Large crowd speaks against tax increase

By JOHN BROOKS Managing Editor

A crowd of just over 100 persons jammed the 222nd District courtroom on Monday evening to voice their opinion on Deaf Smith County's proposed 7.999 percent tax increase for the 1989-90 fiscal year.

County commissioners are required to hold a public hearing for any tax increase over three percent.

After hearing from the public for almost 90 minutes, the commissioners did not make a final decision on the tax increase. That decision will likely come on July 10, at the next commissioners' court meeting.

Not all of the persons attending the meeting addressed the commissioners, who sat at the tables normally reserved for lawyers, plaintiffs and defendants in the courtroom. Most of those who did speak at the meeting protested the proposed five percent pay increase for county employees and elected officials.

"It's fine and dandy that the county can give pay raises and raise taxes, but where are we going to get the money to pay those taxes," asked Burke Inman. "I haven't had a raise in five years ... The trucker is not making no money. Personally, I can't pay this. Do you think we can just reach into a hat to pay this?

"It's fine to say no raise in three years, but justify it."

Later in the hearing, Inman asked that the county "get back to productivity."

"I'm not patting myself on the back, but I don't think any of them work as hard as Burke Inman, not any of them I have seen. I know I've seen a lot of loafing going on," Inman said.

"A lot of businesses have seen a decline in income," said Boyd Foster. "It's tough for them to pay higher taxes." Foster asked if the commissioners had explored all avenues on insurance plans.

Foster then compared salaries of Deaf Smith county elected officials with those of some surrounding counties, using Castro County (Castro County adjoins Deaf Smith County to the south of Hereford) salaries for most of his examples.

"It appears that all elected officials in Deaf Smith County are going to make $5,000, $10,000, $11,000 more than Castro County officials," Foster said.

County Judge Tom Simons later pointed out that he has a significantly higher caseload in his court than does Castro County Judge Polly Simpson, and said that many other offices in Deaf Smith County have a significantly higher workload than does Castro County.

Foster also compared Deaf Smith county commissioners' salaries with those of Randall County.

"Randall County has a full-time road engineer. That's one of the differences," said Precinct 1 Commissioner John Stribling. "A big part of our time is spent out on the roads. In Randall County they don't have to deal with this."

"I think the county should cut services until we meet resistance," said Davis Ford. "Then, we could work something out in the middle. Thee's something wrong with the present structure."

"Where would you suggest we cut?" asked Judge Simons.

"Only being back here for 2 1/2 years it's hard to say, but I don't think we are using our dollars very efficiently."

Ron Crist said the commissioners were "doing a good job and I know your have wrestled pretty hard with this. I think you have spent so much time with this that you haven't really gotten the feeling of the people. I think you're getting it here tonight.

"I don't know which is costing a lot and which is not, but I think you should come off (the tax increase) a certain percentage.

"It comes down to the point where you increase taxes or you cut services, and maybe we have come to the place where we cut services. We're serving way too many people anyway."

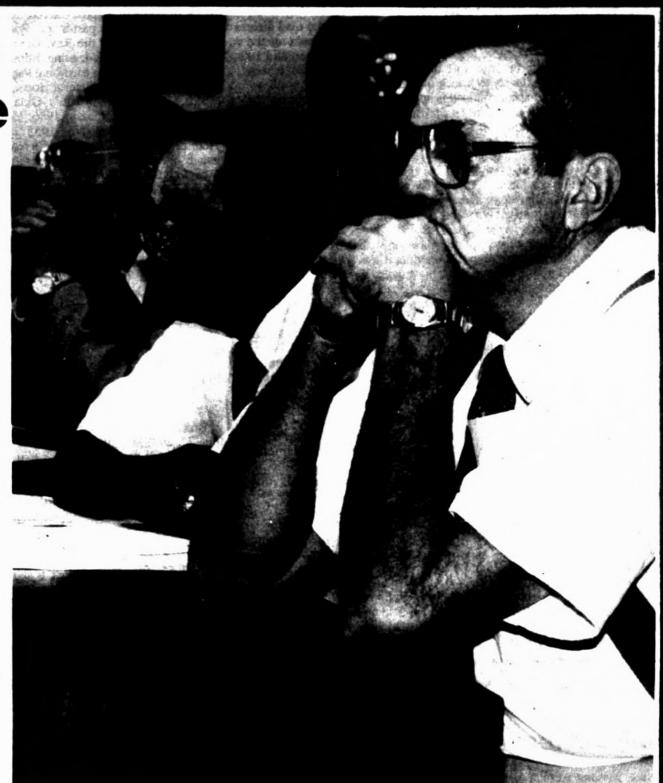

"We need to get off our hind ends and increase our tax base," said Larry Malamen. "There has been a lack of commitment to help this community. We need to quit looking behind us and look at what is coming in the next 3, 5, 7, 10, 15 and 20 years."

At the conclusion of the hearing, Simons made an impassioned plea for the county's case.

"Our legislators came back from Austin and told you they didn't raise taxes," Simons said. "But they raised taxes because the state is not doing what the state was doing 10 years ago or five years ago.

"The jail system is not the only place where the state has shirked its responsibilities. They have also cut social services. You need to look at who we assist and why we assist them.

"We are certainly willing to try to cut the budget. We didn't just come in here and decide to raise

County tentatively adopts budget

By SAM WALLER Staff Writer

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners on Monday tentatively adopted the proposed budget for fiscal 1990 by a unanimous vote at their regular session.

The budget passed with little problem when no one from the audience offered any discussion on the matter. County Judge Tom Simons said most of the increase in the budget was targeted for the county jail to comply with state mandates and included a $288,000 payment (10 percent of the total budget) on the facility.

Also included in the budget was a five percent pay raise for county employees, the first pay raise in three years.

The budget has not yet had its final adoption. That will not come until after the county sets its tax rate

Grand jury hands down indictments

A Deaf Smith County grand jury has returned indictments against 19 persons in its regular June session.

Commissioners agreed to build and maintain the road if the landowners can work out other matters concerning the land needed for the route. Simons authorized County Tax Assessor-Collector Margaret Perez to organize a meeting of the landowners to discuss the matter with Precinct 1 Commissioner John Stribling to attend.

In other business, the Commissioners heard a presentation by Gary Stephens of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company on the Texas First plan which has been submitted to the Texas Public Utilities Commission.

Stephens said the program will allow Bell to do away with fourparty lines and mileage charges for rural customers within five years as well as reducing billing rates and making available services such as call forwarding to these customers.

After Stephens' presentation, the Commissioners unanimously adopted a resolution endorsing the Texas First plan and calling for its consideration by the PUC.

Babbling Brooks Obituaries

IF we had HSE, we could be enjoying a new sport, turkey bowling, which last week starred George W. Bush, the son of George H., who just happens to be your president.

Turkey bowling is not a new sport. In fact, it's probably been around since the supermarket replaced the grocery store, maybe longer.

On Norm Hitzges' Tailgate Party, a show we would enjoy if we had HSE, folks get to enjoy turkey bowling. You just need a tiled aisle that doesn't have those stacks of four-for-a-buck tomato sauce in the way, a frozen turkey (the more expensive the turkey, the better) and 10 2-liter bottles of your favorite soft drink. You just slide the frozen turkey down the aisle and try to knock over the pins, er, bottles.

George W. got to participate in this sporting event on Hitzges show in June this week. Just before he let the Butterball rip, he told Hitzges, "You definitely don't want to step over the fowl line."

I think we are going to enjoy the Bush family for at least another three-odd years, and perhaps longer.

We have a family that actually likes most other family members, unlike the previous tenants at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

We have presidential dogs again, like when LBJ was living there. We have a First Lady to whom a lot of American women can relate, unlike Fancy Nancy and her red dresses.

The whole thing is more middle class now than it's been since Smilin' Jimmy was in there, maybe more than it's ever been.

Another good thing is that we don't have a deaf President. Have you noticed how the reporters have suddenly stopped yelling? Some of that may be due to Sam Donaldson's absence from the White House press corps. His vocal cords needed a rest. But, you have to ask questions if you're going to get a story, and the only way questions could be asked of the previous tenant was to holler at him on his way by.

That doesn't mean those media folks don't harass the president a little bit. Or a lot. I thought George showed some cool in that primetime news conference when everybody wanted to know what George was going to do about China.

George tried to tell them that he had cut off arms sales, but didn't know what else he might do. We'll just look at the situation in the days to come and if further decisions need to be made, we'll make 'em, he said.

Well, what are those decisions going to be, the media asked. And asked. And asked.

It's a wonder George didn't tell 'em to go jump in the lake.

Another little George W. goodie.

George W. spoke to the annual Texas Press Association convention last week in Arlington, just across the parking lot from Arlington Stadium. The stadium is the home of George. W's newest acquisition, the Texas Rangers.

George was asked whether or not he was going to run for governor. George was candid with his answer. He said his mom, Barb, told him not to. He said he had never minded his Mama before, and didn't know if this was a good time to start.

The fraternization rule will remain the way it has been," Leslie Haynes said Monday after her introduction. "I don't think that he understood ... how firm that we were" on that rule.

More than one-third of the squad resigned last week after they said Jones was threatening their wholesome image by proposing changes in uniforms and fraternization rules.

Mrs. Haynes told reporters Jones had promised that rules forbidding fraternization between players and cheerleaders would remain intact. Violation of the no-fraternization rule results in immediate expulsion.

Mrs. Haynes said she and Jones were to meet today with all the cheerleaders, including those who resigned, to explain their position and invite them to return.

Rose report released

CINCINNATI (AP) - One hundred days after baseball announced the gambling investigation of Pete Rose, its commissioner is on the defensive and its report on the allegations are finally public.

A. Bartlett Giamatti struck back Monday against Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Norbert A. 'Nadel's ruling that prevents the commissioner from deciding allegations that the Reds manager bet on his own team. Giamatti and other baseball officials had announced an investigation of the allegations on March 20.

Baseball also won a legal skirmish Monday when Nadel agreed to make public a report by investigator John M. Dowd that contains evidence Rose bet on Reds games from 1985 through 1987. Baseball's lawyers had tried for five days to get the report released.

Giamatti's lawyers told a state appeals court on Monday that the judge's ruling protecting Rose from any disciplinary action by the commissioner for the next two weeks has undercut Giamatti's ability to protect the integrity of baseball.

Giamatti's lawyers contend baseball will be irreparably harmed if the courts assume the power to decide baseball matters now handled by the commis-

'If every action by the commissioner to investigate and determine matters affecting the integrity of the game were to be subject to court intervention and delay, the commissioner's ability to safeguard the integrity of the game would be destroyed," Giamatti's lawyers told the 1st Ohio District Court of Appeals in a filing.

gave Rose's lawyers until Wednesday to reply to the request that it suspend Nadel's decision to give Rose a temporary restraining order. Judges Rupert A. Doan, Harry T. Klusmeier and Lee H. Hildebrandt Jr. comprise the appellate panel.

Giamatti's lawyers claimed Nadel's unprecedented ruling an incorrect intrusion on Giamatti's authority and an attack upon baseball's foundation. Rose disagrees.

I just want people to understand one thing about what we're trying to do," Rose said following the Reds' 5-3 victory Monday night over Los Angeles. "We're not trying to change the rules of baseball one iota. "I'm not a pioneer of any sort. I love the game of baseball and baseball is my life. However, we feel the people who run baseball have to stay within the rules and the guidelines that they set, and we don't feel the commissioner did. And that's why we went to court.

"And lo and behold, the judge agreed with us, so we weren't as wrong as it seems.'

Nadel's ruling prevents the commissioner from taking any action against Rose for 14 days and stipulates that he will remain manager of the Reds for that time. Rose could be banned from baseball for life if it's unbelievable."

Giamatti concludes he bet on his own team.

The commissioner's lawyers finally prevailed in their dispute with Nadel over releasing the Dowd report.

The 225-page report and seven volumes of evidence were released at 5 p.m. EST, the deadline given by the Ohio Supreme Court for making the documents public. That court had determined there was no reason for Nadel to keep the report private.

Dowd's report contains evidence that Rose bet $2,000 per game on the Reds and other baseball teams during the summer of 1987 and set up an extensive gambling network over a three-year period.

Giamatti's lawyers had tried to get the full report made public after Rose's lawyers released excerpts of it in their lawsuit against Giamatti.

Rose contends the report is unfair. "There's 225 pages, and there are two paragraphs positive about me," Rose said. "It's such a biased report,

Tribe squeezes by Texas, 4-3

ARLINGTON (AP) - Cleveland's coaching staff recently put John Farrell's delivery under the microscope Doug Jones relieved Farrell in the in an attempt to improve his performance.

It apparently worked as he threw six-hit ball Monday night over 6 23 innings as the Indians salvaged a split of a four-game series with a 4-3 victory over the Texas Rangers.

After posting a 14-10 record in his first full season last year, Farrell was 1-7 over his previous nine starts prior to Monday night. Farrell, 4-8, struck out three and walked one in snapping a personal three-game losing streak. Cleveland had scored 23 runs over Farrell's nine previous starts so the four runs' support was welcome.

The coaches determined that Farrell was standing up too straight during his delivery.

"He had screwed up his mechanics." Indians manager Doc Edwards said. "He was up too straight and couldn't get the ball over the plate consistently. We watched tapes with him until 1:30 in the morning and finally he picked up what he was doing.

The results were gratifying for Farrell.

"It definitely helped," Farrell said. "It changed not only my delivery as HEREFORD ACE MARKETPLACE far as staying together but also my Doug Jones relieved Farrell in the seventh with two outs and a runner on first.

Jones allowed an infield single to Cecil Espy and third baseman Brook Jacoby's throwing error put runners on second and third. But Jones got rookie good in t Sammy Sosa to ground out, then retired the next seven batters for his 17th save.

Jones, among the top short-men in the league, got perhaps the biggest out of the game against the talented but raw rookie Sosa

"I knew he had trouble with offspeed stuff," Jones said. "So I tried to keep off-speed pitches down and the fastball out of the strike zone. He chased a change-up, which is just what we wanted."

The Indians knocked out Rangers starter and loser Bobby Witt, 5-8, in the first. Witt walked leadoff man Jerry Browne, got the next two batters, then gave up three straight singles including RBI hits by Pete O'Brien and Cory Snyder.

The 2-3 inning start was the shortest of Witt's four-year major league career and matched the briefest start by a Rangers pitcher this season. Witt is 0-3 in his last four starts.

The Rangers are extremely concerned about Witt's woes. He has to get it in his head that

Witt has a 7.31 ERA over his last

"It's frustrating for me," Witt said. "The last two or three starts, I felt good in the bullpen. I felt I had good stuff. The balls were just hit.

The Indians padded their lead to 4-1 in the fourth on Joel Skinner's RBI single and Felix Fermin's suicide squeeze bunt.

The inning turned disastrous for Texas when catcher Geno Petralli was lost for a minimum of six-to-eight weeks. Petralli incurred a partially torn ligament in his left knee in a home plate collision with Skinner.

Skinner was attempting to score from second on a two-out single by Jerry Browne but left-fielder Sosa's throw to the plate beat Skinner by 15

Skinner crashed into Petralli, who was blocking the plate. Petralli's knee twisted and he had to be carried off the field after a delay of several minutes.

Rangers fans booed Skinner the rest of the night and Skinner had beer thrown at him by fans behind the Indians dugout. But the Rangers said there was nothing dirty about Skinner's slide.

"It was a good slide," said Valentine. "It was a little late but there was nothing wrong with it."

The Hereford Brand--Tuesday, June 27, 1989--Page 5 San Francisco edges Astros, 4-3

HOUSTON (AP) - San Francisco's a big curve on it." Kevin Mitchell is starting to see many of the same qualities in the 1989 Giants that made the 1986 New York icts World Cham

Mitchell, who has blossomed this year with 25 home runs, started the two-run rally in the seventh inning that made the Giants 4-3 winners over the Houston Astros Monday night. "This is a very confident ball club," Mitchell said. "We're confident and we're very happy. It reminds me a lot of the '86 Mets."

San Francisco, 46-29, has won eight of its last nine games and has a seven-game winning streak over the second-place Astros. "We knew we would win every time we took the field," said Mitchell who was a reserve for the Mets. "We're not cocky. It's just that we're winning and having fun."

With one out in the seventh, Mitchell hit a sinking liner that ricocheted off Houston third baseman Craig Reynolds' glove for a two-base error. Mitchell, who scored two runs without a hit in the game, disagreed with the scorekeepers decision.

"That was a hit, man," Mitchell aid. "From where I was, that ball had Reynolds, who replaced starter Ken Caminiti in a double switch in the sixth inning, thought it was a wicked shot. "It dove so bad that it hit my (bare) hand," Reynolds said. Houston Manager Art Howe thought the error was deserved, but conceded that it was a tough chance. Mitchell was followed by a succession of three pinch hitters who did in losing reliever Juan Agosto, 2-3, and Larry Andersen

Pinch hitter Ken Oberkfell had the game-winning hit on a tapper down the third base line.

"He made a good pitch on me," Oberkfell said. "I just topped it and got an Astroturf hit."

San Francisco Manager Roger Craig was ejected in the sixth inning and Mitchell felt that incident motivated the Giants, but it was the entrance of Steve Bedrosian in the eighth inning that sealed the game for San Francisco.

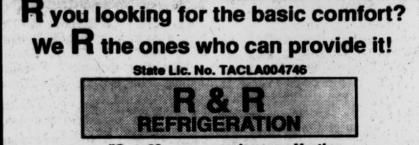

Bedrosian now has 11 saves, including five in the past week since being traded from Philadelphia on June 18

"I feel like I get better the more I go out there," said Bedrosian. "I kind of paced myself knowing I'd have to go two innings."

Even with Bedrosian, the Astros were-still in striking distance with two outs in the ninth inning because base-stealing threat Gerald Young was on first base and the power-hitting Glenn Davis was at bat.

"He (Young) was itching to go," Bedrosian said. "They were trying to take advantage of my high-leg kick because they've down it successfully in the past.

With a one-one count on Davis after numerous throws by Bedrosian to first in an attempt to keep Young close to the bag, Young attempted to steal second and was gunned down when a pitch out was called by the Giants.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter reflects my own feelings about cigarettes after 24 years of smoking. I'm ashamed to admit I'm still at it. I doubt that this letter will have the slightest impact on the heavily addicted. For me, all the words int he world will not take the place of that first cigarette in the morning.

I'd rather address myself to your readers who are 17, as I once was, with a set of healthy lungs, white teeth, clean blood coursing through my veins--and in my pocket my first package of cigarettes.

How was I to know that 24 years later I'd be so hooked that any thought of quitting would be out of the question? How could I know, at 17, that I'd be waking up each morning with a mouth that tastes like the bottom of a bird cage? how could I know my teeth would be stained and my chest would feel as

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read if it were filled with cement? All I grown up.

Although I've never seen my lungs, I know how they must look. My uncle, who is a surgeon, once showed me some before and after pictures. "Sit in on an autopsy one DEAR MOTHER: Here it is. 1 of these days," he said. "You'll see that the nonsmoker's lungs are a bright pink. When I open up the chest cavity of a smoker, the entire respiratory system is nearly black, depending on how long he has smoked."

> Still I continue the filthy habit, going half crazy on mornings when I'm out of cigarettes. I go digging through ashtrays and wastebaskets for a butt to satisfy my craving. I pace the floor like a hungry lion, waiting for the store to open. Then I hurry, unshaven, and hand over another 55 cents for a package of suicide. (That was the price in 1976. Turfgrass expert says Let grass clippings lie revving lawn mowers, can the sight of agged grass clippings be fare behind? Not only far behind, but vanished, says the creator of a lawn care campaign to eliminate the bagging chore.

"Grass clippings increase the volume of residential solid waste by 20 to 25 percent from March to September," said Dr. Bill Knoop, a turfgrass expert with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Dallas.

The added waste places considerable burden on disposal operations and landfill space, not to mention the homeowners who bag all those clippings.

"Fortunately, traditional lawn care practices can be adjusted easily to remedy the problem," said Knoop.

To help lawn keepers change their ways, Knoop devised the "Don't Bag It" Lawn Care Plan. It recommends watering, fertilizing and mowing practices that allow you to leave grass clippings on the lawn.

"It's a tested, proven plan that benefits everyone," said Knoop. "It reduces the trouble and expense of lawn care for homeowners, and helps them conserve water and landfill space and improve the environment."

Early last year, representatives from the extension service, the city of Fort Worth and Fort Worth Clean City Inc. teamed up to promote the "Don't Bag It" Lawn Care Plan in a pilot waste reduction campaign.

"Our municipal landfill has an estimated 16 years of use left at the current rate of waste disposal," said Tom Davis, director of the Fort Worth Department of City Services.

"We're not facing a landfill crisis, but we recognize the need to conserve the remaining space," said Davis. "In For the baby who's ready for solid

When you hear the sound of addition, the city could save about $200,000 in annual disposal costs if all the residents here stopped bagging grass clippings."

By last March, organizers were ready to launch the "Don't Bag It" campaign. As part of the kickoff, volunteer homeowners were recruited to serve as official "Don't Bag It" demonstrators.

"We originally planned to enlist 100 demonstrators, but response was so great we made special arrangements to handle 190," said Bob Whiteney at the Tarrant County office of the extension service.

As a result, "Don't Bag It" yard signs have sprouted across Fort Worth on the lawns of selected volunteers. Other volunteers, who belong to the extension service's Master Gardener program, are supervising the new demonstrators.

In addition, the demonstration sponsors, Green Diamond and TORO. have provided free fertilizer and the loan of 100 new lawn mowers for the growing season.

The extension service is modeling a "Don't Bag It" Lawn Care program after the Fort Worth campaign and will have it available for other cities later this year.

A similar program, based on extension service recommendations. was conducted successfully by the City of Plano in 1981. Called the "Waste-Saver" Lawn Care Plan, it was motivated more by city officials' concerns about operational efficiency, said Knoop.

In its first year, according to city reports, the program saved Plano $60,000 in garbage collection costs, despite a 12 percent growth in the number of households served. Participating residents saved another $22,000 by purchasing fewer plastic bags reuse or recycling of waste

3. treatment to recover energy or other beneficial resources

4. land disposal as the least preferred option

"Regional and local waste management plans must reflect due consideration of this preference by assessing current efforts, identifying additional opportunities, and making recommendations to encourage and achieve a greater degree of waste minimization, reuse and recycling," said Gordon Eppler, environmental quality specialist with the Division of Solid Waste Management, Texas Department of Health.

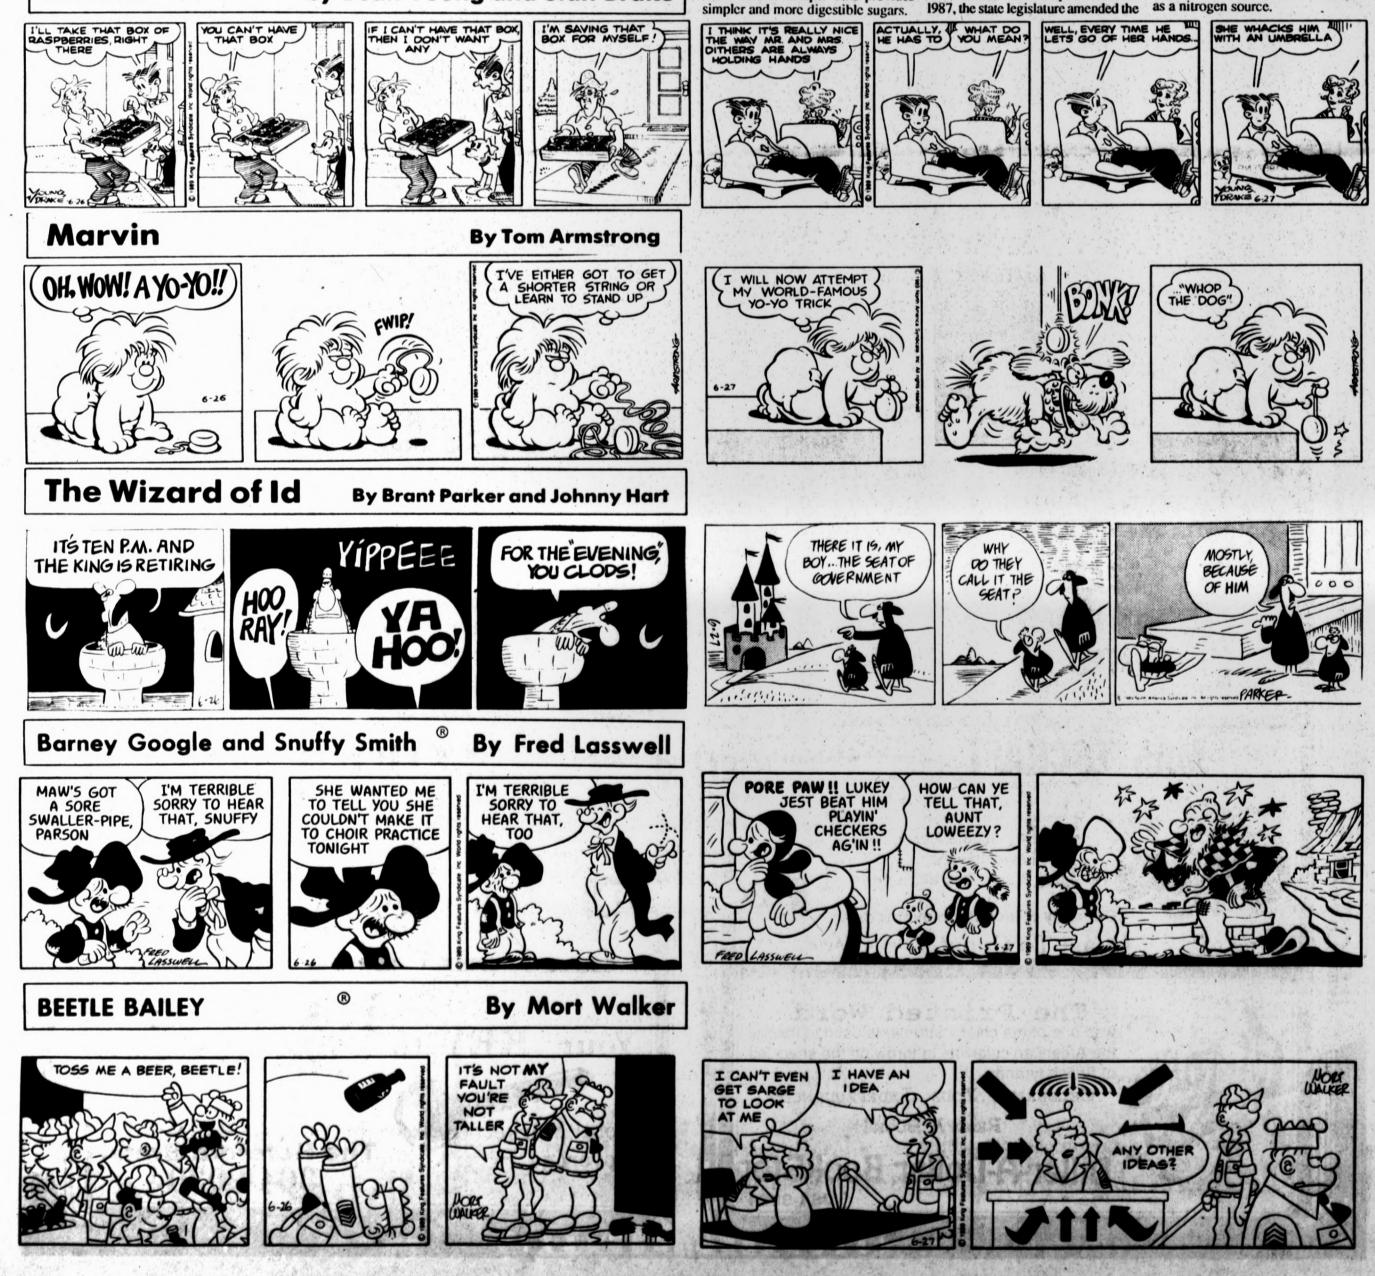

Basics of the "Don't Bag It" Lawn Care Plan are as follows" (Details of mowing heights, fertilizer rates and fertilizer application dates are not included because they vary by location and type of turf.)

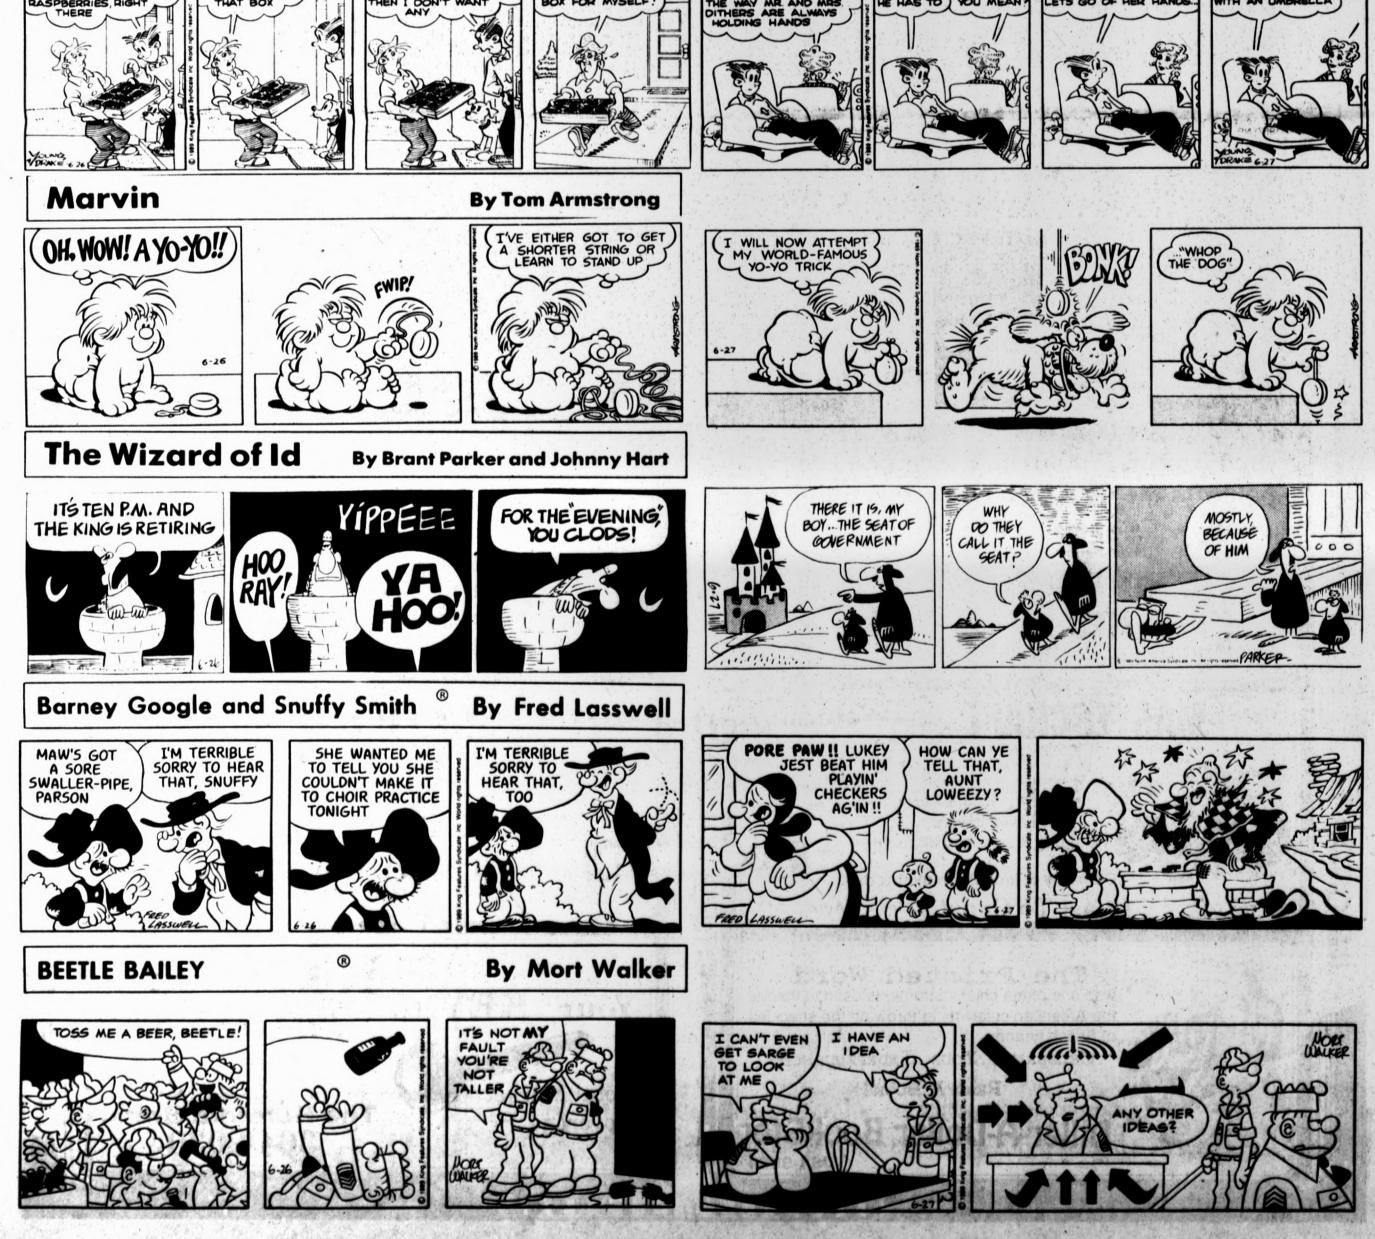

Watering: During the driest period of summer, lawns usually require one inch of water every five to six days. Most hose sprinklers put out onefourth to one-third inch of water per hour. If water runs off the lawn before one inch is applied, turn the sprinkler off, let the water soak in for about one hour, then continue watering. The best time to water is early morning.

Mowing: For optimum results, mow every five to six days instead of once a week. As a rule of thumb, do not remove more than a third of the leaf surface at any one time. Grass clippings left on your lawn will not contribute to thatch, but will return valuable nutrients to the soil.

Fertilizing: The ratio of nutrients in the fertilizer, and the rate and frequency of application all affect how fast grass grows. Fertilize only so the lawn can grow at a reasonable rate and still have good color. For slow, even growth, use a fertilizer containing either sulfur-coated urea or ureaformaldchyde

Roll out nectarine pie for summer

By NANCY BYAL Better Homes and Gardens Magazine Food Editor

Forget the story that nectarines are a cross between a peach and plum. Nectarines are a unique fruit that originally grew wild in Asia. The California supply is appearing at produce counters now and will peak in late June through August.

The lovely red blush on nectarine skins is related to variety, not ripeness. The fruit is picked mature but firm for packing and shipping. When you get nectarines home, place them in a loosely closed paper bag for several days to complete ripening. Don't refrigerate - this interrupts the ripening process. Even ripe nectarines are most flavorful at room temperature. One pound (3 medium nectarines) makes about 2 cups sliced.

- FRESH NECTARINE PIE 1-3rd cup all-purpose flour
- 1-3rd cup sugar
- 1-3rd cup packed brown sugar 1-3rd cup sliced almonds, toasted 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- Few drops almond extract 7 cups sliced fresh nectarines (about fruits)
- Pastry for 9-inch double-crust pie 1 slightly beaten egg white 1 tablespoon sugar

In a large bowl stir together flour, 1-3rd cup sugar, brown sugar, almonds, nutmeg, lemon juice and almond extract. Gently toss with nectarines. Mound fruit into pastrylined 9-inch pie plate; adjust top crust. Seal and flute edge. Brush pastry with egg white; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut slits to allow escape of steam. Cover edge of pie with foil. Bake in 375-degree F oven for 30

Fresh fruit pie

Summer is the time to bake Nectarine Pie, when supplies of California nectarines are at their peak. Toasted sliced almonds give this pie a slightly nutty taste. (Photo: Better Homes and Gardens magazine)

Prosecutors said she called him 485 times one day.

NEW YORK (AP) - Had the rules at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts been different, acidtongue actor Danny DeVito might have been a makeup artist.

DeVito, interviewed in Sunday's Parade magazine, atteneed the prestigious acting academy, intending to become a Hollywood nakeup person.

"But you couldn't enroll as a makeup student. You had to enroll as an actor. I got booked," said DeVito. "I got so involved that I was tormented. ... There was no way out."

DeVito suffered through many rejections and recalled one in particular where a Hollywood casting director told him "nobody wants a 5-foot-tall character actor. Like I was a joke. She wouldn't even take my resume and picture."

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) -It's been a long time coming, but Oscar-winning actor Dustin Hoffman is finally going to be a graduate. The Santa Monica College board BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) - British pop star Sting, a campaigner to protect the Amazon rain forest and native Indians, was stung by criticism and bureaucratic hassles during a visit to the capital.

Sting came here after a two-month international tour to raise funds for creation of a huge Indian reservation in the Amazon jungle.

At a meeting Monday to discuss the campaign, Mario Juruna, a Xavante Indian and ex-congressman, accused the singer of taking advantage of the "purity and innocence of the Indians" for self-promotion: "Why doesn't he dedicate himself to resolving the problem of AIDS or defend the Indians of the United States?"

Sting also was told that to visit Xingu National Park, a major Indian reservation in central Brazil, he would have to meet the usual bureaucratic requirements to enter the restricted area. The red tape was waived for the singer on previous visits.

According to news reports, Sting said nothing but later cancelled a scheduled news conference.

It is estimated that about 68,000 of the slightly over 103,000 motor cars built since Rolls-Royce began of a century ago are still on the road.

By REBECCA WALLS I hope you are having a wonderful summer this year, and I know you are all finding the time to do those special projects you had planned for the warmer months.

For the sports enthusiast we have a couple of books this week you might want to look at, Gunness Olympic Games Records: 776 BC to AD 1988 by Stan Greenberg is a great book for those who also love trivia, and enjoy knowing little bits of information that others don't, but is also a book of inspiration.

Basketball: The Complete Handbook of Individual Skills by Robert W. Fox will give you a chance to develop and improve those fundamental skills that, according to the author, must be mastered by each player before the team can become a winner. This book also includes skill-specific drills, diagrams, photographs, points of emphasis and advanced tips and secrets added to the effectiveness of the mastered skills. Now is the time to gain that extra edge.

Wet Watercolor by Wilfred Ball is another book that will be of interest to many of you. Painting on wet paper can add the excitement of movement, fluidity, transparency and a greater degree of light to your paintings. This book demonstrates how to use both traditional and experimental techniques to bring out the different qualities in your work, and help develop a "loser,

Social Security

Disability determinations for Social Security and supplemental security income (SSI) follow a stepby-step process, Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo, said today.

When someone who is not working applies for disability benefits, the case is referred to the State Disability Determination Service (DDS) to determine the severity of the person's disability. The individual's medical records are reviewed, and a consultative examination may be scheduled if the DDS needs more information, Talbot said.

A person will be found not disabled if evidence establishes only a slight abnormality with no more than a minimal effect on ability to more spontaneous style." Twentyfour different techniques can be used to produce new and exciting results. I intend to find time for this book in the very near future.

It's Always Something is the autobiography of Gilda Radner. This moving story includes Gilda's battle with cancer and her determination to continue laughing. Gilda's gutsy and unique sense of humor never deserts her as she describes two years of cancer therapy and its side effects including baldness. This is the inspiring story of a courageous, funny woman fighting to enjoy life no matter what the Gates Of Paradise by V.C. Andrews is another in the story of the Casteel family. The story is told by Heaven's daughter, Annie, a sweet, loving young woman who has known the happiness that always seemed just out of her mother's reach. Heaven and Logan are killed in a terrible car accident that leaves Annie paralyzed from the waist down. It is then that Annie is taken back to Farthinggale Manor by her mysterious "great grandfather," Tony Tatterton. Annie becomes lost in despair as she is haunted by the suspicion that Tony is trying to keep her an invalid.

My Secret History by Paul Theroux depicts an American writer, Andre Parent, working on a large and populous novel about his life, secrets, dreams and every thing he keeps hidden. It is the secrets within his life that has made him a writer, and the double life that keeps giving him the fascinating variety of subjects. Life is never simple for Andre and his secrets are almost always at odds with his job, marriage and outward respectability. With his luck, humor and imagination, Andre prevails rather than merely surviving.

Maze by Larry Collins covers a dangerous war now being fought along a frontier more mysterious and threatening than any other. Here the war is being fought in the inner most reaches of the mind. A senior CIA officer discovers a psychic who can pinpoint the exact location of a Soviet Submarine hiding deep in the Atlantic. Working with KGB defectors, former top officials of the CIA, and scientist, Collins' has constructed a conspiracy so diabolically clever that its success would change the balance of power and the course of history.

work. If evidence shows that the disabling condition is significant, the DDS must decide whether or not the impairment meets or equals its "Listing of Impairments."

The Listing of Impairments identifies conditions which are so severe that they automatically result in an approval of the disability claims.

If an impairment is severe but it does not match the Listing of Impairments, the person's present ability to work is compared to his or her work experience. If the applicant is unable to do the kind of work previously done, the claim will still be turned down if the DDS determines that the person could do some other kind of work, Talbot said.

Consideration is given to factors of age, education, and transferable skills. For example, a young person with a high school education could be expected to change from a strenuous job to a job with fewer physical demands.

On an average, disability decisions take 77 days, Talbot said. Questions about Social Security and SSI disability can be answered by our telephone representatives at (806)376-2241. The Amarillo Social Security office is located at 3601 W. 15th (Sunset Center). The office is open from 9:00 to 4:30, Monday through Friday.

Why do car insurance premiums go up? You're looking at one of the reasons. Auto theft. The number of auto thefts has gone up 32% in the last 10 years. And the average value of those thefts has gone up 181%.

With the value of cars going up, a professional thief can easily steal over $50,000 worth of vehicles in a single night. And guess whose premiums pay for replacing those cars? If you feel a pain in your wallet, you guessed right.

At State Farm, we believe that ways must be found to keep these thieves from forcing premiums to go up. That's why we work closely with the National Auto Theft Bureau to help stop car thieves, throw them in jail, and recover the cars they stole. And why we started a pilot program to etch vehicle identification numbers on key parts of theftprone car models.

State Farm is there, every day. We're there finding more ways to help protect our policyholders from the causes of rising premiums. That's because, in the end, insurance must be affordable.
