Sticker Has New Message

By Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE of bumper stickers? Is it to inform or entertain? We saw one that made the day: "Ralph Nadar has faulty parts."

THOSE WHO COME to Sugar Blue TOPS are so excited this week. All who attended had a weight loss. It sure is a morale builder just in the face of homemade ice-cream season to lose an ounce. Anyway, four members lost a total of 12 pounds.

Dorothy Troxell is queen for the time with Louise Tucker running a close second. Both give very good hints on losing weight. Louise is having success counting carbs and Dorothy counting calories.

Dorothy is weight recorder and Louise Tucker is newly elected treasurer.

22 DAYS OR PART days have been spent in cooking school at the Labor Camp. This has been a real challenge and good results have been seen.

The good teaching has probably been done when leaders repeated lessons at home or in the neighborhood. Bertha Maldonado, Elbira Tijerina, and Elida Alonzo have worked with groups in their houses and taught the things they've learned. Thanks to everyone who has made this program successful.

WE ALMOST FORGOT! We have some precious kittens that would make very good citizens with the right family. They are worth about $10 each but can be had much cheaper! A cute solid black, maltese color, and a striped with a lot of personality.

Are any of you ready to be taken over by some kittens? They'll change your family's life.

THAT SPECIAL DAY for Dad is just around the corner. And the lady of the house, well aware of the old adage that the "way to a man's heart is through his stomach," is probably already planning the menu for that special dinner on June 18.

If Dad has a "sweet tooth," something extra special in the way of dessert should be in the offing.

RICE CREAM WITH STRAWBERRIES

- 2 cups whole milk
- 1/4 cup uncooked rice
- 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 cup fresh strawberries, sliced
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Heat milk in the top of a double boiler. Add rice and cover. Cook over boiling water, stirring occasionally, until rice is tender, about one hour.

Mix gelatin, 3 tablespoons of the sugar and salt. Add to rice mixture, mix thoroughly and cool.

Whip cream until stiff. Combine strawberries and 3 tablespoons of sugar. Fold strawberries, vanilla and whipped cream into rice mixture. Chill 1 1/2 hours, then serve. Makes six servings of about 3/4 cups each.

IF YOU PREFER, use 1 cup of sliced-fresh peaches instead of strawberries and add 1/4 teaspoon almond extract.

This can also be varied by lining a dish with crushed graham crackers and melted butter. Put rice, cream and strawberries over crust and chill.

Or, make cracker crust, plain strawberry gelatin and top layer of rice cream and strawberries.

Upperclasswomen Can Forget Curfew

Upperclasswomen at West Texas State University will no longer be required to keep dormitory hours—if their parents agree.

A student-advanced proposal that the present curfew system be abolished was approved Wednesday by the university Board of Regents.

The proposal was made by the Women's Residence Hall Council after 92 per cent of the 566 coeds responding to a poll favored self-determined hours.

The new hours would affect only sophomore and junior students who have written parental permission to keep self-determined hours. Seniors and 21-year-old residents do not need this permission.

Dormitory hours for upperclasswomen now in force are 11:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 1:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday. Freshmen women would continue to have restricted hours.

Under the proposal, a security officer would be hired to admit students to their dormitories after midnight upon presentation of proper identification.

Male students living on campus are not required to keep hours. In a statement to the regents, the student life office said the "poll was taken as a result of great demand by women residents who are dissatisfied with the present curfew system.

"It is the feeling of the (curfew) committee, which also reflects the desire of the women residents, that self-determined hours would be of definite benefit to the university. Many have expressed the opinion that, if self-determined hours were instigated, they would move back on campus."

The statement added the poll results show the women dormitory residents "strongly feel that such a program is desirable and we feel benefits to the university will be in favor of the program and any complications can be worked out."

The regents also approved a $5 assessment to all residence-hall students at the beginning of each semester for a "student entertainment card."

The card will admit the students to two major concerts and any additional concerts presented by the Student Activities Council Entertainment Committee.

The council proposed the entertainment fee after 83 per cent of the 949 dormitory students polled favored the plan, the student life office said. Price for each concert for persons not holding an entertainment card would be a minimum of $4 per person.

Mitchell Takes Job

Former HHS baseball coach, Mike Mitchell has given up his recently acquired head basketball coaching position at Canadian for a job at West Texas State University as assistant basketball coach.

A West Texas State graduate, Mitchell built an impressive record as an outstanding scorer for the Buffalos during his three years on the varsity basketball team. During those three years Mitchell served 1,197 points, with an overall average of 18.4 points per game.

Before accepting his coaching position at Hereford High School, Mitchell was a student coach for the WT freshman basketball team which posted a 20-5 record.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to say thanks to the coaches, managers and sponsors of our Bronco Baseball program.

It is a shame to see empty stands night after night because parents don't care enough to come and watch.

It's strange to me that many of our coaches don't even have boys that are playing, yet give of their time for the program.

Participation is the name of the game. So, Dads, when you're called on to be a base umpire, or, Moms, to work in the concession stand, please do so with a smile.

vices. The Very Rev. Bartholomew Paytas, S.A. was pastor.

The church became debt free once again in 1953, and already plans were being made for the building of a new school.

At the beginning, school classes were held in various buildings until permanent quarters were built in 1926-27, near the original church building on Sampson Street. (The building now houses the Deaf Smith County Museum.)

The Sisters of the Atonement continued to serve St. Anthony's School until 1938. The school was then placed in the hands of the Sisters of the Incarnate Word of the Blessed Sacrament from Victoria, Texas until 1942 when the Sisters of St. Francis from Amarillo, now called Franciscan Sisters of Mary Immaculate, took charge and have continued since that time.

The original school served, educating eight grades of students, until 1955, when a larger building costing $170,000, a convent and rectory, all totalling $274,750, were dedicated at the sight of the new church property.

Father Angelus Delahunt, S.A. directed the building of a library and science laboratory in 1968, and the facilities were completed under the direction of the Rev. Simeon Heine, S.A. Dedication ceremonies were held by His Excellency, Bishop Lawrence M. DeFalco, on January 5, 1969.

In 1957, the old St. Anthony's Church was moved to St. Joseph's Mission. The church was divided into two parts and upon location was lengthened by 24 feet to accommodate the growing congregation and to replace a small frame building used by Father Raymond Gillis, S.A., who served the mission for more than two decades.

St. Anthony's parish celebrated its Silver Jubilee Anniversary on June 15, 1947. Bishop Laurence FitzSimon of Amarillo presided, commending the parish for its spiritual and material growth during its first 25 years. Rev. Albert Heald, S.A. was pastor, and Rev. James Salvi, S.A. and Rev. Andrew Lewis, S.A. were the assistants during this time.

The parish has grown through the years to 350 families, while its mission, St. Joseph's, consists of 600 families. All are served by three Atonement Friars, Rev. Boniface Riedman, S.A., pastor Rev. Aedan Davis, S.A. and Rev. John Kiesling, associates.

St. Anthony's celebrates its 50th anniversary today with a Mass of Thanksgiving at 11 on the church grounds. Bishop Lawrence M. DeFalco, D.D. will be the main celebrant, assisted by the concelebrants Rev. Boniface, S.A., Rev. Aedan Davis, S.A., Rev. John Kiesling, S.A. and all former pastors who can be present. The Rev. Bartholomew Paytas, S.A. will be the homilist.

"CALF"

Galloway looks like a giant Hampshire sheep, with the woolly hair and black marking. If the round and paunch is blotted out of a photograph of one there is a close resemblance.

Andrews originally bred five cows with the White Galloway in hopes of getting a steer to show. "So far only one cow has calved. He plans to breed 10 more cows to the Galloway later.

The White Galloway is similar in size and build to the Angus. Calving seems to be of no significant problem with the breed, and it is quite adaptable to cold climates due to the long hair characteristic to the breed.

Raisers of the breed have experienced some difficulties in selling the animals in a regular ring when the buyers were not familiar with the breed, due to a belief of some buyers that long hair on an animal is a sign of worms. However, this belief does not hold true with the Black or White Galloway anymore than the belief that the hump on a Brahma indicates that the animal is part camel.

Currently the White Galloway is bringing very high prices due mainly to the fact that the breed is a novelty. Andrews effort is mainly to produce a show calf and experiment with the cross breeding to see what amount of hybrid vigor will be yielded.

Be sure to watch the weather when you are out in a boat. A change in wind direction or a temperature drop could mean there's a storm on the way.

women and let them know so we won't come up with an excess number of donors," Mrs. McCrary said. "However, we don't want to end up like in the past without enough."

Mrs. McCrary said the blood bank started coming to Hereford on a trial basis and because of the lack of donors, "they are going to get tired of coming just for a few pints."

She said if the situation doesn't improve soon, Hereford may be forced to go back to the old "walking blood bank."

The blood mobile will be at the Community Center from 4 to 6 p.m. Wednesday to take donations.

streak mosaic and soil borne mosaic in some localized areas. McBride said that the county problem with insect and disease damage to the wheat this year has been very light, and that only a few acres were sprayed.

"Damage as a whole was unusually light, with some scattered reports of losses due to hail," he said.

The main disease problems reported in the county were a few cases of foot rot, a disease which affects the root system of the wheat and causes a loss in moisture consumption. The main reason for the scattered cases of foot rot was that the plants had lacked water and the disease set in, thus ruining the cells in the root system and giving the heads a drought look.

"The county as a whole didn't experience any wheat mosaic which would cause any economic damage," the agent said.

He added that the county wheat yield should be about average and may be slightly above average which will be a reflection of the lower acreage harvested, due to the heavy grazing out of wheat in the county.

"I hope that this trend of grazing out wheat will continue until prices on the market are leveled out to make wheat a cash crop and turn a profit for the farmer of the area," McBride said.

The growth in exportation of wheat has not increased with the yearly increase in production. McBride said that what is needed is for the supply to level off with the domestic demand so that prices can be at an expected norm.

"I would like to see the market price for wheat move up to $2 per bushel," McBride said.

"When I think that the farmer could make some profit off the crop, instead of producing a crop which will barely pay for its production."

An estimate by the Santa Fe report said that the five states of Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas could produce a total crop nearing 475 million bushels this year.

Spanglers Expanding Business

BY LORI HOPSON
Staff Writer

With an eye to bringing more and better service to the people of Hereford, Spangler's Diamonds, Ltd. is now completing its second expansion within five years.

To celebrate its expansion and the anniversary of its first opening in 1967, Spanglers will hold a grand re-opening this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Door prizes will be given Saturday afternoon, and may be registered for at Spangler's.

Begun in 1967 by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spangler, the store has now grown to include an area three times the size of the original shop.

Expanded once during the second year after its opening, the business has been "built on personal service," according to Bob Spangler, owner.

The new expansion which includes a complete bridal shop, stems from an idea that the Spanglers at first considered humorous, and then began to consider seriously.

"We got to thinking about combining a bridal shop with our jewelry store and began to like the idea," said Mrs. Spangler. "No other business in Hereford or in this area featured both, and no other jewelry business had tried it. We realized that the two go hand-in-hand."

Influenced a great deal by Daisy's of Amarillo, the bridal department includes everything from the gown to the traditional blue garter, according to Spangler.

The new department will also include a new line of Royal Dalton china and crystal and Sango china. All gift items, silver, and hollow ware will be featured, as well as stainless and silver flatware. Personal services, such as custom designing, remounting, diamond-setting, and watch repairing, will continue to be offered.

Having been associated with other jewelry firms, the Spanglers came to Hereford with the desire to serve the community and to start an independent business of their own.

"We both worked well together," said Mrs. Spangler. "He had the sales experience and I had experience with bookkeeping. We liked the idea of having our own business, and we wanted to work together as a team. When we came to Hereford and saw this building, it seemed to have Spangler's written all over it. It was perfect."

"Before coming to Hereford we had no idea of what a great town it really is," continued Spangler. "We want to thank all of our customers and we hope to serve them even better in the future."

Mrs. Spangler added that the couple chose Hereford because "We wanted to be in a small town to keep our service personal." The new additions to Spangler's stem from a desire to see that the people of Hereford are able to get the merchandise they need without having to travel to Lubbock or Amarillo to get it.

"We try to give our store an atmosphere that Hereford deserves and one that is fitting to the service we give," Spangler concluded.

Spangler is a member of the Hereford Lions Club and the family is active in Bronco baseball. They are members of the First Presbyterian Church.

NEW ADDITION — Mrs. Bob Spangler, left, helps Linda Vogel as she looks over the selection of rings in Spanglers Diamonds, Ltd. shop in Sugarland Mall. The business has undergone an enlargement program and now is making plans for a grand re-opening Thursday.

Luna Fund Established League Canceled

Adrive is under way to raise funds to help fly Felipe Luna and his trainer, Harold Wheeler to the AAU Junior Olympic National Finals in boxing to be held in Columbia South Carolina in August.

"Felipe has boxed his way from Hereford to district to area to regional and now to the national finals, I think he deserves some credit and support for his efforts," Wheeler said. "It's a good two day drive to Columbia, and I am afraid that that long of a drive would tire him so badly that it would probably hinder his performance."

Donations are now being taken by several people in the community. Sheriff Travis McPherson, Harold Wheeler, juvenile probation officer Billy Hodges, Grant Mabry at the Brand Sports desk and Jim Cherry at the Whiteface Barber shop.

Any help will be appreciated. For further information contact one of the four persons listed above.

The colt league, for boys in the 15-16 age bracket, will not be sponsored in Hereford this summer, it was announced this week by John Bunch, president of the Boys' Baseball program.

Only 10 boys signed up at a tryout session last Sunday afternoon, and only two more had signed applications this week.

Bunch said he was hopeful that the league could be reorganized next year, and baseball officials are still planning to complete the new park—located just south of Pony League Park.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Bill Boykin TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex.—"Leadership is hell." That quote from a political leader came to mind during the 64th annual National Governor's Conference in Houston last week.

It's darned tough to serve as a public official these days. Not just presidents, vice-presidents and candidates for presidents have their lives threatened—but governors and candidates for governor face physical threats these hectic days in America's political history.

This fact was brought to mind by the extremely tight security measures at the host hotel for the National Conference for state chief executives.

Security police, Texas Rangers, and state patrolmen almost outnumbered the governors, aides, newsmen and guests who were allowed to observe the proceedings at the important annual function of state heads of government.

Mrs. George Wallace, wife of the Alabama Governor, had six security men surrounding her when she moved around the corridors of the hotel.

When Vice President Spiro Agnew arrived, Secret Service men were all over the place. Even the hotel employees wore photo ident badges—reminiscent of defense plant and Navy installation days of World War II. We heard no complaints—except from one elderly hotel janitor who kept picking up walky-talky conversations between the security police on his hearing aid.

The three-day program of the state's chief executives was an "economic war" of sorts.

Principal topics of the conference revealed that financial problems are their top concerns—as they reviewed revenue sharing with the Federal government, financing of elementary and secondary education and funding the "war" against crime and drugs.

Host Governor Preston Smith and his staff and a hospitable Houston made the serious problems easier to study with a well-rounded entertainment program for the Governors, their families and staffs. An outdoor pool-side Texas western party, (appropriately by the world's largest swimming pool, according to the hotel staff), an excellent transportation organization delivering guests to all Houston entertainment and tourist facilities—and a formal ball with Duke Ellington's Orchestra completed the lighter side of the serious meet.

Other important topics of interest to Texans covered at the Conference were: diversification of industry to rural areas, a resolution requesting the appointment of a farmer as next Secretary of Agriculture of the United States; a NASA economic impact report for the states and the role of the states in national growth patterns.

National political intrigue made the Conference more interesting with visits from Sen. George McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey—and the appearance of Mrs. Wallace. SPECIAL SESSION MEETS—The Legislature convened in special session at midweek under lame duck leadership in both houses and the governor's office.

Gov. Preston Smith, defeated in his bid for re-election, pledged to offer a 1973 budget which would require no new taxes and, indeed, to allow no consideration of taxation.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, also defeated for governor, said Smith should show lawmakers how he proposes to trim appropriations.

House Speaker Rayford Price was defeated in his home district, as was Rep. Bill Finck of San Antonio, chairman of the budget-writing House appropriations committee.

Legislative Budget Board—which includes Barnes, Price and Finck among its members—calculated that even a "tight" 1973 budget would require $89.2 million in new revenue.

After a day-long session, the Board concluded its staff would just have to get together with Smith and see what he had on his mind.

The LBB staff-drawn budget called for $828.2 million in spending during the next fiscal year—or $89.2 million less, than the revenue forecast.

Virtually certain to land on the special session agenda is new state officials' code of ethics legislation. Barnes said he will press for such a bill, and a House committee prepared its own version.

LEGISLATURE ALTERED—Primary elections assured a drastic shakeup among rank-and-file members of the legislature as well as the top leadership.

There will be at least 76 new members in the House of Representatives—a majority. The turnover rate is the highest since 1953 when 88 freshmen representatives took office. The November general elections may remove a few more of the incumbents, and no more than 74 present House members are assured of returning.

The Senate turnover rate is almost as high. At least fifteen of 31 senators will be freshmen next year, and Republicans conceivably could gain another place.

Former House Speaker Gus Muther was among the veteran incumbents defeated.

Defeat of Price in the House set off another scramble for speaker. Rep. Price Daniel of Liberty claimed he already had the job racked up with 89 to 100 votes. Rep. Frank Calhoun of Abilene challenged him last week, expressed doubt that Daniel had anywhere near a majority and said he will begin his own campaign with about 50 dependable votes from moderates and conservatives. PRIMARY CHANGES URGED—Primary election costs topped estimates by nearly $400,000, and a better, cheaper system has to be found, according to Secretary of State Bob Bullock.

Bullock advocated future primary elections be held and financed through county clerks' offices, with single polling places serving both major parties.

Such a system, said Bullock, would reduce primary costs by at least a third and increase efficiency. Bullock said he distributed $1.6 million to Democratic committees and $396,709 to Republican groups to pay the bulk of local primary costs.

AG OPINIONS—A person can serve as a State Parks and Wildlife Commissioner and school district trustee at the same time but can't draw any type of compensation, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held.

In other recent opinions,

Martin concluded:

Texas Water Quality Board may distribute "clean water" bumper stickers.

Texas Tourist Development Agency may draw vouchers favoring the Confederate Air Force, Lower Rio Grande Valley and McAllen Chambers of Commerce for advertising and promotion.

Shell redeposited on bay floors as pads for drilling barges can be removed only on permit.

County employees cannot buy with county funds goods from a store owned by a county commissioner.

Real property foreclosed by tax judgment can be purchased by the owner at full judgment. The judgment may be enforced for the balance against the tax debtor.

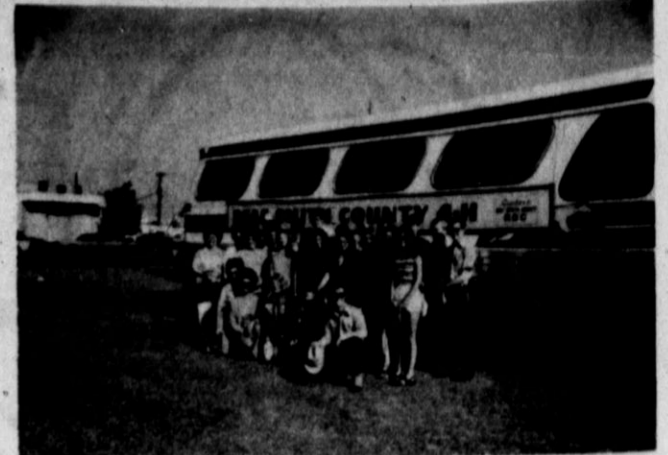

A county operating under the optional county road law may continue to employ services of a qualified road administrator rather than a licensed professional engineer.

A university shuttle bus driver may be under 21.

Short Shorts More than $8.9 million in bonds for construction at state universities in San Marcos, Huntsville, San Angelo and Alpine were sold to Texas Commerce Bank of Houston and another $5 million will be sold later this summer.

The State Department of Public Welfare will conduct a recertification-drive to survey every applicant for Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits in an effort to "cleanse" Texas assistance rolls of ineligible recipients, according to Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell.

An Austin district court ordered the State Democratic Executive Committee to apportion senatorial district delegates to the national Democratic convention, after its chairman made the allocations without committee approval.

ROUND-UP DELEGATION — Members of the Hereford 4-H Club boarded a chartered bus bound for Texas A & M Monday morning. The group composed 10 teams which qualified for the Texas State 4-H Roundup. The group returned to Hereford Friday.

HOW TO GO TO COMPANY HEADS

NEW YORK (AP)—A Wall Street institutional saleswoman, Mimi Green, 25, has her own way of getting to talk to heads of company whom she doesn't know.

When she phones, and secretaries ask who is calling, she simply says, "Tell him it's Mimi."

The secretaries invariably put her through and when she gets on the phone with the boss, the toughest part of job—getting to talk to him—is accomplished.

It would never work if I said, "Miss Green," she says.

Miss Betzen Bride Of Douglas Lane

Miss Carolyn Jean Betzen and Douglas Thomas Lane of Albuquerque were married in a Friday evening ceremony at St. Anthony's Catholic Church with the Rev. Boniface Riedmann officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Betzen, 511 Ave. F and Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Lane of Kress.

Ken Betzen, brother of the bride and Martin Miller of Clovis were accompanied by Mrs. Allen Evers as they sang The Lord's Prayer. All of My Life and Walk Hand in Hand With Me.

The couple knelt at an altar with candles along either side of the altar and five white candles set into a bouquet of pink and white roses on the face of the altar.

Miss Karla Betzen served as her sister's maid of honor with Kenneth Lane of Kress, brother of the bridegroom, as best man. Miss Janie Betzen, sister of the bride and Miss Billie Goettsch served as bridesmaids with Jesse Martinez of White Deer and Mark Swann of Big Springs as groomsmen.

Sara and Matthew Betzen, niece and nephew of the bride and daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Betzen of Albuquerque, served as flower and ring bearer. Johnny and Joseph Betzen, brothers of the bride, and David Carroll, nephew of the bride, lit the candles.

Miss Betzen's A-lined gown was of sparkling nylon crepe with bell sleeves of French net. The sleeves were trimmed with seeded pearls in criss-cross fashion and a chapel train featured the pearl trim. Cuffs of the sleeves were of the same nylon crepe as the dress.

A nosegay of French net rosebuds held the white waist length net veil and she carried a spray of pink rosebuds feathered with white carnations and apple green ribbons streaming from the bouquet.

The attendants wore gowns of white organdy with floral design. The maid of honor's gown was green design and bridesmaids had pink design. The gowns were empire styled with a sash and long puffy sleeves trimmed with taffeta. They each carried two stems of pink rosebuds and wore pink rosebuds in their hair.

Following the ceremony, a reception in the Parish Hall was held with Miss Joyce Betzen, cousin of the bride, registering guests.

Miss Marian Betzen poured punch and coffee with Mrs. Ernest Flood serving the five-tier cake which was decorated with pastel pink rosebuds and a white lacy wedding bell with lily of the valley in the center of the top layer of the cake.

The table was decorated with a green tablecloth overlaid with white lace net.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will be at home in Albuquerque.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Hereford High School and is a nursing student at University of Albuquerque.

Lane is a recent graduate of West Texas State University where he received a BS degree in industrial arts. He graduated from Kress High School in 1968.

Out-of-town guests include Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sanchez, Lindrieth, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Carroll, Lubbock; Keith Betzen, San Francisco, Calif.; Mrs. Martin Miller, Clovis; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller, Hollywood, Fla.; Mrs. Phil Miller, Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Weil, Hale Center; Elmer Kreutzer, Marienthal, Kan.

RETIRING AFTER A teaching career of 30 years, Mrs. Virgil Dodson says that she has "gained everything" from her experience as a teacher.

Following her graduation from Canyon High School, Jessie Dodson attended West Texas State University, where she later received her degree in art.

Teaching for the first time in 1929, she was persuaded to do so by her art instructor at West Texas. Majoring in art, Mrs. Dodson had never considered a teaching career until her instructor asked her if she would consider teaching in the university's art department.

MRS. DODSON refused, saying she "didn't know how to teach." Her professor disagreed with this viewpoint and Mrs. Dodson was finally persuaded to begin what was to become a career of 30 years.

She continued to teach art at West Texas for a year and then for two summers. During this time she married and the couple moved to White Deer, where she taught two years.

The two taught together in small rural schools of the Panhandle area during the dust bowl days, and then again in 1945 when they moved to Deaf Smith County and taught at Progressive for two years.

WHEN PROGRESSIVE SCHOOL was moved to Hereford, Mrs. Dodson stopped teaching until the new high school was built in 1965. This is one of the few times in her life when she was not in school, as a student or as a teacher. During this time her husband ran a farm, and Mrs. Dodson says she "enjoyed that kind of life."

When Dodson traded his farm and began managing the Tierra Blanca Motel, Mrs. Dodson began teaching art and physical education in High School. In 1960 she moved to Aikman elementary school where she taught fifth grade up to the time of her retirement.

Since she was an art major, Mrs. Dodson has found it practical as well as enjoyable to include her knowledge of art in her teaching of such subjects as geography. The Dodsons' hobby of taking slides of interesting places they visit has been most valuable to her in the classroom.

"THE BOYS AND GIRLS like to go on vacation with us through the slides, and they really enjoy it," she says.

"During the summers we have traveled a lot and have enjoyed learning more about places we've studied in my geography classes."

"traveled with her" through slides and tapes to such places as Alaska, Canada, Mexico and Eastern and Western United States.

Mrs. Dodson says that she doesn't really know how it is to be retired, because she hasn't been retired long enough. "Being with young people has helped me to stay younger myself, and have a better outlook and a greater understanding of boys and girls."

"This is one of the things I'm really going to miss."

MRS. DODSON has received certificates of appreciation for her 30 years of dedicated service from both the Classroom Teachers Association and Hereford School Board.

"I'm really very proud of these," she says. "I've gone to school all of my life, all of the time, and have loved school the whole time — going both as a student and as a teacher."

A member of Lone Star Study club, Mrs. Dodson is also active in First Christian Church and the American Association of Retired Persons. She is also a member of such professional organizations as National Education Association, Texas State Teachers Association, and the Aikman PTO.

SHE SAYS HER retirement will give her more time to spend on her hobbies, which include rock collections, painting, and a collection of interesting items from places she and her husband have traveled.

Dodson, now retired, is also active in AARP, First Christian Church, local and area Community Action Programs and is on the Red River Authority Board.

Raised on a ranch southwest of Canyon, Mrs. Dodson was the oldest of four children. Her brother, Ira Scott, resides in Hereford, and one sister, Mrs. H.V. Lee is of Amarillo. Mrs. Ann Weaver of Canyon is the other sister.

"I enjoyed working on the farm as a child, and helping my husband when he was farming," says Mrs. Dodson, "... and I especially enjoy what I've been doing as a teacher. I love to work!"

The female deer always covers her prints exactly as though her tracks had been made by a two-legged animal.

The General Store

With all the beef about high meat prices, I decided to run an unofficial study of the situation at our local grocery store.

I parked myself at the check-out counter first. Presently, a lady shopper shoved her cart into the slot by the cash register. I watched her unload a giant-sized box of washing powder, a family-size tube of toothpaste, a tablecloth (our grocery store sells about everything), a carton of cigarettes, a six-pack of beer, a four-pack of toilet tissue, a loaf of bread, a half-gallon of milk, a pound of bacon and a package of lunch meat.

"I'll swear, I don't know how we're going to eat if food prices get any higher," said the lady shopper. She waved the package of lunch meat in the air. "I have to feed my family this stuff," she said. "We just can't afford to eat steaks and chops and roasts anymore."

I got a quick look at the table on the package and went to the meat counter to check it out. The package contained six ounces of lunch meat, and sold for 43 cents. That comes to $1.20 a pound, if my arithmetic isn't acting up on me. In the same meat case, chuck steak was 79 cents a pound. Loin pork chops were the same price. And a special on Choice T-bone had them at $1.39 a pound. That gave me something to think about.

While I was thinking, another lady came to the meat case. I was acquainted with her. Her husband is a mechanic at the garage where they charge me $7.50 an hour to work on my pickup.

"Meat's awfully high, isn't it?" the lady said.

"Compared with what?"

"Well... compared with just six months ago," she said, surprised like. "The government ought to do something about it."

I sensed that it would do no good to explain that six months ago cattle feeders were just starting to make a little profit and pork producers were barely breaking even.

"You're right," I said. "I think they ought to roll prices back to what they were 20 years ago."

"Now you're talking," said Mrs. Mechanic. She paused a moment, then asked: "What were meat prices 20 years ago?"

"About the same as now," I said. "In fact, in 1951, farmers got a little more for Choice steers than they got this year. What were mechanics' wages 20 years ago?"

"I... uh... well, I don't remember, exactly," she said. "Are you sure farmers aren't getting any more for their beef now than they were 20 years ago?"

"Positive," I said. "The retail price of beef is some higher, but farm prices are no higher than 20 years ago."

"I didn't know that," she said, wheeling her cart toward the dairy case.

"Too many people don't," I called after her.

I felt so good about having educated a "consumer" that I looked around for another one. A young lady was aiming her cart in my general direction.

"How do you feel about meat prices, ma'am?"

"Oh, I don't mind high meat prices so much, since I've hit on a system," she said.

"What kind of system?"

"Well, when meat prices go up, I just shift my menu planning to other dishes," she explained, angling toward the frozen fish section.

"Yes?"

"Sure. For instance, instead of beef, we now have fish three times a week," she said, selecting a package of frozen ocean perch.

"But that fish is 89 cents a pound," I said. "You could feed your family beef arm roast for the same price."

"Yeah," she agreed. "But with the fish, they don't eat near as much of it."

About there is where I called off my unofficial survey.

I didn't even point out to her that an empty soda pop bottle is worth five cents today. The same bottle, full of soda pop, only cost a nickel 20 years ago.

MAIN STREET, U. S. A.

Controversial Law Still Controversial

BY BERT MILLS

Washington, D.C. — Few laws passed by Congress have become so controversial in so short a time after enactment as the Occupational Safety and Health Act, which took effect on April 28, 1971.

This law declares it to be national policy "to assure so far as possible every working man and woman in the nation safe and healthful working conditions." Nobody quarrels with that laudable objective but tough enforcement by a small army of zealous inspectors has caused a national uproar.

At least 87 bills are now pending in Congress to amend OSHA, some with as many as 25 sponsors. The outcry has been particularly loud from farmers and small businessmen, most of whom never heard of OSHA until they were visited by a government inspector.

Several members of Congress have told horror stories about what happened to constituents of theirs when they encountered OSHA and were fined for non-compliance for such violations as not having a coathook on the bathroom door.

A distributor of specialty products in Texas had two employees, one man and one woman. An OSHA inspector ruled the employer must provide a separate rest room for the lady, plus a retiring room. Unable to comply for lack of space, he discharged her.

Hearings to be held

Flooded with complaints, the House Subcommittee on Environmental Problems Affecting Small Business will hold hearings on OSHA starting June 20. Chairman William Hungate (D., Mo.) said: "we want to identify the specific problems small businessmen are facing with the safety and health law." These hearings should prove useful in exposing the OSHA situation but chances for new legislation to soften the impact of the law are remote. The Hungate subcommittee is part of the Select Committee on Small Business, which can only recommend legislation for processing by another committee.

The committee with legislative powers in the safety and health area is the House Education and Labor Committee, which produced OSHA in the first place. The Labor Committee is dominated by pro-labor members not inclined to do any favors for business, particularly when the unions are quite happy with their part in enacting OSHA.

However, those objecting to OSHA and its strict enforcement will get a chance to tell their story to the Small Business subcommittee and perhaps build a record that could lead to legislation in 1973 or some subsequent year. There appears to be no chance for any of the pending bills to be adopted in 1972.

OSHA Constitutionality Upheld

OSHA has already survived one Constitutional test. Four construction companies cited and penalized under OSHA charged the law was unconstitutional because so-called "civil penalties" were really "criminal penalties" and those penalized should be accorded Constitutional safeguards, including trial by jury.

Federal Court in Atlanta dismissed the suit, agreeing with the U.S. Department of Labor that the plaintiffs had failed to exhaust their administrative remedies. The law established an independent Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission, whose decisions may be appealed to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Review Commission, by the way, is a new bureaucracy in its own right. Its staff already includes 25 new judges serving in various major cities, and soon the total will climb to 45. These judges do nothing but rule on appeals from those penalized by OSHA. At last count, nearly 1,000 cases were pending.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Dear editor:

If a man hasn't got something to protest about these days he's so far out of style he's probably still carrying a pocket watch, wearing high-top shoes and carrying cold patches to fix flats with, so it was only natural that an 11-year-old girl should show up before a Senate committee in Washington protesting Saturday morning commercials on kids' T.V. shows.

According to her, the commercials are so bad, or so good, however you want to put it, that kids immediately rush out and demand that their parents buy the stuff, and parents, naturally not wanting to lose the everlasting love and affection of their children, comply.

Then when the kids, after a few years of eating all that cereal and having attained the mature age of 10 or 11, discover they don't feel any better or turn out more popular or prettier or stronger than kids who've been eating oatmeal all along, they begin to doubt the commercials, then begin doubting the adults who sponsor them.

"They find out that not all adults tell the truth," the young girl told the Senators. "They start disbelieving some things they say, and I feel this is dangerous."

Come on, honey, you're on the right track, not the wrong track.

Dangerous? Quite the contrary, it's safe and wise. Of all the things a child needs to learn, and what better place is there to have it dawn on you than before a bunch of Senators, one of the most important is that you'd better not believe everything everybody says.

You'll find that while most grown-ups today weren't taken in by T.V. commercials when they were youngsters, it was mostly because there weren't any T.V. commercials then to be taken in by, but you'd be surprised how many of them ordered secret devices to throw their voice or rings with a secret compartment, as advertised on cereal boxes and comic books.

In preparing yourself to vote intelligently in a democracy, kids, the first step is to watch those T.V. commercials pretty closely, whether they're for posttoasties or politicians.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

End Economic Growth?

Is it time to call a halt to progress? Must we deliberately bank the fires of our economy and plan for a lower standard of living? There are people who think so. And they claim a "scientific" basis for their belief.

In the summer of 1970, some researchers at MIT programmed a computer to tell them how long the earth's resources can support us, if present rates of growth continue. The answer they came up with is: Not very long.

They concluded that, either over-population, sufficient food supply, resource depletion, pollution, or some combination of these factors will inevitably result in disaster, unless draconian measures are taken now to prevent it.

The MIT work was sponsored by a group of some prominent economists and businessmen known as the Club of Rome. The resulting report, "The Limits to Growth," caused quite a stir when it was announced recently.

How seriously should this report be taken? Well, the issue itself is a legitimate one, but there are more than enough holes in the Club of Rome's methodology to warrant considerably more research before we destroy the present in the name of the future.

Such computer-generated predictions rest on assumptions about the future course of present trends. These assumptions are not necessarily correct.

For example, a key assumption made by the MIT researchers so "loaded" the dice that only conclusions of disaster were possible from all subsequent manipulation of the data. The assumption was that population, pollution and consumption will grow in a geometric progression, while the offsetting effect of technology will increase only arithmetically.

The risk — and the naivete — of such "expert" projections can easily be grasped by a little "backward projection": Imagine an eighteenth century philosopher tackling the same problem. He might calculate quite convincingly the point at which material progress must halt because of the known limitations of the horse as a power source. (In fact, someone did calculate such a limit for the City of London, based upon the ability of the municipal sanitation system to cope with horse manure.)

Talk Of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

PROMOTION NOTIONS — Driving across the big country of West Texas can be a boring chore — unless one happens to have in hand one of Johnny Newell's unique road logs.

Newell, an Alpine businessman who knows the area west of the Pecos like the back of his hand, tired of hearing tourists say that western Texas was the dulllest stretch of automobiling in the U.S. Few travelers were aware that their route crosses the Overland Trail, or that visible in some of the highway cuts are rocks more than 900 million years old. Since the highway maps don't say so, almost no tourists realized that they were traveling a part of the great Comanche Indian war trail that led to Mexico.

So Johnny Newell decided to tell them. He has developed 22 different road logs serving the area between Del Rio and El Paso, Sonora and El Paso, Midland and El Paso and the two highways into Big Bend National Park. The logs, which he prints and distributes at his own expense, tell the traveler exactly where he is at all times, something about the flora and fauna through which he is traveling and all kinds of unique historical facts about the area.

The Newell road logs have become so popular that they are now being distributed by the Texas Highway Department's Visitor Centers and by motels and gas stations in the area. Newell has received hundreds of letters from grateful tourists. He also has been presented a set of gold cuff links by Governor Preston Smith on which are engraved the great seal of Texas and the words, "For Lighting Visitors' Paths."

MONKEY BUSINESS — Dr. J. Frank Norris, famed and controversial Baptist evangelist in Texas from 1904 until his death in 1952, believed in dramatizing his sermons in such a way that the congregation never forgot their point.

During the controversy that raged in the 1920's over the teaching of Darwin's theory of evolution in the schools, Norris frequently used his pulpit at Fort Worth's First Baptist Church to speak out against this notion on the origin of man. On one occasion, he brought a collection of monkeys and apes into the church to introduce his members to the "kinkfolk" of those who accepted Darwin's thesis.

A report like a sixteen inch gun shook Main street Wednesday afternoon and started everyone looking about for Irish invaders. There was nothing to be found. An examination of all the tires on all the cars parked along the street showed four good hoofs per car. By the Garden Gate

With Glad

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

The following is a quote which one of my Hereford readers sent me. I would like to share it with you; it is "For a Rich Harvest" (This was copied from an old Indian book).
 "Dig a big hole in the garden of your thoughts. Into it put all your disillusion, disappointments, regrets, worries, troubles, doubts, and fears—and forget them. Cover well with the earth of faithfulness. Water it from the well of content. Sow on top the seeds of hope, courage, strength, patience, and love. Then when the time of gathering comes may your harvest be a rich and fruitful one." (Mrs. Frye).
 The above has some very wonderful philosophy. As we toured the home of Thomas Jefferson I was reminded of the quote, because Thomas Jefferson lived such a life and made so many contributions for his country, that one could well say that he lived a courageous, hopeful, and fruitful life.
 Jefferson named his home Monticello, an Italian word meaning small mountain. And historians tell us that he was very particular as to the pronouncement. Our guide pronounced it very correctly for us, it is Mon-ti-cello.

 The site of the beautiful home was most interesting to me. In fact the entire plantation that Jefferson owned and the home he built himself, was and is still unique.
 Un like any previous one, it was built on a leveled plateau on the top of a Blue Ridge Mountain, 857 feet above sea level. To make it accessible was quite an engineering feat. Jefferson constructed on its slopes, at four different levels paths or, as he called them, roundabouts.
 These were connected by oblique roads, which are visible today. The house as it is seen today on the mountain top, is the product of Jefferson's genius. Truly he was a genius, and a person of the very highest intelligence and talents.
 The lumber for the house was made from trees felled on the plantation. The walls have a construction which is baffling to people today. They are very thick, and much time and thought went into their strength.
 On every plantation, up to the tation. They housed the wine room, kitchen with its cooking utensils and quarters for the cook.

 There were also rooms for smoking meat and to care for the dairy. There was an ice house filled with ice cut from a nearby river in winter, hauled to the house by ox-drawn carts, and completely covered and layered with sawdust.
 Other rooms or units were used for laundry, harness, stables, and carriage house. Near the passage entrance was a water well, and on the north a large cistern was built and so constructed that it is not noticeable at all to the passer-by.
 Of interest today, tourists spend much time looking at the museum, which has been established by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, a patriotic, non-profit organization. The 700-acre plantation and Monticello were purchased by the foundation in 1923 for a half million dollars.
 As we toured living quarters of the home, I was reminded over and over again of the high intellect, manifold abilities and talents of Jefferson.
 He invented the automatic door, which separated the entry hall from the parlor, also designed a revolving chair work table, and chaise lounge, camera, Obscura, writing device, and a dumb waiter used to bring the wine, etc. from the passageway to the drinking room; this was so constructed that it seemed a part of the fireplace.

 Another outstanding feature of the dining room was that Jefferson had located it on the north side of the house which was extremely cold in winter, so he conceived the idea of making all the windows double, and well insulated, thus we had the first weather conditioning.
 Many ideas and fixtures were gotten in France for Monticello. For instance the dining room was in Delft blue and white, decorated with lovely plaques of Wedgwood in the blue. A most fascinating and beautiful room.
 Other features which made it so, were the gorgeous cut-glass epergne or glass tree, the unusual curtains designed by Jefferson, as well as the handsome silver coffee urn which he designed.
 The parlor looked out on the gardens and most of the walls were of glass. The family was very musical and in this room was located their instruments one of which was the pianoforte. The frieze in the parlor was another unusual feature.
 The circular, narrow stairway was designed and built when Jefferson remodeled the entire house. It was made narrow in the interest of space, economy and privacy. The upstairs rooms are not on the tour because of the narrow stairs.
 The house is certainly one of the outstanding classic examples of American architecture. Probably Jefferson was one of the greatest of all American architects. The house is three-story and has 35 rooms including 12 in the basement.
 The dominating feature is the dome which commands the garden or west front. The room under it is octagonal in shape, and is referred to as the ballroom which has one of the most beautiful parquet floors in America.
 Of great interest to many are beautiful pieces of bisque; the Hummels and gorgeous cut glass. A Waterford crystal punch bowl, valued at $800 was lovely to look at (Mary Kay, I thought of you). Also noticed a most unusual pattern in cutglass, was told it is called the fern pattern.
 The gardens which are located on the east and west lawns, thrilled me. They were restored in 1939 and '40 according to Jefferson's original plans. Most interesting to me were oval and circular beds near the house, which were designed by Jefferson.
 They were so placed and planted that they reminded me of cameos and carefully made jewelry. Coloring and planting of flowers were perfectly done, and were real eye catchers.
 Since it is colder on the mountain top, the flowers were mostly early spring flowering bulbs, and perennials, some of which were Dutch iris (white and yellow) anemones, (deep red and pink) peonies (white and rose, both double and single) evening phlox (wonderful fragrance) columbines, cinnamon pinks, ageratum, masses of pansies and foliage plants.

 I was thrilled to see the flowers used throughout the house in attractive arrangements. An especially lovely arrangement of peonies graced a beautiful table in the parlor, and anemones were used in the bedrooms.
 The trees were numerous and some were 100 years old. On either side of the gate were handsome European linden trees. Other trees which I enjoyed were American linden, buckeye (in full flower, beautiful red clusters) great oaks, oak-willows, purple beech (brought from France).
 Perhaps the oldest tree was the sugar maple located near the rear of the honeymoon cottage. It showed many scars. Ground covers were used throughout the grounds, minor vinca seemed to predominate. Jasmine, in full bloom, orange blossom lilacs, and snowballs were the shrubs which were noticeable.

 Also noted that the mimosa trees were just starting to leaf. And as always I was thrilled with the rhododendrons, they were so colorful and pretty.
 Thus, one is fortunate to see this historical Monticello much as it was when Jefferson retired to enjoy the last years of a full, rich, fruitful life among his family and flowers.
 Notes: Do not fail to cultivate, water properly and groom your flowering and growing plants, shrubs, trees and lawns. June is really the gardeners' month.
 Congratulations to the winners of the Beauty Spots of the month. Must say as I read about them, and also the lovely flowers at the Veteran's Park became a bit homesick. Do hope that Glad's glads are growing, and that the daisies and roses are doing well, as well as the new trees and plants put out before I left.
 Help make your town beautiful, clean and inviting, by creating beauty both in flower-care and the vegetable garden.

Summer Homemaking Is Underway At Junior Highs

Girls from La Plata and Stanton Junior High homemaker classes are now participating in a summer homemaker program in which the girls will receive a half credit toward graduation. The past week has been spent making decoupage articles, learning new techniques in painting and different painting processes. Some 53 school girls are participating in the summer program which will conclude June 23. This number does not include 27 adults who are part of the class. Many of these adults are club members of Young Homemakers of Texas who have worked in cooperation with the homemaker classes during the school year. Mrs. M.T. Burelsmith and Mrs. Joe Bradley, homemaker teachers from La Plata and Stanton, will present the planned activities to their students in each school. The girls will participate in workshops on foods, candy-making, cut-up cakes, good gr. ming, outdoor cookery and sewing.

HISTORY'S FORGOTTEN MAN

John Frank Stevens
(1853-1943)

For many people, his name rings no bell. Which is a shame, for without this great American civil engineer, whom history has largely overlooked, the Panama Canal might have never been built and the development of our far northwest would have been severely delayed.

Born in Maine in 1853, Stevens, before he was 20, decided on a career as a civil engineer. He further decided that experience, rather than the classroom, would be the best teacher. So he headed west, to work on designing and constructing railroads and learn his chosen profession.

The choice was a good one, for Stevens' subsequent mastery of civil engineering was highly regarded, earning him the awe and respect of his professional colleagues. In 1927, they capped his career by honoring him with the presidency of their professional organization, the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Among Stevens' many Herculean accomplishments, the three that cry out most for public recognition are his singular responsibility for the successful completion of the Panama Canal, his work on Russian railroads, and his discovery of a far northwest passage for the U.S. trans-continental railroad.

In 1905, the Panama Canal could have become one of the country's most colossal and costly flops. Plagued by inefficiency, mismanagement, obsolete construction equipment and the fear of yellow fever, the project was at a standstill.

Brought into this problem by President Theodore Roosevelt, Stevens was given a seemingly impossible task to engineer and problem-solve. But, not long after his arrival at Panama, he had turned chaos into order, helped end the yellow fever peril and successfully advocated a lock canal passage system for the canal.

Winning presidential and congressional support for the lock plan, Stevens went on to design and set up the construction system with success. Only when he had solved the most pressing construction problems and the job was well on its way did Stevens leave the site and return to private life.

Even General George W. Goethals, the man who was in charge when the Canal was completed, called it "Stevens' monument." Which, of course, it is.

In 1917, President Wilson appointed him as head of what was known as the Stevens Commission with the rank of Minister Plenipotentiary to rehabilitate Russian, Siberian and Manchurian railroads. There he performed with great distinction in time of war, revolution and civil strife enabling the Czech Army to escape following the collapse of Russia. He returned to the United States in 1923 laden with many honors including the Legion of Honor of France, the highest military and civilian decorations of the Republic of China, the Order of the Rising Sun of Japan, and the Distinguished Service Medal of the United States.

Earlier in 1889, two formidable natural barriers stood in the way of the Great Northwestern Railroad, stymying its efforts to link this country's east and west. With tracks laid as far west as Havre, Montana, the Continental Divide formed by the Rocky Mountains and the Cascade Range beyond halted further practical construction.

Stevens was brought in to find and survey a pass in these largely unexplored regions. Setting out in the dead of winter with some Indians, and trekking through the snow in sub-zero temperatures, he found the "lost" Marias Pass route for the railroad. He then directed the construction of the last, and most difficult, section of track linking the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. Later, he was to supervise the construction of route-shortening tunnels through both mountain ranges.

John Frank Stevens, whose major works connected this country's east and west shores in two different ways, deserves recognition as a Great American.

A GAS outdoor grill gives food a tangy outdoor flavor without the time and bother of charcoal fire. Char-broiled flavor comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on hot briquets. Charcoal itself provides no flavor. Permanent ceramic briquets in the gas grill reach cooking heat in a few minutes, and there is no long wait to start cooking. The heat is regulated manually so there is no need to move a grill up or down.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Your article on the defeat of the school bond really amazed me. Never have I seen a more thorough job of skirting the real heart of an issue.

The reason for the defeat of this bond issue is so apparent that I hesitate to point it out, but since no one else seems to be going to do it, here it is: The farm economy, not only here, but throughout the country, is sick almost to the point of death. If you will go out and talk to some of those "old people and farmers" who are blamed for the defeat of this bond issue you will find this out.

Without the farm industry the city of Hereford would blow away like a dried tumbleweed and unless some action is taken soon to stop the erosion of the farm economy this is exactly what may happen.

There are three main reasons for the trouble:

1. Very low prices—wheat and milo, the two main crops in this area, are now selling for less than the cost of production.

2. Decreased government subsidies—much publicity was given to the $55,000 per crop limit last year but the truth was that due to other unpublicized changes in the farm program, many farmers in this area found their payments cut in half last year. These are to be cut still more in the new farm program being drafted.

3. Lowering of the water table, resulting in irrigation wells going dry. This problem has been augmented by several years of extreme drought over much of our area.

In short, the "goose that lays the golden egg" in this community is not well.

As I recall, the farmers were also blamed for the defeat of the Junior College bond issue a while back and thus are acquiring the reputation of being against progress and especially progress in education. This is absolutely untrue. If you will check the records, you will find that when the farm economy was prosperous there was no trouble in getting bond issues passed. Farmers, especially those in this area, are very progressive. They are always looking for better ways of doing things and this includes the education of their children. They would never vote against better educational facilities without a very good reason. That reason is that they are fighting for their very survival.

The defeat of this bond issue points out clearly that when the farmers lose, the entire community loses.

Sincerely,

J. Raymond Flores

There was a time when most homeowners faced the weekend with mixed emotions—glad to have a few days off, but reluctant to face the drudgery of mowing the lawn and trimming shrubs and hedges.

That's no longer true, thanks to modern cordless electric lawn care tools that are self-contained and easily recharged overnight.

Today's homeowner now can look forward eagerly to an enjoyable weekend of golfing, picnicking or sightseeing—and still get all the trimming chores done. A family of specialized lightweight products from Disston, Inc., makes it possible for the entire family to help Dad spruce up the yard.

Once the grass is mowed, Dad can make short work of cutting the hedges with a cordless electric hedge trimmer that wings along at 2,200 strokes a minute. While one teenager is using the lightweight cordless electric shrubber to shape the yews and boxwoods, another can manure the grass around trees, walks and driveway with a cordless electric grass shear. Even Mom can get into the act and neatly trim around her flower beds with Disston's upright cordless electric grass shear.

Despite Progress

Resistance Still Strong On Interracial Marriage

Although progress has been made toward integration in the United States, resistance still is strong against interracial marriage, as shown by a recent study conducted by the Institute for Mass Communications Research at Texas Tech University.

The study was designed to examine parental attitudes toward their own son or daughter marrying a member of another race. Four racial groups were studied: Chicano, black, white and affluent white.

Two tentative comments may be drawn from the results of the study, according to an Institute report.

First, the data suggests that racial discrimination is reciprocal. For example, the white was less discriminatory against the Chicano who, in turn, was less discriminatory against the white. The black was most discriminated against by the Chicano and the white, and both these groups were most discriminated against by the black.

Second, parents tend to offer less objection to a son marrying outside the race than to a daughter marrying outside the race. Perhaps, the Institute report said, the reason for this is that a daughter married out of a family, while a daughter-in-law marries into a family.

While the black objected to a son marrying either the white or the Chicano, the attitude toward a daughter marrying either the white or the Chicano varied radically. About 65 per cent of the blacks would have no objection to a daughter marrying a Chicano, and 43.5 per cent objected to a son marrying a Chicano. The objections did not change significantly if the mate for a child was white.

Blacks cited racial difference and an incompatible lifestyle as reasons for their objections.

In the only case of interracial marriage in which the "no objection" was significantly higher than the "objection," the Chicano seemed to favor a daughter marrying a white (59.9 per cent — no objection; 21.6 per cent — objection). If the bridegroom was to be black, however, "objection" rose to 56.8 per cent and "no objection" fell to 18.9 per cent. Of the Chicano responses, 67.7 per cent objected to a son marrying a black girl, but the objection dropped to 40.5 per cent if the girl was white.

Chicanos gave racial difference, an incompatible lifestyle and cultural dissimilarity as major reasons for objection.

Resistance of the white against his son or daughter marrying a black also was strong. However, the white indicated much less objection to his offspring marrying a Chicano. About 37 per cent of the whites objected to a daughter marrying a Chicano, while opposition rose to 79.4 per cent if the daughter's intended spouse was black. In general, opposition was slightly less if a son was marrying either a black or a Chicano.

Even more resistant than the white was the affluent white. Among these respondents, 66.7 per cent would object to a daughter marrying a Chicano, but if she chose to marry a black the objection rose to 70.8 per cent. Opposition was just as great to a son marrying into other races.

Dr. Hower Hsia is director of the Institute.

Scout Area Undergoing Facelift

The Tierra Blanca District Scout Camporee area, located in Veteran's Park, has undergone a massive facelift over the past few months, thanks to the assistance of several individuals and groups.

About 300 Cub and Boy Scouts have been involved in cleaning up the 19-acre site and in the planting of trees throughout the area. County Commissioner Earl Holt and his workers in Precinct 1 have participated in mowing and fencing the area while J.C. Brown, local Soil Conservation Service manager, has assisted in the over-all supervision.

The Deaf Smith Electric Co-operative donated used telephone poles for the fencing of the area and Warner Seed Company has seeded the grass in the much-used location.

The fencing off of the area was done to eliminate traffic in the area while the new trees are coming up.

Tom Pettigrew, district scout executive, also has participated in the large-scale clean-up campaign.

Veteran's Affairs

Q — Are GI Bill educational assistance allowance benefits veterans receive from VA taxable?

A — No. The Internal Revenue Service does not consider these benefits income for tax purposes.

Q — I'm a 74 year old veteran on VA pension rolls. Is it true, as I have heard, that I will not receive an income questionnaire this November?

A — It's true. You will receive information with your November pension check explaining that pensioners 72 years old and older who have been on the rolls during two consecutive years are exempt from filing the questionnaires. Q — How much truth is there to criticism that VA hospitals are so crowded with dying old men and old alcoholics that bed space is not available for Vietnam veterans?

A — None. Veterans with service connected disabilities have first call on VA medical care, and plenty of hospital beds are available. A recent check revealed about 84,000 veterans were occupying hospital beds, about 10 per cent of them Vietnam Era veterans.

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. Lately things have been exceptionally tight financially and I have to cut down expenses. What can I do about life insurance premiums until things pick up?

A. First, check to see if the company pays you dividends on your policies. If so, you may have specified that the dividends go to buy additional insurance, or to accumulate at interest. Now, on a short term basis, you can direct that dividends go to reduce your premium payments.

Next, if you expect the financial bind to continue, see about paying your premiums quarterly, or even monthly, rather than annually. You pay slightly more this way, so get back to annual premiums as soon as you can.

Also, your policy may have a loan value, and a loan from the company may be the lowest-interest loan you can find anywhere. You can use the loan value of your insurance to pay your premiums, or for any other use you wish. Call your agent.

Environmental Science Projects To Be Offered Throughout State

The first step in a long-range program designed to prepare high school students for immediate careers or additional training in environmental science has drawn the support of several state agencies with the approval of 14 pilot projects in school districts across the state.

The test program, scheduled to begin September 1, will focus on health science, enabling students to study the relationships between man and his environment in terms of the emissions from both population and industry.

Later additions will also bring studies of ecological systems, conservation of natural resources, and energy systems under the environmental science umbrella.

Aim of the first phase of the program is to provide students with an education which can be used in the water industry in Texas. An 11th grade student with a science background can learn what water and wastewater utilities do, expand this learning with on-the-job training in the 12th grade and then progress through additional years of college training if he desires until he finds where he fits.

This type of educational approach has the potential of meeting both industry needs and student hopes. The approach is called Career Education—providing a marketable skill at whatever level a student stops his formal schooling.

The environmental science program was designed by staff members from the Texas State Department of Health, Texas Education Agency, Texas A&M University, and representatives of related industries.

The new training toward careers in water and wastewater utilities will be offered in schools in Abilene, Amarillo, Beaumont, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, McAllen, Mesquite, Pasadena, Richardson, San Angelo, El Campo Harlandale (San Antonio), and Victoria.

Under this career education plan, a high school junior could begin pointing his academic program toward a future job with a special science course in the 11th grade. During this one-hour credit laboratory, the student will discover the variety of occupations keyed to the environment, visit city water and wastewater plants on field trips, and participate in related physical and biological science experiments.

Senior students would be enrolled in industrial and cooperative training and office occupations courses. Their accompanying on-the-job experience will be tailored to individual interests, aptitude, educational achievement, and plans for the future.

Teachers scheduled to offer the first-year course in September will receive intensive training this summer. They will also receive on-site training in water and wastewater treatment plants in four Texas cities: Garland, Baytown, San Antonio, and Lubbock.

The field of water utilities is one which needs an output of vocation-minded students. One-third of those in the field leave every year, and the field currently is not attracting younger people. The average age of those in the utilities field is 46, and the operator averages 11 years of experience—indicating he came on the job at age 35, after trying other jobs. A survey showed there were more people over 70 years of age than under age 21.

Shortages exist in every phase of operation. The industry needs persons with office skills as well as field personnel, professionals, and supervisors. With the present shortage of trained and qualified workers, industry has to accomplish in the future has further intensified interest in training. Every day the population of the country grows enough to demand new services for the equivalent of a new city of 30,000 people. Some estimate that by the year 2000 every city in the United States, large and small, will be duplicated, doubling the present demand for water and wastewater facilities and the need for trained workers.

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

Q. Are landlords still subject to Phase II rent regulations even though small businesses have been exempted from controls?

A. Yes. Although the Cost of Living Council has lifted controls from firms with 60 or fewer employees, except for businesses in the health service and construction industries, this small business exemption has no application to residential rent transactions.

Q. In computing the average number of employees for determining whether the small business exemption applies, are part-time and casual employees counted as employees?

A. Yes. Every employee is treated as if he were a full-time employee for purposes of this computation.

Q. How does the small business exemption affect master employment contracts negotiated on an industry basis?

A. Prices and wages remain under direct control in all small businesses where more than 50 percent of the employees are affected by a master employment contract covering more than 60 workers. In small businesses and small governments where less than 50 percent of the employees are covered by a master contract or jointly-negotiated contract involving over 60 workers, only the wages of the employees remain subject to controls. Wages of small firm employees who are covered by contracts involving 60 or fewer workers will be exempted from direct controls.

Q. If after Pay Board disallowance of a wage increase, the parties leave a provision in their collective bargaining agreement which states that any disallowed increase shall be paid when controls are lifted or relaxed, have they violated Economic Stabilization regulations?

A. Yes. It is a violation to fail or refuse to comply with a decision of the Pay Board. Leaving a provision in an agreement which calls for the payment of a wage and salary increase disallowed by the Board constitutes such a refusal.

Q. If an employer establishes, either through negotiations or independently, an escrow account into which it will pay an amount equivalent to wages and salaries disallowed, is the amount "wages and salaries" under Stabilization regulations?

A. Yes. Since this escrow arrangement is, in effect, a form of deferred compensation, it would constitute "wages and salaries" for services performed currently. If an amount in excess of that allowed is payable to the escrow account and if the account continues to be maintained for the purpose of setting aside this excess, this arrangement violates Stabilization regulations.

Q. Can a landlord pass-through to his tenants an increase in his personal property taxes?

A. No. Since a tangible personal

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Fire Department , Civil Defense Work

Max Stipe, fire chief, and Bill Bradley, assistant fire chief and acting director of the Civil Defense program in Hereford, presented the program at the Hereford Noon Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday at the Civic Club Center.

A new membership drive also was kicked off with a "Beat the President" theme and Travis McPherson, of the blood drive committee asked for 10 volunteers to give blood during the current drive to be held from 4 to 6 p.m. Wednesday at the Community Center.

Diana Zinser, club sweetheart for the past year, was presented with a graduation present from the club.

McPherson also announced he would accept donations toward sponsoring a trip for Felipe Luna to the national boxing finals.

Two new members were inducted into the club. They were, Jack McCracken and Grant Mabry.

Bradly pointed out that Civil Defense is not single organization, rather it is composed of all city, county, state and federal paid services to act in the event of an emergency.

Stipe said that the local fire department is a part of the Civil Defense program, since it handles only emergencies. He said that all of the 35 members of the volunteer fire department have at least a basic first aid card and many of them have advanced cards. Some 20 of the department members have attended the Fire Fighting School conducted each summer at Texas A&M University in College Station.

The department has 10 radio equipped pieces of equipment, a pumper that can pump 3,000 gallons of water per minute, five portable electric generators, and other emergency equipment. "In the past year we have made great gains in our rescue-emergency equipment. We bought two army six-by-six trucks and a 5,000 gallon tanker and tractor to pull it," Stipe said.

Stipe went on to give credit to the hard work of the volunteer force in achieving all it has.

"Dean Claybow, past president of the Texas Fire Department Association, looked at our department and said that we had the cleanest and one of the best equipped volunteer fire departments in the state," Stipe said.

After their talks, Bradley and Stipe were presented certificates of appreciation by the club.

Zimmerman Is Named To Lions Hall Of Fame

Don Zimmerman has been named to the Texas Lions Hall of Fame, it was revealed Wednesday at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Hereford Lions Club.

Zimmerman is a former club president and also served as Lions District Governor of the Panhandle area. Announcement of his selection was made by Raymond White, incoming district governor from Hereford.

"The Trip Back", a film concerning the experiences of a dope addict, was shown for the club program. Bill Gentry was program chairman for the week, and vice president John Thames presided in the absence of boss Lion Lynton Allred.

Named as delegates to the International Lions Convention in Mexico City the last week in June were Raymond White, B.F. Cain, Bill Gentry, Tommy Braddy, Rocky Lee, Nolan Grady, Wayne Lady, Major Schroeter and Carlos Anderson. Thames announced that the club's installation party is set for June 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Club Center. Wives are invited. Directors also announced that approval had been given for a $300 contribution to Camp Wigwam to aid Hereford youngsters to attend this camp for the mentally retarded.

CARD OF THANKS

To the many friends who showed so much love and kindness to us during the time David Lee Gates was in the hospital, we want to say a sincere "thank you" to Dr. Hunt, Dr. Johnson and entire staff at Deaf Smith General Hospital. The words of encouragement, deeds done, prayers, visits, flowers and cards will always be remembered. A special thanks to the Westway Baptist Church, his classmates at The Satellite School, Mrs. Agatha Cardinal, and the donors of blood. David Lee is now at home and doing fine.

THE BIKINI ELURA WIG

A wig so light you barely know it's there. And so easy to wear all you have to do is stand under it. The cap is merely criss-crossed ribbon to let the air circulate through. Bare fashions look best with this small head-style, with its face-flattering lines. Monsanto's modacrylic fiber is perfect for sultry days, too: It doesn't frizz in humidity. It blows naturally in the breezes and then falls back into place naturally. And it doesn't change color even in brightest sunlight. Wig shown by Kenneth.

Small Talk

BY SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

CACTUS IS NOT my favorite flower, but it must be admitted that the sticky plant is a beauty when it's in bloom. This is its blooming season and there are lots of flowers on the tall cactus and the prickly pears up in the Canadian River breaks.

Not so many, but nice samples of the blossoms can be seen here in town, in the cactus garden along the curb of Rosalee and Kelly Coplin's home at 113 Ave. B. Also, there is a large collection of desert plants on the west side of the yard at 808 Union.

There are others in various places over the city but nowhere in quantities as large, that I know.

THE SQUARE DANCE club here is sponsoring a class in round dancing, and I hope this won't confuse any of the Merry Mixers or other devotees of old-time dances in their modern versions.

Not only club members, but anyone else interested is invited to the class in Community Center on second and fourth Wednesdays of each month, at 8:30 p.m. Teachers are Veta Belle and Cecil Jones of Amarillo; the first session of the 10-week class was held last week but there is still time to join it.

Just what today's dancers mean by round dances, I'm not quite sure and haven't questioned any of the club members who can get an ex-

INDIAN COLLEGE

GANADO, Ariz. (AP) — The College of Ganado is a two-year community college serving Indian populations in Arizona and New Mexico.

Fifteen of the 18 members of the governing board of regents are of American Indian heritage, according to Dr. James N. Moss, college president.

A Navajo, Roger Wilson, is regents' president and Wilmer Kavena, a Hopi, is vice president.

The college was founded in 1970 by the National Missions of the Presbyterian Church.

planation through my thick skull. Not the schottische and polka, they say, but dances performed in a circle.

Must be the kind I remember from college P.E. classes, there termed old English folk dances, ancestors of the "ring games" which my parents played because church-going folk in their day declared dancing wicked. Think I'll drop by the session this week and see if what they are teaching is Shoot the Buffalo and Old Joe Clark.

SPRING SEMESTER honor rolls from colleges are beginning to appear in newspaper offices, and we're happy to relay the news that Janis Leach, daughter of the M.E. Deans, 226 Aspen, is on the dean's list at Wayland Baptist College, Plainview. She was a 1972 graduate, majoring in business administration, a member of Phi Beta Lambda and junior class secretary.

On the honor roll of Texas Tech's college of engineering are Larry C. Formby, 408 Sunset; Donald N. Garner, 337 Centre; Mark C. Golden, 105 Ave. I, and Marvin L. Readhimer, 213 Aspen.

The Tech list is only for engineering students; the other five colleges at that university will send their lists separately so we will have other Tech honor students to announce later.

JENNIE TERRELL, Stella Wester and Anna Jo Wilson were Hereford teachers enrolled in a creative education workshop at WTSU last week, sponsored by the American Association of Elementary-Kindergarten-Nursery Educators.

A picture was sent to the Brand, with three women identified as those named, but somebody besides ourselves can make mistakes—the three in the photo were not any of the Hereford women. Now we're wondering which paper in this area has the picture intended for us, and who on earth it is we have in the picture here.

NEW ROCK GARDEN — Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce converted the wading pool at Dameron Park into a rock garden during a recent beautification project, headed by Mrs. C.O. Taylor. Assisting Mrs. Taylor were Nadine Wade and Mrs. Andy Shuval. Mrs. Taylor looks on as Lewis Lea, park manager and a city worker plant the various plants.

Shower Is For Anne Frye

A prelude to her July 1 wedding, a shower complimenting Anne Frye was given Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Harlan VanderZee. Miss Frye is the fiancée of Ronnie Reiter.

Rainbow colors which will appear in wedding decorations were used in rooms where shower guests were received by Mrs. VanderZee; the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Ray Frye; her sister, Janet Frye, and Reiter's mother, Mrs. C.J. Berend.

Mrs. Juston McBride was at the table where callers registered; Mrs. Dwain Pittenger and Mrs. Bobby Paetzold served tea. Daisies in pastel rainbow colors and Peace roses were arranged in the centerpiece.

Miss Frye wore a summer dress in off-white and sky blue, with embroidered flowers in the rainbow shades.

Other hostesses were Mmes. Mike Betzen, George Schulte, Ken Jeter, Lynn Kester, John Siever, Benny Womble, Carroll Newsom, Neil McNutt, Paul Harvey, Delbert Kinsey, Gwynne Owen, Gerald Durham, Art Manjeot, Erica Durham.

Also Mmes. Wilbur Gibson, Clarence Betzen, Louise Springer, Mark Koenig, Elmer Reinart, Adolph Schlabs, Frank Zinser, Frank Bezner, Hugh Clearman and Norbert Skypala.

STEALING IS, TOO
WASHINGTON (AP) — A $10 bill autographed by President Nixon recently was stolen from the Cheverly, Md., residence of U.S. Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr., R-N.M.

Lujan received the bill on March 10, 1971, when he presented the President with the first ticket to the opening game of the Babe Ruth Baseball League World Series held in Albuquerque in August 1971.

Nixon insisted on paying for the ticket. He borrowed $10 from an aide, John Nidecker.

Lujan asked him to autograph the bill and the President did with a comment. This is illegal, you know.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: BEFORE THE GATES OF AITHELDAG THE LATECOMERS SIT. THE PRICE OF ADMISSION: A STORY TO AMUSE THE KING. THE RAGGED WANDERER ARISES: "FOR ONE HOUR I WAS THE LORD OF VERNON CASTLE."

"I HAD AT LAST FOUND THE CRUMBLING ROLL OF PARCHMENT THAT PROVED ME THE RIGHTFUL HEIR TO VERNON CASTLE. NO LONGER A HUMBLE SERVANT BUT A WEALTHY NOBLE, I COULD DECLARE MY LOVE FOR THE LADY GLENDOLYN!"

"I STOOD IN A WINDOW BESIDE WILLIAM, THE PRESENT LORD. GLENDOLYN WAS TO VISIT US TODAY, BUT SURELY SHE WOULD NOT CROSS THE BAY IN THIS STORM! THEN WE SAW A BOBBING LIGHT ON THE DARK SEA. IT WAS HER BOAT! WE MUST LIGHT THE SIGNAL-FIRE!"

"WITHOUT THE BEACON TO GUIDE THEM TO THE HARBOR THEY WILL BE WRECKED! WILLIAM STRUGGLED TO LIGHT THE TINDER BUT IT BECAME SOAKED. HE WAS DESPERATE: 'I WOULD GIVE ALL I POSSESS FOR SOMETHING DRY TO LIGHT THE SIGNAL!'"

"THEN, HERE, TAKE ALL I POSSESS," SAID I, AND HANDED HIM MY PRECIOUS PARCHMENT. IT CAUGHT THE SPARK AND BURST INTO FLAME. SOON THE OIL-SOAKED FAGOTS SENT A LURID LIGHT ACROSS THE WATER."

"GUIDED BY THE BEAM, THE BOAT LANDED SAFELY, AND A FRIGHTENED GLENDOLYN FLUNG HERSELF INTO WILLIAM'S ARMS AND TOGETHER THEY PASSED INTO THE WARMLY LIT CASTLE."

"PASS, FRIEND," SAID THE GATEKEEPER. ON THE THRESHOLD THE WANDERER PAUSED: "I DO NOT BEGRUDGE THE PRICE FOR HER HAPPINESS."

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I went dashing across the back lawn recently and took a horrible spill. My kiddos had been playing croquet, and after the game when they picked up the wickets they overlooked one wicket, and this was the culprit responsible for my fall.

I couldn't really be too upset with them because this is very easily done — in fact, I've done it myself.

My neighbor, however, came up with a marvelous idea. She suggested that I take each wicket and thread it through a small, brightly colored plastic drinking straw. I happened to find red - and - white - striped straws — couldn't miss those. They are so easy to see when actually playing croquet and also when picking up afterwards.

Now they have no excuse for missing one!

Dee Dee
And that leaves me no excuse, either, for not saying "thank you" to a real thinking gal for a terrific hint.

God Bless you!
Heloise

WICKET SPOON-FED?
DEAR HELOISE:
An iced-tea spoon is good for feeding an older baby in a high chair. The long handle eliminates a lot of the mess made when trying to fight with a regular short-handled spoon AND the baby!

Mrs. C. Tucker

WATCH THAT FAN!
DEAR HELOISE:
It is starting to get hot and if people are like me they have their fans going.

Well, I have a 27-month-old daughter and she is into everything and I can't watch everything she is doing. So, I removed the grille from the fan, got a piece of screen and cut it to fit over the front and back, then replaced the grille and put

THIRSTY KIDS?
DEAR HELOISE:
I have five children who are constantly running in, wanting a drink of water and can't get it themselves. I use soft drink cans — a different kind for each child to prevent mixup. They get cold quickly and don't rust. The child can just reach in the refrigerator and drink right from the can, which saves on glasses and paper cups.

So much more fun, too, to drink out of a pop can!
Mrs. P. G. C.

Now, that just goes to show there is a solution for every problem.
Heloise

GREEN THUMB DEPT.
DEAR HELOISE:
I have arthritic hands. I can "poke" with my fingers, but it is almost impossible to "pull" with them. I love to work in the garden and I have made a discovery that might help someone else.

There are so many weeds that you can "pull" if you get a firm grip on them and unscrew them from the ground, so I use a pair of pliers to grip the weed and turn the pliers in a circle until the weed lets go.

By the time I can say: "Unscrew the unscrupulous" three times, most weeds are out of the ground!

Elsie Davis

This feature is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share... write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper. G-11

WHERE'D IT GO?
DEAR HELOISE:
I glued a stick-on picture hook to the outside of our plastic foam picnic cooler and hung a bottle opener on it.

This way we know exactly where the opener is at all times, which is a handy thing on picnics or outings.
Mrs. L. Gruenther

DEAR HELOISE:
I have two little girls ages four and two. I also have a four-seater lawn swing. My oldest is able to swing all by herself, but the 2-year-old can't reach the floor. So I hit on a great idea...

I set the two-year-old on the floor of the swing (where feet are supposed to go) facing the seat. Now she can hold onto the arm rests with both hands and feel secure, plus being able to reach the ground to push herself with her feet.

Now while she swings by herself, Mom can get some yard work done without having to "go push."

Mrs. M. Tubbs

WHO'S ALL WET?
DEAR HELOISE:
I just discovered a dilly of a hint:

Our water pressure fluctuates and because of this I discovered I couldn't get to my outdoor faucet to turn the hose off without getting sopping wet. All of a sudden the water pressure had gotten real strong and the water from the sprinkler was going everywhere.

I went inside the house and turned my sink faucet (cold water tap) on full force (making sure the drain was open).

Sure enough, my hose spray was then low enough for me to get to the faucet without getting one bit wet.

G. Von Dollen

LETTER OF LAUDATION
DEAR HELOISE:
Pantyhose will make a good substitute for a shower cap in an emergency. Just put it on your head. The waist band fits around the hairline. Then crisscross the legs around your head and tuck in the toes.

Your hair may get a little wet around your neckline, but the front and top stay dry. Stoop over to remove it or you will get a cold sock down your neck...

● BACK TALK! What did the peanut brittle say? "I'm all broken up." What did the sour lemon say? "I'm bitter." What did the golf ball say? "Ouch!" Can you think of anything an object might say? If so, send it to Junior Whirl, care of this paper.

● Ayebee, Beecee and Ceedee are triplets. Ayebee has a niece and a nephew. Ceedee has a niece and two nephews. How many sons has Beecee?

● Kathy Hauser of Cheektowaga, N.Y. challenges you to repeat this aloud three times, real fast: Shelly Shaker said she sold seven shells Saturday, shovelled snow Sunday and said some day Sammy the shoemaker will sell six shiny shoes in Sunnysville. It's a mouthful!

PLACE TIPS of index fingers together, as shown above. Hold them about a foot from the eyes and stare at the point where they meet. What do you see?

A third sausage-like finger is likely to appear between the other two. Move the hands closer to the eyes or farther away and the size of the figure changes.

It is interesting to note the result when someone attempts to grasp this elusive sausage, or when one finger is turned about, or a ring is suspended from a fingertip. Try these experiments.

GARDEN PEST! To discover what the lady of the house is shooting from her garden above, simply draw lines from dot to dot.
