New Building To House All USDA Offices

Deaf Smith County's three USDA agencies are to be consolidated in one building at the corner of Jackson and Third, it was announced this week as construction got under way for a new building to be named "The Agri-Building."

Offices will be occupied by the Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Golden Spread Barber shop also will have space in the new structure.

The building, to be erected of concrete block, will be 135 feet by 50 feet, facing Third street. A large parking lot for employees of the offices will be provided behind the building.

The Agri-Building is to be built by Sam Smith with E. E. Bishop as the contractor. Smith says the building is to be completed by the middle of September — "earlier if possible," he said.

The three USDA agencies are located in as many different buildings. "By locating all the USDA offices in one building, the farmers can be served more conveniently," it was explained. This plan of placing federal services in leased buildings rather than erecting federally-owned buildings is the latest policy of the government.

Most of the newer post offices are now owned by individuals and leased to the postal department on long-term leases.

Ground-breaking ceremonies of the new building were held at noon Monday. On hand to take part in the ceremony, in addition to Bishop and Smith, were James Gouley for the FHA; Don Newman for SCS; Faust Collier for ASCS, and Troy Rowland for the barber shop.

This will leave only the county agricultural agent and the county home demonstration agents outside the federal building. They will continue to have their offices in the courthouse since the county agent work is a joint county-state-federal program.

USDA Grants Permission To Graze 'Diverted' Land

United States Department of Agriculture announced Wednesday that farmers may use "diverted" crop land for grazing and hay-cutting, according to Congressman Walter Rogers.

ASCS officers here said no request for using diverted land in this county had been filed with the department, although earlier in the spring the USDA offices here had requested that "soil bank" land be freed for grazing after the early spring drouth had flattened most of the dryland wheat and pastures.

Rogers said that the grazing privileges for diverted crop land had been extended through August 31 to farmers and ranchers in counties in his 18th congressional district.

He listed the counties as Briscoe, Childress, Cottle, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Hall, Motley, Oldham and Randall.

Diverted acres cover those acres taken out of wheat or the feed grain program, ASCS officers here explained.

Back in late May when the drouth in this area was at its peak agencies here had asked Governor Connally to request USDA to declare Deaf Smith county ranch lands disaster areas. The request was made in a joint telegram to Connally by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Farmers Home Administration and the Agricultural Extension Service.

No answer to the petition had been received, however, and the ASCS office here said it had not heard of the move to utilize "diverted" lands for hay and grass.

"We have received no answer to our original request," the office here explained much less to the use of diverted acres to grass and hay.

At the time the petition was sent to the governor, grass here was called "as dormant as it is in mid-winter," but recent rains have revived native grass somewhat.

One farmer-rancher, in commenting about the latest announcement said: "Permission to graze diverted lands came almost too late. We had hoped for relief back in the early spring when the dryland wheat was drying up, along with the pastures.

"Now that the emergency has been declared and 'prohibited' land is being opened to grazing and haying, we will welcome the opportunity, but it would have meant more if it had come a month ago." He added that he believed it would have been better to include only soil bank land rather than opening diverted acres to pasture and hay.

Wheat farmers in this county signed up "in exceptionally large numbers" for the 1964 wheat program, in May, Collier pointed out. A total of 908 wheat farmers signed up before the May 22 deadline, and the ASCS officer said 150,139 acres are included in this year's program. The 908 farmers agreed to divert 18,925 acres, and this did not include acreage already diverted to the soil bank. The sign-up also did not include farmers who plant 20 acres or less to wheat, he explained.

Presumably, under the newest USDA directive, the 18,925 acres in the wheat program can now be used for grazing of cattle or for recovery of hay.

Meantime harvesting of grain, slowed by three rains last week, began to move into action again Wednesday. Barley harvest, which usually moved ahead of wheat harvest, was in full swing and several farmers have moved in combines to start wheat harvest. Most irrigated wheat, however, won't see the combine before the last of this week — possibly as late as the middle of next week.

Sugar beets are looking well, farm experts said, but some plots in the Friona area reportedly were flooded out. Some hail damage also was reported, but by the large the crop is in good condition as the area prepares for the first crop to be locally processed.

In this country, 251 farmers are growing sugar beets, many of them for the first time this year, and acreages range from 12 to as high as 400 acres for 12,000 total. The plant here which will be completed this autumn, will handle beets from Castro, Farmer and Deaf Smith counties in Texas, and from Curry county in New Mexico.

Around Town

With The Brand Staff

Mrs. M. T. Rutter, who won a Blue Ribbon for her "anti-litterbug" display at the Hereford Garden Club show, grew real grass on the table-sized model and had to cut it three times before exhibiting it at the show.

Virgil Holloway, Field Representative of Social Security, has announced his July, August and September schedule. He will be in the courthouse here July 2 and 16, Aug. 5 and 19 and Sept. 2 and 16.

Sidney Duane Blankenship, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Blankenship of Hereford has been elected vice-president of the Junior class at Abilene Christian College for the 1964-65 school year. A Bible major, Blankenship is a member of the Knights Social club and the Edwards Dorm council. He is Texas-Oklahoma district corresponding secretary of Circle K Service club, a former member of Omega Rho Alpha honorary freshman English organization, a member of the Mission study group on campus and a former member of the Student Association Interpreter's Council. Blankenship is a 1962 graduate of Hereford High School.

Mrs. Ray Johnson and Mrs. M. T. Rutter, past winners of the Manjeet Silver Tray trophy in Hereford Garden annual flower shows, were ineligible to compete for the trophy this year. But they won many ribbons with their entries in the club's flower show last week. Engraving on the back of the tray shows Mrs. Johnson as 1962 winner and Mrs. Rutter as 1963 winner. The name of Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. will be added as 1964 winner.

Marine Private 1st Jesse D. Steven, son of Mrs. Ruby Stevens, 414 Schley, Hereford, is participating in "Lock-up" training as a member of the First Marine Division's 2nd Battalion, 5th regiment, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has proclaimed this week of July 19 as National Farm Safety Week. Slogans will be "Safer American Families Everywhere."

Hereford Police have been asked to aid in the Texas Police Association's "Burglary Prevention Week" program during the week of June 21. Burglaries reach their peak usually during the vacation season, it was pointed out, and local police and the state organization are urging citizens to guard against vacation time losses through burglaries.

United Fund Calls Budget Meeting

Agencies which would like to be included in the 1965 budget for Deaf Smith County United Fund are being asked to submit their needs to the UF executive committee Thursday, June 25, Corinne J. Neely, executive secretary of the fund, said Thursday.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in the Hereford State Bank, Dean House, president of the organization, will preside.

In addition to agencies seeking to enter the United Fund program here, agencies already in the setup are asked to make written reports to the June 25 meeting, House explained.

The executive committee, along with campaign chairman for the year, compose the budget committee as in past years, it was explained. Besides House, others are Myron Morgan, vice-president; W. R. (Dub) Hair, treasurer; Mrs. Neely and the fund campaign chairman who is to be announced later.

At present several organizations form the local United Fund. They are the Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Deaf Smith County Chapter of the Red Cross, the Little League, the Pony League, the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism and the Salvation Army.

The present campaign (last autumn's drive) lacked a small percent of reaching its budget request for 1964 operation after a clean-up drive was conducted and other special gifts were made to the organization, Mrs. Neely explained.

Pledges and cash received in last autumn's drive, exclusive of the final "clean up" campaign, for operation of the program during 1964 were as follows:

Red Cross, $8106.13; Salvation Army, $2769.73; Council on Alcoholism, $475.95; Boy Scouts, $5-856.49; Camp Fire Girls, $3112.86; Athletic Club, $561.53; Pony League, $934.29, and Little League, $1948.94.

Mrs. Neely and House stressed the need for written budget reports for the June 25 meeting. "Not only do we need reports from the agencies now operating under United Fund, but we also need to have reports of those other organizations which might like to join the program in this autumn's campaign for 1965 operating funds," the officers explained.

"Along with the requests for membership in the organization, we also ask that such new requests include the amount of money which will fund if such organizations are admitted to the United Fund," he added.

The Sugar Story — Part III

Limestone Used To Purify Sugar Juices

By Phil Duncan
(EDITOR'S NOTE — The following is the third in a 10-part series, dealing with the processes used in extracting sugar from the beets after they arrive at the Merrill E. Shoup Plant of Holly Sugar Corporation. This third part deals with the purification of the juice extracted from the beets.)

Even though much time has been spent in washing the sugar beets after they arrive at the plant, certain impurities and non-sugar substances remain in the juice.

Obviously, all of the non-sugar substances must be removed before a high quality sugar can be obtained.

The process begins when the sugar juice is pumped from the diffuser into large heaters where it is heated. It then passes on into the purification tanks and is introduced to the purification agent.

The purification agent used in this process is limestone. The limestone is conveyed to large kilns where the limestone is heated with coke and decomposed to form quicklime and then converted into milk of lime.

The coke is ignited by the hot spots in the kilns and as it burns, the limestone is decomposed into quick lime.

As the quicklime comes out of the kiln, it is then conveyed to a giant crusher which will reduce the size. It is then elevated to a stacker where the calcium oxide is mixed with water to form milk of lime.

During the decomposition of the limestone, large quantities of carbon dioxide are collected and used during the actual purification of the juice.

The milk of lime, or slurry as it is often called, is mixed with the juice and the carbon dioxide is injected into the bottom of the first carbonation tank and allowed to pass up through the juice. As the carbon dioxide mixes with the juice and milk of lime, calcium carbonate, which is a solid, is formed and the entire mixture is pumped to a clarifier, where it is held for three to four hours.

The calcium carbonate settles to the bottom of the clarifier and the clear juice overflows into pipes which carry the juice to another set of heaters and then it is sent directly to the second carbonation process.

The lime used in the purification process is separated from the clarified juice. The settled lime is passed over large rotary vacuum filters to recover sugar which might remain with the lime.

As the pure juice passes through the filters it is then pumped to a mammoth collection station, and the lime cake is washed and then the lime residue is pumped to the waste lines.

The juice saved from lime residue passes on back to the second carbonation and is retreated.

During the first carbonation treatment, almost all the impurities are extracted from the pure juice, but some lime might remain in the juice, so the carbon dioxide is once again bubbled through the pure juice.

The juice is analyzed frequently at each step of the process and the laboratory technicians determine what conditions should be established.

The sugar then passes on to a series of giant filter tanks where it is once again subjected to a fine filtering process to remove any final impurities.

The purified juice at this time has a sugar content of some 12 to 15 percent. It is then sent to the evaporators where the percentage of sugar in the solution is raised to near 65 percent.

The next part of the series on the sugar story appearing in the Hereford Brand will deal with the evaporation of the pure juice.

City Manager Submitted Drawings for Remodeling of the Second Floor of the City Hall

Several offices would be changed if the commission approves the plans for remodeling.

Mayor Cowser adjourned the meeting after the completion of the business.

Commissioners Lloyd Sharp, Albert Maxwell, W. L. Davis Jr., and Gid Brown, were all present at the meeting. City Manager Dudley Bayne and City Attorney Ernest Langley were also present.

Wheat Harvest Due To Resume This Weekend

Wheat harvest is to be in full swing by the end of this week, Texas Employment Commission reported Wednesday, despite the fact that general rains throughout the Panhandle slowed harvest considerably.

Rains in Deaf Smith county last weekend virtually brought all harvesting operations to a standstill, but combines were back in the field Wednesday where fields had dried out sufficiently to permit movement of the heavy equipment.

Barley harvest, which usually precedes wheat harvest by several days, is in full swing here.

Of the wheat outlook, TEC's June 15 report said: Dryland acreage is poor, but irrigated acreage continues about average. Recent rains have delayed harvest, but should get underway about June 20.

The report covered conditions in Hereford, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Dimmitt and Farwell areas.

The report said wheat production in Texas is estimated at 50,544,000 bushels, according to Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The report added: "This is the same as last month's forecast but is nearly 10 million bushels larger than last year's crop."

Of the rains in the Panhandle, the report said harvest had been delayed "until the ground is dry enough to support equipment." It added that "very little damage has been reported as a result of these rains. However, some spotted bill and high wind has caused damage in some communities."

No shortage of harvesting equipment or manpower was seen.

Heavier rains in the Plainview area have caused postponement of harvest in that region until next week. The report said, and harvest in the northern Panhandle regions is expected to get under way this weekend also.

OOPS! PARDON THE INTRUSION — This automobile, driven by Mrs. Ernestine Gomez, ran wild on New York Ave. Tuesday morning, smashed through a corner of R. J. No one was injured, but the automobile suffered extensive damage, not to mention the two buildings. (Brand Staff Photo)

Latinos Win 8th Straight; Shutout Twins

Big Gary Kendrick led the Hereford Latinos to their eighth win of the season and their third shut out, overpowering the mighty Farwell-Texico Twins 9 to 0.

The Latino's bats went to work in the first frame as two runs came in on three hits, two more runs in the third, four in the fifth and one more in the sixth. Oscar Garcia, Paul Torrez and Al Salinas led the batting attack with three, two and two hits respectively. A triple, the only one of the game was hit by Paul Torrez in the sixth.

Kendrick had a great day on the mound for the Latinos, setting a new record of 17 strike outs and walked only two and allowed two hits. One hit was by the lead-off batter in the first and the second came by the catcher in the third. Only two runners reached third base and from the fourth frame on, no body reached first for the Twins. R. Walford, the pitcher for the Twins, gave up nine runs on ten hits, walked six men and struck out six.

The Hereford Latinos, an amateur baseball team with an outstanding record of 23-7, 19-3 and 8-2 during the last three years, are shooting higher as they meet the Nazareth club, a semi-pro team managed by Don Schmickers. The teams will meet in Hereford Sunday.

Nazareth, a fast running, hard hitting, good pitching and fielding club will try to stop the Latino bats. This will be the first time for Hereford to go into semi-pro competition.

Catcher Bob Rodgers of the Los Angeles Angels says rookie right hander Bob Lee is the fastest pitcher he has ever caught.

Rebels Smash Friona, 7-0 In First Game

Playing their first game of the year, the Hereford Rebels went on to defeat the Friona Tigers by a score of 7-0 here last Sunday.

Alex Guerrero held the Tigers on two hits, giving up one walk and striking out four.

In the bottom of the third, the Rebels scored five runs on a walk to M. Cortez, Sammy Garza got on an error and Paul Moreno followed with a single scoring Cortez, Gilbert Moreno was a hit by a pitch and Mon di Hernandez followed with a hard grounder by the second baseman to score two more runs.

Alex Guerrero had another single to bring two more runs in.

In the fifth the Rebels scored again as Ruben Estrada got on base and was brought in by Mond Hernandez. In the seventh Juan Arzola led off with a double advanced to third and Moreno brought him in for the last score.

Steve Aragon was the loser from Friona even though he struck out nine batters, walked one and gave up only four hits.

Infield errors cost Aragon the game.

The Rebels meet the A.B.C.'s here next Sunday at the Latino Park in one of the two scheduled games.

The A.B.C.'s another local team managed by Gene Combs will play their second game of the year as they defeated the local K.C.'s last Sunday.

Lionel Taylor of Denver worked with four quarterbacks last season but led American Football League pass catchers for the fourth straight year. The split end caught 78 passes.

The youths pay their own fares, the agents explained. "This will be a working mission and not a sightseeing tour," they said.

Prior to leaving New York the group will visit the World's Fair, the United Nations' headquarters and other points of interest.

Purpose of the mission, agents said, "is to promote understanding and goodwill between the rural youth of America and those to be visited. They also will explain in face-to-face contacts, the facts about life in domestic America, especially in rural areas."

Three Represent Hereford At Meet

Mrs. E. E. Vogler, Mrs. Martin Wagner, and Pastor Frederick Beversdorf are representing Immanuel Lutheran Church at the Texas convention of Lutheran Women's Missionary League in Odessa June 16-18.

For a number of years we have been mildly curious concerning the origin of the name Llano Estacado or Staked Plains, but not curious enough apparently to do any research on the subject. But it seems that everyone knew except us. The story as we get it from more than one source, is that the early day explorers, (and we presume that would be Coronado) found it quite difficult to cross the Plains without being led astray by the many mirages, or reflections so common on the tractless prairie. Thinking they could see water nearby, the soldiers would stray from the main company and get lost, never to be found. The "lakes" would fade away as the soldiers neared; consequently, the early explorers staked the plains, driving the stakes into the ground at certain intervals and circling them with rocks for additional support. The stakes guided the next group of explorers across the vast prairie lands.

However, historians differ as to the origin of this name. Some agree with the above while others think that the "estacado" refers to the palisaded appearance of the Cap Rock in many places, especially the west-facing escarpment in New Mexico.

NEED INSURANCE? See J. W. ROBINSON INSURANCE 218 W. 3rd EM 4-2232

As a youngster studying Texas History, we simply thought that someone could not spell very well, and that "staked" actually meant "stacked", and had reference to the formation of the land as can be seen around the Cap Rock.

But whichever is the case, we're quite happy to be a little better informed on the subject, and just in case anyone asks us about the "Llano Estacado", we can give an intelligent answer; whether right or wrong.

And apparently "history" is where you find it. Ray Scott, co-owner of Custom Floor Covering Company dropped by the other day to bring us some old papers that he had removed from underneath a floor. Couldn't read much of it, but one headline that caught our eye was proclaiming the plans for a "Monster Reception for Capt. Lindbergh", datelined May 25. Since Charles A. Lindbergh made his historic flight on May 20, 1927, we presumed the paper must have been underneath that sub-floor since 1927. Also visible, (but barely), was a short story concerning the attendance of Governor Dan Moody of Texas to some sort of shin-dig.

Perhaps the Governor was going to New York for the return of Lucky Lindy.

The fruit crop up in our neck of the woods looks exceptionally good this year. The cherries are ripe now, and we might add, real good eating. Unfortunately, we don't have any, but our neighbors on either side do. And they have been quite generous in sharing.

We do have quite a peach crop. They are just smaller than golf-ball-size, and the trees are loaded. Plums are looking good also. We also have an apple tree with quite a bit of fruit on it, but we have been told, (and this is our first experience with the fruit) that the apples will be wormy unless you start spraying the trees quite early. And of course, we didn't. However, if we live next door to Earl Phillips long enough, we'll learn a little something about tending the fruit trees. Earl has one of the nicest little orchards that we have ever seen. Of course, the first ingredient for this sort of thing is "hard work", and we seem to be allergic to it.

And while we're on the subject of hard work, we might pass out a few bouquets to Mrs. A. G. Bell, who dropped by the office the other day to volunteer her services in selling "A History of Deaf Smith County", the recent publication written by Bessie Patterson. "It might take me a month to sell these books", she said, "taking an even dozen," "cause I don't get around too fast!"

She was back the next day after another bunch, and has since been back again to restock. "I stick to it when I get started", Mrs. Bell said, and we believe it. Here is a Senior Citizen who likes to get out and do things, and she doesn't ask any help from anyone. She just gets out and gets the job done.

The book, by the way, is selling like hot-cakes, and First Edition copies are moving out pretty fast.

The Marvin Knox family has just returned from a nice fishing trip to Fossom Kingdom Lake, and report the fish are biting like mad. In fact, he offered to tell us some "real fish stories", but we figured that we didn't have enough daylight left to listen. It was noon when we saw him.

However, Marvin doesn't stretch his fish, or his fish stories quite as far as Johnny Sims, Paul Harvey, "Dub" Hair and Blue Turpin.

Apparently he has never heard of "fisherman scales" and "fisherman rulers". Don Zimmerman usually gets in a little fishing down around the coast, but we haven't heard from him this year. Perhaps it's just too early, or maybe hasn't been able to get away from the store.

Not until 1856 was the use of postage stamps on letters compulsory in the United States. Actually, the first stamps were cut from a sheet of gummed paper in 1847, in New York. Stamps had been invented in England seven years earlier. It was not until 1857 that sheets of stamps were perforated for tearing. Up to that time they had to be cut out with scissors or knife.

Wrestling Series Continues

Grunt 'n Groaners to Grunt 'n Groan Again At Bull Barn

Gentlemen of the grunt 'n groan profession will go through their stock in trade again Saturday night at Hereford Bull Barn as Hereford Lions club continues its wrestling series.

Two of last week's headliners, Ricky Romero and Sir Nelson Royal, members respectively of opposite tag teams which put on a considerable show last Saturday night, will be out to murder each other as the headline attraction on next Saturday night's card. This will be a 2-out-of-3 scrap with a 60-minute time limit.

Romero was booked with Dory Funk Jr., and Royal tagged with the Viking last Saturday night. Romero and Funk won the first fall last week, a spinning toe hold doing the job.

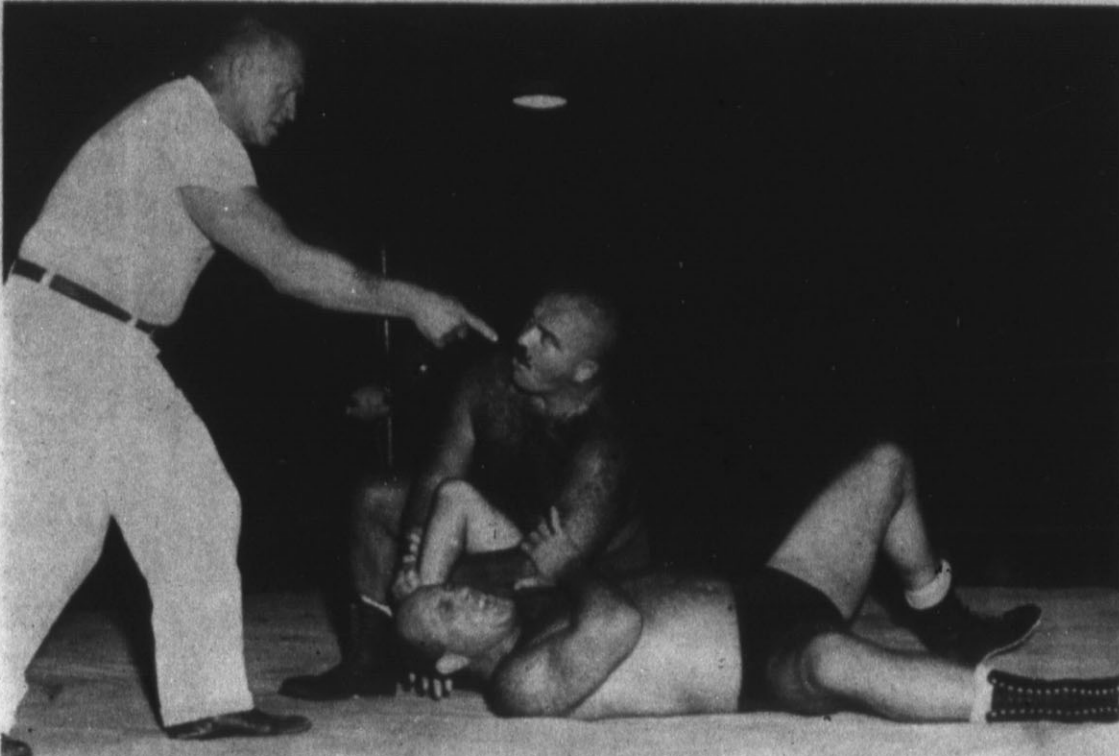

and fall, likewise the third fall. Sir Nelson got bloodied up considerably.

Second spot on next Saturday's card will see Dan Miller and Steve Stanlee trying for two out of three falls in their 45-minute match.

The program will open with Tokyo Tom doing a quickie — one fall or 20 minutes.

All but Romero and Royal will be making their first appearance in the Hereford ring, although all are well known in wrestling rings throughout the area.

Despite a sudden rain last Saturday night, 400 turned out for the series, and Wester expects 1000 or more for this week's show.

Livestock Men To Air Opinions On Beef Import

COLLEGE STATION — The beef import problem is one of the topics slated for discussion at the Marketing Institute to be held this Sept. 24-25 at Texas A & M University.

In announcing plans for the institute, Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist at Texas A & M, said one of the highlights of the event will be a two-hour panel discussion on the meat import and export situation.

Members of the panel will include a meat broker, a processor, a cattle exporter, a cow and bull packer, a national packer, a government official and a livestock producer, he said.

The institute will be the second of its kind held on the Texas A & M campus. It is designed to give livestock producers and meat processors and market men an opportunity to meet and discuss mutual problems of the industry, Uvacek said.

The broad audience and coverage of the institute is an example of the changing services offered by land grant colleges, he said.

"Today's agriculture involves many problems away from the farm and ranch. These problems increase as the livestock and meat industry becomes more specialized," Uvacek said.

The economist said the upcoming institute can provide a common ground where livestock producers can learn the problems of the processors and sellers of meat and meat products.

REP. ROGERS WRITES

Rogers Urges 'New Look' At Nation's Gas Industry

I urged my colleagues in the House and Senate this week to take a fresh look at Government policies regulating the natural gas industry — the Nation's sixth largest and certainly a key-stone industry in our Panhandle economy. I addressed myself to the matter because this week marked the tenth anniversary of a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court that independent natural gas producers selling in interstate commerce are subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

For 10 years, the Federal Power Commission has engaged in experimental regulatory actions affecting the natural gas industry. The result has been confusion and uncertainty working to the detriment of the industry and to the consuming public.

Government, I reminded my colleagues in an address which appeared in the Congressional Record, cannot play games with business and expect business to survive, to grow, to expand in the future. The situation involving regulation of the natural gas industry today is the condition which destroys public confidence in our governmental process. It gnaws at the very vitals of Government because it demonstrates monstrous inability to govern.

The most significant action of this 88th Congress was enactment of the tax cut, a reaffirmation of the ability of our free enterprise system to provide capital and stimulus needed for economic growth. While Congress took this important step, surely one of the most historical in the field of economic policy since World War II, it continued to neglect steps to correct abuses in the area of regulatory policy.

Natural gas is assuming increased importance both in our daily lives and in our modern technology.

Today, there are more than 25,000 industrial uses for natural gas and in many industries it is absolutely essential to operations. New uses are being developed constantly. And yet, the ten years of confusion over regulatory policy affecting natural gas has been accompanied by a decline in the ratio of natural gas reserves to its lowest point in history at the end of 1963. The price of natural gas at the wellhead has increased markedly under the wavering FPC policies. Consumers are paying the bill, just as they have paid for and are paying the bill for long and costly hearings and litigation which seeks to clarify the matter.

I believe it is essential that Congress take a fresh look at the role of regulation and its effect on the future of natural gas. We must create an effective, stable, sound policy which will serve the overwhelming public interest of adequate supplies at a reasonable cost. It is time for new thinking and new action.

The "Festive of Gas" pavilion at the New York World's Fair is a dramatic example of research progress being made by the natural gas industry. The pavilion is heated, cooled, and electrically powered by a "total energy package."

The gas industry is making it possible for large areas — industrial complexes, shopping centers, apartment houses, airports — to provide in one package all the energy needed for heating, cooling, and electricity. Scientists are now working on a "fuel cell" in which natural gas is employed in the chemical manufacture of electricity — and this research looks to a day when a householder, with a "fuel cell" in his basement or garage, could provide from that single unit all his power requirements.

Both the electric and gas industries have become so vital to the American economy, and competitive with each other, that we must seriously question whether policies affecting their future development should be left to the regulatory handling of a single Government agency. Either the regulatory process must be divided to reflect today's realities, or Congress must spell out in detail a modern concept for natural gas regulation which will acknowledge all factors and pierce the artificial dam of confusion which now exists. I believe the objective of modern regulatory policy can be achieved.

Texas and The Civil War — Part 12

Civil War Ended, Weary Soldiers Trudged Home

(No. 12 and final in a series published in a cooperative program of this paper, the Texas Press Association and the Texas State Historical Survey Committee.)

Although Texas had voted in favor of secession, not all Texans voted with the majority or were willing to support the Civil War. From the first to the last days, certain families or individuals longed to have Texas return to the Union. In 1861 wagon trains of anti-secessionists (particularly from northern Texas) headed toward the free states or territories. A newspaper reported that some 800 voters left their homes in half a dozen north Texas counties. More troublesome than those leaving were the disloyal who remained in Texas. At Gainesville and several other northwestern places conspiracies resisting the 1862 Conscription Act were countered by irate mob action. There were a few hangings.

By 1865, however, many civilians were weary of the fight, although most Texas soldiers still swore they would never surrender. High Confederate leaders were taking extreme measure to keep field forces intact. Except for military guards at key manufactories, non-fighting troops were outlawed. All white men from 18 to 45 were ordered to report for service, and all leaves were cancelled.

Although in April word arrived of Lee's surrender, Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith (commander of the Confederate Department of the Trans-Mississippi West) and Gov. Pendleton Murrah formally proclaimed the intention of the Southwest to continue the fight.

But Murrah's contention that the entire South now looked "with eager eyes and anxious hearts to the people and armies of this Department for deliverance" could not hold back the inevitable. Tired men went home by droves.

Col. John S. Ford's Confederate cavalry, camped at White's Ranch near Brownsville, had not accepted defeat as inevitable when in mid-May 800 Federal soldiers moved in that direction. In fact, Ford knew nothing of Lee's surrender. When he attacked with his smaller force, the Federals formed a skirmish line and then entrenched themselves in the sandy soil of Palmetto Ranch. Ford moved six artillery pieces to Palmetto Hill and fired down into the enemy defenses, routing the superior Federal forces, who left him 100 prisoners. The captives returned the victorious Ford with news of Lee's surrender, and the Confederates made no pursuit of the enemy on the run.

On May 26, Gen. S. B. Buckner, Kirby Smith's chief of staff, negotiated a "military convention of peace" with high Union officials in New Orleans. Formal articles of surrender were signed by Kirby Smith in Galveston on June 2.

Two weeks later Federal occupation began. Some 300 Texans watched silently as a transport loaded with soldiers made fast to the docks while the band blared forth "Yankee Doodle." Days later, on "Juneteenth" Man-Gen. Gordon Granger, recently appointed to command Federal forces in Texas, proclaimed on landing that all Texas slaves were free. Federals

One additional symbolic event showed that Confederate spirits remained unbroken. In the South's last military formation, the last flag to fly over an organized Confederate force was buried in the Rio Grande near Eagle Pass on July 5, 1865, by Gen. Joseph O. Shelby of Missouri. Shelby's cavalry including many Texans marched with arms, bands and ragged battle flags across Texas almost three months after Lee's surrender. Shelby, as well as many other Southerners, hoped to organize in Mexico a colony that would uphold the best in Southern traditions. Before leaving Texas a soil, however, Shelby held a ceremony to give honorable burial to the flag. With notes peeling from drum and trumpet, their beloved flag was folded, weighted and consigned to the muddy waters of the international Rio Grande.

Concluded now was the largest war ever to occur in the Western Hemisphere. It had been a severe trial. Yet Texans during the war years had shown great moral strength as they struggled during this most significant period.

One hundred years later in commemoration of the Civil War Centennial, Texas through its State and County Historical Survey Committees is recognizing these contributions through a program of research, recordation, education and recognition. Confederate Memorial Information Markers are being placed in accessible locations to interpret and commemorate the role of prominent Texas Confederates, the battles, frontier outposts, coastal fortifications, manufacturing plants and military and supply centers.

Each county in the state is sponsoring at least one Centennial program or observance. Classes of Civil War Veterans — Union and Confederate — are being surveyed, recorded and marked. Museums and libraries are featuring exhibits and collections. Diaries, letter-collections, journals, memoirs and muster-rolls are making their appearance from dusty attics and are being placed in local and state archives — available to the public.

Texas is remembering with a program of dignity and humility.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Quaking Custard Charms All Ages

QUAKING CUSTARD! Ever hear of it? Or perhaps you know this old-fashioned dessert under the name of Ivory or Spanish Cream? All three desserts are much the same — a vanilla custard to which unflavored gelatin and beaten egg whites are added.

Turn this creation out of its mold and you'll understand how Quaking Custard got its name. It shivers and shakes delightfully. When some young visitors — ages five and seven — came to visit us one Sunday recently, we had the dessert all chilled and set but left the unmolding for the children to see. They were wide-eyed at the process and gobbled up the dessert. But it's so easy to eat! It should be called slip-and-go-down.

Here's the latest recipe for the dessert that we have tried. The ingredients as always, the technique up to date. If you haven't the vanilla bean called for on hand, substitute a teaspoon of vanilla extract. Our young visitors liked this dessert absolutely plain. But it looks pretty and tastes delicious served with a garnish of red currant jelly or sliced fresh fruit; if you choose the latter, you'll find peaches, strawberries, blueberries and bananas make a great combination.

And a last note. This dessert is nutritious, economical and fine for weight-watchers.

QUAKING CUSTARD
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup sugar
1 quart milk
4 eggs, separated
2-inch piece of vanilla bean
Sliced fresh fruit.

In a 2 1/2 quart saucepan stir together thoroughly the gelatin and 1/4 cup of the sugar. Add 2 cups of the milk and the egg yolks; whisk enough to blend in yolks; add remaining 2 cups milk and vanilla bean. Cook and stir constantly over low heat until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly — about 10 minutes. Remove from heat; remove vanilla bean. Chill until slightly thicker than consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar until very stiff. Fold into slightly set gelatin mixture. Turn into a 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with fresh fruit. Makes 12 servings.

MEDICAL SHORTAGE
Afghanistan has less than 400 doctors, 300 nurses and 3 dentists for a population of over 12,000,000. American doctors and nurses sent by MEDICO, a Service of CARE, are helping to treat the sick and train local personnel for future service.

VILLAGE TRIBUTE
In Pueblo Nuevo, Dominican Republic, villagers named their recently-completed school the "Escuela Rural John F. Kennedy." Parents built the schoolhouse with tools and construction materials provided by CARE, as gifts from Americans.

GOOD HARVEST
For every $2 vegetable seed package sent overseas through CARE, New York 10016, hungry people will be able to grow 1,000 lbs. of 12 different kinds of vegetables, to help them feed themselves.

CUSTARD THAT QUAKES — Here's a new easy on the figure. Besides, it's just right for version of an old favorite dessert that delights the eye and soothes the plate and is this season. (AP Photo)

from Hereford, Layton Sawyer of E. D. Sawyer & Son says,

"To me, a man that will tell me not to buy his product because he doesn't think it will pay off for me in better yields, is a man I'll trust to do business with any day. I'm talking about Western Ammonia. I had some questions about some fertilizer I was planning to use last year, and Glenn Watts, my representative, advised we consult Western's agronomist, who could answer the questions for us. So we went over to Dimmitt to see him, and he told me it wasn't a good idea to buy the particular formula I was planning on... said it wouldn't give a good return on what I spent because my soil didn't need it. I figure he saved me about $3,000 last year with that advice."

My "Pop"

... a grand guy in any language. A very special fellow at our house. Without him around night brings fright. But for him we couldn't eat as well, nor as much. He may be gruff at times; he may be firm when he disciplines. And we may answer "yessir" in agreement when he commands, but he is the very foundation of everything at our house.
 It takes him to silence the doggie ... to persuade Jr. ... to laud sister's successes and to heap high praise on all the things mother does ... that's "My Pop". They possess rare qualities, these fathers. A good one is a source of joy to every child. Then on this Father's Day, let him have it right in the heart. Aim all the good things at him. Give him the treatment he so justly deserves and make him wish for another Father's Day very soon. Play with him but also pray with him. Be a worshiper with him at your church this week.

Redbirds Beat Childress, 11-2 In First Game

Hereford American Legion Baseball team opened its 1964 season Friday night at Childress and the Redbirds came home with an 11-2 victory.

The first two innings of the seven-inning game were scoreless as six Hereford batters were retired in order by left-hander Jerry Sasche.

Hereford pitcher Larry Minks retired the Childress batters in order in the first frame but walked two in the second. A force play at third and the second strike out of the inning retired the side with no score.

In the third inning Rightfielder Danny Loerwald was safe on an error by the Childress shortstop and moved to second when First Baseman Mike Ranspot walked. Larry Minks hit into right field to score Loerwald but was tagged at second. Two strike-outs finished the inning for the Hereford team. Minks retired the Childress batters in one, two, three order.

The Redbirds added four runs in the fourth frame. With one out, Left Fielder Steve Hodges walked, and successive singles by Shortstop Frank Cain, Catcher Lynn Cook, and Danny Loerwald brought in two runs. After one more out Larry Minks got his second hit of the evening to bring in the two men on base.

Childress got its first hit and first run in the fourth inning. With one out, Pitcher Jerry Sasche hit the first pitch over the right field fence. Minks retaliated by striking out the next two batters.

In the fifth Hereford got one man on when Steve Hodges walked but he was stranded. In the Childress half of the fifth Shortstop Phil Self led off by blasting the ball into center field for a triple. He came home as a bad throw of the ball went through the fence behind home plate. Larry Minks, for the second time, came back to retire the side by the strike out route.

In the sixth inning, with one out, Danny Loerwald got his second hit, Mike Ranspot walked, and Larry Minks was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases.

Third Baseman Ronny Duncan hit a high fly down the right foul line that fell in fair territory by inches. Duncan took a lead off first and drew a wild throw from the pitcher that scored the third Redbird run of the inning. Childress batters were retired in order in the bottom of the sixth.

Hereford scored three more runs in the seventh. Frank Cain got a single and Danny Loerwald walked. Mike Ranspot tagged the ball for an easy triple to score the two base runners. Ranspot came in to score the final tally when the Childress catcher made a bad throw back to the pitcher.

In the final half-inning Larry Minks recorded four strike outs and one base on balls. A Childress batter swung at a pitch that was over his head and out of reach of Catcher Lynn Cook and got on base safely.

Minks went the distance for Hereford giving up two runs on two hits and one Redbird error. He walked three batters but struck out 18 in the seven innings. Frank Cain, Danny Loerwald, and Larry Minks each got two singles for the Hereford team. Lynn Cook and Ronny Duncan added a single each and Mike Ranspot his three-base hit. The Redbirds tallied 11 runs on nine hits and three Childress errors. One wild pitch and four passed balls also aided the Hereford attack.

Charles D. Strang, of Oshkosh, Wis., president of the American Power Boat Association, is honorary foreign vice-commandore of the Canadian Boating Federation.
