Hospital Board Notes Tax Growth

By JIM BELEW Brand News Editor

A continuation of growth of Deaf Smith County's tax rolls has resulted in a $10,000 yearly net income increase for General Hospital, the hospital's board of directors learned Tuesday.

Ron Welty, administrator, told the board that based on current tax rolls of $63 million, the hospital is eligible for minimum of $141,750 in net income for 1974-75, using the current tax rate of .25 per $100.

THE HOSPITAL'S tax rate can be increased to .75 per $100 valuation, Welty said, but is not likely to be increased that much.

A formal budget hearing will be held in August at a date to be announced. In other financial matters, the board approved a June financial report submitted by Welty which reflected $122,208 gross income, $7,000 losses, leaving a balance of $115,208 of net operating income.

Welty said the hospital should receive a $25,000 Medicare payment at the end of Sugar beet growers producing sugar beets for Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford Shoup Factory will receive an additional payment July 31 on the 1973 crop, Bob Ginn, Hoffy ag manager, has announced.

Jail Improvements Here Delayed By Dallas Events Editor's Note: The following is the first in a two part feature about Deaf Smith County Jail.]

By JIM BELEW Brand News Editor

In February, county commissioners and Sheriff Travis McPherson approved making some improvements in Deaf Smith County Jail. An architect was hired and the county commissioners and sheriff approved his plans for the improvements.

Suggested improvements included separate uvenile facilities, a visiting room, a new kitchen, some office renovation, installation of a chapel, and dayroom areas for juvenile and adult women inmates.

DATE	PRECIP	. HI	LO

Now, five months later, beleagured by a controversy stirred by Federal District Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, the improvements appear to be a long way from being realized, if ever.

THE PROBLEM is simple. To carry out the desired $300,000 remodeling, county commissioners and the Sheriff agreed to seek financial aid in the form of a grant through the Criminal Justice Council of the Panhandle Region Planning Commission.

However, after applying for the grant, McPherson says, Judge Hughes, ruling on a case involving an attempted escape by an inmate of the Dallas County Jail, instructed the county's sheriff to rebuild the jail along certain guidelines aimed at reducing such attempts and favor

Since she sits on the federal bench, Judge Hughes' demands for the rebuilding of the Dallas jail may also apply to other jails as well, McPherson says. Consequently, agencies with the responsibility of recommending whether grants such as the one applied for by Deaf Smith County be approved are withholding that recommendation until certain requirements, based on the Hughes decision, are met.

THESE REQUIREMENTS may be relaxed, McPherson says, if at the meeting of the 5th Circuit Court scheduled for later in the year at an unknown date - the other justices voice disapproval of Judges Hughes' decisions.

So, pending the outcome of that meeting, Deaf Smith and many other counties seeking federal grants for jail improvements are taking no action to meet suggested requirements such as those outlined by the National Clearinghouse for Criminal Justice Planning and Architecture (NCCJPA).

The NCCJPA made a total of 22 requirement to be satisfied or attempted to be satisfied before it would give a favorable recommendation to Deaf Smith's application for Part E funding.

THOSE RECOMMENDATIONS are 1)All detention rooms should be single occupancy. 2)All detention rooms should have exterior orientation. 3)All detention rooms should be approximately 70 square feet.

4)The day areas should be a minimum of 35 square feet per person and of a functional normalized configuration.

5)The jailer's office will be relocated occupying the position currently held by the temporary holding and observation

6)Temporary holding will assume the place of the linen and storage room, complete with a glazed front opening out onto the intake area.

7)The linen and storage room will replace one of the trustee rooms.

8)The door separating the intake area from the corridor leading to the cellblocks will be removed and a new door will be included further down the same corridor at the wall of the counseling room and the wall of the three-bunk cell. 9)The counseling room should also be used for contact visiting.

10)Partitions to partially screen water closets, lavatories and showers should be used in all cases. There should be no showers in the women's rooms.

11)Misdemeanant prisoners will be placed in the existing multi-occupancy unit and felons in the single occupancy unit. An effort should be made to plan for exclusive use of single occupancy.

A delegation of 80 cattlemen from North Carolina visited Hereford area feedlet operations Monday as part of a national tour of cattle-feeding operations.

A majority of the members of the tour were affiliated with the North Carolina Cattleman's Association, but North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture lames Graham was also with the group.

The buses drove through the feedlots while the cattlemen asked questions of feedlot representatives. The tour continued through mills where grains are mixed with other additives, and to dispensary areas where cattle are innoculated and branded

The group was directed on the tour by Amarillo Chamber of Commerce agriculture manager Dick Cummings. who worked in co-operation with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce to arrange the tours.

MANY MEMBERS of the tour were prospective sources of calf producers for Herford feeders. The calves would be shipped from North Carolina to the Texas feedlots for fattening before being slaughtered. Most of the cattle in area lots now are from South Texas and Louisiana

Degrees Don't Guarantee Jobs

By ARCH BOOTH

U.S. Chamber of Commerce A young friend graduated from college recently and started looking for a job. The experience was a shock. He put it this way: Prospective employers would say to me Yes, it's nice that you have a BA degree, but what can you do?' And I realized that after 16 years of education, I couldn't 'do' anything; that I'd have to learn a skill of some economic value to society to earn a living.

Lots of college grads are having similar experiences these days. And lots more will in the future. Experts figure that the supply of college graduates and the supply of jobs requiring them will remain in rough balance through the 1970's. But in the decade of the 1980's the number of college graduates will far outstrip the supply of jobs for them. Maybe it's time we all did some hard thinking about the purpose of an education. Most educators do not think that a liberal arts curriculum should be structured to impart a particular economically viable skill. That, they believe, is the proper aim of a

STATE STATE

The new car seat belts are an insult to our intelligence when it starts buzzing before you even make up your mind whether you are going any place or not. It's an interference in public choice when a mechanical device sneers at you when you have paid good, hard cash for a vehicle which you would like to call your own. And we understand next year's cars are going to be even more insulting. They won't even allow you to fool the sneer by buttoning then unbottoning to turn off the safety buzzer. The switch key won't start the car until you are properly fastened and stay that way. Of course we can't argue against safety statistics, and maybe some of us are just kidding ourselves with the old thought that 'It won't happen to me' because accidents do happen everyday and the seat belts have saved a lot of lives. Some of our good friends are here today because they wore them, even before that speering buzzer sounded off. But it's the idea of it all—this mechanical age and the intelligence insulting reminders." MILFORD, DEL., CHRONICLE

American taxpayers should begin to take note of the elected state and federal officials who sanction the continued expansion of government programs and government spending. professional, technical or vocational school. On the other hand, many liberal arts students seem to have a vague expectation that by graduation they will have acquired a marketable skill. That's a formula for disillusionment and bitterness.

STUDENTS NEED more exposure to the world of commerce and industry, and they need it early in the educational process. The buzzword for such exposure is "career

Career education means learning something about the nature and variety of skills needed by society. In the process, students should visit factories, stores and offices, and they should hear lectures from business executives, union leaders and civil-

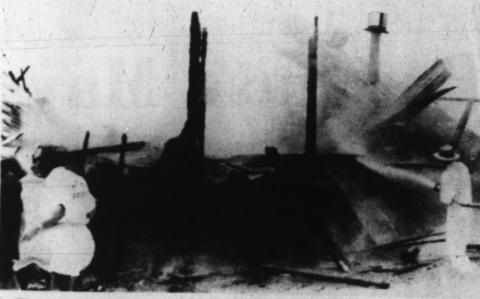

An advanced education in the liberal arts should be pursued for its own sake, not solely as a ticket of admission to a management trainee job. We should not take the snobbish and ignorant position that a college degree is "wasted" on someone who happens to prefer earning a living as an electrician, a plumber or a mechanic.

In most cases, the individual who works with his hands as well as his mind is quite free to wonder who wrote the plays of Shakespeare, how to trisect an angle, or why Napoleon invaded Russia. The popular philosopher Eric Hoffer became a part-time college professor on the strength of what he taught himself while working as a longshoreman on the docks of San Francisco. Until he reached retirement age, he chose to remain a longshoreman.

COLLEGE GRADUATES would be making a big mistake not to consider work outside of the fields regarded as the traditional preserve of the degree holder. The skilled trades pay very well today; so do many technical fields.

According to the American Movers Conference, there is a shortage of truck drivers in the interstate moving industry. Drivers who contract with one big company in the moving industry gross an average of $42,500 in their first year, and that's an 11 month year. Experienced drivers can make that much in only eight months, with careful scheduling and hard work. After deducting expenses such as truck payments, fuel, insurance, etc., the driver who grosses $42,500 has an average of $22,750 left. That's not a bad annual income. There are undoubtedly other jobs like that going begging, just waiting for someone adventurous enough to take off the blinders and find work that suits him, regardless of his official educational status or the preferences of his mother-in-law.

Alcoholism . . It Can Be Arrested, Not Cured

(Editors Note: This article is one months to many years. Progression of Alcoholism" produced by the Alcoholism Council of San Fernando Valley, Calif. The stories are mad available locally by the Deal Smith County Council on

Alcoholism is a disease which need not lead either to death or confinement in a mental institution. It can be arrested through total abstinence if the sufferer reaches the most important and difficult point on the road to recovery-identification of his sickness as alcoholism and the acceptance of the fact that he is an alcoholic and no longer can practice controlled drinking. A man or woman who concludes, from matching typical symptoms with his or own behavior, that his drinking problem is out of control is not a rarity, an isolated individual.

Surveys show there are more than 9,000,000 alcoholics among the 80,000,000 who today use alcohol regularly.

Because alcoholism can be recognized, diagnosed and treated successfully (but never cured so the person can again drink socially). The Hereford Brand today starts a series of brief stories about this disease.

They are intended to help each heavy drinker, who suspects he has this disease, to determine for himself if the secrets he so long has kept from others makes him the alcoholic that family, medical men and members of the clergy may have been confronting him with for Alcoholism nearly always is a progressive disease. While progression differs in many cases, the majority of alcoholics follow patterns which can be used as guidelines.

Some cases develop slowly and methodically, others swiftly and violently; but, for the most part, the average time required to progress from the first signs of loss of control to final stages is 15 years for men and seven

To begin at earliest stages, we look at pre-alcoholism periods when individuals may show first symptoms of the disease. The length of time varies considerably from a few stages there is a gradual, quite often noticeable increase in the use of fiquor, both in the frequency of imbibing and the quantity of alcohol consumed. This increase usually is not entirely intentional.

The person who eventually abuses alcohol invariably is unaware that he is finding, although not deliberately seeking, an increasing number of occasions for drinking.

This person derives an 'exceptional reward' from his drinking. He feels liquor does more for him than it does for most people.

For him, alcohol brings a relief from tension. This feeling of pressure, he is positive, surely not from the liquor. When, much later, he analyzes honestly, he realizes that his reaction to liquor has built up tensions. He continues to drink more heavily and more often, experiencing feelings of freedom, adequacy and confidence which normally are not his. As he drinks more, he eventually becomes aware the drinking of alcohol is more important than is the occasion he once considered to be an excuse. The next step is obvious. The former pattern of "occasional drinking" grows into "constant or regular relief drinking."

Once such relief drinking begins, the imbiber may be designated as a "problem drinker.'

His drinking most likely is not yet as conspicuous as that of the possibility that Congress, in the end, will vote to censure the President, rather than turn him out of office. is a growing one. The leftwing Democratic core out to get the President at any cost will not be satisfied with such an outcome. But many Democrats would, for several reasons.

Before...After

If Republicans must accept censure as the lesser of two blows, many would accept a vote of censure. That would enable Republican Congressmen to get off the homs of a political di-1emma.

They want to appease disturbed constituents, Demoerats and Republicans, by registering their disapproval of Watergate, of all the activities of the various officials who have now been implicated.

But they also are reluctant to see the President turned out of office. Members of the House have an easier choice than do Senators. They can vote to indict (impeach) without really having voted to kick Mr. Nixon out of his job.

Senators must vote either censure or oust the President. The Senate over a hundred years ago voted to censure President Andrew Jackson, though three years later the vote was rescinded. So it has been done before. The feeling among many lawmakers on the Hill-the majority probably-is that vote of censure might be the. best solution to the problem of the President's involvement with Watergate.

Democrats could achieve a condemnation of the President, which would serve them well in the 1976 election and avoid the disadvantage of having to run against an incumbent President in the 1976 race.

. If the President were voted out of office in a Senate trial, he would have disappeared from the scene by 1976 and the Democratic candidate would be up against President Gerald Ford, the President, in all' likehood.

PORTS OF CALL

By Edward H. Sims

Summer is the happiest, most free time of the year and the best for outdoors enjoyment, except perhaps at times in the deep southern states; where it is sometimes unbearably hot. For most of us, even for those traveling to other countries, summer offers the best chance to enjoy blue skies. hiking, fishing, the outdoors in general.

Because it is the warmest time of year it is perfect for the mountains. Most readers know there are many high mountains in the western part of the country, many reaching up above 10,000 feet. There are no mountains. of such height in the east.

Recently I drove my sons along a stretch of federal parkway near North Carolina's Smokey Mountain National Park and the road sometimes rose 6,000 feet above sea level. At that height one begins to appreciate the majesty of nature and a panorama, above low cumulous clouds, of impressive contrast and beauty.

In honesty, one can't claim that the Appalachians are as picturesque as, for example, the Alps. But they are old mountains like the Alps, older than the Rockies, for instance, and they have considerable charm.

The genuine beauty of these mountains is not to be found in the tourist-infested areas which have in recent years been overrun with tiny shops and a carnival-like atmosphere. It is to be found in the national and state parks, of which there are many, and along the parkways which have been built by the federal government or as part of the super-highway network.

In an earlier drive, I crossed the Blue Ridge (a part of the same eastern chain of mountains) in Virginia going west and came down the western side of the Appalachians on the super highway from Roanoke down into Tennessee. It offers many miles of beautiful landscape.

On this drive one can visit Manassas, and the Bull Run battlefields near this tiny Virginia town, where Confederate armies won victories in 1861 and 1862, and explore the Shenandoah Valley, the scene of so many Civil War campaigns, including the famous ones of "Stonewall" Jackson and the many Union generals who opposed him.

These are appropriate drives in summer, or in fall if children and school are not a consideration. The autumn colors are, in fact, even more striking than the green of summer.

Coach Larry Dippel has hired: three new coaches, with two replacing former coaches who resigned to take on head oaching duties at other schools. Joining the staff at HHS will be Rick Stewart, Bob Keyes. and Robert Priest. Priest will be joining the varsity coaching staff as linebacker coach and will serve as assistant track coach inthe spring. Priest coached the La Plata Junior High ninthgraders during 73-74. He had previously coached at Plainview, and holds a masters degree in biology from the Bob Keyes joins the Whiteface staff as varsity line coach, and will handle head track coach duties in the spring. Keyes is a graduate of Abilene Christian College, where he served as a graduate assistant. He also coached for two years at Graham, Tex. and coached last year at Roundrock, Tex. Keyes went to high school in Seminole, Tex. and is a 1966 graduate of that school

Rick Stewart will serve as sophomore coach and assistant baseball coach. Stewart is a Pampa High School graduate, and played basketball at Arlington State College on scholarship for one year. He then transferred to Texas Tech. where he participated in intramural sports. Stewart served as a graduate assistant at West Texas State from 1969 through 1972 where he received his masters degree. He also coached two years at Canvon Junior High.

Dippel was faced with filling two vacancies this summer. Wendell Robinson resigned to take the head coaching job at Spur and Don Cumpton left the Herd to take over head duties at Sanford-Fritch.

Knowledge Conquers Drug Habit

When Tommy was 15 his mother found marijuana in his dresser drawer. Tommy's parents didn't know much about drugs or how to handle the situation. But Tommy knew "a lot" about drugs and assured his parents that no harm could come of his doing "what all the other kids were doing."

The grass in the dresser incident was soon forgotten, but two years later Tommy (not his real name) was in jail for stealing to support his heroin habit. Tommy was a 'mainliner" at 17 and dead at 19.

"There are many other Tommys growing up across Texas whose parents are equally ill-equipped to handle a drug abuse situation," Dr. Holton said. "That is one of the reasons TANE, Baylor Univesity, and the Waco Jaycees are sponsoring a Parent-Child Relationship Drug Education Seminar at Baylor University, Waco, on August 1,2, and 3."

This will be the sixteenth annual such seminar co-sponsored by TANE and Baylor, Last year also co-sponsored by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

We are making arrangements for the foremost experts in this field to speak at the Seminar," Dr. Holton said. The Seminar is designed for teachers, church leaders, parents, law enforcement personnel, social workers, and all interested in drug education

The Hereford Brand, Hereford, Texas, Thursday July 18, 1974 Boat And Ski Safety Urged

Due to the large number of boaters and skilers over the summer boating period, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's water safety division has offered a few do's and don'ts for water skiers.

Often the search for fun has led to blindness to the rules of safety that should be observed, and most concern using common sense:

Do have two persons on board when pulling a skier to the skipper. Although this isn't a state law in Texas it is a good idea. State law does require a rear-view mirror when you are pulling a skier.

Do stay clear of solid objects such as docks, rocks and trees. They can slow a skier down in a hurry. Also, stay clear of swimmers, fishermen and

Do water ski parallel to the shore, and remember to come in slowly when landing. Do know water-ski signals and use them. Do use a boarding ladder when you finish skiing, and make sure the boat operator stops the motor before taking on any skiers or swimmers.

Do hold up a ski if you fall in a heavy boat traffic area: Don't jump from the boat while it is underway. Don't holler 'hit it' while there is still slack in the tow

Don't wrap a ski rope around any part of your body. Don't ski in shallow water. Don't ski directly in front of another boat.

Don't ski at night. Water skiing safety literature is available free from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Water Safety Section, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas

DID YOU KNOW THAT VALLEY WATER DRIVE CENTER PIVOT SPRINKLERS ARE NOW AVAILABLE IN

HEREFORD AND SURROUNDING AREAS?

The Valley Water Drive is the original, yet for over 20 years it has been going around providing record crops for farmers. Every year it has been improved and modified to meet new standards of performance under every conceivable condition. Opposed to electric systems, Valley Water Drives can save you up to $15,000 over a 10 year life span, because: $3,000 to $7,000 lower initial cost than electric systems 95 per cent maintained by owner or operator due to simple mechanical construction. Requires no expensive service calls by highly trained and liscensed technicians (necessary on electric systems). Average yearly maintenance costs less than $150 (quarter section). All parts are small and inexpensive-Swivel axles for towing are standard equipment..... Valleys are run by power source already available, no additional power source required

Valley Water Drives can make you money and pay for themselves because: Reduced irrigation labot costs (1 man can operate 8-10 Valleys) Water applied to crops at the right time boosts yields. Fertilizer can be applied through the system

Valley Sprinklers conserve precious water Valley Water Drives are totally galvanized with a 10 year corrosion

Valley Water Drives reduce time required to irrigate a quarter section Local service and parts.

Contrary to popular belief, the Valley Water Drive Sprinklers do not require additional water pressure or gallons per minute for operation. As with all center pivots, water pressure is necessary to obtain the desired rain pattern and o course the advantage to large wells is simply to irrigate more land more rapidly. Valley Water Drives can operate on as little as 350-400 gallons per minute (depending on the land and type of crop). The water used to drive the Valley is in itself insignificant but it is returned to the rain pattern and used to help irrigate your crop.

Valley's 10 year lease program and options such as high speed valves, reverse units, high crop tower extension's, freeze kill switches, hi-low pressure kill switches and automatic stop controls make the Valley Water Drive Sprinkler an exceptional value.

Valley Water Drive Center Pivot Sprinklers are currently available for delivery in mid August.

Call Gary Victor, 108 NW Drive, Hereford, 806-364-5616. Let me explain the lease program and costs. No obligation.

SHEET painting is an original idea for a baby gift. Mrs. Gerald Kimbell of 333 Ave. K has painted old crib sheets in different animal patterns using liquid embroidery.

Painting on a new crib sheet adds a personal touch and is a very nice baby gift. It's simple to use and it takes very little. time to finish a painting," says the housewife.

Besides painting on sheets, she also paints on a felt-like material of polyester-cotton blend which can be washed many times without fading.

In her three-year-old son's bedroom, soon to become a nursery, she has a 3x5 ft. embroidery painting hanging and two smaller ones of nursery rhyme themes.

IN SELECTING pattern designs, she mentions that iron-on transfer patterns can be found at almost any variety store, are inexpensive and can be used several times.

The family enjoys horseback riding and owns several horses which they keep on a farm near Hereford.

Walking into the living room of the home, you notice the unusual western motif. A large hanging rug adorns the west wall of the room and western type end-tables made of wood and leather add to the theme.

COLLECTING beer steins is Mrs. Kimbells' main hobby. A large assortment of beer glasses and mugs fill two cabinet-bookshelves in the living room.

"I love the different styles and types of the glassware and look for them whenever I get a chance. I have found many of them in second hand stores and at a beer brewery in Golden, Colo." states the tall brunette.

Two recipes the family enjoys are Toasty Cheese Bake and Piggybank Pork Bake.

Book Focuses On Historical Drama

A Time For Titans by Vina Delmar is the Book being eatured this week at the Deaf Smith County Library.

This is a novel of three powerful and influencial men who lived and who were responsible for major changes in history, Tapoleon Bonaparte, Thomas Jefferson and Toussaint L'Ouverture.

This book deals with the historical paths these men crossed and the explosion they caused which drastically changed the world then and into the present

A TIME FOR TITANS

By Vina Delmar

Although this is a novel, all the major characters really lived and each of the pivotal events truly took place as here portrayed. The time is the early 1800's. The titans are Napoleon Bonapart, Thomas Jefferson, and Toussaint L'Ouverture. The diminutive Corsican whose name has become the symbol of ambition, power, and ruthlessness; the philosophical, far-visioned President of the upstart United States; and the ugly, brilliant, ex-slave whose burning passion was to free his Haiti from white domination these three never met face to face, but their historical paths crossed and the explosion at that crossroads radically

even more profoundly, into the

Napoleon lost a world for France; Toussaint burned his capital and set ideological fires that would not die; and Jefferson, unconstitutionally, gained the greatest land treasure ever acquired bloodlessly by any nation. Adventures in military strategy, resort to unbridled violence, and the surprising intrigues of diplomacy in a sweep of locales that range from Washington to Paris to the bleeding Caribbean island are unfolded compellingly in the sure skillful hands of Vina Delmar. An authentic, but littleknown historical drama of irresistable fascination comes vibrantly alive in A Time for

Not Always The Best Buy

Cheapest Cut

AUSTIN-What is the best buy at the meat counter? Sometimes the cut with the higher price.

"Cost per serving is the way to figure price when buying meat," said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. "Often more expensive cuts will provide more meat and reduce the cost per serving."

A Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) chart has been designed to determine at a glance the cost of meat per serving. It is small enough to fit into a purse.

According to TDA home economists, the number of servings per pound usually depend on the cut. A chuck blade or arm roast yield two servings per pound but a pound of boneless chuck or sirloin tip yield three. Ground beef, sausage and poultry breasts usually yield four servings a pound.

Nineteen junior and senior high school students from Hereford are attending the 22nd West Texas Instrumental Music Camp at West Texas State University July 14-26.

Accompanying the local youth are instructors Randy Vaughn, specializing in flute, and Jim Priest on the trombone. Over 1,100 students from Kansas, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas are on the WTSU campus for the 13-day music camp.

The camp is "regarded as one of the largest in the United States," said Dr. George Umberson, head of the WTSU Music Department and camp director.

"Many directors have told me that students who attend are at least one semester ahead of where they would have been in the fall without the intense effort of two weeks at camp," said Umberson.

The camp is of value to students both "musically and

Call it instinct or call it love, it is natural for for their young. They try to comfort them when sick and feed them when they are hungry. They train them so they can survive on their own. Whatever the child asks for, the parents try to give. In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus points out that a father will give his hungry son bread or a fish instead of a stone or a serpent. He will give the child what he asks for because he loves him. Parents sometimes love their children so much that they cannot say no to them. Birds and bees and other creatures are that way too. Matt. 5:6 says, "Blessed are they who hunger for God's good things." Just as our parents provide for our needs, so will our Heavenly Father, but in greater abundance. He loves us so much that He will sometimes say no to us. He said that He would give us only good gifts. He will cover us with His feathers, and under His wings shall you trust (Psalms 91:4). The plan is His . . . the promise is yours.

Weather Rushing Crop Growth

Warm temperatures prevailing over the Texas High Plains during recent months are believed to be the primary cause of faster than normal development of early planted crops. In most cases, says Dr. James Supak, the rushing of crop development is expected to have little effect on yields of cotton and grain sorghum, but could cut into corn yields and possibly hurt soybean harvesting.

Supak, an area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says area corn fields already are tasseling and silking almost two weeks earlier then expected.

Several factors are contributing to the accelerated development, but the primary one seems to be temperature, he

The specialist explains that all crops require a specific number of heat units to pass from one developmental stage to the next. Records kept by the U.S. Weather Service at Lubbock show that temperatures for April, May and June were several degrees above normal, and crops planted during these months accumulated or are accumulating the heat units needed to push them into the reproductive stage earlier.

Supak adds that the prolonged spell on the Plains also is contributing to rapid crop development. Moisture stress or lack of water tends to speed up development especially as the plant nears the reproductive stage. Also, cloudy conditions and rainfall tend to reduce both soil and air temperature. This natural "temperature control" failed this year due to the drought.

'The question now," Supak says, "is what effect are these environmental conditions going to have on production? To a large extent, this will depend on the crop, the planting date and the general condition of the crop or whether it has endured hail and wind damage or has been severely stressed for moisture."

EARLY PLANTED cotton has already benefited from this peculiar set of environmental conditions, the Extension agronomist reports. The incidence of seedling diseases normally associated with cool, wet weather in the spring has been essentially nil. Further, the growing season on the Plains is relatively short and any condition that speeds cotton development is usually benefic-

"This could be of some importance in areas where crops. were damaged by hail and wind," he says. "Accelerated development would hasten cotton fruiting, thus shortening the recovery period. Stalks will be shorter and bolls will be set closer to the ground but at least they'll have more of an opportunity to develop fully.'

THERE ARE SOME indications that grain sorghum also is developing at a slightly accelerated pace, Supak notes.

Breeders and field men for some of the seed companies in this area recently indicated that a few of their experimental lines shorter and further advanced than normal. Also, mid-May plantings of early maturing hybrids are beginning to head and will reach the 50 per cent bloom stage a few days earlier than last year, he reports.

'The general consensus of grain sorghum breeders and agronomists is that this effect will have little or no influence on grain yields except in situations where producers are trying for very high yields.

"Under optimum growing conditions," he figures, "farmers may lose 50 to 100 pounds of grain for each day that the normal maturity period is shortened. Generally, however, the most noticeable effect is likely to be shorter stalks which are more apt to be an asset rather than a problem."

The agronomist points out that the days gained by accelerated development will probably, have no noticeable effects on insect infestations such as midge and greenbugs, or on water requirements.

"DR. RAYMOND Brigham, soybean breeder at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center just north of Lubbock reports that several varieties in his regional variety evaluation trials are exhibiting early reproductive development," Supak reports. "This also seems to be occuring in soybeans throughout the area which were planted

The effect on seed production will probably be negligible, he adds, but accelerated development could result in the lower seed pods being set nearer to the ground. This would tend to reduce harvest efficiency and can be equated to a yield loss. The specialist believes this effect may not be too noticeable since many soybean fields had to be watered earlier than usual this year which encouraged early stalk growth.

Early fruiting coupled with low pod set will be most noticeable in the hail and sand damaged fields and could results in increased harvesting losses. he adds

"HAIL DAMAGED corn has been seriously affected by these weather related developments," Supak laments. "Most of the injured crop had only about a three-week recovery period before the initiation of tasseling. Consequently, the plants are short and lack the leaf area associated with normal plants."

In many instances, he says, yield reductions are quite likely to exceed earlier estimates.

Many producers also expressed concern over the possibility of "nicking" (failure of pollen shed to coincide with silking). According to Supak, surveys of numerous fields revealed a few instances where pollen was being shed even before ear shoot emergence.

"In most cases, however, this was due to moisture stress rather than hail damage," he adds. "Moisture stress interferes with pollen production, tassel emergence, pollen release and may also cause premature wilting and drying of silks. In fields that were well watered, there was little evidence to indicate that nicking was a problem."

He says that corn fields that escaped hail damage also tasseled early. Although somewhat shorter than normal, these plants have a full compliment of leaves and pollination, and ear development progressed nor-

"The most serious potential problem in these fields is moisture stress. Some growers simply don't have enough water to supply the needs of their corn crop during this critical stage," Supak says.

Overall, this early reproductive development of corn that escaped hail damage holds several advantages for the producer. The crop is reaching its peak irrigation water requirement ahead of grain sorghum, giving farmers with both crops a chance to water both at the right time.

'Earlier development also helps evade corn borer problems and may aid in reducing weather-related harvest problems," Supak says.

Another test using corn stubble and grain sorghum stubble showed that when fed four pounds of 20 per cent protein supplement mix per head per day, the cattle gain 1.3 and 1.6 pounds daily, respectively. Shipley figures that the 1.6 pounds gain from the grain sorghum stubble may have been higher than would normally be expected due to an exceptionally large amount of grain left in the field in 1972-73.

In 1973-74 studies, the amount of supplement was varied at 2, 4, and 6 pounds per head per day grazing out grain sorghum stubble from November 30 to January 17. Stocking rate was 2.5 animals per acre. There was no difference in average daily gains at the three different levels, Shipley says. The gain was 1.7 pounds per

"With a knowledge of these two prices and the average daily gains that might be expected, a more sound economic decision can be made regarding the utilization of these crop residues."

Southern Peas Solve Plains Crop Dilemma

Prospects of a cotton crop have faded into a moistureless sky in parts of the Texas South Plains. Farmers now are looking for something to plant in mid-July to salvage some return from their land this year.

A possible answer to their needs is southern peas, says a Lubbock agricultural economist.

"Historically, southern peas have been used as a catch crop on dryland High Plains farms. says Marvin Sartin, area economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. They are quick maturing and adapt fairly well to dryland conditions. Plantings can be made into late July with reasonable expectations of a harvestable crop."

Sartin says the yields from late-planted peas depend some on the planting date and a lot on the availability of moisture.

'Drought conditions that prevented farmers from planting cotton cast a specter over any anticipation of high yields of peas," he adds. "However, a good rain to plant on and a couple of timely showers could easily result in peas yielding between 500 and 1,000 pounds per acre. These yields and the current anticipated price would result in a profitable catch

Total variable costs, including out-of-pocket expenses, amount to $30.15 per acre, he figures.

A yield of 700 pounds per acre would result in variable costs production of $.043 per pound

The economist also figure that farmers operating rented land must also consider the return to the landlord. A one-third share rent with a 700-pound yield and $.15 per pound price would net the landowner about $30.40 per acre. The production costs in this situation are $.087 per pound. The fixed costs of depreciation and interest on machinery total about $3.30 per of production to $.091 per pound yield and $.15 per pound show peas to be a profitable enterprise," he says "However, yields vary above and below this level, and prices fluctuate so an individual's planning must take into consideration the possibility of both yield and price deviation from the estimate.

According to the farm management specialist, yields of only 300 pounds per acre show a variable cost of $.099 per pound and total costs of $.145 per pound. However, as the almost constant per-acre costs are spread over additional units. the cost per pound decreases substantially.

"Your analysis of your particular situation is necessary to estimate your reasonable yield potentials," Sartin explains. "Investigation into local markets for the product will likely provide insight into the price level that may be expected at harvest. Armed with estimates of costs of production, your conclusion of price expectations makes the final decision on the potential profitability of southern peas an easy one.

Tomatoes Volunteer Army Thrive In Baskets

AUSTIN-Hanging baskets of tomatoes are educational, decorative and their contents taste good too.

They are a wonderful way to teach small children who have never been near a farm to appreciate growing the food they eat," said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Hanging baskets take care, White said, but there is no threat of serious insect or disease problems. Artificial sterilized soil is used and the plant, in its hanging basket, is removed from easy

Though tomatoes can be started from seed, it is best to buy young plants and transplant them. Small fruited varieties are best. They should bear fruit in 45-60 days.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture gives the following tips for a flourishing plant.

Use any container that will hold at least two quarts of potting soil. Plastic bottles or gallon-size milk containers will do. Cut the tops off if necessary and punch four or five holes in the bottom for drainage. Tie a cord or hemp bag around the container to make a hanging basket. Attach a pie pan or a commercially available drip catcher to the bottom to keep excess water from dripping on the floor.

Use bagged potting soil, adding to each bushel of mix four ounces of pulverized dolomitic limestone, four ounces of 20 percent superphosphate and two ounces of 5-10-5 fertilizer. Mix thoroughly. Add enough water so that the soil crumbles in large masses but is not soggy.

Cover the drainage holes with coffee filters or some similar porous material to hold soil place. Line the container bottom with two inches of coarse material-washed cinders, crushed rock, shredded plastic containers-to permit easy draining. Cover with a half-inch layer of a finely crushed substance. Fill container with moistened soil mix to within an inch of

Hold the potted tomato plant on its side and tap gently until the soil ball and plant fall out. Remove the network of roots on the bottom of the soil ball. Place the soil ball into a freshly-dug hole and firm it into the surrounding media to insure adequate water movement and knitting in of the root system.

Prospects Improve Army has reached the manpower strength of 781,600

By LLOYD BENTSEN

After a shaky start, the All-Volunteer Army appears to be turning the corner.

Difficulties remain in recruiting enough competent, capable people to maintain the defense of our nation, but the Department of the Army reports a lot of headway in this important area. Our nation has long wrestled with the problem of devising a formula that best provides an adequate defense. The Constitution contemplated a small, volunteer regular army support-ed by state militias which were to maintain internal order and supply reserve forces in the event a large national army had to be recruited.

Through the years, periodic drafts and conscription have been set up at wartime and discontinued after armistice. But from 1940 - with the exception of a 15-month period in 1947-48 - the U.S. had continual military conscription until the draft was abolished last

As former Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Volunteer Armed Force and Selective Service, I have long studied the pros and cons of ending the draft and converting to an All-Volunteer

I HAVE BEEN A supporter of efforts to make military service sufficiently attractive so that the institution of the draft would become unnecessary.

For example, as the result of a Survivor Benefit Bill I authored and introduced, widows and children of retired servicemen now receive as much as 55 per cent of the servicemen's retirement pay, a fringe benefit which certainly makes a military career more attractive.

Today the all-volunteer Army is only a year old and it is still too early to pass judgment on its strengths and weaknesses. Yet, ome indicators at the end of this first year give rise to a guarded optimism.

As of this past June 30, the authorized by Congress, with record-setting enlistments of both new recruits and those with

Through the year, the Army recruited 196,000 men and women, including 165,000 new male soldiers, which is about 23 per cent more volunteers than enlisted in the previous year. The 15,000 new female soldiers enlisted represents a 72 per cent increase over the year before.

These impressive numbers of recruits were attained within the guidelines specified by Congress regarding recruit educa-tion and ability. Fifty-five per cent were high school graduates. Overall, in fact, the Army has a slightly higher percentage of high school graduates today than a year ago.

AND THE ARMY reports that since the beginning of the no-draft era, discipline has improved steadily, with the traditional indicators of discipline - AWOL, desertion. crimes against property - all

Moreover, all of the Army's 13 divisions are operational and ready for combat today, as compared with only 4 of the 13 at the time the last draftee entered the Army.

These considerable strides in developing a volunteer Army in just one year's time are a tribute to the American people and to the volunteers who have recognized and responded to the vital need for maintaining a strong U.S. Army.

The defense of our nation remains our top priority, and the conversion from the draft to an All-Volunteer Army is one of the most critical isues of our time.

Significant headway has been made, but that does not lessen the task that lies ahead.

WTSU Successful In Filling Dormitories

West Texas State University is ahead of most other colleges in the United States in filling its residence halls.

Over the last five years, many schools have had extreme "ifficulties" filling dormitories, says Dr. T. Paige Carruth, Vice President for Student Affairs at the state, maybe the nation." That's the way West Texas State University computer systems director Durwood Henderson describes a new system now being installed on the Canyon campus.

Hereford secondary students depend on the WT computer system for processing class schedules and report cards.

The DecSystem-1070, the latest innovation in computers, will undergo a test of its capabilities sometime within the next two weeks. By early fall. Henderson expects the million dollar brain to be fully operational. It will replace the school's IBM 360 model computer which has served WT since the early sixties.

One of the unique features of the new computer is its timesharing capability. Up to 60 students, researchers and administrators will be able to use the computer simultaneously. This is possible because of the 24 million word on-line data base built into the machine.

One of the most glamorous spects of the Dec 10 is an ability to talk with the computer by telephone. Briefcase-sized mini-computer terminals called data links can be used anywhere there is a telephone. All the user has to do is place the phone in a cradle and call the computer.

From there, he calls up information just as the same room as the cabinets filled with miles of colored wire and dozens of blinking lights. Of course, the computer package includes printers for the traditional "hard copy."

'This phone in capability," says Henderson, "means that a student could sit in his dorm room at three o'clock in the morning and use the computer to help him review statistics, biology experiments, or sociology problems."

The old computer system has been a work horse not only for WT but for several regional

What causes the pressure in a high pressure area? Likewise, in a low pressure area? Where does the barometric pressure come from?

The high and low pressure we so often hear about these days merely refers to the height of the layer of gases above the earth's surface at a given point or in a given area. In other words. if you are in a high pressure area, the layer of gases above you is very high.

On the contrary, if you are in a low pressure area, the layer of gases above you is very low. The main function of a barometer is simply to measure the weight of the gas above you and it does this by recording an accurate measurement of the weight, or pressure, of the gas pressing down on the surface of the earth, which is the weather.

We talk of inches of mercury because the long-accepted official instrument for measuring the weight (or pressure) or the layer of gas above us has been a mercury barometer in the form of a column of mercury, measured in inches.

Bilingual Program To Start Here, Key Points Are Explained

Bilingual education, a new local public school effort which begins in the first grade this September, is raising questions in two languages.

The answers, contained in the law itself and in policies adopted by the State Board of Education, are short and directly related to the needs of Spanish-speaking children. However, they may not be easily available to all concerned parents and other citizens.

Texas Education Agency staff members, working to implement the law in all schools with 20 or more Spanish-speaking first graders, have compiled the following questions and answers on dual language instruction.

"MANY CITIZENS who have not had an opportunity to study the law are asking similar questions in all areas of the state," Dr. Severo Gomez, Texas Education Agency assistant commissioner for international and bilingual education.

"We hope the key points covered here will help explain both the law and the steps we are taking to help implement bilingual teaching in a number of Texas public schools."

1. CAN TEACHERS with a permanent certificate no longer teach without the bilingual endorsement?

Law Prevents Fake Insurance

BY JOHN HILL Attorney General

The need for insurance is a fact of life for most Texans. You buy it, and then hope you'll never need to use it. And, at some point, most of us worry about whether we're adequately

This worry could make some fraudulent or deceptive insurance sales practices. Fortunately, this sort of thing is rare, not only because most insurance companies are reputable, but also because the industry is regulated by the State Board of Insurance.

The Board of Insurance works with the Attorney General's Insurance, Banking, and Securities Division to see that any licensed insurance companies engaged in illegal activities are stopped.

PRIOR TO PASSAGE of the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act in 1973, however, the insurance industry was exempt from regulation for misleading or deceptive trade practices, although individual consumers could sue a company for fraud. Now, under the new law, the Insurance Board can certify cases of deceptive trade practices in the industry for suit by the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

Recently, in the first case to be certified for suit under the new law, our Consumer Protection Division obtained a people easy marks for temporary injunction against a company that specialized in selling insurance and other services to persons whose drivers' licenses has been suspended.

The company implied, through official-looking letters, that it was especially expert in obtaining insurance for such drivers and that it could get licenses retored in a shorter waiting time than usual.

THE TRIAL COURT found that the company was selling services that any individual could perform for himself. To get a driver's license restored, a person must supply the Texas Department of Public Safety with proof that he is insured and wait the required period of For drivers in this category, paying higher premiums for insurance in a "High-risk" group, a service that can be arranged through any insurance agent. So, the company offering "special services" to such drivers was charging high prices merely to take care of the necessary paperwork.

ANOTHER CASE recently settled by our Consumer Protection Division arose from Teachers who are teaching children of limited English-speaking ability in a grade mandated by law must have a bilingual education endorsement. This endorsement can be obtained by attending a Texas Education Agency sponsored training institute or an approved program at a teacher training institution. In addition, the teacher must pass a Spanish language proficiency test. If, however, the teacher fails to pass the test first time around, he or she may receive a special assimument neural as an interior manual process.

receive a special assignment permit as an interim measure until learning at least basic Spanish.

Bilingual education programs approved by the State Board of Examiners are being offered by: University of Texas at Austin, University of Texas at San Antonio, Our Lady-of-the-Lake College, Southwest Texas State University, Texas A&I University at both Kingsville and Laredo, Pan American University, and the University of Houston at Clear Lake. Other universities are now devaluation approximate to the contract of the contract Lake. Other universities are now developing programs, so this list will continue to expand.

2. HOW FAR will the bilingual requirement go?

Although the bilingual endorsement is not required at this time for grades other than those specified in the law, it would be difficult to implement it in other grades should a school district choose to do so without requiring the special training and endorsement. However, this possible expansion rests with the individual districts at this point.

3. WILL MONOLINGUAL teachers have to reach a degree of proficiency in Spanish in order to continue teaching in schools covered by the act?

If monolingual teachers are going to be in the classrooms required by the law (primary grades with 20 or more Spanish-speaking children who know little or no English), they will have to train to reach the required degree of proficiency in Spanish. No deadline has been set. They may

4. IS ENGLISH still the official language of instruction? Yes. The whole purpose of the bilingual education law is to help the Spanish-speaking children learn English and at the same time keep up with English-speaking children in subject matter other than language.

5. WILL SECOND grade teachers be required to attend summer workshops next year?

Plans are underway to train the bilingual second grade teachers who already speak English and Spanish during the spring of 1975. This instruction will focus on culture, classroom management, etc. However, since language training requires at least five or six weeks of concentrated work, the monotingual teachers will get their training during the summer. After the law was passed in June, 1973, the school districts were surveyed that fall and asked to name the teachers who would need training.

6. ARE THERE now some firm guidelines for school districts to follow?

There are firm guidelines with enough flexibility to meet the special needs of certain areas. They are being or have been sent to the school districts, section by section. Policies and Procedures passed by the State Board of Education and the Requirements for Certification were both sent to the schools this spring.

Procedures for testing the Spanish language proficiency of teachers will be mailed this summer, along with application forms for bilingual certification. A test for determining the English proficiency of children in the primary grades will be sent to the schools in 1975.

Training manuals to be received by teachers attending the summer workshops include nearly 300 pages of information on materials, community and parental involvement, second language methods and techniques, instruction in the child's first language, culture, teacher-pupil interaction, and classroom management.

7. WHAT IS the situation regarding materials?

Materials are now available commercially for kindergarten through the first three grades. Learning systems - books, tapes, films - will be adopted by the state in November and be made available to schools in 1975-76.

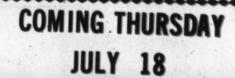

A display of these new materials is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each weekday at Maplewood Elementary School in Austin. The display will continue

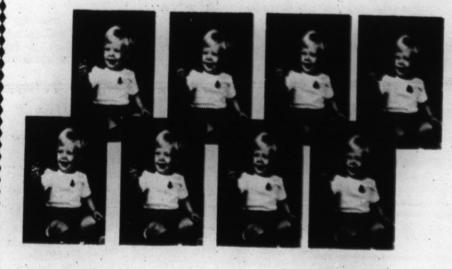

8. WILL SPANISH-SPEAKING children be forced to speak Spanish rather than English?

No. Bilingual education is to help children who come to school speaking only Spanish to learn English. It is designed to provide a high degree of proficiency in English and Spanish. Neither language suffers.

Texans Concerned By Inflation

By JOHN TOWER U.S. Senator

The Senate took a 10-day, nid-year break over the Fourth of July holiday period, and I took advantage of the time to visit in as many places in our state as possible.

During the recess, I attended neetings and met with various roups of my fellow Texans in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Arlington, Wichita Falls, Plainview, Midland, San Antonio, Tyler and Galveston. I always use these frequent trips to Texas as a sounding board in a continuing effort to keep current with what most of us consider the major problems facing us

WITHOUT FAIL, everywhere went over the state, the subject appermost in the minds of the vast majority of Texans is the continuing inflationary pressures and what to do about it. In the Houston area, I visited with groups interested in small business and minority business expansion.

In Midland, I visited with the West Texas Geological Society. and we exchanged views on problems facing the oil industry, ranging from fears by some oilmen that the government wants to nationalize the industry to efforts on the part of some in the Congress to pass punitive legislation on oil and gas operations. At San Antonio, I spoke to the annual meeting of the Texas State Bar, and we discussed various issues facing the legal profession ranging from no-fault insurance to public legal services.

At Arlington, I had a very good exchange with a large group of students and others attending the Taft Seminar at the University of Texas at Arlington. Here, as at other places across Texas, the chief concern is the current economic trauma which has seen us in a major energy crisis, the collapse of values on both the stock and bond markets, and the scarcity of mortgage money for building

Amarillo, said recently.

What many do not clearly understand is exactly how did we get in the present economic predicament. It seems appropriate that we take this opportunity to look at some of the causes of our problems, and discuss some possible solutions.

BASICALLY, MOST of the economists point back to the mid-1960's as the birthplace of the current economic explosion when the national policy embraced both "guns and butter." The enormous growth of federal spending for both the Vietnam War and the programs of the so-called Great Society produced a run-away econo oom and an overpowering set of inflationary pressures.

This spending was financed largely by deficits instead of increased taxes. Prices began to go up gradually and by the end of the 1960's, the inflationary rate was running at roughly 5 per cent annually.

Our economic situation had just begun to stabilize some at the start of the 1970's, but a recession in 1970 coupled with the Vietnam demobilization increased unemployment to 6 per cent. As a result, there was a widespread movement to get the economy moving again, and a strong expansion was in progress by the end of 1972. Then, the price indexes over the world soared in 1973 due to a series of incidents.

First of all, there was a decline in food production in 1972. Then, every industrialized nation in the world experienced strong growth in 1973. World population continued to rise, and these factors - combined with the fact that the United States was the only source of grain reserves for the world put extreme pressure on our own economy. Because of major changes going on in currency parities during this period, the United States suddenly became the most favorable place for other nations to obtain raw materials which were becoming scarce. This put additional pressures on

Then, the Arab oil embargo late in 1973 quadrupled the price of crude oil, and we all world energy supply and demand this past winter.

WHAT ARE WE going to do about these soaring prices and shortening supplies of goods? There is no easy remedy. Although there are some suggestions which can definitely p to cure our econo let me first point out a few which will not help.

At one point last year we felt wage and price controls were the answer. The disaster that ollowed proved this to be gested, but this is not the answer since such a more would only feed inflation and drive prices even higher at a quicker pace and will not increase upplies of gasoline, food or asic raw materials.

The first measure I advocate is a check on federal spending. Deficit spending is the major cause of our problem and must

Next, the Federal Reserve must continue to keep a firm control on the expansion of our money supply. And finally, all of us must be diligent in our search for bargains. We must resist higher and higher prices. especially for non-essential
