Jackson places blame for threats

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

Democratic presidential contender Jesse Jackson suggested that racist comments by "irresponsible public leaders" helped create the climate for an alleged assassination plot against him. Republican George Bush, meanwhile, sought to put some distance between himself and President Reagan on Panama's Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

The presidential candidates were campaigning on both coasts — in California and New Jersey — as they headed into the final round of primary contests next month.

California's will be the biggest primary of the season, offering 314 Democratic delegates, with 109 at stake in New Jersey. Montana and New Mexico hold primaries the same day, with 43 Democratic delegates up for grabs between them.

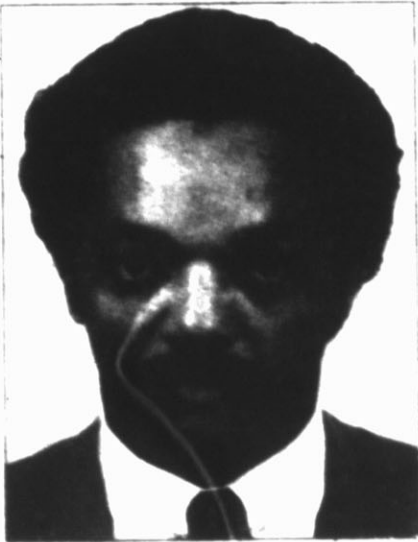

Michael Dukakis, the Democratic front-runner, is working to lock up the Democratic nomination in the final four June 7 primaries. He expressed hopes Wednesday for a calm Democratic convention this summer, even as Jackson was renewing his objections to the party delegate-selection process.

Jackson, campaigning in Fresno, Calif., was asked about this week's arrest of a St. Louis couple accused of plotting to kill him. Londell Williams and his wife, Tammy, were also charged with threatening an informant and possessing an automatic rifle.

Papers filed in federal court indicated Londell Williams told an informant he was a member of The Order and other white supremacist groups, and that Jackson should be killed.

But lawyers for the couple said each denied belonging to a white supremacist group, and the FBI said no evidence had been found that the pair belonged to The Order.

Jackson initially downplayed word of the arrests, saying, "I cannot just focus on the two people arrested in St. Louis."

JACKSON

... Cannot focus

But later he told reporters: "The climate for this kind of antagonism and violence, of course, has been set by many irresponsible public leaders (whose) attacks based on race have set a divisive and dangerous climate, such as the one ... in New York in April, for example."

Jackson was apparently referring to comments by New York City Mayor Ed Koch during the New York primary campaign last month. Koch said, among other things, that Jews would be "crazy" to vote for Jackson.

Jackson met privately Wednesday with nearly three dozen rabbis and Jewish leaders in Los Angeles, in what he described as a "step toward healing the wounds." Many Jews were offended by Jackson's 1984 reference to New York as "Hymietown" and his association with Muslim leader Louis Farrakhan.

A dozen demonstrators outside the Hollywood hotel where the session was being held chanted "Lose, Jesse, lose" and "Jew hater."

Bush, who wrapped up a seven-day West Coast campaign swing, made an anti-drug message his central theme Wednesday.

Campaigning in Los Angeles, he said that as president, he wouldn't "bargain with drug dealers ... whether they are on U.S. or foreign soil."

But he repeatedly refused to state his views directly on the administration's attempts to cut a deal with Noriega, who is under indictment on drug charges. In fact, he didn't even mention Noriega's name.

FSLIC combines thrifts

DALLAS (AP) — Federal regulators provided a $2 billion assistance package to combine four insolvent thrifts into a Dallas-based savings and loan as part of the federal plan to revive the flagging industry.

Southwest Savings Association, the state's 18th largest thrift, agreed to acquire 78 offices and branches of the four troubled S&Ls.

The plan, announced Wednesday, may be the largest merger in the federal Southwest Plan designed to rescue the state's ailing thrifts, officials said.

The four thrifts to be acquired within the next year are Stockton Savings Association of Addison, Lamar Savings Association of Austin, the state's 11th largest S&L, City Savings and Loan Association of San Angelo and Brierly Savings Association of Austin, said George M. Barclay, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. will spend a record $2 billion on the deal over a 10-year period, Barclay said.

Southwest is contributing $25 million of its own capital to the consolidated company as equity, but no outside capital will be used.

The thrifts have combined assets of more than $4 billion, 75 percent of which are in commercial and "non-conventional" real estate, and combined deposits of more than $4.4 billion, Barclay said.

"There's no desire to create mega-thrifts," Barclay said. "But when you absorb four institutions, you've got a lot of work in front of you. We don't have much larger institutions so we don't anticipate much larger transactions."

Barclay said even though the merger will begin with a large, 116-branch outfit, Southwest will quickly begin shutting down its duplicated services.

"Within six months of the transaction, Southwest will make a substantial reduction in branches, especially where there is duplication," he said.

C. Todd Miller, chairman and chief executive of Southwest Savings, said the company planned to substantially reduce the number of branches.

"We don't know how many branches we will close," Miller said. But he said customers of all the thrifts will be notified of branch closings by mail.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board has now resolved the problems of eight Texas thrifts under the Southwest Plan, which was announced by the board in February and initiated last week.

The Southwest Plan goal is to fold 109 or more insolvent S&Ls into 25 to 30 surviving institutions. Last year, Congress granted the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. authority to raise up to $10.8 billion

Meese says he won't quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III is launching a counterattack against his critics and telling conservative senators he won't resign in the absence of evidence of wrongdoing.

Meese's private lawyers said Wednesday that a Senate subcommittee report is "seriously wrong" in accusing Meese of violating a White House policy by assisting scandal-plagued Wedtech Corp.

In addition, Meese's counsel at the Justice Department, William Bradford Reynolds, claimed that subcommittee chairman Carl Levin of Michigan hadn't given the panel's members an opportunity to vote on the report.

In response, Levin said: "The report was circulated to every member of the subcommittee for comment. ... Release of the report was approved by the subcommittee members."

The report issued earlier this month says that then-White House counselor Meese and his deputy violated a White House policy barring contacts with procurement officials, resulting in favoritism toward Wedtech.

Meese's private attorneys, Nathan Lewin and James Roca, said the subcommittee report was incorrect because the White House policy permits contacts with procurement agencies when the White House has a legitimate interest in information about procurement matters.

President Reagan had campaigned in the South Bronx, N.Y., area where Wedtech was located and had expressed an interest in promoting jobs in the area.

Independent counsel James McKay, who has been conducting a criminal investigation of Meese's involvement with Wedtech and other matters, is expected to issue a report in several weeks raising ethical questions about the attorney general's behavior, sources familiar with the investigation have said.

Meese told seven conservative Republican senators on Wednesday that if he resigned now it would be an admission of guilt when there is no evidence he has done anything wrong, congressional sources said.

The attorney general made the comment after being asked by one of the conservative senators whether he had weighed the possibility of quitting, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Advisory group will scan ED plan

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The advisory council of the Economic Development Strategy Council will consider the core of the EDSC's strategic plan at a meeting at 7 p.m. today at the Hereford Community Center.

The plan, considered to be the community's vision as it enters the 21st Century, will review the prepared core contents of the Strategic Plan, and suggest changes or improvements to the plan.

Except for the establishment of an incentives package, most of the core elements of the plan have taken shape, according to Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, EDSC executive director, and will be considered at tonight's meeting.

The plan stresses several economic development and quality of life goals. In a memorandum to advisory council members, Eichner said "Economic development will be a function of broadening the agricultural and industrial economic base and improving the overall quality of life through community development. Both will be enhanced by Hereford's ability to revitalize the retail sector."

"The chances for success in achieving these goals will be dependent upon the backing it is given by the leadership of the community and the availability of traditional and innovative financing," Eichner also said the plan's success needs a positive business climate to catch the eye of potential investors and quality legal and accounting services, among other needs.

A new twist in the plan that will be considered tonight is the establishment of two councils—one to implement the economic development strategies, the other to oversee the community development plans. The two would work through a Strategic Plan Coordinating Board made up of the membership of the two councils.

The two councils would exercise final authority in their respective areas, and the coordinating board would resolve differences that may occur between the boards and facilitate the annual planning process.

That annual plan would be part of the checks-and-balances system for the community's total development efforts, which would be headed by a board consisting of delegates from the city, county, schools, chamber of commerce and three members appointed from the community-at-large. That board will hire a development professional and will oversee an annual budget of about $120,000.

Those dollars will come from participating governmental entities, while funding for other efforts will come from the private sector.

In a speech Wednesday to the Hereford Lions club, Eichner said the community "is at a turning point. Change is the critical issue. We can make change work for us, or we can sit back and let change work against us."

"There have been points in Hereford's history where it has made dramatic leaps, and we're ready again for a dramatic leap if the community takes an aggressive approach."

Eichner detailed some of the goals and strategies included in the draft strategic plan. "It's a doable agenda for a community the size of Hereford and Deaf Smith County. ... The important thing is there has to be community support. We cannot do any of these things in the Strategic Plan without that support and without a mobilization of resources."

Eichner said persons with suggestions or changes should contact the EDSC. "Now is the time to speak up about the plan because it is still fluid."

Local Roundup

Rain chance continues

Tonight will be cloudy with a 70 percent chance of thunderstorms, with a few possibly severe this evening. The low will be 55, with southeast wind 5-15 mph.

Friday will see a 50 percent chance of thunderstorms with a high of 68. East-southeast winds will be 5-15 mph.

The outlook for the weekend includes a good chance of showers continuing through Saturday, with skies possibly clearing Sunday.

This morning's low at KPAN was 55 after a high Wednesday of 83. Officially, Hereford picked up .37 inch through 7 a.m. today.

Police clear thefts

Hereford police have cleared 19 thefts and burglaries dating back to 1987 that included $5,092 worth of merchandise taken from vehicles.

Police Lt. David Wagner said two suspects accused in the burglaries are currently serving time in Deaf Smith County Jail on other charges. One of the men has confessed to participating in the burglaries.

Most of the thefts involved spare tires, tools, jacks and air tanks, but none of the merchandise has been recovered and police fear the items may not be located.

Police activity light

The Hereford Police Department arrested a 23-year-old woman Wednesday on charges of no liability insurance, speeding and for a Deaf Smith County warrant.

A child was left in a motel closet in the 1000 block of U.S. Highway 60 and was thought to be abandoned, but the mother was located; exhibition of acceleration was reported in the 100 block of Hiebach Street; a person was contributing alcohol to minors in the 900 block of Sioux Street; a window in the 100 block of 16th Street was damaged; and a domestic disturbance was reported at the Lynette Apartments at 112 Ave. H.

Eight citations were issued.

County arrests four

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office arrested a 28-year-old man on charges of injury to a child; a man, 38, for driving while his license was suspended; a 20-year-old man for criminal trespassing and a warrant for theft over $20 and under $200; and a man, 42, for violating his probation.

Congressmen ready to speed forward

Senate closer to ratifying missile treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has overwhelmingly rejected the first conservative attack on the U.S.-Soviet medium-range missile treaty and backers say the chamber should now move quickly to ratify the pact.

In a key early test, the Senate voted 91-6 against a point of order raised by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who claimed that Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev wasn't authorized to sign the treaty and the Senate should therefore not ratify it.

After that tally late Wednesday, Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said, "I think the vote we've just had is an indication of the strong support we have for this treaty. Let's get on with it."

Dole said he hopes the treaty is ratified before next Wednesday morning, when President Reagan leaves for his Moscow summit meeting with Gorbachev.

Sen. James Exon, D-Neb., agreed with Dole. "Let's do our work. Let's not fool around, which I think we are doing to a large extent on the amendment that was just defeated. ... I don't know what benefit there is in waiting until after the summit begins to ratify this treaty."

"There is no cause for further, untimely delay," said Exon.

Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., said "the American people want the president to have a ratified treaty in his briefcase when he meets" Gorbachev.

The Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces treaty, signed Dec. 8 by Reagan and Gorbachev, calls for the elimination of all missiles with a range of 300 miles to 3,400 miles.

Helms contended that because Gorbachev was signing as the general secretary of the Soviet Union's Communist Party, he represented a political party and not the Soviet state.

"This document now at the desk is not binding on the Soviet Union. It is only an agreement between the president of the United States and the head of a foreign political party," said Helms.

Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, agreed with Helms, noting that "if Gorbachev is removed from power someday, they could easily come back and say he was only the head of the Communist Party and therefore the treaty is invalid."

But Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., responded that "there is no substance whatsoever to the claim that the treaty was not legally signed. ... Treaty making is a matter of common sense and wise judgment."

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said there was no question that Gorbachev was representing his nation when he signed the pact.

Earlier, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said the treaty can be approved before Reagan goes to Moscow only if members limit themselves to "serious, legitimate amendments."

Helms rejected what he said he were insinuations that he was raising technical points simply for the sake of delay. "What is occurring is not dilatory, but is instead and, in fact, deliberative," he told his colleagues. The Senate still faces an unresolved fight over the legal interpretation of treaties.

That dispute arises from Reagan's claim that he has the legal right to unilaterally change how a treaty is viewed by the United States. He has asserted that right in relation to the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty.

Democrats who control the Senate have added an amendment to the INF pact which says no future president can reinterpret the pact without Senate approval. Republicans object to the addition.

St. Jude's student fund raisers

107 students from Northwest Primary School in Hereford have raised $4,345.96 for St. Jude's Childrens Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., thanks to their proficiency in math. The students worked problems from a math workbook, and solicited pledges from local residents for each correct problem they completed. The school received 15 calculators for its use, and will have a plaque commemorating the students' efforts at the hospital. The kindergarten, first, second, and third grade students received T-shirts, certificates and bags, depending upon how much money they raised.

Merge may save TX thrifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Southwest Plan to merge insolvent Texas thrifts with healthy savings and loans must move quickly, Gov. Bill Clements says.

The governor said Wednesday that federal regulators agree with him for the need for speed in resolving the problem.

"We discussed in great depth furthering that plan and accelerating that plan," Clements said of his meeting with Federal Home Loan Bank Board Chairman M. Danny Wall. "We think that time is of the essence."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board on Wednesday announced what may be the largest merger under the Southwest Plan — a billion-dollar acquisition of four Texas thrifts by Southwest Savings Association of Dallas. The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. will spend $2 billion on the deal, which leaves the combined thrifts with assets of $4 billion, of which $2.6 billion are problem loans.

The first consolidation under the Southwest Plan since its announcement in February went through last week — when Houston's Coastal Banc Savings Association acquired another four insolvent Texas thrifts, this time at a cost of $138.3 million to the FSLIC.

Both moves were praised by Clements, who called Wednesday's acquisition "a good plan that we think will serve Texas well."

Uncertainty in Texas over the thrift crisis — 109 of the state's 279 S&Ls are insolvent — is cause for moving quickly with the Southwest Plan, and that federal regulators agreed, he said.

"The FSLIC, the Federal Reserve and Treasury, all these various federal agencies are in a state of coordination with the plan," Clements said, "and want it to happen as soon as possible."

Moving quickly would help the Texas economy "take away some of these uncertainties that have existed as to what is going to happen with the savings and loan industry in Texas," Clements said.

Commanders say drug war may replace military's primary purpose

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Concerns about the military being used in the nation's war on drugs have been voiced by a top military commander who says it takes away from the military's primary work, national defense.

"We have to be careful," Army Gen. James J. Lindsay, Special Operations Command chief, told an Armed Forces Week audience Wednesday.

"The primary mission of the military is still the defense of the nation," Lindsay said, "but we need to address the drug problem in this country as well as others."

Lindsay made his remarks to about 300 people attending a luncheon sponsored by the Greater San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and San Antonio Rotary Club.

Some members of Congress, including many liberal members, want to give the military broad police powers to battle the drug trade, he said.

Study says poor population increasing while funds to support them dwindle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The percentage of poor people living in Texas is significantly higher than the national average, but the social safety net designed to protect them is one of the nation's weakest, a new study says.

In addition, the state's poor face significant tax burdens in the form of sales taxes, said the report by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, a non-profit research organization.

In its research, the group measured the 50 states and the District of Columbia using what it called 10 modest standards of assistance to evaluate whether safety nets were sufficient.

Texas and three other states — Alabama, South Dakota and Indiana — met none of the standards, but programs being implemented in South Dakota and Alabama take them off the zero-standards list, said Robert Greenstein, executive director of the center. No state met all 10 standards.

The center defined the poverty level as $11,629 for a family of four in 1987, and its study focused on states' benefit programs and income-related policies such as cash and medical assistance programs, food stamps, unemployment insurance and low-income housing.

Greenstein said Texas' recent economic problems and traditionally high unemployment rates and poverty along the border don't entirely explain its inadequate safety net.

"You can't say it's because it's one of the poorest states — it's now around the middle or slightly below the middle (32nd from the top in per capita income)," Greenstein said. "It leads you to conclude it is internal policy decisions."

Another problem may be that the state's revenue base "is not that large" because Texas does not have an income tax and "may not have the state resources to provide as adequate of a safety net," he said.

Beyond that, however, "you're talking in part about the political weakness of low-income people in Texas and the generally conservative cast to state politics," Greenstein said.

But other more conservative states have better safety nets, as do other states with lower per capita income, he said.

The report said an estimated 15.9 percent of the population of Texas, or 2.6 million, people, were living in poverty in 1985 — putting the Texas poverty rate almost 2 percentage points above the national poverty rate of 14 percent.

"For those who are poor in Texas, eligibility for government assistance and the level of benefits they receive are highly dependent on whether or not they are working, married, elderly, disabled, parents or children," the report said.

"Those who qualify for assistance are unlikely to receive a level of aid that lifts them close to the poverty line."

The report said Texas' level of Aid to Families with Dependent Children cash assistance to single-parent families ranks 48th among the states and the District of Columbia.

A mother and two children with no other income received a maximum AFDC benefit of $104 per month in 1987, which the report said equaled less than one-fourth of the poverty line.

Since 1970, maximum AFDC benefits have declined 57.7 percent in Texas after adjusting for inflation, the report said, "the steepest decline of any state in the nation."

Texas also does not provide AFDC benefits to two-parent families with children, unlike 28 other states. It also lacks a general cash assistance program for poor single individuals and childless couples who are not elderly or disabled.

Many poor families are also left out of Medicaid coverage, the report said. And elderly and disabled people may receive the basic federal Supplemental Security Income grant, but that leaves them below the poverty line and Texas is not among 27 states that supplement this coverage.

The report said Texas has not adopted any of the state Medicaid options that would extend coverage for elderly and disabled poor people beyond what is required by federal law.

Texas also has a restrictive unemployment insurance program and in 1985, 23 percent of unemployed Texas received unemployment insurance benefits in an average month.

Meese

Meese's 90-minute, closed-door luncheon at the Capitol came two days after it was disclosed that the attorney general had fired his staunchly conservative chief spokesman, Terry Eastland, allegedly for not defending him aggressively enough.

After the meeting, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., told reporters the subject of Meese's future had come up "peripherally." Helms added, "I assume he'll be attorney general for the rest of this year."

The meeting was "a good, candid, frank, amicable discussion about the operations of the Justice Department," said Christopher Simpson, press secretary for Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who also attended the meeting.

"The best thing for all concerned is to wait to see the McKay report," added Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah.

In related developments:

—Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., has written to the House and Senate Judiciary committees accusing Patrick S. Korten, Meese's new chief spokesman, of making false statements while he was chief spokesman for the Office of Personnel Management, The Washington Post reported today.

In a letter obtained by the newspaper, Ford said he was stunned when Meese appointed Korten, who as OPM spokesman "lost all credibility ... as a result of repeated instances of false and/or misleading statements" to the House Post Office and Civil Service committee which Ford chairs.

—Peter Flaherty, chairman of the Citizens for Reagan, a 100,000-member lobbying group, urged Meese to "fight it out. ... My impression is that the attorney general is anxious to confront his critics and anyone who thinks Ed Meese is leaving soon is going to be disappointed."

transactions in the future will have significant outside capital."

As part of its assistance in the deal, the FSLIC will provide Southwest Savings with a 10-year note worth about $400 million.

In exchange, the FSLIC will receive warrants to purchase 50 percent of Southwest's common stock. The FSLIC will receive 90 percent of Southwest Savings' first $60 million in profits.

David Colgren, a spokesman for the FSLIC, said officials believe from the industry to fund recapitalization of surviving thrifts.

The merger of four ailing thrifts in Houston-based Coastal Banc Savings was the first consolidation under the Southwest plan in a transaction that involved a $138 million contribution from the FSLIC. That transaction included $55 million from a private investment group.

"All of these transactions will be unique," Barclay said. "This one doesn't include outside capital. Some Southwest Savings will show a profit within two years.

Stockton Savings had total assets as of March 31 of $540 million with a net worth of negative $207.7 million and deposits of $704 million.

Lamar Savings Association, the object of a lawsuit filed by the FSLIC for regulatory violations, has total assets of $1.9 billion, a net worth of negative $32.9 million and deposits of $2.1 billion.

City Savings and Loan Association has assets of $827.3 million, a net worth of negative $22.9 million and deposits of $865.2 million. Briarcrest has total assets of $68.1 million, a net worth of negative $22.7 million and deposits of $558 million.

Before Wednesday's purchase, Southwest Savings had total assets of $1.46 billion, a net worth of $27.6 million and deposits of $986 million.

Miller said the Southwest Plan should be completed within the next 12 months.

Mavs can wrap up series tonight

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks can advance to the NBA Western Conference playoff finals for the first time in franchise history with a victory over the crippled Denver Nuggets tonight.

Two years ago Dallas was knocked out in the semifinals by the Los Angeles Lakers 4-2, the best the expansion Mavs have ever done.

"Our goal was to do a lot better in the playoffs this year and if we beat Denver we will pass another milestone," said Dallas Coach John MacLeod, who replaced Dick Motta after he resigned following a first round upset by Seattle in 1987.

Denver could be missing All-Star guard Lafayette Lever and forward Jay Vincent.

The Nuggets said Lever, who has a strained knee, definitely won't play. Vincent, sidelined by a pulled calf muscle, was listed as questionable.

The Mavericks won 110-106 Tuesday night in Denver to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal.

"This was an extremely big win for us," said Dallas forward Mark Aguirre, who scored 25 points Tuesday night, including a crucial 3-pointer with 19 seconds left. "We can end it at home now, but we can't think it's over yet."

Rolando Blackman, who scored 18 of his 24 points in the second half, said the series "has been tough and will continue to be tough despite Denver's injuries. We can't afford any kind of a letdown Thursday."

The undermanned Nuggets were no match for that trio. Vincent, averaging 17.5 points during the playoffs, and Lever, averaging 17.0, were the second- and third-leading scorers for the Nuggets.

"It's not something we can think about," said Denver Coach Doug Moe. "We have to win one in Dallas. It will be a tremendous hurdle for us."

The Nuggets shot free throws poorly on Tuesday.

Denver was the NBA's best free-throw shooting team during the Injured softball player is out of intensive care

Jeff Streun of Hereford, injured in a softball game at Vega Saturday, was released from the intensive care unit at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo Wednesday. Kyle Streun, a brother, reported Jeff may get to come home this weekend.

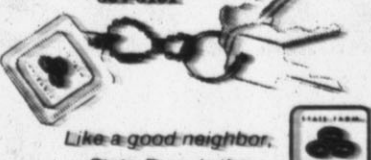

Streun, 22, sustained head injuries when he ran into a utility pole while chasing a fly ball. Jeff is the son of Marlene Streun of Hereford.

regular season, hitting 80.4 percent. Coming into Tuesday's game they had hit 84.4 percent in the playoffs. But they missed seven straight free throws down the stretch, a failing Moe said "ended up killing us."

Denver center Danny Schayes had a career-high 33 points and also pulled down 13 rebounds.

Roy Tarpley, named the NBA's top sixth man Wednesday, showed why with 21 points and 16 rebounds.

"It's a great honor, and I really feel good about winning it," Tarpley said, as he became Dallas' first player to receive a major post-season honor.

Tarpley learned of his award Tuesday night, but not before Mavericks Coach John MacLeod had a little fun, telling Tarpley that Utah's Thurl Bailey had walked off with the award.

"My heart about hit the floor," Tarpley said. "Then he told me I had won it."

"I've been sitting on this for a week," MacLeod said after the Mavericks squeaked past the Denver Nuggets 110-106 in Game 5 of their NBA playoff series.

The NBA officially bestowed the honor for outstanding contributions by a non-starter Wednesday.

Tarpley finished seventh in the league in total rebounds, the first reserve in NBA history to finish

Score f 29 wins Wednesday golf scramble

The weekly Wednesday Scramble started its summer season yesterday at Pitkin Municipal Golf Course with Bobby Valdez, John Robinson, Don Graham and Steve Landers teaming up for the victory.

The winners carded a 29 on the 9-hole Florida Scramble, while two other teams tied at 30. Each member of the winning foursome received $40.50 in golf merchandise.

The tourney is open to all interested golfers and the sign-up starts each week after play is completed in the scramble. The golf pro assigns players to teams, striving to place an A-B-C-D handicap player on each foursome. A total of 54 players competed in the tourney Wednesday.

among the top 10 in rebounding. That total included 360 offensive boards, the fourth highest in the NBA.

The 7-foot player started in only nine of the 81 games he played, averaged 11.8 rebounds, 13.5 points and 28.5 minutes, helping the Mavericks compile a 53-29 record.

"I just want to keep improving and contribute as much as I can to the team's success," Tarpley said.

Tarpley, a second-year pro, received 67 votes from an 80-member panel of writers and broadcasters who regularly cover the NBA.

Utah's Bailey, who ranked second on the Jazz in scoring and rebounding with averages of 19.6 and 6.8, respectively, received the other 13 votes.

Under the NBA drug program, Tarpley voluntarily submitted himself for treatment for alcohol and chemical abuse last summer.

Tarpley will be presented the award at Reunion Arena today, prior to the sixth game of the Mavericks' Western Conference semifinal playoff series with the Nuggets. The Mavericks lead the series 3-2.

Miller Lite makes a $1,000 donation to a national charity chosen by the recipient of the award. Tarpley picked Target, an anti-drug program for teen-agers 14 and over.

Houston rallies to beat Pittsburgh, 4-2

Astros' Ryan has some good luck

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
 AP Sports Writer
 HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pitcher Nolan Ryan finally has experienced the flip-side of his hard-luck 1987 season.

Despite an off-performance that included only two strikeouts over six innings, Ryan was the winner Wednesday night as the Astros rallied for a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh.

A year ago, Ryan was the ultimate of a lack of run support. He led the major leagues in strikeouts and tied for the earned run average lead and yet finished with an 8-16 record.

"It's nice to see Nolan get some help," Astros Manager Hal Lanier said. "He had control problems, that was the big thing."

"But you can't expect to go out and pitch with no-hit style every game," Ryan recorded his lowest strikeout total of the season and made a quick exit from the Astros dressing room following the game.

Ryan was due for hitting help and

Semi-pro baseball league announced

by Amarillo man

A semi-pro, non-professional baseball league is being organized in the Texas Panhandle, Mike Langford of Amarillo announced this week.

Langford said the league will be headquartered in Amarillo, but that teams for any West Texas city are invited to participate. Players must be 18 or older and must be high school graduates.

Sites for games will include the old Gold Sox Stadium in Amarillo and other baseball fields in the Texas Panhandle.

Teams interested in participating in the league should contact Mike Langford at 376-8256, or write to Langford at 1914 S. Bonham, Amarillo, TX, 79108.

slumping catcher Alan Ashby provided the assistance with a 2-run single up the middle in the sixth inning that gave the Astros a 3-2 lead.

Ashby has five hits in his last 35 at bats and he struck out in his three other plate appearances Wednesday night, but he made the most of his one hit.

"That's the way to get one hit and drive in a couple of runs," Ashby said. "It was important to me. I had a rough night otherwise. I hope I can at least keep driving in runs."

The Astros got the first run on Glenn Davis' first inning single that scored Gerald Young, who led off the game against starter Doug Drabek with a single to center field.

The Pirates, who lost for the fifth straight game, rallied for single runs on Mike Lavallo's ground out in the second inning and his sacrifice fly to left field in the fourth.

Bobby Bonilla walked and scored the runs each time.

Denny Walling's single drove home Terry Puhl from third base with another Houston run in the seventh inning.

Ryan, 4-2, walked three over six innings and got relief help from Joquin Andujar, Juan Agosto and Dave Smith, who got his eighth save.

The Astros pitchers combined to allow seven hits.

"It's the same story, we haven't had the hot bats," Pirates Manager Jim Leyland said. "When you're hitting, you deliver with men on base, when you're not, the other guys deliver."

Drabek intentionally walked Kevin Bass with two outs to pitch to Ashby, who started the game hitting .220.

Drabek, 4-3, said it wasn't his best pitching performance.

"I've had better stuff," Drabek said. "It was one of those days when you don't have your best stuff and you try to throw strikes and let the defense do the job."

Ryan's two strikeouts were his lowest total since May 2 when he struck out three in a 7-1 loss to Philadelphia. Ryan had two-strikeout performances on two occasions last season.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been reading your column since I was in grade school, and I hope you will find it in your heart to address this concern. The problem is bound to grow, and there will be a great many more victims as time goes on I'm talking about AIDS.

I am a 28-year-old male who tested HIV positive. My doctor prescribed the drug Retrovir in an attempt to help control replication of the virus. Every time I take the prescription to the pharmacy I'm a wreck. The drug costs about $400 a month. The expense I can handle but the attitude of the pharmacy employees I cannot.

When the clerk rang up my first prescription she shouted at the top of her lungs, "My God, $400! What is this stuff anyway?" The next month I changed pharmacies, but the clerk's reaction was the same. I am on my fourth pharmacy and looking for a fifth.

Ann, will you please ask all pharmacists to instruct their employees on the proper behavior when dealing with customers? They should demonstrate the same confidentiality that one expects to find in a physician's office. Sign me—A Reader in the Nation's Capital

DEAR READER: The kind of insensitivity you describe is inexcusable. You should have gone to the managers of each of those drugstores and reported the clods.

I hope that every person who works in a pharmacy will pay attention to your letter and from here on in treat each customer with consideration.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently published a letter from "Sad in Decatur," describing nursing home visits with an 89-year-old mother. The woman was confused, argumentative and unpleasant.

"Sad" complained that it was draining and depressing, yet she could not fail to visit her mother because her conscience wouldn't let her.

Since this letter represents the feelings of a great many readers, I'd like to offer a few tips on how to improve the quality of those visits.

First, remind yourself that you will never again have a real visit with that wonderful parent because she (or he) is not the same person you once knew. Stop trying to force logic and historical truth on an individual who is not rational.

Your mother is probably easily distracted. Change the subject. Walk or wheel her down the hall. Have things to show and share that you have brought from home. Try to activate her memory by talking about events that happened in the distant past. Older folks often remember with amazing clarity what happened 60 years ago although they cannot tell you what they ate for breakfast or who visited them yesterday.

You may have to give up on your parent's mental acuity, but you can still share love and good feelings, which are far more important than keeping facts straight.

The depressed feelings you experience when you visit your aged parent will give way to peace and well-being when you revise your expectations and accept the realities.—Helen West, Ph.D., associate professor, Department of Gerontology and Geriatric Services, University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas

DEAR DR. WEST: Caring for the elderly is going to be one of the principal problems in the coming decade. We need to understand their limits and deal with them in a compassionate manner. Thank you for writing.

Club meets for supper

Members of El Llano Study Club met Monday in the home of Alice Eades for a Mexican stack supper and brief business meeting.

A letter of thanks was read from the Hereford Day Care Center. Also, a letter was received from the Hereford Rape Crisis Center asking for volunteers. The center representative mentioned that there are programs available for the public upon request.

The yearbook committee was appointed and it was announced that the club will meet in September with installation of officers for the new club year.

Those in attendance included Leona Kimball, Jean Ballard, Helen Eades, Avis White, Zula Arney, Ursalee Jacobsen, Jane Coplen, Jean Dowell, Mozelle Childers, Sue Amstutz, Donna Warrick and Dolores Foster.

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS

A Mossad public relations man must tell the next of kin about the death of her brother. She is very pretty, dark hair, light complected, very feminine, an orphan with only one brother, and now he is gone.

Entering the office the P.R. man introduces himself and blurts out the bad news, then prepares himself for the reaction. But the only sign she gives him is the slow nodding of her head.

"Of course," she responds, "why else would you have gotten me down here? Now tell me the rest of it, please. How was he killed? Where did it happen?"

"I can only say this much. Your brother was killed in the line of duty in a foreign country."

"What you're telling me is that he was killed by the Arabs in one of the countries where he was sent to spy. That is what you do, isn't it? Spy on Arabs? So the question is what Arab country?"

After a little more conversation the young lady starts to leave. The gracious public relations man tells her to call him if there is anything he can do for her. She hesitates at the door, and looks back.

"Perhaps there is one thing. Can you tell me please. How does one go about applying to become a Mossad agent?"

Ambush At Osirak by Herbert Cawder is a fast moving high-tech thriller that everyone will enjoy. Be sure you have the time because once you start this book it is very difficult to put it down.

For those of you that enjoy the Stephen King stories, another author to watch is Raymond E. Feist. Faerie Tale by Raymond Feist will be coming Monday.

Gloria and Phillip Hastings, their eight-year-old twins, Sean and Patrick, and Phillip's teenage daughter Gabrielle have left their home in California for a fresh start. Finding the ideal spot, the family moves into the Old Kessler Place, a great ramshackle house that stands in the deep woods of upstate New York.

The town records have it listed as Erl King Hill, "Hill of the Elf King." The stories about the old homestead include: talk of haunted forests, strange lights that dance like foxfire, buried treasure, and lost children now forgotten. The Hastings have never believed in fairy tales or Celtic magic, but now they are faced with something that can not other wise be explained. Faerie Tale promises to chill the spines and haunt the hearts of many readers.

Roy Cohn, loathed by some, respected by others, was known as the toughest and most brilliant lawyer in America. Cohn's unprecedented track record and sensational behavior drew the rich and powerful to him to solve their problems. Numerous indictments and professional misconduct charges finally ended with Cohn being disbarred shortly before his death.

Nicholas von Hoffman has created a remarkable and provocative biography in Citizen Cohn: The Life and Times of Roy Cohn.

Battle Cry of Freedom: The Civil War Era by James M. McPherson is another bestseller coming out this week. This Oxford history of the United States is wonderful for the Civil War enthusiast or history researcher.

Covered dish dinner held in cafeteria

Northwest and West Central cafeterias hosted a covered dish dinner and meeting for food service personnel of Hereford Independent School District in the junior-senior high cafeteria Monday evening. A fifty-seven employees attended the final meeting of the current school year.

The serving table was decorated with two floral arrangements and a large decorated cake honoring three retirees, Cora Leffel, Nita Houle and Larry Wartes. Frances Kerr and Kathy Wyssmann, who will be leaving the school cafeterias, were also recognized.

Following the meal, Christine Evans, president, welcomed employees and guests before turning the meeting over to Trudie Gray, cafeteria supervisor. Seven former employees and retirees were introduced and presented corsages. They included Frankie Dungan, Roberta Royal, Velma Carroll, Violet Kelley, Hope Loerwald, Lena Hudson and Nadine Caster.

Special honorees, those retiring after the current school year, were given corsages and a "little bag of money" from their fellow employees.

Cora Leffel has been a baker at La Plata cafeteria for 17 years, starting work in 1971. Previously she had been employed in St. Anthony's School cafeteria.

Nita Houle started work in September of 1968 at Northwest. In August of 1974, she went to Central School cafeteria as a baker and moved to West Central when it opened in 1975. In August of 1983, she became manager and remained at West Central until her retirement.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wartes were also special guests. Wartes, assistant superintendent of HISD, spoke briefly. Gray presented him with a gift of appreciation. After 37 years of service in the Texas school system, he will be retiring at the end of the school year.

Ladies with a perfect attendance record for the 1988-89 school term were recognized. Certificates were presented to Frances Kerr, Marilyn Benjamin, Margie Bone and Betty Jones from junior-senior cafeteria; Freda Bridwell and Irma Murphy, Aikman cafeteria; Sandie Bridges and Betty Bartels, Bluebonnet cafeteria; Kathy Wyssmann and Alice Rodriguez, Shirley cafeteria; and Maria Trevino and Nicolasa Foster, Tierra Blanca cafeteria.

Serving as hostesses from West Central cafeteria were Nita Houle, manager, and Berta Ceballos, Glenda Drager, Anna Mae Rawlings, Margaret Diaz and Janie Reyna. Also, from Northwest cafeteria were Beatrice Knabe, manager, and Deborah Samples, Alicia Jimenez, Lupe Lopez and Irma Murillo.

The next meeting is scheduled in September when new employees will be special guests.

Rebekah Lodge holds meeting

Noble Grand Thama Pearson presided at the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 Tuesday evening.

Twenty-four visits to the sick and 36 cheer cards were reported for the week.

Plans are progressing for memorial flags to be displayed. It was also noted that an interesting perusal of Lodge history is revealing much more than names of deceased members.

Jim Loving, Anthony Iribeck, and Ben Conklin served as hosts to Pearson, Marie Harris, Rosalie Northcutt, Susie Cutsinger, Sadie Shaw, Leona Sowell, Erma Loving, Verna Sowell, Winnie Wiseman, Faye Brownlow, Ursalee Jacobsen, Shirley Brown and Peggy Lemons.

Casa del Sol toured by garden clubs

Members of Bud to Blossom Garden Club and Hereford Garden Club toured Casa del Sol, a solar home on the Ericson Ranch near Crosbyton and were served a luncheon by the ranch hostess.

The group then toured the area, seeing the amphitheater site for "God's Country", a musical prairie drama held in August. The club members noticed many wild flowers in bloom in area pastures and along the road sides.

Those attending were Jane White, Wilma Bryan, Tracey Duncan, Joan Blackwell, Billie Johnson, Ursalee Jacobson, and Mildred and Ronald Fuhrmann.

The U.S. Senate ratified the Louisiana Purchase in 1803.

Don't plan a party without Admiral Party Ice.

When making party preparations, don't forget your Admiral Party Ice refrigerator. The 24 cu. ft. side-by-side has an ice cream maker to stir up your favorite desserts. Plus, it can make up to 12 lbs. of ice daily. That's twice as much as General Electric, Frigidaire or Whirlpool! If you need a lot of ice, you need the new Admiral Party Ice refrigerator. Also available in 22 cu. ft. top mount, with or without ice cream maker. Your new Party Ice refrigerator will include these useful features:

- Ice maker
- Ice and chilled water dispenser
- Wine cellar
- Van-cold™ drawer
- Adjustable glass shelves
- Textured steel doors
- Lift-out egg tray
