An Amarillo man who owns land west of Hereford said Monday he will ask pheasant hunters who use his property to limit their take to one bird per day.

Bill Graham, Texas Parks and Wildlife Commissioner from Amarillo, later told the Brand he expects a good many Deaf Smith County landowners to do the same when pheasant hunting season begins Saturday.

The comments came during a public hearing in Amarillo on the commission's decision last month to raise the bag limit from two to three cocks per day. Reports from all over the Panhandle indicate the pheasant crop is down this year, and the commission has been deluged with complaints that raising the bag limit can only add to the shortage.

Pheasant hunters and landowners nearly filled Amarillo's City Commission chambers for the 2 p.m. hearing, presided over by Graham and two Parks and Wildlife officials from Austin. Twenty persons testified during the one-hour meeting, most of them in favor of returning the bag limit to two birds per day.

Al Springs, one of the Austin department heads who participated in the decision to raise the limit, opened the hearing by citing figures gained from census counts taken in October and again in mid-November.

The latest count indicated an average of one bird per 2.3 miles in the Panhandle, Springs said, which he contrasted with a high in 1982 of five and a half pheasants per mile.

"Heavy hunting of cocks does not have any effect on the ability of the pheasant population to bounce back the next year," Springs claimed. He said he is not sure why the pheasant population is down about 46 percent this year, but he does not believe the new bag limit will affect that count.

Spings did admit that an illegal harvest of hens could result if cocks are harder to find this year, but said as long as the hen kill remains below

Farmers may impose rules

20 percent it would not affect next year's population.

The commission is not sure why the numbers are down, Springs said, although he listed the federal government's Payment-in-Kind program, use of pesticides and severe weather as possible reasons.

Citizens who later testified offered other possible causes for the reduction.

A Dumas man blamed the shortage of birds on dry weather. He said when there is a water shortage, the pheasant hen must leave the nest too long to find water to drink. The eggs cool and therefore do not hatch.

A Dalhart man said the rise in irrigation costs has caused many farmers to grow less corn and maize and switch to wheat, which means less cover for the birds. Several farmers also blamed pesticides, with one fellow theorizing that adult birds could survive spraying but young pheasant could not.

The Parks and Wildlife Commission was to meet this afternoon or Wednesday morning in emergency session, to make a decision on reducing the limit.

Cattle commission files for bankruptcy

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN

An attorney representing Hereford Cattle Commission and the Texhoma Livestock Commission this morning filed a basic petition for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Amarillo.

A female spokesperson with the U.S. District Clerk's office there said Tom Bunkley, an attorney with the Amarillo firm of Lumpkin, Barris, Reavis and Bunkley, filed a petition listing the top creditors against the two auctions. She said the document did not indicate the firm's assets or debts, but schedules would probably be filed later.

The two auction companies have been closed since Nov. 6, when the Packers said Stockyards Association of the U.S. Department of Agriculture initiated a probe into the financial records of the companies. The auctions shut their doors after money was reported missing from custodial accounts maintained for livestock customers.

Prior to this morning's action, several cattle companies and individuals who named themselves as creditors filed petitions seeking judgments against the operation. A Tennessee Cattle Company brought suit against the company, claiming it was swindled and issued bad checks for cattle sold to the auctions.

Monday, 26 creditors who filed claims in U.S. Bankruptcy Court claimed they were paid for 1,006 head of cattle with $353,593.33 in bad checks.

Hi-Plains Savings and Loan of Hereford, which last month announced its intention to sell the company for nonpayment of a $1.2 million loan, had planned that sale for today. A spokesperson said this morning

Nuclear dump candidate sites specified

Department of Energy officials have officially designated a nine-square-mile area in Deaf Smith County to be considered for the nation's first high-level nuclear waste dump.

In a press release mailed Friday, the DOE identified the location as being approximately 16 miles northwest of Hereford and eight miles southwest of Vega. As finalized (see drawing), the site is about two miles east from where it was proposed to be last spring.

Deaf Smith and nearby Swisher counties each contain one of nine spots in contention for the repository. Three of the other candidate locations are in the southern Louisiana-Mississippi region, two are in Utah and one apiece appear on the Nevada and Washington landscapes.

Energy Department officials are to reduce the field to five candidates early next year, with three of those to be chosen later in 1985 for detailed site characterizations. Those studies are to help determine the final repository decision, which is set to be made in late 1990.

Nuclear waste storage operations on the selected underground dumpsite are to commence in 1998. Private nuclear power companies, which are sponsoring the search for an acceptable repository site, have contracted to hand over their waste at that time.

The alteration of Deaf Smith County's nine-square-mile site means Richardson Seed Company is no longer included within the boundaries. Swisher's potential site, also nine square miles, was moved northeast about one mile so it would not cover Rol-A-Cone, a farm implement company which is one of the county's biggest employers.

Prior to the site reduction recommendations DOE made last spring, the Deaf Smith and Swisher candidates were about 300 and 190 square miles, respectively. The decreases, DOE officials have contended, make the two Texas sites comparable in size to the other seven locations under consideration.

Brief descriptions of the processes used to reduce the Deaf Smith and Swisher sites accompanied Friday's press release. It summarizes a screening system used to come up with the nine-square-mile areas recommended in last spring's "draft report."

Following release of the report to the Texas Nuclear Waste Programs Office and affected landowners, a series of hearings and public meetings were conducted in April and May. The tone of all the sessions was overwhelmingly negative about DOE and its nuclear waste dump search process.

"Based on comments received both in hearings conducted by the state and in writing," Jeff Neff is quoted in the press release, "DOE reappraised some of the data and source documents in preparation of the final report." Neff is manager of the department's salt repository project office.

Hospital directors to gather

Deaf Smith General Hospital's board of directors is to gather tonight at 7:30 to select a general contractor for the proposed DSGH renovation project.

Representatives from each of the two lowest bidders met last week with hospital officials to go over their offers. There is about $5,000 difference between the low bid turned in by Northline Construction and the second-best offer submitted by Wiley Hicks Jr. Both firms are based in Amarillo.

The total price of the renovation work, which is to include revampment of the emergency room along with remodeling of some patient quarters, will likely cost between $174,000 and $180,000.

Tonight's special gathering is to be held in the DSGH board room, located at the facility's southwest side.

Firemen called out two times

Hereford Volunteer Firemen have responded to two calls since Sunday, including an explosion Monday morning at Rick's Exxon, 741 W. First Ave.

According to Fire Marshal Jay Spain, the 11:35 a.m. blast occurred while a service station employee was washing the grease bay with gasoline. Something - perhaps the heater or water heater pilot light, Spain speculated - ignited the fumes and gasoline.

Windows were blown out by the explosion, Spain said. The employee, Manuel Galvan, was treated for first-degree facial burns by an ambulance crew.

Sunday at about 9:20 p.m., firemen were called to a house fire at 621 S. Texas Ave. The residence, owned by N.E. Tyler and rented to Petra and David Garza, was substantially damaged by the blaze, Spain said. Volunteer firefighters remained at the scene past 11 p.m.

Nine picked up for DWI

Nine people were arrested over the weekend and Monday for driving while intoxicated, Hereford police reported this morning.

There were also six people picked up for public intoxication and one apiece for no liability insurance, shoplifting and a warrant.

Ofelia Estrada, 834 Brevard St., reported her 1984 Pontiac's windshield was broken sometime Nov. 26. She valued the vandalism at $475.

Other incidents looked into by police were five minor thefts and two minor vandalisms.

Judge orders trial be moved

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge said he will decide within a week where to move the trial of 17-year-old David Port, who is charged in the murder of a woman mail carrier.

State District Judge I.D. McMaster on Monday granted a defense request that the case be moved to another city because of the media attention it has received.

McMaster also issued a gag order prohibiting Port, his parents and their attorneys from commenting on the murder case.

Port is charged with murder in the shooting death of letter carrier Debora Sue Schatz. Ms. Schatz, 23, disappeared June 7 while delivering mail in the west Houston neighborhood where Port and his parents live.

Two days later, her body was found in a remote wooded area of northwest Harris County. Investigators searching the Port home found bullet holes in the stairwell and blood on the steps.

The teen-ager is free on $20,000 bond.

Texas pines part of market

HOUSTON (AP) — They're called Virginia pines, but local tree growers hope to find them in several Texas homes this Christmas.

Most Texas Christmas tree lots are forested with blue spruces, Scotch pines and noble firs from the northern and northwestern states. But the Virginia pine grows well in East Texas and is gaining acceptance by customers.

Noel Peterson of Cornelius Nurseries Inc., a major Houston retailer, said the Virginia pine is "real popular" and that his nursery sells living specimens in pots.

Some Christmas tree retailers refuse to handle the Texas-grown tree because it has a reputation for fading quickly after being cut.

However, James Chandler, a Texas A&M University forester, said the Virginia pine makes a good Christmas tree.

"If properly taken care of," he said, "it will stay fresh through the season."

Natural trees have only about a third of the Christmas tree market.

Members of the Texas Christmas Tree Growers Association expect to sell about 207,000 trees this season, grabbing a growing share of the state's estimated market of 2 to 4 million trees.

Reagan administration accused

AUSTIN (AP) — While the Nicaraguan government tried to conduct an open election last month, the Reagan administration used military and political tactics to undermine and discredit the balloting, says a report by a group of Latin American scholars.

Richard N. Sinkin, a University of Texas professor and director of the Latin American Studies Association, said the association this week printed a detailed report concerning the Nov. 4 election in Nicaragua.

The report was being published in Forum, the association newsletter received by 3,000 subscribers worldwide.

The report asserts that Sandinista government officials conducted honest and open elections with significant participation by opposition parties.

"In the six-month period leading up to the election, the Reagan administration used a combination of diplomatic, economic, and military instruments in a systematic attempt to undermine the Nicaraguan electoral process and to destroy its credibility in the eyes of the world," the report charges.

American policy critics knocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the face of widening American protests against South African apartheid, the Reagan administration says critics of its policy of quiet diplomacy toward the white-ruled nation are spouting "rubbish."

The administration made its views known on Monday, shortly before three more people were arrested outside the South African Embassy. The arrests brought to 19 the number of people who have been detained in protests there.

Four people were arrested Monday at a similar protest outside the South African consulate in New York City. Organizers say they will conduct protests at South African consulates in other U.S. cities.

In a related development, a top aide to former Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson said Monday night that South African authorities were reconsidering the civil right leader's application for a visa.

Armando Gutierrez said he could not confirm a report broadcast by NBC News that Jackson had received a visa to travel to South Africa. Gutierrez said Jackson told him the visa "was being reconsidered and that was all."

'Putrid' beef eaten by many

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Thousands of schoolchildren, hospital patients and Air Force personnel in five states ate "putrid and decomposed" beef butchered from dying and diseased cows, a federal grand jury concluded.

During the 3½-year conspiracy, the cattle went from farmers to a pet-food company to a meat processor to wholesalers, who shipped tainted hamburger patties and stew beef to Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia and Arkansas, according to a 31-count indictment handed up Monday.

Federal officials said they could not determine whether the meat had caused any illness.

Each week from October 1980 to February 1984, the processor sold up to 15,000 pounds of meat that "consisted in whole or in part of filthy, putrid, and decomposed substances and was unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome and otherwise unfit for human food," said Joel Friedman, director of the Philadelphia Strike Force in charge of organized crime.

Jet hijacked, passenger killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — One passenger was killed and another wounded as five Arabic-speaking hijackers commandeered a Kuwaiti jetliner today and forced it to land in Tehran after threatening to blow it up, Iran's official news agency reported.

The Kuwait Airways plane was carrying 11 crew members and 155 passengers, including about 120 Pakistani citizens, an airline spokesman said.

Kuwait radio, which interrupted its programs to announce the hijack, said the commandeered plane was an A-300 Airbus on a flight from Kuwait to Karachi, Pakistan, via the United Arab Emirates.

Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, said the identities of the dead and wounded passengers were not known. It also said it was not known whether the violence occurred before or after the jet was forced to land at Tehran's Mehrabad airport.

IRNA said the hijackers rejected a request by Iranian authorities for the release of the injured passenger and the women and children aboard. The requested medical aid was provided immediately, IRNA said.

Gas death toll exceeds 600

By HARBAKSH SINGH NANDA
Associated Press Writer

BHOPAL, India (AP) — The death toll surpassed 600 today in the deadly gas leak from a U.S.-built pesticide plant in central India as relatives flocked to mass burials and security forces gathered bodies from Bhopal and nearby towns.

Indian officials said most of the victims were children and described the leak, which occurred early Monday, as the worst environmental disaster in recent history.

Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi called the incident "horrifying," set up a $400,000 government emergency relief fund and said he would tour the city of 895,000 later today.

The leak of methyl isocyanate gas affected an estimated 20,000 residents of Bhopal, capital of Madhya Pradesh state about 370 miles south of New Delhi, and triggered a mass exodus from the city.

Bhopal was almost a ghost town with most offices and businesses closed today, an officially declared day of mourning. Streets were littered with carcasses of water buffalo, dogs and birds. Survivors attended mass burials and mass cremations.

The deadly white cloud of gas had cleared but air samples tested today were found to still contain deposits of the deadly gas.

Police and army trucks were picking up bodies from a roughly nine mile radius around the Union Carbide plant, where state Chief Minister Arjun Singh said one of three underground tanks leaked the deadly gas for 40 minutes early Monday.

He told reporters the number of deaths was likely to rise and said it was unlikely the plant would be allowed to reopen at its site in the heart of Bhopal.

Singh also said five plant officials — all Indians — were arrested on charges of negligence. A majority of the Union Carbide's stock in India is owned by Indians.

Thomas Sprick, spokesman for the U.S.-based Union Carbide Corp. in Danbury, Conn., said the gas that leaked was methyl isocyanate, which he said can be fatal if inhaled or swallowed. The United News of India earlier had called the gas methyl isocyanide.

Sprick said filters that should have removed the poison from the gas before it leaked did not function and the company did not know the reason for the failure.

Union Carbide Corp. called an immediate worldwide halt to production and shipment of methyl isocyanate, and dispatched a doctor and four technicians to India to investigate. India's Central Bureau of Investigation also was probing the incident.

Union Carbide's managing director in India, Y.P. Gokhale, said the gas began leaking when a storage tank valve broke under rising pressure. Within 40 minutes, the cloud of gas had settled over a 25-square-mile area inhabited primarily by poor laborers, he said.

The United News of India said the factory siren did not sound to alert the neighborhood until two hours after the leak began, and said police and doctors did not come into the area until four hours after that.

Panic-stricken people, many carrying luggage on their heads, walked as far as 25 miles to escape the poisonous white cloud. Many who fled Bhopal were reported to have died in the neighboring towns of Sehore, Ashta and Hoshangabad.

The cremation ground in one district, Chhola, ran out of firewood to burn the bodies streaming in Monday evening, the Indian Express newspaper reported. A spokesman at the grounds said most of the dead were children, especially vulnerable because of low resistance.

City commissioners agree

City land to be bought by King's Manor

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

King's Manor Methodist Home, Inc. is to purchase approximately two acres of park land immediately south of its current boundaries, Hereford City Commissioners agreed Monday evening.

The $10,000 offered by King's Manor was the only bid received for the property, which rests at Ranger Drive and Moreman Avenue. A $1,000 check accompanied the bid, which was turned in to city officials by W.L. Davis Jr., treasurer for the elderly care facility.

According to Earnest Langley, city attorney, the two acres was bought by Hereford in the early 1960s for around $6,000. It was understood at that time, he said, the city was to reserve the land for King's Manor when the Methodist organization could afford to expand.

In the summer of 1983, Hereford Senior Citizens Association withdrew its request to lease the land at $1 for 99 years after King's Manor officials claimed it represented the only property on which they could build.

It was questioned Monday what would happen to the city water well located on the two-acre tract. Langley explained the city would retain access to the well and, should it no longer be productive or desired, it would be ceded to King's Manor.

Meanwhile Monday, commissioners tabled action concerning the city's payments to Deaf Smith County Jail. Last month, county commissioners heard the percentage of city prisoners in the detention facility was larger than the share of total jail costs contributed by Hereford.

Figures released by Sheriff Joe Brown show that during the 12-month period ending Sept. 30, 8.5 percent of the jail's inmates were there on city-initiated charges. Eight and a half percent of the detention facility's total cost during that period — about $211,000 — amounts to just under $18,000. Hereford paid between $7,000 and $8,000.

According to Vesta Mae Nunley, county treasurer, the city does out $6.50 per day for each inmate placed in jail. That arrangement superseded an earlier pact Hereford would give the county $250 per month to go toward the sole jailer's salary. There are now six jailers and along with a jail administrator.

A first reading of legislation concerning Energas was read and approved by the city commission Monday. Langley explained the reading was a proposed new ordinance which amends and existing franchise law enacted in 1980. "I see nothing in the world wrong with it," he commented.

The city governing body also approved a zoning change — from "D-1" to "E-Central Business District" — for part of a block southwest of the Highway 385 and Fifteenth Street intersection. The vote was, as were all the others Monday, unanimous.

City commissioners are to next gather for a regular meeting Monday, Dec. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall, 224 N. Lee Ave.

Forecasters believe

Oil prices to go down before increasing

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — A worldwide consensus of oil forecasters sees the price of oil drifting downward in the late 1980s and early 1990s and then rising modestly.

But the study, part of a year-long project by Arthur Andersen & Co., an accounting firm, and Cambridge Energy Research Associates, an energy consulting service, concluded Monday that the industry is so volatile that "future oil prices cannot be accurately predicted."

"It's striking to think about this consensus today in light of the fact that it was equally strong in the past and each of those was proved to be substantially wrong," said Richard Adkerson, director of oil and gas industry services for Arthur Andersen.

"Despite all the attention and efforts directed at forecasting, oil prices have been very unpredictable and that uncertainty remains,"

Adkerson said.

In the explosion in oil prices in the 1970s, the price of the benchmark oil sold by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Arabian Light crude, soared from $2.75 a barrel in 1973 to $34 in 1981. As the 1980s began, analysts were proclaiming prices would continue their one-way surge higher.

But as high prices led consumers to switch to other fuels and take other conservation measures, and as a worldwide economic slowdown set in during the early 1980s, an oil glut emerged.

OPEC cut its price of Arabian Light to $29 a barrel in 1983 and is currently struggling to avert another price reduction.

"One thing clear is that oil prices cannot be accurately predicted," Daniel Yergen, president of Cambridge Energy Research Associates, added at a news conference. "It's too complicated."

Adkerson said the inability to forecast oil prices was responsible for "substantial and unprofitable" investments of more than a half-trillion dollars in 1980 and 1981 alone, just before the oil boom went bust.

The study termed the investments, made on the assumption that oil prices would continue to skyrocket, will "add up to one of the most expensive business errors ever."

And Adkerson cautioned that even though the current consensus was a "strong" one, it could be incorrect, posing risks for business and government policymakers.

"It's important to recognize that this may not happen," he said.

Meet Your Neighbor

By LISA BALL
Staff Writer

Bringing with him a variety of experiences and interests, Father Joseph P. Egan came to Hereford a month ago as associate pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

"There was a real need here for another priest," Egan explained. "So when the invitation was extended I said yes, with a little hesitancy."

He had been at St. Anthony's for a summer 10 years ago. He knew a little about Hereford, but with its vast difference to where he grew up in New York City, Egan said it was a "step in faith" to come here to stay.

He is a member of the Franciscan friars of the atonement which have been in Hereford for 64 of their 75-year existence. Before coming to Hereford, Egan was priest in a Brockton, Mass., mall chapel.

"That type of ministry is transient and convenient for the mall workers," Egan said. "We read three masses a day but did not perform weddings, baptisms or funerals. I was really ready to get back into working with a parish."

Before working in Brockton, Egan had spent one year at Notre Dame and seven years as pastor of a church in Cassopolis, Mich., a small town a few miles from Notre Dame. Previous to his parish work, Egan was associate editor of his community's magazine.

"I was ordained 25 years before I got into parish work," Egan recalled. "I worked for quite a while with publicity and communication."

In the month he has been here, Egan has found the people to be friendly with a "sincerity of friendship." Currently, he is not responsible for any particular group at St. Anthony's, but rather is discovering his own talents and gifts and finding where he can best use them.

"I really like working with young people," he said. "I'm going to their meetings and to the religious instruction on Wednesday nights."

He is also working with the Rite of

FATHER JOSEPH EGAN
...arranging his crech collection

Christian Initiation of Adults.

Among his numerous interests are watercolor painting, calligraphy, music and the theater.

"I really like to decorate, especially for parties," Egan added. "I guess I'm pretty artistic."

Perhaps even more interesting, though, is his overwhelming display of creches or nativity scenes. He began collecting them 20 years ago after being fascinated by them as a child. His parents gave him one as a gift, then he picked one up for himself, his collection gradually expanding.

Today he has nearly 100 creches from 21 countries and five continents. They are made of wood, clay, glass, straw, corn husks, lead, tin, cake dough, canvas, burlap, wax, paper mache, plastics and ceramic.

St. Francis of Assisi is said to have originated the Christmas crech as we have it today, according to Egan. In 1224, in the small village of Greccio in Italy, St. Francis wanted the people to more fully understand the Word of God in scripture. He set up a manger scene without the figurines.

The ceremony was so impressive that it was not only repeated at Greccio year after year but the custom also spread rapidly throughout Europe and finally to distant parts of the world.

With his enthusiasm for this collection, Egan has displayed it in numerous libraries as well as the Notre Dame Library, the world's largest collegiate library, the American Bible Society in New York, Gimble's department store and the Hilton Hotel in Kalamazoo, Mich.

For Hereford residents, the collection will be exhibited throughout the month of December at the Deaf Smith County Library. The nativity scenes complete the spirit of Christmas, calling to mind the unity all Christians share through Christ.

Gala Christmas Ball

At Hereford Country Club

"Reflections" was this year's theme for the annual Christmas Ball held Saturday evening for members of Hereford Country Club. The gala event was hosted by 14 directors.

All areas of the club were highlighted with large pink bows, carousel horses and garland. The foyer was decorated with a Santa Claus and two large carousel horses arranged in front of an outside window scene.

Each guest table was enhanced by a mirror-based centerpiece which included a large champagne glass, holding crystal beads, and candles. A big flocked Christmas tree, trimmed with pink and cranberry velveteen bows and white lights, was placed in the front ballroom and at the rear ballroom, a large green wreath, adorned by pink bows, fruit and white lights, hung over the fireplace.

The two large serving tables, located in front of the fireplace, were centered with 13-tier candler with votive candles and stars. A unique attraction for the evening were dessert tables which were arranged on the patio.

Two bands performed for guests, one group located in the front ballroom and one located at the rear.

The ball's theme "Reflections" was depicted by the use of large pink bows, carousel horses and garland which adorned all areas of the HCC. One of the group of directors who greeted guests included from left Mr. and Mrs. Ted McWhorter, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Craig Smith.

All-America squad

Elite team chosen

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston College quarterback Doug Flutie, the only player in major-college history to pass for more than 10,000 yards in a career, was named to The Associated Press All-America football team today, along with two repeaters — offensive tackle Bill Fralic of Pitt and free safety Jerry Gray of Texas.

Flutie, the magical 5-foot-9¾ rifle-armed scrambler who captured the nation's fancy and became the first quarterback in 13 years to win the Heisman Trophy, passed for 10,579 yards and also set an NCAA career total offense mark of 11,317 yards.

With Flutie at the controls, Boston College led the nation in scoring with 36.7 points a game and earned a Cotton Bowl bid, its first major bowl trip in 42 years. For the year, Flutie completed 233 of 386 passes for 3,454 yards and 27 touchdowns and led the nation in passing efficiency.

He threw six touchdown passes against North Carolina, passed for 447 yards against Penn State and thrilled a national television audience with a dramatic last-play 48-yard bomb that pulled out a 47-45 triumph over Miami, a game in which he was 34-of-46 for 472 yards. Flutie passed for more than 300 yards on four other occasions.

"It's not his passing ability, it's not his running ability, but rather his ability to make a play out of nothing," says Alabama Coach Ray Perkins, a two-time victim of Flutie's passing. "He does the best job of any quarterback I've ever seen at improvising-type things, making something happen out of nothing."

Joining Flutie on the offensive unit are running backs Keith Byars of Ohio State, the nation's leading rusher, and Kenneth Davis of Texas Christian, along with wide receiver

David Williams of Illinois, the nation's leading receiver, whose 101 catches and 1,278 yards were Big Ten records. The 101 receptions were the second highest in major college history and eight of them went for touchdowns.

"He probably is the most versatile receiver we've ever had," says Illinois Coach Mike White. "What he does better than anybody is run with the ball after he catches it."

The rest of the offensive unit consists of tight end Mark Bavaro of Notre Dame, wide receiver Eddie Brown of Miami (Fla.), tackles Fralic and Lomas Brown of Florida, guards Dan Lynch of Washington State and Del Wilkes of South Carolina, center Mark Traynowicz of Nebraska and placekicker John Lee of UCLA. Fralic made first-team All-America for the third year in a row.

Named to the defensive unit were tackles Leslie O'Neal of Oklahoma State and Bruce Smith of Virginia Tech, middle guard Tony Casillas of Oklahoma, linebackers Gregg Carr of Auburn, Jack Del Rio of Southern California, James Seawright of South Carolina and Larry Station of Iowa and deep backs Gray, David Fulcher of Arizona State, Kyle Morrell of Brigham Young and Tony Thurman of Boston College, along with Ricky Anderson of Vanderbilt, the nation's leading punter with a 48.2-yard average.

Three players who made the first team a year ago failed to repeat — running back Bo Jackson of Auburn, placekicker Luis Zendejas of Arizona State and nose guard William Perry of Clemson. Jackson missed six games with a shoulder injury.

The AP All-America team will be featured Sunday, Dec. 16, on Bob Hope's Christmas special entitled "Ho-Ho Hope's 35th Jolly Christmas Hour" (NBC-TV, 9-10 p.m., EST).

In Levelland tourney

Hereford eliminated Saturday, 45-39

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

LEVELLAND — A 14-point fourth quarter Saturday by the Littlefield Wildcats eliminated the Hereford Whitefaces from action in the Levelland Girls' Basketball Tournament, 45-39 in the LHS gym.

But the Wildcats would have eliminated the Whitefaces with only a nine-point quarter. That's because — with Hereford leading at the end of three periods 37-31 — the Whitefaces managed to score only one field goal on Stacie High's 6-footer following an offensive rebound.

The teams met in the consolation bracket of the 14-team tourney. Hereford had lost to Clovis, N.M., Thursday, 48-44, in much the same fashion as Saturday's loss, and Littlefield was beaten by Plainview. On Friday, the Wildcats beat Borger to advance.

In the Thursday game, Hereford held a lead over Clovis throughout much of the game, losing in the last 2:00 of the fourth quarter. Saturday, Hereford led all the way until the last 1:58.

Hereford coach Larry Sowers offered only a few suggestions on Saturday's defeat.

"I don't know what happened," he said. "I just wish I did. Several games in a row now we haven't played well. One thing that killed us the whole ball game was free-throw shooting."

"If I had been Littlefield, I would have put us on the line every time (in the late going) trying to get back into the game. We weren't going to make anything."

Hereford, now 2-3, canned only five of 15 free shots in the game, a 26.7 percentage. The girls were zero for five the last quarter.

"You can't miss that many against a decent team," Sowers added.

When Tammy Boomer hit both ends of a 1-and-1 with fewer than 2:00 to go, the Wildcats had a lead to keep at 41-39.

From the field, the Herd hit 30.9

Fearless Forecasters end season

Brand sports editor tops panelists

Brand sports editor Dennis Ball, by going 17-9 the final week of The Brand Football Contest, captured top honors among Fearless Forecasters panelists.

Ball ended the season with a record of 229-107 for a .682 winning percentage.

Butch White gave Ball a run for his money, however. The owner of Boots and Saddle was 17-9 last week and finished just one game back at 128-108 (.679).

"I guess we might as well end it (the contest) now," Ball said. "I'm ahead, so let's quit."

Betty Martin, owner of Louise's in Sugarland Mall, finished in third place at 226-110. Her .673 percentage dropped one point from last week as she also went 17-9.

Finishing in fourth place was Brand editor-publisher Speedy Nieman at 225-111 for a .670 mark. He was 16-10 last week.

A possibility that a contest for the forecasters would be carried on for at least two more weeks surfaced, according to Nieman.

"I don't know why we couldn't just carry on for a little while longer," he said. "We might could even go into basketball season. It just depends on how long it takes."

Nieman declined to comment on any further significance of his statement.

Helen Higgins, owner of Helen's Youth Shop, rounded out the panel. She was 15-11 last week to conclude the year at 215-121 (.640).

Wartes weekly winner

In a week with many upsets, Larry Wartes missed only five games to claim first prize in the final regular weekly Brand Football Contest.

The big Grand Prize winners will be announced in Wednesday's paper. Each entrant who won cash prizes during the season were eligible for the Grand Prize contest, with the winner getting $100 in Hereford Bucks.

Wartes won the $25 prize for the final regular contest. Three people tied for second and third-places with six misses each, but Brian Baker took the cash award with a tie-breaker total of 65. All three picked the Rams. Sofia Segura and Phil Banner missed the bucks on the tie-breaker score.

Five others missed seven games in the contest. They include Steve Tomasi, Jay West, Carolyn Johnson, Ginger Johnson and James Hillwig.

Bowling meeting location changed

A meeting for persons interested in organizing a new bowling alley, originally scheduled for the Community Center, has been moved to 7:30 p.m. today at Savage's Hickory Pit, North Highway 385.

A board of directors for the new alley, elected at the last meeting in November, is to present findings of investment and fund-raising plans among other business.

All interested persons are welcome.

La Plata next will be in action Monday against Plainview Red.

Stanton's ninth triumphs

The Stanton ninth-grade girls got 21 points from Crystal Ball as they posted the only junior-high girls' win for Stanton Monday, 46-33 over Clovis Yucca.

Cindy Tice scored 12 to complement Ball's effort.

Stanton's seventh and eighth graders weren't as fortunate, both losing to Yucca. The seventh graders lost 23-7, while the eighth grade bowed 33-29.

Linda Cera scored 3 points for Stanton seventh grade, and Sharon Terry and Carmen Brockman led the eighth-grade team with 13 and 10, respectively.

Results of the Stanton boys' games were not available.

Stanton will play next Monday against Gattis.

Tourney winners named

Stanton captured two trophies and lost another one, and La Plata went 1-1 in winning trophies in final games Saturday of the Hereford Junior High Girls' Basketball Tournament.

In a ninth-grade game, Stanton got 11 points from Carolyn Rieves and 7 from Cindy Tice in a nail-biter consolation affair. Stanton won the contest 24-23 over Canyon Purple.

La Plata's ninth grade did not play Saturday.

Both junior highs lost eighth-grade games, Stanton 28-12 to Plainview Red for third place and La Plata 31-30 to Plainview Blue for consolation.

Renee Mercer and Shannon Terry accounted for two-thirds of Stanton's points in the eighth-grade game. Mercer had 5 and Terry 3. Wisty Mars scored 9 for La Plata eighth graders, and Shea McGinty had 6 in a losing effort.

Stanton garnered its second consolation trophy in a seventh-grade game. Alicia Redmon turned in 13 points, and Shonia Carpenter had 6 in Stanton's 26-13 win over Plainview.

La Plata's seventh graders took Plainview Blue into double overtime for the championship before settling for the second-place trophy, 28-24. Stacy White scored 8 points and Cande Robbins 6 for La Plata.

Hereford's Stacie High converts a stolen pass into two points for the Whitefaces Saturday during action against Littlefield at the Levelland Girls' Basketball Tournament. Although High's bucket put Hereford up by 5, Littlefield won the game 45-39. The Whitefaces try to get back on the winning track today when they host Clovis at 7:30 p.m. in the HHS gym. A junior-varsity game begins at 6 p.m.

Coryell smiling now

Chargers upset Bears Monday

By MARK J. KREIDLER
AP Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Welcome to Don Coryell's nightmare.

It's a recurring dream. One of his fleet of receivers is striding toward the goal line with a touchdown pass, one that will lead to the defeat of a highly touted opponent, when — just like that — the ball pops loose. Fumble. Touchdown negated. Opportunity lost.

It happened Monday night, and the San Diego coach feared the worst. But Bobby Duckworth atoned for his miscue with an 88-yard touchdown reception in the fourth quarter, and the Chargers dealt favored Chicago a 20-7 defeat that may keep Bears Coach Mike Ditka awake nights.

"I couldn't believe it," said Coryell, who watched in horror as Duckworth, nearing the completion of a 54-yard touchdown pass, lost control of the ball and fumbled it away at the 2-yard-line. "I thought, 'This can't be our night.'"

He was wrong. Five minutes into the final period, Duckworth slipped behind defender Shaun Gayle, took a pass from Ed Luther over his right shoulder and went untouched to the goal line to complete the game-winning play.

He held the ball aloft briefly before entering the end zone, but it was clutched tightly to his hand. He didn't spike it, handing it instead to offensive lineman Sam Claphan.

"I was happy the coach had enough confidence in me to go back to me again," the third-year pro from Arkansas said. "That is part of the game of football — the ups and downs."

His redemptive catch, which preceded a 66-yard interception return by Lee Williams, helped the Chargers improve to 7-7. Chicago, which lost its eighth straight Monday night road game, fell to 9-5.

The Bears, who last week clinched their first-ever NFC Central Division title, hurt their chances of gaining home field advantage in the post-season playoffs. Chicago has not hosted a playoff game since 1963.

Duckworth's third-quarter gaffe, which came with San Diego trailing 7-6, stirred memories of a similar miscue by teammate Jesse Bendross earlier this season. Bendross inexplicably fumbled out of bounds near the goal line on a certain touchdown pass, and the Chargers eventually lost to the Los Angeles Raiders, 44-37.

The Bears' only score, a 10-yard touchdown run by Walter Payton, came after a fumble by San Diego's Earnest Jackson percent of their shots. High led Hereford with 11 points, and Darla Alford added 10. Laurie Ratliff and Natalie Nelson led Littlefield with 10 each.

The Whitefaces shot well the first quarter, connecting on their first four field goals. Alford hit a 14-foot shot to open the scoring and followed that with a layup. Natalie Sims bombed one in from the 18-foot range, and Shelly Edwards hit a side shot from about 14 feet. At that point, Hereford was up 8-2 and led 15-10 at the end of the quarter.

Some short shots were missed in the second quarter by Hereford, and Littlefield crept to within five at half, 23-18.

"We didn't capitalize on those turnovers (16 total by Littlefield) in the first half," Sowers said. "And in the second half, we didn't help create them."

Especially in the first period, and then some in the third, the Whitefaces were turning Littlefield turnovers into buckets, hitting outside shots. Partly in the second quarter and primarily in the final period, Hereford's shooters didn't have the touch, and shots were falling off the rim. To make matters worse, Littlefield players were there to grab the rebounds.

"That's another thing," Sowers said, "we didn't rebound a lick either. We actually had a height advantage this game, too."

Hereford must now prepare to meet the same Clovis team tonight that defeated the Whitefaces Thursday. Varsity game time is 7:45 p.m. in the HHS gym. A junior varsity contest between Hereford and Clovis begins at 6 p.m.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Former Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton, who wielded the gavel a record eight years, last week proved he is very much a viable force in Texas politics.

Now a lobbyist in Austin, Clayton put together a fundraiser for current House Speaker Gib Lewis that was attended by about 1,000 guests, including most of the prominent lobbying force.

The several thousand dollars raised by the bash will go to pay for Lewis' expenses in carrying out the functions of the House Speaker.

"We invited all the lobbyists and a lot of individuals who have contributed to Gib in the past," Clayton said.

The former speaker, operating in low public visibility, apparently is in great demand these busy days just prior to the January regular session. Clayton has been asked to host fundraisers for other public officials, including Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Attorney General Jim Mattox. And his name is surfacing as a possible statewide candidate in '86.

In Austin, it's the season for raising funds. In fact, it's the last chance until after the Legislature adjourns in May to raise money to pay off campaign debts or increase officeholder accounts. State law prevents public officials from accepting contributions between Dec. 8 and the day the Legislature adjourns.

Gib Lewis' most recent contribution report showed him with a balance of about $140,000.

Budget Requests

The main function of government is to gather tax revenues and redistribute them for the benefit of all citizens, but usually that humdrum function is overshadowed by "fad" issues, the emotional issues that come and go.

This legislative session, the dominant issue promises to be the budget itself, a rare occurrence since legislators generally like to steer public attention away from the manner in which tax dollars are spent.

A growing buzz phrase in Austin is "no growth budget," and it means no increase for state agency budgets beyond what was allocated to them, two years ago.

Major Agencies

Although the legislative leadership has requested agencies to compile new budgets using "no-growth" formulas, the agencies haven't complied.

Percentage of increases for major state agencies is as follows:

Human Resources, 39.4 percent; Highway Department, 25.9 percent; Mental, 59.7 percent; Health Department, 44.9 percent; Parks and Wildlife Department, 39.4 percent; Comptroller, 8.5 percent; Governor's Office, 3.8 percent; Attorney General, 78 percent; Agriculture Department, 37.4 percent; General Land Office, 50.3 percent; State Treasurer, 2.1 percent.

Employment Commission, 37.8 percent; Alcoholic Beverage Commission, 54.5 percent; Department of Public Safety, 30.9 percent; and Rehabilitation Commission, 28.7 percent.

Governor Threatens

Governor Mark White, upset at delays in prison system reform, last week threatened to replace all prison board members who do not move fast enough.

But prison board chairman Robert Gunn, an appointee of former Gov. Bill Clements, protested the board was moving "as fast as is humanly possible. We have accomplished more in the past six months than I would have thought possible."

The board is grappling with court-ordered changes, with overcrowded conditions, and with rising violence among prison inmates.

The terms of three of the nine board members expire in February. White has already named four members to the board and reportedly has the votes to oust Gunn as chairman.

Family Farm Loans

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower recently signed the first loan guarantee under a controversial program designed to help Texans buy family farms and ranches.

A Falls County couple used the Family Farm and Ranch Security Act to buy a 537-acre ranch at 11 percent interest.

Hightower explained the family had been running a cattle operation for years on leased land, but couldn't afford to buy their own land until this program offered the opportunity.

Check Presented

Truman Hazelrigg, president of the Kiwanis Club, recently presented Rita Burgess with a check for $250 to the Golden Spread Foster Parents Association of Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer, and Oldham Counties.

hospital employees, is representing Pilot Club International, and Morgan is an RN and director of Home Health Services at the hospital.

Lifeline units installed Thursday

Deaf Smith General Hospital staff are working closely with several volunteer groups to implement the new Lifeline program. On Thursday Lifeline representatives will be in Hereford to install the receiving unit in the hospital and the first home unit. Initially there will be 20 units available to Deaf Smith County residents with the expectation that more units will have to be added to the program within a few months. "It is important that application for the service be made as soon as possible so that we can have a realistic base to plan for future needs," Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, said. Applications may be obtained by contacting Doris Morgan or Sygale Walden at the hospital.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 4, the 339th day of 1984. There are 27 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Dec. 4, 1783, Gen. George Washington said farewell to his officers at Fraunce's Tavern in New York City. In a choked voice, the departing commander in chief of the Continental Army said, "With a heart full of love and gratitude, I now take leave of you."

On this date: In 1816, James Monroe of Virginia was elected the fifth president of the United States, defeating Federalist Rufus King. In 1875, William Marcy Tweed, the "boss" of New York City's Tammany Hall political organization, escaped from jail and fled the country. In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson set sail for France to attend the Versailles Peace Conference. He became the first chief executive to travel outside the country while in office. In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt ordered the liquidation of the Works Progress Administration, which had been created in 1935 to provide work for the unemployed during the Depression. Also in 1942, U.S. bombers struck the Italian mainland for the first time in World War II. In 1980, four American churchwomen who had disappeared two days earlier after arriving in El Salvador were found murdered. Five former national guardsmen were convicted of the slayings in May 1984. Ten years ago: Democrats in the U.S. House of Representatives approved several procedural changes aimed at undercutting the seniority system. One year ago: During a raid by U.S. warplanes on Syrian targets in Lebanon, two American planes were shot down by Syrian gunfire. Navy Lt. Mark A. Lange was killed; his fellow crew member, Lt. Robert O. Goodman, was captured. Today's birthdays: Actor-producer Max Baer Jr. is 47. Actor Jeff Bridges is 35. Thought for today: "The history of every country begins in the heart of a man or woman." — Willa Cather, author (1873-1947).

Bronze age artifacts found

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mediterranean waters off the coast of Turkey have yielded the most extensive collection of Bronze Age artifacts ever found beneath the sea — a cargo of trade goods that went down in a shipwreck more than 3,400 years ago, scientists announced today.

The remains of the vessel and its cargo, which show the influence of three ancient cultures, represent a "major discovery" and significant find for marine archeology, said the National Geographic Society, which is co-sponsoring the research.

Dr. George F. Bass of Texas A&M University, the chief project scientist, said the wreck located off Cape Ulu Burun in southern Turkey is one of the oldest ever excavated.

The cargo ship, situated at a site near the coastal town of Kas, probably sank around 1400 B.C. when driven onto nearby rocks while trying to round a peninsula, Bass said.

The craft, estimated to have been about 65 feet long, settled to the bottom without capsizing while laden with a cargo of metal ingots, pottery, jars, glass, gold and ivory. These raw materials probably were destined for craftsmen and manufacturers elsewhere in the area.

The single most costly item excavated so far is a gold goblet found in a nearby sandy gully. But proving even more valuable, scientists said, was the simple, two-handled Mycenaean Greek pottery cup located next to it, which helped date the wreck.

Also recovered was pottery of two other cultures — Cypriot and early Phoenician or Canaanite. Some of the Cypriot pieces were stacked in a large storage jar and other goods were carried in Canaanite amphoras, tall rounded jars with narrow necks and bases.

Bass, who is a director of the Institute of Nautical Archeology located at the university, speculates that the ship sailed from Syria, stopped in Cyprus, and was headed for either Greece or western Turkey.

City launches new war to crack down on crime

CHICAGO (AP) — A 17-year-old black youth is gunned down in broad daylight. It has happened dozens of times before and was rarely noticed. But this time it's different. The city is outraged.

His name was Ben Wilson. He was a high school basketball player, maybe the best in America. And he was killed near his South Side school after a scuffle during which police say two black youths tried to rob him.

Police called it a "random and senseless act." They have seen it all too often. This year, Wilson was the 669th murder victim in Chicago. Nearly 100 were in their teens.

And, as with Wilson, most victims and most killers have been black, though blacks account for only 40 percent of Chicago's population.

Last year, police records show that in 572 homicides listing offender and victim, 467 blacks killed 412 black people. In contrast, 41 whites killed 34 white people and there were 62 Hispanic homicide victims. The remaining were interracial or involved other minorities.

Nationally, the Justice Department says in about 75 percent of violent crimes, the victim and offender are believed to be the same race. Blacks are more than twice as likely to be robbed and more likely to be aggravated assault victims.

Black-on-black crime is a chilling fact of life in many of Chicago's black neighborhoods — as well as most other major cities across the nation.

Days after Wilson's death, there was more violence several miles away at the predominantly black Cabrini-Green public housing project, where former Mayor Jane Byrne lived briefly in 1981 to dramatize her determination to crack down on gangs.

The new outbreak involved gang shootings, snipings and more deaths. Amid rumors of a shootout, mothers pulled their children from school, fearful they would be caught in the crossfire.

Wilson's death two weeks ago and recent gang activities have stirred Chicago's black community, prompting many leaders to come together to try to find a way to stop the violence.

"We must erect a living memorial ... an end to the useless, senseless slaying of blacks by blacks," Alderman Anna Langford said at Wilson's funeral.

"It is clearly time to strike and eradicate this longstanding cancerous situation," Mayor Harold Washington said of the gang warfare.

On Monday, Washington announced his second program this year — aides said the first plan had "meager results" — to get tough with an estimated 10,000 gang members in Chicago. Police say many black gang members are not teen-agers — they are older and more sophisticated, having returned to the streets after prison stints.

Washington's program includes reinforcing public-housing security and revising an original budget plan to keep police ranks near 12,000. An earlier mayoral plan proposed letting the police force dwindle to 11,500.

Last week, some black leaders urged that the curfew age for teen-agers be raised, the curfew hour be lowered and major crimes be prosecuted within 45 days. Chicago Black United Communities, a local organization, announced it will pull together 1,000 black men to "serve as surrogate fathers and protect our young."

And a "Black On Black Love" campaign, which expanded across the nation after it was initiated nearly three years ago by a South Side businessman, has stepped up its efforts with clubs, arts programs and promotions.

"Let's replace some of this violence with self-respect," says Frances Williams, acting coordinator in Chicago.

Though approaches differ, most agree not enough has been done.

"The black leadership has not taken on this problem," said Lu Palmer, chairman of Chicago Black United Communities. "For many, many years we tried to close our eyes. We didn't want to admit it existed or we felt so frustrated ... it was allowed to drift. It's drifted into a real crisis."

Vernon Jarrett, a black columnist at the Chicago Sun-Times, says black leadership has made too many excuses, particularly for gangs.

"Instead of taking a stand against these strutting arrogant criminals, black leaders either adjusted or tried to 'explain' black-on-black violence," he wrote. "No one could deny that poverty is a major contributor to crime, but no serious student of black culture can deny that blacks never before accepted poverty as an excuse for the poor to commit senseless, wanton violence."

Anti-O'Neill effort a ploy to give stronger voice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Buddy Roemer, D-La., a member of CDF. Reporters waiting for Monday's news conference to begin joked that someone had better point out Charlie Stenholm when he arrived, because most of them didn't know what he looked like.

But when the West Texas congressman swept in, they clustered around him, pens and tape recorders at the ready. Stenholm sat down, carefully placed his farmer's hands on the table in front of him, and stared dead ahead.

"Well, let me say I've just come from another meeting of our Conservative Democratic Forum group," he said, "and I have just made a telephone call to the speaker in which I stated to the speaker that it was my intention not to run, not to contest the speaker in our caucus this afternoon."

Stenholm and the other members of the Conservative Democratic Forum want to stay in the Democratic Party. They want the Congress to vote on the legislation they support, and they want to get re-elected.

That, says Stenholm, is why he threatened to challenge Massachusetts Congressman Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr. for Speaker of the House in Monday's Democratic Caucus.

"We believe there is considerable justification for the point that we are trying to make," Stenholm said in a recent interview. "Unfortunately, the argument gets centered on Tip because he is the leader. But we're talking about the overall direction of the party."

"We have felt that those who are from the South and Southwest are not considered (by the leadership) to be 'real' Democrats," says Rep.

Buddy Roemer, D-La., a member of CDF.

O'Neill may not have been able to give the conservatives any guarantees, but most decided that Stenholm and Roemer, in a meeting with O'Neill on Friday, had gotten enough from the speaker to offset the value a vote against O'Neill would have in their 1986 campaigns.

Instead, they settled for O'Neill's promise not to stand in the way of conservative legislative initiatives such as a balanced budget amendment, a deficit reduction program that includes across-the-board spending cuts except for the neediest of the needy; his promise to consider a list of conservatives to fill positions on key committees like Budget; and a promise of a new advisory committee that would have access to the leadership throughout the Congress.

Stenholm hopes that the CDF will organize around the opening O'Neill has offered and will become a real force during the 99th Congress. That would give the conservatives something of value to take home to their districts.

Stenholm was the subject of publicity before, back in 1981, as spokesman for the CDF. The group, which Stenholm co-founded, was dubbed the "boll weevils" for not toeing the party line and instead voting with Republicans for President Reagan's economic program.

Rumors of party-switching have followed the boll weevils. One of their number, Phil Gramm, switched parties and became a U.S. senator this year.

But Stenholm, who had no opponent for re-election, says he plans to stay in the Democratic Party and try to bring it back toward the center.

"The party is being perceived as having moved far too far to the left economically and particularly in defense and national security measures," Stenholm said. "The image of our party has become one of weakness and that's not a traditional role of the Democratic Party."

He said "image" is what centered the conservatives' symbolic revolt on O'Neill. With liberals controlling the House, liberals heading the Democratic ticket, and a liberal running for Senate, Texas Democrats lost four congressional seats in last month's elections. One belonged to Panhandle Congressman Jack Hightower, a 10-year veteran and one of the "boll weevils."

"Tip O'Neill was the name mentioned in all my opponent's advertising," Hightower said recently. "I think that if two years ago, I had stood up in the caucus or on the floor of the House on the first day of the session and voted against the speaker, I would have been a hero, at least among these people, and probably would not even have had an opponent."

In 1966, Rhodesia rejected a British-approved formula for ending the Rhodesian rebellion.

Only 3.6 percent of the nation's farm labor forces was jobless in 1982, compared with 9.5 percent of nonfarm residents, says the American Council of Life Insurance. However, many farm residents who lost nonfarm jobs were not counted as jobless because they still had farm jobs.

Ann Landers

Thanks for your baby

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I had the opportunity of seeing my best friends receive their adopted baby. It was a day that marked the end of despair and loneliness. The tears we shed were joyful and the love in that room was greater than I've ever felt before.

The only sad thought that crossed my mind was knowing that somewhere a young girl might be grieving for the child she would never hold in her arms again. Ann, please print my letter so she will know how special she is.

DEAR UNWED MOTHER: I saw your baby today. The infant was lying in a beautiful crib that had been waiting for eight years. Hovering over the child were two of the happiest people in the world.

Please try not to be sad. Your baby is in safe and loving hands and looks wonderfully healthy and content.

Don't think of your unwanted pregnancy as an unforgivable and embarrassing burden. Hold your head high and take comfort in the knowledge that you gave your baby to two people who will cherish and love your gift of a life forever and ever.

I will simply say thank you for being the person you are. As I prayed for my friends to one day have a child, I will now pray for you to know peace in your heart for having done the right thing. I hope you will never think of your baby as a mistake. Think of the child, instead, as a miracle who has transformed the lives of an unhappy couple to one of unprecedented joy.—A Friend

DEAR FRIEND: Thank you for a beautiful tribute. I deleted the state from which your letter was mailed. I would like every unwed mother who gave up her baby for adoption to think your letter was meant for her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a family matter I need some help with.

My 31-year-old son is divorced and lives in an apartment near me. He has a steady job and claims he makes enough money to get by. He also has a 10-year-old daughter who lives with her mother in another state for whom he sends child support.

Here's the problem. He is at my house everyday, eats his meals here and is constantly asking for money. He also leaves his clothes for me to wash and contributes no help with household chores. When his daughter visits, he depends on me, his mother, to take her everywhere and pay for everything.

My son has few friends and I can't just kick him out. The rest of my family feels I can give him alternatives such as just having him over a couple times a week or budgeting his money for him. I don't know what to do and would like to hear a suggestion from you.—A Mom In California

DEAR MOM: Sounds to me like you have a freeloader on your hands. He will continue to mooch off his mama as long as she puts up with it. Show Sonny Boy how to do his laundry, tell him he can come for meals only when invited, and invite him once a week, if you feel like it.

And for heaven's sake, stop lending the parasite money. If he can't make do on his paycheck, tell him to get a part-time job.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995 Chicago, Illinois 60611.
