Reagan Draws Crowd To Amarillo Friday

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California told the press conference at Amarillo Friday afternoon that he "could not announce or eject the nomination at this time" as a Republican presidential candidate "but would go into the convention."

While leaving the door open for his presidential nomination, he closed it entirely on any nomination for vice-president. "Not unless California blows up and sinks into the sea," he stated.

And he said, "I have already pledged publicly that I will support the Republican nominee, no matter who he may be."

Gov. Reagan, 57, who was born at Tampico, Illinois, and later wrote a weekly sports column for a Des Moines newspaper before becoming a sportscaster and motion picture and television star, became California's chief executive in 1966. He flew into the Texas Panhandle Friday afternoon at 2:35 as principle speaker for a $100-per-plate Republican fund-raising dinner in honor of Rep. Bob Price of Pampa at the Fair Park Coliseum.

At the Amarillo Municipal Airport, under tight security guard, he was met by approximately 250 boosters and television cameras. Among his entourage were some 30 newsmen who represented all the national t.v. networks, the wire services, some of the news magazines, and British reporters from the B.B.C.

The press conference was held at 3:15 inside the coliseum auditorium, where he was set to speak Friday night. The governor, a rancher in California, was presented a Hereford Whiteface by stockmen, but turned it over to Boys Ranch for safe-keeping.

In the sweltering heat of the building, amid a maze of television equipment, Reagan said that he had taken this opportunity to come to Texas for Republican fund raising (and told the audience of 2,000 later that the Republican governors had a "buddy system," that he was glad to come into Texas as his part of it.) He said that he was going on to Little Rock to campaign for Winthrop Rockefeller before attending a governor's conference at Cincinnati, then a fund-raising affair in Virginia, later Alabama and the end of the month in Miami.

"I hope to come back (to Texas) and campaign for Paul Eggers," Reagan said. Republican candidate Eggers, who visited Hereford early Wednesday morning, attended the dinner.

A newsman pointed out that it was the Texas delegation in 1952 who had opened the way for Gen. Eisenhower's nomination, and did he think he would have the same strong support for himself?

"I don't know who the Texas delegation is backing," Reagan replied. He also quipped later, "Does anyone tell the Texas delegation what to do?"

When questioned about Gov. Wallace's American Party candidacy, he pointed out that his previous remarks about him had been quoted out of context. But he said that he believed Wallace could hurt the Republicans more than he could the Democrats "and could keep the Democrats in" by pulling votes from those who would normally vote Republican. He was against the use of liberal or conservative labels for Republican candidates. Instead, he promoted an "international policy to restore this country to respect."

On the Pueblo incident, Reagan stated, "It's a little late for what should have been said. Where we went wrong — in the first 24 hours — that's when we should have said we wanted those men back, or taken action."

Gov. Reagan reported, "This is a happy day in my life" in regard to the movement underway in his state for a recall movement. "Just yesterday, in California there was printed a report that shows, if the election had to be done all over again, apparently I would be returned to office." He said the report showed that he would receive about the same number of votes as he had in the last election.

The maze of photographers (later reports indicated that more news photographers had attended than were originally planned for) and the intense heat prevailed when the dinner began. Not all newsmen were happy. A survey along the press table revealed that area newsmen had, in some cases, had difficulties gaining entrance to the building — because proper identification had not been mailed to them in time — and others were obviously disappointed that Reagan had not made an official announcement in regard to his presidential candidacy.

However, Amarillo Daily News editor Wes Izzard — who had been the introductory speaker for Reagan's only previous Amarillo appearance in 1962 — acted as master of ceremonies for the dinner. Izzard, long recognized as one of the Texas Panhandle's leading Republican backers in the news field, announced that the dinner was "the grandest of all political rallies in the history of the region."

Izzard introduced various Republican leaders and candidates from the large audience, including New Mexico Governor David Cargo; Texas chairman Peter O'Donnell, Jr., former national committeeman Jack Porter; Eggers, — and State Representative candidate Frank Ford of Hereford.

Also introduced was Democratic State Senator Grady Hazelwood of Canyon, who told the audience of 2,000 people, "You can draw your own conclusions why I am up here." After 28 years on the Democratic ticket, he said, "we are at the point where party politics must step aside. I am here for Ronald Reagan the man, and for Paul Eggers." He received a standing ovation.

Rep. Price of Pampa had been uncertain of his plans earlier to attend the dinner in his honor. Important gun control measures had been brought up in the House and it appeared that he might have to remain in Washington, but it was postponed.

Price introduced Reagan: "The American people want a change."

Reagan, whose appearance belies his age some 10 years, opened with the statement that he liked the Golden Spread, and that it was well named. But the Democratic Party was the opposite — spread the gold. Thereafter, he took the present administration to task on almost all the current policies. However, he made no mention of Abe Forties's controversial appointment to the U. S. Supreme Court, which is now under debate following the announced resignation of former California Governor Earl Warren.

Reagan said that Vice President Hubert Humphrey had gotten into the presidential race late. "He promises to stand on the record — so we can't see it!"

He made reference to the current rate of violence in the U.S. where "we turn the criminals loose and lock up the jury." He said that it was time to stop escalating promises and start enforcing the law. On the subject of inflation, he claimed that it had been planned by the present administration and that "they have been in power too long."

Jane Witkowski Is Winner In Annual 4-H Dress Revue

A dashing plaid of brick red and navy made the award-winning dress which captured top honors for Jane Witkowski in the Deaf Smith County 4-H Dress Revue Thursday evening. The annual event was held in Sugarland mall.

Girls from 9 to 19 years paraded costumes they had made, and were judged in a senior and two junior divisions.

Miss Witkowski, the blond senior winner, will compete in the district Dress Revue at Amarillo Aug. 1. Junior winners will model their garments, but do not compete. District winners go to a state contest with a chance at a scholarship and entry in national competition.

Patsy Paetzold was named alternate to the senior winner, modeling an off-white dress of bonded knit, smartly seamed in A-line style.

In the junior division for girls age 12 and 13, Sue Shirley placed first and Christine Marnell was runner-up. Beverly Cole took first place and Monica Herring second for juniors aged 9 to 11.

Four-H Club girls had decorated the mall space in a "Springtime in Paris" theme, with tables and flowered trellises arranged in a sidewalk cafe setting where the 3 entrants appeared as fashion models. An audience of families and friends watched the revue.

Dorothy Marnell and Jana Cole served as narrators for the fashion parade. Cynthia Hanna, Donna Olson, Charles Atchley and Tommy Bezner were seated at tables in the role of cafe patrons.

Judging was based on the girl's appearance and posture as well as on the construction and suitability of her garment. Preceding the revue, a two-day

Chamber Board To Take Bids On Leasing Car

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board of directors held their monthly meeting Wednesday morning and moved that a letter should be mailed to each auto dealer member requesting bids for the lease of either a 4-passenger sedan or a station wagon, with a list price of approximately $4,000.

The car is to be equipped with power brakes, power steering and air conditioning, the terms of the lease to be for two years with a maximum mileage of 50,000 miles.

The chamber will pay all insurance and maintenance not covered under the car warranty, provided that the dealer shall pay the license fee and any applicable taxes. It should be delivered prior to October 15, 1968.

The following recommendations of the Government Affairs Committee were approved: "A provision shall be incorporated in the Food Stamp Bill prohibiting any person who is engaged in a strike, labor dispute or voluntary work stoppage from receiving aid under the Food Stamp Program."

The present Feed Grain Program should be extended with no limitation on the dollar payment for diverted acreage."

Charm School had been conducted in which the girls received pointers on modeling and learned about grooming, posture and attitude.

The Dress Revue committee had Mrs. F. A. Marnell and Patsy Paetzold as co-chairmen, with Kay Atchley, Cheryl Cole, Layne Young and Mrs. Carl Armstrong as other members. On the Charm School committee were Cynthia Hanna and Mrs. Juston McBride, co-chairmen; Carmela Burges and Sue Shirley.

Judges for the revue were

Sisters Are Killed In Train Accident

Funeral services for Miss Sandra Green, 21, and Miss Janie Green, 15, former Hereford residents who died Thursday night as the result of a train-car crash at Newton, Miss., will be held at 3 p.m. today in Newton.

They were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Green. The family moved to Mississippi from the Westway community less than two years ago. The older sister was a 1965 graduate of Hereford High School and the younger was a student at LaPlata Junior High before the move.

In addition to their parents, the girls are survived by a sister, Mrs. Tom Templeton of Bovina, and a brother, Reed Green of College Station.

Relatives informed friends here that the accident occurred when the two girls were on their way to a church party for Sandra, who had just returned home from summer school at Texas A&M University. On their way to pick up friends, the car stopped too near the tracks at a railroad crossing so that a passing train caught it and whipped it around.

After her high school years, Sandra Green was graduated from Lubbock Christian College and Harding College in Searcy, Ark., and planned to begin teaching this fall. She had also attended West Texas State University as a summer student.

In her senior year at HHS she was named outstanding homemaking student and was co-editor of the school publication, The Whiteface.

Janie Green would have been a high school sophomore next term. She was a member of the school band at Newton, and had been on the LaPlata annual and newspaper staff here. She was also a member of 4-H here.

Film Premiere Is Attended By Many

A crowd of around 150 persons attended the premier showing of the Holly Sugar movie, "Farther Than The Eye Can See", Friday night in the Ball Room of the Jim Hill Hotel.

After the introduction of the actors in the film who were present at the showing, the film got underway. Telling of a small boy who is raised on a sugar beet farm, the film narrated the events which led up to his touring the local plant and getting an inside view of the operations there.

Playing the part of the "son" was Gerald Shipley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Shipley of Hereford, who is told of the operations that take place from the harvesting of the beets to the final process that makes them into sale items. Bud Snyder, the "father", and his "son" are invited to tour the local Holly Sugar plant by Bruce Brown, local plant manager.

Describing the process of harvesting, Brown explains the cutting, separating, and processing of the beets. Explaining how the beets are cut, Brown goes into detail of the heating which separates the various part of the usable beets. He tells of how the different liquids are kneaded out of the original compound of the beets and what their purpose and uses are. Some, he told the two visitors, are used for things other than production of sugar. Some are used for ice cream, pies, preserves, and other items one would not think of.

Aerial shots of the plant and local fields, along with animated portions of the film helped to further explain the working processes of the plant and what occurs to the beets once they are harvested.

The film, which was shot mostly in the Hereford plant last November, with other parts filmed in Colorado and California, was a 26-minute, color production filmed by the Holly Sugar Corporation for educational purposes. A large number of the films have already been requested by the Texas Education Agency for that purpose.

The first showing of the film was held at 8:15 where about 100 persons attended, and a second showing was held beginning at 9 p.m. where around 50 persons watched the film. No admission was charged for the watching of the film.

Carnival Begins

The 1968 version of the Hereford Lions Club Carnival is back in town, offering fun and excitement for young and old — and all for a good cause.

The carnival, which offers an assortment of rides and games for fun seekers, began Friday night and will run through Monday, July 29. Action starts soon after 7 p.m. and continues until about midnight.

The carnival is the biggest project held each year by the Lions, with proceeds going to community projects sponsored by the organization.

"We invite everyone to come out, eat supper with us and then just enjoy themselves," said Lions Club president Ray Moore. "There's something here for the entire family and a chance to forget the everyday problems. The money, of course, will go toward such projects as the new Campfire Girls Hut, Crippled Children's Camp, Foreign Exchange Student, Hi-Plains Eye Bank, Boy Scouts, Girlstown, Boys Ranch, and many others."

Watermelons Are Stolen Tuesday

E. I. Owen, of Vernon, Texas, reported to local police that sometime Tuesday night someone stole about $40 worth of watermelons from his parked semi-truck.

He said that he had trouble with his truck late Tuesday afternoon and had left it parked just south of the underpass on 385. He left the truck around midnight and when he returned the next morning, he found the watermelons missing.

long." He condemned their deficit and their practices, and compared the mails with the telephones — postage rates have risen and long-distance rates have decreased. "And now the federal government is investigating the Bell System." Reagan said that the former governor of his state (Pat Brown) had worked closely with the administration. "When Washington sneezed, the Gesundheit could be heard in Sacramento." But he explained that since he had entered office, with the appointments of a "Task Force," there were now 1.8 fewer state employees than there were a year ago. This had saved $30 million.

But he retracted somewhat, saying that he realized that he was speaking to many Democrats and former Democrats. "I have been a Democrat most of my life," the Republican Governor said, "and I know that feeling of betrayal." But he stated that the Democratic Party had betrayed him.

Reagan recalled the days when Americans could walk down the streets in foreign countries in safety, with an American flag pinned to their lapel. "Where did we go wrong?" He said that the Soviet Union was now smiling about the situation where the American now meets nothing but violence.

"California and Texas have long been active competitors in the field of military procurement," he said. "We have also competed in the tragic statistics of Vietnam casualties. Thus we both can view with some horror the incompetence of the Great Society in the matter of the nation's defenses.

"The Great Society has made a big point in its supposed freshness of outlook, its zest for innovation, its gift of invention. The truth is that the Great Society has brought forth little that is great and nothing that is new."

Reagan stated that practically all of the commanding weapons now in the American inventory were developed or brought forward during the Eisenhower years. He called former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara (who had issued the closing order for Amarillo Air Force Base in 1964) a "reign of efficient disaster" and drew wide applause.

"Retired generals and admirals are usually the ones who view with alarm the ideas of the next generation. But today a civilian bureaucracy is planning to fight the next war with the last war's weapons. When the inventive genius, the driving force behind every important weapons system in our inventory has, in one way or another, said, 'America is abandoning its defenses,' when the brightest of our bright young men, when the grand old general of the air war, when one of the most creative physicists of our time, when an admiral who has repeatedly demonstrated incredible foresight all agree that nothing is being done to protect the country's future, it is time to be concerned."

Reagan said, "Our leaders propose the odd notion that if we allow the Soviet Union to achieve military superiority they will no longer be suspicious of us, that we can live on the technological achievements of the past, ignoring the lead time necessary to maintain our strength. Our leaders have been out of touch with reality. They have failed miserably. It is time to turn them out."

He said that he was in the nation's capitol on the night the fires and riots broke out. "Their (the demonstrators) cause is not freedom but anarchy. They believe that God is dead. But they had better feel their own pulse. God isn't dead. We just have trouble talking to him in a school!"

He spoke of the campus demonstrations — many of them in California. He reported that a student leader had told him: "If the authorities had met us during the first hour, we would have collapsed in the first hour." "There is a responsibility gap in this nation. We can't even guarantee a citizen's right to cross a park safely," the governor said.

He also spoke of gun controls and its complexities. "But gun sales are actually eight times what they were in normal times. Most buyers are God-fearing citizens. Could it be possible that they are buying them to protect themselves?"

Reagan stated that it was time to "end all this foolishness. It is time for Government to protect the lawful instead of the other way around." He also pointed out that those who demand law and order are not racists. "All men must uphold the law, regardless of race, color, creed. And the lawless are color blind."

He explained his program of equal opportunity in California, now they are trying to help minority groups. "They haven't asked for more welfare, only more jobs and education. We are going to see that equality in all races. But there is no guarantee that they will be equal at the finish line!"

The governor pointed out that in the face of hard times in the past, "We called upon God instead of civil opportunity."

He also pointed out a recent national magazine story — which he called "written by a reputable journalist" — about corruption in Vietnam, the "$80,000 in pocket money" and the money spent for medicine that turned out to be saltwater. But he made clear: "We are in Vietnam because it is our national interest to be there. And it should be that we are going to do it there — whether it offends friend or foe!" The audience gave him a standing ovation.

"As Republicans," Reagan told his audience, "you and I are going to write a page in history. Will it be our finest hour? Men will live a thousand years in the shadow of our decision."

Unlike his 1962 appearance in Amarillo, Reagan left through the back stage drapes immediately and was not seen again by his audience — escorted back to his jet in safety. The audience exited in the opposite direction.

(His 1962 appearance was a prelude to his entrance into politics. At that time, he was master of ceremonies for General Electric's Sunday Night Theatre on C.B.S. television, and remained after his speech for more than an hour to meet members of the audience at the old City Auditorium informally.)

Friday's appearance made no mention of his previous show business experiences, although he had been deeply involved in it for thirty years. Actually, he had been president of the Screen Actors Guild, a labor union, longer than any other officer. Following his t.v. contract with G. E., he had been signed by Borax as "Death Valley Days." His first picture had been "Love Is On the Air" for Warner Brothers in 1936 and his last theatrical release, "Hellcats of the Navy" (co-starring wife Nancy Davis), for Columbia in 1956.

He told this reporter at a press conference then that his favorite role had been in "Kings Row" (a "clean" version, so to speak, of "Peyton Place") in 1942. Oddly enough, he had played the part of a playboy in the picture — who eventually lost both of his legs through amputation. Completely broken in spirit, his best friend returns to tell him that the

Book Review-Tea Slated As Anniversary Event

The public is invited to a review by Mrs. Clint Formby of Sam Levenson's best-selling story of a happy family, Everything But Money, at a tea in Community Center at 3 p.m. Tuesday. The Christian Book Store will be host, celebrating its fifth anniversary.

Another anniversary event will be open house at the store, 347 North Main, all day Thursday. Coffee will be served and a demonstration will be given of new materials for teaching children in Bible schools.

Mrs. Formby is a popular reviewer in Hereford and has been heard by numerous club and church groups. The book she has chosen to present Tuesday is a warmly humorous account of life during difficulty in a family which substituted affection and an all-for-one spirit for financial prosperity.

Mrs. Earl Springer and Mrs. Glen Osborn, managers of the Book Store, will serve as hostesses for the anniversary events, assisted by other members of the board of directors.

The store was organized in 1963 for the purpose of providing "all types of wholesome and informative literature" and material for church programs to the community, with emphasis on Christian literature.

Its first manager was Fred Beversdorf, former pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, and the original board of directors included Mrs. Springer and the late Welo Groneman, who served four years as chairman. Robert Rott, now of Plainview but still on the board, was manager three years and Mrs. George Tiefel during the past year.

Hubert Stoerner is present chairman of the board with Rott as vice chairman and Mrs. Springer secretary-treasurer. Other members are Arthur Nafziger of Olton, Mrs. Osborn, Ewald Vogler and Martin Wagner. The store has stockholders living in several states.

Train Victim's Funeral Is Held

Funeral services for Charles Earl Porter, 70, who was killed early Wednesday when he was struck by a train near Dairy Road Crossing, were conducted in Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home. Burial was in West Park Cemetery.

amputation had been entirely unnecessary — but if he wanted to expose the doctor who had performed the operation, he would have to get out of bed and fight — which he did.

Reagan had also appeared with California Sen. George Murphy in the 1943 movie "This Is the Army," and in 1947 as defeated candidate Shirley Temple's father in "That Hagen Girl." He pronounces his last name as if it were spelled "Ragan."

Light Session Held By City Commissioners

Hereford City Commissioners, in their regular meeting Monday night, voted to advertise for bids on a graphotype, to be used in the tax department.

The machine would be used when the city changes over to the unit tax system, taking care of the work now done by hand. City Manager Dudley Bayne told commissioners that the machine would save both time and money and would be used next year if bought.

A franchise ordinance granting Pioneer Natural Gas a franchise for five years was approved on the second reading by commissioners. The franchise had been approved on the second reading by commissioners in an earlier meeting but must be read at the meetings before it is accepted.

In final action, commissioners received a budget report on the fiscal year 1967-68 from Bayne. The report showed that a total of $765,426 had been expected in the budget, while $799,531 was actually received.

Under disbursements, a total of $743,955 had been expected in the budget, while only $73,004 actually was spent by the city. Bayne pointed out that Both vehicles were going east on Park Avenue when one vehicle attempted to make a right hand turn and collided with the other vehicle, which was traveling alongside, according to police reports.

Citations were issued by investigating officers for improper right turn and failure to pass on the right safely.

Two New County Library Books Deal With The American Indian

Two new novels in the Deaf Smith County Library deal with the American Indian, but each has a different slant which will keep the reader highly entertained, library officials report.

In M. Scott Momaday's new book "HOUSE MADE OF DAWN" "There was a house made of dawn. It was made of pollen and of rain, and the land was very old and everlasting. There were many colors on the hills, and the plain was bright with different-colored clays and sands. Red and blue and spotted horses grazed in the plain, and there was a dark wilderness on the mountains beyond. The land was still and strong. It was beautiful all around."

For Abel, a young American Indian who lives with his grandfather on the reservation, the world he was born to is rich in meaning and tradition: it is ancient and holy, great and beautiful. But it is also an anachronism.

When Abel returns from World War II, he cannot find his place in the old life or in the world outside. Estranged and bitter, to those around him he appears insensitive, enigmatic, even hostile. In a drunken fight he kills a strange white man, but the circumstances of the murder are so extraordinary as to disqualify the law. Abel is released from prison and, like so many of his generation, "relocated" in the city. There, in the company of a sympathetic social worker, a group of lively urban Indians who hold peyote rituals, and a good friend who sees Abel's problem perfectly but cannot save him, his disintegration is completed. Because there is no place else to go, he returns to the reservation, for a second homecoming. There, beyond the extreme disorder and confusion of Abel's own life, is the land itself, the continuity of generations, the house made of dawn.

What is perhaps most extraordinary about this strongly lyrical first novel is the author's ability to give his readers the immediate feeling of what it is like to grow up as an Indian in this country.

Set in a tiny renegade camp, A WHISTLE IN THE WIND by John H. Culp depicts one small settlement in Texas, from the wild time before the Civil War to the coming of civilizing government. Texas — when an Indian captive could hold a way station only on sufferance of the tribal chief. When Comanchero camps served as the headquarters for stolen cattle and human captives traded by the Indians. When pioneers straggled across the land, looking for a place of their own.

From the stunning beginning, an intense, sweeping prairie fire—to the heroine's last visit to the settled town, this authentic panorama of the West is alive with the people who fought for the land. There were the Indian chieftains of the unregenerated Plains Tribes and their enemy, the invading whites, who tried and eventually succeeded in forcing the red men to the reservation. There were renegade whites, fighting for survival, despised by their own people for serving the Indian.

Herd Lines

By Marshall Day

It probably isn't the first time the predictors of Texas Football have pulled a boner, but one thing is for sure, they really pulled one this time when they predicted Hereford to pull a third place finish this coming football season.

What they probably don't know is that the boys who are to represent the Hustlin' Whitefaces this year have a number of things up their sleeves as does their head mentor, Larry Wartes. Another thing they missed by a long shot was the weights of some of the players — a thing that is definitely going to be the deciding factor when the Dumas Demons, Perryton Rangers, and Whitefaces find themselves battling it out again for the district crown.

Though Perryton and Dumas will definitely be the ones to beat, the ones who have done all the predicting have not really gotten an inside look at the local boys. Perryton is expecting to have a small number of returnees from a squad that finished up second in this district last year, while Dumas, for the first time in who knows how long, will not take the title, but end up with a second. But, it seems they have more to reckon with than they have predicted. Hereford Whitefaces, and their consistency.

Consistency and all-out effort are what appear to be the key-notes this year as the Whitefaces will have some of the boys playing for the varsity who were members of the once-defeated junior varsity of last season. Putting the finishing touches on these players will be last years battle-hardened returnees.

The ones who predicted a third-place finish for the Herd stated that the team lacked in speed but made up for it with defensive depth. Well, far from it. They have been at it harder than anyone can imagine and have produced players who have surprised even themselves as they have reached a peak of speed that others have not counted on. With four offensive and five defensive holdovers set for action this coming season, one could hardly expect Dumas, with three offensive and two defensive returnees, to pull the upset that has been predicted. With the under-rated Whitefaces just about ready to show a few people what can happen when a guy's temper and pride are ruffled, you can expect the Herd, if everything goes as it has been going, uphill, they will burst a little more than someones pride when the rugged 1-AAA season gets underway this year.

Another thing which the pros figure with on Perryton, who has seven offensive and eight defensive holdovers coming back, is that they have the potential and power and depth that has earned them the right for a third place spot in the Top Ten Teams in the state this next year. Dumas is rated to the top spot also as they nabbed the 19th position though they will never make it out of the district if Perryton is to win, as was also predicted.

So, as much as one would hate to contradict the experts, you just can't help it when it comes to something like this. For the past few years, the Hustlin' Herd has come so close to the title but had it snatched away from them by Dumas. Now it is closer than it has ever been and someone just might get a surprise as to the outcome.

Gary Goodin, that short-legged state hurdler who met with a little accident last week and broke his leg, looks at the possibility of what effect it will have on his running and the scholarship which he has signed with Abilene Christian College.

With the leg being broken in the lower part, Goodin received pulled tendons, a chipped bone and a cracked bone. He will have to wear the cast for about 10 weeks and as everyone knows, 10 weeks of no exercise, especially to a hurdler, can be costly.

Goodin, who had made it to the regional track meet four years in a row, made his debut in the state track and field meet this past year as he anchored the sprint relay team and ran the 120-yard high hurdles and the 330-yard intermediates. Now, with a broken leg, a rebuilding process looks like the remedy for the future, but he has just a short time to work on it and a long time to wear the cast.

Colt Leaguers Fall In District Games

After breezing to an easy 5-0 victory over the Littlefield Colt League All-Stars, in the opening game of the District Colt League Baseball Tournament, the locals were dealt two defeats in quick succession Friday when they fell from the double elimination tournament.

After defeating the Littlefield team, the Hereford team fell victim to both the Borger team, by a 12-3 score, and the Lubbock team by a 9-0 tally.

In the Borger game, the locals jumped to a quick lead in the first frame, as they tallied one run. They held this lead until the bottom of the second inning when errors, miscues and an onslaught on Borger hits gave them seven runs before the inning was retired.

The bottom again fell out from under the Hereford team in the following frames when Borger again exploded for five runs to sew the game up. The game then turned into a pitching duel as the local Colts managed only two more tallies with one each coming in the fifth and sixth. Gene Schmu-

SCREECH! — A screeching halt is exhibited by one of the players on one of the Women's League Softball teams in game play. A full schedule is on tap for the coming week for the league as games will be played on four days.

Stompers Clip Belles, 15-14

In an exciting ten inning softball game played Thursday night, the Kitty Stompers finally emerged the victors over the Blue-Belles by a 15-14 score.

The game was close for the first three innings with the Stompers holding a slight edge of 4-1. In the top of the fourth the Kitty Stompers scored 5 runs, but the Blue-Belles bounced back with nine big runs to take a one-run lead of 10-9.

The Blue-Belles added two more scores in the next two innings while holding the Kitty Stompers scoreless. At the end of six frames, the score was 12-9, but in the seventh, the Stompers tied it up as Jan Miller tripled to drive in two runs and later score the tying run.

Both teams went down in order in the eighth inning then they both came back and scored two runs each in their part of the ninth that again tied the score up at 14-14.

Loretta Eller, the Kitty Stomper pitcher, got on with a single in the tenth inning and later scored what proved to be the winning run as the Blue-Belles went down in order during their time at bat.

A full schedule is on tap for next week when games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at St. Anthony's park.

bottom of the first, one in the second and five in the third to end all scoring in the contest. Hereford could not manage a single score in the game although they did threaten on several occasions. As has been true of several of the local teams in tournament action, errors proved to be the deciding factors as a number were committed by the Colt Leaguers in the District Tournament.

Representing Hereford in the District Tournament were Alan Wagner, Jeff Loerwald, Harold Schmucker, Bill McQueary, Ricki Ward, Mike Wartes, Ricky Lee, Keith Anderson, Gary Lemons, Donny McDermitt, and Keith Duncan.

The Irrigation League Hereford Rebels, who will end their regular season today, received an invitation to participate in the State Tournament which is to be held in Lubbock beginning Thursday, July 25.

Scheduled to compete against Longview in their first game, the Rebels will travel to Lubbock and will play their first game at 7 p. m., July 28. If they win that contest, they will play the following Tuesday, July 30, but if they lose they will play on Monday, July 29. It is a double elimination tournament, with 16 teams entered. Those entered include five teams from Lubbock, one from Ft. Worth, Amarillo, San Antonio, Mercedes, Odessa, Midland, Plainview and Longview with several more also scheduled to play in the tournament.

Charlie Moreno, player-coach for the Rebels, has asked that anyone who would like to donate money for expenses, as they are badly needed, are asked to bring them by Kirby's Shoe Store, at 414-A at Sugarland Mall. The players paid the entry fee out of their own pockets and now expense money is needed for their trips down there.

The Rebels, who will end their season today with a game against Umbarger. After having ended up with a secure hold on second place in the league standings, the Rebs enter the tournament with a 14-4 record. The game against Umbarger is set to start at 2 p. m. on the local field with Alex Diaz taking on starting pitching duties.

LEGION TOURNAMENT ACTION — Action of all sorts could be found last Wednesday and Thursday when the local American Legion Baseball team traveled to Potter County Stadium for the District 18 Tournament which was held there. The Redbirds fell two straight games in the tournament and were eliminated thusly. See story on sports page.

Errors Kill Redbirds At District Tourney

A total of 18 errors and a team of idle bats spelled disaster for the American Legion Redbirds in the District 18 tournament in which they dropped their first two games to be eliminated from the title battle.

In Thursday's game, starter Berry Johnson held the Borger Bulldogs scoreless the first two frames, but in the top of the third, a lead-off single, followed by a triple, resulted in a tally for the Borger team. Two infield errors by the Redbirds, along with two back-to-back singles by Bulldog batters, then allowed the visiting team three unearned runs as they jumped to a 4-0 lead.

Jerry Huffine, starting hurler for the Bulldogs, held the Redbirds in check throughout the entire contest as he allowed only three hits. These were collected by Sid Shaw, who lashed a triple in the first frame, Jim Loerwald, who connected for a single and Randy Ragan, who clipped a single in the dying moments of the game.

Two Borger singles in the top of the fifth resulted in two more runs for that team when two passed balls brought them scurrying around the circuit. Holding a comfortable 6-0 lead, the Borger nine added another run in the top of the sixth on a lead-off single and three consecutive Redbird errors.

Another series of errors, the factor that proved to be the downfall of the local nine, gave the Bulldogs three more unearned runs in the eighth frame and they then came back in the ninth to sew the game up on a single, followed by a double which scored the first batter, and two passed balls.

This 12-0 defeat at the hands of the Borger diamonders spelled season's end for the Redbirds after falling to the Palo Duro Dons 8-5 in another error stricken game just the evening before.

Nine errors in the opening game of the tournament against Palo Duro Wednesday was the stage-setter for the Borger slaughter. Leading three times during the game against Palo Duro, the Redbird's defense fell through each time in practically giving the game away.

In the first inning, Randy Ragan led off with a base-on-balls, and after advancing on a passed ball, scored on a single by first baseman Berry Johnson. Lynn Betts pitched superb ball from the hill but two errors in the second inning gave the Dons two unearned runs for a 2-1 lead.

Hereford tied the game up in the bottom of the fifth when rightfielder Gary Crume drew a base-on-balls, then scored on a single by Ragan. The Redbirds then took the lead themselves in the bottom of the sixth on a single by Kenny Hagar, an unsuccessful double play attempt, and a balk by the opposing pitcher. Betts scored after Hagar on a passed ball after going to first on a fielder's choice.

The Dons tied the game up in the top of the seventh on two errors on the local third sacker and a single. Hereford then took the lead again for the second time in the game in the bottom of that frame when Johnson collected his third hit of the game, stole second, then scored on a single by Jim Scott.

With the score resting at 5-4 in favor of the Redbirds, the game went down the drain in the final two frames as in the eighth, two defensive errors, along with two Palo Duro singles, gave the Dons three unearned runs for a two-run lead. They then added an insurance run in the top of the ninth when the lead-off hitter singled and scored on two infield miscues.

The final score read 8-5 with the Dons taking the contest via errors.

Big gun for the losing effort was Berry Johnson who went four-for-five at the plate.

Top Races Set Today

A heated race for the championship will be on tap today at the local Speedway when drivers compete for the most number of points for the Mid-Season Championship.

Currently leading the pack is Bill Byers in class "A" as he has 52 points and he is closely followed by Red Easton who has 45 points. In class "B", James Davis, who powers car 403, is leading with 15 points and a tight race is expected between him and second placer James Bradley, driver of car 44, who has 14 points.

With the changing of the Amarillo Speedbowl to night racing on Friday and Saturday, more out-of-town drivers are expected to show up at the local raceway on Sundays. Several Amarillo, Dimmitt and Clovis cars are expected over the next few weekends at the local track and more fierce competition along with them. A new car owned by L. V. Watts and powered by a 327 cubic inch Chevrolet engine, made its debut last Sunday and is also expected back at the other forthcoming races.

High point cars for the initial half of the local season included Byers, who drove his 301 Chevrolet to the class "A" championship and James Davis, who drove his 239 Ford to the class "B" championship. Both of these men will be presented trophies prior to the mid-season races today.

Races will begin at 2 p. m. today on the track east of the city. Marked signs indicated the way to the raceway.

Concerning Veterans

Q — I was recently separated from active duty after three years of service. However, I now belong to an Organized Reserve unit which trains two days each month and two weeks each summer. Will this Reserve service increase my education and training benefits or add to the time in which I can use my G. I. Bill home loan entitlement?

A — No. The Post-Korean G. I. Bill, which grants veterans such as you with active duty after Jan. 31, 1955 both education and training and home loan benefits, excludes Reserve training from this program.

However, you are already entitled to the maximum of 36 months of education and training benefits by virtue of your three years of active duty.

You must complete this training within eight years after leaving active duty. And you have 20 years from the date of your separation from military service to use your G. I. Bill home loan entitlement.

Santa Fe Railroad Is 100; Is Continuing Its Progress

Old John Santa Fe is 100 years old this year, but you'd truly have to say he neither looks nor acts his age.

The transcontinental railroad that pioneered the West zooms past Milepost 100 toward a second century of service and progress in October. And for those of you who don't railroad for a living, a milestone is a sign placed at each one-mile increment throughout a railroad system. It provides instant location of any particular point on that railroad.

The centennial observance was marked by a series of civic luncheons and dinners throughout the nation, starting with the road's annual stockholders' meeting at Topeka, Kan., April 25.

This was as it should be for that is where it all began — at Topeka, capitol of the Kansas Territory — as a dream in the heart and mind of a man named Cyrus K. Holliday.

Cyrus K. who?

Actually, the dream of empire first stirred within Holliday's breast while he still lived in Pennsylvania. Born at Carlisle, Pa., April 3, 1826, he earned a law degree from Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., in 1852. In the fall of 1854, the newly-married Holliday set out for Kansas with two avowed ambitions, to found a town and a railroad. He was 28 years old.

Somehow, even before he was born, Holliday seems to have been destined to move in transportation circles. In 1821, a scant five years before his birth, Captain William Bicknell made the first recorded freight-trip over the route that would one day become the main line of the Santa Fe Railway.

During the year of Holliday's birth, 1826, the first private railroad company in the United States was formed in Massachusetts. And also in that same year, Theodore D. Judah, who founded the Southern Pacific railroad, was born in Connecticut. Both young men went west in 1854, one to Kansas, the other to California. So much for the coincidental events of the years 1826 and 1854.

Shortly after his arrival in Kansas, Holliday met Dr. Charles Robinson, a leader in the New England anti-slavery movement. They formed a partnership and on Dec. 5, 1854, Holliday formally embarked upon the pursuit of his first ambition, to found a town. He carefully selected the site and even chose a name — Webster, reflecting his respect and admiration of the great statesman. Others in his company, however, preferred the Indian name Topeka ("a good place to dig potatoes") and Topeka it became. In the succeeding years, Holliday thrice became mayor of the city and was chiefly instrumental in its becoming capitol of the territory and later, when Kansas was admitted to statehood in 1861, the capitol of the state. In these formative years, Holliday felt the real power lay in politics, consequently he was politically active at local and state levels. He served in the Territorial legislature and it was he alone who drew up the charter for the Atchison and Topeka Railroad in 1859. He personally introduced his bill in the legislature and through his efforts the territorial governor signed it 10 days later, Feb. 11, 1859.

The action up to this point proved to be the easiest. Nine years were to follow in which Holliday literally wore out his shoes trudging from office to office of eastern financiers in quest of funds. He encountered rebuff and ridicule but he kept on, doggedly refusing to admit defeat.

The advent of the War Between the States also crimped his efforts.

Holliday served his state as adjutant general and his service entitled him to be called "general." However, he much preferred to be addressed as "colonel" and frequently was throughout the remainder of his life.

Founder of Santa Fe Railway Co. . . . Cyrus K. Holliday.

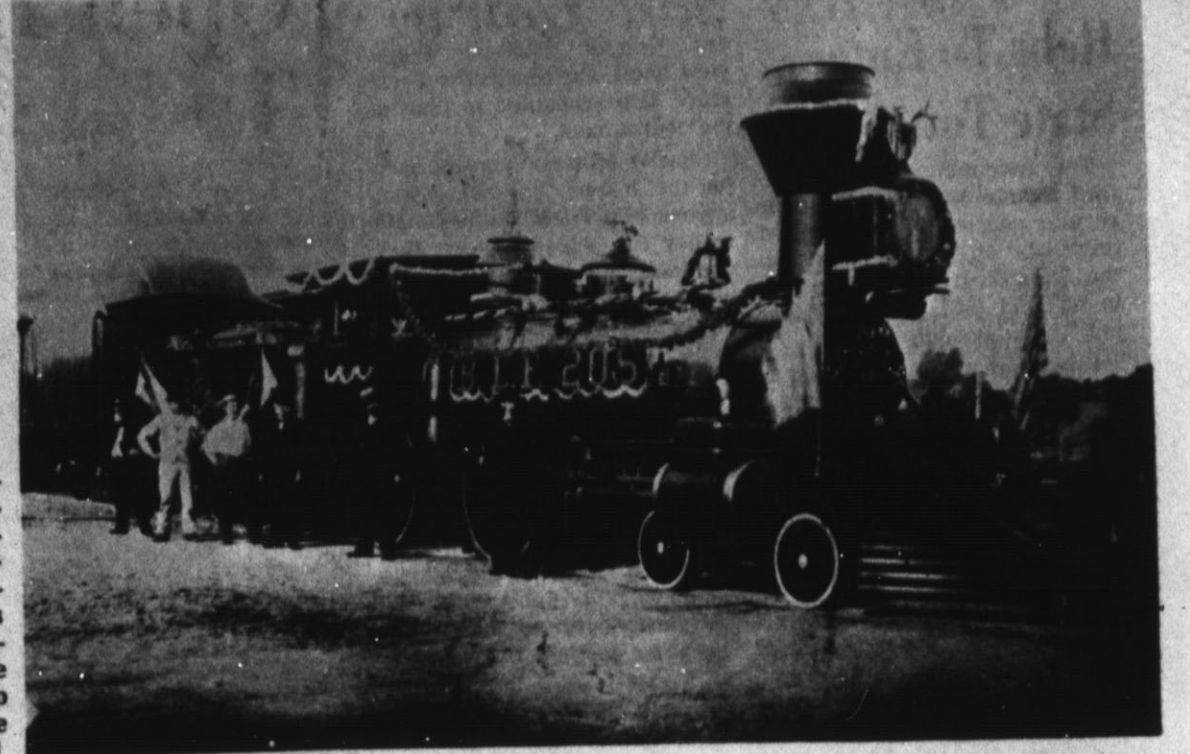

Persistence like virtue has its own reward and Col. Holliday and his friends were not to be denied. Sufficient money, land grants, machinery and manpower finally were amassed to begin construction of the first 25 miles of railroad, from Topeka to Burlingame.

A raw, chill wind whipped the coattails of a tiny throng of Topekans who, on Oct. 30, 1868, watched the dynamic Holliday turn the first spade of dirt. U. S. Senator Edmund G. Ross, the solon whose vote saved President Andrew Johnson from impeachment and an early backer of Holliday's railroad, served as chief orator at the groundbreaking ceremonies. Col. Holliday followed him on the flatbed of a wagon that served as a speakers' platform. He predicted those present would live to see the road completed to Santa Fe, N.M. His audience smiled tolerantly and it would not be the last time Holliday's ambitions were ridiculed.

Construction work progressed well and in April, 1869, Holliday and a party of distinguished citizens, railroad officials and other guests filled two passenger coaches and headed toward a picnic celebration at Wakarusa. They proudly steamed over the seven miles of railroad at 15 miles per hour, according to an enthusiastic journalist of the day, the last five miles to the picnic ground being made by horse and buggy. The picnic featured barrels of beer, soda crackers and much old-fashioned oratory. Col. Holliday, flushed with success after years of struggle and frustration, spoke of the great things yet to come. The longer he talked the more fervid his inspiration became, ending with his prediction the railroad would one day extend from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico.

His flight of oratory and wild optimism were too much even for a frontier celebration and while many stared in open-mouthed amazement others laughed scornfully. One young buck, unable to restrain his mirth, threw himself to the ground and screamed, "Oh, the damned old fool."

But the railroad was launched and the guiding genius of Cyrus K. Holliday began to blend into the corporate structure he had formed. He served two terms as its president and remained an active director for

Comings and Goings at King's Manor

By ANNA BLAKE
Dr. Don R. Davidson of the Kings Manor executive staff has returned from Austin after attending a board of directors meeting of the Texas Association of Homes for the Aging, to consider the effect of new regulations regarding Title XIX classification of service for elderly people.

He believes Kings Manor will be able to adapt to the new regulations without undue hardship, but said many retirement homes and nursing homes in the state will be seriously affected. The regulations call for a considerable cut in money available for welfare care, Dr. Davidson said.

Mr. and Mrs. Manson Waits and Miss Leclair, supervisor of nursing at Westgate unit of the Manor, attended meetings at Amarillo of the Golden Spread Nursing Home Association, regarding the same problems.

The Study Club from Black honored Mrs. Greeson and Eldon Morgan on their birthdays this week, presenting a program and serving refreshments to residents and staff at the Manor.

First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service from Friona will give a devotional program for Westgate residents at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Miss Lillie Hostetler had a recent visit from Mrs. A. J. Clark and her daughter, who is a guest from Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Lena Menefee attended a going-away party for her grandson, Ronald Long, Thursday. The young man is entering Officers Training School at Newport, R.I.

Mrs. Exa Blaylock attended funeral services for her sister, Mrs. Hattie May Ross, in Corpus Christi Tuesday. Other relatives who went from Hereford for the funeral were Mrs. Bryant Powell and children, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron DuBose, Owen C. Powell and Goodwin Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Christian of Long Beach, Calif., were guests of Mrs. Anna Blake and other residents of Hereford recently.

Kathy, Debbie and Virginia Leuker have returned to their home in Dallas after an extended visit with their grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Don R. Davidson.

Open House Will Continue Today For Herbert Friemels

By SUE COLEMAN

Topping a rise of land to the west on Highway 385 north of Hereford, the new home of the Herbert Friemels commands a sweeping view of the city's breadth from its front windows; and an equally impressive scene of farmlands to the north and a lake at the foot of the slope westward.

THE SITE WAS CHOSEN when the family decided to "move to town" from the farm in Dawn community where they have lived 36 years. Mr. and Mrs. Friemel went to that home when they were married, and reared their six children there. "We've been farmers too long", Friemel explains, "to want to actually live inside city limits. Out here we have elbow room but we can be downtown in just a few minutes".

The story-and-a-half brick house, being shown by its builders in open house yesterday and today, was adapted from basic plans to fit the needs and preferences of the Friemel family.

Mrs. Friemel herself, not a professional decorator, chose the wallpaper, draperies, carpets, light fixtures and colors, as well as the room arrangement, to meet tastes of the people who will live in it.

THINGS LIKE a back entrance hall opening to a bath for use as a "wash-up room" les as operator in the Manor beauty shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Smith of Montana are spending the weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Manson Waits. The two women are sisters. Dennis Craddock, who has been a guest in the Waits home this week, has returned to his home in Lubbock.

Mrs. G. E. Hamilton is at home after a visit to Matador, where she participated in her granddaughter's wedding.

Mrs. Linda Combs of Bourbonnais, Ill., will be a visitor during August in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Tooley of Dawn.

by someone coming in after outdoor work, a small office in the kitchen wing with built-in desk for farm bookkeeping, a spacious sewing room with storage cabinets and cutting board built into a wall — these were planned for family needs just as were the formal living room, cabinet-lined kitchen and big upstairs game room.

Just across the terrace at the back, a sizable building houses a workshop and a greenhouse where Mr. and Mrs. Friemel pursue their respective hobbies. The enclosed patio with slate floor and rock fireplace, the basement room big enough for a billiard or pingpong table and the upstairs room with its own snack bar and fireplace, all are likely spots for the teenagers to entertain friends.

RATHER THAN FURNITURE and decorations of one period throughout the house, the Friemels are suiting their own tastes in blending various styles from one area to another. Unity is achieved by woodwork and paneling in ash, carried through all the rooms.

Living and dining rooms will have Victorian furnishings, antique white carpet and walls. The small entry which leads to living room, family room, staircase and bedroom wing, has wallpaper embossed in an antique green and gold pattern.

The white carpet extends into the front bedroom, to be occupied by blonde daughter Beverly, a high school student who has selected French provincial furniture. Its white and gold finish will contrast with velvet curtains and bedspread in hot pink.

MORE MASSIVE LOOK of Mediterranean style furniture will appear in rooms of the two college-age sons, Frank, who will attend the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., next term, and Galen, student at West Texas State University.

That style is also to be used in the family room, which has the same blue and green tweed carpet of the boys' rooms. The master bedroom with its adjoining dressing room and bath features sapphire blue which

Mrs. Friemel says she has always wanted, in flowered paper, carpet and curtains.

The one large upstairs room with its dormer recesses, to be used for recreation and also as a bedroom when the married children and their families come visiting, has a brown and gold tweed carpet while the entire kitchen-breakfast room-office area is carpeted in green and gold.

THE FRIEMEL CHILDREN who now live in their own homes are Joyce, Mrs. Tommy Gerber of Dalhart, Jerome and Roman, both on farms north of Hereford. There are 11 grandchildren in the family now.

Large windows in all the rooms — Friemel says he doesn't like a "shut-in" feeling — reveal not only the wider view, but grounds which have already been planted with trees, shrubs and flowers to promise a park-like appearance in the future. A curved driveway emphasizes the front entrance porch.

Stone walls partially enclose the outdoor patio, then a paved terrace and a grass-covered terrace break the gradual slope at the back, where the driveway enters the double garage. Below the terraces is a vegetable garden which Friemel has cultivated while he watched progress of the construction and which adds a leafy background to the view from the house.

FUTURE CHANGES in the house as well as the yard have been considered in the Friemel's plans. The sewing room just across the hall from the master bedroom, will not be used for that purpose yet.

It is now Frank's bedroom, but Mrs. Friemel takes the practical view that her sons are not likely to live at home many more years, and their rooms can be turned to other uses. Meanwhile, her sewing machine has its spot in the utility room near the kitchen.

The family is aware that a house changes to meet needs, because their present home has done just that. The newlywed couple went to live in a small house; as the family grew they added to it with two major remodelings.

"OUR OLD HOME is almost

HOUSE WITH A VIEW — The new home of the Herbert Friemels, its architecture suggestive of the French Provincial period, is just completed and open to visitors this weekend. It as large as this", says Mrs. Friemel, "but it still doesn't have enough storage space".

She has taken care of that eternal goal of a housewife by seeing that the new place provides lavish storage space in every part, upstairs and down.

Four closets across one wall of the basement, for instance, a big old-fashioned pantry with rows of narrow shelves next to the kitchen, a cedar-lined closet upstairs for out-of-season clothing, in addition to closets and cabinets in all hallways, baths, bedrooms, and kitchen area.

"Maybe there will be only one item in each drawer", Mrs. Friemel laughs as she looks happily at all the built-ins, "but that will suit me fine, and I'm sure it won't be long until they are all crowded".

THERE IS EVEN a space built especially for the cooling system, a section of the attic in which a man can stand, reached through an ordinary door instead of an uncomfortable crawl-space. The house is completely air-conditioned and has radiant heat from the ceilings.

A part of its decoration will be paintings which Mrs. Friemel has done, another of her hobbies. She has had some lessons and looks forward to having time for more. She likes to swim and sets aside time twice a week for that activity, its value attested by her trim figure.

Her interests center in her home and family, with outside memberships only in her church, St. Mary's at UMBERGER, and its Altar Society.

All the family looks forward to living in the new house, sharing it with their friends and turning it into a home rather than the showplace it is today.

Think Peaches!! This delectable fruit adds variety and a new taste to any of the standard desserts besides having dozens of special dishes all its own.

Try these dishes with plentiful peaches this summer.

FRESH PEACH ICE CREAM

1 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows
1/2 cup concentrated orange juice
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
3 fresh peeled peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 pint whipping cream
Combine marshmallows and concentrated orange juice in sauce pan. Heat slowly until marshmallows dissolve, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and add almond extract. Cool.

Dice peaches, sprinkle with lemon juice. Whip cream. Combine peaches and whipped cream and fold into cooled marshmallows mixture. Pour into refrigerator trays and freeze.

To serve: Fill chilled dessert dishes with the frozen mixture — top with fresh sliced peaches. Add a wreath of whipped cream and a red or green cherry for garnish.

For parfaits: In chilled parfait glasses, alternate layers of peach ice cream, fresh peach slices and whipped cream. Serve with cherry garnish.

PEACH SUNDAES

Ladle sliced peaches into sundae dishes, add a scoop of vanilla or peach ice cream, top with some of the peach syrup and it's ready to serve, unless you want to go all the way and add whipped cream and a bright red cherry.

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
3 eggs, separated
1/2 cup sugar

Soften gelatin in water. Beat egg yolks slightly; stir in 1/4 cup sugar, peaches, salt and lemon juice. Cook over boiling water until mixture coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat; stir in softened gelatin. Cool until mixture begins to set. Fold in almond flavoring.

Beat egg whites with remaining sugar until stiff but not dry. Then fold into peach mixture. Pour into chilled crust. Chill until firm. Garnish with additional peaches, if desired.

PEACH SHORTCAKE

INFORMATION requested this week: freezing, canning and drying information; making dietetic jelly; removing grapefruit and blood stains; raising guinea pigs.

There were many calls and callers at the office: Ray Conaway, Mrs. K. H. Oliver, Mrs. Lorraine Hix, Mrs. H. M. Bozoz, Mrs. Clarence Berends, Sandra Moore, Paul Grubbs and Mary Southward.

Mary Southward called about drying apricots. I told her about Mrs. J. E. Warrick drying peaches and how good they are. Mrs. Warrick dries peaches spread thinly on a cookie tin under the pilot light of the cook range.

From personal experience, I can say these peaches make delicious fried pies. Mrs. Warrick and Mrs. Otto Massie get purple ribbons on their fried pies.

A woman came by the office and tells us she has lovely quilt scraps. She would like to have someone make quilts on the shares. If any of you want her name, call the Extension Office, 364-3573.

A NEW acquaintance we've met is Maria Bybee, a new resident of Hereford. We were very impressed with her charm and friendliness. Maria had a very cute little terrier with her. This is a Cairn terrier raised by Betty and J. D. Gilbert. A hint: Don't ask Betty Gilbert about these dogs unless you have plenty of time.

THURSDAY the North Hereford Demonstration Club helped Mrs. Mary Bodkin celebrate her 89th birthday.

THE 4-H Dress Revue was good. The four top winners are: Jane Witkowski, Sue Shirley, Beverly Cole and Monica Herring. All girls are to be congratulated on the good appearance they made.

FRIDAY, JOETTE and Cynthia Hanna and I helped judge the Dress Revue at Dalhart.

THERE IS AN organization in New York known as the Color Association of the United States Inc. It is their responsibility to develop accurate forecasts of color trends for members who may be manufacturers, retailers and color consultants.

What colors are used and how they are used say a great deal about the times. Orange is a popular color because it vibrates at the same tempo as the today's music. Violet vibrates even faster than orange.

But with all the vibrating and bright colors there has to be stability. The next few seasons will find brown very prominent and very high on the fashion scale. The solidness of brown balances the brightness used to express this new life.

The increasing popularity of brown is explained as a symbol of security. Man has explored outer space, has changed many of his moral standards and thrown away old values, but he hasn't had time to build new.

Thus, there is a returning to protection of Mother Earth — symbolized by brown. In all things the soil is basic.

THIS INFORMATION came to the office from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce on Industrial Development. "What New Industry Means to a Community" is a booklet that indicates what 100 new workers can mean.

1. Increase in Annual Retail Sales

Grocery stores, $72.00; Automobile dealers, $47.00; Eating and drinking places, $25.00; Gasoline service stations, $25.00; Department stores, $22.00; Clothing and shoe stores, $21.00; Lumber, building materials and hardware dealers, $18.00; Furniture, home furnishings and household appliance stores, $14.00; Other stores, $8.00.

Total increase in annual retail sales, $331.00.

11. What 100 New Factory Workers Bring to A Town

More personal income per year, $710.00; More retail sales per year, $331.00; More bank deposits, $229.00; More people, 359; More households, 100; More passenger cars registered, 97; More school children, 91; More employed in non-manufacturing, 65; More retail establishments, 3.

THESE INCREASES are quite staggering. Another item of interest is about farm income. A comment an economist made recently was that farm income is spent seven times munity in that a dollar of farm income is spent seven times before it leaves main street. A dollar of farm incomes means — seven dollars spent on consumer goods and services.

Former County Resident Passes

Funeral services were conducted in Oklahoma City Saturday for Carl London, former Hereford resident and brother of A. B. London of this city. He had been ill several weeks and A. B. London had beef with him in Oklahoma City.

Other survivors in Hereford are a niece, Miss Ruth London, and two nephews, Walter and Baxter London. Mr. London is also survived by two sisters.

He was a member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. William Otis London, who came to this country from Indian Territory in 1903 and later homesteaded in New Mexico. Carl London and his brothers returned to Hereford and he lived here until about the time of World War 1.

Writer Attends Autograph Party

Another trip for a bookstore autograph party was made by Gladys Miller, Hereford writer, Thursday when she spent the day in Canyon. She autographed copies of her book, Junior Dear, as a new shipment went on sale in that city.

Mrs. Miller also visited her daughter, Mrs. Jerry Jacobs, and was an observer in a class in visual education which Mrs. Jacobs is teaching.

Texas Congressman Tries To Tell GI Of His Rights

By PEGGY SIMPSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Servicemen in Vietnam are being sought out in the bunkers before they return stateside and told of their rights under the GI Bill, says Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex.

Teague as chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee spent 12 days in Vietnam and Hong Kong last May and June investigating not only the general fighting situation for President Johnson but whether GIs knew of the many benefits due them.

"As a result of my trip over there, we concluded that we should establish Veteran Contact Offices so that our GIs, who do have some time on their hands, could learn something about the GI Bill before they come home," Teague said.

The Veterans Administration

published a pocket-sized booklet for the GIs entitled "For you... from a grateful nation." It summarizes the educational benefits of $130 a month for taking courses at the high school level and above, including vocational and business schools. It describes the types of loans, insurance, hospital care, and vocational rehabilitation services a veteran is eligible to receive and the brochure tells the veterans the address of their major VA offices back home.

"As a result of this brochure and these contact stations, the Veterans Administration is being flooded with requests from Vietnam for information on our GI Bill," Teague said.

"The various services of the Defense Department have doubled their request for contact stations," he said. "Further, the number of GIs coming home with a plan to go to college has doubled since our establishment of information centers in Vietnam."

During his trip to Vietnam, Teague said he spent one day guiding the South Vietnamese in setting up some kind of veterans program of their own. While there, he presented the first of thousands of wheelchairs sent to Vietnam by the American Legion. He said he also helped arrange for 300 surplus VA Hospital wheel chairs and crutches to be diverted to Vietnam and in persuading the American Veterans Association to send $1,000 to Vietnam for buying sewing and midwife kits and athletic equipment.

He went to South America last November on a 10-day trip as the federal government's official for the dedication service of South America's largest telescope. A group of U. S. universities, including the University of Texas, will jointly operate the telescope, Teague said. He is second ranking Democrat on the Science and Astronautics Committee which oversees the operations.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

Every year there are a number of Texas couples who decide to "split the blanket." Divorce is enough misfortune, without getting into tax problems in the process. Under Texas community property laws, the earnings of both spouses up to the date of divorce is community income. When the couple files their income tax return for the year, each spouse has to have the total earnings up to date of divorce, the total withholding tax and the total itemized deductions or tax credits, since by law each is required to file an income tax return on their one-half share. They must also declare their separate income, credits and deductions for the rest of the year after the date of divorce. In a

Former Teacher Sends Her Thanks

Sister Aloysia Payne, formerly a teacher at St. Anthony's School in Hereford, sent "a grateful acknowledgment to the friends and supporters of the Hereford community who contributed for the mission work" she is presently doing in Colombia, South America.

Sister Aloysia visited Hereford in the spring, while she was in the United States to attend the annual meeting of CICOP, the Catholic Inter-American Cooperation Program.

St. Anthony's Parish and the Knights of Columbus here collected $650 to aid her work while she was here.

She is in charge of the Marian Institute, a school of social sciences newly opened in Pasto, Colombia, by the Franciscan Sisters.

The Institute is a three-year school at the college level, of a type being promoted by the Colombian government to meet the social needs of the country, and operates in collaboration with the University of Narino. A school of social work is being developed at the Institute. The widespread poverty of the area makes the work of this school significant, she reported.

Initial construction of the buildings for the school was partially financed by a grant from the Swiss Federal Council of Technical Assistance, contingent upon matching funds to be provided by the Franciscan Sisters.

The school must supply a number of scholarships for needy students. Sister Aloysia thanks the people of St. Anthony's Parish and the Atonement Fathers, in charge of St. Anthony's, for their assistance.

Sister Aloysia acted as principal of St. Anthony's School from 1942 to 1944, and again from 1955 to 1960. She holds a doctoral degree in education from St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo.

SECTION TWO

"Trip Into Past" Reunites Local Resident And Friends

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of stories being written by Corinne J. Neely, who is making a "trip into the past." Mrs. Neely, a pioneer Hereford resident, is describing in each Sunday Brand her visits to places where she began her teaching career on an Indian reservation.

MORE ABOUT SHOW LOW, ARIZONA

By CORINNE J. NEELY
If I could have my choice of a place to live in Arizona, and I could do so again under the right conditions, my first requirement would be that it be near old friends. This choice would be Show Low, Arizona. My first location in the past was Whiteriver, which was then, all my heart could desire. Later I was content at old Fort Apache, just four miles from Whiteriver, but neither of these places or others where I have lived compare with Show Low for beauty, climate, and the people I would like to live among. The places where I first lived are on the Indian Reservation and can not be owned, only leased. Even then you would have to be accepted by the Indians.

The name and history of Show Low are of exceeding interest. Its name was given as a result of a gambling game when the requirement was to show low card. A soldier from old Fort Apache won with the deuce of clubs — therefore, Show Low became its name. Although he was known as Colonel Cooley, history tells us that he was a 1st Lieutenant. He later, with two Indian wives, settled here, on the top-most knoll that overlooked the town. I met two of his descendants, a daughter who lived in Whiteriver when I was there and later a son, who was married to an Anglo and lived in Fort Apache. One of the latter's sons still lives in the area.

Now fittingly enough and eye-catching, is the Church of the Latter-Day Saints which sits on the knoll and stands guard over its followers who settled and reside in the town proper.

The name of Cooley has long had a prominent place in the area. Not far away is the lumber town and saw mill, which once bore the name of Cooley, but is now McNary. Then between McNary and Whiteriver, is the old Cooley ranch — or I should say was. During my visit it burned to the ground.

It had already been chosen to be made into a museum. But I did see it a few days before it burned and saw the Indians camped in the nearby meadow. They were the ones to discover the fire but were too late. In fact in this country, there is little resource available to save buildings from fire. No one seemed to know how or what had started the blaze. So another old landmark is gone.

I have my own personal memory of the place—I was there only once. In the years I taught school in Whiteriver, some of us young teachers, with a chaperon and a few available young men, went there to a dance. But, we had forgotten one important thing, to ask our school principal's permission. As a result we all got called on the carpet, but it was worth it.

Some young men from McNary were there, and they were as short of girls as we were of men, so this added zest to the dance.

One I remember most was called "Blackie" and was a good waltzer. In dancing with him, the then popular song was parodied by him as he sang, "Let my call you sweet-heart, I'm from TEXAS too." My swain of the time was not happy about this little episode but he forgave me, and I, of course I loved it.

Another place of interest in Show Low, not historical but typical of western areas and abundantly so in Arizona, is the small trading post at the edge of town. It seems spacious inside and is set up with taste and knowledge of display. It is filled with good and authentic Indian and western goods and art.

The owner-manager is of better education and a more sophisticated man than one might expect to find in this location. But the amazing people of Arizona are a part of its charm.

I was impressed most by the excellent quality and beauty of the Navajo jewelry and rugs. So much of the jewelry and curios that the average tourist buy are inexpensive mementoes of their trip. A fact that influences many trading posts along the travel routes to buy cheaper or machine made jewelry, which is stamped and has imitation turquoise stones.

But the informed and-or moneyed people want nothing less than the genuine article. Since this post is located in the summer vacation area it is in a good place for sales. Too, the Navajo Reservation is not far to the north and the Apaches are near-by to the south.

Since I once lived here, I own some good rugs and jewelry, though I have given most of the last to friends. This trading post has good items for small gifts also.

The things which I missed most here were Apache basketry and beadwork, of which I have good representative pieces. But I assumed that this was because the younger generation is no longer making these things, and there are fewer and fewer of the old ones to carry on their art. Or as I heard the owner say, often the poor quality of the work prevents his buying their products.

About five miles from Show Low is the ranch of the other friend. She and her husband bought the land, then sold off enough to pay it out. They have a nice log house, a few head of cattle and horses and nine cabins which they rent to vacationers. Besides this the hus-

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
There are many times I have thought to my self Hereford is a nice town to live in. This time I'd like to say it aloud.

I went with a friend who has a son in one of the bands who played in the street dance. We really went just to hear his band and before I knew it I was enjoying seeing all the kids having just a great time. It's true I never did see some of the kids dance, but over and over they would say isn't this great. I haven't seen some of these kids in two years. The ones dancing surely looked like they were enjoying it. The bands got band does some work at the request of the Indians in their rodeos, round-ups and other cattle activities. They seem to be busy and happy people. She had once worked in the agent's office when I taught in Whiteriver and he had been a head stockman for a certain part of the Indian Reservation. The Apaches are cattle people — both the Whiteriver and the San Carlos Indians while the Navajos to the north are strictly sheep raisers.

Clergymen Are Informed About Recent Social Security Changes

Many clergymen in the Amarillo area are asking how recent changes in the social security law will affect them, according to Travis C. Briggs, manager of the Amarillo social security office.

"The income from a clergyman's ministry is covered by social security beginning with 1968," Briggs says, "unless the minister signs a statement that he is opposed to being covered by reason of religious principle or conscience."

"Clergymen who elected coverage under the previous law will not be affected by the new amendments and will continue to be covered. Members of religious orders who have taken a vow of poverty will not be affected by the new provisions."

"Clergymen who may be opposed to this coverage must file an application for exemption and a special statement with the Internal Revenue Service by April 15, 1970. If he enters the ministry in 1969 or later, he will have until April 15 of the second year after the year in which he became a clergyman to request exemption."

"A clergyman will report his income and make his tax contributions as if he were self-employed, even though he may be working as an employee."

Further information about this new change in the law is available from the Amarillo social security office.

I hope we, the adults, can see you young folks need a place to gather, talk, dance and enjoy each other. This was no mob rule and the only time any unpleasantness arose the teens themselves took care of this. We have a beautiful mall, Community Center and Bull Barn. Maybe some of these kids couldn't have come if there had been an admission, or at least wouldn't have without a date. Anyway as one mother who has three teen-ager, thanks a million times over to every one who made it possible.

Sincerely,
Mrs. John Gooch

Families Can See Movie This Week

"The Green Berets," the motion picture that approximately 40 families in the Hereford area with sons and husbands who have Vietnam combat experience will see as the guests of the Hereford Brand at the Star Theatre beginning Wednesday, has already had trouble showing in Texas.

JOHN WAYNE — As a Special Services Officer in "The Green Berets," opening Wednesday at the Star Theatre.

Reports through Boxoffice Magazine indicate that a group of "Peace-niks" were at the Cinema 1 Theatre at San Antonio in time for the opening showing of the first large-scaled movie with a Vietnamese war background, voicing their disapproval of its booking there. The Peace-niks reportedly demanded that the picture be "pulled."

But their demands were unsuccessful.

However, it is now set to show only six days at the Star in Hereford, according to manager Francis Hardwick. Instead of the full week it was originally booked. But he hastened to point out that the last day of "The Green Berets" was not cancelled because he expected any trouble here. It had to be done only because he discovered it was necessary in order to get a booking of "The Bible" to follow "The Green Berets."

"Hereford is not the kind of town that would have that kind of trouble, that kind of protests."

Guest invitations have been mailed by the Brand for reasons which are not connected with the political angle of the war at all. Instead, it has been for a more important — and greatly overlooked — reason: an effort to begin a greater backing for the fighting men there, which is hoped will erupt into other communities throughout the nation.

Hereford is rated as one of the few communities in the United States which has already shown such a tribute toward the present military personnel, through letter-writing and Memorial Day tributes.

However, Boxoffice has also reported that "The Green Berets" is not lacking in patronage. They list the following key cities as registering above-average business with it: Baltimore, 250 per cent; Boston, 680 per cent; Buffalo, 150 per cent; Kansas

City, 200 per cent; Minneapolis, 420 per cent; New Haven, 200 per cent; and New York, 320 per cent. (One-hundred per cent is the average business line.)

No city has been listed as "below average business."

John Wayne is the star of "The Green Berets," which co-stars David Janssen and Jim Hutton. It is in color and wide-screen and has a running time of two hours and 21 minutes.

It is reported that Wayne, long a big box office star in pictures like "McLintock!" and "Tycoon," has recently completed a new picture in Texas, since the release of "The Green Berets." It is the real-life biography of Red Adair, Houston's world-famed oil well firefighter, titled "The Hellfighters." Much of the picture was filmed on location in the Houston and Midland-Odessa areas and is now being edited for final release.

Several years ago, John Wayne made another picture in Texas, titled "The Alamo." Based on the actual battle for Texas Independence, it was filmed on location at Brackettville, not far from the actual site — in San Antonio.

No Peace-nik pickets were available for the premiere showing of "The Alamo" in 1960.

In fact, there were no pickets at the original Alamo when the 186 men gave their lives for Texas — foreign soil to most of them at that time.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of question and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I just air-conditioned my house on my doctor's recommendation. Can I deduct this as a medical expense next year?

A — A part of the cost of the air-conditioning may be considered a medical expense if your doctor recommended it for the treatment of a specific condition or illness. You should obtain a statement from your doctor to this effect and keep it with your tax records.

If the air-conditioning as been recommended by your doctor, then you should calculate what its installation has added to the value of your house. The cost of the air-condition in excess of this increase may then be added to your other medical expenses.

Q — I was interviewed by a company that offered me a job. Must I include as income the money they gave me as reimbursement for my travel expenses to and from the interview?

A — No, generally, this does not have to be declared as income unless the money received exceeded your actual expenses in making the trip. In that case, the excess should be reported as income when you file your 1968 return.

Q — We gave away a lot of furniture, books and clothing when we moved this spring. Is there any deduction we can take on those items?

A — If you give such items to a charitable organization, then you are allowed to deduct their fair market value at the time of the gift. Obtain a statement from the organization describing the item so that you will have a record of the donation for tax purposes.

Q — I just bought a truck for my dry cleaning business. Do I have to pay the highway use tax?

A — Whether a truck is taxable depends on its type and weight. Details are contained in Publication No. 49, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Tractors and Buses." Send a post card to your district office for a free copy.

Q — My daughter has a partial scholarship for college. Will she have to count this as income for tax purposes and will it affect our dependency exemption for her?

A — Income from scholarships is generally not taxable, and does not have to be included by parents in determining a student's total support. So unless your daughter's scholarship has some special feature it should not affect the tax situation of either of you.

Q — I had to pay a penalty on my mortgage when I sold my house because it was paid off early. Is there any deduction for that?

A — The penalty for paying off a mortgage before the due date is considered an interest charge and should be included with your other interest payments. It is not a selling cost on your old house.

Q — I just paid the balance on my 1967 taxes and now you've sent me another bill for the same amount. What should I do?

A — Return the bill to the service center indicating when and where you made the payment. This will stop the issuance of any further bills on your account while an effort is made to locate your payment. Within 30 days you should be notified by the service center that your payment either has been credited to your account or that we are unable to locate it. If the payment cannot be located you will be advised what to do next.

Q — I support my mother. Can I claim two exemptions for her since she just turned 65?

A — No. You are only entitled to one exemption for your mother when she qualifies as your dependent. Her age does not give you an extra exemption. The extra exemption for age may be taken only on a taxpayer's own return when he or his wife is 65 or over.

In the 15th century, if a newly signed seaman heard a sneeze at his left as he went aboard, he would jump ship, for he considered the voyage to be doomed. At sea, goblins were blamed for snarled running gear and ripped sails.

We prefer to tell it and sell it like it is. And here's how it is: we've got the best selection of 1968 models in town. Caprices . . . Impalas . . . Chevelles . . . Novas. Sixes and V8s in the most popular body styles. Many equipped with the extras you'd ask for if you were ordering. All will be sold at the kind of prices you expect at this time of year. So we say, before you get hooked on a deal too fantastic to be true, see us and save on a car worth owning.

Hi-Plains Eye Bank Inc. Is Boosted By Local Dentist

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

H. A. (Hap) Cavness, Doctor of Dental Surgery at 129 W. Fifth, Hereford, is secretary-treasurer of the Hi-Plains Eye Bank Inc.

Why would a dentist become interested in sight conservation? "Due to personal sight problems within my family," Dr. Cavness explained, "I became interested in the Lions Club. All the clubs in this district of the Lions (2-T-1) sponsor the Eye Bank, and furnish the money for its progress as a non-profit organization."

He said that he felt the Eye Bank was doing a tremendous thing for all people, not only those who need eye transplants but in research toward solutions to eye problems.

"I had 14 years perfect attendance with the Kiwanis Club here," he said, "and was president in 1956. But a little over a year ago, I became a member of the Lions because of their Eye Bank project."

Dr. Cavness detailed that approximately eight years ago, a good friend of a Dr. Braley of Iowa City, Iowa, sustained an ocular accident and was in need of tissue for a transplant. Dr. Braley called every doctor he knew, and all the surrounding hospitals, and had all his friends doing the same thing. Then, when time ran out and his friend was outside of help, he found that tissue was available within 50 miles. It was then that Dr. Braley and Ted Hunter, both of Iowa City, came upon the idea of an Eye Bank Ham Radio Network."

This network now has daily operation beginning at 6 a.m. and continuing until 7 p.m. assisting people in need of tissue — so that it can be secured in time. "The Eye Bank Association of America is seven years old and growing steadily," he said.

Dr. Cavness also reported that the Hereford Lions are now sponsoring commercial radio spots to promote the Eye Bank at 19 area stations, as public service announcements. This work has been done for them by Don Chaney, of KPAN in Hereford, a Lions officer.

"There will also be new tapes recorded on the subject once in each future quarter," Dr. Cavness pointed out.

Dick Caywood of KFDA-TV at Amarillo has also made a 15mm movie on the subject for Channel Ten. "In a short time this film will be made available for clubs and other public showings from bookings through the local Lions Clubs."

Dr. Cavness released the information that the Hi-Plains Eye Bank Inc. office is located at 320 Herring Hotel in Amarillo and can be reached by telephone at 373-4004. The Eye Bank is financed by memberships from the individual Lions Clubs of the Panhandle of Texas.

The main purpose of the Eye Bank is to act as a clearing house between the person donating his eyes after death and the individual ophthalmologist who will perform the sight-saving operations.

He reported that Dr. A. T. Mims performs the majority of eye removal operations at the Deaf Smith County Hospital here, and is well qualified to do so.

Any person wishing to donate his eyes after death may do so by contacting the Hi-Plains Eye Bank office, or any member of the board of directors, or any members of the Lions Clubs of the Panhandle of Texas.

Section A of the donor card is to be returned to the Eye Bank office for its files. Section B is to be carried by the donor at all times in case of accident.

A red tab reading Eye Bank Donor is issued to each donor, to be placed on his drivers license. When finding this tab, the Highway Patrol is instructed to notify the Eye Bank.

Eyes are not used from persons under three years of age, but all other eyes are acceptable.

The quality of your vision makes no difference whatsoever, they maintain. If the cornea, sclera and vitreous are not diseased, the tissue can be used.

Dr. Cavness hastened to point out that diseased eyes are in great demand. They are needed for research and other important usage.

But the eyes should be removed as soon as practical, generally within 3 to 6 hours after death. As a usual practice, corneal transplants are performed within 48 hours after the time of death of the donor.

Removal of the eyes presents no disfigurement to the corpse whatsoever.

The Eye Bank emphasizes that "actually six people can be helped by one pair of eyes. Two corneal transplants can be given, two sclera (white part of the eye) can be used for ruptures, and vitreous (fluid in the eye) can be used for two vitreous implants."

Eyes cannot be left to specific individuals, because the Eye Bank has found that this means is impractical. As soon as the physician decides a person is a candidate for a corneal transplant, his name is put on the waiting list. It is not necessary for him to wait until an acquaintance dies to receive his transplant.

Unfortunately, all types of blindness cannot be cured by corneal transplant operations. Only those suffering from corneal defects, scleral rupture and vitreous deficiencies can be helped at this time. There are extensive studies being made now for future use of other parts of the eyes to aid other types of blindness.

Eyes are furnished to the ophthalmologists and his patient free of charge. The removal of the eyes is done as a service as well, they report. The Eye Bank does not purchase the eyes from the donor.

However, the ophthalmologist will charge his usual fee and the usual hospital charges must be paid for transplants.

There are absolutely no religious objections against eye donations. All major religious faiths approve and endorse this humanitarian program.

Emergencies in this locality are given first priority of eyes received locally. But as previously described, there is a ham radio "eye-ball" network covering the entire United States. They report where eyes are needed for emergencies only and where eyes are possibly available.

The eyes are placed in specially designed carrying cases and then shipped by air.

The procedure which is followed when a donor dies is the nearest of kin, hospital, nurse or anyone who is aware of the donor's wish to leave his eyes should immediately call the Eye Bank office. There is a 24-hour daily answering service.

But the Eye Bank is listed as only one phase of the Lions Sight Conservation program:

A Glaucoma Screening Program is held at Amarillo each October. The Lions have no charge for this service. Anyone 40 years or older may take this simple test.

Two per cent of the people of the United States are unaware that they now have glaucoma, reports indicate. There is no known cure for this disease, but it can be arrested at

Pageant Has First Entrant

DIMMITT—Karyn Hughes, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van Earl Hughes of Dimmitt, is the first entry in the 1968 Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation Pageant, officials have announced. Miss Hughes is a graduate of Lake Highlands High School in the Dallas suburb of Richardson.

With the entry date to terminate on the 1st of August, Robert Benton, Pageant Chairman, feels that somewhere around 20 more contestants will be entered before the deadline date. Forms have been mailed out to area chamber of commerce offices and colleges and entrants in the Miss Texas Pageant this year.

Some $1,750 in scholarships are to be offered this year — an increase of $1,000 over previous years. The winner of the pageant will receive $1,000 while the remaining amount will go to the runner-ups.

The newly chosen Miss Grain Sorghum will be named August 10 and will take the place of the present Miss Grain Sorghum, Diane Bryant of Muleshoe.

the stage where it is discovered. This is one of the major causes of blindness within the United States.

Approximately 500 pairs of eye glasses are purchased for school children in the Panhandle of Texas each year, and a shipment of used glasses is sent overseas every two years. They also furnish white canes for the blind.

The Eye Bank Association of America held their seventh annual meeting of the South Central Region on July 13-14, with the Hi-Plains Eye Bank as hosts, Dr. Cavness reported. Registration was in Amarillo and they traveled to the Palo Duro Canyon for barbecue and a performance of "Texas."

But reports were issued from the Colorado, Montana, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and the Baptist Hospital at San Antonio in regard to the advancement of the program.

The Eye Bank is now making plans to go "international" with the inclusion of Canada and South and Central America. The next meeting will be held at Chicago on October 23.

Dr. Cavness said, "The meeting was very informative and with an excellent interchange of ideas by all those present."

They are making it possible for people to see performances of "Texas" who would only be able to hear it, otherwise.

Witherspoon-Reiter Marriage Vows Read

Miss Billie Jo Witherspoon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Witherspoon, Route 4, and Thomas Clint Reiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Berend, Route 5, exchanged marriage vows in an evening ceremony conducted by the Rev. Angelus Delahunt, pastor, at St. Anthony's Catholic Church Friday.

White blossoms of gladiolas and stock with fresh green foliage were placed on the altars. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her sister, Mrs. John Hammett, was matron of honor and the bridegroom was attended by a brother, Glen Reiter of Dallas, as best man. Another sister, Mrs. Carlton Richardson, and Miss Sherri Marsh were bridesmaids.

Ray Berend, brother of the bridegroom and Donald Paetzold, his brother-in-law, acted as groomsmen, Carlton Richardson and Larry Paetzold as ushers. Wedding music was by Miss Lynda Jacobsen, who sang solos, Ave Maria and More, accompanied by Miss Cheryl Solomon who also played the organ processional.

Miss Witherspoon's gown of bridal satin was made by Mrs. Hammett, fashioned in medieval style with unbroken lines from the rolled collar which framed her face to floor-length hemline.

The collar and cuffs of the fitted long sleeves were encrusted with sequins in a scroll design which was repeated on the circlet of satin which held the four layers of her short tulle veil.

As a luck piece she wore a cameo ring belonging to the bridegroom's mother. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses and greenery.

Attendants wore dresses in similar style, but street length, of avocado silk shantung with white accessories. Each carried a single white rose tied with white satin bow and streamers.

After the wedding the bride's parents were hosts for the reception in Knights of Columbus Hall. Mrs. Donald Paetzold was at the guest registry.

Miss Rema Coffin served the wedding cake and Mrs. Ken Reid of Albuquerque, a sister of the bride, poured punch. Mrs. Tom Albracht assisted in serving. White lace covered the table, centered with a green arrangement.

A cluster of bells which topped the four-tiered columned cake had been used on her sister's wedding cake. The cake was iced in a design of doves and bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Reiter left after the reception on a trip to New Mexico. The bride wore an ensemble of navy and white; her corsage was of roses.

The couple expects to be at home in Dallas by August 1. Mr. Reiter is employed there and Mrs. Reiter will attend the University of Texas at Arlington next term.

She is a 1968 graduate of Hereford High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society and several campus clubs. He attended West Texas State University and IBM school after graduation from HHS with the 1965 class.

Screening Is Set For Area Children

Screening of children who may be helped through the establishment of a Satellite Day Care Program in Hereford will be held at Northwest Elementary School on August 5 and 6 by the Amarillo State Center for Human Development.

Although Hereford public schools have no connection with the State Center, they have nonetheless offered their services for the necessary screenings. Parents who wish to have their children screened may contact Bob Holman, assistant superintendent of the schools here, at 364-0607 to set up an appointment.

There is absolutely no charge for this service. They will take children as young as three years of age. Focus will be on the preschool child.

The State Center believes that it is necessary to reach these youngsters early — to reach their parents early — in order to help effect attitude changes in the parents as well as favorable behavior changes in the youngsters. "This is a critical matter. It is a matter of timing, finding and doing something about the problem as early as possible."

Screenings must be had before a Satellite Day Care class can be instituted here — as they are now in operation in Dalhart, Dimmitt, Childress, Pampa and Borger.

The day of the shame of the retarded child is a thing of the past. Now it is the matter of the need to help these children on an intelligent basis.

It is important that parents understand that if their child is slow in development, such as in sitting up, crawling, walking, talking, etc., there is a possibility of mental retardation and they should consider referring their child to the Hereford screenings for a complete evaluation.

It might be discovered that the child is not retarded at all. If the child is retarded, they can help that child in his development and give him a headstart in his education. This program is not in competition with the school's Special Education classes, but it can be considered a prelude to it.

The post-school or prevocational class is set up for the older retardates who have dropped out of special education, or are too old to be eligible for the public school special education program.

The Center reported that screenings will be extended here through August 7, if it justifies the need.

How important is your child's future welfare mentally?

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

"It was a wonderful visit, and I wish the wife of every serviceman in Viet Nam could have one like it", Rosemary Leatherman says of her recent trip to Hawaii where she met her husband, S-Sgt. Timothy J. Leatherman, during his R&R (rest and recreation) leave from the combat zone.

SHE RETURNED earlier this month after the six-day 'second honeymoon' at the Reef Hotel in Honolulu. The Leathermans made sightseeing excursions in the vicinity and spent a good deal of time on famous Waikiki Beach, but of course they were much more interested in seeing each other than seeing the islands.

He has been in Viet Nam since last December and expects to be there until next December. After seeing plenty of combat action, he has been transferred to duty outside active battle areas since his twin brother arrived in Viet Nam with a U. S. Marine group.

Now stationed in Pleiku Leatherman is platoon sergeant with A Company, 1st Battalion, 14th Infantry under the Third Brigade of the Fourth Infantry Division. He went to Viet Nam after more than two years in Germany and a 30-day leave, most of it spent here.

THE COUPLE was married when he came back from Germany on leave after his first year there, and Rosemary lived overseas 17 months, their daughter was born in Germany. Back from the visit which she says "makes this whole year a lot easier", Rosemary is working again in her part-time job as bookkeeper for a beauty shop, and has settled down into the routine of waiting which is so familiar to servicemen's wives.

She is the former Rosemary Hershey; her parents and those of her husband live in this community and help her with the tiresome task of waiting.

SOME FAMILIES just naturally produce unconventional members — not college students who grow beards and join riots in a determined effort to be unconventional like all their friends, but people who indulge their own tastes whether or not they are following current fads and who never notice that they are being different from the herd.

That observation follows my meeting this week with Mrs. Riddle Brooks of Lubbock, here for a visit.

A talk with her and you understand better why her grandson, Gerald Martin, chose flying as a career rather than the drygoods business, plays his guitar in classical style instead of the folk mode now in vogue with guitar hobbyists, and ziped off to Europe earlier this year when he had a chance to fly old planes in a World War II period movie — and was good enough to be given an acting role.

MRS. BROOKS, whose brown eyes and slightly mischievous smile indicate that she was a belle in her native Tennessee, and who doesn't bother to tell anyone her age because she doesn't believe that the number of years she has lived can be very important, is visiting awhile with Sandra and Gerald Martin and their family at 206 Ranger.

She doesn't pretend to be only 39, either; she boasts of her great-great-grandson and 47 great-grandchildren. There are 48 grandchildren in the clan and a remarkable immediate family of 14 children, all still living.

The Brooks family moved to Lubbock County in 1925 from Kentucky, where they had lived a few years. Mr. Brooks had been a merchant, and he bought farm land near Lubbock, then a small country town.

HIS DEATH in 1928 left Mrs. Brooks with the big family of children to finish rearing. They attended Lubbock schools and most of them went to Tech also.

Depression and drought of the 1930's hit all farmers of the area, but Mrs. Brooks says "We raised most of our food and always had something to sell so we got along alright."

Not only her children, but some of the grandchildren made their homes with her for varying periods. Martin spent several years as a small child with his grandmother after his mother was widowed and became a breadwinner.

Now the children and grandchildren want Mrs. Brooks to live with them, but she prefers to keep her own home and pay them frequent visits, traveling from Texas to California to their scattered homes.

A SON, BERT Brooks, shares the place in Lubbock, a smaller house she bought after her children grew up and left the large home they occupied for years.

She likes to keep house and still does the lighter tasks of yard work, growing the flowers she loves. Fishing is a recreation she enjoys and she goes out with family members in their boat when they are at their cabin at Possum Kingdom Lake. Travel is one of her pleasures and she likes the new experiences offered at each place, so on a visit to Las Vegas she tried out some of the noted slot machines.

"I never had gambled before," she says with a grin, "but I had real good luck!"

Young Girl To Have Story In Children's Book

Kimberly Barnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cas Barnett, formerly of Hereford and now living in Amarillo, demonstrated her ability to write even at the age of 10, when she composed a tall story about a large man named "Sunny Sam."

The story tells about a man so tall that it took 12 years to measure him from feet to head, and he loved to surf off the coast of Hawaii. While surfing, Sunny Sam would gather salt and carry at least 20 tons a day home.

Sam had some difficulties when he found he had run out of salt, but Miss Barnett, the author and inventor of "Sam", found the answer and the story was sent to the children's Golden Magazine. It was accepted and will be published in the August edition.

Letter To The Editor

To the Residents of Hereford, Hereford has had a demonstration. Are you ashamed? You shouldn't be, for it was a peaceful demonstration.

You say there are no peaceful demonstrations. Then you did not see the faces of the youth, not just of Hereford, but of the surrounding area, who came to see Hereford stand up for its youth. I'm talking about the street dance. For when a town cares enough for their youth to give them a place like that to go to they are demonstrating to the world that they are proud of their children.

If you missed this street dance, you didn't see the kids laughing, dancing and talking to kids they don't see often. Of all those who attended there were a few troublemakers who were overruled by those who came for good clean fun and the entertainment. I ask that you give these kids a chance to get together again soon. Give them a place they can go and you will be impressed by their enthusiasm for good clean fun.

Kids are not born troublemakers, they are raised that way. Raise your kids in a town who cares for the youth of today, raise them in Hereford.

I would also like to thank everyone who helped with this dance. Everyone who gave their time and effort to make this dance a success, certainly deserves a thank-you from all of Hereford.

Please withhold my name for I am married and still one of those thankful teen-agers.

Australia's 2-cent coin depicts the frilled lizard, which grows a membranous ruff around its neck. The ruff ordinarily folds into four pleats on the reptile's neck and shoulders. When the lizard is in danger, it unfurls the ruff into an umbrella eight to 10 inches across and opens its mouth to frighten off enemies.

Kiwanians Hear About Convention

Bobby Owen, Jeff Carlile, and Dean Herring who attended the International Kiwanian Convention June 30 - July 3rd in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, gave a report on the events of the convention at the noon meeting Thursday.

The men and their wives arrived in Toronto on a Sunday and found a small thriving community of only 2 1/2 million people.

They were met by a reception committee at the Air Terminal to assist them in customs and getting into town.

The Royal York was where the convention was held and where the Hereford delegates stayed. It's the largest hotel in the British Commonwealth, with 1,600 rooms, and all were full, the men said.

Approximately 20,000 Kiwanis members and families were registered with a total of 5,300 delegates from the United States, Canada and 28 foreign countries.

Sunday evening, upon arrival, a memorial service was held in the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto for Kiwanian's that had passed away since a year ago. The Honorable Robert C. Byrd, United States Senator from West Virginia was the principal speaker, and presented an inspirational message rather than one on politics.

A posting of the colors took place Monday morning with the 48th Highlanders and Pipers marching to pipe music. Reports on the convention program, an address by David A. Keyo of Madison, New Jersey and president of the Circle K International; a presentation of Miss Canada and Miss America; an address by Michael D. Waters, president of Key Club International; Musical features; group singing, and an address by the Honorable W. Ross Thatcher, Premier and President of the Council of the Province of Saskatchewan, all took place Monday, July 1.

The convention lasted through July 3, with a few of the highlights being the presentation of the Kaydee Award to Walt Disney Productions and Sammy Spear and his Orchestra and the Glee Girls from the Jackie Gleason show in Miami, where the convention will be held next year.

Wednesday, the last day of the convention, a closing session was held in the Maple Leaf Gardens. A retiring of the colors was followed by Auld Lang

SHE'S SWEET SIXTEEN — Miss Deborah Hodges, smiling across a flower-decked birthday cake, was hostess to a crowd of schoolmates at a dance in Hereford Country Club on her sixteenth birthday July 12. Her parents, the A. E. Hodges, assisted in entertaining the group of high school students who danced to music of an orchestra. Flowers and table covers in shades of yellow and orange made a bright setting for the "sweet sixteen" party. A large bouquet on the punch table and flower trees on each small table stressed the colors. The cake was surrounded with sugar flowers in varied pastel shades.

Syne and the convention was adjourned.

Canada's famous castle — Casa Loma — in the heart of Toronto is leased by the Kiwanis Club of West Toronto from the City of Toronto and all net revenues are apportioned to the City and the Kiwanians Club, the men said.

The Kiwanis Club of West Toronto uses its share of the proceeds to carry on extensive youth programs aimed at educational, physical and spiritual betterment of boys and girls.

The castle has a library alcove showing the original dining room suite and the other fine antique furnishings, a Great Hall, recently refurbished to enhance its original baronial

Civil Air Patrol Members Plan For Summer Training

Cadet Lt. Ren Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Lee, will attend the Advanced Jet Orientation Course at Reese Air Force Base in August, and Airman First Class Lynn McLarty will attend the special FAA pilot instructor training program at Oklahoma City in August also. Lee began flying lessons in April of 1967 and took his first solo flight in May of 1967. The following July, he obtained his private license. "I enjoy flying quite a bit," stated Lee. The University of Texas at Arlington is the college he is planning on attending this fall to major in airspace and mechanical engineering. At the present time, he is working for Pitt's Aero Repair in the shop. Any flying that he has done this summer has been for his pleasure. The course being offered to Lt. Lee is available through the Civil Air Patrol, in which Lee is a 2nd Lieutenant. Ninety-one boys are signed up for the Jet Orientation program and it will be taught at nine different bases. August 11-18 Lee will be taking courses in dual training time, jet training, and an extensive ground school. During this week of school, he will be flying jets as a co-pilot. His future plans are to fly for an airline. "I'm not particular about which airline that I want to fly with," he commented. Lynn McLarty, Airman 1C, will attend the special FAA pilot instructor training program at Oklahoma City, August 5-18th. McLarty received his private license in December of 1966, his commercial license in October of 1967, and his flight instructor license in February, 1968. He is employed by Hereford Aero, and the Hereford Flying Service this summer, and next fall will teach Aero-Space Science in Hereford High School. "I hope to build the Aero Science Department next year," explains McLarty, "which excellent cooperation of the school officials, I think that the program should be getting off to a good start." Sixty hours of classroom work is required from this course offered through the Civil Air Patrol, and 15 hours of flight instruction. The main reason for this course is to improve the flight instruction technique across the nation and to come back and share the information with other pilots.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

HERMIT'S HOUSE — Peter Berg was a German immigrant who liked privacy. When he came to Gillespie County in 1857 and located near Cave Creek, he decided to build a house that few could find.

He chose a desolate, dry ravine with natural limestone walls rising more than 12 feet high. Using limestone boulders, he enclosed the front and rear and added an arched roof. The main room had a fireplace and a spring that furnished fresh running water. Later he added a second story of limestone and wood.

The top floor of Berg's house disappeared long ago. But the 12 by 24 main room still stands on the Curtis Hahne Ranch a dozen miles east of Fredericksburg.

HOCH BOARD — Thousands of gallons of whiskey, aged for 104 years in cypress casks, await anybody who can rescue them from the Red River.

They were aboard the "Jim Turner," a river steamer that piled up on a sandbar in 1854 and sank near Albion's Ferry. Fishermen from Red River County located the rotting hulk years ago, but were never able to release it from the river's shifting sands.

Legend has it that an effort was made in the 1880's to retrieve the cargo and a crew did bring up several of the casks. They drank the treasure on the spot and abandoned the idea of trying to recover the rest.

WHEN CRIME DIDN'T PAY — Until the 1930's, Dallasites who ran afoul of the law often found themselves sentenced to "The Pea Patch".

This was a truck farm on the shores of White Rock Lake where minor felons were forced to work out their fines at the end of a hoe instead of relaxing in the comparative comfort of a jail cell.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — Fashing, Karnes County, owes its name to a can of cut plug tobacco.

When the town applied for a name about 50 years ago, residents wanted to call it Hickok after a ranch in the area. The Post Office Department rejected that, however, and also said no to naming it Hindenberg.

Irritated at the Post Office folks, Albert H. Schroeder, storekeeper and applicant for the job of postmaster, decided to submit a unique name. Noting a can of "Fashion" tobacco on his store shelves, he picked that as the town name. The Post Office approved, but the approval letter spelled it "Fashing" — and it has been that since.

Concerning Veterans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — Will the new surtax on incomes which is retroactive to last April 1 apply to the educational allowance I receive from the Veterans Administration under the G. I. Bill?

A — No. Educational allowance, compensation and pension, and even G. I. insurance dividends are exempt from taxation, including the new surtax. The only taxable V A payment is the interest earned on G. I. insurance dividends left on deposit with the V A. This is not considered a veteran's benefit and must be reported as earned income.

Q — A deceased veteran had active service in both World War I and World War II. Will a burial allowance of $250 be paid for each period of service?

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

These Are Your Questions

HOW MUCH blood is necessary to sustain life in a healthy person? What are some of the lesser important contents of the blood?

It is estimated that an adult has about one quart of blood for every thirty pounds of body weight. A normal healthy man weighing one hundred and fifty pounds would have about five quarts of blood. A quart is 1,000 cc. A good illustration of body needs for replenishing blood is the fact that a transfusion of 500 cc or a pint of blood is the usual amount given.

The composition of blood represents a complex organization that is a thousand times more remarkable than sending a man to the moon and returning him intact. Physicians who have daily need to study and understand blood contents never take for granted the delicacy of the balances of all the elements in the blood.

There is no one single element that is more important than the other. Each serves its own purpose. Occasionally when one factor is missing, there may be some compensating use of another.

The red blood cells contain hemoglobin that transports oxygen and carbon dioxide from one part of the body to the other. The white blood cells act as the first line of defense against invading bacteria.

There are dozens of protective antibodies and hormones which control the function of many of the organs of the body. The blood contains protein, phosphorus, iron, calcium, sodium, and other minerals.

There is perhaps no more beautifully delicate system than that which is responsible for the clotting of blood when it comes in contact with the air. Just as remarkable is the subtlety of the mechanism that keeps blood circulating as a fluid when it is in the body. The blood and its contents truly are beyond belief.

What causes a chill during a severe illness?

A true chill is not similar to the temporary chilly sensations that occur after exposure to wet or cold weather. A real shaking chill is the body's cry that announces some important disturbance within it.

When bacteria invade the blood stream from any infected area in the body, a shaking chill may follow. To the physician, such a chill is most important. In many instances, an immediate sample of the blood is drawn in an effort to find the nature of the germ responsible for the chill.

Severe chills may occasionally accompany pneumonia or a complication of rheumatic or other heart conditions. Severe infections of the arms or legs, with red streaks, may be the causes of the chill.

Some diseases, especially malaria, produce chills at regular intervals due to the invasion of the blood by parasites. The control of a chill is simple with warm blankets and heating pads. It is important to learn the real reason for this complication of an infection.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH—An unnecessary fear of dental pain may cause dental neglect and loss of teeth.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Letter To The Editor

According to the March 6, National Observer, "Contracts written last year gave union members a median yearly gain in wages and fringe benefits of 5.6 per cent according to the labor department; the 1966 median yearly gain was 4.5 per cent. Inflation has eroded past gains. The average manufacturing worker now earns about $118.00 a week, but his take home pay, calculated in less inflated 1957-1959 dollars was $88.57 a week at the end of 1967."

This difference of $29.13 in lost buying power reflects approximately a 25 per cent inflation of the American dollar. This is the same dollar that the American farmer uses to keep his business in operation; therefore, we can assume that in the past ten years the buying power of the farm dollar has decreased a like 25 per cent.

In most cases factory wages have advanced with the cost of living at a rate equal to or surpassing the inflation rise. In the same period farm commodities have steadily declined or barely held their own. Representatives Committee on Agriculture's bulletin "Food Costs-Farm Prices-1967", "during the last 20 years the hourly earnings of industrial workers have increased by 123 per cent and corporate dividends are up 232 per cent. During the same 20 year span the average of farm prices dropped by 11 per cent." Add to this 11 per cent the lost buying power of 25 per cent due to inflation and you will begin to see the price-cost squeeze that today's farmer now faces.

Bringing this price-cost comparison a little closer to home I cite these examples; in 1952 I sold wheat for $2.42 a bushel, present price $1.27 per bushel. I sold milo for $2.85 per hundred pounds, present price $1.67. I bought a tractor, largest row crop, for $2650.00, a tractor of equal weight and horsepower is above $500.00 (and the largest row crop tractor is above $10,000.00). It doesn't take too brilliant an economist to deduce that the American farmer can remain in business for very long at these prices.

Farming is the nation's largest industry. It spends 45 billion dollars a year. Every dollar spent by farmers adds 4 dollars to the local economy and 7 dollars to the national economy. Three out of every ten jobs in private employment are related to agriculture. In 1966 agriculture producers paid out 4.37 billion dollars in taxes alone. Today's consumer pays an average of 18 per cent of his disposable income for food, whereas, 20 years ago he paid above 25 per cent.

These facts should awaken each of us to the importance of a healthy and prosperous farming industry. The whole economy of the nation rests upon the shoulder of the agricultural industry. If this industry fails, then the nation fails! It has been estimated that the farm block now controls only 6 per cent of the vote. But if those people of the nation who are dependent upon agriculture-related work, those 3 out of 10 jobs, realized that without a buying agriculture they would be out of work, then agriculture would control approximately 40 per cent of the vote. It is these people who need to come to the realization of the plight of the American farmer and to help in any way possible to see that agriculture is put back on sound program.

Imagine the plight of Deaf Smith County if you suddenly took the buying power of agriculture away. Everything would close overnight. Then imagine the effect it would have on Amarillo if all of the agriculture dollars were removed from its trading area. It, too, could not operate for long. The same holds true for the state and on to the nation. It is time for the people in agriculture related jobs to become aware of the danger not only to the farmer but also to those industries dependent upon agriculture. The farmer needs the help of a concerned agriculture-oriented population to put our economy back on a good solid foundation.

A very fine article was written recently concerning the reasons Hereford has continued to grow and prosper while other towns of like size have faded and died. Among those reasons were people with ideas and faith enough in our local agriculture to push those ideas to fulfillment. We have seen the birth of a sugar beet processing plant, meat processing plants, and numerous cattle feeding lots. These all have served to keep our economy growing, made more jobs, and put more taxes in the treasury. But what most people fail to consider is that all of these things have failed for his basic commodities than he did before all of these industries took birth. Feed grains are cheaper, while at the same time costs of production continue to rise.

There are two solutions to this dilemma. The first would be that all products that the agriculture producer buys would stop their upward price spiral and start coming down in relation to farm prices until a point is reached where the farmer would again show a fair profit. We all know that this is impossible and can never be accomplished.

The second solution would be that farm products would start an upward price spiral until they reach a point where a fair profit can be realized by all agriculture producers. Then as costs of production continue to rise, agriculture prices would rise an equal rate.

This solution can be brought about by an organized agriculture, with the help and backing of the people in all agriculture-related industries. Alone and as individuals we can accomplish nothing, but as an organized group we should eventually see the day when agriculture can again show a profit.

N. R. Jones Is Attending School For Cattlemen

GARNETT, KANS. — N. R. Jones of 816 Avenue K enrolled Monday morning as a student in the Graham School for Cattlemen (beef and dairy), Garnett, Kans., for a week of intensive training in artificial insemination, practical methods of cattle care and herd management.

The Graham School was founded in 1909 by Frank B. Graham, Master Breeder, and has attained world-wide recognition as a school for the training of herdsman and breeders by visual demonstrations and actual "on the farm" methods of instruction.

Classes are held the second full week of each month. All students are given individual help and instructions and are provided opportunities to work with live animals and warm carcasses under the supervision of instructors who have had many years of experience and training with cattle.

The school's permanent headquarters in this Kansas farming community is completely equipped to make full use of both scientific and practical demonstrations, and students are transported by the school's bus to the near-by Graham Farm and Ranch for the actual working experience with live cattle.

Since cattlemen come from all parts of the United States, as well as from other countries, Jones will have many opportunities for an exchange of ideas relating to all phases of the cattle business.

Mandatory Jail Terms Are Urged For Armed Criminals

Texans have been sending me a record volume of mail in recent weeks sharing with me their views on guns and gun control. If you have written me and have not yet received a reply, I hope you will be patient. The volume of mail has overwhelmed my office's capacity to reply promptly.

In any event, I have already told you on this program and in many speeches around the state that while I am in agreement with the need for mailing restrictions on all sorts of firearms, I am not in favor of federal licensing or registration of guns.

There is, however, another very important area of federal concern. And, that is the need for prompt action to disarm not law-abiding citizens but criminals. Your letters tell me in no uncertain terms of your own concern about this need.

It is clear that none of the present gun-control bills gets to the heart of this problem of reducing the criminal use of guns. I have, therefore, joined in sponsoring a bill which directly attacks the gun all of are most worried about — the gun in the hands of the criminal.

My bill would make it an additional, punishable crime to use any firearm in the commission of any felony that breaks federal law.

This is not a complicated proposal. It is so simple I think any criminal or prospective criminal can understand it. It provides a mandatory jail sentence as punishment for a federal crime committed with a firearm. The length of this jail sentence would depend on the seriousness of the crime and upon mitigating circumstances which the courts would consider — but it could run up to life imprisonment.

Let's take a look at the reason such a new law is needed. In the year 1966 in our country 6500 murders were committed with firearms. 100,000 Americans were victims of rape or assault or robbery committed by criminals with guns, 55 policemen died in the line of duty of gunshot wounds.

It is clear that for the peace and security of the rest of our nation, the criminal must be disarmed.

Control of mail sales of guns will help keep guns from criminals, but not much. Licensing and registration of guns are strict and well enforced in such states as New York, but that has not kept guns from criminals.

These laws have operated to disarm law-abiding citizens. Yet, businessmen, cab drivers, bus drivers, housewives who are unarmed because they obey the gun laws are easy prey of armed criminals who evade the laws.

Of course, it would be no answer to arm all citizens. That would create a society living in a fear — an armed camp of frightened people. The answer lies in the disarming of the criminal.

I have joined in offering my criminal-control bill because it is long past time for the government — local, state and federal — to deal directly with the armed criminal. It is time to make the gun in the criminal's hands as much a threat to him as it is to his victim.

I am aware that there are a rather limited number of federal crimes to which criminal-gun-control legislation can apply. But, I also feel that while respecting the traditional division of police powers between state and federal government, a federal law in this field will prove a catalyst to state and local authorities, encouraging them to enact similar laws to disarm criminals.

We must all recognize, too, the crying need for better enforcement of existing laws at all governmental and court levels. We must stop coddling criminals. We must stop tolerating mob crime. We must quit protecting criminals at the expense of the law-abiding.

I know that we have a Presidential Commission on Violence busy studying the crime problem, but I suggest that we cannot stand idly by any longer awaiting the results of yet another study. The law-abiding citizen who can remember how it used to be when he could live in safety, walk on the streets, and go about his business without fear is fed up with studies. He rightly demands action.

I hope Congress, in the final days of the legislative session, can consider as a part of its gun-control debate the adoption of measures to disarm criminals.

In Great Britain the use of a firearm in commission of a major crime carries with it a mandatory sentence of up to seven years. The United States would do well to emulate the British example which has drastically curtailed armed criminal violence.

Mandatory jail sentences for armed crime would be a direct, frontal, inexorable attack on the professional criminals in our society, particularly those who repeat armed crimes over and over.

As the old saying goes, it is time to let the punishment fit the crime. And, jail is the proper punishment for armed crime.

"Crossroads" Is Passed; On To New Challenges!

By EARNEST LANGLEY
President, Deaf Smith County
Chamber of Commerce

During the past weeks, while the Revenue Bond Issue was on everyone's mind, someone remarked that the election on this issue would constitute a "crossroads" for the City of Hereford, perhaps as meaningful and important as any ever reached by the City in its history. Someone else stated that an unequalled opportunity would be presented for the citizens of this area to voice a common concern and willingness to work together for the best interests of the entire area.

The overwhelming mandate of the voters in Tuesday's election proved to be the virtually unanimous expression of the firm conviction held by our people that we are ready for additional growth and progress, and that we are willing to do whatever is necessary to insure these advances for ourselves and our children. In an election where a 75 per cent vote would have been considered a strong expression of the community's feelings, the actual vote proved to be more than 96 per cent in favor of the issue. No person has been found who can recall such an overwhelming majority on any issue, any time or anywhere. This is truly a gratifying vote of confidence in the decisions that have been made in past weeks, months and years by our community leaders, both official and unofficial.

Within 24 hours after the election results were announced, the Chamber of Commerce officials were receiving telephone calls and inquiries concerning prospects for additional businesses and industries for the town, including a major manufacturing activity that appears virtually a certainty at this moment but which had not even been heard about on election day. We anticipate more and more of this kind of additional business and commercial development.

Some have stated that not everyone will share in the economic benefits of this growth in the community, and perhaps there may be a few persons whose particular situation insulates them from these benefits; but on the whole, almost everyone will benefit from growth and prosperity. Even a retired person with a small home will be benefited to the extent that property values remain stable or actually appreciate with continued community growth. The addition of new businesses in a community necessarily provides greater opportunity for the average person in the labor market, offering more job opportunities, usually at increased wages. Large segments of our population who may have lacked adequate employment opportunities in the past should be able to find stable employment at high wages in the future, thus again adding substantial values to the expendable income in the area, while relieving the burdens of our welfare program in many instances.

We would be remiss, however, if we simply pat ourselves on the back for this accomplishment without reminding ourselves of the continuing responsibility of maintaining and perpetuating in our community the spirit of cooperative willingness to work together for the community that has been so much a part of our town these past few weeks. All too many towns and cities tend to find more opportunity for bickering and divisiveness, frequently based upon narrow and selfish aims, than for cooperative endeavor. We should pledge ourselves to remind each other "How Sweet It Was" when we all put aside all differences and worked together to let them know over at Wilson and Company, that we wanted industry here.

One other thing we need to remember is that we all have an obligation and a responsibility to accept the newcomers to Hereford and to help them to find their own place in our community, along side the old timers, as rapidly as possible. We frequently think we have little enough time to take care of what we are already doing and committed to, and that we simply do not have time to open up our social circles, our clubs, our churches, and our other activities for the new resident. It was easy for Hereford to be warm and friendly when a newcomer was a rarity, and when everybody else in town all knew each other. The larger we grow and the more of us there are, the more difficult it will be to retain the friendly, small town warmth that most of us have associated with our own residence in Hereford.

These are your new challenges as citizens of Hereford during the coming months and years. We trust that the "Vote" on them will be even more than 96 per cent.

Help The Walkers!

It's the age old battle between the sidewalk and the tree, with the tree winning out in many sections of our city.

Sidewalks, like the horse and buggy, seemed to have gone out of style when the motor car took over. Enjoying the new found luxury of the automobile, many citizens would drive even if traveling just a few blocks from home, but the tide has finally turned and we're predicting that the current "walking for health" fad will do more to put folks back on the sidewalks than did gasoline rationing in World War II. Provided of course, we can find enough decent sidewalks to walk on.

Jogging and walking have become quite popular in recent years and almost any evening or early morning you will find from one to a dozen local citizens out for a stroll. Hopefully, they'll be able to make it back home without breaking a leg.

The elm trees that line the streets in the older sections of the city have done considerable damage to existing sidewalks. These trees were planted many years ago primarily because they were fast growing and could provide ample shade — in a hurry. They are not particularly attractive but did serve to keep homeowners cool before mechanical air conditioning came upon the scene. About all they contribute now is to provide a home for sparrows.

Of course, it's easier to talk about a problem than to provide the solution. We're not advocating a wholesale elimination of shade trees. We would however, encourage those who can to replace or repair sections of the walks that have been damaged by the trees. Not only will you be doing a service for your fellow citizens who enjoy walking, but you'll do yourself a favor by improving the looks, and value, of your own property.

Chief Justice Earl Warren Sure To Go Down In History

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Earl Warren will have a place in the history books of the future, for better or for worse. Therefore his recent farewell press conference was an historical event. This is how it went.

In the first place, almost everybody at the top level of government holds press conferences — except Supreme Court justices. Warren had met once with visiting editors and occasionally with a handful of reporters covering the court as a regular beat. But a regular press conference had not been held in the 15 years Warren has headed the Supreme Court.

The scene was the East Conference Room at the Court, a high-ceilinged room with two ornate chandeliers, filled with rows of high-backed armchairs. The walls are lined with paintings of famous jurists of the past, with John Marshall accorded the place of honor over the fireplace. No doubt Earl Warren's own likeness will be a future to this room. Security precautions were only normal, despite a recent disturbance during the Poor People's Campaign, when demonstrators broke windows at the Court. A guard examined press passes outside the meeting room but that was all. Tourists continued to roam other parts of the impressive building, located just across the plaza from the Capitol.

Politics Ruled Out
Despite charges that the resignation of Chief Justice Warren at this time was politically motivated, political questions had been ruled out in advance, along with discussions of pending cases. However, these ground rules were not strictly observed in the give-and-take of question-and-answer. But nobody was so bold as to mention the name of Richard M. Nixon.

Television cameras had been banned but still and movie pictures were allowed for a brief period before the interviewing began. Then the photographers were banished and Warren resumed a role he had not played since his political days as Governor of California and the Republican nominee for Vice President. Once again he was fair game for the press.

The Chief Justice had no press release and no prepared opening statement. He began this way: "Ladies and gentlemen, I am glad to see you, but I don't know about what." The conference had been arranged at the request of reporters but questions or topics had not been submitted in advance.

Questioning was gentle to start. Was his retirement decision difficult to make? Would he handle cases as a retired justice? What considerations motivated his retirement? Should other aging judges retire? Was his health a factor? His answers were interesting but hardly made headline fodder.

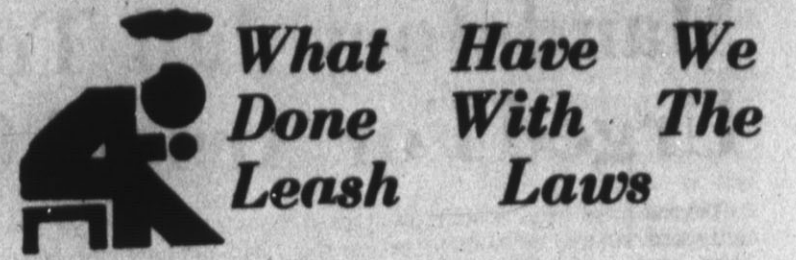

It was "not too difficult" for him to decide to quit although he will miss the companionship of the Court, he does not know if he will accept cases to be tried in lower courts, he resigned because he is 77 but retiring for age reasons is a "purely personal" decision for other judges to make, and his health is as good as can be expected at his age.

Will Stay Until Replaced
Then Warren was asked if it is possible he will still serve as Chief Justice when the Court reconvenes next October. His answer made the headlines. He will be obliged to serve until his successor is qualified, although he neither expects nor hopes this will happen. "There ought always to be a Chief Justice," he said, citing the possibility of 44 decisions if there were a vacancy.

That led to questions about President Johnson's nomination of Associate Justice Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice and Court of Appeals Judge Homer Thornberry to be Associate Justice. Warren called Fortas' selection "a splendid appointment" and predicted he will be "a great Chief Justice." Thornberry has a "distinguished" record on the bench, he said, and "should be an excellent Justice."

Warren also spoke of "a new era in American life." He referred to "turbulence," "disruptions of every kind," and "dissension and controversy." He foresees "great adjustments." When pinned down, he backed away from his forecast, suggesting his earlier comment might have been "surplusage."

In answer to a question as to whether the Court of the future should be active or restrained, Warren tossed in a comment which might serve as the epitaph of a Chief Justice who has presided over a pioneering Court. He said: "I am not one of those who believes that everything done for the first time is wrong."

A new Tornado automobile pulled into a hamburger joint and six prospective University of Texas students piled out, just as two Negro girls had made their order.

"Doesn't Austin have any leash laws?" laughed one punk. The others roared in laughter. Fortunately, the girls were out of earshot.

These Southern gentlemen just out of Texas high schools displayed a callousness and a bigotry that pops up every now and then among well-heeled young people. They have grown up in affluence, an environment that often condemns change. The crude outburst, when compounded to be the words of our society as a whole, reveal that our nation may not be suffering a moral decline; rather, it faces a change in perspective. The youngsters with their cutting remarks were only being old-fashioned.

In changing our morals to accept Negroes as equals, we have spurned civil disobedience and bloodshed. As we protect the right of the individual, we sacrifice the rights of society as a whole. Where we draw the line is a matter of preference, a reflection of the times.

Those who argue with enthusiasm that unrest should be dealt with through brutal tactics have no right to christen their cause as moral, when no corresponding relief is offered to minority groups. Blood thirsty militants who attack individuals, particularly small businessmen, in the name of revenge, are likewise not subscribing to any real moral cause.

The boys' comments at the hamburger joint could have hurt feelings for two Negro girls; magnify those disgusting words to people as a whole and one can realize the sources of hatred found by young Negroes. A racist attitude has been an immoral blight of our past; to ever imagine ourselves as "returning to law and order" is to imagine our returning to a different form of immorality. Today our immorality shows up in crime, violence, and irresponsible sex. Before, it was expressed in bigotry.

Never will we reach an American utopia. Solving one problem will create another. Always there will be a new challenge, another crisis. A civil rights movement, a "war on poverty," whatever the issue, will bring its problems. But they are no excuse for backing down from the challenge of a new perspective. The ferment of the times may be a sign of a healthy society not content to justify every principle, every moral, according to precedent.

There are just exactly 607 female voters in Deaf Smith County — and just exactly 606 male voters. If it were not for the exemptions for over-age among the sterner sex, their gentle partners could not count them at the coming primaries and run things with a high hand, if they chose to do so.

35 YEARS AGO - 1933

Seth B. Holman, owner of the Hereford Brand, died at his home here this morning at about 6 o'clock, following an illness of many months. He had become associated with the Hereford Brand originally in 1917.

25 YEARS AGO - 1943

Rain Saturday put a sudden stop to most of the early potato harvest in the Hereford territory; but if the weather stays dry, digging of the early crop will be off to a good start next week. Some of the first fields harvested are showing yields of approximately 100 sacks an acre or slightly more, but growers expect the yields to take a sharp jump as the digging starts in the better fields.

15 YEARS AGO - 1953

An agricultural experiment station for Deaf Smith County was assured when growers, processors and shippers met at noon Tuesday and agreed to a one-cent a package levy to finance the program. Local businesses started to add to the pot Wednesday, to build up the guaranteed $6,000, which had already been put up by the Santa Fe railroad.

10 YEARS AGO - 1958

For the first time in the history of Deaf Smith County, the Republican Party is to hold its own County Primary election. Three polls will be available for voting, according to county chairman Ken Rudd. . . . Ten polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. over the county for the Democratic Primary election Saturday, according to Louis Woodford, county Democratic chairman.

5 YEARS AGO - 1963

Airplanes, ferris wheels, cotton candy, floats, bands, bucking horses and smoky barbecue — these are just some of the ingredients for the remainder of the fifth annual Hereford Harvest Festival. With a queen chosen Thursday night to reign over the festival (Suzie Davis of Dimmitt), the rest of the events are now underway or getting their last-minute touches.

1 YEAR AGO - 1967

A disease which is believed to have infected a great portion of the corn and grain sorghum crops in Deaf Smith County was described Thursday as "maize dwarf mosaic virus," commonly called MDMV. Darrell Rosehow, assistant agronomist at the South Plains Research and Extension Station near Lubbock, said he was almost positive about the disease, which looks identical to what has been diagnosed at College Station.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his hindweed farm comes out against laziness this week. It's amazing. Dear editor:

I was sitting under a shade tree out here on this hindweed farm yesterday, it's my favorite because it's lined up with two others, so that when the sun moves, one tree picks up the shadow, then the next, and I can sit in one place four or five hours without losing my shade, and if you don't think this is important, have you ever gone to sleep in the shade and woke up in the sun?

I wasn't sleeping today, I was wide awake and for more than an hour had been watching a newspaper in the pasture about a hundred yards off moving about gently in the breeze. The wind seemed to be toying with it, rolling it around like a kitten with a ball of yarn.

I kept hoping it'd blow over to where I was, after a while of man's first obligations in this fast-moving world is to stay informed, democracy can't function when the people are in the dark, politicians prove this all the time, but when the second hour passed and that paper was still a hundred yards away I took things into my own hands and got up and walked over and picked it up and brought it back. I get tired of people who can't do things for themselves. That's not all but it's part of the trouble with some people in this country today, and around the world too. They not only want something for nothing, they want it delivered.

After all, it didn't really hurt me to get up and go after that paper. It seems to me that if hundreds of people scattered throughout the world are going to the trouble of gathering the news and others are going to the trouble of making the paper to print it on and others to the trouble of editing and printing it in readable form, it's not asking too much of me to get up once in a while and walk over and pick up a copy.

This country wasn't built on people who waited forever for a newspaper to drop into their lap. Feeling pretty good about this show of initiative, I sat back down under my line of shade trees and later on in the day, after I've rested up, I intend to open it and read it thoroughly.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Oldest Member Honored On Birthday By Club

The 89th birthday of Mrs. Mary Bodkin was observed Thursday as North Hereford Home Demonstration Club followed its yearly custom of honoring its oldest member who is also the oldest active H. D. Club member in Deaf Smith County.

Mrs. Addie Miller, Mrs. Tom Draper, Marilyn and Michelle Ranspot. Members at the coffee included Mmes. Otto Olson, W. J. Lueb, Fred Barrett, R. E. Barrett, Clinton Ward, O. L. Williams and C. L. Whitehead.

This year's party was a coffee in the home of Miss Roberta Campbell, with several special guests joining the club women for a morning hour of informal visiting. Birthday gifts were presented to the honoree and the packages opened.

Miss Campbell poured coffee. It was served with a cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Paul Hoff, club president and long-time friend of Mrs. Bodkin. Guests were Mrs. W. H. Russell, a former club member;

Mrs. Faulkner Back From Visit With Husband

Mrs. James Faulkner of 523 Irving, Hereford, has returned from Hawaii, where she spent a week with her husband, Air Force Sgt. James Faulkner. The sergeant was there on R & R from duty in Vietnam.

Sgt. Faulkner's parents live in Dimmitt. Mrs. Faulkner is staying here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brittain. She is employed at the Beauty Mart.

Sgt. Faulkner has been on duty in Vietnam since last October, following 18 months in the Philippines and five months in Washington D.C.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest appreciation and sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors for all the kind thoughts, words and deeds during the long illness and recent death of our beloved son, Ricky. Recent Vows At Slaton Of Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Sparky Joe Stephens are at home at 520 West Geneva, Slaton, after their marriage in Slaton Church of Christ July 13 and a trip to the Fort Worth-Dallas area. Mrs. Stephens is the former Miss Pamela Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davis of Slaton. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Stephens, Route 5, Hereford. He is employed by the Santa Fe Railway in Slaton after discharge from Army service that included a year in Viet Nam. He was graduated from Slaton High School in 1965.

Mrs. Stephens is also a Slaton HS graduate and has studied at West Texas State University, where she was listed on the Dean's Honor Roll last term.

C. L. Newcomb officiated for the wedding. Honor attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Brake of Slaton and music was by the church's wedding chorus.

The bride wore a gown of organza over peau de soie, with empire waistline defined by a wide satin belt. Her pouf veil fell in layers, the lower tier forming a chapel train. She carried butterfly roses and stephanotis in a cascade bouquet. Apricot satin made the empire dresses of the three brides-

Mrs. Sparky Joe Stephens maids, whose flowers were daisies in the same color. A reception was held in Slaton Clubhouse after the wedding.

INTRODUCING "Instant Yard"

THE AMAZING NEW WAY TO HAVE A RICH-GREEN YARD IN A MATTER OF HOURS — GUARANTEED!!

What is "Instant Yard"?

The "Instant Yard" idea, although new to this area, has been in operation for some time in Colorado. Two local men, Edwin Axe, and Don Teague are now in the process of bringing the operation to Hereford. The first stand of grass has already been planted, in the front yard of Axe's home at 140 Mimosa. Axe invites anyone interested to come by and look at his yard.

The grass, available in a choice of Kentucky Straight Blend, Kentucky New port and Kentucky Mirium, is brought from Denver Colorado in blocks. It is then taken off the truck and laid on leveled ground — and watered. That's the whole operation, the roots take hold and you have — "Instant Yard."

Go by and see Edwin Axe's yard. Talk with him or Don Teague about this new idea, and let them fix you up with the trouble-free, guaranteed, "Instant Yard".

City Pastor Enjoys Law And Skydiving

By PENNY YOUNG
Staff Writer

Ministry, law and sky diving make quite a combination for a Hereford minister. In fact, for any clergyman this would be an odd and amazing combination.

John C. Coffman, pastor for the 15th Street Church of Christ, his wife, Jane Ellen, and their three children, Steven, 4; Stewart, 3; and Mary Ellen one month, live at 716 Irving.

At the age of 16, Coffman began his ministry off and on in his church. At the age of 17, he was preaching regularly at the Church of Christ in Charcol, Tex.

Having a long line of ministers in the family helped Coffman make a decision. His father and father-in-law are Church of Christ preachers. However, Coffman states that he didn't really receive his inspiration for ministry from his father. Through the result of his own study and convictions, Coffman entered the field of religion.

"I teach," comments Coffman, "that Jesus Christ established one church. The term church has been badly abused today and misapplied by most people. The church refers to a body of people that have been reconciled through obedience. The division in relationship between the churches boils down to one point — that of different views on what constitutes obedience to the gospel."

As a new minister in Hereford, Coffman and his family moved from Fort Worth to take the preaching position offered to him.

Coffman in his religious work has been closely related with Dale Smith, a top worker for the Herald of Truth program.

Because his grandfather had been a lawyer, Coffman decided to take up the profession or at least study it for a while. For several years he has wanted to be both a lawyer and a preacher, with the firm belief that a preacher should be able to defend himself secularly.

If Coffman had made the decision to continue his law work, the American General Life Insurance Co. would have sent him to school, paying the expenses. However, lacking a year and a half of law study, Coffman decided against a law degree and preferred instead to continue full-time ministry work. He does, however, stand a very good chance of being admitted to the Bar without receiving his law degree in full.

"Most of my law work," explains Coffman, "would be in the corporate field. My interests would be civil, not criminal law. I wouldn't as some people say, combine my law and religion if I did continue both, but I do have a sermon that I preach now called, 'Illegality of Christ's Trial.' This sermon is Christ's trial in law and not religion. It points out the mockery not only in religious sense, but from every legal standpoint."

Coffman deviated from his study of law at the Texas Christian University School of Languages, and began his law study with Sen. Lewis Crump, who was at the time, senator pro-tem of the Texas Senate. Coffman did attend the University of Texas but never enrolled in the University of Texas Law School.

"My main interest," states Coffman, "for the last two years has been in languages and I hope to do two things within the next year. I hope to travel to Purdue University and continue studies in Greek and I'm hoping to visit the Holy Land also."

A secretary for the Department of Defense at the Texas Instruments Co. in Dallas, Coffman's wife really got him started in sky diving. An Air Force representative who worked at the department was a skilled sky diver and suggested that it would be nice if Mrs. Coffman's husband joined the club. Absolutely against the idea because of the danger, Mrs. Coffman wouldn't think of having her husband as a sky diver. Later, after a lot of convincing, she finally consented to the hobby, assured that it was perfectly safe.

Beginning out of curiosity, Coffman trained for his first jump in two weeks, the required length of time for training for the jumps. Part of the training required that beginners jump backwards from a slow moving truck to the pavement and land upright. "That was the part that always got me," stated Coffman "I was really glad when we did the actual jumping because the training was boring."

In jumping, the main worry is to keep a certain position while falling because the jumper navigates himself like an airplane by moving his hands and legs. Coffman's first jump took him way off course and he landed in a forest, sustaining a neck injury that he has to this day. But one jump wasn't going to get him down.

"The first jump that I made," confessed Coffman, "I wasn't afraid. But if you're not careful, you can work yourself into fearing jumping. A lot of the jumpers plant their main concern on the opening of the parachute, but this doesn't worry me half as much as the position you're in when you're falling. I had a lady instructor during my training that stressed this fact. She told us that one time she jumped, moved her hand too much and landed eight miles off course."

4-H Members To Attend Camp

Steve Olsen, Tommy Bezner, Rodney Brooks, Cynthia Hanna, Jane Witkowski, Joetta Hanna, and Sue Shirley, all 4-H students, will attend an Electric Camp at Camp Scott Able near Cloucraft, N.M., beginning Monday.

The camp is sponsored by Southwestern Public Service and is held for the students to learn all about electricity and its uses. The camp will be held for a week.

Cynthia Hanna will attend the camp as district council officer, and Jane Witkowski and Steve Olsen will be serving on the district council.

Sponsors traveling with the students are Rita Huckert and Gerald Witkowski. The group will leave Monday morning at 9:30 and return Friday afternoon the 28th at 4 p.m.

An inch of rain falling evenly on one acre of ground is equivalent to about 27,184 gallons of water, according to hydrologists of the U. S. Geological Survey.

His wife was completely indoctrinated on sky diving even before he was, but she worried quite a bit.

"I love sky diving, I really enjoyed it, but I gave it up because I have three children and also because my wife was getting a bit leery of it. While she was confident, I was confident, but my last jump she worried so much that she wouldn't even watch. That was another factor that made me give it up. The sky divers around here may be on my back for this reason, because they all know that sky diving is less dangerous, percentage wise, than any other sport, mainly because of the time and care spent on it before the jump."

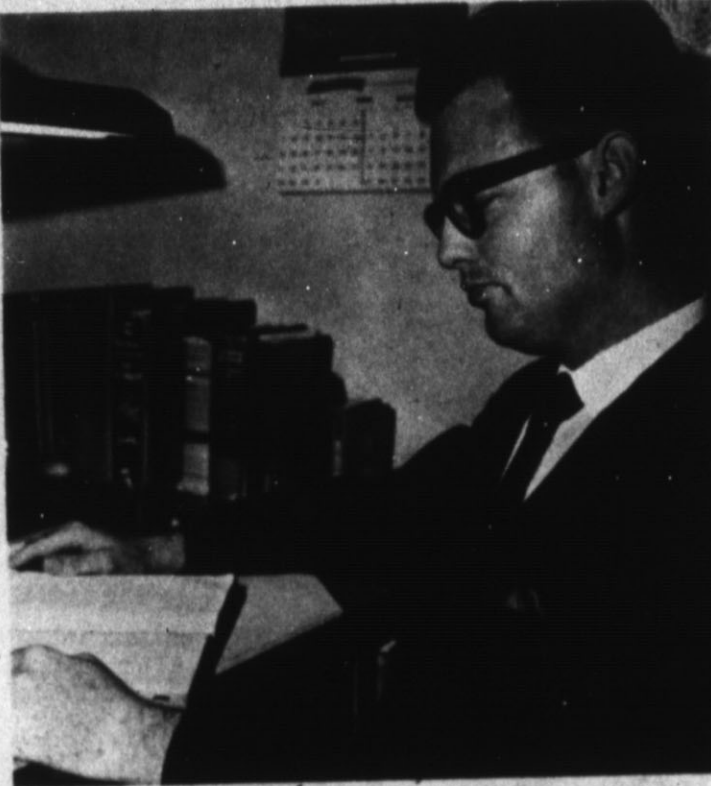

Techniques in sky diving are rather involved especially in the training process. Most sky diving clubs shy away from people who want to sky dive for a thrill. Before Coffman jumped, he checked two books out of the library on sky diving and read them. Then, he bought one and read it. He is also a member of the PCA (Parachute Club of America).

"I heard about one incident," recalled Coffman, "where a sky diver had a collision with a high line. He wasn't killed but was seriously injured. The last jump I made found me heading for a high line and I was so intent upon steering away from it that I forgot to shift to the wind and landed at a pretty fast speed. When I hit ground, I bounced, tumbled, rolled, and scooped up dirt."

The Coffman's feel they are going to enjoy Hereford, and they felt this way much more so after returning from Fort Worth where he had been working for a month in a local church there.

SKYDIVING — Interesting and exciting hobby for John C. Coffman, 15th Street Church of Christ minister.

Rabies Is Not A Thing Of The Past

Is rabies a thing of the past?

Don't bet your life on it, says the Texas State Department of Health. Statistics and activities of the Health Department indicate otherwise.

"Rabies in man is always fatal," said Dr. James E. Peavy, state commissioner of health, "and for that reason prevention is the only cure."

A big step in prevention is vaccination of pets.

"Vaccination of pets takes on a more vital role when you come to realize that most rabies treatments received by humans have come from exposure or possible exposure to pets," said Dr. Peavy. He noted also that rabid pets normally expose the people closest to them — their masters or neighbors.

Among the animal heads examined for rabies last year, 385 were found to be positive for rabies upon laboratory examination by the State Health Department. Another 16 cases were affirmed on military bases following examination at the Fort Sam Houston laboratories in San Antonio.

Of the 385 cases, 86 were dogs; 32 cats; 27, foxes; 152, skunks; 44, bats; 24, bovine; and 20, other species. Six horses and seven raccoons were found to be positive among the "other" species in 1967.

Communities and individuals have their greatest opportunity to prevent the spread of rabies among pets and on to humans by means of vigilant anti-rabies vaccination programs and stray dog control.

Health authorities feel that a community is adequately protected from a noutbreak of rabies when 70 per cent of the pet population is vaccinated. But most urban areas in Texas have attained only a 10 to 15 per cent vaccination record.

In Sardinia, sheep and goats outnumber people two to one.
