HISD gives teachers raise, considers tax hike

By JOHN BROOKS

Managing Editor

Hereford public school teachers and administrators will receive significant pay raises for the 1990-91 school year, the Hereford school board decided Monday night.

Hereford Independent School District taxpayers will likely pay higher taxes (a proposed 7.98 percent increase), but also receive a break on other taxes that will offset most of the increase.

The school board accepted the recommendation of Superintendent Charles Greenawalt to restore local pay supplements to $1,600 to beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree, and a $1,800 increase for a master's degree, and will increase pay for other teachers to make up for some of the supplement they lost last year.

Last year, the state passed through a $1,140 increase for beginning teachers after the HISD had already issued contracts with a $1,800 increase. Since contracts had already been issued, the local supplement portion was knocked down to $660 or less, depending on the teacher's experience.

The state mandated another $1,140 this year for beginning teachers, but others had smaller, or no, increases. Greenawalt said he would prefer to give a $1,800 increase across the board for teachers.

"One reason we need to do this (increase teacher pay) is that we have lost 41 teachers," Greenawalt said. "We have reached a point where we are not competitive with other school districts in getting and keeping quality teachers. We can be a little more competitive and selective in our teachers."

"I think it is important that we do this (increase salaries), that we reward our personnel for doing a good job. We need to say we appreciate them and we are going to reward them for doing an excellent job."

Catherine Cortez, president of the Hereford Classroom Teachers Association, was happy with the decision.

"I just hope the people of the community don't have a bad feeling or blame us for the tax increase," Cortez said. "Sometimes it's not a bad feeling, they just don't understand. We do need to try to be competitive in teacher salaries. That is the main reason we lost a lot of teachers."

According to the proposed budget, which will be adopted on August 31, teacher pay raises are not the only reason for a tax increase. The district plans to allot $300,000 to begin badly-needed renovations at Hereford

Proposed tax "increase" could actually lower taxes
The tax "increase" proposed by the Hereford school board could lower taxes for some residents. Last year, at 78.5 cents, a person with a $100,000 house and two $10,000 cars paid $932. At the proposed rate of 91.43 cents, with no tax on cars, that person would pay only $914.30, or $18 less.

High School, and to increase stipends for teaching materials and other needs throughout the district.

The school board will hold a tax hearing at 7 p.m. on August 27 at the school administration building to consider raising the tax rate to 91.43 cents per $100 valuation.

That is considerably higher than the 78.5-cent levy for the 1989-90 school year, but taxpayers will receive a break because the school district will no longer tax personal use vehicles.

By dropping the private vehicle tax, the effective tax rate went from 78.5 cents to 84.67 cents. That would have been the levy to raise the same amount of money as was raised by the 78.5 cent levy last year.

The district could have gone even higher. Senate Bill 1, the state legislature's school reform package, allowed districts to go beyond the eight percent rollback restriction this year in an attempt to equalize funding across the state. This year only, the district could have raised the tax rate to $1.0452 per $100, and would receive more state funding with the higher rate.

Greenawalt explained that the tax increase "is not as strong as some people will see it." In fact, for some persons, the tax increase coupled with the district no longer taxing private vehicles could result in a lower school tax bill.

Greenawalt explained that a person with a house valued at $100,000 and a car valued at $12,000 would pay only $16 more this year than last, because the automobile is no longer taxed.

Vehicles owned by commercial firms would continue to be taxed as in the past.

The board also honored Carolyn Hiltbrunner, Greenawalt's secretary, and Charles Lyles, the new principal at Aikman Primary School, as the employees of the month. The board approved the proposal for a new office for the juvenile probation department, and the board will hold a strategic planning workshop in the near future.

Jordan keeps oil spout open for Iraqis

By The Associated Press

The United States hurriedly built up its military strength in Saudi Arabia today while tightening economic screws on Iraq to force it to leave Kuwait. Jordan was reported keeping open a small Iraqi oil pipeline.

Dubai port authorities today refused to allow the Iraqi freighter Al-Abid from entering port to load, Persian Gulf shipping sources said.

President Bush on Monday told Defense Secretary Dick Cheney to return to the gulf and reportedly telephoned Japanese Prime Minister Toshiko Kaifu. A Japanese Foreign Ministry official said today that Bush asked for increased Japanese financial aid to Middle East countries affected by the crisis.

Bush himself will receive a Pentagon briefing today on the military confrontation with Iraq's President Saddam Hussein, cutting into his Maine vacation to return to Washington for talks on the gulf and the budget deficit.

U.S. combat troops arriving in Saudi Arabia were told to prepare themselves for a long stay.

U.S. Navy ships maneuvered to block all trade with Iraq. Bush said the Navy would halt Iraqi tankers to "stop the oil from coming out." Britain and Australia also said they would help interdict Iraqi ships.

The Washington Post today quoted unidentified U.N. sources as saying that at an informal, closed-door meeting of the Security Council on

Here, at a glance, are the latest developments in the Persian Gulf crisis:

Troops continue to pour into Saudi Arabia. About 3,000 Egyptian soldiers have arrived and another 1,000 Egyptian troops are expected soon. Morocco is expected to send roughly an equal number of ground forces this week and Syria is also committing troops. U.S. combat troops in Saudi Arabia have been told to prepare themselves for a long stay.

The New York Times reported today that Iraq has transferred $3 billion to $4 billion in confiscated gold bullion, currency and goods from Kuwaiti institutions to Baghdad, sizably increasing its financial reserves. The paper quoted Arab bankers in London and the gulf in its report.

President Bush is getting a Pentagon briefing on the military confrontation with Iraq President Saddam Hussein. The president was cutting into his Maine vacation to return to Washington for talks on the gulf and the budget deficit.

Maj. Gen. Don L. Kaufman, chief of the U.S. military training mission to Saudi Arabia, said planes bearing U.S. troops and equipment were landing every 10 minutes or so at a base in the desert.

"I think our position grows stronger with each day that goes by," he said.

The world quarantine of Iraq has forced energy-saving methods in Japan. The Japanese Trade Ministry has asked that office thermostats be set no lower than 82 degrees and that lighting be reduced by one-third to conserve oil. About 70 percent of the country's oil comes from the Middle East.

Monday, the Soviet Union, France, Canada and Malaysia "sharply criticized" the U.S. decision to proceed unilaterally with the naval quarantine of Iraq and Kuwait.

A world quarantine was placed on Iraq after it invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2 and later announced it was annexing its small, oil-rich neighbor. Iraq massed troops near Saudi Arabia, sending alarm bells off throughout the Middle East. The Saudis have the world's largest oil reserves.

The United Nations imposed economic sanctions on Iraq and 12 members of the Arab League endorsed the action at a summit.

The Iraqi tanker al-Qaddisiyah, capable of carrying 900,000 barrels of oil, was kept from docking on Monday at the Saudi terminal at Yanbu on the Red Sea after tugs failed to show up. Saudi diplomatic sources said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Where's Billy the Kid buried?

Judge Bob Hefner, right, of Hico, debates the whereabouts of the remains of Billy the Kid with a member of the cast of "Billy the Kid," which is presented during the summer at Pioneer Amphitheatre south of San Jon. Hefner claims Billy the Kid is not buried in Fort Sumner, but lived out his days as Brushy Bill Robert in Hico.

Where's 'Billy' buried?

Who is buried in Billy the Kid's grave at Fort Sumner, N.M.?

Would you believe no one?

That was the claim made by Judge Bob Hefner of Hico, on the Jubilee Junction stage Saturday during Hereford's Town and County Jubilee.

Hefner said he believed that Billy the Kid cut a deal with Pat Garrett, the colorful sheriff at Fort Sumner when Billy the Kid was reportedly gunned down.

Hefner said Billy the Kid was Brushy Bill Robert, who lived to a ripe old age in the Hico area.

He "debated" the Billy the Kid claim with a member of the cast of the "Billy the Kid" outdoor drama, which closes its annual run this weekend at Pioneer Amphitheatre south of San Jon, N.M. On Saturday night at the amphitheatre, Hefner debated with Bill McAlavy, who wrote the Billy the Kid presentation at San Jon.

McAlavy follows Pat Garrett's version of the story.

Brushy Bill's version is featured in the movie Young Guns II, currently playing in theaters.

Judge Hefner said there is one buried in the grave at Fort Sumner. The burial plot there purports to have three persons buried, including two of Billy the Kid's friends. The plot has been cemented over to keep vandals and others out of the graves.

Former Amarillo mayor

Hodge, others hunted inmates

By MIKE COCHRAN

Associated Press Writer

AMARILLO (AP) - The vice chairman of the state prison board invited two friends to join him in a dog-training exercise last year in which hounds and horses were used to track a prison inmate.

The board member, Jerry Hodge, later presented his companions with jackets proclaiming the escapade the "Ultimate Hunt."

State prison officials confirmed in recent interviews that dog-training exercises are conducted routinely.

Hodge, 47, a former Amarillo mayor, told The Associated Press he and his friends merely observed a routine dog-training exercise called "running the track."

"I don't think we did anything wrong," he said, but conceded that calling it the Ultimate Hunt "probably wasn't a good choice of words."

He added:

"I'm not denying we did what we did. We did it. But I'm not so sure I wouldn't do it again. I wouldn't have the jackets done and I wouldn't call it the Ultimate Hunt."

Jim Harrington, legal director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union, said Hodge and his friend Glenn McMennamy, a Texas Department of Human Services board member who also participated in the hunt, should resign.

"I think this is one of the most disgusting things I've heard. I think they should resign. If they don't, I think Gov. Bill Clements should ask for their resignations. I just can't believe this happened in 1989. If this is their attitude, this kind of callousness, they do not have any place in government," Harrington said.

Clements, who appointed Hodge twice - once to the Texas Department of Corrections board and again to the reconstituted criminal justice board - was en route from his Dallas home to Austin today. His press secretary, Rossanna Salazar, said the office had

Storm dumps .20 inch; more showers forecast

A quick-moving thunderstorm moved across Hereford this morning, dropping .20 of an inch of rain on the city, according to KPAN Radio.

The forecast calls for a 50 percent chance of more rain this evening and a 30 percent chance on Wednesday.

Although Hereford had no rain over the weekend, a 3-inch rainfall was reported about 16 miles northwest of town Sunday night and another inch Monday. A 3-inch rain was also reported at Umbarger Monday.

County to consider paving 15th

County commissioners agreed Monday to consider paving West 15th Street, just northwest of Hereford, from the west end of the pavement, at Centre Street, to its intersection with Hickory.

Commissioners have considered the project off and on for several years, but the paving may be more necessary now because of a senior citizen housing facility to be constructed just west of Centre south of 15th.

New Life Concepts of Houston is near a final agreement on building a seven-story facility, the Park Place, that would provide custodial care and rehabilitation services for about 250 persons.

John Underwood, the Houston-based developer of the planned facility, said the $8 million project could begin construction in 60 days if details are ironed out. Underwood said there were few wrinkles left in the plans.

"I think we ought to pave that part of 15th whether this project flies or not," said Commissioner Troy Don Moore. Moore said that part of the road gets considerable traffic from northwest Hereford. "We need to just look at this (paving) to find out what it would cost."

"I'm like Troy, the road needs to be paved anyway," said Commissioner Johnny Latham.

The land around the proposed Park Place will likely be annexed into the city, and Commissioner Austin Rose said the county "needs to get with the city. If it is going to be in the city, they need to participate with us."

"We can determine what we want to do at any point," said County Judge Tom Simons. "It seems to me it's a project we need to do, especially in light of this Park Place."

In other business, the commissioners agreed to a plan for new office space for the juvenile probation office outside of the courthouse. Juvenile Probation Officer Lou Serrano said the current office is inadequate for the three-person staff, and Serrano outlined his plans for a classroom for juveniles who have been dismissed from school or placed on in-home suspension.

Combest to visit here Wednesday

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest (R-Lubbock) will be in Hereford for a town hall meeting at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Hereford Community Center.

Combest is hosting a series of town hall meetings across the district during the summer congressional recess.

Combest will also address the Hereford Lions club at noon Wednesday at the Community Center.

Combest will address a variety of topics during the meeting, which is open to all interested persons.

Season tickets available now

Reserved-season ticket holders for Hereford Whiteface football games have until Aug. 17 to renew options on their seats. Letters were mailed recently to all these ticket holders.

Tickets are $3 per game again this season, or $15 per reserved seat. A "handling fee" of $10 has been added for each family. That is, $10 is assessed whether the ticket order is for one ticket or eight. A couple will pay $30, plus the $10 fee which is to be used on the stadium expansion project.

If the reserved seats are not claimed by Aug. 17, the tickets will go on sale to the general public.

Hodge is in line to succeed Charles Terrell as chairman of the prison board, which oversees the recently restructured and renamed Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Terrell announced his retirement earlier this month.

The AP began looking into the April 1989 "hunting" episode after recently receiving an anonymous letter critical of Hodge and his companions, McMennamy of Amarillo and Bob Wilds of Indianapolis, Ind.

McMennamy, a member of the Texas Board of Human Services, said the so-called hunt "wasn't any big deal."

As longtime bear hunters, he said, he and Wilds simply wanted to see how the dogs worked.

Asked about the propriety of such an event, Terrell, before announcing his retirement as board chairman, said, "I don't know a thing about it." Referring to Hodge, he added:

"It wouldn't surprise me if he went along on a hunt. He's really a cowboy at heart. It wouldn't surprise me a bit."

Terrell defended Hodge as a good friend and a dedicated board member and added: "There are very few people who like more or who have worked harder."

Hodge is a longtime Republican supporter who was active in Clements' three gubernatorial campaigns and served as chairman of

Richards, Williams duel over 'conflicts'

AUSTIN (AP) - Debating about conflicts of interest, Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards says Republican Clayton Williams has too many. Williams says Richards has her share.

Richards on Monday accused Williams of spending millions of his own money on the race to help what she called businesses that are "afloat in a bunch of junk bond debt."

"Clayton Williams seldom spends money unless he believes there will be a return for his investment, and... almost all of Clayton Williams' businesses depend heavily on state regulation," Richards said.

"Those two things tell you all you need to know about Clayton Williams and why he has invested so heavily in his efforts to become governor," she said.

Williams' press secretary said Richards' attack was groundless and charged that she had done a favor for a past campaign contributor.

"Mr. Williams is a man of honesty and integrity. Apparently the polls are showing that the voters of Texas believe this to be the case," said press secretary Gordon Hensley.

Richards said the next governor will appoint officials of state agencies which regulate many of Williams' businesses, including oil and gas and ranching.

"Why has Clayton Williams invested more than $6 million of his own money into this race? Is it because he sees the governor's office as another trophy to hang on his desk wall? Or is it because he sees it as an investment in his businesses?" she asked.

She outlined what she called potential conflicts, including gubernatorial appointments to:

- The Railroad Commission, which regulates oil and gas production, businesses in which Williams has made much of his fortune.

- The Texas Water Commission, in charge of some pollution controls connected with oil drilling.

- The Texas Animal Health Commission, which regulates import and export of livestock. Williams owns some 11,000 head of cattle.

- The Texas Finance Commission, which regulates state-chartered banks. Williams owns stock in a state-chartered bank and his federally chartered bank competes with those controlled by the commission, Richards said.

"Clayton Williams could become the first governor in Texas history who would have to register as a lobbyist before he could take the oath of office," Richards said.

Williams accused Richards of hypocrisy over conflicts of interest and her earlier criticism of the use of so-called "junk bonds" in the sale of a Williams company.

He said the Democrat has taken $59,500 in campaign contributions since 1986 from Wall Street brokers who deal in junk bonds.

What is a fossil?

What are fossils? Fossils are the remains of prehistoric plants and animals that were buried in the earth before they had time to decay and have been preserved in several ways.

Petrified fossils, those turned to stone, include bones of animals and wood of plants. As they lay in the earth, they filled with minerals and become solid and heavy, actually stronger than the bones of the animal or plant when it was living.

Shells, leaves, animals and insects which may have fallen into mud or clay, or been buried in lava from volcanic eruptions, have been preserved too.

This mud, clay or lava hardened around the original material and as the original material decayed, it left molds or prints, the exact shape of the animal, shell, leaf or insect.

Scientists fill these molds and prints with plaster, wax or plastic and make casts, or duplicates of the original shapes.

Fossils also formed when resin or sap from trees covered insects, small animals and plants. As the resin hardened, it trapped the insects, animals and plants and preserved them inside so perfectly that scientists today can actually count the tiny hairs on an insect's body.

Some whole prehistoric animals, such as the woolly rhinoceros, have been found frozen in ice. When bodies were thawed, the flesh was preserved enough to eat!

Other animals, such as bison and camels, have been unearthed from tar pits and have also been well preserved.

New evidence revealed by dermatologists

CHICAGO (AP) - There is nothing new under the sun, goes an old proverb, but skin specialists say they are learning more all the time about the sun's damaging effects and how people can protect themselves.

A popular belief - that ultraviolet A rays are benign compared with ultraviolet B rays - is giving way to evidence over the past few years that both types wreak similar havoc on the skin, doctors say.

"UVA is the most damaging, but UVA is also damaging," says Dr. Vincent A. De Leo, assistant professor of dermatology at Columbia University Medical School in New York.

"UVA can do all the things to skin UVB does - promote skin cancer and premature aging - it's just not quite as efficient," he says. "The important thing is there's a lot more UVA out there than UVB, at least 10 times as much in sunshine, some quotes say 100 times as much."

Almost all tanning parlor equipment now uses UVA radiation, De Leo says. It is only one-thousandth as powerful in causing burns as UVB, but it has been found to cause almost all the adverse reactions occurring in people who take medications that make them sensitive to light, he said.

Adverse reactions to such medications, which include common antibiotics, blood-pressure drugs and pain relievers, can include blistering and bruising when the skin is touched, severe sunburn reactions and rashes, he says.

Dr. Fred Castor of Houston, an officer of the American Academy of Dermatology and a leader in the effort to get tanning parlors regulated, says his advice is the same regardless of whether people take medication: stay away from tanning parlors.

"We can't get out of the sunlight - we can try to protect ourselves from as much damage as possible. But tanning parlors are one of those non-necessities that are damaging."

Joyce Burdette, executive director of the Suntanning Education Association, a tanning-salon industry group in Frederick, Md., disagrees, and says, "The public is going to continue to want to tan and get some color.

"The theory behind indoor tanning is that you are receiving a controlled, measured dose," she says. "Moderation is the key, like anything else."

The American Medical Association last year issued guidelines for people who insist on tanning cosmetically or who underestimate the risks of being in the sun:

- Minimize exposure to ultraviolet radiation by staying out of the sun between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and wearing a hat and protective clothing while outdoors.

- Beware of surfaces that reflect sunlight, such as sand, snow, ice and concrete, that can intensify the effects of the sun's rays by 10 to 50 percent.

- Use a sunscreen, with a sun protection factor of at least 15 for skin that burns easily or tans only gradually, or higher at greater altitudes or for other intensive exposures. A person wearing a sunscreen with a protection factor of 15 would get the same amount of exposure after 15 hours as he would in one hour if he were wearing no sunscreen.

- Avoid tanning machines. But if tanning equipment is used, people who tan moderately well should limit exposures to 30 to 50 half-hour sessions per year, use a properly calibrated device with a timer.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for educating millions of people about incest. I am 42 and still recovering from my nightmarish childhood. The molester was my father, and it started at age 7 and continued until I was 12.

I was a victim of my parents' sadomasochistic marriage. My father was a sex addict and an alcoholic. My mother was a co-dependent, a sex addict and an alcoholic enabler. In the eyes of the community, we were the perfect family. No one would have believed what went on behind closed doors.

The childhood sexual abuse caused me to have severe health problems as well as trouble with school, employment and social relationships. I felt crazy and couldn't understand why. Strange as it seems, I never made the connection.

The survivor of sexual abuse often has no memory of what happened. The violence is so intolerable that the victim blanks it out. The technical word is dissociation. This is why I feel crazy. Nothing added up. The victim of sexual abuse depersonalizes the offender, especially if it's a parent or close relative, and feels a sense of unreality. Later, victims may have recurring nightmares or other sleep disorders. Even at college, I would wake up at 3 a.m., terrified that a brown-haired, blue-eyed man was somewhere in my room. For years I was deathly afraid of any brown-haired, blue-eyed male, even in the safest environment.

I spent 25 years blocking out what had happened to me. With the help of a psychologist, support groups and most important, a loving, supportive husband, I am starting to feel like a normal person.

Incestuous families have a "no talk" rule that keeps the incest going from one generation to the next. People like my parents find each other with amazing regularity.

It is absolutely imperative that the awful secret be brought out into the open. I wouldn't mind at all if you printed my name and hometown. My father died in 1972 and I didn't shed a tear. His tombstone should say, "Child Molester." Thanks, Ann. Writing this letter has helped me to dissipate some of my anger. -- Philadelphia

DEAR PHILADELPHIA: Letters such as yours perform a valuable service. Thank you for having the courage to write.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is this a big city problem or what? When I was growing up, I was taught to offer my seat on any form of public transportation to the elderly, the sick or injured, and especially to pregnant women.

I am now seven months pregnant and am astonished at how few people have offered me their seat on a bus or the subway.

Ann, please remind your readers that a pregnant woman is carrying anywhere from 20 to 40 pounds of extra weight. She is likely to experience lower back pain, and her legs tire easily. The extra load may cause her feet to swell. Hanging on to a strap or a pole is extremely difficult with a "new" center of gravity.

Please, folks, give a pregnant woman a break. While the occasional individual may decline the kind offer of a seat, I believe the majority would thank you from the bottom of their feet. -- Sally P. in Toronto

DEAR SALLY: Toronto? I can't believe it! For years I've been telling my readers that Canadians have much better manners than U.S. citizens, that they are more cultivated, considerate, etc., and now this! I'd like to hear what you Canadians think. Have I been mistaken all these years?

Clayton to speak at WTSU

Commencement exercises for the last class of West Texas State University graduates before the merger with The Texas A&M University System (TAMUS) takes effect will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 23 in the Amarillo Civic Center Auditorium. The degree candidates will be addressed by Bill Clayton, leading political figure in Texas for 30 years and member of the TAMUS Board of Regents.

Clayton graduated from Texas A&M University in 1950 with a bachelor of science degree in agricultural economics. He was named a distinguished alumnus in 1979 and served as president of the 140,000 member Texas A&M Association of Former Students in 1988. He was appointed to an unexpired term to The Texas A&M University System Board of Regents in 1988 and was reappointed to a full six-year term in January of 1989.

In addition to his responsibilities with The System, Clayton is president of Capital Consultants, a political and business consulting firm in Austin, and maintains sizeable farming interests in Springlake.

Bugs, fish can glow

Many creatures have the ability to give off light. You've probably heard of the glowworm. But it isn't a worm at all—it's a beetle, and only the female shines out.

The light only comes from the last three segments of her body, and can be switched on and off at will. Because she's a rather drab creature, she sends out light to attract a mate.

Some fish are able to send out a silvery light, too. But other fish, attracted by the glow, gather around and are easily caught by fishermen.

Two U.S. capitals preceded the District of Columbia: New York and Philadelphia.

Herd teams swing into new season

Spikers set to 'reload'

By SAM WALLER

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces face a major challenge in reaching the Class 4A volleyball playoffs for the third straight year with the beginning of presaison workouts Monday.

After posting back-to-back 20-win seasons and reaching the area round of the playoffs in 1988 and 1989, the Lady Whitefaces bade farewell to eight of the nine players on last year's varsity roster, including five two-year starters. The lone returning player from the '89 squad is junior middle hitter Shantel Cornelius, who was named District 1-4A Sophomore of the Year last season.

Junior Brek Binder, who was called up from the junior varsity for the playoffs, is the only other player in the program with varsity playing time.

"There's no doubt we are rebuilding," Lady Whiteface coach Brenda Reeh said. "But the theme we're using is 'We don't rebuild, we reload.'

"It's definitely going to be tough," Brenda Reeh said. "There's nothing that can take the place of experience. But there's something to be said for winning. These kids won their freshman year and were co-champs last year on JV."

"We realize it's going to be tough. It's going to be very difficult over the presaison (which includes matches with Class 5A powers Amarillo High and Amarillo Tascosa). We've got the hardest presaison in the whole time I've been here."

Reeh said Cornelius will have to fight against trying to carry the team by herself during the season.

"She's going to have a lot of weight on her shoulders, especially starting out," Reeh said. "She has to (See SPIKERS, Page 7)

Herd staff adds five new coaches

Hereford Independent School District Athletic Director Don Cumption has announced the addition of five new coaches to the Hereford High school and junior high staffs.

The hirings were necessitated by the resignations of six coaches from the 1989-90 staff.

Joining the staff are Robert Gamboa and Shelley Kay at the ninth grade level and Rodney Allen, Maria Eck and Kathina Hatla at the junior high level.

"This is an unusual amount of turnover for one year," Cumption said, "but we've had hardly any the last few years."

Among the departures from last year's staff are varsity football and baseball assistant David Ashby, junior varsity volleyball coach Lynn Gilbreath and boys JV basketball coach Brent Roye. Ashby has accepted an assistant's position at Vernon while Roye and Gilbreath took head coaching positions at Spur and Bandera, respectively.

Also leaving were Hereford Junior High coaches Royce Spies, Kristi Lytle and Greg Hazlewood as well as HHS freshman boys coach Jimmy Rowten. Spies will remain in a teaching position at HJH while Lytle has moved to Perryton and Hazlewood to Amarillo Caprock. Rowten has accepted a position as trainer at Mary Hardin-Baylor University in Belton.

Gridders in two-a-days

The Hereford Whitefaces kicked off the 1990 football season Monday with approximately 140 upperclassmen reporting.

Head coach Don Cumption was pleased with the first day's work, which consisted of timing players in the 40-yard dash and mile run in the morning session before moving on to position groups in the evening.

"It was a good first day," he said. "I was a little disappointed with our conditioning, it's not quite where we need it to be."

"But I was real pleased at the retention the players had from last spring. It was amazing how much was remembered. It was outstanding. We just kinda took up where we left off. That was real encouraging."

The Herd will have a solid base from last year's 8-3 area qualifier to build on for 1990. The Whitefaces return only three offensive starters, but six full-time starters and three more part-time starters are back on defense.

Tailback Matt Bromlow (1,550 yards in 1989), fullback Greg Urbanczyk and tight end Ben Weatherly will have to shoulder the offensive load after the loss of the entire line, which boasted five All-District 1-4A honorees, including All-State selections Benny Gonzales and Anthony Tijerina. Also gone are all-state receiver Russell Backus and all-district quarterback Jason Walterscheid.

The defense welcomes back end Mike Daniel, linebackers Mark Daniel and Oscar Garcia along with defensive backs Chris Tardy, Blake Buckley and Miguel Casas.

"We'll be real inexperienced in the offensive line," Cumption said. "And (See GRIDDERS, Page 7)

'Pokes making changes

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys have made a series of moves in their defensive backfield, including the release of strong safety Antonio Gibson.

Also, offensive linemen Louis Cheek was suspended for violating the NFL's policy on anabolic steroids and related substances.

A statement by the NFL on Monday said Cheek and rookie John Brandon of the Phoenix Cardinals tested positive in training camp physicals.

The Cowboys have had no comment on Cheek's status, other than to announce last Friday that he has been suspended for a non-football related illness.

"From here on, we'll have the league issue all comments on the matter," coach Jimmy Johnson said.

Cheek, a 6-foot-6, 295-pounder, was listed as a backup left tackle on the Cowboys' depth chart. Johnson said he would consider adding Cheek to the roster after his three-game suspension is completed.

"He was making progress and had an excellent chance to make the club," Johnson said. "We'll make a decision on him at the proper time."

Cheek was signed by the Cowboys on March 29 under Plan B free agency after he was left off the Miami Dolphins' protected list. He was taken in the eighth round by Miami in the 1988 draft, playing in 15 games as a rookie and 13 last year.

Johnson said he waived Gibson to give the former New Orleans Saint an opportunity to catch on with another team.

He said Gibson, signed as a Plan B free agent in the off-season, wasn't going to be able to unseat starting strong safety Vince Albritton.

"Being a veteran, we felt he could get picked up by another team," Johnson said. "We are probably going to keep only three safeties and we wanted to get them more playing time in the exhibition games."

In another move, the Cowboys shifted starting cornerback Robert Williams from the left to the right side and promoted Issiac Holt to the American West just full of surprises

By The Associated Press

It was a night of surprises in the American League West and that meant trouble for the surprising Chicago White Sox.

Actually, it was more of a shock for the White Sox when relief ace Bobby Thigpen blew a save for only the sixth time in 43 opportunities, yielding three runs in the ninth inning as the Toronto Blue Jays beat Chicago 4-3 Monday night.

"You don't get to Thigpen that often. I hope we don't have to do it again in this series," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said.

"Those kind of games happen, I guess. I didn't make the pitches I needed to make," said Thigpen (4-5).

Meanwhile, the Oakland Athletics had a surprise of their own in store when Scott Sanderson pitched a three-hitter for his first shutout since 1986 and Doug Jennings hit his first home run since April 1988 in a 4-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The A's opened a six-game bulge over Chicago in the West, their biggest lead of the season. Boston's lead over Toronto in the AL East was shaved to two games.

Elsewhere, it was Baltimore 3, Seattle 2; Detroit 6, Cleveland 5; Kansas City 5, Texas 3; California 4, New York 2. Milwaukee and Minnesota had the night off.

Alex Fernandez held Toronto to five hits and an unearned run over eight innings and turned a 3-1 lead over to Thigpen.

"I hope we don't have to do it again in this series," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said.

"Those kind of games happen, I guess. I didn't make the pitches I needed to make," said Thigpen (4-5).

Meanwhile, the Oakland Athletics had a surprise of their own in store

Fred McGriff started the rally with a double and scored on John Olerud's single. Ken Williams ran for Olerud, went to third on a single by Greg Myers and, after pinch-hitter Rance Mulliniks struck out, scored the tying run as Mookie Wilson forced pinch-runner Mark Whiten at second. Junior Felix followed with a tie-breaking single.

Toronto's David Wells went 7 1-3 innings, winner Duane Ward (2-6) went two-thirds of an inning and Tom Henke pitched the ninth for his 25th save in 27 opportunities.

The Giants had won 8 of 10 against the Reds this season and had closed the gap in the NL West from 11 games to 4 1/2 at the start of the series. The Giants said at the outset that they needed at least a split of the four games to keep their momentum.

Orioles 3, Mariners 2

Unbeaten rookie Ben McDonald won for the fifth time in as many major league starts and became the first Baltimore pitcher to win his first six career decisions, hurling a four-hitter over 8 2-3 innings. McDonald (5-0) won a game in relief at the end of last season.

Gerald Perry had three hits and drove in two runs.

Craig has answer for Piniella boast

By JOE KAY

AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) - As soon as the Cincinnati Reds made manager Lou Piniella's bold prediction come true, San Francisco manager Roger Craig came back with one of his own.

"If we stay close to them, we'll beat them, I'll guarantee you. And we'll get close," Craig said Monday night, after the Reds rallied for a 6-5 victory that amounted to a giant setback for San Francisco.

The Reds' third victory in the four-game series gave them a 6 1/2-game lead over the defending National League West champions.

Piniella had taken the upper hand after a Reds victory on Sunday, flatly predicting the Reds would win again Monday. He tweaked Craig by adding: "No 'hum baby.' We're just going to beat them."

"Hum baby" is the Giants' motto, regularly cited by Craig.

But the Reds rallied for five runs in the fourth off Trevor Wilson (8-4), and the bullpen undercut a pair of Giants' scoring threats to restore Cincinnati's margin to the comfort zone.

In the only games in the NL, Atlanta beat Los Angeles 9-5 and Houston defeated Chicago 7-2.

The Giants had won 8 of 10 against the Reds this season and had closed the gap in the NL West from 11 games to 4 1/2 at the start of the series. The Giants said at the outset that they needed at least a split of the four games to keep their momentum.

They appeared on their way surgery on the knee last spring had broken loose.

Reeh said Cornelius will not be allowed to do any jumping for two weeks, but was able to practice Monday's late session.

"She can work on her serving and setting," Reeh said. "We just won't be able to play her full time for a while."

Other than Cornelius and Binder, Reeh will look to the programs three seniors - Jayne Moore, Brooke Siever and Robin White - to provide leadership.

"I think they know what their roles have to be as seniors," Reeh said of the trio. "It's just going the three of them as far as senior leadership goes, but they are inexperienced at the varsity level. But I think the actual playing experience the received on JV last year was probably a lot better for them than being on the varsity and not getting much playing time."

Reeh added that the tradition built over the last four years brings a successful season closer to reality than if the program were starting from scratch.

to be able to rest players (during games) and have more people available."

The Whitefaces will continue working out in shorts through Thursday with the pads going on Friday for the first day of contact work. Practice sessions for juniors and seniors are at 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. with sophomores taking the field at 4 p.m.

Another new look the Herd may be forced to employ is the use of more players going both ways. The team opened two-a-days with 18 members working on both sides of the ball.

"It's not something we really like to do," Cumption said. "I would like primary defense. We used it quite a bit in 1981 and 1986 (the years the Herd advanced to the semifinals of the playoffs)."

Cumption said the change is designed to give the Herd a more aggressive, attacking defense.

our quarterback situation will be interesting. We've got three seniors (Chris Blair, T.J. Head and Chris Steward) competing for that job."

The defense will offer a familiar look with all its returnees, but the switch to a Split-4 alignment will have some players switched around.

"We're looking at some things on defense that are completely new to our players," Cumption said. "We've run it before as a changeup defense, but now we're looking at it as our primary defense. We used it quite a bit in 1981 and 1986 (the years the Herd advanced to the semifinals of the playoffs)."

Cumption said the change is designed to give the Herd a more aggressive, attacking defense.

Brazoria County to name road for Ryan

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) - Brazoria County commissioners have voted to take the first step to rename Texas 288 the Nolan Ryan Expressway.

The vote to rename the highway came Monday. It will now be up to Harris County commissioners to approve the change before the highway designation can be taken up by the Texas Legislature.

Ryan, a native of Alvin, is a former Houston Astros pitcher who now pitches for the Texas Rangers.

He has six no-hitters and his 300th victory has all but assured him a spot in pro baseball's Hall of Fame.

But the near unanimous vote came only after some heated discussion.

Brazoria County Commissioners John P. Gayle Jr., Billy Joe Plaster and G.L. "Bubba" Rouse voted for the name change.

Commissioner Ronnie Broaddus abstained, saying that while he is a Ryan fan he would prefer to name another road after the famous pitcher.

7th graders need physicals

All incoming seventh-grade Hereford Junior High students who plan on participating in athletics must have physical examinations before they will be issued equipment, according to HJH Coach James Salinas.

Salinas said that local physicians have examination forms. Students who will be examined by an out-of-town doctor will need to pick up a form at the fieldhouse.

Salinas also announced that any HJH football players wishing to purchase football shoes may do so at the beginning of school. The shoes will be sold for $25 per pair.

McIlroy foursome wins local round of Olds Scramble

The annual Stevens' Oldsmobile Scramble was held here Sunday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, and a team composed of Amarillo and Canyon players took first place with a 12-under total of 59.

The championship team was composed of Dale McIlroy, Tom Brown and Randy Webb of Amarillo and Gary Witt of Canyon. They qualify for the sectional Olds Tourney at Amarillo's Comanche Trails Golf Course on Aug. 27. Hereford Pro Brent Warner will join the team in the sectional scramble.

Sectional winners across the U.S. go to the national finals at Walt Disney World Vacation Kingdom, Buena Vista, Fla.

There were 24 teams entered in the local Olds Scramble Sunday. Two teams tied for second with a score of 60. Winning second on the scorecard was the team of Robert Aguirre, Robert Lopez, Jesse Grijalva and Jesse Hernandez. Third place went to the team of Gary McCulloch, Tom Conway, Chip Gusman and Scott Keeling. Three teams carded a 61.

Vanessa Sims won an umbrella for being closest to the pin on No. 3 and a set of headcovers for the longest drive on No. 7. Raymond Schroeder got an umbrella for closest to the pin on No. 14, and Kelby Hagar won headcovers for the straightest drive on No. 15.

Crazy Tees Thursday

The Crazy Tees Scramble, being played here Thursday to benefit the Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant, is "not for the serious golfer," says Kim Buckley, tourney co-chairman for the Women's Chamber Division.

The tourney is strictly for fun and the title is appropriate, since golfers will be teeing off while standing on box springs, sitting on a commode or trying to stroke the ball with a sack over their head. They'll also roll dice to determine what club they use on one hole.

Entry fee is $20 a person and deadline for entering is Wednesday. Sign up at the pro shop at Pitman Municipal Golf Course or call 364-2782.

Beef certificates will be awarded to the top three teams in the 9-hole scramble. "Booby" prizes will also be given for some of the craziest shots. Barbecue dinners will be sold after the scramble, with those proceeds also going to the Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant.

Salinas team wins in dark

In a unique Night-Lite Golf Tourney here Friday, a team composed of James Salinas, Vanessa Sims, Vernon Kosub and Dwayne Robbins took first place with a score of 63.

The teams played 9 holes before dark and 9 after dark. The Salinas team shot a 30-33, while the second-place team carded a 27-37. The runner-up team was composed of Rick Hopping, Bob Meyer, Bill Brown and Troyce Workman.

The third-place team also shot a 64, and the members included Rick Roden, Kim Buckley, Perry Ray and Robert Kubacek. There were 48 players entered in the tourney.

Off and running

The field of the annual Greg Black Memorial 10K gets started Saturday from the Hereford YMCA. The event, which included a two-mile run and a two-mile walk, attracted more than 80 entries.

Hints from Heloise

SOUND OFF

Dear Heloise: The fast-food place where I work always has trash cans right beside the drive-through lane, but people still throw bags, napkins and wrappers on the ground! They wouldn't litter at home; why do they do it here? — Beth Stephens, Huntsville, Ala.

FAST FACTS

Uses for plastic six-pack holders:
1. Staple together to make trellises for plants.
2. Double, loop over hook and hang several clothes hangers from it.
3. Makes a great soap-bubble blower.

4. Separate circles and make "handles" for tools like hammers.
5. Separate circles, loop through handles of lunch boxes and school bags and mark with a permanent marker for a name tag.

AXYDLBAAXR ISLONGFELLOW

One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
