Fire Losses Down Fire Chief Reports

For the first 11 months of 1968, the city of Hereford suffered less fire damage than it had in the previous two years as the total damage was estimated at around $26,524.

City and county losses combined for the year indicated that there was an estimated $71,000 in damages to property with the majority coming from the rural area where about $50,000 was reported by city officials.

Some 152 alarms were answered by the local fire department during the 11 month period, consisting of 62 general alarms and 90 six-man alarms. Of the 152 calls, 72 were country alarms and 80 were city with 36 being car alarms, 36 barn and grass, 16 trash, three wrecks, four false alarms, 13 business alarms and seven miscellaneous.

Local firemen fought city blazes every month of the year with the exception of February and April when no city fires were reported. The most active month for volunteer firemen on the city basis was during May when they answered three city fires that resulted in an estimated $7,000 damages. The costliest single fire was reported in January when the firemen fought a fire at the bulk warehouse for Phillips Petroleum Company and the loss was estimated at around $11,000.

In January, other than the See FIRE, Page 2

Open House Set For Job Corps

Job Corps boys and girls home for the Christmas holidays are invited to attend an Open House at Texas Employment Commission office in Hereford on Tuesday from 1 to 4 p. m., according to Lester Rape, manager of TEC.

Rape said that they would serve Cokes and cookies.

He also has invited Job Corps trainees who are interested in the program to the Open House as well as their parents.

Vandals Break In At Stanton

A break-in, vandalism and possible theft at Stanton Junior High still are under investigation by Hereford police.

The break-in was discovered Friday afternoon when it was reported to police that a window was broken and the screen torn off at the school's band hall.

Upon investigation, officers found that the 18-by-40 inch window had been broken out and entry made into the band hall. Uniforms were thrown around and chairs turned over, but school officials were unable to determine if anything was taken since the band director was out of town.

An attempt also was made to gain entrance to the rest of the building through a locked door leading from the band room to the hall. Entry was not made, however.

The investigation is continuing and it will be determined if anything was stolen when the band director returns.

Early Deadline Announced For Thursday Paper

Because of the New Year's holiday, Thursday's Hereford Brand will be printed a day early. Therefore, all news and advertising must be turned in a day early.

Deadline for all advertising-classified and display will be 5 p. m. Monday. All news must be in by noon Tuesday. The Brand offices will be closed Wednesday.

NEW PRESIDENT OF WOMEN'S DIVISION

Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, 507 Star, has accepted the presidency of the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, according to Chamber president Earnest Langley.

Mrs. Gillentine will take office beginning a Jan. 1, 1969.

Computer Firm Has New Manager

Don L. Wilson, president of Agricultural Computing Company, has announced that Rex G. Yoder has been promoted to manager of the Hereford branch of the company, replacing S. M. Easley who was promoted to manager of Systems Implementation.

Easley will move his office to corporate headquarters, located in Amarillo.

Yoder, 40, has had 15 years of data processing experience beginning when he was in the service. He was born in Indiana, then came to Texas through the Armed Forces. He was discharged in 1959 and began working with Shamrock Oil and Gas.

After working some time with Shamrock, Yoder headed up Data Processing of Amarillo then went to work for W. R. Grace and Co. before joining Agricultural Computing Company.

Wilson indicated that these changes will strengthen the present operations and allow expansion of the new Farm Management Program now being developed by the Hereford branch. The local branch will also continue to expand its present feed yard and Rural Electric Cooperative data processing programs, he said.

The promotion changes were not scheduled to take place until some time in July of 1969, but due to the rapid progress of the company, the change could not be delayed, officials said.

CAP Searches For Missing Private Plane

Members of the Hereford Civil Air Patrol were engaged in a search Thursday for an overdue plane that was enroute from Albuquerque, N. M. to Hereford.

The blue and white Cessna 170 piloted by M. W. Wright of Albuquerque filed a flight plan to Tucumcari after having left Albuquerque Thursday morning around 5:30. When the plane failed to report on time, a two-hour waiting period was observed before action could be taken by area CAP groups.

Around 12 noon Thursday, Dr. Milton Adams, Commander of the Hereford Civil Air Patrol was notified by Central Air Rescue and Recovery Center in Nebraska, asking for their assistance in trying to locate the missing plane.

Some 14 local CAP personnel and five non-members assisted in the local search which covered the area from the local airport north to Vega, from Vega to the New Mexico state line, and south to Farwell. Also helping in the search were members of the Pampa and Amarillo squadrons.

Wright is an executive of a pipeline company working with the local Pioneer Natural Gas Company. He has been commuting from Albuquerque to Hereford for some six weeks.

Just before noon Saturday, the Hereford CAP was again contacted and asked to assist in the search for the missing pilot and his plane. The Hereford Municipal Airport was designated as the base of operations for the group which will cover the eastern half of New Mexico.

Classes Resume; Tests Scheduled

Classes at the Hereford schools will resume from the Christmas holidays on Jan. 2, according to school officials.

Mid-term tests will be given at the high school Jan. 13-17 and the students will also receive another day off on Jan. 20 due to it being records day.

The second semester will begin following records day on Jan. 21.

MCMLXVIII Ending With Hereford Having Recorded Its Busiest Year!

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

MCMLXVIII will officially end Tuesday at midnight — and Hereford will close out what has been described by many as its busiest year since the Santa Fe railroad tracks were laid from Amarillo to Clovis and marked the town's birth. Stories in the past 104 issues of the Hereford Brand and Sunday Brand bear out this description.

Hereford, never known as a town "where the same old thing happens every day," gained a new title in 1968. Mrs. Carl Kropff, when interviewed for her opinion concerning the opening of the Wilson & Co. plant here after the ground-breaking ceremonies in October, said, it "surely will be an asset to our little city." She then added that Hereford could no longer be called a town but would have to be called "a little city."

The Little City, which another person or two described as a place "that has more meetings than the United Nations," also went through two primaries and general election, two bond issue elections, and balloting on a city sales tax. More than 130 county civic clubs and groups had their own individual projects and additional new businesses were announced. Many times, members of the Brand news department found themselves covering two and three stories concurrently.

It also marked the year that two special editions of the Sunday Brand were published. The Agriculture Edition of April 28 totaled 84 pages (one of the largest in the history of Hereford) and the "Welcome Wilson & Co." Edition of Oct. 20 with 64 pages. Not only the news reports but the advertising department, front office, and backshop employees often found themselves working from early in the morning until late at night to meet the deadlines.

The 104, 1968 editions of the Hereford newspaper will soon be microfilmed as a permanent record in the Brand files. There will be no space for storage of the actual editions themselves — they will be destroyed.

Therefore, this opportunity is taken to go back of the actual pages before they are destroyed — for a recap of the top news stories of file MCMLXVIII

(1968). For longtime residents of Deaf Smith County, there are many memories. For the newcomers — it is a graphic picture of the vast activities in which you have been welcomed:

JANUARY 1968
Deposits in the two Hereford banks have set another record for Deaf Smith County as they had a combined total of $29,036,994.56 at the close of business Dec. 30. The two banks combined also broke another record, that being $33,680,369.56 in total resources. . . Hereford's first baby of the year came at 6:51 a. m. Wednesday. Joe Don Soto is the newest arrival for the Joe Soto family. . . An 18-year-old Hereford youth has been charged with aggravated assault in connection with the attack on a 16-year-old boy and his 13-year-old brother. . . Finding the going a little rough at times, the Whitefeats, paced by the 19-point scoring of Bobby Burwick, were able to slip past the determined Morton Indians 45-43, Tuesday night in Indian territory.

Hereford City Commission has reduced the ad valorem property tax from $1.40 to $1.30, following a discussion of the rate at a meeting Tuesday night, according to City Manager Dudley Bayne. . . Superintendent Johnny Clark Jr. received a new three-year contract during the regular monthly meeting of the Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees Tuesday night. . . The sixth annual meeting of the West Texas Vegetable Growers Conference was held in the Hereford Bull Barn Tuesday to a crowd of over 150 persons. . . Gerald Martin, owner of the Hereford Flying and Agricultural Service, has been selected by the United Artists Corp. to be one of the pilots directly involved in the filming of "The Battle of Britain," a recreation of the actual World War II havoc in which the Germans dropped countless tons of bombs on the British coastal and inland cities. His aerial scenes will be filmed in Spain.

The Pitman-Easley Industries Corp., a merger of the Pitman Grain Co. and the Easley Feed Yards interests, was completed Jan. 1. Small Business Administration loan arrangements were announced Wednesday, in the total amount of $400,000, with $232,000 from SBA, $140,000 from High Plains Development Co., and $28,000 from the First National Bank in Hereford. . . United Fund campaign for Deaf Smith County reached a total of $26,699.44. The goal had been $32,000 but it fell short $5,301.56 as campaign officials agreed Friday to seek no more contributions.

Deaf Smith County has topped numerous other Panhandle counties, many of them much more populated, in nonfarm building permits issued as of November 1967, according to the Bureau of Business Research in Austin. This county had a listing of 24 permits in November with a value in dollars of $194,330. For January through November, the record shows 146 permits for new homes, with a total value of $2,268,130.

The sugar beet harvest is near an end in this area, according to Bob Ginn, agriculture manager of the Holly Sugar Corp. here. Very optimistic concerning the present crop, Ginn announced that the yield this year would be approximately 1.7 tons per acre better than last year.

"The yield is near 22 1/4 tons per acre now," he said. "Last year it was only 20.8."

Hereford's "Citizen of the Year" for 1967, named during the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night, is John Douglas Pitman. Nearly 700 persons saw the presentation, which was the highlight of what was considered to be the best banquet ever held. Former Miss America, Marilyn Van Derbur, was guest speaker. Earnest Langley, incoming Chamber president, got the large crowd into a gay mood with his welcoming address, and outgoing president Neil Cooper introduced the out-of-town guests.

Hereford Mayor Ray Cowser, in a statement to the Brand following the defeat of the one-percent city sales tax election Tuesday, said that he "was gratified from the large number of voters who had shown enough interest" to turn out for the city election. Voting against the proposal were 590 residents, with 497 for its passage. . . F. A. "Spec" Marnell and Jerry Don Glover were recognized for their achievement in agriculture Wednesday by the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District and the Hereford Lions Club. . . Eleven men and one woman decided punishment of two years in the penitentiary for their conviction of Frankie Wayne Wester on the charge of murder of a baby last July in Hereford, Wednesday in the Deaf Smith County Court House in a record deliberation. . . Local authorities are continuing their investigation into the Saturday night fire at Allred Oil Company, 102 Veterans Rd., which cause extensive damage to the business and its contents.

With the deadline still three days off, Deaf Smith county voters already have set a record for registration. Mrs. Nell Miller, county tax assessor-collector reported that a total of 5,219 persons had registered by closing time Friday.

FEBRUARY
The Mothers' March, held throughout the city Monday night, gained a total of $2,046.75. In charge of the Mothers' March were W. C. Russell, the 1968 March of Dimes campaign chairman, and Mrs. Ann Penner, president of La Madre Mia Study Club, who sponsored the march. In the march were 182 people covering 24 areas, and 21 additional club members who kept track of the operations and collections. . . With the approval of an REA loan of $1,013,090 for Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties will receive extended and improved service on their electric systems. . . Hereford Feed Yards announced that the Board of Directors has concluded to increase the present cattle feeding facility at the yard from its present capacity of approximately 30,000 to 50,000 head capacity. . . A happy beginning for Community Concerts in Hereford, the performance of organist Richard Leibert was rousing applause Saturday evening.

Alvin O. (Butch) Walterscheid, 24, former Hereford High School and West Texas State University football great, was killed in a one-car accident .6 miles west of Dawn about 12:05 a. m. Thursday. . . Hereford and Deaf Smith County were represented by some 21 persons at the sixth annual West Texas Water Conference, which was held in the See ENDING, Page 2 bulk warehouse fire, there was also a fire at 405 Star St. that resulted in $481.70 damages caused from a faulty electrical motor on a heater.

During March, local firemen were summoned to one city blaze and that was at 146 Hickory where $678.33 damages occurred from a short in wiring in a closet heater.

During the busy month of May, firemen fought three fires, one being a motel fire at 520 W. 1st where $4,609 damages were estimated. The fire was believed to have originated from a small boy smoking a cigarette. Also during the month of May, there was a fire reported at 419 Western that resulted in about $1,292 damages and another at Third St. and Main where $1,957 damages were sustained.

In June, a fire at 820 South Texas and another at 710 Lee resulted in approximately $1,350 damages to the two buildings.

July and August were mild months for the volunteer fire department as only one call in the city was answered during each month. In July, firemen fought a small blaze at 133 Beach where $232.66 damages occurred and in August, $428.94 in damages were reported at a fire at the 100 block of E. Third where a cigarette was believed to have been the cause.

About $1,200 damages caused by fire was reported in the month of September when firemen fought a blaze at 239 Star which resulted in $900.91 damages and another at 213 Beach where $266.14 in damages occurred.

October saw local firemen fight two city fires with one being estimated at $2,789.85 in damages to a building at the intersection of U. S. 385 and Highway 60. The other occurred at 106 13th St. where 138.88 in losses occurred.

For the month of November, only one city fire was reported to fire officials and that was a small blaze at 608 E. Third where damages were estimated at $125.

J. W. 'Jap' Dickerson, Fire Chief, estimated that excluding the city fires, damage estimates for blazes was around $50,000. He said that due to the crop and grass fires, it was hard to eval-

Some 100 members of the West Texas Press Association are expected to converge on Hereford Friday for the start of the 19th annual Mid-Winter meeting of the organization.

Tony Malouf, Hereford High School senior, has been named to the All West Texas Academic Football Team in AAA classification for "exceptional academic achievement in addition to athletic ability." Action in the first round of play in the Hereford Invitational Junior High Basketball Tourney saw Stanton win two of their three games and La Plata wrap up all of its contests.

Hereford Independent School District Board announced at their regular February meeting Tuesday night that Don T. Martin will become principal of Stanton Junior High School at the beginning of the fall semester following the retirement of W. C. Quattlebaum. City Manager Dudley Bayne has cleared the mystery of the $16,001 grant announced by Sen. Ralph Yarborough last Saturday. Originally the city had asked for an Urban Planning Assistance grant of $31,990, with which they planned to add $17,115 of the city's money. But Bayne learned that the aerial photography and mapping expense had been removed from the total, leaving that balance. The proceeds from Project Christmas Card — $2,966.96 — has been presented to the Deaf Smith County Hospital. Mrs. A. T. Mims, president of the Hereford Medical Auxiliary, with secretary Mrs. M. W. Nobles, made the presentation to hospital administrator T. E. Seigler Monday.

Joyce Beizer and Charles Atchley of Hereford exhibited the champion heavyweight Hereford and Angus calves, respectively, during the three-day Hereford Young Farmers Livestock Show. Gary Billingsley of Northwest Elementary School reported that there are now 408 entries in the fourth annual Science Fair. Bravo Smokes remaining in Hereford is still up in the air, according to Bill Lee of the plant.

 farmers will now be in a position to "buy gas and sell it to themselves," and that it will cut the price of gas in half. . . . With the prospects of more new specialized feed yards entering the picture of already growing operations, Pre-Feeders — one of the few specialized feed yards in the area — has begun operation and is now in the process of preparing for that future.

A meeting called by the Retail Merchant Committee to discuss the Sunday Closing Law ended in an uproar Thursday morning when heated debates began over the merits of the controversial statute. "We are going to have to get rough on the litterbugs," City Manager Dudley Bayne pointed out to the Board last week. Bayne had reference to city property owners and renters who permit the lids on their trash cans to find improper use, the garbage to be strewn over the alleys and yards junk automobiles and parts to remain scattered around houses, and general cluttering of the City of Hereford. "There is a maximum fine of $100," Bayne emphasized, "and we plan to prosecute the defenders."

Westgate, the Methodist home for older adults at 430 Ranger, has received a $50,000 grant from the Hill-Burton Fund for the building addition to include 16 new beds in eight semi-private rooms, according to administrator Manson D. Waits. . . . Returns from the 1968 Heart Sunday Appeal totaled $1,951.55, as compared with the mail-in campaign of $560 in 1967.

MARCH
 Construction of a new apartment complex, which will be named El Dorado Arms, will begin immediately with the site to be on the west side of Highway 385 just across from Sugarland Mall, it was announced by Charlie Walker and J. W. Robinson, partners in the building of the complex. . . . Lt. James Emil Pavlicek, 25-year-old Hereford resident who died in Vietnam action Nov. 3, 1967, was honored posthumously Thursday by the Department of Military Science at West Texas State University in Canyon.

The General Budget for the City of Hereford, May 1, 1968, through April 30, 1969, has been set and unanimously passed by the City Commission with a total of $1,007,515. This amount was derived from total revenues and surpluses and is $147,901 more than the 1967-68 budget. Rep. Graham Purcell, the keynote speaker Thursday night for the West Texas Grain Elevator Association's annual meeting, spoke on President Johnson's current farm program and stressed two bills that he had introduced into the U. S. House of Representatives. . . . Bill Waldrep of Hereford was elected president of the West Texas Grain Elevator Association during the one-day convention of the organization in Hereford Thursday.

Approximately 50 farmers were urged Tuesday night to join forces and combat a problem which is threatening their very existence — rising costs and little profit. John Oster of Ethan, S. D., a director of NFO (National Farmers Organization), told those attending the meeting at the Hereford Community Center that "the problem is the same as it has always been. We just aren't getting enough profit out of the farming operation."

Debbs Knox of 133 Ave. B and owner of Hereford Bakery, was named president of the 1968 United Fund for Deaf Smith County. . . . Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce has gained its highly valued accreditation, Earnest Langley, president of the chamber, and Bill Thompson, manager, have announced. . . . Dale Young, district manager of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., has been elected as vice president of the DSC Chamber of Commerce to fill the unexpired term of J. Frank Ford Jr.

A new home for the Camp Fire Girls of Hereford moved a step nearer to reality Thursday with the announcement of a $13,000 grant from the Jim Hill Estate, contingent upon matching funds from two local civic clubs. . . . While all results in the annual Hereford Invitational Track Meet were not available at press time Saturday, it appeared that two of the local schools had clear sailing to titles. Results at this time showed that Stanton and Hereford High School were well ahead of the visiting teams. There were some 16 schools entered in the meet.

MICROFILMING RECORDS — County Clerk B. F. Cain demonstrates at left the amount of space that has been saved by microfilming records during the past year. Deed Records 95, on the center shelf by itself, is the old type and is much larger than the new records at far left. Cain said that it also saves money on photostats for customers — previously $1 and now 10 cents. At right is Mrs. Wilma Clark microfilming records. —Staff Photos

Microfilm Saves Space, Cain Says

Along with his year-end report County Clerk B. F. Cain pointed out that Deaf Smith County is one of the first counties throughout the country to put its records on microfilm — which can now compress 2,800 legal-size pages into 700 of a smaller size — which saves a tremendous amount of space on the shelves. Cain said that the County Clerk's office is complete on microfilm in underground storage. "Should there be some major disaster that would destroy everything at the courthouse, we would still be in business."

Cain and Major A. J. Schroeter, surveyor for Deaf Smith County, had made a tour of about ten places who had microfilm equipment in New Mexico and parts of Texas to locate the right type of equipment. It was begun here in January. "We are ahead of Amarillo and Lubbock," Cain said, "and many representatives from other counties have been here to see what we have."

He said that the equipment and the offices here have also been photographed by Southwest Microfilm, who have their equipment on lease in Deaf Smith County (it cannot be purchased outright), which is to go into a magazine later — "which will show what space has been saved in Hereford."

Cain reported that, as of Dec. 1, there have been 378 births recorded in the county since the first of the year, "and approximately thirty more can be added up to Dec. 31." Deaths through the same date have reached 86 — with four or five additional deaths through the end of the year.

Marriages recorded here as of Friday have totaled 255, with perhaps a few more through Tuesday yet to be recorded, he said.

Warranty deeds issued throughout 1968 will total approximately 3,067 — about 100 short of last year. Cain gave the 1967 total as 3,170.

Financing statements (which has taken the place of the old chattel mortgages and includes such things as bank loans, household appliances, crops loans, etc.) has reached a total of 2,165 through Friday.

Cain said this was about the same as last year.

Christmas Emphasizes Malouf Wedding Scene

Christmas was the setting for the holiday wedding of Miss Renee Malouf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hanna Malouf, 1500 Brevard St., and Roy W. Kuper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kuper, Route 5, Thursday afternoon at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Poinsettias and holly were used as decorations at the wedding conducted by the Rev. John Vanderkil and assisted by the Rev. Simeon Heine and the Rev. John Brodrick. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Marie Swayden, was matron of honor and the groom's brother, Richard Kuper, was best man. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeanette Walterscheid, Miss Carmen Malouf and Miss Souad Malouf. Groomsmen were Bill Johnson, Johnny Husmann and Rick Fangman. Serving as ushers were Ricky Reinart, Ray Berend, Marvin Kuper and Phillip Sciumbarino.

Alice Kuper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kuper, was train bearer.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. R. J. Cramer, organist, and Mrs. Carl McFaul, sang wedding solos: Ave Marie, 'O Lord I Am Not Worthy and Mother at Thy Feet.

The bride's dress was antique white satin with a chapel train and three-quarter length sleeves. Beads were sewn on the bodice lace, around the back and down the train of the dress.

A finger-tip veil with a crown of orange blossoms and a pearl necklace completed the ensemble. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Red velvet A-line dresses with satin sashes were worn by the bride's attendants who carried a single stem red rose with red streamers.

Serving at the bridal table at the reception held at the Knights of Columbus Hall were Misses Delores Betzen, Rosemary Fangman, Peggy Schmucker and Diane Fangman. Miss Doris Walterscheid registered guests and Mrs. W. J. Leub served punch. The cake was three-tiered with white icing and large red roses.

Mrs. Kuper wore a two-piece hot pink bonded-knit suit with a three-quarter length coat for the wedding trip to Colorado. The couple will be home after Jan. 10 at 601 Ave. B.

She was graduated from St. Joseph's Catholic School in Tyre, Lebanon, and is a member of St. Anthony's Young Adult Club in Hereford. She has worked at her father's store, Malouf's Department Store.

Kuper is a graduate of Hereford High School and attended West Texas State University. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and St. Anthony's Young Adult Club.

Out-of-town wedding guests included several foreign students at Texas Tech: Tony Chung, Hong Kong; Tony Hanania, Israel; Othman Ghneim, Israel; Miss Yiota Dallis, Greece; Salman Hussain, Jordan. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Farhat, Eagle Pass, and Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Masso, San Luis, Mexico.

Relatives attending the wedding came from Lubbock, Plainview, Hale Center, Brownfield, Morton, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Tulsa, Okla. Amarillo, Dimmitt Bovina and Tulla.

By MELVIN YOUNG

According to a story on the front page of the Hereford Brand (Thursday, December 26) the residents of Deaf Smith County are losing the "battle of the bulge." One-fifth of all men and one-fourth of the women in the country are overweight, and the national averages may be a little conservative for Deaf Smith County. We eat well down here on the plains.

Which brings up another problem.

According to the American Medical Association, as the snow piles up, so do problems relative to the snow. Among these every year is the collapse of a number of snow-shovelers.

If you are sure that you're physically fit, says AMA, go ahead with the snow-shoveling task. But if there is any doubt, get the job done some other way. Hire someone, or use power equipment.

Now that's good sound advice. Actually, since the first of September of this year, we have refused to shovel snow, and really, don't anticipate being forced into any such undesirable task in the near future.

We'll stick to jogging.

And speaking of shoveling, if we don't get a little moisture pretty soon, we may have to shovel the sand out of the driveways this spring. We've had a little over 9 inches of moisture all year. This may not be a record low, but it's a pretty good runner-up. For an area whose yearling average is something like 18 to 19 inches, this has been a rather dry year.

Hershel Black, manager of Dolly Textiles, Inc., tells us that he's having all kinds of troubles keeping enough people working at the machines to turn out the orders that he now has. The labor market in Hereford and surrounding counties is rough indeed and unless a number of people move into the area, it's going to get worse when the Wilson & Co. plant opens. We're hoping however, that the presence of the meat packing plant will attract workers and perhaps this will also be good for Dolly Textile. It is entirely possible that a number of the wives of men working for Wilson & Co. will be wanting to find employment elsewhere in town.

By the way, Dolly Textiles will begin construction on a new building in the near future. The little company is growing steadily.

It will be nice when all the holidays are behind and we can get back to the regular routine. But for one more week, we must ask that advertisers please get their copy into the Brand office by 5 p. m. Monday to meet the early deadline. When a holi-

New Family Have Guest

Ronnberg, who was recently transferred from Greeley, Colo., is plant manager of Bull Better Feeds here in Hereford.

St. Anthony Opening Set For Jan. 5

The new, two-room addition to St. Anthony's School will be dedicated at 3 p. m. Jan. 5 by Bishop Lawrence de Falco of the Amarillo Diocese. Father Heneghan, superintendent of Catholic schools in the diocese, will be present. An open house will be held until 5 p. m.

The addition consists of a science lab room and library complex with locker facilities for children.

The public has been invited by Father Simeon Heine, pastor, to attend.

day comes on Wednesday or Saturday, it disrupts our operation no end. As a matter of fact, we are in sympathy with the congressman who are trying to get a number of our national holidays on Monday. We believe it would work better for everyone.

There are a number of holiday that dates could be changed without much trouble and without taking away from the importance or meaning of the occasion.

—HB—

We suppose it's the lull before the storm, but the number of burglaries, robberies, wrecks, fights, shootings, etc. has been rather low this winter. We're not complaining. We like it that way and presume that the Sheriff's Department and the local Police are pleased also.

—HB—

And that reminds us of the story about the judge who asked the defendant: "Do you want to challenge any of the jury?"

After looking over the panel carefully the defendant replied: "I think I could handle the little fellow on the end."

$150 Damage In Accident

An accident Tuesday morning at the intersection of West Second and Main Street resulted in damages totaling about $150.

The other vehicle involved was a 1961 Chevrolet pickup driven by Francisca Hernandez of Hereford. There was an estimated $100 damage to the Ford and $50 damage to the pickup, which also was going north on Main.

Bad Brakes Are Accident Cause

Defective brakes were the apparent cause of a car-truck accident Thursday morning at the intersection of U. S. 385 and U. S. 60 which resulted in nearly $350 damages.

A 1968 Chevrolet driven by Albert Latham of 107 Star had stopped for a red light in the east bound traffic lane on U. S. 60, when a 1968 Chevrolet truck driven by Jerry M. Tisdale of 113 Northwest Drive attempted to stop behind Latham as the truck also headed east. The brakes apparently failed.

Tisdale, officers said, attempted to swing the truck to the left to avoid a collision, but was unable to do so. There was an estimated $315 damage to the car and $15 to the truck. A citation was issued for causing a negligent collision due to defective brakes.

SECTION TWO

The Sunday Brand, Hereford, Texas, Sunday, December 29, 1968

OTHERS

"Somehow, not only for Christmas, but all the long year through the joy that you give to others is the joy that comes back to you; and the more you spend in blessing the poor and lonely and sad, the more of your heart's possessing Returns to make you GLAD. John Greenleaf Whittier. These words were written many, many years ago, yet they are very applicable today. It is my sincere wish that all have had a blessed, joyful, merry Christmas, that hearts have been warmed, and spirits lifted by the immolation of the true Christmas spirit. Personally I am deeply grateful to friends, loved ones and neighbors for the happiness that has been shared with Art and me. To one and all we extend sincere and best wishes for a year of happiness and service for others. It was such a happy, merry time to have friends come and share our hospitality. Memories were created that will be revived over and over again. There was one tiny note of unhappiness. In getting ready for the party it was necessary to move the African Violets to another room, and they were real displeased, their blossoms seemed a bit smaller, and the foliage more droopy. They did not like being away from the nice warm, well-lighted place where they were so happy and responsive. I was nice to them as they received a mist treatment and a good feeding of choice African Violet food, so I think soon they will be happy and will be giving some lovely blossoms for us to enjoy. I hope that everyone who possibly could has driven around Hereford and enjoyed the lovely lights and Christmas decorations. It seemed there were more than usual. There was a joyous, merry atmosphere because of the lights and creative beauty. (Thanks, Mr. Formby for your reminders to make Hereford a beautifully lighted town.) It is work, both mental and physical to decorate... but it pays off in good dividends. When one hangs a colorful wreath, or a garland of pretty lights it just naturally makes the person light up within and think more of the real significance of the keeping of Christmas, and the one who brought LIGHT to a troubled world.

SAVE THAT CHRISTMAS TREE.

Old Christmas trees should never be wasted, and they are not wasted at the hands of knowing gardeners. They go on working until decay or attrition return them to the soil to nourish future crops. Needles, branches and even the trunk are useful, if preserved and properly used. No finer winter mulch exists than a thick pile of small fir branches. They are very protective for plants, since we have so much wind, and tend to keep moisture for the plants as well as protect plants and shrubs from the severe winds which we have in our area. They also catch leaves and snow and through their use it remains light and porous. They are especially good as mulch where bulbs have been planted in flower beds where perennials are grown. One of their functions when properly used is to keep down root heaving. Since we are having some real cold weather, do not wait to place the branches from the tree, but do so just as soon as the last bit of decorations have been removed. The ground will be frozen deeper as we put off mulching. A short needled Christmas tree is good; the Balsam Fir and Douglas Fir are very good. Do not use the long needled trees; their points remain lethal for several years' weeding.

If your neighbors do not use their discarded tree, ask for it and use it to good advantage in your garden. One of my garden friends (in another town) asks the city truck drivers for discarded trees they have on their trucks in January. Clip off the branches as close to the trunk of the tree as possible. The bare pole then may be used next year as a stake for tomatoes or climbing vines and vegetables or to prop up limbs which snow may crush with its weight. The branches are very good for urban gardeners to keep away rabbits that can be very destructive to the tiny crocus and other spring blooming bulbs as they start coming up. Do not remove branches too early, as one never knows just what rabbits may decide to do late or early in the gardens and flower beds. For small plants like candy-tuff, lace the lighter branches through the foliage if the ground is already too frozen to insert the branches in the soil. Mahonia, holly and other young shrubs should be protected from wind and winter sun. They give light shade, help retain moisture and prevent birds and animals from disturbing tiny plants. In the springtime when the dried branches are no longer needed, they should be gathered and burned. Save the ashes and spread them on the garden. Ashes are especially recommended to intensify color in many of the perennials, annuals and especially delphiniums. When the trunks grow brittle for stakes after a few years, they should also be burned and the ashes used. They are good

Projects Save Money
Future Looks Brighter
For Retarded Children

MEXIA, Tex. —Lifetime custody of the retarded was considered inevitable until recently. But look what the Mexia State School is doing now.

A businessman whipped out a bank book and slapped it against a hand. Inside it showed a deposit of $50.

"My boy is retarded," he said. "We sent him to public school as long as we could. But he was twice the size of all his classmates."

The man went on about the Mexia program:

"I was skeptical at first. But the boy wasn't."

"He rides his bicycle down there every morning, and home at night and he's earned every penny of that money, the first he's ever earned in his life. It's the finest thing that ever happened to him."

In this instance, the talk was about the Cen-Tex Sheltered Workshop. But it is only one of three such projects of the Mexia school in cooperation with several groups and private citizens.

Another is the Cen-Tex Rehabilitation Center for girls and the third is Edwina Manor, a so-called "halfway" house in Waco for the last step for women into useful lives.

The front doorbell rings at Edwina Manor, a beautiful old southern mansion with front and side columns, three marble fireplaces, cut glass chandeliers and leaded glass door windows.

One of the girls answers and two children, a boy about 4 and a sister a year older, swarm over her. "Let me get my things," she says, then goes out with a child swinging on each hand to a waiting car.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Adamson, supervisors at the Manor, explain:

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

THE UNCHANGING TIMES — To see how banks were run before the days of drive-in windows and pretty girl tellers, drop in at 226 West Commerce Street in San Antonio and visit D. & A. Oppenheimer Bankers Unincorporated).

The Oppenheimer is one of 21 private banks left in the U. S. — six are in Texas — and it may be the only bank in the nation that has never published a statement of condition. Organized in 1858 at Rusk, it has been a San Antonio institution since shortly after the Civil War.

Its owners have never gone modern, either. The bank is housed in a 100-year-old granite block building with steam radiators, exposed pipes, a linoleum floor and an ancient Mosler "screw door" safe. To lock the safe, an employee rotates the entire threaded door, detaches the handle and then hides it!

NO BEATNIKS, EITHER — Salado College, one of the first institutions of higher learning in Texas, operated for 24 years with no income except that received from students in tuition fees.

The Bell County college was founded in 1859 and operated until 1884 with an average enrollment of 25 students. In 1885, the college became a Salado public school and was used until the building burned in 1924. The ruins still may be seen off Interstate 35.

AFTER-DINNER SPEAKER — For almost two decades, Belle Boyd, the famed Confederate spy, made a living giving "dramatic readings" in Texas.

The much-married actress-turned-spy came to Texas shortly after the Civil War and lived in Galveston. Later she married a Britisher named J. S. Hammond and they lived in the port city and in Corsicana before moving to Dallas in 1882.

In 1884, Belle divorced Hammond and left Texas some time after. She continued to make public appearances for pay for many years and died in New York in 1900.

TRAVELING TEXAS — Marshall's old Ginocchio Hotel, once described as the finest inn between New Orleans and Denver, is getting a new lease on life.

Opened more than 70 years ago along the main line of the Texas & Pacific Railway in Marshall, the old hotel is considered one of the best examples in existence of western Victorian Gothic architecture. To keep it from being razed, three Marshall businessmen bought it and are renovating it.

When it reopens early next year, it will feature a restaurant furnished in the same style of the Gay 90's that made the facility a favorite of gourmets when the hotel first opened in 1896.

THE LAND OF ODD — The only private bridge over a public highway in Texas leads to a unique amusement park.

When owner Roy Hofheinz wanted an unusual entrance to his Astroworld at Houston, he had his designers draw a 532-foot bridge to span busy Interstate 610 South Loop. The bridge, which leads visitors over the expressway to the park entrance, also spans reflection pools and a jungle of potted trees, plants and flowers.

A handsome, dark-haired girl swings in and lays a bank book down in front of Adamson, who is called "Papa." She has made a savings deposit and the total now is nearly $400.

"She has another $300 or so in a checking account," Adamson says.

"When we get a new girl, she listens to the others brag and the first thing she wants to know is, 'Papa, how much must I save to open a bank account?'"

To guide them in spending, Mrs. Adamson countersigns all checks.

Edwina Manor is still in the experimental stage. J. K. Kerr, district director for vocational rehabilitation in the Waco area, put it this way: "It's a very good start. We're going to learn more about it as we go along. This intermediate stage is one of the best ways to handle any person who has been institutionalized. You just can't take them out of an institution suddenly and put them on their own. The real test, though, is whether you will be able to wear them at the end of the 12-month training period."

The state's chief mental retardation officer, Dr. Charles Barnett, estimates that the cost of caring for retarded persons through their lifetimes is $100,000 per person.

Three of the persons living now at Edwina Manor are almost ready for graduation into apartments or rooms of their own. That would save the state nearly $300,000.

Twenty young women from the Mexia State School are in residence at Edwina Manor. Nineteen have jobs ranging from baby sitting to sales by telephone.

But before the halfway house of Edwina Manor comes a "quarter-way" house, the Cen-Tex Rehabilitation Center.

Each morning, 20 girls from the Mexia school board a bus and ride to the Center's two-story residence near downtown.

After greetings, they curl up in easy chairs or on divans in a large living room for an informal discussion class with Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Herrington. Herrington is director of the rehabilitation drive and Mrs. Herrington directs the center.

Discussions are designed to teach those who have never lived outside an institution some of life's simple facts and rules that most people take for granted.

Welcome To The New Year

1968 has been quite a year and will go down in the annals of Deaf Smith County history as one of the most significant in our efforts to achieve a more level, year-around economy. We have made tremendous strides this year with the beginning of construction of the Wilson & Co. meat packing plant, plus the continued expansion of a number of feeding operations along with announcement of other new ones. Cattle, as in the beginning of our county, has again become the focal point in our ever expanding economic picture.

Farmers in the area are beginning to get into the cattle feeding business, possibly seeing in this an opportunity to get a far better price for milo by feeding cattle rather than selling on the open market. The day may even come when there will be little or no wheat grown in this area, with all available ground going into the production of feed products for cattle. Certainly there is little hope in the near future for legislation to put the brakes on declining farm commodity prices. It will have to be accomplished by other means, and apparently cattle feeding is one solution to that problem.

1969 will be an interesting year also, perhaps seeing the addition of related industrial plants moving into the Hereford area and a continuation of the healthy agri-industry that makes our county one of the most thriving in the nation. It will be a year of change, as surely as the past five have been, but as in the past, the citizens of the area will adapt quickly and continue to look forward to greater things.

Welcome to the new year.

Franc's Fate Touches All

The battle of the franc may seem of no concern to us in Winston-Salem, but it affects jobs, wages and the price of many things we buy and sell.

For the past 20 years the principal currencies of the world have maintained a remarkable stability in relation to each other. This stability was a healthy contrast to the chaos that prevailed in the money markets of the world during much of the period between the two world wars. In that period the German mark, the French franc, the Spanish peseta, the Austrian schilling and many other currencies were in almost constant trouble and even strong currencies like the pound and dollar eventually collapsed.

The resulting uncertainty about the value of a given currency on a given day discouraged international trade and investment. In the long run it contributed to the worldwide depression that began in 1929. The currency stability of the past 20 years, on the other hand, has helped make possible the amazing expansion of investment and trade in that period.

German, French and Italian businessmen have been able to buy tobacco on the Winston-Salem market with some assurance that their money would be as good on the day of delivery as on the day of sale. American businessmen have been able to build factories in the Common Market countries of Europe with confidence that they would be able to bring back a profit in a given number of years. And investors in the developed countries have put money into the under-developed nations in the reasonable hope that the products of these nations would find buyers in the stable markets of the world.

All of this economic activity has meant more jobs and a rising level of prosperity throughout the free world. It has put a little more rice in the bowls of the people of Kenya and Ghana and color television sets into the homes of American workers. Now this remarkable stability is threatened.

For this reason, the battle for the franc was not merely a far-off struggle involving the pride and prestige of a nation and its vainglorious leader. Its a struggle the outcome of which will have some effect on the livelihoods of all of us.

Arts Grow Despite Fads

The new leisure which most developed parts of the world have enjoyed in the past decade has produced many superficial and, to pessimists, alarming forms of entertainment and recreation. But the older and more enduring forms of culture have also benefited.

Today's world of topless dancers, strange music, and outlandish costume could scarcely be imagined 10 years ago. To some, it may appear frightening evidence of a decline in both moral and esthetic values. The New Morality itself, often an excuse to cover and justify familiar old human traits, can be cited by pessimists as sure evidence that our world is going to the dogs.

But are such things as styles in entertainment, music and dress really permanent, or are they simply symbols of the age? They are only symbols. The world has gone through many such symbols, and survived. Pessimists were once alarmed by such dances as the Charleston or the Big Apple. Flaggpole sitting used to be cited as proof that the world was nearing its end. Women who smoked were once thought doomed and their world along with them. Yet the world survived.

Serious music, drama, painting, and many other arts are flourishing. Despite the empty beguilement of television, public performances continue to draw good audiences to symphony concerts, the ballet, and the theater. Art galleries find public support mounting. Amateur painting, sculpture and crafts are being taken up by new enthusiasts daily.

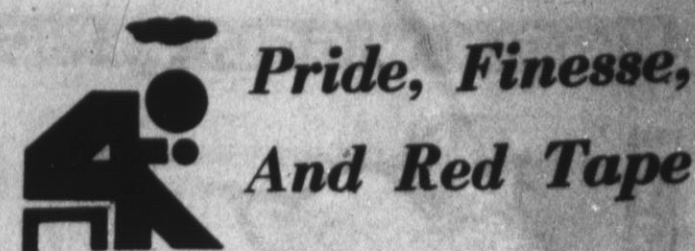

Such arts do not win the wide attention that the shortlived excesses command. It is now almost as socially acceptable to express an interest in Beethoven as in the Beatles, or in the classic proportions of the Venus de Milo as the measurements of a topless dancer. We shall probably never reach a stage where culture becomes more popular than entertainment.

Fads must soon disappear, if only to make way for new ones.

WEIGHTY PROBLEM

Senator George McGovern's recent criticism of the United States Department of Agriculture for its failure in administration of food welfare programs points out an irony of government agency politics.

McGovern has suggested that food plans for the needy be taken completely out of the agriculture department, to be administered by a separate agency. The argument is that the U. S. Department of Agriculture is interested solely in getting more dole for the farmer, and is not in the least concerned with citizens who will starve to death in this land of plenty.

The starvation problem has long been a hangup in welfare politicking. It raised its head in the spring of '67, when Robert Kennedy, upon personal investigation of the situation in the Mississippi Delta, said to the Secretary of Agriculture, 'I'd just get the food down there. I can't believe that in this country we can't get some food down there.' He couldn't believe it, but it was true. No government man was about to rock the boat by sending food to poverty stricken people. Politics and bickering effectively cancelled any possible positive action, as men bowed down to their master, politics.

Kennedy's look at the Mississippi Delta occurred just a year ago; still today, no one has an accurate knowledge of the extent of starvation in America. No agency has even taken the initial trouble to investigate. It's not a "popular" problem.

What McGovern has suggested, a plan to take at least some of the politics out of the government food programs, is not a new idea. But it is a practical one. If Nixon's image as a practical reformer comes through, this separation of agriculture and welfare should be right up his alley.

A dramatic issue like starvation demonstrates that for too many professional government people, politics has become an end in itself. Professionalism and finesse have become the guiding standards for those individuals whose everyday decisions make government policy. The idea that no person should go to bed hungry, the idea of voting reform, the idea of welfare reform, the idea of agricultural reform, these are goals which apparently are secondary to the development of political finesse.

Watching leaders politic for the sake of politics may be a factor in creating distrust throughout the United States today. It is a factor that separates statesmen from politicians.

MAIN STREET, USA

New Members Of Congress Have Diverse Backgrounds

By BERT MILLS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Freshman members of the 91st Congress include a former major league pitcher, an ex-foreign correspondent, the guitarist son of a Senator, and the first Negro woman ever elected to Congress.

The diverse backgrounds of the newly-elected legislators indicate that there are many routes that can lead to success in politics. It is even possible to get to Congress by beginning a civil rights demonstrator and serving time in jail.

The former ball player is Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, a Republican sent to the House from North Carolina. He used to pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates and

New York Mets. His unusual nickname comes from his birthplace, Vinegar Bend, Alabama.

The ex-correspondent is Alan M. Cranston, a Democratic Senator from California. He was a reporter in Europe and Ethiopia before World War II, held a government propaganda post during the war, and wrote a book called "The Killing of the Peace" about the period following World War I.

Congress' only father-son team is Sen. Sturat Symington and Rep. James Symington, both Missouri Democrats. The new House member has played the guitar professionally, a well as serving in the Department of State.

Mrs. Chisholm Sets Precedent

Becoming the first Negro woman ever sent to Congress is Rep. Shirley Chisholm, a Brooklyn Democrat. She calls herself "Fighting Shirley" and served two terms in the New York State Assembly. She was born in the West Indies and used to be a school teacher. She won her house seat while recovering from cancer surgery.

Another Negro freshman in the House is William Clay, a Missouri Democrat. He was a civil rights leader in St. Louis and served 105 days in jail. By profession, he is a labor union leader. There are nine Negroes in the new Congress, a record number, but the only Negroes elected beat candidates of the same race.

An ex-cop from the Bronx who campaigned as "America's most decorated policeman" is an addition to the House. He is Mario Biaggi, who was endorsed by both Democrats and the Conservatives in New York City.

Another law-and-order man is Sen. William B. Saxbe, Republican from Ohio. He was state Attorney General and earned a reputation as Chairman of the Ohio Crime Commission. He has been in politics for 22 years, starting in the state legislature.

Most Famous Is Goldwater

By far the most famous new member is Sen. Barry Goldwater, returned to his Arizona seat for a third term after a four-year absence. He seeks to "rebuild the old conservative coalition in Congress" and if he succeeds he will be its leader.

At the opposite pole of politics will be one of those whose face became familiar on television during the Democratic Convention, Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein. He is from New York and was a leader in the group which backed Sen. Eugene McCarthy for President.

It takes all kinds to make a Congress. There is even an ex-Congressman from Texas, Republican Ed Foreman, who went back to his native New Mexico and got elected again. He is a fighting politician, having battled a Democrat on the House floor in the 88th Congress and had a fist fight with a fellow Republican at a New Mexico dinner early in the 1968 campaign.

BOOKMOBILE TO TONGA

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's state librarian, James Hunt says a bookmobile will be sent to Tonga in the South Pacific.

Hunt says Hawaii Gov. John A. Burns has asked that a bookmobile be sent to the independent kingdom some 3,000 miles southwest of Honolulu. One now in use in Honolulu will be sent to Tonga in about six months, when new bookmobiles for Hawaii arrive.

THE BOOTLEG

—Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his hindweed grass farm has found out what time of the year it is, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

I found this newspaper which somebody had wadded up and used as packing around a Christmas present 'to keep it from breaking and after I shook out the broken glass and smoothed it out, ran across an article that I wish a lot of my in-laws had read.

According to it, the Paris peace talks were bogged down for several weeks while the negotiators squabbled over the shape of the table they planned to negotiate around.

Some wanted a two-sided table, others a four-sided one, others a round one, others a curved one, or maybe octagonal or hexagonal, and some said it didn't matter.

My immediate reaction was, why can't my in-laws get up on the international level and start squabbling over the shape of the dining table they expect to eat Christmas dinner off of off of me?

Had they kept abreast of the news, they could have picked the shape table they demanded to eat off of, and by working one group against another it's possible I could have gotten everybody in an uproar and had the whole thing called off well in advance of buying the groceries.

In-laws, like international leaders, are entitled to save face I guess, although with some faces it's hard to figure out why. They're probably saying the same for me.

But when you get a set of people both uninformed and hungry, you're stuck. Here some of them come now.

Oh well, it's Christmas time and just because we've never been able to get the Christmas spirit going among nations is no sign it can't be used among individuals.

Merry Christmas to you, Jimmy Gilentine, and to all the readers of The Hereford Brand.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Study Predicts New Roles For Tomorrow's Policemen

Editor's Note: The director of Sam Houston State College Institute of Contemporary Corrections contrasts the officer of today with the officer of tomorrow and draws some interesting conclusions.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. — The police officer of the future will be better educated, more specialized and more respected, says Dr. George Killinger, director of the Sam Houston State College Institute of Contemporary Corrections.

A Ph. D. on the city police force will be no rarity, Dr. Killinger said in a recent interview.

"The term, 'dump cop', will be as obsolete in the next decade as a horse and buggy on the freeway," he added.

Killinger recently completed a study of job obsolescence in the law enforcement and correctional field which was financed by a $1,000 grant from the Labor Department.

He predicted, among other things:

"The average patrolman will have attended a junior college. Lieutenants and captains will have a masters degree in law enforcement or in one of the behavioral sciences. Almost all members of the force will be involved in in-service training or in taking courses leading to advanced degrees. Some will be attending law school."

Killinger said the policeman of the next decade will have a better image.

"He will think more highly of himself because his role will be better defined and some of its inherent contradictions will be minimized or eliminated.

"The public will think more highly of him because of clearer role expectations and because the public will have become painfully aware of the danger to itself if the law enforcement functions break down," Killinger said.

The law enforcement expert also said the officer of tomorrow will be a specialist. Some of the specialties he might have to choose from would include adolescent behavior, computer technology, crowd control and criminal law.

"He will not be involved in traffic regulation or in helping school children to cross the street," Killinger said. "Neither will he be collecting money from parking meters."

Killinger said that by 1970, legislatures and town councils will begin to give police officers more support—both financial and moral.

His study also revealed that the future police officer can expect an increase in pay.

"The officer will not be moonlighting," he said. "His wife, if she is working, will be working from choice and not from economic necessity. He will earn more money than he does today. And this will be true of all ranks. His increase in pay will have been some what faster than the rate of increase in the cost of living."

Tomorrow's patrolman will be older than his counterpart today, Killinger noted. This will be because he will have had a longer formal education or longer service in the military before he joined the force, he explained. "Sergeants, detectives, lieutenants and captains will be younger because many will have entered these ranks directly from higher education. The present requirement for 11 ne experience before promotion will have been reduced or eliminated," Killinger said.

He said the future police officer will see himself less as an "adversary of the juvenile judge, the probation officer and the parole supervisor than as a member of a team working with them."

He will be the best informed of any other worker in the corrections field as to the alternative disposition that can be made of the offender, particularly, the juvenile, Killinger said.

"In the 1970's, the law enforcement officer, like the correctional workers, will have more pride in his job and in himself."

Killinger said he hopes to develop solutions to the manpower problems in law enforcement and corrections by:

— Offering workshops and other training opportunities to persons presently employed in the field.

— Offering training on the college level to present employees and others seeking to enter the field.

— Developing textbooks and teaching material to assist in carrying out an educational or training program.

He said the information used in his report "will be used to protect jobs in the field, and to provide new job opportunities for displaced workers and for young people entering the labor force."

The frankfurter and the hamburger derive respectively from Frankfurt link sausage and Hamburg ground beef.

Texas Congressmen Are Rated On Performance

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Scorekeepers once again have graded members of Congress on their performance this session with the conservatives rating the Texans far higher than do the liberals.

The Americans for Democratic Action Ada evaluates the members and gives them "a liberal quotient." The Americans for Constitutional Action ACA rates them against a conservative guideline.

It's not unusual for a congressman to be rated 100 per cent by one group and zero by the other. This year, the ADA gave Reps. Bob Eckhardt of Houston and Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio 100 per cent by one group and zero by the other. This year, the ADA gave Reps. Bob Eckhardt of Houston and Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio 100 per cent "liberal quotients" and the ACA rated them zero.

But it is misleading to directly compare the groups, ratings.

This year, the groups had in common only six test votes for their evaluation of the members. The very selection of test votes can influence the ratings.

The ADA says the 90th Congress demonstrates "that national progress in the war on want and injustice can be made only when a majority of House and Senate members are liberals, as in the 89th Congress.

In the 90th, a majority of House conservative Republicans aligned with southern reactionary Democrats continued to block urgent legislation.

"This coalition became stronger as the 90th Congress became older. The slim liberal House majority — slim since its loss of 47 seats in the 1966 election — disappeared in vote after vote as Dixiecrats lined up with Republicans.

"Domestic progress will remain paralyzed unless the 91st is a liberal Congress, for the 90th took two steps backward for every step forward."

The ACA in contrast said it was cheered that the Senate and the House became much more conservative in voting patterns. The average ACA rating in 1965 for the Senate was 38.4, up to a 1968 average of 49.66 per cent. In the House the 1965 ACA average was 38.9 per cent but this year the average rose to 48.4 per cent.

"The next Congress inevitably will be even more conservative than the 1968 Congress," the ACA said, "with the liberals and ultra-liberals in general obliged to accommodate themselves to an electorate determined to restore sanity to government."

The ACA said it is helping underwrite this election year its "most ambitious and far-flung national campaign in its 10-year history to assist conservative candidates, both Republicans and Democrats, to win seats in the Congress. These include new candidates as well as incumbents."

Among the senators facing reelection this year whom the ACA calls ultra-liberal and thus worthy of its vigorous opposition are J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas; Frank Church, Idaho; Birch Bayh, Indiana; Daniel Brewster, Maryland; Alan Bible, Nevada; Mike Monroney, Oklahoma; George McGovern, South Dakota, and Warren Magnuson, Washington. All are Democrats.

Here is the ADA's "liberal quotient" rating of Texans on 12 issues they selected:

Reps. Eckhardt and Gonzalez, 100 per cent; Jack Brooks of Beaumont, Abraham Kazen of Laredo and John Young of Corpus Christi, 58, Wright Patman of Texasarkana and Jim Wright, 50; J. J. Pickle of Austin, 42; George Mahon of Lubbock and Eligio de la Garza, 33; Ray Roberts of McKinney, Olin E. Teague of College Station, and Richard White of El Paso 25; Bob Casey of Houston and Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls, 17; the late Joe Pool of Dallas, voting on 9 of the 12 issues, 11; Omar Burleson of Anson, Eagle Cabell of Dallas, O. C. Fisher of San Angelo and W. R. Poage of Waco, 8; and John Dowdy of Athens, George Bush of Houston and Bob Price of Pampa, zero.

All but Bush and Price are Democrats.

The ACA ratings of congressmen who agree with their conservative position on 23 selected issues are:

Reps. Dowdy and Price, 95 per cent; Burleson, 86; Fisher, 83; Bush, 77; Cabell, 70; Casey, 64; Poage, 62; Roberts, 59; Purcell, 53; White 48; Teague 47; Mahon, 43; de la Garza, 29; Pickle, 28; Patman, 9; Wright and Kazen, 5; and Eckhardt, Brooks, Young and Gonzalez, 0. They did not rate Pool or his Republican successor, James Collins of Dallas.

Different issues were used to evaluate the senators.

The liberal ADA rated Sen. Ralph Yarborough, Democrat, as having a 57 per cent liberal quotient. They gave a zero to Republican Sen. John Tower. The conservative ACA gave Yarborough a 17 per cent score and Tower 94 per cent.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
This past weekend, I had the pleasure of pheasant hunting north and west of your growing city. I found land owners, restaurant personnel and the people of Hereford very warm and out going. As a citizen of the neighboring City of Lubbock, I would like to thank all of you for the hospitality extended to me and my party.
Sincerely yours,

Lesly Awarded Football Letter

LEXINGTON, MO. — Cadet Thomas Lesly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lesly, Route 4, Hereford, has been awarded a high school varsity football letter at Wentworth Military Academy here, according to Major Merle Gibson, athletic director.

The letter award was approved by Wentworth's athletic council following the recommendation of the varsity coaching staff. Presentation was made at the annual awards banquet held here prior to the start of the Christmas vacation.

Minor Wreck Occurs Friday

The intersection of Witherspoon Street and East Fourth Street was the scene of a minor accident which occurred at 7:45 a. m. Friday.

Involved in the accident was a 1965 Chevrolet pickup driven by Walter Allen Gearn of Hereford and a 1964 Chrysler driven by Benjamin D. Hutson of Tulia. There was an estimated $100 damage to the pickup and $50 damage to the car.

Police said Gearn was traveling east on Fourth Street and Hutson was going west on Fourth Street. Hutson attempted a turn onto Witherspoon Street and the accident occurred. A citation was issued for failure to yield right of way.

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

Water Plan Is Considered Christmas Present By Some

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN — Bone dry areas of West and South Texas got a monumental Christmas present unwrapped before December 25.

Its long-sighted recommendation, which proposes moving water westward and southward through an elaborate network of canals and pipelines from Louisiana and East Texas, may leave the suppliers wondering whether it is indeed more blessed to give than to receive.

Highlights of the massive plan, compiled over a period of four years, includes the following proposals:

*Importation of 12 to 13 million acre feet of surplus water annually from Mississippi and transportation uphill through canals from Sulphur and Sabine River reservoirs to the Lubbock area and the Rio Grande Valley respectively. Pipelines would move it along to many Texas cities and irrigated farming areas of West Texas and on to New Mexico. Other waters from rain-rich East Texas basins would move through the same major facilities to the South and as far as El Paso on the western edge of the state.

*Construction of 67 major new dams and reservoirs and two salt water barriers at a cost of $2.4 billion. They would contain a total of 33.6 million acre feet of conservation storage and 16.1 million acre feet of flood control capacity.

*Trans-Texas and Coastal canals would carry water across North Texas westward and down the Texas coast to the South. Major pipeline would move water from Pecos to El Paso.

*Rio Grande waters would be moved through another canal from Amistad Dam at Del Rio to Maverick and Webb Counties and to the vegetable-growing Winter Garden area around Carrizo Springs.

*Some 220,000 acre feet of supplemental surface water needed for San Antonio would be pipelined from Cuero, Cibola and Goliad reservoirs in Guadalupe and San Antonio River basins. A longer-range possibility is diversion from the Colorado River.

*Power would have to be generated to pump water through the Trans-Texas canal and the pipeline to El Paso.

*Coastal division would provide 2.5 million acre feet of fresh water inflows to bays and estuaries and coastal wildlife refuges.

*Planners hope for congressional authorization of Cibolo, Cuero and Goliad project by 1972, approval of a coastal canal, link with Mississippi River and Tran-Texas Canal by 1973, appropriations by 1974 and design-construction authorization by 1975. First water hopefully would be delivered through the Coastal Canal from Sabine northeast of Beaumont to the Rio Grande Valley in 1980. Goal for water movement through the 500-mile concrete-lined Trans-Texas Canal from East Texas is 1985 — and from Mississippi westward in 1988.

Gov.-elect Preston Smith and Lt. Gov.-elect Ben Barnes lauded the plan and pledged cooperation in enacting the necessary state legislation. Smith urged unity and tempering of criticism with positive suggestions for improvement.

Water Board Executive Director Howard B. Boswell said no water development program on such a scale "has ever been attempted anywhere." Boswell emphasized that water users ultimately would pay the state's $2.5 billion to $3 billion share of the overall cost.

COURTS SPEAK — A three-judge federal court here upheld constitutionality of an 1879 Texas law under which 42 student demonstrators were arrested for interfering with an Austin man's lawful pursuit of his business by picketing and blocking his driveway.

Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the death penalty in a 1965 Houston rape case and a 10-year sentence of a San Antonio man in a street-brawl stabbing.

Suit brought in federal court by Sinclair Oil Corporation against Gulf and Western Industries Inc. has been indefinitely postponed.

BLUE LAW CHAOS — Texas Supreme Court leaned on a jurisdictional question and declined to rule on the constitutionality of the state's Blue Law, which has been declared unconstitutional by a half-dozen Texas district judges.

In a Midland case, the High Court said the state waited too long to appeal from a district court's striking of the law, which prohibits the selling of a long list of items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

So until another appeal can get to the court, stores in such cities as Midland, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Abilene and Fort Worth are staying open seven days a week, while stores in other cities — like Austin, Waco and Dallas — must stay closed.

Constitutional question is whether the list of items in the statute is too vague and indefinite for the average consumer — or merchant — to understand.

MOBILE THEATER — Texas Fine Arts Commission plan to produce a mobile theatrical company to perform bilingual versions of popular plays in areas of the state which are predominantly Latin-American.

Commission is getting a $6,700 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts to finance the plan.

GOVERNOR SUBMITS 'SKELETON' BUDGET — Gov. John Connally has submitted to the Legislature a bare-bones budget and recommended that in the future incoming governors have exclusive say for the executive department on spending recommendation.

Connally calculates the Legislature will inherit a general revenue balance of $103.5 million to help finance new and expanded programs. His own billion dollar general revenue "fiscal summary" ($5.5 billion from all funds) for 1970-71 allows only for increases "necessary to meet commitments the state has previously made and to financing continuing programs at current rates."

Nevertheless, the general revenue outlay he suggested is nearly $100 million over the current level. It includes nothing for such high-priority items as a ($200 million) teacher pay raise, building, water plan implementation or vocational education program expansion.

Connally suggested that outgoing governors not be required to submit budgets in the future. He also concluded that state funds should be set aside for incoming governors to hire staff members, establish clerical and communication facilities and operate an office.

Rumors on the size of the new tax bill facing the Legislature next year run from $200 to $400 million — with best estimates in the $230 million range.

OIL ALLOWABLE RAISED — Railroad Commission raised January statewide oil allowable to 43.7 per cent of potential after four straight months at 41.3 per cent.

Allowable will permit a maximum production of 3,254,005 barrels daily. That is 127,559 more than December.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has held that exclusion of cotton gins from air pollution controls will have to be tested in court to determine constitutionality.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

* Board of Control cannot buy drugs and equipment for community mental health-mental retardation centers, but state hospitals can furnish medical records on former patients to these local facilities. State M-H-MR department cannot impose an arbitrary requirement on community centers that they must match state aid as condition of eligibility for aid.

* Law prohibiting possession of more than a pound of mercury without evidence of written title is constitutional.

* Payment of validly-assessed taxes on property located on both sides of county line (not marked on the ground) to either of the counties absolves the owner from also paying to the other.

* College-University Coordinating Board employees are not eligible for participation in optional retirement program for faculty members or for purchase of IRS Regulation 403(b) annuity contracts.

* A leasehold estate is taxable, and the owner must pay on the entire value of the land whether leased or not, but lessee can be liable for taxes on improvements as per sonal property.

* Milk products containing more than two percent but less than 3.25 per cent butterfat are not milk as legally defined by state and not subject to regulation except where offered for sale as milk product.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor-elect Smith named former State Senator Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin as his Secretary of State. Smith also selected another former East Texas senator, Galway Calhoun of Tyler, as his staff legal counsel.

Governor Connally appointed John Thomas Boyd of Plainview district judge of the 64th judicial district to fill the unexpired term of Judge James Joy who will become a justice of the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals on January 1.

C. Wesley Collier of Austin joins the general advisory committee of the division of occupational safety, Texas State Department of Health.

Texas Railroad Commission has elected former Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey as its chairman for 1969 and 1970.

John M. Kinney, an archival assistant at the Church Historical Society in Austin, has been named director of state archives by the Texas State Library.

HANDICAPPED CHILDREN GRANT — U. S. Office of Education awarded Texas Education Agency and Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation a $915,412 grant to strengthen education programs and related services for handicapped children.

This federal money is part of a $29.7 million appropriation being distributed among the 50 states, Puerto Rico and Guam on a formula based on average daily attendance of handicapped children in special schools.

Funded projects may strengthen instructional programs by adding specialized teachers consultants, evaluation specialists, speech pathologists and teacher aides, as well as expanding programs in a number of directions.

HIGHWAY-CONSTRUCTION REGULATIONS — Texas Highway Commissioners, with the support of the Texas Good Roads Association, continue to attack proposed federal regulations which provide for public hearings and design approval for highways fully or partially funded with federal money.

Commission Chairman J. H. Kuitgen addressed a hearing in Washington on the proposed regulations and said, "We do not believe that the people of our nation, their congressmen and senators expect a federal agency to become the ultimate umpire for all construction projects."

TGRA President Charles F. Hawn told the hearing, "We believe the regulations are unnecessarily detailed and rigid, that the appellate procedure invites harmful delays in highway building and that the proposals generally reflect upon the intentions, capabilities and rightful authority of the State highway departments."

GOOD NEWS

Texas unemployment is at an all-time state low (2.7 per cent of the labor force) says the Texas Employment Commission, and unemployment taxes on employers are due another slash.

At the same time the University of Texas Bureau of Business

Research reported that last month was one of the best November in history for Texas' construction industry.

"The Army Green"

By Sgt BERT PINALES
U. S. Army Recruiter

Young men often ask us why they should enlist for three years since they do not intend to make the Army a career. "Why shouldn't I wait for the draft and serve two years?" they ask.

Actually, in some instances, a man would be better off waiting for the draft. Each individual must weigh the advantages and disadvantages between enlistment and the draft and make up his own mind.

The man who enlists for three years does have the advantage of selecting his "choice" of training. While he can enlist for a specific job, the draftee must take his chance.

The enlistee is not wasting the extra year of service because chances are that the three year enlistment enables him to learn, and gain experience in, a vocational trade that will help him get a good job when he gets out of the service.

Men with Army specialist and vocational training are in demand by civilian companies.

Just recently, we came across an advertisement placed by American Telephone and Telegraph Company's Long Lines Division. It carried the line, "Military Electronics Training is a Plus."

So, the extra year of military training and experience will probably pay big dividends when it comes to looking for a job.

FACTS ABOUT THE ARMY Did you know —That the Army's date of birth was June 14, 1783? June 14 is also Flag Day.

—That there are approximately 11,000 WACS in the Army? The Woman's Army Corps celebrated its 26th birthday in 1968.

—That 42,000 men per month currently check out of the Army because terms of service expire or for other reasons?

—That men with 20-50 vision can now enter the Army flight training program if glasses correct their sight to 20-20?

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Is it true that a soldier receives a month's vacation a year? Yes! All Army Personnel receive 30 days of paid leave a year. Many men and women who are stationed overseas use this leave time to travel through foreign countries. In addition to leave, members of the Army are eligible for three-day passes. Passes do not count as leave.

NEW ENLISTEES

Among those who enlisted (together with the training they were guaranteed) was Benny Pacheco, 323 Ave. E., Hereford, Texas. Benny selected the Administrative Field, as his job in the Army. It was good to see PFC Juan PEREZ, from Dimmitt, wearing his Army greens, while home on leave. PFC PEREZ has just completed Airborne Training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Local Area Has More Entries In Big Stock Show

FORT WORTH — More entries from Hereford have been announced for the 1969 Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show, Jan. 24 through Feb. 2, by show officials.

Entries from Deaf Smith County as released by show officials include Jimmy McNeely and Steven Olson, who will have Aberdeen Angus and Hereford cattle in the competition;

We, at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Amarillo, Texas would like to add our "Best Wishes for a Happy New Year," to each and every one of you.

Tom Epperson, who has entered Shorthorn cattle, and the Hereford FFA Chapter, which has entries listed only as cattle.

The entry deadline for cattle, horses, sheep and swine has just passed, and Stock Show President-Manager W. R. Watt and other officials are in the midst of tabulating the mound of entries. Poultry, rabbit and pigeon exhibitors have until Jan. 15, 1969, to submit their entries.

"We've still got a lot of work to do," Watt said. "But so far it looks like we have some outstanding entries and are headed for another excellent show."

The 1969 Fort Worth Rodeo is proud to have Fess Parker, star of the "Daniel Boone" television series, as its guest performer, Watt said. Parker, also noted for his hit recordings of "Davy Crockett" and "Wringing Wrangle" will be accompanied by the New Establishment musical group.

The Six-Horse Roman Ride and Olson's Trained Buffalo also will be presented at all 20 performances, making the Stock Show an even greater entertainment package.

The Fort Worth Rodeo is well-prepared on the competitive side too with more than 450 cowboys Mail order tickets for the 1969 Rodeo are available from the Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show, P. O. Box 150, Ft. Worth Texas 76101.
