HOLLY REPORTS

Harvest of Deaf Smith County's first major sugar beet season is complete.

That was the word Friday, from officials of the Merrill E. Shoup plant of Holly Sugar Corp. "All of our beet loading stations including the one at the local plant are closed down," said the official. world

Nearly 200,000 tons remain on the 1,800 acre tract on which plant is located, west of Hereford, awaiting processing. "The warm weather of the past few days has been somewhat fough on the beets which are piled on the lots, but the drop in temperature of the past few days will aid us in storing the beets. "The piles got to smoking little during the warmer part of last week. This often happens when they are stored for an excessive period of time. "We can just get to these spots as soon as possible, and try to use them up as fast, as they occur. We hope this drop in temperature will hold this problem down for a while.

How severely - if at all does a scarcity of medical doctors affect a county hospi-tal? This question is explored in the following article, another in a series dealing with Deaf S m it h County's unfortunate present lack of a medical staff large enough to handle the needs of a town and area the size of Hereford. The Editor

(Second in a Series)

T. E. Seigler, administrator at Deaf Smith County Hospital, doesn't know, down to the exact dollar-and-cents level, just how much "business" the county facility is losing because Hereford residents are using doctors in other communities - but he knows the loss is being felt. "I know its affecting our load," he says. A county hospital, large or minuscule, usually is among the most-marginal-of-all - marginal business operations. It is not there to "make money." It must accept, regardless of their ability te pay, all county residents. Thin Profit Margin Seigler reveals that the Hereford hospital operates on a "pro not much of a profit margin," he said.

He arrived at that figure by subtracting the average charge per, patient day from the average cost per patient day - and here is a sobering in-gredient - a 10 per cent charity loss, an item which the

SAVE SUNDAY For a day of Rest

For many years Sunday was a day of rest. It was a day when most businesses were closed ... even those which in our time are now considered "essential." It was an era in which one day a week was set aside for church and for rest. It was a day for families to be together and time for fellowship with friends and neighbors. But that seems to be changing now. The trend is clear. It may be that in time Sunday will no longer be the traditional day of rest. If a community's preoccupation with material values continues. Sunday and its true meaning may well become a memory. Observance of a day of rest, we believe, should not be enforced. Its acceptance should be voluntary; willfully observed by the people as a privilege and not as a duty. We earnestly solicit your support in KEEPING SUNDAY FOR A DAY OF REST.

'Great Moments in History' was the program presented for members of the Xi Epsilon Chapter No. X1729, Exemplar Chapter of the Beta Sigma-Phi at their Tuesday meeting in the Community Center.

Mrs. Charles Bell used the events of the exodus of the Hebrew nation from Egypt under the leadership of Moses for her presentation. The story of the sons of Jacob coming to-Egypt was used as background material with the account told of the hardships suffered by the Hebrew people as slaves of the Egyptians and their final release by the Pharoah.

Details of the wanderings in the wilderness were told with special emphasis on the majesty of Moses as he followed the leadership of God in bringing his people to the River Jordan, ready to cross into the Promised Land

Plans for a Valentine dance were discussed and it was decided to be in the hotel ballroom Feb. 13.

Sugar Beets Provide No Panacea -- But They Help

What effect has the sugar industry had on our economy?

This question undoubtedly is kicked ound more today than any other single pic. To be sure, it is a many sided ques-

Business leaders, faced with glowing reports concerning the growth of Hereford, but finding little consolation at the cash register, tend to discount the effect of the industry.

Farmers, too, are quick to criticize due to the high cost of producing the beets. And we suppose we might be better off growing milo if allotments were available.

Or even better, cotton, due primarily to the fact that three waterings on the average will make a cotton crop, compared to an average of five for milo, and perhaps twice that for sugar beets.

But the fact remains that additional acreage for these basic crops is not available.

Deaf Smith Countians have, for many years, been seeking a non-surplus cash crop to grow on acres not now in cultivation. Diminishing allotments on both wheat and milo have left many acres idle, and from idle acres come little profit. Sugar beets are helping to fill this void.

The addition of an approximate 11,000-acre cash crop in Deaf Smith County can mean better than $1.35 million additional dollars farm profit (based on an average net profit of $125 per acre) and in the long run, an opportunity for prosperity to main street and beyond.

True, the local merchants have not, on the average, "set the world on fire" profit-wise in 1964. But many things enter into the picture, and we're convinced that without the additional income from the sugar beet acreage, we would all be 'singing the blues.'

To begin with, few if any of our dryland farmers put a combine in the field in 1964? This segment of our economy "struck out" due to lack of moisture, leaving a tremendous hole in the economy. Along the loss from this segment of our economy has left a void.

To top it off, the irrigation farmer has been faced with increased costs due again to the lack of rainfall. In many instances, yields were down as a direct result of lack of water at the proper time.

•This narrowing of the profit margin has hurt. It leaves less money to spend on the non-essentials which we all enjoy.

But in spite of the problems, and there have been many, the general economic picture for the Hereford area is -bright. Hereford's banks this week reported record. deposits, jumping from $22 million in January 1964 (a record in itself) to over $24 million in 1965.

The population continues to increase and the building industry is still making new records as we move into a new year.

Not only has the beet sugar industry added millions of dollars gross income to the area, but the placing of the Holly mill at Hereford has attracted a number of relative agricultural businesses and industry. All add up to additional dollars gross income

Water consumption on the other hand is a problem. Another of the many facets of the overall picture.

It is true that average water used on beets is greater than on many other crops. And we would be the first to urge a concerted and continued conservation program in this field. Water, like the land itself, is imperative to our continued prosperity and should be used wisely and diligently.

But it must be used to benefit the people. Available water that isn't used is worth little more than no water.

Stepping back then, and looking at the situation objectively, we believe that Deaf Smith County has indeed been given the "goose that layed the golden egg."

Future years should, prove that "the beet sugar industry" has vad a tremendous economic impact on out area, perhaps paralleling the coming of the vegetable industry in the late '40s.

On the local scene, 1964 will be remembered as the as the start of a tremendous city-wide improvement project; it will be viewed, by many, as the year citizens of Littlefield put away their personal feelings for the sake of progress. It just happened that a month or so before the "regular" plates were sent to the various counties, the Highway Department sent out some sample plates, apparently to show what the new plates would look like. The poop from Austin that accompanied the new plates says the vowels and the letter "Q" are not used to eliminate undesirable spellings. The sample plate they sent to the Hamilton Tax. Office read: "SAM OOO". Now, we are insulted because we don't happen to think that SAM is such an "undesirable word." I think I'll start groundwork for a new organization the initials for which would be: COTWNHTLMOBAVWWTLPCB - 1966, meaning, "Committee of Texans Whose Names Have Three Letters, The Middle One Being A Vowel, Who Want Texas License Plates Changed By 1966."

Unemployment problem? Ever try. to find a secretary?

An old adage that "there are lots of generals in the Army, but the sergeants run it" came to our attention recently while browsing through a pamphlet from a new commercial and industrial arts college, and it appears to us that we have sorely neglected the training of the "sergeants" of the business world.

In the face of a nationwide unemployment problem, it is rather ironic that certain groups of skilled employees are as "scarce as hen's teeth."

Secretaries, typists and business machine operators are badly needed in this era of automation, and it seems that our colleges are doing precious little to turn out the "sergeants".

It is encouraging then to see new industrial and business colleges come into existence.

We hope the trend continues. The idea of making "chiefs" of all the people is a little far-fetched to say the least. We need a few "Indians" to turn the wheels.

plans for building the Great Society, he left no doubt that it will at least be great in scopertas he touched on nearly every phase of American life from labor law to the arts.

Setting the course for American foreign policy during his administration, the President indicated that this nation will seek peace, but not peace at any price. Though we are ready to be good neighbors to all, he said, "we cannot be indifferent to acts designed to injure our interests, our citizens or our establishment abroad."

Though this is couched in the language of generality usually found in foreign-policy speeches, the President's words reinforce the belief that foreign demagogues may find it somewhat more dangerous to pull the eagle's feather during the next four years. The President's answer to the question,

"Why are we in Viet Nam?" is a laudable one that should be carefully studied by all Americans:

"We are there, first, because a friendly nation has asked us for help against communist aggression. Ten years ago we pledged our help. Three presidents have supported that pledge. We will not break it.

"Second, our own security is tied to the peace of Asia. Twice in one generation we have had to fight against aggression in the Far East. To ignore aggression would only increase the danger of a large war."

As for Mr. Johnson's domestic program, the comment was made that it is a "blueprint for paradise." His over-all goals - to keep the economy growing, to increase opportunity, to improve the quality of life for all - have been human goals for eons. But when the President got down to specifics, he seemed to have some ideas on how to reach those goals that are highly questionable.

Many of the proposals are leftovers from the New Deal, Fair Deal and New Frontier. They are as disturbing now as they were when first proposed. Massive federal aid to education, medicare under Social Security, price-wage "guideposts" - these are tonger steps toward total federal control and the welfare state.

The promise of changes in the Taft-Hartley law, including the section on rightto-work laws, may be political dressing for the unions' bonefit. The president said that he hoped to "reduce conflicts." If he plans to reduce conflicts by making every American worker join a union before he can get a job, there will be many who will wonder if the Great Society is worth the cost.

Much that the President said has been said before. Some of his proposals may have been made for effect, for it seems unlikely that Congress will be willing to remake Americo in one year or in four, Most important is the question of financing. Skilled as he is, Prosident Johnson cannot form a government that is all things to all men and at the same time reduce waste, increase ef. ficiency and hold down spending. -Dallas Morning News

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed grass farm may have his tongue in his cheek this week, but we couldn't tell till he shaves.

Dear editar:

Since I never did believe in throwing something away till it was worn out - except maybe a few tax laws I could mention - I was looking over my last year's New Year's resolutions and found they, are in such good shape, most of them not even used at all, that I just adopted them for this year and settled down to reading a part of a newspaper which some New Year's celebrant had tried to make a pointed hat out of and lost out of his car on a road near this farm.

Up near the peak of the hat I found an article that said Russia is now going to experiment in an effort to get its agricultural production stepped up.

What it's going to do is employ the profit motive, in the hope the Russian farmers will have an incentive to work harder and produce more.

Say, this sounds like a good idea and what I'd like to know is why don't we try it in this country?

Oh, I know we use it in most lines, like meat markets, grocery stores, medical practice, law practice, construction, manufacturing, banking, television, radio, newspapers, puboffice, but I don't know why nobody has ever thought lic of trying the profit system in farming and ranching.

Surely we're not going to sit back and let Russia force ahead of us in agriculture. When Russia got the jump on the world by putting the first satellite in orbit, what did we do? We tripled our funds for space exploration and caught Clearly, the thing for Washington to do now is to triple the payments to us farmers and let us get our profits up to the general level. The profit motive is fine in farming and ranching, but it's no substitute for profit itself. The motive is fine for planting, but nothing beats a profit at harvesting.

By the way, I don't know how I came out with this Bindweed form in 1964, I had most of my records written down on the inside of the door to my barn; but it fell off face down during a rain storm and I can't make heads or tails of them
