Farm Youngsters Get A Thrill

Knowland Asserts GOP Can't Coast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today the Republicans "can't expect to coast to victory in the 1954 congressional elections on the strength of a presidential victory in 1952."

Knowland, the Senate Republican floor leader, declined to predict the outcome of a special election today to fill the vacant House seat from California's 24th Congressional District.

But the California senator said in an interview he does not believe any "pattern of dissatisfaction" has been shown up in previous special elections. The Democrats have won all seven held since last November. In five, they retained seats they had held. In two, they won seats previously held by the GOP.

"These are disjointed elections in which personalities and local issues have played a large part," Knowland said. "I don't believe any set pattern of voter reaction has been disclosed."

Knowland said, however, that he was not discounting Democratic victories in special congressional elections in Wisconsin and New Jersey, nor the loss of the New Jersey governorship to the Democrats.

"I'm not taking a defeatist view," Knowland said, "but we Republicans have got a lot of hard work ahead of us."

He said he wasn't willing to guess what might happen in today's polling in the 24th California District, which lies largely within Los Angeles. Because two Republicans are running against two Democrats, he said, there is likely to be a close race, particularly since Democrats outnumber Republicans by more than 6,000 in registrations.

Knowland has endorsed Glenn L. Lipscomb, formerly on the campaign staff of Vice President Nixon. Lipscomb is opposed by John L. Collier, Republican state senator, and two Democrats—George L. Arnold, son of former U. S. Asst. Atty. Gen. Thurman Arnold, and Irving Markheim, a perennial candidate.

Noting that Lipscomb and Collier are both state senators, Knowland said it was possible the two Republicans might poll a majority vote in the district but divide it in such a way that a Democrat might win.

He said he would regard such a result as no repudiation of the Eisenhower policies, but that "we want that seat in the House."

If a Democrat should win, the House standing would be 218 Republicans, 216 Democrats and 1 Independent.

Thimayya Tells Reds Talks Up To Them

By JOHN RANDOLPH PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Indian command today all but abandoned hope for getting the stalled prisoner-of-war explanation program under way again and told the Communists that any solution is up to them.

"It seems better to face the situation as it is rather than to go on with the so-called 'interminable stoppages,'" said Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

"I can see no use in carrying on with these demoralizing interruptions."

Thimayya met for four hours with the Communist high command at Kaesong Monday night. He told a news conference he would see the Red generals again in two or three days.

It appeared likely that the Communist explanation program would collapse unless the Reds abandon slowdown tactics and agree to new rules laid down by Thimayya.

Observers said there was little chance they will agree.

There have been growing indications that the Communists want to escape from the explanation program which has cost them a humiliating propaganda defeat. So far 97 per cent of the Chinese and North Koreans interviewed have refused to return to their Communist homelands.

There have been no explanations since Thursday.

Thimayya reiterated Tuesday that if the present system collapses he will use Indian troops to screen prisoners who have not been interviewed.

The Indian general told the repatriation Commission Tuesday he can see no solution to the stalemate unless the Reds agree to two new rules:

1. Call out and interview complete compounds of 500 prisoners each at a time or;
2. Agree to forget about odd lots of prisoners not interviewed in any single day.

Communist demands to see 356 men not interviewed Thursday out of the 492 in Chinese Compound C22, halted the present explanations.

The explanations were canceled again for Wednesday.

Allied and Communist staff advisers met secretly for the third time in a conference but not far from here. And for the second day Allied negotiators called a recess to study a Communist statement in connection with efforts to arrange an agenda for setting up a Korean peace conference.

Thimayya said he had had a "very friendly" meeting with North Korean Lt. Gen. Lee Sang Cho, former armistice negotiator and present chief Red delegate to the military armistice commission, and Chinese Communist Gen. Ting Ku Yu—but got nowhere.

Asked by a newsmen if the problem is entirely up to the Reds, Thimayya said "yes."

Thimayya said the Indians would use a streamlined system if they have to take over the job of screening prisoners who have not been interviewed and would probably handle four compounds a day—about 2,000 men.

It would take 10 days at that rate to screen all remaining North Korean and Chinese prisoners.

Thimayya said he would use explanations tents but only an Indian officer would conduct the screening instead of the present system of Red explainers, U. N. observers and a five member subcommittee of the NNRC.

"A prisoner would be told to go into the tent alone and inside he would find an Indian officer," Thimayya said. "All he would have to do then is say which side he preferred."

The NNRC also discussed the petition presented Friday by the 22 Americans and 1 Briton held in the pro-Communist North Camp after they held two Indian officers hostage for more than four hours to force an appearance of the NNRC.

It was decided to study the matter further.

The prisoners complained indignantly that the Indians were lax in not censoring mail from home to filter out what the prisoners called United Nations attempts to "intimidate, slander, coerce and bribe" them.

"This must be the first time in history that prisoners have refused mail from home," Thimayya said.

He said the problem is a simple one, however. The Indians will hold mail call at the camp fence—calling out the letters one by one so the prisoners can accept or refuse them as they choose.

Jewish Group Says House Committee Threatens Freedom

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Jewish Congress said yesterday the House Un-American Activities Committee has embarked on a new course that "threatens religious freedom in this country."

For a long time the committee has pursued "un-American methods" by "its use of discredited witnesses and the irresponsible release of uncorroborated accusations," the congress said, and added:

"The committee now is expressing judgments on who shall occupy the pulpits of America, what materials shall be circulated by churches, what agencies the churches shall create for the fulfillment of their objectives and what causes ministers of religion may not espouse."

The statement was contained in one of several resolutions adopted by 1,500 delegates at the close of the 17th biennial convention of the congress.

BRIGHT IDEAS

For Improved Bedroom Lighting

Personally yours... your bedroom. The haven in your home where you rest and prepare for the day's activities should have the lighting that does the most for you, and for the room itself.

Give your vanity table all the light it needs in helping you make up to look your best. A pair of dresser lamps exactly placed will light your face without color distortion.

If you enjoy reading in bed, your bedside table should hold a reading lamp that sheds the proper light on book or paper. Dim or glaring light causes eyestrain and a feeling of tenseness.

For a restful, new look in your bedroom... for the beauty of the room itself... use soft, indirect lighting concealed in valances and behind mirrors. There is no limit to the charm, pleasure and better seeing you can add to your bedroom with the glow of proper light.

Kinsey's Book On Women Outselling His Opus On Men

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey's book "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female"—second of a series—is away ahead of its predecessor in number of copies shipped to bookstores in the first nine weeks of publication.

A spokesman for the W. B. Saunders Publishing Co., publishers of both "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male" and Kinsey's latest report, said 270,000 copies of the second book have been sent to stores.

When the first book was released Jan. 1, 1948, Saunders had advanced orders for 6,400 copies. In the first nine weeks after publication shipments of 93,000 copies were reported. To date 275,000 copies of the book have been sent to book dealers, the spokesman said.

Depreciation Allowance Plays Role In Industrial Construction

McGraw-Hill publications point out that U. S. corporations will earn about $20 billion after taxes in 1953 if the recent rate of earnings is maintained throughout the year. Of this amount corporations will pay $9 billion to stockholders as dividends and will use the other $11 billion to purchase new plants and equipment and to increase working capital, the publishing firm points out.

It is interesting to note that about half of this $20 billion comes from depreciation allowances, calculated to pay for replacement of worn-out or obsolete equipment. New security issues will raise another $5 billion, and the remaining $5 billion must come from profits. We come over one phrase of the preceding paragraph again for emphasis: About one-half of the $20 billion for expanded plant facilities will come from depreciation allowances.

You Have To Know How To Look In Order To Be Truly Educated

There was more truth than poetry in the crack that a dictionary is useless to the modern student because he doesn't know how to spell. But it's no joke that a well-rounded education consists in knowing where to look things up, how to find the answers. There is an answer to practically every question under the sun, the product of many minds down through the ages, set down in a book. Getting to it can be very simple if you know how.

There is, however, this big difference: You can replace an industrial plant, but once oil goes it is gone forever. You've heard that expression before: depreciation allowances. You usually hear it in connection with oil production. Some of the loudest howls over the depreciation allowance for oil companies come from non-petroleum manufacturers. A certain clique in Congress has held it up as wicked, unjustifiable and outrageous. It is good to remind them that half of the huge $20 billion plant expansion program this year is coming from depreciation allowances—only as applied to the oil industry it is called depletion allowance.

Dulles Now Has Chance To Pull The Rug From Under Appeasers

HONG KONG - The traveler leaving Hong Kong for Saigon is also leaving the immediate area of Chinese Communist pressure in Asia for the area that is probably next in line. This is a good time to take stock in a preliminary way, of American policy in the Far East. But it may as well be said that the results are both melancholy and shocking. Item by item, as one goes down the list of activities that pass for American policy here, one finds that the goods in the stockroom are not as represented at home, or simply are not there at all. A firm that carried on its business with such a stockroom would have trouble with the law.

The failure to inform the country of this vast shift in the Asian power balance that now lies visibly ahead is, of course, the biggest fraud of all. Gigantic upheavals in the power balance simply do not happen without bringing in their train equally gigantic consequences. Surely this is a lesson we might have learned by now, since it is only four years since the Soviets promptly and instinctively responded to the Truman-Johnson program of American disarmament by launching the Korean aggression.

Moses Learned Views Of King

After relating that a princess of Egypt found Moses in the midst of reeds, at the edge of the Nile River, the Bible account continues in this manner: "Then his sister said to Pharaoh's daughter, 'Shall I go and call you a nurse from the Hebrew women to nurse the child for you?'"

Of Egypt. According to this view, he could have become the ruler if he had so desired. If we knew the names of the rulers of Egypt while Moses was alive, we should have a closer idea of his life. Some scholars believe that he lived during the reigns of Ikhnaton (pronounced "ick-NAH-TON") Tutankhamen (or King Tut) and the second Ramesses.

Drama Over Harry Dexter White Charges Unfolding Like Any Playwright's Dream

WASHINGTON - The Eisenhower administration began its attack on former President Truman's handling of Harry Dexter White, who died five years ago, by questioning, if not his motives, at least his judgment. Now Truman's recollection, if not his truthfulness, is being challenged. Truman, in a manner typical of his early White House days, answered fast, shooting from the hip, when the attack began. "I don't recall that such a thing happened," he said. Now more cautious, as he was later in the presidency, he is replying to questions with "no comment."

Truman replied to this by saying it was and still is customary to let fired people resign from Washington jobs. It was not clear whether, after he found White was "wrong," Truman had an investigation made to learn what damage, if any, White might have caused the country. White's record is now being examined at the Treasury, where he worked most of his 14-year career in the government. Yesterday, in support of his charges, Brownell said the FBI reports on White had been sent not only to the White House but to some members of Truman's Cabinet, including James F. Byrnes, and some other high officials.

Byrnes said he was surprised. Between the first and second FBI reports Truman had nominated White to the monetary fund job, which required Senate approval. In his statement Byrnes said he urged Truman to withdraw the nomination. But on that very day, Byrnes said, the Senate had approved White, not knowing about the FBI reports. Thus Byrnes was saying that Truman knew in February 1946 about the FBI report on White, whereas Truman has said as soon as he learned White was "wrong," he fired him, which was not until 1947.

There Is No Farm Problem That End Of Drought Wouldn't Cure

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald-Editor's Note.

The politicians, meaning those who make their living, or have it made for them, by nursing at the public teat, appear to be approaching this alleged farm problem more from the angle of what is good for the politicians (themselves) than from the angle of what is good for the farmer. Personally I can't help but believe that if these politicians could be muffled, and the drought could be broken that there wouldn't be any so-called farm problem, anyway. I can't help but believe that what is called a farm problem is in reality a "politician's problem" or how to be re-elected, and to stay on the public teat, instead of getting out and making an honest living in the competitive world of industry, business and professionalism.

Anything that Secretary of Agriculture Benson proposes to do, or actually does, is wholly and immediately wrong in the eyes of certain very loquacious characters whose families are being fed and clothed and housed by tax money. Some of these men have not, themselves, made a single constructive suggestion as to how the situation could be improved, if it needs improvement, except to propose that the same taxpayers who support them also support the farmers, even those among the farmers who are total misfits on the farm and who should be behind a ribbon counter or tending a moonshine still.

Last year an undersecretary of the U. S. Department of Agriculture came to Texas with what he announced was a hay relief program for the farmers. Once he got the floor and started speaking he turned that Abilene meeting into a political rally against Governor Allan Shivers. Reporters for the Abilene newspapers were told they could not attend that meeting, but a reporter for the Big Spring Daily Herald got in there and gave the world the story. This resulted in Governor Shivers calling a meeting himself and inviting the Washington firebrand to attend. The representative of the USDA responded by grabbing a handful of the nearest plane and flying back to the arms of Brannan.

A few days ago a representative of the Texas Department of Agriculture came to Big Spring to announce another hay program. By insinuation and innuendo he made a good campaign speech (1) against Benson, (2) in favor of the re-election of the present Texas state commissioner of agriculture, whose own father has said publicly that his boy is on the wrong track.

Last year at Abilene, when plinned down with specific questions, the gentleman from Washington had to admit he didn't know the answers. That performance was repeated here in Big Spring last week. Both men were sent out to make political hay, and not real hay. In both cases if the two speakers had not had the immediate advice, counsel and suggestions of PMA field workers, they would have been wholly lost. In both cases "hay" became a synonym for "politics" and in both cases nobody was fooled except the speakers themselves.

Such as that is the real sum and substance of the so-called farm problem. Farmers and ranchers don't, themselves, ever realize just what bad shape they're in until some perennial candidate like Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma comes along and tells them. I have associated with a lot of farmers and ranchers in my day and time and I can tell them this—that 90 per cent of them, no matter how bad a shape they may be in, are better off than 50 per cent of the newspapermen, and if there is any man on earth that the politician will buy if he can, that man is the newspaperman. This political talk of an alleged farm problem is just an undercover effort to buy the farmer's vote to perpetuate some man, or group of men known as a party, in office. I have had countless farmers and ranchers frankly admit this to me. "But," they say, "if we don't get it somebody else will."

Thus the farm problem, so-called, becomes a crusade to "keep somebody else from getting it." Not so long ago a political organization with one Charles F. Brannan, discredited and deposed former Secretary of Agriculture as general counsel, inspired, (and maybe financed, I wouldn't know), a caravan of cattlemen to go to Washington to call on Secretary Benson and demand price supports for livestock. Benson heard them and then countered with this proposition, in substance and effect: All right. Now you bring me in a plan to make price supports work on livestock.

These politically-misguided cowmen then went into a huddle, talked the thing over and realized they were exactly where everybody else who has tried to answer the same question have found themselves—nowhere. Everybody admits that nobody has yet devised a practical, workable plan for price supports on livestock, and yet twice last week, in a meeting represented to be one to explain a new hay program, the gentlemen from the Texas State Department of Agriculture called for these same identical price supports!

That is your farm problem. Whenever you hear a politician express great and grave concern for the "poor farmer" or the "poor (Cadillac-toted) cowboy" just ask yourself how much of that concern might be over the next election instead of the next cotton crop?

Just ask yourself how much "farm problem" might be left if all partisan politics are taken out of all consideration of it. Perhaps the farmers are not getting as much money as they would like to have, neither are 90 per cent of the newspapermen, and I am mighty proud of my profession when I realize how few men in the newspaper field have ever been guilty of sacrificing their mission in life to a political subsidy. We would laugh at a politician who would start crying over us and the politicians know it.

Perhaps the farmers aren't doing as well as the railroad workers, factory workers and other industrial workers—but are they consistently putting in as much work? These workers have established themselves through organization, and this brings to me the thought that if there is such a thing as a "farm problem" the farmers themselves have it within their power to solve that problem and they can do it through organization, and in no other way.

I would suggest a membership in their respective County Farm Bureau and through it their affiliation with the American Farm Bureau Federation. The politicians won't even try to fool Allan Kline and his associates, as they try to pull the wool over the eyes of the individual farmers and ranchers.

We Must Not Accept Marxian Doctrine To Fight Espionage

The position of the Defense Department on the question of security is that if there is a doubt concerning an individual, the doubt should be resolved for the benefit of the United States. In a word, the armed forces prefer that its personnel be free from suspicion. So many instances of espionage and subversion have been proved that they do not want to take any chances.

While this position is obviously correct, the question does arise as to how far the formula may be applied to relationships. For instance, if a man is married to a Communist woman, he cannot be without taint because a party member will not marry or remain married to an opponent. In primitive jurisprudence, once a crime was committed, someone had to assume responsibility for it. Therefore, if a father committed the crime, his son could be held for it even if he knew nothing about it.

The Christian doctrine, upon which our law is based, is that each individual stands alone in the sight of God and the law; he alone is responsible for his conduct and he alone may be punished for it. The concept of collective punishment is rejected in our civilization and Western European law has been written accordingly. Sir Henry Sumner Maine, in his classic, "Ancient Law," said:

"... The contrast may be most forcibly expressed by saying that the unit of an ancient society was the family, of a modern society the individual."

Here we have a conflict between Marxian and Christianity. Lenin demanded that Communists devote all the days of their lives to the movement. They may not marry unacceptable persons. They may have no social relations with those who are not Communists or even with those who have been purged. If a man is a party member, the assumption is that his wife also belongs or is acceptable to the party. The development of western civilization has been in the direction of tolerance for differences. While intermarriage is not generally welcomed, social intercourse among those of differing religions is not resisted.

The need for greater security in the United States is unquestioned. Russian spies and agents, infiltrating every institution of American life, have caused great havoc. But nothing they have done can be as destructive of American life as the acceptance of Marxian doctrine and Marxian methods in order to destroy Russian espionage. Human beings are what they believe, and if our beliefs become Marxian, we shall lose our civilization, the roots of which are in the natural law—the revealed law of God to man.

A friend of mine in China was jailed because his female secretary committed suicide in his office. The court held that she would not have committed suicide if there were no reason for it, and as she did it in his office, she pointed a finger at the cause. There was no other evidence, but he was found guilty.

One of the difficulties encountered in the United States in any stand for objective justice is that often when one speaks out against what seems to be an injustice to an individual, that individual subsequently turns up during an investigation as a spy or a subversive and protects himself by the Fifth Amendment. He blows up in the faces of his defenders. It is a frustrating experience but it ought not to deter one from justice.

National Eyes Upon California Special Vote For House Member

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The final congressional election of the year drew nationwide attention today to the 24th California District, where a Democratic victory would reduce the Republican House majority to two representatives.

The registrar of voters has forecast a 40 per cent turnout, or about 66,000 votes, in the special election.

In their campaign, Republican forces emphasized that success for them would constitute a vote of confidence in the Eisenhower administration.

The Democrats, steamed up by recent triumphs in Wisconsin and New Jersey, have indicated that they would regard a victory as a definite straw in the political wind.

The House lineup at present is 218 Republicans, 215 Democrats, 1 Independent and 1 vacancy—the seat which will be filled today.

Two Democrats and two Republicans are in the local race, and the one who polls the most votes will win. There will be no runoff.

The seat at stake is the one relinquished by Norris Poulson, Republican, when he was elected mayor of Los Angeles.

Republicans have given their official endorsement to Glenard P. Lipscomb and the Democratic party organization is backing George Arnold. But also in the race are John L. E. Collier, Republican, and

Nine Soldiers Hurt As Truck Plows In

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 10 (AP)—Nine soldiers from a platoon bound for European duty were injured early today when a pickup truck plowed into their formation as they were marching on the highway bordering the airport here.

All were hospitalized. The seriousness of their injuries was not immediately determined.

They were among 66 soldiers marching to an all-night cafe near the airport.

The truck hit them from the rear. Robert Holloway, 25, of Des Moines, the truck driver, told highway patrolmen he struck the first soldier "before I knew they were there." The soldiers were wearing dark uniforms, he said.

Farmers Told Not To Expect 'Any Panacea'

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Asst. Secretary of Agriculture John H. Davis told farmers yesterday not to expect any farm program panacea to be offered in Congress next January.

Any new national program, the secretary told the 35th convention of the California Farm Bureau Federation, must be developed gradually, by evolution and commodity by commodity.

"You shouldn't get any idea that this next January the administration will come up with a brand new farm program," Davis said.

Immigrants Learn Beating Of Wives Not Legal In U. S.

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — It took a trip to City Court for two Russian immigrants yesterday to learn the difference between old-country traditions and American laws.

Ivan Sorokin, 30, who came to Elkhart from the Ukraine two years ago, was charged with beating his wife. In the Ukraine, he said, it's a husband's duty to enforce home discipline.

Nick Borzilatow, 22, Goshen, Ind., charged with giving beer to two teen-agers, said Russians give beer and wine to their children.

Judge William R. Nicholson continued their cases indefinitely to give them a chance to abide by his quick briefing on American laws.

New Polio Vaccine Shows Promise In First Tests

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—A new polio vaccine, made with aid of sun-tan rays, shows promise in its first human tests, Chicago scientists reported today.

This vaccine uses polio virus inactivated or "killed" by exposure to ultraviolet light or sun-tan rays for two seconds.

It thus differs from the famous vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh. The Salk vaccine, scheduled for mass human tests soon, inactivates the viruses with formaldehyde.

The sun-tan vaccine produced antibodies against all three types of polio virus in most of 30 human volunteers, Doctors Albert Miller, Sidney O. Levinson and H. J. Shaughnessy of Michael Reese Research Foundation and Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago, told the American Public Health Assn. at its annual meeting.

The 30 included a few persons who before vaccination had no detectable antibodies against one or more of the types of virus. Usually, the vaccine brought a four-fold increase in antibodies any of the volunteers had from previous unknown exposure to polio.

The key to a safe vaccine is to render the polio virus powerless to cause sickness but still keep some of its power to make a human produce antibodies against the virus.

The Chicago team said they believed sun-tan irradiation of the viruses offers a promising method of doing this.

They expressed belief their vaccine still has only a minimal ability to stimulate antibodies. Efforts should be made to step it up either by better methods of growing virus or by concentration of virus.

Their next tests will be upon children and infants who are found not to have any antibodies against any type of virus.

Critical safety tests were made on monkeys to make certain that the virus had been rendered harmless for infection.

U. S. Fact-Finders Find Bolivian Stay Enlivened By Revolt

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—A U.S. Congressional fact-finding mission, its visit enlivened by an abortive revolt against the government of President Victor Paz Estenssoro, went back today to routine studies of Bolivian economic problems.

The American lawmakers, headed by Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), were in La Paz yesterday when government forces crushed an uprising which the government said was staged by members of the Bolivian Socialist Falange (FSB), a Nationalist group.

Thirteen persons were reported killed and at least 29 injured in the fighting. The rebels captured the big city of Cochabamba, 140 miles southeast of here, and held it for some time before they were driven off.

British Carrier Has Engine Room Flooded In Mishap

DEVENPORT, England (AP)—The 26,000-ton British aircraft carrier Indefatigable, whose radar power cables were mysteriously cut last month, now has been accidentally flooded 15 deep in her engine room, the Admiralty disclosed last night.

Damage was described as extensive.

An Admiralty spokesman told reporters "it was the result of a genuine mishap. The water came in through a valve which is opened in case of fire. It may not have been closed after a recent fire drill."

The Indefatigable put in here for repairs last month. The electrical cables incident still is under investigation.

Gary Cooper, Wife Appear Reconciled

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gary Cooper has returned to his family home after a long stay in Europe and friends say there are indications that he and his wife Rocky have reconciled.

The Coopers had been separated for more than a year. Friends said Mrs. Cooper told them yesterday that her husband's return could be interpreted "as they wish."

Pheasant Dinner Was Priced High At $250

MT. PLEASANT, Mich. (AP)—Norman Dawson ate a $250 pheasant dinner last night.

The bird turned up in downtown Mt. Pleasant, swerved to avoid a car and crashed through the plate glass window of the supermarket Dawson manages. The $10-a-cock pheasant was killed.

He will ask you to buy a broom. The proceeds go to the blind of Big Spring.

In Demand At Offices

Gene Thomas, (right), owner and manager of the Thomas Typewriter and Office Supply, shown here with two employees of the store, Mr. and Mrs. Don Anderson, displays two office machines—a Royal typewriter and an adding machine—which are very much in demand in the business world.

Thomas Store Suggests Royal As Yule Gift

With Christmas only a few weeks ahead, the wise parent can end the problem of trying to decide on the right gift for that son or daughter by purchasing one of the Royal typewriters on sale at the Thomas Typewriter and Office Supply, located at 107 Main Street.

The new Royal HH standard machine boasts features never before offered on any machine. It has, among other things, the palm tabulator, which speeds up the operation of typing, has equal and plus signs on the keyboard and other features.

The student finds it a willing and efficient servant in preparing his home work. Other models of Royal machines, from portables to electric typewriters, are also available at the Thomas Typewriter and Office Supply.

Typewriters with elite and plea type can be supplied immediately by the Thomas store. Those ordering century type, used principally in law and public offices, can have them delivered in less than a week.

The idea of giving adding machines is also catching on throughout the country, especially with wives whose husbands are in business.

Olivetti, Precias, Remington and R. C. Allen adding machines are all stocked by the Thomas store. The Olivetti electric machine, made in Italy, divides, multiplies and prints proofs on everything it carries. It can add up to 11 columns of figures.

Gilliland's Christmas Gift Ideas Numerous

Before doing your Christmas shopping, consider what is offered at the Gilliland Sewing Machine Exchange, 112 East Second.

Of course, the No. 1 Christmas gift for the homemaker is the Necchi sewing machine, which does everything from plainstitch to monogram and buttonhole, automatically. Or there is the Elna, precision-built Swiss portable sewing machine, also automatic.

But the world's leading sewing machines aren't the only gift suggestions you'll pick up at Gilliland's.

Right now, seamstresses at the Gilliland Sewing Machine Exchange are making a variety of items suitable for Yule giving. Monogrammed pillow cases, aprons, dresser scarves, etc., made on the famous Necchi machine, may be inspected at the Gilliland establishment. A. F. Gilliland says he will have a few of the articles for sale this Christmas season.

Of course, the housewife who owns a Necchi sewing machine can make her own Christmas gifts, making at the same time a considerable saving in funds which otherwise would be expended for presents.

And if the homemaker has a new machine in mind, the savings it will afford during the Christmas season will go a long way toward purchase of the machine, Gilliland points out.

The Necchi is America's first and most famous fully-automatic sewing machine. It performs all sewing operations without the necessity of having attachments and other troublesome devices installed. Simply push a little lever, even when the machine is in operation, and it shifts from plain stitching to monogramming, embroidery or a variety of other operations.

The Necchi cabinet is available in a variety of styles, including the popular desk model which serves a dual purpose and resembles a desk when in the "closed" position. All of the machines make attractive additions to the furnishings of any home.

The Elna, noiseless, compact and efficient, is available only in the portable model. Gilliland also is distributor here for the Domestic sewing machine, another popular line of equipment.

In addition to distribution of the three makes of sewing machines, Gilliland is engaged in sewing machine repair and service. He is qualified and equipped to repair or service any make or model of machine and maintains a large stock of parts for the various types.

Operated in conjunction with the sewing machine sales and service agency is the Alteration Shop, specializing in all types of needlework.

Phillips Tire Co. Has Anti-Freeze Supply On Hand

The Phillips Tire Company, located at Fourth and Johnson Streets in Big Spring, has on hand plenty of Prestone anti-freeze for its customers.

Personnel of the concern will install the anti-freeze in any vehicle upon purchase throughout the month of November. The total cost amounts to $3.25, which is the price of the liquid itself.

The coldest weather of the winter season is just ahead. Motorists should prepare for it by installing the Prestone now.

For commercial accounts, employees of the Phillips Tire Company will install Prestone for $2.95 in case lots. A sizable saving can result, where a business concern uses a large number of vehicles.

Registration for the set of free tires, which will be given away at Phillips Tire Company at 3 p.m. Nov. 28, is now going on at the Phillips concern.

Persons registering are not required to purchase anything. Ted Phillips, owner and operator of the concern bearing his name, emphasized.

An entire set of US Royal Air-Ride white sidewall tires, of course, will be supplied to fit any make or model of automobile.

Phillips is also the headquarters for tire recapping service and tailor-made seat covers.

Marlene Dietrich Keeps Playing Same Sort Of Role Successfully

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—In 1930, a woman named Marlene Dietrich became a film star overnight playing the role of Lolo-Lola, a sultry night club singer in a German-made film, "The Blue Angel." With minor changes, she has been playing the same role ever since. She ignores television. She has never been in a Broadway show. She hasn't even made a movie for a couple of years.

Yet in spite of the peculiar limitations of her career, Miss Dietrich has steadily grown into a legend of glamour, a valuable theatrical property and a personality endowed with intriguing overtones of romance and adventure somewhat at odds with the facts of her life.

Right now, the hard-working Miss Dietrich is adding some new strings to her bow. On Dec. 15 she will start a three-week engagement in Las Vegas at a reputed $20,000 a week. She has authored a piece—without the help of a ghost, she vows—called "How to Be Loved," for a woman's magazine. And she is busily engaged on a book, still untitled, due at her publisher's in April.

"The magazine article," she says soberly, "is quite specific. I cannot say anything about the book except that it is not an autobiography."

"I find I like to write, and that it comes rather easily. It is not hard to write something when you know what you want to say. It is very satisfactory."

Even before Miss Dietrich took to the typewriter, she was not exactly a creature of elegant leisure. She's a veteran radio star—playing a night club entertainer, of course. Currently, she is Diane la Volte (her own choice of name) once a week in a series called "Time for Love." She plays a singer of husky songs in a different world capital of intrigue each week. On the side she gets involved in gem stealing, smuggling, homicides and other radio crime adventures.

A Dietrich who is heard but not seen is a dreadful waste, some say. It isn't that she's such a great actress. Some of her most ardent admirers concede she's scarcely an actress at all—not in the Shirley Booth-Helen Hayes sense of the word. But there's a quality about Miss Dietrich fascinating to watch. People often get rhapsodic talking about the face, form and strangely moving voice of this agelessly beautiful woman.

Obviously she is one of the few women alive possessing an indestructible glamor in an era when the word is applied to everything from filter cigarettes to traveling bags. Her formula is secret, but the compound consists of such elements as indifference, aloofness, elegance, chic, combined with a hint of intimacy and banked fires, poise, a dash of arrogance and a suggestion of boredom.

She has a spectacular slim figure, legs as famous as Mistinguette's and more shapely, and good bones which make her a photographer's delight.

She is remarkable in another way too: a great beauty who takes no particular pains to hide the fact she was born uncomfortably close to the turn of the century. She is maternally boastful about the TV success of her pretty blonde daughter, Maria Riva. She's the doting grandmother of two small boys—and bored stiff with talk about being a "glamorous grandmother."

All in all, Marlene Dietrich is a complex, many-sided woman.

There's more to the domestic side of the lady. She has been married but once—to Rudolf Sieber in 1924 when he was an assistant casting director and she a neophyte movie actress in Berlin. Their daughter was born a year later.

Through the years, Miss Dietrich has had many a male escort and has been reported interested in any number of well-known and attractive men. But her marriage has never been dissolved. She consults frequently with Sieber today and apparently they have worked out a very satisfactory relationship, although they live apart. Not long ago a business acquaintance called at Miss Dietrich's apartment found Sieber busily helping his wife hang draperies in her living room.

She has quite a reputation as a cook—"all sorts of dishes," she says casually—but admits she often settles for sandwiches and coffee. Her taste is reflected in her handsome apartment, which she decorated herself with a professional's feeling for color and style.

The owner of a Third avenue antique shop, where she is a customer, declared: "She knows period furniture, and she knows art. When she spots something good, she looks it over with an expert eye. I've seen her sit right down on the floor to inspect a piece."

Her living room walls are lined with paintings—a Degas, Utrillo and Renoir among them. One end of the room is bookshelves, filled with the books of a reader, not a decorator with an eye for effect.

Prominently displayed is an affectionately inscribed picture of Ernest Hemingway, who last year was quoted as saying he valued her opinion of a manuscript higher than that of a professional critic.

Business associates in films and radio describe her as a hard-working perfectionist with a feeling for fitness and detail. She hires the cast for her radio show; rents the recording studio, pays the bills and works closely with her writers.

"I think I'm a pretty good executive," she said, "but I'm not very good about money, perhaps a little thoughtless."

The Dietrich a stranger meets is a reserved and almost monosyllabic woman. Apparently at ease, she has an air of polite but definite withdrawal. She smokes a lot, and answers questions patiently, as though being interviewed were a duty.

She smiles when asked to define glamor.

"How can you put it in words?" she said with a shrug. "If you know how you want to look, you just work to look that way . . ."
