Gay Decorations Lend Autumn Color To Party In Bateman Home Friday

One of the loveliest social affairs of the past week was the bridge party given Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. R. Bateman.

Autumn toned chrysanthemums, combining wine-red and terra-cotta with bronze and orange were used throughout the house. In the dining room the lace-laid table was centered with a mound of yellow and bronze blossoms, flanked by tall yellow candles in crystal holders. Prizes wrappings and other appointments for the games were in black and orange.

Prizes were won by Mesdames J. A. Pitman, high, and Leß Morgan, low. Out prizes went to Mesdames John Olson, Lee Morgan, Will S. Kerr, F. H. Oberthier, H. A. Close, W. J. Smith and Miss Katherine Slimp.

These present were Mesdames Ernest Medkief, Glenn Snyder, C. M. Evans, John Olson, Lee Morgan, Emmitt Milburn, Charles Brooks, E. R. Wills, A. Peterson, H. A. Close, C. H. Dyar, E. B. Hicks, W. J. During the short business session, Mrs. Webb Adrian was elected vice-president, and Mrs. Frank Knabe was re-elected reporter.

Mrs. Bailey was welcomed into the club as a new member. Numbers were drawn for prizes which were awarded to Mrs. Clinton Homfeld for hostess, and to Mrs. Wilbur Smith for the club. Mrs. Smith's number also proved the lucky one for the prize offered by Mrs. Homer Dodson.

Club members present were Mesdames Clinton Homfeld, J. E. Jones, Bud Harrison, Fred Burns, Wilbur Smith, Webb Adrian, Frank Knabe, Mrs. Bailey and the hostess, Mrs. Hugh Fortenberry was a visitor.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Homfeld on December 8.

MRS. H. A. CLOSE GIVES BOOK REVIEW FOR STUDY GROUP

Mrs. H. A. Close gave an interesting book review at the meeting of The Lone Star Study Club held Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. C. E. Moore. Mrs. A. R. Posey was assistant hostess.

In reviewing the book, "Shantylight," by Margaret and Kent Lighty, Mrs. Close told the story of a trip down the Mississippi river, relating experiences covering a period of time from October to February as described by two travelers starting from St. Paul, Minnesota, and landing at New Orleans. Historical sketches, legendary stories, interesting facts and the superstitions of the river people were outlined.

The program was built around "The Romantic Mississippi," with Mrs. Roy Jowell as leader.

Beginning with the first settlements in America, Mrs. Jowell told of primitive forms of navigation and gave statistics concerning the enormous amount of traffic on the river and of recent efforts of flood control.

Mrs. Jowell spoke of governmental control and described the miniature river at Vicksburg, a project under the observation of the U. S. Army of engineers.

Scintillating Stars

Katherine Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou bring sparkling characterizations. Miss Hepburn leaves a luxurious home to adopt a stage career. Miss Rogers is her pungent roommate, and Menjou plays the Theatrical Producer in this Broadway success, "Stage Door," which comes to the Star Theatre for the Midnight preview Saturday, through Sunday and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Estes and two daughters of Cross, had moved to Hereford. They had purchased the J. I. Walker property.

At a simple wedding service performed by Dr. G. A. Faris, Miss Annie Clark became the bride of Mr. David W. Stafford. They were accompanied by the bride's brother, Judge Clark.

The play, "Mr. Bob," which had been given the week before, was repeated because only a small crowd was able to attend the first performance. The

The officers of the Eastern Star Lodge had been installed. The Masons and their families were invited for the ceremonies. Officers installed were: Worthy Matron, Mrs. Allen Bell; Worthy Patron, Judge W. H. Russell; Associate Matron, Mrs. Kirkpatrick; Secretary, Mrs. Karl Gilliland; Treasurer, Mrs. T. M. Palmer; Conductress, Mrs. Fred Johnson; Associate Conductress, Mrs. W. H. Russell.

Considerable excitement had been occasioned in Hereford at an early hour in the day by the announcement by telephone that a destructive prairie fire was covering almost the entire country lying northwest of town. The fire had originated in Mexico late the afternoon before and during the night the reflection of the fire could be seen on the western horizon. A strong west wind was blowing at the rate of 35 miles per hour. Those living in that section had asked aid from those living in Hereford. This one of the most destructive blazes and had not yet been placed under control at the printing of that paper.

Mr. Robert Humphrey had returned after three months of traveling in the north with the Panhandle Exhibit Car. Mr. Humphrey had stated that the exhibits of fruits, vegetables and agricultural products served as a mighty convincing power to the hundreds who had heard so much of this country.

The new county officers were busy making bond and taking the oath of office. Notice of the election of city officers had been posted. A mayor and five aldermen were to be chosen.

(From The Hereford Brand, November 16, 1916)

The Baptist Church had issued a church directory giving a list of its officers, and members, the church covenant and articles of faith. The attractive booklet was issued with the purpose of interesting the membership in the work of the church.

WANTED: A SANTA CLAUS
Will your little boy or your little girl enjoy Christmas this year? Will Santa Claus bring him wagons, guns, and those toys which boys love so much; will she awaken on Christmas morning to find that big doll with sleepy eyes? If the answer is "Yes," then everyone is glad for your little boy and your little girl.

Throughout the United States, and even scattered over this section, there are scores of little boys and girls who will not know the happiness which Christmas morning brings. They may not technically be your little boy or your little girl, but they too are entitled to the joy which Christmas morning holds. If the people of Hereford don't take immediate action, somebody's little boy or girl will spend the day in tears.

The Lone Star Study Club has volunteered to repair, repaint and remodel old toys; the club members are willing to give liberally of their time and money in this work, but they need a Santa Claus. In fact, they need about 300 Santa Clauses. They are asking the good people of Hereford and surrounding territory to bring in their old toys; delapidated wagons, old dolls, in fact, just any kind of old toy which can be repaired. A special toy matinee has been announced by John Roberts, who said that the Star Theatre will admit any boy or girl between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock on Friday, Nov. 19, for the price of an old toy.

Others who do not send their toys to the special matinee may bring them to The Brand Office, and the toys will be placed in hands of club members, who stress the necessity of getting toys as early as possible in order that they may be repaired and painted before Christmas. Members of the Lone Star Study Club are due much credit for the task which they have undertaken—and above all, they are due the co-operation and support of the community. Gather up your old toys today, and see that you get them into the right hands to be repaired. Let's make Christmas, 1937, a banner occasion for everybody's little boy and little girl.

Former Hereford Pastor Dies At McLean Sunday

Rev. J. W. Story, pioneer minister of the Panhandle, died at his home in McLean, Sunday, after a brief illness. He suffered a paralytic stroke Thursday night and failed to regain consciousness.

Rev. Story was admitted to the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church in 1878, and only one member of that class is now living. Dr. G. S. Hardy of Clarendon. He held pastorates at Plainview, Clarendon, Quanah and Hereford, and for several years served as presiding elder of the Amarillo and Clarendon districts of the conference. He was pastor of the Hereford Methodist Church in 1908-1910, and left at that time because of Mrs. Story's health. He was a member of the original Northwest Texas conference. When the conference was divided, and the central conference set apart, Rev. Story came to this section as pastor of the Hereford Church.

Four daughters and one son, Beatrice, Lucile, Lucy, Ruth and James attended Hereford schools.

Rev. Story moved to Falfurrias with his retirement in 1925, but moved to McLean four years ago and has resided there since. Funeral services were held in McLean Monday afternoon. Rev. J. H.

for GOODNESS' sake

COOK THE MODERN ELECTRIC WAY

Better cooking results is the BIG reason why you should choose a Westinghouse Electric Range.

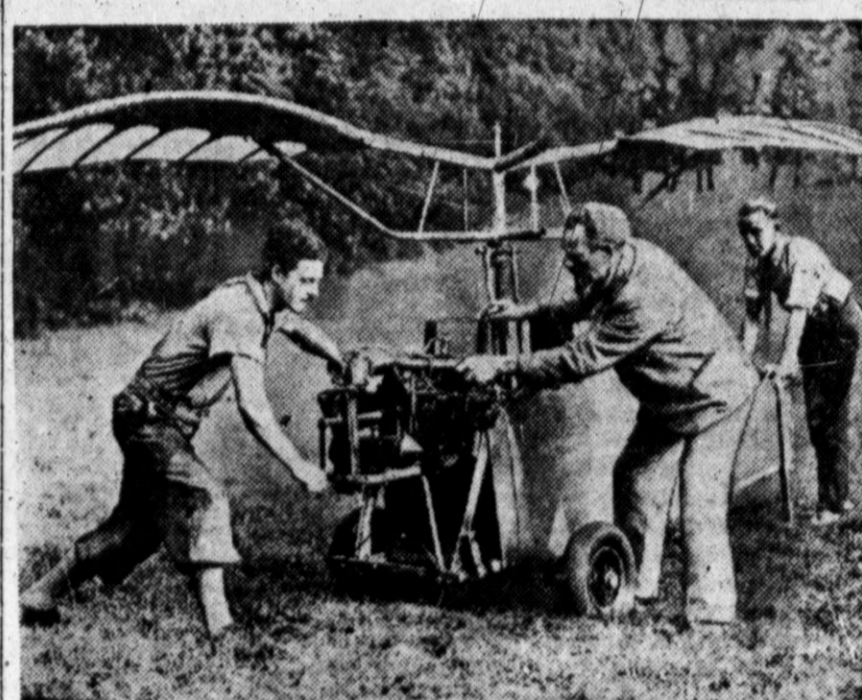

For instance, even while you are away, it cooks complete meals to perfect tender goodness that the family will rave about. Roasts don't shrink nearly so much as formerly; healthful juices are cooked in, not evaporated. The moist, evenly-baked, golden-brown cakes, pies, and biscuits are always a treat for eyes and appetite. So, for goodness' sake, cook with an electric range.

See the beautiful Westinghouse Ranges. Let us prove how much more the Westinghouse gives you in better cooking results, cleanliness, economy of operation, ease of use and time saving, and kitchen coolness. Our convenient pay-as-you-go plan will convince you that other cooking methods are extravagant. Come in.

Here's the "Bird" for Aviation

Not satisfied with present-day aircraft, R. Passat, center, of Curitiba, England, invented this new-type flying machine which he claims is inspired by action of birds in flight. Wings of the "Lark," as he calls it, are covered on the underside with a gauzy material which is said to catch the air like the feathers of a bird in flight.

Harp, pastor of the McLean Methodist Church, and Dr. G. S. Hardy, superannuated minister officiated. The body was sent to Falfurrias, Texas for burial.

Surviving are his widow; three sons, Fred Story, Childress; Robert Story, Plainview; and Jim Story, Houston; three daughters, Misses Ruth and Beatrice Story, and Mrs. A. B. Blake, all of Falfurrias; four brothers and two sisters.

TREE RINGS TELL STORY OF NORTHWEST WEATHER

Periods of good growing weather have alternated with "poor ones" through the last 650 years, but there has been no general trend toward either a drier or wetter climate in the Pacific Northwest, according to the records made by tree rings in the forests of Northern California and Eastern Oregon.

Entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture—studying the relation of tree rings to growth cycles and bark beetle epidemics—since 1923 have analyzed thousands of measurements from 1,240 ponderosa pines—centuries old—in 44 localities in the Northern Great Basin region and in the area drained by the Columbia River.

The growth pattern of these trees, the study shows, has been woven by the weather, the rings increasing in width with increased precipitation. Ring growth has increased or decreased also as the discharge from the Columbia River has risen or fallen.

The tree ring measurements show that in the area where the study was made the growth period from 1917 to 1935 was cril-lially subnormal because of lack of precipitation and lower water tables. However, it does not necessarily follow that a dry year in the Pacific Northwest coincides with a dry one in the Midwest or the East. In several previous dry periods growth was "subnormal for a greater number of years. In none, however, was it so far below normal as in the last one. Growth in 1931—the most severe year—was 32 per cent below.

The average ring growth from 1900 to 1919 was identical with the general average during the past six centuries, bearing out the generally accepted theory that climatic history repeats itself through the ages.

By Their Words AND OURS

First we're wet, then we're dry. It's sure been a case of "On again, off again" with the beer question in the "Free State of Ochliltree." The Herald, in attempting to report the latest news from the Ochliltree Beer Front, has "about faced" on many a story. Developments come thick and fast, what's true one week is reversed the next and no one knows where it will end. During the past week we had Ochliltree county beer trucks held up by state prohibition officers in Hansford county. They were enroute from some source of supply to quench the thirst of Ochliltree county beer guzzlers. But the barrage was lifted, they came through the lines and the "suds are flowing again." We've had a local beer dealer arrested and halled into court for violation of the state prohibition laws. And then came an edict from the Attorney General's office apparently clearing up the situation until action is taken on the appeal to the State Supreme Court on the writ of error from the decision of the Appellate Court at Amarillo. As it now stands today the sale of beer seems to be legal, but we're not saying it will be that way tomorrow. Right now the "drys" are "it" but they may "tag" the "wets on the next play.—Ochliltree County Herald.

Just because you are married you can't sell horses, cows and pigs from your wife's farm.

This was brought out in Dalhart this week when C. P. Jones, farmer living near Seagoville, Texas, was placed in the county jail there.

It seems that Mrs. Jones is suing her husband for a divorce and on June 12 Judge Towne Young, in the Forty-Fourth District Court enjoined husband Jones from communicating with or threatening his wife and from disposing of any other property while the divorce suit was pending.

She managed to get big-hearted and did let her husband live on the farm near Seagoville, but he was only supposed to take care of the crops and milk the cows. What got husband Jones in bad was due to his disposing of two horses, four cows and five pigs belonging to his wife.

It just goes to show that horses, cows and pigs will get a man in bad. Especially if they belong to your wife.—Lamb County Leader.

"Anywhere and anyhow you like, you can write your own ticket."

To see just how far Warren would go, Craig made an almost impossible demand.

"That's a pretty harsh stipulation. I'd have to take your word that you'd sign. But—yes, I'll agree to it."

"Humph! You seem willing to agree to just about anything."

"Anything within reason, yet I'm getting a bargain. And so are you."

Craig thought a moment. There was no question but that Warren stood ready to deposit the quarter-million in any bank and under any conditions that he specified.

At his cabin he unlocked the door—he kept his place locked up tight now—and turned to his two partners.

"Poleon, you step down and visit Patricia and tell her the news. Stay with her for a cup of tea—she's having a lonesome time of it these days. Sam, you go down to the Den and send up half a dozen men to watch my cabin while the dark lasts. It'll only be two or three hours. I want to be guarded every minute till Warren and his outfit have pulled up and left. Don't tell the men anything about this deal. I'll tell 'em myself."

He went inside his cabin, barred the door, stepped across to his table and lit a candle.

As the tiny flame flickered and brightened, he heard a slight noise behind him—a scraping sound like the shuffle of a shoe-pac on the slab floor. Somebody was in his cabin!

His hand shot down to the black automatic in his table drawer. He grabbed out the weapon and whirled around. As he whirled, a heavy stick of stove wood came careening out of the semi-darkness and crashed him full in the face, breaking his nose, breaking out one of his teeth, and stunning him like a hammer blow between the eyes.

From the wood-box behind the stove a dark figure leaped up, swung at him with an iron-tipped ski staff, and took him a paralyzing blow on the head. He slumped against the table, reeling, fighting against a horrible blackness that was engulfing him.

Out of the flickering shadows at the far side of his cabin, four other figures came lunging at him like wolves springing upon a kill, and among them were Lupe Chiwaughimi and Teeste.

With his last gasp of strength Craig lifted the automatic to shoot at those lunging figures; but the man with the ski staff swung again and struck him arm; and the gun went clattering halfway across the cabin.

Two days later, at noon, Craig received a wireless from the Winnipeg bank which he had named. The message stated that the quarter-million had been deposited there for him.

He took no chance that the message might be a fake. With the infinite caution which had marked every step of his negotiations with Warren, he wirelessed the bank directly for confirmation, and also wirelessed instructions to an old Winnipeg lawyer who had been his friend and his father's friend.

Within three hours the bank's reply came.

DEPOSIT AUTHENTIC STOP MONEY YOURS WITHOUT RESTRICTION STOP DEPOSIT MADE BY DRAFT NOT BY CHECK THEREFORE NO POSSIBILITY OF PAYMENT BEING STOPPED.

Toward eight o'clock that evening Corporal Northup came down from the signal corps station, bringing Craig the lawyer's wireless reply.

The old attorney stated that he had investigated the deposit from every conceivable angle and that Craig was absolutely safe.

With Sam and Poleon at his bodyguards, Craig went across

CHAPTER XVII

On the morning after the Chiwaughimis trapped Craig, a prospector came past Patricia's cabin.

"Have you heard the news, Miss Pat?" They's a plane down, atween here and Smith. It left Smith yesterday 'round ten and should've got here in the afternoon, but it ain't showed up yet."

"Who was flying it?" Patricia asked. Most of the northern pilots were good friends of hers and dropped in at her cabin for a sociable cup of tea whenever they made the Bay.

Pilot Odron was a flying it. Him and Mechanic Straus. They just had one passenger. She was this woman that, uh, they say is Craig's wife."

"Rosalie?"

"Yeh. Anyhow, that's what I heard."

Patricia ran up to the Mounted Police building to find out the truth from Dennis Northup.

"It's so." Northup informed her. "Rosalee is with that ship. Four planes out of Smith and two out of Rae are hunting for it. Odron must've run into that snowstorm yesterday. He had wireless reports on it and was afraid of it when he left Smith."

"Why on earth did an experienced pilot like him ever head into so bad a snowstorm?"

"Lovett ordered him to, that's why!" Northup snapped angrily.

"Maybe Odron managed to get down safe when he hit the storm, Dennis. He's an awfully good flyer."

"Yes, it's probably just a forced landing. They'll likely find him somewhere along the route, with a broken ski or something like that."

They talked for a few minutes about the search. Presently Northup asked, "By the way, Patricia, where's Craig?"

"Why, at his cabin, isn't he?"

"No, and he's not down at the Den. D'you have any idea where he's gone?"

"He wasn't planning to go anywhere that I know about. Do you mean he's not here at the Bay at all?"

Northup realized that Patricia knew no more than he about Craig's strange disappearance. Not wishing to alarm her, when possibly there was no occasion for alarm, he said casually:

"Craig must be up to something or other. I guess he's kept his move completely to himself."

Patricia thought no more about the matter just then, but when she got back to her cabin she began wondering where Craig had gone, and she became uneasy. If he had planned to leave the Bay, surely he would have told her. Through Poleon and Northup he always kept her informed of everything he did.

At mid-morning she stepped across the community house and made inquiry among the prospectors. None of them had seen Craig since the previous evening. Poleon and Sam were gone also, they said. The two men had left at dawn, without saying where they were going.

This news about Poleon and Sam relieved Patricia considerably. They were with Craig, she reasoned; and so Craig was entirely safe.

The prospectors, however, were badly upset by Craig's disappearance. From some mysterious source a rumor had sprung up that he had sold his radius like for a big price; and they were all on edge to know whether the report was true.

While Patricia was stilling the fears of the men, a plane came winging in from the South and lit in the mouth of Resurrection. Somebody called out that the ship was one of the Fort Rae searching planes. Most of the prospectors left the Den and hurried down upon the river.

Patricia went into her office, watched through her window, saw the crowd gather about the ship. Pilot Lea Sneddon opened the cabin door, stepped down upon a ski strut. His shoulders sagged; he took off his helmet and hung his head as he spoke a few words to the nearest men.

"He's found Odron!" Patricia cried to herself. Sneddon bowed head, the awed silence that came over the crowd, meant that the news he brought was tragic news.

In her cabin, half an hour later, Sneddon told her about his sorrowful discovery, following the Larrison river. That's the air route we all take to Great Desolation. I'd reached the big lake, I'd come within sight of the Bay and almost stopped hunting, when I looked down at a little wooded island, and there—there it was."

The island was a mile offshore, Sneddon said, and only nine miles south of Resurrection. He had landed nearby, taken a short look at the wreckage, and then whipped on in to report.

"Flying blind in the snowstorm, he hit square into the pines, broke off a wing, smashed the fuselage,

Don't Irritate Gas Bloating. If you want to REALLY GET RID OF GAS don't take harsh, irritating alkalies and "gas tablets." Most gas in the stomach and upper bowel is due to constipation. Adlerika rids you of GAS and cleans foul poison out of BOTH bowels. CITY-DRUG STORE.

Why, at His Cabin, Isn't He? mean he's not here at the Bay at all?"

Northup realized that Patricia and then crashed head-on against a little rock wall. I found Straus and Rosalie down under those pines where he first hit, but Gling-Odron was still in the ship when it cracked; and—the gas tanks caught, and . . . God, there wasn't anything left but the black twisted metal-work!"

Odron dead, Rosalie dead—Patricia could hardly realize it. She could feel no joy in being freed from that hateful injunction. Not when the freedom had cost Rosalee and Straus and Odron their lives.

Near four o'clock that afternoon the sled party which Corporal Northup had dispatched to the wooded island got back to Resurrection, bringing their tarpaulin-wrapped burdens.

After the sensation-seekers had cleared away from the Mounted Police building, Patricia forced herself to go up there. She felt that she had to go, out of a woman's repect for another woman, out of atonement for the bitter feelings which she had harbored toward the girl who had been Craig's wife.

Dennis Northup took her into the room and pointed at the smaller of the two biers and silently left her. Patricia moved over to the bier and looked down at the white-shrouded figure.

Thanksgiving Day Service, 1937, Christian Science Churches

"Thanksgiving" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Thanksgiving Day, November 25.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is my strength and my shield; my heart trusted in him, and I am helped; therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth; and with my song will I praise him." (Psalms 28:7).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will mention the loving kindness for the Lord, and the praises of the Lord, according to all that the Lord hath bestowed on us." (Isaiah 63:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health the Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is not moved by the breath of praise; to do more than He has already done, nor can the infinite do less than bestow all good, since He is unchanging wisdom and love. . . . Love is impartial and universal in its adaption and bestowals. It is the open fount which cries, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters."

Mr. and Mrs. Jacque Finley, children, and Mr. and Mrs. Tipton from Running Water, visited in the A. D. Moore home, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Floyd and Mildred, of Plainview, have been visiting in the A. Norman home.

Adrian Loses To Dimmitt Eleven

Last Thursday the Red Devils went to Dimmitt for their return game. The Bobcats were playing on their own field and before home boosters; consequently they played their best. The Adrian boys seemed to play hard, but at the half the score was 13 to 0 in favor of Dimmitt. In the last half the Bobcats intercepted a pass and made a touchdown, making the final score 19 to 0. About two weeks ago at Adrian, the Red Devils beat Dimmitt 20 to 0.

The players from Adrian were taken to Dimmitt by Mr. Syme, Mr. Johnny Kemp, Mr. Floyd Brown and E. C. Chapman. Some of the others who took their cars were Ray Brown, Mr. Gerald Morgan and Mr. John Skaggs.

Mrs. M. Y. Galloway and little daughter, Ann, of Amarillo, arrived Friday afternoon, to spend the week end with their aunt, Mrs. Seth B. Holman. Driving down Saturday evening, were Mr. Galloway and Miss Louise Evans, all returning home Sunday night.

Travis Dameron To Review Life Of Journalist

A review of "The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens" will be the Discussion Group feature Friday evening at 7:30, it was announced today. The review will be given by Travis Dameron.

Lincoln Steffens' career, which marks the rise of a well trained journalist from an obscure reporter's job to editorship of The Ladies' Home Journal, brims over with sparkling adventure; it deals with an intimate boyhood, interesting study abroad, ordeals in his sensational rise—and then presents a glimpse into the life of a great man.

Mrs. O. G. Hill presented a review of the "Life and Death of a Spanish Town," last week, entertaining the group with subject matter and her interesting manner of interpreting and presenting the story.

Pep Clubs' Stunts Are Outstanding

The most important stunt of the year by the Hereford Band and Pep Club was given Thursday afternoon at the half of the Hereford-Tulla game. The Hereford Pep Club and band marched on the field from the south, headed by the flag bearers, and formed the letters U. S. A., and marched to the north end of the field and back to the center of the grandstand. Here the Pep Club advanced toward the grandstand and the band played the national anthem.

The Tulla Band and Pep Club formed a large H, honoring Hereford and a large T, for Tulla. The Tulla Pep Squad divided and marched on the field from either end, led by their mascots, two little girls dressed in white. While on the field, yells in honor of both teams were given by Tulla's Clubs.

CHARACTER CHART HUNG IN STUDY HALL

The Student Council met Nov. 15. The minutes were read and there were several things brought before the Council. One was to move the senior group pictures from the office to the first floor, but there was no decision made.

The main subject was to put the Character Chart, which the Student Council received, in the Study Hall.

Mr. Hudson, sponsor for the Student Council, showed the different posters for the frame. After the Student Council had seen the posters, Karl Shirley took the poster for this week and hung it up in the study hall. Each student is urged to read these posters each week, as there will be a different poster put in the frame each week.

Season Ends With Crushing Defeat

TULIA GETS FOUR TOUCH-DOWNS IN GAME

Hereford was decisively beaten by Tulla here, Thursday afternoon. The game ended with the score at 25 to 0. The score did not alone show this beating. First downs gave the Tulla Hornets a large majority over the Whitefaces; the first downs were 22 for Tulla and only 2 for the local boys. Paul Foster showed up to be a fine tackler, coming in very frequently to stop Tulla runners. The Hereford offense was far below par as shown by the score and first downs.

Tulla's first score ended a drive that had carried 55 yards. The Hornets had reeled off a first down, when the ball carrier on the following play faked the ball to two men and then cutting off tackle ran clear to Hereford's 2. One plunge put it over. The extra point was nullified. Tulla 6, Hereford 0. As the first quarter came to an end, Tulla had possession of the ball and was going quickly into dangerous territory by passes. The Hornets then turned to run plays going to Hereford's six on one play. Two drives gave the Hornets their second score. Extra point was added. Tulla 13, Hereford 0. Another score was added in the first half when Tulla took the ball from Hereford on downs. Straight run plays took the ball from their own 29 into pay dirt. Most of these plays were short gains, although two were around twenty yards each. No point was added. Score: Tulla 19, Hereford 0.

The third quarter saw no scores although led to the final score in the fourth quarter. Tulla had received a Hereford punt. Two runs, a pass, another run put the ball on Hereford's 11, when the quarter ended. Short drives put the ball over within a few minutes of the fourth quarter. Try for the extra point failed. Final score: Tulla 25, Hereford 0.

Hereford made one threat in the first quarter. After the Tulla touchdown, J. Vaughn passed to Foster in the flat. Foster side-stepped two runners and ran to Tulla's 15 before being pulled down. Tulla, however, stopped the Whitefaces at this point, and the threat was over.

Starting line-up for Hereford: le, F. Vaughn; lt, Posey; rg, Rutherford; c, Brady; rg, Nunn; rt, Boyer; le, J. O. Vaughn; qb, Foster; lh, J. Vaughn; rh, Ashlock; fb, Schumacher.

Starting line-up for Tulla: le, Moon; lt, Rodgers; lg, Hunsaker; c, Stewart; rg, Harris; rt, Cameron; re, McCasland; qb, Hale; lh, Arthurburn; rh, Cook; fb, Graham.

Football Season Casualties

The football season is over for Hereford and it is now possible to publish a report on the injuries to the team this year, which have been unusually prevalent.

The first major casualty was Dean Dunlap, who broke his collarbone in practice at the beginning of the season. Ferrell Miles then wrenched his knee so that he was unable to play in several games. Ray Nunn broke a bone in his wrist and was on the bench in the last game of the season. This was the game which was disastrous to Bud Bradley, as well as the rest of the team, for in it he broke a bone in his leg and had to be helped off the field. There were, of course, trivial injuries to almost all the members of the team, but the above are the worst.

These boys should be congratulated for their courage, and the rest of the team should be congratulated for the fine manner in which it carried on without them.

Juniors Have Van Buren Reunion

The Junior class party went over with a bang! Just ask anyone who was there and see what they will tell you.

Everyone came dressed as Hill-Billies, and prizes were won by Margaret Bowers and Bud Wilkins for looking most like real Hill-Billies.

Mr. Willoughby won the liar's contest, between the Martins and the Coys. He happened to be a Martin; so he beat us Coys.

The History of Van Buren, Ark., was given by Sadye Coy, alias Virginia Newell.

Accordions numbers were played by Phloosey and Philby Martin and Sary and Sadye Coy (reading from left to right, Minnie Dea Smith, Jeane Williams, Helea Ruth Barber and Virginia Newell.) Jimmy Fullwood was requested to play several pieces on the accordion.

"Mountain Music" was sung by a trio, consisting of Daisy Mae Seragges (Barbara Brotherton), Mammie Yokum (Faye Crostwalt) and Suzy Coy (Edith Jackson). They were accompanied later by the whole group singing it, with Jeane Williams, Pleebey, playing on her accordion.

We had a sing-song and sang old numbers as "Peronie," "Red Sails in the Sunset," "The Old Grey Mare," "Put on Old Grey Bonnet."

A shot gun wedding was performed by the Coys.

Mr. Bill Smith was requested to play two piano pieces that had very catchy tunes to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith and Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Williams were the judges for the contests.

Refreshments were served to all Hill-Billies, which we readily enjoyed. P. S. Everyone got two pieces of pie.

All this happened last Friday night, November 5, at the City Hall.

HOME ECONOMIC CLUB AND CLASS TO PRESENT PLAY

The Future Home Makers Club and the boys' home economics class are going to present an assembly program, November 23, on correct and incorrect manners. In a humorous and amusing, yet educational way, the play will attempt to give the right and wrong way of doing things. The cast chosen was Kathaleen Flowers as Betty, Mary Tiefel as Betty's mother, Sylvester Loerwald as Betty's father, Jack Boydston as Betty's brother, Bud Bradley as Betty's boy friend, Charles Spradley as Bud's friend, Jarrel Rutherford as the clerk at the drug store and Kenneth Potter as the doorman at the theatre.

After The Game Was Over

Following the Armistice Day game between Tulla and Hereford, the Hereford Pep Club and Band acted as hosts to the football teams, the Tulla Band and Pep Club at an informal reception held in the First Baptist Church.

While awaiting the arrival of the football boys, the crowd was entertained by popular music played by Troy Wumble. The entire group joined in singing these pieces.

After the introduction of the various clubs and teams by Viola Phillips, president of the Hereford Pep Club, the visitors and the host groups were instructed to form a line for receiving refreshments—a high class "bread line"—of sandwiches, pumpkin pie, potato chips, and cocoa.

The Tulla group was escorted to their special train following this entertainment.

We had a sing-song and sang old numbers as "Peronie," "Red Sails in the Sunset," "The Old Grey Mare," "Put on Old Grey Bonnet."

A shot gun wedding was performed by the Coys.

Mr. Bill Smith was requested to play two piano pieces that had very catchy tunes to them.

A Long Time Ago In School

Who said anything about football anyway? Basket ball is the best sport on earth, or at least for one season of the year. Too bad the game with Dimmitt was called off. We've got a feeling that a lot of excess yelling could be yelled off our minds, or something to that effect. During the first part of the season in 1916 both the girls' and boys' teams were very successful. The boys trounced Faywell soundly to the tune of 28-24 on October 15. A week or two later the girls showed Wayland college the technique of the game which ended 18-9, proving that they were just twice as good, no doubt. Bob Wilson captained the boys crew and played center. The girls did not have a regular captain, but Elizabeth Oberthor was their leading forward.

During this year America entered the war, and a fellow named Harold Hanlow had to stay in for talking and he bemoaned his fortune in this way: "Mr. Fertsch, if you keep me in for talking, I don't see why you don't keep the other girls." The sissy in 1925 another amazing statement jolted the school at its foundations, almost. Mr. Hayes, a mathematics teacher, remarked one day in class while explaining a problem on the board: "Now if you will look at the board, I'll run through it for you." What a man. Miss Pullingim had the same idea April 19, 1927, when she also remarked to a surprised bunch of seventh graders: "Now watch the board while I go through it." Tsk, tsk it must run in the mathematics family.

The school received an entire day for a holiday Armistice in 1927. Mr. Dillehay put it up to the school to vote on whether they wanted a holiday Armistice or later on in the year. One girl wanted to celebrate 'April Fool's Day' instead, but most of the students acted on the principle 'a bird in hand is worth two in the bush,' and the majority won. Then the school board took the matter in hand and made the students' desires official. There were several optimists or something that year because a girl named Frances, stood looking at the demerit board and exclaimed happily: "Oh, kid! Look. My name is next to Arthur's!" Swell.

JUNIORS GIVE HISTORY OF VAN BUREN, ARKANSAS

Van Buren is a little town in the hills of the Ozarks near the Oklahoma border, where us Martins and Coys has lived for many generations. My great, great, great, etc., Grandpa Snazy was the first one of us to settle there. His son's daughter's son, my Uncle Hezzely, I calls him Hez for short, and his wife, Aunt Boo, can tell you night on to most anything you would like to know about this country. Especially about the moonshine distills. He, Uncle Hez, has shot more of them revenoo officers for monkeying around his distills than any other man in these hills.

Cowhands Paint Town

Regular meetings of Cowhands on Tuesday night, November 9, found the business session shortened because of outside work. The HI-Y president asked the Cowhands for their support of a father and son banquet. The Cowhands promised their support after Thanksgiving, but not until. The meeting was adjourned after members were appointed to help the Athletic Association handle the Tulla visitors, November 11. All the members helped to give the town a coat of whitewash and red paint. The old Hereford Spirit was shown as this work went in. Tulla knows the Whitefaces welcomed her.

The Whiners

I don't mind the man with a red blooded kick,
At a real or fancied wrong,
I can stand for the chap with the grouch, if he's quick.
I have praises for the fellow who says that he thinks,
Though his thoughts may not fit 'with mine,
But spare me from having to mix with the gnats,
Who go through the world with a whine.

Adrian Graders Enjoy Armistice Program Thursday

Thursday, November 11, Mrs. Edith Levi's fifth and sixth graders gave the chapel program. The students made poppies out of red, green and yellow crepe paper; and the students marched into the auditorium. Robert Chapman and Sarah Bogie gave to each of them one of these poppies. Orville Calhoun gave the welcome, entitled "The Privilege." The next number on the program was a song and drill, entitled "Soldiers All." This included everyone in Mrs. Levi's room. Last, but not least, was a playlet which included all of the members of the fifth and sixth grades. The name of it was "Soldiers of Peace." Mrs. Levi asked Reverend Godwin of Vega, to come and play his saxophone, but he was unable to come; so she planned the above program.

Proceeds from publication of the book will be used to purchase instruments for band students, leaders said. The Hereford Band has been penalized in recent years because of scarcity of instruments, and the association hopes to raise enough money to equip the band properly.

tion agent, we will attempt to employ one of the best in the service," Judge Earl W. Wilson said, following a discussion of the topic by the court. "We feel that past work in this area will necessitate an exceptionally good agent, since work in the past has provided general assistance along many lines."

Appeals to the court for a demonstration agent have stressed the fact that through irrigation his section is adapted to produce many products with which other areas may not be favored, and the agent is sought in view of possible assistance in developing phases of work which have not been emphasized in past years.

beets from a man who knows the advantages and liabilities of the commodity. Mr. Balmer will also answer questions at the meeting.

Chambers of Commerce Secretary H. V. Henne made an appeal to all farmers in this area to attend the meeting: "We have secured the services of Mr. Balmer, and we believe that he will give us an unprejudiced survey of the condition as it will appear in this section."

Now is a good time to make up your mind about sugar beets, and which may have been troubling you since the idea of sugar beets became prominent in this section.
