Reagan wants 18 percent cut in ag budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today proposed a hefty 18 percent cut in the Agriculture Department's budget for 1987, including substantial cuts in direct farm lending, crop insurance and agricultural extension.

The president's new budget also calls for trimming the most expensive item of farm spending, commodity price and income supports, and it proposes savings in the food stamp and other nutrition programs.

Overall, the budget calls for spending in fiscal 1987 for all food and farm programs of $44.6 billion, down from the estimated $54.1 billion to be spent in the current year. The 1986 figure includes a roughly 4.3 percent cut already made to meet the requirements of the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law.

Administration officials had hinted all along that agriculture, which has been one of the fastest-growing items in the federal budget over the past few years, also would be targeted to become one of the fastest to shrink under new spending constraints.

The tug-of-war over farm spending promises to be a primary focus of struggle as Congress hashes out its own spending plans, with the battle heightened by election-year politics.

Rep. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., accused the administration of turning its back on farmers, many of whom have been suffering from a severe economic depression.

"They are going to try to pay for a large part of their defense increase by taking from those programs they think are the most expendable," Daschle said. "They clearly see (agriculture) as expendable."

Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, said Reagan apparently "wants to undo a lot of the 1985 farm bill" which he signed into law less than two months ago. "We won't let that happen," Grassley said.

Among proposals in Reagan's new budget are a total of $4 billion for 1987 in lending authority for the Farmers Home Administration to keep high-risk farmers in business. Of that figure, $1.5 billion would be in direct lending and $2.5 billion in federally guaranteed private loans. Borrowers will be charged a 1 percent loan origination fee to generate additional revenue.

New user fees also are being proposed for federal grain inspection, market news, information and animal import and quarantine inspections. Programs to fight fire ants, noxious weeds and animal welfare would be terminated under the proposal.

Federal support for agricultural extension, which provides education in agriculture, home economics and community development, would be cut sharply, from $331 million in the current year to $179 million in 1987. Crop insurance subsidies would drop from $557 million to $370 million, and perhaps even more with proposed legislative changes.

Reagan has seen his food and farm spending priorities vastly changed by Congress in the past.

A year ago Reagan proposed a USDA budget for the current fiscal year at $38.5 billion, a 15 percent reduction from a near-record $45.1

Local tractor placed in Smithsonian

The Hereford tractor which led the tractorcade to Washington, D.C., in 1979, was placed in that city's Smithsonian Institute today.

Gerald McCathern's 1486 International has been accepted into the museum as part of an updating of agriculture exhibits. A ceremony on the Washington Mall was conducted this morning when McCathern handed the keys over.

Since the Smithsonian does not purchase items, about 500 farmers made donations so that McCathern could grant the tractor to the museum. McCathern said all the donating farmers are to be recognized on a plaque.

McCathern was the "wagon-master" for the tractorcade of 1979 when farmers from across the nation drove tractors to Washington to demonstrate the deteriorating state of the country's agriculture.

Congress sent 'hard choice' budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today sent Congress a "hard choice" $994-billion budget for fiscal 1987 that would meet targets of the nation's new budget-balancing law through deep cuts in domestic programs and auctioning an array of federal assets.

While few domestic programs were spared the budget knife, the president asked Congress for an increase in defense outlays in 1987 of $15.9 billion, up 6.2 percent from last year, and proposed a 37.8 percent increase over the next five years. The budget would leave all major weapons systems intact while proposing a 75 percent increase in the president's "Star Wars" program of defense against nuclear missiles.

The budget would slash, freeze in place or eliminate scores of civilian programs — while granting a small, $94-million increase in funding to the nation's space program.

It would knock a million college students off aid rolls, cut Medicare and Medicaid health programs for the poor and elderly and recycle many of the program eliminations sought unsuccessfully by the president last year.

The budget would raise fees for using the national parks, impose a $10-per-angler licensing fee for fishing in the ocean, trim benefits under the GI bill, cut federal support for the Interstate Highway system and require able-bodied welfare recipients to engage in some "work-related activity" to continue receiving federal help.

In all, the budget calls for domestic spending cuts of $25.6 billion. Many of the proposals, including the government-wide spending total, had been leaked in advance.

It was the first presidential budget to be submitted under the new Gramm-Rudman budget law, which would force an end to government deficit spending by 1991. Automatic cuts of around $40 billion will be triggered next October under the law if there is a budget deadlock between Reagan and Congress.

Defense up, domestic down

The first round of Gramm-Rudman cuts, totalling $11.7 billion, have already been triggered. They will take effect on March 1. Figures in the president's new budget reflect the lower spending levels already in place because of these initial cuts.

In his budget message, Reagan told Congress that his plan would "set the deficit on a downward path to a balanced budget by 1991." Reagan said the proposals he wanted would present Congress with "hard choices ... but we must find the will to face up to our responsibilities."

But few in Congress held out much likelihood that the president's budget would survive major modification in the coming months of struggle over spending and taxes.

Many senior members of both parties in Congress have expressed doubts that the federal budget can be balanced with spending cuts alone as Reagan prefers. Senate Republicans have recently urged Reagan to consider a compromise including some new taxes — possibly an oil import fee.

Signing the budget proposal in the Oval Office today, Reagan held open the possibility of approving an oil import fee to offset any revenue lost by changes in a tax overhaul bill pending in the Senate. "I've said that I'm willing to look at that, on that basis," Reagan said.

The president's budget projected total receipts of $850.4 billion, for a deficit of $143.6 billion for the fiscal year beginning on Oct. 1.

Hereford's first big event to help celebrate Texas' Sesquicentennial will be March 1 when a Texas-size chili supper will be held at the Bull Barn. Argen Draper and Garth Thomas, co-chairmen for the 150th birthday year of Texas, have been busy getting committees and organizations together for some time.

The Sesquicentennial committee has mailed 81 letters to local clubs to invite them to send a representative (one or more) to a planning session Monday at 3 p.m. at the Community Center. Some of the clubs are already involved in the celebration.

The benefit event March 1 will be chili supper, open to all interested citizens of the county, and the Jubilee 150 committee hopes to raise enough money for a memorial project. The committee hopes to plant a large tree on the courthouse lawn, along with two small trees presented by the state Sesquicentennial Commission.

Grant Hanna has been named chief cook for the big chili supper and he will be assisted by members of the Whiteface Kiwanis Club. Also serving and cleaning up will be members of the Noon Kiwanis Club.

Price slide prompts comptroller estimate

AUSTIN (AP) — As nervous state officials keep watch on slumping worldwide oil prices, the comptroller says his office will take a new look at the state's financial position.

But Gov. Mark White said Tuesday he doesn't yet see the need to call a special budget-cutting session of the Legislature.

Oil prices on the spot market tumbled to below $18 per barrel on Monday for the first time this decade, causing increased worries for state officials.

Some 13 percent of state government revenues come from taxes on oil and gas.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said Tuesday that "Mexico's decision over the weekend to drop oil prices to $20 a barrel may have been the straw that broke the camel's back in terms of relatively stable prices."

Bullock said Mexico's oil exports account for about 17 percent of the imported oil used in the United States, and that fact alone will have a strong influence on the prices of

Cities can refuse to hire 35-plus

WACO, Texas (AP) — A 41-year-old man considered too old to be a Killeen police officer says Texans will suffer from a federal jury's decision upholding a state law that bars people older than 35 from police or firefighting forces.

The jury said Tuesday that the cities of Waco, Killeen and Baytown and the state of Texas have a legitimate right to enforce Statute 1269m, which sets out that age limit.

Nearly 60 Texas cities have adopted 1269m in public elections. The decision ended seven days of testimony in a lawsuit filed by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission on behalf of Gerald Zynda, a retired Army colonel who applied for a job as a Killeen police officer in 1981 at age 41 and was rejected.

"I think the citizens of Texas will suffer from this decision, and it's going to have a definite impact on law enforcement," Zynda said. "I can't say whether the case will be appealed, but I think someone else will challenge (1269m) somewhere down the line."

Attorneys for the EEOC would not comment on the verdict. "I think it's great. I'm ecstatic," said Annette Jones, an assistant city attorney for Waco.

Diane Van Helden, an Austin attorney who represented the cities of Waco and Killeen, said she was confident she could prove that the state's age restriction for entry-level police officers is a "bona fide occupational qualification."

Ms. Van Helden said testimony favorable to the statute from Waco Police Chief Larry Scott, Baytown Police Chief A. Wayne Henscey and Killeen Police Chief Francis Giacomozzi was crucial to her case.

Teachers send specimens to White

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas teachers upset that Gov. Mark White has suggested drug testing for some state workers have sent the governor 88 vials filled with a "substance."

The specimen bottles were thrown out and White responded with a form letter, Ann Arnold, the governor's press secretary, said Tuesday.

White said in the letter that he merely suggested testing "in the infrequent instances when there is obvious outward evidence of drug abuse threatening safety or impairing job performance."

The form letter has been sent to anyone who corresponded with the governor about his drug test comments.

Eighty-seven vials came in packages carrying the return address I.M. Madd and a Dallas post office box number. Another vial came from Alpine, according to Ms. Arnold, who said the specimen bottles contained a liquid she identified as a "substance."

The letter accompanying vials from Dallas said, "We, as Texas educators, bitterly resent Gov. Mark White's suggestion that we be tested for drug use. We have already been unfairly stigmatized as incompetent, and now we are being classified as criminals who violate the statutes dealing with illegal drugs."

"As a group, we are not perfect. However, most of us care very deeply about our students and their success in school. To suggest that we would jeopardize that success by using illegal drugs is absurd and insulting. In protest, we are sending these specimen bottles."

Democrats say speech was 'rhetoric'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Party leaders, accusing President Reagan of "rhetoric," say Reagan's upbeat assessment of the state of the union ignores the impact of huge budget deficits and the worst trade imbalance in history.

In a nationally televised rebuttal to the President's State of the Union address, five Democratic lawmakers said Tuesday that trade competition abroad and budget deficits at home threaten to weaken the nation's economy and endanger the jobs and stability of its families.

To present the Democratic view, the party turned to former Virginia Gov. Charles S. Robb; Sen. George Mitchell of Maine; Harriett Woods, the lieutenant governor of Missouri; and Reps. Tom Daschle of South Dakota and William Gray of Pennsylvania.

"We can no longer rely on rhetoric which refuses to face the real world — which pretends that we can have unlimited military spending and unrestrained tax breaks and a balanced budget — all at the same time," said Mitchell, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee and the program's moderator.

When Reagan says that can happen, said Mitchell, "the president is wrong, and the American people know he's wrong."

Reagan made the enhancement of the American family a major theme of his address, which was delivered to a joint session of Congress.

Israeli leaders have no apologies

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir defended Israel's decision to intercept a Libyan plane suspected of flying Palestinian guerrilla leaders to Syria, saying the Jewish state has the right to protect itself against "murder and terror."

Arab governments condemned the action by Israeli jetfighters over the Mediterranean Sea on Tuesday as an act of "air piracy" that could lead to the hijacking of Israeli and American planes.

Syria's official news agency quoted Gen. Hekmat Chahabi, chief of staff of the armed forces, as saying Syria would teach the Israelis "a lesson they will not forget" at a time and place of Syria's choosing.

The U.N. Security Council held an emergency meeting on the matter Tuesday at Syria's request, but took no action.

Israeli officials had no apologies for the action, even though the nine passengers on the Grumman Gulfstream 2 were Syrian and Lebanese politicians, including the deputy secretary-general of Syria's ruling Baath Party, rather than Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

Campaign enters final day

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Thousands of President Ferdinand E. Marcos' supporters flooded the streets of Manila early today on their way to a campaign-ending rally at the same bayside park in which an estimated half-million people cheered Marcos' opponent a day earlier.

Corazon Aquino, the opposition candidate, took part in a motorcade in her home province of Tarlac north of Manila to wrap up the tumultuous campaign for Friday's special presidential election. By law, campaigning must stop at midnight tonight.

In Concepcion, several miles from where Mrs. Aquino was campaigning today, witnesses said armed men at a military checkpoint attacked a car carrying the candidate's sister-in-law and damaged the camera of a crew from NBC television.

The commander of a nearby military camp, Maj. Napoleon Castro, denied the report. He said the men had "invited" Lupita Kashiwahara, who is campaign media coordinator for Mrs. Aquino, and the NBC crew to stop taking pictures of soldiers.

billion then estimated for 1984-85. At that time, the record was $46.4 billion in 1982-83.

But Congress balked at many of the cuts and reforms urged a year ago for USDA. By last August, it was apparent that total outlays for the fiscal year that began on Oct. 1, 1985, would far exceed that number.

A year ago the administration had hopes of seeing a completely "market-oriented" farm bill that would bring a gradual end to commodity price supports and direct subsidy payments. Congress settled on a scaled-down program but stopped far short of what the administration originally wanted.

Many other major reforms offered a year ago also were turned down or modified greatly by Congress, including proposed cuts in small community and rural development programs, a gradual phase-out of Rural Electrification Administration loans, user fees for a number of services and elimination of two-thirds of the programs and employees of the Soil Conservation Service.

Representatives from all clubs are urged to attend this meeting.

Arrangements have been made for the wagon train to camp in a circle at Veterans Park. A number of committees are needed to help with this event, according to Mrs. Draper. Entertainment will be provided for the people in the wagon train, including square dancers and members of the Chamber Singers. Tours of places of interest in Hereford, including the Black House, county museum and the Cowgirl Hall of Fame, are being planned.

Corrections

National farm organizations lobbied for lower prices to boost exports, according to Marion Garland of the American Ag Movement. The Brand incorrectly stated the lobby was for higher prices. The editor regrets the error.

A letter to the editor in Sunday's Brand listed the name of two letter writers. The last name of one writer was inadvertently spelled wrong. The signers of the letter were Robin Carr and Kayla Burns. The latter name was incorrectly listed as "Burris."

In Tuesday's edition of The Hereford Brand, an article was printed stating that the City of Hereford had passed a motion to support a housing development that was presented to the city commission by the Amistad Housing Development Corporation. Actually, the city did not pass or make a motion, but did listen to the presentation and voiced some positive comments about the development.

BB-BS kids need match

Some of the children and youths that Alva Lee Peeler, director of Hereford Big Brothers- Big Sisters, is trying to find Big Brothers and Big Sisters for have been on the list for longer than she'd like to mention.

Forty of the 56 children in the local program have been matched; three girls and 13 boys still need a match with an older role model.

Peeler said many of the adolescents who have been waiting for a long time continue to come to the group parties. Some have told her to go ahead and match one of the younger waiting children.

But, Peeler feels the adolescent needs a big sibling-friend as much as the younger child.

One waiting is Santos, a 14-year-old musician in seventh grade. One of his brothers and one of his sisters have a partner in BB-BS. Although occasionally he gets to do things with the brother and Big Brother, he often feels left out.

Peeler said the young men Santos' age often have to wait a long time on a volunteer who wants a teenager for a Little Brother.

Persons interested in becoming a role model friend may call Peeler at 364-6171.

Texas oil.

Bullock said he wrote White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, telling them of plans to update the state's financial position.

"Even though world oil prices have been volatile, I'm not ready to throw out the current revenue estimate," Bullock said. "But the oil situation that has unfolded in the past three weeks has serious implications for Texas and its finances."

The state government's current budget is based on Bullock's last estimate that taxable oil sales, based largely on long-term contracts, would average about $25 a barrel during this fiscal year and near $24 the following year.

Hit-and-run reported

Ann Landers

Never-ending nightmare

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several years ago I went into business with a friend. It turned out to be a disaster. I earned less than $13,000 over a two-year period and was unable to pay my debts. My credit rating fell right through the basement.

Rather than file for personal bankruptcy, I decided to do the honorable thing: tough it out and repay every cent.

Today my annual income is over $50,000. I own two houses and have repaid all outstanding debts. My problem is this: I can't get a Macy's charge card because of my credit history.

When will this nightmare end? I have repaid all my debts, yet I have been informed that the adverse credit entries will remain public knowledge for seven years.

Is this fair? Do you know of any action I can take to expunge the record? I was a very young guy who tried and failed. Does this mean I have to pay for that mistake for five more years? Please give me some counsel. I am - HAUNTED IN HUNTINGTON

DEAR HAUNTED: We did a great deal of checking and were surprised to find that nobody wants to be quoted. The facts are these, however. Credit policies vary from place to place, but everyone to whom we spoke suggested that you contact the credit manager at Macy's and ask for a personal interview. Bring proof that you have paid your bills in full. According to law, everyone is entitled to see his or her credit records and explain past difficulties that may have caused late payments.

Bad debt information is kept on record for seven years. This is the federal law. If you can't budge the person at Macy's you'll just have to sweat it out, my friend.

DEAR ANN: I find you a wise judge of all sorts of situations. Please comment on this one.

Kids today are into spending the night at the homes of friends. It always seemed perfectly OK to me and the kids enjoyed themselves even though the "trip" was just next door.

Now I am wondering at what age this practice should stop. My son is 15 and considers himself quite a man. However, he frequently insists on spending the night with a friend or having someone spend the night at our house. I have never heard this matter discussed. What are your views?—CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: What do the kids do? Look at TV? Listen to records? Raid the fridge? Talk on the phone? I see nothing wrong with any of the above, at any age.

When your child asks to spend the night at the home of a friend, it's a good idea to check with the friend's parents to make sure your child is expected and if there is going to be a party and if an adult will be on hand to chaperone. Congratulations for caring. Too many parents these days don't.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm not "Bay Area Betty" with the fat friend, but I saw the letter from "A San Francisco Reader" who wondered if Betty could find a chair that would hold a 250-pound, 6-5 male who is extremely handsome and very rich. Unless Betty's lady friend is also 6-5, let me tell you, honey, the weight distribution is totally different. Totally.—SPLITTING HAIRS IN PONTIAC, MICH.

DEAR MICH: Touche!

Drugs? How much is too much? Is pot OK? Is cocaine too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11996, Chicago, IL 60611.

DEAR POLLY — Now that winter is in full force, my dry skin is driving me crazy. Do you have a recipe for making a really good, inexpensive moisturizer? — JANET

DEAR JANET — This inexpensive homemade moisturizer smooths onto the skin easily and is absorbed quickly and thoroughly. Place one-half cup baby oil and one-half cup petroleum jelly in a medium bowl and whip with an electric mixer for a minute or two. Store in a tightly covered bottle or jar. Use as you would any moisturizer.

For a super moisturizing treatment, wet your face with warm water. Spread a generous layer of petroleum jelly over the skin, then take a steamy bath or shower. At the end of the bath, wash off the petroleum jelly. Your skin will be smooth and fresh-looking.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "The Home Beauty Spa," which has other suggestions for moisturizing dry skin as well as formulations for homemade beauty products such as an oatmeal scrub, a banana mask, aloe vera salve and your own sudsy bubble bath. ## Butcher names cuts of beef at market

The meat in your supermarket may carry names like "extra lean," "gourmet lean" and "super trim" on the label. But what these terms mean depends on the butcher.

"Because there's no mandatory system for naming beef once it reaches the market, extra lean might mean 85 percent lean to one butcher and 75 percent lean to another," says nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten.

But the beef industry does have a voluntary standard limiting lean ground beef to 24 percent fat and extra lean to 15 percent fat, she adds.

According to the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist, the only time you can be certain about the names of beef steak and roasts is when they're called "prime," "choice" or "good."

Only meat graded at the packinghouse using U.S. Department of Agriculture guidelines can be labeled with these words. Government graders assign these designations on specific criteria, such as age and the degree of fat marbling.

The beef with the most fat marbling tends to be the most tender and is the most likely to be called "prime."

Recent USDA figures show that about half the markets in the country do not use the federal grading terminology exclusively.

"If your supermarket doesn't use the federal terminology, become familiar with the labeling terms they do use by asking the butcher what they mean," Sweeten advises.

Consumers can also get nutrition information on labels or at the meat case in many Texas stores, says the specialist.

Many supermarkets are using "Meat Nutri-Facts," a program supported by the red meat industry to inform consumers about the nutritional composition of meat.

Large Nutri-Fact cards displayed in the meat case show the amount of calories, total fat, cholesterol, sodium, protein, iron, zinc, thiamin, niacin and vitamin B-12 contained in a cooked, trimmed, three-ounce serving of a particular cut of meat.

"This information can help consumers select meat cuts according to nutrient needs, and may be of great use to shoppers on special diets," notes Sweeten.

Consumers who pay attention to both the grading of meat and its nutrient content can make better decisions about getting the most for their meat dollar, says the specialist.

India's harmoniously symmetrical Taj Mahal was built as a tomb for Mumtaz Mahal — Chosen One of the Palace — by her husband, Emperor Shah Jahan. Some 20,000 workmen labored on it for two decades in the 1600s, creating what is often called the world's most beautiful building.

American family experiences change

FORT WORTH — The changing role of women, the drastic drop in birth rate and the great rise in the divorce rate have changed the American family, said prominent social scientist Dr. Andrew Cherlin.

"Some of the difficulties we are experiencing today are the costs of modern life," he said recently in an interview at Texas Christian University. "We wouldn't want to return to the days when kids and mothers were at risk in childbirth; and, for these kinds of reasons, I think we are unlikely to return to the family of the past."

Divorce particularly has wrought many changes in the American family. Research in the last few years suggests most children are able to cope with the divorce of their parents, and, within a couple of years, to resume normal development.

"The adjustment to a re-marriage is much easier for a child than the adjustment to a divorce," he said. "For one thing, remarriage brings in a male income, and that by itself is a great boon to the family fortunes."

In his most recent study of grandparents in the United States, Cherlin found that the relationship between the maternal grandparents and their grandchildren after divorce often can be much stronger and deeper than is the typical relationship.

"During normal times, grandparents are content to sit back and enjoy their grandchildren as pals and loving companions. But when a family crisis such as divorce, serious illness, or long-term unemployment arises, grandparents do step in quite quickly and play a very important role."

"What divorce does is kind of recreate the more fragile circumstances that were common in the past and that led to our image of the close-generation family which exchanges support and works together," said the researcher.

Another drastic change in the family is that after a remarriage the family is no longer confined to one household. In the case of step-families, the family can extend over two or three households, pointed out the Johns Hopkins University professor.

DR. GOTT Cushion may ease irritation

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Where the strap meets the bra on the left side, it irritates me so, as if nerve endings are on edge. The skin looks fine. What can my trouble be?

DEAR READER — As you suspect, the strap may be irritating one of the nerves in your skin. Try changing bras or using a little flannel or foam-rubber cushion under the strap.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What effect would an injection of heparin have on a muscular area like the thigh?

DEAR READER — Heparin is a powerful anticoagulant. When given in sufficient quantity, it can completely neutralize the body's clotting mechanism. For this reason, it is an effective and useful drug for treating diseases caused by blood clots, such as phlebitis.

Some postoperative patients are at higher risk of developing clots in the veins (following hip surgery, for example), so many surgeons use low doses of heparin injected subcutaneously to prevent this. Injections of heparin into muscle are discouraged, because although the doses may not affect the whole body, they can cause a painful and swollen hematoma (bruise), which can take several weeks to resolve.

DEAR DR. GOTT — We have a terrible problem with our 26-year-old daughter. She has had bouts of vomiting since she was 4. Most doctors say it's in her head. She says her mouth feels as if it's full of phlegm, but we can't see anything. We are the end of our rope and don't know where to turn.

DEAR READER — Before labeling your daughter's problem as emotional, I would want to make absolutely sure she doesn't have an uncommon abnormality of her upper digestive tract. Take her to a gastroenterologist, who will probably want to perform certain tests, including endoscopy (looking into her stomach with a lighted fiberoptic tube). Only after her digestive tract proves to be normal would I recommend evaluation of her emotional state.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have suffered for many years from muscle spasms in my legs. Is this caused by muscle strain, nerves or poor circulation?

DEAR READER — Muscle spasms may result from all the causes you mention. I suggest you visit a specialist in internal medicine to establish a diagnosis. He or she may wish to assess your circulation, check your nerves and make sure that your body's mineral content is in balance.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Are blood sugar and urine sugar in a diabetic the same thing? Does being a diabetic bother your legs?

DEAR READER — When the blood sugar rises to a certain level, which may vary from person to person, it tends to spill into the urine. Therefore, in one sense, the sugars are the "same thing" measured in different body fluids. However, urinary sugar usually indicates only that the blood sugar is quite high. When controlling diabetes, doctors and patients usually need to know a more exact value for blood sugar; urinary sugar does not, by itself, provide this information.

Diabetes can affect both the nerves and blood vessels of the legs. It causes neuropathy (nerve malfunction) — with symptoms of pain and numbness — and accelerated arteriosclerosis (arterial blockage) that causes cramps, easy infection, coldness and diminished skin resistance to injury.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What can you tell me about salmonella? I have heard of a baby having it for more than a year, and it is hard for me to believe that a baby could come in contact with salmonella. Would this parasite endanger the baby's health? Can antibiotics be used?

DEAR READER — Salmonella actually refers to a family of bacteria. This unpleasant family is composed of various unsavory types, including typhoid fever.

Salmonella bacteria cause diarrhea, but not in all patients. Some adults and children have no symptoms, yet carry the germs in their intestinal tracts. Carriers can unwittingly transfer bacteria from themselves to uninfected people. This usually occurs during the process of food preparation, food handling or close personal contact. That's how babies get it. Youngsters may develop severe diarrhea that can be life-threatening. In all infected patients (and carriers), antibiotics will usually eradicate the infection — once it is discovered.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Last year I had a complete hysterectomy. A few months ago, I started to develop vaginal itching and burning. Monistat helped, but it is very expensive, and the condition came right back when I stopped using it. It is ruining our sex life. Is there another treatment available?

DEAR READER — Yes, there is. Check with your gynecologist to find out the cause of your vaginal irritation. Then the doctor can prescribe the appropriate antidote. Both you and your partner may have to take medicine to break up the infection/reinfection cycle. In addition, certain diseases — like diabetes — can set the stage for vaginitis; this should be checked, too.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I switched from ferrous sulfate to ferrous gluconate and now have no side effects. Your readers who have trouble taking iron pills may want to talk this over with their pharmacists.

DEAR READER — Thanks for your tip. The way iron is formulated in medicine may determine whether or not it produces stomach upset. If you need iron and it seems not to agree with you, by all means, work with your pharmacist to find alternative forms.

Hereford JV girls win, 41-35

Herd varsity girls fall to Monterey

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Turnovers again plagued the Hereford High School girls' basketball team when the Whitefaces fell to Lubbock Monterey 80-61 Tuesday in Hereford.

Twenty-six turnovers were committed by Hereford in the game in which Hereford could get no closer to Monterey than nine points in the second half.

"Turnovers hurt when you turn the ball over after you've started setting up a play, or if you turn it over right after stealing it. Those kinds of turnovers really hurt us tonight," said Hereford Coach Larry Sowers.

The Hereford varsity girls are now 3-10 in District 3-5A and 8-17 for the season. Their season finale is scheduled Friday night at Palo Duro High School at 6 p.m.

Hereford won Tuesday night's junior varsity contest, 41-35. The HHS junior varsity is 8-15, and will play at 7:45 p.m. Friday.

In the varsity battle Tuesday, Lubbock Monterey held leads of 6-2, 12-5 and 16-9 during the first quarter. Monterey's biggest lead of the second quarter was 30-16 with 3:36 left in the first half.

Monterey led at halftime, 37-24, but that lead was sliced quickly by Hereford's Kim Williams, who scored two fastbreak layups in the first minute of the second half. That cut Monterey's lead to nine points, 37-28, but Hereford could get no closer than that the rest of the way.

Monterey outscored Hereford 20-10 after that in the third quarter for a 57-38 lead in its 80-61 win over Hereford.

Natalie Sims, who made seven of 10 field goal attempts and five of six free throws, was high scorer for Hereford with 19 points. Kim Williams totaled 15 points by making four of five shots from the field and seven of nine free throw attempts.

"Seven of 10 is good shooting, but Natalie didn't get her hands on the ball often enough," Coach Sowers said. "Kim played probably her best game of the season, for the time she was in there. She sparked us."

Williams scored 14 points in the second half, and Sims scored 12 in that half. Emma Gonzales, who had eight first half points, also finished the game in double figures with 10 points.

Shelly Edwards added seven points for Hereford—five in the second quarter.

Lubbock Monterey had four players in double figures, but not Laura Supak, who scored 40 points against Hereford on Jan. 4, when Monterey beat Hereford 77-53. This time around, Supak could score just nine points.

Monterey made 28 of 37 free throws, and Hereford made 19 of 30.

Edwards led Hereford in rebounds with 12 points, and Sims and Terry Valdez each grabbed five rebounds.

Susie Kalka led in assists with four, and Sims led in steals with three. Williams, Sims and Edwards each had three assists.

Defense and rebounding were the names of the game for the Hereford junior varsity girls in their 41-35 victory over Monterey.

Hereford had 41 rebounds as a team, 14 of them offensive rebounds. Jeanette Mumau had four offensive rebounds, and Amy Coneway had three offensive rebounds.

Hereford took revenge for a 44-29 loss to Monterey on Jan. 4.

HHS junior varsity Coach Donnie

Henderson said, "Carolyn Rieves played a great defensive game. The team looked better defensively than they've played all year. They came through making free throws at crucial points of the game."

"Jeanette Mumau, our strong post, played a real good game," Henderson adds.

Six Hereford players recorded five or more rebounds each—Lana Kosub 10, Rieves nine, Coneway eight, Mumau seven, Kim Edelman six, and Cindy Tice five. On defense, Rieves led in steals with six, Coneway had five steals, Tice four steals, and Mumau three steals.

Tice led Hereford in scoring with 10 points, and Mumau and Kosub each scored nine points.

The two teams battled to an 18-18 halftime tie. But in the third quarter, Hereford built up a 34-25 lead.

With Theismann of Redskins

McMahon in war of words

HAMILTON, Ontario (AP) — Chicago Bears quarterback Jim McMahon, criticized for showing a "lack of respect for the rules of life as a professional athlete," brushed aside the remarks made by Joe Theismann of the Washington Redskins.

"I don't listen to remarks made by gentlemen who can't punt more than one yard," McMahon told NBC page Jim McRae when asked to respond to the Redskin quarterback's remark. "That will be my only comment on the matter."

McMahon was in Burbank, Calif., Tuesday for a guest appearance on "The Tonight Show."

He was referring to Theismann's kicking performance in the Bears' 45-10 victory over the Redskins on Sept. 29. When Jeff Hayes, Washington's punter, suffered an injury on a 99-yard kickoff return by Chicago's Willie Gault, Theismann was pressed into service and his lone punt went one yard.

On Monday, Theisman, attending a B'nai B'rith sports dinner here, said McMahon should "remember where he is. If it weren't for football, he'd be some yo-yo out there drinking beer."

Theismann, who recently signed a two-year contract with the Redskins, is recovering from a broken leg suffered in a game against the New York Giants.

Herd loses to Lubbock Monterey, 69-62

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The first three minutes of the game probably was the biggest factor in the Hereford-Lubbock Monterey District 3-5A boys' basketball contest Tuesday night in Hereford.

Monterey scored the first 10 points of the game. The Whitefaces, who got their first points from Bobby Baker with 4:56 left in the first period, were forced to play the catch up game the rest of the way and failed to overtake the Plainsmen.

Monterey won the game 69-62, and also took the junior varsity boys' game, 66-51.

The Whiteface teams will play at Palo Duro Friday night. The junior varsity game is set for 6 p.m. and the varsity game is scheduled for 7:45 p.m.

Hereford's varsity is 3-10 in District 3-5A and 8-17 overall. The HHS junior varsity has a 7-16 record.

The closest Hereford could get to Monterey in the first half was with 6:51 left in the second quarter when Stefan Hacker made a pair of free throws.

In the third quarter, Monterey maintained at least an eight-point lead until a basket by Kyle Streun with 2:25 left put Hereford within seven points, 49-42.

Monterey held a 53-44 lead with just less than a minute left in the third quarter. A free throw by Streun and a field goal by Rodney Torres closed the gap to six points, 53-47. The Plainsmen also led by six, 55-49, when the quarter ended.

Monterey scored first in the fourth quarter. A field goal by Torres, and then a free throw by Torres following a technical four on a Monterey player, put Hereford within five points, 57-52, with 7:07 left in the game.

But after that, Monterey was able to maintain at least a seven-point lead in scoring its 69-62 win over the Whitefaces.

Hereford Coach Mike Fields said, "In spurts we played real well, as probably as well as we've played this season. It's tough to spot a team eight or 10 points and have to fight our way back.

"Since we can't make the playoffs, we're playing for our pride the rest of the year. Our players showed it tonight," Fields said after the game Tuesday.

Rodney Torres led the Whitefaces with 20 points, and Stefan Hacker scored 12 points. They provided the bulk of the Hereford scoring in the second half—Torres scored 13 second half points and Hacker 10 points.

Other Hereford scorers included Rodney McCracken with eight points, and Bobby Baker and Doug Watts each with six points.

Baker led in rebounds with five and assists with two. Five Hereford players each had three rebounds, and five HHS player each stole the ball twice from Monterey.

In the junior varsity game, Monterey led 32-21 at halftime and 47-31 after three quarters of play in defeating Hereford 66-51.

The leading scorer for Hereford was Todd Weaver with 14 points—all of them scored in the second half. Bobby Robbins scored nine points, and Mark Artho had six points.

Robbins and David Manchee each grabbed seven rebounds. Vincent Brown led in assists with three and in steals with three.

Kyle Streun Up For Two

Hereford's Kyle Streun (50) works around a Lubbock Monterey defender for a basket late in the third quarter Tuesday night. more. Johnson contributed 14 points off the bench.

As far as Motta was concerned, the Lakers were very efficient in their comeback victory.

"They played well when they had to," Motta said. "We expected the Lakers to have a run at us, and they did. We weathered the storm for a while. But they are known as a spurt team. The Lakers are like a stick of dynamite. They can explode at any time."

Riley said, "I think being 18 points down was far enough where the guys finally woke up and saw they were getting blown out on their own floor." Dallas was led by Sam Perkins and Rolando Blackman, who each scored 18 points. Derek Harper added 16 more for the losers.

'Magic' returns; Lakers defeat Mavericks 110-102

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The return of Earvin "Magic" Johnson. It sounds like some sort of monster movie.

Dallas Mavericks Coach Dick Motta will tell you it was.

Johnson returned to the Los Angeles Lakers lineup Tuesday night after sitting out six games with a knee injury and helped rally the defending NBA champs from an 18-point, second-period deficit to a 110-102 victory over the Dallas Mavericks.

"I expected to see Magic back tonight and he was the guy who sparked the Lakers tonight. So, what else is new?" Dallas Coach Dick Motta said. "That's why he's in the All Star game."

The Lakers, who controlled the boards for an overwhelming 53-25 edge in rebounding, outscored the Mavericks 21-3 from late in the second quarter to even the game at 60-60 on a breakaway layup by McGee early in the third quarter.

Los Angeles led 93-90 and settled matters midway through the final quarter by scoring nine of the game's next 10 points.

Despite his successful return, Johnson will need a week before he's back to full-strength.

"It will take at least a week before Magic is fully back," Laker Coach Pat Riley said. "I wanted to bring Magic into the game at the 5-minute mark of the first quarter and the third. But with (James) Worthy in foul trouble, we had to use him a bit more than we wanted to. I think he played very well tonight except for his first pass."

When asked if he were a little rusty, Johnson laughed and said, "I was a lot rusty."

"But as I got into the game it got better," he added. "My knee was a little tender at first and I was a little scared. Right now there is no swelling and everything is feeling good."

The Lakers got 21 points apiece from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Mike McGee, with Worthy adding 18

de Havilland crosses Mason-Dixon Line

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Look who's playing a Yankee in ABC's "North and South, Book II." Olivia de Havilland, who played Melanie Wilkes in "Gone With the Wind," has crossed the Mason-Dixon Line for the 12-hour sequel to the miniseries broadcast last November.

The new production will be shown in May. "I was at my home in Paris when someone called and asked if I'd be in a film about the Civil War," said Miss de Havilland. "I said, 'You mean the War Between the States?'"

"He said the role was that of Mrs. Neal, a hospital administrator. I said, 'Southern?' He said, 'No, Northern.' I said, 'You mean you want me to play a Yankee?' He said, 'Well, there are Confederate patients in the hospital.' I said, 'In that case, I'll play the role. I know I would never be forgiven if I played a Yankee and she was indifferent to Southern suffering.'"

She worked principally in the miniseries with Kirstie Alley. "She reminded me so much of Vivian Leigh," she said. Miss de Havilland has returned to this country for only occasional roles. She played Henry Fonda's wife in "Roots: The Next Generations." She also was in the TV movie "Murder Is Easy."

"I left because the movie business as I had known it was dying," she said. "Television had just come in. You could feel that the whole world I had been part of was dying. It was very depressing."

"North and South," based on the best-selling book by John Jakes, told of two families whose lives became intertwined despite their regional differences. It ended with the onset of the Civil War. The sequel, based on Jakes' latest book, "Love and War," takes the two families through the war. Jakes is now writing a third book on the war's aftermath.

Belize, formerly called British Honduras, is a nation of 158,000 people on the east coast of Central America, with Mexico on the north and Guatemala on its west and south. It achieved independence on Sept. 21, 1981, although Guatemala still claims territorial sovereignty over the country.

Public invited to Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper

St. Thomas Episcopal Church, located at 601 W. Park Ave., is sponsoring its annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper from 5-8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 11, at the church.

The idea is to cleanse the house of all fat, meat, and other animal products in preparation for the Lenten fast.

It is the custom of Episcopalians to have Shrove Tuesday pancake suppers as part of their preparation for Lent.

Tickets for the all-you-can-eat meal are priced at $3 for adults and $1.50 for children 10 years of age and under.

Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, gets its name from the old English verb "to shrive," "to be cleansed."

It is the custom of St. Thomas Episcopal Church to invite the community to share their Shrove Tuesday pancakes.

Ishler points out positive aspects of public education

While recognizing a constant need for improvement, Dean Richard E. Ishler of the Texas Tech University College of Education, sees a lot that is right with public education in the United States.

"We hear so much about what is wrong with public education," he said, "the public may be overlooking some of the best things about our system."

Ask Ishler what's right about public schools, and he can cite a list of about 20 things that put the United States school systems at the top of the list, and he can cite another 10 instances where American teacher education outdistances any in the world.

For example, he said, 94 percent of eligible youngsters are in school today, compared with 60 percent 50 years ago. Although the goal is 100 percent, the improvement should be noted.

Ishler pointed out, too, that in the U.S. system, the public schools attempt to educate every child, while in most foreign countries there is an elitist system that allows only a very few to progress through the college level. In Europe, the percentage is only 10 to 12 percent, and in some countries even fewer.

"In the United States, most of our public colleges and universities have open admission."

In Russia, admission to universities is extremely limited, he said, although that country is increasing its number of vocational schools in order to train much needed skilled labor.

In England, Ishler said, students are required to stay in school until they reach 16 years of age. Then a few are selected for another two-year college preparation course that emphasizes mathematics and science. About 10 to 12 percent go on to the universities.

"The European systems are very selective, whereas in the United States we assist every child who wants to prepare for college."

In the past year, Ishler has spent time in England and Russia, studying the educational systems.

"It was interesting, and I learned a lot about those systems," he said, "but I came back to the United States confident that ours is better."

Japan, too, is now sending educators to the United States to study the public school system, he said. "In that country, too, the educational system has been extremely elitist in the past."

"The importance of the U.S. system to a democracy," Ishler said, "is beyond question."

He pointed out that anyone going before a jury of 12 citizens "wants to be sure that jury can read the evidence and analyze the testimony. That could be a matter of life and death."

"And, of course, democracy is based on the notion of an informed electorate. Democracy can't succeed without that," he said.

"Because of our public education," he said, "we have made the United States among the most literate nations in the world. We are educating the poor, the disadvantaged, the undermotivated. We teach them all, and do a fine job under difficult circumstances."

"More than 50 percent of all high school graduates go on to some form of higher education. No other nation can make this claim."

Ishler praised some of the advances made in public education recently.

"Career ladder programs have been instituted in 24 states. Teacher salaries have been increased in nearly all states. Education has become the number one priority of many state legislatures, and during the past year 48 states passed legislation designed to improve education."

The dean does not approve entirely of all measures taken to improve education, however. He said that while all teachers must be competent, he has some reservations about the pre-professional skills test being required only of persons entering the collegiate level teacher education programs. Ishler said teachers should not be singled out. All college students must possess basic skills, and so testing, is equally valid for all.

In a study he did involving 200 educators holding master teacher certification in Kansas, Ishler said, 38 percent did not have a 2.5 grade point average (with 4.0 the high) at the time of graduation.

"Yet they were excellent teachers and highly qualified to perform well in the classroom. They had acquired sufficient knowledge, of course, but they had something more."

He defined part of the "something more" as interpersonal skills that caused them to motivate and inspire students to learn — "a quality that can't really be measured."

He cited other examples of individuals who had difficulty with tests and yet won recognition for professional performance in their careers.

"The competency testing movement has some value," he said, "but it can't tell the whole story. I can't say the best teachers are born, but they are born with potential, and teacher education programs develop that potential."

Priceless will close its doors Saturday, February 8 at 9 p.m. to make way for the new Save 'n' Gain store. Both Priceless and Save 'n' Gain are divisions of Furr's Inc. and closing the Priceless store now will allow plenty of time for its employees to train for new jobs at Save 'n' Gain.

A BETTER STORE TO SERVE YOU!

We took a long, hard look at our Priceless store and realized that we just couldn't serve our shoppers very well from this older, smaller building. So we decided to close Priceless (and our other Hereford store, Bag & Save) and build a bigger, better store to meet the needs of a growing city.

THANKS!

All of us at Priceless thank you for shopping with us over the years. We've made some good friends since we opened, and we're looking forward to seeing all of you at our new store. Until we open Save 'n' Gain later this month, we'd like to invite you to shop at Bag & Save. We're all part of the same family, and we want to make sure our friends and neighbors have the best possible serving during this transition from old to new.
