Aura Of School Opening Envelopes Hereford Area

COST CUTTER — Beulah seems blase to the whole commotion created by those silly humans over a little milk. Beulah is short for Lulu Ozark Loy, the registered name for this jersey heifer temporarily on the parking lot at the shopping center in north Hereford. Joe Sebastian, manager of Furr Food requested the cooperation of Ed Skypala, local Borden distributor, in getting the Borden show animal to Hereford as a gag. Growth Question Goes To Public In September

Saturday September 10 is the date set for voters to go to the polls to decide the fate of a proposed vocational school and an elementary school.

A petition for the bond election was presented to Hereford school trustees in a luncheon meeting Thursday.

On the petition were 104 signatures, well over the number required by law. More than 20 qualified voters is the minimum figure.

In the amounts of $400,000, the money raised by bonds — if approved by school district voters — will be used in the construction of a vocational building at the high school and an elementary school on a tract already purchased in South Hereford.

Absentee balloting on the issues will begin tomorrow at the school's tax office, in the cafeteria building south of Hereford High School.

Voting absentee will continue through Tuesday, Sept. 6, when the boxes will close at 5 p.m. Absentee balloting will be conducted during regular office hours of the tax office, closed Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays.

The new elementary, which is destined to be needed in at least another year, was included in a former $2.4 million bond issue. Rising building costs and expenses not anticipated dwindled funds for the school, leaving only $300,000 for its construction.

Herb Brasher, building consultant for the schools, told Superintendent Johnny Clark to count on $450,000 for the actual building of another elementary. Another $100,000 is added to provide for furnishing the building, paving and other incidental expenses associated with getting a new school opened.

Construction of a vocational school building, to be part of an already existing building, will require some $250,000, builders predict.

However, not all this cost would have to be paid by the district, with the state chipping in $125,000.

Citizens tentatively approved the move to open a vocational school here, although opinion was reserved, in a public forum staged to determine the "wants" of the community.

On the ballot Sept. 10 will be two propositions, numbered one and two.

The first will be the vocational school, which is listed on the ballot for $150,000 in bond funds.

Second issue will be the elementary school, listed for $250,000 in bond money.

The $250,000 for the vocational, $450,000 for the elementary, added with $100,000 for furnishing and other expenses, add up to $800,000.

Keys To New School Accepted Thursday

SUMMER SECRETARY — Vickie Inman, employed in the Witherspoon legal office in Hereford, entered the Hereford Brand contest that will name the secretary of the month. Winners will be honored by the local unit of the National Secretaries Association. Entry blank can be found in this paper. A secretary can enter herself or she can be entered by a friend or her boss.

La Plata Junior High School got a thorough "going over" by Hereford's school trustees as inspections were made prior to the opening of the new junior high school in northwest Hereford. School trustees, accompanied by administrative officials and Herb Brasher and Frank Ball of the architectural firm, toured the building Thursday. (See pictures inside.)

Construction at the building is in the final stages, as adjustments are made and finishing touches are added to the building.

The only item late in its scheduled plan of construction and installation is kitchen equipment, which has not yet arrived even though the completion date has long since passed. Date set for its installation was Aug. 1.

Brasher of Brasher, Goyette and Rapier, architectural firm at Lubbock, told school trustees the kitchen equipment was the only item of concern in having the building ready for classes to begin Aug. 29. Science equipment is now being installed.

The $1-million school building, spreading across a greater area than meets the eye when viewed from its street frontage, is large enough to accomodate 900 students. Classrooms will open to more than 600 this fall, school officials predict.

Color scheme throughout the building is unique to most other school buildings in the system, with attractive shades of greens, golds, browns and yellows brightening rooms to do away with "dull, drab classrooms."

Wood trim throughout the building has been done in "walnut," a dark colored wood.

Staffing the new junior high school will be Jerry Don George, formerly assistant principal at Stanton Junior High School, who will have principal's position, assisted by Alex Glass, who also once held a position at Stanton Junior High School. Classrooms number 28, with Chances are good for obtaining a seat on the House Agricultural Committee, Republican candidate for Congress told farmers and ranchers who gathered for a "crop and cattle" clinic Thursday evening.

A telegram from Gerald Ford, House minority leader, said "every effort would be made" to put Price in a Republican slot on the agriculture committee if he is elected in November. Several openings for Republicans will be available on the committee when Congress convenes in January, Price said. Membership in committees is based on the ratio between Democrats and Republicans in the Congress.

ATTENDANCE LAW TOLD

School attendance laws are called to the attention of community residents by County Judge H. C. Williams this week.

Every child between the ages of 7 and 17 inclusive residing in Deaf Smith County must attend regularly either public or parochial school according to the notice from the Judge's office. Parents of these children are subject to heavy fines if they do not require them to attend school. Crew chiefs may not work these children during school hours. Farmers are subject to heavy fines if they permit school age children to work on their land during school hours without a permit. All three elementary schools: public, St. Anthony's and St. Joseph's as well as the junior high schools and high school will open school August 29.

WANTS ACTION IN LIVE WAR

Viet Nam Vet Would Go Back If He Could

A young Marine just returned from Viet Nam believes he would return to that little country if all-out war were declared.

And Larry Powell says he's not the only one with that viewpoint; it's one shared by many of the servicemen in Viet Nam who just want "to get the job done" and go home.

A 1963 GRADUATE of Hereford High School, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Powell of 105 Grand Avenue, Hereford, Powell entered boot camp at San Diego that summer. He spent two years at 29 Palms, Calif., before departing for Viet Nam in the summer of 1965.

From Hereford, Buck Sergeant Powell will leave for Paris Island, S. C., due there the 24th of this month. He plans to be discharged from the Marine Corps in June, 1967.

Powell relates that the biggest danger in his position was from snipers during the nights. Mortar attacks along with incoming rifle grenades were also present. The biggest operation he had a part in was "Star Light," last September.

DEMONSTRATORS, now receiving attention in the light of hearings before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, had little effect on the fighting men in Viet Nam, Powell believes. Nothing does more to keep morale low in the camps as the lack of action in meeting face-to-face with the Viet Cong.

Powell will be eligible for four ribbons in his Viet Nam service, but modestly declines any details, saying the awards are for the routine accomplishments most any soldier could achieve.

Just before his departure, American troops were moving into new territory, Powell remembers. "The war effort was going very well when I left." Morale is high when things start "popping," Powell says. The involvement of U. S. troops in the Viet Nam conflict is worth the effort, he believes.

FORCES dealing with the Viet Cong have to deal with shrewdness and viciousness; the Red forces are using women in the war. But tactics employed by the forces from the north are

Plan For Development Of Fine Arts Advanced

Formation of a Fine Arts committee in Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce will be recommended to the board of directors at its monthly meeting in the Chamber of Commerce office Wednesday morning.

Ted Swindle, who with Bill Thompson, chamber manager, attended a recent meeting in Amarillo to discuss fine arts encouragement with other West Texas C of C representatives, will report on that meeting and bring its recommendations to the board.

This is one item on the meeting agenda which includes a report on a banquet to welcome new teachers, discussion of need for a day nursery in relation to need for labor in industrial development, and cooperation in an area Chamber of Commerce labor survey.

Creation of a Hereford Fine Arts Council sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce is the suggested goal of procedures to advance the cause of fine arts in this area, says an announcement sent to board members.

The proposed procedure would begin with selection of key people representing the various areas of fine arts for a "brainstorming" session, in which comment would be made on the objectives for a Fine Arts Council, and recommendations made.

Presentation of these recommendations would follow, to the local Chamber of Commerce, Hereford School board, any appropriate government agenices, and local civic groups which might be interested in the administration of any of the recommended program.

Suggested objectives for a Fine Arts Council include, as a specific goal, "enthusiastic encouragement for the formation of clubs in the various areas of the fine arts — drama (Little Theater), painting (art associations), literature (Poetry Society chapters), music (choral and instrument ensembles), etc."

Also listed as goals are: Fine arts specialists working in elementary and secondary school programs, artistic talent awards for all fine arts fields given annually, creation of a Hereford Fine Arts Center, eventually to include a municipal auditorium adequate for performances of drama and symphony groups from colleges and metropolitan areas, and investigation of possible use of tax funds for the program of such a Center.

Efforts toward excellence of county and school libraries in fine arts materials, work to bring fine arts performances to this city and encouragement of attendance at performances in nearby cities through close contact and wide publicity, are other goals mentioned.

All these objectives were discussed in generalities at the West Texas C of C committee meeting in Amarillo, with emphasis on the need for cultivating interest in fine arts throughout this part of state, as one means of attracting industries.

Music Plays Large Role In Local Doctor's Life

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of articles about community people actively engaged in the fine arts. Last week, the first, about sculpturing, featured Mrs. Benny Womble.

Hands are marvelous creations, possessing the ability to do widely varied things, from simple daily chores to imaginative art work. One man's hands are sensitive enough to perform the tedious tasks of a surgeon and yet talented enough to play a musical instrument as well.

Dr. A. T. Mims appreciates good music and it means something special to him. Though he has found little time for his own musical hobby since entering the medical profession, Mims feels that music is "one of the great joys in life."

He began playing the clarinet in the municipal symphony orchestra and taking lessons from the municipal director in Palestine, Texas, when he was twelve years old. Mims joined the Palestine High School Band when he was a senior, at which time it enlarged and improved its music department. During the high school days, he and some of his friends also formed a dance orchestra and played at local functions.

After graduating from high school, Mims attended Southwestern University in Georgetown on a music scholarship. Playing in the university band, he also played with a dance band orchestra consisting of six college boys and three men. In this way the college boys earned money to help pay school expenses. They sometimes traveled out of town for Christmas and other holiday engagements, often playing in Austin. The band remained together two years, 1937-39.

Mims then went on to medical school and played very little for nineteen years.

Then, in 1958, he and a few of his musically-minded cronies formed a 'genuine imitation' German band which has since delighted and amused many local audiences. Giving only demand performances, the group has given but one performance in the last two or three years —that being the Lion's Club Variety Show. This performance sparked con-facilities also provided for homemaking, agriculture, industrial arts, band, choir and athletics.

The mammoth gymnasium, scheduled to be the location of varsity games for the Whitefaces, will seat 1800 persons. Seating facilities are placed above the floor level, sitting atop dressing rooms. The bleachers' positions will keep spectators off the basketball court.

A large concession area, along with several restrooms, have been planned to accomodate the crowds anticipated for basketball games.

The cafetorium, administrative offices, vocational and band facilities are air conditioned, Supt. Johnny Clark Jr. said.

The combination cafeteria-auditorium will seat 900 persons. Tables easily assembled will be used, and can be knocked down quickly when not needed. Stage at one end of the large room is anticipated to be large enough for future needs: the auditorium at Stanton Jr. High had to be remodeled recently with the stage expanded to accomodate large groups participating in performances.

Located just to the north of Whiteface Field on Stadium Drive, the new junior high school is situated on land which is only now beginning to be developed. Land to the north of the building is not yet included in the bounds of the city of Hereford, but will probably be annexed soon.

Both La Plata and Stanton anticipate about an equal number of students this coming school year. Both schools will have about equal enrollment.

Freshmen, who for several years have been attending Hereford High School, have been moved back again to junior high, putting the system on a 6-3-3 basis.

siderable interest, however, and possibly now the band will be revived and rejuvenated; available for a few feature functions during the year.

Dr. Mims has both love of music and respect for it as an art. He highly commends Hereford junior high and high schools for their outstanding music departments and believes that the town should try to keep it "at the level it now is."

Mims feels that no student will regret taking band or choir while in high school. He pointed out that, even if the knowledge and skill acquired does not lead to a musical career, a person learns to appreciate good music as an art and

Being reared in a music loving family, Dr. Mims' own family has followed in the same direction. All of the three children, Charles (20), Ed (18), and Ann (14), like music and have had some musical training. Charles and Ed have played in the band and Ann is in the choir. Mrs. Mims shares her husband's appreciation of good music.

The Mims have resided in Hereford fourteen years. They came here from Dallas, where he attended medical school and completed surgical residency. Charles is now attending the University of Texas, where Ed will enroll this fall. Ann will be in ninth grade at Stanton Jr. High School.

Price . . .

Price has said that most farmers he has talked with would like to see a gradual withdrawal of government from this area. Agriculture is a $350 million business in the district, he told the group, placing it above the oil and gas business which is figured at $300 million.

"I do think the direction our agricultural policy must take is toward becoming less subject to the ideas of politicians. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman should be a hired hand of Congress, rather than make decisions for that governing body.

"Agriculture is now a 'minority group' and it is necessary that a two-party system be protected if the rights of minority groups are to be protected. So long as there are two political parties with a relative balance of power, both parties will be forced to provide efficient service to the people in return for their tax money."

Farmers now make up only seven per cent of the political power in Washington. The average age of the farmer or rancher is 58, he told the group. Some three million persons have left the rural area in five years.

"Agriculture is facing a new age. There is a great future in this business if farmers and ranchers can control it themselves. This is our business."

A major concern of agriculture in this area will be the supply of water, Price said to the farmers. He said water losses through evaporation and runoff must be curtailed, as well as supplies being found in other parts of the country to supply needs here. He suggested underground storage of water as well as catching of natural rainfall.

On the Viet Nam war, Price backs United States policy in giving aid to that country. However, he suggested that steps be taken to halt the shipment of war materials into North Vietnamese ports.

He also said there is a need to blockade Cuba and to provide assistance for exiled Cubans who would like to return to fight in their homeland.

The only way to stop or slow down inflation, Price asserted, is to remove poorly conceived and constructed government programs. "I predict that the Johnson administration will ask for wage and price controls after the elections this fall if the inflation does not slow down," he stated.

Specific questions concerning agricultural markets were asked by several in a discussion session. The "crop and cattle" clinic is one of several Price has staged throughout the area.

As author of the play upon which "Hello, Dolly!" was based, he receives 23/4 per cent of gross receipts of the musical's current four productions for permitting the adaptation. Wilder, 68, did not work upon the revision of "The Matchmaker," atat job was done by Michael Stewart.

A tour of duty in Viet Nam lasts 12 months, Powell says. He would be ready to go back right now — if action is taken to "get the job done," with no holds barred.

'OPPENHEIMER' PERFORMED MOST FOR GERMANS

BERLIN (AP) — "The Affair Robert Oppenheimer" has been the most performed play of the season in German-speaking countries, according to the German Theater Association.

The drama by Heinar Kipphardt was produced in 27 theaters for a total of 598 performances.

Travel Folders Published In French, German

AUSTIN — Texas Highway Department has issued two full-color travel folders for the state in French and German.

Based upon enthusiastic acceptance of a similar folder in Spanish, produced by the highway department last year, it is expected that the folders will have a significant appeal.

French and German travelers, anticipating a visit to the United States, will find Texas travel literature in their own language at U. S. Travel Service offices, and on the racks of international travel agents, air and steamship lines.

Highway department surveys indicate that Texas is an increasingly popular destination for European travelers. The new folders are designed to capitalize on that interest, and increase the flow of foreign visitors by speaking to them in their own language.

The new publications will become part of some two million pieces of travel literature produced and distributed by the highway department each year. Copies can be obtained at the department's eight tourist bureaus, or by writing the Texas Highway Department, Travel and Information Division, P. O. Box 5064, Austin 78703.

Business Manager Dillie Kelly explained that funding for the projects, if the "go ahead" is given by voters, would add up to about $800,000. The figures are determined by the amount in possible bonds, $400,000; the bond money remaining from the $2.4 million issue, $300,000; and the money the district would receive for building the vocational school, $125,000.

Boxes for the Sept. 10 balloting will be placed at the Dawn community center and at the school's administrative offices, located in the cafeteria building at the corner of Union and Ave. F.

Board Member Raymond White moved that the bond petition be accepted, seconded by Bill Gentry.

ACTRESS BECOMES PRODUCER

Miss Sands, who scored on Broadway last season in "The Owl and the Pussycat," has acquired "The Ceremonies in Dark Old Men." It was written by Lonne Elder, who appeared with her in "A Raisin in the Sun," and has had a showcase test with the new Dramatists Committee.

YOUNG SCIENTISTS — During August 14-20, ten teen-age scientists, winners of a United States Atomic Energy Commission special award for excellence in a nuclear science project, visited Argonne National Laboratory, near Chicago, where they observed, first-hand, research on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

In this picture Dr. Theodore N. Tahmisian prepares to show a group of the visitors some results of his research on biological effects of radiation. The students are, from left, Eddie G. Napps, 18, a senior at Longview High School, Longview, Texas; Frank W. Nobles, 15, a sophomore at Hereford High School, Hereford, Texas; David C. Frank Nobles Goes To Chicago Lab

Frank W. Nobles, 16, 111 Sunset Drive, Hereford, Texas, a junior at Hereford High School is one of ten teen-age scientists spending the week of August 14-20 at Argonne National Laboratory, near Chicago, observing first hand the scientific activities of one of the nation's foremost atomic research centers.

The expense-paid trip is part of a special award presented to outstanding high school science students by the United States Atomic Energy Commission at the 17th International Science Fair held at Dallas, Texas last May. Accompanying Frank on the trip was his high school science teacher, Mr. R. V. Young, 349 Stadium Drive Hereford, Texas.

Frank's award winning science project is in the field of biology and demonstrates how plants are studied using radioactive phosphorus as a tracer element.

At Argonne the ten scientists of tomorrow are visiting the Chemistry, Physics, Applied Mathematics and Biology Divisions as well as the Argonne Research Reactor CP-5 and the Zero Gradient Synchrotron, (Argonne's twelve and one-half billion electron volt atom smasher). They also have the opportunity to discuss their particular areas of interest with scientists working in those fields, and to actually participate in laboratory experiments under the supervision of Argonne scientists.

The International Science Fair is held each year to exhibit the science projects of outstanding ing high school students from the United States and abroad. Each student participating, at Dallas, had won in local and regional competitions. Of the 419 finalists, 57 were considered for the special AEC award because their science project dealt with some aspect of nuclear science.

The ten winners were presented AEC certificates of merit by Dr. Paul W. McDaniel, Director of the AEC's Division of Research at Washington, D. C. This is the fifth group of science award winners to visit Argonne.

Argonne National Laboratory is operated by The University of Chicago under contract to the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

JUNIOR NIGHTINGALES

Girls Help At Westgate

Brightening the atmosphere is not the primary duty of eight young aides who began work at Westgate Hospital this summer, but it is an important by-product, says Mrs. Ann England, supervisor of their training.

THE GIRLS are high school students, six of them trainees in hospital aide duties and two "sitters" with patients in the hospital which is part of the King's Manor retirement home complex.

Trainees are Linda Thomas, Becky Elliott, Penny Young, Gayle George, Regina Hampton and Linda Glenn. Alice Martin, who will be a freshman at Howard Payne College this fall, worked with the program for a time but could not work both the required shifts — 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. and 3 to 11 p. m.

Not a part of the training program but serving as "sitters" are Sylvia Torres and May Mendez, also Hereford High School students.

All have agreed to continue helping during the school term by doing relief work.

WESTGATE ADMINISTRATION hopes at least some of these students will go on to follow a professional career in nursing or allied medical fields, but each girl has been urged to continue her education in the field of her choice, and the hospital will not knowingly employ a girl if her school grades suffer as a result.

"We have been well pleased with these students," Mrs. England says. "They have been willing to learn, cooperative with other staff members, tidy in appearance, prompt in reporting for duty.

"Whatever they lack in skill has been more than made up for by their devotion and enthusiasm. The patients enjoy having them around because of their youth and vitality, their patience and compassion, their willingness to listen.

"At all times under supervision, these girls have learned to do by doing and are good examples of the dependable, conscientious and sincere youth of this period of whom we hear too little while so much is said about the "beat" generation.

"Westgate is proud and happy to have had the association of these students for a part of their school vacation."

Training has been given the girls in bed making, patient baths and grooming which includes care of hair and facial make-up for patients who desire it, assisting patients in walking, use of walker and wheel chair, feeding patients solids or liquids.

They have been trained to take blood pressure, temperature, pulse and respiration, to observe such unusual signs as elevation in temperature and change in attitude of patients, to assist in services performed by nurses.

USE OF SUCH equipment as aspirator, oxygen, air mattress and lift has been demonstrated to them and they have learned its purposes.

They have also had training in hospital housekeeping, which includes such tasks as removing spots from floors, cleaning commodes and washing walls.

Value of meticulous hospital housekeeping has been emphasized, and the girls know they are mopping spilled liquids from floors not only because it is unsightly, but because an ill or elderly person with unsteady footing can so easily slip and fall.

Such consideration for the patients' welfare, along with their cheerful presence, has been commended often by the staff as well as the Westgate patients.

Bride's Kitchen Gifts Presented

Kitchen gadgets and recipes were presented to a bride-elect, Miss Sara Gillentine, by a score of guests at a luncheon in her honor at Hereford Country Club Saturday noon.

Two-mother-and-daughter teams were hostesses, Mrs. Howard Beasley and Brenda, Mrs. Jack Gililland and Mary Beth. Misses Beasley and Gililland will be bridal attendants at the wedding.

Miss Gillentine's engagement to James David Durham Jr. of Paris and their plans for an Oct. 22 wedding were announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine. Several parties have been planned for her before her friends in the college crowd leave for the opening of terms in September.

Luncheon was served at a table with a colorful centerpiece of lemons and avocados. In an adjoining room, gift packages had been opened previously. They were placed on a table where the hostess gifts, a gay kitchen apron, a practical recipe book, were arranged in the center.

Places were laid for the honoree and her mother; her fiance's sister, Miss Barbara Durham of Paris; Misses Suzanne Langley, Jan Story, Merle Carmichael, Carolyn Owen of Dallas; Mmes. Charles Watson, Dennis Lomas, Suzy Jones of Lubbock, Clif Lewis of Abilene, Bobby Renfro, Dave Hopper, Wayne Thomas and the hostess quartet.

LERNER AND PREVIN

NEW YORK (AP) — For his next musical comedy venture, Alan Jay Lerner is collaborating with a new partner, Andre Previn, on a show entitled "Coco." The story is based on the career of Paris fashion designer, Coco Chanel.

Previn, winner of four Oscars for film composing, worked with Lerner on the movie version of "My Fair Lady." That music was written by Frederick Loewe. More recently Lerner teamed with Burton Lane on the current musical, "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever."

When you are making vegetable and fruit relishes, you may use cider or distilled white vinegar although the latter is preferred when a clear appearance is important.

Kiwanians See Slides Of Spain

Brother Denis Sennett of St. Anthony's Catholic Church was featured speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon Thursday. Brother Denis, who teaches 7th grade at St. Anthony's Parochial School and acts as assistant moderator of the church's youth club, gave an informative lecture on the background and present-day situation of Spain as he showed colorful slides of the country.

Brother Denis, who is in the Franciscan Order — a missionary order, lived in Europe six years. During this time he toured Europe extensively, especially Spain.

He told the Kiwanians of the famed Spanish bull fights, mentioning that the bull is cut and wounded with darts before the matador enters the arena. Each dead bull is given to an orphanage or some other charity organization rather than being wasted. Bull fights are held each Sunday afternoon and six fights are usually scheduled for the afternoon.

Bull fighting, which is of course the national sport of Spain, is considered expensive by the standards of their poor country. To average Americans, however, the 75 cent admittance price seems inexpensive.

Brother Denis said that most of the architecture found in Spain is of Christian or Moslem design. Many of the cities and towns are surrounded by a wall or moat, used in olden times for protection.

He explained the unusual proportions found in El Greco's paintings, while showing a slide of one of his most famous. The unusually long figures in El Greco's paintings represented humanity's desire to reach to heaven, he said.

Brother Denis noted that, even though Columbus was an Italian, Columbus Day is a national holiday in Spain. The country has built a monument to him.

A slide was shown of the elaborate "Vias Condias" or "Valley of the Fallen," which is a monument to those soldiers killed during the Spanish Civil War. It was built in the shape of a cross and carved in a mauntainside. It's interior is quite deceiving, for fine tapestries and furnishings found throughout the monument seem more fit for a palace than a cemetery. The bodies are filed into vaults in the walls. Vias Condias is a most impressive monument of huge proportions.

Brother Denis also showed the drawbridge which connects France and Spain, saying that it often remains closed due to a slight animosity between the countries.

Eugene Campbell, president of the Kiwanis Club, reminded the Kiwanians of the Texas-Oklahoma District Convention in Ft. Worth September 22-24. He outlined the program for them and encouraged the members to begin planning for this and to prepare to select delegates to attend.

Campbell also reminded the Kiwanians of their Ladies Night which will be held Thursday, Aug. 25, at the Hickory Log Restaurant and encouraged them to bring their wives.

Water Safety Films Will Be Shown To Public

The public is invited to a showing of three short films on water safety, sponsored by the water safety committee of deaf Smith County Red Cross by the water safety committee of Deaf Smith County Red Cross Chapter, at 8 p. m. today in the Boy Scout room of Community Center.

One of the three is a new film titled Your Breath Can Save a Life, which concerns mouth-t o-mouth resuscitation. The others are Oars and Paddles, and Boats, Motors and People.

The showing was arranged for members of a senior life saving class now in progress with Bruce Miller Jr. as instructor, but is open to anyone interested.

The class, last in the series of water safety classes of this summer, will continue through next Thursday when a 17-hour course of instruction will be completed.

Visiting Bride-Elect Honored With Brunch

Miss Carolyn Baechle of Chicago, fiancee of John Buck, was introduced to numerous friends of his family at a brunch Thursday morning in Hereford Country Club. She has been visiting here several days.

Hostesses were Mmes. Carl McCaslin, Ansel McDowell, Jack Meredith, Joe Paetzold, Herman Paetzold, Howard Godwin, Jim Pavlicek, Buck Hale, Glenn Burrus, Troy Moore and Edd Jesko.

Mrs. Maynard Buck, mother of the prospective bridegroom, presented Miss Baechle, who was wearing a black-and-white checked sheer dress with patent accessories and a band of black velvet pinned around her high-piled blonde hair.

Mrs. Buck wore off-white with facings of pink around the neck and at the hipline. Honoree, hostesses and houseparty members had corsages of pink carnations.

The same flowers were mingled with gladiolas in a fan-shaped centerpiece on the refreshment table. Misses Linda Paetzold and Camille Pavlicek and Mrs. Joe Mack Hale presided at the large round table, which was covered in pastel pink pleated to the floor.

Tables at which the guests were seated had coveres in the raspberry shade which will be used with pink in Miss Baechle's wedding Sept. 3. The table where Miss Chris Meredith registered callers had a raspberry cloth and a crystal bud vase held one pink carnation.

Miss Baechle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Henry Baechle of Chicago. The church wedding will be solemnized in that city and the couple will live in Austin while Buck attends the University of Texas Law School.

"NEVADA SMITH"

By MELVIN YOUNG

The critical teacher shortage throughout the area has educators pondering the prospects of beginning a school year without ample qualified personnel, and most are out beating the bushes for people to fill the many vacancies still existing in late August. The beginning of school is barely one week away. Clovis, Amarillo and others are apparently facing the same problems as Hereford. Where to get the teachers?

Schools, like private businesses, are beginning to feel the pinch of the personnel shortage. We suppose the situation stems from competition of expanding industries and the demands of big businesses that have much more to offer young college graduates.

The teaching profession has long been appealing to some, particularly to women with school age children, and it may come as somewhat of a surprise to those who are now discovering that the situation has changed.

For many years, teaching has been the "best job" a woman could get. Not only did it offer a reasonalbe amount of pay — generally much better than could be earned through non professional endeavors — but the teaching hours allowed the mothers to be home by the time their children returned from the classrooms or at the most, shortly thereafter. Summer vacations are the same and women teaching school are not faced with the problem of "what the kids are doing while I'm not home?"

Shortage of trained personnel in many fields however, has created a situation that may force schools to "take another look" at the teacher placement program. It may well be the time to modernize, and perhaps the end result will be — better teachers with more time to "teach."

California schools combat the situation this way. Teachers are hired for specific teaching duties, all spelled out in their contracts. Extra activities such as class sponsorship, annual sponsor, etc. are given to those teachers who wish to participate and the individual taking on the task is paid accordingly. All this is figured into the yearly salary.

The duties are clearly stated in the contracts, and the teachers are expected to fulfill the obligations to the best their ability.

The program, we unde and, has been quite succes l in the Golden Gate State. achers who do not desir extra activities are not forc into the situations. They are allowed to "teach," which after all, is what they have been trained to do.

Perhaps Texas should update too.

Why saddle a good teacher with a chore of collecting lunch money, sponsoring the freshman class, taking tickets at athletic events, sponsoring the annual and generally playing nursemaid to the student body. Some of these chores, if necessary at all, could be given to interested parents. It just might even be handled through the P-TA. That, to say the least, would justify their existence.

The day of the one room school house is gone. Likewise, the day of the "jack-of-all-trades" in the teaching profession has disappeared. Teachers today are trained in a particular field, and generally have little desire to attempt to teach outside their chosen realm of study. Specialization has long been prevalent in the business world and it looks like it is fast approaching in the teaching profession as well.

Remuneration too, is not to be ignored. While the salary of a classroom teacher may still appeal to many women with working husbands, the breadwinner of the family is seldom thrilled by the prospects of trying to make ends meet on a teaching salary. To be sure, those who desire and can qualify, may become administrators and fare considerably better. Coaching positions, band director and choir instructor positions, along with some others, are negotiated. The more qualifed instructors can expect to move up the ladder quickly and earn a greater rate of pay, but classroom teacher has little opportunity to do so. Consequently, many chose to enter the field of business rather than saying with the teaching profession.

Perhaps we've missed the point altogether, but we don't think so. Qualified people in all fields are demanding, and getting, a better break these days. They have tasted the fruits of our affluent society, and they like what they fine. Teaching although the profession is blessed with many dedicated people) is still for the most part, a means to an end — a better standard of living — and the teacher plans to get his just due, or offer his services to those in other fields.

And who is to suffer in the end? Your children and mine.

—HB—

Every once in a while a fellow gets a letter that makes his day worthwhile. Otis Dickey, at Howard Gault Company, recently received one such correspondence.

"Gentlemen: Your Texas red potatoes that are selling in Tierre Haute, Indiana are the finest I have ever seen. Could you tell me the variety of them.

It's always good to know that others appreciate our fine quality potatoes. Particularly since Texas potatoes have come under some fire over the past years due the fact that they do not store well.

There's a reason for all this, says Dickey, and it has nothing to do with the quality of the potato.

Hereford potatoes are as good, or better than any variety of the market. The reason they do not store well is because of the season of the year in which harvested, he says. And there's a reason for that too. Our potatoes are planted and harvested to hit the summer market — in between harvesting in other states. Consequently, they are dug during the heat of the summer, and in many cases, are not left in the ground long enough to insure good storing qualities. Potatoes that go into winter storage, should be harvested after cool weather arrives, according to Dickey, and they should be left in the ground for a longer period of time, allowing the spuds to mature fully.

That explanation makes sense to us. And we never doubted for a moment that Hereford potatoes were the best in the world.

There used to be a time when money that came today was gone tomorrow. Now it went yesterday.

Five centuries ago, caravels bearing Portugal's Cross of Christ coursed the oceans, exploring and opening two-thirds of the then-unknown world. 1000 HORSE POWER DOUBLE A FUELER — "The Texan Two", Eddie Hill flashes a winner's smile after just completing the quarter mile in 7.6 seconds at 205 miles per hour. His big fueler is primed and ready to take on all comers in the Texas Pre-National Fuel & Funny car match, to be held this Sunday at the Amarillo Dragway.

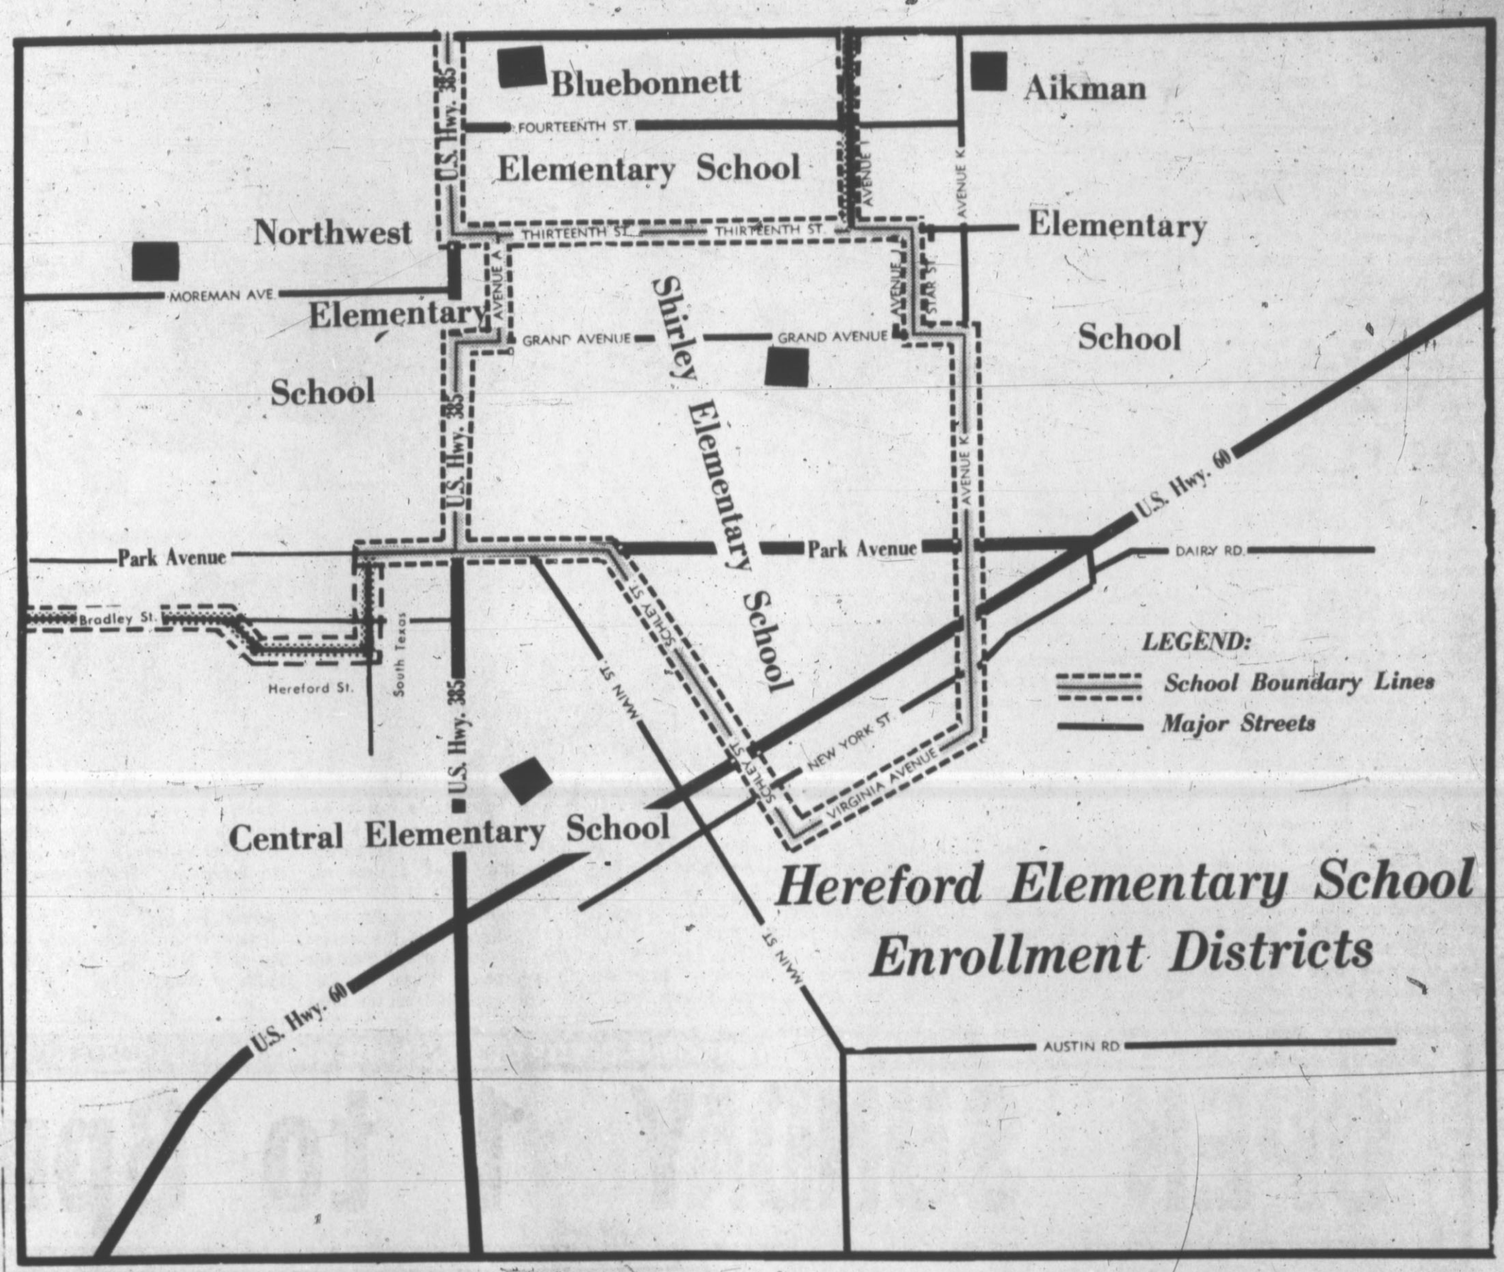
Drag Racing Events Slated

The big news in drag racing this week was the announcement by Earnest Walker, president of the Amarillo Dragway, of the big Texas Pre-National Fuel and Funny car match at the Amarillo Dragway this Sunday.

Slated to get underway with time trials at 7 a. m. and final races to start at 2 p. m., this spectacular 2 out of 3 match race event will feature such outstanding drag racing names as Eddie Hill of Wichita Falls vs Bennie Osburn of Tulsa, Vance Hunt of Dallas takes on Critz Automotive of Tulsa, "Bearded" Bobby Langley will face the "California Woody Car" from Santa Monica, Calif. and national Record holder Jimmy Nix from Oklahoma city will be pitted against "The Spoilers" from Tulsa, Oklahoma winners of the Texas Fuel Championship last month.

The Highlight of this event appears to be the grudge match between Gene Snow's 66 Dodge Dart and Roger Caster's 66 Chevrolet. Caster defeated Snow in a surprise unscheduled Race last month at the Texas Fuel Championship. Caster says he can do it again and Snow appears to be plenty unhappy about it.

"A special feature of this event will be Exhibition runs by John Smyser from Pomona, California, who has built a beautiful 1966 Olds Toronado into a 2400 Horse Power car called the "Terrifying Toronado." This car is powered by two AA fueler Engines, one under the hood and one in the trunk for a true 4 wheel drive. According to Walker, this promises to be one more of the exciting Drag Racing Events of the '66 Season, held this Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Amarillo Dragway.



ELEMENTARY DISTRICTS SHOWN — The map above shows boundaries for enrollment districts of the five elementary schools in Hereford. Dividing line for school enrollment districts will be the center line of the street or alley on which the boundary falls. School officials said that all students must enroll in the school in the district in which they reside. See story on Page One.

Miss Hamilton Gets Scholarship

Joellen Hamilton, 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Hamilton was the recipient of a $300 scholarship, awarded by the Hereford Optimist Club.

Miss Hamilton will attend West Texas State University this fall, and has been working this summer to earn money for her education.

The Optimist Club awards a scholarship annually to the student, who in their opinion works the hardest to further his education.

During her Senior year at Hereford High, Miss Hamilton held an A average in all her subjects and also had an outstanding record during her school career. She plans to major in English, and wants to be an English teacher.

The check was presented by Bill Phipps, past president of the Optimist Club. Funds for the Scholarship were taken from the Christmas Tree project and various other fund raising activities undertaken by the Club.

The Washington Senators played 12 American League games this spring before one of their pitchers achieved a complete game. Mike McCormick went the route, blanking the Yankees in five hits.

Hereford Sports New Dress Shop

Another new store has opened its doors to Hereford's public in Sugarland Mall. The newest addition to the Mall's string of shops is Mode O' Day, owned by Mrs. Kenneth Jeter of Lovington, New Mexico. Superintendent of the new shop is Dick Werner, also of Lovington. The Jeters, who will make their home in Hereford, have two children. They are Mike, 16, and Kenny, 17. Both will attend Hereford High School.

Mode O' Day is a chain of stores stretching from Alaska to Florida, from Hawaii to Texas. With its main office situated in Los Angeles, Calif., Mode O' Day is one of the largest producers of ready-to-wear in the world. Its nine ultra modern factories supply the 700 Mode-O' Day independently owned and operated shares located in almost every one of the 50 states.

Designs for the store's merchandise are created by a staff of top flight designers in the California office. Each detail is examined for correctness in style, wokmanship, fabric, and fit; it is then sent to one of the nine plants for manufacture.

Because Mode O' Day creates and manufactures all its own fashions for the stores it services, they necessarily buy fabrics in huge quantities and thus are able to maintain a very firm quality control in manufactore. Also, this system of designer-to-store operation permits Mode O' Day fashions to be priced moderately.

Mode O' Day carried all sizes, children's size 3 through half sizes to 24½. All merchandise is guaranteed by Mode O' Day to be high quality merchandise. The shop has a sportswear, dress, and lingerie department, in addition to the variety of accessor items that it carries.

Mode O' Day in Sugarland Mall has six employees.

It will be in operation Monday through Saturday and will follow the policy of the other shops in the Mall in remaining open late on Thursday and Saturday.

The Jeters will live on 25 Mile Avenue.

—Small Talk—

The season for family reunions is just about over, but there are still some to bring visitors here or take Hereford residents elsewhere.

THERE IS NO strictly defined season for the gatherings of kinfolks, but they do tend to be scheduled during school vacations because who would want a reunion unless there were grandchildren to liven it up?

The S. L. Walsers, C. R. Walsers and the Guy Walsers of Summerfield, with various members of their families who live hereabouts, went to their annual reunion last weekend at Ceta Glen. This is a session that has been held yearly since 1933 and it was attended this summer by 129 persons.

They came from California, New Mexico and Arkansas as well as various places in Texas; the oldest one present was 87-year-old T. L. Walser of Childicothe. Some of the families went to the campgrounds in the Glen Saturday and spent the night.

Swimming, games, eating, Sunday School, a business meeting to play for next year, and more eating were worked in among the general visiting.

A LATE SUMMER reunion scheduled here is that of the Ricketts clan, next weekend, which will have the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ricketts to give it a special fillip this year.

NOT A REUNION, but a wedding in the family took Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wilkins to California recently. They returned to their home, 108 Ave. G. last week. Their granddaughter, Suzanne Smith of Braly, married Richard Measures of El Centro in a ceremony at San Diego July 30.

Suzanne has visited the Wilkins and has acquaintances here. Her parents are the William F. Smiths of Braly; Mrs. Smith is the former Elsie Wilkins who is well acquainted here.

After the wedding the Wilkins went on to Northern California into the Redwood forests, and did a good deal of sightseeing. Mrs. Wilkins selects the Hearst castle, famous home which the late newspaper tycoon lavished his wealth to build, as the most interesting sight.

The Hereford couple made the trip with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith of Amarillo.

A WEDDING in Omaha yesterday will add a beautiful bride to Hereford's population. Attorney Jim Krueger married Earline Trimm of Lyons, a town near Omaha, and they will live here. The J. W. Witherspoons went up for the wedding.

In Libya petroleum has helped transform sand dunes into lush oases. Water-bearing dunes were planted with eucalyptus and acacia seedlings, then sprayed with oil to hold the soil.

After studying auto accidents that killed 177 persons not wearing seat belts, a U. S. Public Health Service study reported that 40 per cent would have lived if they had been wearing belts. In addition, 60 per cent would have been saved if they had also worn shoulder harnesses.

CWF Plans Part In Fall Retreat

Representation from Christian Women's Fellowship here at a district CWF retreat Sept. 10 and 11 at Ceta Glen, was planned at the monthly luncheon of the Hereford group in First Christian Church Wednesday.

Hereford women will be responsible for arrangement of an "interest table" at the district meeting, at which a program for the coming year is to be planned. Mrs. Glen Roberson is chairman of the committee to carry out the assignment.

Mrs. Jack Allen, new CWF president, conducted the business session which followd the luncheon. Mrs. Kelly Coplin directed a worship period. The program topic was CWF in the Total Church Program.

GASOLINE FIRE — Gerald Hale and Terry Hale battle an early morning truck fire at the corner of 6th and Main. Flames erupted beneath the truck and along the pavement as a dragging saddle tank spilled fuel. Cloyce M. Eakin, Amarillo driver of the Tri-State Baking Truck, was not injured. The truck was empty — no toast or hot rolls— quipped observers. The damaged vehicle was towed back to Amarillo. (Staff Photo)

DEEP IN SUMMER

IN THE LEAFY DAYS as summer wanes, outdoors is a pleasant place to be, with pretty backgrounds for pretty girls. Carol Sue Robbins, above pushes aside the graceful branches of a weeping will as she strolls across a lawn. Becky Owen, right, stands beside an arch covered with the glossy leaves of a climbing rose. Resting in the petunia bed on Hereford High School campus, center, Mary Sue Neff, Debbie Walden and Marsha Horton contemplate the narrowing span of vacation time. A late summer rose, pink and perfect, holds Denise Daniels' attention, lower center.

SECTION TWO

Phipps-Emerick Vows Are Spoken In Church

Miss Sylvia Faye Phipps and David William Emerick were married at mid-afternoon Saturday in First Methodist Church with the Rev. Clifford Trotter, pastor, reading the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Phipps, 429 Star, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Madge Emerick of Stillwater, Okla., and E. A. Emerick of Tulsa.

Blue and silver were emphasized in the alter setting, with gladiolas and mums arranged with palm leaves to flank a pair of seven-branched candelabra in which Miss Patricia Hill lighted tapers before the service.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Margaret Phipps of Lynn, Mass. as matron of honor, Misses Joellen Hamilton, Janis Brown of Gruver and Nancy Smith. Little Miss Debra Fielder was the flower girl and Clay Pitman carried the rings.

Before the processional was played by John Fielder, organist, Miss Pat Price sang Wedding Prayer, and later, One Hand One Heart.

As Mr. Phipps escorted his daughter to the altar the blonde bride was gowned in ivory silk linen, cut on empire lines becoming to her slender figure. The floor-length dress was untrimmed, but the short train was ornamented with flower appliques.

To accent the scooped neckline of her dress she wore her mother's opal necklace and another piece of jewelry was her gold watch in rose design, gift of the bridegroom. A double Dior bow held her bouffant shoulder veil. Her bouquet was a cascade of white pom-poms and phalaenopsis orchids.

Bridesmaids' empire dresses were of sky blue embossed peau de soie trimmed with white lace. Bands of the material with brief color-matched veils were their headpieces and they carried pom-pom cascades, Mrs. Phipps' blue and the others white.

Flower girl and candlelighter wore frocks of the same style and color.

Home of the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Pitman, 515 Long was the scene of the wedding reception. Guests were greeted in the foyer by the Pitmans and their son, John Kirk.

Mrs. Bill Steinberger of Gruver, Mrs. Joe Deavenport, Miss Jo Frances Deavenport and Miss Sue Atchley served refreshments and Mrs. Johnny Wayne Brownlow was at the registry.

A pair of English silver candelabra with blue tapers and a silver punch service shared the refreshment table with the three-tiered cake decorated in blue. Green garlands and blue carnations twined the bases of the candelabra. The ecru cutwork cloth was made by Mrs. Pitman's mother, Mrs. C. B. Emerick.

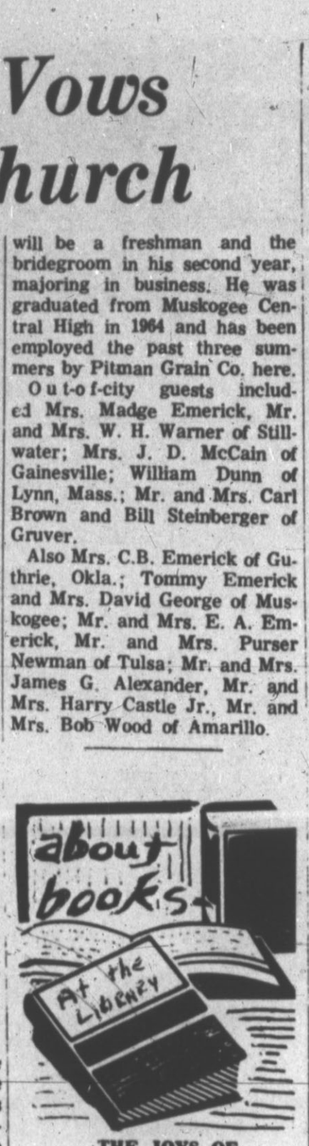
A garlanded wedding candle burned on the sideboard. White carnations in a silver vase was on the registry table and a similar, larger arrangement in the entrance hall.

After the reception the couple left on a trip to New Mexico, Mrs. Emerick wearing a white suit with royal blue shoes and gloves and a corsage of miniature red roses. They will be at home at 917 Stanley, Stillwater, after Aug. 26.

Both will be students in Oklahoma State University next term. The bride, a 1966 graduate of Hereford High School, will be a freshman and the bridegroom in his second year, majoring in business. He was graduated from Muskogee Central High in 1964 and has been employed the past three summers by Pitman Grain Co. here.

Out-of-city guests included Mrs. Madge Emerick, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Warner of Stillwater; Mrs. J. D. McCain of Gainesville; William Dunn of Lynn, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown and Bill Steinberger of Gruver.

Also Mrs. C.B. Emerick of Guthrie, Okla.; Tommy Emerick and Mrs. David George of Muskogee; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Emerick, Mr. and Mrs. Purser Newman of Tulsa; Mr. and Mrs. James G. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Castle Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wood of Amarillo.



THE JOYS OF READING

Recently we read an article on the secret of Enthusiasm in which the author stated that the taproot of enthusiasm in learning. What better place to obtain this than in our library and what better way than reading books?

We were reminded of a booklet we once read entitled "Seven Joys of Reading." There may be more than seven joys, the author admits, but she knows that there are at least that many.

When we are children we earn about the first one, The Joy of Familiarity. This is obtained through the enjoyment we get from the reading, or having read to us, the same story, book or poem, over and over again without tiring of it. Remember,

The second, is The Joy of Surprise. It too, is associated with childhood. However in the old books. These are the things we find in rereading a book; new ideas, learning of love, friendship and compassion. Much of it is as old as the hills but new to us.

The Joy of Sympathy is listed third, and is found in the companionship of books wherein one finds the author which is in "simpatico" as the Spanish say. This is when the books say what we believe in and what we would like to say if we could express it in words.

Fourth is the Joy of Appreciation. This one belongs to our maturer years. This too is when we read something which we had read earlier and find new facts or ideas previously missed-or some world-old truth strikes us, a new.

Expansion is the next Joy and means simply being caught out of our daily rut and taken where we get a bird's eye view, to see the kingdoms of earth and their relation to us. We have the chance to make friends through books with peoples of all the lands of earth.

Sixth, is the Joy of Shock. By this is meant, shock of meaning, or a difference in thought to our acquired taste. In this way our mental circulation is quickened and we become wide awake.

The last of the seven is the Joy of Revelation. This is not found in reading alone but is found in music, pictures, sculpture, architecture, drama, and everything that contains the possibilities of revelation.

The reading of books, magazines, and newspapers is an "open sesame" to another world — and our enthusiasm.

CHAPEL SOLD WITH PROVISO

LONDON (AP) — The oval-shaped King's Weigh House, just off Oxford Street, which is now used as a Protestant chapel by U. S. Navy personnel in London, is being sold by its owners, the London Congregationalist Union. However, so that the site won't be developed for an office block, there is a proviso in the terms of sale that it must still remain a place of worship.

MADAM PRESIDENT . . .

In Garden Or Vases, Flowers Interest Her

Dirt gardening and flower arranging, the two major emphases of garden clubs, both appeal to Mrs. Charlie Noland, new president of Garden Beautiful Club.

SHE WAS ELECTED to the office last spring and a change in the club's bylaws has given her a two-year term rather than the one year which officers previously served.

Favorite garden products of Mrs. Noland are chrysanthemums, to grow or arrange. She doesn't know how many varieties are growing in her yard now, and each year she adds a few new ones. She shares her plants, after they begin to multiply, with neighbors and friends so that numerous plants go out of the garden every year, too.

Most of the yard work she does herself, employing help only for the harder tasks. And she adds that she can handle jobs not usually labeled "for women," such as driving a farm truck when necessary.

THE NOLANDS are farmers who lived in Summerfield from the time of their marriage until nine years ago, when the moved into Hereford. Both are from families which came to this area in early years of the century.

As Dorothy Fullwood, Mrs. Noland was born at Tucumcari, N. M. and came with her family to Hereford when she was a small child. She went through Hereford schools and then studied secretarial subjects in a business school here, preparing her for duties in the office of her father's electrical firm.

Her immediate family comprises a daughter, Mrs. Vincent Gallagher of Hereford; a son, Bob Noland of Westway; and three grandchildren, the Gallaghers' son and the Bob Nolands' two youngsters.

DOROTHY NOLAND has acted as treasurer and reporter for Garden Beautiful Club in her six years of membership, and one year took the big responsibility of chairmanship of the ways and means committee, which entailed planning a tour of homes which showed flower arrangements.

That tour, an annual club event several years, was dropped last year because it had grown into too big a project for one club; the three Hereford garden clubs plan to revive it jointly this season.

The Hereford Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, is another organization in which the attractive matron is interested. She is a past worthy matron, serving this year as secretary. She attends First Methodist Church.

WITH

ANHYDROUS AMMONIA

Working straw, or residue of rotation crops, into the soil is a good farming practice that builds up soil tilth and water holding capacity. Follow locally proven mulching and fallowing practices to conserve moisture in dry areas.

It's wise to know your soil and what to expect from it. Have each field analyzed by a qualified soil testing service. See your dealer for recommendations.

If soil tests show your soil is acid, correct it by early application of lime. Apply PHOSPHATE and potash fertilizers, in addition to nitrogen, as recommended to help increase yield and quality.

Plow EARLY as necessary to catch rain. Prepare a good seed bed but keep tillage operations to a minimum to lower cost and avoid unnecessary soil compaction. Stay off of wet fields.

A good adapted variety is your best wheat seed buy. Improved varieties have more vigor to resist pests and produce bigger yields of higher quality grain . . . their roots go deeper for moisture and plant food.

Plan on maximum yields by planting to a stand that's uniform and thick enough to take full advantage of your fertility and moisture level. Follow locally successful rates and methods.

Protect your wheat from yield-robbing diseases, weeds and insects. Prevent or stop them early with the proper variety, cultivation, spray or other program.

Each bushel of wheat requires about 1½ lbs. or more of actual nitrogen. The most efficient way to supply this vital nitrogen is with anhydrous ammonia. It contains 82% nitrogen and is applied down in the root zone.

Miss Hammett Is Bride Of Lawrence R. Boggs

Returning for her marriage ceremony to her former hometown and the church she attended as a child, Miss Linda Kay Hammett exchanged wedding vows with Lawrence Ray Boggs Jr. Saturday afternoon in First Baptist Church at Cotton Center.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hammett, 313 S. 25 Mile Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Boggs Sr. of Hereford. The Hammett family lived at Cotton Center until two years ago.

The Rev. David Crow of Melrose N. M., who was pastor of the Cotton Center Church when Miss Hammett was a member there, conducted the double ring service in which the bride's father gave her in marriage.

Altar vases held white carnations and yellow mums, flanked by four-branched candelabra twined with ferns. Wedding music included songs by Misses Deanna Prather and Nancy Hosier and an organ medley by Mrs. Lillian McFerrin, all of Cotton Center.

Miss Charolette Barrett of Cotton Center was Miss Hammett's maid of honor, Misses Karen Moody of Hereford, Adair Melton of Uvalde and Beverley Barrett the bridesmaids.

Lewis Poarch served as best man. Groomsmen were Carlton Richardson, Paul Hagar, and Richard Brock; ushers, Gary and Edward Hammett and Ronald Schulz of Cotton Center. Carola Polvadore of Hereford and Gayle Ashby of Burnet lighted candles.

Junior members of the wedding were Lisa Hammett and Ellen Ashby, flower girls, Derenda Boggs and Wayland Ashby, ring bearers.

The bride was lovely in a period gown of silk organza with Venice lace scalloped around the neckline of the bodice. Lace motifs frosted the bouffant skirt which shaped into a train. Waistline fulness was scissor-pleated under a ribbon circlet fastened with small Dior bows.

Tiers of illusion were caught in a pouf to French Organza roses just above her forehead, falling to elbow-length. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a white orchid surrounded by carnations on a bridal Bible.

Attendants wore street-length frocks of yellow brocaded satin, sleeveless, with scooped necklines and belled skirts. Headdresses were rose crowns of the dress fabric with scalloped illusion veils. Their flowers were yellow carnations.

For the wedding and reception afterward in the church fellowship hall, Mrs. Hammett was dressed in a beige lace suit with accessories in toast shade. The bridegroom's mother chose white accessories to accent her beige lace dress. Both had corsages of pale yellow carnations.

Reception decor was focused on the tiered wedding cake iced in white and yellow, topped with miniature bridal couple and set on a table covered with lace over pastel yellow. White gladiolas and carnations were arranged as a centerpiece.

Mrs. Calvin Barrett, Mrs. Doug Barrett, Mrs. Jo Schulz of Cotton Center and Mrs. Denver Dearing of Denver City served refreshments; Mrs. Ed Horsford was at the guest book.

Leaving for the wedding trip Mrs. Boggs was wearing a pale yellow suit with the orchid from her bridal bouquet pinned at the shoulder.

After a trip to Carlsbad and other places in New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Pasadena, Tex., where the bridegroom will attend college.

Library Trail Drive Proclaims Success

Put of the one hundred ninety-nine children entered in the Deaf Smith County Libary's Young Readers Trail Drive, sixty-six have already received their certificates of achievement Serveral of these have earned extra stickers for reading more than the required amount of books.

Mrs. Lorene Newman, librarian expects at least one hundred children to earn their certificates within the next two weeks. Though the drive was to end August 15th, those books checked out on that day will be included in credit toward certificates.

Since the children are not credited for mysteries and Dr. Suess books, their reading selections have widened and many of them find that they enjoy non-fiction. During the summer 700 more children's non-fiction have been checked out than last year. Over 1,000 more books were checked out in both June and July of this year than during those months last year.

Mrs. Newman reports that most of the children that have completed the reading program continue to come back for more books, and many of them still check out non-fiction and the better fiction books even though they no longer are required to.

She feels that the library will be able to plan the same sort of program next year with a minimum of confusion. They will be able to take some shortcuts and still improve the program, she says.

Recently-Wed Couple Making Home In Ranger

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nelson Hazard are at home in Ranger after their marriage August 10 and a short trip. Mrs. Hazard is the former Miss Mary Reena Garlitz of Hereford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Garlitz, 119 Bradley.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hazard Sr. of Ranger. Wedding vows were exchanged in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ray D. Black of Baird, with the Rev. D. E. Aden, minister of First Christian Church at Albany, officiating.

Only attendants for the pretty home ceremony were Miss Jeralyn Anderson of Ranger and Melvan Anderson of Albany, both cousins of the bride. Guests were seated by Eva Black and John Rodriguez. Miss Garlitz' sister, Dee Garlitz, and Joe Lee Rodriguez lighted candles.

The tapers burned in white candelabra on either side of white gladiolas and ferns to form a background for the wedding party. Mr. Black gave his niece in marriage.

She wore an empire dress of white embroidered organdy over taffeta and carried white feathered carnations. Miss Anderson's dress, similarly styled, was of pink linen.

A reception in the home followed the wedding. Mrs. Roddy Carter, the bridegrom's sister, served the tiered wedding cake, topped with bridal couple figurines, and Mrs. Jean Rodriguez poured punch.

White gladiolas and carnations centered the table, which was appointed in milk glass and covered with white linen. Rice bags were handed to guests by Kellye Carter, niece of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Hazard was a junior in Hereford High School and plans to continue studies. Hazard, employed by the Texas Highway Department, attended Ranger Junior College after graduation from high school in that city.

TERRY COUNTY REUNION HELD

The sixth annual reunion of the Terry County Pioneers Association is scheduled to be held in Brownfield, Texas on Saturday, August 27, 1966. The affair will be held at the American Legion Hall, located at 800 Seagraves Road, and registration will begin at 8:00 a. m.

Present members of the association, who now number about 500, as well as former residents and their children who have lived in Terry County for 40 years or more, are invited to attend and bring a picnic lunch. All persons who qualify for membership are especially urged to attend and register, as this organization affords an excellent opportunity to renew acquaintances, meet new friends, and reminisce about the "Pioneer Days in Terry County.

THE CHURCH I LOVE . . . . . HAS PUT ON THE WEDDING GARMENT

Christ told a parable in Matthew 22, saying "the kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who gave a marriage feast for his son." After much opposition and many rejections to be present at the marriage feast, "the wedding hall was filled with guests." "But when the king came in to look at the guests, he saw there a man who had no wedding garment. Then the king said to the attendants, 'Bind him hand and foot, and cast him into outer darkness; there men will weep and gnash their teeth."

As I understand this parable, it has to do with the judgment in the final day when the Bridegroom, which is Christ, comes to receive his people who are prepared for his coming and reject those who are not prepared.

Common sense tells that if we are invited to a wedding feast honoring a great person, we take a bath, put on the required clothes and study the best etiquette before we make our appearance at the dinner.

When the Bridegroom comes, let us who believe in Christ, "be clothed with fine linen, bright and pure—for the fine linen is the righteous deeds of the saints." (Revelations 19:9).

"Put to death therefore what is earthly in you: immorality, impurity, passion, evil desires, and covetousness, which is idolatry . . . . But now put them all away: anger, wrath, malice, slander, and foul talk from your mouth . . . Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience, forbearing one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving each other; as the Lord has forgiven you, so you also must forgive. And above all these put on love which binds everything together in perfect harmony." (Colossians 3:5-14). This is the wedding garment.

Rougher Going For Drop-Outs

A high school education, considered a luxury one or two generations back, has shifted into the category of necessity, these days, while college graduates are becoming the rule rather than the exception. Nevertheless, estimates now indicate that 30 million Americans over 25 years of age will not have even one year of high chool in 1975.

While we are aware of tremendous records achieved by uneducated Americans, we also recognize that they are comparatively rare and, with an education, many of them would have gone much further.

In these days, with such a tremendous premium on skills, there seems little doubt that most of the 30 million "drop outs" are going to find the going rather tough. Already, there is a pronounced shortage of professional and technical people including managers, salesmen, teachers, foremen, computer operators, and other service workers. By 1975 the need will have expanded to the point that the shortage could even hurt our economy.

Keeping our youngsters in high school is a tough problem, both for the individual and for the community. It is possible that presentation of facts and figures to youngsters on the lower grade levels might well contribute toward the goal. Addition of technical training classes, already in the mill on a national level, may likewise help to solve the problem. Vocational agriculture, pretty well along the same line, seems to have worked out reasonably well in this particular territory.

Parents, too, should begin to emphasize the need of a high school education at early ages. When one stops to think how much effort, tax revenue and hard work are concentrated to make public education possible, it is a shame to see so many youngsters not avail themselves of the opportunity which is their's, merely for the taking.

Jaywalking Is Dangerous Habit

A lot of us are not going to like the idea. but with two street accidents in less than a week, it does seem that the old Hereford habit of jaywalking may be on the way out.

This means, of course, that instead of dashing out and fighting our way through a maze of moving vehicles we will have to walk to the intersection, wait until the light turns green, then safely march across the street.

Enforcement will be the worst feature, when and if our City Dads decide we have grown up to this extent, and it will be quite a few tickets into the future before jaywalking is totally eliminated. To a lot of people, this will not "sit right" and we imagine there will be complaints galore. However, it is part of living in a growing community and, as the old saying goes, "it is for our own good."

One thing, though, a lot of us will get some badly needed exercise, which might contribute more toward longevity than the probability of being over-run by an automobile.

Firearms Law

An aftermath of the Charles Whitman sniper escapade in Austin recently appears in the form of two pieces of proposed legislation. One would confine people known to be mentally unbalanced; the other would restrain the sale of firearms.

While the first appears excellent in that restrictions on mentally deranged persons considered dangerous to the public are vague, we cannot see much connection with the proposed "gun law" and the recent outrage, which cost 13 lives.

Of all the people in Texas, Whitman would have been among the first to have qualified in buying weapons under any system we might devise unless, of course, the state outlaws possession of any type firearms — and we doubt that this will ever come to pass. Murder of President Kennedy was perhaps an argument, but not the Whitman incident.

All in all, it seems that some fanatic is using the situation to push and publicize a "pet peeve". The arguments, though perhaps valid, just do not measure up when tied into this particular escapade.

New Concept Of Beauty Contests

Announcement of the Deaf Smith County Farm Bureau Queen contest came as good news to many people of the community, who have expressed a hope that more contests of similar nature wll be seen in the future.

This area, though never particularly against beauty contests, for some reason has never gone extensively in the beauty contest business as have numerous other communties around the country. While a few towns may have gone overboard on the subject, Hereford appears to have perhaps under-emphasized the question of pulchritude. Why? No one really has an answer.

Meanwhile, the beauty contest formula seems to have also changed its scope and goals on local, state and national levels. Instead of sheer beauty, the Miss America contest now emphasizes charm, talent and all around personalty. What's more, the prizes and awards have been altered to become worthwhile and encouraging.

You might even say that a "new spotlight" has been thrown upon the entire classificaton of all such contests, and this may well have resulted in the new trend in our own community.

Needless to say, we do have dozens of young ladies who can qualify on all counts. Encouragement is a matter of sponsorship and support by the community, and now that the contests do represent worthwhile goals, it is encouraging to note the revival of interest in the subject in this area.

Uncle Sam's Hiring Hall

There is not much doubt that some functions of the U.S. Employment Service could stand improvement, but that doesn't mean it has to be radically altered in the way Congress is leaning.

In the area of job information, to mention one defect, the need is for more accurate and faster nationwide dissemination of information on job vacancies. As it is now, the swapping of job information from area to area depends largely on the cooperation of state employment services which vary in efficiency.

Surely, however, this and other placement functions of the USES can be bettered without changing the essential nature of the Federal-state service. It was not intended, when the service was set up more than 30 years ago, that public funds be used to find new jobs for workers already employed.

And yet that is how such funds would be used under the Manpower Services Act of 1966, already passed by the Senate and now before a House committee. "The Congress declares," says the act's statement of purpose, "that a strong and modern manpower service system which operates not merely as a labor exchange . . . but as a comprehensive manpower services agency is essential . . ."

To make the service "comprehensive," the act would authorize the USES to do what lately it has been doing without authorization: To recruit for an employer a worker already employed by another. Put in blunt terms, the act would legalize Federal pirating of employes.

It is plain why private employment agencies are strongly opposed to this change in USES function. It could put them out of business — particularly if, as might happen in some period of declared manpower emergency, the Government made mandatory. all job placement through its own service.

Less plain, perhaps, are the implications of the proposed change to employes. If the USES is empowered to move people about from one job to another, what is to prevent it from keeping them where they are if it so chooses? In other words, the act implies the sort of control over manpower which up to now, even in wartime, the Government has adopted only reluctantly.

A good many employers already have challenged the wisdom of giving the USES such broad controls over human beings. Certainly the concept of a centralized Federal hiring hall ought to be equally repugnant to employes, union and nonunion alike.

Broadcasters See Local Problems From Starcasts

By BERT MILLS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — One out of seven workers is employed in government, at the Federal, state or local level. For the other six who are on the outside looking in, here are some inside facts.

Direct broadcasting from satellites could eliminate overnight the need for local television and radio stations, the Federal Communications Commission has warned broadcasters. Such a revolution is technically possible today.

Dishonest employees swipe twice as much merchandise from stores as shoplifters, the Small Business Administration was warned. SBA has suggested it would help if clerks were furnished uniforms without pockets and were forbidden to park close to the back door.

Ethel Kennedy, wife of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D., N. Y.) and mother of his nine children, leads a busy life. She has found one shortcut to help her keep up with her charitable work — a private telephone for her exclusive use while under the hair dryer at her favorite beauty shop.

Incidentally, her husband Bobby has shown what inflation has done to philanthropy. Whereas John D. Rockefeller gave away dimes, Sen. Kennedy passed out John F. Kennedy half dollars on his South American trip.

Earl Warren is Chief Justice of the United States — except when it comes to his paycheck. He earns $40,000 a year but plays second fiddle to the Chief Judge of the New York Court of Appeals, whose pay is $42,000.

Incidentally, Warren has now passed his 75th birthday but has set no record. He is the sixth Chief Justice to turn the three-quarter century mark and remain on the job.

FBI Man An Inventor

What does an FBI man do to get away from it all? In the case of Associate Director Clyde Tolson, he invents gadgets. J. Edgar Hoover's top aide holds patents on a bottle cap that requires no opener, and a device that opens and closes windows automatically.

Speaking of the FBI, an agent's time is not his own even when off the job. For example, before an FBI man goes on vacation he must supply his office with a detailed itinerary so as to insure that he may be reached within 24 hours by phone or wire. Veteran agents are frequently called back from vacation in emergencies.

The Census Bureau has discovered that the more education a man has, the less likely he is to be divorced. However, women with a college degree are just as likely to become a divorcee as those with only a high school education.

It is estimated that half the children in the world have no school to attend. Educators are discussing the possibility of using a world-wide communications satelite system to beam educational broadcasts to all those within reach of a TV set.

Sen. George Smathers (D., Fla.), sponsor of a pigeon-holed bill to create a Court of Labor-Management Relations to end deadlocked strikes which threaten the national interest, has reported there have been 81 strikes in the U. S. since the end of World War II which have idled 40,000 or more workers at one time.

A study by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce showed that 100 jobs in a community resulted in 65 others gaining employment, $710,000 added personal income per year, three new stores and a $331,000 annual increase in retail sales, a rise of 97 in passenger car registrations, and $229,000 more in lo-

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philisopher on his bindweed farm reports on high prices this week.

Dear editar:

This is the first time it ever happened, but a neighbor came over to my place yesterday and handed me a newspaper, just like that, and said "Here, see what you think of this?" He pointed to a headline on the front page which said "Farmers Cleared Of Blame For Bread Price Hike."

I sat back down and looked it over. According to it, a Congressional committee, investigating the high price of bread, said it had found conclusively that the wheat farmer wasn't to blame. This sure seems like going to a lot of trouble and expense to prove something every farmer has known for years.

While I don't raise any wheat, it didn't take a Congressional Committee to tell me that when the price of bread goes up, the extra money never trickles back down to the wheat farmer's pocket.

I have never understood the mechanics of it, but there is some sort of economic shut-off valve that never lets the flow reverse itself. The committee found out that for the amount of wheat in a loaf of bread, the farmer gets about 3 cents, which is about the same he got ten or fifteen years ago.

I don't know if the committee is going to check up on other items or not, but it can save money if it'll just take my word for it that the farmer had practically nothing to do with the price of anything on any shelf in any store, and it's a shame, too.

What I mean is, farming and ranching will never come into their own until they get to the point where a Congressional commitee investigates them and comes out with the announcement that they've been charging too much for what they sell.

"It's those gouging farmers that're running the price of food up" — that's what the committee ought to find. There ought to be a headline in the paper reading: "Farmers Grin When Told They're Charging Too Much."

I could go on but I've got to get into town to find out what they're going to pay me this year for milo.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

NEWSPAPERS CANNOT KEEP UP WITH CRIME

IS NO ONE LISTENING TO CLIMBING FIGURES?

By HENRY CATHCART
Central Press Washington Writer

WASHINGTON—In many parts of the United States talk of the increasing rate of crimes is so frequent that it's like crying "wolf" too often. No one seems to be listening anymore.

Run-of-the-mill crimes are becoming so prevalent that most metropolitan newspapers are unable to report all of the incidents —even in major crime categories. And even when a sensational crime, like the mass murders in Chicago and Austin, Tex., is covered, too much of the readership is concerned with tongue clucking instead of with the deteriorating success of local law enforcement.

Washington

Crime up, convictions down

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has reported that the rate of major crimes in the nation's 12 largest cities rose five per cent in 1965, but convictions decreased five per cent. Moreover, the statistics represent a continuation of a long-time trend toward greater disregard of law and toward less efficient detection and prosecution.

It is all very well for local police to complain about their departments being underpaid and understaffed, and for the prosecutors and the courts to echo the sentiment. But there is every indication in many locales that these cries are no more than alibis for worsening inefficiencies.

When crime got out of hand because of prohibition-inspired disregard of law in the late 1920s and early 1930s, an aroused citizenry was the root-cause of a general clean-up effort that took place spontaneously across the nation.

It is time for America to turn away from the blood and gore on television and pay more attention to the real violence going on in their own cities and towns. Police Departments and criminal courts are staffed by human beings, and they, too, sometimes need the "boss," namely the public, to put the heat on reform.

● THE DIFFICULTIES OF DISSENT—Chairman J. William Fulbright conducted lengthy hearings on the U.S. policy in Viet Nam before his Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Because of his estimate of their vital importance he requested the printing of 14,000 copies of a portion of the hearing record.

Congress must give its consent to unusual printing requests, but it ordinarily does so in a routine manner. Thus, the Senate gave its approval automatically.

Fulbright

But when the request got to the House of Representatives, an unusual event occurred. Rep. Wayne L. Hays' Printing Committee cut 10,000 copies out of the request, authorizing only 4,000 copies. And the sharp reduction was made to stick.

Print Order

Cut Down

Even though the 4,000 copies may be adequate, the action was so rare that observers are convinced that no unusual request by Hays which requires Senate approval will receive it in the foreseeable future.

Grape Harvest Time Arrives

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

The grape harvest season has arrived. You should find several varieties at your favorite store this week to aid you in menu planning. Locally grown grapes are appearing on the market, also.

The pale green Thompson seedless grapes are plentiful now. You'll also find good quality red cardinal and early-season black grapes on the market.

Regardless of the variety you select, these guidelines will help you become a smarter shopper: Look for grapes that are plump, fresh-looking, bright in color and have well-formed bunches with mature berries firmly attached to the stem.

High color for the variety indicates good sugar content and flavor. White or green grapes are at their best in flavor and sweetness when they begin to turn amber. Dark-colored grapes should be free from any green tinge.

Grapes are a fragile, highly perishable delicacy. Buy them in small quantities and use them within a day or two. If you plan to keep them several days sort them carefully and refrigerate them.

For table use, wash grapes in a colander or hold the cluster directly under running water. Turn and shift them so that each berry is washed. Pick off any beries that are overripe or imperfect. Also, you can use grapes in salads and desserts or in colorful centerpieces.

To make grape juice at home: For a small quanity use an enamel or aluminum dishpan, a thermomenter (dairy or candy), a clean cloth, 1/2 yard of cotton flannel for filtering, bottles or jars and lids, a bottle capper and caps.

If grapes of improved varieties are ripe when used for grape juice no sugar is needed. If you prefer a sweeter juice add ½ to 2 cups of sugar to a bushel of grapes.

A blend of different varieties makes a better flavor and a more attractive color. A bushel of grapes will yield approximately 3 gallons of juice; some varieties only 1½ gallons.

Steps in making grape juice: Wash grapes on the stem thoroughly. Crush grapes in aluminum, wooden or earthenware vessel. Do not use tin, iron, zinc or steel vessels.

Heat the crushed grapes, stirring constantly, to 145 degrees F. Hold at this temperature for 5 minutes. No water is added. Most of the color of the juice comes from the inner skin.

Heating the crushed grapes and pressing while hot will produce a rich wine color. A higher temperature than 145 degrees will extract tannin from the stems and tartaric acid from the seeds, giving the juice an undesirable flavor.

After heating, extract the juice by pressing, or hang up in a bag and squeeze. Filter the juice through cloth or jelly bag. Heat again.

Pour in bottles or jars, filling to neck of bottle or jar. Cap bottles. Seal jars. Place in water bath. Cover completely with warm water. Heat and hold water at 165 degrees F. Pint bottles or jars 5 minutes, quarts 10 minutes, half gallons 15 minutes; gallons 20 minutes.

• • • •

CANNING FRUIT JUICE: The instructions apply to plum, berry, cherry, grape or blends of these juices. Wash fruit; crush and heat to simmering. Extract juice. Add ½ to 2 cups sugar to a gallon of juice according to taste. Add no sugar to juice which is to be used later for jelly making. Heat again to simmering. Pack into hot, clean jars to within ½ inch of top. Close and process in water bath the same time as given above for grape juice.

Freezing Fruit Juices: For juice to be used in beverages, select well ripened fruit. For jelly making use a mixture of slightly ripe and underripe fruit. Heat fruit (but do not boil) in a small amount of water. Heating time and amount of water will vary with the type of fruit. Strain the juice through a jelly bag. Cool, add sugar to taste. Freeze without sugar if jelly is to be made later. Seal and freeze immediately.

• • • •

Grapes: Wash grapes and remove stems. Cover with cold syrup using 3 cups sugar to 4 cups of water. Seal and freeze immediately.

Outdoor Supper Given By Class

A hamburger supper in the backyard of the G. W. Duncan home southeast of Hereford entertained members of Avenue Baptist Victory Class and their families Thursday evening.

In a short business period, time for the class social meetings was changed from the third Thursday to the second Thursday of each month. Date for the annual fall luncheon was set for Sept. 15 at the Hickory Log Restaurant.

Joe and Jack McKnight of Vega and Miss Linda Liston were guests, with the families of Messrs. and Mmes. Billy Wall, Clois Kemp, Carlyle Sargeant, C. E. Coleman, Johnny Brownlow and Duncan.

WOMEN INJURED

The intersection of 25 Mile Avenue and 8th St. was the scene of an accident Thursday afternoon. Involved were Lee Roy Conklin, 69, 504 N. Jackson, and Jessie Earl Jackson, 33, 202 Douglas St. Conklin who was driving a 1954 sedan, attempted a left turn from the right-hand lane when he and Jackson, driving a 1966 pickup owned by Hereford Irrigation, collided. Conklin's right front door was pushed in and his wife was injured. Mrs. Conklin was taken to the Hereford Clinic by Gililland Ambulance and released after an examination.

There are 11 million American adults who cannot read and write. Less than 1/4 million of them were enrolled during the past year in free adult education courses paid for under the Economic Opportunity Act. The great majority of illiterates are not stupid and can be trained to read and write.

In 1938 there were 60 members of the White House Police force. Now there are 12.

Almost 91 percent of the teachers in America's classrooms have a college degree, compared with only 8 percent of the adult population. However, national averages can be meaningless in certain areas. Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R., S. D.) revealed recently that South Dakota still has 1,342 one-teacher rural schools and that only 64 of the teachers boast a college degree.

HONOR FOR OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN

NEW YORK (AP) — A memorial fountain in honor of Oscar Hammerstein II is to be erected next spring on the Central Park Mall, an impromptu hall of fame.

The tribute to Broadway's noted lyricist, who died in 1960, is to be placed at the southern end of the promenade, between statues of Shakespeare and Columbus.

The late Jack Westrope is the only rider to lead Delaware Park jockeys two years in a row. He led in 1953 and 1954.

Insect Stings Can Be Quite Serious

"Some persons are so sensitive to bee stings they may die from only one sting unless a doctor treats them quickly," warns World Book Encyclopedia.

It isn't usual, but it does happen. In mild reactions, all that may develop after the initial pain is a large local swelling which may last several days and itch very intensely.

But in moderately sensitive persons, a sting by a bee, wasp, yellow jacket, or hornet, may cause wide-spread swellings or hives, wheezing, faintness, dizcramps, or diarrhea. There also may be some shortness of breath, nasal discharge or stuffiness in the nose, and some tightness in the throat. Occasionally, there may be aching and swelling of the joints, and a bruised appearance may develop at some part of the body distant from the sting.

The highly allergic person can sustain one sting which can produce shock and prove fatal within minutes. Fortunately, these extreme reactions are rare.

The mechanism of allergic reactions to insect stings is not completely understood, but, frequently, the degree of sensitiveness in the allergic individual increases with each succeeding sting.

In other words, if you once were stung by a bee and suffered little more than localized pain and swelling, your next bee sting may have more serious consequences.

Suntan lotion attracts bees and other insects, and so do perfumes, hair spray, hair tonic, and many other cosmetics. Don't dress your children in floppy clothing in which insects might become caught — and don't dress that way yourself.

Bright-colored clothing, flowery prints, and black clothing should be avoided. On the other hand, light colors, such as white green, tan, and khaki, are believed neither to attract nor to antagonize bees.

Children should be taught not to pick up toys without checking first to make sure that no insects are on them. Public trash baskets should be avoided.

If you are stung by a honeybee, scrape the stinger off immediately, World Book advises. This can be done with one quick scrape of the fingernail. Don't try to pick up the venom sac between your thumb and forefinger; this merely squeezes more venom into the wound.

If you or your child should be stung by a bee or other stinging insect, a trip to a doctor is a wise precaution no matter how mild the reaction.

The best way to avoid stings is to keep away from stinging insects — and see that your children keep away, too.

INTERNAL CONFUSION

DETROIT (AP) — The roughest critics of the Christian faith are inside the churches, says a clergyman.

The Rev. Warren C. Hulgren of Tulsa told Southern Baptists here that the real confusion caused in the minds of the world stems from the religious leader who obscures spiritual truth by a web of words and denials of essential doctrines on which faith is based.

State Officials Crack Down On Texas Criminals

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Heinous, inhuman, unthinkable crimes — such as those that have left a trail of blood across Texas — must be stopped, say state officials.

Gov. John Connally and Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr both have strongly recommended changes in Texas' criminal laws.

Their proposals are the result of three terrible incidents. . . . all committed over a period of two weeks. First, the sniping episode on the University of Texas campus during which Charles J. Whitman deliberately killed 16 innocent persons and wounded three dozen more; then the malicious murder of a night watchman in Roscoe, Texas, by a West Texas teenager; and finally, the grotesque murder of three youngsters in Fort Worth.

Connally said he would ask the Legislature for a law requiring a compulsory life sentence for anyone who commits murder, then is found not guilty because of insanity.

Carr concurred — adding that he plans to appeal personally before the Texas House committee on revisions of the code of criminal procedure in January.

Meanwhile, the attorney general has asked the governor to appoint a blue ribbon citizens committee to draft legislation for tougher laws and stronger penalties.

Up for study are:

Stiffer penalties for crimes of violence.

Stiffer penalties for sex crimes

Clarification of laws dealing with carrying arms in public.

More effective methods of confining those who use insanity as a defense for crimes.

Both Connally and Carr made it clear they are firmly opposed to stringent laws regulating the sale of firearms.

DRAFT CALL INCREASES

Texas' draft call for October is the largest since May, 1953, when the Korean war ended.

State quota for October is 2,671, compared to 3,823 at close of the fighting in Korea, according to State Selective Service Director Col. Morris S. Schwatz.

September quota also is up — from 1,585 to 1,890. National call is for 46,200.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

State Supreme Court chief justice may assign retired appellate court judges to duty on courts of civil appeals in case of vacancy or disqualification, Attorney General Carr has ruled. Assignment would be terminated by return to duty of regular judge.

In other opinions, Carr concluded that:

Alien employees of Texas colleges, their husbands, wives and children, are entitled to resident tuition rates in all state institutions of higher education.

Auto certificates of title laws do not permit creation of a joint estate with rights of survivorship out of community property.

Victoria County school superintendent has general supervision over independent school districts of less than 500 scholastics in county.

No credit union may serve as a depository for another credit union.

WATER SPORT RECORDS

The 1966 summer vacation season seems destined to go into the records as setting a new high for water recreational deaths and for establishing an amazing boating-skiing safety mark.

In a two-week study by the Parks and Wildlife Department, it was pointed out that during that period, 14 persons drowned in Texas, but none was a result of boating or skiing. Nine of the deaths were attributed to bathing accidents, and four were blamed on fishing.

Death toll for the season was increased to 181 and the total for the entire summer of 1965 was 200. So, with a month of vacation time left, the department figures this year's death count will surpass last year's by a substantial margin.

A spokesman for the department said that the new law passed by the last Legislature had cut boating-skiing accidents.

Measures to enforce life-preserver requirement and other phases of the safety law helped cut the accident rate.

COTTON DEADLINE EXTENDED

Cotton farmers in Cameron, Willacy and southern portions of Hidalgo and Starr Counties have been given another 30 days — until September 30, midnight — to gather crops under the Pink Bollworm Control Program.

State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White extended the deadline after conferences with the U. S. and Mexican Departments of Agriculture and Pink Bollworm Advisory Committee concerning late and slow harvest.

White pointed out that only 26,858 bales had been ginned in the Zone 1 control area by August 7, compared with 177,426 by that same date last year.

Delayed spring plantings due to bad weather and adverse growing prompted the extension.

ELECTION LAW CHANGES

An election law committee, headed by Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, has named a subcommittee to meet September 29 and October 13 to study recommendations made to date. Afterwards the full committee will hold public hearings.

Texans will have an opportunity to vote on one election law change in November. Already on the November ballot is a constitutional amendment calling for annual voter registration to replace the poll tax voting requirement.

AFL/CIO is opposing this amendment calling for annual voter registration to replace the poll tax voting requirement.

Committee's recommendations will be made after the November 8 election.

INTERSTATE SAFETY

A program to make Texas' safest highways — the interstate system — even safer has been launched by the Texas Highway Commission.

Commission approved a $3,200,000 plan which includes replacement of conventional sign supports and illumination pole bases with new units incorporating "breakaway" safety features.

New bases and supports already are in place along newer sections of interstate highways in Texas. Program involves putting them in place of conventional equipment on older sections.

Instead of rigid, unyielding hazards, breakaway sign supports and pole bases shear on impact, pivoting up and away from an out-of-control vehicle. The vehicle then rolls to a more controlled stop.

Grady Peninger, Michigan State's wrestling coach, has never had a losing season in 17 years of high school and college coaching.

Club Party Has Birthday Motif

The birthday of her teenage daughter, Linda, was of special interest when Mrs. J. E. Sorrells was hostess for the customary monthly family party of Messenger Home Demonstration Club recently. House guests of the Sorrells and some other guests from outside the community were included.

A cookout at the Sorrells home was the entertainment for a crowd which spent the evening in informal visiting.

Present were Mrs. David Sorrells of San Antonio, Miss Evelyn Drews and Ray Drews of Navasota, who were visitors in the Sorrells home; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Kropf of Hereford and her sister and niece, Mrs. Clarence Smith and Elaine Smith of Fort Worth; Rodney and Gary Goheen of Hereford.

Also Messrs. and Mmes. Lloyd Sevier, S. N. Thweatt, H. D. Muse, Elmer Northcutt, Bill Page and Jerry Northcutt; Lisa Page, Kemp and Todd Northcutt, David Muse, John Jones, Fred Henry, the hosts and daughter, Debbie.

Needles, Tim Tam, Carry Back and Northern Dancer have won both the Florida Derby and Kentucky Derby.

Temporary Home Doesn't Perturb Law Professor

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech's new Law School Dean doesn't give the impression of a man working against time.

Unruffled by the construction clamor going on around him, tall (6'3"), soft-spoken Dean Richard B. Amandes calmly deals with the complicated business of organizing a law school "from the foundation up."

When he can spare a glance out of the window, he appears more fascinated than perturbed by the remodeling project now nearing completion in which a number of former barrack buildings acquired from Sheppard Air Force Base are being converted into temporary quarters for Tech's new school scheduled to open in September of 1967.

"It's the Law School's first home," Dean Amandes remarks as he observes College maintenance and building crews busily at work refurbishing and renovating the once austere quarters.

The barracks complex, located on the north campus adjacent to Sixth Street, will house the Law School until such time as a permanent building, now in the planning stage, can be designed and built — hopefully by as early as 1969.

"We are studying architectural styles and gathering suggestions from all over," Dean Amandes notes, "in an effort to design a building which will combine aesthetics and function to the best advantage."

"Best" is a qualifying term that pops up often in conversations with the Tech educator who is primarily concerned with excellence in all phases of the emerging law school — its teaching staff, its curriculum, its library and its student body, as well as its physical plant.

And which — among this multitude of responsibilities — takes top priority?

"Just about everything — in that order," responds Dean Amandes with a wry smile. "Everything must move along together, or as nearly so as possible. Actually, at first, personal contacts become an important objective. You must meet the people who can tell you what you want to know."

In West Texas, he has found this surprisingly easy.

"Reaction to the School has been wonderful," he declares, "among both the general public and the professional community. Nowhere have I experienced greater friendliness, or greater interest in a specialized field."

Recognized as "the father of the Tech Law School," Atty. Allison not only authored the motion adopted by the College's Board of Directors, but also gave generously of his time in accumulating informational data to back up the recommendation preented to the State Commission for Higher Education (now Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System) for final ratification.

A Tech graduate ('30), Allison has long nurtured the dream of a law school for his Alma Mater. As a member of the State Legislature in 1939 when the Self Governing Bar Bill was passed, he became increasingly aware of the need for 'a quality school to teach youngsters personal ethics as well as law, so that when called upon for advice they can act with self-confidence and responsibility."

Tech's School of Law, he is convinced will be such an institution.

The key objectives of the School and its faculty, as he sees it, will be to train young men and women for the practice of law, whether it be as advocate, counselor, judge or law teacher, in accordance with the highest traditions of professional responsibility.

"It also should recognize," he emphasizes, "the use of law as a stepping stone to a career in government, politics or business The curriculum and the methods of instruction should be designed to develop the student's highest potential, whatever may have been his reason for entering the School."

Meanwhile, the search for teaching talent continues.

"We are looking for experienced law teachers who can bring informed opinions as well as teaching techniques to the classroom," Dean Amandes says. "With good luck, two of our four-member faculty will be selected by the end of the year, and the others as soon as possible thereafter."

Indications are that numerical enrollment will be no problem. In fact, since the first class will be limited to 75, there undoubtedly will be many more applicants than openings. Numerous requests for information, many of them containing test scores and other credentials, have been received in the months that have elapsed since Dean Amandes' appointment was announced in February.

The Dean, who likes to work at his desk in shirt-sleeved comfort, prefers a casual atmosphere "whenever possible, as an aid to concentration and imagination."

A native Californian who has traveled to most of the 50 states, Dean Amandes expressed a keen appreciation of the West Texas climate, especially the sunshine and clear weather. He is no stranger to Texas, however, having visited here many times in addition to teaching one summer at Southern Methodist University.

Mrs. Amandes, also a native Californian, together with son Chris, 11, and daughter Robin, 10, just completed a late summer move to Lubbock where Chris will be a seventh grader at Hutchinson Junior High and Robin will attend the sixth grade at Wheelock Elementary.

The family home at 3306 39th St. was formerly the residence of former Tech President and Mrs. Clifford B. Jones.

Dean Amandes, who grew up in Berkley, holds an A. B. from the University of California, the LL. B. from California's Hastings College of the Law in San Francisco and the LL.M. from the New York University School of Law.

"Our electric air conditioner in its 8th year still cools our home to perfection!"

SAYS

Mrs. L. R. BORGER

AMARILLO, TEXAS

Mrs. Borger arranges wall decoration in the attractive den of her electrically-cooled home.

Mrs. Borger, her husband and their 4 children stay delightfully cool during the hot summer months – thanks to their electric air conditioner. "In addition to keeping us comfortable, our electric air conditioner also keeps humidity down on hot, muggy days," adds Mrs. Borger. You too can enjoy electric air conditioning – ask your Public Service manager why ELECTRIC air conditioning is best for you.

Electric air conditioners take up little space — look good, too. Mrs. Borger finds hers is just about chair height, uses just electricity and free air — requires no water.

Little Girls Get Place At Lubbock

LUBBOCK — An "Our Little Miss Fair" will be named for the first time during the 49th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair here next month.

The contest is an official preliminary pageant to the state, national and international "World's Our Little Miss" competition.

Winners will be named in two categories: Miss La Petite, for ages three to six; and Our Little Miss Fair, for ages seven through 12.

Entries will be judged in both party or formal wear and sports clothing, and a talent division has been added for the Our Little Miss Fair selection, according to Mrs. Benni Dunn Evans, chairman.

Entry fees are $10 and contestants should be sponsored by a business firm.

Winners will receive crowns, trophies, banners, $50 savings bonds and entry fees paid to the state pageant.

All competition will be conducted Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, final two days of the fair. Entry deadline is Sept. 19. Activities have been slated so they will not interfere with the 13th annual West Texas Twirling Festival, also a fair feature.

Letters to nearly 400 prospective entries will be mailed out later this month, but entry blanks may be secured and additional information obtained by writing Mrs. Evans at PO Box 5097, Lubbock.

Winners will compete in the state finals next summer.

Tennessee Ernie Ford is the headline attraction, bringing a 105-minute show to Fair Park Coliseum at 3 and 7:30 p. m. daily throughout the fair run, Sept. 26-Oct. 1.

Tickets are priced at $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50 with children 12 years and under being admitted for one-half price at all matinees. Tickets purchased prior to the fair opening are accompanied by free gate admission passes.

The 1966 exposition is expected to draw a record crowd of 250,000. All segments of the fair have been improved and expanded and fair officials believe it is shaping up as the best in its colorful history.

According to the Texas Forestry Association, the average per capita consumption of lumber is 224 board feet annually.
