

Water Importation Deemed Feasible For Future

By TOM PORTER
Staff Writer

LUBBOCK — More than sixteen hundred persons from through Texas and neighboring states gathered here Wednesday afternoon for a historic occasion — the forming of Water, Inc. The association had not been officially formed late Wednesday but reliable sources said that 33 area men will be named as directors — the same source said that one of the men nominated would be Dick Godwin of Hereford. Godwin would represent Deaf Smith and Oldham counties in the corporation.

More than 100 persons from Deaf Smith and Oldham Counties met prior to the meeting to hear a report of an organizational meeting Wednesday morning. They were told at that time of the 33 directors being appointed, including Godwin.

During the early part of the session there were speeches by Joe G. Moore, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board; Marvin Nichols a partner in Freeze, Nichols Enders, consulting engineer of Ft. Worth, and Leon Hill, district director of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation.

Moore reviewed the actions of the TWDB since its organization in 1965 and the results of studies it has made during that period. He summed up his talk by saying that "It does appear engineeringly and economically feasible to move water into the West Texas Area."

Moore stated that the project for moving water from the Mississippi River is "looking best." "It appears to be in time and possibility, the most feasible," Moore cautioned those attending to agree among themselves that there will be a little give and take, but that they must follow a unified course and speak with a single voice.

"If there is any one person or a power play seeking a personal gain, it will only delay action. It is important to have the state behind you and also the support of neighboring states. It is important to have the cooperation of federal agencies, the congressman, both outside the state and neighboring states and you should know your existing program in the state."

Hill told the group that "the water deficit for the area is large. It has been estimated that the West Texas area will eventually require an additional 15 million acre feet of water for ultimate development."

"New Mexico has advised that it needs 1 1/2 million acre feet per year for preservation of its existing development. New Mexico also states that it needs a total of 17 million acre feet per year to realize its economic potential development in the eastern part of the state."

This is a total of 32 million acre feet per year and it requires a continuous flow of 44, 200 cubic feet per second by way of comparison this is almost 9 times the flow the Rio Grande can safely carry past Albuquerque. It is almost twice the rate of flow that the Canadian River below Sanford Dam could carry without causing damage.

Hill discussed several sources of water including the North American Water and Power Alliance which considers bringing water from the Yukon and western Canada through the Rocky Mountain trench that would be

... future water needs for the area are formed late Wednesday in Lubbock, being discussed and Water, Inc. was being into the Columbia river system and the Great Lakes.

Other sources included Canada, the Columbia River; the Rio Grande, Pecos, San Juan and Canadian Rivers, breaks of Kansas and Oklahoma and the Mississippi. Hill said the water can be transported through a series of dams, locks and canals, "the problems of importing water do not see such major points of delivery. There still remains the matters of terminal storage and distribution.

Speaking of financing, Hill said "the cost of imported water will be high. The project will undoubtedly require every assistance in its financing. Further I believe the cities and towns should be prepared to assist in financing the irrigation costs in addition to paying the entire municipal and industrial costs."

Nichols said "This is going to be a tremendous undertaking, costing billions of dollars. It is engineering feasible and a way will be found to finance it."

He stated that farmers are going to be paying and people in specific area are going to be paying and the state as a whole will be paying because it will benefit and the federal government already recognizes the importance of the project.

Nichols also emphasized the importance of "marching down the road together." In closing Nichols said "I think 20 years from now many of you will look back and say with satisfaction that "I am sure glad that I was in Lubbock, Texas May 24, 1967 when Water, Inc. was set up."

Scheduled to speak later Wednesday afternoon were General W. T. Bradley, division engineer of the southwest division of the U. S. Corps of Engineers and A. C. Verner, president of the First National Bank of Lubbock Following Verner's talk, the schedule called for the formation of the association.

Water, Inc., was formed earlier this month as the first major step to getting enough water imported into the area to supplement that being taken from the underground formations.

At that first meeting, some 25 High Plains business and agriculture leaders formed the non-profit corporation for the announced purpose of "protecting and expanding the area's economy through water development."

The permanent board will have authority to establish boundaries, and it was thought that they probably would include the Texas Panhandle, South Plains, Eastern New Mexico and parts of Oklahoma.

Also, the board will set policy which will be carried out by the executive committee and officers appointed by the board. The policies include the study and research, collection and dissemination among the people and public agencies information showing the immediate need for the extra fresh water.

Water, Inc., also has the objectives to promote the economic and social well being of the inhabitants of the area now or hereafter served by the non-profit corporation through support of programs for the acquisition of a sufficient water supply for present and future needs of agriculture, ranching industry and municipalities, and to promote, conduct and participate in studies, surveys and research programs for the importation, distribution, utilization and storage of water.

Surveys reveal that there are more than 60,000 wells currently pumping water from an underground formation to irrigate 5 million acres in a 42-county region. Experts predict that the underground water supply will reach a peak by 1980 and then decline unless the supplemental water is made available.

With the underground water and the supplemental water, the amount of land under irrigation on the High Plains could triple.

At the previous Lubbock meeting, Marvin Nichols of the Fort Worth Engineering firm of Freeze, Nichols and Enders, said an annual budget of about $130,000 would be needed to carry out the objectives of Water, Inc. He added that the project involves 15 to 20 years of work and will cost several billion dollars, so officials of the corporation should consider putting a representative in Washington.

Nichols also urged Water, Inc. to become affiliated with the Mississippi Valley Association and the Red River Valley Association, because both probably have to be dealt with in importing the water to this area. One survey already filed with the Texas Water Development Board shows that East Texas and the Mississippi River are two good sources for water.

In a meeting in Hereford April

30, Dick Godwin was elected chairman of another new organization — the Deaf Smith County Water Association. Vice chairman is Wilburn Ake.

Purpose of the DSCWA is "to solve water problems and fulfill water needs of Deaf Smith County." It also was proposed "that in the execution of its purpose, the intention of DSCWA shall be to work with any and all area water organizations in which Deaf Smith County is included, through cooperation and coordinated effort with such area water organizations for the mutual benefit of all communities involved, provided that equal or reasonable benefit shall accrue to Deaf Smith County."

At that time, Godwin said "national leaders are becoming increasingly aware of the agricultural value of our area as a requisite to the task of feeding the nation and the entire world. The organization of an area water association is the first step toward the organizing of a water district."

During a PEP (Panhandle Economic Program) meeting in Hereford March 28, Nichols explained that Deaf Smith County is in Zone 1 of the Red River Basin.

"In 1960," Nichols said, "it was estimated that 1,600,000 acre feet of water was taken out of this area for irrigation purposes. If we have the water in 2020, we could irrigate 2,500,000 acre feet of water. However, experts estimate there will be only 200,000 acre feet of water available then.

An acre foot of water is 325, 900 gallons.

Jeff Carlisle Assumes Duties At Local Bank

Jeff R. Carlisle, just recently elected by the Board of Directors of the Hereford State Bank as vice-president and director, has now taken over his new duties at the bank.

The election was held to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Russell E. Carver, who is leaving the bank as president and director.

In a resolution unanimously approved by the board, it gave their sincere appreciation for Carver's many years of dedication and personal efforts pledged to the success of the bank. It was pointed out that during his tenure as president, the growth of the bank had been sound and continuous.

Carver will remain with the bank until June 15 in an advisory capacity, according to President Harlan Vander Zee.

Carlisle comes to Hereford from Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he had for the past four years been employed by The Comptroller of the Currency, U. S. Treasury Department as a National Bank Examiner. Until May 6 of this year, he was executive vice president. See CARLISLE Page 2

County Court Approves Dugout

Replica Of First Home In Hereford Is Planned

Deaf Smith County Commissioners pledged their support Monday to a plan by the county Historical Society to construct a replica of the Troy Womble home, often called "Hereford's first residence."

Three directors of the Deaf Smith County Historical Society — Mrs. Johnny Turrentine, Mrs. Henry Sears and Mrs. Juston McBride — appeared during the commissioner's regular meeting to describe their plan.

The home, explained the women, will be as near like the dugout built by Womble in 1898 as possible. In order to get a first-hand look at what was planned, the women and commissioners went to the Deaf Smith County Museum grounds at Fourth and Sampson.

After consulting with commissioners and measuring distances the women decided the dugout should be placed directly east of the old windmill behind the museum. The 12 by 16 foot home will lie about four feet under the ground and the remainder on top.

It was believed that Womble's one-room home had stones lining the walls and a roof made of 1 by 12 foot boards. The women said they will be seeking the "native stone" used in this work.

Also, the women said they already have an old iron bed, stove, table and old wool quilts to put in the dugout.

Harry Lomas and Bill Hacker are expected to direct construction, which will start as soon as possible. County commissioners will supply machinery and some labor for the job.

"According to 'A History of Deaf Smith County," by Bessie Patterson, Womble "guessed that a town would be built near the intersection of the projected railroad and Tierra Blanca Creek. He and his brother-in-law L. R. Bradley, used a map and selected the place where they thought the railroad was most likely to cross the creek."

"The next day he set out for Amarillo and filed on three sections of land. He returned and built a dug-out. When the railroad was built that year of 1898, Troy Womble's dug-out sat squarely on the right-of-way."

In earlier action during the day, several citizens met with the court in regard to opening of a road that would eventually connect the paved road north out of Friona that goes to Harrison Highway to the paved road 1412 that goes by Simms Elevator.

Citizens in that area had earlier petitioned the court to open a road so that farmers would have an access road through eight miles of farm land to reach the east-west Farm to Market Road.

Phillip Miller and Charlie Burke discussed some problems with the court in securing easements for the road. They said all had been secured or promised up to within two miles of 1412.

Palmer Norton, one of the land owners of that last two miles was asked to appear before the court. When he arrived, the court explained the need for a straight road for that area — explaining that future development through the area was dependent on careful planning of preliminary stages. Miller said that he would think that a 100 foot right of way would help to eliminate problems toward any future paving plans. The court said that a good straight road without problems would in the future stand a better chance of being considered for paving.

Norton said, in referring to the road which will cut through his ranch, "It will hurt me on that half because it will cut that half off. It won't help me, but I want to get along. I have lived here a long time and hope to continue living here. Progress is dependent on people cooperating."

The commissioners asked Miller and Burke to continue discussing the easements with citizens of the area in order to expedite the project.

Bob Price Lays All Problems To Public

By TOM PORTER
Staff Writer

Congressman Bob Price painted a bleak picture of the present administration's handling of national and international affairs at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn Saturday night as he presented "A Report to the People."

Approximately 225 residents from six counties heard the freshman Congressman lash out at President Johnson on numerous items, and make predictions on others. Main items hit by Price were deficit spending, the national debt, Viet Nam War, Adam Clayton Powell, Supreme Court, Social Security, inflation, and farm problems.

Residents of Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Oldham, Potter and Hockley counties interrupted Rep. Price 11 times to applaud his statements. The congressman also described his actions since arriving in Washington this year, the bills he has introduced to the House of Representatives and other bills which will come before the legislative body in the near future.

Price's report was preceded by a barbecue supper and an oration by Mary Rando of Friona.

Swimming Pool Opens June 1

Youngsters of all ages will have a place to cool off from summer heat next week when the Hereford Municipal Swimming Pool opens its doors on June 1.

The pool will be opened every day except Monday with the hours being from 2-8:00 p. m.

Manager for the pool this year is Floyd Payne.

na. Clint Formby of KPAN Radio was master of ceremonies. Price began by reading a list of legislation now pending in the Congress. He named air pollution, highway beautification, development of resources and an increase in social security benefits.

Dwelling on social security, Price said, "the present administration is advocating a 20 per cent increase in social security. They say this will bring it up to the present cost of living, as well as anything they can see in the foreseeable future. The Republican administration is advocating an 8 per cent increase, to be paid out of funds already funded — $120 billion — which will not cause an increase in federal taxes."

"If I were predicting today, I would say they will compromise on a 10 to 12 per cent increase in social security." Continuing to discuss the problem, Price said, "The social security program was sold to us under the guise of being an insurance program and it was not an insurance program. What it is, is taxation."

He explained that the money was put aside and some of the people who began paying in 1938 are eligible to withdraw their funds. "But, because our government has been such a poor banker, we might say, with the funds that were entrusted to him, their funds today are eroded in half — actually 43.5 per cent of what it was when they put it in there."

"Now, where does the government's responsibility lie to these people who have become of age to draw the funds," Price asked. "It wasn't their fault inflation ate their money away and eroded their savings. It was a mandatory program. It took their money from them."

As a comparison, Price said a person who had been paying in funds on retirement from the railroad also will receive only 43.5 per cent of his funds. "Yet, there's no one to increase their cost of living. Yet their tax dollars are being used to pay for it." See BOB PRICE Page 2

Summer Classes Slated June 5

Nancy Walker, French teacher in Hereford High School, is planning to conduct classes in conversational French this summer. These classes will be open to anyone who is interested and will be conducted for five weeks.

Adults, students who have had French and people who are interested in beginning French are invited to join the class. Miss Walker said. Classes will last two hours daily and two sessions are slated. One tentatively for 8-10 a. m. and the other 6-8 p. m.

High school students who have had French will be able to earn 1/2 credit for the course. All that is required of any student is attendance and class participation. No homework will be given.

Cost for the five week course is $12.50 per person. Miss Walker plans to interview prospective students — both who have signed up for the class and those who would like to be members. She will conduct the interviews June 1 at 10 a. m. in the high school auditorium. If a person cannot attend this organizational meet-

GRADUATION PICTURES

The Hereford Brand was able to print pictures of all of the individual graduates for 1967 because a local photographer struggled with the dozens of prints and came up with individual photos, arranged in alphabetical order. Bill Angel supplied the pictures and certainly deserves the thanks of the paper the graduates and their parents.

Cattle Feeders Form New Group

Richard Jagels and Joe Easley of Hereford were among 12 area men elected to the board of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, which was formed Monday.

President of the first statewide cattle feeders association is Jack Carrothers of Friona. The association will be based in Amarillo.

TCFA was formed following a split with the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association of Fort Worth. It had been formed as the Cattle Feeders Division of the TSCRA six years ago, when the feedlot industry began to develop in strength.

The primary purpose of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association is to represent the interests of cattle feeding throughout the state and to provide services to the feeding industry.

Lloyd Bergsma of Fort Worth, who was appointed executive secretary of the TCFA, said there are now 294 livestock feedlots in Texas having 1,900 head of cattle or more on feed. The Texas Panhandle area has 112 of the total and there some 14 new feedlots and expansion units under construction on the High Plains.

FACINIQUE — This artistic development of foils and paint is so named because it is "fascinating and unique". It can be seen at Hereford State Bank. Shown standing next to the picture are the artist, C. E. Birkmeyer Sr. and his wife. The art object is valued by some at over $50,000, although no formal price has ever actually been placed on it.

Gold Painting Displayed In Hereford State

An unusual work of art is on display in the Hereford State Bank. The picture, a diaramic perspective is being displayed with the permission of the artist, C. E. Birkmeyer Sr.

Birkmeyer conceived the construction idea and has been working on it since December. Central theme of the work is a large gilded aluminum bowl, designed in perspective, filled with delicate roses. The roses are of brass. Each petal was formed individually, then covered with 23-carat gold leaf and intricately put together. After applying the gold leaf to the rose leaves, Birkmeyer sprayed some of them with a bronze green paint. Some of the rose petals are lightly shaded.

The bowl and roses then were placed on a velvet covered tabletop and backed by a maroon velvet drape. The whole creation was installed in a handsome frame carved by Birkmeyer from a solid block of mahogany which originally weighed 143 pounds. The total display, exclusive of the pedestals measures 40 by 46 inches and weighs 131 pounds. The mat on the frame is of gold-plated elastic cloth and the whole is illuminated from the inside by a concealed light.

"Fascinique" is the latest product of Birkmeyer's creative imagination. He calls himself a recognized inventor, a painter, a poet and a handy man.

A native of League City, Tex., Birkmeyer moved to Amarillo in 1926. Until his retirement several months ago, he was president of Ace Builders Supply. He has been interested in the creatived her talent to making extime, he studied at the Art Institute in Chicago. He is a friend and former student of artist Ben Carlton Mead. Birkmeyer, Mead and the late George Autry made many excursions together into the country to sketch and paint. Another famous Panhandle artist, the late Harold Bugbee of Clarendon, was a close personal friend.

Mrs. Birkmeyer shares her husband's interest in creative activities. She has dabbled in oil painting and recently has devoted her talent to making exquisite heirloom balls out of silk, velvet, lace and jewels.

The Birkmeyer home boasts a studio — workshop and many evidences of the family handiwork. Among these are carved cornice boards with inlaid pieces of fabric matching the draperies. A carved coffee table is a focal point in the family living room. Caricatures of their three children hang in the master bedroom.

Of his most recent and most ambitious undertaking, "Fascinique," Birkmeyer said "I just got the idea and wanted to see if I could do it. When I showed the idea to friends they said either 'it's fascinating' or 'it's unique' so I coined the name, Fascinique.

Last fall a pen and ink drawing done by Birkmeyer was accepted as one of "The Forty Best" in the Texas Fine Arts Association exhibition. The drawing was based on an original poem the artist had written entitled "Old Gabby."

There has not been any idle time for Birkmeyer since his retirement from active business interests. When he wasn't working on "Fascinique," he was busy inventing. His latest invention reflects his interest in bridge. It is an automatic bridge scoring device (for which a patent has been applied). If he markets the product, there will be an end to bridge — scoring arguments.

Driver's School Plans Completed

Plans which were announced earlier this month about the Department of Public Safety offering an instructional course for adults desiring driver's license instruction in the Hereford area have now been completed.

The classes are set for June 5, and 6 and 8 and will be from 7:30 to 9:00 each night at the Community Center. There will be no charge for the instruction and persons who are having trouble securing a driver's license are urged to attend. L. Patrolman Dick Burchfield stationed in Amarillo with Safety Education Service, a phase of the DPS, said that he hopes to conduct the course as a bilingual course.

Burchfield explained that they could help many more people that way. He pointed out that driver's manuals had been printed in Spanish and that many persons need oral instruction in Spanish before they can pass the test.

Persons registering for the school will not be charged at all and will be under no obligation. They will study the actual questions, such as are asked on the test and modern techniques of audio-visual teaching will be used. Overhead projectors will also be used to show driving rules in action and to illustrate signs and their meanings.

Registration will be conducted at the beginning of the course and upon completion of the course, those attending will have assistance in filling out their application blanks for driver's license.

People who want to brush up rules are welcomed to attend. Burchfield said that similar schools have been conducted in Groom, Tulla and Lubbock and he also said that later, he hopes to conduct a driver improvement course that will help drivers to meet problems posed by modern traffic and highway systems.

More information may be obtained by contacting the highway patrol office here.

lar goes to pay the recipients of social security."

"So this is the decision I have to make, just what is fair to the folks who are going to be the recipients of social security?"

"Actually," Price went on, "this money has been spent that has been put in the social security system. And the working people of today are not paying for the recipients of social security. And when we get to that age, our children are going to be the ones that are paying ours."

"So today, as we look on these programs, there are three or four things I think of when I go to take a vote in Congress. That we owe a trillion, 300 million dollars in this country. That's what we owe — a trillion, 300 million dollars — to social security benefits, veterans pensions, civil service employe retirement and such."

"We can't live long enough to pay it. We in this country have actually mortgaged our children's lives. We have mortgaged his life because we are not going to be here to pay for it."

Continuing, Price said, "This country owes $336 billion in deficit spending over the past few years. The administration says we are going to have about an $8 billion deficit this year. It's already over $11 billion and they haven't even started. Next year, they say it's going to be $24 billion and I wouldn't be surprised if it isn't $35 billion."

"The interest on our national debt today is costing us $14 billion a year to have the luxury in the programs we are enjoying in this country. They say if we stopped every program we are on today, it would take us 23 1/2 years simply to pay the interest on our national debt without paying one dime against the principal."

"When are we going to stop? Who is government? What is government? It's the people. And we tend to blame it on everyone else. We're not willing to take time in our own communities to run for public office or go to church to help. Nor in our state levels. Nor in our national levels of government. We're too busy destroying ourselves. And so America is going to have to wake up to responsibility."

"Everyone says 'What's the answer?' The people are the answer. They're the ones that are running this country — the people. When we cease to do the will of the people, then we're not re-elected."

Price said a bill he helped sponsor has passed and calls for an increase in Veterans and survivors benefits. "Many people say, well, that's pretty liberal. But I sincerely believe that the men who have gone to fight for the freedom of this nation so that we could sit home and enjoy the privileges that we have in this country are entitled to the same benefits as the World War I and World War II veterans are receiving today for his education and benefits of this nature."

"Because they are the ones that are giving it all so that we can have these enjoyments."

Discussing Adam Clayton Powell, Price said "Mr. Powell has since presented his credentials to Congress. I don't believe he would be voted back in. However, he has chosen to fight his case in the Supreme Court. The area here that is going to be involved in this case is that Mr. Powell will sue the Congress, sue the Speaker of the House, the minority leader and the majority leader. And so they hired a lawyer to defend the Congress. Many people felt that we had made our decision — that was final — and they had no right to try to overturn our decision."

Price said one court already has said it had no jurisdiction in the case and would not hear it. A higher court has the case now and if it refuses to act on it, the case will go to the Supreme Court, which may take the same procedure and then the case will be over.

"If they rule they have jurisdiction in the case, and they hear it and rule in favor of Mr. Powell, then we are going to have a direct confrontation between Congress and the Supreme Court."

"Many people dread this. I look forward to it. I think its time we put a stop to some of the decisions of this body that was created by Congress. If this happens, then Congress will say, 'Let's see you enforce it,' and it remains to be seen what will happen."

Speaking of the budget, Price said, "The President last fall, intentionally I believe, shortened his budgets. He had four different budgets, of which each one had a deficit of from $2 to $25 billion programmed in it."

Price stated that the President had limited the military, "knowing full well that he could come in there the first of January and ask Congress for supplementary appropriations for the men in Viet Nam. And who can vote against the men in Viet Nam? It wasn't even in his budget. Asked for $4.5 billion the first two weeks in January and came back two weeks later and asked for another $12 billion, $196 million.

According to Price, President Johnson also took away several million dollars from agriculture experimentation and wanted to stop the school lunch program. "He new the irate mommas would want their school lunch program, and, sure enough, in January, the mommas raised so much cain that they put the money back in there. And he knew that the Agriculture Department would raise so much cain that Congress would go back in there and demand that the money be put back in there."

There also were 190,000 troops inducted into the service with no funds to allow for it, continued Price.

The Congressman said farm prices have raised 19 per cent since 1952, while prices received by the farmers have decreased 6 per cent. There were 15 million people on the farm in 1960, and today we have 13 million, with 3.3 million people actually doing the farming.

"We have over 800,000 people leaving the farms every year. And there's an industry that's sick when that many people leave it," declared Price. "I sincerely believe that the only time we will get farming back to the farmers is when we get the government out of our business."

On Viet Nam, Price said there are over 500,000 troops there today and it is expected that another 150,000 will be sent shortly. Over 10,000 men have been killed and 50,000 injured in a war which is costing $2 billion a month.

"In our briefings in Washington," said Price, "they speak of the capabilities of Russia today. If they were to attack this nation — we being Americans wouldn't attack them first. If they were to hit us with their powerful atomic weapons today, they talk in figures of annihilating 130 million of us. And if we were to retaliate, we would get 90 million of them."

Concluding, Price said, "There have always been problems in life. That's what life is about. If we had them all solved, there wouldn't be any reason for living. And this is the challenge God gave us. We have challenges every day. And the harder

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Right to Quit

Quitting a job may be costly in two ways: not only in terms of wages, but also in terms of unemployment insurance.

For our system of unemployment insurance is designed primarily to help the man who is laid off, not the man who quits. In most cases, the man who quits is disqualified—for a certain period—from collecting any benefits.

But what if you quit not because you don't want to work but because conditions on the job have become intolerable?

That does make a difference. In such circumstances, the law recognizes a kind of "right to quit"—without affecting your claim to compensation. You are then entitled to the same benefits as the person who has been laid off.

Consider this situation: A stenographer had an office manager who made her life miserable. Over a period of months, he lashed her with insults and bullied her with profanity.

When she finally quit and claimed unemployment benefits, the company demurred:

"Unemployment insurance doesn't cover a case like this. After all, the young lady wasn't fired. She is unemployed only because she herself chose to be unemployed."

But the court held she was indeed entitled to collect, since her quitting was not—in any fair sense—a matter of choice, at all.

In another case, a veteran employee's wages, already at a modest level, were suddenly slashed 40 per cent in a company reorganization. In these circumstances, too, the court held he had a right to quit without being disqualified for unemployment compensation.

On the other hand, you cannot collect benefits if the grievance that makes you quit is relatively minor. Thus:

Compensation was denied to a man who quit because he resented the friendly kidding he got from fellow workmen. The court decided he was out of work not because he was too badly treated but because he was too easily offended.

Once a near-sighted truck driver, after being involved in three accidents, was told by his employer to get glasses.

If the challenge, they tell me, the next one is a little bit harder.

"And there will always be problems in life. That's what life is about. If we had them all solved, there wouldn't be any reason for living. And this is the challenge God gave us. We have challenges every day. And the harder

HONORED — Retiring Teacher Frank Jones receives recognition from Superintendent Johnny Clark for his 21 years of teaching service in Hereford schools and his 39 total years of teaching experience. The presentation was made during the annual end of school luncheon honoring personnel of the public schools. (Hereford Brand Photo)

Teacher Service Is Recognized

Teachers and school personnel were honored Tuesday with an end of school buffet luncheon in the High School Cafeteria.

The luncheon began at 12:30 after students had already been dismissed for the summer.

Special recognition was given teachers for many years of service. Service pins were awarded and retiring teachers were recognized.

Teachers retiring from the Hereford system are Mabel Wilson who has taught 17 years, all of them in Hereford, having been a teacher at Northwest elementary for several years.

Sophie Snare, a fourth grade teacher at Bluebonnet, has taught 24 years with 17 of them having been spent in Hereford.

Frank Jones, English teacher at Stanton has taught 39 years with 21 of them having been spent in Hereford.

Ten year service pins were presented to Mrs. Audine Dettman, Aikman; Mrs. Betty Carlson, Bluebonnet; Miss Bessie Barrett, Shirley; and Mrs. Geraldene Hodges, La Plata.

Recognized for 20 years of service were Mrs. Ellen Bryant, Aikman; Mrs. Gladys Legg, LaPlata; Mrs. Inez Welch, LaPlata; Mrs. Mildred Ramey, Stanton; Joe Smith high school; and Jones, Stanton.

"I'd rather quit," he replied—and he did quit.

But here too, unemployment benefits were denied. To compensate individuals who quit so frivolously, the court felt, would put a burden on the unemployment insurance system that it was never meant to carry.

Now that school is out, we're betting that Hereford is chock full of happy youngsters and teachers, and unhappy parents. But cheer up parents, it's only 95 days until school starts again. And besides, it's vacation time.

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Ed Roberson is still looking for information about former county sheriffs.

—HB—
And Ed's list is about complete. However, he still needs information on Nathan Edgin who was sheriff in this county from 1893 until 1895.

—HB—
Ed says that the last trace he finds of Edgin is in Dec. 1896 when he sold a lot in LaPlata to Ed Connell. He hasn't been able to find any kin or any further information since that recording.

Ed is attempting to secure photos for a rogue's gallery in reverse for the courthouse.

Mrs. A. B. Higgins called to report a coming reunion for the HHS Class of 1931. The affair will be held in the Community Center Saturday, May 27, from 4 to 6 p. m.

From there, the former classmates will go to the Caisson House for dinner.

Mrs. Higgins says the group would also like to extend an invitation to others (not in that particular class) who would like to drop by the Community Center to visit. VA Loan Time Short For Vets Of World War II

Ralph Owens, president of the Hereford Board of Realtors, to veterans of World War II who have not used their eligibility to buy a home under the VA program should make a decision soon.

Owens pointed out that July 25, 1967, is the deadline for World War II veterans. They will not be able to take advantage of the no-down-payment, VA-guaranteed type of financing after that date.

He declared now is a good time to buy a home for veterans and non-veterans alike, and said the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with which the Hereford Board of Realtors is affiliated, has received reports from all parts of the country indicating that the mortgage money situation which existed last year has eased dramatically, and indications are that conditions will continue to improve.

While interest rates are declining a bit from their record highs of last year, Owens said it would probably be unwise for most potential home buyers to wait for them to come down further. "They simply are not dropping fast enough to compensate for the steadily increasing costs of building new dwellings, and as new-house costs go up, so do existing-home prices."

In order to use the GI bill provisions for home loan guarantees, veterans must have a certificate of eligibility, which requires some time to obtain. Since the deadline is drawing near for World War II veterans, he urged those contemplating using the GI bill to get their certificates and make a decision on a home as soon as possible.

Owens said the expiration date for Korean War veterans is 1975, and for veterans who served after 1954, the deadline is 10 years after discharge, plus one year for each three months active duty, but not in excess of 20 years from date of last discharge.

Among those present were Linda Sorrells, Nadine Tice, Sherrie West, Cecilia Brown, Linda Ponder and Sammie Bass, Mrs. Wayne Bass, Mrs. Paul Brown and Paula.

"Mary Mary quite contrary. How does your garden grow? With ANNUALS and —"

Annual flowers outshine all other plants grown in Texas Gardens, in color variety and beauty of form, so states A. D. DeWarth, professor of Floriculture of Texas A&M University, in an article on Annual Flowers for Texas Gardens.

Annuals cannot be used to make a permanent garden, but are usually employed as temporary plants until something more permanent or enduring can take their place. Annuals have been grown in gardens since the beginning of gardening, and certainly do have a very important place in filling many needs of the gardener. They can gladden garden paths, brighten flower borders, and give that extra splash of color which is needed for a certain area. They are excellent for quick growth, and can be used to good advantage when weather conditions have destroyed growing plants, such as hail or freeze.

Annuals can be grown from seed or plants. Some should be planted in the fall, and others with the coming of springtime, or in mid season for late fall blossoms. It is advised if the gardener wishes to get full value from annuals as garden flowers in most of Texas areas, to plan and plant two gardens each year, one in the fall and one in the spring.

In our area it is good to plant larkspur, pansies, delphiniums, calendulas, poppies, stock, English daisies, snapdragons, and sweetpeas in the fall, or early winter months. This will give early strong plants for transplanting, and growth for the summer gardens.

Other annuals such as marigolds, petunias, periwinkles, zinnias, ageratum, and verbena grow off quickly and give abundant bloom in the summer through fall or until frost or killing freeze.

Climatic factors control planting time. The time of the first killing frost in autumn and the last in early spring have a direct bearing on growing annuals. The degree of cold in winter months also is most important. This year has been difficult for small annual plants, in that we have had so much cold wind, and low temperatures. They will not grow quickly or be a strong plant, until the ground is warm. In such conditions it is important that the plants be protected from weather elements. This can be done by using hot-caps or other coverings. A good improvised covering is a can with a plastic top, both ends out, the plastic being perforated.

This is an excellent hot-cap for the tender plant and will enable it to take root more quickly. Another for real small plants is to take a paper liner, which is used in coffee cups, cut the peak end off about one and half inches, then place the cap securely over the small plant and it will give adequate protection for sometime. The paper is treated thus making it more durable.

When transplanting be sure and use a solution for Ortho Upstart or Rapid-Grow, or any other recommended solution. For each plant a cup of the solution is recommended.

Also when transplanting, pinch out the tips (terminal buds) before planting. This will give you a stronger plant. Growth of not only annuals but other plants, shrubs, etc. can be controlled by pinching. It is also good to apply a soil insecticide when planting both the seed and plant. This will give protection from any insects for 6 weeks to 2 months. CAUTION: DO NOT USE SYSTEMETICS ON FRUITS AND VEGETABLES, AND USE CARE IN FOLLOWING THE INSTRUCTIONS IN ANY MIXTURE APPLIED TO YOUR PLANTS. AFTER USE PLACE THE REMAINDER OF THE INSECTICIDE IN A SAFE PLACE WHERE CHILDREN WILL NOT FIND IT.

The annuals, such as zinnias and snapdragons are coming up to a nice stand now, and should be thinned. They will give greater satisfaction if properly thinned. For further instructions read and use directions listed on the seed packets.

REMINDEES: Watch for lawn moths, flying low over the grass at dusk. From their eggs hatch soft webworms. Also there are green bugs in the lawn, and a spray should be used to kill them. A consistent program of good care for the lawn will give that well-groomed LOOK which is the desire of the homeowner.

Rebels Opener Looks Real Good

The Hereford Rebel baseball team opened its summer season on a sweet note as they handed the Dimmitt Cardinal a 10-1 licking Sunday afternoon on Whiteface Field in Hereford.

Pitching chores for the local team were handled by Charlie Moreno and Alex Diaz as they combined forces to strike out 20 Cardinals. Moreno accounted for five strikeouts and Diaz, the winning pitcher, fanned fifteen. Only four hits were allowed by both pitchers.

The Rebels started their scoring spree in the first inning as they scored 3 runs on singles by Gilbert Moreno, Alex Diaz and a triple by Charlie Moreno. No other scoring was made by either team until the 4th inning when the Cardinals managed their only run of the game.

The Rebels added another run in the 5th inning on doubles by Terry Hill and Gilbert Moreno. Taking first base on a hit pitch in the 6th inning, Charlie Moreno stole 2nd and 3rd base and then scored on Longo Cuellar's single. Cuellar also scored on a double by Hill to raise the score to 6-1.

Four more runs were added by the Rebels in the 8th inning as Moreno, Sammy Garza, Cuellar, Hill and Gilbert Moreno connected for hits.

The Hereford Rebel baseball team is sponsored by the Association of Catholic men from St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Baseball suits for the players were donated by Farr Better Feeds, Abalos Record Shop, Hereford Fruit Market, May Variety Shop, El Tropicano, Raymond Casarez, B and B Recreation, The Ink Spot, Inc., Ginger's Style Shop and First National Bank.

The team is coached by Charlie Moreno and he is assisted by Jimmy Moreno. Next game for the team will be with the Tullia Pirates at Tullia on Sunday. The Rebels will be playing at home on June 4 as they host a double header with the Cardinals. The Cardinals are the parents of a daughter, Cynthia Ann, born on May 18. She weighed 6 lbs. 12 1/2 ozs.

Buried Range Of Mountains Claimed In Texas

COLLEGE STATION — A Texas A&M geologist is searching for a Central Texas mountain range. He's sure it's there, too.

The only trouble is, this mountain range is far underground. "I believe the axis of the chain is about 30 miles east of Austin," said Dr. James E. Case, associate professor of geology and former researcher for the U. S. Geological Survey.

He says the range, an extension of the Ouachita Mountains of Arkansas and southeast Oklahoma, is more than 250 million years old.

Case and two A&M graduate students, Edward Park of Columbia, Tenn., and Patrick Gordon of San Antonio, are sounding out the chain by gravity and magnetic surveys.

Measurements at one to two-mile intervals determine variations in the earth's gravitational and magnetic fields caused by the distribution of heavy and light rocks.

By locating dense rock of the buried chain, Case and the students are pinpointing its steeper slopes and the faults along its margins.

Case says the "Texas Ouachitas" have been covered over by "younger" rocks and other matter in the past 250 million years.

"At Elgin, it is 5,000 to 10,000 feet below the surface," he said.

The underground mountains slope toward the continental shelf and may be 30,000 to 50,000 feet deep at College Station.

"We have reason to believe the Ouachita chain arches through San Antonio, South Texas, Mexico, and outcrops near Marathon," Case said.

More than 500 gravity determinations in an area 20 to 30 miles wide and 100 miles long have been made in the informal cooperative research with the University of Texas.

"We'll get going in earnest this summer," he said. "By the end of the summer, we'll have 1,000 to 1,200 values."

Case did research work in the geologic hazard zones between San Pablo and San Lorenzo, Calif., while studying for his Ph. D. at the University of California at Berkeley.

He said the 1906 San Francisco earthquake and 1964 Alaska quake were part of a mountain-building process in the Pacific from South American to Alaska.

The Hereford Brand, Hereford, Texas, Thurs., May 25, 1967

"Such activity is not likely in South Central Texas since the mountain-building process has been dead here since Permian time," Case said.

FLAG REMINDER

Anyone desiring to have a flag to place on a grave of a serviceman or a gold star mother can arrange for one by contacting Cecil Wilkins at his barber shop, or they will be available at the north entrance of West Park Cemetery on Memorial Day.

BAN REMAINS

DUBLIN — The Most Rev. John C. McQuaid, Archbishop of Dublin, has reaffirmed his ban on Catholics attending Protestant Trinity College. The argument that English Catholics are allowed to attend Protestant universities had no bearing, he said because at the moment they have no other choice.

A CLINIC OF EXHIBITS ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Besides having some of the nation's top football coaches on hand, the National Football Clinic included 82 exhibits. The booths contained the latest in game film equipment, football gear, various training devices, a tape remover and a spray for the athlete who perspires. Jim Cody of Dallas, manager of an athletic pharmaceutical firm, says he attends about 62 clinics a year. Claude Bell of Binghamton, N.Y., says he takes in about 35 a year.

A BUDING FEUD

HOMESTEAD, Fla. — Casey Stengel thought Eddie Stanky's idea of using a pinch hitter twice in one exhibition game was "a farce."

"I don't make rules for farces," said Stanky when his Chicago White Sox were here for an exhibition against the Mets "no matter what any 75-year-old expert says." Casey is 76, or is it 77?

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor

Little League Baseball is well underway in Hereford, as well as other cities across the country. Boys of all ages are participating in America's favorite past time, the grand old game of baseball. On every team, you have a hero. Usually a different hero every day. Whether he be a batter, a pitcher, an infielder, outfielder, catcher, coach or manager, he is in the eyes of all the parents who came to see "my boy" play ball.

But there is one guy out there on the field who is involved in the game every play. And this guy is always wrong to somebody. Yes, he's the umpire. Who are these guys, what do they know about umpiring, where do they get the idea they know a ball from a strike, or whether the runner sliding home was safe or out, or whether a ball rolling along the white line was fair or foul?

Most of these questions they don't know for sure, but they try.

The biggest percent of the people watching the game don't realize that this service the guy behind the plate is performing is strictly volunteer, to be able to help the young boys of Hereford's community. I am one of these men, and although I don't know all the rules, I'm doing my best to learn them. Problems arise in ball games everyday out at Little League Park. Some of them result into arguments and ill feelings. We handle this problem the best way we know how, and if we are not sure, we have to make a decision and just hope it's the right one. I have made mistakes and other umpires have too. For those mistakes we are sorry, and we will do our best not to do them again. We are not asking for thanks, or for some one to pat us on the back and tell us how good a job we performed, we just want cooperation from everyone due to the fact that we don't claim to be anywhere near an expert umpire.

On the back of our rule book is a salute to Little League Umpires from the U. S. Rubber Co. and it goes like this:

"There are no medals for umpires. As far as it is known, few umpires have ever been accorded singular distinction for having performed yeoman service in baseball. Player of the Year, and Manager of the Year are customary designations, but no such honor is bestowed on the man who stands behind the catcher calling balls and strikes.

"While this oversight is an inconsistency in baseball, it may also be regarded as a tribute to men everywhere whose integrity and devotion to a thankless service have contributed importantly to the high regard in which baseball is held around the world.

"Such selfless service is especially conspicuous in Little League, where the only reward for a job well done is satisfaction and a sense of having contributed to a wholesome activity for boys."

I don't think you can say much more, except this. It's a tough job most of the time, and if you as a spectator don't think so, just get up from the grand stands during any game and come down on the field. I'll trade places with you any time you feel you want to see what we go through.

Please help us to help the boys of Hereford's Little League teams, and we will all enjoy the game of baseball a lot more.

Thanks,
A Little League Umpire

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

These Are Your Questions

IS IT possible to become addicted to the codeine in the cough medicine that is sold over-the-counter without a prescription?

It most certainly is. In fact, students of the addiction problem and public health officials have sent out warnings that this occurs far more frequently than is suspected.

Dr. Coleman

There are some people who become addicted to almost anything. Drugs, of course, are first.

In some people an addiction might develop to salt, ice cream, liquor, artichokes, tobacco, and almost any substance they may eat or drink. These are addictive personalities who almost always have some deep-seated neurotic problem.

The codeine in over-the-counter cough medicines and the alcohol that they contain have turned out to be one of the easiest methods for a dope addict that is still within the law. There are many people who regularly "make the rounds" buying up the legal four ounces in drugstores and thus cater to their addiction.

Legislation in the states that allow this practice must be directed at preventing people from falling into the trap of addiction by this simple method. Parents are warned to be on the lookout for unusual behavior problems in youngsters who may be caught in the trap of cough medicine-codeine addiction.

What is meant by thin blood? Are there any special medicines that are good for it?

This blood has no meaning either to doctors or to the advertising people who created this medically-pointless term. It may be true that blood is thicker than water but it is also true that gold is thicker than blood.

© 1967, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Gold in many forms is reaped in by people who sell expensive blood thickeners that have no medical value.

This does not mean that anemia of the blood is not present in some people. However, there is only one way to find out if a person has anemia, and that is by a complete blood study. This shows the number of red blood cells and the amount of hemoglobin.

When a blood study is accompanied by a complete physical examination the causes of anemia can usually be found.

Simple anemia, with an iron deficiency, can be controlled with iron replacement.

Expensive tonics and fancy named supplements make medical suckers out of all who fall prey to the pressure of the brilliantly written "ad" for thin, watery blood. Such blood can get a lot "thicker" with a normal nutritive diet while the money stays in your own bank.

Is it possible to become allergic to a food you have eaten all your life?

The complexities of allergic responses are many. I have known patients who have become sensitized to foods that they have eaten for years. I have a patient who cannot tolerate milk at different times of the year.

It turns out that he is sensitive to the type of grass that the cow has been feeding on. If you know you are allergic to a food, new or old, the sure cure is to avoid it.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

There was a clever little song with some popularity a few years ago, with a refrain about a "lonesome little petunia in an onion patch."

WELL, IF THERE is a petunia among the flowers in the onion patch at the R. G. Manning home, 325 Ave. B, it certainly can't complain of being lonesome. The Mannings have definitely the cutest vegetable garden in town — probably of any town.

It isn't tucked modestly out at the back of the lot, either; it's right up on the street line where it stops traffic and is well worth a drive around that block to look at.

Roses at the fence line are blooming like crazy, then onions are flourishing, and next is a line of iris which has been lo-ly but is about to bloom out. Some English peas are both useful and ornamental with their little white blooms, and there are some more vegetables and more flowers, alternated and mixed.

More people ought to have gardens like that; since not many do, take time to go look at the Mannings.

If you are among the women who are almost unanimously enjoying the feeling of free movement, and the coolness, of stylish shifts, Jean Streu has a little clipping that will amuse you vastly at first, and then disrupt your peace of mind nicely.

SHE GOT IT from a friend to whom it was sent by a relative living on the West Coast, and it is just a clever little column from the woman's page of a newspaper. It mentions, innocently, that smart shops are beginning to show dresses with waistlines again. Then the bombshell.

The writer says she tried one on, fastened the belt, and was amazed at what had been going on under her comfortable shifts. Shelves jutting at the neckline, she said, had just appeared along with bulges here and there which were only too noticeable under the fitted frock.

It was written quite amusingly, and Jean chortled as she watched me read it, then I noticed a sort of worried look on her face which I fear reflected

THE VIRGIL DODSONS, who manage to take the sort of well-planned vacation trips that their friends like to hear about for months afterward, aim to head soon for Western Canada, around Banff, Jessie Mae said when talk at a club dinner last week turned to vacations.

Not to Montreal, where so many travelers are going to Canada's Expe 67? she was asked. No, and not simply because the Dodsons included Montreal in a tour of Eastern U. S. and Canada a couple of years ago.

They liked that country and wouldn't be averse to a repeat trip, but not this year, partly because they think a world fair would be too crowded.

So they go west, and it will be a return trip too, because they traveled through that part of Canada on another jaunt to Alaska. This summer will be time to look closer at things they had to pass in a hurry before.

DON'T EVALUATE IN TERMS OF SUCCESS

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Shepard is a playwright who would like to avoid critics permanently. Shepard, 23, wrote "La-Turista," produced recently by the American Place Theater, a private producing club which relies on membership subscription for audiences. He was the first writer to exercise an APT option to bar reviewers. "Why should everything be evaluated in terms of success or failure?" says Shepard. "If I ever got wealthy enough to produce my own plays, I'd never have them reviewed."

Brownd Sheet Metal— ...from trash lids to church steeples

Having started in the sheet metal business since the days of the first world war, Gid Brownd owner and operator of Brownd Sheet Metal in Hereford, has emerged as an accepted and prosperous businessman among the numerous others in this area.

The art of working sheet metal, which is rapidly disappearing according to Brownd's wife, Juanita, has been the field pursued all during Brownd's business life and he is still one of the few left that tries to put some are into it.

Having attended school in Lubbock all but his last year, Brownd graduated from Leveland High School and seeing that it was almost impossible to acquire a job because he was classified as "Army material," he decided to go to Los Angeles, California and study sheet metal working. Oddly enough, he was not brought up in or around a business of such — he was raised on a farm. He decided to engage in another field besides farming because at that time, the farming around that area did not look too encouraging. Dryland farming was the type of farming there and he thought the gamble was too much.

As soon as he got out of the sheet metal school, he came back to Lubbock and soon joined the Army. He entered the Army Air Corp and there, he continued working in sheet metal. He fixed sheet metal on planes while in the service.

After he was discharged, he came back to Lubbock and worked in a sheet metal shop for 9 years.

In November, of 1953, he purchased a building on Sampson Street in Hereford which was being used as a sheet metal shop. He was to move into it on January 1, 1954 and so he moved his family to Hereford on December, 1953.

He was at that location for about 8 years and then had to move to a location on First Street because he needed more room for his business. His business kept on growing, however, and he had to seek more and better facilities and one year later, he moved to another building still on West First.

He continued to operate his business at that location until he decided to build his own shop where he could better serve his customers. The previous locations had lacked many facilities such as parking space for his customers and room to work with the metal.

His present location is at 101 Windsor, a huge building east of town on U. S. Highway 80 next to a large service station.

His business there offers his customers better service, that with having more parking area and more working space for handling jobs quicker.

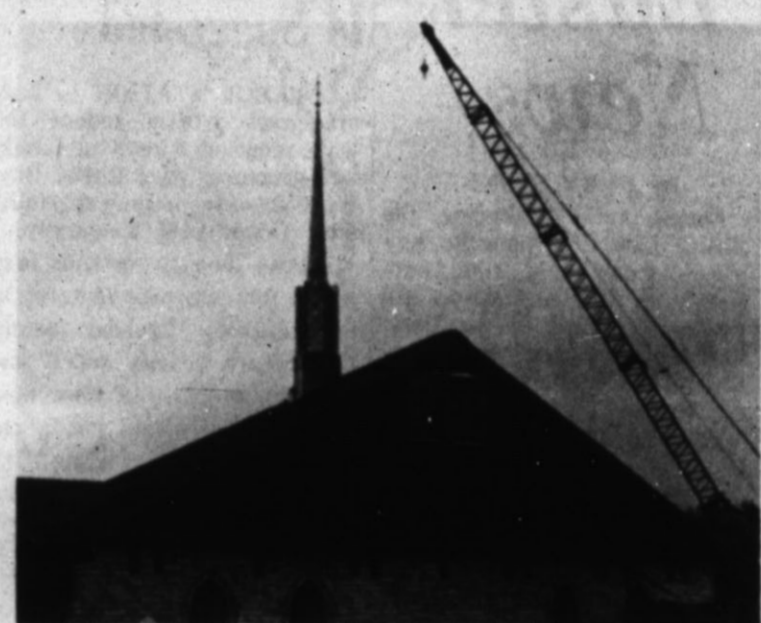

"Almost anything that can be done with sheet metal can be done here," Brownd stated. "We do most anything from a trash can lid to church steeples," he stressed. "Over 2,000 lids were manufactured year before last," Brownd pointed out.

As far as working on church steeples, Brownd was not kidding. He has been associated with making a number of these throughout this area into surrounding states.

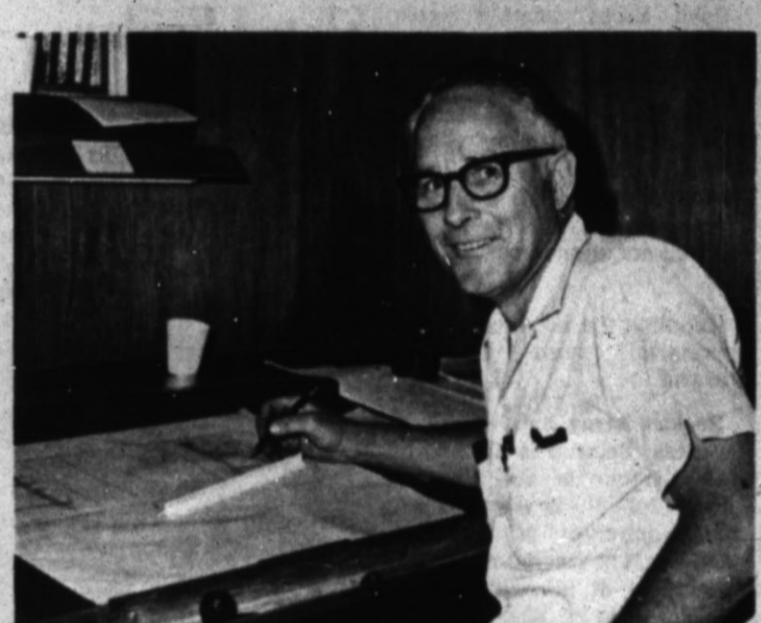

He stated that sometimes a steeple order would come in with just a brief outline and necessary facts about what they wanted and that he had to figure out the rest as far as the actual design.

He also will install such items and at many times, churches will order steeples and have someone else do the installation.

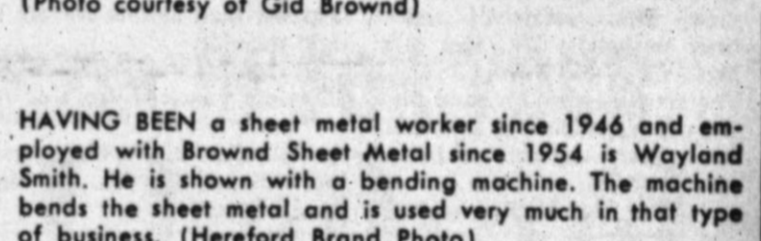

Brownd is well experienced in this type of sheet metal field as well as in any other type. To prepare himself for such types of work, he has taken numerous correspondence courses in various sheet metal working. See BROWND Page 2

SOME OF THE WORK which Brownd Sheet Metal has created is shown here in Dodge City, Kansas, as a church steeple, some 40 feet high, is installed on top of a Church of Christ building. The steeple is made up of copper except the frame which is made up of steel. The diameter of the steeple at the bottom reached some six feet. (Photo courtesy of Gid Brownd)

A Real Cool Business

Dick Walker Is Local Specialist

Perhaps the person responsible for introducing air conditioning and cooling units in Hereford was Dick Walker, co-owner of Walker Refrigeration Service and Walker Sheet Metal and Insulation.

The business is located at 305 E. 3rd Street and it has been there since 1947, a year after he had started in the refrigeration business.

Actually, Walker had engaged in heavy refrigeration equipment prior to starting his own business in Hereford while he was in the service during World War II.

He started his business on Main Street and remained there for one year, later moving to where a service station was located. He remodeled the place and continues to operate his business in that location.

He was engaged only with refrigeration service for most of this time, just three years ago offering sheet metal work.

He installed several air conditioning units in businesses here and they are still in operation. His business offers all types of cooling and heating appliances both for commercial and residential purposes. He also carries household items such as refrigerators and freezers.

Since his business was growing along with the town, he had to add a new addition in 1959 and remodeled the old building. He later purchased a lot behind the building and now offers plenty of parking space for his customers. His place stretches from the corner of Schley and Third Streets to the alley that runs north and south between Third and Fourth Streets. He has an area that stretches 65 feet back and 140 feet across the front.

Walker has had schooling for his field of work and he has a diploma certifying him as an electrical refrigeration service engineer. His company does not do any type of gas air conditioning or heating, though.

Two years ago, Ken Gett, also an electrical refrigeration service engineer, bought half interest in the company.

About 8 persons work at Walker's and others also work in the sheet metal shop.

Most types of sheet metal work is done there and at present, a sink, one which will be See A REAL COOL Page 2 fields and has kept up with the latest in working tools.

Although sheet metal seems like the biggest part of his business, it is not. Actually, refrigeration service and selling heating and cooling apparatus takes up much of his business. Brown will install any type of cooling unit and also will service it as any other type of heating device. He does work on both commercial and residential heating and cooling units and are also dealers of a nationally known company.

They will not however, work on any type of household appliance such as a refrigerator or freezer but they do install and service air conditioners both evaporative and refrigerated air type.

His staff includes many experienced workers in both departments. In the sheet metal shop, Wayland Smith has been with Brown since he first moved to Hereford. Actually, Smith has worked with him since Brown first purchased his first shop on Sampson Street and at that time, he was working for the other party there since about 1946.

John Hicks, another experienced hand, has been with the company since 1954 also.

Rounding up the staff is Frank Short, Jimmy Strain, Crespin Soto and Robert Rhoton Rhoton is refrigeration and service man. He has been with Brown for numerous years also.

Handling the bookkeeping and secretarial chores is Mrs. Brown.

Besides being active with his business, Brown is also an active member of the Hereford Lions Club. He is engaged with many activities of the Boys Scouts and is serving on a Scout committee at present of Troop 52. His wife is also active in civic organizations. She is a member of the Velede Study Club and serves on the American Field Service Board. The board deals with foreign exchange students.

The Browns have two children but they now claim to have three. Rene Batard, a foreign exchange student from France at Hereford High School two years ago, is the third child which the Browns claim. He stayed at their home while in Hereford and he is planning on coming back here in the near future.

Besides Batard, there are also Richard and Carl. Richard, 19 years of age, is attending McMurry College in Abilene and Carl 14, has just been advanced into the 9th grade at Stanton Jr. High.

The Browns are also active in the First Methodist Church here. Mrs. Brown teaches Sunday School there.

Having your meatman remove the leg bone from a ham leaves a dandy cavity for stuffing! Of course such festive treatment of a ham demands a party.

Dance Recital Slated Friday

A ballet recital will be presented by several students from Hereford this Friday evening in the high school auditorium. No admission will be charged. The program will begin at 8 p. m. and will include tap, acrobatic, ballet with an advanced group on toe. worth over $2,000, is being built. The sink is for a local liquid feed company.

Walker Refrigeration also services many out-of-town businesses. His company covers an area of 50 miles around Hereford and three radio equipped trucks are dispatched from the office.

His wife, Rubye, handles all of the bookkeeping and secretarial chores at the company.

Taking care of the duties as foreman of the shop is Wayne Driskill. Kenneth Cole is another employee at Walker's that is experienced in the sheet metal business.

The Walkers have no children. They reside at 249 Beach and both are active members of the American Legion, Mrs. Walker belonging to the Auxiliary.

Clothing Care Is Suggested

COLLEGE STATION — Durable-press fabrics reduce the work required to keep the family well-groomed, says Rhea Boyles, Extension clothing specialist with Texas A&M University.

Proper laundry methods help retain the easy-care features of these fabrics. Launder before fabrics are heavily soiled and as soon as possible after soiling. Turn garments inside out to help reduce "frosting" or wear on creases. Launder in the coolest water that will remove soil. If warm or hot water is used, then rinse in cool water before machine spinning or hand wringing.

For heavy, oily soil, perspiration, and food stains, measure heavy duty liquid detergent required for entire load and apply full strength to the most soiled area of garments. Soak in hot water, let water cool to 90-110 degrees, then agitate for six to eight minutes.

Shorten the wash cycle to the minimum required for soil removal.

Several numbers were from the musicals Sound of Music and Mary Poppins.

Students performing in the first recital were Dewayne Kimball, Jeannine Bradley, D'Lyn Davison, Ted Tiel, Rhonda Holbert, Beverly Willia, Pamela Smith and Kathy Smith.

The second group included Nickie Stipe, Margaret Brumley, Cameron Hill, Brad Clark, Luanne Kindsfather, Debbie Gamez, Eleanor Gamez, Ray Watson, Wallace Hill and Becky Oglesby.

Appearing on both programs were Kevin Young, pianist and Don Bill Hair, organist, playing piano-organ duo and individual solos.

Use slow agitation or a stop-and-soak, followed by a short time of normal agitation. Advance the control dial to shorten cycle.

Rinse well in cool water. If your water is hard, use a water softener in the first rinse or fabric softener in the final rinse. Fabric softeners reduce the static charge which attracts soil. Softeners also decrease clinging of man-made fibers.

For less wrinkling, dry in small loads, about half the dryer capacity. Dry at normal heat unless your dryer has a setting for "wash-wear," or permanent press. At the end of the dryer cycle, let the clothes continue to tumble for a cool-down period of five to ten minutes after the heat is off.

As soon as the dryer stops, remove garments and hang or fold. If you have no dryer, shorten the final spin in the washing machine by advancing the dial, or remove the garments while dripping wet and hang on rustproof hangers. If touch-up pressing is needed, use the iron at the low setting.

CARD OF THANKS

I have returned from another day at the Shriners clinic and I never cease to be amazed at these men and women. I have looked thru my dictionary and racked my brain, trying to think of words to describe the wonderful work they have done, but everything I can put together is so insufficient. I have seen them work tireless for hours after hours and complete so many different jobs wherever there was a job to be done, there was a man in a red hat with never a job too low for them. I have seen them mop the floor with pride, carry diaper bags, open doors, help with children, some that looked like they couldn't afford a bar of soap. I have been chauffeured from community center to clinic. I have eaten lunch they had prepared for me and left them my dishes to wash while I returned to the clinic. I have seen the clowns work a miracle with the children and make the waiting a real pleasure for them.

All these things and many many more they have done for our son to see the specialist that we could not afford. Some of these doctors come for many miles and work without pay. So to each of you that helped I'd like to say with all these good words I have found in my dictionary and from the bottom

Local Stylist Wins Honors

The hair style performed was each contestant created their own design.

Judges for the event were two instructors from a hair design school in Clovis, New Mexico.

Model for Mrs. Miller was Mrs. Carol King from Amarillo. Placing first in the contest was a classmate of Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Jeanette Smith. The contest was held at the Borger Hotel.

Manager Eddie Stanky of the Chicago White Sox says he'd like to see one of his men win "Comeback of the year award." He names as prospects Pete Ward, Ron Hansen, John Buzbardt and Jim O'Toole.

Stallion Station

Three Bars Is Still In Service

QUANAH — Crisscrossing 600 acres of flat, fertile Texas ranchland is a curious maze of fences and buildings, all red, white and tidy.

They call it the Southwestern Stallion Station, and Northwest Texans contend there's nothing quite like it anywhere in the world.

It is the home also of a thoroughbred named Three Bars who, everyone agrees, is a medical phenomenon. He's also a goldmine.

Commandant of all this is a tall, greying, affable horseman who grew up punching cows in Texas, Oklahoma and Colorado: His name is Walter Merrick and, like Three Bars, his reputation is widespread. He is 55.

Merrick, Three Bars and the ultra modern ranch merged just recently, partly by accident.

The ranch, labeled the B Bar J, opened with a flourish last October, but its owners stumbled over financial hurdles and lost possession. Merrick leased it as a division of his "14" Ranch near Crawford, Okla.

He then leased Three Bars from Sid Vail's Ranch in Apple Valley, Calif. Merrick dropped the stud fee from $10,000 to $5,000.

At 27, the horse is a medical mystery. "Three Bars is still as potent as the average 6-year-old," said

Dr. W. W. Lockridge, a Sweet-water veterinarian who files his own plane here every other day. "That old horse is incredible."

"We're going to have to shoot him," laughed Mrs. Merrick. "He's never going to die. I've never seen anything like it."

Merrick previously leased Three Bars, when the horse was 13, and is responsible for many of the Stallion's son and daughters that were foaled some 13 years ago.

"Three Bars is the acknowledged fountainhead of speed in the quarterhorse world," says his owner.

"The stud fee has been $10,000 the last three years, but I dropped him back to $5,000 when I got him," Merrick said. "He has a son, Rocket Bar, in California who stands for a stud fee of $3,500."

"A lot of people don't realize what a business the horse industry is," Merrick supports Texas Legislative action that would legalize parimutuel betting. "It'd sure be a good thing for the horse industry," he said.

The B Bar J is equipped with a regulation racetrack and Merrick trains horses for racing, mostly in New Mexico and on the West Coast.

"The main problem with racing now is places to run," he said. "More tracks are what we need, but the fact that we don't have them is no fault of anyone. We just have to wait until we do."

He said quarterhorse races are "beginning to break in back East. . . New York State is starting out with them, and there are two new tracks in Louisiana now that are going real good.

"Of course, we hope for PRACTICE TIME — Beverly Cole got in a little practice for the goat tying Sunday, one of the events which will be held Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoon at the rodeo arena. Looking on are, left to right, Jackie Johnson, Ceil Morris, Debbie Stringer, Vickie Stringer, Sheila Johnson and Tammy Stringer.

Oklahoma and Texas to get parimutuel racing one of these days. That will be a big help."

Merrick has long been associated with top running horses, including little Lena Bars, who retired last year after setting four world racing marks at different distances.

The daughter of Three Bars, she is the only horse ever to accomplish such a feat. But breeding activities consume much of Merrick's time now.

"We have some of the highest priced mares in the nation being bred here," he said, pointing to one, Siraw Flight, which he said sold for $60,000 in 1964.

Some 225 acres are in residence at the ranch many in "mare motels." One "motel" serves mares breeding at the current time and another is for foaling mares.

The motels are designed for high priced mares. Each has separate quarters. "These are about the nicest facilities in the United States," Merrick said. "I've been all around and I've never seen any nicer. Mares from all over the country, including Kentucky come here."

In addition to Three Bars, Merrick has another top sire named Good Bird who commands a $750 stud fee now but may go as high as $2,000 next year.

Most of the mares here are quarterhorses with an infusion of thoroughbred blood. Nearly 50 horses are being trained for racing.

A Merrick horse, Chickamona, took second in the plush All American Futurity at Ruidosa Downs last year, earning $87,000.

"That's the biggest horse race in the world, dollar wise," he said. "We're always trying in that one. . . we have good prospects this year, with about six head that will be competing."

The picturesque B Bar J cost in excess of $600,000. It includes a veterinary clinic, an office building, a hospitality room, a homesite, a racing barn, stalls, paddocks the mare motels and the racetrack.

The citizenry calls it the "Showplace of the Southwest." Many horsemen probably would agree.

Junior Rodeo Starts Friday

Action aplenty will be on tap Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the rodeo arena as the Hereford Riders Club sponsors its annual Hereford Junior Rodeo.

Contestants ages 13 through 19 will begin their events at 8:30 p. m. on both Friday and Saturday, while those 3 through 12 will begin competition at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Events for the older boys include calf roping, ribbon roping, bareback riding and bull riding. The older girls will participate in pole bending, barrel racing and goat tying. An entry fee of $5 will be charged for each event.

Events for the younger rodeo enthusiasts are being tried for the first time by the Hereford Riders Club. They will begin with a stick horse race and goat ribbon race by boys and girls ages 3 to 5.

Boys ages 6, 7 and 8 will compete in barrel racing, pole bending and calf riding, while girls of the same age will compete in barrel racing, pole bending and a goat ribbon race.

A boot race, calf riding and goat tying will be held for boys ages 9 through 12 and barrel racing, pole bending and goat tying will be held for girls of the same age.

Farewell Party Given La Plata Eighth Grader

Martha Baker was honoree at a going away party held Monday night in the home of Judy Yarbro, 121 Kingwood. Renee Hysinger and Kay Euler were also hostesses for the party honoring their classmate. The girls are students of LaPlata Junior High.

Featured for Monday night was a cook-out with all of the guests remaining for a slumber party. Early Tuesday morning, the girls ate an early breakfast and walked to their last school day for this spring.

Miss Baker left Wednesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker, for Denver, where the family will live.

Those present were Debra Wilson, Debra Huddlestone, Mary Sue Neff, Betty Hodges, Janet Frye, Glenda Champ, Barbara Hansen, Mary Jane (Mud) Kreighauser, Laurel Davis, the honoree and the hostesses.

TEXANS IN SPORTS

The Babe Was Always A Winner

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the greatest woman athlete, sits on a special pedestal in Valhalla, home of sports immortals.

It was 11 years ago that the indomitable Babe, a Texan and proud of it, died in her sleep in a Galveston hospital.

No woman has tried to succeed the great Babe. They have tried to excel in individual sports but none has made, or probably ever will make, the effort to be the best in every sport as did the native of Port Arther whose feats would fill a book.

But back on the golf tour, after an absence of eight years, is the girl the Babe said reminded her most of herself.

That would be Betty Dodd, freckled daughter of an Army officer, and once a bright prospect in women's golf. Betty has been out of action from a broken ankle that required several operations and for removal of part of her stomach because of ulcers.

Her first tournament in the return to the tour was the Dallas Civitan where the gallery gave her a hand for finishing in a tie for 31st and winning $100.

Betty made the golf tour with the Babe a dozen years ago. They traveled and played together, sang hillbilly music together, were the deepest friends in golf.

Miss Dodd, who has been teaching at a driving range in San Antonio, run by Joe Conrad, during her absence from the tour, recalled many things unknown to the public when the Babe was the greatest in women's golf.

The Babe found out in 1933 that she had cancer. She underwent an operation, thought she had licked the disease and returned to the tour to win again.

But there came a day when she had to give it up for good.

"I won a couple of tournaments while I was on the tour," said Miss Dodd, "and I, of course, beat the Babe. But that was when she was sick and shouldn't have been playing. I've seen her inject wheat germ into her arms to give her strength to drive on."

"She was the greatest athlete, also a great person."

She never thought she would die of cancer. The Babe couldn't imagine anything she couldn't beat. We all knew she wouldn't mae it but the Babe would say, "It can't whip me. I'm going to live."

Even in the hospital, when she had wasted to 80 pounds, the Babe said she wouldn't die. It probably was because she loved life so much. There was a lot in life for her — championships to be won, records to be set. She was probably the greatest competitor of alltime.

When the Babe died — Sept. 27, 1956 — there was much talk of a movie being made of her life. She certainly was material for it. Also, there was talk that Betty Dodd would depict the Babe on the screen.

"No one ever asked me to be the Babe in the movies," said Miss Dodd, a little misty-eyed as if she wished it had been true. "I imagine the talk began because the Babe said I reminded her of herself when she was starting in golf."

It is regrettable that the picture never was made. It would have been a story of strength, determination and love of competition by one of the most colorful and talented persons ever in sport. It would have been most inspirational.

"But you know," said Miss Dodd, who studies things, "there was only one picture ever made of an athlete's life that was a success. That was when Gary Cooper played Lou Gehrig. This may be the reason the movies couldn't decide to picture the Babe. The financial risk was too great, not just because it was the Babe and about a woman athlete, but because such pictures had a record for not paying off."

Babe probably could have agreed with them. She wouldn't want to be associated with anything that failed. The Babe never lost — time just ran out on her a few times, the last time forever.

FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD

In Memoriam

They have not died in vain... those who paid with their lives the last full measure. Today, Memorial Day, is the day to remember Lexington, Gettysburg, Santiago Bay, Chateau Thierry, Coral Sea, Okinawa, Palermo, Normandy and Korea. We need only to look at the cemeteries of the world to realize the supreme sacrifice that was called for, that we might be secure. It called for the giving of life itself for many a man; for untold sorrow and heartache for friends and loved ones. As they bravely died, so we must bravely live. God has a destiny for us, for America, and only eyes of faith can read that destiny. Each drop of blood spilled from Bunker Hill to Iwo Jima, is a deposit in the bank of our country. One hundred sixty-five million Americans can do no less than dedicate ourselves anew. With our Alabaster Ointment of thankfulness, let us nobly remember those who laid themselves between our country and her foes. This is Memorial Day.

OPERA SEASON — Mrs. Dolson Palmer, 149 Live Oak, is shown visiting with Franco Corelli and Bonaldo Giaiotti of the Metropolitan Opera company relaxing at supper after the performance at the Sheraton-Ritz Hotel.

Mrs. Palmer Attends Spring Opera Season

It pays to take a camera to the opera it seems, especially if you have spent a lifetime in music and singing. Mrs. Dolson Palmer of 149 Live Oak in Hereford went to Minneapolis, Minn. for the Spring Season of Metropolitan Opera there and stayed throughout the full week of seven operas, in Northrop Auditorium.

Among the singers with whom she had a chance to visit were Franco Corelli and Bonaldo Giaiotti of the Metropolitan Opera company, shown here with Mrs. Palmer after a performance of Pinchelli's "La Gioconda" on Wednesday, May 17th in Minneapolis. The group was relaxing at supper after the performance at the Sheraton-Ritz Hotel. Not shown are Mario Sereni and Mrs. Franco Corelli.

Mrs. Palmer says the new production of "La Gioconda" was the most successful of the seven operas presented and was the opera that put the "Grand back in opera during the season that ended May 20th.

Mrs. Palmer notes that the American trained singers at the "Met" are beginning to steal the international attention from the foreign stars that have been the traditional galaxy of opera. Although the tenor and bass in the picture were both trained in their native Italy, as was Renata Tebaldi who sang the title role in the production that night. Neil Rankin who sang the second lead and Cornell MacNeil were accorded as much success as were these Italian singers. Other nights of the season Arturo Sergi and Raymond Michalski both Americans were unusually well received. In fact Sergi told Mrs. Palmer that he was convinced that Americans were the best trained singers in the world. He noted that American singers seldom use the prompter's services, know their roles especially well and have the stamina and intelligence to add a new dimension to opera making it a more enjoyable experience for audiences every where.

Mrs. Palmer arrived in Hereford on Sunday to resume her teaching duties at her studio here.

Baptist Tour Plans Announced

Any persons associated with Baylor can become part of a 40-member tour group attending the 1968 Baptist Youth World Conference in Berne, Switzerland.

Roy Harrell, director of religious activities, will sponsor the month-long trip, which will carry tour members to Europe and the Holy Lands.

The party will consist of a "Baylor affinity group," Harrell said. He explained the group as being any person associated with Baylor — whether a student, administration or faculty member, employee, ex-student, or family member of a Baylor associate.

I went to the 1957 conference in Toronto," Harrell said, "and I think we have the people here at Baylor able to respond to this sort of thing.

"They could be the nucleus influential group on campus when they get back. It's really an experience to sit down, and talk with people from other countries who have the same basic beliefs you do."

Included on the itinerary are stops in Cairo, Beirut, Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Rome. Also included are Paris, London, Berlin, Zurich and Amsterdam.

"On a trip like this," he said, "we want it to be more than just a tourist's tour where you listen to all the tour guides. We need someone who can tie the whole scene together."

Seeking a minister with an historical background, Harrell chose Dr. Glenn Hilburn, Baylor associate professor of religion and a church history scholar.

"Dr. Hilburn can help us understand the biblical background of the places we go," Harrell said.

Cost of the trip is $1,588 round trip — "from Dallas to Dallas — excluding only about $100 in personal expenses such as unscheduled meals and necessary passport documents. The group will leave July 4, 1968, and return Aug. 9.

Harrell said the expense of the trip can be paid on a time payment plan.
