Fire! Where? Here! Don't Just Stand There... Call The Fire Dept.

By WAIN MILLER Staff Writer

"Once a year-in Octobera period officially designated as fire prevention week rolls around," began an article in last Thursday's edition of the Hereford Brand.

It suggested that people "Be careful. ... there is the danger of fire lurking constantly."

Participation Plan Shows Dividends, Herd Takes Wins

A change in school policy adopted five years ago—amid some controversy—is paying off big dividends in the form of the 1965 version of the Hereford Whiteface varsity foot-. ball team.

This was the strong indication Saturday as officials surveyed statistics concerning the first half of the season for the Whitefaces and found the team destined to become one of Hereford's greatest football teams in history, at least on the statistics charts.

Hereford Whitefaces—playing one of their best ballnes in school history—closed non-conference play with a 33-6 win over the Lovington Wildcats in New Mexico Friday

Passing with pinpoint accuracy and defending with a never-give-anzinch strength, the Whitefaces chalked up their fourth straight win of the season.

And with the win the Herd found itself a matter of feet away from setting an all-time season record for the school in passing with the current season just half over.

Harland Frye Solves Problem With 10-Wheeler

Harland Frye, who farms just north of the Easter, Com-munity, tackled a rather sticky problem and six months later came up with a solution

The problem - muddy fields at cabbage harvest time.

FIGURING that the best solution to the problem would be a self-propelled vehicle - since a tractor pulling a trailer would bog down - Frye designed and made a monstrous looking contraption which travels "through rain, snow, or sleet" as well as water furrows in irrigated fields.

The result, Frye's cabbage harvesting operation will seldom be hampered one iota because

The rig steps easily across the muddiest of mud with "ten wheel drive," the ten wheels being large combine tires.

In dry weather, drive to the two steering wheels is cut off to make for easier steering of the truck-type vehicle which has "sideways bed" for harvesting cabbage,

With a ten-man crew, Frye can load a 40,000 pound truck "by noon", even in muddy weather, using the vehicle, he says.

THE VEHICLE - it's built on an old truck frame - is propelled by a truck motor. There are two truck transmissions in link to make possible a wide range of speeds.

Frye said that the harvesting rig is a "one of a kind" thing

Just for the record, you might want to count the number of these, but then they go into the wastepaper, too.

Now our stack is down to only the paying customers. Count the number of clippings in the stack. When that's done (and the exact figure recorded), separate the clippings into three separate stacks

- one for those distributed to readers in your central market; one for those distributed to readers living outside this market, but who shop here regularly; and one for those copies delivered to readers living elsewhere. Count each stack and, when you have these figures accurately recorded, divide the clippings in separate stacks by method of delivery (carriers, dealers, vendors, mail, and so forth), and count each stack.

You look a little tired at this point - we'll help by counting the number of clippings appearing in copies sold with premiums, in combination with other publications, and at special rates. We'll also count the number sold in clubbing offers or as a result of a contest or with an insurance offer.

Rested now? Give us a hand and we will sort out the clippings in separate stacks for each city and town in which copies were distributed (just exactly where every copy of this message went - to the paying customers only). Then we count each stack for the record.

Now, while you relax and finish reading this message after counting and measuring our circulation in so many different ways, perhaps you would like to see what it costs each of the paying customers to buy a copy of this newspaper?

Then again, if all this talking about some of the ways the Audit Bureau of Circulations regularly counts and measures our circulation has you tired out, just ask to see a copy of our latest ABC Report.

OEAVE HE BET

ABC's stacks of figures aren't nearly as tiring and tell you a great deal more about the distribution of your advertising messages in this newspaper.

No beauty by today's standards. But a lot of water has gone down the drain since we made a Property Improvement Loan on it 35 years ago. It was the latest thing way back in 1930, the year S.I.C. started in the Consumer Finance field. Things have changed much for the better over the years. That goes for lending procedures, too. Profiting by the experience gained over the past third-of-a-century, S.I.C. specialists offer fast, friendly, budgetplanned service attuned to the modern tempo. Whether you want $100 or $5,000 for a bathtub, boat, new car or to consolidate a flock of bills ... once your loan is approved, you'll get the cash fast at S.I.C.

ITS THEME blazoned on the schedule cover reproduced above, the annual fall flower show of Bud to Blossom Garden Club will be staged in Hereford Community Center next Saturday, open to the public from 3 to 6 p.m. Horticultural specimens from Hereford gardens will vie for attention with arrangements based on the art of many countries. Titles of classes in the Artistic Design Division—Island Magic, Inspiration from the Orient, European Tour, Down Mexico Way, Early American Look, Sahara Desert—give an idea of the variety to be expected. Mrs. Wayne Newsom is staging chairman for the show, Mrs. Delmo Williams schedule chairman, Mrs. Bill Nelson publicity director and Mrs. Pat Robinson chairman of judges and awards.

SHOW CHAIRMAN for Bud to Blossom Club's "International Flower Garden" exhibit is Mrs. Ernest Kendall, left, at top, who is correlating work of a half-dozen committees to prepare the show for the public. With Mrs. Sam Long, club president, she is inspecting several of the flower arrangements made by members and shown for criticism at a pre-show workshop.

BLOOM SPECIMENS typical of those to be displayed in the Horticulture Division are selected by Mrs. Frann Battenfield in the yard of her home, 605 Star, with the assistance of Mrs. Bob Cooper, left, and Mrs. W. H. Gentry. Mrs. Cooper is hospitality chairman for the show, Mrs. Battenfield on the schedule committee and Mrs. Gentry a clerk. (Photo center left.)

awards, Mrs. Melvin Cordray of the staging committee, Mrs. R.A. Daniel and Mrs. Calvin Edwards, both of the hospitality committee. Workshops on both artistic composition and horticultural display were conducted in the club this fall. (Bottom left photo)

FINISHING TOUCH on arrangement she made is given by Mrs. Jack Allen, who asks the opinion of Mrs. Bruce Brown, left, and Mrs. R.N. Yarbo. Mrs. Brown, serving on the scheddule committee, designed the attractive cover which committee members made to announce the show theme. Mrs Yarbo is chairman of entries and Mrs. Allen is on the judges and awards committee. (Bottom photo)

As a favorite recipe, Mrs. Ir-win has an easy-to-mix chocolate cake with the flavor and moist texture that chocolate fans like best.

CHOCOLATE SHEET CAKE Mix in saucepan and bring to a boil:

4 tbs. cocoa 1 stick margarine

1/2 cup shortening 1 cup water

Then add: 2 cups sugar

2 cups flour 1 tsp. soda ½ tsp. salt

1 tsp. cinnamon 1 cup buttermilk

2 eggs, well beaten Pour into greased and floured sheet pan and bake 25 or 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

FROSTING Put 4 tbs. cocoa, 6 tbs. milk and 1 stick margarine in saucepan and bring to boil. Stir in box powdered sugar and 1 tsp. vanilla. Beat until smooth and creamy. Pour frosting on cake while both are hot.

Strawberry shortcake, made from a spongecake base, will look extra pretty if you decorate it with rosettes of whipped cream and glazed straw

Charity Challenge Faces All Community Residents

Hereford's United Fund drive got off to a good start last week with $6,447.25 reported through Thursday, and many of the teams still expected to report within the next few days.

The amount, while excellent for the brief period included, still leaves more than $23,000 to be collected in the annual drive, however, to handle needs of the nine agencies which are covered through United Fund contributions. Meanwhile, the future of the U.F. organization pretty well rests upon response in 1965. Backing up the present drive has been area-wide publicity, along with one of the best organized campaigns ever seen in the community.

To us, it seems that very few people - if any at all - are unhappy with United Fund. The real drawback is the fact that many of them do not take the trouble or feel a responsibility to donate at all. Until recent years, our United Fund drive has been pretty well financed through merchant donations, but soaring population increases during recent years have presented a condition where this is no longer possible. Most merchants have increased their donations substantially — but it is still not enough to go around. Consequently, the time has come when the burden of charity must fall on more people, including heavier contributions from rural residents and from the working people of the community.

In many ways, this is good, because through financial participation all of us will take more interest in the program, and in the community. Without doubt, all of us do benefit through the United Fund program and, naturally, all of us should take part in the program.

As to ability, there is no argument at all. Deaf Smith county is classified as one of the highest 10 counties in the nation on per capita income. Our banks and savings institutions further attest this fact when com-

Biggest Problem

When the Presbyterian church in Amarillo recently observed its 75th anniversity, scores of people were stunned by an announcement from the pulpit when the pastor predicted, after pointing out that Amarillo had a population of 300 when the church was founded 75 years ago, that the population of Amarillo would pass 2,000,000 if the area maintains the same growth ratio during the next 75 years.

Thus, many people realized for the first time, that current reports concerning national population are not the words of

Says the Perryton Sunday Herald in summing up the situation:

"The population explosion has been predicted for many years and now it is here. More people are being born than ever before and if something doesn't slow the trend, people on this planet will be standing elbow to elbow at some future date.

"The present 2 per cent growth in the world population will mean that today's world population of 3 billion will double to 6 billion by the year 2000, a mere 35 years away, well within the lifetime of most readers of this editorial.

"This means that the crowding of schools, of cities, of every country in the world, will continue more rapidly than ever

"If the first problem of life is how to preserve life, then the second problem certainly ought to be how to maintain its quality. If the population explosion is not solved, the second will be more frightening than the first.

pared with other communities.

Our chief problem, at the moment, boils down to the fact that more people must recognize their responsibility in this matter and, instead of contributing the usual "dollar bill", they will have to reach down for $5 or $10 to meet the community obligation. Actually, charity is a matter of education and habit and, whether we like it or not, it does and will continue to exist. It is county-wide, and only on this basis can it be met and retired from year to year.

Voluntary Or Compulsory

The issue is now joined on the fight to conserve Section 14-B. That cheerful old warrior, Sen. Everett Dirksen, has opened Senate debate on the administration's bill to abolish the states' right-to-work laws.

A great deal has been said about the right-to-work law by those who would benefit by its demise, but none of this outpouring of propaganda has been intended to inform. Most of the impassioned pleas for the destruction of 14-B have been pitched on the contention that collective bargaining is a good thing. It is hard to see what bearing this has on the question of compulsory unionism. Community service is a good thing, too, but this fact is not used to justify forcing all Americans to join the Red Cross.

Shorn of the propaganda trimmings that are draped around it by labor leaders, the right-to-work law is simply a law that assures every worker the right to join or not to join, to support or not to support, a union. In right-to-work states - Texas is one of them - union membership cannot be made a requirement for getting or keep-

The law does not, as labor propaganda will lead you to believe, forbid unions, forbid their use of collective bargaining, nor does it forbid their going

What it does forbid them to do is this: They cannot force a worker to join a union to keep his job:

Labor leaders imply that unions cannot function without this compulsion. Yet union membership has increased in Arizona, which has a right-to-work law, while it has stagnated in Michigan, which does not have

This is not hard to understand. Logically, which organization could be expected to $919 million Trinity river navi- floodways for flood control. have more strength and spirit - one whose gation and flood control project members joined because they wanted to be in Texas. in it or one whose members joined because they had no other choice? The answer should be obvious. The basic issue at stake for the American who does not belong to a union is whether or not he can be forced to join one. But for the union member, there is the equally important principle of keeping voluntary membership as the main strength of unionism. The father of American unionism, Samuel Gompers, warned his successors of the dangers to the labor movement that are inherent in compulsory membership. In his last address to the American Federation of Labor, he declared:

"No lasting gain has ever come from compulsion. If we seek to force, we but tear apart that which, united is invincible." —The Dallas Morning News

Passing Era

The recently announced dispersion sale of Dameron's world-famous Herefords marks an occasion which affects the entire community, along with our state and nation.

The Dameron herd represents a half century of intense research and good practices in breeding of some of the world's finest purebred cattle: hand-in-hand with growth of the ranch has been the growth of our community, which has consistently benefitted through untiring efforts of both father and son who operated the ranch.

Many of the animals, we hope, will remain in this area, because they do represent a high degree of efficiency in quality breeding, which has made this territory known throughout the world as "The Hereford Capital".

The Dameron layout, an industry within itself, has always been regarded as a leader in the cattle industry of this section and it will be sorely missed by other breeders as well as through general business channels.

Meanwhile, we cannot think of any single institution, or any single family, which has contributed more to the growth of the area than has the Dameron Ranch and the Damerons themselves.

Sooner or later someone will get around to the formation of a neutral group called "No Use Taking Sides" abbreviated alphabetically to NUTS. — Chattanooga News-Free Press

City Purchases Land For Northeast Park

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1955

Hereford City Commissioners have purchased a 10-acre tract of land in the northeast section of town for an neighborhood park, it was announced Wednesday.

"It was a tie." Clay Angelo, fire marshall, said after witnessing fire drills at Central and Shirley elementary schools Tuesday

Angelo said that Shirley's 520 pupils were given the first drill and they cleared the building in one minute and 20 seconds flat. Then the Central School students had their chance. The 450 pupils at that school cleared the building in the same time, to the second.

Bank deposits in Hereford are $40,962.95 higher than they were a year ago, statements issued by First National Bank and the Hereford State Bank, reveal.

Hootie Gilbreath became the new Hereford womens golf champion Sunday by defeating Jo Brock four and three in the finals of the Ladies Tournament.

Texas' sugar beet acreage allotment in 1956 will be higher than in 1955, Faust Collier, office manager of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office in Hereford, said today.

A County Court jury has been called for Monday, and County Judge Homer Henslee said seven cases have been docketed for hearing that day.

Hereford continues to be among the fastest growing cities in Texas, the monthly building report issued by the Bureau of Business Administration of the University of Texas reveals.

John Bryant and Bill Callaway continued to pace Hereford scoring as the football season went into its sixth week and Hereford prepared to meet the Perryton Rangers.

> "One of these is a billion-dollar project to develop the Trinity River in Texas.

"THIS SCHEME would turn the inland city of Fort Worth into a seaport. All of this is not just an exercise in imagination. Its costs are vast, indeed, and I do not believe the Congress should give its stamp of approval to the very sketchy and incomplete evidence that has been presented so far.

"Bills like this can do great harm to the confidence and the pocketbooks of the American people if the Congress insists upon sloughing over the very serious questions that have been raised about such projects as that planned for the Trinity River. This only leads to the further and justifiable public charge that the Congress is participating again in its favorite sport of fishing in the 'pork-barrell!" Rep. John Young, D, of Corpus Christi, commenting in the House on the project, said:

"I SUPPOSE if there is anything more tempting to a member of Congress than voting for a public works project in his own district, it is the temptation to vote against a public works project in the other member's district.

"Yet, yeilding to either temptation would be irrational and destructive of the nation's well being if our judgments were not based strictly on the question of the merits of each individual public works project.

"This great river basin (Trinity) encompasses some 17, 845 square miles of land and stretches some 360 miles from above Fort Worth, past Dallas, Corsicana, Palestine, and Liberty on down to the gulf coast near Houston. The basin is more than 100 miles wide above Fort Worth and furnishes livelihood and residence to 3 per cent of the total population of our country. It has more people than are to be found in any one of 32 states. . .

Young said local interests have invested a total of $260 million of their own money on flood control, water storage and Trinity basin and have commit ted themselves to spend $256

THE BOOTLEG -Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm reports on a new phase of weather reporting this week.

I was sitting at home the other night reading a newspaper while I was waiting for a western to come on and decided to turn to an inside page but didn't because about that time I looked over the edge and noticed a spider had started a web from the left side of the paper to my shoulder and if I moved by arm it'd break, and after all, watching a spider spin a web is fascinating and when he gets_it_ done it's probably as effective against world problems as the average editorial page anyway, so I just sat there awhile and re-read the front page.

I glanced down at the weather forecast in the lower right-hand corner and got to thinking. Weather forecasts have improved a great deal in the last year or two. I don't mean in accuracy, I mean in language.

It used to be that a weather forecast would read: Fair Tomorrow, or Rain Tomorrow. There it was, in black and white, rain or fair, and if it rained when it had said fair, or was fair when it had said rain, you had the weather bureau over the barrel. "Why can't they learn how to predict the weather?" you'd demand. It was satisfying, It was a clean-cut victory of nature over man.

But not anymore. Now, if there's a possibility of some rain tomorrow the forecast will read: Showers over 20 percent of the area, or, if they're a little surer, Showers over 30 percent, and they'll even go as high as 40 percent, and on rare occasions when they're dead sure, 70 percent.

This is what I'm talking about. It cuts down on the amount of criticism the weatherman gets. Where's the man who's going to get in his car and travel all over the area seeing if it rained over 20 percent of the territory? Nobody ever knows for sure, and the batting average of the forecaster stays indefinite and unchallenged. It reads good on paper in general but sometimes not in particular, like when the national cost-of-living index dropped 1 percent the same month the transmission fell out of your tractor and your car ran into a light pole.

I don't know what happened to that spider. I fell asleep and dropped the paper.

Yours faithfully.

SOUGHT - Colorado City and Mitchell County filed suit in 3rd District Court in Austin to cancel the permit for the Robert Lee dam project on the Colorado River.

Contention is that it precludes the construction of a dam to supply Mitchell County needs and hurts their hopes for future development.
