

Proposal To Process 'Lettuce Smoke' Told

try is the largest user of cellophane in the world. The industry has so many ramifications that it is understandable why legislators are reluctant to do much with the problem," he commented.

From the scientific viewpoint: Torigian commented that "We should be and are concerned with the well-being of individuals."

"THEREFORE, the solution seems to be to produce an 'ideal cigarette'."

He pointed out that it is evident that most of the nation's smokers have not seen fit to "stop smoking."

NO SMOKE "ADDICTS" "People are not addicted to nicotine like they are to narcotics," he continued.

He said that smoking is "habitual" and that some authorities refer to it as a "tolerance."

SOCIETY has led many young people to believe that smoking is a "grown up" trademark.

"People don't like smoking when they first try it. . . they force themselves to continue until they tolerate it."

It then became a psychologically induced habit. This causes the habit to become almost a part of the character of the individual.

Thus, an ideal cigarette would be one which would not be harmful but would still give smokers the satisfaction they seek.

OBJECTIVE TOLD "This has been my objective for the past six years," Torigian continued.

HE THEN said that he had made it a point not to learn about the production of tobacco cigarettes — which contain nicotine and tars, apparent causes of health problems.

"I approached this like any new product," he continued, explaining that he had devoted much research to finding a leaf which possessed the characteristics needed.

It then became evident that lettuce would be "one of the most logical substitutes for tobacco in making smoking products."

WHY LETTUCE? — It is grown in temperate zones around the world. — It is quite safe to eat and possesses no substances harmful to the body.

— The crop exists abundantly and would not have to be imported. — It is produced and handled easily.

WASTE USED "Why not use the outer leaves which are normally discarded — or the waste of the lettuce head — was the next question," Torigian continued.

IT WAS found that the large, outer leaves of the head were actually more suitable for the product, he revealed.

He then outlined a process which converts the lettuce into a product "acceptable for smoking."

The next question facing Torigian was: "Is it safe?"

Current laboratory findings indicate that the product is "much safer" than tobacco cigarettes, Torigian asserted, pointing out that it will take time to tell the whole story.

HOWEVER, it has been found that the lettuce smokes curtail all acute physiological effects inherent to tobacco smoking, such as a rise in blood pressure, an increase in the pulse rate, and a contracting of blood vessels.

SAFER SMOKING Medical research and testing of Torigian's "lettuce smokes" was conducted at a well-known hospital in Philadelphia, Penn., he said.

He commented that he was not in a position to reveal the identity of the hospital until its research findings are published in a medical journal, since medical journals generally refuse to publish material which has been previously revealed to the lay press.

TESTING was conducted in an environmentally controlled chamber similar to those in which astronauts undergo many tests.

TESTING DESCRIBED Individuals tested were checked by electrodes which measure various physiological occurrences in the human body.

Subjects were given standard tobacco cigarettes to smoke and fingertip temperature were charted and compared with responses within the same individual's response to smoking lettuce "cigarettes," Torigian said.

RESULTS indicated that tobacco smoking caused a raise in blood pressure of 15 millimeters, an increase in the pulse rate (heartbeat) of 15 beats per minute, and constriction of blood vessels sufficient to lower fingertip temperature by five to six degrees Fahrenheit.

In comparison, Torigian continued, the lettuce smokes did not increase blood pressure or pulse rate and constriction of blood vessels as indicated by fingertip temperature readings was minimal.

PRODUCT ACCEPTED? Then came the key question, "Will the public accept it?" Torigian continued.

HE SAID that 2,000 packs of the cigarette were prepared in his laboratory and taken to Guthrie, Okla., for test marketing purposes.

"All of them were sold in six days," Torigian said.

"So we know that the public will buy them and pay at least 43 cents a pack for them."

"ALL OF this is culminated in our efforts to get a plant going."

LOCATION HERE? He said that Hereford offers a suitable location to start such a venture, explaining that he had talked extensively with chamber officials, business and professional leaders, and growers.

"Nowhere in my talks here have I run across someone who has said 'It can't be done.' They have told me 'If it can be done, Hereford can do it.'"

HE CONCLUDED his talk by saying that he is "raring to go."

A question-and-answer period followed.

"Do you mean that you are definitely, positively going to put a plant here?" a reporter asked.

SUITABLE SITE Torigian replied that he had found Hereford to be "very suitable" for the location of a facility, but that decision to locate here had not become final.

"ARE YOU definitely going to manufacture the lettuce cigarettes?" another reporter asked.

"I have put six years of work into this and I am convinced there is no reason in the world why people should smoke only tobacco. . . If I don't offer the public a safer smoke someone else will," Torigian answered.

In answer to another question, Torigian said that he currently heads a research and development corporation based in Delaware.

HE PROPOSES to give an exclusive license to a new corporation which would be formed here to produce the product.

PROPOSAL REVEALED He explained to a Brand reporter that the arrangement he proposes would split profits between his corporation and the one he hopes will be formed here.

CONCERNING the size of the proposed facility, he said that it would be gradually developed — "This is not a one-shot thing where you put everything on the ground at once."

He said that it would probably start with less than 50 employees and expand to employ more than 140 people within a year.

AGRICULTURAL EFFECT Another questioner wanted to know what effect this would have on the local agricultural picture.

Current lettuce production would be sufficient to supply the facility in its initial stages, Torigian said.

HIS PRESENT plan would be to buy only the outer "wrap leaf" of the lettuce head — which is normally discarded by processors or left in the field. He said farmers would probably receive "about a penny per pound" for this waste, which is normally not sold. Torigian said that talks with local producers indicated "this would be economically feasible."

In answer to other questions, Torigian pointed out: — ALTHOUGH appearance size, and general characteristics of the product correspond exactly to major brand king size filter cigarettes, the product is not technically classified as a cigarette since tobacco is not used.

SAMPLES OFFERED He offered samples of the "smokes" — as he prefers to call them — to members of the audience, who agreed that they offered the same satisfaction as tobacco cigarettes.

— A HUNDRED pounds of lettuce leaves would produce about two to two-and-a-half pounds of smoking material, which would make some six to seven hundred cigarettes.

— Asked by one person about results of work aimed at producing lettuce cigarettes in California, Torigian said that that project was his own and that much publicity had been given his product but that a great deal of misinformation preceded and followed that publicity.

— The proposed output of such a facility here? Torigian reminded listeners that one percent of the national smoking market would be $70 million annually.

1½ MILLION PRODUCTION HE INDICATED that planned resources would provide for a $1½ million annual production here, "but even this would be less than one percent of the Texas market."

Although tremendous competition exists in the tobacco industry, "it is from brand to brand," Torigian said.

"My product will be competing for a change from concept to concept (from tobacco to lettuce smoking) — and even though it will not be done overnight, it is bound to succeed eventually," he commented in conclusion.

INVITATION TOLD Concerning his invitation to Hereford by chamber officials, Torigian told the Brand that he had been invited to come here by local officials who said they had learned of his research through a magazine article.

"I wrote them back and said that I felt this was too large a project for a town the size of Hereford," Torigian disclosed.

"They replied to my letter in essence that Hereford could 'dern well handle the thing if I would give them a chance,'" he commented with a grin. "As a result, I decided it would be wise to investigate the possibility further and here I am."

Mrs. Robinson, Former Resident, Services Here

Patrons Comment On 'Variety Park'

the colorful canopies. "A tall fellow can't get under them with his hat on," but he redeemed himself by saying, "otherwise, I think the 'Variety Park' is real original and will do a lot for downtown Hereford. It shows the town is growing and thinking."

When asked about the piped-in music that will originate under the canopies' shade, Mrs. Raymond Higginbotham said, "I love music. I think it's good anywhere."

However, Mrs. Archie Love took another viewpoint of the proposed music. "Only thing we miss right now is the music, or we might all be a jiggling down the street!"

LEAVING the canopies, I traveled on to the subject of traffic, both automotive and human.

"I think the things that will help us the most are the traffic lights and 'walk' signs. At present people walk against the traffic lights, the 'walk' signs will help to prevent this. Pedestrians, as well as drivers, will be on the aware," commented teenager Lynda Lhor.

A POSTMAN, Baxter London, who spends a great deal of his time crossing streets felt the same way. "I think traffic lights will be the best improvement. Those 'Walk' and 'Don't Walk' signs will help the walkers."

In general it's all extra nice," said Mrs. R. D. Hubble, "but no parking meters and the traffic lights will improve traffic flow."

Mrs. J. E. Pavleck believes, "Islands are the safest thing for crossing the street. Of course, the planter boxes will be the prettiest part, but the islands are the safest."

SPEAKING of streets, "I love the wider street. Main street was getting too crowded," was Mrs. Johnny Mars statement. Several shoppers gave their overall viewpoints on the "Park" project.

Mrs. Jim Wood was sincere in her comment that she takes pride in the new look, the advancement that Hereford has achieved. She said, "All of it is very nice, and I'm real proud of it."

"ALL OF it is just delightful! It will enhance downtown shopping," Mrs. Clyde Cave was quoted as saying.

Two characters with about the best view of the entire project slipped away before I could get their names, but they yelled down from the roof of one of the buildings, "It looks great from up here."

NEITHER for or against was J. H. Fish. He really couldn't make up his mind. "It's prettier. It's nicer. If it works, it's good. Taking everything into consideration, I'll have to wait and see. It's like a kid growing up, you don't know how it will turn out."

Not all the comments were favorable, and Jim Baker had this to say, "I think the whole thing is a mistake. The reason for it was to draw people downtown. Instead, they have created a carnival effect, and I keep looking for the Barker and the 'houchie couchie' show."

BUSINESSMAN for the day was five-year-old Dennis Shaw who took advantage of the crowd and the shade. He imported and opened up a very popular coke stand at the corner of Fourth and Main.

The rapid rise in consumption of coal and oil has increased the amount of carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere. Since carbon dioxide helps the earth to hold the heat of the sun, some scientists predict that the earth's temperature will increase appreciably in the coming years. This might have wide-ranging effects, such as the melting of much polar ice and a rise in the sea level.

re-election. The motion carried and the officers remain: chairman, Melvin Jayroe; vice-chairman, Steve Bavousett; and treasurer, Mrs. Dean House.

"Some people received certificates for some phase of Red Cross swimming," Mrs. Bruce L. Miller told the group. "The 3rd summer session with 158 children and adults taking lessons is now going on." According to Mrs. Miller, part one of the Water Safety Instructors course begins next week with part two scheduled to be held before the summer ends.

REPRESENTING the youth group of the chapter, Kathy Miller gave a brief summary of her trip to Amarillo earlier this month to a Leadership Training School for Red Cross Youth. At the school, participants were divided into groups and Kathy felt that one of the best parts of this was "Everybody contributed their ideas."

At the school the group created the Panhandle Association of Red Cross Youth Councils which is scheduled to meet the first Saturday in May, 1966.

Dale Barkley, disaster chairman, gave a final summary on the costs of the Finlan Lake Flood disaster. The cost totaled $3,503 of which $3,300 has already been paid by the national organization.

"THIS IS an example of the United Fund that we contribute to each year coming back to our local community," noted chairman Melvin Jayroe.

In his comments, National Representative Richard (Dick) Strayer told board members that the official agreement making the Panhandle into a combined service area of the Red Cross was signed May 17, 1965.

Strayer went on to say that his wasn't slated until June of 1967. "The only reason it came to life was because we have the leaders to do the job, concluded Strayer.

Godwin had appeared before the commission two weeks ago, whereupon commissioners told him that a motion passed by the county two years ago prohibited obstructing bar ditches.

IT WAS POINTED out in the discussion that it would be permissible to remove portions of the bar ditch within property owned by Godwin, so long as the ditch were not obstructed.

Godwin contended Monday that this verbal permission should be supplemented by a motion recorded in the minutes, but commissioners tabled his request saying that they felt the ruling made two years ago was sufficient to cover the subject.

County . . .

OF, IF THE county's proposition to the highway board in Austin is approved, the proposed new paving would have little effect on taxes.

It was pointed out that taxing for the road interest and sinking fund was dropped from 13 cents to six cents in 1963 after the county had accumulated an excess in the fund.

Commissioners approved the low bid of J. F. Messer for topping county-owned lots north of the courthouse of Fourth St. to provide parking for courthouse and downtown business patrons.

Messer submitted the lowest of three bids for the project, asking $1.05 per square yard for leveling ground, applying a six-inch caliche base, and topping this with three coats of gravel.

TOTAL COST to the county will be about $4,200, although exact yardage of the area has not been computed.

The project was ordered by commissioners after a group of downtown businessmen appeared recently before the commission requesting that the lots be improved to provide parking for patrons.

Commissioner Earl Holt, who represents precinct one, reported to the commission that total cost for repairing a bridge four miles southwest of Dawn was only $6,151.91.

THE COMMISSION pointed out that earlier estimates on the project had run from $30,000 to $40,000, whereupon commissioners did considerable checking with area firms to cut the cost down — successfully.

In other business, the group again heard a request from Gene Godwin, who farms northwest of Hereford, that a motion be passed establishing a "more concise" ruling concerning bar ditches along county roads.

Godwin had appeared before the commission two weeks ago, whereupon commissioners told him that a motion passed by the county two years ago prohibited obstructing bar ditches.

Consumer buying was in high gear across the board. As a result, new records were posted by most stores. Among the leaders were those selling apparel and other types of soft goods and those selling cars, refrigerators and other durables.

THE RETAIL market was sparked, to a large extent, by a soaring demand for furniture, household goods and appliances, the survey shows. Much of it was due to an acceleration in the marriage rate and in the number of new household formations.

4-H Youths Attend Camp In New Mexico

Eight youngsters from Deaf Smith County left Monday for Cloudcroft, N.M. aboard a charter bus to attend the annual 4-H Electrification camp. Accompanying the youths on the trip were Mrs. Rita Huckert, Assistant County Home Demonstration Agent, and Juston McBride, county agent. SIX OF the youngsters went on the trip to represent the county 4-H at the camp and two of the young people were guests of the Hereford Southwestern Public Service. Those two will present demonstrations in how electricity can be useful on the farm. During the camp these youngsters will study the use of electricity on farms and how to use it safely. The youngsters will return Friday at 5:30 p.m. Those attending representing 4-H are Sue Atchley, Joyce Bezner, Debora Jesko, Steven McAndrews, Stephen Hoffman, and Tommy Betzen. Guests of SWPS are Rodney Herr and Donald Vasek.

AT SAN FRANCISCO

Seigler To Gain ACHA Fellowship

T. E. Seigler, administrator of Deaf Smith County Hospital for some 15 years, will be advanced to Fellowship status in the American College of Hospital Administrators on Sunday, Aug. 29, in San Francisco. The announcement was made by ACHA President Ronald D. Yaw, Director of Blodgett Memorial Hospital in Grand Rapids, Mich., who will preside at the ceremony. The ACHA is a professional society of men and women whose life's work is in the field of hospital administration. The membership comprises 6,400 administrative assistants of hospitals in the United States and Canada.

SEIGLER, who plans to attend the San Francisco meeting, has been a Member of the College for the past five years, after serving two years as a Nominee. Among prerequisites to being named to Fellowship status in the group were completion of a thesis or outlines of case histories to show various problems and their solutions in the realm of hospital administration. The chief aim of the College is educational — hospital administrators work together to improve standards and knowledge concerning their profession.

THE HONOR will be accorded at the College's 31st annual Convocation ceremony to be held in the Masonic Memorial Temple. This Convocation precedes the annual meeting of the College, held in conjunction with the convention of the American Hospital Association. At the same event, the ACHA will confer its highest commendation, Honorary Fellowship, upon five distinguished leaders in the hospital and health

What Hydro-Jet Acidizing Does To Your Weak Irrigation Wells

Water Increases Averaging More Than 50%

New Hydro-Jet Full Flow Acidizing puts proven oil field ideas to work to get maximum water yields from your sluggish irrigation wells.

The Hydro-Jet system forces specially-formulated liquid acids deep into the lower sands where the water is.

It rapidly cuts, loosens, and dissolves tight sands, and shales. Even hard, tough formations release water far and wide around the well. Based on your current well production, drill test and water samples, Hydro-Jet Full Flow Acidizing guarantees results. Full Flow Acidizing often doubles production in weak wells. It puts the Right Chemical in exactly the Right Place around the well bore. It injects the acid at precisely the Right Rate to produce more water than conventional treating methods.

No Pump Pulling, No Waiting For Chemicals To React

You'll like Hydro-Jet's quick action. We tie right into your own pump (no pulling). Your equipment is left virtually undisturbed. Downtime is minimal. Acids react immediately—normally in minutes. We're in and out of your well in nothing flat... no muss or fuss. Saves you money too.

Let us show you case histories with facts and figures to back up Hydro-Jet's performance on weak wells.

How Hydro-Jet Acidizing Works

The first step in Hydro-Jet's Full Flow Acidizing is to pump 8,000 gallons of water from your well into our storage tank.

Allowing time for water to rise again in the formation, we then rapidly inject 3,000 gallons of water back into the well. This rapid injection of water floods the dry sands above the static water level, and increases bottom hole pressure prior to the acid charge.

Then the acid is injected, and is forced out into the lower sands of the water-bearing formation.

Additional quantities of water are immediately injected right behind the acid to force the chemicals deep into the sands and assure maximum penetration of the acid.

After acids have time to penetrate the sands, and react completely, all foreign matter... clays, rust, shale, etc... is pumped from the well and the job is finished.

Well Analysis Service

Wells differ, and formations vary depending on location. Because of this, Hydro-Jet provides a scientific appraisal, then recommends a specific treating job for best results on your well. Bring your water samples in, (and drilling samples, if possible). We'll analyze them FREE of charge.

Tortilla Factory Is 'Family Affair'

By LARRY FUHRMANN
Staff Writer

Tucked away among barber shops, a restaurant and bakery is one of Hereford's littlest industries, a beehive of activity from morning to night. Though it doesn't occupy a prominent amount of space, its products are seen on shelves as far south as Abilene and as far east as Oklahoma.

Hereford Tortilla Factory, begun here in November, 1967, started out in a 12 x 12 room at the Labor Camp — and today its products are requested from points such as Alabama, North Carolina, South Dakota and numerous other states.

Cipriano Ramirez was a crew leader in the late forties when he started a tortilla factory in the Rio Grande Valley. Along with his sons, Rene and Ramiro, he has expanded his business here to meet a growing demand for his products.

WITH $15,000 already invested in equipment, owners of the factory foresee further expansion. Ten persons make up the permanent working force at the plant.

as Rene says, the process of turning a raw material into the edible tortilla product is simple. Four stainless steel tanks are filled with corn at the beginning of the process; it is required to soak for 18 hours before any further handling. During this time, the corn is treated with lime and cooked.

AFTER SOAKING and cooking, the corn is ground into a wet sticky dough. This dough is transferred to an assembly-line process as it heads toward final steps.

Dough placed in the large auger-like container is squeezed out in exact proportions before the automatic cutting device trims it into the desired circular shape. Here the tortillas begin their run on a conveyor belt which takes them to an oven for their pre-distribution cooking.

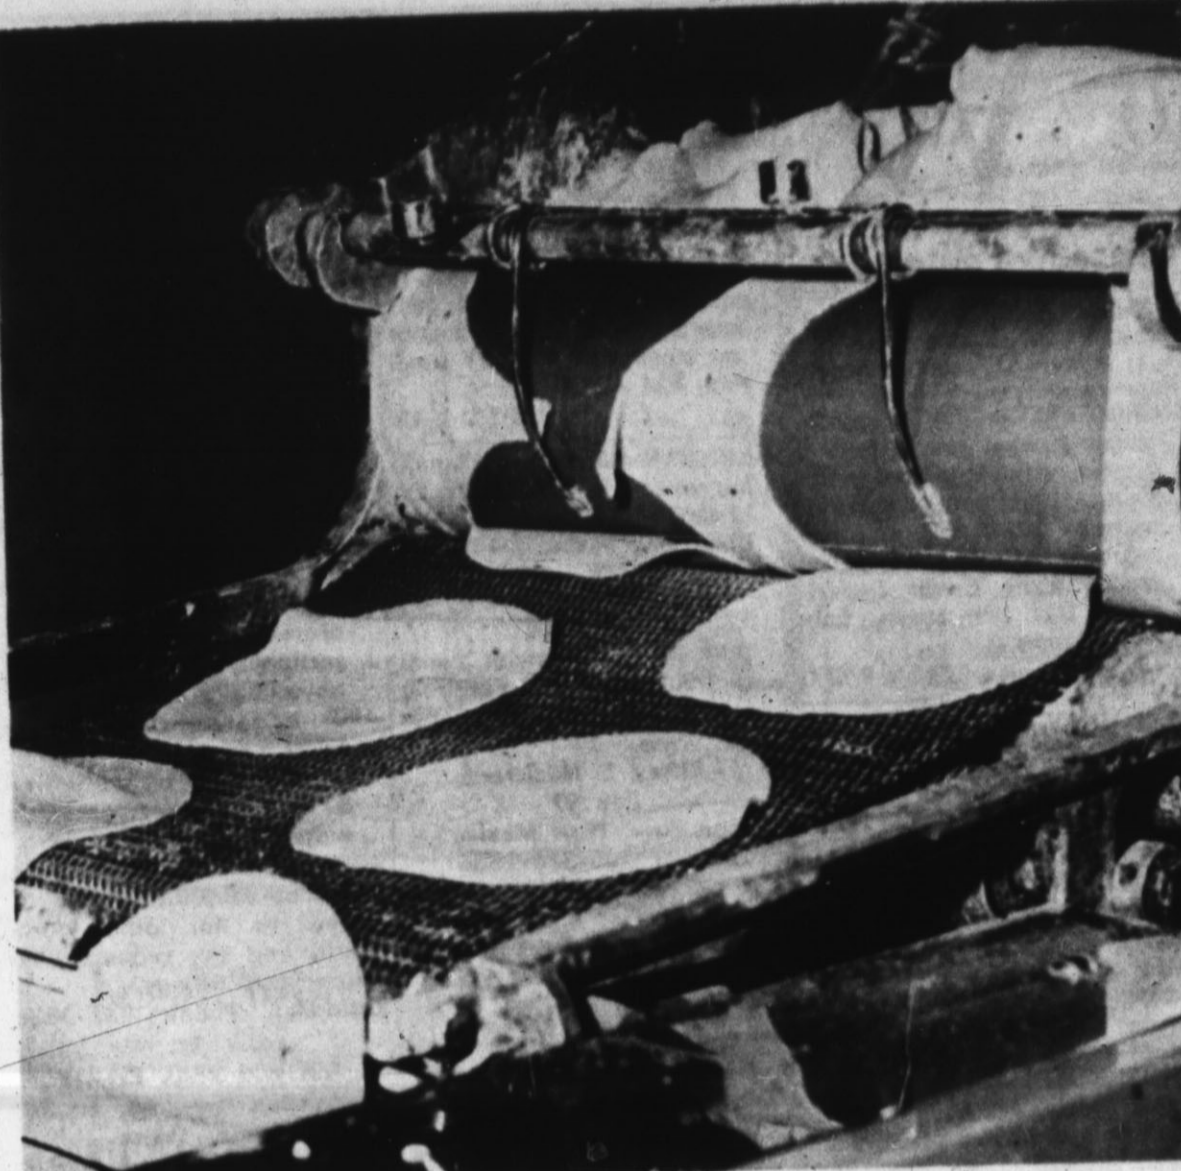

TORTILLAS falling off the conveyor belt at the rate of 5,200 per hour are quickly snatched up by another two members of the family, who "shuffle" and count them before placing them in plastic bags ready for sealing and delivery.

tilla Factory a visitor would have to know where he was going before he started looking for it. In an unnoticed spot in the 100-block of north Main St., green screen doors open to a bakery outlet which is also owned by Ramirez and his sons. Mexican pastries are manufactured at the Labor Camp branch of the company and sold here.

WALKING down a narrow, dimly-lit corridor, a visitor sees at the end of the hall bright light where all hands are busy at work in the "factory", making not only tortillas but tostados and taco shells as well. Also included in their list of products are chili-flavored tostados and a special enchilada sauce. The operation is contained in one large room.

"We're getting awfully crowded," say Rene and his brother Ramiro. "We do have a good demand for our products and we want to become an interstate operation." The company has three distributors in other areas.

Although located in a small inconspicuous spot, Hereford Tortilla Factory's products are requested from distant states.

ASSEMBLY LINE PROCESS — Tortillas made of sticky corn dough come from the cutter before they are cooked and packaged, ready for distribution. Hereford Tortilla Factory has some $15,000 invested in equipment, with plans being made for expansion. —Staff Photo

Tuesday Rains Refresh Area

Refreshing rains came to Hereford and Deaf Smith County Tuesday after a blistering dry spell. Clouds gathered over the city two days in a row, but failed to produce any of the much needed rain.

Rain fell over most of the county, registering from one to two-and-a-half inches. Hereford received 1.8 inches downtown and nearly the same amount on the edge of town with 1.7 being reported at the Pitman Grain Elevator.

FARMERS in the Dawn area reported from two to three inches with Dawn receiving two inches.

Rain at Summerfield was "spotty" with some of the farmers receiving only a trace while some of the others received as much as one inch.

Rain was still falling in Easter Wednesday morning. Farmers in that area reported 2.4 inches in the overnight fall.

FARMERS at Frio reported 1.4 inches of rain in the overnight fall. According to potato shed officials, the moisture was not enough to damage the crops. The rain did hamper the potato and onion harvest.

Work will be at a standstill in the potato fields and sheds until Friday or Saturday, according to officials.

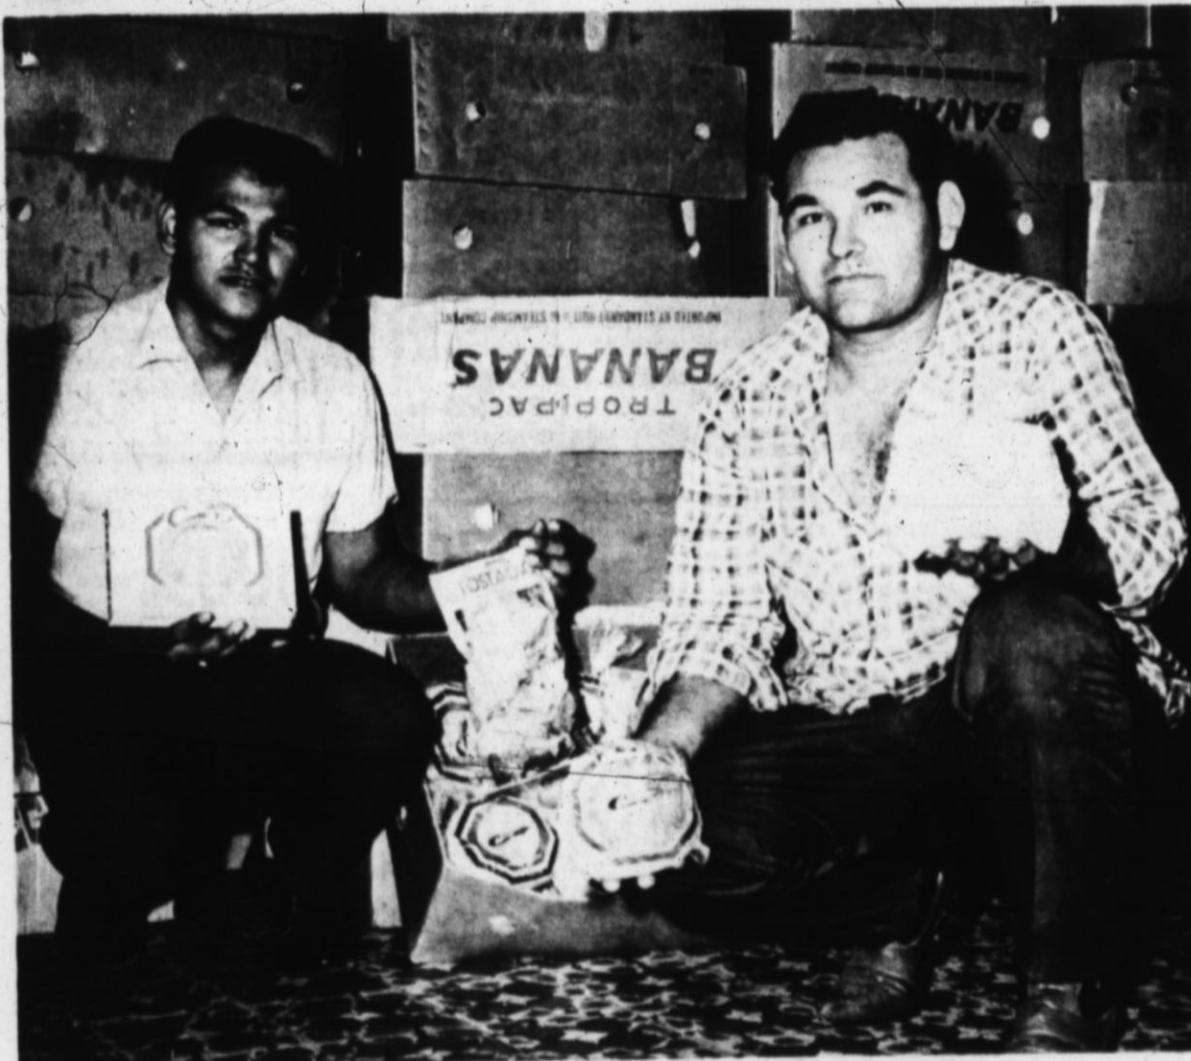

Although brandy or sherry are often added to a cheese spread, you can also use sauternes.

YOUNGEST SIGNS UP

Six McAndrews Children Now All 4-H Members

The J. A. McAndrews family went 100 per cent 4-H this week, when 9-year-old Jamie reached the minimum age for membership in the organization.

JAMIE is the youngest of the six McAndrews children all of whom are members of two 4-H clubs. Jamie has three brothers and two sisters.

Coming to Hereford eight years ago, the McAndrews' oldest daughter, Marua, joined 4-H and is now a member of the Willing Workers club. The brothers are all members of Dawn Boys' Club.

THE FAMILY moved here from Clinton Co., Iowa, where J. A. McAndrews was a member of the first 4-H club organized there.

Jamie will probably work alongside his brothers in the Dawn Boys' club. His brothers are Kevin, 16; Steven, 14; and Neil, 11. Teresa, his other sister, is 13 and a member of Willing Workers 4-H club.

Maura's achievements indicate varied interests in 4-H work. She was 4-H queen and was a member of the 4-H Texas People to People Goodwill Tour of Europe in 1964.

TOGETHER WITH her brother Kevin, she will attend a state leadership lab to be held at Lake Brownwood. The brother and sister team will leave here Sunday. Steven has been attending an electric camp at Cloudcroft, N.M., this week.

Maura, who is president of her club, is also vice-chairman of the county 4-H council. She was the state winner in public speaking in 1964.

STEVEN AND KEVIN have worked for about five years on beef cattle demonstrations, reports Mrs. McAndrews. The boys have been in 4-H since they were at the minimum age. Eleven-year-old Neil has been district winner in farm and

Red Cross Official Says Work Rewarding

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A National Representative of the American Red Cross — in Hereford for Tuesday's board meeting of the local Red Cross chapter, was interviewed by Brand reporter Ann O'Dowd. Following is his description of the unusual life of a Red Cross worker.)

Richard J. (Dick) Strayer, the father of four children, has been working for the Red Cross for the past five years. Just recently his title changed from field Director to National Representative of the Panhandle Area.

He has seen many disasters, and traveled far and wide, but he described his experience in California to be the worst.

HERE IN the Panhandle, he works with a 32 county area helping the volunteers to establish a strong unit of the Red Cross in each of the specific counties.

This is his story. The needs of the people is my job.

When Red Cross officials come, people in distress say, "Thank God, the Red Cross is here, and I have my reward knowing I'm representing Red Cross to the best of my ability."

But, who is the Red Cross? IT IS the American people helping their neighbors when something goes wrong.

You'd be surprised, day in and day out, at the number of people who need something done.

When I came, people said, "We never have any disasters in the Panhandle." But in the 14 months I've been in charge of this area, I have had little time to rest.

FIRST, came those 12 families in Tullia who were completely wiped out by that fire about a year ago.

Then, this June, the Hale Center tornado involved a large number of people and $50,000 worth of aid.

Of course, right here in the Hereford area last month the Finlan Lake Flood disaster kept me hopping. And, those 151 people stranded in Palo Duro Canyon were nothing to sneeze at.

IN MY OWN estimation, the Panhandle is just as susceptible to disaster as any other area in the United States, and this isn't the only place I've worked, you know.

I took my first job in the South as an executive for the Boy Scouts of America in Missouri and Kansas. Before that, I had my own business back in Iowa where I was born and raised.

When I became interested in the Red Cross about 5 years ago and took the job of military field director, my family and I made our home in San Antonio.

FROM SAN ANTONIO we moved to Wichita Falls for two and one half years, and now I serve a 32-county area of Texas and Oklahoma as National Field Representative of the Red Cross.

FOR INSTANCE, take my experience during the Christmas season of 1964 when the California floods and snow storms stranded 4,000 people in the Northern part of that state, I became stranded too.

Oh, I've seen bigger disasters, but none so prolonged. We never knew when it would be over. There was positively no sunshine for about a month.

When we flew in with our supplies, we were flying our helicopter at tree top level, but no trees were visible. They were buried under the snow.

Upon our arrival, I jumped out of the helicopter and found myself in snow up to my chest. It was then that I decided to use snow shoes.

FOR 19 days, with no fresh water or electricity, we (two co-workers and myself) watched the snow fall in those mountains. The three of us made our home in one small room with a concrete floor and wall to wall beds.

But, we had little opportunity to use our "cozy" quarters.

If it wasn't a snow laden tree falling through someone's home, it was the Indians that kept us on our toes, the Hoopha Indians for clarification.

ONE EVENING as we were distributing supplies, a messenger from the tribe arrived with a list of their needs. At the top of the list was written, "5 paks Pall Mall cigarettes."

When we inquired as to the use for this item, the messenger boy explained that "Medicine Woman want."

The next question was, WHY? "For five paks Pall Mall she promise change weather," said the boy.

NOT TAKING any chances, we sent them to her, and the weather did change from SNOW to RAIN!

That is only the beginning of our Indian experiences. In those mountains, there was little law enforcement. Occasionally, two deputies would come around and every month or so an old judge would come down from the hills.

DURING the disaster, he forged from his hiding place and issued a proclamation. "Anyone caught trading food given by the Red Cross for liquor, will be sentenced to 15 days hard labor."

Sure enough, the very next day, two Indians were brought before him. He found them guilty and gave them the 15 day hard labor wrap.

The two braves answered the Judge by saying, "When we out, we get rest of tribe and shoot town up"

I COULD see it all. Before this whole thing was over, I'd be going back to Texas with an arrow in my hat.

Finally, the snow stopped, the waters fell, and we were instructed to pack up and go home.

After four weeks with no days off, I went into a town and just looked at the lights.

BEFORE we departed the people insisted upon giving a dinner for us. It was the first one I ever sat in on with a heavy wool coat and hat to keep from freezing.

During the course of the meal, several people related their experiences of the past month.

It's amazing what people can do under adverse conditions.

ONE MAN swam the icy river, milked a cow, and swam back across, in order that his baby could survive.

Another, stayed on a quaking bridge for 36 hours staking logs to keep the bridge from washing away.

If it wasn't for the volunteer, we could never do our job.

And even people who have had all their worldly possessions destroyed always want to give you something.

AS A Red Cross worker, I'm not allowed to accept gifts, but somehow when I returned from California, I found 7 lbs. of smoked salmon in my suitcase!

Back in Texas, I resumed my duties as father, Scout Master, and National Representative for the area. California wasn't the first time I'd been called away from home, nor would it be the last.

IT'S HARD to say when I actually began helping people. My mother sent me a clipping out of my hometown newspaper entitled "20 Years Ago." In it was a description of how a young man organized a War Bond Effort during World War II, and sold over $600 worth in one day in our town of 5,000 people (Iowa).

I guess I've always been interested in assisting people, even when I was a boy.

But, I like my job. I really can't recall a day I can say, I've done this before.

Rodeo . . .

The parade will wind to the Hereford Riders Club Arena in southeast Hereford, where a huge barbecue catered by the Hereford Rotary Club will be held.

A DANCE for rodeo fans and participants will be held following each performance. Tommy Hancock and his band from Lubbock will set the musical pace for dancing at the Little Bull Barn.

Stock producer for the rodeo is Ratjen Brothers Rodeo Co. of Happy. Richard Walters of Amarillo will do the clowning — keeping onlookers and possibly himself in stitches.

Events on tap for the three performances include bareback, saddle bronc, and bull riding; headin' and heelin' and calf-roping, and barrel racing.

BRITISH ARTS COUNCIL SETS UP AWARD FOR PLAYS LONDON (AP) — A new $1,500 annual award has been set up by the Arts Council of Great Britain for "new and distinctive development in dramatic writing."

Eligible for the prize will be either plays produced during a year or scripts submitted to the council, which have not yet been staged.

The council also voted to extend its program of encouraging playwrights, by offering production guarantees to repertory and other managements for presentation of works deemed to have special merit.

DEPLETED TEAM, BUT MIGHTY

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — When Bob Seltzer's debate partner came down with the mumps, he carried on alone.

The 19-year-old Marietta College debater from Springfield, N.J., not only competed by himself against other two-man teams — he won.

Seltzer talked his way to victory over three other teams in a Chicago tournament after his teammate, Miss Dianne Pfalzgraf, 19, Parkersburg, W. Va., became ill.

Former star jockey Bobby Permane owns a trailer park near Palmetto, Fla.

SHOFNER GAINS WEIGHT

NEW YORK (AP) — Having regained about 23 pounds, split end Del Shofner hopes to play regularly for the New York Giants next fall. He now scales 185 pounds after having hit a low of 162.

He played only half of the 1964 season because of an ulcer. In the off-season he's a salesman in San Marino, Calif.

NEW COACHING SETUP

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers will have an entirely new coaching setup this season.

Manager Walt Alston plans to use Preston Gomez at third base. Gomez managed the Yankees' Richmond, Va., farm team last season. Jim Gilliam is slated to coach first base.

Danny Ozark will coach in the bullpen and Lefty Phillips will be on the bench with Alston.

HIS YEAR FOR AWARDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Just before Clarence (Gus) Benedict, president of the USGA, introduced National Open champion Ken Venturi at the Metropolitan Golf Writers' Association dinner, he said:

"Venturi has won more awards than anybody ever did in one short year."

Venturi received the most improved golfer award and the MGWA gold tee award for the comeback of the year.

"The way I played in the Los Angeles Open," replied Venturi, "I have a chance to win that comeback award again."

July Bride Is Honored With Afternoon Shower

Lately returned from a honeymoon in the New Mexico mountains, Mrs. Larry Duncan was honoree at a bridal shower Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Louie Olson, 820 W. Park. Mrs. Duncan was Miss Rita Harper before her marriage July 14.

Shower hostesses with Mrs. Olson were Mmes. LeRoy Botkin, Jack Gilliland, George L. Olson, Lennon Young and Joe Hysinger.

They decorated the house in roses using all shades of pink. Peace roses in a branched arrangement filled a tall crystal vase centering the lace-covered refreshment table where Mrs. Greg Cromer presided. Pink punch was served with tea sandwiches and cookies. The pink and white decor repeated wedding colors. Guests were received by Mrs. Louie Olson, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Emmett Harper, and Mrs. Roy Duncan, mother of her husband. The bride was wearing a white lace shift with a pink and white corsage.

Miss Barbara Moore registered guests who called during the late afternoon hours and presented gifts for the bride's new home.

A NON-BOGEY MEDAL GREENSBORO, N. C. — Three-time Masters champion Jimmy Demaret loves to tell this story about Sam Snead, the veteran golfer honored here before the Greater Greensboro Open.

"All right," Sam said," recalls Demaret. "But, tell me, was it at medal or match play?"

Backyard Rock Garden Shows Off Collection

Rocks bother some gardeners who fling them impatiently out of flower beds, but they interest Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Roberson, who bring them from long distances to their backyard at 137 Ave. D and add them to a collection which has become a show spot.

From plain caliche worn into depressions which will hold enough soil for growing tiny plants, to fragments from petrified forests and water-rounded stones from seashores, rocks collected through a quarter-century have been arranged with low-growing plants in a ledge across the back of a green lawn.

The rock garden was started soon after the Robersons moved into the home about 25 years ago. Locally or on trips, Mrs. Roberson had picked up rocks of unusual pattern or color, just because she thought them pretty but with no definite plan for their use.

When there was a sizable heap, she had the idea for a small rock garden at the back of the yard so soil was placed among a layer of the rocks and cacti planted.

As time went on the Robersons began looking for attractive rocks whenever they were on trips; others in the family and friends brought rocks as souvenirs of their own trips and the ledge of rocks was extended. A second, higher tier has been built for a terraced effect and the garden stretches the width of the lawn, backed by vines growing on a pair of trellises. The whole forms one unit in the backyard landscaping, which includes a marble slab-and-brick patio just outside the back door, shaded by an emerald-leaved catalpa tree, and a flower border down the fence on one side. The driveway bounds the other side of the lawn and across it is a huge, shady Chinese elm tree.

The patio has its own story; the marble sections are damaged pieces rejected when the Deaf Smith County Courthouse was built, sold to a Hereford resident who later sold them to Mrs. Roberson.

Placed in the red brick patio, they are displayed as effectively as are the varied rocks which are each visible although the plants give a general effect of greenness.

Sedum and other creeping plants grow among the rocks. This type of greenery early replaced the cacti, a change made for benefit of the Roberson children and their friends who played in the yard and had some painful encounters with thorns.

Plants now in bloom include wild verbenas brought to Mrs. Roberson by a friend from near Conchas Lake. Contribution of plants and rocks by friends has increased the Robersons' interest in the garden.

They can tell stories about some of the specimens, like the gray-beige rocks patterned in intricate whorls of brown, that came from Rock Candy Mountain near Hot Springs, N.M. They rode in a jeep over miles of bumpy roads to reach the spot where these were found. One of the pieces has shape and markings to resemble a fish.

In contrast, a beautiful piece of rosy-pink, glittering stone was picked up on the roadside in Mason County. They have made no special effort to collect rock from various states, but have some from most of the southwestern states.

Among the rocks on the higher ledge level, with one remaining small cactus and young century plants to give the look of a desert, Roberson has built a miniature windmill and tank, and set burro figurines.

Mrs. Roberson's hobby of landscaping shows in the front yard of her home as well as the back. Just now, scarlet petunias make splashes of color in a bed and two urns at the front of the house, with well-kept grass and shrubs as a background.

Her interest in growing things extends to activity in the Hereford Garden Club, of which she is a life member.

L'Allegra Club Meets Informally

A summer meeting of L'Allegra Club was held recently in the home of Mrs. James Higgins, northwest of Hereford. Mrs. Dwaine Walker, president, conducted a brief business session.

Also present for the informal meeting were Meses. Alex Schroeter, Joe Easley, Gene Cope, Joe Lyons, Walter London and John McNeely.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

In family memoirs which have been popular reading material for a number of years, there is nearly always a chapter in which the writer recalls a red-letter day of his childhood when a normally dignified and stern parent (all parents were dignified and stern away back then) unbent and joined in the children's play.

Busy father took his son fishing, or mother left her kitchen duties to help fly a kite, or a dull meal was packed into a picnic basket and taken to the woods where it became an adventure.

This made such an impression on the child that he vowed he would not confine his own children's joy in such occasions to a single incident. Readers made the same resolution, spurred by advice from child-guidance experts to make pals of their children.

So palship was a fad and youngsters had parents for playmates every day. Now the tide seems to be turning as parents find that comradeship is not an answer to all their problems, and some feel rather bewildered that what seemed so much fun in their young lives, seems to merely bore their offspring.

The answer probably lies in the rarity, a couple of generations ago, of such incidents.

It may have reached the point where we have youngsters who will write when they grow up of the red-letter day when dad kept that business appointment and left Junior to go fishing with the boy next door to a creek where they could enjoy using bent pins instead of getting a lesson in fly-casting, or mother actually left the picnic basket on the shelf and set a table in the dining room with real china and silverware for a family meal.

Taking a bus trip to the New York Worlds Fair sounds like a pleasant way to earn college credit. Vinita Pitts, Hereford student at Oklahoma Christian College, has the opportunity to find out about this.

She is to leave Sunday with others from the college on a bus tour where towns will be the textbooks, a note from OCC says. Credits will be gained by studies at historic spots, in New York City and Washington, D.C.

The trip is offered as a 2-hour social science course, ending the summer semester. The route goes through Arkansas, Alabama, Tennessee, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Vinita, a spring graduate of Hereford High, is attending summer session at OCC. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe

H. Pitts, 317 Ave. H.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Warner on the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Tom F. Sneary of Dallas and Mrs. Ralph Farmer of Lexington Ky. The Dallas couple's children, Barbara and Loy Sneary, are spending the summer in the Warner home, an annual custom, Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Sneary are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hefner of Crosbyton will visit the Warners a few days this week.

Group Has Week At Church Camp

A group of Hereford residents recently returned from the Baptist Camp at Glorieta after attending Music Week activities.

Included were Zack Pinnell, director of music in First Baptist Church, Mrs. Pinnell and children, Carolyn and Kenny; Mr. and Mrs. Dub Hair and children, Christy, Jeanne and Don Bill; Mrs. Sam Long and children, Becky and Ricky, and her sister, Mrs. Francis Treider of Lazbuddie; Mrs. Audrey Thompson.

Also Lonnie Coker, Misses Dianne Wilson, Susan White, Mary Lynn Gibson, Barbara Willis, Carolyn Herring of Friona and Sharon Seiver, and two young women who are at work in the church as summer missionaries assisting with vacation Bible schools, Misses Patsy Colley of Birmingham and Roberta Ransom of Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wilson and son, James Neal, went to the camp for the weekend only; the others remained for the entire session.

McBride Attends USAR Officer Training School

Juston T. McBride, an Army Reserve lieutenant colonel, who is the local county agent and resides at 611 East Fourth, completed the final two-week phase of the USAR School Associate Command and General Staff Course at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., last week.
 The course, which spans a five-year period of summer active duty training sessions, is with a working knowledge for wartime and peacetime duty as commanders and general staff officers.
 Col. McBride is regularly attached to the 422nd Logistical Command, USAR, in Amarillo.
 Completion of the course is a prerequisite for career advancement for military officers seeking the rank of colonel.
 McBride, who has been a citizen soldier for 23 years, was one of three officers from Texas in the class of 246 which received diplomas upon completion of the course. The school was staffed by instructors from the USAR reserve school in Washington.

Peace Corps Tests Slated

An opportunity for Hereford area residents to offer their abilities to the Peace Corps will come at 9 a.m., Saturday, Aug. 14, at the Amarillo Post Office, Room 322.
 The opportunity is the Peace Corps Placement Test, which is not passed or failed and you can't study for it. It measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language. If, for example, test scores indicate limited language acquiring ability, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an English-speaking area. The test is used by the Peace Corps only as a tool in the matching of Volunteers and jobs. The Peace Corps application is the most important indicator of suitability for Peace Corps service. It must be filled out and brought to the exam, unless previously submitted.
 Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing centers, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

DETOUR VIA VIET NAM

GROVE CITY, Ohio — Mrs. Alfred Hall of Grove City was puzzled when a Columbus department store reported it hadn't received the check she had mailed.
 But a letter from Viet Nam a couple of months later explained it.
 "I found this in a large unsealed envelope that was addressed to myself," Marine Cpl. Walter Ranke Jr. wrote Mrs. Hall. "I am on station in South Viet Nam and being a resident of Grove City at one time I thought you deserved an explanation for the delay in your letter. Ranke theorized that Mrs. Hall's letter with the check had slipped inside the unsealed envelope addressed to him."

If Jesus died to save you, can't you do some living for Him? Do you believe, "Life is real, life is earnest and the grave is not its goal; dust thou art, to dust returnest, was not spoken of the soul"? Are you lukewarm? Why not get hot for God? Put righteousness first.

JON DAVID MILLER

Student Sees Denmark In 6-Week AFS Program

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jon David Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Miller of Dawa, is in Europe as an exchange student this summer. Following excerpts have been taken from letters to his family. Jon David is staying with a family in Denmark.

On the ship were 950 students, with the ration of girls to boys being about 3 to 1. I entered the chess tournament, and won first out of 65.

After docking in Rotterdam, we have two hours on our own. Little kids were all over the city wearing headresses and guns, playing cowboys and Indians. I really impressed them when I told them I was from Texas. After I had taken pictures of them, their mothers converged on me and gave me their address so that I could send them copies.

Neils and Berthe were waiting at the station for me.

THE HOUSE is very big and well furnished. They even have running water. I have my own room. I found out that an au-pair girl is a girl who is usually from France who helps the mother with the housework. In return, she receives free room and board and a small wage. Just think — free French lessons!

I have just returned from a trip to Copenhagen. We visited three castles, the parliament, the king's castle, the prince's castle and the "little mermaid." I find that the large cities are much cleaner than those in America.

THE PEOPLE appear to be passive to the rest of the world; no one works very hard. Their gardens are beautiful because that's all the housewives have to do. No one is in a hurry; they worry little about communism, probably since they are such a small country and not very influential in international politics. Everyone is satisfied.

The state owns the TV stations and programs can be seen for only four hours each night. The medicine is socialized and

20-Year-Old Man Held Here

Bond of $1,000 was set Tuesday for Carlos Ortega, 20, after he was arrested on charges of seduction. Ortega remained in jail in lieu of bond.

The couple had been living together for approximately 10 months and have lived in Carlsbad, N. M., San Antonio and in Hereford. The couple had never been legally married.

The case is scheduled to go before the grand jury next week when the jury convenes.

The woman who filed the complaint was 17.

there are no great problems as in England. Trains are owned by the government, and, compared to American railroads, income taxes are relatively small, indirect taxes are tremendous; excise tax on a car is usually 115 per cent.

Sweet-Scented Gifts Repay Woman's Hobby

Fragrant gifts to be sent next Christmas or on special occasions before then, are in the making now at the home of Mrs. H. E. Miller, 428 Star. While roses are blooming at their peak, she preserves their scent by drying petals for rose jars of the type popular in past centuries.

Potpourri is the name given the rose mixture by old-time ladies who liked the aromatic jars in their rooms and who made dainty sachets for closets and linen shelves as well. Modern housewives find the same uses for the perfume and it is a welcomed gift.

She saves attractive containers in which cosmetics, candy and other food are often sold, and uses them for rose jars. Her suggestion that a prized antique sugar bowl makes an ideal rose jar would not apply, of course, to one intended as a gift. Containers should be of glass, china or glazed pottery.

Roses just ready to shatter are best for making rose jars, and may be picked directly from the bushes or used after serving in bouquets. Other fragrant blossoms such as carnations and honeysuckle improve the moisture.

Petals should be placed in a platter or shallow bowl and salted lightly, "about like salting your breakfast eggs", Mrs. Miller says, then left to dry two days, or more if the air is damp. They need to be stirred every few hours, especially if there is a considerable quantity.

When they are dry, they are mixed with oils of cinnamon, allspice and sandalwood. Quantity of these spices is a matter of individual taste and determined by experiment. Cinnamon and allspice oil are sometimes found in grocery stores, or may be bought at drug stores, where sandalwood oil is bought. The mixture may be placed immediately in small jars, or kept in a large jar where additions may be made as more petals are dried. Collecting jars and making the potpourri in rose season is an interesting hobby, Mrs. Miller says, and she enlists the help of her granddaughters and some young neighbors in gathering petals and making their own rose jars for gifts.

WONDERFUL SNACK — Pastry turnovers suspicion of scallion, and they are delightful with a filling of Roquefort cheese, with a full party fare.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Cheese Turnovers Fine Party Fare

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

ONE OF the most delicious hors d'oeuvre we have tried recently is in turnover form.

Pie crust mix is used for the pastry, and the filling is a luscious combination of Roquefort cheese, butter, eggs and a suspicion of scallion.

This recipe makes a lot of turnovers. You'll find them great to serve for an afternoon or evening refresher. If any are left over, store them in a tightly covered container in your refrigerator and reheat them; they'll add a delectable touch to a main course salad lunch or supper.

ROQUEFORT TURNOVERS

- 1/2 pound Roquefort cheese
 - 1/2 tablespoons minced scallions
 - 1/4 pound butter, soft
 - 2 eggs
 - Heavy cream
 - 2 packages (each 10 ounces) pie crust mix
- Mash Roquefort; stir in scallions and butter. Beat eggs until they are thickened and lemon colored; add half of these beaten eggs to the Roquefort mixture; beat until thoroughly blended. Beat in enough cream, a little at a time, to make a thick paste that holds its shape. Reserve the remaining egg.

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions. With a prepared pastry cloth and a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out pastry so that it is about 21 by 13 inches; with a rule, square sides so that you have a 20 by 12-1/2-inch rectangle.

(Pat leavings from edges of dough into a ball; cover and refrigerate. (With a pastry wheel or sharp knife, cut the pastry squares — there will be 40. Brush the edges of each square with some of the reserved beaten egg. (Use refrigerated scraps of dough with any left-over filling.)

Put 1 teaspoon of the Roquefort mixture near the center of each pastry square; fold over each square to form a triangle. Press edges together firmly. Place on lightly greased cookie sheets. Brush tops with the remaining beaten egg and prick with a fork. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. With a wide spatula, remove to a wire rack. Serve warm or reheat.

PORCH LUNCH

- Stuffed Egg and Vegetable Salad
- Bread Basket
- Apricot Nog
- Cookies

APRICOT NOG

- 3 large eggs
 - 3 teaspoons sugar
 - Dash of salt
 - 1 pint milk (2 cups)
 - 1 can (12 ounces) apricot nectar
- In a large mixing bowl, beat the eggs until thick and ivory color. Add sugar, salt, milk and apricot nectar; beat until thoroughly combined. Pour into tall glasses and serve at once. Makes 1 quart — enough for 4 servings.

WEEKDAY LUNCH

These delicious little morsels are sometimes known as corn oysters.

- Fresh Corn Cakes with Maple Syrup and Crisp Bacon
- Fruit Cup Beverage

FRESH CORN CAKES

- 2 large eggs
- 2 cups firmly packed fresh corn, cut from cobs
- 2 tablespoons instant flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 6 tablespoons butter

In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs until thick and ivory color. Dump in corn, flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Mix well with a spoon so that ingredients are evenly distributed. In a large skillet over a little less than moderate heat, melt about 1-1/2 tablespoons of the butter for each batch of cakes. Drop generous tablespoons of the mixture into the hot butter leaving ample space between them — in a 10-inch skillet 6 cakes can be fried at one time. Cook until bottoms are browned and top edges are dry; turn carefully and brown other side. Makes about 24. Note: You'll need 4 good-size cobs of corn; cut kernels away, then with dull side of knife, scrape down pulp.

GOOD DINNER

- Roast pork gets an epicurean glaze.
- Pork Loin with Apricot Glaze
- Sweet Potatoes Swiss Chard
- Salad Bowl Bread Tray
- Melon Wedges Beverage

PORK LOIN WITH APRICOT GLAZE

- 4 pounds (about) pork loin (loin half) without chine bone
- 1/3 cup apricot preserves
- 1/3 cup dry sherry

On a rack in a foil-lined shallow roasting pan, place the pork. Roast in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until meat thermometer registers 185 degrees — about 35 minutes per pound or about 2 1/2 hours. Remove from oven; remove meat on rack and foil from pan. Line pan with clean foil; replace meat without rack. Stir together the apricot preserves and sherry; spoon over pork. Replace in a hot (425 degrees) oven for about 10 minutes. Serve pork with a little of the apricot glaze spooned over chops. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

OLD ART REVIVED — A hobby which she shares with younger members of her family and friends is demonstrated by Mrs. H. E. Miller, showing a rose jar to her granddaughter, Miss Jennifer Miller of Odessa, right, and a neighbor, Ginger Goodwin, at a table where materials are gathered to make the fragrant potpourri. An art of past ages, the compounding of rose petals and spices requires only a little patience, says Mrs. Miller, and the results are delightful. Her twin granddaughters, Debbie and Vickie, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, stir rose petals drying in a platter. (Staff Photo)

ALMOST A ROMPER SALESMAN
NEW YORK — Celebrating the 40th anniversary of his first successful Broadway show, Richard Rodgers recalls how he almost quit composing. He and Larry Hart had been trying unsuccessfully for seven years to make a name for themselves when luck turned in 1925. Rodgers' father urged him to seek a more stable livelihood than the theater, and the young songwriter went out and got a job with a children's clothing firm, at $66 a week.

The day before he was to start, the Theater Guild invited the Rodgers-Hart team to write music for an intimate revue, to be called "The Garrick Gaieties." After that hit premier, Rodgers sent his resignation to the firm, at $66 a week. The Los Angeles Angels have a working agreement with Seattle in the Pacific Coast League. Its orders for the attendance or testimony of witnesses or for the production of documents at any hearing or investigation shall be enforceable by contempt proceedings in the District Court. (8) The Commission may, after such investigation as it deems necessary, order a hearing to be held before it concerning the removal or retirement of a Justice or Judge, or it may in its discretion request the Supreme Court to appoint an active or retired District Judge or Justice of a Court of Civil Appeals as a Master to hear and take evidence in any such matter, and to report thereon to the Commission. If, after hearing, or after considering the record and report of a Master, the Commission finds good cause therefore, it shall recommend to the Supreme Court the removal or retirement, as the case may be, of the Justice or Judge in question and shall thereupon file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court the entire record before the Commission. (9) The Supreme Court shall review the record of the proceedings on the law and facts and in its discretion may, for good cause shown, permit the introduction of additional evidence and shall order removal or retirement, as it finds just and proper, or wholly reject the recommendation. Upon an order for involuntary retirement for disability or an order for removal, the office in question shall become vacant. The rights of an incumbent so retired to retirement benefits shall be the same as if his retirement had been voluntary. (10) All papers filed with and proceedings before the Commission or a Master shall be confidential, and the filing of papers with, and the giving of testimony before, the Commission, Master or the Supreme Court shall be privileged; provided that upon being filed in the Supreme Court the record loses its confidential character. (11) The Supreme Court shall by rule provide for the procedure before the Commission, Masters and the Supreme Court. Such rule shall afford to any judge against whom a proceeding is instituted to cause his retirement due process of law for the procedure before the Commission, Masters and the Supreme Court in the same manner that any person whose property rights are in jeopardy in an adjudicatory proceeding is entitled to due process of law, regardless of whether or not the interest of the judge in remaining in active status is considered to be a right or a privilege. Due process shall include the right to notice, counsel, hearing, confrontation of his accusers, and all such other incidents of due process as are ordinarily available in proceedings whether or not misfeasance is charged, upon proof of which a penalty may be imposed. (12) No Justice or Judge shall sit as a member of the Commission or Supreme Court in any proceeding involving his own retirement or removal. (13) This Section 1-a is alternative to, and cumulative of, the methods of removal of Justices and Judges provided elsewhere in this Constitution. Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1965, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following: "FOR the Constitutional Amendment providing for the automatic retirement of District and Appellate Judges for old age, creating the State Judicial Qualifications Commission, defining its functions; and empowering the Supreme Court, upon recommendation of said Commission, to remove District and Appellate Judges for misconduct and to retire such Judges in cases of disability." "AGAINST the Constitutional Amendment providing for the automatic retirement of District and Appellate Judges for old age, creating the State Judicial Qualifications Commission, defining its functions; and empowering the Supreme Court, upon recommendation of said Commission, to remove District and Appellate Judges for misconduct and to retire such Judges in cases of disability." NEVER OVERTAKED HIMSELF QUINCY, Ill. — Ninety-eight-year-old Louis D. Wallace of Nashville, Tenn., returned to Quincy to look over some of the scenes of his childhood.

Wallace still is active as an editor of agricultural publications for the state of Tennessee. He was born in Mason County, Ill., Aug. 27, 1867. Wallace said he came to Quincy "just to see how the town looked." He noticed the tremendous growth, but he recognized some of the old buildings still standing.

"I have lived long and happily," he said, "because I have never overtaken my stomach or my brain and have tried to live with young folks."

WILDLIFE BIG BUSINESS

ROME — The Food and Agriculture Organization reports that wildlife is big business in many countries. FAO cites the Republic of Central Africa, which received nearly $5 million a year in fees for the export of elephant tusks, the Philippines which exports more than $200,000 worth of wild animals a year, and Kenya, whose wildlife resources are estimated to be worth $15 million a year in trade and tourism.

HYENA'S LAST LAUGH

LISBON — The hyena laughed first, and it was for the worst. In Porto Amelia, northern Mozambique, a laughing hyena attacked Rainca Saala, 25, Saala at first was surprised by the fact that the usually cowardly animal dared to pounce on him. When he recovered from the shock, he punched the hyena unconscious with his bleeding arm, and ran toward a nearby hospital.

PREAMBLE WHEREAS, The Legislature finds and declares that there is a need for the operation of hospitals by private charitable enterprises which will furnish free medical and/or hospital care for the indigent in Texas; and WHEREAS, The operation of such hospitals and the furnishing of such free medical care and hospitalization for the indigent in Texas will aid to the welfare and well-being of the State of Texas and its residents and citizens; and WHEREAS, The need for the operation of such hospitals and the furnishing of such free medical care and hospitalization for the indigent is especially great in excess of one million two hundred forty thousand ($1,240,000); and WHEREAS, It is found and declared to be the Public Policy of the State to foster and encourage such operation of hospitals as aforesaid; now, therefore,

Rains Don't Dampen Texas Tourist Total

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN, Tex. — Not even prolonged spring rains were enough to dampen Texas tourism this year.

Attendance at tourist attractions the first six months of 1965 increased 14 per cent over the same period last year.

A mid-year survey by the Agency shows that 14,069,333 visitors were counted by 18 attractions and the state parks, with some places showing a 25 percent increase in out-of-state visitors.

Largest single increase was reported by the Fort Davis Historic Site in far West Texas. Although the fort still is undergoing restorations, the tourist load there increased almost 50 per cent.

SCREWWORKS BACK

A combination of mild winter weather and inattentiveness on the part of livestock producers is believed to be behind a sudden spiral upward in the number of screwworm cases reported last month.

In a joint report the Texas Animal Health Commission and the US Department of Agriculture reveal that 129 Texas cases were confirmed between May 30 and June 26. Only 35 cases were reported in the entire Southwest in June, 1964.

FEDERAL MONEY

Austin, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and Houston are hubs in areas given top priority in a matching-fund program for construction of facilities for the mentally retarded. They will get first shot at some $500,000 in federal funds soon to be available.

Priority list, which will be one of the controlling factors in the allocation of the federal funds by the State Health Department, is part of a plan now in the hands of the U. S. Surgeon General. He has authority to approve it or ask that changes be made.

Applications for funds first go to the State Advisory Council for Mental Retardation Facility Construction. Applicants must have their half of the funds for any proposed project in hand, in liquid assets.

AG OPINIONS

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr has ruled that:

— A county may not legally operate a "translator system" to bring TV to its people.

— Garza County cannot close the county hospital, but it may lease or sell it.

— A prisoner "laying out" fines at $3 a day in the county jail may not get credit on two cases at the same time. In other words, the two jail terms follow each other instead of running concurrently.

TRAINING MANPOWER

Texas Industrial Commission is urging Texas communities to look into benefits of the Manpower Development and Training Act as a way of adding impetus to industry attraction.

In Texas, the act is administered jointly by the Texas Education Agency and the Texas Employment Commission.

Industrial Commission has scheduled six Industrial Planning Seminars to explain the Act. They will be held in August in Austin, Dumas, McAllen and Sweeny.

NYC PROJECTS APPROVED

Neighborhood Youth Corps job projects continue to get approval all over the state. Gov. John Connally announced final clearance for grants in the following areas:

Aspermont, Denton, Snyder, Wells, Robert Lee, Comanche County, Beaumont, Breckenridge, Matador, Waco, San Angelo, Round Top-Carmine, Fort Worth, Hempstead, Roma, Lubbock, McKinney, Hemphill, Amarillo, Texas City, Bridge City, Mason, Groesbeck, Quanah, Laredo, Eagle Pass, Wichita Falls and Mt. Vernon.

COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith has made several committee appointments.

To the Texas Legislative Council, research arm of the Legislature, he appointed Sens. Neville H. Colson of Navasota, Louis Crump of San Saba, George Parkhouse of Dallas, Murray Watson of Mart and J. P. Word of Meridian.

Sen. Jim Bates of Edinburg will head the Senate Investigating Committee. Other members are Sens. H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock, Dorsey B. Harde-man of San Angelo, Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo and Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi.

Sens. Culp Krueger of El Campo, Criss Cole of Houston and Charles Herring of Austin will serve on the Legislative Study on Multiple Use and Pollution of All Waters of Texas, with Krueger as chairman. Three representatives and five private citizens also will serve on panel.

COURTS SPEAK

Third Court of Civil Appeals, invalidating part of Texas Regulatory Loan Act, has held small loan companies dealing in bonds and securities are subject to inspection by State Banking Department.

Companies sued the Banking Department claiming they are exempt from its examinations. Appeals court instructed district court to reopen the case as to penalties against 40 of the Texas-based concerns.

An Austin district court enjoined Texas Railroad Commission from enforcing order that natural gas purchasers must extend lines to all producers in a field. Rio Grande Valley Gas Company, ordered to run its lines to West Port Isabel Field, brought the suit.

BOUNDARY MEETING SET

First formal meeting of new Texas-Louisiana boundary commission will be held here August 10.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler expressed hope a line between the two states finally can be agreed on for submission to their legislatures and congress. Agreement would prevent litigation and permit both states to be able to identify their land for purposes of oil and gas leasing and other useful purposes, he said.

Texas members of the commission are Sadler, Attorney General Carr, Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin, Sen. Jack Strong of Longview, Rep. David Crews of Conroe, Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, and Larry Temple, executive assistant to Connally.

REDISTRICTING SUIT FILED

Nine Republicans filed a motion to intervene in a federal court challenge of constitutionality of the new congressional redistricting act.

They charged the Texas Legislature failed to create 23 districts of equal population as ordered by the court in 1963 and that the redistricting act "constitutes an extreme and indeed classic case of gerrymandering against certain political and metropolitan groups." Inequalities were cited in Dallas, Bexar, Jefferson, Orange, Ector and Midland counties. Districts, the new plaintiffs maintained, vary from 9.7 per cent above the average to 9.7 below. They asked the court to apportion the state into proper districts after an investigation supervised by a mastery in chancery.

SHORT SNORTS

Governor Connally has named Jack Goren of Dallas, vice president of Neiman-Marcus, as state chairman for United Nations Day, Oct. 24.

House Speaker Ben Barnes represented Texas on the proposed Guadalupe National Park near El Paso at a hearing before House and Senate committees on interior and insular affairs. State Parks and Wildlife Commission has endorsed conversion of an area near El Capitan Mountain into a national park. Committee of the Governing Boards of State Colleges and Universities has unanimously endorsed the Constitutional Amendment that provides for re-allocation of the ad valorem tax, increases the amount from 5 cents to 10 cents and increases the number of participating institutions from 12 to 17. Proposal will go to the voters on November 2.

Texas Employment Commission reports total employment in Texas stood at 3,760,100 in mid-May, up 28,600 from mid-April and a 101,900 gain from May, 1964.

A regional representative of the Federal Office of Aging indicates that the Texas share of funds allotted by the Older Americans Act will be $157,055 during the first year.

Texas Highway Department has let contracts for widening two bridges on US 290 in Gillespie and Blanco Counties near the LBJ Ranch. They are the Three Mile Creek Bridge, two miles west of Stonewall, and the Williamson Creek Bridge, four miles east of Stonewall.

REP. ROGERS WRITES

Canadian Dam's Size Compared

The Mayor of New York went for a blimp ride recently over the depleted reservoirs serving his metropolis of more than 8 million residents. Upon his return he declared there was no need for "panic." He urged caution and touched off a campaign to encourage New Yorkers to curtail their water consumption.

The city's reservoirs, on July 21, were at 47.8 percent of capacity. On his inspection flight, Mayor Wagner could see stone walls and foundations first inundated by rising waters of the reservoir more than 100 years ago.

The crisis confronting New York City and much of the drought-hit Northeastern United States is serious indeed. As I have said repeatedly, the real and threatened water shortages in our country constitute our No. 1 domestic problem. For many Americans, the crises in water are going to get worse before they get better.

IT WOULD be of interest to Panhandle residents to know that the capacity of all New York City reservoirs is less than the usable capacity of the reservoir being backed by the Canadian River dam near Sanford. Because the Northeast amounts of rainfall, it is difficult for many residents of that area to realize the seriousness of the shortage they now face.

On July 22, I was honored to be among several Members of Congress invited to the White House to attend the ceremony as President Johnson signed the "Water Resources Planning Act."

The legislation, which was shaped in the Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation, of which I am chairman, declares the policy of the Congress to be "to encourage the conservation, development, and utilization of water resources" on a coordinated basis.

THIS MEANS that all levels of Government, as well as affected corporations, business enterprises, and individuals, will participate in planning the development of water resources. The Act sets up a cabinet-level Water Resources Council to keep the President and the Congress informed on the Nation's water needs and to guide the planning effort; authorizes the President to establish river basin planning commissions when needed; and provides for financial assistance to the States for water resources planning.

By the way, at the bill-signing ceremony the President appeared hale, hearty, fit — and sures brought on by close attendance, despite the recent presentation he must pay to events in Viet Nam.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A local minister recently returned a used car to the dealer who sold it to him.

"What's wrong?" the dealer asked. "Can't you run it?" "Not and stay in the ministry," the preacher replied.

State General Land Office has come up with a legal description for relocation of disputed county line between Parker and Tarrant counties at the request of local officials.

Governor Connally has wagered 2,122 Texas pecans against Gov. William Scranton's 1,081 Pennsylvania apples on the outcome of a football game on Aug. 14 between Texas and Pennsylvania High School all-stars.

Texas Water Commission has released a new report on ground water resources of the Rio Grande basin from El Paso to Brownsville and as far north as Winkler County.
