Farm Tours Slated

Plans Aimed At Tourists

Courists driving through Hereford during a fiveweek period this summer will have an opportunity to take a free guided tour of area farm and agricultural industry attractions.

Sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and its highway association subsidiary, the two-a-day tours are planned from June 14 to July 17. They will be called the "Vacation Farm and Ranch Tour."

Credited with the program's conception is Gene Fooks, chairman of the chamber's tourists conventions committee.

THE PLAN, ON which months of preparation have been spent, has been labeled a "pilot project" by the chamber board, which approved the five-week trial run this summer at a meeting Wednesday. "If it is successful the chamber may adopt it as part of their permanent program," says Fooks, a Church of Christ minister here, "But right now, nobody in the world can say if it will be a success.' He thinks it will be, however, and said he would not be "surprised" if the 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. tours Monday through Saturday draw an average of 20 cars per day "although that may be too optimistic." Others who have worked on the tours expected no more than four to five cars per day, Fooks adds.

A CROSS-SECTION of the agricultural activity and industry - embracing the area's farm economic picture from seed to sales - will be offered to tourists by the tours, which will cater to families primarily.

Members of the Future Farmers of America chapter at Hereford High School will be enlisted as guides and will be paid $1.25 an hour for their services. Don Newman, manager of the Soil Conservation Service here, See FFA Page 3

Area Catches Up To 4 Inches

Optimism Follows Big Rains

By DUDLEY LYNCH

"ve seen a lot more smiles in the last few days than I

That was Deaf Smith County Agricultural Agent Juston T. McBride's observation Friday as a bright sun was shining down on the area's water-logged fields. Four days of sometimes torrential rains were at an end.

The succession of thunderstorms, which began early Monday, appeared to have covered most segments of the Hereford area. Four-day readings ranged from 4.25 inches 11 miles south of Hereford to .50 of an inch 38 miles west.

Readings in Hereford proper were near the to abundant rain totals. The city's 3.99 inches exploded the previously trifling 1965 measurement to 5.59 inches. (The city's rainfall for May of 1964 was only .66 of an inch and the year's compilation through May was 2.60 inches.) Damage to crops from the storms appeared small.

"There were a few isolated cases of small hail and no doubt some minor damage," said County Agent McBride. "But the hail damage was very minor and the rains very valuable." Rains were heaviest in eastern Deaf Smith county Monday, in the central and west-central area Wednesday afternoon and to the south of Hereford Thursday afternoon. The region was at the western extreme of an area warned of turbulent weather — including a possible fornado — from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. Residents were treated to a display of ominous, churning black clouds promptly at 2 o'clock, but only momentarily heavy rain and pea-sized hail resulted. Reaction voiced by farmers and their wives, reached during an area-wide rain check Friday by The Brand, ranged mostly from tempered enthusiasm to outright exuberance. A few persons in drier areas were disappointed. "It stopped this dern dust, that's for sure," chuckled Donald Meyer, 20 miles northwest of Hereford, "It has all soaked away," described Mrs. Frank Zinser Jr., 20 miles west-southwest, "It fell slow and easy and was very bene-

Just what will the moisture be worth? "I'd hesitate to put a dollar-and-cents value on it," said McBride.

"But it was certainly a most valuable rain." Though the rainfalls were meager to the west along moisture-starved New Mexico border, McBride said

"there is some of this dryland wheat that will benefit from the moisture." "Of course," he added, "it came too late to be of heavy value but there will be some of the dryland wheat combined that wouldn't have been otherwise."

Irrigated wheat, too, will be helped, he said. "Dry weather cuts the yield of irrigated wheat as much as any other crop because of the low humidity in the air and other factors," he explained.

Farmers should be able to get back in their fields in some instances by Monday or Tuesday, the county agent guessed, providing that no further rain (and more was threatening late Saturday afternoon) was received. Some cotton already has been planted, he said, as well as early grain sorghums: "Just exactly the per cent of the crop, I'm not sure.

Incidentally, Atchison is an industrial city. It is the home well Co. (which employs more than 1200 people) and many other smaller industrial concerns. Some agriculture of course, but we would say industry accounts for a large part of the city's economy.

Our own visit to Atchison was dual-purposed. First we were interested in the mall - and secondly, we were interested in was once an emergency aid prothe operation of a small town daily newspaper - and Atchison has one of the best.

Paul Allingham, publisher of the Atchison Globe, was once advertising director of the Amarillo Daily News, then owned by Gene Howe.

In 1952 Allingham struck out on his own, purchased the Atchison Globe and began building it into the fine newspaper that attracted out attention here, are the beautiful old homes scatter-

of these. Built 104 years ago by Judge Alfred Otis, this magnificent old home was the birthplace of Amelia Earhart, world famous aviatrix who disappeared in the Pacific in 19-38. Otis was Miss Earhart's

Almost all the old homes, including the Earhart birthplace, are of the two and three story type structure. And almost all of them have more rooms than we could possibly use. The Allingrham residence for instance has 13 rooms, many of which are now closed off. It sits on a bluff overlooking the Missouri

The Atchison trip has been an interesting one. We have never traveled in this part of the country before, and find it quite appealing. Having been born and reared on the flat plains of Texas, we are always impressed by beautiful trees, hills and rivers with running water. And you can take our word for it, the "muddy Missouri" is too deep to wade at Atchison, Kansas.

He is a native of Plains and a Hereford graduate. The minister holds a bachelor's degree from H-SU and has been in the ministry since 1937. He has held pastorates in Knox City, Hamlin, Tulia, Kingsville and has been at Arlington since 1951. He also has served on the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Since he became pastor, the First Baptist Church at Arlington has grown from 1,475 members to 3,555 and budget has in-Cowan Jewelry creased from $66,000 to $335,000 per year the university public per year, the university public information office said.

Modern Aids And The Importance Of Quality:

Many people still erroneously think of eye glasses and other vision aids as a crutch, a necessary nuis ance, a mark of deficiency in themselves.

Sooner or later practically everyone will find these vision aids helpful to his performance, well-being and pleasure. The question is not whether any of us will do so, but only when. For some 15% of us it happens in early childhood, before the age of 6. The percentage rises gradually each year to about 30% at

There it holds steady until about 40, when it rises sharply. By about 50, it happens to just about everyone. If eye glasses or contact lenses are indicated, one should insist on only the highest quality of materials, both lenses and frames; preparation of the lenses exactly to the practitioners prescription; careful fitting; and provide the service necessary to maintain his correction in proper adjustment. A search for a "bardentistry or "bar gain" gain" surgery.

The benefits one can expect from regular complete professional eye examina tion are:

The ability to function better in any activity which involves seeing (in this day, almost anything worth do-

Improved physical and emotional well-being.

The assurance and peace of mind that come with pre-ventive care, especially of a function so important as eyesight.

Kicked And Cut, Says Teen-Ager

A 19-year-old Hereford girl told police she was kicked and cut while struggling with a prowler at the home of her parents. Wednesday night

Taken to Deaf Smith County Hospital for observation and treatment for a cut in her right side was Linda Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hart, 506 Star St. She was released from the hospital Thursday.

SHE TOLD investigators that she was alone in the house about 7:45 p.m. when she heard a door open in the rear of the home.

When she went to investigate, someone grabbed her from behind and kicked her through a bedroom door, she said. SHE SAID she received the cut during the struggle, but did not know what caused it.

Investigating police and sherriff's deputies said she told them she was unable to get a look at the intruder, since the lights in that portion of the house were stract art is not new. It is a type belonging to a "period" such as colonial or Japanese would

With abstract art a perso needs to satisfy themself first and do what suits the individual. Abstract, she said, deals with the emotions which can be projected through the arrangement in design and color.

To constitute the total design some of the essentials are line, form, pattern, texture and color, and in an arrangement, one of these essentials should be em-

"Organized space," she relat-ed can form the design. There is a converging of lines but not necessarily a focal point for abtract arrangements and rythym can be captured by repetition of

Fresh plant material and branches can produce the colors for the arrangements and for her material she includes the use of cat tails, which is a good line material; wisteria, cedar roots, driftwood, and even telephone

Mrs. Smith said that abstracts should be a mystery and suggest rather than paint the complete picture. Balance is important and there must be beauty in feeling or design. Also for garden shows, one piece of plant material must be included in each arrangement.

A question and answer period followed her lecture.

The refreshment table was laid with a lavender linen cloth centered with an old fashioned garden display of mixed flowers liams, club president, poured and was assisted by Mrs. Ray Carlisle, Mrs. C. D. Kelton and Mrs. A. L. Manjeot.

HERE'S ONE of the best pan tryshelf salads we've ever come upon, Surprising, delightful, easy to prepare! When we encountered this recipe, the combination of ingredients struck us as unusual. Although the salad was highly recommended by a fine cook, we wondered whether our tasters 2 cups small-size macaroni shells really would give it a top rating. We needn't have wondered the salad was immensely pleas-

We call it pantryshelf-style because its three main ingredients - shrimp, cut green beans and whole-kernel corn - are canned and may be on hand in the kitchen. The refrigerator ingredients needed are easy to

The cook who passed along this rule to us said the salad reminded her of a straw hat because the bowl into which the shrimp combination is placed is outlined with the long shredded green tops of scallions!

It's the shrimps that give this salad its main-course quality. Packed in small cans, this seafood is great to have on hand. You can always use the shrimps for a quickly made spread by with sweet butter | Fresh pineapple rings and adding a suspicion of nut- Vanilla ice cream meg. U.S. Discovering True Friends

One thing that can be said with certainty about recent events in Southeast Asia and the Dominican Republic is that the United States is finding out who its real friends are and who is really dedicated to defending freedom against Communist

President Johnson, in a long series of speeches and statements, has made it crystal clear that so long as he is in the White House this country's government will not hesitate or flinch for a moment in doing whatever in his judgement has to be done, which is to say whatever the Communists make it necessary for the United States to

The Tools Of Learning

We let National Library Week get by without editorial comment, but it is better late than never.

Especially from people in the newspaper business, who are necessarily readers and devotees of the printed page. Newspaper people, as a general rule, learned early to appreciate reading, to appreciate good books, and most newspaper people have spent a great deal of time around a library.

Back in the early days of Perryton, a group of determined women in the Perryton Sorosis Club got together a collection of books which were placed in a corner of the Edwards Toggery on Main

These books were rented out, at a nominal fee, and the proceeds used to buy new books and repair the old ones. Many a child of Perryton had his first introduction to library methods at this small counter in the Edwards Toggery, where exciting works of fiction as well as good books on biogand other fields were made available. As time went by, the library expanded out of those quarters into the courthouse annex where a full time librarian was employed. The library board, composed of some of the earliest advocates of library facilities in Perryton, have spent many hours in performing the duties of library board members.

And a few years ago the Perryton community was proud to be the recipient of a truly outstanding gift—the Perry Memorial Library, built and furnished by Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Spicer and given to the county with no strings attached.

This beautiful building, large enough to accomodate the thousands of volumes that are now on its shelves, is a distinct community asset which is appreciated by young and old alike. It is a tribute to the foresight of the donors that they could look into the future and give a gift that will be actively used and appreciated for years to come as a living memorial to the Perry family, including of course the late Judge Geo. M. Perry, for whom Perryton is named and who played such an important role in Ochiltree county history.

Many people do not realize how much traffic is generated these days at the Perry Memorial Library by people who come to read and to learn and to enjoy books.

It can be truly said that books are the principal tools of learning. And we in Perryton can be especially proud of our Perry Memorial Library, of our librarian, Mrs. D. D. Shanks, and of the many services that are provided for us there.

do in order to protect its own security and interests, resist Communist aggression, defend freedom, keep its commitments and help those countries that want to be helped in defending their own independence.

He has made it just as clear that he is not going to be deterred by that nebulous and fickle thing known as "world opinion," which is subject to Communist influence and manipulation, and which Communist leaders long have tried to use as a form of pressure against this country.

It is not that President Johnson is oblivious to "world opinion." In fact, there probably never has been an American President who is more sensitive to what others think of his actions and policies or who has gone to greater lengths to try to win approval. But he has shown and said that he will not let disapproval keep him from doing what he believes is both right and necessary.

Moreover, he has stated very candidly that, since this country must bear the main burden for the defense of the Free World whether it likes the responsibility or not, he feels that it has a right to expect understanding and support from its true friends and the beneficiaries of its policies.

He expressed this feeling very pointedly in his State of the Union message when he said: "We are prepared to live as good neighbors with all, but we cannot be indifferent to acts designed to injure our interest, or our citizens, or our establishments abroad. A community of nations requires mutual respect. We shall extend it - and we shall expect it."

There is certainly nothing unreasonable about expecting one's friends to rally to one's support when the chips are down in a crucial confrontation or test of determination between the forces of freedom and those of tyranny. If they cannot give that support, they at least can keep silent.

No one expects unanimity, and there no such thing as infallible judgment. There is always the possibility of equally effective alternatives. But differences in viewpoint, opinion and judgment can be presented in such a way as not to give aid, comfort and help to the common enemy.

Perhaps there is no such thing as morality in international relations, but there can be loyalty.

Poll Tax

By a narrow roll-call vote, the Senate Tuesday defeated attempts by a group of liberals - led by Democrat Ted Kennedy and Republican Jacob Javits — to add an amendment to the administration's voting rights bill which would have outlawed poll taxes entirely. Four states, including Texas, still use the poll tax as a requirement for voting in state and local elections, though it is banned by constitutional amendment for federal elections.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas, casting his lot with the Kennedy forces, termed the poll tax a "poisonous snake across the path to the voting box" and a "crown of thorns" for minority groups in Texas. He added that some critics charge the voting rights bill, as drawn, does not app to Texas. "I want it to apply to Texas," said Yarborough.

Sen. John Tower, defending his home state's use of the poll tax, provided a calm, logical rebuttal for Yarborough's arguments. The poll tax in Texas, said Tower, was neither intended to foster voting discrimination in the state when it was enacted nor has it been so used.

Its purpose, he said, was to prevent election frauds, purify the ballot and raise revenue. Challenging the argument that the poll tax has been used to discourage minorities from registering to vote, To er confronted his liberal colleagues with the fact that a higher percentage of Negroes in Texas register to vote than do whites.

The main argument against the Kennedy-Javits amendment is that the poll tax has been found to be legal for state and local elections, and that short of a constitutional amendment to outlaw it, Congress cannot prohibit its use by simple statute.

The President, the attorney general and the bipartisan leadership in the Senate and House take the view that adding a poll tax ban to the voting rights bill might subject the whole bill to a constitutional challenge. They prefer a "compromise" which would permit a separate and early test of the constitutionality of the poll tax by the Supreme Court.

These questions are pertinent: If a statutory ban on the poll tax is unconstitutional, is a statutory ban on state literacy tests and other portions left in the voting rights bill also unconstitutional? If the congressional and administrative leadership truly believes it does not have the power to outlaw the poll tax short c! a constitutional amendment, by what logic does it think the Supreme Court can settle

The presumption is that the court will outlaw the poll tax, saving the legislative and executive branches the trouble or embarrassment. Very likely that presumption is justified, even though the court has consistently upheld the validity of state poll taxes — and other voting requirements to be outlawed by the pending bill, for that

Trial Of Errors

Sen. Thomas Dodd has accused the American press of giving an inaccurate, imbalanced and inadequate picture of the war in Viet Nam. These are serious charges, made even more serious because they are partly true.

Confusing events in South Viet Nam during the last four years have at times been distorted, at other times been unreported by the press. As a result, until recently the American people have had a hard time getting a satisfactory answer to the question, "What's going on in Viet

The press coverage of the riots and torch suicides that preceded the fall of Diem gave a misleading picture in overemphasizing the flaws in the government and overlooking completely the political machinations of the leaders of the Buddhist opposition. As Sen. Dodd said, incidents of mistreatment of Viet Cong prisoners drew the fascinated interest of much of the American press, but it generally ignored the wholesale slaughter of loyal civilians by VC terrorists. Minor government defeats sometimes got greater coverage than major government victories.

However, Sen. Dodd did not give the whole story, either. In this, he too, is guilty of giving an inadequate picture of the press in Viet Nam. His implication that American newsmen are guilty of deliberate slanting of the news to misinform the public is, we believe, wrong. The American press as a whole doesn't work that way.

One of the problems of the correspondents has been that they are covering a new kind of war, one which the French called "a war without fronts." After years in the field, the military has not yet learned exactly how to fight such a war. Is it any wonder the press is having trouble devising ways to report it?

There are no front lines, to which correspondents can go to observe the fighting for themselves. Battles can occur anywhere, but the correspondent cannot be everywhere at once.

A fortified village may go undisturbed for years, then suddenly be overwhelmed and destroyed overnight without warning. Viet Cong tactics are a combination of commando, guerrilla, Chicago gangster, thugee, and Comanche tactics, all woven together in a skein of propaganda and political persuasion. Their successes and failures cannot be understood by looking at a map.

The desertion rate of the army, the capture of VC rice stores, the tone of Hanoi's latest broadcast - any of these may be more significant than the communique of some big battle that occurred primarily in the imagination of the government public information officer.

And in this regard, it is well to point out that any failure of the press to inform has been at least matched by failures of the government spokesmen, both Vietnamese and American. In past years, these worthies repeatedly have been caught announcing that everything was going great as they stood before a regime in the process of

The tear gas fiasco, in which early news stories did not make it clear that gas being used was nonlethal, was set off when a U.S. official backed into the announcement without giving full details.

In 1963 government restriction on the press prior to the anti-Diem coup prompted a House panel to declare that the policy "unquestionably contributed to the lack of information about conditions in Viet Nam . . . Instead of hiding the facts from the American public, the State Department should have done everything possible to expose the true situation to full view.

Today American officials and reporters in Viet Nam. having gained experience from past mistakes, are doing a better job of explaining and reporting, respectively. It would be a lie to claim that no mistakes have been made have been made in the past. But it is unfair to claim that all the mistakes have been made on one side.

DOES FAITH WORK FOR YOU It takes faith in God to be an Episcopalian. Our beloved Church believes in and teaches the constant presence of God, not just in church on Sunday, but in our everyday lives.

And it goes farther than that, in its continued insistence down through the years on the importance of the frequent celebration of the Holy Communion and frequent reception of this Sacrament by all members of the church. You see, we believe in the REAL presence of the Son of God in the consecrated elements of the Communion.

Yes, it takes faith in God, but we find that faith to be perceive, not two or three or four times a year, but weekly or even more often, the comfort and strength which ac- Vega. company this communion with

Michigan Post To Patricia Loerwald

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (Special) - Second Lieutenant Patricia E. Loerwald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Loerwald of 224 Star St., Hereford, has completed the orientation course for U. S. Air Force nurses at Gunter AFB, Ala.

Lieutenant Loerwald, who studied specialized aerospace medical subjects and hospital administration, is being assigned to Selfridge AFB, Mich., where she will join the nursing staff. Selfridge is an installation of the Air Defense Command which defends the continental U. S. against enemy air attack.

A graduate of Hereford High School, the lieutenant received her training at Mount St. Scholastica College, Atchison, Kan., and St. Anthony's Hospital, School of Nursing, Amarillo.

Conference Meeting At Lubbock

Area Methodists Hold Northwest

LUBBOCK - Hundreds of Methodist pastors and lay leaders from the vast Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the Methodist Church will gather in Lubbock May 24-28 for the 56th annual meeting of the Confer-

Dr. Dow Kirkpatrick, pastor of the First Methodist Church. Evanston, Illinois, and a leader in many phases of Methodist activity on the national scene, will be the conference preacher.

This year's conference will be held at First Methodist Church in Lubbock under the guidance and direction of Bishop O. Eugene Slater. This will be Biship Slater's first full annual conference meeting since returning to the Northwest Texas section last June. He was pastor of Polk Street Methodist Church in Amarillo for 10 years and had been presiding bishop over the Kansas Area from 1960 to 1964. Texas Annual Conferences

BISHOP SLATER will formally open the 1965 Annual Conference at 7:30 p.m. on May 24 with a communion service, and the first business session will be held at 8:45 a.m. on Tuesday, May 25. The conference will run through Friday noon, May 28, with the reading of appointments scheduled late that mor-

Dr. Kirkpatrick's first sermon will be Tuesday night, May 25. Indications are that this year's conference business sessions will be eventful. One of the first items of business is a proposal to reduce the number of districts in the Northwest Texas Conference from nine to seven.

A SPECIAL COMMITTEE appointed at the last session of the Conference will make its recommendations concerning the number of districts. The proposal is to reduce the number shop Slater now oversees work from nine to eight for the 1965-Northwest Texas and Southwest as flexibility in ministerial appointments makes it feasible, ei-(c) Three letters followed by ther this year or any year in the future.
