By MAUREEN SANTINI AP White House Correspondent

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Ending a yearlong stalemate, the United States and the Soviet Union are opening new negotiations in Geneva on Jan. 7-8 in an effort to curb nuclear weapons and space weapons.

"We are ready for genuine give-and-take with the Soviet Union with the purpose of reaching concrete agreements," Robert C. McFarlane, President Reagan's national security adviser, declared.

A joint announcement by the superpowers on Thanksgiving Day said that Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko were designated to begin the new talks.

Although the session will formally end a yearlong deadlock, McFarlane cautioned that the quest for an arms agreement was likely to be difficult.

"I would not say that this is a milestone of conclusion but, rather, an opening of a process that will be difficult and sustained over time," he said.

Ends U.S.-Soviet stalemate

The meeting represents the first face-to-face negotiations on strategic and medium range nuclear weapons in a year, and the first U.S.-Soviet talks on space weapons since 1979. "We enter the talks in January in the spirit of honest compromise and getting results," McFarlane declared.

Without mentioning the extreme U.S.-Soviet hostility that marked most of Reagan's first term, McFarlane said:

"We are at a moment where each side has decided to make a determined effort to reduce tensions."

Shultz and Gromyko will use the first session to discuss the objectives, format and agenda for the new talks, McFarlane said.

His announcement was made at the White House.

In a move that symbolized the tense state of superpower relations, the Soviets stalked out of nuclear arms talks a year ago to protest NATO deployment of new U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Europe. Efforts to revive those talks have so far failed.

While McFarlane said the new talks will focus on strategic nuclear weapons, medium-range nuclear weapons and space weapons, he added it was not yet known whether the separate suspended nuclear talks will ever be revived.

But there was the possibility the new talks would, in effect, replace the stalemated talks. That way, the Soviets would not have to back down on the preconditions they had set for resuming those negotiations.

However, McFarlane indicated the administration still hoped the earlier talks could be revived, saying their "established institutions and channels and delegations and so forth make possible immediate progress ... without further delay."

Nevertheless, he said the United States was willing to "listen about alternative ideas on the other side and we look forward to doing that in January."

Smith responds to HCC lawsuit

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

An attorney for the Hereford Cattle Commission said Wednesday that, depending on the outcome of a financial investigation by the USDA, he expects to file a counterclaim against a company that is suing HCC.

Jerry Smith, who represents the Hereford men listed as owners of HCC and Texoma Livestock Commission, said the order buyers who brought civil charges against the two companies "are not all that innocent."

A.W. Cherry and Sons Cattle Company of Lebanon, Tenn., recently filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Amarillo asking for at least $2 million in actual and punitive damages for cattle they say they delivered to Texas and were not paid for.

Cherry and Sons also claims HCC and its Texoma counterpart mis-ed customer money placed in custodial accounts by purchasing cattle and covering bad checks with the funds.

"The allegations are wholly false, without merit, and I contemplate that through the facts extrapolated from the Packers and Stockyards Association Investigation I will file a counterclaim."

Smith said he believes Cherry and Sons and order buyers in Arkansas "engaged in some very poor business practices," and now are using the plight of the two auctions as an opportunity to recover monies that they in fact owe a third party.

"We are working with P&SA in an attempt to identify the genuine consignors, and then identify funds that can be used solely to pay them," Smith explained.

Tom Morris and Bill Butler of the

Ft. Worth P&SA office have been in Hereford the past two weeks, continuing a financial investigation that began when the two auctions closed Nov. 6.

The shutdowns came after customers discovered there were not funds available to cash checks issued them by the auction companies.

Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul said earlier this week a grand jury investigation is a possibility, but em-

Cable TV system now has PBS channel

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

Subscribers to Hereford Cablevision services are receiving a Public Broadcasting System (PBS) station on Channel 5.

Local television watchers had been without a PBS station since April 15, 1982, when Hereford Cablevision dropped KERA-Dallas due to a rate increase of 631 percent.

The new channel is being received via microwave signal from KTXT-Lubbock. The picture is not yet as good as the other Hereford Cablevision channels, employees admit, but mechanical alterations are being made which might lead to a more equitable transmission.

Clint Formby, the company's owner, this morning said Hereford Cablevision has yet to receive final approval from the Federal Communications Commission for broadcasting the station. Thus far only a construction permit has been allowed, though Formby said he thought granting of a complete permit should be "routine."

According to a Hereford Cablevision receptionist, KTXT was placed on the system Tuesday.

The return of PBS to Hereford followed a long series of travails by the local cable television company. Most early efforts centered around Lee Microwave, a firm wishing to supply Hereford and other area towns with a PBS station at lower rates than those charged for KERA.

West Texas Microwave, the KERA supplier, filed a suit with the FCC claiming it was the only company which should be allowed to offer Panhandle systems a PBS channel. Lee appealed this self-proclaimed monopoly, but a decision on the matter failed to soon materialize.

Local company awaiting final approval

Fed up with that and several other delays with Lee's application, Hereford Cablevision last spring decided to apply for its own microwave system.

"We're not worrying about Lee," said Lloyd Ames, Hereford Cablevision's general manager, on March 19. "We needed a PBS station and it was getting to the point where Lee was taking too much time."

The FCC was consequently sent for consideration engineer studies regarding transmitting KTXT through independently-owned microwave equipment in Dimmitt. "The people that did the survey said they saw nothing wrong," a hopeful Ames commented.

Complete approval of the request was not made until last month. In the meantime, the local cable television company had purchased all the equipment necessary for the project.

In March, Hereford Cablevision's general manager said he thought the construction cost would be around $60,000. Ames said the necessary work included building the Dimmitt tower and placing equipment at the Hereford end.

Though Formby declined to guess how soon final approval from the FCC would be granted, he said it was probable the KTXT transmission would continue uninterrupted on the Hereford Cablevision channel.

Balloon carries smoking message

"You'll be soaring when you quit smoking."

That is the message Jim Stacy read when he finally retrieved the balloon he and a friend recently chased for a mile near the Deaf Smith County feedyard.

Launched Nov. 13, the balloon and attached message represented the efforts of Jamie Chandler of Apache Junction, Ariz., to take part in the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, which was held Thursday of last week.

"Please don't smoke. It is bad for you," the wrinkled piece of paper tied to the balloon pleaded. Chandler also included her address and asked the finder to write to her so she would know where the balloon had landed.

Stacy and fellow employee Mike Gomez, both 25, were riding their horses along the back side of the feedyard last Friday morning when they discovered the balloon. The mile-long pursuit ended when the object stuck to a barbed-wire fence.

Stacy, who does not smoke but dips snuff, said he plans to write back to the Arizona girl.

Eleven people booked by police

Hereford police arrested 11 people between Wednesday afternoon and this morning, including five apiece for driving while intoxicated and public intoxication.

The other arrest was for speeding and no liability insurance. Laura Thames, 110 S. Centre St., reported approximately $500 worth of items were taken Wednesday afternoon from her 1984 Dodge pickup. Taken from the vehicle, which was unlocked, were clothes, books, a coat and a purse, the latter of which contained $185 in cash.

Among the other incidents police looked into were three assaults and one each of burglary, minor theft and vandalism.

On Wednesday there were two non-injury motor vehicle accidents which occurred within city limits.

THURSDAY'S HIGH: 47 (normal: 56 record: 79 (1965))

OVERNIGHT LOW: 33 (normal: 29 record: 3 (1957))

OUTLOOK: Cloudy tonight with a 60 percent chance of showers or thunderstorms. The low is expected to be in the middle 30s and winds are to be southerly, 5 to 15 miles per hour. Saturday is to have a 60 percent chance of precipitation, with winds to increase to 15 to 25 miles per hour from the south and the high to be in the lower 50s.

Flat Not Worst Problem

This vehicle at Tri-State Cattle Feeders Inc. had more than a flat tire wrong with it Wednesday afternoon. Its engine caught fire, prompting a visit from local volunteer firemen. David Spain, local fire chief, said he imagined the tractor was totaled.

Texans want garbage buried

DALLAS (AP) — A majority of Texans favor burying low-level nuclear waste instead of storing it above the ground, according to a public opinion poll.

The fall Texas Poll found that 58 percent of those surveyed believed low-level radioactive wastes should be buried, as opposed to the 24 percent who thought it should be kept above ground.

The results, published in Thursday's Dallas Morning News, surprised the head of the state agency in charge of finding a site for the waste.

"We had heard that there may be a preference for above-ground for a variety of reasons," said Rick Jacobi, general manager of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority in Austin.

Testimony before a state House subcommittee, Jacobi said, indicated that above-ground storage might be favored because of a distrust of landfills. Some witnesses feared leakage that could contaminate groundwater.

New heart patient to leave

HOUSTON (AP) — An 8-month-old girl who received a new heart during a transplant operation three weeks ago will be going home in a few days, her doctor says.

The young patient, whose name has not been released by the Texas Heart Institute, is "well, vigorous and playful," said Dr. O. Howard Frazier.

Doctors said the infant had been suffering from irreversible heart failure caused by a disease of unknown origin called cardiomyopathy.

Three weeks ago, her diseased heart was replaced with a donor organ taken from a 2-year-old Dallas girl who died of head injuries.

Frazier said that the infant suffered from one mild rejection bout, but has since made dramatic improvements and gained weight.

"She looks good," said Frazier, director of the institute's transplant program.

One week after the operation, a biopsy of the new heart showed signs of rejection, Frazier said, but all other tests indicated everything was normal.

Top official being investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department is refusing to disclose the status of its chief of staff, who, sources say, is under investigation for his role in awarding no-bid contracts and a trip on a lobbyist's sailboat.

The sources said the department's Office of Inspector General — which investigates fraud, waste and abuse — has been interviewing employees about the activities of Daniel K. Benjamin, a senior aide and trusted ally of Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan.

The sources spoke only on condition they not be quoted by name, and several said they have been asked by investigators and other department officials not to speak with reporters about Benjamin.

Donovan is on unpaid leave while he defends himself against a grand jury indictment in Bronx County Court in New York.

A woman answering Benjamin's office telephone refused to say whether he was working and referred a reporter to department spokesman Michael Volpe, who also refused to confirm whether the chief of staff was on the job. Volpe added that information on leaves by department officials is "private and non-disclosable."

Hussein praises Palestinians

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein has praised the Palestine Liberation Organization as the sole representative of the Palestinians and asked the group to join him in offering Israel peace in exchange for return of occupied Arab lands.

Hussein, who barely a decade ago expelled PLO guerrillas from Jordan in a bloody conflict, on Thursday addressed the group's 384-seat parliament, the Palestine National Council, which PLO chief Yasser Arafat convened in Amman despite a boycott by pro-Syrian factions.

That Arafat could muster a quorum of 253 members was considered a vote of confidence in his leadership of the PLO, which has been weakened by infighting since its fighters were expelled from southern Lebanon by Israel in 1982. Deputy Chairman Salim Zaanoun said 257 members were present.

The splits in the PLO widened when Syrian-backed rebels forced Arafat and his supporters from the northern Lebanese port of Tripoli last year.

Crisis mounting for UNESCO

PARIS (AP) — Britain's decision to join the United States in threatening withdrawal from UNESCO unless reforms are made deepens the crisis facing the U.N. agency, and increases pressure on other Western nations to follow suit.

One Western delegate, who spoke Thursday on condition that he not be named, said the decisions of two founding members to withdraw from the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization was especially significant.

"In this situation, one plus one means an awful lot more than two," he said. "There will have to be a re-examination of possibilities in Washington and European capitals."

Geoffrey Howe, Britain's foreign secretary, said Thursday that his country would pull out of the 161-nation organization unless management and budget reforms are made by the end of 1985.

UNESCO's director general, Amadou Mahtar M'Bow of Senegal, has been gambling the agency could survive the U.S. withdrawal set for the end of this year, even though the United States pays 25 percent of UNESCO's budget.

Three killed in Korean zone

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A South Korean soldier was killed and an American soldier wounded today at Panmunjom in the demilitarized zone dividing South Korea and North Korea when a defector fled south and a firefright erupted, a United Nations command spokesman said.

Two North Korean guards also were killed and two wounded in the exchange of fire, the announcement said.

The defector — who was not identified immediately — was said to have crossed the line and later to have been brought to Seoul, 25 miles south of the truce site of Panmunjom. The person was reported to have been a member of a North Korean-sponsored tour of the joint security area at Panmunjom.

South Korean sources said the person involved was a Russian tourist, but there was no immediate confirmation.

American and South Korean troops make up the security force assigned to the southern side in the Panmunjom area. Troops of Communist North Korea have similar roles on the northern side of the military demarcation line.

No information was available immediately from South Korean or U.S. military commands in Seoul despite repeated telephone calls to those centers.

Park to be built on location of blasts

By CHRIS ANGELO Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — State officials say a park will be built on the scorched ground where fiery explosions destroyed scores of houses and killed 346 people in a poor neighborhood outside the capital.

Benjamin Granados, state of Mexico public works director, said bulldozers would begin razing 122 homes no longer safe for habitation, possibly today. Trucks began moving belongings from the homes to warehouses Thursday.

"In 10 or 15 days it will be a park," he said of the heaviest damaged part of the San Juan Ixhuatepec section of suburban Tlalneantla. The death toll rose to 346 on Thursday when nine victims died in the hospital.

People whose homes are razed will be given new homes worth $10,000 in another area. But some residents said they would rather remain, especially if the devastated gas storage plant, owned by the government oil monopoly PEMEX, is moved.

Some residents said that about eight or nine months ago they also fled a fire at a lumber facility in the same PEMEX complex. That fire was controlled and they returned home some afterwards.

PEMEX officials have said they do not plan to rebuild the gas facility in the same place, and the location may also be turned into parkland.

Some residents said they believed their houses could be repaired, although they were in the area considered uninhabitable.

Granados said a few standing houses in the planned park area will probably be demolished, even if they are in satisfactory condition, to develop a "security belt" against future explosions, should PEMEX rebuild.

He said the residences were built on land sold illegally by farmers who had the right to work, but not sell, government communal farmland. "We are taking advantage of the situation to regularize the zone," said an official involved in the planning, who spoke on condition he not be named.

Returning to their homes Thursday, many residents found only charred remains and piles of rubble from Monday's blasts.

For Raul Pena Duarte, 44, there was little left.

"All my family died there," Pena Duarte said as stood at a doorway opening onto the blackened rubble of the house and patio he had built. Only walls and the wheels of what might have been a bicycle were recognizable.

"I had gone to work. They were all asleep," he said. "A piece of one of the tanks went through there and then everything burned."

Pena Duarte, his wife, four children ranging from 10 to 16, his wife's mother and sister and another family lived in the simple three-room house.

"I think I will leave here," he said. "I'm from the state of Michoacan. That's where I think I will go at the end of the year. What's left here?"

Alfredo Jara Garcia wept as he lingered in the shell of the burned-out two-room home where his sister, her husband and their six children died.

"All this that you see here was just our family," his cousin Sergio Avila Morales said, pointing to a row of small homes facing a field of gas storage tanks. At least 15 family members died, he said.

Telephone and electrical crews strung new wires and men wielding brooms made of bunches of twigs swept the streets. Other crews dug trenches to repair water leaks. Bags of cement, concrete blocks, glass, steel construction rods and other building supplies were unloaded into a church recreation lot for distribution to people repairing their homes.

Millions of Americans celebrate Turkey Day

By MARY MacVEAN Associated Press Writer

Millions of Americans kept alive a tradition that started with a harvest feast more than 350 years ago by sharing dinner with loved ones and reaching out to the hungry in Thanksgiving celebrations that kicked off the winter holiday season.

From the nation's first family to its desperate poor, it was a day to belly up to turkey and all the trimmings. Tens of thousands of homeless, hungry or lonely people feasted on free meals and warmth offered in soup kitchens, restaurants and shelters.

Miles of parades wound through the streets of several of the nation's biggest cities on Thursday, a day before those same streets would taken over by the kickoff of the Christmas shopping madness. To herald the season, more than 100,000 people watched the lighting of a 90-foot Christmas tree in Atlanta.

In New York City, at least 100,000 people bundled up against the cold to watch Raggedy Ann, Garfield the mischievous cat and the other helium-filled stars of the 58th annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

In Montgomery, Ala., the Turkey Day Classic parade was marred by the stabbing death of a 20-year-old spectator. A juvenile was in custody.

Police said more than 500,000 people turned out, despite temperatures dipping as low as 12 degrees, to watch Detroit's 58th annual parade. And more than 400,000 people lined Philadelphia's streets for the Gimbels Thanksgiving Parade. An estimated 80 million people watched the parades on television.

Thanksgiving marks the five-day feast held in 1621, when Massachusetts Bay colonists shared their harvest with the Wampanoag Indians.

"Thanksgiving is supposed to be with the Indians," said Indian activist Russell Means, adding that he and others across the country fasted and prayed in mourning on Wednesday and Thursday. "There isn't a thing with the Indians in the public or the press — out of sight, out of mind."

But for most people, it was a day of gobbling gobblers and sharing with those more familiar with want than bounty.

Daniel Alvarez, 39, was among the estimated 18,000 people who ate free Thanksgiving dinners in New York City.

"I'm on Social Security. I can't get an apartment, I sleep on the train. ... I don't usually eat this much," he said, eyeing three pieces of pie on his tray during a dinner given by the Salvation Army.

Nicole Petculescu and her husband, John, came to the United States from Romania in 1972. On Thursday, they opened their cafe in Kingman, Ariz., to "everybody who comes in."

"This country received me with such warmth. I just want to give a little of it back," Mrs. Petculescu said.

Election Results

The smoke's cleared, the dust settled, the tears are dried from the recent election.

Now we can see what happened in perspective.

Most important result of the election — the most long-lasting result — will be reflected in the next appointment to the United States Supreme Court.

We can expect they will be individuals committed to interpreting the Constitution; not rewriting it.

Second most important result: The president's enormous popularity with most all segments of the electorate will make members of both parties in Congress less inclined to oppose him.

Third most significant result: The Soviets will surely be more amenable to negotiation.

And a result not yet apparent but certainly to be hoped-for: The high and the mighty of the media will be some less high and mighty.

My brethren in the news business don't like me talking like this but — the pompous newspapers which tried overtly — and the TV network which tried covertly — to tell their readers and listeners how to vote — demonstrated only their own impotence.

Now... History says our president has a new challenge.

Re-election to the presidency would appear to be the summit of political achievement. Not necessarily.

There is a temptation for second-term presidents of the United States to want to become "president of the world."

FDR was thus distracted — and Truman — and Eisenhower — and LBJ.

Nixon, most of all.

President Nixon, his final term, surrendered to his personal fascination with foreign affairs...

Delegating the homefront to a handful of wet-eared boys who, it turns out, were less than capable.

A president in his 70s is less likely to alter his philosophical course, but this one could be emboldened, by the enormity of his mandate, to "throw our weight around."

Our nation's golden chance to lead a fragmented world, largely governed by pyromaniacs, cannot be realized by pushing, or pulling or pointing the way. We must show the way.

May this popular president's lasting monument reflect the accomplishment of durable peace.

That can best be accomplished — not with guns, butter, subterfuge — nor even with diplomacy.

That objective requires that we mind our own business so well that we are a lighthouse, an example worthy of emulation.

Famed heart surgeon resting after operation

HOUSTON (AP) — Internationally renowned heart surgeon Dr. Michael E. DeBakey has been listed in "fine condition" after undergoing surgery for a bleeding ulcer, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The 76-year-old DeBakey, a pioneer in the development of the artificial heart, spent two hours in an operating room Wednesday night before returning to his hospital bed early Thursday, said Methodist Hospital spokeswoman Susan Russell.

"Dr. DeBakey is in fine condition," Miss Russell said. "His blood pressure and vital signs are stable. He is awake, alert and talking, and his physicians are delighted with his progress."

During the operation, doctors confirmed an earlier diagnosis of a benign ulcer in the duodenum, the upper section of the intestine that feeds the stomach, Miss Russell said.

"He left the operating room in good condition and was returned to his bed and is doing well," she said.

Doctors "have absolutely no idea" how long the surgeon will remain in the hospital, said Miss Russell, who added, "he won't be there one minute longer than he has to be. He loves to work."

DeBakey was hospitalized last Saturday afternoon for what was described as an "intestinal upset."

DeBakey has performed more than 60,000 operations in his 50-year-long career. His patients ranged from penniless peasants from backward nations to the Duke of Windsor, the Shah of Iran and King Hussein of Jordan.

DeBakey, the chancellor of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, was born in Lake Charles, La., the son of a druggist. He performed his first heart transplant since 1970 last February. In an 18-month period from August 1968 to early 1970, he performed 12 transplants, but stopped because only two of those patients survived more than four months.

The surgeon was also among a handful of medical specialists who designed the first artificial heart used on a human patient.

DeBakey has been the author of more than 1,100 medical articles, chapters and books; designed 60 different operating instruments, and has charted surgical courses for repairing aneurysms and bypassing blocked coronary arteries.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I'm writing this in regard to an incident that took place this past week. I took my children downtown to the Star Theater to see a movie. We sat through the entire movie without hearing half of what was being said.

The reason we could not hear the movie was because of all the yelling and talking going on around us. There were kids running up and down all during the movie, and some kids never sat down the whole time.

One boy even had a radio playing rock music. Several other people and I asked the manager to please come down and patrol the theater and ask the kids to be quiet. He came down one side of the theater and made a half-hearted attempt to make them be quiet and that was it.

I just think it's a crying shame that a family cannot go to see a movie and enjoy it because our theater has been turned into a "playhouse."

I will drive to Amarillo and take my kids to a movie and pay twice the price before I'll put up with such nonsense again. The Star Theater is just one more of Hereford's businesses that has been turned into a big joke!

Thank you,
Sue Rogers

Dear editor:

I know this has probably been said before and I'll say it again. What ever happened to labels being worn on the inside of clothing—such as plain jeans, shirts, socks, shoes, etc.?

I really don't mind the critters adorning all of these items or the label being on the outside—it's just the price that is asked of us for free advertising!

I guess it all boils down to status symbols for the middle class. My kids aren't satisfied with K-Mart tennis shoes anymore. They have to be "Nike" or "Kappa" at $40 a shot.

Maybe middle age and inflation have caught up with me. Maybe this will all pass with the years as every previous fad. For me and my pocket-book, it can't be too soon. Do you think this Christmas would be too soon?

Christmas Lighting contest offers chance to be creative

It is time again for the annual Christmas Lighting Contest sponsored by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

No rules and regulations are given from the Chamber of Commerce. Participants must simply use their own creativity. Everyone is eligible, including last year's winners as long as they enter in a different category than the one in which they won last year.

The residents division includes two categories: the entire home and a door and/or a window. In the business division, the categories are the same.

Entry forms will appear in this Sunday's Hereford Brand and in the Dec. 2 issue of the Brand. They may also be picked up in the Chamber office. All entries must be returned to the Chamber of Commerce office by Dec. 10 at 4 p.m.

Judging will take place after dark on Dec. 11. First and second place prizes will be awarded in each category. All prizes will be in Hereford bucks.

College campaigns get into full swing

Top teams to open basketball on road

By The Associated Press

Georgetown and Illinois are ranked No. 1 and 2, respectively, but the teams aren't even close this weekend as the college basketball season gets rolling.

Georgetown, the defending national champion, opens its campaign tonight in the Civic Auditorium in Hilo, Hawaii. After facing Hawaii-Hilo, the Hoyas will rest until Monday's road contest at Hawaii-Loa.

The Fighting Illini will face the more familiar Idaho State but the game will be a first-round matchup in the Great Alaska Shootout which began today. What ever happened to home openers?

In addition to the Illinois-Idaho State matchup, the first round of the Shootout will see Tennessee meeting Alabama-Birmingham, Maryland versus No. 19 Kansas and Oregon against the host Seawolves of Alaska-Anchorage.

"It's earlier than I've ever played a tournament, and particularly with the type of teams that are in there," Oregon Coach Don Monson said. "It's a chance for us to make a little bit of national recognition for ourselves."

Illinois earned itself some more national recognition when they soundly defeated No. 5 Oklahoma, 81-64, last Sunday in the Tip-off Classic in Springfield, Mass.

"I'd probably be just as happy beating up on some teams," Illinois forward Doug Altenberger said. "We're going to find out a lot of things in a hurry, but it feels better after beating Oklahoma."

Besides just beating Oklahoma, Illinois was able to stop the Sooners' All-American forward Wayman Tisdale. The job was handed to senior center George Montgomery, who was named Most Valuable Player in the Tip-off scoring 17 points, grabbing 10 rebounds and holding Tisdale to 19 points, eight below his average last season.

Georgetown isn't the only team visiting Hawaii this weekend as Virginia, Providence, Pepperdine and Davidson all will play games after receiving leis, the traditional welcome to the 50th state.

Two other Top Twenty teams will inaugurate the 1984-85 season tonight as No. 10 Southern Methodist hosts Texas Southern and No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas visits Nevada-Reno.

On Saturday, five more ranked teams will play.

Northern Illinois visits No. 3 DePaul, debuting under new head coach Joey Meyer. No. 17 Louisville is at No. 4 Indiana, Campbell travels to face No. 13 North Carolina State, Southeastern Louisiana is at No. 16 Arkansas and Baptist is on the road at No. 20 Georgia Tech.

The Louisville-Indiana will provide some early-season answers as to just how good the teams of Denny Crum and Bobby Knight will be.

Indiana suffered through a season of injuries last year finishing 22-9 and at times dressed less than 10 players for a game.

"This is the first time we've had this many people sitting on the bench," Knight said of his current 15-man Hoosier roster that includes U.S. Olympian Steve Alford, who was the team MVP as a freshman, and West German Olympian Uwe Blab whose most impressive statistic is his height — 7-foot-2.

Louisville, 24-11 last season, will have to replace Lancaster Gordon and Charles Jones. Kevin Walls, one of the leading high school scorers in the nation last year, should get tested quickly against Knight's tenacious man-to-man defense.

"There are five things you have to do defensively — pressure the ball, pressure the passing lanes, take away cuts, know where the ball is and block out," Knight said. "I don't think there is any one of those five things we do really well."

Louisville will get to find out just how well.

Whiteface Stadium to host playoffs

Two high-school playoff games have been set for Hereford's Whiteface Stadium today an Saturday.

Today's ball game features the Panhandle Panthers, winners of District 1-2A, against the Abernathy Antelopes, champions of District 3-1A. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Abernathy entered the year as the pre-season's No. 1 team in West Texas and the Panhandle, according to Top-O-Texas football magazine. Panhandle was rated No.2 in the same poll by the magazine.

Abernathy football coach Larry Aldridge earlier this season had said he expected the Antelopes to be more competitive than they had been in recent years. Abernathy dropped to Class 2A and 3A to start this season.

Abernathy defeated Crosbyton last Friday 19-0 in a bi-district affair, a win that saw the Antelopes push their record to 10-0-1.

Panhandle, on the other hand, is the returning champion of its district. The Panthers rely on 15 lettermen and 17 seniors from a year ago for the bulk of their defensive toughness.

Last week, Panhandle (8-2-1) won a bi-district game over Memphis 35-12. However, the Harris Rating System has chosen Abernathy as a 7-point favorite.

Saturday's contest will see District 1-A's runner-up, the Gruver Greyhounds, tangle with District 2-A South's champ, the Sundown Roughnecks. This ball game also will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Sundown has the better record of the two at 11-0. Last week the Roughnecks won a zone playoff against the 2-A North winner, 14-12 over Farwell.

Gruver sports a record of 7-3, losing last to Wheeler 34-12. Wheeler won District 1-A.

The Harris Rating System sees the game as a nailbiter of sorts, picking Sundown by 2.

SWC picks

Longhorns looking to grab Cotton Bowl berth

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

Five teams are still in the mathematical running for the Southwest Conference football title but the Texas Longhorns can put everybody's calculator away with victories over Baylor and Texas A&M in their final two games.

Texas was an eight-point favorite to do away with problem No. 1, the Baylor Bears, in Waco on Saturday in an 11:30 a.m. regionally televised (Raycom) matchup.

In other SWC games, Texas Christian was a six-point pick over Texas A&M in College Station; Southern Methodist was a two-point nod over Arkansas at Texas Stadium, and Houston was a field goal choice over Texas Tech in Lubbock.

Bowl scouts will be busy bees at SWC games this weekend. Official invitations may be extended at 6 p.m.

The Bluebonnet Bowl's Ted Nance will be standing by in College Station to tag TCU's cinderella Horned Frogs "win, lose or tie" against the Aggies.

A deal has been worked out that should TCU somehow get to the Cotton Bowl then the Bluebonnet would take Texas.

The Aloha Bowl will be in Texas Stadium for the 6:45 p.m. ESPN game with Arkansas to invite the Mustangs to their Dec. 29 Classic in Honolulu.

Arkansas is the apple of the Liberty Bowl's eye.

Houston was still holding out as a bowl possibility based on the Cougars getting past the Red Raiders.

Texas leads TCU, SMU, Arkansas and Houston by a full game after the Longhorns' 44-23 victory over the Horned Frogs last Saturday.

The SWC champion is the host team in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day. The guest team will be the high-flying Boston College Eagles and their magic-making quarterback, Doug Flutie.

There are still 25 possible combinations for the SWC title.

If two or more teams tie for the title, the team that beat the others is the host team.

If one co-champion does not win all of its games from the other co-champions, or, if the co-champions in a two-team tie played a tie game, the host team is the school whose last Cotton Bowl appearance pre-dated the last Cotton Bowl appearance of the other co-champions.

Texas could win the SWC title Saturday by defeating Baylor if TCU and Houston lost and Arkansas and SMU tied. However, the Longhorns have lost four of their last five games in Waco.

TCU will be trying to defeat A&M for the first time in 12 years.

"We have a chance to complete a great season," said TCU Coach Jim Wacker.

Ann Landers

Let her speak

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a father-in-law gets too familiar with his daughter-in-law, touches her too much, lays hands on her too much, stands too close to her, and kisses her on the mouth at every opportunity, whose responsibility is it to speak to him about it—the man's wife or his son?—Asking For Many

DEAR ASKING: Neither. It is the responsibility of the one who is being touched too much, stood too close to, etc. She should speak for herself—in no uncertain terms.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read a letter in your column that hit me where I live. It was signed "The Straightest Parent Alive." The mother who wrote that letter hoped someday that her rebellious teenagers would appreciate the discipline they received at home.

Believe me, they will. I thought my mother was a freak because she was awfully strict and stuck to her guns. No way could I change her mind or get her to extend a curfew. At times I really hated her. We fought constantly. Our house was more like a battlefield than a home. I planned my escape several times but never worked up enough nerve to leave.

One day Mom and I were arguing as usual and I raised my hand to hit her. The fact that I wanted to hit (and hopefully hurt) the person who had spent most of her life loving me was frightening. After some soul-searching I realized that almost all the problems we had started with me. I decided to stop fighting and start listening.

I had no idea Mom had so much knowledge about life. I listened to her and I learned. I am now 19 years old. I have a good job, my own apartment and I am determined to make something of myself. I'm proud to say the straightest Mom in the whole world is also my best friends.—a Former Rebel Who Got Smart In Orlando, Fla.

DEAR REBEL: I wonder how many teenagers will see themselves in your letter. I hope you send a copy to your mom. She won the toughest battle of all.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here's how I cured myself of drinking too much, careless driving and the compulsive telling of confidential information. I went on a strict fast. If I took a third drink, blabbed when I

Cafeteria workers host salad supper

Hereford Independent School Cafeteria workers met for their monthly salad supper at the high school cafeteria Monday evening with 59 members attending.

The program for the meeting was on nuclear waste sites. Tonya Kleuskens of Dawn was the speaker. After her presentation, a discussion was held.

Tierra Blanca Cafeteria hosted this supper.

The next meeting will be for a Christmas party on Dec. 4.

La Afflatus plans holiday luncheon

La Afflatus Estudio Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Teresa Hale with Della Stagner as co-hostess.

Lucille Hughes introduced Frances Parker who gave the program on Thanksgiving. She began the program by reading a poem, "Father We Thank Thee." She also reviewed the first Thanksgiving when the Pilgrims met after their first harvest.

Plans were completed for the Christmas Luncheon to be Dec. 4 at "Something Special." Stagner will provide the program.

Members present were Opal Elliston, Eva Gililand, Alberta Higgins, Lydia Hopson; Bea Hutson, Lola Jewell, Allyne Johnson, Aileen Montgomery, Pet Ott and Emily Suggs.

DEAR BETTER: I never argue with success. If the procedure worked for you, fine, but I must say your ability to discipline yourself is a cut above that of the average mortal.

Got those wedding bell blues over cost...guest list...what to wear...and other details? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will help. For a copy, send $2.00 plus a long, self-addressed stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

A Feeling Of Oneness

Life was extremely rough on the early settlers' families. Grandma, grandpa, mom, dad, brothers and sisters all lived together in some very tight quarters.

There was little leisure time with each family member having to carry his or her full load of chores. Yet, family life was comfortable — and prosperous.

At our bank, we strive to generate that same Pioneering spirit of oneness. We want to make your banking experience with us as friendly and pleasant as possible.

When you bank with us, you'll know we've brought back that Pioneering spirit . . . the kind of dedication it takes to get the job done right.

At our bank, we're pioneering new ways of service and security for you and your entire family.

Local Church News

CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS

The women of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints extend an invitation to all women in the community to attend their annual Christmas homemaking meeting.

Planned for Wednesday, Nov. 28 at the chapel on Country Club Drive, the meeting will include workshops, refreshments and other practical information useful for the holiday season.

Workshops to be offered include making stained glass cookies, gingerbread houses and sculptured dolls. For more information call Melissa Brown at 364-3779.

The evening begins at 7 p.m. with a short spiritual meeting conducted by the Relief Society organization. A lesson on homemaking skills will be taught, followed by refreshments of favorite holiday recipes.

The workshop sessions will follow, and should last until about 9 p.m.
ADRIAN METHODIST CHURCH

The Adrian United Methodist Church will celebrate its 75th anniversary Sunday with special services. All former pastors, members and friends are invited to attend and share activities.

The day will begin with Sunday School and regular services at 11 a.m. with present pastor, Rev. Billy McCauley, preaching. Following a noon meal, an afternoon service will be held at 2:30 p.m. This will be a time of remembrance and sharing by former pastors and members attending. The youth will host a reception following the afternoon service.

The Adrian Church was organized in October 1909 with the Rev. W.P. Edwards, pastor. There were five charter members who are now deceased. In 1927, the first church building was constructed and in 1949 the parsonage was built under the direction of Rev. J.C. Arnold.

The present sanctuary was built in 1959 during the pastorate of Rev. Johnny Williams and Huston Hall was added in 1969 while Rev. Don Travis pastored there.

Westway Club to host annual country bazaar

Homemade articles, Christmas ornaments and baked goods will be for sale during Westway Extension Club's eighth annual County Christmas Bazaar slated from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford Community Center.

Martha Rickman, bazaar chairman, explained that proceeds from the event will be used for the 4-H bake and food show.

Articles to be sold include Cabbage Patch doll clothes, cornhusk dolls, paintings, ceramics, woodworking, needlework, handmade rag dolls and hand-crafted jewelry.

Extension club members will be serving tea and coffee throughout the day and members of Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will be selling stuffed baked potatoes.

Veleda members gather for Bible program

Veleda Study Club met recently for Guest Night in the home of Joyce Ritter.

Margaret Zinser, president, presided and extended a welcome to guests Snooks Farr, Ruth Fish, Lois Lemons and Shirley Zeverly. Members and guests answered roll call with "My Favorite Bible Verse or Story."

Correspondence was read from the Golden Spread Foster Parents Association asking for help in providing the four county area foster children with a Christmas party on Dec. 7. Members decided to think over the ideas given and make a decision at the next meeting.

Joyce Ritter introduced Mrs. Don Davidson who led the program "Exploring the Bible." She began by giving a Bible quiz of 20 questions followed by a study of "Jesus and the Twelve" by Alberta Rae Richards. Davidson showed photographic portraits of the Disciples.

The next meeting will be in the home of Margaret Zinser Monday.

Members present were Marcella Bradley, Frances Crume, Marjorie Lassiter, Donna Lindeman, Marcella McLain, Ritter, Zinser and Suzanne Stevens.

Settlement struggles for recognition

NEVE SHALOM, Israel (AP) — On a rocky hilltop overlooking biblical battlefields in the Ayalon valley, 10 Israeli families have built up a small but vigorous settlement they call the Oasis of Peace.

What makes this village unique is that the 60 or so residents are both Israeli Jews and Arabs, trying to make their life together a model for a society in which the two communities live apart with deeply rooted hostility and mistrust.

The 100 acres of land leased from the nearby Trappist monastery at Latrun is located in what was a "no-man's land" between the West Bank and Israel before the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. There are a dozen single-story white houses, a sheep-pen, beehives, an olive grove and two small schoolhouses.

Life in Neve Shalom, Hebrew for Oasis of Peace, centers on the school where four-day workshops are held three times a month for Jewish and Arab high school students.

"We started the School for Peace because we realized it was not enough to gather a group of people who live together," said Jacob "Kobi" Sonnenschein, a 31-year-old physicist and Israeli army reserve officer who is one of the original settlers.

"Just living together does not have any influence on side," he said. "We decided that somehow we had to disseminate the idea."

Since 1980, about 5,000 Arab and Jewish students have attended the workshops, including 1,500 this year. The workshops are handled like encounter groups; students talk freely about their impressions of each other and such sensitive subjects as sex and politics.

Lectures are also given on the Arab-Israeli conflict, a subject offered only to high school seniors as an elective course in the public school curriculum.

For Elizabeth Tahan, 16, a Palestinian Christian from Jaffa, mixing with Jewish teen-agers was not a new experience. "I have Jewish friends at home, and we talk together about everything. But I met some new friends here and we agreed to keep in touch."

But for Shirley Singer, 15 from Tel Aviv, it was a new and somewhat disconcerting experience.

"On the social level we have very good relations here. But when it comes to discussing politics, it's as if we didn't know each other at all," said Miss Singer.

The goal, Sonnenschein said, is not assimilation or integration of the two ethnic groups but getting to know and respect each other's culture, traditions and religious beliefs. For example, he said, that meant learning to appreciate Arab music "which I couldn't stand to listen to for more than five minutes at a time."

Despite their efforts at equality, the Israeli culture appears to dominate. Even though the population is evenly divided, Hebrew is the language spoken among the Arab and Jewish residents as well as the visiting students.

Elias Idi, a 24-year-old Arab counselor who has lived for two years at Neve Shalom, noted that the settlement was originally founded in the early 1970s by a Dominican priest, the Rev. Bruno Hussaar, as an experimental community for Moslems, Christians and Jews.

"Today we tend to view the problem more on a national basis than a religious basis, more as one between Palestinians and Israelis than between the three religions," said Idi, a graduate of Hebrew University in Jerusalem. "Our message is that the problem can be dealt with through education, in a non-violent way, so there can be co-existence."

Rep. O'Neill undaunted by likely leadership challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas Democrat, asserting that Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill "is too far to the left" to continue as House speaker, says he's ready to challenge O'Neill's re-election in a party caucus.

Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, a leader of the so-called "Boll Weevil" faction of conservative Southern Democrats in Congress, said "there's definitely going to be a challenge of the speaker, and there's a 99 percent certainty that it will be me."

Stenholm disclosed his plans in a telephone interview Thursday with The Associated Press.

O'Neill, D-Mass., who has been in Congress for 32 years and speaker of the House since 1976, said in a telephone interview from his Cape Cod home that "anybody has a right to run" in the caucus of House Democrats scheduled for Dec. 3. But the veteran Democratic leader also said he has sufficient "pledges of support to be able to retain the post."

"We haven't made an announcement," said Stenholm, reached at his suburban Virginia home. But he also said that "those of us who feel it's time for a change, have decided to do it."

"There are many of us in Congress who believe this is the time to begin rebuilding the (Democratic) party for 1986, and several feel that if we're going to do that, it's time to get started," the congressman said.

O'Neill, who turns 72 next month, has said he will retire in 1986. Some party sources have said that for this reason, any challenge to O'Neill's leadership role in the 99th Congress starting in January likely would only be symbolic. These sources discussed the leadership situation on the grounds they were not quoted publicly.

These sources have said that current discussions among legislators focus on changes that could be made in 1986, when O'Neill retires.

Stenholm, 46, said he was concerned about the image of House Democrats in the wake of President Reagan's landslide Nov. 6 election victory over former Vice President Walter F. Mondale. Stenholm said he feared that under O'Neill's continuing leadership, the party would be seen as "obstructionist" by the American people. "I'm afraid we'll be left with a stalemate," he said.

A Stenholm challenge would be the first formally launched against Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, D-N.Y., to be Mondale's vice presidential running mate and said O'Neill's image as an old-style liberal Democrat is harmful to the party.

"I guess you could say it's a conservative movement to make the challenge," Stenholm said, "but the dissatisfaction is very, very widespread. We hope that we will be able to make some of the needed changes."

Nearly 20 percent of adult Americans suffer from psychiatric disorders, according to a study by the National Institute of Mental Health. However, only one-fifth of these people seek help for such problems.

CANCER ANSWER LINE

American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

QUESTION: Is Hodgkin's disease a form of leukemia?

ANSWER: No, the diseases are two different forms of cancer, but both involve the spread of abnormal white blood cells into the circulatory system. Hodgkin's disease affects the body's lymphatic system, the network which transports infection-fighting white blood cells through a fluid called lymph. As the disease spreads, abnormal white blood cells multiply and crowd out normal ones, leaving patients susceptible to a number of infections. Leukemia is a cancer of blood-forming tissues, mainly bone marrow, lymph nodes, and spleen. There are several types of leukemia, depending on the type of white cells involved and their rate of growth.

The most common first sign of Hodgkin's disease is a swollen lymph gland, usually in the neck, which lasts for three weeks or longer. Other symptoms include persistent fatigue, weight loss, fever, night sweats, nausea and vomiting. Any symptom should be checked by a physician.
