Applicators, dealers face fines

The Texas Department of Agriculture has announced it will seek administrative fines totalling $24,250 against 38 licensed pesticide applicators and dealers as a result of its investigation into damage done last summer to cotton crops in Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro counties.

The announcement was made in Amarillo this morning by Ron White, assistant commissioner of TDA's regulatory programs. The High Plains cotton suffered damage ranging from extreme to slight after it a fine of $6,400."

The herbicide 2.4-D is intended for use on grain crops to kill weeds. It is strictly prohibited from being used too close to cotton. The violations involve both the Texas Pesticide Laws and Regulations and the Texas Herbicide Laws and Regulations.

The TDA has the option of filing criminal charges, levying administrative fines or revoking the licenses of the applicators.

TDA inspected more than 21,000 acres of cotton after receiving 117 separate complaints. A total of 15 TDA inspectors from as far away as San Antonio and Beaumont used the TDA mobile office headquartered at Friona to make the investigation.

"The sales and application records of 80 applicators and dealers from as far away as Portales, N.M., were examined and TDA found that 38 of them should be penalized. Most of the violations are record-keeping items, selling pesticides without a license, selling to unlicensed applicators and applying pesticides without a permit.

"All of the revenue we collect goes to the state treasury. That won't help the High Plains farmers who lost some of their cotton crops to 2,4-D drift," White said.

"It may help to know that justice was done, but more importantly, TDA administrative actions do not prevent these cotton farmers from obtaining financial relief through civil courts."

The first report of damage was received by TDA last July 10 from an aerial applicator who noticed a considerable amount of damage had been done to cotton fields and spected someone had allowed the herbicide to drift over the crops. "Because of the large number of olications in the area, and the fact that some of the cotton was exposed on several occasions, it's impossible ermine in each instance which individuals are directly responsible

Myers exhibits champion steer

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

Jeremy Myers, for the second straight year, exhibited the grand champion steer at the Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock

The animal Myers shown Wednesday night in Deaf Smith County was judged overall best in both Deaf Smith and four-county competition. Kids from Castro, Oldham and Parmer counties are also participating in the four-day show. Meanwhile Wednesday, Matt Schilling won grand champion honors for the overall broiler competition. Both he and reserve grand champion Lori Urbanczyk are members of Hereford Future Farmers of America.

Myers and Rickie Vogel, who exhibited the overall reserve grand champion steer, belong to Deaf Smith County 4-H.

Today's show activities are scheduled to get underway at 5 p.m. with the market hog competition. The lamb show is slated for 5 p.m. Friday and an auction is to be held Saturday afternoon.

In large frame steer competition Wednesday, Vogel captured grand champion with Myers coming in second place for four-county honors. Medium frame results had Myers first, Brook Massey of Friona FFA reserve champion and Tim Koenig of

Judge: only protection advised

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Julius Poinsette had come to the judge seeking advice on what to do about a man he said had attacked him with a knife.

"Protect yourself," the judge said.

So Poinsette bought a gun, and on Tuesday night allegedly gunned down that man in an argument over money, police said.

"I tell everybody they have a right to protect themselves," Peace Justice Armando Flores told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times on Wednesday, "but I don't tell them to go out and buy a gun and kill so-

Poinsette, 52, has been charged with murder in the shooting death of 46-year-old Freddie Major and was held Wednesday in Nueces County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond.

Coincidentally, Major was free on a $5,000 bond and had been scheduled to go to trial himself March 25 on murder charges in last year's shooting death of 35-year-old Fernando Leal.

Poinsette told police that he and Major, both crewmen on a Port Aransas shrimp boat, had quarreled over money.

Prison suit agreement proposed

AUSTIN (AP) - Lawyers today were scheduled to go to federal court in Houston with a proposal that could lead to settlement of the 12-year-old civil rights lawsuit against Texas prisons.

"It's the first step towards ending 10 years and more of litigation," said Rick Gray, lawyer for the Texas Department of Corrections.

Attorney William Turner of San Francisco, who represents inmates, said Wednesday he signed the agreement because, "We were convinced of the sincerity of the Texas Department of Corrections people that they really want to deal with the overcrowding

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice in 1981 placed TDC under a sweeping reform order, including tight curbs on overcrowding. A Feb. 4 hearing had been scheduled to check on compliance. The proposed agreement calls for at least a one-month postponement of that session.

Under the agreement, the state promised to:

Give 60 days of "good time" credit to inmates who complete educational or vocational programs. That includes up to 15,000 current prisoners who already have finished such programs.

Many apply for building jobs

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) - David Duncan, a Port Arthur construction worker, has been unemployeed for three years. But he didn't seem to mind waiting in near-freezing temperatures with almost 1,700 other workers hoping to get a job.

"In all the jobs my dad did, I never saw a crowd this big," Duncan, one of many applicants for a construction job at Brown & Root's American Petrofina project, said Wednesday.

More than 1,680 workers lined up for numbered applications in hopes of competing for about 100 jobs in a project to modernize American Petrofina's Port Arthur plant.

Company officials said the project should take about nine months

Applicants began arriving at 11 a.m. Tuesday for the openings, and about 300 to 400 people showed up by 5 a.m. the next day, said Brown & Root spokesman Joe M. Stevens.

The turnout was "unusually large," Stevens said, and about 40 law officers were on hand in case any problems arose.

Money offered for safer world

WASHINGTON (AP) - Disturbed by the near-monopoly on war and peace research by the military-industrial complex, the MacArthur Foundation will give away $25 million over the next few years to entice American scholars to study routes to a safer world.

The program will double the yearly U.S. expenditure for independent research in the field, according to the Chicago-based foundation, one of the largest gift-giving institutions in the country.

The largest single grant, $6.24 million over a five-year period, will go to the Social Science Research Council in New York, which will administer 32 two- and three-year fellowships for young scholars.

The Brookings Institution, a Washington think tank already doing several major studies each year on international security issues, will get $1.5 million over five years. About 25 other major research organizations and universities will receive grants ranging from $50,000 to $150,000 annually.

The decision to make the grants stemmed from a report by Kenneth Prewitt, president of the Social Science Research Council. He found that of about 30,000 doctorates granted in the social and behavioral sciences between 1979 and 1983, fewer than 200 dealt with international peace and security, economic warfare, weapons, nuclear strategy, arms control and other war and peace issues.

Airline to explore drug charges

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) - The chairman of Provincetown-Boston Airline says he was "astonished and shocked" to learn of allegations of drug use by the company's pilots and other employees and has asked federal authorities to investigate.

The announcement by Edwin Putzell Jr. came after the "CBS Evening News" broadcast a report Wednesday in which sources, inreluding one identified as a former PBA employee, said PBA pilots abused drugs and alcohol and that many employees came to work drunk.

"This is the first time any such assertions have come to PBA management," Putzell said. In a brief statement, the company said it has asked the federal Drug Enforcement Administration to help investigate the broadcast allegations, which also included claims that PBA pilots used planes to ship drugs.

In November, the Federal Aviation Administration took away PBA's operating license, citing widespread violations in maintenance, pilot training and flight regulations.

Milk cartons lead to reunion

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) - The day after a photograph of a missing teen-ager appeared on thousands of milk cartons, the girl who left home two months ago rejoined her family with "a bunch of hugs and tears," her mother said.

Doria Paige Yarbrough, 13, was watching television with friends in Fresno about 160 miles northwest of her family's home in Lancaster when she saw a report on a dairy's campaign to help find missing children, authorities said.

Miss Yarbrough, who disappeared Nov. 11, was urged by the friends to go home and called her mother on Tuesday.

"I had pretty much given up," her mother, Velma Herman, said Wednesday from the Beverly Hills office of state Assemblyman

Gray Davis. "I'm happy, excited."
"I'm happy to be home," was all that Miss Yarbrough would say at an afternoon news conference.

HOUSTON (AP) — A 15-year-old boy was charged in the shooting deaths of his mother and her live-in boyfriend, and authorities say they hope the youth will be certified for trial as an adult.

Gilbert Cuellar, 15, told police he killed his mother and her boyfriend because the woman ordered him to go to the store in cold weather and the man threatened to burn his comic books.

On Wednesday, the youth was charged with two counts of murder in the deaths of his mother, 34-year-old Guadalupe Cuellar, and her boyfriend, 28-year-old Edward Bustin.

The couple were found dead in the living room of their southwest Houston home Monday. Each was shot once in the head with a .38-caliber pistol, police said.

The boy was being held in Harris County juvenile detention center.

He was scheduled to undergo physical and psyhcological tests before the certification hearing, authorities said.

Elizabeth Godwin, chief juvenile prosecutor for Harris County, said authorities hope to have the youth certified as an adult to be tried for murder.

"I don't think that the juvenile system is equipped to rehabilitate a person who has committed such crimes," Ms. Godwin said.

A March 12 hearing date has been set to determine whether the teenager should be tried as an adult.

Meanwhile, a high school football coach said based on previous behavior, he was not surprised that young Cuellar made admissions to officers about the killings.

"The boy had problems," said Leonard Fawcett, a football coach at Elsik High School, where Cuellar is a tenth-grader. "He never did fit in with the program. I don't think the shooting surprised any of his team-mates — it didn't surprise me."

Head coach Mike Sciba said

Cuellar was kicked off the football team in December for disciplinary grader, said Cuellar did not get along with Bustin, a building contractor, and was depressed by his mother's frequent fights with her live-in boyfriend.

Ms. Cuellar was a dancer at a southwest Houston nightclub.

"He was a good kid - he just didn't know how to act around people," Mitchell said. "It was the people who didn't understand him who didn't like him."

Cuellar's closest friend, 16-yearold Abiel Espinosa, said Cuellar was close to his mother but resented Bustin. He said Cuellar said he threatened the man with a gun once to make him stop beating his mother. Espinosa said other students picked on Cuellar and made fun of him. "It seemed like people just wouldn't leave him alone," Espinosa said. "I felt sorry for him sometimes."

Reagan defends covert U.S. aid to rebels hard-working.'

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan says the United States must continue supporting antigovernment rebels in Nicaragua, but that it would be very difficult to provide money openly because that could be "considered acts of war."

Reagan expressed his views Wednesday amid new warnings that Congress will turn down any request for additional secret aid for the rebels battling Nicaragua's San-

"The covert aid situation, I suspect, is not a viable proposition," Sen. Richard Luger, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech at the National Press Club.

Reagan, who gave the first interview of his second term Wednesday to The Associated Press, also revealed that he has proposed Geneva as the setting for a new round of nuclear arms control talks with the Soviet Union, beginning early in March. He said there has been no reply yet from the Kremlin.

"Obviously, if there is some reason that's not satisfactory to them, we'll continue trying to find a date," the president said.

He noted that Moscow and Washington agreed to try to fix a time and a place for the talks within a month of Secretary of State George P. Shultz' meeting Jan. 7-8 with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. "We're still in that single month," Reagan said, "so I don't think that this is much foot-dragging."

Congress imposed a ban on additional secret aid to Nicaragua last October until Feb. 28. A number of lawmakers, including Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, have said the United States should fund the rebels openly instead of with secret funds.

Asked about that proposal, Reagan said, "I think there are great difficulties in doing that ... because in the world of international law, you find that you've changed the situation completely. And you then find the elderly and disabled. He said docyourself having to weigh what are then considered acts of war."

Durenberger, himself, has ding that government social proacknowledged there would be problems with providing overt aid.

The administration has never officially admitted that it is financing a rebel force trying to topple a government with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations. The administration has argued that its efforts have been directed not at overthrowing the Sandinistas but at preventing Nicaragua from exporting revolution to El Salvador and other Central American nations.

Vowing to continue trying to help the anti-government forces, Reagan said, "I believe that it is in our national interest, and security interest, to continue supporting the people of Nicaragua, who are asking nothing more than freedom from totalitarianism and the implementing of the democratic principles for which the revolution was fought, the revolution that those people supported."

During the interview, Reagan sat in a yellow wing chair across from his desk in the Oval Office, logs burning low in the fireplace behind him.

Over a 25-minute period, he also made these points:

-As "titular head of the (Republican) party," he should not encourage Vice President George Bush to run for president in 1988. But he praised Bush, saying no other vice president has been "as involved in the doings of government, policy-

With an avid interest in gardening, Helen Spinks has actively served as president of Garden Beautiful for two years.

Spinks has served in every office of the approximately 20-member club. She joined shortly after moving here 10 years ago from De Kalb, Miss., to take care of her mother.

"I got started in the club through friends," Spinks explained, "and I have really enjoyed it. We have excellent programs on flower arranging and gardening. This is one club that is really just for enjoyment." Garden Beautiful also sponsors a tour of homes in the spring as its annual project. The proceeds from the tour are given to the Senior Citizens for shrubbery for the grounds.

Spinks cultivated a garden each year until she decided to travel. Her trips have taken her to the Pacific Northwest, Canada and to the 1984 World's Fair.

"Every time I was ready to leave for a trip, it seemed like something needed to be done in the garden," Spinks recalled. "I finally decided to just stop gardening."

Extramarital sexual attraction can indeed "spice up" a marriage, but it should be kept in the realm of fantasy where it can do no harm. The current divorce rate, with its attendant problems of child custody and support, testifies to the fact that acting out of sexual fantasies is, as you said, dangerous. If people resolved to hold onto their commitments instead of running after anyone who turned them on, marriages would be stronger and happier.-Been There 1 tsp. vanilla And Kept The Faith In Virginia

HOW YOUR IRA CAN SAVE YOU TAXES WHILE YOU BUILD YOUR RETIREMENT FUND!

What is an IRA?

AIRA stands for Individual Retirement Account. An IRA is a special savings account which is tax-deferred. This means you pay no federal taxes on annual contributions or the accumulating interest until funds are withdrawn at retirement.

Q Am I eligible for an IRA?

A If you're a wage earner or you're self-employed you can start an IRA. Contributions are limited to earned income only. Income from other sources such as investments and inheritances may not be sheltered in an IRA. Contributions may not be made for or after the year in which you

What if I'm already covered by a Pension Plan?

A New laws now permit every wage-earner even those covered by company pension plans to start their own IRA.

How much can I contribute to my IRA? A Every year you can contribute up to $2,000 or 100% of compensation (whichever is less) to a regular IRA.

Q Must I contribute the full amount every year? A You can contribute any amount your budget allows. In fact, if you choose, you need not make any contribution in any given year.

Q Can I use my IRA funds as collateral for a loan?

A Pledging an IRA as collateral for a loan would subject the amount pledged to be treated as a distribution and that portion subject to taxation and penalty.

When do I pay taxes on my IRA?

A When you begin making withdrawals, you will be taxed on only the amount you withdraw, each year. The remaining funds continue to earn tax-deferred in-

When can I make withdrawals?

A Withdrawals (distributions) are permitted anytime after age 591, but must start not later than the end of the taxable year in which you reach 701. After age 591. you may make withdrawals even if you continue to earn income. It is not necessary to be retired in order to make withdrawals.

What is a spousal IRA?

A Spousal IRA is a dual account IRA specifically for married couples with one non-employed member. To qualify for the higher Spousal IRA maximum of $2,250. you and your non-employed spouse must file a joint return. Yearly contributions may be unequally divided between the accounts provided the total contribution does not exceed $2,250 and neither account is allocated more than $2,000.

My spouse is employed, can we both have separate IRA's?

Yes, and each of you may contribute A yes, and each or you may compensation up to $2,000 or 100% of compensation (whichever is less). You can each take your respective deductions on a joint return or separate returns.

Q How does my IRA save me tax dollars?

Watson hopes to make comeback in L.A. Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Although he won the first tournament of the 1984 golf season, an abbreviated appearance in the Match Play Championship, Tom Watson spent a good portion of the year answering a single question:

"What's wrong with Tom Watson?"

The man generally considered the outstanding player in the game miss-ed the cut in three consecutive tournaments. He wasn't really a factor in the first three months. By the time the Masters came around, he still was answering, as patiently as possible, "What's wrong with Tom Wat-

"It was a disaster," Watson said. And it was a disaster he's determined to prevent this time around.

"Maybe it was a blessing in disguise," Watson said before teeing off today in the first round of the $400,000 Los Angeles Open, his first start of the new season.

The blessing, he said, is that he learned some things about himself and his game.

Holmes certain to retire

NEW YORK (AP) - Diane Holmes was all smiles when her fighting husband, Larry, said, "I still enjoy it, but every thing must end," 'Are you sure it's his last fight,"

Diane was asked. "You see my head," she said, shaking her head "yes." Her expression said "yes," too.

No matter the outcome, Holmes, who has indicated several times in the past that he was retiring, said his International Boxing Federation title defense against David Bey March 15 at Las Vegas, Nev., will be his last.

"I don't know 'lose,' said the 35-year-old Holmes, who has won all 46 of his pro fights (Bey is 14-0). "I'll win and I'm going to quit. I don't want you guys to write, 'Larry Holmes fought one too many."

"I got into the game to make money," said Holmes, who turned pro in 1973. "I made it and now I quit. I'm not in the business to win any popularity contest."

Holmes was reminded that he recently said the right kind of money Holmes-Bey match.

Plainview avoids skunk with win over Hereford

By DENNIS BALL Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces Tuesday were within one game of shutting out the Plainview Bulldogs in the 1984-85 boys basketball season.

Having already defeated Plainview in the third-place game of the Borger Tournament and in a leauge game in Hereford, the Whitefaces were in Plainview for a district encounter. Plainview wouldn't be denied, however, and stopped the Herd, 63-55. Hereford coach Mike Fields said the Bulldogs on Tuesday played better than they had in the teams' other two meetings.

"They played a lot better than they did the last time we played them,' said Fields, who Wednesday reviewed the game. "He (Plainview coach Dan Hamrick) was playing a lot of his younger players, and they're better than some of the seniors."

Fields explained that Hamrick opted to go with the experienced players at the beginning of the year in favor of perhaps the better, younger players.

The Bulldogs' three-quarters-court zone press gave the Whitefaces some problems Tuesday. Missed free throws also hurt the Herd's efforts to stay in the ball game.

they ran the press a lot better, Fields said. "They had pressed us before, but we handled it.

"I don't know what we have to do to make free throws," he continued. 'We've worked on our free-throw shooting since the Lubbock game (Jan. 17), but it doesn't seem to help. Maybe we'd better stop working on

In Hereford's last two outings, the Whitefaces have connected on only 26 of 59 free tosses, including going 15 of 30 Tuesday.

Hereford had to drop out of its normal pressing defense as the game progressed, Palo Duro scoring too many points on fast breaks. Fields said the Herd went to a man-to-man defense to provide more defensive in-

"It helped a little bit," he said. "It caused some turnovers. But we can't run a man-to-man in district because Despite an earned-run average of 2.04 for six games in World Series competition, with the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox, righthander Sad Sam Jones failed to win a game.

we can't match up in height."

Hereford is to face Caprock at 7:45 p.m. Friday in the HHS gym. The Longhorns currently are in the cellar of District 3-5A with a leauge mark of 1-8. Overall, the 'Horns are 5-16.

Tuesday's loss drops the Whitefaces to 2-7 in district competition and 8-12 overall. Earlier in the season, Caprock handed the Herd a 61-60 loss. "We owe Caprock one," Fields said. "We really need to win, and I think we'll play pretty well." The junior-varsity squads also are Hereford coach Larry Sowers most significant impact to Sowers was Plainview's 49-47 win over his team.

> "We came so close to winning," he said. "You know, you build up a game like that because it's so important to you. Those games are fun to play, but you always risk a letdown if you lose.

"We're a long shot, at best, now to make the playoffs. We still have a slim chance, so we've got to bounce back or we'll be in trouble the rest of the way."

Tuesday's game, indeed, was close. The score was tied at 11 at the end of period one, 21 at the end of period two and 31 at the end of period three. "Last night, we showed some signs of becoming a good basketball team," Sowers added. "We made some good plays and some big plays. But near the end, we lost our momenturn and couldn't get it back.

"Our kids have class, though. They'll rebound."

Sowers said in order to stay in the game with Plainview, the Whitefaces had to stay out of foul trouble. And they did - for four seconds. That's when Hereford's Stacie High picked up the game's first foul. She later would foul out of the game, providing incentive for the Bulldogs to make a comeback attempt.

The Whitefaces led 47-43 when High went out of the game. That left Hereford without its best ball handler against a full-court Plainview press.

"Stacie didn't have one of her best valuable to have on the floor, especially against a full-court press. That really hurt us when she fouled out. And it was an unnecessary foul." High was attempting to draw a charging foul near mid-court when she was whistled for a block.

Sowers credited the Bulldogs for their victory, saying Plainview had a lot of team talent. He added that Plainview was well disciplined.

Ramona Black, who scored 16 points for the 'Dogs, is a smart, cool player, according to Sowers.

Hereford's league record dropped to 7-4 with the loss, a half game ahead of fifth-place Palo Duro and a game and a half behind third place Amarillo. Plainview remained in second place with a record of 10-2. Monterey leads the district with a mark of 10-1.

The top two teams in the league's final standings qualify for postseason play.

Hereford now is to face Caprock, 1-10 in league play, Friday in the HHS gym. Game time is 6 p.m.

Caprock won its first district game of the year Tuesday against Lubbock. The win snapped a 26-game Longhorns' losing streak in district competition. Tascosa's success Tuesday concerned Sowers.

"It kind of scares you," he said. "Caprock won their first game, and you can't tell what kind of effect that will have. You know, you sure would hate to be the victim of their first win, but we don't want to be the second, either."

hearted fans and debt-ridden cities. "This bill finally protects the fans from losing important parts of their cities," Rep. Fortney Stark, D-Calif., a co-sponsor of one measure, said Wednesday.

'We've protected sports leagues and franchises by allowing them to depreciate players and to be exempt from antitrust legislation," added Stark. "The people who are unprotected are the fans who buy the under-arm deodorant advertised in sports telecasts, and the T-shirts at the stadium."

The two bills, introduced Wednesday in Congress, would bar teams

Rep. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., and Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., would force the National Football League to expand by two teams in 1988 and put one of those teams in Baltimore. By 1990, the bill says, the league must expand by two teams again and one must be located in Oakland.

When professional sports teams leave a city, they not only leave behind the broken hearts of millions of fans, they often leave an empty stadium with enormous financial debts they helped create," said Mikulski, whose hometown Baltimore Colts moved to Indianapolis last year.

The Mikulski-Gorton bill, introduced in both the House and Senate. would apply to big-league football, baseball, basketball and hockey. The other bill, introduced

Missouri Sens. Thomas Eagleton, Democrat, and John Danforth, a Republican, would apply to franchise shifts involving professional football, hockey, basketball and soccer. It would not affect baseball clubs, which the two senators say are wellregulated by their own leagues. Under the senators' proposal, owners of a sports franchise must obtain approval of a move from their league. The measure was prompted by reports that the football Cardinals might leave St. Louis and that the Kansas City Kings may move to Sacramento, Calif.

The Eagleton-Danforth bill spells out standards by which leagues could make their decisions, including the adequacy of a team's stadium and other facilities, the willingness of a community to correct deficiencies, and the amount of fan support as measured by ticket sales.

Congressional attention to the sports franchise issue stems in large part from the 1982 move of the Oakland Raiders to Los Angeles. The NFL unsuccessfully sued in federal court to block that move

Roger's advice on quarterbacks

Staubach thinks coach should decide

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Roger Staubach has some advice for his old boss, Coach Tom Landry: Go into training camp with a No. 1 quarterback.

It took Staubach, who was named to the Professional Football Hall of Fame Tuesday, from 1969 to 1971 to outduel Craig Morton for the starting quarterback job with the Dallas Cowboys.

Staubach took the Cowboys to a winning Super Bowl VI the first year he had the starting job.

"I think somebody has to be established as THE quarterback," Staubach said.

Veteran Danny White, who inherited the No. 1 job from Staubach' in 1980, and young Gary Hogeboom traded starting assignments in a 9-7 season in 1984.

"It's difficult for both to go to training camp and compete for the job again," said Staubach. "I think the team is starting to respond now but I'd hate to see a quarterback controversy."

Staubach calls himself a "fan" now but closely follows the fortunes of his old National Football League

"White at this stage needs some sort of an endorsement or I don't think he would want to be there," said Staubach. "I just think somebody needs to be No. 1 before training camp.

"I guess the whole thing is a chancy proposition."

Staubach, 42, discounted any chance he might try for a comeback. "I played in a flag football game

the other day and got chapped lips from the cold and a sore arm," Staubach said. "I think I made the right decision.'

Staubach said "It's amazing. I haven't had a concussion since I left pro football."

Doctors had urged Staubach to get out of the game because of the concussions he suffered during his 11-year career.

'You know I actually threw the ball pretty good the other day," Staubach said with a glint in his eye. 'Wouldn't it be a great story to comeback from the Hall of Fame.?'

Staubach also said he had no desire to enter politics at this time.

Leeman Bennett new Bucs coach

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Leeman Bennett, though he tried his hand in business and collected a hefty paycheck from the Atlanta Falcons the past two years, didn't feel very productive away from the National Football League

He missed coaching. "Every phase of it," Bennett said Wednesday as he stepped back into the game - accepting the challenge of trying to rebuild the Tampa Bay Buccaneers into a championship contender. 'I come here with a goal in mind and that's to put together the very best football team that we can and get to the Super Bowl as soon as possible," Bennett told a news conference. "Those goals are automatic."

Bennett, 46, is no stranger to reconstruction projects. He took an Atlanta team that had won 11 games in three years and produced a 7-7 record in his first season (1977).

Branch of National Hispanic Chamber of Commerce organization meets

Hereford's Comerciantes Organizados Latino-Americanos, a branch of the National Hispanic Chamber of Commerce organization, met Tuesday at the Ranch House Restaurant for their regular monthly meeting.

The organization tallied a total of 22 memberships during their business meeting

Following is information released by the group. Underlying the economic growth patterns of Hispanic business today are significant trends which are shaping the future for this sector of the American economy. Most influential among these are:

"The demographic explosion taking place in Hispanic America. The current Hispanic population growth rates will lead to unparalleled growth of this group.

"A young (median age 23) Hispanic population which has its peak earning and purchasing years ahead of it. "Distribution of the majority of the Hispanic people in the high-growth areas of the United States.

"Hispanic business incomes which are rising at a rate faster than that of Fifty quarts of fresh milk equal six and one quarter quarts of dried milk. Dehydration is one way of saving the national average.

"Rising personal incomes. The proportion of Hispanic family income levels in the $15,000 to $25,000 range is at parity with that of the general population.

"Increases in the level of education of Hispanics. The rates of increase are equal or higher than those of the general population.

"Values and attitudes in the Hispanic business sector consonant with the American enterprise system, making it possible to progress rapidly.

"Given these trends, it is

"There has, for many years, been considerable focus on the plight of the Hispanic poor. The focus is appropriate and should continue, though it is not the focus of this study. Little attention has been paid, however, to the Hispanic enterprise sector; this is unfortunate, as the picture that emerges of that sector is a positive one which is far more representative of the general condition of the Hispanic community in this nation.

"The U.S. Hispanic business community is an underutilized national asset that is not sufficiently understood by the rest of the U.S. business community. It has a tremendous potential for growth, and can be a major stimulus for the entire American economy, as well as for the development of the Hispanic community in the United States.

"There are actions that can be taken by the Hispanic business community and the established business community, both individually and in concert, to facilitate this process.

Through these studies by the National Chamber Foundation-a series of three reports about "Strategies for Hispanic Business Development" (Washington, D.C.)-it is essential for an early development in todays business for tomorrow's great purchasing power.

Music To Soothe Lions

County Judge Glen Nelson and Herman McCleskey, right, Texas Highway Department, provided musical entertainment at the regular weekly Hereford Lions Club meeting Wednesday at the Community Center. The duo presented a variety of old several herbs (basil, anise, fennel, marjoram, chives and lavender) and would like to know how to preserve them; what parts of the plants to use for what; if they can be picked green and used that way or if they must be dryed first. - GRACE

DEAR GRACE - All your herbs except lavender may be used in a variety of vegetable, meat and salad recipes. Lavender is not used in cooking, but is excellent as an addition to potpourries, sachets and other aromatic preparations because of its lovely, strong scent.

The leaves of all these herbs may be used and you may use the seeds of fennel and anise, but NOT their leaves in recipes.

All may be used fresh (green), or they may be preserved by drying or freezing. To dry herbs, tie them by the stems in bunches and hang them in a cool, airy place until they are dry and crumbly. As soon as they are thoroughly dry, store them in airtight containers. The longer the herbs are exposed to air, the more flavor, aroma and color they will lose.

To freeze herbs, rinse and dry them, then pack in plastic freezer bags or freezer containers. Date and label and store in the freezer. Pack in small quantities, since the herbs will usually freeze into a mass and must all be defrosted and used at once. Herbs frozen in this way will be limp and unattractive raw (as in salads) but they are excellent for cooking, for use in salad dressing and in combination with other ingredients.

I'm sending you a copy of the newsletter "Grow Your Own Herb Garden" which has additional information on growing and using herbs, including directions for drying them in the microwave oven, recipes for herb vinegars, sachets and a mint-filled with unwrapped antacid tablets. small candies, gum sticks, throat lozenges, etc. The items are easy to get at and stay clean and neat.

Do you want more hints?

DEAR JOYCE — To answer your last question first, yes! We always want more hints from all of you readers! Many thanks for the useful idea you've sent along today.

Now for your problem. Heat the toaster or pan just until the plastic is softened, then scrape off as much as possible with a dull knife or hard nylon spatula (be sure the spatula will not melt!). Work carefully, using hot pads or mitts to protect your hands. Afterward, when the appliance is just slightly warm, rub any remaining spot with a little rubbing alcohol on a soft cloth. This should clean off any residue. Caution: Do not use alcohol on a hot appliance. Alcohol is flammable! — POLLY

"hoedown" tunes.

DEAR POLLY - Many small appliances cost more to have repaired than they cost to replace. If you hate to throw these items away, call a high school or technical colleges in your area that offers electronics courses. They often need these items for students to practice on. You can donate the appliances to them. Sometimes you also can buy rebuilt replacements from them for only a few dollars. — MARGARET

DEAR MARGARET - What an excellent suggestion! Your helpful Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award, a copy of my book "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book can order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS and send to POLLY'S POINTERS, Box 1216, Dept. 55, Cincinnati, OH 45201. — POLLY

Administration urged to notify workers with risk of getting cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer lobby founded by Ralph Nader says the Reaga: administration is withholding the names of 250,000 workers who face an increased risk of getting cancer to protect their employers from lawsuits.

What the administration is telling us is that they're much more interested in protecting the economic interests of companies ... than they are in protecting American workers," Dr. Sidney M. Wolfe, director of Nader's Public Citizen Health Research Group told a news conference on Wednesday.

Nader and Wolfe sent a letter to President Reagan suggesting that the administration isn't notifying the workers because it wants to protect the business community from lawsuits

Shirley Barth, a spokeswoman for the Department of Health and Human Services, said the administration is reluctant to immediately undertake a massive notification program for fear of spreading unnecessary alarm among employees who have been exposed to cancer-causing chemicals in the workplace.

Ms. Barth said that as part of an experiment, the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta notified workers individually at one company in Augusta, Ga., and that notification projects are being considered for several others.

Wolfe, however, said a recommen-

Nader and Wolfe filed a request under the Freedom of Information Act and at their news conference released a list naming the 249 facilities where the 250,000 workers were employed.

dation by CDC for a $4 million

The National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health obtained the names of the 250,000 workers by performing medical studies of employee records starting in 1972. Mortality rates of workers were compared and employers were notified when the rates were found to be unusually

According to the figures from NIOSH used to compile Nader's list of employers, notification would be of direct medical benefit to more than 110,000 of the workers at 86 work sites because the diseases they could contract are treatable.

There is some suggestion in all of this that we are keeping the names secret," said Donald Berreth, a spokesman for the CDC in Atlanta 'That is not correct."

The permit boost from $100 to $900 was proposed by Gov. Mark White as a means of helping trim state government's looming budget deficit.

"We've talked to both Gov. White and Gov. Hobby, and they're both reasonable people, and we can resolve any differences we have. And we will. Nothing is set in concrete," said Bruce Anderson of Houston, president of the 5,500-member Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association. In a speech to that group on Wednesday, Hobby tossed aside a prepared speech text critical of White's proposal and told the oil men he favors the full increase.

"One of the most controversial feature's of Gov. White's program is, of course, the increase from $100 to $900 in the drilling permit. I think his proposal is very reasonable," said Hobby, who presides over the Texas Senate.

Before the speech, a Hobby aide gave an advanced copy of the lieutenant governor's text to Larry Springer, TIPRO's public relations opringer distributed copies to news reporters and a copy also was given to TIPRO president Anderson.

In a curt exchange with news reporters following his speech, Hobby said he backs the $800 boost and didn't intend to criticize White. "I didn't criticize the drilling fee increase," Hobby told questioners. "Do you support the full increase?" he was asked. "Yeah, that's what I said,"

Hobby replied. "So you support the increase from $100 to $900 per well every time the drill goes in, right?" another reported "Yes," Hobby replied.

As for the text's discription of the increase as a "disincentive," Hobby said: 'Any tax is a disincentive to anything, but we've got to finance state government ... I said yes, I support the governor's program. Did I not make myself clear?"

TIPRO's Anderson said the increase unfairly penalizes those who risk money to drill wells that might not produce.

Asked if he was disappointed that Hobby endorsed the permit hike, Anderson said he thinks Hobby might yet favor applying the higher fee only to completed, producing wells.

"He could fully support the increase to $900 and still have the compromise he speaks of in his prepared text that he gave you, whereby the fee would only be on those wells that are completed," Ander-

ARE YOU USING YOUR GOD-GIVEN GIFT

And so, dear brothers, I plead with you to give your bodies to God. Let them be a living sacrifice, holy--the kind He can accept. When you think of what He has done for you, is this too much to ask?

Don't copy the behavior and customs of this world, but be a new a different person with a fresh newness in all you do and think. Then you will learn from your own experience how His ways will really satisfy you. As God's messenger I give each of you God's warning: be honest in your estimate of yourselves, measuring your value by how much faith God has given you. Just as there are many parts to our bodies, so it is with Christ's body. We are all parts of it, and it takes every one of us to make it complete, for we each have different work to do. So we belong to each other, and each needs all the others.

God has given each of us the ability to do certain things well. So if God has given you the ability of prophecy, then prophesy whenever you can--as often as your faith is strong enough to receive a message from God. If your gift is that of serving others, serve them well. If you are a teacher, do a good job of teaching. If you are a preacher, see to it that your sermons are strong and helpful. If God has given you money, be generous in helping others with it. If God has given you administrative ability and put you in charge of the work of others, take the responsibility seriously. Those who offer comfort to the sorrowing should do so with Christian cheer. Romans 12:1-8

AUSTIN (AP) - Parimutuel betting on horse races, a state lottery and Sunday shopping all are favored by the majority of Texans questioned in a new survey, the pollster says.

Pollster George Shipley on Wednesday said his survey shows 66 percent support for killing the Blue Law that effectively closes most stores on Sundays. Twenty-six per-cent of the about 700 people surveyed said they like the law. The rest had no opinion. A similar survey conducted by the Texas Poll at Texas A&M University in 1984 showed 70 percent of all Texans want the law repealed. The Shipley survey showed by 57 percent of those surveyed. Twenty-seven percent were against it and 16 percent had no opinion.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, has introduced a bill calling for the repeal of the Blue Law. Several major retailers have organized to push for repeal. The poll was paid for by Texans for Blue Law Repeal Inc., a coalition that includes Joske's, Zale Jewelers and Shipley said there is no information to indicate that mom-and-pop stores would be hurt by repeal. Small stores have survived in other states that have killed the law, according to the pollster.

The Texas Automobile Dealers Association, small retailers and some rural areas have fought repeal.

Shipley said 68 percent of the voters in nine rural districts also favored repealing the law.

"Traditionally we've always assumed that rural areas are opposed to any change in the Blue Law,' Farabee said. "We now have new information that dispels these myths."

DEAR DR. LAMB - My friend has a perspiration problem. He is very "warm-blooded," requires only a light coat in the winter and perspires profusely if it is warm. He has tried many deodorants, but after a few days he develops painful nodules or bumps under his arms, so he discontinues using the deodorant. Can you suggest something that he might not be allergic to?

DEAR READER — He probably does not have an allergy. Many antiperspirants work by clogging the sweat ducts that drain the sweat glands. The antiperspirant ingredient that blocks the opening of the sweat glands is either aluminum chlorohy-drate or aluminum chloride. You do not say that your friend has odor problems, but rather that he has a perspiration problem. When a person keeps the area clean, sweat is not likely to cause much odor. However, bacteria can grow under the skin that

These bacteria cannot be washed off with normal soap, since such soaps just cleans the surface. These cases require a soap that penetrates the skin deeply enough to kill those bacteria beneath the surface.

If your friend does have an odor problem, he may be able to eliminate it with pHisoHex. This is a prescription item, but his doctor can prescribe it, and he can wash under the arms with it regularly until the oder is with it regularly until the odor is

DEAR READER - Never put any-DEAR READER — Never put anything in your ears when flying. Evidently, that cotton plug sealed your outer ear chamber. Your ear must remain open. The symptoms you complain of are caused by unequal air pressure on the inside and outside of the eardrum. The inside pressure is transmitted through the mouth. Air pressure passes up the Eustachian tube (air tube) in the throat to the middle ear. Air on the outside of the eardrum passes through the external eardrum passes through the external chewing gum helps to open the air tube in the back of the throat; swallowing also helps. Do not blow your nose if you have a cold; however, some people can ease ear-popping by closing the mouth, pinching the nose shut and blowing very gently. If you do this, you may feel your eardrums pop out, but don't overdo it.

Nose drops may clear the nasal passages and help to equalize the pressure. If you continue to have trouble, see your doctor. You might have a local obstruction at the opening of the air tube in the throat.

Attenborough, 'The Living Planet' on public TV

NEW YORK (AP) - In the very first hour of "The Living Planet," David Attenborough directs our attention, cinematically speaking, to a point on the ocean floor inhabited by ige worms and clams that exist on energy generated by submarine volcanic eruption.

Just when we're sure Attenborough has shown us all there is to see, he takes us someplace new, where no man has ever been.

"It's a great picture," Attenborough promised in an interview, of underwater lava coming through the plates on the bottom of the sea.

"Great, black clouds!" he exclaimed, and his enthusiasm - as it is when he is on camera — was infec-tious. "The energy of the heat, plus the bacteria that exist there, combine to support animal life that will never see the light of the sun."

On the screen, it is indeed an awesome sight, but one we have come to expect from Attenborough, whose previous series, "Life on Earth," was widely acclaimed for its extraordinary film and clear, comprehensible narration.

"The Living Planet: A Portrait of the Earth," Attenborough's 12-hour sequel, premieres on public television Sunday, Feb. 3. The newest production is similar in style to "Life on Earth," neither stuffy nor academic, and eminently entertaining.

While the previous series dealt primarily with the development of plant and animal life, "The Living Planet" is a global examination of the environment, a look at how living organisms of all sorts, including humans, adapt to their diverse surroundings.

The series, more than three years in production on all seven continents and at sea, ranges in locale from the ice-covered slopes of the world's tallest mountains (for "The Frozen World" Feb. 10) to the depths of the Atlantic ("The Open Ocean" April

As remarkable as some of the footage may be, Attenborough, who studied zoology and geology at Cambridge University, is the series' unobtrusive star. Much more than a knowlegeable narrator, he is a companion who should be short of breath after a steep Himalayan climb, and

"Certainly, when it comes to walking at these high altitudes," he puffs, observing mountain folk at work in their precipitous environment, "they are much better adapted than I am." "Life on Earth" and now "The Living Planet" might have been superior television without Attenborough, but his presence generates an excitement, an anticipation of imminent discovery, that sets the series apart.

Though Attenborough, 57, proclaimed in the interview "there is a limit to the amount of tub-thumping one should do," "The Living Planet" does make a point, that man must do something to curb destruction of his

PUBLIC NOTICE

In accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. (AT&T Communications) gives notice to all of its Texas customers that a new procedure for long distance billing was made effective on an interim basis on August 6, 1984 in Docket No. 5800.

The procedure referred to is "Rate Period Specific Billing" and it applies to all message telephone service (AT&T Long Distance calls) including non-REACH OUT Texas calls within the State of Texas. This new procedure effects all AT&T Long Distance customers. All intraLATA long distance calls and all interstate long distance calls are currently billed using this procedure.

Under this procedure, customers are billed a specific charge for long distance calls according to the rate or rates in effect throughout the time of each call. If a call begins in one rate period and extends into a different rate period, the customer will be charged whatever rate is in effect for each portion of the call.

For example, if a customer places a call at 4:58 p.m. on a weekday and talks for ten minutes, the first two minutes of the call would be charged at the full weekday rate which extends from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The remaining eight minutes of the call would be billed at the evening rate which extends from 5:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. and includes a 25% discount. If Rate Period Specific Billing were not in effect, the entire call would have been billed at the higher day rate. Calls which extend from the evening rate period (25% discount) to the night and weekend rate period (40 % discount) or from the night and weekend rate period (40% discount) to the day rate period (no discount) would also be billed according to the actual minutes of use during each rate period.

AT&T Communications anticipates a minimal increase of approximately .02% in its revenues or approximately $250,000 an-

A complete copy of the "Rate Period Specific Billing" tariff is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Abundant Life

ALL OF US are different, in different ways. Some of this may be obnoxious, but most of the differences are not so; however, they may and often do present problems.

WE MAY BE "different" in ways or some way that others do not understand, and, consequently, it is likely that we may not understand some of the things involved in the interactions with others. This condition is very real, but it is not necessarily the source of insurmountable difficulties. It may be made to be so, and often is, but should not be. We have great capacity for being wholesomely flexible and justifiably adaptable with regard to individual

SOME FOLK live somewhere between "being misunderstood" and 'not undertanding" others, and this It also helps to stretch your calf muscles and other leg muscles before you go to bed. Keep the feet and legs is, obviously, a stressful life condition, but it is one that can be modified and sometimes changed completely. From observation, I must say that the majority of persons want to understand others and they most certainly wish to be understood. Most of us, perhaps all of us, have great a truss during a test in the Pennsylvacapacity for developing our skills for understanding and managing ourselves so that we can be more easily understood.

WE MUST CARE, w must care whether we "understand" others and whether they "understand" us. In fact, this accomplishment is worth the effort that it may require. It is no loss for us, if we put forth extra effort to be sure that we are understood, and, with this, be just as intelligently generous in doing our best to understand others. The results will speak for themselves. IN THIS ACTION, we will not, we cannot, obliterate "individual differences;" and there is no reason to try to do this. We maintain our personal uniqueness, but do so in an improved atmosphere of understan-
