Museum Group Meets With Canyon Man

Specific needs for facilities within the museum before articles can be displayed were discussed at a morning meeting here Wednesday.

Advising the board of directors of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society was Boone McClure, curator of the museum of Canyon.

Lighting came in for a great deal of discussion. McClure told the committee that natural light has a tendency to fade some articles and that paintings particularly needed careful lighting both for protection and proper viewing.

Drop lights in the old building would not be adequate the committee decided but no decision was reached as to the exact type of replacement necessary.

The committee is discussing using a particular period of time to establish a core of reference for accepting articles.

A kitchen, a bedroom and a parlor will be reproduced to be a facsimile of a 1890-1910 home.

The other areas of the museum will be used for articles that date from an earlier period or a later period. The room reproductions will be the only limited group.

The committee has asked for old pictures to use for reference in establishing details for these rooms. The pictures will be returned, they pointed out.

One of the first steps to be taken in arrangements is the sketching of a floor plan to determine which areas will be used for these historical room reproductions.

Attending the meeting were Jesse Stanford, Palmer Norton, Roy Smith, Mrs. J. H. Sears, Mrs. George Turrentine, Mrs. Jack Renfro, Lindy Daniels, Gene Fooks, W. F. Ball and McClure.

Hereford Man Receives Award

A Hereford man has received a Bronze Star "for meritorious service" while on duty in Viet Nam.

First Lt. Joe Reinauer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reinauer Sr. of Hereford, received notification last week that he had been awarded the Bronze Star in connection with his service as a battalion liaison officer in Viet Nam operations.

Reinauer completed a two-year tour of duty with the Army on Jan. 20 in Saigon, but was not notified of the honor until last week when his certificate arrived in the mail at his family's home four miles west of Hereford. The Bronze Star medal will be presented later.

The Hereford man served as liaison officer for the 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 13th Artillery, commanded by Lt. Col. G. E. Robinson, and was stationed at Phu Loi, Republic of Viet Nam, about 25 miles north of Saigon. He was stationed in Viet Nam for some four months.

Lt. Reinauer was commissioned in 1963 as a 2nd Lt. following completion of Army ROTC training at Oklahoma State University, where he received a bachelor of science in animal husbandry.

He was promoted to 1st Lt. on July 20, 1965, while stationed at Fort Sill.

Since returning from active duty, Reinauer works with his father in farming and ranching in the Hereford area.

City Sells Tower, Considers Lease

Hereford City Commissioners accepted a $3,100 offer for the old water tower located near the old city barn, south of the railroad tracks on New York Ave. Weldon Reed of Clovis was the purchaser.

After this action, the commissioners made an on the spot inspection of the city airport to review feasibility of a proposal made by James McAndrews, local feedlot operator.

McAndrews, who operates feed yards adjacent to the airport, has requested permission to lease a portion of the land that had formerly been a part of the city dump grounds.

His intent is to extend his feeding operations. The land in question lies 300 feet out and east of one of the runways.

After the inspection trip, commissioners later agreed to lease the land but a price was not set. Terms are contingent on a survey, commissioners said.

Record Number Take Red Cross Swim Lessons

Some 221 persons began in the Hereford Red Cross swimming courses. This number is 111 more than participated in the same program last summer.

Mrs. Bruce Miller, Red Cross official, said that the local group has had good response at all of the classes offered.

THE PROGRAM began two weeks ago when nine persons took a water safety aid course and then last Monday the program got into full swing with the beginning of swimming lessons.

Fourteen youngsters enrolled in the junior life saving course.

Two sessions of beginners swimming classes are held each day for two weeks. Approximately 70 youngsters are enrolled in the 9 a. m. session and 65 in the 10 a. m. session.

About 20 persons are participating in the first session of intermediate swimming and 10 are taking part in the second session.

Twelve students are taking a swimmers course which is offered only once daily.

NEARLY 20 adults are taking evening swimming lessons from local Red Cross teachers.

The first session will end this week and another session will begin for the beginners Monday, July 4, at the local pool.

A SENIOR LIFE saving course, taught by Joe Don Cummings, will begin Monday July 4 also.

It will be offered at 6 a. m. for two weeks at the local pool.

Approximately 341 participated in all Red Cross swimming activities last year. This number is only 83 more than are participating in the first session this year.

Beginners classes are under the supervision of Mrs. C. E. Rush, Red Cross water coordinator.

A $2.50 pool fee is charged each student participating in the water program.

COOPERATION SEEN

Corrective Water Pollution Measures Evident In County

By LARRY FUHRMANN
Staff Writer

With a sudden surge of feed yards and industries with liquid waste products, water pollution has come to the forefront as a major concern for agriculture-related industries.

In an effort to eliminate any possibility of polluting Hereford's only natural stream, Tierra Blanca, these industries are in the process of constructing preventive measures.

A Brand survey this week discloses that many of these measures have been in partial operation for some time and that others will be complete before vegetable sheds are in full operation.

Fish kills in Buffalo Lake have led some to the conclusion that run-off from the Hereford area is responsible.

The feed yards figure as a major issue in the water pollution argument, as they cover some 510 acres on which they are now feeding some 25,000 cattle. Located on sloping land which even the untrained eye could detect as being drainage area for the creek, the feed yard has a high potential for filling Tierra Blanca with "sump."

Although the feed yards figure as a large party in the case, they by no means are alone. Vegetable sheds, slaughter houses — all had in some way used Tierra Blanca for drainage purposes. Investigators are concerned about just what kind of "stuff" it is that drains off into the creek, and industries using the creek have also exhibited concern over the water pollution problem and whether it now exists.

F. H. Vahlsing's vegetable shed on Dairy Road has just installed a $1,000 piece of equipment used to eliminate any foreign material which might contaminate the creek. Working as a "sifter," the wire screen belt lifts foreign materials from Albert Maxwell plan to attend the hearing on water pollution in Austin, Monday. Dudley Bayne, city manager, and Bill McMorris, city engineer, plan to be at the same hearing.

Several private industries will be represented also. In a meeting Tuesday morning commissioners agreed to wait on any airport action until they review operations.

HELP NEEDED IN LOCATING CAT

There's one cat in town that might not come back, and Mrs. Richard Winget of 211 Ave. J needs to find it before Monday. Her daughter, Pam, was bitten Sunday near her home; after being picked up by the police, the cat escaped near Cope's Veterinary Clinic. Described as "real skinny," the gray female cat needs to be found by Monday to determine whether it has rabies. Anyone seeing the cat should report it to the local police department.

WHAT THE DAM DIVIDES — To the right of a dike constructed south of the Hereford Feed Yards is a horseshoe-shaped channel, used for the retention of possibly polluted water; the area is separated from the channel of the Tierra Blanca Creek, indicated by the arrow in the left of the picture. Bonds Sales Prompt County Commissioners N.Y. Trip

Deaf Smith County Commissioners take further steps this week towards materialization of long hoped-for additional paved roads in the county.

Commissioners left Saturday for New York, where they will present facts which they hope will lead to a better market rating for the $450,000 in bonds approved recently by voters. They were expected back last night.

Commissioners had continued discussion concerning which roads in the county should be paved through the issuance of the bonds.

This week, commissioners met with bond rating officials of Moody's Investors to seek a market rating for the bonds, which hopefully would help to hold interest rates to a minimum on the bonds to be sold.

Accompanying commissioners at the New York meeting was Bob Davis of Columbian Securities Corporation, financial advisor for the county.

Davis told commissioners last Monday that he felt it advisable to seek a new rating for Deaf Smith County bonds.

In 1963, the county's bonds received an "A" rating on the Moody scale, when the county's total assessed tax valuation was only 27 million. Currently, the county's total tax valuation is some 43 million. It is hoped that the growth of the county will be reflected in an even better bond market rating for the county.

IT WAS POINTED out by Davis that "the money market" continues to grow tighter across the nation, and bond interest rates for governing agencies are being forced up accordingly.

As a result of this factor Davis urged commissioners to sell the 450,000 in county bonds approved June 11 by voters as soon as possible. He said current indications show signs that the market will grow worse long before getting better.

"FOR THE FIRST time in history," Davis said, "federal banks charged local banks five percent for money last week." Davis said concerning the money situation.

"This is the hardest money I've seen in 15 years," he commented.

Commissioners took Davis' advice and set up the New York meeting for Monday or Tuesday of this week.

In the meantime, the subject of which roads to pave in the county drew further consideration by commissioners in their last meeting.

Commissioners heard a report from a committee of farmers attempting to line up easements for paving in the northern half of precinct one.

SPOKESMAN for the farmers said progress was being made, but that little more could be done until an engineer's opinion regarding route of the road could be obtained.

Commissioners said they would seek advice from the district highway engineer in Amarillo regarding possible routes for the road.

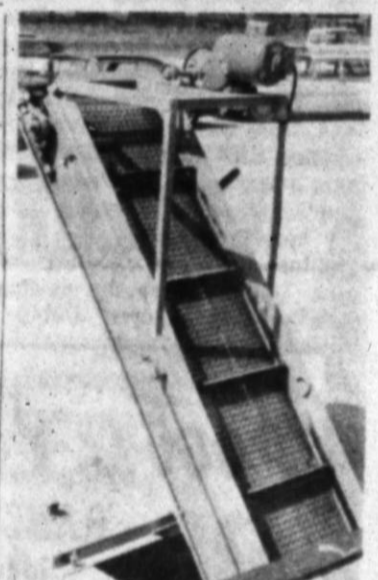

Also appearing before the commission was Wayne Stark, who presented a proposal for a road linking north U. S. Hwy. 385 and east U. S. Hwy. 60, skirting the north edge of the city.

Stark said that he had received promise of easements for all but 660 feet for the proposed road route, and that he felt the road could be opened if the commission expressed a desire to do so.

The proposed road route would skirt the northern perimeter of the city, but would not pass through any presently-developed areas.

Precinct one commissioner Earl Holt said that if easements for the road are obtained, he would use precinct operating funds to open the road, but that the matter of paving would be left to the commissioners' court as a whole to decide.

Commissioners said they would take the proposal under advisement.

END OF THE LINE — Final step added to the F. H. Vahlsing assembly line is the removal of foreign materials from water used in processing potatoes and onions. Water pours through the wire screen belt, which catches particles and deposits them in a container to be hauled to the dump. (Staff Photo)

One Jailed In Sunday Morning Shooting Of Ex-Wife And Man

A 47-year-old Hereford Negro remained in Deaf Smith County Jail Wednesday after being denied bond following his surrender in connection with the shotgun shooting of his ex-wife and another man in separate incidents Sunday.

His ex-wife remained in fair condition Wednesday in an Amarillo hospital following surgery in an attempt to save her eyes. Jailed after surrendering moments following the shootings was Charlie Johnson Jr., a Hereford Negro whose address was listed as 322 Lake St.

Johnson walked into the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office and told a secretary he had just shot the two people who were at that time en route to the local hospital by ambulance.

First of the two shootings was reported at 8:53 a. m. Sunday when a woman called to say her husband had been shot. The victim was George Crear, a 44-year-old Negro. Crear was shot in front of his house as his family watched from inside their home just out of the city limits, at North St. and Fourth.

Then, at 9:05 a. m., police were summoned to 430 Mable St., where Mrs. Ara Johnson, 45, had been shot.

It was only moments later, at about 9:10 a. m., that Johnson walked into the sheriff's office and told a secretary that he had committed the shootings.

The secretary said the man "waited patiently" until Sheriff Lowell Sharp reached the office to make the arrest.

Johnson was charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder. Bond was denied by Justice of the Peace C. B. (Berry) Miles.

Johnson told the secretary that he had parked his auto outside the sheriff's office and See ONE Page 2

Twelve minutes later, police were notified of the shooting at the home of Mrs. Johnson by a neighbor who said she heard gunshots.

Arriving at the home of the neighbor, police were told by the caller that she had seen a man carrying a shotgun leave the house.

Police entered the home and found Mrs. Johnson in a back bedroom.

She told investigators that her ex-husband had broken into the house by shooting a lock then walked in and shot her.

locked it up, leaving inside the auto the 12 gauge shotgun which he said he used in the shootings.

Both victims were shot in the face, with eyes of both the man and woman being injured. Mrs. Johnson remained in the surgical intensive care unit Wednesday. Crear was released from the Amarillo hospital Tuesday.

Investigating police said Mrs. Johnson lost three fingers of her right hand as she shielded her face from the shorrange blast — A move which may have saved her life, police said. Hospital attendants said Wednesday that results of eye surgery had not been revealed.

Witnessing the shooting of Mrs. Johnson were the ex-couple's adopted children, Debbie, 9; Doris, 6; and Tula, 7.

At 8:53 a. m., Mrs. Crear notified police that her husband had been shot.

Crear later related to police that a man identified as Johnson drove up in front of his house, got out of the car, and pointed the shotgun at Crear.

Crear said he started running towards his house and heard the shotgun fire. He told police he then stopped in the doorway of the house, begging the assailant not to shoot again because his children were in the house.

Crear said it was then that he was shot in the face.

A third shot hit portions of the porch and the house.

In the house at the time of the shooting were Mrs. George Crear, and their children, Dolly, 15; Delores, 14; Michael, 12; Charlie, eight; George, 13; and Kathie, 10.

Water . . .

the water, letting the water run on through to the Tierra Blanca. Call them "surplus waste material eliminators," just plain "pits" or what-have-you, several different ideas for eliminating the waste problem have been put in use by Hereford people.

An engineering project carried out by the Hereford Feed Yard is perhaps the "most dramatic" example of steps being taken to curb the potential for polluting Tierra Blanca Creek and, consequently, Buffalo Lake.

Richard Jagers, who assumed manager duties at the yard in March, explains that the problem starts to the north of U.S. Hwy. 60, which runs along the north side of property occupied by the feed yard.

A draw, possibly originating some 10 to 12 miles northwest of the city, cuts a path right through the center of Hereford Feed Yards.

And going on to the south, Jagers points out where the little stream — which, incidentally, becomes quite a creek in itself when the rains fall — could empty right into the muddy Tierra Blanca, flowing right on into Buffalo Lake.

But a good many man-hours on a bulldozer have changed the geography to the south of Hereford Feed Yards, which now feels it has pretty well eliminated its run-off problem by avoiding Tierra Blanca Creek altogether.

An elaborate dike has been constructed just for the purpose of creating an unnatural lake, designed solely for the purpose of containing any water capable of polluting Tierra Blanca. The dike completely cuts the horseshoe area off from any connection with Tierra Blanca, letting the polluted run-off sit and evaporate in a stagnate lake.

Weeds and grasses cover the low-lying area which could become an isolated swamp after a heavy rain; Jagers points out that the system to be employed by the yards is not complete and shows how the Hereford Feed Yards are going to take up a little farming on the side.

Pumping from their own lake, the yards will employ the use of an elaborate sprinkler system to fertilize their own land with the water collected. Plans are now for an alfalfa crop to be planted on the land used for the sprinkling, covering some 40 to 50 acres.

Rains in the area Thursday night resulted in about a 2-3 inch rain dumping water on the Hereford Feed Yards, yet the water level of the lake created by retention dams didn't nearly reach the overflow level of the dikes. Jagers speculates that the lake could provide the needed water storage space after a four or five inch rain, but points out that he doesn't have an engineer's figure on the storage capacity.

Jagers points out that facilities keep water from reaching the creek, "clearly labeled" "out of bounds."

Water samples were taken from the draw area within the feed lot property following Thursday night rains, by officials of the Fish & Game department, Jagers said.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS — Part of many construction jobs requires tearing out of one part to make way for a new addition. The steady tattoo of an air-hammer reverberated through downtown Hereford early this week as workers removed part of the sidewalk north of Southwestern Bell Telephone. The addition is a double drive to a service area. (Staff Photo)

THE CHURCH I LOVE WALKS IN THE LIGHT

"This is the message we have heard from him and proclaim to you, that God is light and in him is no darkness at all. If we say we have fellowship with him while we walk in darkness, we lie and do not live according to the truth; but if we walk in light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus his son cleanses us from all sin." (1 John 1:5-7)

The Psalmist helps us to understand what it means to walk in the light. "Thy word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path." (Psalms 119:105). To walk in the light is to walk in his word, or according to the word of God.

Jesus, whom the Apostle John describes as the Word, who was in the beginning with God, and "became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth" (John 1:1-14), states, "I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." (John 8:12).

The Master was not so naive as to presume that all men would follow him as the true light from above, in spite of his love for sinners that prompted him to die on a cruel cross for the sins of man. "And this is the judgment, that light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one who does evil hates the light, and does not come to the light, lest his deeds should be exposed. But he who does what is true comes to the light, that it may be clearly seen that his deeds have been wrought in God." (John 3:19-21).

Local Wheat Farmers Ship Grain Over Nation

Golden heads of wheat that become part of vitamin tablets for next winter are raised by Hereford farmers Carl and L. J. Strafuss.

Strafuss and Son farms are north of Hereford on 85. For more than ten years, the Strafuss farms have marketed a percentage of their wheat crop to individuals and companies spread over the United States.

The majority of the customers want the wheat to grind into whole wheat flour. Small shipments of 500 pounds at a time are made to individuals in Alabama, Louisiana and other states.

CARL EXPLAINS that one customer tells another and every so often, they have a letter requesting shipment to a new customer.

"We even sent 100 pounds to Alaska one time," laughs Carl. He said that a man driving through the country stopped and bought a hundred pounds and wanted another hundred shipped to him.

Strafuss shipped it to him but when it arrived in Alaska with an air freight tab of 46, the customer refused it. The airline wanted to return it, but with two-way air freight, they figured it was best to sacrifice the wheat.

Most of the bulk of the shipments are to two places — California and Wisconsin.

THE CALIFORNIA shipments go to the company making vitamin tablets. They ask for heavier shipments in the winter. They use three or four loads of 800 bushels per load each year.

The Wisconsin shipments amount to about 120,000 pounds. Two box-car loads are shipped each year; one in the early summer and one in the winter.

This wheat is made into flour and shipped in small bags to retail outlets over the nation. "Why, you can buy some of it in Amarillo," Carl said.

FRANK GYLES, who operated a flour mill and grain business in Hereford, gave the Strafuss' the address of the California firm who had written asking for wheat.

Just any wheat will not do for these shipments. The wheat used has not been artificially fertilized. Crops are rotated, land is summer-fallowed; this makes the grain acceptable for health-foods.

Grain is sold for a premium and Carl figures that this premium makes up for the slightly lower yield because they have not used commercial fertilizers. Soybeans are raised occasionally to enrich the soil.

TASCOSA is planted on the 46 acres devoted to wheat on the farms. They usually make about 40 bushels per acre.

"We manage to have a crop of some kind every year," Carl explains, adding that if he gets the 26 acres on his father's farm, usually it will miss his farm three miles to the north. Each farm has two six-inch irrigation wells. This year the wheat was watered twice but it needed more according to Carl. He feels that the hot dry winds in May are partially responsible for the shorter heads evident all over the county.

THE STRAUSS families use stone ground wheat for their own cooking. (See story with recipes in this paper.)

Lawrence and his wife grind the flour with a small electric stone grinder that they have had for several years.

Carl and his wife, Joan, have a newer model that will adjust and make cracked wheat cereal or different textures of flour.

Hear Water Issues At Lubbock Meet

The vastness of the Lone Star State lends considerably to a problem of "tremendous consequence" now facing residents of the Panhandle High Plains, according to observations by Hereford men attending last week's Texas Water Development Board meeting in Lubbock.

There, several Hereford area residents joined more than 350 West Texans who heard detailed description of the Texas Water Plan and then sharp criticism of the plan in respect to its treatment — or lack of treatment — for the Panhandle region.

TARGET FOR ATTACKS by two noted West Texans was the state water development board's implication that it is not feasible to move surplus surface waters within the state to the High Plains.

Instead, the Texas Water Plan — a multi-million dollar proposal to meet the state's water needs for the next 50 years — assumes it more feasible for West Texas to seek water from out-of-state.

ECHOING THE COMMENTS made by critics of the plan at Friday's meeting in Lubbock, a Hereford man who attended the session commented here Tuesday. "If East Texas won't do anything for us, how can we expect the North and Northwest to export their water to the High Plains?"

That was the comment of Andrew Kershen, a member of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District Board of Directors. Kershen, a Hereford area farmer, was one of several Deaf Smith County residents on hand for the meeting in Lubbock. Others included Dexter Lillie of Holly Sugar Corp., and local farmers T. L. Sparkman Jr. and Dick Godwin.

Kershen agreed with G. H. Nelson, Lubbock attorney and chairman of the Water for the Future Committee of the West Texas Water Institute, who was quoted in Saturday's Lubbock Avalanche-Journal as saying: "WE ARE POLITICALLY astute enough to know that if we cannot induce the authorities in our own state to allocate some of our water to alleviate our critical need, then our chances of inducing those in the distant northwest to do so become more remote all the while."

"We are knowledgeable enough to know that we cannot wait 25 years for the fulfillment and consummation of the proposed North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA)."

Joe G. Moore, TWDB executive director, said Friday that another meeting has been scheduled in Lubbock in September to receive statements concerning West Texas water needs.

SPOKESMEN FOR High Plains interests are expected to resume their attack on the present Texas Water Plan at that time.

One of the main issues is the fact that no provision is made for putting surplus Texas water into West Texas, despite the fact that the state water plan term's this area's need for water as the state's "most urgent water requirement."

ALSO UNDER FIRE is the indication that the board will pursue transporting water to portions of South Texas which have not been cultivated, despite the fact that the High Plains' fantastic agricultural production depends upon a steadily decreasing supply of underground water.

As outlined by the Brand's Austin news source, provisions of the Texas Water Plan affecting West Texas are as follows: The State of Texas should do everything it can to find a solution to the needs for water in the future of El Paso, the Texas-Pecos and the High Plains areas of West Texas.

THE PLAN concludes that it would cost at least $168 per acre foot to pump water from the surplus areas of East Texas to the High Plains. This, the planners feel, is too high to replace the declining ground water supplies, so they made these proposals to the Water Development and the Legislature:

1. That the state do all it can to get West Texas included in regional plans for movement of water from the Northwest U. S. or from the Missouri or Mississippi Rivers.

Legislation now pending in Congress would add West Texas to a Bureau of Reclamation study of moving Columbia River water to the Southwest. State financial support is proposed for such plans.

2. That the Water Development Board use state money to participate in recharge projects to bolster ground water levels, including a program of use of the 36,000 playa lakes in the High Plains to capture rainfall and store it underground.

3. That a West Texas office be opened by the Water Development Board, staffed with personnel to work on research, data collecting, water-application studies, technical and economic analyses so as to conserve and use wisely present water supplies.

4. STATE AND FEDERAL financial participation in a large plan to provide an additional source of municipal and industrial water. (This idea has been suggested for El Paso in particular).

5. Continued exploration of the feasibility of importing water into West Texas from Texas sources for municipal and industrial purposes.

6. Intensified efforts to improve surface-water quality by the removal of natural and man-made salt flows into the Red, Brazos and Colorado Rivers, so the upper reaches of those streams will be more available for multiple use.

EVEN DAD DOESN'T RECOGNIZE IT

No, even Dad can't tell his son about this one; he'll have to see Grandpa. That, friends, is a Stanley Steamer — a 1906 model, at that. Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Amsley of Atlantic City, N. J., the car is being driven by the pair all the way from the east coast to San Diego, Calif., drinking water at the rate of one gallon per mile. Leaving Atlantic City the 15th, Mr. and Mrs. Amsley expect to arrive on the west coast the 25th. Coming pulling a trailer with drums of water, just in case they run dry in the desert. (Staff Photo)

CONCERNING the board's assumption that importation of water to the Panhandle from East Texas would prove too costly, Nelson commented that he felt it should be left up to Panhandle residents to decide whether or not the bill could be paid.

U. S. Rep. George Mahon also took fire at the plan, emphasizing his belief that the agricultural economy of this area should be maintained "before concentrating on areas not even in the irrigation business at this time." Howells in the Lubbock paper, Mahon, as quoted by Duane stated, "It's easy to speak glibly of bringing water to West Texas," explaining that although such West Texas proposals may be feasible from an engineering standpoint, political and economic considerations can pose stumbling blocks.

TEACHERS IN CLASS — Hereford reading station teachers, assistant principals and one counselor meet each day for lecture and workshop activities in Canyon under a concentrated PESO training program. They meet in the cafeteria of the Canyon High School. Speakers usually have a question and answer period and offer materials for the teachers to examine. (Staff Photo)

Teachers Work As Kids Take The Summer Off

School children should delight to the knowledge that the shoe is on the other foot this summer.

Many Hereford teachers are attending classes at various places.

One of the biggest projects that has been undertaken in the way of teacher preparation is the summer program for reading teachers being held in Canyon under the auspices of Panhandle Educational Services Organization.

At mid-term this past school year, local schools began a concentrated program to help elementary school children with reading problems. The classes will be continued this next year.

Teachers who will be part of this program are getting a concentration of reading methods and innovations at the six week's workshop where specialists in the reading field lecture each day.

"WE HAVE SOME of the more noted men in the field," Roy Hartman, PESO coordinator for the Hereford area said.

One of the first speakers at the workshop was Dr. George Spache, who conducts reading research at the University of Miami, Fla.

Of particular interest to Hereford teachers was Al Ramirez, mayor of Edinburg. Ramirez has been a school teacher and grew up as part of an itinerant family. He cited particular problems in teaching children of Spanish descent.

THIS WEEK teachers heard Don Hodges and Thurman Johnson of Los Angeles, Calif. tell of extending communication skills. Some of these techniques were being incorporated into the Hereford reading classes this spring, but extension of the skills project would include involving the child's entire family according to the specialists.

Book representatives spend hours with the teachers acquainting them with the various types of material offered for classrooms.

Modern reading machines, as well as various other mechanical aids for teaching are included in the workshop sessions Hartman said.

During the first week, Dr. John Miller, former Hereford man presented materials for reading classes that he has developed.

Under the general direction of Dr. Emmitt Smith of West Texas State University, the program includes schools from all over the Panhandle.

Ten reading teachers from Hereford, five assistant principals and one counselor from Hereford are participating as well as Hartman who serves as one of the workshop coordinators.

Water Safety Code Issued

AUSTIN — Deaths from water recreation continue to climb ominously, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's unofficial tally.

But of the 22 fatalities reported during the last two weeks' period none was blamed on boating as concerned high speed operation or water skiing.

This development coincides with a concentrated effort, shared by the Department, in forcing the new water safety code.

A few drownings involved boats, but of the fishing variety and were classified as occurring while the occupants were on angling forays.

Bathing accidents were the major killers, since 11 persons perished while playing in the water.

Four victims were wading, three of them very young children.

The 1966 pace to date is running ahead of the 1965 rate when an even 200 persons died in water recreational accidents, as totaled by the Department.

The total this year was 95 on June 6. Last year it was 90 on June 9.

A Department spokesman suggested that the three summer months ahead that entice millions to Texas vaulted water areas will provide a self-preservation challenge.

He noted that the fishing fatalities might have been avoided had the persons involved been wearing life preservers.

The new safety code stresses availability of life preservers in watercraft. The Department spokesman said emphasis now is being made by patrolling game wardens on this enforcement phase.

Stately Palo Duro Canyon Enhanced By Recent Rains

By DAVID BUTLER
Staff Writer

A weekend trip to Palo Duro Canyon? Camp out? Well, why not.

Expecting parched foliage, dry creek beds, scorching rocks, chances for relaxation still seemed greater there than at home where the grass was growing at a fast clip and daily work was becoming more routine.

Our first glimpse of the canyon, down a foliage fringed arroyo, convinced us that we had made the right decision.

A little bit of rain goes a long way in adding green to Palo Duro. This trip, about 60 miles for Herefordites, can be very rewarding for nature lovers we discovered.

Camping places were abundant and the scenic view is tremendous with the green hillsides and the trees, so unexpected for the plains.

Rain the evening before had left the canyon with a fresh smell and the birds and small animals were taking advantage of crumbs and bits of food left by the last night's campers.

Bird population in the canyon includes a number of beautiful species with plumage from drab and brown to the brightest red.

One pair of birds nesting close to our camp kept us entertained during the entire visit. The male was a bright red and was quite proud of his beautiful plumage.

His mate was somewhat drab, but had a beautiful bright yellow beak and a shrill chirp. The mocking bird population is also abundant and they stay in the trees around camp and keep the air filled with song.

A woodpecker near by noisily worked to drill a small hole in a dead tree branch in search of small insects.

AFTER OUR first night out we found that the racoon pop-place like that. His beauty is unsurpassed by any creation of man.

As the sun disappeared behind one of the huge bluffs in the canyon and the fire began to die down, one could hear the crickets and katydids singing their songs in the night orchestra.

The fireflies decorated the shadows of trees and the far-away bluffs of the canyons.

One could hear even the quietest sounds — such as the gentle cooing of the sleeping birds in the trees and the conversation of nearby campers.

NO ONE SHOULD visit Palo Duro Canyon unless they ride the Sad Monkey Railroad for a short trip around the canyon.

The engineer explains how the canyon was formed over millions of years and points out a number of historical landmarks left by the Indians. Although the ride lasts only 20 minutes — the passengers learn a great deal about the canyon.

For instance the bluffs around the canyon are called the Spanish skirts.

A number of caves built by the Indians can also be seen on the trip as well as some old Indian carvings and a grinding stone.

Although we were tired when we returned and were sore from chopping wood, we considered it a weekend well spent and a wonderful trip.

IL Team Takes Paisano Rebels

Irrigation League baseball players downed the Paisano Lions Rebels Sunday 13-8.

THE ST. Anthony's team was originally scheduled to play Nazareth at Nazareth, but the game was called due to a wet field and the two local teams played here.

St. Anthony's began the scoring in the first inning when Danny Loerwald scored Joe Mack Hale.

In the second inning Gary Kriegshauser and Le Roy Serend got on base and Butch Walterscheid scored the two runners putting the St. Anthony's nine out in front 3-0.

The Rebels came back in the third inning to score a grand slam home run tying the game at 3-3.

IN THE FOURTH inning the Rebels scored two more runs putting them out in front for the first time in the game 5-3.

The lead did not last long with St. Anthony's runners Le Roy Berend, Butch Walterscheid, Joe Mack Hale and Dewey Albracht scoring to put the team back in the lead 7-5.

Once again in the fifth inning the Rebels tied the score with two more runs 7-7.

In the sixth inning the St. Anthony's team jumped out three points when Gary Kriegshauser, Chuck Diller and Butch Walterscheid scored.

THE ST. Anthony rally continued into the final inning when the team scored three more runs. Gary Kriegshauser, Le Roy Berend and Chuck Diller scored.

The Rebels were not able to make a comeback, although they did score a run.

Ken Walterscheid and Danny Loerwald handled the pitching duties for the St. Anthony's team.

The St. Anthony's team now has an 8-1 record for the season and a 6-1 record for league play and are tied for first place with Nazareth.

A report on the pollution problems of Tierra Blanca Creek is scheduled to be presented June 27 to the Texas Water Pollution Control Board in Austin by the Texas State Health Department, according to information received by the Brand last week, and perhaps we will have some answers to the real extent of the pollution problem in this county. Many accusations have been made and too many, we feel, without proper substantiating evidence. It's easy to say that the "lake is being polluted by Tierra Blanca," but to what extent no one really seems to know. Certainly we have some problems along the creek, and every effort should be made to keep the situation under control. However, we resent the insinuation that "nothing is being done" to control the pollution problems along the banks of the Tierra Blanca.

Coming under the gun now is Hereford's major industry — the cattle feedlots. They are being blamed for the "fish kills" at Buffalo Lake due to the refuse that drains from the feedlots into Tierra Blanca creek.

And these people do have problems, but we believe that all are taking every method at their disposal to solve these problems satisfactorily.

Certainly, they do not want to spoil either the lake or the creek. However, we doubt that they are entirely to blame for the problems of Buffalo Lake.

To begin with, the biggest fish-kill came in 1959. This was considered a "major" kill, with a "minor" kill coming again in 1964. At this time, Hereford had only one feedlot in operation and its waste material does not drain into Tierra Blanca creek. The feedlots therefore, could not have been responsible for the "major fish-kill" of 1959. The minor kill of 1964 could have been caused by this refuse, since most of our major feeders came into being in the early '60s.

No doubt, some of the feedlot refuse does get to Buffalo Lake now — when and if we have flood conditions on Tierra Blanca. That in itself, is becoming less likely each year, due to the number of dams scattered up and down both Tierra Blanca and Frio Draw. In fact, a couple of biologists for the Texas Wildlife Department were left holding their fest tubes at the lake Saturday, waiting for the expected run-off from the rains to come down the creek. None arrived.

Farmers in Deaf Smith County are beginning to realize that run-off water can be contained and re-used on their farms; therefore they are letting very little of the precious liquid escape from their lands. Some have constructed dams along the creek, keeping the rain water for their own use, plus what irrigation run-off that manages to get to the creek. This water is being pumped back onto the land to water crops.

We can remember when Tierra Blanca creek would rise near the level of the Main Street bridge, but it has been a long, long time since that much water has been allowed to escape to Buffalo Lake. And we may never see a situation such as this again.

And again, the lack of water in the creek may complicate our local pollution problem, but we would assume that it would not be a major problem for the folks at the lake.

Manure from the feedlots is not allowed to get away. The waste material is being sold for fertilizer, or being used on fields owned by the feeders. Heavy rain of course, will wash some of this material to the creek, but with the dikes now being used at both Holly's feedlots and Hereford Feed Yards, the amount that would find its way to the creek is minute. The Holly People spent a large sum of money constructing retaining dikes on their property before they ever put the cattle in the pens. Hereford Feed Yards has also spent many thousands of dollars to buy additional land and to construct retaining dikes to fight the pollution problem. We believe they are doing a top-notch job of it. But they are not the only ones who are working to prevent pollution of the creek. Two enormous sump pits are now about completed that will handle the run-off water from at least three of the local potato sheds, and others are in the planning stage or were already in operation before the big pollution story appeared.

Hereford Growers and Shippers has just completed a pit, of course, it's too early to tell just what the new installation cost the company, but we're estimating that the cost will be close to $20,000 taking into consideration the land used, the actual cost of the construction and pipe, and the purchase of right-of-way to the creek with the overflow pipe. This water, by the way, should be as pure as drinking water when it hits the creek. Dick Barrett Produce Company, in cooperation with Mrs. Jack Renfro, has purchased land on the south side of New York Ave. on which they are now constructing a sump-pit to handle their run-off water. They have gone a step further than their neighbors, and plan to fix the water drain so that it will spread over a big area and water the grass on the way to the creek. And chances are, very little of this water will ever find its way to Tierra Blanca. Evaporation will take care of much of it from the pit, and the overflow will probably soak into the ground before it gets to the creek, depending of course on the volume of water used.

These people estimate an expenditure of $10,000 to $15,000.

On the western fringes of Hereford, Caviness Packing plant has constructed a three-pond treatment facility to take care of their waste. Water from the ponds will be used on the Caviness property for irrigation purposes and no water from this plant will go into Tierra Blanca creek.

The Hacker and Jesko plant east of Hereford was destroyed by fire recently; however, the owners of this installation were in the process of constructing treatment facilities for their waste materials. All in all, we would say that the industries of Hereford and Deaf Smith County have gone all out to take care of the pollution problem. We believe they should be commended for their efforts. In the meantime, the folks who like to use Buffalo Lake as a recreation center, had better pray for a lot of rain, because it is becoming less and less likely that they will get any of Deaf Smith County's irrigation run-off water or very much water from the potato sheds. Water is a precious commodity to the farmers of this area, and they intend to keep every drop they can. In fact, we may use it so many times we'll "wear it out."

ONE HORNED RHINO CENSUS

GAUHATI, India (AP)—A census has established that 366 of the great one-horned rhinoceros lived in the Kaziranga game sanctuary in Assam, the easternmost state of India.

Juan Spillet, researcher from Johns Hopkins University, and a team of 200 Indians completed the census during March. They reported the sanctuary also houses more than 1,000 hog deer, 600 swamp deer, 400 elephants and 400 buffalo.

The huge one-horned rhino is found only on the Assam plain. A related but smaller species is found in Burma, while two other subgenera are found in Sumatra and Africa.

THAT TIME — Onions are bursting out of the ground as harvest approaches. Some fields should be dug by the end of this week. Market is fairly stable, yields cannot be predicted. (Staff Photo)

Market Requires Big Variety For Growers

Onions come into the agricultural economic picture just about the same time that wheat is in full swing in Deaf Smith County.

Returns from an acre of onions can fringe on an unbelievable amount for good years or can throw farmers for quite a loss, produce growers say.

Prospects for this year are a little hard to predict, vegetable men say, but prices and yields should be about average.

Acreage devoted to onions ranges in the neighborhood of 2,000 acres.

Some of the plants seemed to get off to a slow start because of blight that was evident on the sets when they came in.

Onions are set early in the spring, some farmers beginning the last part of February and some as late as the middle of April.

Some processors say that onions must make $1.50 per bag for the farmer to break even.

A lot is invested in an acre set aside for onions before the onions are actually set.

Bed preparation follows a pre-watering and fertilizing.

Sets are made by hand and cost between $37.50 and $56.00 per acre according to method of setting. Double row on 40 inch is the lowest cost; 3 row on 40 inch is the highest.

Fertilizer costs from $20 to $35, and cost per crate of sets runs from $2.50 to $3.50, fluctuating some with seasons.

Spraying adds another $3.50 to $5.50 per acre per season depending on seasonal condition. This year, growers say that thrips and blight have been something of a problem.

Some weeding is way-laid by adding herbicides to the soil. These add some more to the cash outlay for an onion crop.

Cultivating and watering chalk up another $3.50 per acre and costs sky-rocket with hand weeding estimated at $15 to $20 per acre. Yields vary with variety. Farmers plant the different varieties to meet market needs. Some are early; some are flat and some are yellow.

Crystal wax is one of the earliest onions but the yield is usually about 250 sacks.

Granex has a little heavier yield, comes off a little later; white grano usually produces 450 bags in a normal year.

Spanish onions usually have the heaviest yield, sometimes making as high as 800 sacks per acre.

When onions have a good price farmers can easily realize a healthy profit for their efforts. Growing, processing and marketing costs can use up $1.50 to $1.75 per sack in a normal year, processors estimate.

This year has not hurt onions with its erratic weather growers said. Cool weather in May and the dry weather prevalent through the spring did little damage they said.

SPIRALING INDUSTRY

Vegetable Crops Growth Labeled Phenominal

Citizens of Hereford will soon see lights blazing well after midnight. Vegetable crops in this area, sometimes referred to as the "salad bowl of the Southwest," are ripening. The annual pilgrimage of laborers to the fields will start this week to bring in the onions, followed by potatoes.

Vegetables have been a major crop in this area since the late thirties and early 40's when the crops first began gaining in commercial importance. The first Hereford potato crop was in 1940 and probably didn't amount to any more than 300 acres, one produce shipper estimated.

Howard Gault is one of the "pioneers" in the produce business here, starting back in 1941 soon after the first crop was taken out of the ground. Gault estimates that Hereford shippers may put 3,000 carloads of potatoes on the tracks this summer. Almost all potatoes grown in Hereford shipping area go north, northeast and southeast, he explained. Griffin & Brand, located west of Hereford on U. S. Hwy. 60, is a "big-timer" located here, with other branches in various towns in Texas, Colorado, and Mexico.

KNOWN AS the "biggest onion shipper in the world" Griffin & Brand has shipping points all the way from Mexico on up to the Arkansas Valley in Colorado. Machinery will be humming at this plant as produce from their own farms and produce contracted from farmers in the area comes in from the fields. About 150 persons will be managing the "assembly line" at Griffin & Brand when operations are at their peak.

Dick Barrett has been in the produce business here now for some 22 years — he's an old-timer still at the same shed he started in back in 1944.

The Dick Barrett Produce Co. isn't the only shipping concern with the handle "Barrett," as his brothers are involved in the same business in Seminole and Muleshoe. Potatoes have been his main line in the past, but in the last few years Barrett has expanded his operations to include onion processing.

A corporation of 14 farmer-stockholders was organized in 1953 from the Hereford Potato Growers Co-Op. Known as Hereford Growers & Shippers, this corporation deals strictly in potatoes and onions, distributing Hereford brand and Deaf Smith brand potatoes. Albert Maxwell, plant manager, expects the company to handle some 500 car lots of potatoes and 75 car lots of onions this season. The plant has a volume capacity of 15 car lots of potatoes daily.

Al Trautmann, one of the first dealing in carrots here, started operations in Hereford in 1952. Last year he processed about 600 carlots of carrots and potatoes.

LATIN AMERICANS

Job Assistance Aimed At Texas

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A new approach to job training and placement undertaken through Operation SER (Services, Employment and Redevelopment), will be aimed at parts of the three million Latin American population in five Southwestern states. The program is operating under a $382,450 grant from the U. S. Department of Labor and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

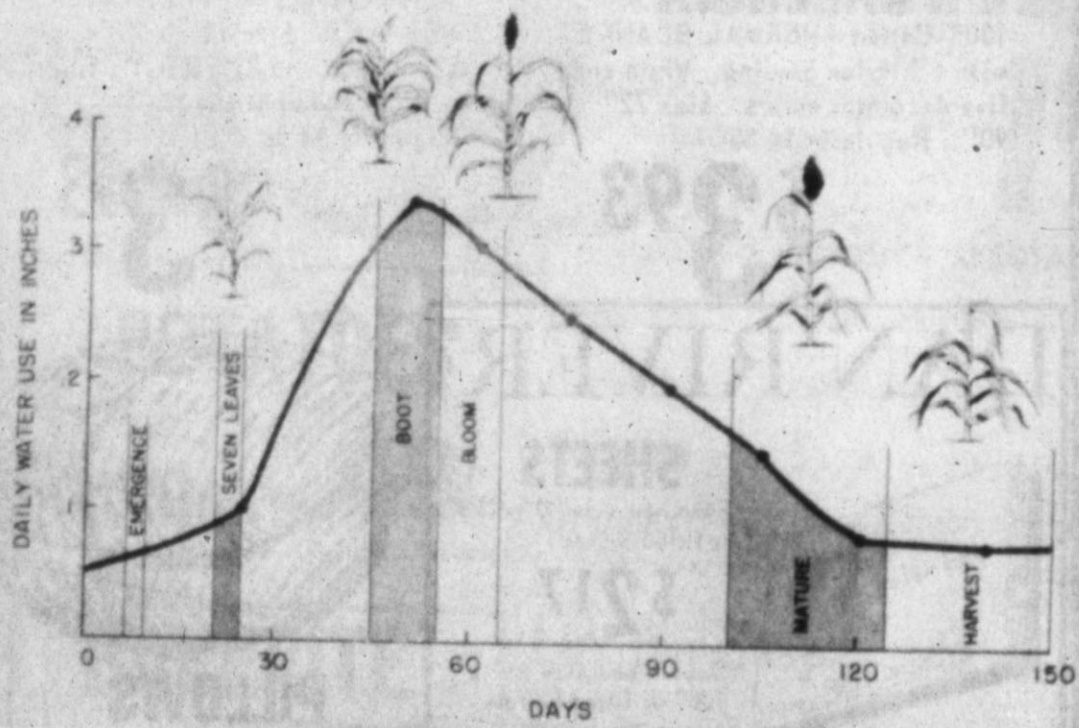

The two-year demonstration grant will be administered by Jobs for Progress, a non-profit organization jointly sponsored by the League of Progress, Inc., a non-profit organization jointly sponsored by the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) and the American G. I. Forum of the U. S. The program is designed to break any cultural and economic barriers to full employment for Latin Americans in Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas.

SER is intended to provide pre-vocational guidance, remedial education and relocation services for the Latin-American community while assisting state, industry and the Federal Government in recruitment. A regional skills bank created from the network of centers, will maintain an inventory of professional, technical, skilled and semiskilled persons for employment throughout the five states.

The non-profit Job Progress, Inc. will be governed by a board composed of representatives of LULAC, the G. I. Forum and the Community Services Organization. The regional board will be enlarged by participation of other local service groups. The state boards, whose programs will be reviewed by the regional directors before funding, will include representatives of both national groups, local organizations and the persons served by the projects.

Texas will have four centers See JOB Page 4

Sorghum Watering Ideas Offered For Economy

Years of irrigation research have led to the development of a number of basic principles farmers can use to decide the time and amount of water to apply to grain sorghum on the High Plains, says Deaf Smith County Agent Justin McBride.

Grain sorghum uses less than one-tenth of an inch of water per day up to about the seven leaf stage and then the use rate increases.

The peak water use of more than 3 inches per day comes between the boot and bloom stage.

Research indicates the best grain sorghum yields are produced when available soil moisture is kept at or above about 45 percent of capacity from the pre-boot to the soft dough stage.

But this watering schedule is seldom the most profitable and it results in extremely inefficient water use.

Two well-timed seasonal irrigations will generally give good yields and probably near maximum net returns on grain sorghum. The specialist says these two irrigations ideally should be applied at pre-boot and at the late-bloom stage.

AVERAGE DOWN

Texas Wheat Expected To Be $60 Million

Texas wheat production, based on prospects seen at the first of this month, is forecast at 61,005,000 bushels, some 3 million bushels below the expected yield predicted May 1. This yield is expected to average 21 bushels per acre, compared to 22.5 last year, reports the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Wheat acreage in the North and South Plains has received light to extensive damage from

If rainfall is short, the boot stage is the approximate time to apply the one irrigation, if the farmer feels that one is all that is feasible for his operation.

No matter how many irrigations are applied, he says, excessive early moisture followed by later moisture stress should be avoided.

high winds, rain, and hail. Harvest has been delayed in some areas due to the weather, but there has been no shortage of workers or equipment.

Rains to the south have slowed up the harvest for several days, and storm damage has reduced yields. In the area surrounding Hereford and extending as far as Panhandle to the north and Dimmitt and Farwell to the south, dryland wheat harvest is up to 90 per cent completed. Recent rains have caused some delay in starting the irrigated harvest.

Owen Family Reunion Attended By More Than Hundred Relatives

Bringing 111 members of the A. H. Owen family together from six states, a reunion was held June 16 and 17 in the IOOF Hall and a dinner in the County Bull Barn. The late Mr. and Mrs. Owen were Hereford residents who came here in 1912.

Two of their children, Mrs. J. B. Harlin and Mrs. Jack Roberson, still live here, as do numerous other descendants. Four other children of the 14 born to the early-day residents are living: Mrs. Dottie Hunter, of Shawnee, Okla., Dr. A. Hope Owen of Lubbock, Dee Owen of Duncan, Okla., and Mrs. Ruth Tipps of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Roberson was general chairman of arrangements for the Hereford relatives for the two-day reunion, and Dr. Owen was master of ceremonies for the program which began after supper Thursday with an "I Remember" session. Mrs. Imogene Roberson Pogue was at the registration desk.

Each family presented a stunt the Friday morning program, with first prize going to the J. Frank Owen Sr. family, and second to Dr. Owen's family for humorous skits and third to Mrs. Tipps' family for a sentimental reminiscence by Mrs. Mary Ruth Tipps Mathys of Midland.

The Harlin family took the award for the greatest distance traveled, with combined mileage from Oregon, California and Dallas. Most present, 45, were from the G. P. Owens Sr. family. A sing-song and devotional opened the program.

Devotional periods during the reunion were conducted in turn by the five Baptist ministers numbered in the family. Dianne Wilson and Betty Hodges Owen led songs, LaVina Howton Gilliland registered visitors Friday morning, Anna Owen Wilson and Gerald Wilson catered the noon dinner.

Annual Dress Revue Preparation Under Way In County 4-H Clubs

The annual Deaf Smith County 4-H Club Dress Revue and clothing contest will be staged July 6 and 7, with a style parade open to the public on the latter date in Sugarland Mall, County Home Demonstration Agent, announces.

Judging of garments made by 4-H Club girls is scheduled July 6, and record books of the entrants will also be judged. Final choice of the county winners will be made after the girls model their garments the following evening.

Preceding the Dress Revue, a charm school to give the girls instruction and practice in modeling will be held June 30 and July 1.

Preparations for the contest are being made now by girls who are receiving special instruction in workshops arranged in the various clubs. Adult and junior leaders are conducting these workshops.

The contest is in two divisions. Four-H Club girls 14 years of age and older are in the senior division, those younger in the junior. The senior county winner will enter a district contest which leads in turn to state competition.

Both seniors and juniors will show their garments in the style show. The girls will make simple aprons, skirts, shifts or complete costumes, the requirements in each class suited to the entrant's age and years of experience in 4-H Clubs.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

A lot of taxpayers have a very serious question — "Can I give my money away?" "How much can I give away without filing a federal gift tax return?"

The law is actually liberal on allowing gifts without tax. You can give $3,000 a year to your son or daughter — or anyone else — without having to file a gift tax return. A husband and wife with community property can give $6,000 each year without filing a gift tax return. The law also allows you a $30,000 lifetime exemption for gifts before you pay any gift tax. This $30,000 is in addition to the $3,000 exemption you have for each year. You can take the $30,000 exemption at any time but you must file a gift tax return to claim this exemption. If you want to give large gifts you should file a gift tax return and pay the tax. You can give a good sized estate away tax free if you plan your giving.

Cynthia Beene in blue ribbon group

LET'S COOK SOMETHING!

Girls Are Prize Cooks

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Girls who learn in their teens to be good cooks are not vestiges of grandmother's day, two in this area earned headlines last week as award winners for culinary skill.

CYNTHIA BEENE, Progressive Road, and Betty Simpson, Rt. 3, both have won places as state finalists in contests offering trips to the winners, Cynthia in the 4-H Club Favorite Food Show and Betty in a teen-flavoring extract company.

Winner in earlier county and district contests, Cynthia was ranked in the blue ribbon group of the state 4-H event at College Station last week. Records of her past work in food and nutrition, as well as in other phases of the 4-H program, will now be submitted for judging.

This judging will determine the Texas delegate in the foods award program to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago next November. The blue-eyed 1966 Hereford High School graduate is busily compiling records of her work in 4-H during the past five years.

SHE HAS WON previous club honors; last year she attended the Texas Junior Leadership Laboratory after special effort in leadership. She combined that project with her work in foods to serve as leader and assistant leader to train younger 4-H members in foods, and she helped judge the Castro County Favorite Foods Show and project show. She won county and placed in district food shows the past two years.

Aiming for a career as a dietitian or in food research, Cynthia plans to enter Texas Tech for the last summer term, and hopes to earn both bachelor and master's degrees in four years of year-round study.

She was a member of the National Honor Society her senior year in high school, and as a homemaker student was chosen

Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year for HHS.

THAT SUBJECT has been of major interest to her, paralleling her 4-H Club work. Both have been sources of training in foods, clothing, family life, home and yard improvement.

Daughter of the W. C. Beenes, she lives on a farm and has grown in her own garden food which she has prepared canned or frozen for use of the family.

Music and reading she counts as hobbies. She played in the high school band for six years and was in the first clarinet section. As a pianist she assists with music in Summerfield Baptist Church. She likes sports as a spectator rather than a participant.

HER WINNING ENTRY in the Favorite Foods Show was Beef Parmesan, which she prepared and displayed according to show rules in a place setting on a card table. She was also required to discuss nutritive value of the food-group in which it was classified, meats.

Her table was set in Italian theme, with a red checked cloth, heavy white china and stainless flatware accented by dark olive-tinted glassware and a red napkin. For table decor she used a colored bottle as the holder for a pale olive candle, set in a basket draped with red grapes.

Here is her recipe:
BEEF PARMESAN
1/4 cup enriched flour
1/2 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. garlic salt
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

1/4 cup finely crushed bread-crumbs
1 egg
1 lb. round steak cut into six pieces
6 small slices processed cheese
1 tsp. (Approximately) oregano

Combine flour, paprika, garlic salt and salt in a flat dish.
COMBINE PARMESAN cheese and breadcrumbs in another flat dish.

Beat egg well in a third flat dish.

Hack steak in flour mixture; dip it first in egg, then in cheese mixture. Fry until outer crust is brown in 1/4 cup cooking oil. Pour off excess fat, top each piece of meat with a thin slice of processed cheese, then pour the tomato sauce over all. Sprinkle oregano lightly over the top and cook slowly, covered, 15 minutes.

This meat dish is popular with pizza enthusiasts, Cynthia says, because its flavor is somewhat like that Italian food. She suggests that it be served with green beans, buttered new potatoes, tossed salad, angel food cake with frozen peaches, milk or iced tea.

BETTY, WHO IS A Dimmitt High School student, will compete in the Adams Extract bake-off at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Dallas Tuesday.

As a state finalist she received travel expenses and a night's stay at the hotel, tickets to Dallas Summer Musicals production of West Side Story and Dallas movie theatres and a gift pack of her sponsor's products.

The winner will be given a six-day trip to Hawaii for herself, a parent or chaperone and her homemaker instructor, Miss Brooke York is Betty's teacher. Second prize is a $500 scholarship.

Her entry in the contest is a pecan rum cake, with this recipe:

PECAN RUM CAKE
1 lb. butter
1 lb. brown sugar
6 eggs, well beaten
1 oz. Adams lemon extract
1 oz. Adams rum flavor
3 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 lb. pecan halves
1 lb. candied cherries, whole
1 lb. candied pineapple, cut in pieces.

Preheat oven to 270 degrees. Cream butter and brown sugar, add eggs and flavorings, then sifted dry ingredients. Blend well, add fruit and nuts and mix well.

Bake in well-greased tube pan about 2 hours or until cake springs back when pressed with fingers. Reserve some of the candied fruit to sprinkle over top in the last 5 to 10 minutes of baking time.

Sorghum ...

be avoided on grain sorghum if possible.

The agent explained that rapid elongation preceding the boot stage followed by moisture stress during grain development is likely to cause lodging as a result of charcoal rot.

Irrigation research may not always work as expected, but local farmers can consider the basic ideas and apply those that fit into their water and crop situation, the agent said.

Cotton Industry Examines Bills

LUBBOCK — Federal legislation to bring farm workers under a federal minimum wage has been introduced by liberal, labor-minded legislators in every year at least since 1956.

Agriculture interests have been able until 1966 to defeat such measures on the grounds that they were inequitable and impractical and that they would hurt, not help, farm workers, farmer and consumer alike.

The House of Representatives has passed and sent to the Senate H. R. 13712 which would extend minimum wage coverage to all hired farm labor on farms where more than 500 man-days of agricultural labor were employed during a 12 calendar quarter of the preceding calendar year.

Minimum wage for farm workers in the House bill would begin at $1.00 per hour in February, 1967, and increase 15 cents per hour each year to 1.30 per hour in 1969. Overtime provision, however, would not apply to agriculture.

Industrial workers now under the minimum wage law would be raised by this new bill from the current $1.25 minimum to $1.60 next February 1, then to $1.80 an hour on February 1, 1969.

Newly covered workers in industry would start at a $1.00 minimum next February 1 and go up 15 cents each year for the next four years. Most processors of agricultural products will fall in one or the other of these two categories.

"Man-day" in the agricultural section of the bill means any day during any part of which an employee performs any agricultural labor.

The wage paid to an employee would include the reasonable cost, "as determined by the Secretary of Labor," to the employer of furnishing the employee with board, lodging or other facilities were a customary practice of the employer.

Only a limited number of farmers on the High Plains would be directly affected by the wage bill. But Ed Dean, labor relations representative for Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., believes that no farmer who uses hired labor would escape the indirect effects.

He points out that if the relatively few larger farms are paying $1.30 an hour, the labor shortage would force smaller farmers to meet the level in order to get competent help.

Dean went on to say: "The bill is clearly inflationary when inflation is one of our most serious domestic problems; it would raise the cost of growing cotton when prices and production are being reduced, and it would create more unemployment

Vegetables ...

Millions of dollars pass through the books of the processing sheds in Hereford, adding to the bank deposits and the general financial well-being of the community and the trade area as a whole. Acreage devoted to potatoes, onions, lettuce and carrots accounts for a relatively small part of the county's land area, but represents the diversity that irrigation has brought to this part of West Texas.

among the most unskilled workers in the country when the federal government is spending vast sums of taxpayer money to help these very people."

The bill is now in the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee, of which Texas' own Democratic Senator Ralph Yarborough is now chairman. Yarborough became chairman of the subcommittee only recently following the death of Senator Pat McNamara (D-Mich.)

There is now no indication as to when the subcommittee may consider the bill or whether hearings will be held.

Ed (Whitey) Prokop, former right winger with Cleveland, Providence and New Haven hockey teams, resides in Hereford and works with the Mundy Hockey League there in his spare time.

Beta Sigma Phi Group Going To State Meeting

Each of the two Beta Sigma Phi chapters here will be represented by five members at the annual state convention beginning Friday in Corpus Christi. The Hereford delegation will fly to the Gulf coast city for weekend sessions.

Mrs. Jack Straw, president of Kappa Iota Chapter and Mrs. Harold Kicks, City BSP Council president, will be accompanied by their husbands. Also going from that chapter are Mmes. Ariss Edwards, Max Goforth and Dean Hacker.

Job ...

The office of Manpower, Policy, Evaluation and Research of the Labor Department will provide $181,225 for Project SER and the Office of Economic Opportunity will furnish the same amount. A professional staff of 12 headed by an executive director will operate Project SER.

CHURCH EXCLUDED

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A regional Baptist association voted to "withdraw fellowship" with First Baptist Church here because it admitted baptized members from other denominations without rebaptizing them.

Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter will be represented by Mmes. Harold Beauchamp, Bob Huddleston, Hicks Roberson, John Schneider and Ollene Williams.

Chapters over the state have previously cast votes to choose a state service project for the coming year, and result of this balloting will be announced at the business session when award for chapter activities will be presented and the 1967 convention site selected.

Theme of convention entertainment will be Ports of Paradise. A beach party Friday evening is titled Journey to Blue Hawaii; the Saturday luncheon, By the Zuyder Zee; a dinner-dance that evening, Oriental Splendor; the Sunday brunch which will follow a devotional program, Farewell to Greece.

Forum discussions of sorority work and problems will occupy the morning Saturday, and an afternoon assembly is scheduled.

Area Businesses Get BBB Warning

Salesmen last fall solicited Amarillo area businessmen for ads in the magazine SOUTHWESTERN LAW published by the Law Enforcement Officers Association. Implied was that the Amarillo police would benefit through the advertising. Chief Alexander of the Amarillo Police Department stated that none of his officers nor none of the sheriff's department were members and that no benefit would derive to them and certainly very little benefit to the advertisers.

The bulletin of the Amarillo Better Business Bureau, received at the office of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, contained this report.

Entrants Chosen For Horse Show

The District I 4-H Horse Show will be held in Dumas on July 14, 1966. District winners will attend the State 4-H Horse Show. The top 20 boys and girls will be selected.

Local 4-H club members participated in a county elimination held on Sunday, at the Neil Cooper arena. Those eligible for the District show are as follows: Tracey, Eddie & Todd Burgess, Donna Woodward, James Lee, Jim, Pat and David Cooper. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Burgess, adult horse club leaders, will accompany members to the District Horse Show.

The district show will be divided into two divisions — halter classes and performance classes. The halter classes will include ten classes for both grade and registered mares and geldings. In the performance classes, members will participate in Western Pleasure, Reining, Pole Bending and Barrel Racing. Trophies will be awarded on a point system in each individual class and for the high point horse of the day.

Gandy Beginning Boys Ranch Job

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Gandy left Friday for Boys Ranch, where he is beginning work as assistant to the chaplain and director of a musical program. The Gandys will live in Maynard, Home and serve as alternate dorm parents.

He is a lifetime resident of Hereford, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Gandy, and a member of Temple Baptist Church where he has been assistant music director. His employment has been with Red Barn Chemicals. Mrs. Gandy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Roe, also live here.

The bulletin relates the story of a Baltimore housewife, reported to the Baltimore Better Business Bureau, who stopped a telephone contest. She had been phoned by a saleswoman who recited a list of gift certificates she had "won" for answering a simple question. With increasing irritation, the homemaker heard the salesgirl out, then asked her if she knew President Johnson's middle initial. Upon getting the correct answer, our heroine gleefully told the saleswoman, "Congratulations You have just won it all back!"

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

A quick look through the mail bag and here are items for vacationers.

First, that annual warning about too much exposure of skin to sun that boils down to the conclusion that the best guard against painful sunburn is common sense: Don't stay in the sun too long.

NEARLY EVERYBODY knows the next note: You can get sunburned even on a cloudy day, from rays that are reflected, or refracted, or some such scientific name. Maybe you understand the principle, but it doesn't matter whether or not you do, just watch out for it, especially if you're on the water.

Anyway, the American Medical Association sends out reminders that this is the season for sunburns, that doctors are agreed suntanning has no beneficial effects on health and can cause premature aging and wrinkling of the skin or even trigger the start of skin cancer, and that sunscreen lotions or creams give protection.

DRESSING FOR vacation trips is a subject more appealing to most women, but it's also a big problem for a harried wife and mother who is trying to pack enough clothes for a whole family without going too far over the luggage limit sternly set by her husband.

Dressing correctly for each activity at the vacation spot is important to people of all ages, says a clothing specialist from A&M, who suggests choice of mix-and-match outfits, after checking in advance the clothes customs of the places you will visit.

No matter how becoming and stylish is your sportswear in bold patterns and bright colors, remember that such vivid garments will be recognized if they are worn on more than one occasion, where more sedate colors and fabrics will not.

FINALLY, TRY to hit a happy medium between being over-casual and under-casual, which can affect the way you are accepted by your fellow-vacationers and, in turn, your enjoyment.

Thinking of all these details may keep you worried throughout the vacation, it seems to me, but if your goal is to be the best-dressed person at the resort, it could be worth it.

On the other hand, if you are going to camp up in the mountains and fish, or spend the two weeks with Grandma and Aunt Agatha, don't bother.

CHANCES THAT you'll be stranded on the desert during your vacation are remote, to be sure, but in case it should happen to you some ordinary materials can be used to build a solar still to produce enough drinking water to see you through.

Scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture figured out this method, and it fascinates me. They say you can build it in 15 minutes but with my two left hands I'd give myself twice that much time. The instructions go like this:

Dig a bowl-shaped hole about 40 inches across and 20 inches deep. Use your jack handle for digging, your hands or a hubcap to scoop out the dirt. Put a container — the hubcap will do — in the center of the pit. NOW A SHEET of plastic is needed, and the body of a raincoat or a plastic seatcover is dandy. Lay it across the hole, securing it with soil around the edges, and put a small rock in the middle to weigh it down to form an inverted cone with the point just over the container. It is important that the plastic sheet follows contours of the hole but does not touch the sides.

Water drops evaporated from the soil will condense on the underside of the plastic, run to the point and drip in the container. A few pieces of cactus, split and placed in the hole beside the container, will supply more moisture for the evaporation process.

Now, you can't say that science has never done anything for you!

Supper Given Couple

A farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Boomer, who are to leave this weekend for a new home on a ranch near Madill, Okla., was given Wednesday evening when several couples met for supper in the backyard of the Bob Stevenson residence, 208 Aspen.

The Boomers are members of a family which lived here a number of years. They have been farming north of Hereford.

A gift was presented the couple from the friends present, Messrs. and Mmes. Bobby Viegel, J. D. Hamblen, Jimmy Conkwright, David Brumley, M. Wert, Dean Stallings and Stevenson.

Relatives Safe After Boat Sank

Relatives of Mrs. Mable Wagner, 138 Beach, and Lester Wagner, 244 Centre were among the fishing party boat Sunrise which sank Friday in 60 feet of water off Freepport.

The 16 occupants made it into life rafts and were rescued unharmed.

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wagner and Mr. Willo.

The party boarded life rafts before dawn as the 54-foot boat, owned by Party Boats, Inc., of Freepport, began to take on water. The vessel sank beneath the surface and the 16 had a five hour wait before a tanker spotted them and waited until they were rescued by another vessel.

The Wagners said they plan to continue their fishing holiday.

FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD

"I PRESS FORWARD"

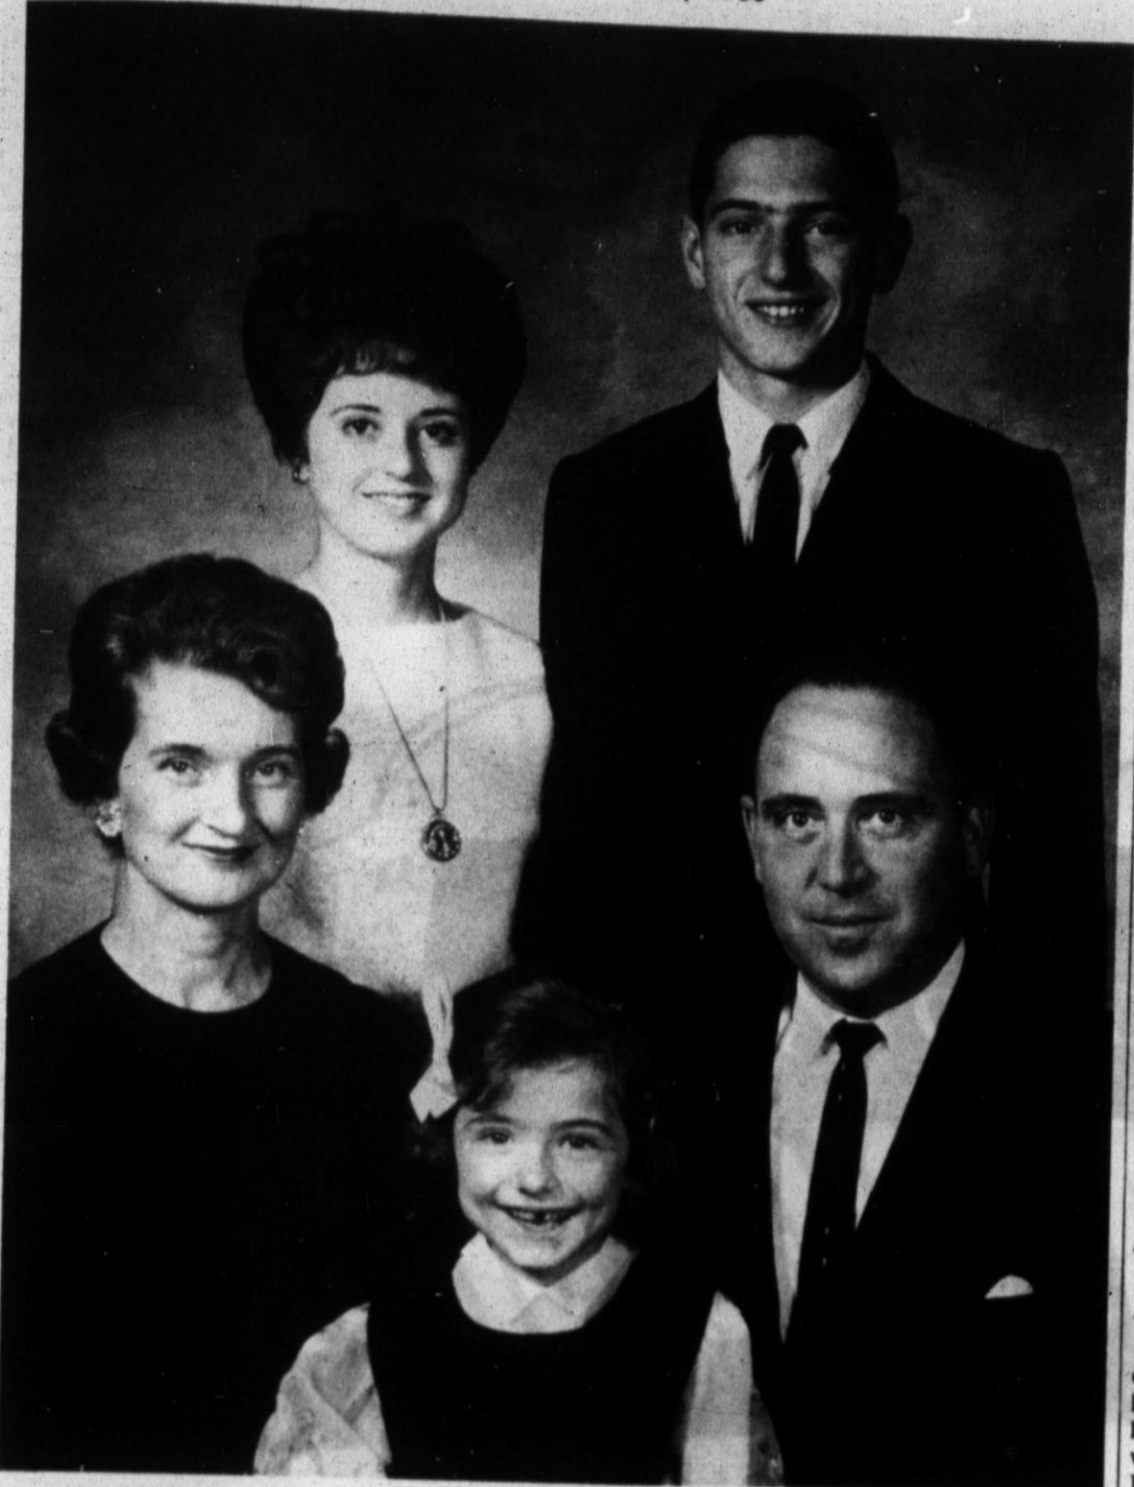

...to a high calling in Christ. For I know, "out of the lowest depths there is a path to the loftiest heights." This man's challenge is higher ground... to blaze his way to God. His highest moral intent is to go Heavenward. God had a purpose in his road-block. Maybe there is one before you. God doesn't make it easy for us to be good. But He gave Jacob a ladder and he climbed to Princehood with God. From way down, a man can climb way up when his purpose is lofty. The church will help every man in his climb if he truly seeks higher ground. You are what you want to be — good or bad; of God or of the devil. Then seek good this week... go to church.

Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Harlin Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Harlin greeted more than 200 guests during a reception Friday afternoon celebrating their Golden Wedding anniversary. Their children were hosts at the IOOF Hall to climax a two-day reunion of Mrs. Harlin's family, the Owens.

Mrs. George Cameron came from Salem, Ore., the Rev. J. B. Harlin from Seagoville and Harold Harlin from Sacramento, Calif., with their families to honor their parents. The party was given during the reunion although the actual anniversary date will be in November.

Mrs. Harlin was Miss Willie Owen before the marriage in her parents' home here in 1916. Hereford has been the couple's home through the years since.

Peace roses and potted plants with gold-toned blossoms decorated the hall for the reception. A rainbow, part of the decoration, ended in a "pot of gold" which was presented to the Harlins as a gift from relatives.

Robert Harlin of Dallas, a grandson, was at the door and the honored couple was seated nearby to receive callers with their children, Mrs. J. B. Harlin Jr. and Mrs. Harold Harlin, Misses Linda Cameron and Pam Harlin, granddaughters, were at the guest book.

Gold cymbidium orchids, daisies and sweetheart roses were arranged with gold-flecked foliage in a tiered bouquet in the center of the refreshment table, which was covered with lace trimmed net over taffeta.

The anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Dwayne Cassels and decorated by Mrs. Tom Hargrave, was served with punch by Misses Glinda and Lynetta Harlin, Cinda Cameron and Becky Long in turn.

In the house party were Mrs. Harlin's sisters, Mrs. O.R. Tipps of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Jack Roberson; her nieces, Mmes. Hargrave, A. L. Manjeot, Russell Pogue and Pink Gilliland, assisted by Mmes. Rex Lee, Sam Long and J.D. Gilbreath Jr.

Mrs. Harlin wore a gold-throated orchid corsage. Harlin a gold rose boutonniere. House party members had corsages of yellow iris and daisies.

Home Builders Class of First Methodist Church has volunteered a monthly contribution through the next year to a Red Cross project for supplying layettes for distribution to Vietnamese mothers who are aided by U. S. hospitals.

Deaf Smith County Red Cross Chapter has been asked to provide these layettes to help meet a quota assigned for this region, and Mrs. Genevieve Miller, executive secretary, has appealed for church and club groups to assist in filling the need.

At a cost of $5 a layette with necessities for a newborn baby can be provided, or by buying material and doing some simple sewing the layette can be made for less. Mrs. Miller explains. Contributions of either money or work are needed so that a shipment may be made from this county by July 1.

Cost of one layette a month will be given by the Home Builders Class.

Strafuss Families Use Whole Wheat Flour In Home Cooking

Farm families still enjoy superb food from their own products. Modern trends tend to influence the average housewife towards pre-packaged foods, but the cooks at the Lawrence and Carl Strafuss homes even make part of their own flour.

Mrs. Lawrence Strafuss has several favorite recipes incorporating whole wheat flour she grinds with an electric stone grinding mill at her home.

While she was looking for recipes, she served the photographer and reporter thick slices of whole wheat bread she had baked, spread with home made butter, topped with strawberry preserves she had prepared in her kitchen.

Her bread recipe calls for potato water and honey for liquid to replace milk.

Of the more unusual uses for her whole wheat flour are these cookie recipes.

Whole Wheat Peanut Butter Cookies

½ cup shortening
1 cup raw or brown sugar
½ cup peanut butter
1 egg, well beaten
2 tsp. cream
1 tsp. soda
1½ cups whole wheat flour

Bride-Elect Is Honoree

Before the weekend marriage of Miss Billie Gonzales and Richard Layman, a shower in the home of Mrs. S. A. Fangman was a courtesy for the bride. Mrs. Ronnie Hale was hostess with Mrs. Fangman.

Yellow gladiolas were arranged in a center bouquet on the lace-covered table where Mrs. Fangman's daughters, Diane, Doris and Rosemary, served refreshments to 20 guests. Table appointments were in crystal and silver.

Miss Iris Layman, sister of the bridegroom, was at the guest register. Mrs. Hale and Miss Rosemary Fangman entertained with a short program and gifts were presented informally to the honoree.

Miss Gonzales and Layman were married Saturday evening in the home of the bride's parents, with family members and a few friends present for the ceremony read before the flower-decorated fireplace. The couple is at home at 306 Ave. I after a short trip.

STONE GROUND—The Lawrence Strafuss family make some of their own flour with this electric mill. The very fine and unusually sweet flour is a light tan. The bag on top of the motor contains about two cups of flour and required several minutes to grind. The mill is small and can be moved by one person. (Staff Photo)

Cream sugar and shortening. Add egg and peanut butter. Add cream, stir in other ingredients.

Form balls in size of a marble and place on greased cookie sheet. Press both ways with fork dipped in flour. Bake about 8 minutes at 350 degrees to 375 degrees.

Whole Wheat Applesauce Cookies

½ cup shortening
1 cup raw sugar
1 egg
2 cups whole wheat flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. soda
1 cup raisins
1 cup thick unsweetened applesauce

Cream sugar and shortening. Add egg. Beat Well. Add alternately with applesauce, the flour and spices mixture. Add raisins. Chopped nuts may be added if desired.

If applesauce is thin, use 2½ cups flour. Drop on greased cookie sheet and bake 12-14 minutes at 350 degrees to 375 degrees. Makes 3½ to 4 doz. cookies.

Legislation Aids Medical Centers

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Congressman Walter Rogers said Saturday the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce will turn its attention this week to proposed legislation increasing training opportunities for medical technologists and men and women in other professions related to health and medicine.

Congressman Rogers, who is ranking majority member of the Committee, said a bill is expected to be cleared by the committee this week to be forwarded to the full House of Representatives.

"The provisions of this legislation are extremely important to Amarillo and other cities of the country, small and large, which are working to develop major area medical centers," Congressman Rogers said. "Testimony received by the Committee documented the fact that severe shortages are developing in medical technology and related fields. The quality of medical care to be provided by the Amarillo Medical Center, which will serve the entire Panhandle area, and other such centers will depend upon meeting the need for these highly skilled specialists."

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS said the bill will help build teaching facilities for allied health professions personnel, permit improvements in the quality of training centers, provide traineeships for advanced specialists and help develop new training methods. One provision of the bill of importance to many small rural area communities, he said, would extend additional loan forgiveness to doctors electing to establish practices there.

Meanwhile, this week's schedule of activity calls for Congressman Rogers to preside as the Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation resumes deliberations on the Lower Colorado River Basin Project bill, on which meetings were continued last week. Congressman Rogers said it is his hope that his amendment will be adopted to include the Panhandle and High Plains area in any future water resources planning authorized by the bill.

BEFORE THE HOUSE of Representatives this week will be bills to increase the amount of bonds issued by the Tennessee Valley Authority; the Defense Procurement Authorization Act (postponed from last week); the extension of the Renegotiation Act of 1951; extension of the Defense Production Act of 1950; and the Foreign Investors Tax Act.
