WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State George P. Shultz says Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko has made "a positive statement" in declaring that arms control should be the top priority for U.S.-Soviet relations.

Shultz brushed aside another statement by Chernenko that he doesn't think "conditions now are ripe" for a summit meeting with President Reagan for at least the next six months. The Soviet leader said he thought both sides wanted to be sure ahead of time that a summit would accomplish something.

Shultz may go to Moscow sometime in January for a meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, officials said Friday, speaking on condition that they not be identified.

Preliminary contacts have already been established between Moscow and Washington about such a meeting, although it hasn't yet been definitely arranged, they said.

return visit for Gromyko's visit to Washington in late September and his talks with Shultz and Reagan. U.S. proposals for improved relations and resuming arms control negotiations were discussed during Gromyko's visit.

statements are positive

In remarks to NBC News, Chernenko said "no delay is admissible" in averting the threat of a nuclear war by limiting weapons.

He voiced skepticism about Reagan's proposals for wide-ranging talks with Moscow aimed at addressing a broad spectrum of global problems and interests.

"It is this - the limitation and reduction of arms, and above all nuclear arms, prevention of the spread of the arms race into areas which have been free of that race so far - that the USSR and the U.S. should reach agreement on in the first place," he said.

"For our part we are prepared to work - and to work vigorously -

Chernenko provided written answers to questions submitted by Marvin Kalb of NBC News. The written answers were returned to Kalb on Friday and aired on the network's evening news program.

Chernenko didn't repeat some of the pre-conditions for arms control talks the Soviets have set previously, although it wasn't apparent whether the omission was significant. Nor did he insist on any particular approach to beginning negotiations.

The tone of the answers was moderate and devoid of criticism of the United States.

Shultz said in an interview with NBC-TV Friday that Chernenko's emphasis on the need to address arms control issues as a top prioity in U.S.-Soviet relations was "a positive statement."

"I think that we are seeing results; we are seeing progress," he said.

"We welcome his statements. We agree with the goals that he states," Shultz said.

Combest here to thank voters

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

Editor-Publisher Congressman-elect Larry Combest visited Hereford Friday afternoon to express his appreciation for the vote of confidence he received from the many citizens of Deaf Smith County.

Speaking to a gathering of about 35 interested citizens at the Community Center, Combest said he would be representing more than 500,000 citizens of the area, "not just the number who voted for me on Nov. 6."

Combest will be sworn in as the new representative from the 19th Congressional District on Jan. 3, 1985. He will replace Democrat Kent Hance.

Combest will be only the third U.S. Representative in the history of this district and the first Republican to serve. George Mahon was the first elected to the 19th District seat and served 44 years before retiring and giving way to Hance.

For recent Congressional race triumph

"I count this as a great honor to be elected to serve," said Combest, "and I encourage your continued input and assistance." The Congressman-elect said he would staff offices in Lubbock and Odessa and hoped to have a mobile office which would travel throughout the

He said preparations are underway to assemble his staff for the Washington and district offices. Combest said he had visited with Hance and hoped to make the transition of the office with as little lag time as possible.

During the 99th Congress, Combest said some of the major issues facing representatives will be the 1985 farm bill, decreasing the federal deficit and ensuring that the decontrol of natural gas begins in January.

Lawyer just looking for facts

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

An investigative attorney with Legal Services Corporation told reporters Friday he is in Hereford on "purely a fact-finding mission."

No determination of alleged violations on the part of the local Texas Rural Legal Aid office will be made this weekend, the lawyer stressed.

Wendell Wylie, who works in the LSC's Office of Compliance and Review, announced during the press conference just before noon at the Hereford Community Center that he is here because of a number of inquiries made to his office during the past few weeks. "I'm not here in response to any one particular complaint," he added.

Wylie met Thursday afternoon and all day Friday and, he intended, Saturday with local residents who had comments to make about activities at the local legal aid office. He also accepted petitions signed by around 3,000 of the county's residents which demanded an investigation of TRLA by the LSC.

The purpose of his investigation, Wylie explained, is to determine if the violations complained of to his office have actually occurred and if they are actually violations of the Legal Services Act.

When asked to explain the act and what discrepencies he might be likely to find, Wylie said the Act includes "40 to 50 pages" of regulations.

"We are not a part of TRLA, and TRLA is not a part of the Legal Serthey was so pretty that I took them to vices Corporation," he stressed. "We try not to pass judgement on what they do, as long as they do not violate the Legal Services Act.' Washington, D.C., to investigate

Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher, who introduced Wylie and also answered questions from the press, said he believes the investigation is necessary because "many of our citizens think the town is being torn down by the actions of TRLA."

Fisher, a packing shed owner who has been the object of TRLA lawsuits, responded affirmatively when asked if he thinks TRLA has created racial tension in the community.

The mayor said he had looked over the petitions, but had not determined how many of the signatures on it were Hispanic surnames. When asked by Rumaldo Garcia, one of the 20 or so local citizens attending the conference, if 3,000 was not a small percentage of the city's population, Fisher suggested that more people

Among TRLA activities that have not set well with many Deaf Smith County residents are discrimination suits against the county government and Hereford Independent School District and the office's alleged failure to provide legal helpfor all the underpriviliged regardless of the type of case. The office has also provided sanctuary for labor organizer Jesus Moya, who has had several run-ins with local vegetable growers and packers and the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department because of his labor organizing methods.

Randall Marshall, TRLA spokesman who attended Friday's press conference, introduced himself to Wylie afterward and expressed his appreciation for the investigation. Marshall was unavailable for comment Friday afternoon, but told the Amarillo Globe News Thursday he hoped the probe would help clear up a lot of the misinformation circulating about the Hereford Office.

Fifteen indictments delivered Fifteen indictments were handed down earlier this week by a Deaf Smith County grand jury.

Included were four burglaries of a building. That charge was levied against Jorge Benegas (also known as George Benagas), Billy Edward Cockrum, Homer Landin and Jessie Ruiz. Landin and Ruiz were also indicted for burglary of a motor vehicle, as was Arturo Aldrete. The latter has also gone by the name Arturo Aldret Montalvo, Arturo Montalvo and Arturo Soto. Cockrum, in addition to the burglary of a building charge, was indicted for theft over $750 and under $20,000.

John Bill Hampton was indicted on two counts of forgery and passing. Driving while intoxicated was the charge against Benjiman Oran Shreve (also known as Benjamin Orin Shreve) and Dioniso Rodriguez was indicted for aggravated assault with a deadly

There were also two drug-related indictments: Jacinto Montes Orosco for delivery of marijuana and Danny Moreno and Martha Moreno for possession of over four ounces but under five pounds of marijuana.

Hospital directors to meet

Board members of the Deaf Smith General Hospital District are to gather for their regular November meeting Tuesday at noon in the DSGH conference room.

Following approval of the October gathering's minutes, the board is to hear a medical staff report from Dr. Jesse Pirales. Next comes Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, with the operating report.

Following on the brief agenda is a summary of renovation bids and a closed session to discuss personnel and legal matters.

Four-H gathering postponed

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Council meeting slated for Monday night has been postponed due to a scheduling conflict, according to Susan Raney of the county extension office.

All club presidents and council delegates, the extension agent said, should now plan to gather at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 26 at Pizza Hut, W. Highway 60.

The November meeting of the 4-H Parent Leader's Association is to be held this Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the east side of the Hereford Community Center banquet room. Robert Devin, 4-H and youth specialist, is to be on hand to present a leader training on 4-H organization and management.

Lawmen suspect link in murders

DALLAS (AP) - Whoever committed the Halloween murder of an oil company executive in Caddo may also have strangled a woman in her Colleyville home almost 100 miles away, police say.

Stephens County Sheriff James Cain, who is investigating the Oct. 31 shooting death of Samuel Martin Rogers, 42, said he is awaiting information from Colleyville on the Tuesday strangulation of Judith Herron, 37.

Although Mrs. Herron was strangled and Rogers was shot, the sheriff said that in both slayings the killer wore a ski mask and camouflage clothing, carried a gun and entered through the victims'

Comptroller contends law fague

AUSTIN (AP) - State Comptroller Bob Bullock says the Legislature did such a poor job of writing this year's sales tax increase that his staff is having a tough time collecting some taxes.

"You can pick up almost any page of the bill and find something that's not clear because of the way it's written," Bullock wrote in a letter to House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Stan Schlueter, who sponsored the tax bill.

"Perhaps that is to be expected in the largest tax bill ever passed in the history of the state of Texas - as this billion-dollar baby was," said Bullock, the state's chief tax collector.

Bullock said sections dealing with taxing country club fees, computer software, entertainment events, motor vehicle sales and more are unclear.

And the tax rate itself — raised during the Legislature's summer special session from 4 percent to 41/8 percent — is extremely difficult for merchants to compute, he said.

Discovery prepped for mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - With astronauts and space officials still glowing over the first-ever space salvage mission, technicians started preparing shuttle Discovery for a top-secret Defense Department flight in January.

Discovery was towed into a processing hangar Friday just a few hours after the ship and its crew of four men and one woman landed here with two communications satellites that astronauts Joe Allen and Dale Gardner plucked from useless orbits during daring space walks.

Jesse Moore, director of the shuttle program for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, reported the shuttle "looks like she's in excellent shape," and there should be little trouble getting it ready for the next mission, scheduled to start Jan. 21 or Jan.

Moore said the retrieved satellites, Palapa 2B and Westar 6, will be removed from Discovery's cargo bay on Sunday and taken to a nearby facility for servicing. Later this month, they will be flown to the Hughes Aircraft Co. plant in El Segundo, Calif., for refurbishing.

Another baboon transplant eyed

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) - Baby Fae pioneered a "quest to enrich our quality of life" and her death after three weeks of borrowed time with a baboon heart won't deter further attempts at crossspecies transplants, her surgeon said.

"There's no doubt there's been a tremendous victory accompanying this loss," Dr. Leonard L. Bailey said at a Loma Linda University Medical Center news conference Friday, 13 hours after the struggle to save the infant ended.

"I plan to attempt it again, by and by," he said, his voice quavering. "... In all fairness to the next baby, we should take the time to carefully review what we've learned from this baby we all loved so much."

The death of the infant born three weeks premature with a fatal underdevelopment called hypopolastic left heart syndrome was deeply felt at the Seventh-Day Adventist teaching hospital. A memorial service was scheduled this evening at the university's

"We should not today dissect Baby Fae, but rather grieve passionately and, ironically, cheer just as passionately," Bailey said.

Visit to Chile called off

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - Gen. John A. Wickham Jr., the U.S. Army chief of staff, cancelled a visit to Chile to signal Reagan administration displeasure over the state of siege imposed last week by the military government, according to well-informed sources.

Wickham had accepted an invitation by the Chilean army vice commander, Gen. Julio Canessa Robert, to observe troop maneuvers last weekend. His trip was called off after President Augusto Pinochet, the army commander, decreed the state of siege

Two civilians with army contacts said Pinochet was told the decision was a sign of protest by Washington against the state of siege, which suspends civil liberties and imposes strict press censorship

Both informants asked not to be named because of the sensitivity of the matter and the lack of an official acknowledgment by either government. Both the Chilean Defense Ministry and the U.S. Embassy declined to comment.

Father didn't expect jailing

HOUSTON (AP) - Bernard Port, jailed for nearly two months because he refused to talk to grand jurors about a killing his son is accused of, says he and his wife didn't expect to be locked up when they made their decision.

Port said he and his wife, Odette, did not consult a lawyer before deciding not to cooperate in the investigation of Debora Sue Schatz's shooting death. "First of all, when we went in, we didn't expect this (the imprisonment) would happen," Port said Friday, the first time he has discussed the case at any length with reporters. "We just did what we thought was right.'

Port was freed Nov. 9 after a state district judge ruled his answers to a grand jury's questions last week were sufficient to clear him of a contempt of court charge. His wife remains jailed, having refused to answer about six questions that prosecutors put to her last week.

The couple agreed to testify after the grand jury's term was extended until Jan. 31.

Defense attorney Randy Schaffer contends the questions Mrs. Port refused to answer deal strictly with the killing, an offense which cannot be pursued further by the grand jury now that it has issued a murder indictment. Schaffer argues the panel must limit itself to seeking evidence of other crimes.

The Ports were jailed Sept. 12. Prosecutors have never alleged the parents were involved in any wrongdoing in Ms. Schatz's death, but contend they have information vital to the grand jury investigation.

Prosecutors have said that information might warrant upgrading the indictment against 17-year-old David Port to capital murder.

Ms. Schatz, a 23-year-old mail carrier, disappeared June 7 while on her rounds in the Ports' affluent west Houston neighborhood. Her body was found two days later in a remote area of northwest Harris County.

David Port is free on $20,000 bond. State and federal courts have thrown out Schaffer's arguments that the elder Ports should not have to give evidence against David under a principle similar to that which pro-

Former diplomat's extradition sought

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Investigators probing the assassination of Indira Gandhi have asked for the extradition of a former Indian diplomat who is seeking asylum in Norway, news reports said today. The ex-diplomat called the reports an effort to block his asylum request.

The Hindustan Times, New Delhi's largest circulation newspaper, said a special investigation team reportedly has approached the government to seek extradition of I. Harinder Singh, former charge d'affaires in Oslo and a Sikh, for questioning about the alleged conspiracy.

The Press Trust of India carried a similar report. The reports could not be confirmed immediately. The head

One gang rape suspect remains at large

HOUSTON (AP) - Seven people have been charged and six arrested, accused of participating in a gang rape of a 6-year-old girl who allegedly was forced to perform sex acts for food.

"This is bizarre. It's not typical of what we see in sexual assaults on children," said Judy Hay, a spokeswoman for Children's Protective Services in Harris County. .

What's the news from Hereford?

If you tune in the 6 or 10 p.m. television news, it's usually bad news. If there is any controversial subject to be aired from Hereford, you'll get it on the boob

If you want to know about things that are building up Hereford, rather than tearing it down, you usually have to look in the pages of The Hereford Brand. We report the good and bad.

We're the only newspaper in the world that really cares what happens to Hereford, Texas.

We're there to report on the good things that are happening in our schools, the good news coming out of our city and county governing bodies, the new businesses and industries which the chamber of commerce is welcoming to town, the ground breaking for the Senior Citizens Center and the YMCA facility, and the new Security Federal building, and the First National Bank remodeling.

We let you know about everyone that is born, everyone that marries, everyone that dies in Deaf Smith County-we don't pick and choose because of social standing or public stature.

This is not a news announcement...just a reminder.

Justice for all

When Norman Jett was fired as head football coach and athletic director of South Oak Cliff high school in Dallas, he said it was purely for racial reasons and he resented it.

Jett is white. The South Oak Cliff high school principal, Frederick Todd, is black.

Jett filed suit for damages and a federal court just the other day agreed with Jett and awarded him $850,000 in damages from the Dallas Independent School District and from Frederick Todd.

It is a story that has received considerable publicity, solely because it is a story of reverse discrimination, this time against a white man.

In the 1960s when the Civil Rights Act was new, plenty of cases of racial discrimination were uncovered, all of them involving blacks who were deprived of an opportunity for a better job or some other way of advancement, simply because of their color.

The court held that discrimination could be remedied with fines and financial awards. Our lawmakers passed lots of laws trying to atone for former racial discrimination. These laws required businesses and political subdivisions not only to make opportunity available to blacks but in what was called affirmative action, now demanded that they be given

The U.S. Supreme Court this year held that the city of Boston could not fire white firemen who had held jobs longer than blacks on the same payroll.

A white student named Edward Bokke was upheld when he filed suit claiming that he was denied admission to medical school simply because he was white.

Discrimination is discrimination, no matter how you tilt it. What is good for the black should be good for the white and vice versa. The laws of the land should provide equal opportunity but not favoritism simply because of race.

During Norman Jett's early tenure at South Oak Cliff the school was largely white. Over the years it changed to become mostly black but he kept on winning football games, posting a record of 106 games won and 31 lost, racking up five district titles. He sent many players to college ranks and several became professional football players. His ability as a coach was never questioned.

His black replacement has won only 5 of 15 games. Affirmative action is the official policy of civil rights leaders and a key part of Democratic Party policy. Yet the time has come to apply discrimination tests to everyone. No one, black or white, should be more equal than another.

High tech has its shortcomings

Dear editor: A while back I was trying to pen some calves out here and yelled to a youngster trying to help by circling around behind them: "Go

He stopped. He didn't know what I meant. He has a digital watch. It flashes numbers. Has no hands on it.

You can see what high technology is doing to the youth of the land. And that's not all. It used to be it was something of a milestone in a child's life when he learned to tie his shoes. Everybody bragged on him and said "That boy's catching on fast."

Nowadays they're making kid's shoes that don't need tying. They don't have any shoelaces. Instead there are a couple of straps that don't even need buckling. You just press them down as tight as needed and they stick. To take the shoes off so

Editor's note: The Bootleg you can throw them in the middle of the floor, you pull on the straps and they come up-stuck. What kind of a milestone is it when you've achieved

Of course some things haven't changed. I've discovered that school kids are still required to learn the names of all the states and their capitals, without learning who the governor of any state is, including their own. In some cases however that isn't information worth going to the trouble of learning anyway. By next year a landslide may have thrown half of them out.

On the other hand, kids have mastered the hand calculator, they can work a computer, they can finetune the color on a TV set, and, if driven to it, probably could explain the principle of the zipper. Due to slip-on shirts, buttonholes probably are beyond them.

We got those calves penned. Took an hour and a half, according to the youngster's digital watch.

Yours faithfully,

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your wise comments in last Sunday's Hereford Bull, in which you encouraged both the right wing Republicans and the left wing Democrats of our community to "see past their noses" and realize that most of us have independent thoughts on political issues, and that none of us has all the answers to all our problems.

Now that the election has been decided, I think it should be emphasized that no matter who the new leaders are, as proud citizens in a democracy, none of us can sit back and leave to them alone the difficult jobs of finding some positive means of peace with the Soviets, stopping the nuclear arms race, keeping our militarists out of Central America, attaining budgetary responsibility, preserving our family-based agricultural economy, extending legal services to powerless minorities, raising living standards for the poor and disadvantaged, especially children and the elderly, protecting private moral and religious choices of individuals from government and police interference, regulating environmentallydestructive activities, promoting education and employment skills for the whole population, etc.

ALL of us, independents, Republicans, Democrats, even nonpolitical types, must pitch in. We must invest our prime time, our best thinking, and our social skills to make all these good things happen, constantly re-informing ourselves, broadening our appreciations, accepting criticism happily, changing habits if necessary, keeping a watchdog eye on all our hired and elected officials, trusting good intentions, supporting them where possible, yet objecting assertively where required, in every case, putting our capacities where they'll do the most good for the most people

In sincere love, Al Dziuk

WARNINGS

We are the most warned people in the whole world. Between the work of Ralph Nader and the constant threat of law suits, there is now a warning on every product imaginable.

Cigarettes have a warning on every package. No one reads the things, but now the powers-that-be insist that the warning be re-written with stronger language.

My car throws a fit until I buckle the seat belt. Granted, the seat belt should be buckled, but somehow the car buzzing and blinking does do it.

Every medication has to have warnings printed about the danger involved in trying to get well. They even have child proof caps on the bottles. There is no telling how many people have had heart attacks while trying to get into the bottles.

Try opening a jug of antifreeze. The top says to turn while pushing down hard on the cap. The only way to get into the jug is to break the cap into smithereens with a large hammer. I have lost more religion on this kind of jug than all of the temptations I have ever been lucky enough to encounter.

OSHA even requires signs in dairies warning us that the stuff on the floor is slick. Somehow I feel that folks who work around cows around know the stuff is slick. Maybe they ought to also require signs telling us the stuff smells bad.

Every appliance has to warn us about electrocution, radiation exposure, and the danger of swallowing the knobs. I get the feeling that somebody is trying to save us dummies from every possible danger on earth. Somehow we manage to injure, maim and even kill ourselves in spite of all Whatever happened to good old self responsibility? Seems to me the only way I can be saved is for me to get involved in the saving. If I want to be a fool, then all of the warnings in the world won't stop me. If I don't want to be one, then somehow I probably will figure out some of the bad stuff on my own. Oh well, at least when I die I will have been properly warned.

Maybe they ought to put a warning on everyones forehead. It could read: Warning, the Surgeon General has determined that the leading cause of death is life.

Have union workers been misled?

Union membership, even by their evidence that some unions are not reporting "the whole truth" about how much their membership has

Union efforts to influence last election were the least in 40 years.

Forty years ago organized labor could boast that it represented 35 percent of our nation's non-farm work force. Today they represent barely 19 percent.

Unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO have seen their membership shrink by 1.2 million just since 1981.

Most of the erosion was in the smokestack industries. Union efforts to take up the slack by organizing the new high-tech industries have met much resistance.

Major union contracts the first half own audit, is dwindling. And there is of this year provided for wage increases averaging 2.8 percent where three years ago they were able to negotiate increases of 6.6 percent.

Today non-union workers make higher wages than union workers. Have unions been "misled"? Apparently.

Leaders should always look back once in a while to be sure their followers have not turned the corner back there somewhere.

This appears to be how most of today's union leaders lost touch with their own constituency.

Example: Union leaders, seeking to influence national politics, have been contributing most to those members of Congress who vote against defense spending.

Congressmen rated "zero" on defense appropriations nonetheless received an average contribution from the AFL-CIO of $36,285.

The AFL-CIO gave even more money to supporters of the Zablocki nuclear freeze resolution: $37,443, on

That is how union leaders voted with union money.

Meanwhile, union members-the rank-and-file--have been voting "conservative."

Seventy-two percent of these union members are opposed to cuts in defense spending.

Again - the labor federation supports mostly members of Congress who vote against the "peacethrough-strength" concept, while their own unions' members favor the concept. Similiar disparity is apparent in response to other issues but "defense spending" is the most readily definable. Union leaders are still inclined to "blame the president or "blame labor law" or to "blame the times" for their own shortcomings. Their own shortcomings include misuse of union dues, complicity with mobsters, tardy recognition of women, misdirected political action and losing touch with the duespayers.

Coach says 1984-85 squad best

Girls team has quality, quantity

By DENNIS BALL Sports Editor

Although 25 girls have reported for Hereford High School basketball workouts since Nov. 20, coach Larry Sowers said he is neither short on numbers nor on quality.

"We're not short on girls at all," he said in previewing the season. "Our district has done away with sophomore teams, so we just have to fill varsity and junior varsity teams. Last year, we had to cut about 11 to get down to two teams.

'And we don't have anybody this year who can't play. I'm happy with the crew we have out there.'

Sowers' varsity roster lists 13 team members. Five are seniors, six are juniors, and two are sophomores.

The six-year girls coach said he hoped some of the girls "really come along and play well for us.

"We've never been very big at Hereford, but the last two years we've been big and slow, too," Sowers said. "That's a deadly combination. This year should be a little different.'

Aside from quickness, Sowers does welcome some height to the 1984-85 version of the Whitefaces. Earlier this year, Sowers said junior Shelly Edwards (5-11) was one of the taller players the Whitefaces had had in recent years. Another junior, Sarah Fish, also is 5 feet 11 inches.

Both Edwards and Fish played with the junior varsity a year ago. And that causes some concern for "Our post players have had only J.V. experience," he said. "Our inside lack of experience is going to be our biggest problem." Sowers said Edwards was a good shooter and at times might play away from the basket.

Having earned letters in basketball the last two years, senior guard Stacie High has been the most productive player thus far, Sowers said. She and junior Natalie Sims will be depended upon heavily for their shooting, he added.

"We basically will be a perimetershooting ball club," Sowers said. "especially at the first of the year. That's our strongest point. Natalie Sims could be the best we've ever had at Hereford (at outside shooting). She averaged over 10 points a game last year as a sophomore.'

Senior Darla Alford is another member of the team who will be relied upon for her outside shooting.

"Darla is the one player who has improved her shooting the most," Sowers said. "She will be a factor that other teams will have to deal with.'

Sowers said his team will run its offense from a stack, or double low post, formation. On defense, he said, the Whitefaces basically will be a 1-3-1 half-court trap team, dropping back into a 1-3-1 zone.

"We've had some success in the scrimmages with that defense," Sowers said. "You know, we'll try to do some things different, too, to create some confusion. Our personnel fits this defense, though.

Defense has been an area that has concerned Sowers in the Whitefaces' scrimmages at Canyon and Amarillo. One major problem with the team's defensive play has been rebounding, he said.

"We're not a strong rebounding team," he said. "And this is something we've got to overcome. We're just not hitting the boards hard enough. We don't seem to be determined enough, and we're not taking enough pride in our defense.

"We don't seem to have anybody who wants the ball."

The Whitefaces begin league play the third game of the season. Opening with Levelland Tuesday, the girls play Dimmitt Friday and Tascosa Nov. 27.

"It (the Tascosa game) will be a good test for us," Sowers said. 'We're picked sixth, and they're picked right above us. We don't get much of a break before we hit the key games."

Sowers added he had the right personnel to play with Tascosa and all the other teams picked above Hereford.

"When you've got good ball handlers and good shooters, you should be able to play with anybody," he said.

And it's like Sowers said, he'll find out right away.

Cagers must overcome size

By DENNIS BALL Sports Editor

Will the Hereford Whitefaces boys sketball team be ready when it opens the season Tuesday against Levelland in the HHS gym?

In previewing the season, coach Mike Fields said what the Whitefaces lack in height, they will have to compensate for in experience.

Nine seniors are listed on Fields' varsity roster to compliment two juniors and a sophomore. However, the tallest members of the team are sophomore Bobby Baker and senior Mark Lomenick. Both stand at 6 feet three inches.

"We're not very big for a 5A school," Fields said, "but we're not scrawny either. (Forward) Lee Brockman is 6-2, but would you call him scrawny?"

Brockman weighs 208 pounds. "Hopefully, we'll get a lot of leadership from our seniors' experience," Fields continued. "Their experience will have to help us a lot because a lot of the players will be had success in lower grades. making the adjustment from football to basketball."

Four of the top players for the Whitefaces have been out of football pads only since Nov. 8. Those players are Brockman, Mike Scott, Sammy Suarez and Rodney Torres. Fields said Kevin Redus is another top prospect to fill in nicely for the Herd. Fields, in his first year as varsity coach, said he could play as many as eight players on a regular basis, though.

"There is not a whole lot of difference between our starters and our substitutes," he said. "All the guys work and play really hard. It's a lot of fun to work with them because of that reason."

Forty prospective athletes were out last week to make one of three teams: varsity, junior varsity or sophomres. Fields said the number was much more than last year's total who came out for the team.

The probable reason for the large in the early part of the season turnout, Fields said, is because most Scott (5-10), Suarez (5-10) and Torres (5-10) have been listed as probable starters at the guard positions in Hereford's double low post offensive set. The Herd's inside game should be controlled by Brockman and Redus (6-2).

Fields added that Daniel King, a 6-2 senior guard, and Bobby Baker, a 6-3 sophomore post player, would see plenty of playing time.

"We're going to try to play a manto-man defense part of the time this season," Fields said. "But of course we'll have to go to a zone against some of the taller teams."

And Fields and Company should run up against some taller teams quite often.

"It seems like every week we'll face teams with 6-6 and 6-7 players," Fields said. "District especially will be tough. I think we can match up with one or two teams as far as height goes.

"If we can be competitive after our first game or two, that will help our confidence quite a bit."

In addition to Levelland, the Herd is to play Dimmitt and Pampa in eight days.

"Levelland is traditionally known as a basketbal town," Fields said. "Dimmitt has been to the state basketball tournament the last three years, and Pampa is always tough. We'll get a pretty good idea of how we'll play against tall people, too. Levelland has a 6-7 post player (Mike Durham).

"Also, in the first round of the Amarillo tournament (Dec. 7-8), we face the El Paso city champ."

Quickness and a pressing defense are factors Fields hopes will work to his team's advantage.

Red-hot Seattle to battle surging Bengals today

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

It seemed improbable a few weeks ago, but Sunday's National Football League game between the Seattle Seahawks and the Cincinnati cisco. Bengals actually means something - even to the 4-7 Bengals.

Cincinnati, which lost its first five games, comes into the game off a 22-20 win over Pittsburgh that left the Bengals just two games behind the Steelers in the AFC Central with five games left. The Seahawks, meanwhile, beat the Raiders 17-14 Monday night and are 9-2, a game behind Denver in the AFC West.

The Seahawks' main weapon is a defense that has forced opponents into 50 turnovers this season while coughing up the ball only 23 times on offense. "I hope this will be a barn-burner," says Cincinnati Coach Sam Wyche, who has had his defense making like Seattle this week and trying to strip the ball from the of-

"Maybe a defensive barn-burner, and those are fun to watch if you're looking for tough football and hard hits and a physical game. In other games Sunday, Cleveland is at Atlanta; Dallas at Buffalo; Detroit at Chicago; the Los Angeles Rams vs. Green Bay in Milwaukee; New England at Indianapolis; Washington at Philadelphia; St. Louis at the New York Giants; Kansas City at the Los Angeles Raiders; Miami at San Diego; Minnesota at Denver; the New York Jets at berth and that's what we have to go Houston, St. Louis at the New York after," says Los Angeles Coach Tom Jet, and Tampa Bay at San Fran-

The Steelers play at New Orleans Monday night.

The Bengals will probably start Turk Schonert at quarterback in place of Ken Anderson, who suffered a slight separation to his left shoulder last Sunday and gave way to Schonert, who helped pull out the victory. Schonert had one of his best games against the Seahawks in 1981, when he came off the bench and rallied the Bengals from a 21-0 deficit to a victory.

"The big plus was that Turk came in prepared," Wyche says. "When he came in the ballgame, we didn't limit our offense to the base. We stayed with exactly what we had hoped to do, and he executed.'

Meanwhile, the Raiders, who barely beat Kansas City 22-20 in their first meeting, start on a down-the-stretch quest for a playoff spot that looked like it would come easily. The Chiefs, 5-6, have played badly the last two weeks, losing 45-0 to Seattle and then 17-16 to Houston, the Oilers' first victory after 10 straight losses.

The Super Bowl champion Raiders have lost three straight and at 7-4, are tied with New England for the final wild-card spot in the AFC. If the playoffs started now, the Patriots would be in and the Raiders out.

U.S. SAVING BONDS When searching for safe investments, do not completely overlook that old standby, U.S. Savings Bonds. They are virtually the only high-yield investment that can be purchased for as little at $25. For years, savings bonds were a poor choice because of their low interst rates. However, yields were increased in 1982. Recently, the yield was 9.8% for a bond held five years or longer, with a guaranteed minimum return of 7.5% regardless of future changes in interest rates. The interest on savings bonds is keyed to treasury note rates and changes every six months. U.S. Savings Bonds are also exempt from state and local taxes and federal tax is not paid until they are cashed.

For information on other safe investments come into the office of RICK ROBERTS, CPA, 138 Third, Suite A. Besides being able to provide some useful investment information we provide tax and financial statements for ranchers, farmers, and feed lot operators. Capitals defeated by Sabres Friday

By The Associated Press

Coach Scotty Bowman of the Buffalo Sabres seems to have the number of the Washington hockey team - and that number has now reached 45.

Dating back to his coaching days with the Montreal Canadians, Bowman has never lost to them in 45 games, with 42 victories and three ties. He extended that mastery with his Sabres' 3-2 victory Friday night, using all the right moves to pull it

The Sabres claimed the victory after Bowman relied on his more experienced line of Brent Peterson, Craig Ramsay and Ric Seiling to come up with the game-winning goal. Peterson scored with 45 seconds remaining to extend Buffalo's home ice unbeaten streak to nine games - eight wins and one tie. "I thought we'd go with five experienced guys and we hadn't played Craig and Brent that much," said Bowman. "And it didn't look like our power play was tuned in tonight."

Blues 4, Nordiques 2 Joe Mullen notched his second career hat trick to lead St. Louis over Quebec. Mullen, a 27-year-old right wing, was assisted on all three goals by linemates Kevin LaVallee and Bernie Federko. It was Mullen's first three-goal performance since March 20, 1984 against the Winnipeg Jets.

looking bad and say they'd better get better.

Gus Williams scored 25 points Friday night to lead the Bullets to their fifth straight National Basketball Association victory, a 118-104 decision Friday night over the Knicks.

"We are getting better, but we still can improve," Williams said after leading the Bullets in scoring for the 10th time in 12 games despite shooting just over 40 percent from the field this year. "We're still getting used to each other."

The loss dropped New York to 2-9 as the Knicks remained winless on the road in seven tries. In other NBA games, Philadelphia stopped Detroit 101-90, Indiana took San Antonio 128-117 in overtime, Phoenix beat Milwaukee 118-106, Denver beat Houston 119-102, Seattle nipped Portland 91-89, and the Los Angeles Lakers downed Kansas City

Williams was helped by Cliff Robinson, who came off the bench to score 22 points. Both Williams and Robinson came to the Bullets in offseason moves.

"I feel we still have some work to do," Robinson said. "Our defense is nowhere near where it should be."

Nuggets 119, Rockets 102 Alex English scored 32 points as Denver, off to its best start in eight years, won its fifth straight game. The Nuggets improved to 8-2 best since the 1976-77 season, their first in the league - before a crowd of 18,557, the largest ever to see an NBA game in Denver. Denver broke the game open when Wayne Cooper, celebrating his 28th birthday, and Calvin Natt led a 15-4 charge that made it 79-62.

Houston's Ralph Sampson scored 23 points but the Rockets got only limited playing time from Akeem Olajuwon, who was in foul trouble most of the night. It was Houston's second straight loss after eight consecutive wins.

Plans for new bowling alley to be discussed

By DENNIS BALL Sports Editor

A meeting of citizens concerned about the closing of Bowling's Bowl, announced a little more than a week ago, has been called for 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday at the Community Center. The meeting will be an open forum for Hereford residents to "throw out ideas" on what can be done, Kenneth Cook said, as well as a time for group reports. According to L.V. Watts, at Bowling's Bowl, approximately 55 persons in attendance of last Tuesday's meeting were divided into groups to check the feasability of reopening another alley.

Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) -Wayman Tisdale may have spent the summer away from the watchful eye of his coach at Oklahoma, but Billy Tubbs isn't too worried.

Winning a gold medal with the the U.S. Olympic team "has got to be better practice than sitting around all summer doing nothing," said Tubbs, whose fifth-ranked Sooners take on second-ranked Illinois Sunday in the Tip-Off Classic.

The Sooners' chances of success in the annual Basketball Hall of Fame benefit game rose considerably last May when Tisdale announced he was passing up the National Basketball Association draft to return to the Norman, Okla. campus for his junior

"He may not score more points this year, but I expect him to be a much better player," Tubbs said of Tisdale, a 64foot-9, 250-pound All-American, who has dominated the Big Eight statistically like no other man in the history of the conference, including Wilt Chamberlain, the NBA great who put some impressive numbers on the board at Kansas. "You expect a junior to be better than a sophomore and a senior to be better than a junior.

"We're ready to play. You get tired of practicing after a while." Tubbs said as his team prepared for the traditional opening of the college basketball season.

"This is going to be a tough one," Tubbs said. "Illinois has a very deserving, well-coached team and they play very good basketball. But you have to start somewhere."

"There's no way to stop Wayman Tisdale. He's just a great player," Illinois Coach Lou Henson said. "We tried to do something about him when he was a freshman and he ended up with 34 points."

welcome at the meeting," Cook said. "We just want to check on different routes people think we might should go to build another one.'

Cook and Watts pointed out that a bond system, selling stock in the new alley and accepting donations all will been discussed. Watts added that between 150 and 200 people are expected to attend.

Plans for a new alley call for a 12-lane facility with refurbished equipment to be installed. Watts said the price of refurbished equipment was more than $300,000 less than new equipment.

"The cost for new equipment is about $40,000 dollars a machine," he said. "We think we can use 10 refurbished machines for a total of about $120,000.

Blueprints of the new alley call for an 18,000 square-foot building to be errected on a still undetermined site. Cook said the possibility of an adjoining restaurant also is being investigated.

Brunswick and AMF are disinterested in a lease program with a new alley in Hereford because of its plans to be a 12-lane alley instead of 32. However, Watts said equipment would have to be purchased from the two firms.

"You know, I just don't think Hereford could (financially) support a 32-lane alley," he said. "Brunswick and AMF are interested, however, because we'll have to buy our equipment from them."

Currently, plans for the present Bowling's Bowl building, 110 N. 25 Mile Ave., are for the building to re-

Louisville basketball boss expects changes

By TOM FOREMAN Jr. AP Sports Writer

Louisville Coach Denny Crum might have been talking about the state of basketball for the entire South when he spoke of the competition in his own Metro Conference.

"I think there are going to be changes," Crum said. "We've got better coaching, better players and people are doing a good job

North Carolina has lost All-Americans Sam Perkins and Michael Jordan, while Kentucky saw Melvin Turpin and Sam Bowie graduate. Both teams have plenty of talent, but because of the transition, a new power may arise from the many contenders.

Duke, Maryland and Georgia Tech look strong within the Atlantic Coast Conference with North Carolina State as a challenger. Louisiana State has finally found a big pivotman, but needs to overcome poor outside shooting to claim the Southeastern Conference title.

Crum's Cardinals will find the going difficult as they try for a sixth Metro title. Memphis State has Keith Lee back for his senior season and Virginia Tech presents a formidable obstacle with Dell Curry and Perry Duke knocked off North Carolina in the semifinals of the ACC tournament last season, and the people responsible for that victory are all back for Coach Mike Krzyzewski. Leading the way is junior guard Johnny Dawkins, the ACC's secondleading scorer last year, forward Mark Alarie and Dan Meagher, a rugged Canadian Olympian.

Krzyzewski's team has been chosen as high as fourth in preseason

Maryland features junior Adrian Branch and sophomore Keith Gatlin at guard, with Len Bias back at forward. The Terrapins whipped Duke season's fifth-place finish in the SEC. for Coach Lefty Driesell's first tournament title.

Georgia Tech continued its steady improvement under Bobby Cremins and will have guard Mark Price to try to lead the Yellow Jackets to a 20-victory season, something they've not achieved since 1970.

Dale Brown guided LSU to the Final Four in 1981, where the Tigers lost to eventual champion Indiana. The Tigers have Jerry Reynolds, Derrick Taylor and Don Redden back from last season. Brown also has a big center - 7-foot-1 Yugoslavian Zoran Jovanovich - the first true big man he's had since Greg Cook in 1981.

Junior high coaches applauded

We have just closed out another successful football season. The Herd took a shakey start and turned it into a nose-mashing great finish.

There is another team in Hereford that had a fine season, the La Plata Junior High ninth-grade team which posted a 7-1-1 season. These young men defeated Marshall Junior High of Clovis, N.M., which had not been defeated during the players' junior high careers. They also bested a Littlefield J.V. team which hadn't been beaten. One of the best things about this ninth-grade team is they didn't

I think it is time for Hereford citizens to realize they have a fine junior-high program due largely to Coach Bill Talley and his staff. T hey have taken a program which was in bad shape and breathed new life into it, and produced winners in all sports. Coach Talley and the other fine coaches have done a great job in teaching these kids how to win not only on the athletics field, but also in the classroom as well as in our com-

Pioneer members continue study of public affairs

The Pioneer Study Club met Tuesday for a luncheon at Something Special with Goochie Ball and Leatrus Clark serving as hostesses.

The invocation was given by Gladys Miller while Eunice Peterson led the Pledge of Allegiance and Billee Johnson gave the salute to the Texas flag.

Continuing the study of public affairs, Bessie Hill presented the program "The Big Business of Medicine," which covered the booming business of health care.

From a virtual cottage industry dominated by private physicians and not-for-profit hospitals, health care is evolving into a network of corporations running everything from hospitals and home health care services to retirement homes and health spas, she said.

The new medical-industrial complex promises to produce a fiercely competitive battle for the nearly one billion dollars that Americans spend each day on health care.

After the program, Hill led a discussion during which the club members agreed health care is a social service, not a business, and that it is the duty of the community to improve its image. A committee was formed to report policies and activities of the local hospital to the club in January.

Miller presided over the business meeting. Mable Heard, Ball and Gladys Miller reported on the Top of Texas Federation board meeting held at Girls Town in Borger.

Projects reported on included the bulb sale, the Ronald McDonald house in Amarillo, and money to the veterans hospital. Ball reminded each member to bring food for the Holiday basket. Heard suggested that each member give cash for Girls Town at Christmas.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party on Dec. 11 at the Hereford Country Club. Members present were Ball, Helen Bishop, Clark, Fern Ford, Heard, Hill, Beatrice Hutson, Johnson, Etoile Manning, Miller, Mary Panciera, Peterson and Fannie Rudd.

Farm

'Hive of activity'

Agriculture activity flourishes

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Both farmers and cattlemen are engaged in a hive of activity in the Texas plains this week, says Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Ser-

Cotton harvesting is the major farm activity across the plains and western areas of the state, Carpenter said in his weekly report on the state's agriculture. Corn harvesting is virtually complete while harvesting of grain sorghum and soybeans remains active in some counties of the Panhandle and South Plains. Sugar beet harvesting is past the halfway point in these regions.

Improved grazing prospects from small grains (wheat and oats) is causing a massive influx of stocker cattle into the Panhandle, South Plains and Rolling Plains, Carpenter said. Good rains and recent open weather have boosted small grains so that they are making vigorous growth. Some planting of small grains continues in central and southern areas of the state.

In addition to harvest operations in the plains and western areas, peanut harvesting is in full swing in central, southwestern and coastal sections, Carpenter said. Yields range from poor to excellent, with some damage to the crop due to recent wet conditions. Some farmers are plowing under the crop or baling it for hay due to poor yield prospects.

Vegetable harvesting is active in the Winter Garden of Southwest Texas and in the Rio Grande Valley. Sugarcane harvesting also is under way in the Valley, Carpenter said.

Pecan harvesting continues active over the state although this year's crop is short. Yields are averaging 30 to 40 percent of normal due to the season-long drought and the fact that this year's crop follows a heavy crop last year. Producers in central, eastern and southern areas are harvesting another cutting of hay due to recent rains followed by good growing weather. The additional hay is sorely needed in many locations since this year's drought kept summer production down, Carpenter said. Reports from district Extension

PANHANDLE: Cotton and grain sorghum harvesting is in full swing. Sugar beet harvesting continues and is past the halfway point. Most wheat is planted and up. Early wheat fields are providing good grazing and are causing a large influx of stocker cat-

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton harvesting is well under way and is up to 25 percent complete in some northern counties. Most of the corn crop is in and harvesting of grain sorghum and soybeans is winding down. Sugar beet harvesting is more than 50 percent complete. Wheat is making excellent growth; a lot of stocker cattle are moving into the area to graze the crop.

ROLLING PLAINS: Some cotton is being harvested, but many farmers are awaiting a killing frost. Grain sorghum harvesting is in full swing in some counties. Late mung beans are being harvested in Wilbarger County, and a final cutting of alfalfa is under way in some locations. Early planted small grains are making good growth; some fields are still being planted. Stocker cattle are being shipped into the area due to good grazing prospects on small NORTH CENTRAL: Farmers are planting wheat and oats as field conditions permit. Early fields are up and providing some grazing for cattle. Peanut harvesting continues; some farmers are plowing under the crop or baling it for hay due to poor yield prospects. A short pecan harvest continues. Grazing conditions are improving.

NORTHEAST: Most wheat is up and starting to make good growth. Winter pastures are doing well and are boosting livestock conditions. Cattle marketings are decreasing. Last cuttings of hay are under way. Pecan harvesting is under way, with fair yields.

FAR WEST: Cotton harvesting is increasing with open weather. Harvesting of bell peppers and pecans is in full swing. Small grains are making good progress due to recent rains. Livestock are in good shape as grazing has improved.

providing supplies, credit and services to farmers and ranchers and in processing and marketing agricultural commodities. Nationally, one out of every five jobs in private enterprises is tied to agriculture.

With its $9 billion in cash receipts from agricultural commodities in 1983, Texas ranks in third place behind California and Iowa. Texas, however, is traditionally number one in the sales of cattle and calves, cotton, grain sorghum, sheep and wool, goats and mohair, cabbage and spinach.

Total farm assets in Texas are estimated at $92 billion. With 185,000 farms in Texas, assets average about a half million dollars per farm. Many commercial size, full-time operators, have in excess of a million dollars invested in their farm or ranch businesses.

Always consider resale value when you price a field tractor. Because the differences among brands may sometimes be bigger than ANY purchase incentive.

Compare John Deere with our two leading competitors. According to the Spring 1984 Official Guide of the National Farm and Power Equipment Dealers Association, the average 5-year-old John Deere 4440 sells for 106 percent of its 1979 list price. One leading competitor averages 87 percent of its 1979 list price. The other averages 73 percent.

Downhill trend

Farmers have economic woes

COLLEGE STATION - Texas' farm economy has gone downhill steadily in the past few years, and farmers have found themselves in the worst economic squeeze since the Great Depression.

That assessment comes from Dr. Carl Anderson, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"The adjusted farm income for inflation nationwide in 1983 was the lowest since the bleak years of 1932-33," Anderson pointed out.

Net farm income in Texas this year will be only about half of what it was in 1979, Anderson said. This means that the purchasing power of the farm dollar is only about 25 to 30 percent of what it was five years ago.

The current farm financial stress stems largely from depressed crop and livestock prices, steady increases in costs, adverse weather conditions and high real interest rates that increase costs and strengthen the dollar against foreign out. "A strong dollar has discouraged exports and encouraged imports and foreign production," Anderson said, "further squeezing markets for American farm commodities." Extreme drought conditions have persisted over much of Texas this year, lowering forage and crop production and increasing production costs. Prices paid by farmers for inputs have increased almost a third in the last five years while average prices received for crops and livestock have fallen slightly.

But Anderson said the present "crunch" on agriculture results mainly from action outside its confines. National economic policies, trade subsidies of other countries, tariffs, trade restrictions and other forces have influenced interest rates, inflation and other economic conditions at home and abroad.

"Extremely high interest rates which support the strong value of the dollar have been the number one problem to farmers," he emphasized. "When the dollar rises in value, exports decrease and imports increse. All this gives farmers overseas incentive to produce more to satisfy their own needs as well as to export when possible."

Mechanization and chemicals for pest control encouraged farmers to ducts appeared in the early 1980s,"

Leader predicting unchanged farm bill

By DON KENDALL AP Farm and supports.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation says Congress may trim some of the government's costly price support programs when it writes the 1985 farm bill, but is unlikely to scrap payments entirely.

"I don't know that I expect too much change in agricultural policy" during the second four years of the Reagan administration, said Robert B. Delano, a Virginia farmer.

"I think we will have a (farm) bill similar to what we have now, with a few changes," he said.

The current four-year law, which expires in 1985, covers a wide range of farm price support programs for wheat, corn, cotton and other crops. It also includes programs for dairy, food stamps, conservation, farm credit, rural development, food aid to foreign countries and research. Delano told a news conference Wednesday that the federation favors programs that are more "market oriented" instead of leaning so heavily on government controls

These low returns to investments

ly in the less populated areas where land and land values have declined.

exceeds $13 billion in Texas, a rise in farm debt of nearly 50 percent since

1979. And though ample loanable funds are available to agriculture, the problem is that many agricultural borrowers are unable to generate a cash flow that can support commercial lending practices, the economist explained.

Outstanding agricultural debt now

That also is the view of the Reagan administration, which is developing its own legislative proposals for agriculture.

Although the Farm Bureau's 1985 farm bill proposals have not been refined, Delano said that as a matter of philosophy, the federation generally acknowledges a need for federal price supports and target prices, which can mean direct payments to farmers when markets are depressed.

But Delano stressed that such basic supports should be set low enough so that market prices are not artificially forced higher. In this way, the supports are adjusted at "market-clearing" levels so commodities can flow into commercial channels rather than piling up in government storage.

Typically, a farmer can get a price support loan on his crop if market prices are low at harvest. If prices go up later, the loan can be repaid and the crop sold for cash.

But if market prices stay depressed, a producer has the option of not repaying the loan and turning the crop over to the government, in which case the debt is canceled.

ment can end up with huge surplus stockpiles to be stored at taxpayer expense.

Delano was asked about a concern in some quarters that the term "market oriented" is another way of describing a longer-range goal of eliminating federal acreage curbs and cash payments altogether, leaving only a low-level price-support loan program which would be available to all crop producers if they chose.

'No, we would not support that at the present time," Delano replied. "We think we need a transition period. Maybe four or five years or 10 years down the road we might come to that."

Delano added that he didn't think Congress is ready to eliminate those parts of the law.

"I think it's something down the road that we might accomplish," he said. "It's very doubtful that we'll get there in the next decade or two."

Delano said he had no preference for a possible successor to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee. Helms is in line to be chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but has not indicated whether he will When this happens, the govern- make the shift and give up the agriculture post.

"I assume he would stay as chairman (of agriculture)," Delano said, because Helms made that commitment to his constituents when he ran successfully for re-election Nov. 6.

"So, until he makes that decision, I don't guess I'll have any preference," Delano said.

scheduled Nov. 24 at Community Center

Members of Westway Extension Club have been busy preparing for their annual bazaar slated for Nov. 24 at the Community Center. Items to be sold include needlework, paintings, ceramics and a variety of unique Christmas or-

Not everyone is thrilled to have a doll for Christmas and twoyear-old Randy Evers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Evers, shows is disapproval. On the other hand, Amanda Rickman is very pleased with this rag doll, one of many to be sold during the bazaar. Amanda is the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Rickman.

Red Cross Update

By BETTY HENSON Executive Director

Special thanks to those people that have already donated funds to the Red Cross's African Famine Relief Fund. The International Red Cross has been doing relief work in Africa for many years but the past two years drought has brought suffering to millions of people. The drought has endangered 185 million people in 27 African countries.

The Red Cross relief operations are focused on twelve of the most severely affected countries. These include Chao, Djbouti, Ethiopia, Kenya, Mali, Mauritania, Mozambique, Sao Tome E Principe, Senegal, Tanzania, Zambia and Zimbabwe. Your donation would help to provide food, medical supplies, transportation of food, as well as trained medical staff.

Also, resources will be used to implement long range food programs as preparation for agricultural production in the future. If you would like to send a donation, make your check out to African Relief and send to our chapter and we will forward it. Our Chapter's mailing address is P.O. Box 1371, Hereford or bring it by 224 South Main St.

The Board of Directors will meet Tuesday, November 20, noon, at the Red Cross office. A CPR class will begin December 6, Thursday, and finish December 7, Friday. The class will start at 6:30 p.m. and finish about 10:00 p.m. at the Red Cross office. Ruth Romero will be the Instructor.

The Fitness Swim at W.T. Activities Center pool will be Thursday, November 29. Call the office to make reservations.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter is accepting toys - repairable and new for the Christmas toy program. Bring toys by the Red Cross office, High School office or the Social Services office in the Courthouse.

A female news reporter was verbally harassed at a luncheon of Montgomery County, Pa., community leaders. The Union Horse Company, an all-male social club, invited reporters to cover its annual luncheon, which features bawdy jokes and comedy skits. When reporter Meredith M. Henry appeared, the club members at first refused to allow her to enter, but then relented.

The president of the group, Robert J. Hannum, announced her presence by saying the club was not the proper place for a woman. "I have never allowed a female in this room before," Hannum said. As he spoke, women moved about the room, serving food and clearing tables.

Henry's presence was acknowledged by booing. One individual yelled, "Where's the pool table?"--a reference to the New Bedford rape. That comment was greeted with laughter. Justice George R. Eastburn welcomed Henry with "Where the hell is the damn female reporter? All right, are you ready, baby?"

After the luncheon, Hannum said, "It was a dirty thing, but it was funny. I hope she didn't take it to heart. I wouldn't insult her for the world."

One local politician, Albert L. Herrmann, who did not attend the luncheon, resigned from the club in protest of the members' behavior

By LOUISE WALKER County Extension Agent THANKSGIVING TURKEY LEFTOVERS

Some families enjoy leftover turkey from Thanksgiving. In fact, some like the leftovers betters than the holiday meal itself!

The key to using leftovers effectively is to plan ahead when packag-

If you family prefers turkey sandwiches and creamed turkey dishes, you can freeze the leftovers in slices and small pieces. If possible, cover the slices and pieces with broth or gravy to prevent contact with air. This also lengthens storage life. Package in airtight, meal-sized packages or containers and freeze quickly.

Frozen turkey doesn't improve with age, and it doesn't retain good eating qulaity for as long as some other meats.

If you're going to freeze turkey, remember this storage guide: one month for slices or pieces, six months for slices or pieces covered with broth or gravy and six months for turkey casserole dishes.

Tasty casseroles can be prepared by combining cubed turkey with vegetable, sauce, seasonings, cooked spaghetti, macaroni, noodles or converted rice. Regular rice and potatoes become mushy after freez-

Prepare the turkey casserole, cook it quickly and place it in a meal-sized freezing container. Cover tightly with moisture-vapor resistant wrap and freeze immediately.

By planning for leftovers, you can spread the enjoyment of turkey over a longer period of time and save food preparation time later during the busy holiday season. Hope you enjoy this salad from your leftover turkey. It's a little different with the whipping cream as an ingredient.

SNOW-WHITE

TURKEY SALAD 4 cups diced cooked turkey 1 cup thinly sliced celery

1 cup minced green pepper 1/4 cup finely chopped onion

1 cup mayonnaise 1/4 cup whipping cream, whipped 1 teaspoon chicken bouillon granules

1 teaspoon salt 1/s teaspoon pepper

Lettuce, shredded Garnishes of your choice

Combine turkey, celery, green pepper and onion in a bowl. Set aside. In another bowl combine mayonnaise, whipped cream, bouillon granules, salt and pepper. Mix well. Fold into turkey-vegetable mixture. Refrigerate until serving time.

Mound turkey salad on crisp lettuce and circle with desired garnishes. Delicious garnishes might include toasted almonds, sliced apples, grapes, pineapple chunks, avocado slices or hard-cooked eggs. Serves 6

TURKEY DIVAN

1 (10-oz.) pkg. frozen broccoli spears 6 to 8 slices leftover turkey

1 (10-1/2 oz.) can condensed Cheddarcheese soup

2 tablespoons milk

½ cup mayonnaise 11/2 teaspoons lemon juice

1/4 teaspoon curry powder 1 cup sliced almonds

Steam broccoli until tender but firm. Preheat oven to 350F (175C). Grease a 2-quart casserole dish. Arrange steamed broccoli over bottom

In a medium bowl, combine soup, milk, mayonnaise, lemon juice and curry powder. Pour over top of turkey. Sprinkle with sliced almonds. Heat casserole 15 to 20 minutes in a 350F (175C) oven. Serve with Onion Rice, if desired. Serves 4. ONION RICE of dish. Add a layer of sliced turkey.

2 cups prepared onion soup

1 cup rice In a medium pan, bring soup to a rice. Cover pan. Turn heat to low. Continue to cook for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

As I throw nothing away, I enjoy making a yummy soup stock from the carcass. You'd be surprised how much meat is left on the bones.

TURKEY SOUP STOCK Make ahead to use when needed

1 turkey carcass 4 to 5 qts. cold water

2 to 3 stalks celery 2 to 3 large onions, sliced

3 carrots Salt and pepper

Place carcas in a large heavy pan. Cover with 4 to 5 quarts cold water. Add vegetables and seasonings. Bring to a boil. Cover and reduce heat. Simmer about 5 hours. Remove Drain remaining broth through cheesecloth to strain out vegetables and small bones. Cool the broth in the refrigerator until fat solidifies. Skim off fat. Use broth for delicious soups or as a base for gravies or sauces.

Freeze broth in ice-cube trays and bread pans, then pop out and store in freezer bags to use later. Makes 4 quarts of broth.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!!!

Carol Kelly, president, presided and introduced Brenda Dixon, a Mary Kay representative, who spoke and gave a demonstration. She gave pointers on skin care and the correct way to use make up. She urged everyone to give careful attention to the cleaning of the face each day and warned against the use of soaps.

Kelly presented a calendar on the coming events at the Deaf Smith County Library. The December meeting was announced which will be Dec. 11 at 6:30 p.m. and will be a progressive dinner. The places will be announced later.

After the meeting, the group adjourned to tour the Hall of Fame.

Sataro Hoshi, an impoverished former soldier of Samuri ancestry and a hero of the Russo-Japanese War of 1905, who longs for both merchantile success and family glory, decides in the first decade of the new century to leave his natire land for California. Leaving his younger son Hiroshi behind to attend the Japanese West Point and rise in the pretigious military cadre, Sataro takes Noboru, his elder son, and Itoko, his willful wife, to San Joaquin Valley in search of his chikara, his

In "Chikara" the struggles of the Hoshi family in America and Japan are set against the awesome sweep of historical currents and events that buffet these two nations and peoples throughout the century. Robert Skimin follows the generations of Hoshis to the beautiful contemporary Sachi, Sataro's granddaughter and soulmate, and creates a Japanese WINDS OF WAR.

Raney gives Wyche program

Wyche Extension Club met Thursday afternoon in the community center for a program given by Susan Raney, county extension agent, on cooking for one or two.

After the program, Clara Trowbridge, president, presided while Pet Ott gave a report on the new 4-H club with 30 members. The nominating committee also gave their report which consisted of the new officers.

Officers for next year will be Trowbridge, president; Wynema Wheeler, vice-president; Audrie Rusher, secretary-treasurer; Esther Thuett, council delegate; and Gene Holden, reporter.

Members answered roll call with memorable Most Thanksgiving."

Trowbridge and Vergie Duncan were hostesses to Louise Axe, Argen Draper, Holden, Ott, Louise Packard, Lorena Ward, Wheeler and

The next meeting will be a Christmas party Dec. 20 at 2:30 p.m. in the home of Ethel Logan.

"In God we trust," designated as the U.S. national motto by Congress in 1956, originated during the Civil War as an inscription on U.S. coins, although it was used by Francis Scott Key in a slightly different form when he wrote "The Star Spangled Banner." In the anthem, Key wrote: "In God is our trust."

Council to present program will be presenting a program entitled "I'm Safe and Sure" for boys and girls in K-5 and first grades from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday Dec. 1 at the Camp Fire Lodge.

Enrollment is strictly limited to 100 youths and all interested persons should call the Camp Fire office as soon as possible at 364-0395. Registration fee is $5 for registered Camp Fire members and $12 for nonmembers. This $12 includes the $7 Camp Fire registration fee which makes the child a member of Camp Fire through Aug. 31, 1985 and entitles them to participate in any Camp Fire program offered during

The program will be under the direction of Carolyn Ray, a professional school counselor, with each of the five segments being presented by credited, trained teachers.

This particular program is unique for children of this age because of its two major related goals. It helps young children keep themselves safe by helping them avoid being the victims of crime and other potentially harmful situations and to help them be sure of the right thing to do by reinforcing positive social attitudes and behaviours.

This combined focus makes "I'm

The Hereford Camp Fire Council this time without paying the fee Safe and Sure" unique for children this age. Camp Fire feels the deliberate combination of both focuses in "I'm Safe and Sure" offers an integrated approach to developing desired behaviours and attitudes in young children.

> Like all Camp Fire programs, this presentation emphasizes learning by doing, assuming responsibility, developing decision making skills as well as learning to appreciate, care and work with others.

> The five segments to be covered include rules, play safety, honesty is best, strangers and nobody wins in a

A Feeling Of Oneness

Life was extremely rough on the early settlers' families. Grandma, grandpa, mom, dad, brothers and sisters all lived together in some very tight quarters.

There was little leisure time with each family member having to carry his or her full load of chores. Yet, family life was comfortable — and prosperous.

At our bank, we strive to generate that same Pioneering spirit of oneness. We want to make your banking experience with us as friendly and pleasant as possible.

When you bank with us, you'll know we've brought back that Pioneering spirit . . . the kind of dedication it takes to get the job done right.

At our bank, we're pioneering new ways of service and security for you and your entire family.

Saying Thanks For Service

Mary Williamson, center, received a Certificate of Commendation for service to the country from the Texas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution during the DAR meeting Thursday afternoon in the Flame Room. Garth Thomas, right, speaker for the meeting, and Ruth Knox, regent, are pictured with her.

Williamson served in the armed forces for a little over two years before being discharged in 1945 as Pharm. Mate 2nd Class. She is currently the commander of the American Legion Post No. 192 in Hereford, the first woman to hold such of-

I am a male, 17, weigh 215 pounds treadmill more than 15 minutes and am 5 feet 10. I'm not that much before getting tired. overweight, but everytime I go on a I walk three to four miles at a brisk good. diet nothing happens. I stayed on a pace six days a week. But I am in diet two months without losing doubt as to how often and how long to weight, so I decided to go on a starva-tion diet. I started on Monday and by equivalent or that amount of walking. Sunday I gave up and decided to start understand this. I am a very strong DEAR READER - Exercise is person and I get a lot of exercise, exercise, and if you use enough calotell me why I can't lose weight?

DEAR READER — You have not learned that the weight indicated on the bathroom scales is affected by many things other than body fat. Weight includes body water (more than 50 percent of your body weight is water), undigested food in your intestines, muscles, fat and bone, among other things.

With a good exercise program, you can grow muscles that contribute to weight gain while you lose body fat. Your body often retains fluid for a variety of reasons. If you used a halfpound of fat a day for six days (only three pounds), your body could easily retain water, and hence you wouldn't see any weight loss.

Classic experiments show that during fasting, you lose only about a half-pound of fat a day. You may also lose a half-pound of muscle a day which is bad. A very active person can prevent muscle loss by exercise. Considering all of this, it is not surprising that your scales showed that you lost only two pounds of something.

You shouldn't worry about dieting unless you really have extra fat under your skin. That is a better guideline than your scales. You need to learn more about safe diet principles, so I am sending you The Health Letter 16-2. Dangerous Dieting. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - What can you do when you are not dieting and are trying to gain weight? I'm 25, 5 feet 1 and weight 100 pounds. I have had two children. I get so depressed because I eat and eat and snack between meals and still can't gain weight. I've asked doctors for help, but everyone says, "We help people to lose weight."

I feel weak a lot and very nervous, and I get tired quickly. I even take a nap every day and get eight to 10 hours sleep each night. I'd like to weigh at least 108 to 110 pounds.

DEAR READER - I'm more concerned about your feeling weak than your actual weight. You should have a complete medical checkup. There are many medical reasons why a person may lose weight although consuming a lot of calories. In the past, tuberculosis was a common cause - a good example of how infectious diseases can cause weight loss. Then there is the gamut of malignancies, including leukemia.

An overactive thyroid can cause a person to lose weight despite eating like a horse. But you can also have a weight problem from other endocrine diseases, including adrenal insufficiency, and you can lose calories from sugar in the urine if you are a diabetic.

Unexplained weight loss is a good reason for a complete medical examination. That is the first step for you and others with your problem.

But most treadmills do not work not motor-driven, which means you have to work harder to make the belt; and the motor-driven ones can be set mean these are not good exercise.

Your best guide will be your heart rate. Check your rate when you are well into your walk. If your rate on the treadmill is much faster than your walking rate, you will need to walk on your treadmill for a lot of my weight and on Sunday I had lost use because it isn't the equivalent of shorter period of time than you would
