Chattanooga Lookouts Capture Championship Of Dixie

McColl Holds Exporters To Five Safeties

Neihoff Becomes First Southern Pilot To Take Title Twice

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Chattanooga's Southern League association pennant winners won the Dixie series four games to one clinching the championship of Dixie here Tuesday afternoon by defeating Beaumont, Texas league champions, 7 to 3.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Lookouts, Beaumont having won the first game played in Texas last Tuesday, 1 to 0, a home run by Hank Greenberg, Shipper first baseman deciding a pitcher's battle between Hering of Beaumont and Barfoot of Chattanooga.

Tuesday was the third victory in the series for the Lookouts, who took a 5 to 0 victory in the second game at Beaumont, 2 to 2 last Friday. Hensel Hulvey also a right hander, defeated Beaumont 6 to 4 here Sunday.

For Manager Bert Neihoff of the Lookouts, Tuesday's victory was the second in Dixie series records. Neihoff managed the Mobile Southern association champions who defeated Fort Worth in 1922. He became the first Southern pilot to turn the trick twice, just as he was the first to do it once.

The game, played on a field heavy from two days of intermittent rain, was a mixture of sloppy and brilliant fielding, the brilliance provided by infielders Kingdon, Wilburn and Travis for Chattanooga and Newsome of Beaumont and the sloppiness a nullified by outfielder Huchas of Beaumont and a poor toss by Kingdon.

A crowd unofficially estimated at 2,500 attended.

Harley Boss, Lookout first baseman with a perfect day, two doubles and two singles, led the Chattanooga attack, which consisted of a round dozen blows, five of them doubles by virtue of ground rolls, 22 drives in three innings.

Exporters' heralded star, Harry Neihoff, went hitless and fanned twice. McColl held the Texans to five hits, struck out four, walked one and hit one.

Unexpected Improvement Shown In Training Sessions Of Steers

With a brisk north wind to make their football blood flow, the Big Spring high school Steers took a fast-moving drill Tuesday. Only one practice day remains for the Bovines to make ready for the Lamesa Tornados at Lamesa.

Wednesday Bristow will probably engage his men another strenuous practice session and Thursday, he will taper off, giving the boys just a little rest before their opening game of the season Friday.

Wonders have been worked with the Steers within a week's time. Although still rugged at times and showing a lack of experience, Bristow's polka has exhibited no tow's charges exhibit decidedly more polish than seemed possible a week ago.

Radical changes have taken place on the first team, mostly because of injuries and partly because of individual initiative. Coots and Vines are still on end. But Mike Roberts and Cecil "Cy" Tard are held down tighter. Red Ruffing is expected to take matters easy with a game hand. Woodrow Armstrong has a knee that bulges like a silver dollar. Bob Ely, who has been extending Elmer Dyer to the limit to hold a center berth, has been placed on a guard by Bristow. Kitty Smith in his running mate. Dyer, of course, is pivot man.

Experiment
Coach Bristow is trying a noble experiment with Fred Martin. Formerly a guard, Martin is now assuming the antics of a back. So far he still bears the marks of a linesman rather than a backfield artist. Martin has yet to adjust his muscles to a different range of activity. For instance he must learn to catch passes in much the same manner as one would snare a rubber ball. He must learn to carry himself in more relaxed state. But Bristow has him in the backfield to reinforce the line, and Martin should do well at that.

The remaining three horsemen, Schwarzenbach, Koberg and Richbourg (sounds like Notre Dame), present a pretty picture despite frequent mistakes. Tuesday Richbourg did some beautiful running, picking his holes well and shifting with the agility of an antelope. Koberg is a much improved player. Schwarzenbach is the old head, directing play and showing the new ones how to cover up on the defense.

Two men look particularly good on the second string. Fletcher continues to manhandle offensive ends and smear plays before they were well begun. Jack Dean, deserves mention, not so much on his play, as on his willingness to fight. Dean has a lot to learn about playing a wing position, but if effort of the last few days is a criterion of potentialities, he will come through to make a valuable man. He stopped many plays, single handed, Tuesday, but he also let a few go.

Townsend is back on the second team learning mere about tough competition. Being on the second squad does not cloak the fact that he is the best passer on the Bristow crew. Townsend can not be counted out of the play this season.

Haze is demonstrating his ability at backing the line, although this is his first season to don a football uniform. His speed and fight makes him a serious contender as a back.

Falling heir to a center position on the second string when his brother Bob graduated to guard on team No. 1, Sam Flowers issues the warning that he will be ripe in another season.

Nursing bad ankles, Woods and Harris are content to follow around and observe. Both, especially the latter, are vital cogs in the Bovine machinery.

Friday the Steers meet one of the toughest teams they will face during the season. The Lamesa is the lid lifter, but it is also an acid test, so to speak. The Tornados do not conceal the fact they had rather tie knots in Bovine fall and Bulldog Big Spring for a defeat than lick Slaton, their arch enemy.

Because they are playing on the Lamesa sandlot, Big Spring players will have something more to worry about, as if the fact that they are to play Lamesa is not enough.

Miss Fannie Stephens who for the past fourteen years has been employed in the superintendent's office of the Texas and Pacific railway company at Big Spring has been transferred to Dallas where she will be employed in the office of auditor of disbursements of the Texas and Pacific Railway company.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Every cloud, it is said, must have a silver lining. If so Coach Bristow believes he has found it.

When the Bovines take the field against the Lamesa Tornados Friday afternoon Fred Martin will be in the backfield and Bob Flowers at guard—and that is the brightest lining referred to above.

Martin is a veteran guard who has the knack of intercepting passes. He is also fast, and weighs around 165 pounds. His transfer to the backfield will raise the average of a quartet that was not much heavier than Ben Daniels' Black Devils team in 1931. At present he is terribly green, and for the first two games will probably be good for nothing but running interference.

Shifting guards to the backfield is a habit of Obie's. Last year, you will remember, it was Heblson that was transferred back of the line of scrimmage. If this strategy is as successful it will work wonders with the Steers.

In fact optimism is again the keynote in the Bovine camp. Tuesday's practice session found the 1932 edition of the Big Spring High team looking better than at any time this year. Armstrong, the burly tackle, is on the sidelines with an injured knee, but otherwise the squad has improved considerably in the past week. Harris' punting, was particularly a bright spot.

Red Sanders at present is the only seasoned tackle ready to stand against Lamesa. Mike Roberts, the man mountain, has almost convinced everyone of his eligibility but is still out of shape and does not know his signals. Fletcher, the recruit, is likely to be a great star before graduation, but then the tears will play Lamesa Friday.

Instead of being a glaring weakness the wing positions are due to be one of the strongest points on the club. Ole Cordell and Jack Dean, the second string rookies, are showing up so well that Co-

Senate Investigation Of Insull Operations Expected To Develop Story Of Billion Lost By Public

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Senate investigation of the collapse of the Insull utilities pyramid is expected to develop the story of how and why American investors lost almost $1,000,000,000 in the vast enterprise of Samuel and Martin Insull.

Chairman Norbeck of the senate banking and currency committee has fixed the investigation for early December. It will be a part of the stock market inquiry begun last session.

Norbeck's decision to get the facts of the Insull story disposed of early in the session has caused the committee whether it should limit its inquiries to mere short selling. Majority sentiment consistently has been for a thorough expose of all market operations.

In response to a telegraphic inquiry, Norbeck informed the United Press: "Investigation carried on this subject has shown that much of the Insull stock was sold on misrepresentation and false information."

The runners held up the agency early Sunday as they were conveying the seized liquor to Baltimore. Under a barrage of machine gun fire they halted the convey, kidnaped four agents, and sped away in a light truck, only to abandon it a few minutes later when the machine broke down.

The federal agents were released unharmed. No one was wounded in the encounter. Seizure of a four-room house at Plum Point near the 24-room house at Plum Point owned by Robert Beerda, late Peruvian envoy to the United States, gave prohibition agents a clue to the whereabouts of the cache.

They raided the mansion and found the valuable cache of imported liquors in the cellar. On the beach were several cases of whisky. Offshore was a white yacht, which steamed away.

Two men were under arrest as suspects. They gave their names as Joseph Ruffin and Arthur Duhees of Baltimore. The coast guard was asked to search the lower bay for the yacht.

Machine Guns Used By Rum Runners To Retrieve Liquors

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (UP)—Rum runners who used machine guns of federal agents in a denouement of the capture of $150,000 cache they had stowed in the former seaside town of a Panamanian diplomat, were sought Monday.

The runners held up the agency early Sunday as they were conveying the seized liquor to Baltimore. Under a barrage of machine gun fire they halted the convey, kidnaped four agents, and sped away in a light truck, only to abandon it a few minutes later when the machine broke down.

The federal agents were released unharmed. No one was wounded in the encounter. Seizure of a four-room house at Plum Point near the 24-room house at Plum Point owned by Robert Beerda, late Peruvian envoy to the United States, gave prohibition agents a clue to the whereabouts of the cache.

They raided the mansion and found the valuable cache of imported liquors in the cellar. On the beach were several cases of whisky. Offshore was a white yacht, which steamed away.

Two men were under arrest as suspects. They gave their names as Joseph Ruffin and Arthur Duhees of Baltimore. The coast guard was asked to search the lower bay for the yacht.

Huey Long To Lead L.S.U. Rooters At Houston Saturday

HOUSTON (UP)—Senator Huey P. Long, a resident of Houston years ago when he sold bougans for a packing house, will come here Saturday to root for his alma mater, Louisiana State University, in a football game with Rice Institute.

Louisiana's "kingfish" telephoned Mayor Walter E. Monteith from New Orleans yesterday and said he would be on hand with a 140-piece band "the best in the world" and 1,000 rooters.

"And we'll stage a parade that will give your town its biggest thrill since Sam Houston whipped Santa Anna," he told Monteith. He added that L.S.U. would defeat Rice 73 to 0.

Long said a couple of special trains would bring himself and other L.S.U. rooters from Baton Rouge.

Dr. Gaylord Johnson, business manager of athletics, said a public address system would be installed in the Rice stadium in order that Long might relieve himself should he feel compelled to make a speech.

Mayor Monteith appointed a committee to prepare for Long's coming and invited Senator Tom Connally, Marlin, to attend the game.

Attempt Is Made To Burn Building Of Corsicana Paper

CORSICANA, (UP)—An attempt to burn the plant of the Corsicana Daily Sun was thwarted when Charlton Gunter, reporter, discovered the second floor of the building had been saturated with kerosene and extinguished a burning fuse.

Gunter said a man rushed past him and fled from the building when he turned on an electric light. He furnished officers a description of the man but failed to identify a suspect arrested shortly after the discovery was made.

Lowry Martin, publisher and owner of the newspaper, is not in the city and Sidney Story, city editor, said no motive for the attempted destruction of the plant was known.

Story said the newspaper was not engaged in any editorial campaign which would arouse antagonism. Martin is president of the Texas Daily Press Association and is well known throughout the southwest.

Landslide Blocks Panama Canal To Half Its Width

WASHINGTON, (UP)—A landslide has blocked the Panama Canal to half its width, but shipping has not been stopped, canal zone headquarters reported today to the war department.

were, she declared, holy living and high education. The missionary societies in the local churches offered a challenge and an opportunity to Christian women to render the most worthwhile service that they could render in their own day and generation.

The objectives of the W.M.U. were "missions, educational and benevolences, all of which were independent, Mrs. Coppas declared.

She maintained that the W.M.U. should magnify its church and the two should work together. It was now a common sight to see homes in which three generations of Christians were gathered together.

Mrs. Coppas told of the success of the declamation contest in which the educational activities of the W.M.U. were spent to good advantage. She stressed the family altar and the seasons of prayer and the culture that is acquired in study of the Bible.

no nation rises above the level of its womanhood and urged them to keep that level high. The morning session was adjourned for a luncheon served by the younger women of the church in the basement. One hundred and fifty plates were served.

In the afternoon session there were several short talks, made by Abilene visitors, in addition to a splendid talk in the morning by Baylor College by Mrs. C. M. Caldwell, of Abilene. The afternoon speeches were delivered by Mrs. J. B. Buckley on the young people's work, Mrs. Geo. Paxton on benevolence, and Mrs. Daniels on mission study.

Fergusonism Is National Odium, Says Cato Sells

FORT WORTH, (UP)—R. S. Sterling and Orville Bullington were endorsed by the league of anti-Ferguson Democrats at Dallas to "secure for Texas a capable and constructive government and for no other reason," Cato Sells declared here today.

George W. Armstrong, independent candidate for governor, had charged the league's endorsement meant delivery of the prohibition vote to the Republican party.

Those who suggest that the league of anti-Ferguson Democrats are either ignorantly or wilfully wrong, Sells declared.

Returns To Paris
The Paris Oil Works as it was known, was sold in 1887, and Mr. Cuthbertson went to Little Rock, Ark., and assumed management of an oil plant. Four years later he returned to Paris and organized the Paris Oil and Cotton company and built the present mill of the Southland Cotton Oil company. Later he constructed similar mills at Corsicana, Temple and Waxahachie, Tex.; Jackson, Miss.; Shreveport, La., and Waynesville, and Chandler, Okla. Further plants were acquired and the Southland Cotton Oil company was formed ten mills and about 40 gineries. Cuthbertson was vice-president of this company.
During the world war he aided in Washington, in organizing the cottonseed and cottonseed products bureau of the National Food administration.
As one of the most distinguished citizens of his adopted home City Mr. Cuthbertson was presented the Citizens Cup of Paris in 1926 and in 1923 was designated the first recipient of the distinguished citizenship certificate awarded annually by the Paris post of the American Legion.

Salvation Imperatives Pulpit Topic

The Light In God's Window Sermon Subject Tonight

Another large crowd attended the revival service at the First Christian church last night. Rev. Townsend preached on the previously announced subject, "The Imperatives of Salvation." It was one of the more forceful, faith-inspiring messages of the meeting. A resume of the message follows.
The striking beauty of the Apostolic faith was its simplicity. Current Christianity must rid of its creedal accumulations, its traditional trappings and a lot of its worn out theological luggage. Salvation at its best is simply the shortest, sure, way to God.
Our text tonight is a question. What shall we do to be saved? That was the question of the multitude at Pentecost. The answer came like lightning from the lips of God's servant. The answer was full, forceful and final. The spiritual world today is suffering from the same question.

The average revival audience is divided into three groups: those who are "satisfied" with their salvation, the "unconcerned" who do not care for the message with apparent indifference; the "undecided," that large group that is still seeking salvation.
The first imperative of our text tonight as spoken by Peter is "repentance." Jonah preached repentance to Nineveh. Isaiah preached it to Israel. John preached it at Jordan. Jesus preached it in his first sermon. It is the first step to God. We have almost lost this word from modern evangelism. The greatest need of today's church is to rebuild the old altar of penitence. Repentance is simply Godly sorrow that leads to salvation.
The next imperative in salvation is "public acceptance of Christ." This works both ways. "Whoever shall confess me before men, him will I confess before my father." Confession of Christ must not end at the altar. As his followers we must constantly confess in witnessing daily before the world.

The next imperative of our text is "baptism." This has been probably the most neglected of all Christian practices. It has been the targeted target of the lifeless literalist. In reality, it is the most beautiful of the several steps of salvation. It is the most beautiful of symbols. In its relationship to Jesus, it symbolizes his death, burial and resurrection. To ourselves, it typifies death of self, burial of the past and a new life. We are baptized with Him by baptism into death and raised with Him into newness of life.

Farmers Must Carry Lights On Wagons, Trailers This Fall

Farmers must carry lights on wagons and trailers this fall. Lieutenant J. B. Draper, San Angelo, of the highway patrol, said Wednesday that owners of wagons and trailers would be billed if found driving without proper lights.
He said the state was requiring the lights because of numerous accidents which occur during cotton seasons.
He said that reflectors would be permissible on wagons but that trailers must carry burning lights.
"We are taking this step in an effort to curb accidents during the cotton season," he said. "Certainly no one would think of parking a car on the highway without lights, but it is just as dangerous for a wagon without some sort of a light to give on the highway as far as a motorist is concerned."

Patrolman And Police Stop 100 Motorists

More than 100 car owners were stopped Tuesday night by highway patrolmen and city officers for defective lights. Only ten were given tickets.
Eight of this number had appeared in city court Wednesday morning and paid nominal fines. Officers explained that only those having no bulbs or severed wiring were billed as first offenders. Others were given warnings and released.

Southwest Still Has More Life Than Literature, Declares J. Frank Dobie; 'Tall Tales From Texas' Theme Here

"Tall Tales from Texas" was the topic of the lecture given by J. Frank Dobie Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium—and they were tall tales, indeed.
One of them concerned two rattlesnakes swallowing each other and another was about two wildcats who fought by scrambling out from under and getting on top until they got so high they were out of sight and the only sign of their existence was falling fur.
The theme of the lecture was that the native animals of Texas, the horned frog, the javelina, the longhorn steer, the coyote, were so closely related to the culture of the state as the sacred cow and the white elephant were to the life of India. The coyote, he said, played the same part in Texas folklore as the fox did in the European tales, such as Aesop's fables. He gave illustrations of each point.
He said that he believed these tales would be more carefully treasured as Texas progressed in civilization and became farther removed from the simplicity of the pioneer days out of which they grew. For example, there were tales which Texas by pioneer days had lost.
Dobie's lecture was the prelude to a course at Texas.
Mr. Dobie referred to his course at the University of Texas called "Life and Literature of the Southwest" and told of his struggles to get it in the curriculum. He declared that there was still more life literature in the southwest.
It was his ambition, he declared, to collect a book of tales relating to the three characteristic animals of the southwest, the rattlesnake, the coyote and the longhorn. He told several tales about the three.
