Pollution Problem Posed As Runoff Hits Buffalo

By Tom Porter
Staff Writer

BUFFALO LAKE — The future of Buffalo Lake and the possibility of it presently being polluted by runoff waters from the Tierra Blanca Creek were topics of discussion during a news conference here Thursday morning.

Gordon Hansen, lake administrator, said oxygen depletion in the lake began to show up Friday night as a "highly organic material washed down the Tierra Blanca Creek from the direction of Hereford."

Numerous fish, the major portion of them carp which had begun spawning in the shallow waters, died or were driven out some two miles into the lake. "The fish kill by pollution hasn't been too extensive," stressed Hansen.

Samples of the water were gathered Wednesday by Hansen and Jack Crabtree, biologist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission. Hansen sent his water sample to the Bi-City-County Health Unit in Amarillo and said he possibly would know something by Saturday night but felt it would be Monday or Tuesday.

Crabtree sent his water sample to his San Angelo office. He also filed a report on the creek's condition with the state pollution control in Lubbock Wednesday.

"If pollution were to show up," said Hansen, "we would advise the people through the various news media that pollution is here and that certain areas of the lake are contaminated." Final authority on what action would be taken in dealing with the cause of the pollution would be the Texas Water Pollution Control Board.

Hansen was joined Friday by Lloyd Bergsma, director of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, and the men went up the creek trying to find the pollution source.

Although they found no source during the survey, the men agreed that the polluted material which came down last weekend could have accumulated for months and even years on the Tierra Blanca and the Frio Draw, which join just west of the lake. The runoff was the first since last September.

Bergsma said Friday that "most of the cattle feeders have built vast aqueducts and reservoirs to hold drainage water coming from the feed yards, but we wanted to check each one while flooding here was at its ultimate."

It was pointed out that all of the cattle feeders are operating under permits issued by the TWPCB, which was established last year for the purpose of keeping pollution out of the fresh-water reserves.

Several vegetable processing sheds and packing houses also have waste water going into the creek in the immediate Hereford area, but the sheds have been idle since last August. Most have complied with the TWPCB regulations.

Bergsma said his organization has notified a team of scientists from the Texas Tech agricultural engineering department to do a detailed study on the two creeks. The team is scheduled to arrive in mid-week.

Saturday morning, Hansen said it appeared that the runoff from the heavy rains in Hereford and the surrounding area late Thursday and early Friday had reached its peak. "There was no visible evidence of any more pollution in the water," said Hansen.

(See column "Breezy Outdoors" in this issue for more information on Buffalo Lake.)

Crabtree said it had been planned for some time to attempt to kill out the carp and leave the game fish. "We were expecting them to make a run up the stream when the runoff triggered their spawning, but which washed down the creek the highly organic material killed many and pushed them back out of the shallow water."

Chemical Used First Time
The carp began moving back up into the shallow grounds Tuesday, and on Wednesday morning, the biologist put a chemical called Fintrol-5 into the water. It was the first time the chemical had been used in Texas.

Crabtree said Fintrol-5 is supposedly toxic to eggs and if the rough fish — to which it is most deadly — move back out into deep water they will die anyway.

"It looks like something less than a complete success," continued Crabtree, "but we still have hopes of it doing more." He said a lighter concentration was put in the water than desired and was expected to dilute more rapidly, but the chemical also has a long term effect and after many fish die, they drop to the bottom.

"If the chemical doesn't disperse, it will remain toxic 48 hours," stated Crabtree. He added that a high enough concentration will kill all fish.

Both Crabtree and Hansen labeled Buffalo Lake as being a natural habitat for carp, having conditions which are helpful to the fish, while being detrimental to the game fish.

Crabtree and his crew, it was revealed, took gill net seine samples from the lake on Oct. 27, 1966. Figures show that of the per cent by weight, 90.17 per cent were undesirable fish and 9.83 per cent were desirable. By count, only 17 1/4 per cent were desirable and 82 1/2 per cent were undesirable.

Samples again were taken on May 10 of this year. By weight, 95.17 per cent of the fish were undesirable and 4.83 per cent were desirable. By count, 90.87 per cent were undesirable and 9.13 per cent were desirable.

"You can see we've got some real odds against us," said Crabtree. The men also told of stocking the lake four times since last fall and the results of those experiments.

Beginning in September, more than 50,000 desirable fish such as crappie, channel catfish and black bass were brought in. In April, some 100,000 Northern pike frye were introduced into Buffalo Lake, not only because they are a preferred type game fish, but they also control the rough fish. The frye were only two or three days old when brought from the Kansas fish hatcheries and none were later found in the gill net seine samples.

In the early part of May, 450,000 Walleye fingerling Frye were turned loose in the lake. Again, none turned up in the seine samples. "We're not too optimistic about their survival," said Crabtree, "but it's still too early to tell."

About two weeks ago, 50 flat-head catfish were brought up from Austin. Crabtree said some of the fish weighed from 25-30 pounds, a lot of them were from eight to 10 pounds and the rest ranged from two to three pounds.

"Apparently the fishing has improved," said Hansen, "because many crappie from one pound to one and a half pounds have been caught this year."

MORE THAN 300,000 VISIT LAKE

"The use of the lake as a recreational area has greatly increased this year over last year," continued Hansen. He gave reasons as the improved fishing and the fair, mild weather.

Last year, he stated, a total of 283,000 visitors made use of Buffalo Lake. Since Jan. 1, "we have exceeded the 320,000 mark. There has been an increase in all types of activity, but more noticeable in fishing."

Further introductions of channel catfish, northern pike and walleye also are planned for this fall, but Crabtree said "we still haven't ruled out the possibility of killing out all of the fish and starting over. We will know in six months whether this will happen."

Hansen said a daylight to dark patrol will be kept in the area of the dead fish to make sure that fishermen are kept out and no sick or dead fish are removed. Signs set up in the western end of the lake warned of the fish poisoning.

TENS OF THOUSANDS — Dead fish, 99 per cent of them carp, lined the banks on the west side of Buffalo Lake this week as the result of pollution from Tierra Blanca Creek and chemical treatment. Lake officials said there were tens of thousands of dead fish many having died before the lake was treated with the chemicals. Source of the pollution has not been discovered.

Three Streets Hit Hard

High Water Enters Homes Following Torrential Rains

By TOM PORTER
Staff Writer

Many residents along three streets in west-Hereford had a rude awakening late Thursday and early Friday as a massive rain storm flooded that area.

The 100 block of Aspen, Beach and Centre streets was a scene of chaos as muddy waters swirled through the houses and covered the streets and yards. The downpour, which was accompanied by a highly charged electrical storm, filled drainage systems soon after it started before midnight and began backing up.

Hereford Policemen began alerting residents of that immediate area and some woke up to find water already an inch or more deep in their homes. Any container which could be found was put to use as bailing operations began.

Rainfall totals in the city were generally about 2 1/2 inches, but there were heavier amounts. KPAN radio station measured an official 2.30. Some light hail and high winds also battered the local residents, but lightning and rain were the major factors disturbing their sleep.

The Reynold Herr residence at 103 Aspen was one of the hardest hit in the flooded area, receiving some three to four inches of water throughout the house.

Mrs. Herr said her 14-month-old daughter had awakened when the rain began coming in a window and starting crying. Soon after, the water began coming into the house.

"We gave each of the children a bucket, pan or broom and assigned them a room," said Mrs. Herr. "We were luckier than some of the others," laughed Mrs. Herr, "we had all the kids to help out." The couple has 11 children ranging in age from 16 down to the 14-month-old child. The Herrs were still cleaning up from the high waters late Friday afternoon and a pump had to be used to get water out of the cellar.

Mrs. Herr said some of the flooring in the home was coming up Friday afternoon. "We've got concrete flooring with tile and parts of it are folding up."

The baby which had awakened them, added Mrs. Herr, went back to sleep after a diaper change and bottle "and slept through the whole thing."

Mrs. Howard Beasley of 100 Centre Street described her home as the "biggest mess I've ever seen." She said the thunder and lightning awakened her and soon after water was found coming in one of the doors.

"We tried to put blankets and towels against the doors to stop the water, but of course that didn't do any good," she explained. There was at least three inches of water in every room during the height of the flood.

Friday afternoon, the Beasleys still were trying to get the mud out of their home. "It's ruined some of the chairs, the walls around the baseboards and the floor covering," Mrs. Beasley said sadly.

She said she felt that "if the storm ditch near our house had been cleaned out, the water wouldn't have backed up that much. We have a box plant three feet high in front of the house and the water had covered it, so you can see how it was backed up."

Mrs. Francis Hill of 213 Ranger said the basement of her home contained about four inches of water following the rains, "but the waters weren't high enough here to have caused that. It isn't too bad, just inconvenient."

Mrs. William Powell of 137 Aspen said the waters had backed up into their driveway from the street; but there was no water in the house.

The Gene Cope residence at 102 Beach narrowly missed being flooded as the high waters backed up in their garage. "Some slobbered in the house when we opened the door there, but that was all. If it had kept raining it probably would have gotten into the house."

Mrs. Cope said there was some 16 inches of running water in the back yard and "it was kind of weird hearing your dog go splash, splash" and not know why. She said the water was running knee deep in the middle of the street and "sounded like a fire hydrant roaring as it ran through the fence."

"The other side of the street was bone dry," continued Mrs. Cope. "It seems like the water just can't get across the highway and backs up here."

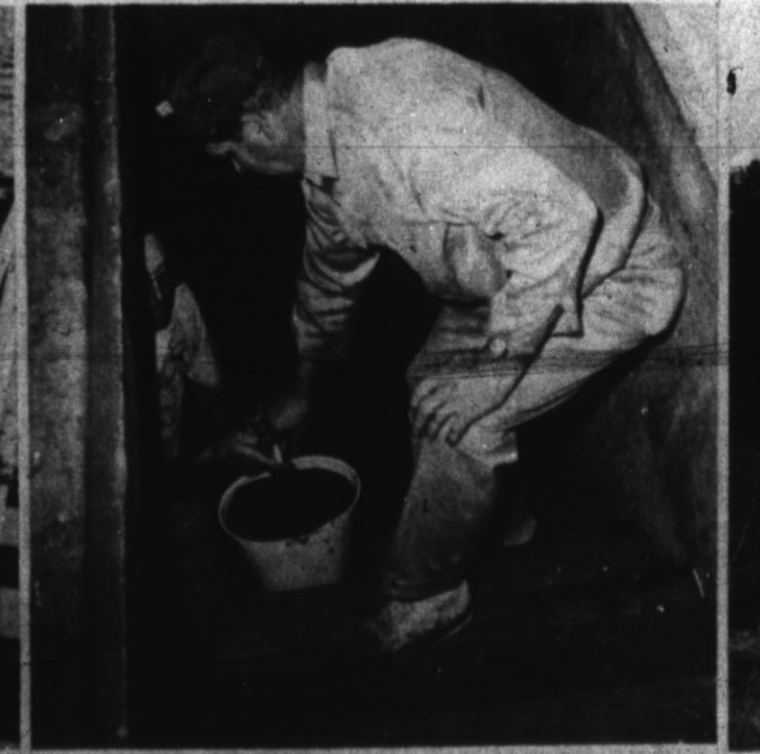

Mrs. Billy Massie of 102 Beach said the high waters filled up the patio and utility room — all on the south side of their home — but did not get into the house very much. "It didn't get in the living room and we didn't have the problem the other people around here did."

Mrs. Massie said she felt the high waters were caused by the building up of a street near her home. "It stops the water and we simply didn't have the problem before this was done."

west Hereford, and the Tierra Blanca Creek racing along in south Hereford.

PART OF THE overpass at U.S. Highway 385 collapsed Friday morning during the heavy rain as strong running water caused much of the gravel which held the railroad tracks to fall on the road. Crews of both the Texas Highway Department and Santa Fe Railroad started working on the damage early that day.

 giant electrical storm appeared to have been caused at the Belmont Bryant home, 415 Ave. J., about 12:30 a. m. Friday.
 "The lightning struck an electrical wire and came in and blew out the fuse box," said Mrs. Bryant. "It flashed up in the kitchen and dining room and looked like it was going to be really good. The house is insulated, though, so the wall did not catch on fire. It was right in the heart of the storm."
 The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department responded to the call, the first of several during the storm. Mrs. Bryant commended the firemen for "working right through the storm to see that the fire was out."
 Southwestern Public Service employees who weren't on vacation worked through the night making repairs on equipment damaged by the storm.
 Don French, general foreman for SWPS, said there were numerous primary line fuses blown and three transformers burned up. A fuse was blown in south Hereford, darkening that portion of the city, and nearly all of the city's street lights were knocked out of kilter.
 Late Friday afternoon French said the majority of the repairs had been made and the street lights were in good working condition.

Domestic Gas Rate Hike Proposed By Pioneer Gas

A hike in domestic gas rates, proposed by Pioneer Natural Gas Co. of Hereford, is being considered in the light of a decreasing return to capital which has plagued that utility as costs have risen.

Pioneer is not planning to change the rates for industrial or irrigation service.
 After making application for a rate increase to the city commission of Hereford, Texas, the company and city officials will hear public comment at a hearing set during a regular city commission meeting July 17 at Texas Highway Department workmen also had a great deal of patchwork to do on the city and county roads. The railroad bridge crossing just south of the intersection of U. S. 385 and U. S. 60 was one major trouble spot for both the highway department and the railroad.

Huge amounts of dirt and other debris were washed down the edge of the bridge onto the highway, obstructing traffic and giving the bridge a seemingly weakened appearance.

Tierra Blanca Creek, which winds through south Hereford, went out of its banks soon after the runoff from the heavy rains began, appearing in the early stages as if it were going to go over the bridge on U. S. 385. The creek ran bankful throughout the day but had a second big rise after the heavy shower about 5:30 p. m.

Gordon Hansen, administrator of Buffalo Lake, said that he had noticed a rapid three or four inch rise in the creek just before 2 p. m. and felt that the runoff was about to begin running into the lake.

Hansen said Buffalo Lake had risen more than a foot from last week's rains and felt this rise might be more significant.
 The storm clouds lingered during the morning Friday and dumped another 1.4 officially on the city. They had been forecast again for Friday night, but failed to reach the Hereford area.

Other rainfall amounts in the area included about .50 on the Herb Schmidt farm 15 miles west of Hereford for the two days of rainfall. Mrs. Schmidt said they had received more than 2 inches June 16 and most of the farming activities had been stopped, "but we don't mind as long as there's no hail."
 The Leo Witkowski farm just southeast of the city caught one-half inch Friday night and

City Hall.
 Figures from Pioneer Natural Gas indicate that company's net operating income brought about only a 2.35 per cent return to its capital investment, well below the 6.5 per cent allowed the company in 1963 in a proceeding before the Texas Railroad Commission.

The proposed hike in domestic gas rates would still only bring the return rate to 4.9 per cent; the price increase also would still keep costs to consumers here below those averaged in the State of Texas in 1965. The requested general service rate would bring a cost increase of 11.5 per cent to gas customers, which is anticipated to produce an increase of $1,378,771 on an annual basis, substantially less than the deficiency of $2,164,158 reported by one firm for the West Texas Distribution system of Pioneer Natural Gas.

Out of the $1,378,771, Pioneer will have to pay additional city franchise, state gross receipts the night before. However, the same two days of the previous week had left 3.50 and 1.50 on the land.

"All of the lakes are full," said Mrs. Witkowski. She added that cutting of wheat and plowing had gone on Friday.

A total of .90 was measured, on the H. L. Hershey farm about 12 miles northeast of Hereford during the night Thursday and another .20 fell on Friday. "It stopped the farming, but it was a nice rain," said Mrs. Hershey.

One-half inch of precipitation fell 11 miles south of the city Friday morning, 3.2 inches fell 4 miles east and 1 1/2 miles north and 2.9 inches was recorded one mile north on U. S. 385.

Olton Man Is Crash Victim

A 56-year-old Olton man was killed about 11 p. m. Thursday 10 miles north of Dimmitt on U. S. 385 when his car hit a tree.

Two beatniks started off in their ramshackled car on a damp morning to buy some tubes of airplane glue. With the windshield all misted up, the driver was having difficulty seeing but still they pressed relentlessly on. About to turn a corner the driver asked his companion, "Hey, man, d'ya see anything?"

"No, just a dog."

Three days after the crash the driver awoke in the hospital, saw his friend in the next bed. "Hey, you nut, thought you said there was only a dog."

"Sure man — Greyhound." — Philnews

Dead at the scene was William Norris (Bill) Yates, who had lived in Olton more than 34 years. Highway Patrolman Charles Moore of Hereford, who assisted in investigation of the accident, said the car had left the highway and traveled a great distance before hitting the tree.

Moore said there were no skid marks to indicate the driver had tried to stop.

Funeral services for Yates will be at 3 p. m. today in the First Methodist Church with burial in Olton Cemetery under direction of Parsons Funeral Home.

Yates had been a director, vice president, president and co-owner of the Olton State Bank. Also, he was owner of Consumer's Butane, Inc., a past president of the Olton Grain Co. and was in the Tri-State Land Co. at the time of his death. PRACTICE SESSIONS — Students who plan to be in band this fall at both LaPlata and Stanton Junior High have had an opportunity this summer to learn some of the fundamentals of their instruments. Most of the students will be in the beginners bands, having just completed sixth grade and entering seventh grade in the junior high school. Directors have been Ben Gollehon, Lynn McLarty and Jim Priest. Parents and friends will have an opportunity to hear what the young bandmen have learned when they are presented in their Annual Summer Band Concert, Thursday afternoon in Dameron Park. Tune-up time is 5 p.m., and the public is invited to the informal outdoor concert. It is suggested that patrons bring blankets, folding chairs or cushions to the park since no seating is provided.

Water Board Is To Meet Tuesday

The second regular meeting of the Board of Directors of Water, Inc. will be held at 10:00 a. m. Tuesday, June 27 in the Pioneer Natural Gas Board Room, 301 South Taylor, Amarillo.

John J. Kendrick, Water, Inc. President said there would be a report to the Board on the new organization's activities to date and a discussion of plans for the immediate future, including a membership drive.

Water, Inc., was formed recently as a study and planning association which will work toward the importation of both in-state and out-of-state multiple-purpose water to West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and the Oklahoma-Panhandle.

It is expected to coordinate the activities of the Texas Water Development Board, private engineering firms, the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation and the U. S. Corps of Engineers, all of which will be involved in the final project, Kendrick said.

With respect to the membership drive, Kendrick noted that application forms are being printed and will be mailed initially to some 27,000 individuals, businesses and agencies. Also, he said a supply of the forms would be given to each of the 33 directors for distribution to banks, chambers of commerce offices and other locations throughout the 23 districts in Water, Inc.

"A tentative budget of $200,000 has been set by the Executive Committee for the first year of operation," Kendrick stated, "and one of our first jobs will be to raise the necessary funds through membership dues."

The non-profit corporation has set minimum dues at $25 per year, with dues on land, businesses and agencies established to reflect the size of individual or company operations.

Dues for landowners, farmers and ranchers were suggested on a per acre basis. Irrigated farmers will be asked to pay 10 cents per acre, dryland farmers 5 cent and ranchers 2 cents.

Commercial enterprise and agency dues were fixed at 50 cents per $100,000 of capitalization and surplus up to $250 in dues on $500,000 capitalization. Above that figure, dues are to be set by the Executive Committee on receipt of the application for membership.

Former Pastor Is Crash Victim

Memorial Mass for a former Hereford resident, the Very Rev. Alexander Beaton, 51, will be said Wednesday evening at 8 p. m. at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Right Rev. Lawrence Defalco, bishop from Amarillo will read the mass.

Rev. Beaton was among 34 persons killed in the crash of a jet airliner Friday in Pennsylvania.

A native of Nova Scotia, he had been assistant pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church here for three years. He left here in early June and has been in Graymoore Garrison, N. Y., where he had been elected Father General of the Graymoore Friars.

At the time of his death, he was en route to Elmira, N. Y., where he was to visit a seminar Saturday. He would have assumed duties today as director of 300 Graymoore friars in the eastern United States, as well as directing parishes in Canada, Brazil, Japan, England and Rome, where ever a Graymoore friar was pastor.

He joined the friars in 1934 and had served as Definitor General and several other superiors of larger parishes.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Two Juveniles Are Placed On Probation

Two juvenile boys were granted probation in Deaf Smith County Court Friday morning and hearings for two others were postponed until Tuesday — all having been charged in connection with the theft of four cars and four burglaries.

Granted probation by Judge H. C. Williams were Jake Lopez, 14, and Joe Garcia, 15. The two, represented by court-appointed attorney Hazen Woods, were charged jointly with the burglary of Dick Barrett Produce between April 29 and May 1.

The hearings for Richard Marry, 15 and Juan Jimex, 15, ran into legal difficulties when it was found that the policeman who had made the arrest had not filled out the petition charging the youths. The petition had been signed by the officer who did investigative work after the pair had been arrested.

Joint charges against the pair include the theft of two cars and another burglary. Jimex also is charged with being drunk at the time of his arrest. The pair are represented by Jim Krueger, also court-appointed.

The hearing was tentatively reset for 8:20 a. m. Tuesday.

EX-PRESIDENT HONORED — Earl Phillips, 104 Ave. 1, Hereford, was honored in Lubbock last week as the outgoing president of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association. At left, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are in the backyard of their home, Mrs. Phillips operating the lawnmower which was presented to them. In center are shown several plaques and other gifts, and at right, a couple of other commemorations of 41 years service with the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department.

Earl Phillips

Gifts Are Tribute To Volunteer Chief

Earl Phillips, who has been riding the trucks of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department since 1926, was honored this past week with tributes from fire departments and individuals as he stepped down from his position as president of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association.

Phillips has served as officer in the organization since 1962, when he was fourth vice-president; he has gone through the vice-presidencies to assume the presidency in 1966, and this year will serve in the capacity of immediate past president.

He was chief of the Hereford Fire Department from 1946 to 1958; during the 1952-53 term, he was president of the Panhandle Firemen's Association.

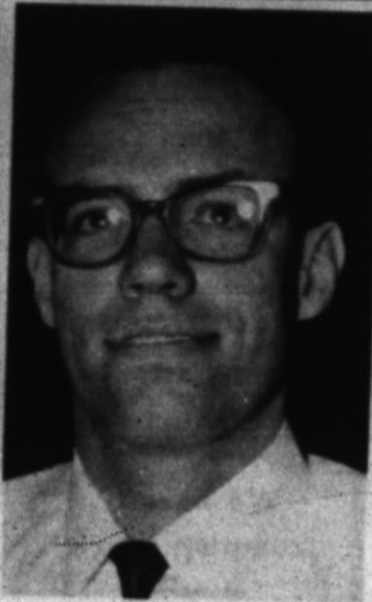

Local firemen spared no effort in honoring their long-time colleague and leader at the 91st annual convention of the state association, staged in Lubbock.

In out-going ceremonies, Phillips and his wife received numerous gifts and commemorations marking his position as president of the state association.

A favorite spot at the Phillips home, 104 Ave. 1, is in the backyard, and local firemen centered gifts around backyard use. Besides new tires for his car, Phillips was presented a stereo (with speakers outside) and a lawn mower, in use since 1926, when Phillips joined the fire department, was mounted and enshrined. Another small plaque, to be mounted to the fire department's newest truck, will bear Phillips name. Another plaque was presented to him by the Panhandle firemen's association.

The Hereford Fire Department made of a gift of $250 to Phillips; he received a $50 gift certificate from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Since he does a lot of traveling, the local firemen also presented Phillips with a map case at the association convention in the KoKo Palace last week.

Attending the convention at various times from Hereford were Jap Dickerson, chief, Ted Higgins, captain, Glenn Witherspoon and W. O. Witherspoon, delegates; Phillips' son and daughter, Wayne Phillips and Margaret Carnahan; and Bill Patton, Max Stipe, assistant chief, Terry and Azalee Hodges and Albert Maxwell.

Bob Jones

District Scout Director Moves To Hereford

Bob Jones, new District Scout Executive for Boy Scouts in Randall, Swisher and Deaf Smith counties, has moved his family to Hereford and taken full command of the duties.

Jones assumed the post June 1, coming here from Greenville, S. C. He will be working in the Tierra Blanca District — which is composed of Hereford, Adrian, Friona, Vega, Umbarger and the surrounding communities — and the Randall District, which includes Canyon and Happy.

The family will reside at 228 Greenwood, and Mrs. Jones will teach at Northwest Elementary School. The couple's two children, Jeanie, 7, and Debbie, 6, will attend Northwest.

There are approximately 800 boys in the districts, with Ed Skypala of Hereford serving as District Chairman of the Tierra Blanca area.

Red Cross Names Local Chairman

J. R. "Monk" Johnson, Hereford businessman, has been named as chairman of the board of the Deaf Smith County Red Cross the coming fiscal year beginning July 1. Johnson replaces Melvin Jayroe, whose term expires after three years of service.

The governing board of the Red Cross in the county is made up of the chairmen of the various service committees of the organization; it has 20 members, all of whom can serve a maximum of four years before being retired for at least a year.

A Main Street businessman, Johnson has operated Rutherford & Co. here now for 22 years. He is a past president of the Hereford Rotary Club, and has served as Chamber of Commerce president. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are members of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Genevieve Miller, executive secretary for Red Cross, explains that members of the board of directors are asked to not serve over three years if they are not requested to; even when request is made, the maximum amount of extra time to serve is one year. Such a program, with some directorship terms expiring every year, maintains a sufficient turnover to spread Red Cross education through a cross section of the community, Mrs. Miller said.

Serving with Johnson on the board of directors this year will be Dick Barnard, vice-chairman whose term expires in 1969; Mrs. Eugene Sparks, treasurer, 1970; Mrs. Floyd Coleman, chairman of public information, 1969; Doyle Rush, disaster, 1970; C. E. Coleman, at large, 1969; Mrs. Marvis Southward, representative of volunteers, 1969; Mrs. Nolan Grady, nursing services, 1968; Mrs. Jim Monroe,

Garden Club Looks Far Into Future Activity

Future events in Hereford Garden Club, as far away as the district and state club conventions next spring, were tentatively planned in a called meeting Friday afternoon at the Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Company.

Hereford will be the scene of the annual convention of District 1, Texas Garden Clubs Inc. on Feb. 29 and March 1, with Hereford Garden Club and Bud to Blossom Club as hostesses.

Initial plans for that event are being framed this summer.

A bus will be chartered to take all the club members who can go to the state convention March 25-29 at Corpus Christi, it was definitely decided. This excursion, combining a vacation trip to the Texas coast with attendance at the convention, will highlight the 1967-68 season for the local club.

December was chosen as the time for the annual club flower show, with Magic of Christmas as the theme. Mrs. A. L. Manjeot is general chairman for the show. Place and exact dates are to be determined soon.

Plans were also made to decorate for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet next winter.

To fill an office vacancy, Mrs. James A. Brown was elected club parliamentarian for the coming year.

Reports were made on several recent activities of members. Mrs. R. L. Ethridge, chairman, said ten members worked for three hours on a club project, decoration of LaPlata Junior High gym for the high school baccalaureate service in May.

Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr., Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr. and Mrs. Manjeot, national flower show judges in the club, attended a workshop for national judges in Amarillo June 13.

The next day, Mrs. Lee Coll of Lubbock, District I governor, conducted a workshop for club officers and chairmen. Those going from the Hereford club were Mrs. Ray Johnson, president; Mrs. Ben Childers, yearbook chairman, and Mrs. Manjeot, awards chairman.

The new city maps are now available at the Chamber of Commerce office. The maps have just come off the presses at Southwest Offset and appear to be far superior to any we have had in the past.

The two local banks — The First National and The Hereford State — picked up the tab for the printing, so the Chamber of Commerce came out real well on that one. The maps incidentally, will be free for the asking.

Retired Preacher Talks America

The Kiwanis Club of Hereford again had a humorous entertainment with a serious note as Leon Hill, retired Baptist minister from Amarillo, spoke to the club about America, what it means and what things should be done to keep the American heritage strong, during the club's weekly noon luncheon meeting Thursday.

kidding over the new maps however. It seems that one street, Cooper Street, was omitted from the map.
Certainly one would think that Neil would have been most careful to see that Cooper Street appeared on the map, but a quick check of the location of this street probably explains the whole thing.
It is located behind the new Safeway Super Market.

And then there's the story about the two fishermen who were lying about their catches. "And what was your haul, you caught anything worth men-meeting, Dean Herring, president of the club, announced that August 10 will be Ladies Night along with recognition of all the past presidents of the club.

The event will be held at the Hereford Country Club.

tioning?"
"No," said Bill. "The only one I caught was too small to take home so I got a couple of fellows to help me throw it back in."

You can look for another hue and cry concerning lake pollution soon. Buffalo wallow on the Tierra Blanca is suffering from another fish kill incident, and the finger will probably be pointing upstream.

However, a quick check around Hereford indicates that our problem here is well under control.
Feed yard and packing plant pollution control pits were in good shape and had not spilled over into the creek. These industries have spent thousands of dollars to control a situation that could become a problem in future years. We believe they have done an excellent job with it.

Unfortunately, Buffalo Lake is little more than a bog wallow and it's not surprising that fish can't live in it. It has been years since the lake has run over the spillway. And it may be many more years before it does.

It's going to take lots of rainfall on the watershed before it rises substantially, and we're wondering if it will ever again go over the top. To begin with, more land is now under cultivation than ever before and the farmers of this area are doing a better job of farming. They don't let much rain water get off their property. Return water systems are being built all over the county to control runoff irrigation water and this also serves the dual purpose of holding rain water on the land.
Dryland farmers have learned to hold all the moisture possible too. They've had too. It's a matter of survival in the dryland areas.

There are a few low water dams along the creek also. These hold back a little water that would otherwise find its way to the lake.
All these things combined mean problems for the lake.

Perhaps we're wrong, but it would appear that Buffalo's problems are just beginning.

Breezy Outdoors

By LYNN BRISSENDINE

"We have a serious problem here at the lake." These were the opening words of Gordon Hansen, of the Department of Fisheries at the Press Conference Thursday morning.

A problem is the word "problem" suitable for the conditions of Buffalo Lake?

Many people might think it is due to poor management. Mr. Hansen has not been there long in his post at the Lake, but while he has, the Lake has seen more improvement in the last year than it did in the ten years before. I think Mr. Hansen and his group have done a great job.

But the main problem remains the same. Carp, a rough fish that most people consider fit for nothing, have nearly overtaken the Lake.

Buffalo Lake is a virtual heaven for Carp, according to Jack Crabtree, biologist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The Lake has a very shallow area that recedes and rises. This part of the Lake or shore has a heavy growth of weeds. So when the lake rises they are covered with shallow water. Making a perfect place for carp to spawn. Carp help make the lake suitable for their kind — this usually gives the lake a muddy appearance. Carp can live on less oxygen than a game fish and the mud cuts down the oxygen so this is one problem.

The primary objective of Buffalo is the wintering of thousands of waterfowl. Waterfowl eat mainly underwater vegetation. This vegetation growth is curtailed by the mud, or to put it more directly to the carp which is the 2nd problem. These fish which are doing the damage reproduce very quickly; and in great numbers. Some female carp can carry up to 1,000,000 eggs while the average is around 300,000. The gestation period is not for long, lasting about a couple of days.

Maybe you are wondering just how bad these carp have infested the lake. According to seine samples October 27, 1966 by weight 90.17% undesirable fish, 9.83% desirable fish. By count 17 1/2% desirable fish and 82 1/2% undesirable fish.

May 10, 1967 by weight 95.17% undesirable and 4.83% desirable. By count 90.87% undesirable, 9.13% desirable.

As you can tell the figures are completely lopsided.

Now what are they doing to correct this condition? Everything that is possible on an almost impossible task.

Poisoning Fintrol-5 a new highly selective poison mainly affecting carp has been experimentally used — it seems to have done the job. It also kills the eggs which is even better than killing the already existing fish. Along with the good though, comes the bad. The chemical cost is very high.

The other poison is called Rotinon but it is not selective like Fintrol-5 it will kill all fish.

Rotinon is a brown powder made from the roots of a South American plant. To spread or apply this chemical the Texas Parks and Wildlife engineered a special sprayer boat.

Since Rotinon is dry it is mixed with water in the right solution and sprayed out like a huge sprinkler or spray airplane. The reason for the boat was for easier application and also for the health of the crew.

Predator fish have also been introduced into the lake for two reasons as a control and as a game fish.

Northern Pike and Walleyed Pike have been introduced for game fish but also as a control of carp.

They are very ferocious fish. And the carp are easy prey since they are slower. 100,000 Northern Pike were stocked in May. None have been seen since. These fish are fingerlings though and chances of survival are pretty slim. Some larger fish are going to be transplanted from Greenbelt Lake.

Other fish that have been stocked in the lake recently amount to a large number.

In September of 1966, 50,000 Bass were transplanted from Old Amarillo City Lake to Buffalo.

Two weeks ago 50 Flathead or yellow catfish were stocked. These were breeding stocks from one of the hatcheries down state. Four of these catfish weighed from 3 to 5 pounds.

These have pushed an increase in fishing with some nice Crappie over a pound being taken.

So only time will tell whether trying to bring up the game fish and selectively killing Carp, or completely kill all fish, and try restocking? Maybe pollution will do the job for them.

Finally, is Buffalo Lake even worth the trouble?

This year alone since January 1st 325,000 people have been to Buffalo. All types of recreation has increased, mainly the fishing there.

I remember last year when the $1.00 permit was started, everyone hollering that their dad's paid for that Lake (in taxes) and now it's ours. And no one had the right to charge them for it again.

I wonder if these people will stick by Buffalo again. Mr. Hansen and his staff are, and they deserve a hand.

A. M. (Dusty) Taylor from down at Burson Lakes Resort writes us that Channel Cat are biting waterdogs, bass are biting lures and waterdogs, and brim are striking worms.

I wish to express my thanks to Mr. Taylor for his letter. GOOD FISHING!!!

H.D. CHATTER County Program Recognized

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has issued the annual report. We learned these facts: The economy of 215 counties out of Texas' 254 is based primarily on agriculture. There are 187 counties which have home economics programs. Consumers participating in these programs totaled 31,831.

DEAF SMITH'S HOME economics program was given some recognition. It was related to the Clothing Workshop that was held last summer.

The statement in the annual report follows: "One hundred and fifteen homemakers registered for the clothing short-course, 'You Develop Poise. By Being Well Dressed,' held in Hereford. Through a series of seven meetings, women became better informed buyers in fabrics and ready-made garments. They also developed poise by being dressed appropriately through the study of the design elements, line and color.

"Information on care of family clothing was also given. Ninety-seven percent of the women attending reported they received new facts and ideas that would help them to be better consumers. Eighty-six percent said that previous opinions had been changed and 30 women requested a course on making tailored garments."

Those of you who worked on the shortcourse should take a bow for some work well done.

IT IS SO NICE to learn that local people are taking YEP seriously. YEP could be one of the best programs our citizens support.

THE ROLL OF THE SEA, the echo of the mountain, the whisper of the balmy breeze all told the tale of July Picnic Month. A picnic in your own yard, some neighbors' yard or other picnic area gives fun to summertime living.

When nature calls you to the great outdoors, be prepared for that favorite American summer pastime — picnicking. It is a good idea to keep a few supplies on hand for that impulsive excursion. But before you lay in store these picnic makings, the U. S. Department of Agriculture cautions you to be informed on the causes and prevention of food poisoning.

The best way to prevent infectious bacteria from growing is to keep foods either hot (above 120 degrees) or cold (below 50 degrees). Of course, this is not always possible, but when perishables are part of the picnic festivities, a cooler is an absolute necessity.

THE MAJOR CAUSE of poisoning bacteria is the uninformal or careless food handler. Open cuts, sores, or boils can contaminate both the food and the equipment you are using. Dangerous microorganisms can also be carried by flies, cats, dogs, rodents and unclean utensils.

It is a good idea to leave the salad dressings or mayonnaise out of such picnic favorites as potato salad and cole slaw until you are ready to eat. Foods with mayonnaise or salad dressing are particularly susceptible to food poisoning bacteria. If a pre-mixed salad must be taken, store and carry it in small containers rather than in a large one.

Never carry hot foods, such as fried chicken, baked beans, macaroni and cheese, or casseroles, unless they are packed in an insulated container — or are thoroughly chilled first, refrigerated, and then reheated at the picnic.

IF YOU DON'T WANT to carry a cooler, plan your picnic meal around fool-proof foods such as bread, cheese, hard cooked eggs, fresh fruit, etc.

For the meat item choose any canned meat or poultry product that you can carry in the can.

Be careful of leftovers, cream sauces and other foods which are not reheated to the boiling point — they are potential sources of food poisoning. Another thing to be aware of is that foods which have been handled a lot, such as salads, sandwich fillings and casseroles, are more susceptible to food poisoning bacteria than are many other foods.

If it is not possible to take canned meats, raw meat can be taken to be cooked at a picnic if it is carefully wrapped and chilled. It would be a good idea to freeze the meats before, hand to insure they'll stay cold and keep the temperature of the cooler low.

REMEMBER, TOO, that meat and poultry inspectors of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service are your "behind-the-scenes" partners in the protective chain. In a few instances, the food itself may be contaminated before it reaches you as a result of uninspected and unhealthy animals or food handlers, under processing, contaminated equipment or back of proper storage.

This is why it is so important to buy meat and poultry products which you know have been adequately inspected. Meat and poultry products stamped with the official USDA inspection mark assure you that the products you buy came from healthy animals and birds, was processed under sanitary conditions, and is honestly labeled and packaged.

Now, it's up to you to protect your family and enjoy that picnic.

THE WEEK OF JUNE 26 will be spent in Dallas attending the 58th annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association. As a voting delegate, I have to go a day early. I vote with the Texas delegation and on Sunday we will study in detail the proposed changes in the constitution. This next week will be busy with speeches, business and exhibits. All meetings and exhibits will be in the Dallas Memorial Auditorium.

Annual Dress Revue Is Stated

Annual Dress Revue of county 4-H Clubs, in which girls model costumes they have planned and made, is scheduled Thursday, when winners will be picked to represent this county in the district revue July 11 at Amarillo.

The style show in which entrants will parade their costumes for the public, is to begin at 8:30 p. m. in Sugarland Mall. Judging will have been done previously, starting at 9:30 a. m. in Community Center, and the winners will be announced

4-Hers Charm School Precedes Dress Revue

4-H girls set to model their creations in the annual Dress Revue will have a chance to work on poise and modeling technique in a "charm school" tomorrow and Tuesday.

The program will get underway at 3 p. m. when "It's A Frame Up" will open the events. Joyce Duggan and Rose Brownlow will be in charge of this first part of the program.

Wanda, Margie and Joan Paetzold will speak to juniors on "A Show of Hands," while senior girls get "The Undercover Story" from Mrs. Bess Moore. Mrs. Juston McBride will instruct the girls in modeling at 4.

Connie Brazzil, Randall County 4-H member, will talk on "Lines and Colors Suitable for You" at 3 p. m. Tuesday. Kay Atchley will then talk to junior girls about accessories; Max Leon will talk to senior girls about hosiery.

Mrs. McBride, a former professional fashion model, and Colleen Sanders are co-chairmen of with Patricia Herr and Mary Anne Vance on the committee.

at the style show. First place winner in the senior division will compete for district honors and a trip to the state contest. The junior winner will show her costume at the district meet, but there is no junior competition at that level.

Arrangements for the annual event are being made by a committee of 4-H Club girls including Colleen Sanders, Kay Atchley, Dorothy Marnell and Patricia Herr, with Mrs. Floyd Rita Huckert, assistant County Home Demonstration Agent, as consultant.

Miss Marnell and Mrs. F. A. Marnell are co-chairmen of the style show committee. Other members are Pam Winget, Kay Atchley, Carole Clearman and Mrs. Elmer Woodward.

Judging will be on the basis of garment construction, selection of material, design and accessories, modeling and on entrants' records in Club work with clothing.

WALDO JENNINGS

Watching All The Cars--

By Larry Fuhrmann
Staff Writer

Sitting on the corner — watching all the cars go by — at the rate of 300 a hour. Waldo Jennings, King's Manor resident, can daily be seen at his own spot in the shade of the parking garage, keeping tabs on the passing population as moves up and down U.S. Hwy. 385. Vehicles move into the city at a rate of five to six hundred every two hours, according to cumulative figures Jennings has compiled.

Jennings, who came to Texas at the age of 12 in 1909, has been a resident of the Hereford area since 1916, when he arrived here from Dimmitt (where he attended school) and Castro County. He has been associated with farming almost all his life, working for several farmers throughout the area.

Counting traffic is simply a pastime for Jennings; he has not done statistics work for the highway department, but simply does it "for his own relaxation." He goes out an hour every morning and then spends another hour at his hobby in the afternoon. He reflectively says there's a little more traffic along the major artery since the early days when he traveled it as a dirt road.

Jennings has been counting the cars now for three years and eight months, ever since he moved to the Manor. The hobby gives him his exercise — he doesn't always take his work sitting down.

Rebels Drop 2nd Game Of Season

The Plainview Astros edged the Hereford Rebels 8 to 6 in a game played at Plainview Sunday afternoon. This was the Rebels second loss against 3 wins.

The Rebels opened the first inning by scoring 2 runs. Plainview came back and took advantage of two errors by the Rebels to score four runs in the bottom of the first. Hits by Plainview's Benny Smith and Joe Rod accounted for 2 more runs in the 3rd inning. The Rebels jumped right back in the fourth inning and scored 3 runs on singles by P. Montelongo, Savino Suarez, Longo Cuellar, and a triple by Terry Hill. Hill tripled with the bases loaded. Plainview scored two more runs in the sixth to lead 8 to 5. Terry Hill's double and Robby Lemons triple gave the Rebels their 6th run in the top of the ninth. The final outcome of the game was Plainview 8 and Hereford 6.

P. Montelongo was the losing pitcher for Hereford. Montelongo pitched all nine innings for the Rebels.

Daniel Gregora was the winning pitcher for the Plainview Astros. Daniel was relieved in the fourth inning by Leo Baldarius.

Savino Suarez was the leading hitter for the Rebels with 3 hits for 4 times at bat. Nacho Gonzales, Terry Hill, and Robby Lemons each had two hits.

The Rebels will host a double header this coming Sunday. The first game will start at 1:00 p. m. against the Muleshoe-Lobos. In the 2nd game the Rebels will go against the Plainview Astros. The Rebels will play at Whiteface Baseball field.

The Rebels are sponsored by men from the St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Hark! In The City Of Austin...

By LARRY FUHRMANN
I see that Grampy Bird had a word for son-in-law Pat, in reference to Pat's labeling his son an elephant. It appears that Lyndon didn't want any Republican tags on a grandchild of his.

I would like to hear what Grandpa Nugent would have to say on the subject... if I recall correctly, he's a Republican. And Grampy Bird might be reminded that the little one's name is NUGENT, not Johnson.

University students in Austin get a kick out of the Johnson family; the two daughters of the President have shown worlds of patience in putting up with the antics of admirers and critics alike.

Lynda, sharp as a tack but lacking as far as good looks are concerned, had to take more than her share of insults while she studied at the university. Granted, her pictures didn't do her any good; but anybody who even stands in her presence very long realizes that she has a lot going for her. And she's not homely, contrary to popular (?) opinion.

Luci, on the other hand, was the swinger. But she never took a fling at the university, so she avoided the hometown gossips — for awhile at least. She's got her man, so not a whole lot is said.

And the newest adult member of the house party in Austin, Patrick Nugent, catches his share of the mud from all sides.

He was recently elected a bank director in the capital city, while still in his tender young twenties. Some folks seem to

Red Cross Needs Told For Vietnam

Needs for the year ahead, and plans for meeting them, in the Combined Service Territory of the Red Cross which covers the Texas Panhandle-Plains area were discussed at a planning meeting on the campus of Wayland College at Plainview.

Mrs. Bruce Miller, volunteer consultant in administration and organization; Genevieve Miller, executive secretary of the Deaf Smith Chapter, Mrs. Archie Love and Mrs. Nolan Grady went from Hereford and took part in the planning session.

Increased demands for Red Cross service as a result of war in Viet Nam, and the scope of volunteer services in county chapters, were among matters emphasized in the talks.

think that's moving up in the business world a mite fast. Maybe they just don't appreciate his kind of talent.

Services Held In Dallas For Former Editor

Funeral services for Hugh DeWittz Landis were held Friday afternoon in Dallas. Mr. Landis, a prominent Texas and New Mexico broadcaster was editor of the Hereford Brand in the mid-30's. Mr. Landis had been a staff writer on the Amarillo Globe News and came to Hereford to be an assistant to Mrs. Seth Holman, owner and editor of The Hereford Brand after Mr. Holman's death.

He became editor in January, 1934 and was succeeded by Earnest Hayley.

Moms Bat 1000 As Backers For Little Leaguers

MOTHERS OF PLAYERS operate concession stands at the Little League Park and perform other services in their organization, which includes representatives from Pee Wee, Minor and Major teams. A chairman from each group of team mothers works with the Little League Mothers' officers and the purchasing agents as leaders in the organization.

AT HOME PLATE position, topping the baseball diamond on this page, are the co-chairmen, Mrs. Lloyd Crume, left, and Mrs. Clinton Ward, checking a list of players before the game. Uniformed players in the background are early arrivals for pre-game warmup.

LITTLE LEAGUE SEASON is a family affair, and activity in scores of Hereford homes is geared to the schedule of games. Not only boys who make up the teams, but their mothers who are organized to back the program, their fathers who serve as coaches and umpires, their sisters and brothers who fill the cheering sections, are vital parts of the Little League.

FIRST BASE SPOT on the page is occupied by Mrs. Ed Line, secretary of the Little League Mothers, getting instruction from her son, Lee, as to the proper method of gripping the bat.

SAFE ON SECOND BASE, three of the team chairmen cheer a runner while the Little Leaguers near them take an opposite view of the play. From left are Mrs. Robert Rhoton, Pee Wee league, Mrs. John Burns, Majors, and Mrs. Joe Frank Clark, Minors.

Failure To Yield Causes Accident

An attempt to make a left turn onto Park Ave. from U. S. Highway 385 failed Saturday afternoon as the vehicle which was attempting to turn ran into the path of an oncoming car.

The vehicles, a 1961 sedan driven by Robert D. Holmes, 201 Ross, and a 1964 pickup, driven by Lucretia L. Johnson of Star Rt., were the two involved with damages totaling some $350 of which $200 were incurred by the Holmes auto.

A citation for failure to yield right of way to a vehicle was issued at the scene of the accident.

Breaking the summer doldrums familiar to study clubs, Middle Mia Club members were entertained with a coffee Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. W. E. Sparks, social committee chairman.

Exchange of gifts by club "secret pals" was a feature of the informal party.

Mrs. John Cranford and Mrs. Lynton Allred, members with Mrs. Owen of the committee headed by Mrs. Sparks, were also in the hostess group.

Material Here For Red Cross Gift Project

Material for making several hundred "ditty bags" to hold small items for the comfort of men in military service in Viet Nam, has arrived and work on the bags will begin immediately.

Officers of the Volunteers were re-elected for another year in addition to Mrs. Southward, they are Mrs. Betty Davis, vice chairman, and Mrs. A. Petersen, secretary.

Auxiliary Plans To Hear Bells Rung On July 4

Attendance at the annual July 4 Bell Ringing ceremony here was planned by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars at a Thursday evening meeting at the Post Home.

A report of a recent rummage sale was given by Mrs. Wayne Driskill. Mrs. A. J. Ralston announced that the Auxiliary will act as hostess for a party at the Amarillo Veterans Hospital July 7.

The kindergarten lad rushed home from school and insisted his mother buy him a set of pistols, holsters and gun belt. "Whatever for, dear?" his mother asked. "You surely wouldn't need anything like that for school."

There is probably no one who has been "independent" before the American independence. It has been misused, over-worked, and misapplied into our shopping list until it has lost its meaning. Its most often introduced into the little All-American war zone is without our knowledge. It is a word which most of us associate with the "independent" with the "independent" the largest supermarkets are very often the "independent" supermarkets owned by individuals or families or partnerships operating in more stores in a relatively Father Raymond, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Attilio A. Avidano, of 33-36 103rd Street, Corona, will have a brief vacation at home before receiving his assignment.

Father Raymond will celebrate a Concelebrated Mass on Sunday, July 2, in his home parish of Our Lady of Sorrows, Corona at 12:15 p. m.

Other concelebrants of the Mass will be: Very Rev. Owen Murphy, S. A. newly-elected Definitor General of Graymoor; the Rev. Jude Taran, S. A., the Rev. Barry Lonergan, S. A., and the Rev. Armand Ribero, S. A.

The Masters of Ceremonies for the Mass will be Brother William J. Martyn, S. A., and Brother Cyrian Marchese, S. A. Father Owen Murphy, S. A., will deliver the sermon.

Born in New York City on August 12, 1938, Father Raymond attended Our Lady of Sorrows parochial school and Flushing High School. He entered Graymoor to begin studies for the priesthood. Father Raymond served in the United States Naval Reserve.

After entering Graymoor in 1957, Father Raymond was educated at Graymoor seminaries and took his theology studies at Catholic University. As part of his seminary training Father Raymond worked at the Graymoor mission in Hereford, Texas for three summers.

The Graymoor Friars were founded by Father Paul James Francis, S. A., while a member of the Anglican Church in 1898. In 1909 he led his Friars and Sisters of the Atonement into the Catholic Church and was ordained the following year. He continued to direct the worldwide activities of the Graymoor Friars until his death in 1940.

The principal work of the Graymoor Friars is Christian Unity. They promote this apostolate through the Unity Oration each year from January 1-25; the League of Prayer for Unity; the publication of the Lamp magazine; Unitas, and other literature.

TEC Continues Hunt For Work For Area Youth

Numbers of young jobseekers in the Hereford area are still unemployed, according to Texas Employment Commission Manager Lester Rape. "We have had 25 young people under 22 register since Friday," he said, pointing out that his office had only been able to place 19 of them.

Employers who have work that can be done by young people may call the TEC office at 364-2778 in order to list job opportunities.

"We have youth applicants who will take part-time and short-term jobs, and we hope that employers, ranchers, farmers, housewives and anyone else who has a job for youth will call us," Rape exclaimed.

The week June 18-June 25 had been designated as Youth Employment Week by Mayor Ray Cowsett. Slogan for the employment campaign has been "Say yep to youth."

A benefit of summer work, says Hereford School Board President Hugh Clearman, is the money it puts into the pocket of a young person who needs it to continue his education. Drop-out studies, Clearman points up, have shown that any disadvantaged youth feel ill-at-ease in a school environment in which money for lunches, notebooks, workbooks, and other costs incidental to school are taken for granted.

Many pre-convention volunteer workers for the "Disciple-making" convention of Jehovah's Witnesses at the Tri-State Coliseum in Amarillo, June 29 to July 2, will associate with the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses during their regular weekly meetings.

Donald W. Emshoff will be visiting Hereford this Friday evening and will report on the assembly progress to the congregation here in addition to his work for the coming convention in Amarillo.

Emshoff is circuit supervisor in the Denver, Colorado area and has 22 years experience in the ministerial activity of Jehovah's Witnesses under their legal corporation the Watchtower Society of New York.

Thursday, June 29, at 8:00 p. m., Emshoff will appear in the Tri-State Coliseum when he conducts a dramatization, "Shedding the Divine Requirement of Obedience." All meetings are free. The public is welcome.

Cynthia Hanna Is Named To Health Group

Cynthia Carol Hanna of Hereford a citizen of the American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls State, now in progress in Austin, at the Texas School for the Blind, was a member of Dept. Mental Health & Retardation. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hanna and was sponsored to Girls State (by) the local American Legion Auxiliary Unit 192.

Girls State was organized as a national Americanism activity in 1937 by the American Legion Auxiliary. Non-partisan and non-political the purpose of the Girls State program is to provide citizenship training for girls of high school age, to afford them an opportunity to live together as a self-governing group and to inform them of the duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities which they will assume when they become adults. They learn the problems of government by performing the same duties as real office holders in the everyday world. Citizens are selected at local levels principally on a basis of character and leadership from students who have just completed their junior year in high school each year.

The 1967 Session of the American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls State has grown from an experimental conference of 94 girls, held at Baylor University in 1941 to become the largest single extracurricular educational program for high school girls in Texas. This year, 400 girls are in attendance, plus two from Mexico City, making a total of more than 7,800 girls in Texas who have participated in this top-level citizenship program.

Former citizens of Girls State and members of the Texas American Legion Auxiliary comprise the 60 members of the staff and counselors who volunteer their services to direct and lead this program. The Director is Miss Frances Goff of Houston who is Director of Special Projects for The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston. The Associate Director is Mrs. T. J. Manning of Houston, Counselor of the Clear Cree High School in League City. The Assistant Director for Education is Miss Virginia Kennedy of El Paso who is completing her Ph.D. in Political Science at Vanderbilt University Nashville Tennessee. Chairman of the Auxiliary Girls State Committee is Mrs. J. B. Martin of Trinity, Texas.

Associate Justice Meade Griffin of the Texas Supreme Court will administer the oath of office to the various elected state officials of Bluebonnet Girls State Monday, June 19, in the Rotunda of the State Capitol. Climaxing the session which began June 14 and ends June 23 will be the selection of two outstanding citizens of 1967 who will be sent to Girls Nation in Washington, D. C. by the American Legion Auxiliary where the two young representatives will continue their study in responsibilities of the Republic.

ROBINSON HONORED
J. W. Robinson, Southland Life Insurance Company, was honored June 12th, 13th, and 14th, as one of his company's outstanding representatives at a special meeting in Acapulco, Mexico. After the meeting in Acapulco, Mr. Robinson joined the rest of Southland Life's field force at the company convention in Mexico City. The convention was held from June 15th through June 19th.

CUB SCOUTS
Keith R. Schroyer
Since its organization during the winter of 1965, Cub Scout Pack 153 has played an important part in the program carried on under the Hereford Migrant Ministry at the Labor Camp. Plans for the Pack were made when Louis Machuca, Scout Executive for the Terra Blanca district, suggested to Eunice Vasquez, resident employee of the Hereford Migrant Ministry, that a Cub Scout Pack be started at the Labor Camp. They then set themselves to the task of signing up interested boys. The response was good and the Migrant Ministry was then granted a Pack Charter with Virgil Dodson, Chairman of the Board of the Migrant Ministry, serving as the Cub Scout Committee Chairman. Miss Vasquez served as the Packs den mother and Frank Ford Jr. as its Scout Master. Miss Vasquez and Ford were aided in their efforts from time to time by Charles Galan and Gilbert Alaniz. During these early months the Casa de Amigos was used as the Cub's meeting place.

Since the VISTAS lived in the Labor Camp they had the advantages of closer contact with the Cubs. As a result the new program included many activities which were not possible before this time. The most popular of these were the four camp outs to Veterans Park on which the Cubs slept in tents and cooked their meals over an open fire. The year was highlighted by participation in the annual November Scout-a-rama for which the Pack was awarded a ribbon. In another project the Cubs visited the major buildings of the city and then drew a map showing the major streets and buildings. In this way the Cubs became more familiar with the town in which they lived. Trips to the Fire Station, the Hereford Brand offices, picnics and crafts rounded out the program.

In September 1966, Denise Waltman, the first of the present VISTAS to come to Hereford, arrived and took over the Cubs as Joe, Wanda and Ellen had completed their terms of service with VISTA. Denise began the improvement of the newly acquired meeting place. Through the suggestion of Ed Dziuk Sr., the Hereford Housing Project donated the use of an apartment in one of the barracks. The bare wood framework of the room urged improvement. This was accomplished through the use of large refrigerator carton acquired from Sears Roebuck and Co. The cartons were mailed to the wood framework and then painted Cub Scout blue. When this as well as other improvements were completed, the room had an appearance remarkably suited to the purpose for which it was destined.

Next week: Cub Scouts, Part Two

The first meeting attracted 12 boys and during the ensuing months, they took part in various activities. They learned the meaning and the purposes of Scouting and what was expected of them as Scouts.

The program included instruction in working with their hands. Kites and birdhouses became prized and much displayed possessions. Knot tying was also taught as were other crafts.

The Pack successfully operated under this arrangement until September, 1965, when the first VISTAS arrived at the Labor Camp. With their arrival, Joe Parker took over the duties of Scout Master, while Wanda Nelson and Ellen Pinnell served with Miss Vasquez as Den Mothers. Through extensive recruitment, Joe increased the membership to twenty, making it necessary to divide the Pack into two Dens.

Hopeful News In Medicine

GENETIC counseling is a new idea which soon will be written and spoken about with greater frequency.

Vast amounts of information is now accumulating about genes, chromosomes and heredity. It is hoped that by the study of the genes, possibly before marriage, some people may be guided against the possibility of passing on to their children birth abnormalities and serious chronic disorders.

At the Duke University School of Medicine, Dr. Alexander Spock found a special protein in the blood of a child with cystic fibrosis. The same protein was found in the child's parents.

Out of this finding came the thought that there might be a way to tag and identify cystic fibrosis carriers. If this is definitely known, marriage and general counseling might spare many heartbreaks of inherited conditions both for the child and for the parents.

Research scientists everywhere are working on many phases of medicine that may eventually further such counseling programs.

It is hoped that well-known hereditary diseases like asthma, Burger's disease, diabetes and others may be prevented by a greater knowledge of the parents' "carrier" potential.

It is the eventual prime aim that genetic counseling will be the very first step in true preventive medicine.

Legion Redbirds Awarded Contested Baseball Game

Hereford's American Legion Redbirds were awarded the game which they had earlier played Tascosa of Amarillo. Tascosa Coaches had protested some ball player maneuvering by the Hereford coaches.

The game had been previously ordered to be replayed next month by Cliff Roberts, baseball chairman of the American Legion of Texas, but after an appeal by Jack Waggoner, coach of the local team, and Benny Womble, manager, he decided to award the game to Hereford as the Redbirds had beaten the Amarillo team by a score of 7-6. His decision was phoned to the Hereford coaches Friday morning.

The protest which had been filed by the Amarillo team coach stated that the local team

Clark. Favorite ideas were exchanged and problems discussed. Others attending were Mrs. Herbert Bruns, Marvin Welty, Jim Brooks, Laura Littrell, Henry Andrews, Owen Andrews, Miss Alma Andrews and a visitor, Mrs. Glen Springer. The only other scheduled summer meeting is planned for July 11 with Mrs. Dee Taylor as hostess. Meetings will be resumed twice monthly beginning in September.

had used ineligible players during the game which was played June 9 at Thompson Park in Amarillo.

It was further stated that the protested action took place in the top of the seventh inning as Waggoner pinch hit Bobby Burwick for Sheldon White, the starting right fielder. Burwick Betts was put in to run for Scott. When Hereford retook the field in the bottom of the seventh inning, Waggoner put White and Petree back in the field where they finished the game.

Before any of this action had occurred, Coach Waggoner had conferred with the umpires and also the opposing team's managers. They all agreed to his ball playing and thus it was obvious that he did not try to deceive anyone with his action, the Hereford manager pointed out.

The protest was filed after the game had ended and that is illegal, as a protest must be filed immediately after the protested action takes place and before the next pitched ball is thrown.

The Redbirds came in the top of the seventh inning trailing by a 6-5 score. A run was scored, tying the game and forcing it into extra innings. In the eighth inning, Hereford again tallied another run and emerged as the winner.

Hereford will meet the same Tascosa team here on July 1 at Whiteface Field at 5:00 p. m.

PLAY ABOUT GANDHI
NEW YORK — A drama about the career of India's famous leader Mahatma Gandhi is to be produced and directed on Broadway next season by Otto Preminger.

If the play remains in its present form an intermission for dinner may be needed. Mrs. Gurney Campbell, the author, said the study divides into two main sections, each longer than a conventional drama.

Joe Namath passed for 19 touchdowns with the New York Jets last season.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN Women's Editor

When she answered her telephone Wednesday, Viola Williams said "Gir — uh — hello!" SHE EXPLAINED that she had almost said "Giristown," because that was the way she had been answering telephones for a couple of weeks. She had just returned home after a period of "holding down" the manager's office at the girls' residence home in Whiteface while that official was on vacation.

Knowing the dynamic little Hereford woman's enthusiasm for Giristown, and the many hours of work she has given over the years to promoting the cause of the home and personally aiding it and its residents, it isn't hard to understand why Viola was chosen for the job. Through many visits to Giristown, Viola had become well acquainted with the girls and staff members; as a board representative in this county, she was familiar with general policy and operation of the home, so she was prepared to take on the job when she was asked to serve while the manager and his wife took a vacation.

She and the sixty-some-odd girls living in the home "had lots of fun" during her tenure as substitute manager, she says, and I'm just waiting for an opportunity to talk with her at leisure to learn more details about her experience.

BEST PIECE OF NEWS I've heard lately: Definite plans for a Community Concert Association in Hereford, off to a good start with an able set of officers and directors, a couple of programs with audience appeal already lined up for the first season, and plenty of enthusiasm shown at the organization luncheon.

Such an organization to bring good music to Hereford will remedy a lack that has been felt by many residents.

Although we are in reach of concerts at Canyon and Amarillo, even Lubbock, the city still needs its own and has grown to the size that practically demands the programs.

Any doubt that support would be lacking, vanished at the luncheon Tuesday, where the turnout was about twice the expected.

IT REPRESENTED various segments of music interest — school and church music directors, music club leaders, amateur and professional musicians, students and teachers, just plain music lovers and that basic group, businessmen who may not care too much for any type of music themselves, but recognize its value to the community.

There is a practical dollar-and-cents value besides the cultural bonus. Membership holders will include residents of nearby cities whose visits to Hereford for concerts will be welcomed, and the fact that this city supports such a concert series will be one of the factors considered by industrial firms invited to locate here.

Discussion at the luncheon included frank facing of the fact that a similar series was conducted for several years in Hereford and was discontinued about a dozen years ago for lack of popular support.

A COUNTER-FACT is that population has more than doubled since then. Also, lessons learned then in booking the programs, should enable the present organization to avoid mistakes which some members of the former association feel were made.

Prospects are bright for the new association and there is plenty of time before the annual membership campaign in September for everybody to save up his pennies for the membership fee — this means people like me who don't know much about music technically, but know what they like, as well as the musical experts.

Now, somebody remarked, as the next step in the campaign for good music in Hereford, how about an annual program, well planned and promoted, of top-notch music by the best musicians we have in our community? Not as a substitute, but an addition to the concerts by visiting artists. That's something for the Fine Arts Council to consider.

Shoppers Realize What Hereford Has To Offer

Visiting newspaper people from time to time drop into The Brand, generally with an idea of looking over the town.

Like other visitors, these folks are always impressed with Downtown Variety Park, Sugarland Mall and other developments which the area boasts.

Invariably, though, they conclude their inspection with the words:

"It must be wonderful to live in a town which offers just about anything the average customer wants!"

When one ponders the statement, it makes sense; this is especially true among some of those who have resided here for several years and can remember when folks had to go out of town to buy such items as women's shoes, late style ready-to-wear, and even some lines of men's apparel. Today, Hereford not only offers a tremendous variety which pretty well equals cities several times its size, but it has such things as discount houses, credit payment plans — and excellent service. Rare indeed are the items which cannot be purchased in the community. Due to these factors it is, in fact, drawing many customers from neighboring communities and states as an ideal shopping place.

All of this is a far cry from those towns which are less fortunate and appear to be on a downgrade course. What's more, as the shopping appeal of Hereford grows, it will reach further and further. There were time when no one ever expected Hereford to reach the point it has already attained — and with the start it now has, it can only grow and expand along the line of retail sales.

Post Office Proof Of Good Planning

Hereford's new post office is a structure of which the entire community may well be proud and, after a year of wrestling bags in temporary quarters, the postal employees are probably the proudest of all.

Expansion of the post office places the community in a position to enjoy adequate postal service for the next 20 years, according to government projection. To us, it appears well planned, adequate and thoroughly usable. We especially appreciated the modern lighting equipment and excellent planning throughout the building.

The fact that the department was able to expand the existing structure, rather than start over with a new building is also a point worth considering in these days of government waste — and we doubt if a new building would have been so good as the one which we now have.

General services, which handled the remodel job, did an excellent piece of work in our opinion. As a result, we have a completely adequate, modern post office. Who could ask for more?

Volunteer Work Is Core Of City

In these days of peak salary demands, high pressure sale and payment for non-curricular activities, Hereford may be proud indeed of its community sponsored Little League, Pony League and American Legion baseball organizations.

These programs represent the truly old-fashioned American ideals upon which our civilization was nourished to later flourish into its present state. What's more, they are of fundamental Christian concept, based solely upon an interest in helping one's fellowman.

From the mothers who operate food booths, the coaches and assistant coaches, and right on to the umpires who contribute their time and talent, these volunteers work without thought of remuneration and deny themselves untold hours of personal time, all in the hope of making our community a better place to live.

Helping keep youngsters on the right track, providing clean wholesome fun, and encouragement of physical development affords the only pay these volunteers expect.

Besides, as one of them recently put it, "we are the ones who have the most fun of all". Which brings up the old adage about too many of us not being able to see the forest because of the trees.

Now, Enforce Them

THOSE 385 congressmen who voted to make desecration of the flag a federal crime are due a vote of thanks. It was a wholesome patriotic gesture, and we use "gesture" here in light of what has transpired in recent months.

There are already laws on the books in all 50 states against defiling the Stars and Stripes. One possible reason that flag-burning hasn't caught on in Texas is that this state prescribes the toughest penalty — up to 25 years in prison for the first offense.

But just because mutilation of the flag is a crime everywhere in the nation doesn't mean the emblem hasn't been stomped and burned and torn to shreds. The law was there all along, but where was the enforcement?

This is a key question that will apply as well to the federal statute, if it is signed into law. The House bill calls for maximum penalties of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. Even though the offense of "burning" was left out through parliamentary oversight, it is a tough law. But it will solve nothing if it isn't enforced.

This is where "gesture" comes in. In those states where flag-burnings have taken place, followed by no arrests or convictions, the law is but a gesture. The hearts of those state legislatures who passed the laws were in the right place, as were the congressmen's, but lack of enforcement can make the action hollow except for its symbolism.

There are laws virtually everywhere against strikes by public employees, but that doesn't seem to keep police, subway drivers, teachers and welfare workers on the job. There were laws, too, four years ago in Birmingham, Ala., against parading without a permit. But didn't keep Martin Luther King and his crowd from marching through the streets. Irrevocably, they did it without noticeable interference from federal authorities, and only recently did the Supreme Court get around to saying that since there's nothing wrong with the Birmingham law, it ought to be obeyed.

One hopeful sign is that the House would let stand existing state and local laws against flag-burning and the like. In most labor legislation, in voting-rights legislation in particular, Congress has wiped out state laws by the book.

But the flag laws of the states will remain in any event. So will the legal machinery to enforce them. If state and local enforcement agencies have been hanging back, waiting to hear the federal viewpoint on this issue, they need hesitate no more.

The House, 385 to 15, says despoiling the national emblem is a crime. There could hardly be more emphatic endorsement of a concept contained in every state's laws. Now, on with the enforcement. And, as The News commented earlier, it's a sad commentary on our spirit — or lack of it — that we must pass statutes to enforce allegiance to a symbol and an ideal.

A 19" ANNUAL RAIN FALL — AND MOST OF IT COMES DURING BASEBALL SEASON....

Seniority In Congress Often Creates Problems

By BERT MILLS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Members of Congress yearn for the seniority which brings reward in the form of a leadership role in law-making but also brings a responsibility which may affect adversely the political career of the office holder.

A newly-elected member of the House, for example, is likely to concern himself as far as possible with pleasing the folks back home. The longer a congressman serves in Washington, however, the more stature he gains and the more national his viewpoint must become.

This is particularly true of members of the majority party, for it is the majority which is responsible for enacting a legislative program. This means that members of the majority, particularly those entrusted with a leadership role, must sometimes take positions unpopular with their constituents.

Consider the case of Rep. Arnold Olsen; a Democrat from Helena, Montana. It is his unhappy task these days to lead the fight in the House for the Administration's postal rate increase. Rep. Olsen is Chairman of the Subcommittee on Postal Rates of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Raising postal rates is an unhappy chore. The President, the Budget Director, and the Postmaster General will be pleased if Chairman Olsen succeeds in getting their $825 million-a-year bill through a reluctant House.

But few if any of his Montana voters will be pleased to pay more for postage. There are no votes in imposing higher mail charges on the public and on business mailers.

A few months hence, if Rep. Olsen succeeds in his assigned task, a five-cent letter will cost six cents. From a political standpoint, Olsen would prefer that the nickel price be retained. But he knows that only through a six-cent rate can the Post Office escape from the red.

Rep. Olsen has a special problem because he was narrowly re-elected last fall, by a margin of only about 2,000 votes. If even a small minority of his supporters become disenchanted with his performance in Washington, he faces defeat at the polls next year. He is acutely aware of that possibility.

Most subcommittee chairmen are less vulnerable than Rep. Olsen. Because the postal committee is not popular with most legislators, there is a considerable turnover in its membership. Thus Olsen rose to third-ranking seniority in just six years. On most other committees, attaining a subcommittee chairmanship takes ten years or so, by which time support in the home district is solidified.

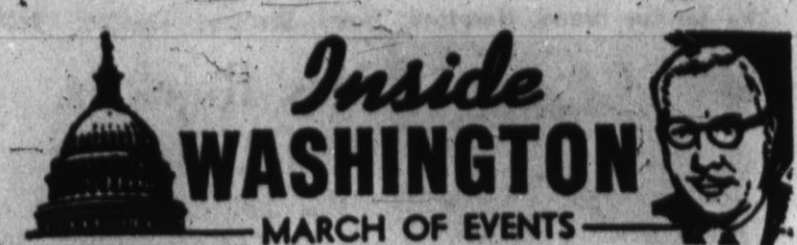

Since May 9, Chairman Olsen has been conducting hearings on postal rates, two or three mornings per week. Several more weeks will be required to complete the hearings. Then Olsen and the other seven men on the subcommittee must agree on a bill to recommend to the full committee, sell the package to their colleagues first in the postal committee and then to the House membership as a whole.

No matter what Olsen decides, there will be strong opposition from many quarters. If the Olsen bill does not raise all the money the Administration seeks, he will hear objections from downtown, possibly accompanied by threats not to aid his reelection campaign next year.

If he does raise rates all across the board, a lot of potential groups will be unhappy. Some campaign contributors of past years may decide to invest their political dollars in other areas beside the first district of

MARCH OF EVENTS

IMPROVED RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA SLOW UP | CRISIS IN THE MIDDLE EAST WIDENS GAP ONCE MORE

By HENRY CATHCART, Central Press Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Events are causing both Russia and the United States to put aside, temporarily at least, efforts of the two powers to establish a more diplomatic and commercial relationship. In fact, the new Middle East crisis and the situation in Vietnam currently are contributing to a new chilliness in the long cold war.

President Johnson and some top State Department officials began a few years ago to actively cultivate the Russians. The policy was undertaken in earnest after it was determined that the falling out between Russia and Red China was not a passing thing, but promised to be a permanent and widening gap between the two great world Communist powers.

Russia herself was interested in improving relations with the western democracies when the break with China occurred. Looking a long way ahead, Russia figured that the military might of the West could prove handy allies in the event Red China grew strong enough to attack across her western borders.

It was obvious to both Russia and the U.S. that moving closer to each other would have to be accomplished gradually over a period of time, giving the people of both nations a chance to get used to the idea that they need not always be implacable foes. Leaders of both nations believed they were making some progress along this line until early this year when a Russian effort to find a way of negotiating the Vietnamese impasse failed. Russia blamed the North Vietnamese privately, but publicly took the position that the U.S. was in the wrong.

Now newly heightened tensions between Israel and the Arab nations is further hurting the efforts at a detente. Russia supports the Arabs and has announced she will take steps to foreclose any Western "interference."

Under these conditions amicable gestures must be put on the shelf to await more fortuitous international conditions.

GOOD LISTENER—Because President Johnson is reputed to be a hard driving man and a tough boss, many people have the erroneous impression that he is also an impatient man, not prone to listen to the views of other people. Nothing could be further from the truth.

In fact President Johnson is now one of the most patient, painstaking chief executives in many years. He not only listens to all views on any given situation, he insists on receiving them.

Recently, for example, he had two of his aides stage a debate on what position the United States should take on some of the critical issues that arose in the final days of the Kennedy round tariff talks in Brussels.

Both men were followers of a free trade philosophy, but one of them had the unhappy assignment of arguing against his own basic beliefs.

No announcement about who "won."

50 YEARS AGO

The question for the width of sidewalks and streets in towns and cities has been very thoroughly studied and investigated. The general rule is to have 15-foot sidewalks and a 50-foot-traffic way in the business districts. One the resident district a 30-foot drive way is thought sufficient and has been quite satisfactory. This leaves ample space between the curb and the sidewalk for trees and lawn. This wide parking on both sides of the drive adds comfort and beauty to the driver.

In keeping with the usual enterprise of the firm, E. B. Black Company, for many years in the furniture and undertaking business in Hereford, has added a new undertaking parlor and morgue for their business establishment. Substantially constructed of spotted pressed brick, finished to tasteful architectural manner, the frontage on Second Street having a handsome awning and approach, this addition is well worth the attention of all property owners in Hereford. The parlor and chapel, as is also the interior, is beautifully finished in plaster tints, with alabaster wainscoting and to add home-like comfort, a fire place has been built in. The room measures 16 x 24 feet. Adjoining is a retiring room with all modern conveniences. The casket room, with its proper equipment, is 16 x 36 feet. Ordinarily, such a room is not very inviting, but the arrangements which have been made, are such as to code of ethics which was worked out and adopted by the give a feeling of perfect freedom and satisfaction when entering this apartment. Next in interest, is the morgue, where every modern appliance has been placed for the undertaker.

J. J. Bole of the U.S. Employment Service arrived in Hereford Tuesday and opened his office in the first building north of the Texas Theatre on South Main Street, where he will be ready to assist with employment problems of farmers and farm laborers.

Not looking particularly rationed were those customers at Hereford, soda fountains as sugar rationing went into force this month — but take a good look at those generously filled sugar bowls — they may be the last "for the duration". And if Alec Thompson gets any more sugar by such methods he will have to sneak off with an extra paper sack containing about one teaspoonful.

Stating that 40 tons of scrap materials have been collected in the salvage drive in Deaf Smith County, members of the county committee this week pointed out that this result is still far short of the desired total.

"We know that this is a busy season in this territory," the committee point out. "But the importance of the scrap salvage drive cannot be put second to our business interests. Our country needs this metal and scrap rubber, and we should make a sacrifice, if necessary, to gather it up and put it where it can be made into war materials."

Registration of 18 and 19 year-old youths will take place Tuesday, June 30, the Deaf Smith County Selective Service Board announced this week, stating that the registration will be handled in the same manner as in the past. The commissioners court room will be registration place in the county and the hours will be 7 o'clock a.m. until 9 o'clock p.m.

Water Inc. Plans First Budget To Be $200,000

Membership dues to Water, Inc., aimed at supporting a first year budget of at least $200,000, were set in Lubbock June 13 at the initial meeting of the new non-profit organization's executive committee, according to John Kendrick of Brownfield, President.

A check with R. C. "Dick" Godwin, Hereford, representative of Deaf Smith and Oldham counties in Water, Inc., indicates that no membership drive for the organization will be in force until at least the latter part of this week, following a meeting of the board in Amarillo Tuesday.

Water, Inc., was formed on May 24 when over 1300 people from West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and the Oklahoma Panhandle met in Lubbock for that purpose. Its objective is to work with existing agencies, conduct studies and do all other things necessary to securing an adequate and assured supply of imported water for irrigation, industry, municipalities and recreation in the three areas.

Minimum annual membership dues of $25 were established for all, whether in agriculture, business or industry, and other dues were fixed to reflect the size of individual or company operations.

Dues for commercial enterprises and agencies were fixed at 50 cents per $1000 of capitalization and surplus, up to $250 in dues or $500,000 capitalization. Memberships in this category are to be called "commercial" memberships.

Special membership fees above the $250 mark will be set from time to time for individual enterprises, companies, banks and others whose capitalization comes to more than $500,000.

Those paying dues between $250 and $1,000 will be classed "Sustaining" members; those from $1,000 to $5,000 as "Sponsoring" members, and those above $5,000 will be called "Leadership" members.

Kendrick announced that all memberships received by Water, Inc. within 120 days of the June 13 meeting will be considered charter memberships, and membership certificates to that effect will be issued.

Membership applications will be made available to area people through the mail to the extent possible with existing mailing lists, Kendrick said. In addition, a supply will be placed at Chambers of Commerce offices, banks and other locations throughout the area. Mailing address of Water, Inc. is P. O. Box 367, Lubbock.

Membership in Water, Inc., with its unlimited promise to the area, should be a must for all who have a stake in West Texas, Eastern New Mexico or the Oklahoma Panhandle," Kendrick said, "and we want to give all an opportunity to become a Charter member."

He pointed out that the Lubbock City Board of Development has voted an initial contribution of $10,000 to Water, Inc. thus becoming its first "leadership" member. He said this was an excellent testimonial to the importance of the association's work and said he hoped it would serve as an example to others who seek to further the economic growth of this area.

Initial plans call for the importation of water first from the surplus water areas of Northeast Texas, probably within 10 or 12 years, and later from the anas rivers where more substantial amounts are available. Studies by government agencies and private engineering firms are already underway on the engineering feasibility and costs of such projects.

The engineering feasibility of transporting water to the West from both in-state and out-of-state sources has been firmly established, and most observers are convinced it is economically feasible as well.

Kendrick, who is president of the First National Bank of Brownfield and was elected President of Water, Inc., at its organizational meeting, said "The benefits to every resident of this region will be almost beyond the limits of imagination once Water, Inc. has achieved its goals. We believe the various levels of membership dues are equitable for all concerned and are such that they will not work a financial hardship on anyone."

He pointed out that a project of this magnitude simply requires a great deal of money to see it through the necessary engineering and political phases. "Both State and Federal money will be necessary and the full cooperation of many agencies in Austin and Washington will be indispensable if the job is to be done," he said, and added "Neither the State nor the Nation can afford to be without the tremendous productive potential of the West, and I am confident that with proper support and cooperation from the people involved, we will get imported water to realize that potential."

For A Merry Fourth Rolling Pins And Pets Are Holiday Contests

A Rolling Pin Throwing Contest and Pet Show, both to be sponsored by the Hereford Jaycees, have been added to the July 4 activities for local and area residents.

To be held in Dameron Park beginning at 3:30 p. m., the Rolling Pin Throwing Contest will be open to women no younger than 15. First prize will be $15; second prize, $10; and third prize, $5.

Jaycees President Larry Kaul said contestants will get three throws each from a measured circle and the best throw will be counted. The rolling pins will be about 12 inches long and weigh approximately a pound.

Entry fee for the contest is 75 cents.

The Pet Show, said Kaul, will begin as soon as the Rolling Pin Throwing Contest is complete. Also scheduled for Dameron Park, the show has an entry fee of 50 cents per pet.

A "Grand Champion" and "Reserve Champion" pet will be chosen by three judges, who will search for qualities such as appearance, obedience, and grooming. "Any type of pet except insects can enter and compete for the top awards," said Kaul.

Trophies also will be given for the top winners in the dog division, cat division, "Most Original Pet," the largest and the smallest pets.

"Entries must be leashed at all times or held in the arms and can be disqualified for breaking this rule," stressed Kaul.

Deadline for entries in the Rolling Pin Throwing Contest and the Pet Show is July 3, and may be mailed to the Hereford Jaycees, Box 804, Hereford.

Getting Acquainted Is Proving To Be Lots Of Fun For These Youngsters At Shirley School

The pupils are taught to color, recognize colors and identify pictures. Many games are played during the classes to better acquaint the children with each other and with English terms.

In interviewing some of the students, it was found that they all enjoy the school tremendously.

Pauline Dakil, 7 year-old girl, is one of the many attending the school although she speaks English but her parents thought she would gain a lot if she attended the school. Her parents, according to Pauline, both have names similar to hers. When asked to spell her last name, she stated that "my father's name is almost like mine." She further went on to say that her father, a Lebanese, and her mother, Brazilian, could both speak Spanish but that she couldn't. However, she quickly added that she will learn the language when she attends St. Anthony's Parochial school next year.

Mi nombre esta en la manzana.
My name is on the apple.

The Dakils, according to Pauline, come from Lamesa and that is the reason that she does not have too many friends here yet. One of her favorite activities in school is coloring.

Diana Valdez was another child who quickly stated that she also loves going to school. Diana, 5 years old, likes to color mainly but she also likes to do all the other things which are being done in class.

Es hora de comer.
It's time to eat.

Someday owning a record shop is an ambition of a 5 year-old girl, Billie Abalos, daughter of a disc jockey at the local radio station and also a public schoolteacher. Her father, Paul Abalos, has a record shop in Hereford and that is enough to inspire little Billie into someday owning a shop of her own. She does not like, however, working as a disc jockey. "One day," said Billie, "my father took me and my other 2 brothers to the radio station but I didn't like it. He had promised to buy me a coke when we got there but he never did. We just sat and waited for a long time and finally he decided to take us home because of one of my little brother not behaving." Billie's favorite activities include all types of games and especially hearing records during classes.

Danny Carion, a 6 year-old, prefers coloring to anything else. His ambition is to become a doctor someday. He used to be one of the most bashful students in school, according to Mrs. Smith, but now he has broken out of his silent habit and has improved tremendously. Some 74 pupils are now attending summer school for non-English speaking children which is being held daily at Shirley Elementary School this year.

The children attend classes from 8:30 to 11:30 each morning Monday through Friday in the school which will last for 8 weeks. A bus picks up children at strategic points in the Buena Vista addition, labor camp, Progressive Road and Austin Road each morning.

Authorities in general believe that a child should have a minimum of 400 words in his vocabulary before he is introduced to the reading process. For this particular reason, the summer program in Hereford is an effort, through organized activities, to give these children a vocabulary, that will help them in a regular first grade.

Martin Winch and Denise Waltman, VISTA workers in Hereford, are given much of the credit for their efforts in recruiting many of the children.

Teachers in the program are Mrs. Melinda Newton, Mrs. Pat Tubb, Mrs. L. V. Darden and Lucille Smith. Mrs. Smith is serving as coordinator of the summer school.

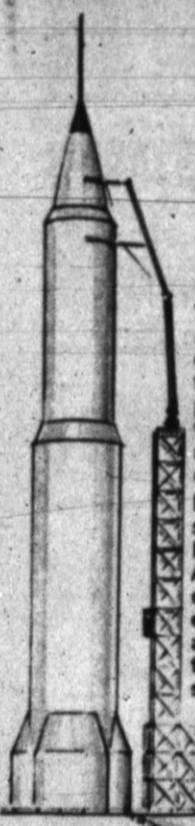

Besides teaching, the teachers also serve milk and crackers to all children at 10:00 each morning. No charge is set for the children who attend school and many more are urged to attend. Registration of the students may be made any morning at the school located on Ave. H.

The four teachers stated that they are capable of handling about 95-100 pupils.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

These Are Your Questions

CAN SMOKING be stopped by hypnosis in someone who has tried every other method?

Hypnosis is probably one of the most remarkable phenomena that occurs in man. Hypnosis is recognized as an important additional method of treatment in psychotherapy. Its value is limitless and the result obtained with it can be most gratifying to the patient and to the trained physicians, dentists and psychologists who use it.

Dr. Coleman

But hypnosis is not the "easy" way to solve a problem of smoking, drinking or obesity. No magic wand can be waved over anyone to rid them of a habit or a deep-rooted psychological problem. Psychological help may make it clear why a drinker, a smoker or an obese person continues to indulge in his flight from reality against the advice of his physician.

Hypnosis can perform brilliantly as an addition to many aspects of medical care. It may help some people to shed tobacco and alcohol. There is, however, one warning. Untrained people appealing to those who seek a quick solution to their habits may do irreparable harm to the subjects they exploit at great expense.

You may have tried every other method, you think. The one method you haven't tried is just to stop smoking. It is astonishing how many people can stop smoking if they really want to with a little bit of will power. If you can do it for 24 hours, you can do it for 24 years.

Why do some people awaken after ten hours of sleep feeling tired and still not rested?

Let us assume that there is no medical disorder that accounts for such fatigue. In that case we must consider the possibility that some people go to sleep carrying their emotional problems with them. Frustrations, anger, worry and anxiety may produce unpleasant dreams that charge a restful night's sleep into one that is tiring.

The sleep-needs of people vary. A few concentrated hours of pleasant sleep can often be more restful than a long period of sleep used as an escape from reality. If, despite enough sleep, fatigue does not allow a full day of activity, a general medical examination with blood studies may uncover the reason for this condition.

Are there any known causes for diverticulitis of the intestines?

Above five per cent of all people over 40 years of age have the tiny sacs on the intestinal wall known as diverticula. Their real cause is unknown but much guesswork is made about their origin.

Excess weight, constipation, weakness of the muscle wall and spasms have all been accused as the cause. Diverticulitis is an infection of these small sacs.

Often the condition can be controlled with rigid diet, drugs, nonirritating laxatives and mineral oil—all under a doctor's supervision.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH — "Major problems" can become "minor" ones when talked out.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

COINCIDENCE SERIES
SKARA, Sweden — Two Swedish drivers collided near here and found; Both cars were the same make, built in the same year.

Both were red and had been purchased from the same car dealer.

Both drivers were the same age, worked in the same factory and lived in the same town, Halleks.

Both drivers were uninjured and each car suffered the same damage — both fenders were buckled and both headlights were smashed.

And finally both cars were insured in the same firm.

Overcome by all these likenesses, the drivers adjourned for a coffee, had a good talk and decided they might as well be good friends, too.

SAVING ON IMPULSE
STOCKHOLM — Saving on impulse is the new fad here. If you have a one krona piece (30 U. S. cents) burning in your pocket, all you have to do is step up to an automat, drop the coin and you get a stamp. The stamps are pasted on a savings card. When it's full (15 kronor or $3), you sign the card and place it in the automat. The bank credits your savings account.

The machines are being placed in schools and canteens as an experiment by the Swedish Commercial bank.

John Tower Speaks Out

Students Are Informed On Vietnam Situation

I have spoken in recent weeks to a number of college audiences. Without exception I have found today's college students deeply concerned about the problems of Vietnam.

It is not surprising that they should be concerned just as all Americans are, but it is significant, I think, that our students also are widely read, well informed and digging constantly into the deep political and moral ramifications of this Vietnam confrontation between freedom and communism.

I heard a good deal of campus discussion about the question of whether or not the American position on Vietnam is a "just" one — about whether Vietnam is immoral or morally correct.

On this question of morality, I would like to quote for you recent words of The Reverend Edward Elson, minister of Washington's National Presbyterian Church. Said Dr. Elson: "Military force as such is neither morally right nor morally wrong. It is the uses to which it is put — the times, the places, the amount and the purposes — which determine the moral or immoral use of force."

"And in this stage of the development of mankind," Dr. Elson continued, "failure to use military force in the proper time and place, and for the proper purpose, can be as disastrous and highly immoral."

Those words sum up, I believe, the morality question in Vietnam.

There is involved in Vietnam a transcendent moral ethic — the right of mankind to determine its own destiny.

Certainly this is at the heart of the Judeo-Christian ethic which we mean that he is given free will to determine his own destiny.

Applying this standard to the conflict in Vietnam, is our cause just? I believe that the answer is an unequivocal yes, because our objective in Vietnam is to permit the South Vietnamese to determine their own destiny.

It is clear to me that the war in Vietnam is no simple civil conflict. Its roots are traceable in history. Its mainspring, tactics, and even its language are familiar to all who have studied communism. It is an attempt by North Vietnam to impose an unwanted rule on a sovereign nation, an attempt clearly nourished by massive support from Red China, the Soviet Union, and other communist nations throughout the world.

In a word, what we see in Vietnam is aggression.

It is a fact that brutality and wanton terrorism are deliberate tools of the communist in Vietnam, as they have been elsewhere in the world. It is no surprise when the most talented members of a village are threatened, beaten, kidnapped, or forced to serve the enemy. It is deliberate when the enemy freer than it has ever been, politically responsible, economically resurgent, and able to play a leading role in Asian affairs. In Southeast Asia, as a further extension of our leadership determination, we committed ourselves through the SEATO treaty.

All these commitments to principle, and our similar interests in other world areas, are interrelated. A principle worth defending any place is worth supporting in other places. A promise kept in one place gives integrity to promises made in other places. Aggression halted in one place discourages aggression in other places.

We must stand behind the commitments we have made if we hope to preserve peace rather than permit raw and naked power to govern. We act in our national interest when we stand behind those commitments; we act against our national interest when we do not.

There is no peace in the surrender of principle, or in turning away from aggression; there is no honor in vacating solemn commitments; there is no security in isolation; and there is no morality in tolerating brutality.

She said she couldn't go to the beach resort because she had nothing to wear, but she went anyway.

SOMETHING SHE ATE
AUCKLAND — A child's hair ribbon fell into a pool at Napier, New Zealand — and killed a dolphin.

The dolphin, Jenco a favorite with spectators at Napier's Marineland, swallowed the ribbon. But it stuck in her lung and caused a hemorrhage from which she died.

An autopsy showed that Jenco was an adventurous eater. Besides the ribbon she had swallowed two plastic bags, a handkerchief and two elastic garters.

ALL POLISH ON SHOES
LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique — An immaculate white stocking is the symbol of the Lourenco Marques Bootblack Association.

Senior members of the 20-year-old private association test any would-be bootblacks' abilities before authorizing him to use the blue shirt and shorts, "official" uniform of the profession.

"All our members must know how to shine, brush and polish with expert efficiency. But more than that," the Association's president, Mussuane Ulale, said recently.

"He must prove he can polish a shoe without staining in the least a customer's white stocking," he added.

A Lourenco Marques bootblac charges each client 25 escudos (9 cents). Senior members have the exclusive concession of the more crowded cafes while newcomers have to toll many years in "second rate" areas, making an average 20 escudos (70 U. S. cents) a day.

OUTER CIRCLE ESTABLISHES AWARD
NEW YORK — The Outer Circle, an organization of theater writers for out-of-town publications, has established an annual award in memory of John Gassner, critic and Yale University professor.

The prize is to be given for the best play to come out of a drama school associated with an academic institution. The judges each year will examine creative effort at 18 schools.

Dear Editor,

I disagree with Mr. Tower in regards to his claim that the U. N. could do nothing to prevent the fighting in the Middle East. And I am puzzled at his one sided conclusions.

First the so called smashing victory of Israel over the Arab was no more than the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, however, the entire Arab Air Force on the ground. And as Mr. Tower knows, without air power not even the U. S. could win over Viet Nam. And only the pride of the Arabs forced them to continue fighting under the circumstances, which in my opinion was stupid.

Second, I will attempt to answer Mr. Tower's statement and I quote: "From the American point of view, it should be obvious from this Middle East exercise that we cannot count on U. N. help in ANY situation in which U. S. and Soviet interest and intentions are in opposition. Therefore we never can rely on the U. N. as a substitute for a strong American foreign policy."

I say to Mr. Tower that he is wrong in making such a positive statement which almost sounds as bad as Nasser's total destruction of Israel. First of all, it depends on who makes the American foreign policy under the circumstances and whether in making such a policy, they are loyal to this country or to their ancestral lands. And frankly I don't believe any American citizen is ready to risk his security and the future of this country at the expense of politics. For that reason I suggest that Mr. Tower and his colleagues need to push for a constructive revision of the U. S. charter whereby the U. N. would become more effective and more reliable.

In my estimation, the U. S. is the only impartial body that is qualified to mediate and maintain peace rather than take it upon ourselves to fight over people's wars.

It is obvious from reading the newspapers and listening to the news, that the facts are somewhat distorted in as far as the Middle East is concerned in an effort to brainwash the American public; after all who is behind the news? Could it be some of the influential group that are loyal to Israel?

While I am in no position to speak for the Arabs, I believe from whatever little I know about their Moslem religion and philosophy, that the Arabs will never become Communist. The fact that the Russians are helping them is because they have an interest in the Arab world due to its strategic location and the presence of oil, which is more than what Israel has to offer. In my estimation, the only reason the U. S. is interested in the territorial integrity of Israel is simply due to the pressure put on by certain influential group among our American citizens. Furthermore, as long as our country is made up of foreigners from all walks of life, then we cannot allow any minority group brainwash the rest of the people and make foreign policies at a time when we are very close to the brink of a third world war.

Dear Editor,

It is about time that the American people are made aware of the tax free contributions to other countries that run in the billions of dollars at a time when this country is in bad shape financially.

Yes, I am referring to the billions of dollars that are being drained from this country's economy into Israel and the Arab countries.

It seems to me that every citizen of this country should be faced with the same responsibility of sharing a proportionate burden of financing Viet Nam or any other major expense that this country is faced with. The national debt was recently reported to have reached 358 billion dollars, and a tax hike is being considered to be very likely and inevitable.

Frankly, after reading the newspapers, and listening to the news, I could not help drawing my own conclusions which would lead me to believe that certain American citizens have dual loyalty, primarily to their ancestral lands and second to the U. S.

Frankly, when you consider the probable tax hike and the billions of dollars that are being drained out of this country's economy in form of tax free contributions to other countries is in effect making every taxpayer help finance, indirectly, these countries as well as our own, whether we like it or not.

A tax increase will have to be imposed to make up for those who are not paying their taxes as a result of sending their earnings to other countries.

I call on our representative, Mr. Bill Clayton, and our Congressman, Mr. Bob Price, to report to the residents of this district how they justify a legisla-

Prisoners Print Rodeo Money

HUNTSVILLE — Printing money in various denominations is no problem for inmate printers at the Huntsville Unit, Texas Department of Corrections.

In 1966, they printed $525,000 worth of $7 bills designed to promote the Annual Texas Prison Rodeo held here each Sunday in October.

This currency proved so popular that rodeo officials decided to carry the theme a step further for the coming 1967 rodeo series.

Now inmate prisoners are busy producing two bills. One is a $3 "Rodeo Wampum" bill; the other, a $4 bill labeled "Convict Loot."

Both bills inform the holder that "This note and $2.40 will get you into the Prison Rodeo Stadium."

Although the money printing business is strictly legal, prison officials point out that this cleverly-designed currency cannot be exchanged for cash.

However, persons who still have the $7 bills have this alternative: They can exchange them for this year's $3 and $4 denominations by writing Prison Rodeo Office, Box 32; Huntsville, Texas 77340.
