

Taxing Agencies Tackle Evaluation Friction

Standardization Sought By Groups

By NAOMI HOPSON

Community leaders cleared the air Tuesday night when problems involving the three local taxing agents were brought out into the open.

Stemming from misunderstandings related to equalization of taxes, the meeting was hosted by the school board and offered resolutions prepared by the board of equalization sitting for the school tax district.

Action was taken on the issues after informal discussion. Decided as a major goal between the city, county and school taxing agencies was better communication between the three groups.

Representatives of all three local taxing agencies, city, county and school were present with the assessors of each. Meeting with the county commission, city commission and school board were members of the school tax equalization board and the superintendent of schools.

First step in ironing out any difficulties is a meeting set for August 16, hosted by the City Commission. Tax consultant Jim McMorries will be invited to attend the meeting and present estimated costs and suggestions for up-dating the tax evaluations for the three agencies and facilitating communication between the three agents, Henry Benson, city; Orpha Click, school; and Donald Henslee, county.

Considered of prime importance by the group was the defining of duties expected of the tax consultant hired by the three groups.

In a straw vote, the group agreed that the tax assessors of the various agencies be required to co-operate with the other governing bodies; that professional help be enlisted and that the groups rely on this aid, and that where changes in evaluation seemed necessary, that at least two assessors agree and enlist the aid of the professional to determine the change, and that the groups meet with the consultant to have a complete review of evaluation to up-date property evaluations.

Earl Holt, county commissioner, made the motion that the three agencies invite the consultant to meet with the groups and discuss the up-dating of community tax values. Judge H. C. (Hank) Williams seconded the motion and Joe Easley, city commissioner, offered the city as host for the meeting. In the meeting, presided over by school Board president, Labry Ballard, the resolutions prepared by the school tax equalization board were discussed. Ballard pointed out that the meeting was held primarily for the discussion of the tax problems common to all three agencies, but that other areas in the community would benefit by joint meetings of the governing bodies.

Mentioned were areas involving recreational facilities and other overlapping responsibilities.

Recognized by Ballard as an example of the type cooperation between the groups that is needed by the community is the present push being made by the city to extend sewage lines to meet the needs presented by the new LaPlata Junior High School, a school board project.

August Grand Jury Indicts Thirteen

Charlie Johnson, Jr. was indicted by the Grand Jury this week on two counts for assault with intent to murder. He is out on $6,000 bond, $3,000 for each count. One count was in connection with the wounding of Ara Johnson and the other was in connection with the wounding of George Croer.

Another indictment for assault with intent to murder was returned against Mario Gil in connection with the July 3 affray with Manuel Mendoza.

Thirteen indictments were returned by this week, and three cases were no-billed.

Indicted for driving while intoxicated, second offense were Eduardo Zapata Castro, Espiridion Rodriguez Rios, Frank C. Reyes, Frank Galvan Perales, David Andrew Carlton, Jose Maria De Leon, and Jimmy Ray Myers.

Indicted for forgery and passing were John D. Morgan and Marvin L. Jackson. One man is not yet in custody.

In District Court Tuesday, the probation of Paul G. Moreno was revoked and he will serve not less than two years and not more than four in the state penitentiary. The original charge was burglary.

In unscheduled jury trial, a Friona man who had been indicted on an intent to defraud with worthless check was declared insane and will be remanded to the state hospital in Wichita Falls. Called in by Sheriff Lowell Sharp on verbal summons for petit jury service were: Dwain Walker, Lee Kent, Aubrey Cook, Dub Hair, L. L. Haney, Jerry Schafer, Bill Davis, Calvin Goodin, Melvin Young, O. W. Farris, Mike Justice and Frank Barrett.

Potato Price Up As Season Ends

The last of this area's potatoes will be coming out of the ground this month as harvesting processes draw to a close on what started out to be a losing year.

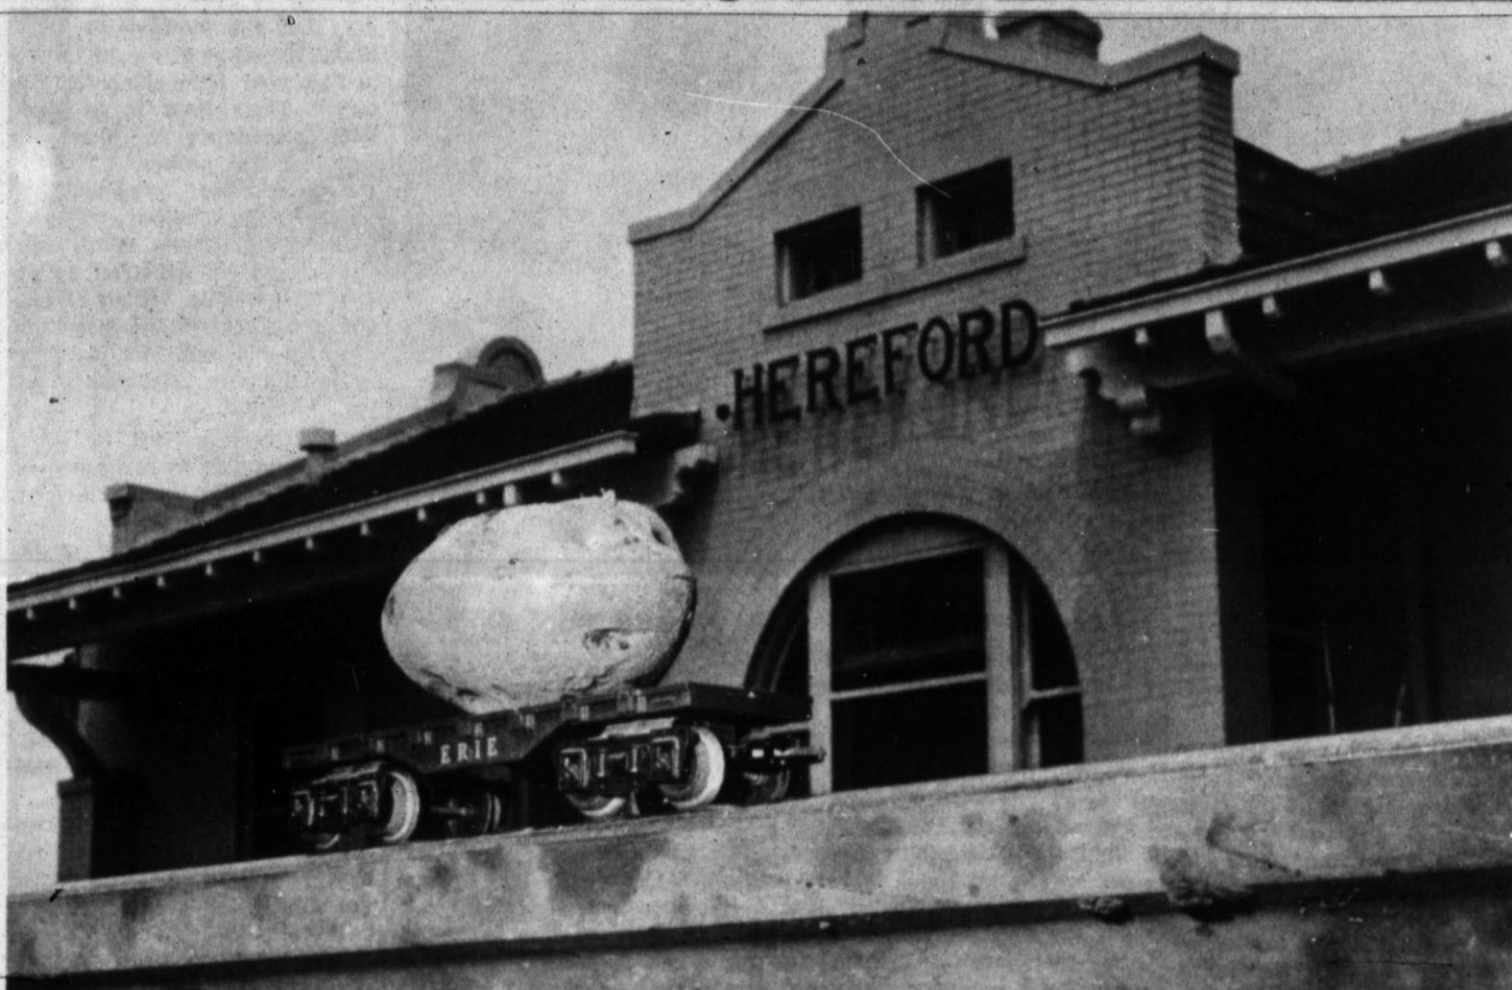

Prices, once at a "break even" level, are considerably better now in the later part of the harvest, says Colville & Wilson, Inc., local potato shippers who were distributing samples about Hereford this week.

"The usual fine quality," says Albert Maxwell, manager at Hereford Growers & Shippers.

The market was fluctuating early this week with a potential for $3 on No. 1 reds Wednesday.

The prices had been going from $2.75 to $2. In the premiums, potato shippers had a listing of $2.75. No. 2's were in the $1.75 range.

White potatoes (russett) have the greatest price range, with the deciding factor being the size of the potato. Anywhere from $2.50 to $4 would catch this group.

OLD COUNTY SEAT

Events Stir Townsite Ghosts

Present Land Owners Buy LaPlata Section, Again

The ghost of old LaPlata has risen again, this time flying to Austin to report its townsite section is a mite larger than originally figured.

Or at least that's one explanation for the surprising events that took some Deaf Smith County residents for a ride and ended with them signing a check to pay for land they thought they already owned.

It all happened on the original townsite of La Plata, on land owned, err, presumably owned, by Edgar Vinson and Almon Whitford.

A recent survey indicated a few mistakes, however; the problem of "excess acreage" was discovered. The boundaries of their tract of land were right. They fitted up against the adjoining survey. But where their section was supposed to contain 640 acres, and the state had been paid for 640 acres, it was revealed that the section contained 651.5 acres.

Since payment had only been made for 640 acres, the excess land supposedly belongs to the State of Texas. The persons who thought they owned all the land between those certain fences and boundary lines are entitled to buy the land, on a first option basis, at one third of the appraised price. The purchase has been made.

Also in an upsetting land ownership case, Mrs. N. Doyle Hinrichsen of Hagerman, N. M., who owns Deaf Smith County land, presented a "good faith claim" before the School Land Board, headed by Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

A survey had revealed that there was a 6.58 acre "vacancy" alongside her tract of land in Section 3, K-15, 10 miles northeast of Hereford. The "vacancy" is a piece of land — in this case 103 feet wide and 2,647 feet long, lying in the middle of her wheat field between two tracts which had been patented by the State to the original owner.

The state law says that when a "vacancy" is discovered, the "good faith claimant," the person who thought he owned it, has the right to buy it from the state at a price to be established by the School Land Board, made up of Commissioner Sadler and two citizens, Robert Speed of Austin (appointed by Gov. Connally) and William Lott of Georgetown (appointed by Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr.)

The two situations illustrate the two types of deals which confront some Texans at almost every meeting of the Texas school Land Board, which administers the more than three million acres of land which belong to the public schools of Texas.

Originally, all the land in Texas belonged to the state. Patents were issued when tracts were given away, as in the case of the British financiers who built the state capitol for three millions of state land.

But early surveys were often faulty, and even though title may have changed a dozen times, the land still belongs to the public schools if it turns out that the land was not sold or given to the original owners who got a patent from the General Land Office.

In each case, the Legislature has said that the price to be paid does not include the improvements, since the state contributed nothing to them.

The School Land Board had before it careful, on-the-ground appraisals made by some of Sadler's men. They brought in

La Plata House Gets 'No Peace'

By SUE COLEMAN
Staff Writer

Perhaps the oldest building in Hereford, a house built in old LaPlata and moved to this city when it was being founded in 1896, is to be moved again from 335 North Lee, where it has been a residence for several families through the years, to the Labor Camp to become a home for another family.

Standing vacant the past few months, the weathered gray house with white posts across its wide front porch still has a sturdy look befitting a dwelling built to withstand the rigors of pioneer living.

It was sold this week by Mrs. C. P. Cockrell, who continued to live in it until early this year, to Julio Galon. It is to be relocated in the Labor Camp where he plans to repair it and use it as his home.

The Cockrell family occupied it from Sept. 13, 1930 until Mrs. Cockrell moved to a new brick home at 415 Star after staying in the old house a number of years after the death of her husband and marriage of her daughters, both of whom now live in other states.

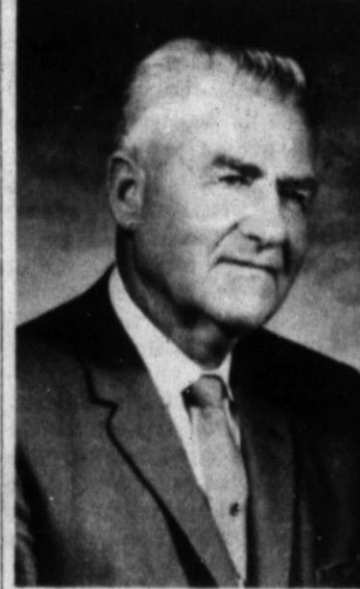

Decades spanned by the life of the house saw LaPlata, original Deaf Smith County Seat, grow to a sizeable pioneer town only to disappear when it was by-passed by the railroad route then the birth of Hereford and its succeeding periods of growth to its present size.

Coal stoves and keosene lamps were used in the house when it was new, one of about a score of residences in LaPlata which were all moved, with the few public buildings and business buildings, to the new town on the railroad in a mass migration in 1890. Vern Witherspoon, a youth in LaPlata who still lives in Hereford, says the house was built by one of his cousins.

W. A. Witherspoon, father of Vern Witherspoon, owned the equipment used to move the buildings from LaPlata. Located

Pioneer Residents Pass

J. W. Robinson Sr.

Funeral services for James Wallace (Jim) Robinson Sr., long-time prominent businessman of Hereford who died early Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness, are to be conducted at 10 a. m. today in First Christian Church of which he was a member.

The Rev. Eugene Brink, minister, will officiate. Burial will be in West Park Cemetery under direction of Gilliland Funeral Home. Pallbearers will be Tom Robinson, Bill Bradley, Marvin Coffey, Herman Ford, Mack Noland and Bill Gentry.

A Hereford resident since boyhood, Mr. Robinson was in the grocers business here for years before he retired and moved to Colorado Springs in 1955. Since Mrs. Robinson's death last year he has spent much of his time in Hereford.

He was born Oct. 15, 1894 at Gainesville and came with his parents to Deaf Smith County in 1901. After attending Hereford schools, he saw military service during World War I, including overseas duty. He and Miss Ethel Nation were married here Sept. 8, 1923.

For many years he was a See ROBINSON Page 2

Ky Higgins

Ky Higgins, whose parents were among the first permanent settlers of Deaf Smith County and who has lived in this vicinity since he was five years old, died at the age of 81 Wednesday morning in a Canyon hospital.

Death of the prominent farm owner followed a lengthy illness. His home was on his place in the Wildorado community.

Born in Cooke County Aug. 24, 1885, Otho Kyser Higgins was a member of the family of W. S. Higgins, which came to a home eight miles northwest of Hereford in 1890. With his brothers and sisters, he attended some of the first schools established in the county.

He married Laura Terry Sept. 9, 1909, in Hereford. She survives him, with a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Earley of Lubbock, and two sons, Jack and Wayne Higgins, both of Wildorado. Other survivors are a brother, Claud Higgins of Amarillo, 12 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services are scheduled for 4:30 Thursday afternoon in the Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home. Officiating will See HIGGINS Page 2

Mrs. Essie Lee Cocanougher, 73, of Route 3 Hereford, died Tuesday evening in a Dimmitt hospital following a long illness. Funeral rites have been planned for 2 p. m. Thursday in the Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home.

Mrs. Cocanougher was a member of an early-day Hereford family, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cloyd. She was born July 24, 1893, at Pilot Point and was brought here as a child by her parents in 1896, the year the town of Hereford was started.

Her marriage to R. D. Cocanougher was solemnized in 1946 at Clovis, N. M.

He survives her, as do her mother, Mrs. Louella Cloyd of Amarillo; a son, Walter Richards, and a granddaughter of Pasadena, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Georgia Green of Amarillo and Mrs. Louise Morton of Childress; and two brothers, John Cloyd of Fort Worth and E. R. Cloyd of Canadian.

Noted as another area where the school needs the other governmental bodies, and they need the assistance of the school is the area of the population that will be served by the vocational school. The school board president stated that he felt the vocational school could very well help in curbing problems of juveniles and this in turn would help the county judge who deals with the juveniles when they become community problems.

"We invited you to this meeting to solve existing problems and stave off any future problems," Ballard said to the group. Oliver Streu, member of the school board of equalization said that the problem facing the three man board which includes Don Zimmerman and Palmer Norton, was one of trying to give the taxpayer a fair deal while still supplying the tax needs of the district.

"We would like to try to stop the game of playing one tax agency against another," Streu said. An ideal situation would be where a taxpayer with one complaint could get adjustment and equal evaluation from all three agencies, Streu said.

Norton pointed out that when people see different evaluations with the different agencies, they will naturally be dissatisfied. The problem was intense before the 1961 action to equalize the three tax schedules, he said, and the problem should not be permitted to arise again.

Zimmerman pinpointed the problem as being a break-down in communications between the three agencies. "When we were able to establish a fair value on property, it did seem that three agencies could go off in three different directions and undo what we had established. People use the differences as a pry," he said.

He said that the equalization board felt that all three agencies should be immediately made aware of zoning changes, etc. and that the professional evaluation be used. He stated that a board of equalization is not professionally trained to know all of the segments of property valuation and that the services of a professional had to be enlisted to keep the values current.

Mayor Ray Cowsett expressed his desire that all the recommendations of the equalization board be adopted. "I'm a little bit surprised to know if there actually is a break down, to hear of this break down in communications. This thing must not break down. The city will cooperate in every way. Hiring a professional is a good idea. It worked before; it'll work again. We had too many arguments to let it fall now," the mayor said.

Lloyd Sharp, City Commissioner, asked why all agencies couldn't have the same equalization board meeting together and avoid the problem of playing one board against another in an attempt on the part of a few taxpayers to get a 'better deal.'

Judge Williams pointed out that this was impossible for the county since the law clearly states that the county commissioners with the judge will sit as the equalization board for county taxpayers. Norton stated that the need for equalization boards would be reduced if the same evaluation were recorded in each agency, reducing the citizen's opportunity for contention.

Another problem related to the use of one equalization board by the three agencies was noted by Streu as being the differences in jurisdiction of the taxing agencies. The school district extends into Castro and Parmer counties. The City and County do not have identical properties on their tax rolls.

Donald Hicks, county commissioner formulated a basis for action when he recalled the equalization duties placed on the consultant when the agencies hired him.

Hicks recalled that the problem five years ago was one of monumental equalization problems and that at the time, the job was too big for the small facets to be realized. During the intervening years, the taxing agencies have become aware of new and finer points that should be considered.

He said that now the consultant should be in a position to keep the agencies informed on value changes. The consultant chalks up 12,000 miles or more in getting rural changes and Hicks said that he feels the man is not getting enough money to do justice to the job now required.

"A layman is lost when it comes to the fine points of property evaluation," Hicks said. When companies bring in professional help to argue a tax problem, he said, the local taxing agencies need professional help available to answer in kind.

It is not a matter of how much money any one agency needs, he pointed out. The amount comes from the percentage of the property evaluation that the agency feels it has to tax, not the actual evaluation, he said.

Dr. A. T. Mims, school board member, asked to have the duties of a tax consultant outlined. In simple terms, Hicks said, the consultant is to put on the tax roll what he thinks property is worth. To do this he has the income approach, or what the property makes for the individual or the market value, these along with his trained opinion.

The consultant is to keep property evaluation cards current for the three agencies. Donald Henslee mentioned that he gets some cards where one agency has made changes that the others do not have.

"I do not have the authority to change values without authorization from the consultant or the Commissioners Court," he said. Orpha Click, school tax man, said that he had made changes relevant to lowering of values because of irrigation wells depreciating and that he had corrected errors on cards.

"I've stayed away from changes on property as much as possible," Click said. During this discussion, the changes of value on Highway 385 and Park Ave. was brought up.

It was mentioned by the tax men that McMorries had told one agency that the time was not right for the re-evaluation of those areas of the city. Click said that after McMorries had worked Main Street property, that he and Henry Benson, city tax man, had used zoning maps to revise the 385 and Park Ave. property.

Benson pointed out that he had corrected mistakes on value that had arisen because the consultant had not had time to go into houses and give a thorough examination of the property.

HISTORIC HOUSE DUE FOR MOVE — A section of Panhandle history will be moved with this residence, located at 335 North Lee since it was moved in from old LaPlata in 1898, lately sold and scheduled to be taken to the Labor Camp where the buyer will remodel it for a home. Several families occupied the house in its original location and on the corner lot near downtown Hereford where it has stood for 68 years. It was the home of the C. P. Cockrell family after the Cockrells, newly married, bought it in 1920.

La Plata . . .

Cockrell home and Main Street. Others who resided in the house included Dr. Taylor and the family of J. J. Clark, a druggist.

One of the chief reasons they bought the place, Mrs. Cockrell says, was a grove of 40 locust trees which surrounded it and made the neighborhood fragrant with their white blooms in spring, and the good bluegrass lawn. Another reason for their choice was its location, near downtown and also Central School.

They did not have a wide choice; only two houses in town were offered for sale at the time they bought, a short time after their marriage, and they were living in an apartment until they could find a house they liked.

C. P. Cockrell had come to this county in 1906 from northern Missouri and C. Ora Smith, from Cleburne, was a teaching at Central School when they married. She came here in 1916 and after her marriage continued to teach occasionally as a substitute. The couple's two daughters were born and reared in the house.

It was modernized and improved as time passed. When the Cockrells bought it the bathroom was a tacked-on room made from a porch. They made such changes as installation of gas when that fuel became available to the city in the 1920's, as well as bringing plumbing, electric wiring and interior arrangement more up-to-date.

Between the lot and Main Street now are only business houses and the Hereford Clinic with its parking lot, but in 1920 the nearest business building was on Main Street and the intermediate space was filled with residences.

Near neighbors of the Cockrells included the H. H. Hawkins; the family of John McLean, a druggist; the Garrisons, Stambaugh, the Boardwells in the huge Witherspoon place across the block to the southwest, the Gass family and the J. B. Ellistons.

After the Cockrells moved there, they were visited one time by a son of the Ed Connells, who said he would like to see the house again since it move from LaPlata; his parents had lived in it there, when they were first married. Connell was one of the best known of Deaf Smith County's early-day officials, who served three terms as sheriff after duty as a Texas Ranger.

Dick Barnard, city commissioner, proposed that the overall recommendations of the evaluation committee be adopted. The school approached the city about using the municipal golf course for part of the extended physical education program being planned. It was suggested that at the next school board meeting, a proposal be drawn up and presented to the city and then the city commissioners could act on the proposal.

Present from the three agencies were Cowsett, Zimmerman, Norton, Streu, Ballard, Sharp, Holt, Mims, Williams, Hicks, Henslee, Click, Benson, Barnard, Easley, Clark, Marcus Latham, L. B. Russell, Bill Gentry, Hugh Clearman, Bruce Coleman and O. W. Parris.

Shutter Bug

Most people have used a camera at one time or another, but how many of these people have used their camera in its fullest capabilities?

Even owners of small inexpensive cameras can record on film many things that otherwise could have required a much "better" camera, if they have the know how.

Many people are the proud owners of what is commonly known as a "box camera," which is really a small box with a lens and shutter mechanism. It is usually to their surprise to learn that many a prize winning photo was taken with such a camera.

A box camera has a choice of two aperture settings, and two shutter speeds, 1/60 of a sec and "B" or time exposure. By using the small aperture setting and a time exposure, (with the camera held steady on a flat surface) and a fast film, one can get satisfactory results of city lights at night, or maybe record the streaks of cars passing on a busy highway late in the evening.

these reports: 1) The land Mrs. Hinrichson thought she owned is worth $212.75 per acre. It is dry land. So she is entitled to buy it at that price, times 6.58 acres.

2) The land, an 11.5 acre undivided interest in the 651.5 acres Vinson and Whitford bought as 640 acres, is worth $325 an acre since it is irrigated. Recent sales in the area, both including improvements, were $375 an acre and $350 an acre. The appraisers knocked off the value of improvements, and said the land at stake is worth $325 an acre. One third of that is $108 per acre.

Of course, the land owners were not required to pay for the extra land found in their tracts. But it can sure mess up a title.

Rotarians Light Up Attendance Drive

If you hear one Rotarian ask another if he was "lit" at the last luncheon. . . Don't panic! Rotarians literally glow when they attend the meetings now. Urging better attendance of the members Monday, chairman Dean House displayed a unique Attendance Scoreboard which contains the name of each member. Beside each name is a light bulb which lights up when the member is present at a meeting, thus the member is "lit." House encouraged the members to "let your light shine for Rotary." Their goal is to have 100% attendance in order to light all the names.

Alex Schroeter, president, encouraged the members to be at the Hereford State Bank Sunday to greet the district governor, Earl Wilbur. Wilbur and local Rotarians will discuss their projects and plans for the year at the Sunday afternoon meeting.

The governor will be guest speaker at next week's luncheon when he makes his official club visit.

Leo Forrest, member of the Government Affairs Committee in the Chamber of Commerce, presented the program by explaining the issues in the proposed school board bond election. He suggested that his fellow Rotarians promote this election as their part in the community.

In discussing the vocational school, Forrest brought out that many college graduates cannot get jobs due to lack of practical on-the-job training. High school vocational programs help these people; they are worth dollars and cents to a community, and they encourage greater accomplishment by the students. If the school was developed, it would be available to a three-county area.

Forrest stressed that the vo-

Gene Fooks, local minister, spoke to members of the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism at a breakfast meeting Wednesday in the La Cafe Hacienda.

"After all is said and done, more has been said than has been done," Fooks told the 17 persons attending the meeting. He pointed out that one out of every 14 social drinkers become alcoholics, but that no two are ever alike.

Fooks cited the fact that an alcoholic is facing problems more than just liquor, including an inferiority complex and immaturity.

Ninety percent of the problems associated with alcoholism can be solved through patience and prayer, he told the group. His findings came from an institute on Alcohol Studies, held last week at the University of Texas in Austin.

Maura McAndrews Attends Farm Meet

FORT COLLINS, COLO. — Maura McAndrews of Rt. No. 1 Hereford is among 800 "youth scholars" from 40 states attending the 38th. Farm Business Conference of The American Institute of Cooperation in summer session at Colorado State University July 31 — August 3. Representatives of 13 organizations serving rural youth are participating with some 2500 adult farm business leaders in the largest National Conference devoted to agricultural marketing, production and providing of supply, credit, electric and other services to farmers.

Getting first-hand information on current problems of the Nation's rural economy, youth delegates heard Keynote Brice Ratchford, Vice President for Extension, University of Missouri, stress the tremendous effects of changes on what farmers produce, how they operate their farms, how they sell their products.

"Many of the changes have required adjustment, and it has often been painful," he said. "But in the future, and this applies to youth especially, things will happen faster. There will be as many new developments in the next 10 years as have occurred in the past 25. Adjustments will have to be made by individual farmers and Cooperatives at an increasing rate. To maintain their income, farmers through their Co-ops must merge small units, process food products, merchandise and advertise on the way to the kitchen and be ready to make other changes constantly in order to keep ahead."

During their busy week in the shadow of the Rockies, "youth scholars" visited farms and Co-ops, participated in discussion groups on farm problems and careers in agriculture, took a stiff quiz on how farm business is conducted, and made new friends among rural youth from all parts of the country.

Two evening programs paid special tribute to youth, their leaders and their organizations. A. I. C. President J. K. Stern frankly told Cooperative leaders, "If you are not interested in youth and in youth organizations your Cooperative has no future."

Look Who's New

He gives the background explaining why the white man hates the lobo wolf. Since Americans are descendants of the Russians and other Europeans who had long told in their past history of the dreadful wolves, their hate and fear has been built up for generations. How much of this folk-lore is true and how much mythical it is hard to determine.

Then, of course, the early pioneers and ranchers had little cause to love this animal because of his depredations which took the lives of their stock. The wolf killed horses, cattle, sheep and even their dogs. And because of the huge size of the wolf, they were most difficult of all animals to kill or trap.

The villain of this book is a white lobo wolf. The story tells how the name of Custer Wolf was given to him. He began his long life of hate and killing on a certain dramatic day when all nature in the form of a terrifying thunder storm set off a chain of events which changed his life. Both nature and man seemed to combine forces against him.

From that day, he spent years of raiding, developing a cunning which at times seemed supernatural. And because of this and his white form, who caught glimpses of him called him the ghost wolf.

Ranchers, amateur hunters, and professional hunters tried without success to capture him. He seemed to delight in tantalizing them with his killing for spite and most often without eating his prey.

A true "lone wolf," he late in life lost his chance for a mate when she is killed by a professional trapper. Then he began to slip in his cunning and developed what is often referred to in human beings as "the acting out of the death wish."

Although this book is non-fiction it reads with a continuity and easiness of a dramatic novel. We consider it one of the best animal stories we have ever read, appropriate for both adults and school level readers.

CUSTER WOLF — Renegade
The Custer Wolf, written by Roger A. Caras, is a biography of an American renegade, the most destructive wolf in American history. The author uses actual facts for his story and writes with deep understanding of animals and nature.

Mr. Caras did a great deal of research for this convincing story. He writes of the respect which the Indians had for the wolf and his place in their folk tales.

Mrs. H. E. Owens 'just learned' to cook.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING!

Old Recipe Favorite

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

It takes practice to make old-fashioned cornbread the way Mrs. H. E. Owens makes it. She can't give exact measurements because she doesn't use them. She can't remember when she learned to make cornbread; it is a knowledge she "just picked up" as she helped her mother cook.

GROWING UP in Haskell County, as the oldest in the family she was her mother's chief aide. Since her sister did not like to cook and she did not care for housekeeping duties, they agreed to a natural division of chores and she spent a good deal of time in the kitchen.

Not only did she learn to cook without the accurate measurements considered necessary today, but she baked the cornbread — and fine, light cakes — in the oven of a wood-burning stove where she judged the temperature by experience rather than a thermometer.

She was a tiny girl when her parents moved to the Haskell County farm, where her father raised stock as well as grains and some cotton. The farm products were freighted by wagon to Stamford and supplies for the household brought back.

MOSQUITO AND hackberry wood were plentiful, so they were burned instead of coal. After she married and had her own home, Mrs. Owen had one of the new-fangled oil stoves, but its conveniences did not include thermostats to regulate oven heat.

So she says to bake the cornbread "in a hot oven." The only ingredient she measures exactly is the milk — buttermilk — two cups. Add 1 level tsp. soda, "a little more if the milk is very sour," a pinch of salt, an egg, then cornmeal "to make a fairly thick batter, but not too thick."

Well, that's the way she learned to make it and she is happy that she has been able to teach some of the younger housewives in her family after they had "a little practice" to judge the proper thickness just by stirring the mixture.

Mrs. Owens does not scorn modern methods of cooking; she welcomes them although she still cooks by habit also. One of her favorite recipes is an old one in modern form:

MOTHER'S WHITE CAKE

- 1 cup margarine or butter
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 tsp. vanilla
- 3 cups sifted cake flour
- 4 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 1/3 cup sweet milk
- 8 egg whites.

CREAM BUTTER and sugar until light and fluffy, add vanilla. Sift flour, baking powder and salt three times. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk to the creamed mixture. Beat well after each addition.

Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into batter. Bake 25 to 30, minutes in 350-degree oven, using three 9-inch round cake pans greased and floured. Put your favorite icing between layers and over cake. This is delicious with coconut icing.

Regular flour may be used instead of cake flour with the three-time sifting.

SILVER-HAIRED, gracious Mrs. Owens has been at home at 134 Ave. C since Deember, enjoying the modern kitchen which she had remodelled to her taste, with attractive wood cabinets and blue-tiled walls. The Owens had been living on their farm at Westway the previous nine years.

They moved to this county from Olton, where they farmed after a number of years near O'Brien. Mrs. Owens was a member of a Home Demonstration Club there and has been in the Westway Club during her residence here, serving as reporter and clothing demonstrator.

She has maintained her membership in Westway Baptist Church, where she is organist, president of the Women's Missionary Union and teacher of a young people's class. The organist's office in Hereford Eastern Star Chapter was hers for three years and she is now one of the star point officers.

MUSIC HAS HAD an important place in her life since childhood and she began teaching when she was still a young student. She taught here until about a year ago, and her piano and organ are placed in her spacious living room so she can conveniently play for her own pleasure and relaxation.

Her family includes a daughter, Mrs. W. L. Bolin of Wilcox, Ariz., who formerly lived at Westway and three sons, Irby Carlisle of Atlanta, Ga., Douglas Carlisle of Kress and Tom Carlisle of Tulsa. Her youngest son, Herbert Owens Jr., died last year. There are 15 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren in the family.

NOT TRAPPED BY HOLLYWOOD

MIAMI — Henry Ringling North, producer of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, was asked how he acquired so many animals for his 1966 show.

"They're not making as many Tarzan pictures as they used to," he replied.

Safety Features Related To Driver Comfort And Clothing

Tomorrow's automobile traveler may be wearing fashionable clothing that is flame-retardant, abrasion-resistant, and even air-conditioned, says a research committee which recently devoted a session to exploring the relationships of apparel to automobile safety. The committee's report predicted that apparel safety factors may not be as far from reality as many suppose, but cautioned that "manufacturers will have to deal with the availability of special fabrics, technical developments and consumer acceptance, in bringing the ideas to the market place."

The committee is made up of research specialists from 23 of the operating divisions of Genesco Inc., the world's largest manufacturer of apparel and footwear. The group is responsible for coordinating Genesco's massive apparel research program, with the ultimate aim of continued improvement in values to the company's estimated 75 million customers. Following the meeting in Nashville, Tennessee, the committee made public a portion of its report which included these observations:

1. Flame retardant clothing can be produced under present conditions, and the safety feature can be built in without altering a garment's appearance or wearing qualities. Introduction of such garments into the consumer market would depend on customer demand, although one Genesco division already manufactures such clothing for the Defense Department.
2. Abrasion resistant fabrics could prevent certain minor injuries and tend to make other injuries less serious. Such clothing would be especially adaptable for passengers in open vehicles or on motorcycles.

3. An ever-increasing number of automobiles are mechanically heated or cooled, and are normally operated with the windows closed. "Modern, well-insulated cars, with the windows closed, can impair a driver's ability to hear horns, sirens, or other warning devices," observed one committee member. "A solution could be the development of climate-controlled clothing. 'Air-conditioned' apparel would keep the wearer in perfect comfort while operating a vehicle with the windows open."

4. Seat belts obviously are important safety devices, but they can be unsightly and inconvenient. An alternative may be to make the safety belt a part of a man's suit or even a lady's foundation garment, so the wearer can "attach" himself to the automobile seat rather than buckle himself in.

Seat belts have another disadvantage — they make the pockets of conventional trousers virtually inaccessible. A driver fumbling for an object in his pocket, hindered by his seat belt, can cause an accident. The problem may lead to the relocation of pockets, perhaps to the trouser leg, below the knee, or it may call for additional pockets in the shirt or coat.

5. Head injuries can be especially serious, and the committee considered the development of conventional hats which would incorporate safety features. The report states "protective headgear is worn by athletes, construction workers, and even horseback riders. Accident staistics indicate that highway travelers should be protected in a similar way."

6. Specially designed driving shoes and gloves are gaining in popularity. Both should be soft and close fitting and made of non-slippery materials. Soft-sole shoes are especially important in giving the driver the proper "feel" of the automobile's controls. The committee was quick to advise against sandals or loose fitting slippers which may tend to hang on accelerator or brake pedals. It was termed "highly desirable" that special shoes be worn for driving, even if the destination calls for the wearing of some other kind of footwear.

7. The natural relationship between driver comfort and automobile safety is a far-reaching side effect of Genesco's interest in producing comfortable clothing," observed a spokesman, "yet comfort may well be our most significant contribution."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER FIFTEEN ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 8, 1966. SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 33 proposing an Amendment to Section 6, Article XVI, Constitution of the State of Texas, to authorize state participation in programs financed with funds from private or federal sources and conducted by local level or other private, nonsectarian associations, groups, and nonprofit organizations for establishing and equipping facilities for assisting those who are blind, crippled, or otherwise physically or mentally handicapped in becoming gainfully employed, for their rehabilitation or restoration, or for providing other services essential for the better care and treatment of the handicapped.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 6, Article XVI, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended to read as follows:

"Section 6. (a) No appropriation for private or individual purposes shall be made, unless authorized by this Constitution. A regular statement, under oath, and an account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published annually, in such manner as shall be prescribed by law.

(b) State agencies charged with the responsibility of providing services to those who are blind, crippled, or otherwise physically or mentally handicapped may accept money from private or federal sources, designated by the private or federal source as money to be used in and establishing and equipping facilities for assisting those who are blind, crippled, or otherwise physically or mentally handicapped in becoming gainfully employed, in rehabilitating and restoring the handicapped, and in providing other services determined by the state agency to be essential for the better care or treatment of the handicapped.

"The state agencies may deposit money accepted under this subsection either in the state treasury or in other secure depositories. The money may not be expended for any purpose other than the purpose for which it was given. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Constitution, the state agencies may expend money accepted under this subsection without the necessity of an appropriation, unless the Legislature, by law, requires that the money be expended only on appropriation. The Legislature may prohibit state agencies from accepting money under this subsection or may regulate the amount of money accepted, the way the acceptance and expenditure of the money is administered, and the purposes for which the state agencies may expend the money. Money accepted under this subsection for a purpose prohibited by the Legislature shall be returned to the entity that gave the money.

"This subsection does not prohibit state agencies authorized to render services to the handicapped from contracting with privately-owned or local facilities for necessary and essential services, subject to such conditions, standards, and procedures as may be prescribed by law."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of this state at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1966, at which election all ballots shall have printed on them the following:

"FOR the Constitutional Amendment authorizing assistance to the blind, crippled, or otherwise physically or mentally handicapped, in the form of grants of public funds obtained from private or federal sources only, to local level or other private, nonsectarian associations, groups, and nonprofit organizations for establishing and equipping facilities to assist the handicapped in becoming gainfully employed, for their rehabilitation or restoration, or for providing other services essential for the better care and treatment of the handicapped."

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 38 proposing an amendment to Section 2, Article VI, Constitution of the State of Texas, to omit the requirement that members of the armed services vote only in the county in which they resided at the time of entering the service.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Section 2, Article VI, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended by deleting the following language:

"Any member of the Armed Forces of the United States or component branches thereof, in the military service of the United States, may vote only in the county in which he or she resided at the time of entering such service so long as he or she is a member of the Armed Forces."

The text of this Section is shown below, with a broken line through the sentence which is to be deleted:

"Section 2. Every person subject to none of the foregoing disqualifications who shall have attained the age of twenty-one (21) years and who shall be a citizen of the United States and who shall have resided in the State one (1) year next preceding an election and the last six (6) months within the district or county in which such person offers to vote, shall be deemed a qualified elector; and provided further, that any voter who is subject to pay a poll tax under the laws of the State of Texas shall have paid said tax before offering to vote at any election in this State and hold a receipt showing that said poll tax was paid before the first day of February next preceding such election. Or if said voter shall have lost or misplaced said tax receipt, he or she, as the case may be, shall be entitled to vote upon making affidavit before any officer authorized to administer oaths that such tax receipt has been lost in writing and left with the judge of the election. The husband may pay the poll tax of his wife and receive the receipt therefor. In like manner, the wife may pay the poll tax of her husband and receive the receipt therefor. The Legislature may authorize absentee voting. And this provision of the Constitution shall be self-enacting without the necessity of further legislation. Any member of the Armed Forces of the United States or component branches thereof, in the military service of the United States, may vote only in the county in which he or she resided at the time of entering such service so long as he or she is a member of the Armed Forces."

Sec. 2. The only purpose of the amendment proposed in this Resolution is to make the aforesaid deletion. The adoption of this amendment shall not be deemed to have the effect of re-adopting the remainder of the Section, and if any other amendment to this Section, being for a different purpose, is adopted at an earlier election or at the same election, the adoption of this amendment shall not be deemed to have the effect of nullifying the change made by such other amendment.

Sec. 3. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1966, at which election all ballots shall have printed on them the following: "FOR the Constitutional Amendment to allow members of the Armed Forces who are residents of Texas to vote." "AGAINST the Constitutional Amendment to allow members of the Armed Forces who are residents of Texas to vote."

Sec. 4. The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for the election and this amendment shall be published in the manner and for the length of time required by the Constitution and laws of this State. HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 48 proposing an Amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas, providing the method and manner for dissolution of hospital districts created under Article IX of the Constitution.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Section 9, Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended to read as follows:

"Section 9. The Legislature may by law provide for the creation, establishment, maintenance and operation of hospital districts composed of one or more counties or all or part of one or more counties with power to issue bonds for the purchase, construction, acquisition, repair or renovation of buildings and improvements and equipping same, for hospital purposes; providing for the transfer to the hospital district of the title to any land, buildings, improvements and equipment located wholly within the district which may be jointly or separately owned by any city, town or county, providing that any district so created shall assume full responsibility for providing medical and hospital care for its needy inhabitants and assume the outstanding indebtedness incurred by cities, towns and counties for hospital purposes prior to the creation of the district, if same are located wholly within its boundaries, and a pro rata portion of the indebtedness based upon the then last approved tax assessment rolls of the included cities, towns and counties if less than all the territory thereof is included within the district boundaries; providing that after its creation no other municipality or political subdivision shall have the power to levy taxes or issue bonds or other obligations for hospital purposes or for providing medical care within the boundaries of the district; providing for the levy of annual taxes at rate not to exceed seventy-five cents (75c) on the One Hundred Dollar valuation of all taxable property within such district for the purpose of meeting the requirements of the district's bonds, the indebtedness assumed by it and its maintenance and operating expenses, providing that such district shall not be created or such tax authorized unless approved by a majority of the qualified property taxing electors thereof voting at an election called for the purpose; and providing further that the support and maintenance of the district's hospital system shall never become a charge against or obligation of the State of Texas nor shall any direct appropriation be made by the Legislature for the construction, maintenance or improvement of any of the facilities of such district.

Provided, however, that no district shall be created except by act of the Legislature and then only after thirty (30) days' public notice to the district affected, and in no event may the Legislature provide for a district to be created without the affirmative vote of a majority of the taxing voters in the district concerned.

The Legislature may also provide for the dissolution of hospital districts provided that a process is afforded by statute for:

(1) determining the desire of a majority of the qualified voters within the district to dissolve it;

(2) disposing of or transferring the assets, if any, of the district; and

(3) satisfying the debts and bond obligations, if any, of the district, in such manner as to protect the interest of the citizens within the district, including their collective property rights in the assets and property of the district, provided, however, that any grant from federal funds, however dispensed, shall be considered an obligation to be repaid in satisfaction and provided that no election to dissolve shall be held more often than once each year. In such connection, the statute shall provide against disposal or transfer of the assets of the district except for due compensation, unless such assets are transferred to another governmental agency, such as a county, embracing such district and using such transferred assets in such a way as to benefit citizens formerly within the district.

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held on the first Monday in November, 1966, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:

IN COUNTY MUSEUM

'Old West' West Firearms Add To Area's Lore

A Hereford builder has found his spot in Hereford, not just as a builder for a fast-growing city living in the present and the future, but as a member of the board of directors of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society.

And he is a contributing member, too. As is well exemplified when a visitor learns all that he has to contribute to the county's effort to preserve some of the area's past.

Lindy Daniels, a young man who makes a hobby out of antiques and old guns, has quite a collection which will make a bountiful contribution to the museum here.

His gun collection alone, begun only a few months ago, is valued at about $12,000; not to mention the family's numerous antiques, many not even on display but stored away.

Showing off his recently acquired guns, Daniels points out the earliest Volcanic pistol, a forerunner of the famed Winchester rifle.

Manufactured by Smith & Wesson in 1858, Winchester became part owner of the gun company and eventually took over the complete operation.

The Henry was the rifle which was begun in 1862; in 1866 the few modifications from the Henry and the new name Winchester introduced a rifle well known to this day.

At first, Daniels started out with four guns, bought as a primary investment for his collection. Another 33 were bought, all in one deal, out of another collection at Dumas. All totaled, he has about 70 precious guns in his home.

Of every caliber, the guns line a display in his home. Daniels has guns of every caliber, and also has about 2,200 antique bullets that can be used in the firearms, all in working condition.

His Henry rifle is especially valued, because of a distinguishing sight which is only known to have been on two of the existing rifles today.

As collectors became more numerous, and guns more rare, Daniels points out that it is becoming harder and harder to make a collection without a considerable investment. The few guns remaining, since they are only of a definite number, become more valuable as time goes by.

An original Maytag, a counter from the store of Judge Roy Bean, and other antiques are a part of the hobby of Lindy Daniels, who has been collecting antiques for some time. Many will be contributed to the Deaf Smith museum, but not all. There won't be room.

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

State Appointments Made For Various Commissions

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN — How you drive that automobile during the next 12 months will determine what you pay for car insurance a year from now.

Traffic violations, as well as accidents, will appear on your experience record and will count against you.

New plan designed by the State Board of Insurance will hit where it hurts the most.

Or conversely, if you care to look at it that way, it will lighten the load on those who are penalized by higher rates because of the carelessness of others. And that's the way it really is, since some kind of increase is necessary.

Penalty points now are being assessed motorists for accidents and major violations.

One penalty point will mean a 15-per cent hike, two points 25 per cent, three points 40 per cent and four or more points 90 per cent.

Major violations — like driving while intoxicated, negligent homicide, hit and run or felony driving offenses — will cost drivers three points.

Two points will be assessed for driving while a license is suspended or for violations resulting in suspension.

One point will be charged for accidents where there is injury or death — or property damage over $50 — and for speeding. Speeding points are not counted until after one or two "free convictions" in the preceding year or three years.

After 1969, penalties will be based on driving records over a 36-month period.

Twelve exceptions to the "point" rule are listed, however, and one of them includes accidents in which the driver is not at fault.

Unlike the old retroactive, statewide plan of 1960-62 which created so much controversy, the current plan is based on experience in 26 separate rating territories and considers no offenses prior to August 1.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Gov. John Connally has named former Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd of Odessa as chairman of the new State Fine Arts Commission. He selected as additional members Tom Lea of El Paso, Ralph McCullough of Houston, Paul N. Howell of San Antonio, Edward L. Melin of Amarillo and Dewey C. Bradford of Austin.

Connally picked Tom McCrummen Jr. of Austin to succeed Maurice R. Bullock of Fort Stockton on the State Securities Board.

Robert A. Westbrook of Elgin was named to the Governor's Committee on Aging and Robert W. Olson of Dallas to the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers.

Vernon McDaniel of Austin, Henry H. Dewar of San Antonio, and State Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan were appointed to the Southern Regional Education Board of Control.

Stanley Banks Sr. of San Antonio and Walter Long of Austin were reappointed to the State Library and Historical Commission.

Gilbert L. Herrera of Corpus Christi is the new director of Operation SER, a project to help and train for jobs.

COURTS SPEAK

State Supreme Court upheld the attorney general in refusing to approve $4,700,000 in the Brazos River Authority revenue bond issue.

Supreme Court justices, holding in favor of a Hopkins County widow's contest of an insurance policy cancellation on her late husband, disagreed over seriousness of agina pectoris heart disease. Majority concluded one who has it can still be considered in reasonably good health.

City of Dallas was entitled to a temporary injunction to block showing of the movie "Viva Maria," the high court said.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

Texas must go on daylight saving time next April unless the Legislature specifically moves to exempt the state from the new federal law, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr ruled.

In other opinions, Carr held that:

Volunteer Help Requested For 'Patterning' Plan

Volunteers are needed for the establishment of a center to help children gain physical and mental control through an exercising program. Eleven children in the area are presently receiving these exercises with individual family and friend help.

A group met Monday evening to formulate plans for establishing a center at the First Methodist Church to facilitate the work that is needing to be done for these children.

Patterning, as the exercising is called by the centers devoted to achievement of human potential, requires several sessions a day and each session requires several people per child.

Mrs. Charles Bell said that they are hoping for three teams of six people each to work at three different times a day. Times are tentatively set for nine a. m., four and seven p. m.

Several have said that they could work several different sessions Mrs. Bell said. Conceivably, the program could require as many as 54 people a day if no one repeated a session.

Volunteers who want more information or would like to offer their services may call either the First Methodist Church or the Central Church of Christ and they will be contacted by some of the workers.

Plumbing Code Adopted By Commission

Hereford's city commission, meeting in an abbreviated session Monday evening, adopted a plumbing code for the city.

Presided over by Mayor Ray Cowser, who had been absent because of a recent illness, the commission made the code a part of the city's codes in accordance with other cities throughout the state. The code is endorsed by the Texas Municipal League.

The commission has been considering the code for about a month, and it was felt that the majority of the plumbers in the city would agree to the new rulings.

The old plumbing code had been outdated, one commissioner said.

FRANK MOORE

Hoblitzelle Prize Goes To High Plains Founder

Frank Moore, Plainview farmer and leader in the organization of the High Plains Research Foundation, was recently named a recipient of the Hoblitzelle Award, made by the Texas Research Foundation at Renner.

The award comes from the Hoblitzelle Foundation, donor of the Hoblitzelle Awards for the Advancement of Texas Rural Life. It includes a $5,000 cash award, a gold medal and a scroll.

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association, headed by executive vice-president Bill Nelson, and the Region Young Farmers of Texas, headed by Delton Stone of Heckville, were the farm organizations originally backing Moore's nomination.

The Hoblitzelle Awards, one to a person 35 or younger and one to an older person, are presented to farmers and ranchmen who are contributing to the betterment of Texas rural life as active land operators.

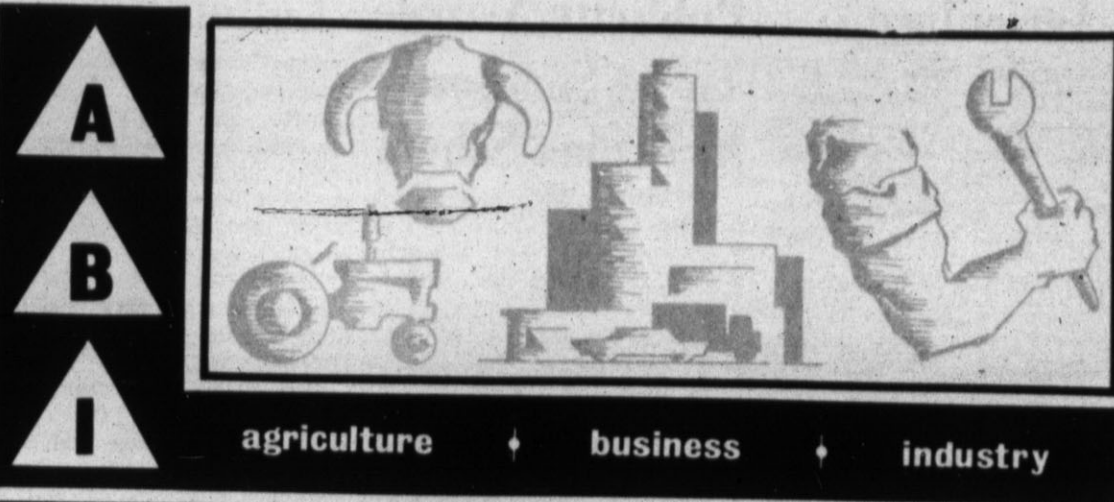

Any worthy farmer or ranchman may be nominated. Authorized committees determine the final recipient of the award. Either award, or both, may be passed over any year that no outstanding candidates are nominated.

The Hoblitzelle Foundation was founded in 1942 by Karl St. John Hoblitzelle and his wife, "for charitable, scientific, cultural and educational purposes."

Hoblitzelle, a resident of Dallas, has a career history of over 50 years in Texas. He is founder of the Interstate Amusement Co., and is Chairman Emeritus of the Republic National Bank of Dallas.

Orville Freeman Speaker For High Plains Field Day

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman will be guest speaker Sept. 8 at the annual field day at the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway.

Frank Moore, president of the foundation made the announcement this week. He said he had been contacted by Congressman George Mahon of Freeman's acceptance.

The 1966 field day is expected to be the largest in the history of the High Plains Research Foundation, located 15 miles west of Plainview on highway 70. A crowd of over 6,500 were in attendance at the 1965 tours.

Tours of the research farm will begin at 1 p. m. and continue until about 4:30 p. m. Secretary of Agriculture, Freeman's address will be at 5 p. m., following an introduction by Congressman Mahon.

In the event of inclement weather, provisions have been made to hold the evening program in the Plainview High School auditorium.

Tours of the 312 acre research farm at the headquarters of the High Plains Research Foundation have been increasing in popularity with each annual field day. The Tenth Annual Field Day to be celebrated at the farm at Halfway on Sept. 8, promises to be no exception.

The tours for the afternoon will be dispatched by Ollie Limer, Hale Center Agent; Lee Dent, Executive Vice-President of the Hale Center Chamber of Commerce, and Merwyn Igo, Member of the Board of Trustees of the Foundation. Guides will accompany each seated truck for the tour. Guides will be professional agricultural leaders planted with forage sorghum. In from throughout the area and will include county agents, soil conservation personnel and representatives from the Farm Home Administration service.

James Valliant, water engineer and chairman of the coordinating committee at the foundation, announced that the committee had arranged for four major stops on the field tour with members of the foundation staff speaking at each stop. A fifth stop of a walk-through pause for those desiring has been arranged close to the end of the tour so that the visit- See FREEMAN Page 2

Cotton Growers Eye Possible Chemical Excess

Excess use of chemical additives on cotton in ginning and harvesting is suspected as the cause of trouble with "stickiness" in the spinning of cotton from various sections of the cotton belt, including the Texas High Plains.

This fact was reflected in the results of a recent meeting of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute's Cotton Committee.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., was informed this week that the committee "has expressed serious concern with the recent increase in the use of additives in ginning," and that the committee unanimously passed the following resolution:

"The consumers of raw cotton have become alarmed at the recent increase in the use of additives at gins because the mills have not had the opportunity to investigate thoroughly the effect of these additives on manufacturing efficiencies and cost, yarn and fabric quality."

"... We urge that no additive be applied until it has been determined that the product does not have a detrimental effect upon the manufacturing quality of cotton."

The Committee also made four other recommendations of importance to cotton producers and ginners. They are:

1. That cotton's quality is best

Agriculture: Electronics Not Far Off

GERING, Neb. — The chronic farm labor shortage and growing world demands for food will mean rapidly-increasing use of electronics and the new science of fluidics in farm and food processing machinery.

This is the forecast of Ed Neufeld, research and development engineer for Lockwood Division, Selton, Inc.

"At present, even the most sophisticated farm and food processing equipment is relatively simple," Neufeld said. "I think the next ten years will bring almost a total revolution in equipment concepts."

Neufeld said the primary reasons are that the cost of labor is rising constantly, and that a sufficient supply of labor isn't and won't be available at any price. The demand for food, though, both in the U. S. and worldwide is accelerating because of population growth.

"Demands for producing and processing food must be met, and the only real way possible is to employ the most advanced technology available," Neufeld predicted. "This means using computer-like electronic equipment that will have a built-in 'memory' in order to perform a number of different tasks automatically. Growers and processors are going to see a lot of 'black boxes' of electronic circuitry on equipment in the future."

Neufeld also said the new science of fluidics will have a big See AGRICULTURE Page 2

EXPERIMENTAL

Farmers Exhibit Crop Interplanting

The High Plains Foundation farming system of interplanting row crops is being demonstrated by seven farmers on the High and South Plains in cooperation with the High Plains Research Foundation.

Lloyd Langford, associate agronomist on the foundation staff, is working with these farmers in displaying the effectiveness of this farming system of two rows of cotton, a blank row and two rows of grain sorghum, forage sorghum or castorbeans. Each of the seven farms demonstrating the High Plains Foundation Farming System has a 4' x 8' sign identifying the farmer and the High Plains Research Foundation.

These demonstration areas of the High Plains Foundation Farming System are being observed by neighboring farmers. Data from these demonstrations will be reported on each farm operation in the 1966 Annual Report of the High Plains Research Foundation. The reports will include agronomic, quality and irrigation results achieved by each farmer.

The farmers cooperating with the Foundation in these tests are: Ed Wuerflein, who farms northeast of Muleshoe in the Pleasant Valley Community, has cotton interplanted with grain sorghum; Carl Sanderson, north of Earth, has 75 acres of cotton interplanted with castorbeans;

Eldon Gohlke, southeast of Littlefield, has two different varieties of cotton interplanted with grain sorghum and cotton interplanted with forage sorghum. In this last system, the forage sorghum and blank rows can be used as diverted acres without penalty.

Neil Landrum has a 126 acre dryland interplanted field one half mile south of Watharrel. This is a demonstration of Paymaster 111 cotton and waxed Kaffir grain sorghum. Owen Benn, on highway 84 just north of Abernathy, has an interplanted field of cotton and grain sorghum. Ewald Quebe, at Cereel north of Aiken in Floyd County, has a 95 acre field of cotton interplanted with castorbeans. Delton Stone, two miles north of Heckville in Crosby County, has cotton and grain sorghum interplanted.

The High Plains Foundation farming system of interplanting cotton with grain sorghum and/or castorbeans can be seen at the Tenth Annual Field Day of the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway Sept. 8. Field of research and demonstration scale planting of this system is a part of the J. Frank Triplett farm program. The farm is eight miles west of Hale Center and five miles north of Cotton Center. Don Staggs is the Farm Manager.

Rogers Says Committee Hearings Will Indicate Packaging Control

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman Walter Rogers said hearings this week on so-called "truth in packaging" legislation will reveal more clearly the extent to which proposed sections of the bill could remove business decisions from business management and place control in the hands of Federal regulators.

"The Committee must face questions as to whether the proposal is a smokescreen for encroachment by the Federal Government into areas that properly belong to free enterprise businessmen, large and small, and would interfere with business growth as well as job opportunities for young people."

Hoblitzelle ...

As chairman of the Texas Centennial of Statehood Commission, he directed the purposes of the celebration principally toward the revitalization of rural life in the state. He is one of the founders and is chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Texas Research Foundation.

"Outstanding service in several fields were major factors influencing his election by a committee of outstanding agriculture leaders. He was one of the outstanding leaders in the organization of the High Plains Research Foundation. He was instrumental in the chartering of the station as the independent High Plains Research Foundation in 1959 with the cooperation of the parent organization," says Dr. Earl Collier executive vice-president of the High Plains Research Foundation.

Former president, Moore is now legislative vice-president of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association. He is a member of the Texas Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Moore, who has farmed in Hale County since 1946, is a "strong exponent of commercial fertilizer, production, of high quality crops for the commercial market, use of new crops in a farming program, crop residue management, flame weed control, and the conservation of irrigation water," says Dr. Collier. He farms 2,020 acres in Hale County.

Another senior award went to Harry Jack Garrett of Harlingen, who has land in Cameron County.

Dr. C. L. Lundell, director of the Texas Research Foundation at Renner, says that the search for two men to receive the 1967 awards is now underway.

"Any farmer or rancher operating in Texas is eligible for the 1967 Hoblitzelle award," he explains. Any organization, business, institution or person may make nominations.

The statewide hunt is carried out by five state regional committees, one in each of the five areas of the Texas Association of Soil Conservation Districts. Nominations may be made to any member of the state regional committee in the area in which the nominee lives. All nominations for the honors must be submitted to the proper committee by Nov. 15, 1966.

Members of each regional committee are the area vice-president of the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts; an area vice-president of the Young Farmer Association of Texas; an area supervisor of vocational agriculture education a district agent of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service; an area conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service; and an outstanding banker.

Congressman Rogers said. The hearings before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, on which Congressman Rogers serves as ranking majority member, began last week and will continue Tuesday through Thursday of this week.

This highly controversial legislation is posed in the name of consumer protection but its ramifications go to the basic structure of Government-business relationships," Congressman Rogers said. "The Committee must give careful consideration to this relationship as well as to whether consumer protection laws now on the books, if properly administered, could eliminate abuses that led to the call for new legislation," he said.

In other Committee activity, the Commerce Committee will hold hearings Monday and Friday on legislation affecting hours of service of train crew employees. Meetings are also scheduled of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, on which Congressman Rogers also serves.

The full House of Representatives is scheduled to resume debate Monday on civil rights legislation containing bitterly disputed sections affecting housing and property rights. A decision is expected this week.

tors can make a short walk through the grain sorghum and cotton variety tests. This walk through program has been added at the request of farmers who desire to view these varieties at close range.

The first major stop on the farm tour will be at the High Plains Foundation farming system demonstration plots. Loyd Langford, associate agronomist, will show the value of the system of interplanting of cotton with other crops, and also give the results of farm centered research on this system with seventeen farmers throughout the High and South Plains in 1965. The so-called "United Nations Garden," planted from the foundation's world-wide seed bank, can be seen by visitors just as they leave stop number one.

The recharge well, and bench levelling with seven years successful results, along with contour plowing values will be explained at stop number two. Use of certain grasses in playa lakes will also be outlined. James Valliant, Water Engineer, will be the speaker at this stop.

Stop number three on the farm tour will show the results of weed control with a combination program of chemicals and flame cultivation. Use of flame in vegetable production will also be explained by Dean Howard, assistant agronomist. Sugar beet production research can also be viewed at this stop.

Soybean varieties, future releases, production principles and state wide farm centered research on soybean varieties and experimental strains will be shown and explained at stop number four by L. T. Cooper, assistant agronomist.

The trucks will pause near the end of the farm riding tour for those who desire to take a short walk-through tour to have a closer view of the grain sorghum and cotton variety comparison plots. Sixty-six hybrids and varieties of grain sorghum and thirty-two varieties of cotton are planted in these areas. The riding tour will proceed and unload at the farm equipment exhibit around the Halfway community building.

Fluidics is the means of directing a small stream of fluid against a large stream to control the work of the large stream. Even computers are being built on fluidic principles now.

Nuefeld described fluidics, as revolutionary as transistors, but having the advantage of being simpler and more reliable in many applications.

He doesn't think, however, that operation or maintenance of the new equipment will be any more difficult than it is on present-day equipment.

"In most cases, it should be simpler, because the machine will perform most of the work. If something goes wrong with the electronic circuits, all the owner will have to do is take off a couple bolts to remove the black box from the machine and the dealer will replace it with a new one from his stock."

Nuefeld said Lockwood is currently researching and prototyping several electronic applications for field and processing equipment.

He emphasized, though, that the research and development lab isn't the only place new products originate.

"Some of the most successful products Lockwood has were suggested to us by farmers and processors," he commented. "Consequently, we have what you might call 'an open door policy' at Lockwood."

Austin — Vocational Agriculture Teachers meeting in Fort Worth, Aug. 9-12, will give special recognition to teachers who have been outstanding in the field of publicity, says Kyle Lettwich of Carthage, a director of the association and chairman of the organization's publicity committee. Teachers to receive the awards will be honored during the association activities.

Among those receiving awards for work with newspapers will be Benny Pryor of Friona for outstanding work with television, David McVey, Friona.

Awards are provided by the association in recognition of each of the areas with the news media in publicizing the various activities of Vocational Agriculture, Young Farmer and Future Farmer work.

2. That drying is best accomplished when large volumes of air are used at relatively low temperatures;

3. That overflow cotton should be moved directly to the gin stand and not subjected to a second exposure to precleaning and drying equipment, and

4. That ATMI should continue to work closely with other segments of the cotton industry through mill tours, speakers before meetings of cotton producers, ginners, and related groups, and by visits of the ATMI Cotton Committee to various cotton growing regions to point out areas where harvesting and ginning can be handled more effectively.

In connection with this fourth recommendation, PCG is looking into the possibility of the Committee visiting the High Plains.

ROAD COMMISSIONER LIKES TOLL ROAD'S NICKNAME

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — "Alligator Alley," a derogatory name hung on a controversial toll road project across the Florida Everglades, has caught the fancy of an official who'd like to keep it.

"I think it's colorful, especially for notherners," said Broward County Commissioner John D. Easterlin.

"It was dubbed 'Alligator Alley' by those who opposed it," said Easterlin, "and now that it's been called that I like it."

The 77-mile, two-lane toll road, which will connect Fort Lauderdale on the Atlantic Coast of Florida with Naples on the Gulf Coast, is expected to be completed by 1967.

Starlight and evening star, the garden — you and I, make a delightful combination.

We spend far too much time, energy, and money on our gardens not to enjoy them as many hours as possible. Night time is a fine time to get added pleasures from our expended efforts. Some working hours may also be gained. One of the newer trends to make this possible is to light the garden, and other out door areas.

Several years ago, I attended a demonstrated lecture on garden-lighting, at Texas Tech. Since that time I have been very interested in this new phase of gardening. Because of this interest I have visited many gardens at night-time. I have read and studied much about it, and to this interest there has been added fascination. Added is a desire to try out some of the things I have learned and seen in new garden enjoyment, namely lighting the garden.

This is not a matter that can be hurriedly done. Garden design must be carefully studied and planned, and the lighting should be artfully correlated into the landscape. Technicalities pertaining to the wiring and installation should be adaptable, and properly executed.

If building a new home, it is advisable to have the garden landscape blue printed, at the same time the blue print for the house is done. Also the wiring for the garden lighting should be included in the electricians estimate.

When we were planning and building our new home, Art and I had all of this done. The yard was wired with underground Marine wire. It has been fun planning some of the effects we hope to carry out. Of course the first year we could not accomplish this because we had to wait until there were some growing things, large and nice enough to accent with the lighted effects.

This summer we hope to do some experimenting, so drive by 303 Westhaven Drive some night and see how you like what we have accomplished. We have found this to be an exciting and challenging project, and as it progresses, we hope to derive some happy hours from it.

In a recent issue of Flower Grower, the Home Garden Magazine, there was a good article on Garden Lighting, by Norman Silver. Outdoor living and recreation long after sundown are extended by garden lighting. And besides beautifying the garden, she says, it provides safety and protection as well. All summer, the terrace, the patio and the back yard can be used for evening entertaining and family enjoyment by the placing of outdoor lighting equipment.

Floodlights can be mounted on the edge of roofs, on poles or

GARDEN LIGHTING — The delightful effects to be achieved in garden lighting are illustrated graphically by this leprechaun in the garden of the Art Manjeots, 303 Westhaven. Both pictures were taken with available light, one in the daytime and the other late at night. (Staff Photos)

In our discussion, places, methods, times, etc. were mentioned, and she said, "I enjoy the garden lights the year 'round. Summer rains, when the lights make the raindrops seem like diamonds falling, and when the autumn leaves are falling the lights make the colors more beautiful, and reminds one of the song 'Autumn Leaves,' and then she said, "there is nothing more beautiful than to see snow flakes silently come falling down, with the garden lights to light the way." Truly this creates a picture to never be forgotten. Yes, garden lighting enables us to share and enjoy our gardens the year 'round.

trees. Colored lights can be used on patios and terraces. Lights on the undersides of umbrellas reflect surrounding surfaces. Along with these spot lighting effects there should be an intergrated plan of landscape lighting to blend the background into the overall scene.

A plan for outdoor lighting should include areas for cooking, reading, the playing of games, and just relaxing. And beyond these areas landscape lighting, like the frosting on a cake can dramatize the beauty of the garden. It is possible to create striking contrasts of light and dark using colored and natural lighting on trees, shrubs, flowers and pools. Softly illuminated, these objects are silhouetted against a fence, hedge, wall or night sky.

To effectively illuminate garden areas, one should study and experiment after dark, by different placements and various sizes of bulbs, also the color of the bulbs. To illustrate what can be done with lighting, I mention the beautiful effects, and various uses that have been and are being used at the theatre in Palo Duro Canyon. It is fantastic and wonderfully beautiful. This method can be adapted on a smaller scale for the home gardens.

From the practical standpoint the outdoor lighting should be done for safety and protection. Driveways, walks, steps and entrances should be properly lighted, keeping in mind safety. The blinding glare must be avoided, yet a clear concise path lighted. Light up hazardous spots, especially steps or any change in levels.

Garden lighting should be subtle rather than obvious, always keeping in mind that the beauties of nature must receive the accent, and the real purpose is to place emphasis upon God's creations.

Points to remember in garden lighting: Trees with shiny or lightcolored bark are most effective when lighted. Plants that flower in white or pastel color reflect light. Dark colors absorb light. Be sure VERY SURE, that all safety measures have been taken, that your lighting equipment is in tip top condition.

With imagination, work and a flare for the exotic and the beautiful many striking effects can be created with garden lighting. Who knows it may be the key to unlock the door, which when opened, will afford us greater enjoyment of the great out-doors and of our gardens.

Another special pleasure and benefit to be derived from the out-of-doors, and our gardens, is when there is moonlight. There is nothing quite so soul satisfying, as a walk in the cool grass, or among the flowers, or underneath the spreading shadows of the trees in the moonlight. If you really want a thrill, go barefoot and take a walk in the cool, cool grass. It is restful and relaxing.

There is always a time in our lives when we need solitude, and a place to meditate and study. These needs can be met in the garden in the moonlight.

I have learned throughout the years, since our son Lloyd has been in the military service, especially when he was on foreign soil or in the war zones, that I find just what I need, when I go into the garden at nighttime in the moonlight.

"Raindrops glistening in the moonlight,
On the flowers, grasses and trees,
Make me know that all is right,
That GOD is in the heavens,
is near
That He knows, cares and shares."

Selected
Yes the flowers seem more beautiful, purer, whiter, and sweetly fragrant in the moonlight.

The other evening I was visiting in the home of some friends. While we were visiting the hostess invited me to go out in the back-yard living area, to see a new water fall that she had recently installed also some of the new plantings. While out there she turned on some of the lights to show me the effect of garden lighting. In our conversation we each expressed our enjoyment of the lights, and how they made the gardens more effective.

REMINDERS: Order or select peonies for September planting. Turn compost heap, water, and add complete fertilizer.

Feed trees, shrubs, and evergreens. Wash with a strong stream of water, all of the evergreens. Keep evergreens watered well during summer. Keep a list of your garden MISTAKES, made this year so that they won't be repeated next year, remembering we LEARN by doing.

Plant zinnias for fall blooming. HAVE YOU SEEN? The masses of petunia blooms at the J. D. Poarch home at 114 Liveoak.

The petunias in full bloom at the James N. Roberts home, 313 Western.

The beautiful roses, peeping over the back yard fence, at the Bob Wilson home. I learned last week that nine bouquets of roses were cut from this beautiful garden last Sunday, it is located at 218 N. Texas.

The cannas, marching around the fence at the Don Robinson home 101 Liveoak. They remind me of soldiers on parade with scarlet plumes in their hats.

The effective espaliered honeysuckle, at the J. B. Pool home, 150 Centre.

May the lights of summer enjoyment burn brightly at your house,

"O.K. you guys, up and at 'em" 6:30 a.m. comes early at summer camp, but as Mike Click awakens to the gentle call of the Scout Master, he seems not so eager to "roll out".

Craft classes are very popular with the campers. Terry Rich of Troop 151 is busy completing a "hand made souvenir" of Don Harrington.

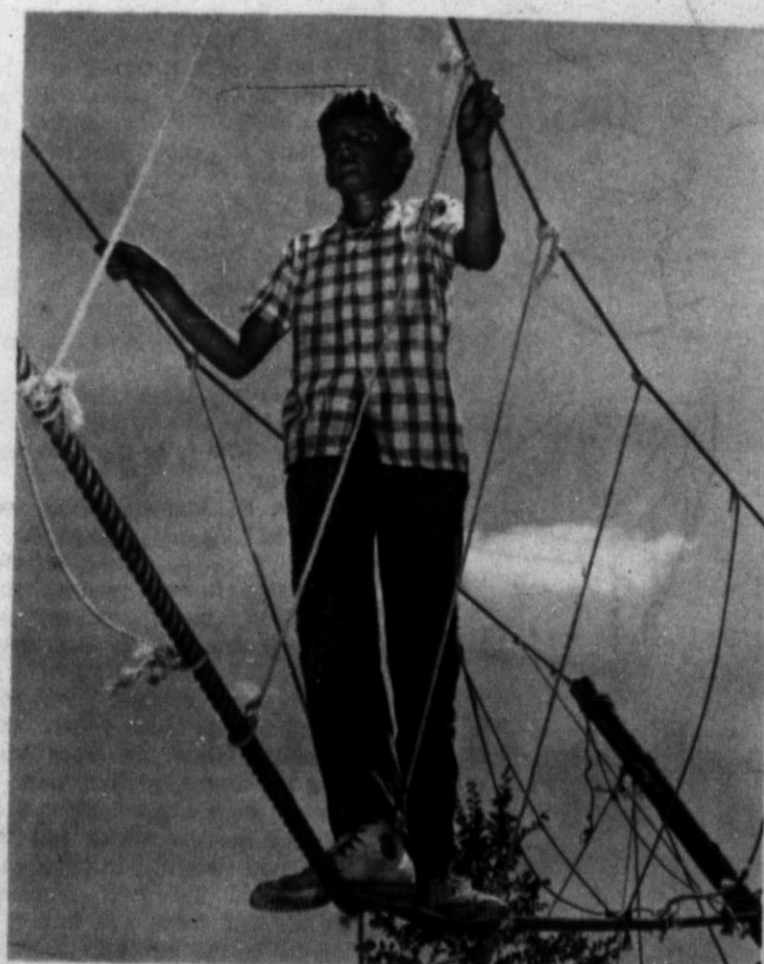

Thelma Terry of Hereford, one of the cooks who help feed the hungry campers.

The hungry campers, Buddy Roberson, Larry Lomas, Philip Pursley, and the clean up man, Steve Vines.

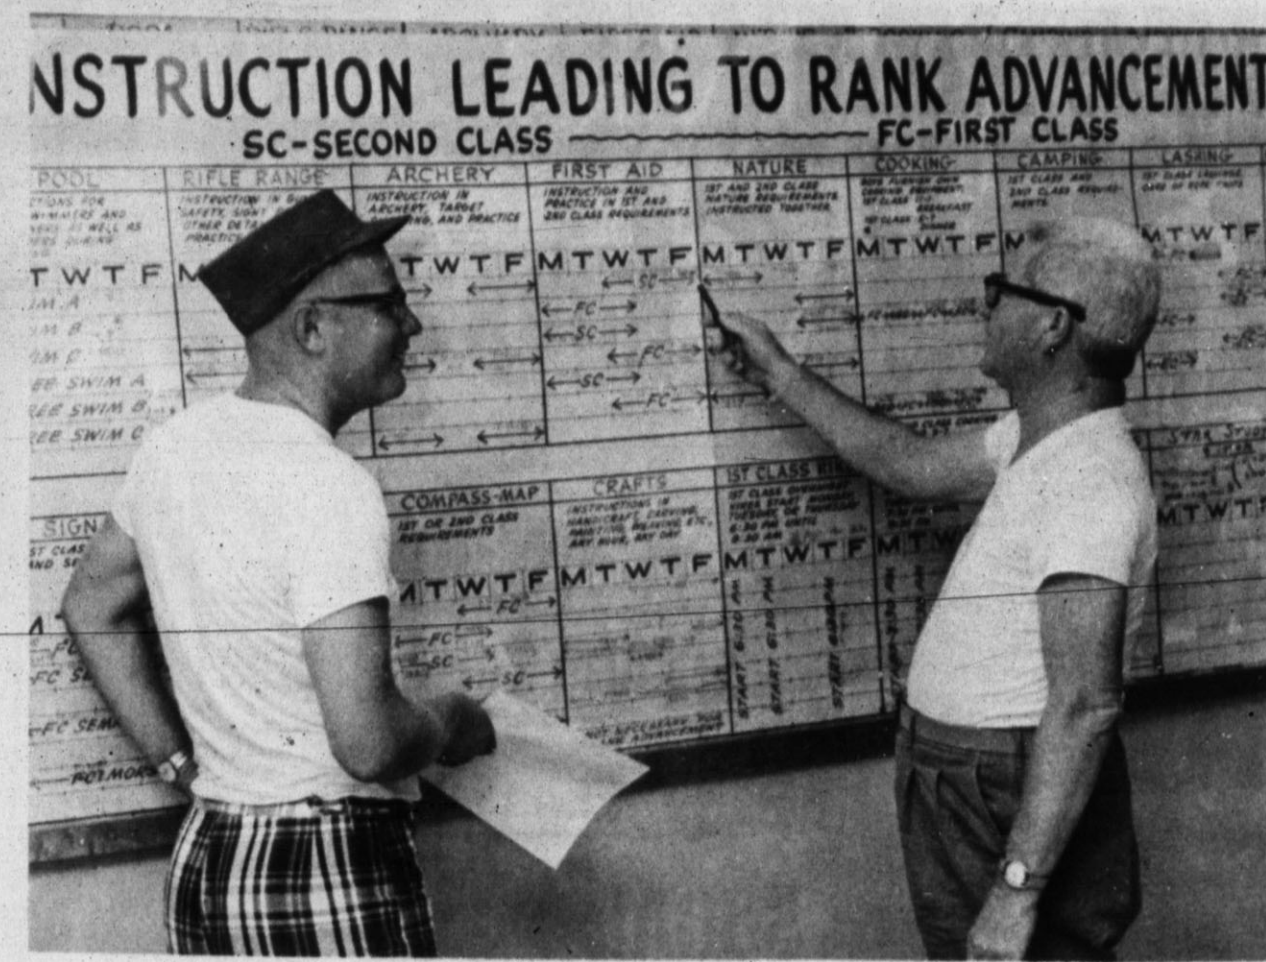

Denny Hicks (front) learns the art of canoeing, assisted by one of the Don Harrington staff members.

Truitt Brady tests his ability on the monkey bridge built by Scouts at Don Harrington, and then, after working up a good appetite, prepared his meal to be cooked over an outdoor fire.

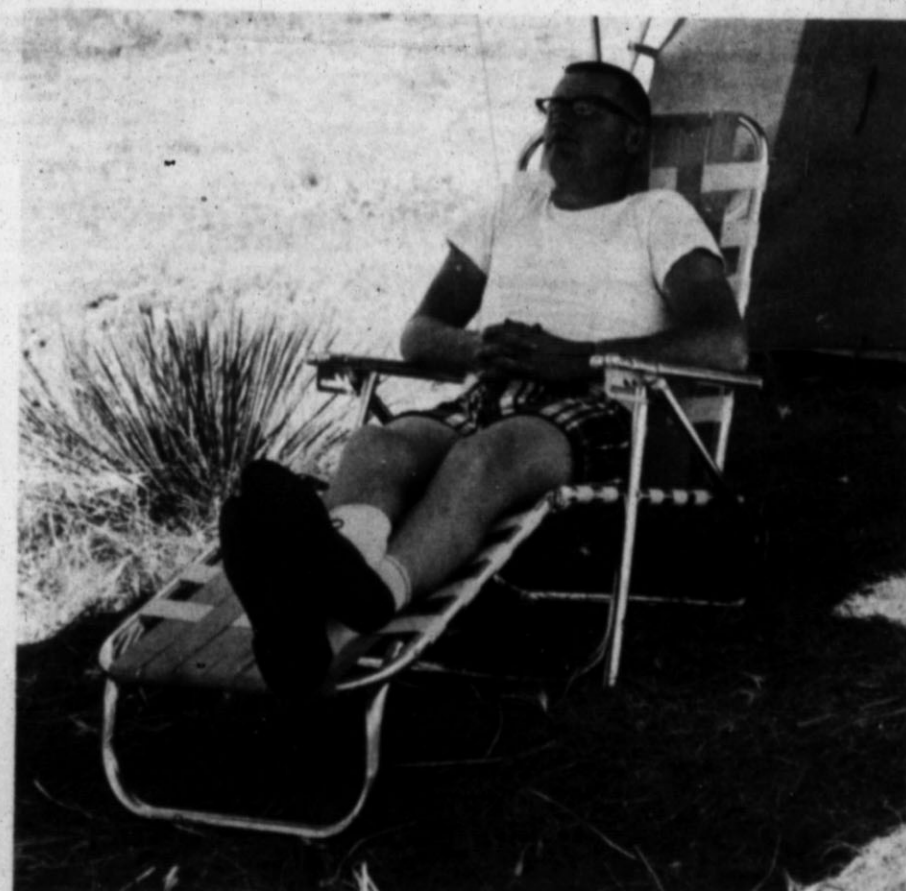

Roy Harris and Monty Stokes (right) camp director, review the requirements for Boy Scout advancement.

One of the most visited spots on the camp is the swimming pool. Chip Farby, Buddy Roberson, Randy Jones and Richard Barrett, take time out from camping and hiking to enjoy a short swim before lunch.

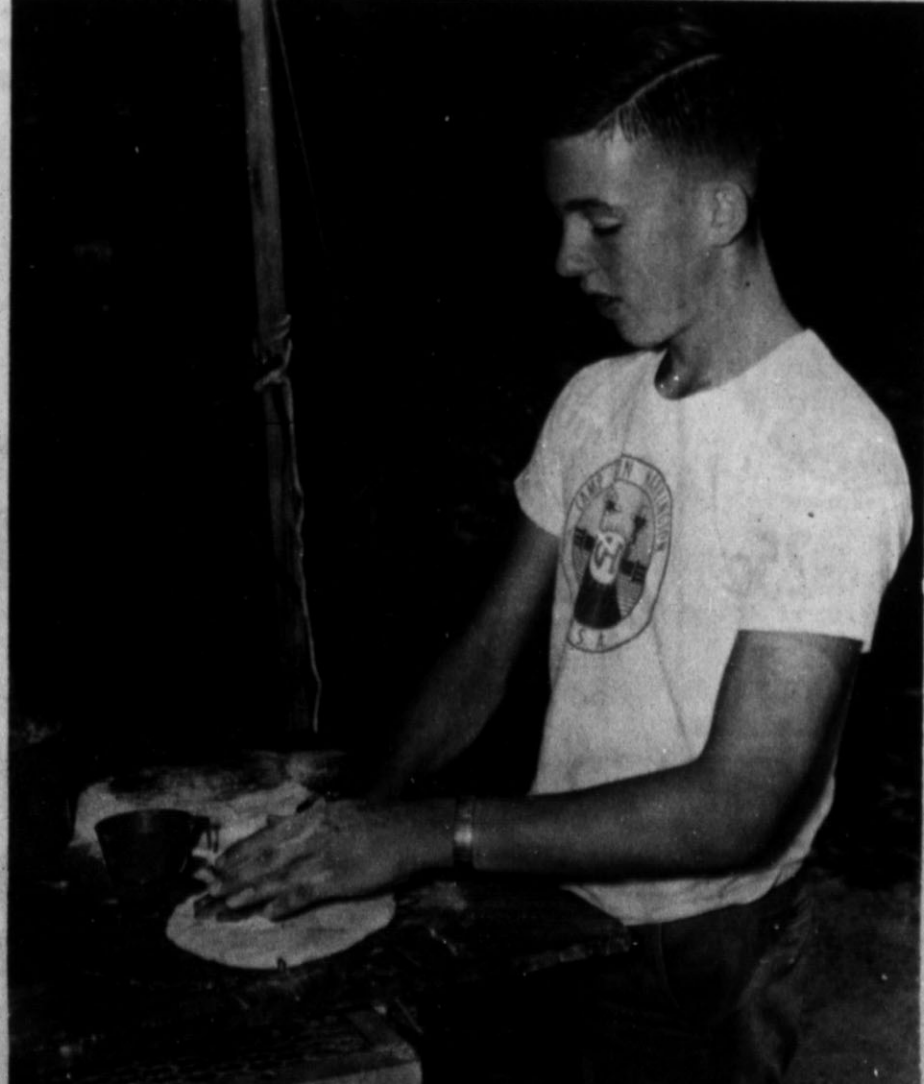

Scout Masters have many things to do while the boys are attending classes during the day, but Roy Harris, Scout Master of Troop 151, catches up on an important chore.

"This is the way we wash our clothes" Bruce Barnett and Gary Hicks hang out their "Saturday Wash".

Troop 151, on the suspension bridge at Camp Don Harrington.

Robert Grady, though not a member of Troop 151, represents Hereford on the staff of Camp Don Harrington, and is in charge in one of the cooking classes at the camp.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Today's young housewife in her air-conditioned home may take time to feel sorry for her mother, back in the ante-bellum days (World War II being the "bellum") who had nothing but an ordinary electric fan and the West Texas breeze to keep her cool.

WONDER IF she knows that her mother feels sorry for her because she must get out in the heat, and other unpleasant weather, to go to the supermarket, buy and tote home the groceries. In her nighted day, Mother figured that any civilized housewife simply telephoned her order to the grocer and the boy brought it out on the next delivery.

Also, Mother didn't consider it her job to brave the broiling sun and play chauffeur every day. Many of today's spoiled youngsters would be quite taken aback to hear a parent say, "Yes, you may go to the park (or library, movie, swimming, to play with your friend down the street) but you'd better walk slowly so you won't get sick; it's awfully hot out there."

Well, things do change but it seems like the progress is canceled by the regress, in most cases.

AN EASTWARD tour has ended for the Philip Shook family, after visits in several southern states and sightseeing in the nation's capital. Rosemary and Philip and their children, Kay, Kristi and Karol, were accompanied by Shook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Shook of Denver City.

They visited his brother, Maurice Shook, and family in Virginia, relatives in Tennessee, and on the trip through North Carolina they visited friends in High Point and the birthplace of Shook's grandmother. Sights of Williamsburg, Jamestown and manmade Virginia Beach interested them, as well as those in Washington, D. C.

MEMBERS OF Hereford Duplicate Bridge Club, who all ways want to recruit more players and so often are turned down with "Ooh! Duplicate is too hard! I'd never learn to play," now are pointing with pride to Andy Shoval, who has been playing only three weeks and was on the top team in mixed pairs at a tournament in Pampa last week.

Maybe it was beginner's luck, and he did have a fine partner in Wilma Hill; nevertheless he couldn't have been playing too badly.

Duplicate players keep saying that anyone who plays contract can learn duplicate and will probably like it better. They invite beginners to try a sample, at least, at one of their Thursday evening sessions at Community Center.

In the Pampa games Yolanda Dye and Wilma won another first place for Hereford in morning sessions and the Ed Schroeters tied for first in consolation. The Wheeler Sears were also among the players.

PEOPLE WHO work on newspapers don't go any crazier from the heat than other people, so far as I know, but our receptionist, Nelda Guy Ricketts, laid a neatly-typed item on the society desk which pictures a situation so familiar to many Hereford people at this time of year, that it ought to be passed on, even if it is a spoof on society-page stories. It goes like this:

Program Listed For Dawn Club

Climax of the 1966-67 season for Dawn Music Club will come early in November, when members entertain the annual convention of District I, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, but the yearbook committee has outlined a program to keep interest at a high level through months following.

Music Is the Keynote, is the theme selected by the committee. Mmes. William Wimberley, Alfred Smith, Leo Criddle and R. E. Curtsinger. Study will be based on Roger Sessions' book, Musical Experience of Composer, Performer and Listener.

First meeting of the season will be Sept. 13 for observance of Federation Day with the subject, Music Is Learning. As in all programs, music performed by club members will illustrate the study.

International music will be featured Oct. 11, when the topic is Music Is Experience. The Nov. 8 program, immediately following the convention, has the title Music Is Praise and will present religious compositions. A Christmas party and gift exchange is scheduled Dec. 13.

A surprise program is set for Jan. 10, and a party Feb. 3 entertaining members' husbands with Mrs. Ray Stewart and Mrs. Jerry Parker as hostesses. Annual observance of American Music Month in February will inspire the Feb. 14 program, Parade of Americans in Music.

Inviting residents of Dawn community for a special program March 17, club members will present songs from Bizet's opera Carmen in the Community House. A service project of the month will be supplying cookies for King's Manor residents.

The subject for Apr. 11 will be Music Is Refreshing, and the season will end May 9 with The Grand Finale, a luncheon in Hereford Country Club.

After working with the yearbook committee as club vice president, Mrs. Wimberley became president recently when Mrs. Ray Polan resigned that office. Mrs. Clarence Betzen became vice president, Mrs. Criddle is secretary, Mrs. Edgar Sowell treasurer.

Mrs. Sowell heads the finance committee, with Mrs. Robert Strain and Mrs. Pat Miller as members. Mrs. Jim McCabe, Mrs. L. W. Tooley and Mrs. H. E. Miller Jr. are on the telephone committee, Mrs. Smith is scrapbook chairman and Mrs. Eldon Owens cheer chairman.

Campers Urged To Be Punctual

Promptness is stressed for Hereford Camp Fire Girls who are to leave at noon Sunday for Camp Summer Life. The bus will leave at 12:30 p. m. from the west side of Dameron Park, and passengers must be there on time, says Mrs. Lewis Lea, camp director.

Mrs. Arthur Stoy, camp nurse, eight adult counselors and Mrs. Lea will accompany the girls from Hereford who go to the New Mexico camp for their annual outdoor session.

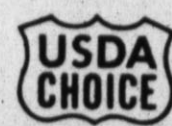

Baggage will be sent by truck, and will be loaded Saturday afternoon in front of the Camp Fire Hut at the intersection of Ninth Street and Park Ave.

MADAM PRESIDENT . . .

Texan From Chicago Heads L'Allegro Club

A Chicago native who became a Texan by marriage, Mrs. Alex Schroeter is president for the new season of L'Allegro Study Club and one of the heartiest backers of its main project, personal assistance to a resident of Girlstown.

Born and reared in Chicago, she won a scholarship to Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene by her proficiency as a twirler. She met and married Alex Schroeter, a member of an old-time Hereford family, at college.

After he completed military service they came to Hereford to make their home. Mrs. Schroeter still practices twirling and also teaches it, instructing students four days a week. Not only a twirler, she played in bands in both high school and college, in the flute section.

She is the mother of three children, Denise, 6; Doug, going-on-4, and Debra, four months. Among other household activities, she says "I can and freeze all summer, every summer."

Water sports are enjoyed by "everybody in the family who is big enough." Mrs. Schroeter also likes skiing in snow, which she learned while her husband was stationed in Colorado during his military service. Bridge is a recreation they enjoy together and Mrs. Schroeter plays with women's groups, including some duplicate although she says she had "rather play for fun and not concentrate too hard."

Schroeter, an accountant, is also a club president this year, of Hereford Rotary Club.

Naomi Schroeter has been a member of L'Allegro Club seven years and held her first office, the vice presidency, last season. She strongly favors club activities such as the Girlstown project begun by L'Allegro members last year, in which they give not only financial assistance aid to the girl they have "adopted."

Exchange of visits has acquainted members with their 15-year-old protegee, and they plan to continue serving as her big sisters as she completes her school years.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to thank my friends and relatives for calling and assisting also gifts, flowers and cards.

To doctors and nurses for their care. The kindness of Mrs. McGilvary while I was in the hospital. May the good Lord richly bless each one.

ONE MINUTE, PLEASE

THE CHURCH I LOVE HAS A HIGH PRIEST TO HELP US IN TIME OF NEED

GENE TOOMBS

"Therefore he (Christ) had to be made like his brethren in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make expiation (atonement) for the sins of the people. For because he himself has suffered and been tempted, he is able to help those who are tempted." (Hebrews 2:17-18).

"Since then we have a great high priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus, the Son of God, let us hold fast our confession. For we have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sinning. Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need." (Hebrews 4:14-16).

"Now the point in what we are saying is this: we have such a high priest, one who is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in heaven, (Christ ascended to heaven, Acts 1:9-11 and 1 Peter 3:21-22), a minister in the sanctuary and the true tent (church) which is set up not by man but by the Lord. For every high priest is appointed to offer gifts and sacrifices; hence it is necessary for this priest also to have something to offer." (Hebrews 8:1-3). Jesus Christ "gave himself for us to redeem us from all iniquity and to purify for himself people for his own who are zealous for good deeds." (Titus 2:14).

Since Christ is our high priest, Christians should "Have no anxiety about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which passes all understanding, will keep your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus." (Philippians 4:6-7).

FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD

What am I?

You are a small part of a great plan. The more you learn, the more you realize the greatness of that plan and find true humility.

Only when you acknowledge the fact that all men are in the image and likeness of God do you understand your relationship to all men, who are equally important parts of that greater plan and vitally necessary to its fulfillment.

The pattern is simple. The evidence is overwhelming. Hate destroys. Love creates. Peace is ours when we abide by the fundamental law of God, which commands, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Old-Timers Plan Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. London, both Hereford residents through most of this century, will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary Sunday when their sons will be hosts at open house from 3 to 6 p. m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robinson Jr. on the Harrison Highway.

Robinson is a nephew of Mrs. London, the former Miss Gertrude Robinson who came here with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Robinson, from Cook County in 1901. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William O. London.

as a first-grade teacher Mrs. A. M. Jones who is still a Hereford resident.

Their marriage on Aug. 5, 1916, was a simple ceremony performed in the First Christian parsonage by the Rev. Mr. Farris, minister at that time. The bride was a teenager and the groom barely 20 years old. Brown-eyed Gertrude wore a pretty rose taffeta dress for the wedding.

Their first residence was at 401 East Third, then they lived for a time at Sixth and Jackson before their home at 503 East Fourth, where they still live, was built in 1926.

Two sons with their wives and children comprise the family now, all expected to be present to serve as hosts at the open house to which all friends of the couple are invited. Jack lives in Corsicana; his children are Cheryl, Stephen and Melanie. Bill, of Dallas, has five children, Boyd, Susan, Cathy, John and Margaret.

Mr. London was a barber here for 46 years before he retired. Since retirement, the couple spends a great deal of time in travel, visiting their children and other relatives and making trips to the Gulf Coast and other spots where the fishing is good.

"We have arranged our way of living so it is easy for us to leave at any time and be gone as long as we choose," they explain. "We don't have any pets, not even a goldfish, no flowers that will die if they aren't watered regularly, and we are no longer active members with responsibilities in any organization."

"We enjoy our home and our many friends here, but we aren't tied down."

feature, with spectators invited to join the dancers.

A prize will be awarded to the square dance club traveling the greatest distance, and in case of a tie the club with the most couples will be the winner.

All residents who wish to watch the dancing are invited to drop in during the evening, announces Tom Zanto, publicity chairman. Invitations have been sent to out-of-town dancers in
