Ball Starts Rolling On March Of Dimes Drive

Tickets Go On Sale Monday For Annual C of C Banquet

Tickets for the annual banquet of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will go on sale Monday at the Chamber of Commerce office. Reservations may be made by calling EM 4-3333. Featured speaker will be William J. Bird, western vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

William J. Bird was elected Western Vice President of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company in July 1959. With offices in San Francisco, Calif., he represents the company as senior officer in 12 western states — Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Bird has had an unusual breadth of experience in the field of business. For four years prior to his association with the John Hancock, he served as Executive Vice President of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce. Under his leadership, that organization became an effective voice of business leadership in Boston's economic and civic growth.

Earlier, as Manager of External Affairs for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington, D. C., he was responsible for the National Chamber's operations in the fields of organization service, public relations, membership, field activities, and Nation's Business Magazine.

Bird has also had a broad experience in civic affairs. Today he serves as Vice President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and as a member of that chamber's Board of Directors. In addition he serves as Chairman of the Century Club, Boy Scouts of America, member, Board of Directors, Golden Gate Chapter, American Red Cross, and member, Board of Directors, San Francisco Society of Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.

While in Boston, Bird served as consultant to the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee and was a member of the city's 100-man Committee for Civic Progress. He served as a member of the Board of Regents of the Institute for Organization Management; was editor of The Journal, national publication of the American Chamber of Commerce Executives, and is a former publisher of the Boston Chamber's Greater Boston Business magazine.

A well-known speaker on current national and community affairs, he is a member of the Speaker's Bureau of the National Sales Executives Club.

Bird is a native of Missouri, and a graduate of the University of Nebraska. During World War II, he served with the U. S. Army Air Force, and became director of training and operations at Brooks Army Air Field in San Antonio. Following the war, he spent several years in local Chamber management, was later appointed Southwestern Division Manager of the National Chamber with offices in Dallas, and then became its manager of External Affairs. Now, a resident of Hillsborough, Calif., Bird is married and has two children.

John Hancock is the nation's 11th largest company with assets in excess of $6.5 billion. The company has over $27.9 billion of life insurance in force.

Decorations will again be by the high school art classes under the supervision of Mrs. Viola Chisholm. Tickets will be available to members only until Feb. 1.

Get Inspection Stickers Early, Motorists Urged

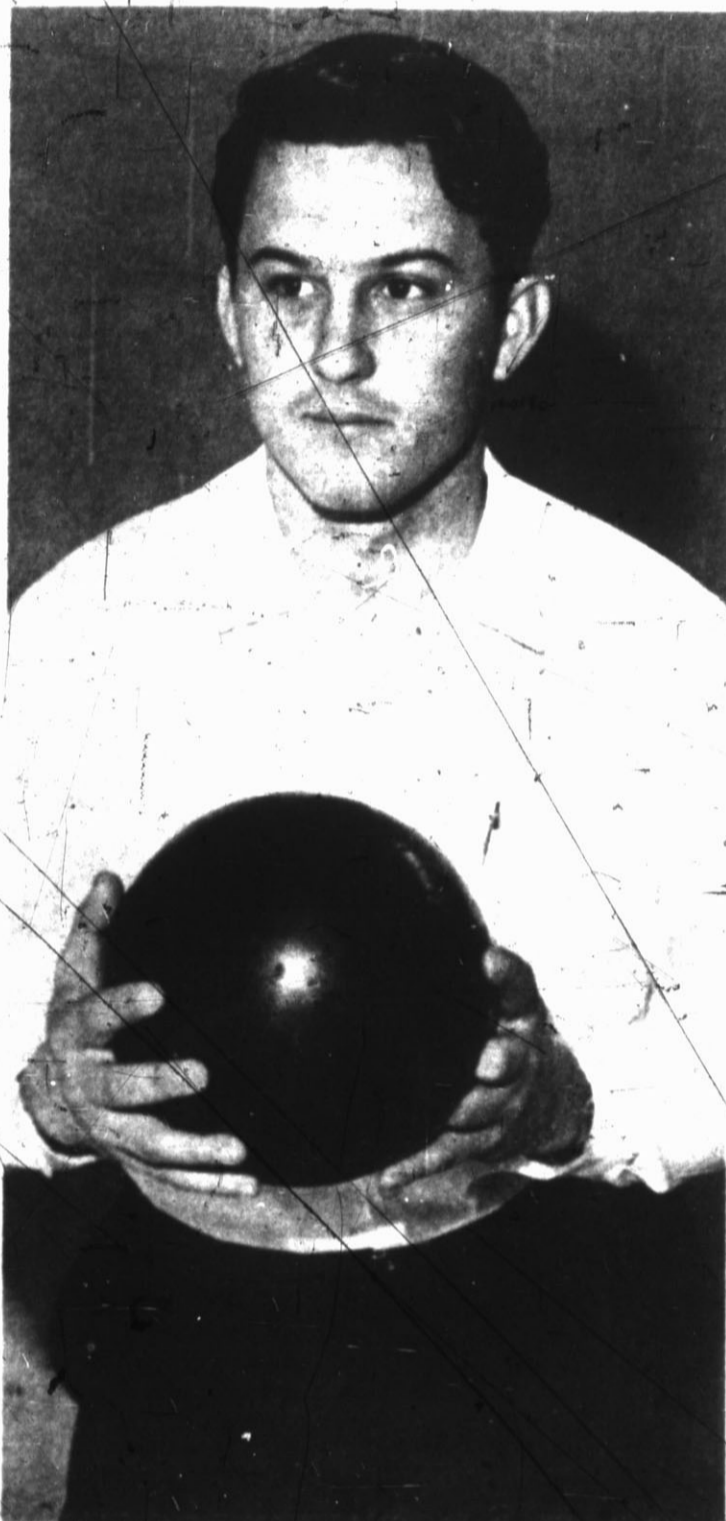

Texas automobile owners are being urged to "do their shopping early" to avoid the last minute rush for state automobile inspection stickers.

All vehicles coming under provisions of the Texas Vehicle Inspection Act must display the inspection sticker by April 15.

After the deadline, automobiles which do not display the safety sticker will be operated in violation of the law and violators will be subject to arrest. Approximately one-half of the inspection period has expired, commented Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, and only one-fourth of the vehicles in Texas have been inspected.

Unless the number of inspections increases, he added, long waiting lines will be forming at inspection stations as the deadline approaches.

There are approximately 5,000 authorized stations in the state and they are ready and capable of handling the inspection of all vehicles without delay if owners do not wait until the last few days before the deadline, Garrison said.

ALL SET TO get the ball rolling for the March of Dimes campaign chairman Pat Ferguson. The first of many activities during the month for the benefit of the drive will be the start of a two-week bowling tournament on Monday, Jan. 7.

The ball will start rolling, literally, on Monday to open the March of Dimes fund campaign here.

Drive chairman Pat Ferguson announced that a two-week bowling tournament will begin the month-long drive. The tourney will start Monday, Jan. 7, at Sunset Lanes with all members or organized leagues pledged to enter the special event.

But that will be just one of several activities which will be held during the month in an effort to make the nationwide March of Dimes a success on its 25th anniversary. John Aikin, who is chairman of the Deaf Smith County chapter of the National Foundation's March of Dimes, has urged everyone to "give for the life of a child."

"All of us know that the original March of Dimes was organized to help provide care and treatment for polio victims and to provide funds for research on the dread disease. The March of Dimes helped in the development of the Salk vaccine that has virtually wiped out polio cases. Now the March of Dimes has turned to other areas through the National Foundation.

"Our donations are used first to aid the polio victims who were stricken before the discovery of the Salk vaccine and for those who contracted the disease since then. But its primary aim now is in the fight against the diseases that cripple millions annually.

Through your contributions, not only polio, but the terrible crippling of birth defects and arthritis are being fought, with the aim of sometime wiping away this plague, as polio has been wiped out."

Working toward this end, the Kiwanis Club and Key Club members will place coin canisters and dime boards in businesses, where they will remain during the month.

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce plan to repeat their successful "Road Block for the March of Dimes" one Sunday during the month. The annual Mother's March will be led by members of volunteer women's clubs and organizations and local restaurants and drug stores will sponsor a coffee day.

Also scheduled during the month is a teenage dance, with admission proceeds going to the March of Dimes, and several other activities.

Postal Rates Climb Beginning Monday, Jan. 7

Mail postmarked Monday, Jan. 7, or later must bear postage under new rates, according to Postmaster Nolan Grady. Beginning Monday new postal rates will affect most mail. New rate for first class mail is five cents, while post cards climb to four cents.

Rates for drop letters, or unsealed first class mail, change to three cents.

New rates for air mail letters is eight cents, while air mail postcards are six cents. Third class mailing rates are also going up under the new Post Office Rate Schedule.

While outlying changes in rates, postal officials also remind patrons that new regulations concerning envelope sizes went into effect Jan. 1.

Under new rulings, all envelopes accepted for mailing must be at least three inches wide and four and one-quarter inches long. Envelopes larger than nine inches wide and 12 inches long are not recommended, and all envelopes must be rectangular in shape.

New size regulations were adopted by the post office in order to speed mail sorting with the innovation of new machinery.

In announcing postal rate changes, Postmaster General J. Edward Day pointed out that new rates remain much lower than rates in force when the post office first went into operation.

Burglary Charge Filed Against Mexican Boy, 17

Charges of burglary were filed here Friday against a 17-year-old Mexican youth following the Tuesday night burglary of City Tortilla Factory, 126 N. Main.

Charged with the burglary, which is alleged to have occurred between 10:30 p. m. Tuesday and 8:30 a. m. Wednesday, is Rodolfo Solis, of Piedras Negras, Mex.

The building was entered through the back door, according to investigating officers. Approximately $30 in cash was reported taken.

Around Town

What the country needs now is about four feet of snow. Oh, not all of it at once. About six inches at a time would be fine, but we would even take it in larger bunches if necessary. All the cotton is in and farm work is slack and the wheat surely could use the moisture. Besides this is really the start of our winter season and it's time to start looking for our snow. We won't predict when it will start coming that would scare it away. But we do have our shoes and overcoat all spotted and ready for the snow.

Woody Wilson said Friday that it wouldn't bother him any if it snowed six or seven feet. You will notice that I don't want quite that much. The reason for the difference is very simple. I'm not nearly so tall as Woody and I'd get lost in a seven-foot snowfall.

Whiteface Booster Club will meet Monday, Jan. 7, in the Hereford Community Center. Meeting time will be 7:30 p. m. On the program will be some plans for the club-sponsored basketball games, a report on construction of club-sponsored baseball dugouts and a basketball film from Texas Tech, probably showing the Red Raiders in the NCAA regional finals. All members, and others interested, are urged to attend.

All county vegetable growers shippers and others interested in the industry are being urged to attend the first annual conference of West Texas Vegetable Growers. It will be held Tuesday, Jan. 8, at the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station 7 1/2 miles north of Lubbock on U. S. Highway 87. The conference will be from 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m., devoted to the latest developments in scientific vegetable production and marketing. The conference banquet will be held at 6:30 p. m. Type II Sabin Oral Vaccine Jan. 13

Deaf Smith County residents will receive Type II Sabin Oral Polio vaccine at a clinic slated to be held in Hereford High School Cafeteria on Sunday, Jan. 13, as the second step in the mass inoculation of the county is taken.

A clinic will also be held at Hereford Labor Camp Hospital or the convenience of the camp's residents. The clinic at the high school cafeteria is to be open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., while the one at the Labor Camp will be open from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Jointly sponsoring the Sabin Oral Clinics are Hereford Medical Association Dr. A. T. Mims as chairman, and the local Junior Chamber of Commerce with Bob Rott as chairman.

Due to the success of pre-registration by county residents, all are being urged again to fill out the required forms. These will appear in Thursday's issue of The Hereford Brand and in the next edition of The Sunday Brand.

It has been pointed out that use of these forms by county residents during the first clinic held Dec. 2, aided greatly in processing those receiving the Type I dose.

During the first clinic held here, approximately 7500 persons received the Type I oral vaccine. Those receiving the vaccine were processed and given Type I of the Sabin Vaccine without having to wait in long lines.

Success of the clinic was attributed to participation of county residents in filling out the requested forms and to groups assisting local physicians and the Jaycees.

Forms required included a registration slip and a release for minor children to take the vaccine. The second clinic to be held here, commented Rott, will be conducted as the one in December with only a few minor changes. Hereford Jaycees again will be responsible for handling administrative details while Dr. Mims will serve as technical director.

Helping again with the clinic's operation will be members of Deaf Smith County Red Cross, La Madre Mia Study Club and other volunteers as well as Jaycee members, he added.

Technical personnel — doctors, nurses and pharmacists — are to be under the direction of Hereford physicians. Cost of the mass inoculation in a four county area including (Continued on page 6)

Herd Uses Tight Defense To Beat Dimmitt, 47-39

Playing its first game in 13 days, Hereford displayed an amazing defense in downing Dimmitt 47 - 39 Friday night. In the first half, Hereford allowed the Bobcats just 12 points, then staved off determined attacks in the last two quarters.

The victory will send the Whitefaces into 1 - AAA action this Friday with a respectable 9 - 4 record for the season.

Hitting about 80 per cent of their long shots, Hereford used a tight full-court press for a defense that kept Dimmitt off balance in the first period.

Earl Jackson opened the scoring for the Herd as the game moved slowly at first. Then big Mike Calvert got two field goals to give Dimmitt its only lead, 4 - 2.

Austin Hodges, Jackson and Danny Cates each dumped in field goals from far out to give Hereford a permanent lead, 8-4. Jackie Nichols got his only field goal of the night for Dimmitt with two minutes left and the first foul of the game was called on Jackson with 1:09 remaining. But Jim Killingsworth missed and Hodges hit again from the field with 48 seconds left for a 10 - 6 margin at the quarter.

Steve Hutton then hit his only field goal for Dimmitt. But Hereford had all the scoring for the next four minutes. Field goals came in this order: Cates, McGee, Robert Strange, Cates and Strange for a 20 - 8 gap and 2:30 to play in the half.

Calvert then hit for two more field goals. But that was countered as McGee hit from the field. With 1:34 left in the period, Cates fouled, the second infraction of the game. But Killingsworth missed and Cates hit two buckets in a row to give Hereford a 26 - 12 edge at the half.

"Hereford almost cooled off too much in the second half, coach Cuby Kitchens said after the game. The roaring Hereford fans agreed with him all the way.

McGee opened the third quarter with a successful free throw, the first attempt for Hereford. Then he fouled and Hutton missed his shot. Jackson hit a two - pointer before Dimmitt came charging back into the ballgame. Calvert and Cates each made field goals and

Phelps Returned To Face SWWC Charges Here

Lloyd E. Phelps, 26, was returned to Hereford Wednesday by Police Sergeant Pete Cole to face a misdemeanor swindling charge with worthless check charge.

Phelps was arrested at the Bowie County Sheriff's Office in Texarkana, Tex. The charge against him had been filed previously and he was picked up on a warrant from Hereford.

Jim Haney was charged with an offensive foul.

Calvert made two more field goals and converted the free throw on Jackson's foul to narrow Hereford's lead to 29 - 21.

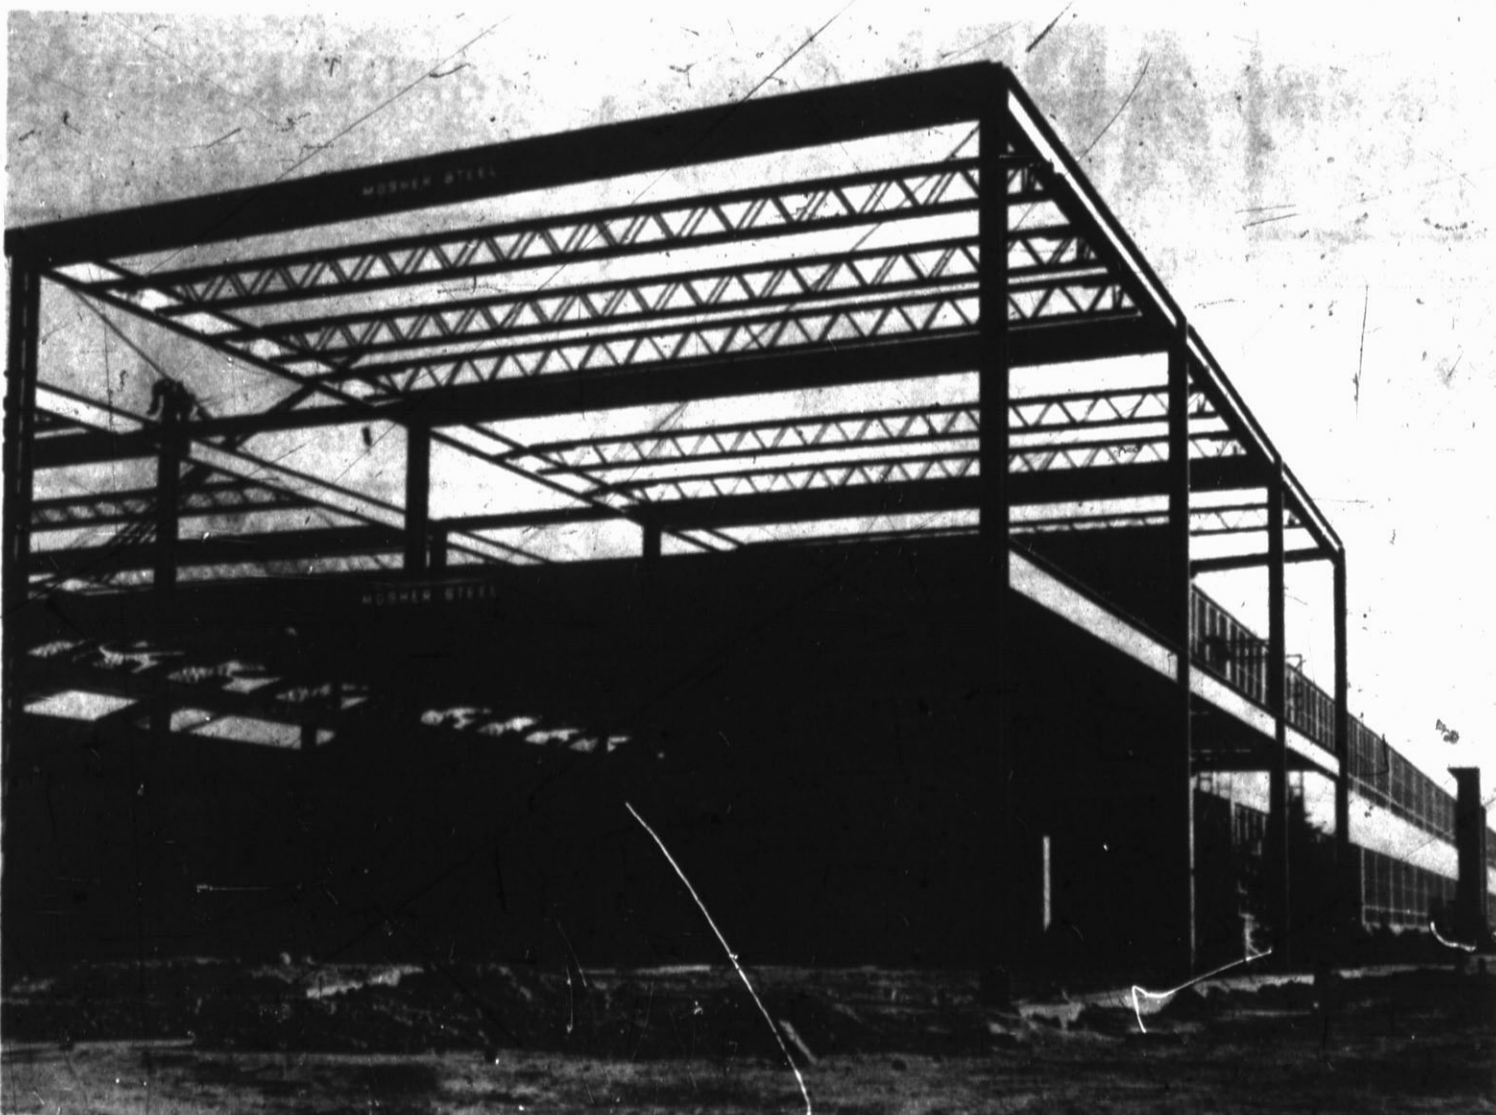

Jackson missed a free throw attempt before Cowell hit from the field again. Haney shoved in a rebound, Cowell hit again and Hodges ripped in a field goal that put the Herd in front 33 - 25 at the end of the third quarter.

Billy Hill opened the final eight minutes with a goal for Hereford and Killingsworth got his only basket for the Bobcats.

But McGee netted a field goal and a free throw for an 11 - point lead. Calvert hit again, but missed his first shot from the line as Dimmitt started one-and-one free throws. Bue Cowell hit a basket and made the free throw as he was fouled by Haney.

Robert Stange made a field throw. With Hereford leading just 39 - 32 with 4:21 left, Dimmitt really scared the Whiteface Boosters. Crowell made two free throws on a foul call against Mike Ferguson. A technical foul against Ferguson allowed Calvert, the team captain, to sink a free throw and gave Dimmitt control of the ball.

That bit of action narrowed the Herd's lead to 39 - 35 with more than half the period remaining. But McGee stole the ball and raced in for a lay-up. (Continued on page 6)

TAKING SHAPE FAST, the addition to Hereford High School came into a recognizable form last week as structural steel went into place. Work on another wing of the school, as well as the addition to Northwest Elementary school, continues at a rapid pace as the general contractor, Knox and Gailey Construction Co. of Lubbock, is now working "ahead of schedule." Some 20-25 bricklayers are slated to invade the construction sites next week to begin placing bricks. Contract deadline for completion of the projects is Aug. 25. (Staff Photo)

ALONG WITH 75,000 or so other people, members of the Hereford High School Big Domino Band enjoyed the annual Cotton Bowl football game which pitted the University of Texas against Louisiana State University. The bandmen were special guests at the game after marching in the Cotton Bowl Parade. (Staff Photos)

Seventh Graders Defeat Dimmitt

Stanton Junior High seventh graders remain undefeated after chalking up sixth straight win Thursday night.

Dogies rampaged over the Dimmitt seventh grade by 28-14. Stanton left little question as to the outcome while jumping to a 14-9 lead during the first half.

Scoring was well distributed among the Dogies, as all team members saw action during the game. Cliff Crowell led scoring with seven, while Jimmy Childers had six. Jimmie Fowlkes hit for five, Gary Goddin both contributed four. Ren Lee tallied a two-pointer.

Hereford edged ahead of the visitors in the first quarter. Crowell, Goodwin, and Fowlkes all hit field goals, and Fowlkes free one put the Dogies ahead 7-4.

Goodin and Childers tallied again in the second round, while Crowell netted three to move the Dogies further ahead, 14-9. In the third quarter Cornellius dumped in four points, while Childers and Fowlkes both hit two. Dogies allowed Dimmitt only one point in the period, the final round. Lee joined the scoring books in the final round, along with Crowell and Childers.

Band Goes To 'Big D' Around...

By Wain Miller
Band Staff Reporter

Hereford High School Band traveled to Dallas last week to march in the Sixth Annual Cotton Bowl Parade on New Year's Day.

But appearing in the parade hardly sums up the packed itinerary of the members of the Big Domino Band.

Gone from Hereford only three nights and two days, bandmen included a gala New Year's Eve Party, a night on the town, a tour of Dallas, a two-mile march down Commerce Street, and a visit to the Cotton Bowl in their list of activities.

Members of the band, their sponsors, and band director Ben Gollehon, climbed aboard the three chartered buses to depart from Hereford at 11 p. m. Sunday night.

Arriving in Dallas at 7:30 Monday morning, the band rushed to restaurants for breakfast before checking into the hotel.

Later, the more than 120 persons on the trip headed to the heart of "Big D" for a visit to the huge business district and lunch.

Late afternoon called for marching practice. Since the band represented Hereford in its Cotton Bowl appearance, last-minute practice was staged to polish marching drills.

Along with some 1,000 other bandmen who were in Dallas for the Cotton Bowl, the Hereford group celebrated New Year's Eve at a gala party at the fair grounds.

Featured on the program at the party were "The Highlanders", a local vocal trio, Charles Kelly, Dick Combs, and Ronnie Gray blend voices to form the group, which is accompanied by Charles Mims, at the Piano.

Later the band returned to the Loma Alto Hotel for a quieter party of its own before retiring early on Jan. 1, 1963.

Early to rise, bandmen rolled out of bed at six the same morning. Following breakfast at a plush cafeteria, the band returned to Commerce Street to line up for the huge Cotton Bowl Parade.

More than 30 bands were on hand for the two-mile march, along with colorful floats, beauty queens, and thousands of spectators.

After completing the parade, the band returned to the Fair Grounds and the Cotton Bowl for the football game which pitted the University of Texas against Louisiana State University.

Big Domino Band members, loyal to the Texas orange and white, may have been somewhat disappointed with the outcome of the game (Texas lost 13-0), but the majority were thrilled with their first view of the football classic.

After the game, the band returned to the hotel to check out and load up for the trip home.

But before returning, the band was guest of the Hereford Lions Club for dinner. With funds donated by the Hereford Lions, the band dined out. The band had helped the Lions promote a musical show earlier in the year.

Following a trip to the movies, the band left Dallas to return to Hereford. Buses carrying the Big Domino Band rolled back into Hereford Wednesday morning in time for students to attend afternoon classes at school.

Sponsoring the bandmen on their trip were a group of parents, including Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. James Mercer, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Gholson, Mr. and Mrs. Vance Crume, and Albert Maxwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hagans.

The trip was made possible after the band accepted a special invitation for the appearance. Hereford Rural High School District Board of Trustees voted to pay transportation costs for the journey, while the band used funds it had raised at concerts to cover other expenses.

Deaf Smith, Castro, Farmer and Swisher counties is being underwritten by Tierra Blanca Medical Association with which Hereford Medical Association is affiliated.

A donation of 25 cents per dose is being asked in order to offset the cost of the program.

If any money is left over after expenses of the mass inoculation program have been paid, the money will be donated to a worthwhile community project.

The second dose of the oral vaccine will give those who have taken Type I an additional 10 per cent immunity against the crippling disease.

Those who have not taken the first dose of the Sabin Polio Vaccine, however, are urged to take Type II since the Type I dose may be taken later.

Whether or not a make-up clinic will be held for both types of the vaccine has not been announced. However, supplies are available locally.

offensive foul gave Hereford the ball, but the shot was missed and McGee was whistled down. Cowell couldn't hit the free throw and Hereford began to slow down action. Killingsworth fouled out and Stange converted both charity attempts.

Hodges missed the first one and one attempt, then was called for fouling. Mike Calvert made both free throws with 1:03 left and Hereford ahead 43-37.

But Ferguson was fouled with 58 seconds left and made both free throws. Hutton missed his first free throw attempt, but Calvert got the rebound and hit for Dimmitt's last field goal. David Dowell put the icing on the cake for Hereford with a basket in the final seven seconds.

Hereford had a fine night at the free throw line, hitting seven of nine attempts. Danny Cates got ten points in the first half to lead the Herd's scoring, while Dwight McGee counted for nine. Mike Calvert got 23 and Cowell hit 11 while the rest of the Dimmitt squad got the other six. The Bobcats hit seven of 14 free throw attempts.

Haney, although limited on scoring, was outstanding on defense and on rebounds. The Herd kept Calvert outside all night. He hit well from there, but didn't do as much damage as if he had been inside. McGee and Jackson also did a fine job on rebounds during the game.

Hereford's high school cage crew looked real impressive in places at Dimmitt Friday night, and they know from experience how hard it is to win in the Bobcat gym. They will start district play here Friday night, hosting the new loop member, Perryton. The team has a very nice 9-4 record and would appreciate your support even more when they are playing for all the marbles.

Clint Forby tells us that Rep. Bob Poage was delighted to see the Hereford delegation at his appreciation dinner last week. In fact, he made three separate references to them during this speech and declared that all Texas should get behind the Hereford efforts for a sugar beet refinery. He also mentioned the two representatives who were present from Holly Sugar. One of the two is to be in Washington this week in an effort to get a little more tonnage allocated so the plant can be built here. Clint said the only gift that was given Poage during the evening was the set of custom-made gold cuff links made in the form of sugar beets. They must have been impressive.

So it now seems that Hereford and Holly are at least a week to ten days away from a final decision on whether the refinery will be built here in the immediate future. Join us in rooting wholeheartedly for a favorable decision.

We have been hearing some amusing stories about the Big Domino Band's trip to Dallas and the Cotton Bowl. Most of them centered around the many activities that the students enjoyed and the lack of sleep for both sponsors and students. As one of the students said after returning, "I figured I could sleep anytime and I didn't want to miss anything."

For this column, I am going to defer to an anonymous rhymester, whose wonderful composition is appearing in the current Good Housekeeping magazine:

HORSES DID THEIR PART

GREEN COVE SPRINGS, Fla. (AP)—Two saddle horses, used as sentries at a Clay County moonshine still, will be sold at auction.

The County Commission advertised the horses for sale after they were taken in a raid on a still last month. They must be advertised for 30 days prior to the auction.

Sheriff John Hall said it is not unusual for moonshiners to use horses in their illicit operations.

"In a heavily wooded area, they use the horses to make a getaway in the event of a raid," he said.

"Horses also serve as sentries because they usually lift their ears when they hear someone approaching."

Raiding officers said the horses gave an alarm as they approached the still but the two men arrested were so busy brewing whiskey they failed to notice the signal.

REVENGE FOR LOSS IN OPENER

Dogies Get Even In Win Over Bobcats By 45-34

Stanton Freshmen Dogies got even with the Dimmitt Bobcats here Thursday night. Dogies, angry because Dimmitt handed Stanton a one-point loss in overtime in the first game of the year, evened the score with a 45-34 win. The loss had been the only black mark on the Hereford squad's record, which now reads seven and one.

Steve Hodges must have been the Dogie who wanted to get the most revenge, as he ripped in 16 points to take scoring honors for the night. Others leading the Blue and White's scoring included Mike Moore with nine, Gary Payne with eight, and Robbie Lemons with six.

Stanton showed everyone that the win was no accident, while jumping to a 17-2 lead during the first quarter and then coasting the rest of the game.

Payne opened the action by racking up six points in the first quarter, while Hodges added a pair of free throws to field goals for six. Lemons hit for four and Moore added a charity mark to put the Dogies well out front.

Both squads found the going a little sluggish during the second quarter as Dimmitt managed only four more points. Moore hit a lonely two-counter in the second round, but Hodges tallied three more of the same.

Stanton headed for the dressing rooms at the half resting a top a 25-11 advantage.

Everybody came back to life in the third stanza. Dogies ripped in 14 points, while Dimmitt countered with 12... but not enough to close the gap.

Lemons, Payne, Roger Owen, and Gregg Richards all sank field goals. Hodges was awarded a pair of free throws to go with his basket for four points.

Dogies relaxed and coasted in for the win during the final round. Tooley hit two for the Dogies, and Moore, tossed in the ball for six points. Dimmitt found the range only twice, and then relied on three free throws to close the deficit to 45-34 before the final buzzer sounded.

In a game which was remarkably free of free throw conversions, both sides heard the whistle 15 times. But Stanton could convert only five of the calls to points while Dimmitt tallied on four of them.

Grain Sorghum Production Test Results Revealed

The yield of 66 varieties of hybrid grain sorghums evaluated under irrigation during 1962 varied from a high of 7274 pounds to a low of 5392 pounds per acre in tests conducted at High Plains Research Foundation.

The irrigated varieties and hybrids of milo were planted on May 20 and were harvested Sept. 29 and 30 on land that had been in cotton the previous year.

Total rainfall during the growing season was 13.69 inches with 4.53 inches falling in June; 5.14 inches in July, .3 of an inch, August, and 3.72 inches, September.

The test plots were fertilized with 120 pounds of nitrogen per acre applied on June 29 in the form of anhydrous ammonia.

Yields from the 66 varieties and hybrids of milo planted for drying test ranged from a high of 1198 pounds to a low of 93 pounds per acre in the 1962 tests.

Dryland test plots were planted May 27 with harvesting of the grain completed on Nov. 7 and 8. Sixty pounds of nitrogen in the form of anhydrous ammonia was applied to the plot.

Two adverse conditions, low August rainfall and midge damage, affected dryland grain sorghum yields especially in the late maturing varieties.

Barry Love, assistant agronomist, and Paul M. Belcher, laboratory assistant of the research foundation, conducted the 1962 tests.

Whiteface Bees In Win Over Dimmitt Bobcats

Hereford Bees proved the theory that it's a little more difficult to beat a team on the opponent's home court as the Herd downed Dimmitt 60-43 Friday night.

Whiteface Bees had previously hosted the Bobcats here. In their first encounter, the Herd claimed a 24-point margin.

Friday's win gives Hereford a seven-five record as non-district play draws to a close. The Herd opens district competition Friday, Jan. 11, as the Perryton Rangers come to town.

Hereford came from a one-point deficit at the end of the first quarter to take undisputed command in the game. Leading 29-21 at the half, the Herd allowed everyone on the squad in on the action.

Although scoring duties were assigned to almost everyone on the team, Ronnie Welty and Charlie Moreno led the squad with 12 each. Gary Roberson tallied eight and Frank Cain netted six.

Slow to start, the Whitefaces trailed 10-11 after the first period of play. Charlie Moreno hit a field goal and then tacked on a pair of free ones, and then Welty, Roberson, and Kenny Justice found the range for a two-pointer each.

Hereford got the ball through the hoop more often in the second period to take a 29-21 command. Moreno converted four of six free throw attempts. Welty went up for six points, and Neal Lueb hit a charity toss after making a field goal.

Cain, David Stevens, and Gary Stagner tallied two-pointers before the half.

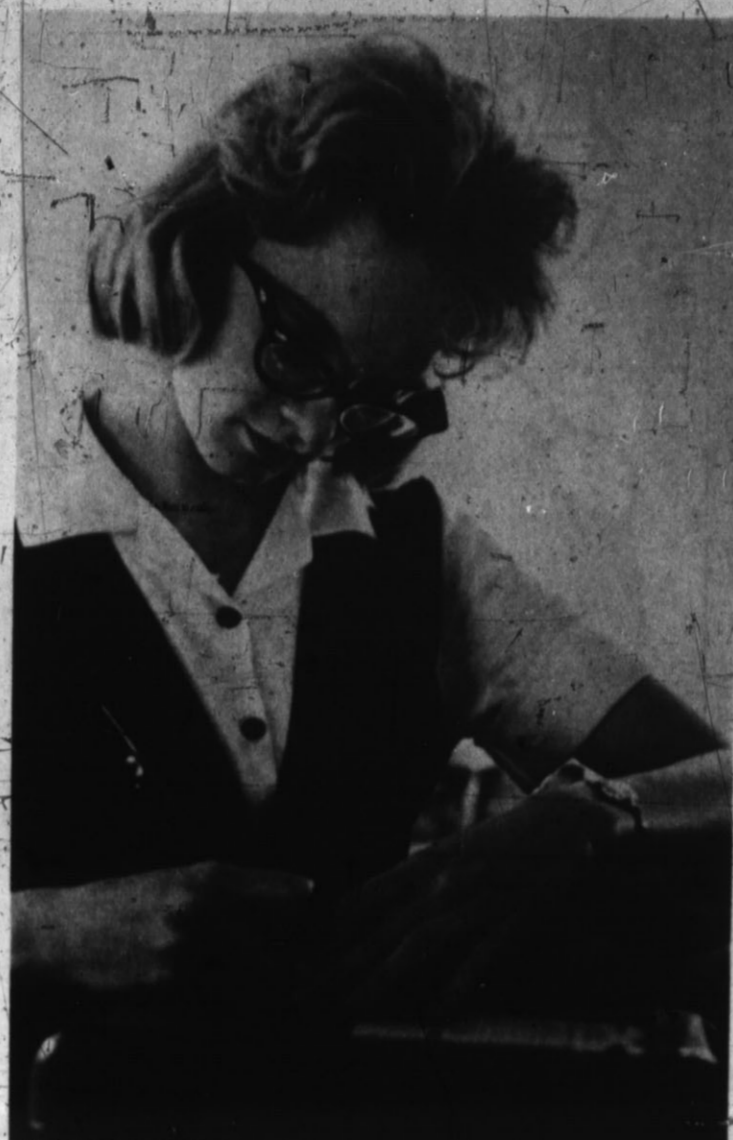

Third quarter saw both squads slacking off, with Hereford hitting 11 and the Bobcats making ten. Jimmy Childers, Lynn Cook, Lueb, Stevens, Roberson, and Welty joined forces to maintain the lead.

The Herd ripped in 18 points in the final round, despite commanding a 42-51 stronghold at the beginning of the quarter. Cagers went to the foul line nine times during the eight minutes, as the Bobcats fought for the ball in an attempt to catch up.

Welty hit his final basket of the night, and then Roberson made good a free one, a field goal, and then another from the foul line. Moreno scored, and then tossed through two charity shots.

Cain hit twice from the court for four points, and Cook and Childers each tacked on tallies to close the scoring with Hereford winning 60-43.

Both squads heard the whistle blow against them 25 times each. But the Herd hit 14 free throws while Dimmitt converted 13. Whitefaces burned the cords for 23 field goals during the match, while Bobcats found the range only 15 times.

Miss Necia Gililand Exchanges Vows With Van Allen Trapp In Floydada

MRS. VAN ALLEN TRAPP former Necia Valine Gililand (Howard Qualls Studio)

Miss Necia Valine Gililand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gililand, formerly of Hereford and now of Dumas, became the bride of Van Allen Trapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Trapp of Floydada, in a double ring ceremony on Sunday, Dec. 23, at 2:30 p. m. in the First Methodist Church of Floydada.

The Rev. Charles Lutrick, pastor of the church, read the ceremony in front of the altar where a gold cross and open Bible were flanked by burning candles. At each end of the altar were large bouquets of red poinsettias, offset by two wedding candelabra with white candles. Family pews were marked by large white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a slipper satin gown, the closely fitted bodice having a scoop neckline, long petal point sleeves, with the back opening extending below the waistline and fastened with tiny pearl buttons. Her softly pleated floor length skirt extended into a chapel train. Her veil of lace edged tulle draped from a tiny crown of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was one large white mum centered with tiny white balls, with a shower of mum petals and tiny silver balls falling to a point. The tradition of something old, something borrowed and something blue was carried out. She wore the gold wedding band belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Price Prather of Hereford, and a blue garter sent her by Miss Betty Kizja of Mercedes. In her shoe she wore a six pence minted in 1944, the year of her birth.

Miss Lana Davis, church organist, played a medley of wedding music, including the traditional wedding marches. She accompanied Miss Sarah Ragle of Vernon as she sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly". For the benediction, Miss Ragle sang "The Lord's Prayer", while the couple knelt at the altar.

Miss Jan Dempsey of Floydada served the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a red brocade cotton street length sheath dress accented with silver slippers and a veiled halo matching her dress. She carried a single long stemmed poinsettia. The bride's other attendants were Miss Dorsey Mutter of Amarillo, Debbie Ferguson of Hereford and Janice Trapp, sister of the groom, from Floydada. They were attired in identical white brocade taffeta street length sheath dresses accented with silver slippers and veiled halos matching their dresses. They also carried a single long stemmed red poinsettia. Miss Mutter and Miss Trapp also served as candle lighters.

Serving the groom as best man was his father, W. W. Trapp. Groomsmen were Pat Ginn and Fred Thayer of Floydada and Wilbur Trapp, brother of the groom, from El Paso. Ushers were Joe Fulton of Floydada and Darrell Gililand, brother of the bride.

Mother of the bride wore a beige antique satin suit dress with black accessories accented with a white orchid corsage.

Groom's mother wore a black wool suit with black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with a white net cloth over white satin. It was centered with the bride's bouquet and the attendant's poinsettias. The three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was served by Mrs. Wilbur Trapp, sister-in-law of the groom, from El Paso. Wedding punch was served from a crystal punch bowl by Mrs. Lawrence Stovall, sister of the groom, from Floydada.

Registering the wedding and reception guests was Miss Dorothy Edmiston of Floydada.

For a short wedding trip the bride wore a megenta wool suit with black accessories. Her corsage was made from mum petals sprinkled with tiny silver balls.

After Jan. 7 the couple will be at home at 1311 South Madison in Amarillo. They are both graduates of Floydada High School and are now attending Draughon's Business College in Amarillo, where they plan to continue their business education.

Senator Kerr's Book Reviewed For Summerfield Study Club

For the first meeting of the New Year, the Summerfield Study Club met on Thursday, Jan. 3, with Mrs. R. B. Baker, Mrs. Ky Lawrence served as assistant hostess. Invocation was given by Mrs. C. Clearman.

During the business meeting, the club made a donation to the Guadalupe Maternity Hospital, at the Hereford Labor Camp.

An election of officers for the following year was held. They are as follows: Mrs. J. B. Noland, president; Mrs. R. B. Baker, vice president; Mrs. Guy Waiser, recording secretary; Mrs. Lee Curry, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Earl Lance Jr., treasurer; Mrs. Mack Noland, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Earl W. Lance Sr., historian.

A book review was given by Mrs. J. R. Euler on the book by Robert Kerr, "Land, Wood and Water."

In describing the late Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, she said that he was perhaps better qualified than any other man in America to authoritatively discuss conservation policies and programs.

Born in Oklahoma Territory in a log cabin, Bob Kerr was initiated in early boyhood into the dangers that threaten a nation's economy when there is no organized conservation plan for the protection and utilization of its natural resources. Wells can run dry and civilization can perish.

"Land, Wood and Water" is a fascinating study of conservation, one of the most vital problems affecting America today, written by a distinguished public servant, who was eager for the people to have a full and accurate picture of the subject and its many ramifications, she declared.

In concluding she said, "Though the world daily grows more sensitive to the ominous echoes of atom bomb blasts, and space missiles, man must learn how to feed a growing population and that erodes, to meet expanding housing needs from our vanishing lumber, to sustain life on a water supply that is diminishing."

by Melvin Young
1962 has truly been an eventful year considering the Billie Sol Estes scandal, John Glenn's triple orbit of the earth, the opening of King's Manor, prospects of a sugar beet mill for Hereford, and my return to the newspaper business. The latter may be a little questionable to a lot of people, but certainly a big event around the Young residence. I am just now getting settled down to my new duties at the Hereford Brand, and can truthfully say that I'm enjoying the business more everyday.

HB
Actually, I have enjoyed the past 3 years and 4 months that I was associated with Plains Fertilizer, and made many new friends among the farmers of the area, and have confirmed my previous suspicions that there's not a nicer bunch of people anywhere than those found in the Dear Smith-Castro area. I'm also convinced that there aren't any better farmers anywhere in the world. However I have been around a newspaper office, both in Hereford and elsewhere, for over 15 years and I guess it's a little hard to "get the ink out of my blood."

HB
The reaction among my friends after the return to newspaper work was varied. J. P. Jones said that he was sure glad to see me back on the pension list, and Martin Wagner who farms 1 mile south of Hereford figured that I must have gotten mighty smart in the short time that I was away, since he's quite sure that I wasn't smart enough to hold down this job when I left. He could be right, too.

Emmett Milburn figured that if I was that hard-up for employment, he might just use me on the car wash rack. However, Emmett never did get around to talking about salary, so I dropped that where it was.

HB
Visited with "Alfalfa" Charlie Holt the other day, and Charlie tells me that he has the world's most remarkable bird dog. Now those people that are pretty well acquainted with Charlie know that I'm talking about 'Zeb.

The way I hear the story is that 'Zeb' is club footed, and when taken out to the field for a day of hunting, he immediately starts by making a wide circle around the field, and continues circling until he finally drives all the birds into a gopher hole. Then, and Charlie will swear that this is the truth, Zeb will hold his foot over the hole, letting the birds escape one-at-a-time, until Charlie has bagged them all. Now if that's not enough to prove to any "doubting Thomas" that Zeb is truly a remarkable bird dog, then I would suggest that you just talk to Mr. Holt personally. I understand that 'Zeb' has other talents, but I don't want to steal all of Charlie's thunder in this column.

HB
Grady Rogers of Rogers' Drug has recently instituted a new service that we're sure will be welcomed by all the tax-paying citizens of this area. The new service will provide the average family with an annual record of drug purchases for federal income tax purposes, and will be provided without charge to customers.

HB
The system, called DrugTax, uses data processing equipment to keep a record of drug purchases that may be deductible in computing federal income tax returns. Each customer will be assigned a code number, and purchases will be recorded on "memory tapes." At the end of the year, DrugTax, Inc. will mail each customer a record of the total amount which may be deductible in computing the tax return. We understand that this service has been tried in other areas and has been quite successful.

HB
Hereford, sugar beet mill or no mill, is still growing. We understand that Cowan Jewelry is getting ready to enlarge their building, and Kenneth says this will almost double the present amount of floor space. Mrs. Arthur Thompson at Little's has announced remodeling plans, with an additional 30 feet added to the back of the building, and McGee Furniture will complete the second floor of their present building increasing their floor space by approximately 5,000 feet. We understand there are others in the "talking stage" but no definite plans to date.

HB
Just returned from the Cotton Bowl classic in Dallas, and really enjoyed the trip, although I was a little disappointed in the performance of the highly-rated Texas Longhorns. I made the trip riding "shotgun" for "Biz" Gilentine, Carlton Richardson and Kenny Justice (all three teen-agers) so the trip was not without its lighter moments. However, and this may come as a surprise to their parents, all three boys were well-behaved. They did, however, display much more vim, vigor and vitality than did the "older" member of the foursome. We did survive the trip and probably got more sleep than the folks who chaperoned the Big Domino band. Don't know how many "went down with the band, but we saw Mr. and Mrs. Curtis O. Roach, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Boyer and Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider at the game.

HB
Need some rattlesnake meat? Officials of the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville recently received an unusual suggestion from one of the Huntsville inmates. The written reply to this suggestion which crossed the desk of Richard C. Jones, Director of the Treatment Program speaks for itself.

HB
"We have your letter of December 18, 1962 addressed to Hospital Director, Dr. Hanson, in which you offer your services in catching snakes.

HB
"We realize the value of snake meat, hide and venom but doubt that there would be much demand for it here, and besides we have no one here who has expressed a desire to milk snakes.

HB
"Thank you for your interest in this subject."

HB
Mr. Jones says he doubts the program will be placed in practice in the near future.

HB
Marvin Cance heard a noise outside one night, grabbed a baseball bat and went after the intruder.

HB
He saw a 6-footer behind the home of neighbor Lloyd Betts. Cance moved quietly, cautiously toward the figure, then swung the bat.

HB
Said Betts later: "He darn near killed my banana tree."

HB
NEITHER WILD NOR WEST WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—It is quite evident that this city lacks something in Wild West performance. The Opequon Saddle Club had eight contestants in the calf roping contest at its horse show. The calves were too fast and tricky and there was no winner of the contest.

CHOOSING A DATE VARINA, Va. (AP)—The high school graduates here got their diplomas two days early. Commencement was supposed to be June 12, but the printer made an error in the program and listed it as June 13. When they reached the school it was too late to have them reprinted.

SKIPPY'S LOST AND FOUND LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Skippy Taustine, 12, lives next to a golf course fairway—and he has made good use of the location. He scours the yard each day for errant golf balls.

He has several hundred dollars worth of stock he's paid for with golf balls," his mother explains. "It's for his college."

HB
IN BOOTS' GARDEN DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Poppies from Flanders Field in France still are growing in the garden of Clyde L. Boots, who lives on a farm in the Des Moines area.

HB
He says he brought the seed to his mother when he came home from France in 1919, after the close of World War I. He carried the seed in a capsule then used by the Signal Corps for sending messages by carrier pigeon. The current crop of blooms originated from that seed.

HB
NOW HE TELLS US ATLANTA (AP)—A Fulton County Grand Jury had been in session for about four months when its foreman, Jack Isenberg, was replaced with another foreman.

HB
Isenberg lived in an adjoining county and was ineligible to serve.

HB
FIDO COULD ESCAPE FALLOUT BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP)—A 62-year-old man was charged with violating state liquor laws when police found 49 gallons of illicit whiskey hidden beneath his doghouse.

HB
Officers said the underground hideout was almost big enough to be a fallout shelter.

HB
NOT PART OF THE MAIN ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—This convention and resort city is actually on an island off the New Jersey coast.

HB
Three smaller resort communities—Ventnor, Margate and Longport—are on the island, Absecon Island.

Under average conditions, a Florida fresh-water bass will grow to a length of one foot, or a weight of one pound, in its first year of life.

MADE HERSELF AT HOME LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—J. B. Tabler loves birds but not this one. The frisky female flew down the chimney at his home, nested in an ash tray in the living room, and laid an egg.

ATTENDS COTTON BOWL GAME Jim Conkwright, who attends college at Texas Tech, was among those attending the Cotton Bowl Football Game at Dallas on New Year's Day. After spending the Christmas holidays in Hereford, Jim was guest of relatives and friends down state for several days and attended the game and bowl festivities with other college classmates.

Texas Tourist Council Backed By Local C of C

The Tourist and Convention Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will work with and support the efforts of the Texas Tourist Council.

Permanent offices of the newly organized Texas Tourist Council have been established in Austin in the International Life Building and the executive office of the association has been named.

Bill Stinson of San Antonio was appointed Executive Vice President and General Manager of the Texas Tourist Council. The announcement was made at the November board meeting by Council President James M. Gaines of San Antonio.

The Texas Tourist Council was organized as a result of a meeting held in Austin in November, 1961. More than 600 people attended that meeting to determine what could be done to stop the decline in the flow of tourists to Texas, which has been on a steady decline since 1957. It was decided at that meeting that an active citizens organization was needed to push for a strong state supported program. In early 1962 a board of directors was named, a constitution and by-laws drawn up and adopted, and the organization was chartered under Texas law as a non-profit corporation dedicated to the stimulation of the tourist trade in the State.

Governor-Elect John Connally, making his first appearance after the election, spoke to the Council's Board of Directors at their November meeting and re-emphasized his strong stand for a much-needed tourist program in Texas. Governor Connally said "It is essential that we have aggressive, substantial efforts in behalf of the Texas Tourist program and I therefore pledge my support to the Texas Tourist Council, which is doing such vital work in this area."

Council President Jim Gaines called for state-wide citizen support as he announced plans for an intensive membership campaign to begin in January, 1963. Gaines said "while Tourism is the nation's third largest industry, it ranks 13th in Texas."

"Tourists spent 440 million dollars in Texas last year," Gaines added, "but that figure is down 100 million dollars a year since 1957. The tourist dollar is an important part of the economy of every city and town in Texas," Gaines pointed out. "With strong grass roots support of the Texas Tourist Council and its legislative program, Texas can take its place as the nation's number one tourist spot."

Nine Appointed To Historical Survey Group

The appointment of members of the Deaf Smith County Historical Survey Committee was announced here recently by County Judge H. C. Williams.

Members of the historical survey committee selected to serve two-year terms are Will G. Harris, J. B. Elliston, Mrs. Clara Shore, Mrs. Reed Williams, Mrs. Henry Sears, Mrs. Clint Formby, Miss Lucille Park, Mrs. Lee Newman and Mrs. Art Manjoet.

Currently the survey committees in counties throughout Texas are locating and marking the graves of Civil War veterans and are sponsoring Historical Building Medallions which are placed on historic structures.

"The Texas State Historical Survey Committee is happy to have Deaf Smith County included in the more than 240 counties actively working toward the goal of historical preservation," said Dr. Robert N. Richardson, Abilene, president of the state committee.

The Committee, he continued, wishes to thank Judge Williams for appointing a survey committee to work in Deaf Smith County.

Dr. Richardson pointed out that every county has a unique history, and Deaf Smith County is no exception. The county committee will be concerned with historic buildings, museums in pieces, markers and records of the county.

How Will Today's News Measure Up In 1973?

Looking back over the news review of 1962, we are once again reminded of an old newspaper "time test" which measures events not by the way they look today, but by how impressive they will be to someone who reads them in the files 10 years from now. Needless to say, it is a tough test to pass.

During the past 12 months, Hereford has survived such calamities as murder, fire, and nine traffic deaths; it has recorded DVI charges, faced all kinds of weather, graduated a class of fine youngsters, and almost secured a gigantic sugar plant. These things are important, but out of the lot stands the opening of a new hospital wing and King's Manor, both representing the realization of important dreams for a growing community.

Some may argue that new record construction and record bank deposits should rank tops in the list, but these accomplishments came because of dreams realized in other years — while King's Manor and the hospital wing will help future generations to the same realization in years to come. Without question, these improvements will still be serving the territory long after folks cease talking about the "Buffs winning the Sun Bowl", and only the files will record a true record of Billie Sol Estes.

Another important development in this area is found in the large number of farm and farm-affiliated awards and recognition which came our way during the past year. More than ever before and, it seems to us, more than perhaps anywhere else in the nation have our boys and girls been singled out for regional, state, national and international honors. While such recognition improves our current outlook, it also adds tremendously to the long-range outlook for our community. Our youth, undoubtedly sitting on top of one of the most productive agricultural areas in the nation, is taking advantage of the opportunities offered; still more important, it is development which indicates that the community will continue to grow and prosper as these youngsters return home from various schools to take their places as leading citizens in future years.

We will be among the first to admit that most of the things we mentioned will not do a lot for the community in 1963 but in 1973 — 10 years from now — they will help establish new record high bank deposits and record building permits. More people will turn back through the files to check these items than probably any other events which may have occurred during 1962.

Such is the basis of the "time test", which someone else may interpret in an entirely different manner. Generally, though, we believe you will agree that it is really the most difficult test of all to pass.

How Much Is An Arm Worth?

What would you take for your right arm? Certainly, it would be priceless. Yet, in talking recently with a fellow who had lost his arm through necessary surgery, we ran into a bit of philosophy, which could be worth even more than a valued right arm.

"When I learned that I must lose my arm," said the man, who happened to be a physician, "I began wondering what people would think. How would they react? I did not want pity, nor did I want to be ignored. Suddenly, I realized that I didn't know what I wanted, or what to expect."

After considerable thought, the man took every possible minute to mingle among his friends and acquaintances the week prior to his amputation. He lingered in the drug store drinking coffee, he did not want, he went to the ball games, to public meetings and everywhere — he asked the question:

"Did you hear that I am going to lose my arm?"

His friends reacted in a normal manner, because he still had his arm, and if someone sympathized a bit too much, that was alright, too, because the man also realized that his arm was still intact. Finally, the day came and the amputation was performed. The doctor went back to his work — and no one was surprised or startled. Everyone knew that he had the arm removed, and everyone was glad to have him back on the job. It took a while to get used to administering shots with one hand, sure — but everyone is just about as happy as before, except Doc, who never before realized that he had so many friends, and is consequently even a mite on the bright side these days.

"Besides, if you stop and weigh things carefully," he said, "many of the things we fear are developed within our own minds."

Meanwhile, if we analyze the good doctor's philosophy carefully, we must agree that public reaction is the one thing most of us fear. Once a fault is broadcast and kicked around, it becomes secondary in the course of human events. How many times do we brood over possibilities which never occur? How many times do we develop a resistance to normal kindness and friendly reaction through negative aspects which rest only in our minds?

Yes, the doctor lost an arm, but from his down-to-earth, horse sense approach to the affair all of us can learn a lesson which will make us better neighbors, better friends — and better people, even unto ourselves.

Seat Belts And 3 Types Of Drivers

Motorists may be divided, for the purpose of this editorial, into three basic groups:

First, those who don't believe in the value of auto seat belts.

Second, those who think they should have belts in their cars, but just haven't gotten around to it yet.

Third, those who have belts and swear by them.

Of these, we belong to the third group and freely admit it. For a time, we were members of the first group. Belts were fine for those who traveled all the time, or those who drove too fast.

Then, after some thought and study, we joined the second group. When we bought another car, we thought, we would have seat belts installed in it.

Fortunately, we were able to join the third group before needing the belts.

Now, we would like to try to gain some converts from the first and second ranks. For those who don't realize the value of seat belts, we would like to point out that their cost is negligible, particularly compared with the cost of treatment for a head injury or the expense of a funeral. Most accidents, more than 60 per cent in fact, occur at speeds of less than 45 miles per hour and within 25 miles of the driver's home. That indicates the need of wearing belts when dashing to school or the grocery

Not All 'Swiss' Textiles Come From Switzerland

Fine fabrics and embroideries from the looms of Switzerland are as popular in the United States today as they have been in the past. Numerous domestic fabrics, similar in appearance and texture continue to be offered in competition to the imported Swiss goods.

As is often the case with successful products, competition in the form of fabrics and embroideries manufactured in countries other than Switzerland, have been introduced in the United States market in patterns, textures and appearance similar to the goods of Swiss manufacture. There has been a tendency on the part of numerous advertisers to attempt to trade upon the acceptance of goods of Swiss manufacture by the use of the word "Swiss" in describing their goods. Although it seems obvious that fabrics, or any other goods of foreign origin should not be misrepresented in the United States as being "American" it seemingly is not apparent that American fabrics should not likewise be misrepresented as being "Swiss" origin. In fact, the National Better Business Bureau has noted an increasing tendency on the part of numerous advertisers of American made fabrics to imply that such domestic fabrics are of Swiss origin through the use of such terms as "Swiss Type," "Swiss Style," etc.

The word "Swiss" does not denote a style or type of fabric. It denotes a product of Swiss origin. The Swiss textile industry manufactures many kinds of fabrics just as the American textile industry does and it is not noted in the textile business for producing a particular type or style of fabric.

The word "Swiss" as applied to fabrics and embroidery is, with one exception, a geographic term and should not be applied as a trade name or a designation of style or type of embroidery or fabric. The one exception to this general rule is the term "Dotted Swiss." This description although originally a designation of a cotton fabric with a woven-in-dot made in Switzerland has, through use in the American market, come to mean any cotton fabric with a woven-in dot regardless of the country of manufacture. This use of the term "Dotted Swiss" has led to considerable confusion and it is recommended that whenever Dotted Swiss is used, that a designation of country of origin be displayed in the immediate proximity. Aside from "Dotted Swiss," no other fabric or embroidery may be correctly described by the use of the word "Swiss" unless that fabric or embroidery is actually manufactured in Switzerland.

Legal Notice Advertises XIT Ranch Land Sale

A series of legal notices appearing in the first issues of The Hereford Brand advertised one of the biggest land sales in the history of Deaf Smith County as 33,444 acres of ranch land was to be put on the auction block.

These legal notices began: "Notice is hereby given that on the 4th day of February, 1913, between the hours of ten o'clock a.m. and four o'clock p.m., I, George Findlay, Trustee, shall proceed to sell at public outcry in front of the court house door of Deaf Smith County, in Hereford, Texas, to the highest bidder for cash the following described property situated in Deaf Smith County . . .

To be sold at auction were 183 tracts of land ranging in size from .68 to 640 acres. This land belonged to the Capitol Freehold Land and Investment Company, Ltd., owners of the famous XIT Ranch.

The land to be sold was turned over to Findlay for "the purpose of securing payments of certain notes" which had been described in deeds of trust.

Money from the sale of the land was to be applied to payment due on the balance of indebtedness, the expense of the sale, and the remainder paid to the holder of the deed of trust or to his order.

25 YEARS AGO

Smashing all previous records, the Hereford post office reported the greatest annual sales in its history with the close of business, Dec. 31, 1937. Postmaster Walter Pickett, announced today. More surprising than the increase over last year, however, was the fact that sales in the Hereford post office surpassed those for the peak business years of 1929 and 1930. Total receipts for the year just ended were $17,759.25, as compared with $14,431.45 in 1936. Total receipts for 1929, which goes down in history as the second largest year in sales, showed a total of $16,796.57. Heavy Christmas business was reflected in December reports which boosted the final quarter of the year to an all-time high record.

store or driving to work, as well as on the highway.

"But my car is old and it's not worth it to put belts in," you might say. Or, the other standard argument, "My children just wouldn't wear them."

Neither argument is valid. Belts can be easily installed in any car, regardless of age, and may be quickly taken out and put in another car if desired. Children will wear belts, even those as young as 12 months. If you doubt it, I can supply a number of parents who would tell you of their pleasant experiences; children as young as one year wearing belts happily for a 1,000-mile trip, youngsters who now sit in their belts instead of crawling over the seats or fighting with one another.

No matter how you figure it, belts are a good investment . . . and a little like accident insurance in that you hope you never have to use it.

FARM INCOME HITS RECORD HIGH

This year's super-high cotton production in the county, plus a maize crop worth more than $16 million to Lamb County farmers, will probably make 1962 the banner income year of all time, which can only result in banner year for all lines of business throughout the county in 1963. Lamb County has almost certainly clinched second place for the state, behind Lubbock County alone, for 1962 cotton production. Standing in the nation is also to be near the top. As of last Friday, gins had processed 205,430 bales, and estimated that between 5000 and 10,000 bales are still in the field or awaiting service in loads at county gins. The ginning tabulation of all county gins has been done weekly by Texas Employment Commission since harvest began. This tops even the Plains Cotton Growers Association estimate of 205,000 made after a survey by their field agents, and also tops every prognosis by cotton men who are supposed to know, around the county. Estimating the crop is a favorite past-time hereabouts, especially during periods of ginning delay due to weather conditions.

TELEVISION CABLE CONSTRUCTION TO BEGIN

Stratford will have cable television service available within the next two months. The Star learned Wednesday afternoon. "We hope to be able to tie on the first customer within 60 working days," Roger Woolton, local manager for Inter-City TV Co. told The Star. The weather will be the final deciding factor, he added. The permit for ITC to begin work in Stratford was okayed only a few days ago by the City Council and already the company has a carload of poles in town which they will begin setting late this week. Rates for service will be $7 per month, with no tie-in charge, Woolton said. The service will be available to anyone within the city limits.

TWO FLOYDADA FIRMS BURGLARIZED

Two Floydada firms were burglarized during the holiday season, both were located in the block. One building was entered from the front while the other was broken into from the rear. At Hagood's Department store, thieves carried several items of clothing out of a broken front door early Friday morning. Entry into Bradford Jewelry store was made through the rear Monday. Investigating officers surmised that the person or persons who entered the jewelry store would have had to have been very slim in order to get between the metal bars across the rear door. Houston Bradford estimated that approximately $300 worth of rings, watches, and bracelets were taken from display cases and windows. Merchandise valued at thousands of dollars was taken from the department store in the burglary Friday. Full extent of the loss is not known at this time.

CONSTRUCTION SETS NEW RECORD

Construction in Friona for 1962 set an all-time record, according to building permit records released this week by Friona City Manager Arley L. Outland's figures, which were inclusive of Dec. 26, showed that 74 permits were issued by the city office during the year for construction worth an estimated $725,624. The previous high figure for a single year was in 1960 when permits totalled $630,365, so this year's figure was a new record by almost $100,000. The 1962 was up 73 per cent from last year's which was only $420,350, the lowest in recent years.

THE BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his hindmost farm maps his plans for 1963, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

According to an article by an expert on world affairs which I read last night to rest my mind after mapping my plans for 1963, you can spin a globe of the earth and point your finger at it and regardless of where it comes to a stop, there'll be a crisis there.

This was supposed to convince you that times are serious, the world's in a ferment, and the days ahead are uncertain.

All this proves to me, however, is that this expert's not very familiar with the world's record.

There never was a time when you couldn't point your finger at any spot on the globe and show up a crisis. Even if you missed a country's capital and got only a farm house or an apartment in town, there'd still be a crisis there, and nine times out of ten it'd be financial, the same as it is in the major trouble spots around the globe.

What this expert ought to realize is that if most individuals can live with crisis all their lives, the world ought to be able to also. A majority of crisis can be solved by money, but there never is enough money to whip them all at one time.

But what I started out to say was that I have now mapped my plans for the 1963 farming year. What most people don't realize is the number of gambles a farmer faces. Oh sure, everybody knows a farmer has to gamble with the weather, insects, and the market, but what some people don't seem to realize is that a farmer has to gamble with himself. Just because the weather is pretty and the tractor is ready to run, is no sign I am. How can a man predict that he'll be ready to fight when the insects are? Who wants to go fishing when it's raining?

My plans are all made, but they consist mostly of doing what I feel like each day after I've carefully weighed the prospects.

Sure, 1963 is fraught with uncertainties. So was 1962, or 1961, or 1960, or the year I. Let her rip.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Thank You . . . Santa Claus

"Thank You, Santa Claus"

Christmas is already past, but this remark — uttered many times by some 900 youngsters who would have otherwise gone without — Christmas toys is amplified several thousand times more by those of us who appreciate with equal fervor the effort and work of members of VFW, Bluebirds and Campfire in gathering, preparing and distributing toys again this year.

Most of these people took time away from their homes and their own families to help with the project. Often an extra touch here and a bit of pain there helped the amateur overcome the lack of professional experience and, by the same token, the true Christmas spirit of a volunteer collector often caused a youngster or his mother to retrace her steps for some other toy, perhaps just a little bit better.

These are the things which contribute most to Christmas. You seldom hear them from the critics who cry "Commercialism!", and you never hear them from the folks who actually do the work. Still, they happen, and all of us are proud for herein lies the true spirit of Christmas which means so much to America.

Mrs. Schirra Sr. Reminisces Astronaut's Mom Hawked Plane Rides

EDITOR'S NOTE: The next astronaut slated for space travel is a 39-year-old Navy commander who came by his love of flying naturally. Not only was his father a World War I pilot, but his mother used to walk the wings of a plane in flight. Here's the story of that remarkable woman—and mother.)

BY WILLIAM OLCOTT

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Jolly Mrs. Walter Marty Schirra Sr., mother of America's next man in space, smiles reflectively.

"The Schirra family has always had a lot of fun. We did each other a lot and whenever we get together, there's somebody who gets it."

The warm, friendly matriarch of the three-generation Schirra family goes on.

"We had a wonderful family life, we lived like a family, we

Now she and her husband, a retired civilian Air Force engineer, live here in a white stucco home on Loma Portal that's filled with furniture and art objects from their years in the Far East.

If her astronaut son were only based in San Diego, the family would be close together again. Her daughter, Georgia, married to Navy Cmdr. John Barham, lives here.

But Mrs. Schirra visits her son as often as she can, she says about his wife Josephine, "Jo's darling. She deserves all the credit for bringing the children up, because Wally is never home."

She beams at the mention of her grandchildren, Marty, 12, and Suzie, 4.

During a visit to her son's home recently, she recalls Suzie embraced her, looked up and whis-

Wally Goes to Annapolis
The Schirras built a home in Oradell, N. J., and lived there until 1942. Walter went off on a tour of duty in Trinidad, British, French and Dutch Guiana.

Wally left for Annapolis and Mrs. Schirra and her teen-age daughter, Georgia, were alone. Two years later, the clan migrated again, when Georgia left to attend the University of Virginia and Schirra took a job in Washington. Since Wally was at Annapolis, Fairlington, Va., was a midway point for the family.

After Wally was graduated from the Naval Academy, the Schirras went to Japan and lived there for 10 years. She taught English conversation for two years to students of Keio University in Tokyo. Among her students were children of prominent artists, state department officials and members of the imperial household, including Prince Kan, elder brother of the Empress.

When she left, admiring students presented her with two rare wood block prints. "They are Toyokuni originals and a technique dealer told me they are more than 200 years old," Mrs. Schirra says.

Once Exhibited Paintings
She never lost her interest in art. She once exhibited 45 paintings in the Takashima Art Gallery in Tokyo. Her favorite portrait is that of an Arab she met in Hong Kong. "He is my other love and I keep him in the bedroom," says Mrs. Schirra.

As a consulting engineer for the Pacific Air Command, Schirra travelled all over the Far East—Taiwan, Hong Kong, Korea.

The couple spent six years in Hawaii, after Schirra retired in 1956. While there, Mrs. Schirra learned to play the Hawaiian guitar, but she had to forsake the hula because of arthritis. "Besides, I'm not the type."

She's Official Spokesman
Mrs. Schirra is the official spokesman when dealing with the press. She kids her husband about his reticence. "Everybody asks why they read 'Mrs. Schirra said' all the time, and never see 'Mr. Schirra said'. But whenever my husband answers the phone and it is a reporter, he says, 'It's for you, dear.'"

GOOD SAMARITAN
CAME PREPARED
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—John E. Lindsay and his girl friend were returning from a late dance when their car ran out of gasoline. The streets were deserted and all of the service stations appeared to be closed. Finally an auto appeared, stopped and out jumped an elderly man. He discovered Lindsay's problem; returned to his own car and brought back a two-gallon can. The man poured the gasoline into the stalled auto, but refused to accept any money or give his name. He merely said: "I carry gasoline all the time for stranded motorists. I wish others would do this and maybe we could spread some human brotherhood."

A BIG BLOW OUT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — With determination, and a lot of electrical sockets, you can cook dinner for six without a stove.

After Robert and Jean Zeh moved into a new apartment, they invited four friends to dinner. The guests arrived, but the new electric stove didn't.

The hostess plunked a chicken into an electric skillet and plugged it into the outlet in the bedroom. Over in the den, her husband baked potatoes in a dutch oven.

The broccoli went into the coffee pot and was cooked in the hall. Soft rolls were heated in utensils connected to other plugs.

When everything was ready, the food was served by candle light. The heavy load had blown a fuse.

ANOTHER WEAPON TOY

CORN, Okla. (AP) The boomerang business is booming in Oklahoma. An enterprising 28-year-old mechanical engineer from near-by Cloud-Chief, Okla., W. H. Isbell, has found a ready market for the curved weapon of the Australian aborigines. Isbell's boomerang isn't the lethal variety which the Australian back-bushers use for hunting. It's a copy of light-weight sycamore wood designed as a toy. Isbell has made 20,000 of the boomerangs since he first got into the business to pick up some extra money eight years ago, when he was a student at John Brown University in Sloom Springs, Ark. Now Isbell has set up a production line to produce 150 boomerangs a day in an abandoned dry cleaning shop in this small southwestern Oklahoma town.

"We're making them for stores in the Southwest and Texas and quite a few orders are coming from the West Coast," Isbell reported.

Measurement of Water Levels Gets Underway

Measurements of water levels in observation wells has started in Deaf Smith County and other counties in the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District. This work is being done in cooperation with the Texas Water Commission. Annual measurements are made each January when interference from pumping wells is at a minimum. During the past year, additional observation wells have been selected at strategic points so that in the near future there will be at least one observation well for every 2 1/2 to 3 miles. The water levels in wells show the extent to which water supplies are depleted by drought or by heavy pumping for irrigation, industrial and municipal uses, and also the extent to which they are replenished in seasons of abundant rainfall or melting snow. For the month of January, personnel from the Water District and the Water Commission will be in the field making measurements. Results of this year's measurements will be released publicly by the District in the early spring.

MONA'S COFFEE BREAK

A Teenager's First Vision Of Poverty

By Mona Sette

My discordant banging on the piano keys almost succeeded in drowning out the knocking at the front door, which had been left open to admit the last lingering rays of the September afternoon's sunlight.

The repetitious raps finally permeated my musical trance and I got up from the piano bench and, started toward the door. Suddenly, I stopped short and returned the stare directed at me by a weird spectator peering into the room from cupped hands through the screen door.

It backed up as I pushed the screen door open and stepped outside to the front porch. I was just 15 years old at the time and gaped with the rudeness of the young apparition standing before me.

It was a she! She was clothed in a shabby cotton dress that had been washed so many times the pattern of the material was barely discernible. It hung loosely on her small frame, and was either hand-me-down bought for a larger woman or she had lost a good deal of weight since its initial outing. Her bosom sloped in pendulous dejection, obviously lacking the benefits of any foundation garment.

Tied around her head, kerchief style, was an old-fashioned scarlet bandanna with wispy tangle of sun-colored hair escaping at random. Her blue eyes regarded me, bird-like from beneath thin, almost white eyebrows. Every inch of her exposed flesh was burned to a raw, monstrous red, giving her the appearance of a bar-b-queed turkey.

Her feet were imprisoned in a pair of sturdy oxfords, glittering with nervous whiteness against gaudy red and green stripes of men's anklet. (I found out later that she PAINTED her shoes with white enamel, which was more enduring than ordinary shoe polish.) Over one arm was slung a man's sport jacket, threadbare and nearly as faded as the dress she wore. In her other hand she carried a small dusty cardboard box, its contents held together haphazardly by pieces of dirty cotton twine.

Unexpectedly, she grinned hugely, chapped lips stretching painfully over obscenely naked gums. She didn't have a tooth in her head!

In a raspy croak, I asked her if I could help her, secretly thinking: "Heaven help me." She replied in guttural broken English, with a question of her own. Did I need any housework done?

With a guilty start, I remembered that "housework" was what I was supposed to be doing. I told my erratic visitor that we needed no help but perhaps the people next door could use her. Our nearest neighbor was the county attorney and I knew his wife employed considerable household help.

She favored me with another glimpse of gleaming gums before turning and trudging next door. With an uncomprehending shrug, I turned and went into our house to start after school chores.

In less than five minutes, she was back again, pounding on the door with persistent fists. I didn't know what to do. My jaws hinged open as I started to tell her to go away, but before I could utter a word, my unwelcome visitor collapsed in a paroxysm of choking sobs and incoherent words.

Never before, and not since, had I been faced with such remorse, such total desolation in a fellow human being. I felt that if she shed one more tear-drop, I would be reduced to her hysterical condition.

Grabbing at straws, I turned to the telephone and phoned the sheriff. He was the father of my second best friend and I knew that if anyone could help me, Mr. Eddins could.

What a conservation! The sheriff would ask me a question and before I could answer

I would feel a tap on my shoulder as the old woman hiccupped wetly — slurred words about Denmark and walking from California. To add to the confusion, my first best friend, Wava Conley, walked in. She wandered around in aimless circles with an astonished expression on her face, alternately patting the weeping old harridan on the shoulder and hissing questions into my free ear.

Mr. Eddins finally admitted defeat, telling me in an exasperated tone of voice to bring the woman down the courthouse, where he would see what he could do.

What an odd procession we must have made as we paraded down Main Street: Wava with a disreputable old jacket thrown gingerly over an arm, the emaciated, croone limping pigeon-toed in her outlandish enameled shoes and I carrying the best-up possessions of a lifetime in a spedy package tied with careless knots of string.

During our walk, in which we ignored the inquisitive glances of friends, we learned that her name was Helga and that she had been brought to the United States four years ago by her only son and his wife. The trio had moved to California from New York months before, but Helga didn't like that part of the country or any thing about her daughter-in-law. The younger woman disliked the old woman, made fun of the way she talked and was ashamed of her because she insisted on doing housework for anyone who could afford her services. Having stood it as long as she could, Helga started East, riding a bus as long as her money lasted, hitch-hiking and walking this far in her journey back to New York, where she had friends and had been happy.

Reaching the four-storied courthouse, we entered an elevator that took us up to the top floor, where the Eddins family had an apartment, and which also housed cells and a kitchen for lawbreakers. The whoosh of the opening elevator door wrinkled our noses with the smell of stale cooking odors, the anisette scent of Lysol and the window-scurvy pungency of Sheriff Eddins' shaving lotion. He was standing at the doorway to greet us with a wide smile and a quizzical glint in his eyes.

I drew the sheriff aside and explained, as best as I could, the entire situation. He told me that they had a room, actually a cell, that was often used for such purposes, and he would be glad to put Helga up for the night and provide her with an evening meal and breakfast the next morning before she started on her way. This last underlined with emphasis and I knew he meant it.

Wava and I said goodbye to Helga, who was radiating joy until she caught a glimpse of the steel bars girding the room. Eddins explained to her that the door wouldn't be locked and that she was not under arrest. This calmed her a little but as Wava and I strolled home, I knew we were both thinking about the way Helga's eyes had darted bewilderingly about the cell as she placed her box of belongings on the bare mattress of her bunk.

Summer White House in September Hammersmith Farm Appeals to Tourists

IN HAMMERSMITH'S BACK YARD

Auchincloss, Mrs. John F. Kennedy's stepfather.

Jackie spent her summers here after her mother married Auchincloss in 1942 and she has always referred to it lovingly, recalling in letters "the foghorns blowing at night" "... its green fields and summer winds."

It was here Jacqueline Bouvier made her debut in society, sharing a tea dance with the celebration of the christening of her 5-month-old half-brother Jamie Auchincloss. And it was here, some years later, she received guests after her wedding to young Sen. Jack Kennedy in September, 1953.

Eisenhowers in Newport. Now plans call for her and her two children to spend September here, with the President joining them for two weeks and subsequent weekends.

For historic Newport—called Queen of Resorts—a vacationing President is no novelty. President and Mrs. Eisenhower spent some time at nearby Coasters Harbor Island and at Fort Adams, a Naval installation on Narragansett Bay, in the summers of 1957-58.

HAMMERSMITH FARM

What is Hammersmith Farm like? As the summer residence of one of the old social families—Hugh Auchincloss was born here—it is hardly accessible to tourists, no matter how well mannered.

But the other day 3,500 visitors from 11 states trooped through the first floor, as part of a tour sponsored by the Preservation Society of Newport County. Four other palatial mansions of the exclusive resort were on the tour—the Society's third annual affair—but Hammersmith Farm was the drawing card.

Of the five houses visited, including Beaulieu, Bonnetcrest, Ker Arvor and Oakwood, airy, sunny Hammersmith Farm was the tourists' choice as the most livable.

Bright and unpretentious. Unlike most of the other stately mansions, no electric lighting was necessary to keep the visitors from stumbling over some ancient heirloom. The decor was bright and unpretentious. The house seemed furnished to be lived in, and showed unmistakable signs of having achieved its purpose.

As you approach Hammersmith you see a sprawling, three-story shingle house with towering chimneys and cone-shaped towers. You walk up a winding gravel path to the porte cochere, under which many a fashionable carriage must have paused in the old days, and enter a wide white-walled hall that opens in the back onto a terrace overlooking upper Narragansett Bay. The hall's fireplace has blue deft vases and Canton plates on its mantle. Beyond it hangs the President's flag Kennedy presented to Hugh Auchincloss in 1961.

The small room to the right is the blue-walled library with a couple of filled bookcases, Newport prints and ship models of family yachts.

In the yellow-walled, yellow-rugged, dining room a table is set for lunch—for tourist viewing only. In the bay is a Goddard Newport drop leaf table. The furniture is English; the chandelier is Old English Regency.

On the left of the hall is the drawing room, with rose silk shagreened draperies and gold-patterned wall paper above white wainscoting. Upholstery fabric is a rose pattern on white background.

The Preservation Society had stationed members around the house to answer questions, oversee the decorum of the guests and forbid picture taking inside. One guide pointed out that the two valuable pieces in the drawing room were the English Sheraton cabinet and Italian wall mirror. Focal point of the first floor is the deck room which opens onto the back terrace. Perhaps the first thing you see is a large pelican, shot by Hugh Auchincloss when he was 10, suspended from the ceiling and seemingly in flight over a large round table from India, cut-down to coffee table height.

At the other end is an impressive green Italian tile fireplace, brought from Italy by the owner's father. There's a grand piano, and a portable TV set is almost hidden in a corner. Upholstery, nautical blue or green, blends with pale rugs. On the walls are more half models of family yachts.

No Peep from Junior. From the stone terrace a green lawn sweeps down to the Bay, where the President will undoubtedly be sailing his yacht the Honey Fits in September.

The original gardens around the house—elaborate rose arrangements and sunken and rock affairs—required fulltime care from 14 gardeners. Three years ago the Washington landscape architect Boris Timshenko redesigned the garden, and one gardener manages now, a guide said.

While thousands were admiring the house and pronouncing it a place they wouldn't mind living in themselves, the family stayed upstairs. No one even heard a peep out of the Kennedys' young son, John Jr., who is staying with grandmother while his mother and sister are vacationing in Italy.

The day of the tour happened to be one of Newport's hottest. At least one bus carrying tourists broke down. Others got economies mixed up. For part of an afternoon, consequently, hundreds or more milled around Hammersmith unable to leave.

Cab drivers who tried to rescue some of the stranded masses reported frayed tempers. But Mrs. George Henry Warren, the Preservation Society's president, agreeing the tour could have gone a bit more smoothly, commented the visitors had conducted themselves like ladies and gentlemen. "The Auchinclosses said it went fine, and it was a relief to hear that," she breathed.

Some months ago, the government opened a new data processing center in West Virginia—the first of a series of such centers to be located across the nation. With them, the government will be able to check every federal income tax return in the country automatically.

If anything looks fishy, the giant computers will toss out a return for additional checking.

All of which means that your tax return had better be accurate—right down to such things as drug deductions.

It can be, when you purchase from us, because all of our customers receive absolutely free of charge our special DrugTax service.

When you buy from us, all of your purchases are recorded on "memory" tapes, which are later fed into giant electronic computers. At the end of the year, we send you a DrugTax statement which tells you how much you spent for drugs of a deductible nature.

No guesswork. No cost to you. You may actually save money—because you get the benefit of every single drug deduction to which you are entitled.

(You might be surprised at how many things are of a deductible nature—and you might be surprised, too, at how many millions of dollars the American taxpayer loses each year because he doesn't claim them).

Come in today and take advantage of our free DrugTax service. It's our way of saying "thank you" for your patronage.
