Numerous Tax Proposals Are Put Before House Committee

Revision In Income Levy Is Proposed

Rate Schedules Are Being Studied For New Revenue Measure

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6 (AP)—The House Ways and Means subcommittee prepared today to debate the merits of the suggested 33 1/3 per cent tax on undistributed corporate income, a manufacturers' excise, a revised income tax, and a one-third increase in tobacco taxes among other revenue sources.

Authoritative sources also said the subcommittee is seeking information on all possible sources of income before making a choice. It is likely to give consideration to:

1. Raising the present federal beer tax of $5 a barrel to $7.50.
2. Exempting the first $2,000 of a corporation's income from all taxation "to help the little fellow."

Suggestions
Treasury rate suggestions for the proposed annual levy upon corporate income which is not distributed to stockholders in dividends were as follows:

25 per cent on such earnings up to $2,000, 28 per cent on those from $2,000 to $15,000, 32 per cent from $15,000 to $40,000, and 35 per cent on all above.

As alternative rates for the same brackets the experts suggested either 20, 28, 32, and 37 1/2 per cent respectively, or 25, 29, 33, and 37 per cent.

Congressional spokesmen, who disclosed that revision of the beer tax was receiving attention, asserted that the existing $5 tax was agreed upon in hopes it would permit retail sales at a price of a glass. It was contended that boosting the tax by $2.50 a barrel still would not prevent sales at the current widespread charge of a dime.

Income tax revision, which was explained to the subcommittee at the first of two meetings yesterday, was figured to yield up to $446,000,000; manufacturers' excises up to $350,000,000, and excises on agricultural commodities (similar to the existing levied processing taxes), about $221,000,000.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D., Wash.), emphasized to reporters that the estimates were merely suggestions.

President Roosevelt already has suggested excises on agricultural commodities similar to the levied processing taxes.

Many To Open Liquor Stores

Applications Also Being Filed For Wine And Beer Concerns

Seventeen package stores and a flock of beer and wine concerns appeared in prospect Friday for Howard county.

While package store applications were most numerous, wine and beer retailers' applications, virtually a dead issue since the first of the year, were revived with the filing of seven applications with the county clerk.

Two of the number were applications to take over licenses now held by men who plan on entering the package store field. Others were original applications.

Thirteen of those seeking package store permits from the state liquor control board plan to locate stores here. Two have their eyes on Foran, one on Coahoma and a fourth on Hous City.

One effect of the influx of liquor applications was rental hikes, especially along Third street. Several established businesses were to be moved to make way for the new stores, it was learned.

Some few would-be operators hoped to offer hard liquors for legal sale here by the week-end under the new state law made applicable to this county by a vote of the people last Saturday. There

No Decision Reached On Relief Needs

Message From President On Subject Scheduled For Next Week

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6 (AP)—The question of relief requirements for the coming fiscal year still was unanswered today, after a conference of President Roosevelt and his fiscal and relief aides failed to reach any definite conclusion.

Secretary Morgenthau said on leaving the White House last night that he "supposed" further conferences would be held, but declined to say whether congressional leaders would be present.

With the president's relief message expected next week, the conference was held a few hours after Harry L. Hopkins ordered a new drive to slash the work relief rolls to $3,000,000 by July 1.

Morgenthau declined to say whether relief needs for a year or for only the six months period from July 1 to the following January 1, when the next congress convenes, were given major consideration.

Although he insisted that in most cases jobs in private industry would be available to the 500,000 dismissed WPA workers, Hopkins acknowledged that some would be forced back on direct relief.

Each state, Hopkins said, will make a gradual reduction on its work relief employment and WPA will be cut from its present 3,037,444 jobs to 2,300,000 by July 1. This big cut, however, will be offset by some additional employment by other relief agencies.

Committee Is Told Of Stock Sales By Henry L. Doherty

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6 (AP)—A witness told the senate lobby committee today that Henry L. Doherty, head of the Cities Service company, sold $20,500,000 in company securities in the early part of 1929, the same time employees were "given permission" to buy Cities Service stocks.

Robert Burns, a company attorney, said Doherty sold "about one-fourth of what he owned."

Herbert Bloomquist, a committee investigator, asserted proceeds from the sale were used to buy "principally municipal obligations."

Time Limit On Parking To Be Enforced Beginning Then

With the city's new traffic ordinance duly published, it will go into full force on Monday, City Manager E. V. Spence said Friday. Included in the provisions of the new ordinance is the one hour parking limit along Third street between Johnson and Gregg streets. The manager said traffic officers would start checking on parking in that area Monday.

They will also keep an eye on cars in the half block on which the postoffice fronts. A fifteen minute parking limit will be in effect there.

All day parking limits, which included the one hour and 15 minute rulings, are in effect between the hours of 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Streets must be cleared between the hours of 2:30 a. m. and 6:15 a. m. to permit the city street department to clean the streets.

PWA GRANT OK'D Money Expected By City Within Sixty Days

The 30 per cent grant due the city of Big Spring from PWA on the municipal swimming pool here has been given approval by state officials and is in Washington for final action.

City Manager E. V. Spence, back from Fort Worth where he went to expedite the payment, said it would be about 60 days before the grant is paid. Local city officials had hoped to receive the money before the end of the current fiscal year March 31 since the amount was borrowed from another fund to pay off the contractor, A. E. Suggs of Abilene.

Court Action Asked To Halt Power Plans

Seven Texas Firms Petition For Writ Against Electrification Work

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6 (AP)—The Community Public Service, Dallas Power & Light, Gulf States Utilities, Houston Lighting & Power, Texas Electric Service, Texas Power & Light, and Texas Utilities companies today petitioned the District of Columbia supreme court to enjoin Secretary Ickes, PWA administrator and others from aiding the Lower Colorado River authority and the Brazos River conservation and reclamation district from furthering plans for electrification.

The companies objected to the Ickes plan for a system of dams and reservoirs on the Colorado for generating power and transmission systems for marketing electricity. There was no objection to the Buchanan dam, since it is a flood control and irrigation project.

Power Aims Cited
The plaintiff companies, all operating in Texas, where the Brazos and Colorado projects are major units in PWA proposals, seek the injunction on the ground that Ickes and others have gone outside the powers authorized by the national industrial act and the emergency relief appropriation act of 1935. The petition alleged that "the plans of the PWA defendants for a unified series of dams on the Colorado river are conceived, designed and intended primarily for the development of electric power."

The utility firms asserted that such action is taken "regardless of the adequacy of existing facilities" and asserted that completion of the projects would the plaintiffs would suffer direct loss "amounting to millions of dollars."

Another basis of the court plea was the argument that the river projects are not being promoted for flood control and irrigation, but that these are included as a plan for a unified hydro-electric system.

"Typical Utilities Action" LCRA Chairman Asserts

AUSTIN, Mar. 6 (AP)—Roy Fry, chairman of the Lower Colorado River authority, said today that the suit brought by various Texas utilities companies was a "typical" utilities action in trying to prevent many cities from building power and light systems. He said halting the project would deprive 4,000 men of work.

The labor crisis reached major proportions in New York as the walkout began to affect nearly the entire metropolitan area. The grand central zone includes most of the city's biggest skyscrapers.

"The union is hurling its full strength into the battle," declared James J. Bambrick, leader of the walkout.

The new orders were issued after negotiations for a settlement with the realty advisory board, affecting most of the building owners affected, collapsed after a 14-hour conference.

Pastor Talks At Club Meet

Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the First Methodist church, took the ABC club initials Friday as a central theme for his address to the club members.

The first letter, said the speaker, might well stand for altruism, the fundamental principal of high ideals. The second, he continued, could well mean brotherhood, the essential quality of friendship and cooperation. The final letter, he declared, would be well as community, the element of serving for others. In this connection he pointed out that as the community prospered, so did the individual.

Mrs. J. M. McFarquhan, county chairman of the highway beautification committee, appeared before the club and asked support of the move to transform the entrances to the city from ugliness to attractiveness.

The non-secretariat trio composed of Mrs. Ruby Read, Mrs. Alma Blount and Miss Ruby Bull, accompanied by Mrs. Ira Powell, sang two numbers.

Guests were Travis Reed, Hugh Dubberly, Hughes, and Jack Kerr.

CROP LOANS SOON Money To Farmers Will Be Ready In Ten Days

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6 (AP)—The farm credit administration announced today that emergency crop and feed loans for 1936 will be available to farmers within the next ten days.

It was said the treasury had advanced $7,000,000 for the purpose from relief funds. Loans to farmers may not exceed $200.

County Delays Payment Of Relief Bill

Decision on a payment promised for the administration of the county wide relief association activities was delayed Thursday by county commissioners court until Monday, the regular meeting date.

Since the formation of the central charity distributing agency more than a month ago under a supporting arrangement by the city and county, the latter has not made any payment.

The city has made two payments of $250 each, both during the month of February.

Definite action is expected from the court Monday.

Other Groups Join N. York Bldg. Strike

Union Moves To Tie Up All Bigger Buildings In Manhattan Area

(By The Associated Press)
New York hotel workers were called from their jobs today and building employees prepared to spread their strike to the grand central zone of Manhattan, to Brooklyn and Queens before night-fall.

The strikers sought to add 4,800 buildings in the tieup, with 1,500 already affected by the building service workers' walkout that started six days ago.

In Baltimore, police dispersed 200 strikers after pickets stoned workers in the Eastern Rolling mills. In the El Paso power dispute, the union demanded that the labor board force the El Paso Electric company to observe the Wagner labor relations act.

The labor crisis reached major proportions in New York as the walkout began to affect nearly the entire metropolitan area. The grand central zone includes most of the city's biggest skyscrapers.

"The union is hurling its full strength into the battle," declared James J. Bambrick, leader of the walkout.

The new orders were issued after negotiations for a settlement with the realty advisory board, affecting most of the building owners affected, collapsed after a 14-hour conference.

WALSH IS BASEBALL 'SCHOOLMASTER'

BIG ED IS BACK IN THE GAME

By LOUIS G. BLACK

HARTFORD, Conn., Mar. 6 (UP) Government subsidize baseball schools for Connecticut youngsters are giving "Big Ed" Walsh his biggest thrill since the early part of the century...

The schools, supported by funds of the Works Progress Administration, opened recently in this state capital city. Despite severe snow storms and other handicaps, approximately 3,000 boys of grammar and high school age attended 10 afternoon and evening classes here.

Capacity gatherings, hoping to get pointers from one of the greatest of the big time pitchers, have assembled wherever Walsh setup his props.

Walsh is serious about his new work and his responsibilities, and his enthusiasm for the game is quickly caught by his pupils.

Walsh has definite ideas about his position. He points out: "Protection of a boy is the least that can be done for him. This applies especially to athletics, and to baseball in particular."

"The teacher must be a leader. He must show the boy the meaning of loyalty and good fellowship."

"Personally," he says, "I'm as happy today as I was at the height of my career."

Quantity Will Make Way For Quality In 1936 Penn Relays

'Iron Man' Kern To Demonstrate Weight Pulling Here Saturday

Muscular feats of pulling heavily loaded trucks will be demonstrated here tomorrow afternoon by two veterans of the "Iron Man" act—Jack Kern, and a 22-year-old youngster billed as the "boy wonder."

Speaking to high school students Friday morning, Jack said it used to be that the man with the big muscles ran things, but that is no longer true. A man with large, knobby muscles is not good in Kern's business. The muscles cramp. He also stressed the importance of coordination of mind and matter, and told of the good points of leadership in coaches.

Swartz believes the change will speed up the program and add greater importance to the race. He pointed out that last year 78 sprinters entered the century with approximately 50 competing in the series of heats, semi-finals and finals.

Swartz said that whether the 100-meter event will be restricted to five of the outstanding sprinters in the country or to 10 with two heats and a final will not be decided until after the recipients of the invitations make known their plans.

Swartz pointed out that in the intercollegiate medal and two-mile championship events last year, the entries exceeded 300—much too large for the proper running.

Invitations have been extended to 925 institutions in all sections of the country. The number is less than in 1935 when 1,188 institutions of all classes received bids. As usual, high schools head the list of those invited with 515, followed by colleges with 240 and prep schools with 150.

Following a policy adopted last year, another group of schools (junior high and parochial schools) have been dropped. In 1935, elementary schools of Philadelphia were omitted.

Special Races Likely In addition to the featured 100-meter dash, there is a possibility of other special events, including the appearance of the nation's crack distance men such as Gene Venzke, Jim Mangin, Charley Hornbostel.

Glenn Cunningham already has been invited, but he informed Robertson he would be unable to accept as he had promised to compete in the Drake Relays, scheduled for the same days as the Penn carnival.

Hornbostel, the former Indiana university runner, and now a student at Harvard, indicated he would compete.

The 1936 carnival promises to hold more than the usual interest in Philadelphia—due to the comeback of Venzke.

'Slingin' Sam' Baugh Tries Out As A Hurler FORT WORTH, Mar. 6 (AP)—"Slingin' Sam" Baugh, who pitched strikes for Texas Christian's great 1935 football eleven, now will try to do the same on the baseball pitcher's mound.

Baugh, a Frog infielder, will be tried as a hurler by Coach Raymond (Bear) Wolf.

Among the Frogs' seasoned hurlers on hand is Darrell Lester, all-American football center in 1934 and 1935, who still is trying to round into shape from an injury received during the Christian's 8-2 conquest of Louisiana State in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl game last New Year's day.

ENTRIES WILL BE LIMITED Sprinters May Compete Only This Year

By PAUL ELLIS United Press Staff Correspondent PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 6 (UP)—Quantity will make way for quality in the 1936 Penn Relays.

In place of the featured 100-meter event being an open race, this year sprinters may compete by invitation only, according to Jamison Swartz, manager of the two-day carnival.

Swartz believes the change will speed up the program and add greater importance to the race. He pointed out that last year 78 sprinters entered the century with approximately 50 competing in the series of heats, semi-finals and finals.

Swartz said that whether the 100-meter event will be restricted to five of the outstanding sprinters in the country or to 10 with two heats and a final will not be decided until after the recipients of the invitations make known their plans.

Dub Golfers Practice In Zero Weather

Kentucky Pro Struggles With Nine Determined Golf Hopefuls

By TOM PAPROCKI Associated Press Sports Writer The question of whether the average dub golfer who has become accustomed to scores of 90 to 100 can get his game down in the low seventies by every-day practice under a professional is being answered in Louisville, Ky., by nine of the game's most determined hopefuls.

The long grind that is to end in June may result in some of them entering the state amateur tournament. The "dubs" started in December and have practiced despite the bitter cold and snow. Few actual rounds were played during January's unusually low temperatures, but from 10 a. m. to noon hardly a day passed that the class did not get out and practice form.

The idea came to Earl Ruby, golf writer on the Louisville Courier-Journal, when Kentuckians boasted last December that their new governor, A. B. (Happy) Chandler, and his low score of 74 made him the premier golfer among state executives.

A check-up showed, practically every other governor who played the ancient game explained, that lack of time prevented him from becoming an expert. Most of them admitted they bragged a bit when they broke 100.

Ruby interested Courtney Noe, the pro at the municipal Cherokee park links. Noe agreed to give lessons free to the class. Limbering up exercises and then day-after-day practice followed. The dubs were drilled on how to swing, how to turn the body, how to cock the wrists and all the multitudinous details that make up the "form" of the outstanding player.

Nine men responded to a call and agreed to practice two hours daily until June, and were joined by Ruby, whose game was in the nineties. After three days one of them, a leather-goods salesman, quit, but the others stuck to the grind.

Howard Noe, a husky mail clerk not related to the pro—shot a 100 on Dec. 12, an even 100 a week later and 98 on three different days in January. The Rev. W. C. Bryant, a 145-pound clergyman, posted 101 the first week and had 92 twice since then. Carl Russell, a 206-pound architect, needed 113 when he started; but by mid-January he got as low as 97. Palmer Van Arsdale, a law graduate, scored 98 on Feb. 10.

Ed Dean, a 160-pound ex-baseballer, now selling real estate, cut 10 strokes off his 110. Earl early, a former restaurant owner, quickly moved from 111 to 102. Earnest Klugefus, a telephone transmission man, scored 98 instead of his usual 110. Earl Hasi, an engraver, whose average had been 95, scored 88 once in early practice, but since has found himself back to 93. Ruby got down to 81.

Snow and ice drove the men indoors on several occasions and then they practiced in an unused airplane hangar at Bowman field, the Louisville municipal airport.

Lovelock Back In Competition

Recent acceptance of nomination as an official of the Amateur Athletic Association and knee trouble led to rumors of Lovelock's retirement from the track, but it is now stated that he will definitely represent his country at Berlin.

He will start running much later than usual and will not be so busy as last year, when he ran in six countries, including two tours of Europe and a visit to the United States, where he beat Bill Bonthron, Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venzke at Princeton.

He has been invited to race again in America, but will not travel before the Olympiad.

TERRY WORKS ON HURLERS

Giving Time, Attention To Marberry And Coffman

PENNSACOLA, Fla., Mar. 6 (AP)—While Col. Bill Terry of the Giants would not deliberately overlook a promising young hurler in the training camp here, he is giving plenty of his time and attention to a pair of veteran pitchers, Fred (Firpo) Marberry and Dick Coffman, in hopes of finding a capable No. 1 relief pitcher.

He passed his 36th birthday last November and during his career in the American league he was one of the work horses of the circuit. In 1932 he worked in 54 games to lead the pitchers in his league. His high mark was 64 in 1926. In 1924, 1925 and 1927 he averaged more than 50 games a season.

He was a good pitcher once, and the good ones don't forget how it's done. Marberry always has been as strong as a young bull and should have enough strength left to be quite a pitcher for the two or three innings he will be asked to perform on the mound in his role of relief hurler. If he does come through it will be a mighty fine investment for the Giants. Lack of a dependable relief pitcher cost Colonel Terry and his Giants the pennants in 1934 and 1935.

Marberry's age ought not to weigh too heavily against his chances of being successful with the Giants. Adolfo Luque, the fiery Cuban, was well past 40 when he did the rescue act many, many times for the Giants in the season of 1933. Luque's successful emergency operations had much to do with the Giants winning the pennant that year and later, on that fall, in the World series. The gray-haired veteran proved to be one of the heroes of the Giants' triumph over the Washington Senators.

Luque Quelled Rally In the fifth and final game of that series Luque was called in from the bullpen to stem the tide after Elmer Schumacher had been driven from the box by a fifth-inning rally which netted the Senators the three runs they needed to tie the score and put two men on base.

Slowly the veteran shuffled toward the pitcher's box, took his customary warm-up throws, and signaled that he was ready. He stopped the Washington rally dead in its tracks. There was no further scoring that inning, nor did the Senators manage to put over a run in the four succeeding innings of the game.

After the Giants had gone into the lead in the first half of the tenth on Mel Ott's home run, Luque had the Washington slugger at bay, winding up the game and the series with a flourish as he fanned Joe Kuhel on three pitched balls.

Marberry, or any other hurler for that matter, has his work cut out for him if he hopes to improve on the job old Adolfo turned in back in 1933.

Kuhel To Use 'Knee Action' This Season

Joe's New Swing Is Approved By Manager Bucky Harris

ORLANDO, Fla., Mar. 6 (UP)—Joe Kuhel, the Washington first-baseman who has been a flop at bat for the last two years, plans to put some "knee-action" into his swing this season.

In recent seasons Kuhel has been standing upright and resting his bat on his shoulder as he waited for the pitch. Last year this brought him a batting mark of .361. He plans to loosen up and see whether he gets better results. Kuhel says he will bend his left knee and slant his body a bit toward the catcher. He'll hold his bat back to be ready for a quick swing.

Kuhel explains this will not be a new stance for him. He used to stand for years ago when he rolled up a 300 batting average with Kansas City in the American association. Joe's plan meets with the approval of Manager Bucky Harris. With the American league batting champion, Buddy Myer, at second base, and the heavy-hitting Cecil Travis at shortstop, Pilot Harris looks for one of the "slougiest" infielders in the majors. If Kuhel can raise his average above the .300 figure and if Buddy Lewis, the rookie third baseman from Chattanooga, can locate somewhere near that level.

times for the Giants in the season of 1933. Luque's successful emergency operations had much to do with the Giants winning the pennant that year and later, on that fall, in the World series. The gray-haired veteran proved to be one of the heroes of the Giants' triumph over the Washington Senators.

Luque Quelled Rally In the fifth and final game of that series Luque was called in from the bullpen to stem the tide after Elmer Schumacher had been driven from the box by a fifth-inning rally which netted the Senators the three runs they needed to tie the score and put two men on base.

Slowly the veteran shuffled toward the pitcher's box, took his customary warm-up throws, and signaled that he was ready. He stopped the Washington rally dead in its tracks. There was no further scoring that inning, nor did the Senators manage to put over a run in the four succeeding innings of the game.

After the Giants had gone into the lead in the first half of the tenth on Mel Ott's home run, Luque had the Washington slugger at bay, winding up the game and the series with a flourish as he fanned Joe Kuhel on three pitched balls.

Marberry, or any other hurler for that matter, has his work cut out for him if he hopes to improve on the job old Adolfo turned in back in 1933.

Drives Under Way In Six States For Single-House Legislatures; Lawmakers Opposed To Change

LINCOLN, Neb., Mar. 6. (UP)—The movement to displace the traditional American system of two-house state legislatures with unicameral assemblies is taking hold slowly in six states besides Nebraska, a United Press survey reveals. Nebraska already has written the principle of unicameralism into its state constitution. The legislature which meets in January, 1937, will have one house of 43 members. The bicameral legislature which will go out of existence at that time consists of a Senate of 33 members and a house of 100.

New York, Missouri, California, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio are the other states in which there is some talk of discarding the two-house legislative system. One factor in the movement for unicameralism appears in every state where the plan has been proposed. Most members of current two-house legislatures are opposed to this change in government. This was true in Nebraska. The amendment creating a one-house legislature was voted by the people largely through the influence of U. S. Sen. George W. Norris. It was initiated by the people—not by the legislature.

In New York state Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Orange, recently introduced a resolution to create a legislative committee to study the feasibility of a unicameral assembly. Most observers there feel that the movement has not gained sufficient momentum to be considered seriously.

Desmond's arguments favoring his resolutions were the familiar ones—that two houses in a legislature, instead of providing a system of checks and balances, assure a system of "buck-passing." A bill proposing a unicameral legislature was killed in committee at the California legislature session last year, but the movement there still is alive, according to political writers in Sacramento. The state senate is leading the fight, believing that the present state senate is dominated by men who are not in sympathy with the livestock industry.

Massachusetts is toying with the unicameral idea, but prospects for immediate success of the movement there are not bright. The La Follette sponsored the movement in the 1935 session of the Wisconsin legislature, but they met some opposition within their own party and the plan was defeated.

In Ohio the movement for unicameralism has not taken definite form. Emphasis is being placed on crystallizing opinion. Advocates propose a unicameral legislature of not more than 50 members. (At present there are 32 senators and 135 representatives.) Under the unicameral proposal, representation would be apportioned strictly on a population basis.

The attempts to introduce unicameral legislatures in Illinois and Missouri have been feeble. A candidate for the Illinois legislature two years ago, who included in his platform advocacy of a one-house assembly was defeated and his bill did not reach the floor of either house.

Victory In November, However, May Bring Drive For New Laws

WASHINGTON, Mar. 6. (UP)—As the new deal embarked upon its fourth year, it was indicated strongly that its principal legislative structure had been completed. Victory in November, however, it was generally believed, would mean fresh drives toward as yet unachieved new deal objectives.

In contrast to the drive to enact recovery legislation, launched immediately after President Roosevelt's inauguration, the third anniversary found principal attention centered upon constitutional attacks on new deal laws in the supreme court. The March 4 anniversary disclosed the new deal with two major supreme court victories, two major and several minor court defeats.

Several Agencies Tested Here is a partial roster of agencies and policies instituted by the new deal.

National Recovery Administration. (Declared unconstitutional.) Agricultural Adjustment Administration. (Declared unconstitutional.)

Public Works Administration. Federal Emergency Relief Administration (now replaced by Works Progress Administration.)

Civilian Conservation Corps. Tennessee Valley Authority. (Declared constitutional in first test.)

Dollar devaluation and new gold policy. (Declared constitutional.) Reciprocal trade treaty program. Aid to home owners through HOLC, FHA, etc.

New banking and securities legislation through banking acts, securities and exchange commission, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, changes in federal reserve act.

Utilities holding company control. Social security legislation. National labor relations act.

Twin bulwarks of the original new deal recovery drive — NRA and AAA—both have been carried down by supreme court verdict. Some parts of the original NRA statute have been re-enacted.

Substitutes Are Enacted. These include substitute oil legislation to replace the "hot oil" provision of the recovery act, which was the first new deal law to fall before the high court, the Guffey coal act and the national labor relations act, roughly approximating section 7a of the NRA.

No effort was made, however, to replace the whole vast NRA structure and only a vestige of the initial organization which was headed by hard-hitting Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, remains.

The place of the AAA, however, has been filled by a new farm measure, just enacted by congress. This law, based on an existing soil erosion act, is intended to continue benefits to farmers and to carry on original objectives of the AAA, as far as possible under the limitations of the supreme court decree.

However, corollary laws to AAA—the Bankhead cotton act, Kerr-Smith tobacco act and potato control law—were repealed by congress at President Roosevelt's request. None of these acts was regarded as strictly new deal measures.

Two Court Victories. Principal victories of the new deal as upheld by the supreme court were won on the question of the gold policy and the TVA program.

Many phases of the new deal program still face final test. Among these are various provisions of the PWA program, including the right to make loans to municipalities for power purposes; legality of the Guffey coal act, set up to replace NRA provisions in the coal industry, legality of PWA loan clearance methods, minor points in connection with monetary policy, the new banking and securities legislation, the utilities control measure, social security and the labor act.

A fair share of these cases, it is believed, are likely to be ruled upon by the high court before the election.

Only One Cabinet Change

Personnel changes in the new deal have been frequent, although only one cabinet shift has been made and that early in the new deal regime. This was replacement of William Woodin as secretary of treasury by Henry Morgenthau, Jr.

Among advisors and secondary officials, however, many changes have occurred. Both heads of the original twin recovery agencies—

NRA and AAA—have departed. They were General Johnson and George N. Peek, who remained as head of the export-import bank, but finally quit the administration this winter.

Principal changes have occurred in the treasury, where an almost constant succession of appointments and resignations have been made. Mrs. Ebb Hatch is ill.

CUSTARDS

By MARTHA LOGAN

There are so many delicious desserts and entrees which have as their foundation a custard mixture that it behooves us to know the general rules for successful custard making. Once these simple rules are mastered, infinite variations may be contrived to please the combined tastes of the family. Custards are always nutritious and, as a rule, quickly and easily made.

There are two types of custard mixtures—soft custard, which we prefer to call "custard sauces" because their consistency is that of

THESE FACTS ABOUT BRAN HAVE BEEN PROVED BY TESTS

Supplies Gently Acting "Bulk" to Aid Regular Habits

Now and then, in talking with your friends, the subject of bran has come up. So that real facts might replace unsupported opinions, the Kellogg Company has aided for some years research in leading nutrition laboratories.

Studies made on a group of healthy women showed that two tablespoons of bran daily continued to relieve constipation over a period of months. How different from cathartics—where dosage often must be increased.

Another series of tests on men indicated that, with some people, the "bulk" in bran was much more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Further tests showed that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provided vitamin B and iron as well as "bulk." This "bulk" absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system—the right way to correct constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Either as a cereal, with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. It is a natural laxative food. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

a velvety smooth sauce, and baked custards.

The reason that the baked custard is such a stumbling block to so many of us may be traced to one or two conditions, either a wrong proportion of eggs to the amount of the milk, or else too high a temperature during the baking. Either of these conditions will give an unsatisfactory result, but both conditions can easily be overcome. Certainly, custards should be used more than they are.

The two chief ingredients of a custard are eggs and milk. It is the proportion in which they are used which determines the consistency of the custard for it is the coagulation or blending of the proteins of the eggs which thickens the custard. So, unless sufficient eggs are used, the custard does not set. One egg to one cup of milk is the correct proportion for individual custards, while six eggs to one quart of milk are necessary to make one large custard. The other ingredients—the sweetening and the flavoring—are a matter of taste and so may be varied to suit the individual preference.

Custards are one of the hardest things to bake properly. However, with a little care, even an amateur may secure perfect results. In order to secure a custard which is firm enough to set and at the same time smooth in texture, it is absolutely essential that it be cooked at a temperature low enough to prevent its boiling. High temperature curdles egg and milk mixtures. For this reason they are placed in a pan containing water. Place them in an oven which registers 325 degrees Fahrenheit, and bake about 40 minutes, being sure that the temperature of the oven does not go any higher.

Then test the custards to see if they are done. The heat, of course, penetrates to the center last of all, so test the center of the custards lightly with the tip of the finger to see if they are firm, or test with a silver knife—the latter method being more generally accurate. First dip the knife in water, then thrust it into the center of the custard. If it comes out clean, the custard is done, but if the blade of the knife is coated, further cooking is necessary. A custard which is cooked too long will whey off, so as soon as the knife comes out clean, remove from the oven and cool at once by setting the molds in a pan of cold water.

When very cold and firm, turn the custards out of the molds and serve. Custards may be served in a variety of ways. They are delicious plain, but if desired, they may be served with sliced fresh fruit, such as oranges or bananas or with berries. A pleasing change is to serve them with sweetened, thickened fruit juices or with caramel sauce. Any desired seasoning, such as nutmeg, cinnamon, ginger or preserved ginger, may be added.

Custard mixtures are made into timbales for entrees combining eggs, milk and meat, fish or fowl, or made into soufflés. There really is no end to what can be done with them.

Here are a few good custard recipes:

Standard Baked Custard Recipe
4 eggs,
1-4 cup sugar,
1-2 teaspoon salt,
1 quart milk,
1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Break eggs into bowl, beat slightly—long beating is not necessary for the eggs are used as thickening agent and not to lighten the mixture. Next add sugar and salt and mix well. To this mixture add slowly the milk and stir all together. Flavor with vanilla and mix thoroughly. Soften a little butter and grease lightly, but well, six custard cups so the custard will unmold easily. Pour the custard mixture into them, filling to within about one-quarter inch from the top. If desired, a few gratings of nutmeg or a bit of coconut may be sprinkled over the top of each. Place the cups carefully in a shallow pan containing about one-half inch of warm water and make into moderate oven until firm.

Standard Soft Custard Recipe
4 eggs,
1-3 cup granulated sugar,
1-2 teaspoon salt,
3 cups milk,
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat together two eggs and the yolks of two more, saving the two whites for a meringue or for folding in when the custard is done. Add the sugar and salt. Beat just enough to blend eggs and sugar. Gradually add the milk which has been scalded in a double boiler, stirring all the while. Return to the double boiler and cook for about five minutes, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens sufficiently to coat a spoon, but no longer, or the custard will quickly curdle. Pour custard out at once into a bowl to stop further cooking. Do not allow water in double boiler to boil during the cooking as custard is much smoother if cooked slowly, and much less likely to curdle. If the mixture does curdle, remove from the fire immediately and beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth. A custard which has curdled will never be so good as one that has been cooked perfectly. When custard is cold, add vanilla, mix well, fold in egg whites in desired, and chill thoroughly before serving.

Variations For Custards
(Baked or Boiled)

CARAMEL CUSTARD: Use 1-2 cups of sugar caramelized. Dissolve in scalded milk (about ten minutes). Bake or steam. May be baked in small individual cups or molds and served with a little caramel over it, or one teaspoon of caramel may be put in bottom of cup before pouring custard mixture in.

CHOCOLATE CUSTARD: Add 1-2 cup of ground chocolate or two squares of melted chocolate to 1-2 cup of hot milk; stir until smooth, add remainder of milk gradually.

COFFEE CUSTARD: Scald with the milk 3 to 4 tablespoons of finely ground coffee. Strain through cheesecloth before pouring over egg mixture, or use half milk of cream, half very strong black coffee.

FRUIT CUSTARD: Soft custard. Put in serving dish 2 cups of berries or sliced or coarsely cut fruit, pour custard over. Canned or stewed fruit should be drained. All except dried fruit should be sweetened to taste. Apricots, bananas, peaches, oranges and prunes are very good. Ripe or preserved quinces, seasoned with lemon juice, are delicious. A baked rich custard is good with one cup of dates, raisins, figs or any combination, omitting sugar from the custard.

GINGERBREAD OR CAKE CUSTARD: To one-half the custard recipe add 1 cup of stale gingerbread or cake, broken small. Make custard with yolks only, pour hot mixture over gingerbread or cake and bake. Make meringue or egg whites.

MAPLE CUSTARD: Use shaved or grated maple sugar instead of granulated.

MARSHMALLOW CUSTARD: Add to soft custard, while hot, 6 or 8 marshmallows cut small. They will dissolve in the custard.

PINEAPPLE CUSTARD: Add 1-2 cups of sweetened, well drained, chopped or grated pineapple.

TWEED-CLAD GRETA GARBO BELIES STOCKHOLM GOSSIP SHE'S GONE IN FOR FRILLS

STOCKHOLM, Mar. 6 (AP)—Harkening again to the call of Hollywood, Greta Garbo, inscrutable Swedish film star, is understood to be almost ready to return to America.

Lately enjoying winter sports at Are, a fashionable resort in the north of Sweden, in company with Countess and Countess Wachtmeister, she discredited reports that ill health had caused her physician to advise delay in her return to work.

In Stockholm, with the exception of a brief period at Christmas time when she had a cold, she has been in evidence at theaters, in restaurants and on shopping tours.

Wears Sweater in Theater

In these appearances she continued to give the lie to stories that she returned to the United States as an entirely new personality; with hair coiled into modern coiffure, and with her clothes, from hat to shoes, in keeping with latest fashions.

Seen here in Sweden's capital, Garbo was still addicted to loose fitting coats, shapeless hats, flat-heeled shoes, and an air of complete disinterest in what other

Greta Garbo, as this Stockholm snapshot shows, still likes her tweeds, despite reports she would return to Hollywood with hair coiled, French heels and furbelows to match.

Women were wearing. Her theater costume more often than not—and she has seen every legitimate stage show—has consisted of rough skirt, pull-over sweater, and hat pulled low over her eyes.

Shop girls swear by her. "She never makes a fuss," explained one. "She seems to know what she wants, and it isn't necessary to put the whole store on the counter for her."

Night Life Gayety Is 'Out'

Smart society in Stockholm has yet to know her, however, and gay night life does not claim her. Her circle of friends is limited, aside from the Wachtmeisters and Max Gumpel, the building engineer whose name has been linked with hers in rumored romance for several years.

Negotiations relative to her next film are still under way, it is understood, but within the near future she is expected to start back for the studio lights.

It is regarded as self-evident, however, that the same Garbo will return; the same in manner, dress, equivalence and disposition.

Poses as Man 30 Years

KEKAWAKA, Cal. (UP)—Falling heirless to an estate in Indiana, proved too much for Miss Malvina Flottner, of Trinity county. She changed clothes and admitted she had posed as a man for 30 years, including which she served two years as deputy sheriff.

Johnny Mack Brown is the star of the picture booked for Friday and Saturday at the Lyric, playing the hero's part in a western action drama, "The Courageous Avenger."

The film promises plenty of excitement, as Brown, in the part of Kirk Baxter, ranger rider and terror of criminals, takes over the job of tracking down a gang of desperados who have committed numerous robberies and have kidnaped his sweetheart.

How Baxter follows the gang, and the difficulties he encounters before finally capturing or killing all of them, provide many thrilling sequences. There is plenty of hard riding and swift gun battles.

Helen Erickson plays opposite Brown to furnish the romantic interest. Others in the cast are Warner Richmond, Eddie Parker, E.

Cassidy, Frank Ball, Forrest Taylor and Earl Dwire.

Mrs. Harvey Williamson is ill.

17. Sweet Corn
Only to those fortunate who have bigger than average gardens is sweet corn in the spring picture, but for these it's an institution. So, if you have a good-sized patch, here's how: Rows should be three feet apart and the individual plants 15 to 18 inches apart in drills and two and a half feet apart in hills. It takes a rich soil and planting shouldn't be attempted until the ground is well warmed up. A pint of seed will plant 400 to 500 feet of row. Thin out the stalks to three to a hill or to single stalks 15 to 18 inches apart in drills. The season for planting runs from late February in the deep south to early June in the far north.

Tomorrow—Fence Rows.

Motor Cars

The most startling innovation of the 1936 revue will be introducing automobiles in a range of models according to the time of day.

Act one, which will be a sports setting, will display the following makes of cars with women sponsors and their escorts:

Pontiac—Mrs. Ralph Rix and Lewis Craig.

Ford—Miss Willou Tripp and A. D. Webb.

Chevrolet—Mrs. Ellen Wood and Carl Murrell.

Hudson—Mrs. Ray Lawrence and Dan Scott.

In act two the all-around general utility car will be shown. Three firms will display as follows:

Dodge—Mrs. Ray Lawrence and Hilo Hatch.

Oldsmobile—Mrs. A. Swartz and Granville Dawson.

Studebaker—Mrs. Rueben Parker and Otis Petsick.

In act three there will appear the big, lavishly fitted sedans, such as one seen in the manufacturers' ads. There will be:

Chrysler—Mrs. Ray Lawrence and Dan Scott.

Buick—Mrs. Shine Phillips and R. R. McEwen.

Lincoln—Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith.

In addition to the models and cars, a program of songs and dances has been arranged for the conclusion of each act while the models are displaying their new frocks. Those who have seen re-

Mrs. Porter Is Honoree For Shower

Two Hostesses Entertain With Very Clever Party

Mrs. A. S. Lucas and Mrs. A. A. Porter entertained Wednesday evening at the home of the latter with a cleverly planned shower honoring Mrs. Lee Porter.

The guests were on hand when the honoree arrived. There followed a word contest ending with the announcement by the hostesses that she would call in the doctor to diagnose the guest who won the word contest.

Mrs. Jack Johnson entered dressed as an old country doctor and was followed by little Miss Lynn Porter as the nurse, bearing a tray of medicine. Mrs. Johnson made many humorous diagnoses of the guests, leaving the honoree until the last. She then said that this patient required the largest pill she had and sent the nurse for it. The bag was a big suitcase filled with gifts and the remainder of the evening was devoted to unwrapping the packages and passing them around.

Cake and frosted grape juice were served to: Mmes. Jim Pritchett, Raymond Dunagan, Josh Johnson, W. W. Crenshaw, J. T. Corcoran, C. E. Johnson, Ray Shaw, E. C. Boatler, Howard Lester, Olive B. Riley, C. A. Murdock, Jack Johnson, Miller Harris, Rodney Trapnell, L. C. Stumper, Claude Miller, John Porter, Willard Sullivan and Douglas Perry and Miss Marie Coughlin.

Gifts were sent by Mmes. Lindsey Marchbanks, R. L. Pritchett, Henry Edwards, T. B. Hoover, James Eason, G. T. Hall and Miss Bertha Shugert.

Evening Bridge Club Meets For Play At Jack Hodges' Home

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hodges, Jr., entertained members of their evening bridge club Wednesday at their home with a delightful Saint Patrick's party. Bowls of beautiful roses were room decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson scored highest.

A sandwich plate was passed to the following couples: Messrs. and Mmes. A. Swartz, John Ross Williamson, Henry Covert, Jim Zack and George Tate.

The Coverts will entertain the club next.

Auto Employment In '35 Exceeded Only By '29 Total

NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—The Automobile Manufacturers association today announced that production of automobiles gave work in 1935 to a higher average number of persons than in any preceding year except one. The employment total for the year just past came within ten thousand men of equalling the 1929 all-time record of 447,000 workers.

This occurred despite the fact that the 1935 output of motor vehicles was still a million and a quarter cars below the 1929 mark, according to Alfred Reeves, vice-president and general manager of the association, summarizing a study of employment in automobile assembly, body and parts plants based upon the compilations of the U. S. bureau of labor statistics and the U. S. census of manufactures which has just been completed by the association's statistical department.

"Comparison with the industry's second best year, 1928, accentuates this showing," Reeves asserted. "Average employment that year was 435,000 workers by comparison with 1935's figure of 438,000 employees, but its production was 4,350,000 motor vehicles or 350,000 greater than last year's output of 4,000,000 units. "While the general expectations of the industry are for greater production in 1936 than in 1935, the figures for last year must be interpreted cautiously because of introduction of the new 1936 models in the fall," continued Mr. Reeves. "This brought two periods of building dealer inventories into a single year, a situation not likely to recur soon. This fact, however, does not affect expectations as to total employment for the current year."

New Astaire-Rogers Picture Billed At The Ritz Sunday
They're back—and "they" means Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, the singing-dancing-romancing-laughing pair who together constitute one of the biggest box-office attractions in moviedom just now. The new Astaire-Rogers production, "Follow the Fleet," plays a Saturday matinee showing at the Ritz and is there on Sunday and Monday.
The nimble feet and the voice of Astaire are given a workout in the new picture. He sings four new Irving Berlin songs, one with Miss Rogers; and dances four times, three times with his attractive partner and one solo dance.
He sings "We Saw the Sea," "I'd Rather Lead a Band," and "Let's Face the Music and Dance," and he and Miss Rogers join in the rendition of "All My Eggs in One Basket."
He and Miss Rogers do a hot collegiate ballroom routine to "Let Yourself Go." Later they join in a comedy pantomime dance to "All My Eggs in One Basket." And for a finale, they do an interpretative dance to "Let's Face the Music and Dance."
For his solo dance, Astaire does a sensational seven-minute tap routine to "I'd Rather Lead a Band." Twenty-four sailors accompany him in this novelty drill dance which is the rhythmic highlight of the picture.
Astaire and Miss Rogers are supported by a cast headed by Harriet Hilliard and Randolph Scott. Miss Hilliard, a newcomer to the films, is hailed as a "find." For some time a featured singer with Ozzie Nelson's orchestra on the radio, she sings to Berlin numbers, "Get These Behind Me, Satan" and "Here Am I, But Where Are You?"

Ritz Presents
'Annie Oakley'

Barbara Stanwyck, Preston Foster in Leading Roles

The days of Buffalo Bill—days of super-showmanship unique in American entertainment—are dramatized in romance and action in "Annie Oakley" which plays Friday and Saturday at the Ritz theater, with Barbara Stanwyck in the starring role.

With a story based on many actual events, "Annie Oakley" presents the romantic career of its title character, probably the greatest rifle shot ever known. Backing this chronicle is the Buffalo Bill Wild West show in which the principals took part and which flourished during the eighties.

A SAILOR NOW

Your old friend Fred Astaire turns sailor in the new picture, "Follow the Fleet," in which he appears with Ginger Rogers at the Ritz theatre at a Saturday matinee show and on Sunday and Monday. The film has all the Astaire-Rogers singing and dancing.

Scenes of the Buffalo Bill show and other exciting sequences of early western days are stressed in the picture. With Miss Stanwyck and Foster in the case are Melvyn Douglas, Moroni Olsen, who plays the part of Buffalo Bill; Pert Kelton and Andy Clyde.

ELECTRICITY IS YOUR biggest bargain

IT'S REAL ECONOMY TO MAKE FULL USE OF YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE

Thrifty housewives who keep a close check on expenses know that electricity is the biggest bargain of all household needs. They also know that the more electricity they use, the more they save in time, energy, add to the comfort of their home and protect the health of their family.

They know, for instance, that a penny's worth of electricity cleans the rugs in the entire house; that a few pennies a day is all it costs to keep food fresh and healthful in an electric refrigerator; that good light for reading costs only a penny or two an evening, and radio entertainment for a whole evening costs less than three cents.

When the end of a month comes around, they know that the cost of full use of electric service has averaged only a few cents a day, and is one of the smallest items of household expense . . . and the biggest bargain.

There Is A Difference

There is a difference in electrically made coffee. An electric percolator or coffee maker extracts the flavor—but not the bitterness. See the new percolators and coffee makers at our store.

Penny Wise Says:

"Electricity is so cheap that a penny's worth is more than enough to make coffee for the average family's breakfast. But the flavor is what counts, and only the steady heat of an electric percolator or coffee maker brings out all the goodness of coffee."

THE SPIRIT OF THE CENTENNIAL

Fitting climax to ceremonies marking a week rich in Texas history is today's program at San Antonio commemorating the fall of the Alamo, which, 100 years ago was an incident of martyrdom touching off the flame of spirit that within a few weeks was to bring Texans their freedom. For it was spirit, more than anything else, that defeated Santa Anna at San Jacinto.

The Alamo program is the finale of a series of events opening this state's year-long birthday fiesta. This has been a significant week for Texas, for it launched the great Centennial program.

Let it be said the initial week was a success. Historic events were observed in fitting manner; the attention of the nation was focused on Texas; the people of the state itself were led to pause and reflect the glories of their own empire.

There is no reason that the Centennial year should not be just as successful, from San Jacinto Day next month, on through the Fall anniversary events.

There are some who have asserted that the Centennial celebration, particularly the central exposition at Dallas, would be nothing more than a glorified carnival, with the fan dancers and the souvenir hawkers. This is an exaggerated viewpoint, for Centennial leaders have demonstrated with the type of observances this week that the 100th birthday of this state will be celebrated in a fashion worthy of Texas.

Historical ceremonies cannot comprise the whole observance. The Centennial was not conceived thusly. While Texas can point with pride to her progress of the past century, she must at the same time exhibit with the same pride her vast resources and her great advantages of today. She must point with hope and confidence to the greater achievements of the future.

And this will be the mission of the central exposition. There Texas—meaning every interest, every asset and every enterprise—will be on parade for the world to see and pass judgment.

If the Centennial program is carried on with that in view, and in keeping with this week's celebrations, the verdict will be one of honor to this state.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — That new exhibition of sketches and drawings by petite Angna Enters, the dancer, who is also a composer, author, costume-designer, painter, and actress includes such subjects of realism as an ice-cream soda and a yellow tapeline that women use in making dresses.

But it was the soda that caught my fancy. It reminded me of an oil painting I saw once of a beautiful woman with her chin resting on a lamb chop. I am unable to recall the artist's name, but his motive was to depict the attainment of dreams in real life. I believe the canvas was supposed to point out how accessible are most of the things we like to fancy as unobtainable.

Miss Enters, however, drew upon the soda merely because she thinks it is symbolic of America, just as the dress-maker's frame is symbolic of the female figure. The yellow tapeline she imagines as a writhing serpent.

But this diminutive dancer whose real name is Anita and who changed it to Angna because she likes the way it spells backwards and forwards, isn't attempting to sermonize or create an upheaval in art. With her it's diversion, as in golf. She carries a notebook at all times and fills it continually with impromptu sketches. A fast worker, the 300 subjects in this exhibit were all done in five months. Once she finishes 65 in less than four weeks.

My favorite story of Helen Hayes is the one about Charlie MacArthur's jubilation after she accepted his proposal. Helen at the time was famous for her portrayal of Cleopatra in the play about Anthony and the Lady of the Nile. "How could I help falling in love with a Helen who was also a Cleopatra?" Charlie asked.

Which reminds me that Helen was only nine years old when, as a protegee of Lew Fields, she came up from Washington to make her debut on Broadway. Fields put her in "Old Dutch," with Vernon Castle, John Bunny, Charles Judels, Eva Davenport, and Johnny Henshaw.

Broadway was really aflame the night that show opened. John Barrymore was starring in "The Fortune Hunter," and down the street George M. Cohan was making theatrical history in "The Man Who Owned Broadway." George Arliss was also on Broadway, and that was the night Geraldine Farrar first sang Tosca at the Met.

Now the jocular Judels is in pictures. I don't know where Eva Davenport and Henshaw are, but John Bunny and Vernon Castle are both dead.

Those New Yorkers who went south to escape the rigors of winter are returning—which means that the pawn shops soon will be exhibiting a new line of wares. About this time every season the hockshop windows suddenly sprout new displays of slightly-used binoculars, bits of tasty luggage, and other items used in the sally southward. The boys spend so much coin on their holiday that they, perforce, are compelled to pawn their personal possessions to tide them over until a new stake is obtained.

Hazel Dawn, who was so breath-taking in "The Pink Lady," still has that golden loveliness, but she is married and retired from the stage.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW FEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Here is one of the most amazing confessions in recent newspaper history. Innumerable expeditions have gone to the jungles of Brazil to find Paul Redfern, the aviator supposed to be still alive and living among the tropical Indians.

Now the man who first spread the word that Redfern was living as a "white god" in Brazil comes forward with the statement that it was all a hoax.

He is Carl Liddle, newspaperman and author of jungle books. "It was a straight 'moon hoax' story," said Liddle in an exclusive statement to the Merry-Go-Round. "I cooked it up. I was merely and only trying to sell a book."

"However, this yarn sent mere expeditions to South America looking for Paul Redfern than I sold books."

The story Carl Liddle started was that Redfern probably landed on some jungle river or lake, and because he had come down from the sky, was hailed as a "white god" by the Indians. Liddle believed that Redfern must be held in a special shrine by the Indians and given the best of care so that he could not escape.

After first giving out this story, Liddle says that he "sent photographs to all the air pilots in the United States, Canada, Central and South America; also to members of the Explorers club and every anthropologist in the United States."

"It's very seldom that old police reporters, like myself, make confessions," Liddle said.

"But certain real evidence on Paul Redfern is as simple as A. B. C. All that has to be done is to have the Brazilian authorities pass word along to all the tribes in and around the alleged position, where rumors claim Redfern crashed up, that a ransom of 1,000 machetes plus 1,000 steel spearheads will be paid to the tribe that brings in Paul Redfern alive, or a piece of his plane or some of his clothing or personal effects.

"Such a ransom, once those Indians hear about it, will turn every stick and stone in that particular wilderness."

"This will solve the mystery and forever put an end to 'moon hoax'."

Radio Roosevelt
Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the president, is going into the broadcasting business on a big scale. He has just acquired options to buy three radio stations, WACO at Waco, Tex., KTAT at Fort Worth, and KOMA at Oklahoma City, all a part of the Southwest Broadcasting system.

Loans To Industry
The problem of government loans to private industry, once again has been put on the president's desk and is receiving serious attention.

Reason for revival of interest is the fact that all the administration's ballyhoo regarding loans to industry has produced actual advances of only $78,000,000. And congress has authorized the lending of $580,000,000.

Approximately half was to be loaned through the federal reserve banks and about half through the reconstruction finance corporation. But, despite the easing of collateral requirements by congress last year, most of those millions have been lying idle in RFC and federal reserve strongboxes.

In the files of reserve banks are close to 8,000 loan applications. The total approved to date is slightly over 2,000. A similar situation exists in the RFC.

Special Study
Last summer Dr. Jacob Viner, economic assistant to Secretary Morgenthau, made an extended study of the situation and filed a report sharply criticizing the elaborate red-tape necessary before applicants obtain a loan. He found that sometimes the cost of obtaining a loan was almost as much as the amount sought.

Despite Viner's reproofs nothing was done until recently when a bill was introduced in congress to establish an independent "bank" for small loans to industry.

With business men and members displaying keen interest in the plan, the White House began to take notice. At its request the treasury has taken the matter under advisement again.

Jetman
Unnoticed in the crowd that surged around the entrance of the Harvard Fly club to see the president the other night was a typical O. Henry character, a human derelict.

He arrived too late to see Roosevelt come in and so stood there for two hours in the bitter cold, not moving an inch. He was so nondescript that police and secret service men did not bother him, although everyone else finally was excluded from the area.

When the president emerged, by previous arrangement he stepped forward to speak to a girl stricken with paralysis. Simultaneously the girl fell prostrate forward to shake his hand, but was shoved back.

He went away muttering: "They pushed me back. I was going to shake his hand, but they pushed me back. Greatest president since Lincoln, but they pushed me back."

You can play the "numbers" in the U. S. capitol without going out of the building. There is a "runner" in the senate restaurant who will take your bet any day in the week. . . . Sightseers in the new supreme court building often ask if this is the place where the NRA was declared unconstitutional. The answer is No; then they trek across to the capitol building to gaze at the old courtroom. . . . HAUNTED HOUSE?
Lindy Leases Place Where Ghost Said To Appear

LONDON, Mar. 6 (UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has leased the rambling Kenilth country house in which William Caxton, England's first printer, is reputed to have been born five centuries ago and where his ghost is supposed to linger.

Local gossip has it that each moonlight night his ghost returns to the room in which he was born, and erects his creaking printing press.

Col. Lindbergh is understood to have selected the home because there is an airframe only five miles from it. It is about 30 miles south-east by south from London.

Mr. and Mrs. Pascal Peak of Lubbock have moved to Big Spring to make their home. Mrs. Peak is a sister of Mrs. Roy V. Jones.

SOFTBALL PLAY IN MICHIGAN BY 15,000 IS LIKELY

LANSING, Mich., Mar. 6 (UP)—Michigan will launch into its third year of organized softball this month with prospects of the best season since the inception of the sport in the state, Commissioner Seth Witmore said today.

Whitmore expects more than 25,000 players to enroll in the association this year in comparison with 4,000 of last year and the comparatively small number of 1,000 in 1934.

According to Whitmore the upward swing in membership will be accentuated by the class B state tournament to be sponsored by the association this year. This playoff will be in addition to the championship tourney to be held over labor day, probably in the capital city for the third consecutive year.

The class B tourney will only be for men's teams, while the championship grind will be for men and women.

The Michigan association is affiliated with the Amateur Softball Association of America, which this year is recognized by the national A. A. U. as the governing body of amateur softball.

Sheriff To Be Greatest Hockey Player All Time
DETROIT, Mar. 6 (UP)—Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey league, believes 22-year-old Johnny Sherr, a native of Calumet, Mich., is destined to become the greatest American-born hockey player of all time.

That belief takes in a lot of ground. But Adams, quite a judge of hockey talent and once a star among the thousands of brilliant Canadian-born players, doesn't hesitate to say:
"That Sherr will outrank George Owen, of Harvard, who played with the Boston Bruins.
That he will rate above those two other American-born puck chasers, Leroy Goldworthy of Los Angeles and Roger Jenkins of the Chicago Blackhawks.
That Sherr will some day outshine Cecil Dillon, of the New York Rangers whom Adams calls the greatest American-born ice star now playing the game.
Sherr never saw Canada until he traveled across the border as a member of the University of Michigan team, for which he starred for three years and from which he came this season to the Detroit Olympics, the Red Wings "fact." He has been playing fast hockey, overcoming the handicap of not passing enough after a collegiate career in which he was forced to make solo dashes because teammates couldn't match his speed.
"I could bring Sherr up to the Red Wings right now," says Adams, "and he would play at a respectable game. He's a great natural player, with a long swinging stride, and doesn't chop at the ice as so many American players do. He is good at back checking and carrying the puck.
"For a while he thought we were carrying him because he used to be Michigan's captain. Now he's getting confidence in himself and each game he's better."

Chapter 23 CONSULTATION "Mr. Hawkins..."

"When does one say 'my lady' and when does one say 'your ladyship'?"

"I know," said Frankie. "Are you driving yourself?"

"You are coming back?" he said with curious insistence.

"Bobby," said Frankie, "do you think it possible that Roger might fall for me?"

"Then we are on the right track," she said. "And Dr. Nicholson is mixed up in all this!"

"What is he like?" "Oh! big and forceful—and he watches you. Very intently behind glasses. And you feel he knows all about you."

SUCCESS OF 24 YEARS OF CAMPAIGNING MAKES MILWAUKEE SAFEST CITY IN U. S.

MILWAUKEE, Mar. 5 (AP)—Long years of effort have given Milwaukee the safest streets of any large American city and a "triple-E" safety program widely copied by other municipalities.

In Glasgow, Scotch shipbuilders have 80 ships on the stocks, while Southampton also reports a revival in shipbuilding.

At present compulsory sickness and maternity insurance covers about 90,000,000 persons in 21 countries.

This figure includes railway workers, who are everywhere protected by special schemes, as well as government officials "who are covered in nearly every country."

A broad program of engineering, enforcement and education has been copied widely and won for the municipality the title of the "safest city." Effective Milwaukee traffic control is pictured above.

ARMS PROGRAM SPEEDS BRITISH FACTORY WORK

LONDON, Mar. 6 (AP)—Britain's projected $1,500,000,000 rearmament program is expected to give British industry a shot in the arm that will put tens of thousands to work and bring black smoke pouring out of steel mill and workshop.

For weeks and months, with the talk of rearmament in the air, the centers of industry have been getting ready. Factories have been put in order. The demand for tools and machinery has cut deep into unemployment.

Miss. many women have taken Cardui on the advice of their mothers who had been helped by it. "I would have severe cramping spells," writes Mrs. F. C. Allen, of Smithdale, Miss. projects for these rivers from being carried out as hydro-electric projects whose natural operation would be such as to defeat the flood control which the people of Texas have so generally expected on these two rivers.

"Our company is and has been very much in favor of flood control and irrigation on these two rivers, but obviously the present designs of the federal government agencies dominating these developments will, if carried out, greatly restrict if not entirely thwart the flood control of these streams.

"Reservoirs and basins intended for flood control must, if they are to really check and hold flood waters, be maintained at low enough water levels to provide sufficient capacity to receive and restrain the flood waters during the rainy season and to permit the orderly flow of these waters down stream. The flood waters must be released as quickly as the capacity of the river channel below will allow, so that the reservoir capacity will again, and promptly, be available for subsequent rainfall and flood water. It has been recently determined, however, that the government-aided projects are now being planned to contain hydro-electric generating capacity designed to require keeping these reservoirs at high level for power purposes and in our opinion practically nullify their usefulness for flood control.

"A new set of plans for the development of these two rivers on a proper flood control and irrigation basis, will, we hope, result from our court action, to take the place of the series of hydro-electric power projects which are being fostered by PWA and WPA for the principal purpose of competing unnecessarily and unfairly with already established, adequate electrical facilities."

seige and assault. "At daybreak of the 6th inst. the enemy surrounded the fort with their infantry, with the cavalry forming a circle outside to prevent escape on the part of the garrison; the number consisted of at least 4,000 against 140! General Santa Ana commanded in person, assisted by four generals and a formidable train of artillery. Our men had been previously much fatigued and harassed by night-watching and incessant toils, having experienced for some days past, a heavy bombardment and several real and feigned attacks. But American valor and American love of liberty displayed themselves to the last; they were never more conspicuous; twice did the enemy apply to the walls their scaling ladders, and twice did they receive a check; for our men were determined to verify the words of the immortal Travis—to make the victory worse to the enemy than a defeat! A pause ensued after the second attack, which was renewed on the third time, owing to the exertions of Santa Ana and his officers; they then poured in over the walls, like sheep; the struggle, however, did not even there cease—unable from the crowd and for want of time to load their guns and rifles, our men made use of the butt-ends of the latter and continued to fight and to resist, until life ebbed out through their numberless wounds and the enemy had conquered the fort, but not its brave, its matchless defenders; they perished, but they yielded not; only one (Warner) remained to ask for quarter, which was denied by the unrelenting enemy—total extermination succeeded, and the darkness of death occupied the memorable Alamo, but recently so teeming with gallant spirits and filled with deeds of never-fading remembrance. We envy not the feelings of the victors, for they must have been bitter and galling; not proud ones. Who would not be rather one of the Alamo heroes, than of the living of its merciless victors! Spirits of the mighty, though fallen; honours and rest are with ye; the spark of immortality which animated your forms, shall brighten into a flame, and Texas, the whole world, shall hail ye like demigods of old, as founders of new actions, and as patterns for imitation!

"From the commencement to its close, the storming lasted less than an hour. Major Evans, master of ordnance, was killed when in the act of setting fire to the powder magazine, agreeably to the previous orders from Travis. The end of David Crockett of Tennessee, the great hunter of the west, was as glorious as his career through life had been useful. He and his companions were found surrounded by piles of assailants, whom they had immolated on the altar of Texas liberties. The countenance of Crockett was unchanged; he had in death that freshness of hue, which his exercise of pursuing the beasts of the forest and the prairie had imparted to him. Texas places him, exultingly, amongst the martyrs in her cause. Colonel Travis stood on the walls cheering his men, exclaiming, "Hurra, my boys!" till he received a second shot, and fell; it is stated that a Mexican general, (Mora) then rushed upon him, and lifted his sword to destroy his victim, who, collecting all his last expiring energies, directed a thrust at the former, which changed their relative positions; for the victim became the victor, and the remains of both descended to eternal sleep; but not alike to everlasting fame.

"Travis' negro was spared, because, as the enemy said, 'his master had behaved like a brave man'; words of themselves form an epitaph; they are already engraved on the hearts of Texans, and should be inscribed on his tomb. Col. James Bowie, who had for several days been sick, was murdered in his bed; his remains were mutilated. Humanity shudders at describing these scenes; and the pen, as if a living thing, stops to gain fresh force, that sensibility may give way to duty.

"Suspended animation has returned to the instrument of our narration, and we continue. Mrs. Dickinson and her child, and a negro of Bowie's, and as before said, Travis' were spared.

"Our dead were denied the right of Christian burial; being stripped and thrown into a pile and burned. Would that we could gather up their ashes and place them in urns!

"It is stated that about fifteen hundred of the enemy were killed and wounded in the last and previous attacks."

Approximately 100 subsidy payment applications have been handled out of the county agent's office in the one week since the work was resumed, M. Weaver, adjutant assistant, said Friday.

Producers eligible to apply have cooperated well by not coming in crowds to make application, he said. However, most of them have been coming in the afternoons and making the work more difficult. Weaver suggested it would be well for some to make morning appointments.
