

Traffic Control At Close Range

A T-33 jet training plane (in background) settles over a Webb AFB runway while observers in a mobile control unit, left, look on. Standing by at right are a fire engine and an ambulance. The mobile control unit, which operates near runways in use, and the emergency crash units constitute one of the many flying safety facilities at Webb.

Mobile Control Unit Serves As Training Traffic Coordinator

This is the last in a series of six articles on how the Air Force looks after safety of its men and equipment.—Ed.

When training flights are in progress, major runways at Webb Air Force base look like main street during the rush hour.

Jets and propeller driven airplanes zip in and out in a constant stream. Upon first glance you head probably will whirl in confusion. But stand out there and observe it for a few moments and you suddenly realize there is a well coordinated pattern.

The nerve center of this coordination is an ordinary looking land vehicle with a glass enclosed compartment parked near the runway being used by the trainees.

This is headquarters for the runways traffic cop, known to the Air Force as a mobile control unit. All first class airports, commercial and military, have their permanent control installations, and there is one at Webb.

However, the permanent facilities for controlling the incoming and outgoing air traffic are located at the edge of the field. At Webb, the traffic is directed from closer range during training operations because it promotes safety and speeds up the program. With the mobile unit there will be a fire engine and an ambulance, which, on more than one occasion, have kept minor accidents from graduating into the "major class."

The man in charge of the mobile control unit must be a flight commander, and he must have some experience in traffic control before he takes over. Experience counts heavily.

He can detect discrepancies and correct them via radio when a group of planes head for the runway. If one plane appears to be too close to another, the man in the control unit usually can tell it before they reach the runway and he can send one to circle the field again.

"These men can anticipate many problems and they actually prevent many accidents," said Capt. Thomas D. Alexander of the Webb flying safety office.

However, the mobile control unit is just one of the facilities that have been built to promote safety at Webb. The runways themselves were designed with safety in mind. Jet planes need a lot of space for taking off and landing. They gain speed gradually when taking off, but land at high speed. At Webb, the T-33 jet trainers land and take off on a runway about two miles long.

Needless to say, this probably saves a lot of air planes. Student pilots who are just learning to get the feel of the fast jets may not always be able to set their planes down at the right spot for landing in a minimum of runway space. But with two miles of pavement at their disposal they can maintain a safe margin while learning.

Then there are facilities in the planes themselves that are designed primarily for the safety of the pilot. Maybe you have noticed those streamlined cylinders on the tip of each wing of the T-33 jet. Those are fuel tanks, and if it becomes necessary, the pilot can drop them by pressing a button. Then, if the pilot himself needs to bail out, he does it by twisting a simple lever.

There have been recent improvements in the system, both for dropping tip tanks and bailing out pilots. It was noted that on some occasions tip tanks rolled into the tail assembly of the plane when they were dislodged. Now they are installed with compressed coil springs which thrust them clear of the plane.

A new system for bailing out pilots sends the pilot and his chair through the canopy under force from a 37mm explosive charge. Previously, the pilot pulled one lever to "blow off" the canopy, and then yanked another to send himself hurtling from the plane.

The crash crews, of course, are on the alert constantly when training flights are being made. Normally there are crews stationed at three positions up and down the runway, including one crew at the mobile control unit.

There are even facilities for finding lost pilots. This is done by taking radio bearings on the plane. All the pilot has to do is keep talk-

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration's best hope for the fiscal 1955 budget is a deficit of three to four billion dollars—attainable only if federal spending can be cut nearly six billions from the present rate.

A high administration official gave this estimate to reporters yesterday. He said that obviously a big part of any six-billion saving would have to come from national security spending, and is not yet in sight. He also said any such saving would be effected only if it could be done without impairing the national security.

His forecast assumed also that Congress will heed President Eisenhower's request for extension of present high corporate and excise tax rates beyond next April 1, when they are due for automatic reduction.

The informant, who stipulated that his name should not be used, gave these further forecasts:

1. The "cash budget" probably classifies as government income social security contributions, which exceed four billion dollars a year. The conventional budget does not, since they go into a special trust fund.

2. The administration will ask ing on his radio long enough for bearings to be plotted from two or three ground positions. Then the pilot where he is and how to get back home.

The Air Force attaches a lot of importance to its pilots and air planes. That's why it concentrates on a brand of safety that comes naturally.

that the present 1 1/2 per cent rate of social security tax be extended for a year. The rate is due to go to 2 per cent on Jan. 1, before

Don Jose Doesn't Stab Carmen But She Dies Anyway

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Jose failed to stab Carmen in the New York City Opera Company's opera "Carmen" last night but she "died" as the curtain was lowered.

David Poleri, in the role of Don Jose, walked off the stage as the opera neared the climax in the last scene of the last act. He appeared angry as he threw his hat and cape on the stage floor.

Nearing the stage exit, Poleri told conductor Joseph Rosentock: "You can finish the opera yourself."

Carmen, played by Gloria Lane, carried through alone in the final death scene and collapsed on the stage floor.

There were no curtain calls. The audience at the Civic Opera House appeared perplexed at the unusual ending.

There was no comment immediately from any of the principals or the company.

Recession Talk Hit

HOUSTON (AP)—The president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers called talk of a business recession mainly "bunk" here yesterday. Charles Slight Jr., said yesterday "I think the present dip we're having is pretty much in the minds of the people and in newspaper headlines."

Congress convenes, but some adjustment could be made to refund any money collected at that rate.

3. The administration definitely will renew its request, rejected by Congress last summer, for an increase in the national debt ceiling from 275 billion dollars to 290 billion dollars.

There is not the slightest doubt, the official said, that the ceiling will have to be raised sooner or later.

This whole picture, an authoritative reflection of current tax-hiking at the Treasury Department, does not conflict with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's recent forecast of an eight to nine billion dollar deficit in the 1955 fiscal year starting next July 1.

Humphrey specified, in offering that estimate, that it did not take into account savings he said would be made.

If the savings are as substantial as top officials now hope, this is the picture which President Eisenhower will present to Congress in his budget message early in January:

Spending—68 or 67 billion dollars, compared to a 72-billion-dollar outlay scheduled for the current fiscal year.

Income—About 63 billion dollars, as against more than 68 billion dollars this year.

Deficit—Approximately 3 1/2 billion dollars, or just about the same as this year's estimate of $3,800,000,000.

Compassion for a Needy World

CHRIST AND ANCIENT HEBREW LAWS WERE CONSIDERED FOR THE POOR AND STRANGERS.

Scripture—Leviticus 19:9-10; Deuteronomy 10:18-19; Ruth 2:1-16; Matthew 9:35-36; Mark 1:1-5; John 6:1-13.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. IN OUR WORLD there are so many destitute and hungry people; so many strangers in lands foreign to them, that our lesson is particularly appropriate.

Hardly a day passes that we are not appealed to for help for needy persons in far-off places. Every Christian church is collecting parcels of food and clothing to send to these hapless persons, and many civic organizations are doing the same.

Still others are sending modern machines to undeveloped or backward countries with experts to show the workers in those lands how to use the machines to more fully develop their natural resources, and health brigades are fighting disease all over the world.

Teachers will find ample materials in this lesson for all the grades in the Sunday school. Many of the children have schoolmates who have come from other countries, some not able to speak our language, or speaking it haltingly. Their attitude toward these little strangers can make a tremendous difference to them.

In the ancient Hebrew laws laid down in Leviticus we find these instructions: "And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest.

Boas asked her name, and being told who she was, he told her to stay close to the others, to eat with them, and that he had told his young men not to touch her, and he also told them to leave extra gleanings for her. Ruth said, "thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken kindly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto one of thine handmaidens."

Matthew tells us about Jesus going about to all the cities and villages, teaching in the synagogues and preaching the gospel, also healing the sick and diseased. "But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd."

Also included in our lesson is the Olivet discourse, where Jesus gives a picture of the judgment of living nations on earth. The disappointment or commendation had to do with those who had or had not fed the hungry, visited the sick and those in prison, and clothed the naked.

At the home of Simon Peter and Andrew, after Jesus had cured Simon's wife's mother of a fever, multitudes who heard of it brought their sick and those possessed with evil spirits to the house to have the Master cure them.

"And He healed many that were sick of divers diseases, and cast out many devils." Another instance of the Lord's compassion is told us by St. Mark. Hearing of all the miracles done by the Lord, great multitudes followed Him wherever He went.

Often they stayed with Him for long periods. Once when this happened, Jesus called His disciples to Him and said: "I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with Me three days, and have nothing to eat: And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will faint by the way: for divers of them came from far."

The disciples said they had not enough food to feed so many, but Jesus asked how much they had, and they said seven loaves and a few small fishes. He told the multitude to sit down on the ground, and He took the food, gave thanks for it, and fed them bountifully, with much to spare.

Forgetting our own problems, let us have compassion—as Jesus Christ had—for all who are less fortunate than ourselves, and help them in every possible way. Feed the hungry, as He did, clothe the naked, and visit the sick and bereaved. Make the strangers in our midst feel warmly welcome, and thus help, even in small ways, to make this troubled world a better place to live in.

Part of the always delightful story of Ruth, the Moabitess who loved her mother-in-law so much that she refused to leave her when both became widows, but accompanied her to Bethlehem, Naomi's home. To help to support the two, Ruth desired to go into a field and glean after the rapsara. Naomi gave her consent, and she went to the field of Boaz, a rich relative of Naomi's husband, Abimelech.

Senator Gillette To Tour Near East

WASHINGTON (U.S. Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) said today he plans an early tour of the Near East to check on prospects for rehabilitating displaced Arabs now supported by United Nations funds.

Gillette will make the tour for a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Near East problems which reported last July 24 that unless the rehabilitation program was stepped up "Congress would not be justified in continuing aid for this program."

That report estimated 800,000 Arab refugees who fled from Palestine during the fighting in 1948 were housed in refugee camps. It added that after five years of effort and the expenditure of more than 100 million dollars, "virtually no progress" had been made toward resettling and rehabilitating the refugees.

"Be Thankful for Plenty" was the title of a sermon we heard many years ago. And we'll never forget how the preacher defined "plenty."

"If you have everything that money can buy, all the necessities and all the luxuries of life—and you don't have a Bible you can read and understand—then you've nothing to be thankful for! You're in want!

"But if God has given you just enough of this world's goods for you to live from day to day—and you've a Bible you turn to every day—then be thankful! You have plenty!"

We can cherish that homely bit of inspiration. It sums up the kind of Thanksgiving our forefathers believed in . . . the kind of Thanksgiving that millions of us will celebrate this week in Church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship—strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Solon Sees Change In T-H Act Unlikely In Next Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Barden (D-N.C.) said today he expects the next session of Congress to produce political storms which will greatly lessen prospects for revising the Taft-Hartley labor-management law.

"The time for operating on that patient," he said in an interview, "was when there was little heat, excitement and confusion."

And Barden, who is the senior Democrat on the House Labor Committee, predicted there will be plenty of excitement in Congress with elections coming up next year.

He said he would not hazard a guess on whether the administration will be able to make good on President Eisenhower's recent renewed pledge to overhaul the Taft-Hartley Act.

Barden said he wasn't disappointed by failure of Congress to act on suggested changes in the law last spring or summer. But he indicated he had expected the administration would push for congressional action.

"I didn't know we were going to hold these lengthy hearings, let everybody and his brother come up and testify, and then just 'whisk' it off the board," Barden said.

Barden said the labor-management problem is so many-sided that it is impossible for members to steer a safe political course through it.

Hugs, Kisses Wipe Out P-TA Vote Fuss

By DAVE CHEAVENS
SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Hugs and kisses and standing pledges of cooperation last night wiped out a history-making election fuss in the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The balloting gave Mrs. Leon Price of Dallas a whopping five-to-one victory over Mrs. C. R. Larimer of Houston for the presidency.

But after the battle of ballots was over, Mrs. Larimer came to the platform and embraced the pet, brown-eyed grandmother who will lead Texas' 450,000 P-TA members during the next three years.

Included in the love feast at the rostrum before 3,000 delegates at Municipal Auditorium was the outgoing president, Mrs. H. G. Stintne of Plainview. She was showered with gifts and praise for her administration. One of the gifts was a huge silver punchbowl presented on behalf of the P-TA board of managers by Mrs. Larimer.

As the new officers were installed, the audience, including many of Mrs. Larimer's backers, Martin succeeds C. H. DeVaney of Coahoma, recently re-elected vice president of the Texas Farm Bureau who is devoting full time to the activities of that organization.

Max Fitzhugh, secretary-treasurer of the Big Spring National Farm Loan Association, reports the association's total assets at $146,903.23, of which $90,000 is invested in government securities.

The total income for the fiscal year ending Nov. 1, was $21,590.24, which leaves a net operating income of $14,432.15 after deducting a total operating expense for the year of $7,138.09. During the year the association paid dividends of $4,699.50.

There are 245 loans for a total of $709,556.86 now in effect. Thirty-two of these, for $191,000 were negotiated during the fiscal year.

Glasscock County 4-H Achievement Program Planned

GARDEN CITY — The annual Glasscock County 4-H Club Achievement Day will be observed with a barbecue the evening of Dec. 3. It has been jointly announced by Mrs. Mildred Elland of Stanton, home demonstration agent, and Oliver Werst, county agricultural agent.

The announcement said the meat for the barbecue will be furnished by the boys in the Club while the 4-H girls will make the potato salad and prepare the other food. It has been tentatively planned to have the barbecue at the Garden City School at 7 p. m. Parents and a few guests will be invited.

It will be on this occasion that the year's award winners will be announced.

stood in a pledge of cooperation for the new administration.

The convention comes to a close at noon today.

Mrs. Price polled 3,213 votes to 608 for Mrs. Larimer. It was an overwhelming defeat for a South Texas P-TA faction that contended among other things that the convention's nominating committee "passed over" Mrs. Larimer for promotion from the first vice presidency of the organization.

Interest stirred up by the contest brought a vote turnout more than double the number usually cast.

Delegates warmly applauded a State Department official who assured the P-TA that the United Nations UNESCO does not advocate world government, does not undermine national loyalties, or otherwise enter into the domestic affairs of member nations.

He was Robert Murphy, acting deputy undersecretary of state. He quoted from the report of a presidential commission appointed to "determine if charges against it (UNESCO) were valid."

Among other things, Murphy said, the commission found there was no evidence of atheism or antireligious bias in UNESCO's work, and "UNESCO does not attempt to interfere in the American school system."

At a press conference Murphy said he understood there was considerable anti-United Nations feelings in some parts of Texas and he hoped to determine while here what the trouble might be.

Opposition to United Nations had been cited as one reason back of the candidacy of Mrs. Larimer. But she said she favored the U.N., which had been endorsed by the P-TA in Texas and nationally.

Vernon Pilot Given Flying Cross Honor

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Lt. William L. Sharpe, Vernon, has been decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross for action over Korea last July 10.

The award was made to Sharpe "for displaying exceptional courage and leadership" during an aerial flight over Korea. Sharpe was lead pilot of a flight of four F-84 Thunderjets last July 10 when the original target was obscured by clouds. Sharpe selected a bridge as an alternate target, inflicting maximum damage despite heavy enemy fire and unfavorable weather.

Sharpe was assigned to Lackland Air Force Base three weeks ago as an instructor in aerial warfare.

Yugoslavia Votes Sunday But Tito Is Sure To Win

By ALEX SINGLETON
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Communist-dominated Yugoslavia elects a new "Narodna Skupstina"—its People's Parliament—Sunday. The ballot will be secret but rigid rules make the election a one-party primary and assure President Tito's administration a whopping vote of confidence.

The countrywide balloting will be conducted under the new constitution. It bans antigovernment candidates and restricts office-seekers to members of the "Socialist Alliance of the Working Peoples." But it does permit alliance members to contest for individual seats.

A voter also can mark out all the candidates to show disapproval.

The pre-election campaign has been overshadowed by the bitter feud between Yugoslavia and Italy over future control of the Trieste territory. The dispute flared after the British-American decision Oct. 8 to turn the territory's Zone A over to Italy.

Yugoslavia, which already controls Zone B and, like Italy, claims the entire territory, threatened to march its forces into Zone A if Italian troops set foot in the area. The international quarrel has served to strengthen Tito's position by largely obscuring such domestic problems as widespread discontent over inadequate housing, church-state differences and peasant farming.

The voters will choose 353 members to the Federal Council, roughly comparable to the U.S. House of Representatives. The rigidity of the election rules is perhaps best demonstrated by the fact that there are only a score more candidates than seats available.

The 202 members of Parliament's second house, the Council of Producers, are being elected separately by workers "directly engaged in production." These include those in state enterprises turning out textiles and machinery and farmers who are members of state collectives.

The work of the Producers Council is largely confined to state finances.

This is Yugoslavia's third post-war election.

What Do You Think?

The following is a reprint of Lynn Landrum's column, "Thinking Out Loud," in the Houston Chronicle-Herald of November 15, and published by permission of the author:

I said it's all a lie; I never saw this White Report from FBI— "Tis what I said last night.

Today I want to say: I saw the thing and fired The man the seismage day I found out whom we'd hired.

On second thought, I see I didn't fire the guy; I kept him on to be A stooge for FBI.

It's true that Hoover had forewarned me days before; And so we kept the lad To get us warned some more.

We like those warnings so We just promoted White, And praised his work to show How great was our delight.

And so it's all a lie! A dead man told me to Assist the FBI! (I wipe my eyes with you.)

REPORT
The column doesn't believe Judge Samuel Rosenman wrote the Truman speech. Nobody but Truman could have done it. The radio-television appearance leaves the record of the Truman defense thus:

1. It is a lie.
2. I never saw the FBI report.
3. I saw it and fired White.
4. I wrote him complimentary letters; but we do it that way sometimes.
5. I saw it, but it was too late to do anything about it.
6. I got the warning from FBI and kept White so FBI could investigate and warn me some more.
7. I acted on the advice of Fred Vinson and Fred Vinson is dead, so who would bring a dead man's name into this?
8. I promoted Harry Dexter White to keep him from doing any harm.
9. I could have promoted him still higher, but when we got through being secret about it, he was separated from the service.
10. He separated himself from the service by resigning but I knew he was bad and was watching him.
11. When he resigned I sent him a tender letter of high praise for the good work he had done.

President Truman to White, March 31, 1947. — "Dear Mr. White: With sincere respect and considerable reluctance I accept your resignation as United States Executive Director of the International Monetary Fund, effective on Mr. Gutt's return from Europe. . . . You have filled with distinction your present assignment as United States representative on the board of directors of the International Monetary Fund, and your unflinching efforts have been a source of pride to us. I wish you the best of luck and feel free to call on me from time to time for assistance in dealing with the problems we will be continually facing in which your background and abilities make you peculiarly able to help us.

Ex-President Truman, Monday Night Broadcast. — "It is now evident that the present administration has fully embraced, for political advantage, McCarthyism. . . . This horrible cancer is eating the vitals of America and can destroy the great edifice of freedom."

Junior College Widening Its Services With A 'Field Day'

You will be doing yourself a favor to make a trip to Howard County Junior College Saturday, when that young institution presents its first Field Day. This has started out as an ambitious project, and, with some success, may turn into an annual affair.

Industrial displays will be offered, too, along with variety programs. In a manner of speaking, H.C.J.C.'s Field Day could be compared to our old Howard County Fair.

Washington Calling — Marquis Childs

The Answers Are Suggested To Question Of Brownell's Action

WASHINGTON — Where does it end? To that question about the ruckus raised over the charge against former President Truman brought by Herbert Brownell, Jr., one may suggest two quite different answers.

of essential measures postponed from the last session will be maddened if not actually torn apart. Other consequences are foreseeable. The FBI is bound to be drawn more and more into politics, its objectivity and therefore its usefulness impaired.

The first answer poses a bleak outlook for those who had hoped for a calm and constructive and more or less bipartisan approach to the big problems of foreign policy that are also related to domestic issues.

The larger consequences are even more damaging. American leadership is discredited. The democratic process is made to look impotent and even absurd. All this, is hardly necessary to add, suits the Communists down to the ground.

In this gloomy view — Gloomy, that is, to those who feel that a continuing Katzenbach act is hopelessly destructive — Brownell and chairman Leonard Hall of the Republican National Committee will conclude that more and bigger White cases will serve their purposes.

In the second and hopeful answer to where it all ends when the immediate session of the White case is allowed to die down. More responsible members of the Administration have for some time been aware of the dangerous backfire in the tactic used by Brownell.

But the material is ample. Each case, embellished with new details from the confidential files of the FBI, can be translated into sensational headlines. One of the sensations to be heated up again, according to report, is that of Judith Coplon who was tried on espionage charges growing out of her relationship with a Russian agent.

Speaking to the CIO convention in Cleveland, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles took of the need for a confident and united America if this country is to carry out a constructive foreign policy pushing back the tide of communism.

In an atmosphere continuously charged in this fashion it is hard to see how any practical cooperation could be achieved in Congress for the measures needing the support of Democrats as well as most Republicans if they are to pass. The halls of Senate and House will reverberate with the same angry charges and the same indignant responses. Under such circumstances the legislative program made up at the moment when spectacular television hearings were proclaiming to the world the charge of treason brought against a former President of the United States. The Brownell technique may win elections. No one can at this time give a positive answer on that score one way or another. But it will not win victories for the West in the prolonged and difficult contest with the Communist conspiracy.

Baby School Dropped

LOWELL, Mass. (AP)—"Baby carriage" legislation which would have allowed children under 4½ years to attend school has been killed by the School Committee on recommendation of Mayor Henry Boudry.

Children under that age would have been allowed to attend school if their parents obtained the consent of members of the school committee.

Strong opposition came from teachers who suggested they would be "nursesmaids" under the proposal.

The World Today — James Marlow

If White Were Alive, It Might Prove Difficult As Elsewhere To Convict Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Harry Dexter White were alive today the government would have as much trouble trying to prosecute him for spying as it has had with others—and for some of the same reasons.

Any prosecutor has a serious problem proving intent in espionage. So far as it is publicly known, Miss Bentley has produced no documents coming from White. There are, however, some papers identified as being in White's handwriting among the "Pumpkin Papers" which Chambers had kept in a pumpkin.

Very probably, judging from what Atty. Gen. Brownell told the Senate internal security subcommittee this week, some important evidence against those on the Bentley list was obtained by the FBI through tapping their telephones.

Not one of the 37 named by Miss Bentley has been brought to trial on a charge of spying. Yet, their alleged spying was in wartime and they could be tried any time afterwards if the government could make its case stand up in court.

White to convict him, it couldn't be used under present law. The government not only couldn't use wiretap evidence but it couldn't even use evidence it got through leads obtained by wiretapping.

To overcome two main obstacles to trying alleged spies—the law against wiretap evidence and the ease with which witnesses can refuse to testify against one another—Brownell asked Congress: To pass a law permitting use of wiretaps; and another allowing the attorney general to force certain witnesses, whom he wishes to use against others, to testify after he has promised they themselves won't be prosecuted.

Although Miss Bentley named 37 persons as part of an espionage ring, she did not claim to have received information directly from all of them. Even in a case where she had, and thus could testify as a direct witness, the government would probably be reluctant to start an espionage trial, carrying the death penalty, without the testimony of more witnesses.

If Brownell could get those two changes he might be able to bring to trial in 1954 some of the 37 persons named by Miss Bentley in 1945.

This Day In Texas

This is 172 acres on which stood the town of Georgetown was officially transferred on this day in 1848 to Williamson County.

Donor of the site of the county seat was George Washington Glasscock, from whom the town took its name.

Stewart started his career in St. Louis as a $15-a-month dry goods salesman. He went on to fame and fortune as perhaps history's most successful salesman of wet goods—bathing suits.

Millionaire's Wife Won't Let Him Buy Grid Team

NEW YORK (AP)—E. W. Stewart has never learned the Australian crawl.

"I'd just as soon not talk about my own swimming," he said wryly. "I can dog paddle—but at least I don't drown."

He figures he never will learn to swim well until they put swimming pools in airplanes, where he spends much of his time.

Stewart is a tall, athletic, sandy-haired man of 61 who looks 45 and has the energy and youthful look of 25.

"Too many people in this country are selling old age," he said. "I don't buy old age—and I don't try to sell it to myself."

"Hard work won't make you old or kill you. Worry does. But why worry, either, if you can work and have fun?"

Here is his theory on how to be successful today:

"You have to sell your employees now before you even start selling your customers. Give me satisfied employees and I'll put over any business."

Stewart rewards his 35-year employees—and their wives—with a free month-long vacation in Honolulu, has a company-paid pension plan, says he keeps salaries above those paid by competitors.

"I've given away—literally given away—part of my company to my employees," he said, "and sometimes threaten them by telling them they'll have to take it all."

"It doesn't make any difference who owns a corporation today—it's who runs it that's important."

Stewart is regarded as one of America's most astute promoters and salesmen, a reputation he earned on the idea of letting me buy a pro football team. That is what I really want in life. You know I used to play guard in high school."

That is the trouble with being a millionaire. Like any average Joe, you're still always got one more goal to go.

Backaches Costing The Nation A Painful $2-Million Per Year

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

Over in Kentucky the other day a retired general got up before a group of people and said a few words in behalf of another conservation program.

conditions than to ignore them, as apparently, most everyone does now except those who actually suffer such maladies. He said it costs about $1,000 to train a good machine tool operator. If the operator gets arthritis the first year's treatment would cost about $500 and after that something like 20 cents a day for a maintenance diet of drugs.

Back during the war we had programs to conserve power, fuel, etc., and so much has been said about it that nearly everybody has heard about soil and water conservation. But the general was talking about conservation of something else—human beings.

We assume that he has acquired a substantial amount of knowledge concerning backaches, etc., and it is with joy we note that he reported an almost miraculous improvement in techniques for treating arthritis and rheumatism during the past five years.

Of course the medical profession and some other groups have been interested in this for a long time, but seldom if ever does anyone lay the program before the people as Gen. George C. Kenney did.

Now if someone would come up with a sure fire remedy for the common cold mankind's odyssey would appear infinitely brighter.

He said this nation's loss in dollars and cents each year from arthritis and rheumatism is something like $2-million per year. That figure wasn't regarded as mere hay, even in the tobacco county.

—WACIL McNAIR

What the general was primarily concerned with, however, was his belief that about 80 per cent of that $2-million could have been saved if proper facilities were available and enough doctors were trained.

Gen. Kenney believes it would be far cheaper for business and industrial concerns see that employes get early and proper medical attention for rheumatic

Today And Tomorrow—Walter Lippmann

Reds Apparently Not Looking For A Settlement In Europe

BERN — In Vienna, which I visited last week after having been to London, Paris and Bonn, there is much evidence to support the view that Soviet policy in Europe does not look forward to a settlement—negotiated at any level—but that it is seeking to relax the tensions of the cold war.

A war is an indignity. Nevertheless, there is little doubt that the Soviet Union does not now think of Austria, as probably it did in 1945, as one of the states that might be won in the cold war.

It can virtually be taken for granted that the Soviet Union is decided not to sign an Austrian peace treaty. For this would compel it to remove its army of occupation, and would moreover bring into force the terms of the satellite peace treaties. These call for the military evacuation also of Hungary and Romania.

Nevertheless, there is little doubt that the Soviet Union does not now think of Austria, as probably it did in 1945, as one of the states that might be won in the cold war. Its present conduct recognizes that Austria will not become a Soviet satellite and that it is overwhelmingly and firmly associated with the Western world.

On the other hand, having decided to stay, the Soviet Union has gone a long way toward making its presence unobtrusive to the Austrian population.

A man who should know told me that half the families in Vienna have relatives living in Yugoslavia or in countries behind the Iron Curtain. It is obvious, then, that in order to maintain the Iron Curtain around Czechoslovakia and Hungary, the Red Army must stay in Austria watching the frontiers with these two satellite countries.

The Soviet zone of Austria is about half of the country. But, unlike Germany, there is no partition of Austria. And since last April the Iron Curtain has been all but removed in one installment after another.

Re-reading the Soviet note after visiting Vienna, I am inclined to think that the critical passage in it is the sentence which follows upon the complaint about American military bases in "a number of states of Europe, North Africa, the Near and Middle East." The critical sentence says that "the settlement of the German problem... is inseparably connected with the elimination of the above mentioned military bases."

August, the radio censorship last week. There have been concessions about the occupation costs, many requisitioned buildings have been turned back, about 600 Austrians who were in the clutches of the Red Army have been amnestied.

The European military situation may be described as an enormous Russian salient pushed out 500 miles from the borders of the Soviet Union into the center of the continent. This Red salient is outflanked by the sea and air forces of NATO in the Eastern Mediterranean, the Balkans and Turkey on the South, and on its northern flank from Britain and Scandinavia.

In June the Soviet controls at the zonal boundaries were removed. Anyone can now go anywhere without special passes or papers of any kind. Mail and telephone censorship was lifted in August, the radio censorship last week. There have been concessions about the occupation costs, many requisitioned buildings have been turned back, about 600 Austrians who were in the clutches of the Red Army have been amnestied.

The situation is a military deadlock. The Soviets cannot consider withdrawing from their salient without the extreme risk of leaving behind them a violently hostile Eastern Europe. The NATO powers cannot consider withdrawing from the flanks of the salient as long as the Red Army is in the salient.

The Soviets seem to be doing what they can to remove the practical inconveniences of the occupation; to give the population a feeling of not being occupied despite the fact that the Red Army remains. Their one important remaining control of Austrian internal affairs is that they retain a certain control over the personnel of the Austrian police in their zone.

That is why there is a mounting tendency on both sides to avoid serious and radical attempts to end the partition of Germany and Europe. Instead to take measures which will make it possible to live with the problems for which no one now sees a solution.

Stones Aided In Translation

According to Joseph Smith, founder of the Mormon religion, the name "Mormon" came from the Egyptian language, and meant "More Good." While dictating the "Book of Mormon" Smith sat on one side of a heavy curtain while a friend sat on the other. Mormon was described as an ancient prophet, the father of Moroni, the messenger angel.

Stones Aided In Translation

On the golden plates, said Smith, was a shorthand type of Egyptian writing, and he was able to translate it with the help of magical stones which he held before his eyes. Lucy Smith, sister of the prophet, declared that she had seen the magic spectacles, and they were made of "two smooth, three-cornered diamonds set in silver," and that the glasses were set in silver boxes.

Smith was only 24 years old when the first edition of the "Book of Mormon" was printed. Five thousand copies came from the press.

After the failure of their bank in Kirtland, the Mormons moved to Missouri and settled, chiefly in Caldwell County. They started a town called City of Far West (now the village of Kerr). Within a few years, there were about 12,000 Mormons in Missouri.

Most persons who read the volume refused to believe it, but some accepted it as true. A group called the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints came into being. Joseph Smith was chosen president of the new church, and 12 leading members were named apostles. The apostles proved to be helpful in gaining converts. They preached among Indians, as well as white people, in North America, and some of them went abroad. During the first 15 years after the church was started, the American Mormons were joined by thousands of persons from Great Britain and the mainland of Europe.

Stewart is regarded as one of America's most astute promoters and salesmen, a reputation he earned on the idea of letting me buy a pro football team. That is what I really want in life. You know I used to play guard in high school."

MISTER BREGER

"Well, I'll be darned--there's something here I never knew before!"

No Policy Shifts Indicated As ILA Post Changes Hands

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Association is "under new management" today with no immediate indication of major policy changes.

A onetime tugboat skipper—50-year-old William Bradley—took over as new president of the I.L.A., replacing Joseph Ryan, who had led the union through 25 stormy years climaxed by its expulsion from the American Federation of Labor.

Bradley, a native of Kingston, N. Y., worked his way up as tugboat pilot captain, and union official. He was named president at $20,000 annually for a four-year term at the final session yesterday of a special three-day I.L.A. convention.

His election followed by a few hours Ryan's resignation on the grounds "my continuance as president may stand in the way of the I.L.A. and the labor movement."

Ryan, who had originally been appointed with lifetime tenure, was named president emeritus at an annual salary of $10,000.

The 69-year-old New Yorker who is under indictment on 15 counts that he misappropriated I.L.A. funds, insisted his resignation was voluntary.

Riding THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

The Grub Line Rider probably knew before she did that Mrs. Smoky Greenhaw of Stanton "planned to make some chow-chow."

We were in the Standifer Grocery at Lenoah when Smoky came in. What he apparently had on his mind was a soda pop and some cigarettes, and then he spied that box of green tomatoes.

"How much are the green tomatoes?" he asked. "Boy, if there's anything I like it's chow-chow."

He made a deal for the whole box of tomatoes, and then wanted to know what else it took to make chow-chow. So he bought a big head of cabbage and about five times as many peppers as some ladies present advised using. "I like it hot," he explained, but didn't elaborate on whether the heat would be in Mrs. Greenhaw's surprise or the chow-chow. He said he reckoned she had some vinegar at home. The chances are that he has found out about that by now.

He says he has also learned how to get a banana pudding when he wants one. He just takes a lot of vanilla wafers and bananas home with him.

Jiggs could learn a whole lot from Smoky.

The Martin County 4-H Club Council has been reorganized and the annual Achievement Day banquet has been tentatively set for 7:30 p.m., Dec. 12, at the Grady School, according to Ray Hastings, county agent, and Mrs. Mildred Eliland, home demonstration agent.

Officers of the Council are Bobby Carille and Janelle Jones, both from the Stanton High School, co-chairmen, and Alice Stewart of the Courtney High School, secretary-treasurer.

Co-masters of ceremony at the Achievement Day banquet will be Bobby Carille and Barbara Stewart, another Courtney student.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Larrimore, formerly of Santa Clara, California, have moved to Stanton where he is now employed by the Billington Irrigation and Motor Co.

Joe Baulch, formerly of Sweetwater and Lamesa, and later with the Stanton Implement Company, is now also on the Billington staff.

More farmers than ever before are making plans for irrigation farming in this area next year, according to the word around Stanton.

have rural mail service up their road at all, while the residents of a parallel road, less than two miles to the east had two carriers, one from Stanton and one from Big Spring, serving them.

We repeated the question these people have been asking for years—why can't one carrier travel one road and the other carrier go up the other road?

We submitted the question to Congressman George Mahon and we're now glad to report to those people that the congressman has taken it up with the Post Office Department, and has asked them what about it?

Six miles north of Highway 80 the Stanton carrier turns back to the road he should have been traveling in the first place, say the people living on it, all of whom have to travel from one to two and a half miles and that distance back home for their mail, while both carriers pass within a few feet of all the boxes on the road that has been getting a double serving less than a couple of parallel miles away.

Eastern Rail Rates Cut On Drought Hay

NEW YORK (AP)—The Eastern railroads Thursday put into effect 50 per cent reductions in freight rates for hay to drought-stricken areas of eight Southwestern States.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture asked for the move.

The states are Texas, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Previously the Eastern railroads' special rates had applied only to Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

NO TV RULED FOR ONE VIEWER

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—It's 30 days in the TV-less city jail for Marion Tucker, who likes television.

Judge John McNoble deprived Tucker of his pastime yesterday after Joe Salomone testified the 41-year-old transient strolled into his home while the family was watching their favorite TV program and just plopped in front of the set.

Salomone called police.

Areas Are Added To Pink Bollworm Regulated Points

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Louisiana parishes and six Oklahoma counties yesterday were classified by the Agriculture Department as "lightly infested areas" for purposes of pink bollworm quarantine regulations.

This means cotton, kenaf and certain other plants, products and articles incident to growing of crops may be moved from regulated areas only after inspection.

The department said infestations were discovered recently at cotton gins in Bryan, Carter, Comal, Murray, Okmulgee and Pittsburg counties in Oklahoma.

All of Arizona, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas are included within the federal quarantine area but only those portions actually infested by the pest are regulated.

Stanolind May Buy Brownsville Plant

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The idle synthetic gas plant at Brownsville, Tex., may be taken over by Stanolind Oil & Gas Co.

President E. F. Bollard of Stanolind disclosed yesterday his firm has signed an agreement with the Reconstruction Finance Corp. that will permit it to buy the Brownsville plant after an examination is made of the facility formerly operated by Carthage Hydrocol, Inc.

A synthetic gas plant owned by Stanolind is dependent upon the Brownsville concern's operation. Gub Gabrielson, former Republican national chairman, is president of Carthage.
