phoenix Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans.

WALCOTT NEWS

Overcast Skies Bring Rainfall

BY MRS. T. L. COLLINS
An overcast sky on Saturday brought one-half inch of rainfall to Walcott late that afternoon and night. Thunder and lightning were reported in the community, which is an unusual occurrence in December.

The first snow of the season started falling about 8 a. m. Tuesday. By recess time at school the ground was covered with a white blanket of "wet" snow. The snow fell slowly the rest of the day and the sky continued to be gray Wednesday. Extremely strong winds have blown the past two Sundays.

Walcott boys' basketball team, coached by Miss Shirley Bourquin, played Stanton Junior High School's seventh-grade team in a game played at their gym in Hereford on Tuesday.

at 11 a. m. The score was 23-15 in favor of Stanton.

T. L. Collins drove the school bus into Hereford and back, taking Miss Bourquin and the pupils in the upper four grades.

Regular monthly meeting of Walcott School was held on Monday night, Dec. 3, to transact business. Present were Jack Weaver, Glenn Burrus, G. V. Hall and T. L. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nance and family moved back into the Walcott community over the weekend. Deborah Nance enrolled in the second grade Monday. She has been attending Central School in Hereford.

Mrs. Allie Van Hoose, district 661 supervisor of State Department Public Welfare, commodity distribution division in Amarillo, visited Walcott School on Monday morning and ate lunch in the cafeteria at noon.

Roy Steward is back in school after having a case of the mumps. Several Walcott parents took their children to Hereford on Saturday afternoon to see Santa Claus.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sorrells, Linda, Debbie and Davy went to Amarillo on Friday, Nov. 25, to see her mother, Mrs. I. D. Fisher. From there the Sorrells drove on to visit her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Moss Ellis and children at Reed, Okla., and returned home Sunday.

Messenger Home Demonstration Club held their annual Thanksgiving-Christmas supper for their families and guests at Walcott School on Friday night, Dec. 2.

John L. Beard, regional sales manager for Spencer Press Inc., of Irving visited Walcott School on Friday afternoon.

Hereford's FFA Junior Farm Skill Team, of Gary Royal, Scott Ramsey, and Davy Sorrells, competed on Tuesday, Nov. 22, in a district meeting held in Hereford, and won first place. Thus they were entitled to compete in an area FFA meeting held in Plainview High School on Saturday, Dec. 3. This farm skills team won third in the area competition.

Larry Payne of Hereford accompanied his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rader, in the school bus on Saturday evening, so he could spend the night with them.

Norman Minks and Bill Dameron of Hereford went to Fort Worth on Wednesday, Nov. 30. They attended the Turner Ranch Hereford cattle sale there. They returned home on Saturday.

Walcott School assembly was held on Wednesday morning. Miss Bourquin's pupils gave reports from their history of new inventions when America was young on "Things that Couldn't be Done."

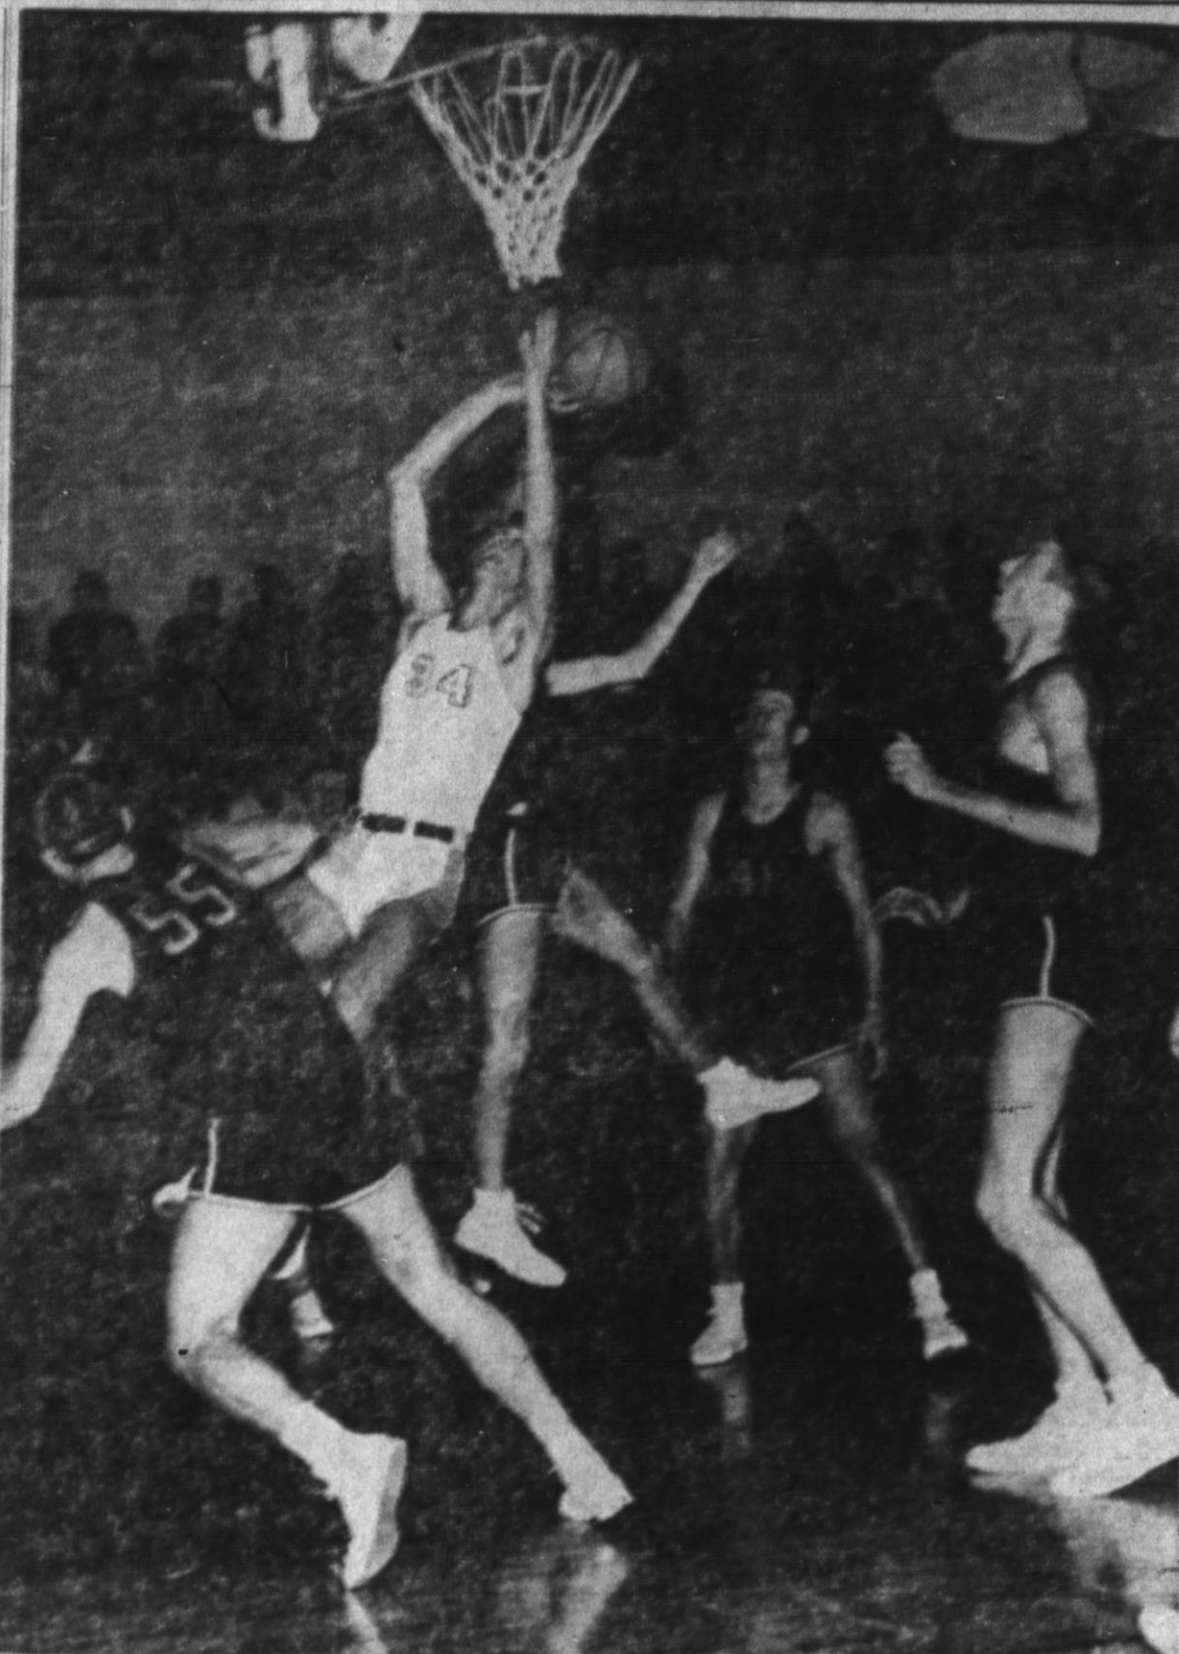

The following reports were given: Tony Gibson, first telegraph; Maria Jack, river boat; Alice Myers, pony express; Mary Ruth Weaver, the first oil well, and Ronny Henderson, Erie Canal.

The group sang Christmas Carols with Dianne Jack playing the piano. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Ronny Henderson and Vicki Burns.

Dick Godwin has had an extended stay in the hospital in Rochester, Minn., following an eye operation.

Moisture started falling about 10 p. m. Wednesday. Electricity went off at 10:30 p. m. By morning a glaze of ice covered the countryside. Since most of the bus routes are on dirt roads, also since Walcott School is behind a day, due to muddy roads in October, classes were conducted that day with perfect attendance. One bus was one and one-half hours late.

High school students had a day of vacation since Hereford did not conduct school that day. The Walcott School Christmas program and community tree will be on the night of Dec.

CARL MILLER of Hereford tries to get a shot off in third quarter play of the Hereford-Amarillo Sandies game in Whiteface gym Tuesday night. But the Sandies had other ideas, and Miller was fouled in the act of shooting by Amarillo's Wayne Rivers

(55). An unidentified Amarillo player hawks for the ball while Sandies Johnny Garcia and Harold Denny look on at right. The Whitefaces won, 62-56. (Staff Photo)

20. Everyone is urged to be present.

SELF SERVICE DINNER

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Gene Kinney said he and a neighbor spent most of one day building a duck blind of lumber, carefully camouflaged with willow branches. The next Saturday they hurried out to do some shooting and at the site they found the willow branches gone. Nearby stood a bull chewing his cud.

REMEMBER WHEN?

BY CHARLIE SEEDS
When he retired he became one of baseball's most popular announcers, famed for the way he mangled the English language. . . but in his prime he was a pitcher that no batter liked to see on the mound in a tough spot.

Dizzy Dean was a loud mouth, a braggart. . . but he had the stuff to back up his boasts. Do you recall when he had his greatest year? That was the season when "Me and Paul," as Dizzy referred to himself and his brother Paul, were the aces of the St. Louis Cardinal staff. . . and pitched the Gas-house Gang into the World Series.

Dizzy had himself quite a year, winding up the season by winning thirty games. Then "Me and Paul" capped off their greatest season by whipping the Detroit Tigers for the World's Championship. Old Diz shut them out 11-0 in the final game to climax the year.

Remember the year? That was a time when many a man had to struggle to keep the old car going. . . and good service at sensible cost was vitally important to him. He shopped around for mechanics who knew his car and could keep it in top shape.

The year was 1934. We're service specialists. Our factory trained mechanics have the know-how to give expert service. . . and they have the modern equipment that means faster, more accurate, more dependable repairs.
