Community Concerts Drive Is Sellout For New Season

A sellout of memberships in the Hereford Community Concert Association was achieved in the annual membership campaign which closed at noon Saturday, and directors booked artists to complete a season's schedule. Membership cards are to be mailed in about two weeks.

First program of the year will be on Monday evening, Oct. 14, by the Romeros, a family group of five classical guitarists from Spain. The season will close Saturday night, March 15, with a concert by the Clebanoff Orchestra.

Booked before the membership drive as a featured attraction, the Norman Luboff Choir will be heard in a Sunday matinee performance Feb. 23.

Board members decided on three concerts by outstanding groups rather than adding a fourth program by a sacrifice of quality. Mrs. Wayne Thomas, president, announced. In Community Concert Associations, programs are always completed after the membership drive ends and the budget is determined.

Site Chosen For Satellite Day Care

Site of the Satellite Day Care class will be the First Christian Church in Hereford. Classes will begin for the mentally retarded pre-school and post-school children there on Friday, according to Burtis Hollis, director of education for the Amarillo State Center For Human Development. Mrs. Maxine Thompson of Hereford will be teacher. However, a meeting is scheduled for Thursday morning at 9, it has been announced. This meeting is described as two-fold: for the volunteer orientation and for all parents who will have children enrolled in the classes. This meeting will be held at the First Christian Church, which is located at 401 W. Park.

Mrs. Nedra Higginbotham, volunteer coordinator for the program, reported that volunteers are urgently needed at this time. Such volunteers, who require no prior experience with retarded children, are being asked to donate three hours of their time per week — either morning or afternoon — hopefully for a period of three months. They will assist the teacher during class.

It was pointed out that such volunteers are a definite necessity for the success of the program here. "However, it should be made clear that anyone who might be interested should attend this (Thursday) meeting," Hollis said, "and one does not commit himself to work by attending the meeting."

The duties and responsibilities of the volunteers will be discussed, as well as the problem of mental retardation and what is being done about it in Texas, and in particularly the Panhandle of Texas. Hollis said that the meeting would last three or four hours, as needed. Slides will be shown to illustrate the program.

Social workers will be present to discuss the program with the parents of retardates. Those desiring further information may contact Mrs. Higginbotham at 364-1545 or Mrs. Jewel Smith at 364-1584. Chairman of the program is Neil Cooper, vice chairman is Rev. Fred Howard, and secretary is J. Edward Line.

Whooping Cough Cases Reported

Several cases of whooping cough have been showing up in the immediate area, according to Dr. Noble Ballard, County Health Officer.

Parents are urged to check to see if their children have had their booster shots, which would make them safe from the infectious disease.

Dr. Ballard said the disease is limited almost exclusively to children. He said many cases of flu also are being found and urged residents to take precautions so as not to catch the disease.

Local Men Have Show Winners

Animals exhibited by Howard Gault and Son of Hereford and L. J. Iwig of Vega were winners during the Hereford division of the Tri-State Fair livestock show at Amarillo Friday.

Silver Premier 88, a Howard Gault and Son animal, placed third in the Junior Yearling Bulls class. The Gaults won $111 prize money with their stock.

Vega Mischieff 15, shown by Iwig, won 8th in the Senior Bull Calves class, while Vega Mischieff 1968 won second in the Junior Bull Calves and Vega Mischieff 14 was 7th in the Senior Heifer Calves class. Iwig also was 8th in the Pair of Calves and 3rd in the Panhandle Special.

Gault also had two other winners, as Silver Questa 3 finished 4th and Silver Questa 1 finished 6th, both in the Senior Yearling Heifers.

Farm Bureau Will Hold Convention

Craig L. Thomas will be speaker at the annual Farm Bureau Convention for Deaf Smith and Oldham counties. The convention is scheduled for Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Hereford High School Cafeteria.

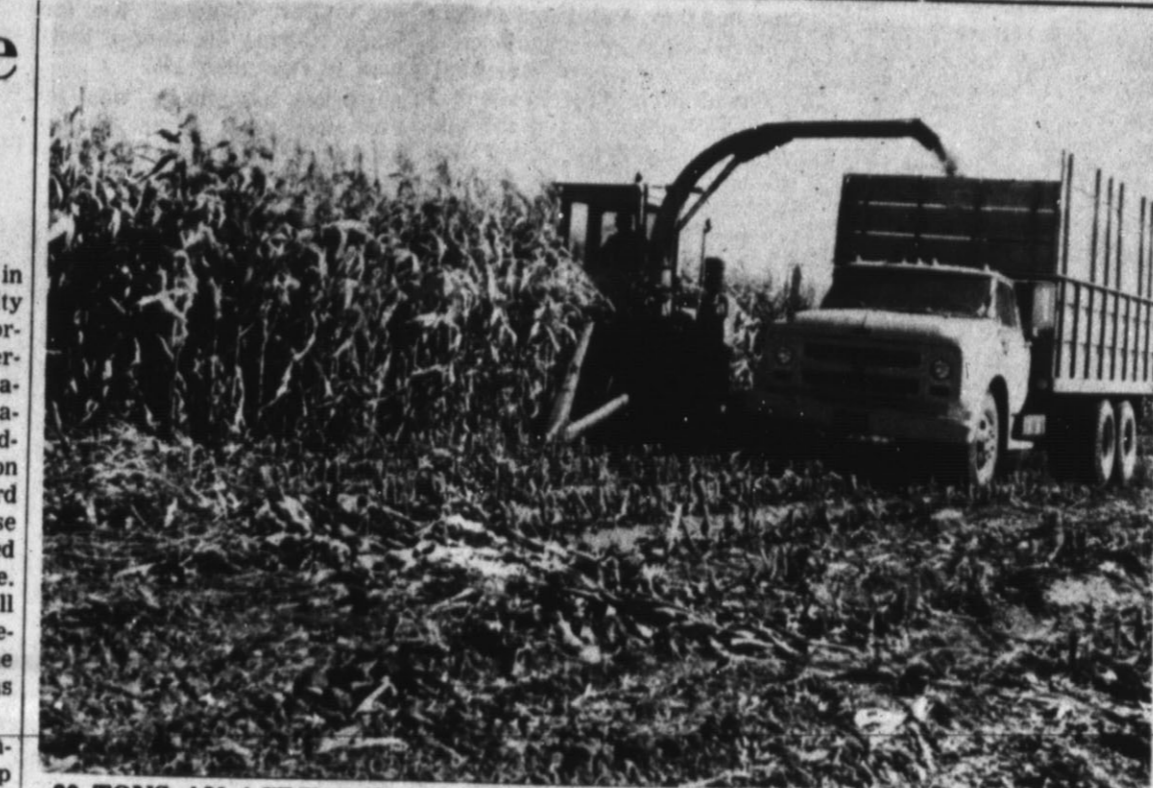

Approximately 300 people are expected to attend the convention here.

Thomas is executive assistant to the Texas Farm Bureau president. In this position he heads the TFB staff and is responsible for coordinating all Farm Bureau and affiliated company staff activities in Texas.

Prior to joining the TFB staff in 1967, he was assistant legislative director of the American Farm Bureau Federation. He has also served as executive secretary of the Wyoming Farm Bureau Federation.

A native of Wyoming, Thomas was born in February 1933. He received the Bachelor of Science Degree in Animal Husbandry from the University of Wyoming in 1954. After graduation, he entered the US Marine Corps where he served as an officer four years.

In August 1958, Thomas became claims and adjuster for 30 TONS AN ACRE — Francis Smith and Allred-Anderson Farms of Hereford have estimated the yield on this crop of ensilage corn at 30 tons an acre, as cutting began Thursday. Located on the John Patton farm, 15 miles northwest of Hereford, the crop stood some nine feet tall in most places, hiding the harvest machine from sight at times. The corn was planted on a 41-acre plot of land, and will be sent to the Pitman-Easley feed yards for cattle feeding. Smith, a longtime farmer in Deaf Smith County, said it was the first time he had tried such a crop.

What Is The United Fund? Details Given By Chairman

United Fund kick-off is slated for Oct. 7. As this date approaches, some people are still wondering what United Fund is all about. Johnny Clark Jr., drive chairman, explains that group activities in this community are financed through the United Fund campaign.

"Most of these groups are centered around the training and development of the children and young people in this community," Clark said.

Five of the 12 United Fund budget items for the year are actually youth groups. Over half of the entire budget is directly related to boys and girls groups in Deaf Smith County. These groups, campfire girls, Boy Scouts, Pony League, Colt League and Little League, are scheduled to have $17,663 of the goal this year, according to Naomi Hopson, publicity chairman.

Red Cross and USO are included in this fund drive and a large portion of these funds, $11,750 for the two, are used each year for aid to servicemen and services of comfort and communication for families of servicemen.

The Cerebral Palsy Center in Amarillo will receive $100 to help defray costs of therapy for several children from this county who receive help from this center.

The Council on Alcoholism is an educational group actively working to inform citizens of this community as to the dangers of alcoholism.

Problems of needy people who pass through this community and who can turn to no one for help, are met by the Salvation Army.

Majors have been chosen to organize various segments of the population. Calvin Goodin is major for the industrial division, D. C.

Martin is major for the school division; Clete Corlis and Charles Bell are majors for the two commercial groups; B. F. Cain is organizing the city, county, state and federal agencies as well as contacting service clubs in the city.

Advance contributions are being collected by Melvin Jayroe, and Leo Forrest is major for utilities, Banks and Lawyers. The large rural segment of the population is being organized by Bill Gentry.

These majors are naming captains and captains will name workers. All will attend the kick off slated for the Community center on the morning of Oct. 7 at 10 o'clock.

At this time, Clark will set the key-note after Debbs Knox, president of United Fund, officially opens the meeting.

Special guests for the kick-off will be representatives of the various agencies sponsored by United Fund in Deaf Smith County.

Costs of a campaign are nominal. A total of $1,000 is kept in an account for expenses, but usually, little of this is actually used. Volunteers in the community are doing the work and carrying the expense of campaign. See FUND, Page 2

Camp Fire Open House

Open house will begin at 2 p. m. today in the new Camp Fire Lodge in North Park, on East 14th Street, with the public invited to visit the building until 5 p. m.

A short dedication program will be presented at the beginning of open house, with City Manager Dudley Bayne as speaker.

Custody of the building will pass to the Camp Fire Council, represented by Jack Allen, president, from the City of Hereford and the building committee made up of representatives from the Jim Hill Foundation, Hereford Lions and Rotary Clubs, which financed the building. The Kiwanis Club also assisted, with funds for furnishings.

Mayor Johnny Pool and Melvin Young of the building committee will present the Lodge Keys to Allen.

Adult leaders of the Camp Fire program in Hereford as well as a number of the 500 girls who are members of Bluebird, Camp Fire and Horizon Club groups will be at the Lodge to greet visitors and show them over the building.

Ground around the Lodge has been leveled since construction was finished, and will be landscaped next year by Hereford Garden Club members. A U. S. flag and pole are being given by the American Legion Post. Further details of the open house and pictures of the building are on the cover page of Section 2 of this issue.

Adult Education Enrollment To Start Monday

Adult Education Class enrollment will begin Monday in the Hereford High School building between 7:30 and 9:30 p. m.

Two subjects have been added, according to assistant school superintendent Robert Holman.

He said there would be a class in Accounting at a tuition of $20 per semester. The second course is Furniture Upholstery and Repair, which will have a $25 tuition for the entire course.

Classes will begin September 30. They are set to begin on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p. m. subject to the convenience of the majority of enrollees.

Holman pointed out that a variety of courses will be offered initially, with additional courses offered as they are warranted. Courses will be offered one and two nights per week on a two semester basis.

3 Burglaries Occur Over 4-day Period

Local police were plagued last week with a series of burglaries that occurred over a period of four days and involved property damage estimated at $85 and money taken at about $60.

Sometime between 8:30 Tuesday night and 8 a.m. Wednesday, someone entered the Reinauer and Sons building, located on South U. S. Highway 385, through an east, side window. A soft drink machine and a candy machine were both broken into and heavy damage was done to both. The office at the building was also broken into, but nothing was reported missing.

Damage to the two machines was estimated at around $60 while about the same amount was taken from them.

Neat's Diner, 510 Myrtle St., reported that sometime between the night of Sept. 19 and the morning of Sept. 20, someone had cut the screen off of the back door to the building, broke a glass out of the window and unlocked the door. Nothing was discovered missing, but it was thought that the money bag had been taken until it was found out that one of the girls working there had taken it home for the night.

Melvin Jayroe, manager at Southwestern Public Service, notified police Friday morning that the company building had been burglarized during the night or early morning of Thursday or Friday.

Someone had knocked out two windows at the rear of the building, unlocked them and crawled through into the back room. Following entrance, they had gone into one of the inner rooms and tried to enter the back office by knocking a hole in a plywood door near the knob and entry could not be gained.

Nothing was reported missing at the time but damage to the door and windows was estimated at around $30.

Rites Are Pending For Laura Hamner

Miss Laura V. Hamner, author and Panhandle historian who was once the teacher of a one-room school near Hereford, died at the age of 97 Friday in Birmingham, Ala., where she had made her home with a niece, Mrs. Florence Hargis, the past four years.

Widely known for books and newspaper columns, mainly on her favorite subject of Panhandle pioneer history, Miss Hamner also was recognized for her poetry and was active in the Poetry Society of Texas.

Her career as a teacher was a long one, and for many years writing was a sideline. She went to a Frio community south of Hereford to teach in 1903 and while there was chiefly responsible for organizing the Sunday School which later grew into the Frio Baptist Church.

Her father owned the weekly Claude News, for which her first writing was done. She was teaching in Claude, her first home in the Panhandle, where she went at the age of 20. She was born July 17, 1871, in Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Hamner served as postmaster at Claude for a time also, taught for many years in Amarillo and was superintendent of schools in Potter County from the time that was made a separate elective office in 1922 until 1924.

Her first book, a biography of pioneer rancher Charles Goodnight, was The No-Gun Man. She paid for its publication but persuaded a state textbook committee to adopt it for use in public schools of the state.

It made her a reputation which grew with later books, Short Grass and Longhorns, Light 'n' Hitch and Prairie Vagabonds. She wrote columns for Amarillo newspapers, travel columns under the title, Spinster on the Prowl, and, for 30 years, Talks to Teeners.

Organizer of the Panhandle Pen Women, she was its first president and continued as an active member. Miss Hamner was the recipient of awards from Texas and National Women's Press Associations and the Southwest Writers Conference, and was recognized by the Texas Institute of Letters.

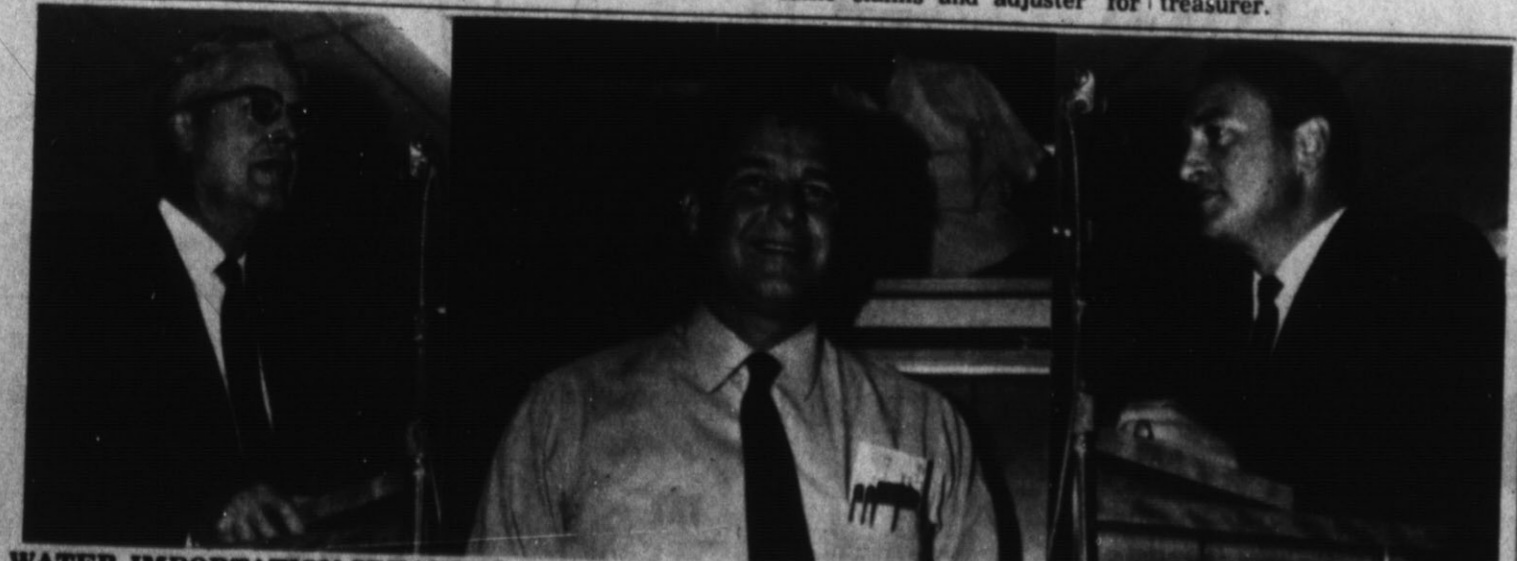

Progressive Farmer Magazine cited her a Texas Woman of the Year, and in 1958 the mayor of Amarillo proclaimed Laura V. Hamner Week in that city in tribute to her many contributions to the area.

Interest in youth continued after she was no longer active in the classroom, and her favorite philanthropy was assistance to deserving young people with school expenses.

Arrangements will be announced by Blackburn-Shaw Funeral Directors.

UNIQUE 'SHOW AND TELL' — Perhaps the biggest item to appear in a kindergarten "show and tell" session here this year is Emmett Duke, County Deputy Sheriff who was introduced by Kevin Roper to his admiring classmates in First United Methodist Kindergarten Friday morning. Kevin, son of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Kirven Roper, consulted his mother about the requirement that each pupil bring something he liked very much, to show to the class and tell about, and confided that he "would like to take Mr. Duke," a valued friend. The lawman obligingly put on his boots, big hat and badge, dropped in for a visit, overflowing one of the Kindergarten chairs while Kevin told about him. Later he shook hands with all the children as well as Mrs. Matt Matthews, the teacher.

WATER IMPORTATION SPEAKERS — Howard Boswell of the Texas Water Development Board spoke at the Bull Barn Friday. Boswell was introduced by State Rep. Bill Clayton (right) and U. S. Representative Bob Price (center) spoke briefly from the audience. Crops Tour representatives stated that the meeting was non-political. Candidates and representatives of both parties were behind the water importation. See story on Page 8.

Carlos Tijerina Is Home After Serving In Vietnam

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Carlos F. Tijerina Jr., who has been with the 101st Airborne as a paratrooper with service in Vietnam, was released from the Army on Friday, January 13 — "lucky day for me," he said.

The 21-year-old Hereford G. I. returned home with the Vietnamese Medal, the Air Commendation Medal — and the Bronze Star.

Last January at Ben Hoa, a squad leader was pinned down by machine gun fire. When the squad leader was hit, Tijerina went in and "got him out." Thus the Bronze Star.

He said that it takes "involvement" to fight in Vietnam. "You see poverty and you see death all the time." And he said that he would probably do it (the fighting) all over again "but not with the 101st. The best are the Big Red One and the First Cavalry. They have been there longer — since the big build-up started in 1963-66. But the 101st is coming up."

Tijerina said that jungle training is needed there — and he has had that. And he pointed out that it also needs experience.

But he retracted somewhat. "I don't want to go back if I can get out of it. Let the others go now." He stated that he felt this country should send all the demonstrators over there. "You definitely grow up in Vietnam," he said. "It teaches you how to appreciate home. I even appreciate a glass of ice water now — I go in places here just to get a glass of ice water."

He explained that they had gotten a lot of their water out of rice paddies in Vietnam, treated with purifier pills. "I saw one canteen go for $5 once," he said.

Tijerina went into the Army on September 14, 1966, and got basic training at Fort Bliss, Tex., then his AIT at Fort Sill, Okla. Afterward, he was shipped to Fort Benning, Ga., and was stationed for seven months at Fort Bragg, N. C., before going to Fort Campbell, Ky. for jungle training. He went to Vietnam in December 1967.

His last assignment was at Fort Hood, Tex., as an instructor in infrared school, camouflage and concealment.

He had trained with the Green Berets but had not seen the picture under the same title. "I saw the previews of it at Fort Hood. John Wayne made it, didn't he?" (Tijerina promptly got an invitation for himself and family to see it here late this month as the guests of the Brand Publishing Company and the theatreman Francis Hardwick.)

Now that he is out of the service, he indicated that his plans are indefinite. "I may run a ranch for my father at Las Vegas, N.M. My father wants to raise sheep. I will probably do that."

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Tijerina Sr. of 321 Norton here.

(His cousin, Arthur Tijerina, was the second of Hereford's three Vietnam casualties. Arthur was killed May 10, 1968, "as a result of wounds received while on combat operation when hit by sniper fire.")

FREAK WIND — A sudden whirlwind Friday afternoon at 3:30 blew down a revival tent on Highway 385 immediately south of the underpass. Evangelist Raul Rodriguez and Daniel Aguillar, inside the tent at the time, reported that tent braces were completely wrecked and a house trailer was moved about 3 feet. "It cost nearly $2,000 for the tent and in five minutes it was gone." Nothing else was damaged in the vicinity. Rodriguez, of Archibald, Ohio, and Aguillar, of Decatur, Indiana, were winding up the 2-week revival with plans to go to Plainview and Amarillo. They said they would probably finish here at the Latin-American Assembly of God Church.

Majors, the division chairmen, are using their own time and funds to organize the business and professional groups in the community.

When United Fund is not understood, some might think that a large portion of this money is sent out of town. This is just not so, according to Mrs. Genevieve Miller, secretary. Only $150 to defray cost of literature and bulletins for campaigns is sent to the state organization, according to the budgets and admissions committee. All other funds are distributed to the groups discussed above.

Exact amounts to each group are: Cerebral Palsy Center, $100; Council on Alcoholism, $750; USO, $475; Campfire Girls, $6,381.25; Boy Scouts, $7,200; Red Cross, $11,000; Salvation Army, $4,200; Pony League, $2,025; Colt League, $1,250; Little League, $2,581.14; Texas United Fund, $150; and the local expense account, $1,000.

FFA Boys Take Big Awards At Tri-State Fair

Future Farmers of America boys from Hereford placed in the Wheat Improvement Contest and were named first in the educational booth.

The subject of the booth was "Rat Control," and it was developed by Richard Robinson, who teaches Agriculture 1 and 2 at Hereford High School.

The boys who placed in the wheat contest are Jimmy Christie, Lewis Fetsch and Odis Robinson.

Agriculture teacher Jess Robinson reported that these boys placed in the Top 10, but their arrangement would not be known until Saturday morning. They were to return to Amarillo Saturday morning, where the FFA group originally won their recognition, and appear on KGNC where the winning line-up was to be announced and the Wheat King crowned.

There were eight entries from Hereford in the Wheat Improvement Contest at the Tri-State Fair.

Study Prelude To Flower Show

Getting ready for their fall flower show scheduled for Oct. 11, members of Bud To Blossom Garden Club held the first of two workshops in Community Center Friday morning, emphasizing flower arranging practices.

At their next meeting, Oct. 4, Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. will be guest speaker to demonstrate preparation of horticultural specimens for a show.

Mrs. Bill Nelson, chair man for the forthcoming show, defined and explained the six principles of design as given in the handbook on flower arranging. These principles are balance, dominance, contrast, rhythm, proportion and scale.

They were reviewed as members discussed and judged arrangements brought to the meeting by Mmes. Sam Long, W. H. Gentry, A. L. Manjeot, Delmo Williams and Jess Robinson. In the business period with Mrs. Gentry presiding, plans were completed for the club's part as hostess to Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs Sept. 30. Mrs. Ernest Kendall is chairman for the work of decorating luncheon tables at Community Centre.

Mrs. R. N. Yarbrow, project chairman, announced a rummage sale to be held Sept. 28 on First United Methodist Church parking lot, to benefit the club treasury.

Introduced as guests were Mrs. Herman Schelter, and a house guest of Mrs. Hubert Stoerner, hostess, Mrs. A. Schlicht of Mayfield Heights, Ohio.

Mrs. Stoerner served coffee from a table centered with fall flower arrangement, to those mentioned and Mmes. Bruce T. Brown, B. E. Cooper, Robert Ginn, and Kendall.

FLOWER SHOW COMMITTEE—Mrs. Bill Nelson, center, is general chairman of arrangements for Bud To Blossom Club's fall flower show, to be held Oct. 11. Mrs. W. H. Gentry, left, is club president and Mrs. Jess Robinson is chairman of publicity and hospitality.

Garlitz-Kennedy Vows Are Spoken In Chapel

The marriage of Miss Mary Reena Garlitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Garlitz, 119 Bradley, and Sam Branson Kennedy of Hereford, son of Mrs. Helen Johnson of Portales, N. M., was solemnized in a chapel service at First United Methodist Church Saturday evening.

Simplicity was emphasized in every detail of the ceremony read by the Rev. Clifford Trotter, pastor, in Ward Parlor of the church. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Candelabra set in fresh foliage on either side of a central cross marked the altar. Tapers were lighted before the ceremony by the bride's brother, Herman Garlitz.

Her sister, Miss Dee Garlitz, was her maid of honor and Ronnie Shirley of Portales acted as Mr. Kennedy's best man. Guests were shown to their seats by the bridegroom's brother, Marshall Kennedy.

A medley of traditional wedding music and the marches were played by Don Baugous, pianist.

Candlelight satin, unadorned, fashioned the bride's gown. In A-line design, it was made with circle neckline, long sleeves pointed at the wrist and floor length skirt. A squared chapel train was attached at the shoulder line.

Her waist-length illusion veil floated from a headpiece of cabbage rose petals of the dress material. She carried white roses and, as an heirloom piece, a ruby ring belonging to her grandfather. Instead of a penny in her shoe as a luck charm, she had a coin brought from Vietnam by the bridegroom.

The maid of honor wore turquoise satin, in similar style to the bride's dress but with short sleeves. A ring hat of the same fabric held her blush veil and her flowers were daisies in a nosegay.

After the wedding, friends of the couple called at a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Davis, Miss Sharon Parsons of Stinnett, cousin of the bride, served cake and Mrs. Davis poured punch. Miss Doris Springer was at the guest register.

Bouquets of the bride and her attendant centered the refreshment table. The wedding cake was three-tiered, ornamented with blue sugar roses and topped with bride-and-groom figurines.

As the couple left on a short trip, Mrs. Kennedy was wearing a grey and white tweed dress cut on straight lines, with narrow white collar and a big black bow at the throat. After the honeymoon trip they will be at home at 304 Avenue I.

The bride was graduated from Hereford High School with the class of 1968. After completing high school studies in Portales, the bridegroom served in the U. S. Army, including combat duty in Vietnam. Both are employed here.

Youth State Delegates Speak To Study Club

Young speakers to Hereford Study Club at a meeting Thursday evening were Anna Johnson and Richard Aven, who represented Hereford last summer at Girls State and Boys State respectively. The club met in Mrs. S. L. Garrison's home with Mrs. Marvin Knox as co-hostess.

Mrs. Tommy Braddy program director, introduced the speakers, who told of attending the youth states at Austin sponsored by the American Legion and Auxiliary.

They explained the organization of the mock states, campaigns and elections to choose officials, and sessions of youth legislative bodies, designed to teach citizenship by actual participation of the girls and boys.

They also described their trip to the state capital, sightseeing in Austin and the pleasure of making acquaintances from other counties over Texas.

Members who heard the program included Mmes. R. N. Yarbrow, C. R. Winget, Maurice Tannahill, Art Stoy, Don Robinson, Merlin Kaul, W. H. Gentry, N. D. Bartlett Jr. and the president, Miss Gladys Setliff, who conducted a short business session.

Wyche Club To Aid In Project For Servicemen

Assistance in making "ditty bags" to be sent through Deaf Smith County Red Cross as Christmas gifts to U. S. military personnel in Vietnam, was voted by Wyche Home Demonstration Club members at a meeting in Mrs. L. B. Worthan's home Thursday.

Wyche Club will cooperate with numerous other women's clubs and church organizations of the county in working on the Red Cross project to make and fill bags with small personal gifts useful to servicemen.

Mrs. Charles Packard presented the program on Driver Education and other members told, in answer to roll call, what they have done in the past year to improve their own driving habits.

Two New Library Books Exciting

Gordon Ashe's new suspense novel, Death From Below, is good reading if you like a good mystery novel.

The man stood at the end of the jetty watching a beautiful young English girl swimming out into the Mediterranean. For a moment he lost sight of her, as a speeding motorboat stirred up the sea between them. And then, suddenly, he realized she was gone. Jumping into a boat he headed to the point where he had seen her last. Suddenly he swung the wheel as he spotted her, floating just beneath the surface, her hair forming a golden halo in the water, eyes closed, mouth slack, legs and arms limp. He felt quite sure that she was dead.

This had been the fifth death by drowning — all of lovely young women — brought to the attention of Deputy Assistant Commissioner for Crime Patrick Dawlish. He called a meeting of the Crime Haters, an international group of detectives, who planned to investigate these mysterious "deaths from below." And from the moment Patrick Dawlish arrived in France, he realized that there was fresh danger for himself, his colleagues, and for many innocent people.

Eventually, the Crime Haters discovered 31 mysterious deaths by drowning that had occurred all across Europe — seemingly without motive but obviously done by the same well-organized criminals. Were they, perhaps, the Bidot gang that controlled smuggling operations on the Riviera? Was the lonely daughter of a World War Two Resistance leader involved in

Walcott P. T. O. Has 1st Meeting

Mrs. Stapleton will teach third and fourth grades and Easley will teach fifth and sixth grades along with coaching boys and girls basketball.

Easley gave a brief outline of the coming basketball season and was rather optimistic about it.

Mrs. Willis Duggan, treasurer announced that there will be an old fashion masquerade Box Supper held at Walcott, Oct. 26, at 7:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

President, conducted the business session. It was announced that Mrs. Wayne Jones will be hostess for the next meeting, Oct. 3, at First National Community Room.

Williams Attends Banking School

Wayne Williams, vice president of the Hereford State Bank, returned recently from attending the National Automation School, co-sponsored by Purdue University and the American Bankers Association at Lafayette, Indiana.

The purpose of the National Automation School was to help bank officers to better understand the impact that automation is having and will continue to have on banks, on the banking industry, and on the entire financial community, Williams said.

The sessions were directed to what a senior member of management should know about the subject so that he can respond to the future challenges facing banks and provide effective management for it, including the development of long-range plans and marketing strategies.

"We feel that the time spent by Williams in this school will help us in our goal of an automated bookkeeping department," said Harlan Vander Zee, President of the bank, "and is just another in our continuing efforts to find new ways to serve our customers better."

Over 120 banks were represented at the school, coming from 35 states and Canada. There were three from Texas in attendance.

Interest In Water Meeting Is Rising Over The State

"In view of the development of the total water resources in Texas, is there a need for change in the present ground water law pertaining to private ownership or should there be state-wide control of ground water resources?"

That is the first question to be discussed at a water hearing in Hereford, on Oct. 5.

And J. D. Smith of Littlefield, Board Member of Water, Inc. and Chairman of the Board of Plains Cotton Growers says, "That alone should be enough to bring every irrigated farmer or land owner in West Texas to Hereford for the hearing."

The hearing is in conjunction with the Texas House Interim Water Study Committee meeting and is being hosted by the Lubbock-based Water, Inc., which is dedicated to the importation of water to West Texas from both in-state and out-of-state sources.

The hearing will open at 9:30 a. m. in the County Bull Barn, Hereford, and the public is invited. A dutch lunch will be served at noon.

Some of the other questions to which the Committee will be seeking answers include:

Will the economic benefits of imported water justify the cost to the West Texas area?

Would irrigation water users be willing to contract for water at about $20 per acre foot plus an increase of 10 per cent in all property taxes — if water can be delivered at that price?

Would non-irrigation water users be willing to pay the additional property taxes?

Would the area support a master water district or some other authority with power to contract for water with government partment," said Harlan Vander Zee, President of the bank, "and is just another in our continuing efforts to find new ways to serve our customers better."

Over 120 banks were represented at the school, coming from 35 states and Canada. There were three from Texas in attendance.

FHA Office To Close 2 Days

The local Farmers Home Administration office will be closed Tuesday and Wednesday.

This two-day closing is due to the bi-district meeting of the Farmers Home Administration which is being held in Amarillo. Those attending from Hereford will be County Supervisor James Gouley and Alwyn Foster.

Wayne Nelson, president of the Young Farmers Association of Texas, is scheduled as a guest speaker.

LIONS SPEAKER — Gerald Mann, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was speaker for the noon meeting of the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday. Rev. Mann described some of the humor in the ministry, and then told his fellow Lions Club members "what a preacher is."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
People are grand! Last Thursday evening, Sept. 12, my little girl went into convulsions as a result of a fall from a horse. We dashed to Deaf Smith County Hospital where all nurses, doctors and all personnel were very concerned. Realizing the condition, doctors McCrary and Mims called Dr. Finnie at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo and summoned the ambulance. Gilliland Ambulance Service was at our service and truly a wonderful pair started radioing ahead for a police right of way when they arrived in Amarillo. Sure enough, no stops from here to St. Anthony's. The clearance with cars parked on the sides was amazing.

The lady that was with the driver turned to give aid to us when it was needed with Joyce. My husband following in a car had difficulty with a fan breaking at Canyon — so the attendant at a service station gave him the keys to his pickup to follow us — fixing the car later and bringing it on to Amarillo for us. Yes, just every way we turned that night we needed help and help is what we received!

Thank God for America and all of you wonderful, wonderful people out there who stopped along the way to say a little prayer.

Mrs. Mike Betzen

2 Are Officers In ROTC Unit

Clinton P. Christman and Jasper K. Justice of Hereford are both First Lieutenants of the Recondo unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene now.

The Office of Public Information at the university reported that the activation of a new unit was necessitated by the larger senior class this year, the largest in the history of the ROTC program at H-SU. The class has 55 cadets in it, they said. The structure of the cadet battalion provides positions for only 26 cadets. The remainder will train in the Recondo unit until the spring semester, when many will change with seniors in the battalion.

The unit receives training which is normally received during special school at Army posts. Training includes 81mm mortar gunnery, survival swimming, basic rope work, and leader's reaction problems.

The afternoon drill periods began last Tuesday.

In Nevada there are some 30 range-sheep outfits operating. There were twice that many just before World War II.

Hundred Make Crops Tour, Hear Latest On Water Plans

By EARL MOSELEY Staff Writer

Howard Boswell, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board, was principal speaker at noon Friday in the midst of the annual Deaf Smith County Crops Tour. The tour and the speeches were attended by such people as U. S. Representative Bob Price and State Rep. Bill Clayton, along with political aspirants of both parties, Frank Ford of Hereford and Dick Ford of Hartley.

The audience at the noon barbecue at the Bull Barn numbered approximately 500 people. It was catered by the Hereford Rotary Club.

Boswell, born in Comanche and raised at nearby DeLeon, had prepared a speech but laid it aside "for just talk." His "talk" detailed the need of imported water in the Texas Plains.

He told what he knew of the Texas Water Plan. "The details of the plan have not been released, but I can tell you some of the things that might be of interest," he said.

Boswell had told of an El Paso crops tour which he had been a participant in El Paso some years ago. He had told the people present at that time that the imported water plan in that area "would cost $70-per-acre-foot and they all thought it was too high." And he had been involved in 27 public meetings on the subject in 1966, which he reported also had unfavorable results.

"But since then, the board has studied and revised the plan, but there has been but one conclusion: There is simply not enough water in the entire state to last us for another 50 years. The first and hardest hit will be the irrigation interests," Boswell informed his listeners.

He said that they had studied two plans. "One was a plan on availability of water in Texas, to the point where we ran out of water — from that point on we tightened our belts. The other was to look around for water needs from out of state. And it didn't take the board long to choose number two!"

Boswell said that the most likely source appears to be from the Lower Mississippi River. They were working on a survey of it to see how much water was available — and he pointed out that if water is available from this point, it is not necessarily earmarked for Texas. "However, Texas is the first state to apply for the need and stands a good chance."

There has been a study made of nine possible routes to pipe it into Texas, he indicated, but it has been found to be more feasible from the Mississippi below New Orleans.

"We have been asked many times about the quality of the water," he said. "The records show that the quality from that point is very good. But the only chance we have for excess water there is flood water — because we are not going to take any away from them (in Louisiana). There may not be enough water available for us there. We don't know yet."

He indicated that Texas needs 12-million acres of water per year. "That's a lot of water!" he said.

And he also indicated that if money is not available from the Mississippi, there are wide possibilities of getting it from now-water is not available from the laska.

"The first area the plan would supply with water is the South Plains, south of the Canadian River."

Boswell said that "it may seem like a fairy tale to think of pumping water uphill. But the Romans in ancient times transported it uphill hundreds of miles — except they did it with slaves. We are going to have to do it the modern way."

But he emphasized that it is "going to cost big, big money. It is estimated to be about $10-billion. But we hope to get as much assistance as possible from federal, state and other agencies. We also hope to have a plan to present to Congress in early 1972 for authorization. That's the timetable we are shooting at. The people of Texas have got to be ready."

Boswell told the audience: "I have a little job for you. Somebody here is going to have to have legal authority or status to contract for the water some time prior to its usage — somebody locally will have to contract and buy and distribute and sell the water. And it may be quite some time before this water is even available. In California it was ten years."

He explained that the people in the larger cities do not understand irrigation, that they "think of it as a waste. They need convincing." Also explained was the fact that the big cities and the domestic uses for water comes first. "But crop irrigation must be explained to them for its importance."

"You people out here have got to present a united front." R. C. (Dick) Godwin, whom Hugh Clearman described as "Mr. Water" in his introduction, reported that a Hereford meeting for such purposes would be held Saturday, Oct. 5, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the Bull Barn.

Among the other Water Inc. officials present at the Friday meeting was Col. Clifton Chamberlain, executive director of Water Inc. A membership campaign was conducted throughout the day at the Bull Barn entrance.

CROPS TOUR

Jim Valentine of the Soil Extension Service in Lubbock said of the Deaf Smith County Crops Tour: "The tours of the farms here are more interesting than in the other places. The farmers are more progressive and have more to show."

F. A. (Spec) Marnell was host at the first farm. The Marnell farm is described as being on the fringe of the irrigation belt and is noted for its irrigation practices in a limited water area. Afterward were two stops at the Gerald McCathern place, with the dual purpose of irrigation practices and soybean crops.

The McCathern place is reported to have reversed the normal practice in this area — with part of it being transformed from farming area to beef cattle raising.

In the afternoon, the tour included the Holly Research Test Plots, the Paul Corbett farm, the Dirks and Rugan farm, the Hugh Clearman place and the Raymond Schlabs farm. They finished at the Jimmy Cluck place.

Conducted and described by Justin McBride, County Agricultural Agent, Wilton Green of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, and James Gouldy of the Farmers-Home Administration, the tour also included Leon New of Lubbock, Dr. Frank Peter of Amarillo, Paul Scott of Holy Sugar here, Dr. Robert Berry, Dr. Allen Weise of Bushland, Valentine, and Lyndon Alden.

Road Projects To Begin Wednesday

Announcement has been made of two new highway construction projects in Hereford and Deaf Smith County, with one to begin at the city's east city limits on U. S. Hwy. 60 and to run to U. S. 385. The other will be FM 1058 beginning at State Hwy. 214 to U. S. Hwy. 385.

Cooper and Woodruff Inc., Amarillo contractors for the projects, reported that work will begin on Sept. 25 and should be completed by Oct. 31. Work will consist of asphaltic concrete pavement, grade revision and base stabilization.

Supervising resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department in the Hereford area, William V. York, said that traffic will be routed through the construction area and that side street traffic will be disrupted from time to time.

Signals and warning signs will be displayed during construction and motorists are urged to exercise extreme caution while traveling through the construction area.

Watershed Project To Get Assistance

Red Deer Creek Watershed has been approved for planning assistance by the Texas State Water Conservation Board and the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture, according to Panhandle Congressman Bob Price.

The project sponsored by Gray Hemphill and Roberts County Commissioners Courts and Soil and Water Conservation District of the same counties will cover 206,300 acres in the three counties.

Price said approval by the SCS Administrator would authorize financial assistance to the local SCS Districts in preparing a watershed work plan under authority of the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act and result in a project similar to the McClellan Creek work plan which is now completed and awaiting final approval in Washington.

"Approval of the McClellan Creek Project has been delayed," Price said, "by a joint evaluation by the Soil Conservation Service and the Bureau of Reclamation of the effects the project would have on the inflow to Lake Altus in Oklahoma, a BuRec project."

"The McClellan and Red Deer Creek projects and other small watershed plans are vital to the future of agriculture in the Panhandle and High Plains," Price said, "I consider the small watershed program of local — State Federal cost-sharing one of our best conservation programs."

Price had testified and spoken in support of full funding of SCS and Great Plains Conservation programs earlier this year.

BULLDOG BITE — Plainview players, as well as Hereford players, all seem to be looking for the football after a head-tally.

Plainview Defense Halts Herd, 28-0

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

Taking advantage of numerous stalls in the playing game of the Whitefaces, the Plainview Bulldogs dealt the locals their second straight gridiron loss of the season Friday night, 28-0. Playing superb defensive ball in the first quarter, the Whitefaces halted the Bulldogs time and time again as the ball changed hands without either team managing substantial gains.

The second quarter began what was to be a long night for the Herd as, after half of the stanza had elapsed, Hereford quick-kicked on a third and 10 and the Bulldog tailbacker latched onto the ball and ran it back to the Hereford 12-yard line before being stopped. Bulldog fullback-tackle David Wooley then twisted, squirmed, and tumbled the remaining 12 yards on three plays for the TD. The point after was good and the Bulldogs took a 7-0 lead into the club house at halftime.

Fifteen plays into the third quarter, the other half of the Bulldog scoring duo, Larry Watson, plunged over from the one to add another six points to their half of the scoreboard. Another PAT was added to give them a 12-0 lead. This touchdown resulted from a 58-yard run up the middle by Bulldogger Wooley and a couple of meaningful carries by the tailback.

The Plainview defense halted the Whitefaces throughout the entire contest as they allowed them only 33 yards for the full four quarters while piling up 392 of their own.

Plainview put themselves on the scoreboard for the third time during the game on another six-pointer by Wooley from five yards out. The touchdown was set up after Wooley had scampered for 20 yards to the Hereford 22 before being pulled down. A couple of short gains up the middle provided the distance left for the TD.

Taking the kick-off after the Bulldog TD, the Whitefaces seemed as if they might make a mark on the scoreboard when Jim Scott hauled in a pass and streaked out before being dropped at the Plainview 40-yard line. A series of no-gain plays forced the Whitefaces to take to the air and again a Bulldog defense displayed its stuff by intercepting a pass and running it back to the Hereford 30-yard line.

A short gain and a sweep around right for 22 yards set the stage for the final tally of Bulldog Wooley as he tucked the ball under his arm, found daylight and rambled 49 yards for the final score of the game.

Plainview scored on one other occasion, but had the run called back due to a clipping penalty.

The Bulldog defense then held the Whitefaces to minimum gains for the remainder of the contest as they registered their second win while dealing the locals their second loss of grid competition.

The next game for the Whitefaces will be against the powerful Seminole Indians, Friday, at Whiteface Stadium. Game time is 8 p. m.

New Camp Fire Lodge Evokes Memories Of Program's Past

WELCOMING FRIENDS of this community who have made Camp Fire program in Hereford a success and given hundreds of girls the opportunity to be a part of its activities, this year's crop of Camp Fire, Bluebird and Horizon Club members with their adult leaders will hold open house this afternoon in the newly completed lodge in North Park which will be their headquarters as it replaces the outgrown Camp Fire Hut on Park Avenue.

RESIDENTS ARE INVITED to visit the new lodge from 2 to 5 p. m. and to be present for a brief dedication ceremony at 2:15 p. m.

FIRST CAMP FIRE GROUP in Hereford was formed in 1929 and Mrs. Dick Barnard was one of the members. Mrs. B. Y. Crosthwait is another of that original group still living in this city. Mrs. Barnard displays the first charter, and on the table is a page from a scrapbook with photographs of the girls.

ADMINISTRATIVE SECRETARY of the Camp Fire organization in Hereford, Mrs. Lewis Lea, and president of the Camp Fire Leaders Association, Mrs. Earnest Langley, refer to records in filing cabinets in Mrs. Lea's office, conveniently located at the end of the main entrance of the Lodge. These two have played a large part in preparing for the open house, as they have in all Camp Fire activities here for several years.

OUT OF THE SCRAPBOOK comes this picture from the early 1930's of the girls clambering over the open truck which took them to their first camp, at Ruidoso, N. M. Mrs. Hubert Dowell, now of Reseda, Calif., the leader, is standing left.

RETURNING FOR OPEN HOUSE at the lodge and to see progress of the girls' organization she started, Mrs. Dowell is a visitor here this weekend. She is pictured with her husband, who assisted her in much of her work with Camp Fire Girls of the 1930's.

ANOTHER PIONEER leader was Mrs. Urlin Streu, who started the second group, worked with it until its members went through their years in Camp Fire and then in a Horizon Club, the organization for high school girls.

FIRST PAID EXECUTIVE in Hereford, who served until her retirement last year, was Mrs. Philip Barkley, who had been a Camp Fire leader in Yakima, Wash., her previous home, and brought her enthusiasm for the program to Texas. During her tenure, details of the administrative structure were developed to care for rapid growth of the organization.

HEREFORD, TEXAS, 79045, SUNDAY, SEPT. 22, 1968

COUNCIL PRESIDENT Jack Allen is an important figure in the organization of adults which backs the girls' groups. At the front door of the Lodge, he confers with Grant Hanna, representing the American Legion which is giving a flagpole and United States flag for the grounds, and Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr., project coordinator from Hereford Garden Club which will landscape the portion of the park around the Lodge.

LOOKING OVER the large assembly room of the Lodge, Mrs. J. T. Gilbreath, right, and Mrs. W. J. Gilliland, group leaders in the growing Camp Fire organization of the 1950's, stand before the wide fireplace with Bill Davis, who helped as president of the Camp Fire Board in 1950. He helped lay bricks on the old Camp Fire Hut, which had as its basis a barracks building donated by the City of Hereford.

REASON FOR THE LODGE and the remainder of the Camp Fire program, the girls themselves, are typified by these from the group led by Mrs. Howard Hunter, hurrying to put away materials in handy cabinets which line one wall of each of the four meeting rooms.

CONVENIENT KITCHEN of the Lodge brings smiles to the faces of Mrs. Jay Boston, left, and Mrs. Bob Wilson, as they remember their work with Camp Fire Girls several years ago under more difficult conditions. Mrs. Wilson started as a group leader in 1945, the year the Hereford organization received its charter and a Camp Fire Council was formed.

County Federation Asks All Clubs To Luncheon

Invitations have been mailed to women's clubs of the county, asking members to the first meeting of Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs for the 1968-69 season. It will be a covered dish luncheon Sept. 30 in Community Center.

Mrs. W. T. Carmichael, president, and Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill, first vice president and membership chairman, joined in sending the invitations, seeking a wider representation in the federation from clubs here.

Individuals are also invited to the luncheon; any woman in the county may become a Federation member by payment of a small fee, and anyone who wishes to bring a dish for the meal may attend as a visitor.

Music Study and Garden Beautiful; and April 29, for the annual fine arts program with La Plata, Lone Star and Hereford Garden Clubs as hostesses.

Workshops Begin Year For Chapter

Workshops for committees in the Delta Xi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, International honor society for women educators, featured the initial fall meeting held recently in Community Center. Mes. Jim Bookout, Caudie Ola Brown and Merlin Kaul were hostesses.

Reports of conventions held during the summer were heard after a covered dish luncheon. Mrs. Faun Welker of Dimmitt told of the international meeting in New York City and several members who attended the state convention at Dallas in June gave their reports. Mrs. Kaul, retiring chapter president, presided for this program.

Committee sessions and a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Joe Cowan of Dimmitt, new president, filled the morning hour. Workshop reports closed the meeting.

Members attended from Friona, Bovina, Dimmitt, Hart and Springlake as well as Hereford. No October meeting of the chapter is scheduled, as members will go to a regional convention in Amarillo Oct. 12.

WEDS AT DALLAS — Mrs. John Michael Mastervich III of Dallas is the former Miss Cheryl Ann Edmonson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Edmonson, 601 Star. She was married recently in Highland Baptist Church in Dallas, and after a honeymoon in Mexico the couple is at home in Dallas, where Mr. Mastervich is an engineer with Ling-Temco-Vaugh.

Banker Speaks On Club Topic

Chairmen for committees to arrange the annual tasting luncheon sponsored by L'Allegria Study Club were named, and a program surveying the current economic picture was given by a local banker, at a club meeting Thursday afternoon in First National Community Room.

Harlan Vander Zee, president of Hereford State Bank, was the guest speaker. He spoke of the national economy, giving statistics on government spending and on inflation. The United States dollar is now worth approximately 46 cents in buying power because of inflation, he said, and if the trend continues at the present rate its value will be only 40 cents a year from now.

He reminded the clubwomen that the national debt, now more than 300 billion dollars, "must be paid sometime, somehow, by us or our children or grandchildren." Touching on the local economy, the banker said proposed cuts in federal spending on the farm program would be felt keenly in this area. Club members in their business session made further plans for the luncheon, set for Nov. 21, which is an annual benefit for service projects. This year the main project is support of a loan fund at West Texas State University, with specific assignment of the club contribution to a loan for a Hereford student.

Mrs. Danny Martin is general chairman of luncheon arrangements, Mrs. John E. Smith of the main course, Mrs. J. H. McCrary of salads and dressings Mrs. Buddy Bloomer or desserts Mrs. Gary McQuigg of vegetable casseroles.

Mrs. W. C. Russell heads the committee in charge of compiling cookbooks with all the luncheon dishes, which will be sold at the luncheon. Mrs. Don Chaney is publicity chairman.

For the first time, the tasting luncheon will be held at the County Bull Barn this fall, instead of in the smaller space at Community Center. Each dish served is a specialty of one of the club members, who also gives the recipe. Tickets will go on sale soon.

Mrs. Bob Baker was welcomed as a new club member.

High Rating Received By XEA Unit

A certificate from international headquarters of Beta Sigma Phi, rating Xi Epsilon Chapter of Hereford as a three-star chapter, was presented at the first program meeting of this season recently in Community Center.

This highest rating given in the organization was achieved on work done by the chapter last season.

FALL BRIDE-ELECT — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kuper announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Mary, to David Randall Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis of Canyon. An October wedding is planned by the couple, both employees of High Plains Baptist Hospital at Amarillo. Miss Kuper is a recent graduate of Marymount College in Salina, Kansas, with a BS degree in nursing. She was graduated from Hereford High School in 1964. Mr. Davis has attended West Texas State University; plans for the future include his continuing medical studies at the University of Texas at Austin.

Adventure Tour Story Related

A program tea in the home of Mrs. Homer Powell was the initial meeting of a new season for Bay View Study Club Thursday afternoon. Dressed in a costume from Thailand, Mrs. H. L. Benefield gave fellow members a report of her "Adventure Tour" of the Orient in the program hour.

Mrs. Bruce Burney and Mrs. Howard Gault, social committee members, were hostesses with Mrs. Powell. Mrs. R. B. Miller, beginning the second year of her term as president, poured tea from a silver service at the table.

Pink roses from gardens of the hostess and of Mrs. W. S. Kerr were arranged to center the table. Members enjoyed views of the Powells' yard, which was designated as Residential Beauty Spot last month by the Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee.

Adding interest to Mrs. Benefield's account of her trip last winter to ten countries of the Orient and Pacific area, she displayed souvenirs of jewelry and other small items from the various stops. Maps and numerous pictures illustrated the travelogue.

The dress she wore was a copy of the one worn by Miss Thailand who was chosen Miss Universe in the annual beauty pageant two years ago.

Mrs. W. J. Gilliland, yearbook committee chairman, distributed the 1968-69 books which outline a program continuing the study titled Temper Of The Times. Mrs. Miller directed the business period and welcomed Mrs. Si Darling to club membership.

Other members at the tea were Mmes. Juston McBride, Ansel McDowell, Tom Sawyer, Francis Hardwick, A. M. Jones, Kerr and Colby Conkright.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Miss Judith Maye Martin, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James G. Martin of 119 Beach, is to be married to Charles Eugene Brownlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Brownlow, 107 NW Drive, in a February wedding, her parents announce. The bride-to-be, a 1968 graduate of Hereford High School, is employed by Harold Close Drug here. Her fiancé will enter training next month in the Texas DPS school for highway patrolmen at Austin; he was graduated from HHS in 1965. (Angel photo)

The Non-Proliferation Issue

The major Presidential candidates have drawn issue over the nuclear non-proliferation treaty. Vice President Humphrey would like the Senate to ratify it post-haste. Richard Nixon says he backs it in principle, but suggests delaying ratification to assess the ramifications of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

While the political issue has important implications, the treaty itself is scarcely the life-and-death matter some would have everyone believe. It pledges signing nations not to give or acquire nuclear weapons, but an escape clause allows any of them to opt out, at its sole discretion, upon notice of only three months. What the fuss is about is a promise not to spread or acquire nuclear weapons unless someone really wants to. The meaning is not substantive but symbolic.

Symbols are often well worth having, but to use them sensibly one must understand what is being symbolized. The nonproliferation treaty in part symbolizes the longing for a world order based on international law agreed to by all nations. That is a long way off. More concretely, the treaty symbolizes big-power cooperation, movement toward East-West detente, an easing of U. S. - Soviet relations.

Some proponents of immediate ratification have lately taken to denying that the treaty has anything to do with detente. They say the Czech crisis makes no difference, that the reason the U. S. ought to ratify the treaty immediately is to speed ratification by the key non-nuclear states, the ones who would pledge not to develop their own nuclear arms.

Yet the most important of those states is West Germany, whose strategic interests are directly and profoundly affected by the Czech invasion. If West Germany ever does ratify the treaty, it will be because of its faith in U. S. protection. Can anyone seriously believe that faith will be bolstered if the U. S. rushes to ratify the treaty just after Soviet armies have marched through an innocent nation and right up to the West German border?

Beyond that, the treaty is in fact inexorably linked with the question of relaxing tensions. Those who today so disingenuously deny the connection are the same ones who prior to the Czech crisis most loudly trumpeted the treaty as a sign of incipient peace in Soviet-American relations.

So it is the effect on Soviet-American relations that gives the treaty its greatest impact, and gives the political issue its greatest meaning. Without question, American foreign policy ought to try to achieve some kind of detente with the Soviets. The question is whether that purpose is served by immediate ratification or by delay.

In terms of Soviet-American relations, immediate ratification makes much sense only if you are disposed to put considerable store in a show of good faith. U. S. ratification, the argument would go, would show our pure intentions, ease Soviet fears and therefore be a step toward a better East-West climate. With the instruction of Czechoslovakia so fresh in everyone's memory, this argument has understandably gone underground. If none-the-less seems valid to conclude from Mr. Humphrey's stand on non-proliferation, and particularly from the heat of his emotion on the issue, that his heart lies close to those who conceive detente primarily as a matter of mutual good faith.

A delay in ratification, on the other hand, would proceed from the assumption that improved relations must rest not on good faith but on calculations of mutual self-interest. That is, there can be no lasting detente unless the Soviets understand as well as we do that shared interests dictate toning down international tension and therefore the threat of nuclear war. So while we must seek initiatives toward accommodation, we will be wise to put them on the back burner when Soviet behavior turns egregious. This, we gather, is why Mr. Nixon supports both the principle of the treaty and a delay in ratification.

The question of whether to approach the Soviets on the basis of good faith or mutual interests reaches far beyond this one treaty. Thus the non-proliferation issue, not overly important in itself, is a valuable key to understanding the approaches the two candidates would take toward the whole range of Soviet-American relations. It can tell us how well each of them understands an elemental truth.

To wit, that if the Soviets get the notion they can have both relaxed relations with us and a free hand to send armies marching, there will be no detente and no peace.

A Time For Careful Study

Storm clouds appear to be brewing on the farm front that could create a great deal of ill-will in the area if the situation is not handled properly. This is a time when cool heads must prevail.

Of course we're talking about the effort being made locally to organize and promote the National Farmer's Organization and it appears that the issue is destined to be charged with emotion. So much so, that the ultimate solution to the problems facing agriculture may be lost in the shuffle.

Without question, the American farmer is in trouble. Many of the smaller operators have had to leave the farm due to declining farm prices on one hand and rising costs on the other. Agriculture has not faced such a serious situation since the days of the depression, and old solutions to the problems appear to be beyond our reach. Population shifts to the urban areas have left the rural people virtually without representation in Congress. Because of this, some have turned to such organizations as the NFO for help. Whether the NFO can effectively negotiate or not remains to be seen. Some think so; others disagree.

Those who are making an effort to expand the NFO operations into this area are thoroughly convinced that this is the answer to the problem of declining prices. Many of those who are strongly opposed, feel that the NFO would virtually "kill" the area economically.

Actually, we doubt that either is true. Similar stories made the rounds in the early 1950s when the Farmer's Union was organized in the county, and perhaps there was opposition to the organization of the Farm Bureau many years before that. To date, neither of the above have "ruined" the economy, nor, as is quite apparent now, have they solved very many of our problems.

However, the ultimate decision concerning the NFO, will have to be made by the individual farmer. No one can make that decision for him. We would encourage however, careful study of the organization, its purposes and its methods, and suggest that you make sure your decision is not based on emotion but on an honest opinion that this is the right decision for the farmer.

And above all, don't fall-out with your neighbor if he doesn't agree. No organization can be effective if it must be bound together by coercion.

LBJ Is Big Asset To Both Candidates, Also Liability

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — President Johnson holds a unique position in the political campaign because he is the biggest asset of both Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon — and he is also Humphrey's greatest liability.

LBJ is an asset to his fellow Democrat because until January 20 Johnson will be running the country. A President has immense power to influence events, and certainly Johnson will use it as long as he occupies the White House. Even if Johnson abstains from campaigning, he can help Humphrey a thousand different ways.

Consider the matter of money, of which the Democratic National Committee now has a short supply. President Johnson has wooed the top sources of political dollars for years. If he chooses to spend a few hours on the telephone as a fund-raiser, results should be forthcoming.

Why should a fat cat contribute to the Humphrey campaign, when the odds are it will be a losing effort? There are a number of reasons, headed by the fact that Humphrey might win. The top men of the corporations receiving huge government contracts are fair game for political fund raisers of both sides. Some will give to both parties to insure being on the winning side.

LBJ Unpopularity Helps Nixon

President Johnson is an asset to Nixon because Johnson's popularity is at low ebb right now. Every Vietnam casualty list and every riot in city streets tends to increase dissatisfaction with the current administration and attract votes to the "outs." Republicans are in the minority in this country, and have been for decades. The only way a G. O. P. Presidential candidate can win is to capture a sizable number of votes from Democrats and independents. That happens only when the majority party is in disfavor.

President Johnson is also an asset to Nixon because the heir-apparent has been so intimately associated with the Administration for the past four years. Nixon found out in 1960 what a handicap it is to try to move up from the Vice Presidency. A Vice President cannot disassociate himself from the record of his leader.

The fact that Humphrey has been such a voluble defender of the Johnson Administration, before becoming a candidate, is bound to hurt him now that he is trying to be his own man. The historical record cannot be erased, and the opposition has a nasty habit of spotlighting every contradiction.

Humphrey Contradicted
The Vice President's problem in overcoming his Administration ties was demonstrated three times in his first week on the campaign trail. The President, the Secretary of State, and the Secretary of Defense each found it necessary to contradict statements made by Humphrey, and in one case the candidate had to issue a retraction.

It must seem to Humphrey at times that he has as much to fear from his friends as from his enemies. No matter how much he yearns to strike off in his own direction, he is risking being tripped up by his own associates in Washington.

Fortunately, the Vice President is an eternal optimist. It is against his nature to brood for long over his misfortunes. He can be counted on to forget about his liabilities and cultivate his assets as the campaign progresses.

Where Credit Is Due

Upon hearing criticism after criticism aimed at the Johnson administration, I am reminded of a news story of some months ago about a writer who went into the South to see just what sort of progress had been made in civil rights.

The journalist went from town to town on the bus, and keenly observed the caches of segregation. Although he found them, these little strongholds of tradition were not in the cities. This would not have been the case prior to the Civil Rights Act of 1964 with its consequent legislation.

And throughout the nation's small Negro colleges, every senior is getting, as a rule, five or six good career opportunities. The Negro is being pursued by business leaders.

In Austin, where open housing has created a stir and is still subject to a referendum determining local or federal control, a Negro woman bought a new home and jokingly admitted that she had entered an all-white neighborhood. She wouldn't have been able to joke about it a few years ago. This progress in civil rights should not pass by without due credit to leaders who have pushed the legislation.

A pamphlet recently distributed to students told about dangers inherent in hallucinogenic drugs; or at least it was supposed to. What it did mention was that getting caught can mean a felony, a jail term and a record that can handicap a person for life.

While it is true that the use of drugs is strictly forbidden on legal grounds; it is disappointing to find authorities stooping to such levels to threaten would-be drug users.

Drugs have been shown to create havoc with people's lives; the cases are well known, and information on certain people, hospitalized permanently, is not kept secret; at least not verbally.

In print, officials have forgotten the true tragedy connected with drug abuse. When warning students about drugs, they caution youngsters that they will likely get caught; they tell them what a felony will do to their record.

Never a mention is made of the personal problems created, which supposedly are the reasons for the law in the first place.

If authorities wish to warn people of dangers connected with drugs, they should honestly point out the physical and mental effects. Laws prohibiting drugs are stiff, but to do nothing except threaten from a legal viewpoint can make a person feel that the police state has already arrived.

Last Sunday, Vivian Stambaugh and John and David McDonald left Hereford for Wentworth Military Academy at Lexington, Missouri. They were chaperoned by Mr. McDonald. On the same day David Broadwell departed for Trinity University, Monday, Fred Fuqua, Roy and Earl Nunn, Forrest Bowe and Russell Copeland left for Trinity.

35 YEARS AGO — 1933

For the first time since his entering office, County Judge C. W. Humble gave Dan Cupid a hand Monday when he pronounced a young Amarillo couple man and wife. "I," says the judge, "was just as scared as they were. Maybe more so. But they didn't notice it." "They were as completely married as if you had known what you were doing," friends were consoling the judge. The judge's victims asked that their names be withheld. "You see," explained the groom, "we don't want it known that we were the subject of an experiment."

Hereford football fans will probably get just one good look at the powerhouse single wing formation and that will be Friday night at Whiteface Field. The Plainview Bulldogs will use a potent attack from the single wing, one of the few teams in Texas high school football which does use the attack. Be sure to bring a large handkerchief. You'll need it to dry your eyes. You'll cry with laughter when you see Jerry Lewis as The Mother of the Year in "Rock-A-Bye Baby" at the Star.

THE BOOTLEG — Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm finds a new problem to worry about this week.

Dear editor:

The main purpose of exploring outer space, I've been arguing, is to get man's mind off his earth problems, which are getting too big for him to handle anyway.

But the trouble is that man has a knack of carrying his problems with him.

For example, I read in a fat Sunday issue of the New York Times last night which I'd been saving to use as a boot in a tractor tire — a friend from town told me just the other day I ought to get a new tractor, the one I'm using is a disgrace to the farming profession, but I am unmoved by the suggestion, that tractor may look disreputable but it's in better financial shape than the U. S. Government, the British Empire, the Republic of France, the Soviet Union, or any other debt-ridden government you can name — at any rate, to pick up the sentence again, I read that up to now there have been 3,344 objects lofted into space by man.

Of this number, 1,292 are still orbiting, some of them for as long as 10 years, with 342 considered satellite payloads and 949 as space junk.

You see what I'm getting at? Already, man has 949 pieces of junk sailing around in space and the exploration is still in its early days.

Ten years from now there may be thousands of satellites and their booster engines and other junk sailing around out there, cluttering up space like automobiles and junk yards in Amarillo.

Then of course there will be a move on to do something about the outer space traffic snarl-up, and garden clubs will be called on to plant shrubbery around the orbiting junk yards, an undertaking I will be glad to let the women tackle.

It will be interesting to see how far out man can clutter up space. While I understand space is limitless, still you've got to remember man has a limitless capacity for litter, so the contest could go on forever.

But I'm not really a pessimist. Man does learn. You won't catch him polluting any rivers or lakes in outer space.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Facts Given As We Observe "National Highway Week"

AUSTIN — National Highway Week, the last full week in September, is the one time each year when attention in Texas focuses on highways and the men who build them.

These men are busy building and maintaining our highways every week in the year. Highway Week is an appropriate time to check back over the last year and see what's been happening along what many say is the best highway system in the world.

First of all, that system grew by almost one thousand miles of designated highways from 68,057 miles to 68,985 miles. The lion's share, 545 miles, was added when the Texas Highway Commission approved the 1968 Farm to Market Road Program bringing that system to a total of 39,405 miles. A year ago the 39,405 miles. A year ago the miles. More than 37 thousand of those miles are open to traffic and another 630 are under construction.

Two-thirds of the Texas portion of the Interstate Highway system are now open to traffic.

According to the June, 1968, quarterly report, 2005 miles are "under rubber" and another 462 miles are under construction on the State's designated 3027-mile Interstate system.

Construction under contracts totaling $685 million is in progress on Texas highways at the present time. During the past year, ending August 31, almost $396 million worth of work was completed.

Maintenance costs during the past fiscal year totaled $101.5 million, protecting the $5.5 billion investment of the people of Texas in their highway system.

Texans drove more miles during the past year — 58 billion — in more vehicles — 6.7 million — than ever before. Yet the fatality rate dropped from 6.2 deaths per hundred million vehicle miles driven in 1966 to 5.8 in 1967.

Yet even one fatality is a tragedy, and the Texas Highway Department continues to spend more than $1 million every year on research to make the highways safer. The Highway Commission also has approved a $60.6 million program for highway betterment and farm to market road improvements during the coming year. This accelerated program to increase highway safety involves 1,177 projects in 224 counties.

Safety devices developed through Highway Department-sponsored research are being incorporated into the highway systems. The breakaway sign support, which yield when struck by a vehicle, is being installed on Texas highways as well as on others throughout the nation. Developed by Texas Highway Department researchers in cooperation with those at Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A&M, the breakaway support received national recognition in December, 1967. The Federal Highway Administrator then directed the installation of the breakaway support for signs and light standards on all federal aid highway projects.

In another safety move, the Texas Highway Department last year completed installation of the first 150-foot light tower in the nation, to light the interchange of IH 30 and US Highways 59 and 71 on the Texas-Arkansas State line. Four additional 100-foot light towers, two in each State, insure daytime visibility for night traffic at the important interchange.

The latest safety installation involves the field testing of a vehicle impact attenuator (VIA) at a Houston interchange. The VIA is constructed of steel barrels welded together and placed in front of a roadside obstacle such as a bridge abutment or supporting column. This device cushions the impact of a colliding vehicle.

Motorists long have been pleased with the numerous roadside parks along Texas highways — another safety feature. A glance at the Official Texas Highway Map, with its small green dots representing roadside parks, is sufficient to assure any motorist that he is never far from a place to pause and relax. In fact, one of every seven roadside parks in the entire nation is in Texas.

Making their debut on the 1968 map are small green squares, representing safety rest areas on the Interstate system complete with rest room facilities, drinking water, covered picnic arbors, fireplaces, and travel information displays — all in pleasant, well landscaped parks.

There are now twelve pairs of comfort stations-safety rest areas (at each location there is a complete facility on each side of the divided Interstate route) and four more pairs are under construction.

When the Interstate system is complete, there will be a safety rest area on each side of the highway on an average of every 37 miles, and rest room facilities will be included wherever water is available.

Many of the vehicles parked at safety rest areas in 1967 bore out-of-state licenses. The Department's Texas Visitor Industry Report showed 1967 as the second billion-dollar travel industry year for Texas. More than 15 million visitors came to Texas by automobile last year, and they spent $808 million. The average travel party spent six days in the State and drove more than one thousand miles over Texas highways.

Cultures. The Department also maintains an information center in the State Capitol at Austin. Another tourist attraction, the Judge Roy Bean Museum and Information Center at Langtry on US 90, will be open to travelers this fall. Managed by the Highway Department and staffed by trained travel counselors, the restored site of the "Law West of the Pecos" will attract visitors nationwide.

The theme for National Highway Week this year is "Highways Are for People." Nowhere is this more true than in Texas, where 2,600 communities are served by no other means of transportation.

Dinner, Movie Are Features Of Evening Out

Dinner and a movie in Amarillo entertained Alpha Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi on its meeting date this week. Members met in Mrs. Charles Laing's home and drove to the nearby city for the evening out. In the party were Mmes. Harold Beauchamp, Carl Hollingsworth, Bob Huddleston, E. N. Johnson, Bill Kendall, Max Stipe Hicks Roberson and Laing.

Funeral Services Are Held For Mrs. Encinias

Funeral services for Rosenda Trujillo Encinias, mother of two Hereford residents, were held at Las Vegas, N.M.

Some six million motorists will drive approximately seven million vehicles an estimated 60 billion miles on Texas highways in 1968 — to work, to shop, to school, to bring farm products to the city, to seek recreation away from the city's bustle. So, it is perhaps more appropriate for Texans to paraphrase the Highway Week slogan: "Highways are VITAL for People."

Mrs. Encinias, who died last week at Pueblo, Colo., following a long illness, is survived by two sons, Antonio Encinias and Pete Encinias, both of Hereford, and also one daughter, Mrs. Alfonso Naranjo, of Pueblo.

Other survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Gregorio Lucero, of Las Vegas, N.M., Mrs. Tsido-ro Aragon, of Trinitina, N.M. and Mrs. Dionisio Brito, of New Kirk, N.M., 22 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren.

Soil and other substances polluting our streams are the result of the erosion of farmlands and other areas. This cause of pollution has never been fully controlled and rapidly expanding suburban development has aggravated it. — President Lyndon B. Johnson

Chamber Seeks Views On Changing Electoral College

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board of directors approved its Government Affairs Committee recommendation last Tuesday to survey the people here on what they term a vital question:

If the Electoral College system which has been electing our Presidents and Vice Presidents since 1787 is to undergo reform by the Congress, which of the two bills now up for consideration would the people of this county prefer over the Electoral College form.

One method introduced in a bill is called The District Method. The other is called The Proportional Method. (The Nationwide Popular Vote Method is not being considered at this time.)

These methods will be described, so that the Deaf Smith County citizen may study his choice. Afterward, the ballot coupon may be marked and clipped from this issue of the Sunday Brand. The mailing address is included on the ballot.

Before the Government Affairs Committee will make a resolution in behalf of either bill it desires popular opinion. As one of the committee members said, "this committee cannot be expected to solve such a problem as this in 30 minutes (the time of its luncheon meeting) when Congress hasn't done it in 20 years."

Therefore the committee voted unanimously to "get the feelings" of the people:

THE DISTRICT METHOD
Described by Senator Karl E. Mundt (R-South Dakota), who wrote in "Here's The Issue," a publication of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Legislative Department:

"I agree with James MacGregor Burns who has written: 'Most Americans, regardless of party, are agreed on the failings of the electoral college. It is unfair, inaccurate, uncertain, and undemocratic. Unfair, because the President is a candidate losing a State by even a close margin forfeits all of that State's electoral votes. Inaccurate, because in most elections the winner's electoral votes are inflated grotesquely out of proportion to its popular vote. Uncertain, because Presidential electors are not legally bound to vote for the candidate who carries the State. And undemocratic, because if no candidate wins a majority of the electoral college the verdict is rendered in the House of Representatives, where each State delegation, no matter how large, casts but a single vote in choosing among the three top candidates.'"

The District Plan is the only plan proposed which would correct these inequities without making basic changes in our constitutional system. It would correct the unfairness by eliminating the general ticket system. It would correct the inaccuracy because it would bring the electoral vote in line with the popular vote. It would correct the uncertainty because it would bind the Presidential electors to the winning candidate. It would correct the undemocratic factors because it provides for a greater voice for the large States should Congress be forced to name the President in the event no candidate wins a majority of the electoral college.

The real problem is not the fact that the electors are not bound to follow the will of the majority or that certain gaps exist should the election be thrown into the House of Representatives. The real problem is the inequality of the voting power of the citizens of the various States — a situation which occurs every four years.

This is the main theme of my proposal and it can be summed up in one sentence:

Every voter in this country as an individual whether he lives in California, Delaware, New York, or South Dakota, ought to have equal voting power when it comes to electing the President of the United States.

It is extremely doubtful if any voter living today has used anything but a general ticket system in presidential elections. This use of the general ticket system in every State is largely responsible for many of the misunderstandings of the electoral college system which exist today and for much of the notion that the electors are archaic and unnecessary.

When we regard the electoral college as the exact numerical counterpart of the Congress we can see readily that it combines the two principles of representation in our Federal Union of States. We have the federal principle of equal representation of the States in the Senate, regardless of population, and then, we have the national principle of unequal representation of the States in the House of Representatives based on their unequal populations. State representation in the House in the present Congress ranges from 1 to 41.

Each citizen of each State is represented in the Senate by two Senators and in the House of Representatives by one Representative, with a few exceptions. His representation in Congress, therefore, is two parts federal and one part national. In the electoral college, with the general ticket system in force in every state, there is no equality of citizen representation. It ranges from a high of 43 members of the electoral college for a citizen of New York — to 3 for a citizen of each of the five states that sent only one Representative to the present Congress.

Conversely, each citizen has as many votes in presidential elections as his State has members in the electoral college, because they are elected on a general ticket. In other words, when a New York voter pulls a voting machine lever for a presidential ticket, he is actually casting 43 votes, one for each of the 43 electors on the party slate.

On the other hand, the citizens of the five States which have only one Member of the House of Representatives have only three votes each in the presidential election. In my own State of South Dakota, each citizen has four votes.

This tremendous disparity in voting weight between the individual citizens of the large States and the small States is the true source of all the valid complaints which have been made against the electoral college system. The real culprit is the use of the general ticket by every State.

The District method is, in my opinion and the opinion of the many who support it, the only simple method by which each voter in every State will have the same voting weight in electing a President. It is the only one among the various electoral reform proposals which have been offered which will bring about a needed reform without a basic change in our constitutional system. It alone leaves control of the election machinery in the States, where it belongs.

It will bring about the balance so desperately needed in today's inequitable system.

Senator Mundt has testified in support of the District Method of Electoral College Reform. This proposal would divide a State into electoral districts comparable to Congressional districts. The winner of the popular plurality within the district would receive that district's electoral vote, and in some versions of the plan, two additional electoral votes would go to the candidate receiving a plurality of the popular vote in the State.

PROPORTIONAL METHOD
Described by Senator Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-North Carolina), who also wrote in "Here's the Issue" on the same date as Sen. Mundt:

Our proposal will accomplish a number of reforms while avoiding the pitfalls inherent in each of the other resolutions that have been introduced.

First, we would abolish the electoral college which has been a useless appendage to our governmental institutions since the rise of political parties. Legally, the elector still stands where the Constitution placed him: an officer in whom rests the awesome discretion as to who shall lead the most powerful nation in the world. Few of us now believe that any man or any few hundred men, no matter how wise or faithful, should be entrusted to make our greatest decision. We, therefore, assume that the electors are under a moral obligation to vote for their party's nominees. But ours is a nation of written laws and not moral imperatives, and the language of the Constitution should be made to conform to what the overwhelming majority of citizens know is correct.

Second, we should also abolish the unit-rule system of counting electoral votes. This system, which completely disfranchises those who do not vote for the winner within their state, is indefensible. It requires candidates to concentrate on the large, pivotal states where elections are historically closely contested to the exclusion of smaller states and one-party states.

It encourages the formation of third parties and of bloc-voting since a small group can often determine the course of the entire electoral vote of a large state. In a case challenging Georgia's unit-rule, the courts found that the system was a denial of equal protection of laws. Certainly those who halted that decision should support this amendment. Since it provides that electoral votes would be cast in proportion to the popular vote in each state, every man would have a voice in the election, and candidates would solicit the vote of every man in the state.

In 1956, the late President Kennedy led the eloquent and successful Senate opposition to an earlier version of the Amendment. At that time, he frankly admitted our present system forces candidates to look to the large states in drafting platforms, nominating candidates and running campaigns. It was his thesis that urban interests are justified in having this power because state Legislatures and the National House of Representatives were, allegedly, through gerrymandering, far overbalanced in favor of rural interests.

Whatever the validity of this argument may have been in 1956, "one-man, one vote" is clearly the law of the land today, and population is the only constitutionally permissible consideration a state may use in drawing districts for either house of its own Legislature or for the seats of its Congressional delegation. Since the objection that was raised in 1956 is no longer valid, I would trust and hope that those who embraced it then will join us now.

Third, our resolution proposes that if no candidate receives 40 per cent of the total electoral vote, the election would be decided by the Senate and House in Joint Session, with each Senator and Representative having one vote. This would eliminate the undemocratic and unfair method according to which each State delegation — no matter how large or how small the State may be — would have one vote in elections thrown into the House. By the reduction we would also reduce the threat of elections being decided by Congress instead of the people and the threat of multiple parties.

Three other proposals have received serious consideration over the years. One of the most appealing, on its face, and the one closest to ours in principle is the direct election approach. Except to say that our amendment has the advantage of preserving the identity of the States in the Presidential electoral process, I will not discuss the merits of direct election, because, frankly I believe there is no chance of ratification.

The legislatures of three-fourths of the states are not going to vote away the added advantages of the two additional electoral votes granted them by reason of Senatorial representation which would benefit the great majority of States.

The district method, by which it is proposed that one electoral vote be given to each Congressional district and two to the State at large is preferable to the present system, but it has two defects.

First, gerrymandering — which is in the ancient, if not honorable, American political tradition — could be used to thwart the will of the majority.

Second, the votes of those not voting for the winner in a particular district would still not be registered.

The Administration has suggested another alternative, one which would abolish the electoral college and change the method of selection when no candidate receives a majority of the electoral votes, but one which leaves the unit-rule system intact. It is this latter inequity — ignored by the Administration — which is the most important. It is hardly worth cranking up the complex and protracted amendment process to accomplish so little.

Senator Ervin has testified in support of the Proportional Method of Electoral College Reform. It would allocate to each State a number of electoral votes equal to the number of Senators and Representatives to which the State is entitled in Congress. This electoral vote, however, would be divided "in proportion" to the division of the popular vote in the state.

Senator Completes Study Of Military

Correspondents — Each year this office compiles statistics on military spending and military-civilian defense personnel in Texas. Here are the newly released figures covering Fiscal Year 1968 which ended June 30:

Senator John Tower, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, reported today that during the last fiscal year (1968) Texas was host to 254,175 national defense personnel (civilian and military) who earned a $1.6 Billion payroll.

The Fiscal Year 1968 totals represent a decrease over Fiscal Year 1967 of 26,534 defense personnel and an increase of $100 Million in payroll.

The personnel decrease reflects added manpower demands in Southeast Asia; the payroll jump is because of pay increases es voted during the past year.

The Army, had 13,884 fewer military and 1,077 more civilian personnel compared with 1967. Army military payrolls were down $14.8 Million; civilian payrolls were up $14.9 Million.

The number of Air Force military personnel in Texas declined by 16,349 during the year, but the Air Force military payroll was up $1.2 million. A total of 811 Air Force civilians were added with a $18.5 Million payroll increase.

The Navy added 635 civilian personnel with $1.9 Million more payroll; Navy uniformed personnel increased by 998, and the Navy payroll was up $2.0 Million.

The study revealed that during the fiscal year Amarillo AFB had 8,737 military personnel with a payroll cost of $49, 300, and 1,255 civilian personnel with a payroll cost of $10,043.

Exempt Hunting License Can Be Big Headache

AUSTIN — The exempt hunting license for residents who want to hunt on their own land is not necessarily a bargain, says J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

This exempt license may be obtained from a license deputy for 25 cents.

Phillips says problems usually occur when a landowner with an exempt license gets an invitation to hunt on someone else's land. The exempt license is good only on the land for which it was bought. Since it would be unlawful to buy another license, the landowner must wait until his exempt license expires before he can buy another one and legally hunt on someone else's land.

His Views . . .

AS EXPRESSED IN HIS OWN PUBLIC STATEMENTS

ON HIS PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDACY:

. . . I have said many times if one of the two national parties does not give the American people a choice in 1968, that I will be a candidate.

I AM NOW A CANDIDATE

ON STATES RIGHTS:

. . . I recommend that the states of the Union continue to determine the policies of their domestic institutions themselves and that the bureaucrats and theoreticians in Washington let people in Ohio and New York and California decide themselves . . . what type of school system they are going to have. I recommend states rights and local government, and territorial democracy . . .

ON CRIME:

The first thing I would do as President is to make an announcement that I'd give my moral support as President to the policemen of this country and to the firemen of the country. I'd say, "We stand behind you because you are the thin line between complete anarchy in the streets and the physical safety of our person."

ON VIETNAM:

. . . I think the first thing we ought to do in this country is to impress upon Hanoi and Peking and Moscow the resolve of the American people. These few people today who are out advocating secession and raising money and clothes and supplies for the Viet Cong—these college professors who are making speeches advocating victory for the Viet Cong Communists—I would deal with these people as they ought to be dealt with, as traitors.

ON HIS SUPPORT:

You stand with men, and we, together, can give courageous leadership to millions of people throughout this great nation . . . in the fight to win and preserve our freedom and liberties . . . If the politicians get in the way in 1968, a lot of them are going to get run over by this average man on the street, this man in the textile mill, this man in the steel mill, this barber, the beautician, the policeman on the beat. They are the ones—and the little businessmen—I think those are the mass of people that are going to support a change on the domestic scene in this country.

Meeting Is Held For Beet Growers

Dr. Robert Helmerick, Assistant Director of Agricultural Research for Holly Sugar, and Don Peterson, plant breeder for Holly, presented a discussion Wednesday afternoon at the Community Center on the Holly Research stations and breeding procedures.

Stationed in Sheridan, Wyo., Helmerick informed the gathering of area beet growers of its operations. He explained that the research department in Sheridan works from the Canadian line into the Texas Panhandle doing its research. The department is made up of 12 permanent workers, which includes a weed controller, an employee working with insecticides, a secretary, an agriculturist, a field foreman, an assistant field foreman, three researchers and an analyst. The research station itself is composed of two greenhouses, a psychology room and research plots where experiments are conducted.

Using slides to explain the experiments, Helmerick pointed out that at the Sheridan station, some 4800 plants are planted each year in one of the nurseries in an effort to test disease resistance in plants. Poly-cross, one of the procedures used at the station, crosses the male and female plants in an attempt to produce a more disease-resistant plant. The plants are crossed, re-crossed and so on until this is accomplished.

A pair-crossing program at the Sheridan station has been designed to produce a hybrid, but the present program takes somewhere around seven years to get to the point where results are visible and desirable. This program is designed to fit the different areas of experimenting according to the geographical location of the crops, lands and other specifics.

The researchers at the station are provided with nurseries where male plants are grown separately from the females. Also, one greenhouse is used for germ isolation tests where the female and male plants are planted 40 inches apart to observe their breeding and results. All the data from these experiments

Fever Ticks Could Get To This Area

Fever ticks have been found outside the South Texas Quarantine Zone, advises County Agent Justin McBride.

He said Dr. James B. Henderson, Executive Director Texas Animal Health Commission, Austin, made the announcement and asked stockmen to send a sample of ticks found on either cattle or horses to a regulatory laboratory for identification.

The importance of the samples cannot be overemphasized, Dr. Henderson said, and it is urgent that stockmen throughout the State cooperate.

Ticks should be placed in a vial of commercial alcohol and mailed to the State-Federal Laboratory, Third Floor, Western Republic Life Building, Austin, Texas 78701. A label or memorandum should accompany the sample listing the name of the owner, the mailing address, location of the farm or ranch, and type of animal from which the tick or ticks were removed. As an aid, McBride said the vials used for submitting crew-worm samples for identification could be utilized. They are available at his office and from the following sources:

Because of the importance and urgency of this sampling program, all cattle and horse owners in Deaf Smith County are asked to closely observe their animals for tick infestation and submit to the Austin Laboratory specimens if and when discovered. Assistance is available at the County Agent's office, he said.

Rally Planned By Democrats

Democrats from the 18th Congressional District will honor their candidates for Governor.

Wylie Reynolds, chairman of the barbecue dinner-rally said that the event will be held at the Pampa Youth Center and that approximately 1000 people are expected to honor Lt. Governor Preston Smith, Speaker of the House Ben Barnes, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin and Congressional candidate Dick Brown.

Speeches by the four will highlight the occasion, and all Democratic candidates will be recognized. Master of ceremonies will be Ralph Wayne, of Plainview.

The center will be decorated around the theme "Demos Rate In '68." Music will be provided by Pat Carter and his trio from Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General and Congressman at an All-District Rally in Pampa, Oct. 15, 6:30 p. m. sponsored by the Pampa-Gray County Democratic Party and Club.

Tickets for the event are available from County Chairmen in the 28 county district or at the door for $5 each.

"We are especially pleased to be able to honor all three of these distinguished candidates and urge all Democrats to come over to meet and visit with the men who will lead the state ticket to a Democratic victory in '68," Reynolds said.

Make Kitchen A Step-Saver

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

This month is a good time to look critically at your kitchen to be sure it is arranged for convenience and comfort. There may be many things that you cannot do as it would make for major change or expense.

HOWEVER, things recommended for convenience can save you lots of time and energy. Simply plan for better use of space inside your kitchen cabinets.

Storage in the right place saves time, stooping, stretching, steps and you. Exercise is excellent for body building and maintaining but please, plan for your exercise in places other than the kitchen.

Plan cabinet space so supplies and utensils used most often within areas easiest to see and reach. These guidelines should be checked by you in your kitchen.

GUIDELINES FOR KITCHEN STORAGE

1. Check to see if you are making the best use of your present cupboard space.
2. Get rid of (or store some other place) all utensils and supplies you are not using.
3. Store utensils, dishes and supplies at places where you first use them most often.
4. Store together the things you use together.
5. Use the easy-to-reach and easy-to-see spaces for things you most often use.
6. Place utensils, dishes, cutlery and food supplies so that moving one to get another is not necessary.
7. Put only like kinds of things in front of each other on a shelf.
8. Stack together only things of the same size and kind.
9. Plan to keep on the same shelf only things of about the same height.
10. Use your measuring stick, pencil and paper to fit storage space to things you store. Allow for clearance at the top and sides. One to two inches are needed at the top.

11. Make storage space easy to clean. Shelves and partitions should be removable and surfaces should be smooth.

12. Keep in mind that you will need storage space for future purchases.

13. Store mixing bowls, platters, plates and pans of different shapes singly on shelves and in drawers.

How did your kitchen measure up? Rearrange some of the things you have thought of as you read this to make for more convenience.

FORD CLUB HAD two visitors at Wednesday's meeting. Mrs. Doris Emerson from Tulsa, who gave us a good recipe for refrigerator salad, also Mrs. Jose Gonzales, who lives in the Ford Community.

We are always glad to have visitors and want people to know they are welcome to visit. Two of the club members have moved to Amarillo and we will miss them.

REFRIGERATOR SALAD
Boil together three or four minutes:
4 cups salad oil
2 cups vinegar
1 cup water

Let cool. Shred two heads of cabbage, add 2T. salt; let stand 1 hour. Squeeze all the water from the cabbage, add:
2 diced green peppers
2 diced red peppers
1 stalk celery
1 t. celery seed
1 t. mustard seed
Pour cooled syrup over all other ingredients. Seal in tight container and store in the refrigerator. This will keep for a long time.

ly dried inside, so dry that the seeds rattle when the gourds are shaken.

Dust the shells, wipe them with a sudsy sponge, wipe off every bit of moisture and coat them with thin white shellac. Repeat with a second coat of shellac, apply liquid floor wax; then polish the treated gourds to a high gloss.

INCIDENTALLY, did you know that gourds were once literally the basis of building a national currency? When King Henri Christophe set up his exotic reign on the island of Haiti some 165 years ago, he faced a barren treasury.

Years of warfare against Napoleon's troops had ruined the economy of the once-rich colony, and the freed slaves had so little money that a taxation program was impossible.

The wily Christophe looked around for something that his subjects simply would not do without and settled on gourds because these hardy plants were used as kitchen utensils, dinnerware, water basins, and drinking vessels.

By gathering in the entire gourd harvest and piling it in his empty treasury, he had a commodity every person on the island had to buy. To this day, the paper currency in that tropical republic is called the "gourde" note — evidence of how really valuable these hard-shelled fruits can be.

Easter News

By RUBY STONE
Brand Correspondent

Do you have any 15-year-old girl radio engineer in your town? Easter Community has one, you see, and she is probably the only 15-year-old girl in Texas with a first class Radio Engineer's license.

She is Denise Stone, Dimmitt High School sophomore student, who graduated from Elkins Radio Electronics school in Dallas, Sept. 4 and received her diploma and first class license last week. Denise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Stone, is the girl who conducts the teenage show on KDHN every week-day from 4 p. m. to sundown sign off.

Denise is eligible to work in the control room of any radio or t. v. station in the United States. Her license is the same that is required of all senior engineers in stations and networks.

Denise graduated from Elkins Institute of Radio and Electronics where she was the youngest student and only girl in her class. It was an intensive six weeks course and she had to miss her first classes in Dimmitt.

High gave Denise permission to miss the first week of school without losing any grade credits. Her after-school duties at KDHN include taking requests, compiling her own newscast from the A. P. Wire Machine, reading the meter every half hour, (Checking such technical things as the plate current, plate voltage, loop current, frequency deviation, etc.), signing off and shutting down the station's power.

And as if that was not enough, she also is serving as student control-room instructor for Dimmitt High School's radio speech class — a class in

Alcoholism Is Meeting Topic

The Rev. Fred Howard, vicar of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, will be speaker at the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism meeting Tuesday at noon in the Hotel Jim Hill.

Rev. Howard attended the Institute on Alcoholic Studies in Austin during July and is scheduled to make his report during this meeting.

FT. KNOX, KY. — Second Lieutenant James A. Cowell, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Cowell, 502 S. W. Fourth, Dimmitt, completed an officer basic course at the Army Armor School, Ft. Knox, Ky.

The nine-week course covers branch training in armor for newly commissioned officers with special emphasis on duties of a tank platoon leader.

Lt. Cowell received his commission through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program at West Texas State University in Canyon.

He is a 1963 graduate of Dimmitt High School and is a member of Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

War Film Is Free To Some

Deaf Smith County servicemen and women have an opportunity for the second time within two months to have their families see "The Green Berets" free of charge, as the guests of local theaterman Francis Hardwick and the Brand Publishing Company.

The same offer was made earlier when the picture was showing at the downtown theatre. But reports were received that various families missed the picture at that time, so the offer was repeated for qualified persons. It is showing at the Tower Drive-In Theatre in Hereford on September 27, 28 and 29.

To qualify for free admission, parents of service personnel who are being shipped to Vietnam (now with definite orders), who are presently stationed in the Vietnam war zone, or who have had previous experience there — but did not receive an invitation previously to see the picture at the Star Theatre in July — are asked to mail their name and address (along with the name of the service kin) to: "The Green Berets," P. O. Box 673, Hereford, Texas 79045.

In cases where Vietnam veterans are married, their mates are also qualified as guests, as are all children of the parents under age 18.

However, the invitation requests must be mailed to the above address in order to have them returned. Invitations will not be available at the theatres or at the Brand office.

"The Green Berets," starring John Wayne, David Janssen and Jim Hutton, is an exciting tribute to the newest branch of the U. S. Army, the Special Forces, and a thrilling account of their service in South Vietnam.

The famous wearers of the Green Berets have as their motto, "To liberate from oppression." Skilled in the techniques of unconventional warfare, they became a separate Army branch with the formation, in 1952, of the 10th Special Forces Group at Fort Bragg.

In "The Green Berets," Wayne, as a Special Forces colonel, handpicks an A-Team, of two officers and ten men, to work with the South Vietnamese.

Special Forces soldiers must know two or more languages and be intensively trained. And A-Team must be skilled in guerrilla and counter-insurgency warfare, and have the "diplomatic" ability to work with the local people.

The feature is in Technicolor and Panavision and has a running time of 2 hours and 21 minutes.

Rites Conducted For Mrs. Bush

Funeral services for Mrs. Everett Bush, 65, were conducted Friday morning in Avenue Baptist Church by the Rev. H.V. Fields, pastor of Grace Gospel Church. Graveside services were held in the afternoon and burial was in Dalhart Cemetery.

Mrs. Bush came to Hereford in 1947 from Dalhart. Her death occurred Wednesday in an Amarillo hospital. Claborn Funeral Home of Friona was in charge of rites.

A Tennessee native, she is survived by her husband; a son, O. C. Buckmaster of Ogden, Utah; two sisters living in Hereford, Mrs. Myrtle Lindley and Mrs. Hazel Warrick; and four grandchildren.

SUPPORT OUR POLICE

1. HE NEEDS OUR SUPPORT—"We need to improve the salaries and working conditions of our law enforcement officers. A policeman has a 1 in 8 chance of being assaulted. He is protecting us and he needs more than our thanks; he needs our concern and help."
2. HE NEEDS OUR UNDERSTANDING—"We need a deeper understanding of the policeman's problems. He needs the cooperation of good citizens, for good citizens are vital to effective law enforcement. A good citizen will report a crime—be a witness—show up for jury service. It is time for each of us to be a GOOD CITIZEN. As District Attorney I will work in the community for better public understanding of law enforcement."

IMPROVE LAW ENFORCEMENT

1. CONTINUING EDUCATION—"As District Attorney I will hold seminars with law enforcement officials to go over new laws and new rulings so that our police understand them and can effectively enforce the law. A policeman's job is a complicated one and he needs, like many of us, to constantly keep up with the progress being made in law enforcement techniques."
2. CLOSER COOPERATION—"There must be closer cooperation between the police and the District Attorney's office to make sure that the guilty are convicted and innocent are set free. It is wrong to have set a man free for insufficient evidence, when, with closer cooperation, the evidence could have been produced."

CITIZEN PROTECTION

1. AN OPEN DOOR—"If I am elected District Attorney, I will be as far away as your phone. I believe that the District Attorney should serve the people and he should be available to any citizen with a problem."
2. FAIR TREATMENT FOR ALL—"The poet, Walt Whitman, said a hundred years ago that if one man does not get his rights, then 'mine are in danger.' The office of District Attorney should be dedicated to justice for all. No guilty man should escape prosecution, but no man should be denied his rights."
