

Clayton, Lamb Co. Farmers Sue TRLA

Three Lamb County farmers—including Rep. Bill Clayton—have filed suit against Texas Rural Legal Aid, Inc., it was reported this week by The Lamb County Leader-News.

The suit, filed in Lamb County District Court, names Edward J. Tuddenham and J.E. Sausedo, both of Hereford, as representatives of TRLA and charges false, misleading and deceptive acts or practices in trade or commerce in violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

The suit was filed by Ardis Barton, Ronald Cleavinger and Bill W. Clayton. Plaintiffs are asking damages in the amount of $20,000 each, but it is stated in the suit that "damages set forth are, in fact, difficult to determine."

The suit contends that on or about June 8, 1980, J.E. Sausedo, acting on behalf of Edward Tuddenham, placed an ad in The Earth News-Sun, and the ad stated: "The minimum wage for agriculture workers is $3.10 per hour for the year 1980."

The plaintiffs charge that this advertisement is "misleading and deceptive and a half-truth." Specifically, it is stated in the suit, the minimum wage for agricultural workers is not $3.10 per hour in any case where the employer, as defined by the Fair Labor Standard Act, has not during any calendar year employed more than 500 "man-days" of labor.

The Fair Labor Standard Act contains specific exemptions from the minimum wage provisions, states the suit "and the advertisement did not spell out any of the exemptions, leaving anyone not familiar with the law thinking that anything less than $3.10 paid would be a violation of the law."

The suit also charges that the advertisement was placed in the name of the United States Department of Labor by J.E. Sausedo, "when, in fact, he is not an agent of that department or never has been, causing confusion as to his affiliation, connection, association or certifications by others, which constitutes a false, misleading and deceptive act or practice in trade or commerce in violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act."

Plaintiffs in the suit also charge that the defendants "have engaged in conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Texas Business and Commerce Act by soliciting, from plaintiffs and others, signatures on purported cotton hoeing agreements."

It is further alleged that the defendants have "attempted to agree and combine so that individual farmworkers who desire to work are denied the right to work for a particular farmer because of their non-membership or non-association with the defendants."

The suit also alleges the defendants "have abused the civil rights process by maliciously attempting to force and coerce an entire community in the Earth-Sprinklake area into paying wages for agriculture labor which plaintiffs and others are not required to pay, by engaging in a campaign of writing threatening letters, filing frivolous lawsuits and attempting to intimidate plaintiffs and others."

"The effects of the unlawful conduct of the defendants may be felt for years to come," states the suit, "and will be aggravated unless the defendants are permanently enjoined as to continuation of such activities, and if not, the plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law."

Family Services Center Staff

Davis, consulting psychiatrist from Amarillo; and Peggy Avent, case worker. The center's staff offers counseling for individuals as well as families.

Reaching People Chief Goal For Family Services Center

By ALLISON RYAN
Women's Editor

Often when individuals are faced with divorce, family problems or any type of an emotional stress situation counseling is required to rebuild self-confidence.

Mike Moon, director of the Family Services Center, with a full-time counseling staff, consulting psychologist, and consulting psychiatrist have established a means to offer counseling for individuals and families who need help.

From September of 1979 through August of this year, 400 people used the services at the center located at 610 E. Park Ave.

"The majority of problems we work with are in the area of self confidence and helping people speak up for needs they are not getting. When someone is in this type of situation they often become depressed," Moon explained.

Moon said when an individual or a family first comes to the center a plan or therapy treatment is designed which the individual thinks will work best in learning to cope with a situation.

"When someone first comes to the center we work out a plan for them. They have a choice of a male or female counselor. Once that is decided we have them sign a contract stating how many visits will be required and what they want to get out of counseling from the center. There should be no surprises for someone who is receiving counseling," Moon said.

The staff at the center works with family and marriage counseling as well as individual counseling.

"Sometimes when a person needs counseling, the problem stems from the family. There is strength within a family. We try to tap that strength whenever possible

According to Moon counseling helps family members draw closer together. It also helps families face certain realities such as divorce, separation or death in the family.

"I don't think what I say is major in creating change. It is more in the part of the individual to work and make that change. Changing is hard work and the purpose of counseling is to guide people toward that change," he said.

The center is staffed with people who can relate to a person having trouble coping with a situation.

The staff in Hereford includes Moon, who has a Master's degree in social work; Peggy Avent, case worker with a Bachelor of Arts degree; and Judy Horn, alcoholism and drug abuse counselor with a CAC degree and state certification from Minnesota and Texas;

Dr. Ken McTague of Amarillo serves as the center's consulting psychologist. He travels to Hereford once every five weeks and is involved with case supervision. Dr. Frances Davis of Amarillo serves as the center's consulting psychiatrist.

"Dr. Davis has been in private practice for 23 years. We are fortunate to have a psychiatrist who is willing to travel," Moon said.

Dr. Davis sees clients on her visits here as well as providing case supervision and treatment recommendations.

All staff members work with individuals and families in the area that require their services and information between counselors and clients is kept confidential.

Funding for the service is provided through different channels. According to Moon 75-79 percent is provided through Texas State Department of Mental Health. The rest of the funds are received from client fees, donations, revenue sharing and the United Way.

"Last year's United Way allocation provided slightly less than 50 cents for each hour of service that was given. In other words the five people working with the center provided services to our community at a cost of less than 50 cents per hour for every United Way dollar allocated to the center last year," Moon stated.

"That's a very good bargain but realistically cannot be continued without people supporting of the United Way," he continued.

Client fees are based on a sliding scale based on salary.

"However seventy percent of our clients do not pay a fee. The way the scale is set a family of four must have a monthly income of $870 before a fee is charged," Moon said.

The center also works with other United Way agencies such as Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Boy Scouts and Senior Citizens.

"We do a great deal of referrals in that we suggest sometimes that our clients become involved with these other agencies," he said.

Moon also said his staff is available for speaking engagements for any organization in the area.

"This is a channel to use to alert the community to the services available in Hereford. It is a way for us to get out and reach people," he continued.

People is the key word in defining the idea of the Family Services Center and the drive behind the staff.

"We feel it is good for people to be in contact with other people. What is important is people helping people," he concluded.

State Department Denies Report Of Pending Trade for Hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department denied Wednesday a report on a Chicago television station that military planes were ready to leave for Iran by Friday with spare fighter parts to trade for the American hostages.

Quoting "exclusive sources" here, WLS-TV, the ABC affiliate in Chicago, said a "deal is in the works" for the hostages' release, perhaps as soon as the end of the week.

State Department officials, asking not to be named, denied the report. A White House official, also requesting anonymity, said, "There is nothing to the report."

At the Pentagon, spokesman Thomas Ross also denied the story, saying "The report involving aircraft loaded with spare parts is false."

Herd Faces Plainview In Key District Opener

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

All the hard fought, but essentially trivial outcomes of pre-conference play will fall by the wayside here Friday night as the thriving 5-1 Hereford Whitefaces and perennial powerhouse Plainview Bulldogs (now 3-3) dig in for one of the 4-5A league's most talked about opening slugfests.

Both squads are thought to harbor the troops generally needed for potential candidacies in the district's overall mudslinging campaign, but the upcoming clash between the Herd and Angry Red Bulldogs takes on even greater proportions — that being a whole-hearted medieval rivalry.

In last year's conflict for example, the Bulldogs ebbed their way past Hereford with a slender 26-21 victory only after scoring a come-from-behind touchdown with 15 seconds remaining in the grudge match.

"This game is important for us for a couple of reasons," said head Whiteface mentor Don Cumpston in a Wednesday conference. "First of all it is a natural rivalry — I truly believe Plainview has been our biggest foe in this district since we became a part of it. We've just traditionally had some of our tougher outings against the Bulldogs whether it was important for either one of us in respect to district standings." Said Cumpston.

"Secondly, it has the added importance of being an initial contest going into the league's play. Whoever wins this game will be in the driver's seat — whoever loses won't be out of the race, but the victor will have a marked advantage in things to come," he added.

Rolling into the first district collision for both squads, the Bulldogs would appear at a slight disadvantage. Running out of a wing-T offense the Angry Red has meandered its way to three losses on the year after falling to Amarillo Tascosa 21-20, and Midland Lee 16-12 in the squad's second and third ball games on the year, and most recently to the Clovis Wildcats 21-14.

And even though Plainview (6-4 on the season last year) takes a back seat to Hereford in virtually every category on the district statistic slate, the squad does boast the running exploits of the district's leading rusher in Pat Brown. The PHS running back is already threatening the 1000 yard mark with four games remaining in play after carrying the pigskin for 729 yards on 99 attempts. That averages out to slightly over 121 yards per showing.

Iraq Claims Forces Encircling Abadan

BASRA, Iraq (AP) — Iraq claimed that its forces completed their encirclement of Abadan, cutting the last highway into the besieged oil refinery city at the southern end of the war front and capturing the local radio station.

Action also was reported in the center and in the northern sector of Iraq's 300-mile invasion front as its war to win full control of the Shatt al-Arab estuary, its waterway to the Persian Gulf, went into its 25th day.

Iran claimed that its army killed 1,000 Iraqi troops in airborne assaults in the Ilam sector, 250 miles northwest of Abadan.

Iraq reported "fierce battles" on the outskirts of Dezful, a military headquarters city and oilfield center 140 miles north of Abadan. Tehran Radio reported Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and other members of Iran's Supreme National Defense Council visited Dezful Wednesday and "spent three hours inspecting the battle fronts under the barrage of enemy artillery fire."

Rajai was expected in New York today to argue Iran's case before the U.N. Security Council. (See IRAQ, Page 2-A)

Randy Vogel Has RGC Steer at State Fair

Deaf Smith County 4-H'er Randy Vogel, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Vogel of Hereford exhibited the Reserve Grand Champion steer at the Star Fair of Texas in Dallas Wednesday.

Vogel's steer, a 1,285 pound Chiania, took breed champion honors in its class before going on to Reserve Grand Champion.

The steer will be sold in the rich state fair auction Friday.

Wednesday's win marked the second time around for Vogel, who also exhibited the Reserve Grand Champion steer at the state fair three years ago.

Among those accompanying Vogel to the state fair and on hand to watch the win were his father, County Extension Agent Juston McBride, and assistant Extension agent Robby Vann.

Lions Aid UW Drive

Hereford Lions Club Wednesday presented a check for $1,720 to the United Way of Deaf Smith County. Bud Eades, left, advance gifts chairman, accepted the check from Sid Shaw, president of the club. The contribution represented a gift of $10 per member from the Lions Club. More than $30,000 had been reported from the advance division this week, and other divisions have started their efforts toward reaching the $150,000 goal.

State Fair Rides Being Studied

DALLAS (AP) — Although State Fair of Texas officials label the Midway ride accidents this year as minor, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission says it will continue to investigate the four incidents. A federal court order bars the commission from actually inspecting the rides, but the agency will interview the people involved in the accidents for a report expected within a month, said Larry Blend, acting regional director of the commission.

A court order was issued after a legal battle with fair officials after the Swiss Skyride accident last year that killed one Dallas man and injured 17 people, he said.

The consumer agency charged six weeks ago that fair officials and the operator supervising the Skyway attraction knew the ride was unsafe.

White May File Suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements again has asked Attorney General Mark White to file a suit attacking the Windfall Profits Tax, and White says he just might.

For the first time, White said he is looking at the possibility of legal action to challenge the tax.

White said his staff met Wednesday with assistant attorneys general from Louisiana and Oklahoma to discuss various legal strategies to fight the tax.

Oklahoma already has challenged the tax's validity in federal court. White said Texas' action will depend in part on whether the courts grant standing to oil-producing states to contest the tax.

"If Oklahoma prevails (on the standing issue), we'll probably join in Oklahoma's litigation. We are going to exhaust every legal possibility in objecting to the Windfall Profits Tax," the attorney general said.

Clements released copies of a letter he sent White on Tuesday, urging White to join a suit filed in Wyoming federal court by the Independent Producers Association of America.

White said he was glad Clements had the letter hand-delivered so "we didn't waste any money on stamps.... He is swatting at gnats and I am fighting nighthawks."

White also said the issue was too important for "shooting from the lip."

Grand Jurors Check Out Oil Pricing

DALLAS (AP) — A special grand jury is looking into allegations of a multi-billion dollar fraudulent oil pricing scheme in the mammoth East Texas oil field, a Dallas newspaper has reported.

The Dallas Morning News, in a copyright article in its Thursday editions, reported that a special grand jury was impaneled in Longview in mid-August to investigate alleged price fixing schemes in which "old oil" was sold at "new oil" prices.

One unidentified source told the newspaper that the alleged fraud involves "a multi-billion dollar operation — not millions, but billions — over the periods of years."

However, the newspaper said another source said authorities have been unable to determine the amount of money involved.

End of Year Peace Unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Mideast peace summit by the end of the year now appears unlikely, even though U.S. officials say the latest round of formal talks between Egypt and Israel produced some progress on a Palestinian autonomy agreement.

According to these officials, who asked not to be identified, several issues that stood in the way of a five-year plan for the Israeli-held West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip are now closer to resolution.

Details were withheld, but Israel's willingness to share authority with the Palestinians over some day-to-day living arrangements could be pivotal in devising an autonomy plan, the officials said.

Although there was apparently movement on both sides, officials agree that a lot of work needs to be done before a summit session can be held among President Carter, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Officials had said several times that Carter hoped to hold a three-way summit after next month's U.S. elections next month. Prospects for such a meeting appear to have dimmed, although it is still a possibility.

Iraq

ty Council. The council opened debate on the war Wednesday, and Foreign Minister Saddam Hammadi of Iraq told it Iran provoked the conflict by violating its 1975 treaty with Iraq and by trying to export Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic revolution to Iraq and the other Persian Gulf states.

No confirmation of any of the military claims was available, but both Iranian and Iraqi communiques and the reports of their official news agencies agreed that there was hard fighting in around Abadan and Dezful. Iraq made no mention of the Ilam sector.

Abadan, 30 miles up the Shatt al-Arab from the Persian Gulf, and the oil port of Khorramshahr, 10 miles to the northwest, were the two Iranian strongpoints on the estuary that forms the southern end of the border between Iran and Iraq and has been a major territorial issue between them for centuries.

Iraqi troops and tanks that advanced eastward above Khorramshahr and Abadan and then turned south toward the gulf on Wednesday cut the highway between Abadan and the oil fields to the east, the refinery city's last supply line, the Iraqi News Agency reported Wednesday night.

The agency said the commander of the battlefront's southern sector told a visiting INA team his troops had taken control of Abadan's radio station, captured 100 Iranian military personnel including two high-ranking officials, destroyed a "huge" amount of armored equipment and inflicted heavy casualties on the Iranian defenders.

The INA report said Iranian planes tried to attack the advancing Iraqi troops but that they saw one Iranian Phantom shot down and that Iraqi jets destroyed the six oil pipelines that connect Abadan with Tehran, stopping the flow of oil to the Iranian capital and other cities.

Iran's official Pars news agency claimed, however, that Iraqi forces were driven back from Abadan and were now six miles from the bridge over the Bahmanshir River, to the east of Abadan. It said all entrances to Abadan were blocked and the people of Abadan "took up positions in street trenches and got ready for hand to hand fighting." It said Abadan "will become a hell for the Iraqi infidels" if they should enter.

Pars also said Iranian troops destroyed 20 Iraqi tanks and inflicted heavy casualties in a raid on an Iraqi position at Hamidiyah, in Khuzistan Province, and that an Iranian jet fighter shot down an Iraqi MiG in the area of Kharg Island, Iran's oil terminal 150 miles to the southeast of Abadan.

Iran's navy commander renewed Tehran's threat to mine the Persian Gulf and the Strait of Hormuz through which much of the oil to the West flows. But Pentagon officials in Washington said the Iranian navy lacked the capacity to lay mines in the oil lanes and even if it did that U.S. helicopters on two aircraft carriers in the Arabian Sea could clear them.

President Carter said during a campaign stop in Secaucus, N.J. that U.S. naval and air power in the area is sufficient to keep the oil lanes open without resorting to American ground forces.

The Washington Post said the United States and its allies have at least 60 warships in the Indian Ocean area, compared to the 29 the Soviet Union has deployed. It said the allied fleet includes 32 U.S. ships, 20 French, five Australian and two British.

President Called 'Women's Candidate'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Marking the first major pitch to women voters in this key state, a White House assistant says President Carter is the "women's candidate" this year because of his long-standing commitment to equal rights.

Sarah Weddington, a Texan who now serves as assistant to the president, called Republican Ronald Reagan a "Johnny Come Lately" on women's issues during an interview here Wednesday.

Reagan, who says he favors equal rights for women but opposes the ERA, said earlier this week he would appoint a woman to the U.S. Supreme Court if elected president.

are."

"If you have anything on tape to say I ever mentioned a bribe or took a bribe, I wish you would play it for the jury," he said.

"...Texas is a critical state for us to win," said Weddington, the highest-ranking woman and Texan in the Carter administration. "We have to win Texas for us to really win the presidency. Texas is vital to us and it's in the balance."

She said neither candidate has a strong grip on Texas' 26 electoral votes, and the Carter forces will be blitzing the state in the three weeks before Nov. 4.

"It's clear it could go either way," she said. Mrs. Weddington will campaign in Irving, Dallas, Garland, Odessa, Lubbock and her hometown of Pecos this week.

She accused Reagan of trying to play catch-up by announcing he would appoint a woman to the Supreme Court, noting that Carter said a year ago he would consider such an appointment.

But Carter's statement was not in the form of a promise, she said.

Tower To Campaign In Amarillo Saturday

AMARILLO—U.S. Senator John Tower will conclude a four-day campaign swing in Texas here Saturday, October 18, by participating in a fund-raising reception at 7:30 p.m. at the Inn of Amarillo.

The senior Texas senator will help boost the campaigns of local GOP candidates, including State Sen. Bob Price of Pampa and Chip Staniswalis, State Rep. candidate for District 67.

Tower is scheduled to arrive here from Dallas late Saturday afternoon. Earlier that day, Tower and his wife Lilla will be honored guests at the 43rd annual Texas Rose Festival in Tyler.

Tower's tour on behalf of the Reagan-Bush ticket as well as local Republican candidates will be highlighted Thursday, October 16, by a three-way debate by presidential surrogates in Austin. Tower will be pitted against former attorney general John Hill representing the Carter Campaign and Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, advocate for Independent John Anderson. The first statewide debate will be telecast live on PBS stations in San Antonio and Austin and shown on a delayed basis elsewhere.

Other stops during the four days include Georgetown, Houston, and Corpus Christi.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Wheels For Life Bike-a-thon is over for this year and, looking back we want to sincerely thank the citizens of Hereford for their generous support of our campaign.

We are extremely proud of the 26 riders, the hard working volunteers whose efforts made this a success, and the citizens of Hereford. Thanks to them, we raised a grand total of $1700.00.

Because the diseases that St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is battling can strike any child anywhere, this money will be helping to save children's lives all over the world.

Your help was an important part of this event, and you performed a very worthwhile service acquainting the citizens of Hereford with the life-giving work being done by St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. For that, we are very grateful.

It is a wonderful feeling to know that the people of our community are concerned and caring individuals and, on behalf of the children of St. Jude's I want to thank each and every one who helped.

Sincerely,
Ann Lueb

Car Theft Reported To Police

Possible auto theft charges are pending following a complaint to Hereford police Wednesday concerning a missing auto.

According to a police spokesman, Gloria Como of 1612 north Ave. K reported the theft of a 1973 Plymouth. The car was originally loaned to an individual who was to attempt to obtain a loan to buy the vehicle.

The car was not returned and was later found in Amarillo.

A missing newspaper dispenser was reported by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The coin-operated stand was apparently taken from the front of Troy's Sweet Shop on East Park Avenue.

Officers arrested a 25-year-old male Wednesday night on charges of drunk in a residence not his own.

Police answered 10 non-offense reports Wednesday and issued two traffic citations.

Two Defendants Say Secret Tapes Prove Their Innocence

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Austin attorneys indicted in the Brillab scandal say the FBI's secretly-recorded tapes of an alleged insurance kickback scheme are "embarrassing" but prove their innocence.

Donald Ray and Randall Wood, on trial with Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton, testified Wednesday it would have been useless to try to bribe state officials to reopen bidding on an $82-million-a-year state insurance contract.

"All state officials would be glad to save the state $1 million and that was the proposal made to us by what we thought were Prudential Insurance Co. representatives," Randall said shortly before he completed two days of testimony.

The three men and Deer Park labor leader L.G. Moore were indicted June 12 on charges of extortion, racketeering, bribery and fraud. Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union, is to be tried later.

Clayton is accused of accepting $5,000 from Moore with promises of another $500,000 if he reopened bidding on the lucrative contract.

A 20-year member of the Texas Legislature who is seeking an unprecedented fourth term as speaker, Clayton said he thought the money was a campaign contribution and planned to return it.

The government's case centers on secret recordings made by FBI informant Joseph Hauser and two undercover agents during a 10-month investigation of labor corruption in the Southwest.

Shortly after the Wednesday morning session, U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor denied a request by attorney for Dallas television station WFAA to allow the Brillab tapes to be copied for eventual broadcasting.

Stephin Philbin, attorney for Belo Broadcasting Corp., said the station would decide what further action to take but hinted he would probably request a hearing before the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Portions of the tapes were replayed to the jury Wednesday as Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Woods asked by lawyers about comments each made to Moore and Hauser, who posed during the investigation as an representative of Prudential Insurance Co.

Both attorneys, accused of using the friendships with state officials to try to reopen contract bidding, called the tapes "embarrassing" but insisted the recordings failed to

Philadelphia Takes 2-0 Series Lead To Kansas City

Schmidt Double Puts Phillies Over Royals

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike Schmidt stood at home plate, his bat over his shoulder and his body twisting. A little English might have kept that ball in fair territory, he thought.

It curved, maybe five or 10 feet foul, arching high over the foul pole down the left-field line, and instead of a home run, Schmidt had a meaningless foul ball. They call it a long strike.

"I thought it might have a chance, but it hooked just like my golf drives," Schmidt said of his fifth-inning drive. "I know it doesn't mean anything, but I think that foul ball might have helped me get going."

When Schmidt, the Philadelphia Phillies' slugging third baseman, got going, he sent the Kansas City Royals home with a handful of woes. Schmidt's eighth-inning double drove in the winning run, and the Phillies downed the Royals 6-4 Wednesday night for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven 1980 World Series.

The Series moves to Kansas City for games on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, if necessary. The Royals face the unenviable task of rebounding against a team that has scored 13 runs in the first two games of the Series, having won 7-6 on Tuesday, and they may have to face it without All-Star third baseman George Brett.

Brett had to be removed from the game in the sixth inning when an inflammation of his hemorrhoids, a problem that began only about a week ago, started to bother him too severely. Royals Manager Jim Frey said he was not certain of Brett's status for Friday.

again. In eight innings, he gave up 10 hits, six walks and three earned runs with 10 strikeouts.

"He's done a lot of pitching in the last six months," Schmidt said. "But that shows you that Steve, even at his worst, can keep us in any game."

The Phillies got off to a 2-0 lead in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Manny Trillo and a run-scoring single by Larry Bowa.

Kansas City got one run from a 4-0 deficit to win the World Series opener. They trailed at one time or another in all five of their National League Championship Series games with Houston.

"It seems like we're waiting for the other team to score first," Phils first baseman Pete Rose said. "We know we're going to have a big inning, but you can't keep waiting for that."

Philadelphia's big inning came in the eighth. Royals' lefty Larry Gura, 18-10 during the season, had retired the first 13 Phillies he faced, but Frey had to yank him after six innings when he complained that he had run out of gas.

"When he came off the mound after his last inning, he said he didn't feel he had his fastball anymore," Frey said.

Enter Dan Quisenberry, 33 saves during the season and considered the AL's top relief pitcher. If the game had gone according to script, that should have been the end of it. Quisenberry got the side in order in the seventh, but he walked Bob Boone to lead off the eighth.

Pinch hitter Del Unser drove Boone in from first with a double to the wall in left-center. Rose bounced to first baseman Pete LaCock, a defensive replacement, sending Unser to third. Bake McBride's chopping single over the head of second baseman Frank White drove in Unser, tying the score 4-4. That brought Schmidt to the plate.

Schmidt, who led the majors with 48 homers in the regular season, had hit a dismal .208 in the playoffs. In the final game of the league championship, he went 0-for-5, striking out three times. He had an infield single, two walks and a strikeout in the Series opener.

"The champagne would have tasted a hair sweeter if I had gotten my uniform dirty in that game," Schmidt said.

In Schmidt's first time up Wednesday night, he grounded to third. In second trip, he fought Gura to a 3-2 count, and fouled off a pitch. Schmidt sent Gura's next pitch a mile, but foul, before grounding out again. In the sixth, he hit a harmless single, and then, in the eighth, it was all on the line.

Schmidt sent Quisenberry's first pitch to the wall in right-center on one short hop for double and a 5-4 Philadelphia lead. Rookie Keith Moreland, starting as designated hitter in place of the ailing Greg Luzinski, singled to score Schmidt before pinch hitter Greg Gross finally grounded into an inning-ending double play.

Ron Reed took over for Carlton in the ninth inning. He struck out pinch hitter Darrell Porter, who did not start against the lefty Carlton and was hitting in the spot that would have been occupied by Brett. Reed then yielded Hal McRae's third single of the game, but retired the side by getting Otis to hit into a fielder's choice grounder and striking out Wathan.

The Royals will pitch Rich Gale, 13-9 during the season, against Dick Ruthven, 17-10, in the third game Friday. It is a must game for the Royals; no team ever has recovered from a 3-0 deficit to win the Series.

"We'll have to wait," Frey said. "He has two days and it's a day-to-day thing. We hope he's better."

The Phillies started left-hander Steve Carlton in Game 2. A 24-game winner during the regular season, "Lefty" had struggled in the playoffs against Houston. In the fourth game, his second start, he went only 51-3 innings, his shortest stint of the season. He couldn't keep his pitches around the plate.

Wednesday night, the silent left-hander was in trouble back in the sixth when Amos Otis singled, advanced to second when John Wathan walked and scored on a throwing error by Trillo on a high chopper by Willie Aikens.

The Royals scored three times in the seventh. Carlton walked the bases full, and Otis slugged a two-run double, followed by a sacrifice fly by Wathan. The score was 4-2 and Philadelphia's "Comback Gang" went to work again.

Herd Takes 5-1 Mark Into Clash With Bulldogs

In total team play, Hereford has bludgeoned out 1,868 yards offense with 1,314 of that coming in the rushing column, and 554 yards off the throwing arm of quarterback Alan Wartes in the passing category for the league's second highest tally.

The 311.3 average real estate garnered by the Herd was greatly padded in last week's 14-0 victory over Tascosa following the squad's dispersal of 488 yards on the night as the district's highest recorded sum in a single venture.

Plainview is currently resting directly behind the Whitefaces after compiling a total of 1,634 - 1,359 in the rushing slot and 275 with its air attack for a 272.3 average per contest.

In total defense the squads are a contrasting mismatch. The Bulldogs, calling last place in the district's justification portion of play home, are holding on to the honor after giving up a massive tally of 1,339 on the year. That amounts to a 223.1 yard gift for each opponent they meet.

The Whitefaces have given up 171.2 per outing - a sum of 1,027 on the season with 604 coming on the rush and 423 in the passing game.

"The key for us in the ball game will be to contain their speed in Pat Brown and P.W. Thompson, control the line of scrimmage like we were able to do against Tascosa and eliminate mental mistakes," Cumpton said of the upcoming district clash. "Brown and Thompson have accounted for 75 per cent of their offense so far this year and so I think you could safely say those two are the ones we've got to stop Friday night," he continued.

"I think we can do that because our defensive game is becoming more and more attuned to meet the demands when they're faced with different offensive alignments," he said. "But we've got to stop making mental errors. We gave up too many yards in penalties and turnovers on the offense and defense last week, and we can't have that in district play - it will all come down to who makes the fewest mistakes," Cumpton stated.

The Whitefaces literally blew Tascosa defenders off the line as they wheeled their way to the most massive offensive display they've recorded up to date, but came out of the one-sided contest totting only 14 points. The difference in what could have been a 35 point tally came on fumbles coughed up at critical times - on or inside the 20-yard line.

"Those turnovers cost us some good runs and scores last week and we'll just have to execute our play better, plus make better decisions as to where to run and what to run," he added.

"Plainview's stunting defense creates those types of problems for you, so we'll have to keep our heads in the game and be alert the whole time. Otherwise they will accomplish their goal."

The two squads will lock horns, in this the first district match of the season, at 7:30 p.m. here in Whiteface Stadium.

Volunteers Go Bear Hunting Against Tide

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tennessee goes "Bear" hunting in the headliner of the college football lineup this weekend that vies with the World Series.

The "Bear" is Bear Bryant, venerable coach of the Alabama Crimson Tide who has passed the 300-mark in victories and is about a dozen away from the all-time record of 314 by Amos Alonzo Stagg.

The Volunteers from the land of Andrew Jackson and Daniel Boone have set a trap. It's the job for which Johnny Majors was lured from his secure post at then-national champion Pittsburgh.

Fur should fly. Last week: 41-8, .837. Season: 221-73, .752.

Tennessee 27, Alabama 20: This is the kind of game that winds up in the trophy case of the team that wants most to win. The fired-up Volunteers respond to home encouragement.

Southern California 31,

Oregon 16: On and on thy roll, the big, tough Trojans.

Notre Dame 45, Army 7: This is where Knute Rockne first used the forward pass.

Nebraska 48, Oklahoma St. 12: The "Big Red Machine" husks more than corn.

Oklahoma 44, Kansas St. 7: The Sooners go on scoring spree every other week.

Stanford 23, Washington 20: The best game on the Pacific Coast this week — a brawl.

Florida St. 38, Boston College 7: Winners over Nebraska and Pitt on consecutive weeks — gentlemen, this team is for real.

Penn St. 30, Syracuse 14: The Lambert Trophy (fastest gun in the East) is still up for grabs.

Louisiana St. 19, Kentucky 15: There are few race horse backs on the team from the bluegrass breeding country.

Ohio St. 24, Indiana 20: The Hoosiers have the wherewithal to make this an interesting afternoon.

Purdue 26, Illinois 19: No romp for the Boilermakers' Mark Herrmann.

Tulane 21, Air Force 7: The Greenies take some of the wind out of the Academy's hot air balloon.

Navy 22, Villanova 20: The Midshipmen must throw off last week's disappointment against the Air Force.

Harvard 14, Dartmouth 10: The piece de resistance for the Ivy League tail-gaters.

North Carolina 25, North Carolina St. 6: The Tar Heels' trench diggers give ground grudgingly.

Iowa St. 31, Kansas 17: A sixth straight victory for unbeaten and unappreciated Iowa State.

Baylor 28, Texas A&M 21: The Aggies, at home, can't dent the Baptists' Southwest title hopes.

Southern Methodist 19, Houston 15: This is not the year for the oil capital of the USA.

Pittsburgh 22, West Virginia 14: Pitt begins to shake off the headiness of front cover glory.

PGA Tourney Begins

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Brothers Dave and Mike Hill have a special incentive this week in the Walt Disney World National Team Championship Pro-Am, a complicated event that completes the 10-month PGA Tour schedule.

"It would mean a lot to us. It's something we'd really like to do before we quit," the 43-year-old Dave said before he and Mike, 41, began first-round competition today.

"It would mean a lot for us to win something together. I don't know how much longer either one of us is going to play, but we're not getting any younger.

"And we could win it, too. We play pretty good together. And we've come close several times before."

76ers Vault Over New Jersey Nets

By MIKE HARRIS AP Sports Writer

Doug Collins isn't playing with reckless abandon, but he is playing. And that is something of a minor medical miracle.

The veteran Philadelphia guard popped in 18 points Wednesday night to help the 76ers to a 119-111 National Basketball Association victory over the New Jersey Nets.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, Los Angeles tipped Kansas City 112-107 in overtime; Houston slipped past Seattle 103-100; Denver demolished Dallas 133-98; Phoenix ripped Utah 107-93; Chicago stopped Indiana 108-97, and Golden State nipped Portland 95-92.

Collins, who tore ligaments in his left knee just before the 1979-80 playoffs, got back into the Philadelphia lineup about half a season sooner than the doctors who diagnosed his injury and operated on him had predicted.

The 76ers, coming back from a 20-point loss to the New York Knicks a night earlier, got 27 points from Julius Erving.

The Nets got a game-high 28 points from Cliff Robinson.

Lakers 112, Kings 107
Jim Chones, filling in for injured Kareem Abdul-Jabbar at center, scored six points in overtime to lift the Lakers to the road victory. The 6-foot-11 Chones hit the Lakers' first three baskets of the overtime and Jamaal Wilkes and Earvin "Magic" Johnson each scored baskets as the Lakers outscored the Kings 10-5 in the overtime period to secure the victory.

The world-champion Lakers came from eight points behind midway through the fourth quarter and outscored the Kings 11-4 during the last 3½-minutes to send the game into overtime.

Wilkes scored a game-high 31 points and reserve Mark Landsberger came off the bench to add 22 and pull down eight rebounds. Otis Birdsong scored 26 points to lead the Kings.

Rockets 103, SuperSonics 100

Calvin Murphy and Moses Malone combined for 50 points to lead the Rockets to a narrow victory. Houston trailed 98-97 with less than a minute to play when Robert Reid dropped in a jump shot to put the Rockets ahead to stay.

Reid added two free throws with eight seconds remaining and Tom Henderson scored to iced the Rockets' first season victory against two losses. Seattle dropped to a 1-3 record.

Murphy finished the game with 27 points. Malone had 23 and Reid 19. Seattle's Paul Westphal got 30 points.

Nuggets 133, Mavericks 98
Veteran guard John Roche connected on five field goals and six free throws without a miss in the first half to spark

Denver to its first victory of the season. Roche helped the Nuggets build a 70-47 halftime lead against the new expansion franchise. The Mavericks, playing only their third game, fell to 1-2 with the lopsided loss.

Alex English wound up as the night's leading scorer with 26 points, Dan Issel added 25 and Roche 21. Jerome Whitehead and Richard Washington topped Dallas with 14 points each.

Suns 107, Jazz 93

Center Alvan Adams pumped in 31 points and power forward Len Robinson added 29 and 16 rebounds, 15 in the second half, to help the Suns remain unbeaten in three games.

Adams scored 19 of his total in the first half to keep the Suns even at 52 at halftime. Phoenix broke the game open midway through the third quarter, outscoring the Jazz 10-2 over a three-minute span to take a 71-62 lead — Adams collecting three baskets in the burst.

Utah forward Adrian Dantley was high for the game with 32, but was held to four during the third period, and 12 in the second half. Boone added 15 and Allan Bristow 14 for the Jazz.

Bulls 108, Pacers 97

Indiana suffered a second-half sag as Chicago came from behind to win its first game of the season. Larry Kenon topped the Bulls with 22 points and Reggie Theus added 19 for the winners.

The score was tied 79-79 after three periods, but the Pacers were scoreless for the first four minutes of the fourth quarter.

Artis Gilmore added 18 points and Bobby Wilkerson had 16. Indiana, which lost for the first time in three starts, was paced by guard Johnny Davis with 22 points and 11 assists.

Warriors 95, Trail Blazers 92

Bernard King scored all nine Warriors' points in the final 2½-minutes as they overcame a 19-point deficit in the second half.

The Blazers still led 90-86 after forward Calvin Natt made two free throws with 2:34 remaining.

Philly Sub Excited About Chance To Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Don't call it the World Series," pleaded the rusty-haired youngster buried in a cluster of question-popping newsmen. "I get all nervous. I like to think of it as just a sandlot game."

The reaction was totally understandable for a 26-year-old rookie thrust into a Hollywood scenario with a Hollywood ending.

Young Keith Moreland, a "Hook 'em Horns" disciple who grew up in the mad football atmosphere of the University of Texas campus, didn't know until an hour before gametime that he was to substitute for slugger Greg Luzinski in the Philadelphia Phillies lineup against the Kansas City Royals.

"Dallas (Manager Dallas Green) told me to go out and take batting practice," he explained. "He said Greg had a sore throat or the flu or something and he wanted to use me for the DH."

"No, I can't say I was scared — excited yes but scared no. After all, I'd been through some Texas-Oklahoma football games and you can't get much more pressure than that."

Moreland proceeded to lash out two hits, score a run in the fifth inning and knock in the final run in the wild eighth inning Philly rally that beat the Royals 6-4 for a 2-1 lead in the series.

Few rookies have had a more glorious baptism in this traditional championship of America's national pastime.

"Our rally didn't surprise me at all," said the first-year catcher, a bench warmer behind Philadelphia's Gold Glover Bob Boone.

"Ever since September we have felt that there was no lead we couldn't overcome. It is amazing what has happened to this team."

"Earlier in the year there was some beefing and discontent. The guys didn't seem together. Then suddenly everything jelled. You saw it at Montreal, at Houston and now here."

"John Vukovich (reserve infielder) is our cheerleader," he related. "The subs, the guys who don't get to play much, join in. Then Dallas, Pete (Rose) and all the others are caught up in it. Everybody screaming and hollering their lungs out."

"It's wild."

The Phillies' seventh selection in the college draft, he was signed in June, 1975, and was put through the minor league wringer - Spartanburg, Pensacola, Reading and finally Oklahoma City in the American Association.

Hailed by Oklahoma City manager as "the best clutch hitter in the league," he was called up at the end of the 1979 season. This year, playing behind Boone, he appeared in 62 games, batted .314 and hit four home runs.

"Boone is the best catcher in baseball," the youngster acknowledged. "I can't get mad or upset because don't play more. Some day maybe I will. Right now, I am thinking only of the World Series."

"If we win, I may retire."

Quickly, lest he be taken seriously, he added: "Gosh, you know I'm just kidding."

'Bama, Tennessee Game Looks Strong

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

When ABC decided to move the Texas-Arkansas game from Oct. 18 to Sept. 1 in prime time, the college football schedule left the network with a weak week. The people at ABC circled Alabama-Tennessee and prayed for the Volunteers to make it to this Saturday with at least a 3-2 record.

After opening season losses to Georgia and Southern California, Tennessee has won three straight and its TV game against No. 1 Alabama now looks strong. That gamble worked well, but the network may not be as lucky Nov. 22 when several major college football games are shaping up and ABC may only be able to show one — probably Oklahoma-Nebraska.

Two weeks ago, the ABC switchboard lit up when the network televised Ohio State-UCLA. The complaining callers didn't object to that game; it was what that telecast meant down the road — Ohio State-Michigan probably would not be shown for the first time since 1973.

This great college football rivalry, which annually decides the Big Ten Conference team in the Rose Bowl, likely would be grounded from the airwaves. That would be reason enough for Woody Hayes to punch out a camera or a cameraman, as the former Ohio State coach has done.

Ohio State and Michigan fans aren't the only ones upset. Chances are that these other Nov. 22 games won't make ABC: No. 3 Texas and

No. 13 Baylor (possibly for the automatic Cotton Bowl berth) and Florida and No. 7 Florida State.

ABC is limited by the NCAA's TV restrictions, which were written into the contract to prevent the network from showing Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Ohio State every week. The NCAA wants to spread the TV wealth around. For a national TV exposure, the teams split $600,000. For a regional TV appearance, they split $423,000.

Except for a couple of exceptions, no school can be on more than twice a year and four times over a two-year period. A third appearance in one year — and fifth overall — is only allowed if a game is moved to a special exception date when no games are normally scheduled or it is ABC's one wild card game each season.

Ohio State has been on ABC twice this year — against Minnesota and UCLA — so the only way the Buckeyes could meet Michigan on TV would be if the game were designated the wild card. But, unless Oklahoma or Nebraska gets derailed, this annual Big Eight brawl probably will be ABC's wild card game Nov. 22.

These are the kinds of decisions that make ABC's college football package one of the chanciest contracts in TV sports. When ABC began its consecutive college football streak in 1966, appearances were restricted to three for a two-year period with no exceptions.

Royal Players Wait For Screams of Own Fans

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jarrell Porter struck out leading off the ninth inning, walked bitterly back to the dugout, surveyed almost 16,000 screaming, ecstatic Philadelphia Phillies fans and had a profound thought. "We've won a championship, we've done what our fans wanted more than anything in the world, and we haven't heard one cheer yet."

It's true. The Kansas City Royals remained in New York after beating the Yankees in a third straight American League Championship Series game Friday night and flew to Philadelphia Sunday for the opening two games of the 1980 World Series in Veterans Stadium. "We should be so joyful going back home, but we aren't," said Porter. "We need to hear some cheers from our side. We need that more than anything." The 40,000-plus Kansas City fans who will pack Royals Stadium Friday night will greet a team that now seems almost devoid of anything positive. The AL Champions are down 0-2 in the best-of-seven series. They blew a four-run lead in the first game to lose 7-6, and they blew a two-run lead Wednesday night to lose 6-4. Their best relief pitcher, Dan Quisenberry, got bombed. Their best player, possibly the best player in baseball, third baseman George Brett, was suffering so much pain from hemorrhoids he could hardly walk. "The next couple of games we'll see what these teams are made of," said center fielder Amos Otis. "We had everything going our way. But the bottom fell out each time. I just think we're jinxed here." Will the Phillies be jinxed in Royals Stadium? "I think they can be beat in Royals Stadium," he answered softly. "We had them on the ropes. After a while, it does get frustrating." "It seems like we've been away from Kansas City for about six months," said Dave Chalk, who will have the enormous task of replacing Brett if the All-Star third baseman can play no more. "It will be so good to get back home." Chalk filled in admirably for Brett when he was injured during an otherwise enchanted season that saw him bat .390 and drive in 118 runs in 117 games. But Chalk said he's not going to fool himself into thinking he's another George Brett. "It's a loss to us if he's not out there, no doubt about it," Chalk said. "I'm not going to try to be anything I'm not. You've got to be yourself.

And I have confidence in myself." So what good things besides going home can the Kansas City Royals find to think about? "Any time you score some runs and take the lead, you've got to think you can win," said designated hitter Hal McRae. "We just aren't holding leads. That's all there is to it."

GOD LOVES YOU AS YOU ARE

When a man makes a jar out of clay, doesn't he have a right to use the same lump of clay to make one jar beautiful, to be used for holding flowers, and another to throw garbage into?

Does not God have a perfect right to show His fury and power against those who are fit only for destruction, those He has been patient with for all this time?

And He has a right to take others such as ourselves, who have been made for pouring the riches of His glory into, whether we are Jews or Gentiles, and to be kind to us so that everyone can see how very great His glory is.

Remember what the prophecy of Hosea says? There God says that He will find other children for Himself (who are not from His Jewish family) and will love them, though no one had ever loved them before.

And the heathen, of whom it once was said, "You are not My people," shall be called "sons of the Living God."

Isaiah the prophet cried out concerning the Jews that though there would be millions of them, only a small number would ever be saved.

"For the Lord will execute His sentence upon the earth, quickly ending His dealings, justly cutting them short."

And Isaiah says in another place that except for God's mercy all the Jews would be destroyed—all of them—just as everyone in the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah perished.

Well then, what shall we say about these things? Just this, that God has given the Gentiles the opportunity to be acquitted by faith, even though they had not been really seeking God.

But the Jews, who tried so hard to get right with God by keeping His laws, never succeeded.

Why not? Because they were trying to be saved by keeping the law and being good instead of by depending on faith. They have stumbled over the great stumblingstone.

God warned them of this in the Scriptures when He said, "I have put a Rock in the path of the Jews, and many will stumble over Him (Jesus). Those who believe in Him will never be disappointed."

Sex-Selected Baby Process Under Test

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Californian Joseph Orbi is single and 30. He wants a son. Kathleen, a 30-year-old divorcee and mother of two, answered his newspaper ad. And in what is believed to be the first attempt to produce a sex-selected baby for a single man, she was artificially inseminated as a surrogate mother.

With a new method designed to produce a boy — developed by an Indian researcher who is a veterinarian — she was artificially inseminated by a gynecologist Monday at Applied Genetic Laboratory Inc. here. The procedure was being repeated today.

If a baby is born, she is to release custody of the child to Orbi, Noel Keane, a Dearborn, Mich., lawyer said Tuesday.

Keane, who said he had been working on surrogate parent cases for four years, said this is the first case he is aware of in which the goals were sex selection and parenthood for a single man.

The woman, identified only as Kathleen, from the Farmington, Mich., area, will receive $10,000 for "medical expenses" but won't officially be paid a fee for bearing the child.

"We offered to pay a fee but she wouldn't accept it," Keane said. "Her reasons for doing it were basically humanitarian. She wanted to experience a pregnancy and she plans to use this as a learning experience for her other two children."

Orbi, from LaVerne, Calif., made the final choice of the mother of his child. "She was everything we were looking for — intelligent, attractive, stable," Keane said.

The procedure was taking place in Omaha because of a new sperm selection process developed by Dr. B.C. Bhattacharya, director of research at Applied Genetics. Bhattacharya, a native of India and a veterinarian, said Tuesday he developed a device that separates male and female sperm for use in the insemination process. "I think we got close to 100 percent male sperm in the first insemination," he said. "They came to us only to get a boy and we have the only device of this nature."

Applied Genetics has done "quite a few" of the inseminations, but other patients have been married couples and this marks the first time a single man "with a surrogate mother wants to have a boy," Bhattacharya said.

The sex selection process has been 100 percent successful in animals, he said, and there have been no birth defects.

But the first women who were inseminated with sex-selected sperm have not yet delivered, he said.

Keane said there is a potential for a legal custody dispute in a surrogate parent case, although a document has been drawn up "stating what we intend to do."

But he said "there is always the fear that Kathleen might eventually want custody."

The Public School Mess

Nothing has contributed more to the disintegration of American cities than the integration commanded by the Supreme Court 25 years ago.

Ever since the high and mighty court decreed that "separate but equal is not equal," that youngsters must be bused back and forth across town to insure a racemix in public schools—the schools have been turning all black and cities have been left bankrupt by white flight and the quality of education has diminished deplorably.

St. Louis, Mo., schools' enrollment is now 49,000 blacks, 14,000 whites. To achieve "racial balance" is impossible, yet that is the excuse that's used for busing 6,700 students back and forth across town.

There can be no conceivable justification for the danger, fuel waste, time loss and astronomical cost of busing—in St. Louis alone $22 million!

So in St. Louis more and more whites are moving out of town or moving their children to private schools—another seven percent each year.

Los Angeles—under court order—is busing this fall.

If blacks were meant to benefit from busing, they don't like it any more than do whites.

The Boston Globe poll, which is the most recent survey on the subject, finds "a great majority, black and white, would prefer to spend busing money instead on better local schools."

Chicago's public schools are 75 percent black or Latino; they are opposed to mandatory busing. Some of the highest achieving schools in Chicago are all black or near all black. Yet the buses roll on.

Two Ford Foundation studies report that busing has not relieved racial polarization in public schools, has worsened it instead.

There is now a third factor in some geographical areas: the increasing population of Mexicans for whom the courts decree classes must be conducted in both languages. In southern and southwestern states the admission of aliens to public schools—even the children of illegal immigrants—is the subject of a protracted court fight.

However it may be resolved, the lopsided influx of Mexican, Puerto Rican and Cuban students to public schools in these areas inevitably will create a problem similar to the white-flight problem in northern cities.

Further, a bilingual society in the United States poses the potential for greater problems—as bilingual Canada is threatened with separatism.

In shirtsleeve English, a large enough Spanish-speaking population in southwestern states ultimately could tear our country apart.

If this is a premature concern, so be it.

Canada—English and French—would tell us that the time to worry is before the two societies polarize past the point of reunion.

Carter Decision To Run Came Early in Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has always said he first became interested in running for president when he was governor of Georgia. But recently he hinted that the idea may have occurred to him much earlier.

During a town meeting at the Grand Old Opry House in Tennessee, the president talked about his boyhood and said:

"I had two ambitions then. My daddy said, 'Forget it.' One was to be president of the United States and the other one was to stand on the stage at the Grand Old Opry."

The day after Carter announced his intention to stop making personal assaults on Ronald Reagan, reporters traveling with him were mystified when the public address system that normally carries his remarks to the press plane temporarily stopped.

"That's the ejector system," one White House aide cracked. "Whenever we think the president is about to start taking the low-road, the button goes on and the system stops."

The sound resumed momentarily. The next day, Carter said Reagan's election would be "bad" for the country.

One of the questioners at a recent town meeting wanted to know how far Carter jogs and "are you going to run in New York?"

The president, who was forced to drop out of a foot race last fall because of exhaustion, joked, "I'm going to run in the election in New York Nov. 4."

Then he said he used to run six or seven miles a day, but that has been reduced. And he gave an uncharacteristically modest assessment of his abilities.

"This year I've cut that about half because of the extra duties that I have to perform during an election year," he said. "I generally run three or four miles. Not very fast."

He said he can do three miles in about 20 minutes "if I want to really try. That's the best I can do. I'm 56 years old and I'm not getting any younger."

On two occasions during his campaign forays, Carter was asked about the rivalry between Zbigniew Brzezinski, his national security adviser, and Edmund S. Muskie, the secretary of state.

Religious Roundup

ROME, Italy (AP) — A biennial council meeting of St. Joan's International Alliance has urged Roman Catholic bishops meeting at the Vatican to declare that men and women are equal partners in marriage.

The alliance is an organization of Catholic feminists seeking equality of women and men in church and society.

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time since the mid-1960's, the Episcopal Church has registered an increase in membership.

The Rev. John A. Shultz, statistical officer, says diocesan reports for 1979 show that baptized membership rose half a percentage of a point to 2,841,350 and that baptisms increased 3 percent to 60,276.

ATLANTA (AP) — On the streets and beaches of Tampa, Fla., the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A. recorded on videotape the reactions of people to questions about Lutheranism, and got a lot of wrong answers.

For example, to the question, "Who was Martin Luther?" frequent responses about the 16th century founder of Protestantism were "one of the disciples" or "a black civil rights leader."

Former Resident Marries

Miss Vicky Jo Tolman of Detroit, Oregon, and former resident Paul S. Anderson of Fairview, Okla. were married this morning at Manti Temple in Manti, Utah in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd F. Tolman of Detroit. The groom is the son of former Hereford residents, Mr. and Mrs. Kendon Otto Anderson of Salem, Utah.

Floral arrangements in silk maroon and pink decorated the church.

Connie Tolman, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Best man was Steve Waters.

Escorting guests to their seats were Steve and Tammy

Anderson. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess style gown with portrait neckline accented with lace. Pleated sheers surrounded her full skirt.

The bride carried 12 maroon roses with touches of babybreath.

Her maid of honor was dressed in a A gunnie sax style gown with a maroon bodice trimmed in white with contrasting maroon skirt.

A reception followed the ceremony at Salem Stake Center of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Salem, Utah. The party was hosted by the grooms parents.

Serving in the reception party were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee, Tim Anderson and Mrs. Fred Anderson.

The couple will be home Oct. 25 in Fairview, Okla., after a wedding trip to the coast of Oregon, and through Colorado and New Mexico.

The bride, a graduate of Vale High School in Vale, Oregon, attended Ricks College in Rexburg, Idaho. The groom, a 1975 Hereford graduate, is the grandson of Daniel J. Larsen of Hereford. He attended West Texas State University in Canyon for two years studying Criminal Justice. He is presently employed by Progressive Schools of Fairview in Oklahoma.

Miss Strain, Miss Hacker Cast Members In Musical

Two Hereford residents, Sherry Strain and Sabra Hacker, have been selected as cast members in the fall musical production, "No, No, Nanette," which will be presented by the Opera-Musical Theatre Workshop at West Texas State University.

Miss Strain is a freshman and Miss Hacker is a senior at WTSU.

The musical will be performed from Nov. 20-24 at 8 p.m., and at 3 p.m., on Nov. 23, in the newly re-equipped Branding Iron Theatre.

The production, which is produced by Burt Rosevear, WTSU instructor in music, will be directed by Dr. Larry Menefee, WTSU assistant professor of speech and theatre.

Nicholas Carter, WTSU instructor in speech, will be in charge of scenography and the costumes will be arranged by Becky Kennan.

According to Rosevear, the story is a "light-hearted framework for such all-time favorite showtunes as 'Tea For Two' and 'I Want To Be Happy.' The music, lyrics and story all combine to create what the critics acclaim as 'The Happiest Show In Town.'"

Halloween Tips Emphasized By National Safety Council

Safety rules to help both parents and children celebrate a safe Halloween are being emphasized at all Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Stores nationwide in an effort to ensure a happy holiday for everyone, according to Bruce Enderwood, vice president, marketing and operations. "Particularly when it comes to candy and other Halloween treats, youngsters should be careful to eat only commercially wrapped treats. Unwrapped candy, fruits and other foods could be contaminated or contain harmful substances," says Enderwood.

Advocating tips from the National Safety Council, also suggest:

Costumes should be short in length to prevent falls and they should be flameproof. If making them at home, treat fabrics with a flameproof solution.

Masks should not obscure a child's vision or breathing. A good substitution for masks, wigs or hats is make-up.

Bright or reflective costumes should be worn to make for greater visibility when traveling after dark.

Reflective tape can also be affixed to costumes and trick-or-treat bags.

Children should travel in groups with at least one adult and should never enter the home of or accept rides from strangers.

Youngsters should carry flashlights to light sidewalks and steps to prevent falls. They should not carry lighted matches, candles or other such items.

Parents and children should check all treats before consuming them, and adults should offer only wrapped candy, cookies and other treats, special coupons, tickets to events or attractions, etc.

Ann Landers

Inherited Money, a 'Trust'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your words of praise to the grandmother who decided to leave her money to her servants made my blood boil! Inherited money is a "trust" to be passed on to the next generation. It is not hers to give away. Bitter feelings and "undue influence" lawsuits could result from your terrible advice.

Servants, gardeners and nurses are hired and PAID for the services they perform. It is a Southern tradition to "remember" such people modestly in one's will.

Older people who never see their children and grandchildren almost always being about the unpleasantness, themselves. They are usually domineering, demanding and overbearing. And they hold their money as a club over the heads of relatives who have less than they do.

It is no easy task for an adult child to get along with an autocratic rich relative. I know! Just sign me—Lone Star Stater

DEAR LONE: Where did you get the idea that money left to a woman by her husband is a "trust" to be passed on to the next generation? Could it be that when she married the fellow he didn't have a dime, and she helped him make it? Or—if she stayed home and raised the family, it is still all hers if her husband left it to her. Had he wanted to leave anything to the children he certainly could have done so. That's what a will is for.

And where did you get the cockeyed notion that leaving "money to faithful servants is a "Southern tradition?" People in the North, West and East do it, too.

True, some parents and grandparents are domineering and demanding. But then some children are selfish and inconsiderate. I say if the relationship is a poor one, for whatever reason, there is no moral obligation to leave anyone a load of dough. If any of you readers out there want a list of a few worthy charities, write to me and send your name and address. I'll see to it that your hard-earned money is put to very good use.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in response to your reply to "1980 Mom and Dad." I feel that your answer was inadequate.

I am living with a man and have encountered the problem of how to introduce him. My parents are also uncomfortable about this awkward situation. He is much more than just a boyfriend. With men and women living together more and more these days, it is time we came up with a term that does justice to the relationship. How about it, Ann? Do you, or your readers, have any ideas?—Soulmates But Not Mr. and Mrs.

DEAR SOULMATES: Why do you feel it is necessary when introducing the gentleman to describe the housing arrangement?

In my opinion, "This is my friend (or fiancée), John Jones," is adequate. I believe it is neither necessary nor in good taste to go beyond that. Even though you may wish to advertise the fact to the whole world that you are living together, there are still some squares around (like me) who may feel that you are telling them more than they care to know.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you give me the name and publisher of the book on "Forgiving" by Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame? I can't find it anywhere.—Sincerely, Joan P.S. In Washington

DEAR J.P.S.: It's not a book. It's a chapter called "Forgiving" in "The Ann Landers Encyclopedia." Check your local library, or any bookstore should have it in paperback. (Publisher, Ballantine.)

Are drugs OK if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (28 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I've never been what you might call "dressed for success." I'm the type that when wigs were in, I couldn't stand the deception. I'd walk into a restroom of strangers and say to the woman who held the door open for me, "Thanks, I'm wearing a wig, you know."

I used to fantasize about entering a room in a smart black skirt with a slit to my knee and dark-rimmed glasses to disguise my violet eyes and play down my sensuous mouth. As a pathetically enamored man would stare at my long legs entwined around one another, I would snap, "What are you staring at? We have a bridge to build." And he would stammer, "You have a puckered heel on the top of your foot. I think you have your hose on backwards."

I'd wake up in a sweat. I used to sit in airports and study the people who were dressed for the top of the corporate ladder, and you know what I discovered? The men and women who, when they talked, E.F. Hutton listened...all carried attache cases.

No wonder no one took me seriously. My business cards smelled like hair spray. My speeches had splotches all over them from felt-tip pens. My boarding pass always had a piece of discarded gum folded over in the corner.

I took my first attache case to Washington last week and I looked like a winner.

The man sitting next to me and I both had our attache cases returned when we were airborne and opened them at the same time. Out of the corner of my eyes, I surveyed his. It was as neat as the cupboards of a model home. Two manila folders, one marked "CONFIDENTIAL" pens, airline ticket, legal scratch tablet, paper clips, rubber bands, stamps, calculator, price cost notebook, clean shirt neatly folded, socks, change of underwear, toiletries bag, a copy of Forbes.

I opened my attache case. Three candy bars, five curlers, a pen without a cap, a bread dough brooch, two unmailed letters, a stack of notebook paper, a trashy novel that could only be read with the cover folded back, a sandwich bag containing Christmas cutouts that you stuff with cotton and sew the opening shut for ornaments.

When I left the plane, I inadvertently left my attache case. The man said to me, "Better be careful. Someone will steal it."

I figured it would be like stealing Bette Midler's luggage. It would serve them right.

Community Concert Assoc. Announces First Concert of Season In Hereford

MONTY ALEXANDER
...well-known pianist to make appearance in Hereford

Society News

ALLISON RYAN Women's Editor

By DENISE SMITH
Staff Writer

The Hereford Community Concert Association has announced their 1980-81 concert season, according to President Mr. and Mrs. Ted Panzeria.

The first community concert slated in Hereford will be Tuesday, Oct. 28 at the high school auditorium beginning at 8 p.m. Making a guest appearance will be Monty Alexander, a pianistic phenomenon.

All Hereford Community Concerts are scheduled at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Immediately following the Oct. 28 show, a reception will be held in the cafeteria for those interested.

The New York Post was quoted in saying, "Alexander's playing is kaleidoscopic, energetic, musically knowing; it delights the mind as well as the senses."

Born in Kingston, Jamaica, Alexander grew up listening to the sounds of calypso and rhythm and blues. At the age of four he began picking out tunes on the piano and at the age of six started his first piano lessons.

After studying for eight years, he was diverted from pursuing a classical career when he heard jazz musicians such as Louis Armstrong and Nat King Cole.

Alexander formed a band while he was away at boarding school; after graduating, he returned to Kingston where he became part of the city's jazz circle.

At the age of 17 Alexander moved to the United States with his family. Shortly after he arrived in Miami, he accepted a job playing in a local club. During this engagement Frank Sinatra and Jilly Rizzo happened to come in and Rizzo hired him on the spot to play at his famous New York nightclub. For the next few years Alexander worked steadily in New York, including a two-year stint at the Playboy Club, and developed a strong reputation throughout the country at both clubs and colleges.

During this time Alexander worked with some of the best musicians in the business, including Frank Sinatra, Milt Jackson, Ray Brown, Dizzy Gillespie, Quincy Jones, 'Senator' Eugene Wright and many others.

In 1975 Alexander made his London debut at the renowned Ronnie Scott Club. In the words of the reviewer for the Sunday Times, "It was one of the most unforgettable debuts I remember in sixteen years' attendance at the distinguished club."

Alexander returns regularly to Great Britain as well as to Switzerland, France, Germany and many other European countries and appears annually at such festivals as the Montreux International Jazz Festival.

Alexander's first recordings were released on World

Pacific Records. Albums with RCA and MGM followed and he then released a series of recording with the prestigious MPS-BASF label. He is presently affiliated with Norman Granz' Pablo Records.

During the summer of 1978 Alexander returned for nine weeks to the distinguished Cafe Carlyle in the Carlyle Hotel, where the great Bobby Short is resident pianist. The New York Post recommended him highly and called him "a phenomenon."

He was immediately reengaged for a six-week stand in the spring of 1979. During this time he also appeared in a Carnegie Hall tribute to Milt Jackson along with such other stars as Dizzy Gillespie, Percy and Jimmy Heath, John Lewis, Billy Taylor and Slide Hampton. Alexander made his first tour of Japan early in 1979; the recording from that tour will be released soon by Pablo.

The schedule for all of the community concerts in this area is listed below:

Oct. 24 in Lubbock, Gil Morgenstern, violinist; Oct. 27 in Dalhart Veri and Jamanis, duo-pianists; Oct. 28 in Hereford, Monty Alexander Trio; Oct. 29 in Borger at 8:30 p.m., "Naughty Marietta"; Nov. 11 in Clovis at 7:30 p.m., Festival Trio, instrumental; and Dec. 8 in Clovis at 7:30 p.m., William Carter Dancers.

Other concerts scheduled include Jan. 8, 1981 in Dalhart, James Pinkerton, harpist; Jan. 29, 1981 in Lubbock, James Dick, pianists; Feb. 9, 1981 in Hereford, Harvey Pittell Trio; Feb. 23, 1981 in Borger, Ronnie Brown Trio; March 6, 1981 at 7:30 p.m. in Clovis, Thomas Uchtmann, pianist; March 6, 1981 in Lubbock, Southwest German Chamber Orchestra; and March 17, 1981 in Lubbock, Toccatas and Flourishes, organ and trumpets.

Other concerts are April 7, 1981 in Borger, Les Brown and the Band of Renewal;

May 14, 1981 in Hereford, Roger Wagner Chorale; and May 16, 1981 in Dalhart, Les Brown and the Band of Renewal.

All concerts are at 8 p.m. unless otherwise noted. All Clovis concerts are at 7:30 p.m. (MST).

In Lubbock, all concerts will be held at the Lubbock Civic Center Theatre, 1501 Sixth Street, in Dalhart, concerts will be held in the Dalhart High School Auditorium, 801 Oak; Borger concerts are scheduled in the Borger High School; and Clovis concerts are scheduled in the R.E. Marshall Auditorium, Main at Commerce Way.

Butcher Suggests Means To Prevent Home Crimes

Dean Butcher, Deaf Smith County Deputy Sheriff, spoke to Valeda Study Club about crime stoppers around the home at its recent meeting.

"A person should be aware of who is around them at all times. Neighbors can be the eyes and ears of the community. If a person is the least bit suspicious about activities proper authorities should be contacted immediately," Butcher said. Suggested helpful hints to deter intruders included a dead lock on the door, lighting around the home, trimmed shrubs and a cleared entrance way.

Butcher told the group that house numbers should be placed on the back gate or fence to aid authorities. Often officers will approach a home through the alley, and a house number at the back of the home would assist in finding the correct home.

"Daylight crime has become increasingly heavy in Hereford. An ounce of prevention equals to a pound of cure," Butcher said.

Juanita Brown presided at the business meeting which was held at the home of Donna Lindeman.

The group will meet again Oct. 22 at the home of Mrs. Billie Birdwell. Carolyn Waters will conduct the program on government.

Ruth Owens, former member of the club, was the special guest. Members present at the meeting were Janice Brownlow, Juanita Brown, Darlene Fields, Betty Gilbert, Donna Lindeman, Norma Martin, Marcella McLain, Joyce Ritter, DeAnn Sission and Norma Walden.

New Officers Installed At Panhellenic Meeting

Lynn Carter was installed as president of the Hereford Panhellenic Association meeting held recently at the First National Bank.

Other officers installed by Janice Carr were Susan Perrin, vice president; Delores Foster, secretary; Roberta McNeese, treasurer; Carolyn Cannon, public relations; Marsha Winget, rush and recommendation; and Sherri Sargent, yearbook committee.

Ms. Winget reported six girls pledged sororities in year at three universities.

At Texas Tech University, Kim Ehresman pledged with Delta Delta Delta; Carman Newbill, Alphi Chi Omega; and Sherri Whitaker, Zeta Tau Alpha.

At West Texas State University, Lynn Garret pledged with Zeta Tau Alpha; Diane McNaney, Chi Omega.

At University of Texas-El Paso, Janelle Coupe pledged with Zeta Tau Alpha.

Plans were discussed to send information about Greek sororities and their activities, projects and cost to prospective high senior girls and their mothers.

In other business matters were reminded that dues need to be sent to Ms. McNeese, 705 Cherokee, in order to receive a yearbook. The next meeting will be Jan. 19, 1981 at the First National Bank. Dates will be set at the time for rush registration and the Spring rush party.

Change of Offices

The Hereford Women's Golf Association convened Tuesday at noon for a luncheon at the Country Club. Upcoming activities were discussed and 1980-81 officers appointed. Retiring President, Thelma Marsh, reported plans underway for the upcoming Senior Women's West Texas Tournament scheduled in early October here. Fifty to sixty women are expected to participate in this tourney. Further information concerning the special event will be announced at a later date. Officers appointed to serve the new year were President Juanita Sims, Vice President Pat Goforth, Secretary-treasurer Kay Redwine, Reporter Dorothy Bevis, and Parliamentarian Thelma Marsh. Guest Speaker
Major General Jerry Curry

MAJOR GENERAL JERRY CURRY, United States Army, will be with us for our October meeting. General Curry is presently serving as Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Public Affairs. A Master Army Aviator, Ranger and airborne qualified, he has held many commands and staff positions.

Bro. Jerry says he has always felt close to God, even as a child. He is not a member of any specific denomination, but prefers to be known as a Christian concerned with "where God's really doing things." He has appeared on the "700 Club" and recently gave testimony at the FGBMFI World Convention. Don't miss this rare testimony of a war-hardened General sharing the gentle love of Jesus and the power of God's Spirit!

Bellwether county revisited

EMMETSBURG, Iowa (NEA) - At the start of the fall campaign, we visited agricultural Palo Alto County in north-west Iowa to find out what its voters had to say about the 1980 presidential contest. We did so because the bellwether county has backed the winner in every presidential election since 1896.

Most of those we spoke with — including the county chairman of the two political parties — agreed that Ronald Reagan held a comfortable lead over Jimmy Carter. The Republican nominee would have carried the county easily had the election taken place on Labor Day.

What do those same voters and party officials say today? Most believe that Reagan's lead has decreased considerably, many think that the race here may be a toss-up by Election Day.

"I still think Gov. Reagan is ahead in the county," says banker Ed Norland, the Republican chairman. "We are still very encouraged and confident that we can carry the county." But he admits that the race has tightened up. "I think we still have a reasonable lead and that if the election were today we would win by 8 to 10 percent," he says. "But we still have a month to go and obviously quite a lot could happen."

Attorney John Brown, the Democratic chairman, is feeling better about the election. In early September, Brown saw Reagan as clearly ahead, now he thinks that Carter has closed a lot of ground.

"Probably if the election were held today Reagan would win," he concedes. "But any number of voters who a month ago were saying they would vote for Reagan or stay home are now saying they guess they will vote for the president. I think now we can carry the county for Carter — but probably only barely."

What accounts for this change? "Farm prices are up and this is helping the president here," explains Brown. "And I just have a gut feeling that the more people hear Reagan, the more they come to the conclusion that he is just not the man to lead this country."

Conversations with local voters make it clear that the campaign has not yet aroused much excitement. As Jane Whitmore, editor of the local newspaper, puts it: "I haven't seen much evidence that people are starting yet to really focus on the campaign. What they are worried about now is whether the E-Hawks (the high-school football team) can win a seventh conference title."

Asked if she has seen any sort of political shift in the county, she answers, "Some of the people who were saying they were going to vote for (John) Anderson are now moving away from him and are saying they probably are going to vote for Carter."

Farm votes will decide the election in this almost exclusively agricultural county. And Larry Stoecker, who runs the Emmetsburg Grain Elevator, reports that many local farmers have not made up their minds on who to support.

"The farmers who come in here talking politics seem unsure," he explains, countering his earlier prediction that Reagan would receive the bulk of the farm vote. "They are still upset with the grain embargo, and Reagan says he would end it. But Carter does have the experience in running the country, and they just may decide to go with experience."

"But I think that many of them haven't made up their minds yet. We are right in the middle of our harvest, and they won't really think politics for a while."

We found last month that much of Reagan's support in this county came from his being perceived as the lesser of two evils. Local residents supported the Republican not because they thought he would do a good job but because they did not like the job Carter had done.

One of these reluctant Reagan supporters is pharmacist Irv Beiter. "I will still vote for him," says Beiter. "But it will be even more reluctantly. He puts his foot in his mouth every time he makes a statement, but I just can't vote for Carter."

So, this bellwether county is sticking with Reagan though his lead is narrowing. We'll check public opinion here once more just before the election.

Parkland Burn Center, Team Has Major Role Developing Treatment

DALLAS—It was only seven years ago that the survival of an eight-year-old girl with 92 percent burns made medical history in a burn unit run by Southwestern Medical School at Parkland Hospital. Today, more and more people with massive burns are living because of the unit's pioneering research and treatment. And as a result, the highly respected Parkland Burn Center has become the largest such facility in the United States in terms of patient volume. At the time the child was burned in an accident involving use of gasoline to scrub tar from her feet, no human had survived a major burn of that extent. "We now understand and are putting into routine practice many of the things that were theory when she was injured," says Dr. Charles Baxter, adding, "Thank God, we were right on most of them."

Baxter, professor of surgery and head of the Parkland Burn Center, leads a team that has had a major role in developing burn treatment over a 20-year period. It was a period during which a serious burn over no more than half the body had been considered a death warrant.

What has changed? Better means of treating burn shock and new approaches to nutrition have been developed and used effectively. Burned persons may have up to four times more nutrition requirements than normal.

Improved treatment also includes new ways of administering antibiotics, isolation of the patient in a special burn unit and early surgical removal of burned tissue. Parkland's team approach to burn care involves reconstructive surgeons, physical and occupational therapists, highly trained burned nurses and social workers.

But probably the single biggest factor in burn survival today is use of human skin as a protective covering for large wounds. This is one of the reasons the eight-year-old survived.

"In the couple of years before her case, we had been able to bring four or five patients to the point of survival. But we couldn't get the vital homograft (human skin), so we lost them," said Baxter.

Because the Dallas Skin Bank was established just two months before the eight-year-old was burned, hers was the first case of this magnitude to call on its resources.

Today the girl is a pretty teen-ager and the skin bank has grown, too.

Working in cooperation with the Lions Eye Bank and other donor programs, the Dallas Skin Bank now routinely receives between one-third and one-half the donor gifts in the United States. The Dallas bank, which received 228 donations last year, has become the first facility in the nation able to supply skin to other centers on emergency request basis.

Still researchers say the amount is vastly inadequate and they are pushing studies in improved freezing techniques and investigation of more efficient storage solutions in order to stretch the supply, says Ellen Heck, faculty associate and transplant coordinator.

As guiding influence for the medical school's burn team since 1961, Baxter has been able to engineer not only regional logistical operations including air lift delivery to the center, but national recognition for burn research. He still takes a personal interest in the patients who have undergone the personal shock of a large burn:

Connie Berg, a senior in college, was injured in an accident in her organic chemistry lab. Definitely a "people person," she was already having doubts about her medical technology major. The burn gave Berg more time to decide what to do with her life. She went back to school as soon as she could and took a master's degree in hospital administration.

"God said, 'Wait a minute, I've got plans for you, Connie,'" she says. "If it hadn't been a big burn, I wouldn't have the opportunities to minister to other injured people, who seem to cross my path."

Charles M. Dannheim, Clarksville farmer-rancher, was left without limbs after being burned by 7,800 volts of electricity from a dangling wire on his farm. Married only a month at the time, Dannheim was not expected to live, much less become the father of two sons. "I'm still as active as I ever was," he says with pride. "Shoot, I can even dress myself." Being as active as he ever was includes hiring out for horseback work and "running any piece of heavy equipment I ever saw." In addition, he loves to dance and has taken up a new sideline—selling his pen-and-pencil sketches of coming cowboy scenes.

Pat Henderson, young, suburban housewife, was burned in an apartment fire. Being a fighter, she confronted Baxter angrily about "fixing up" patients and turning them out into the world unprepared for society's reaction. To her surprise and delight, the surgeon heard what she was saying. With his support she went on to found a recovering burns program, encouraging former patients to support each other in their adjustments. Henderson also appears with the Dallas burn team on many professional programs to encourage other hospitals to join what has become the recovering burns movement. In addition, she has launched a cosmetic business, manufacturing and selling cosmetics for scarred skin.

David Ruth, a young businessman in his 30s when he was burned in September, 1978, reports to Physical Therapy daily at Parkland. Each session is both rigorous and painful. Not only was he badly burned, but Ruth has a severe hearing loss due to his medication. The fate of his hands, which were almost destroyed in a home explosion, caused him the most fear for the future. Does he ever wish he had died rather than face the slow hell of his rehabilitation? "To be honest, I think that every one of us does at some time or other," says the patient. "But think I really wanted to live underneath. Those who don't die." Not able to work, he spends much of his time doing volunteer work in the hospital X-ray department.

As the survivors have learned, a burn is the most traumatic injury the body can receive. A major burn injury causes a crisis in every organ system. The whole body reacts in crazy, out-of-control ways. The heartbeat speeds up; the metabolic rate goes on a rampage; the foot soldiers of the immune system rush out to defend the wounds from invading bacteria while leaving the rear unguarded; and fluids pour around the burn injury, evaporating and causing dehydration to the rest of the body.

One of the weird things about a burn is that it may not necessarily look bad. The burned area may be only slightly pink or red and if the burn is deep, the victim, who is also in shock, may feel no pain because the nerve centers in the injured area have been destroyed.

Just what is a bad burn? According to the American Burn Association, sunburn is a good example of a burn classified "first-degree." While it may be red and even painful, the first-degree burn is not serious and can be treated by simple first-aid techniques. A second-degree burn, however, is serious. It can destroy the cells and lead to scarring but may have the capability of some regeneration. A third-degree burn generally does not have the capability of regeneration and requires surgical excision and grafting. If left untreated, a second-degree burn can progress to the third-degree stage.

When the burn patient arrives at the hospital, the team must act quickly—determining the extent of injury, maintaining an open airway, bathing the wounds and, most important, giving massive amounts of fluid immediately.

Local Grads Accept Achievement Awards

Three Hereford residents, Timothy Warren Hamlett, Robert Thomas Fish, and Steven Shannon Veigel, were among 117 incoming freshmen who have accepted Academic Achievement Awards at Texas Christian University for the 1980-81 academic year.

Hamlett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom J. Hamlett of 301 Westhaven; Fish is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Beryl G. Fish of 103 Centre; and Veigel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob W. Veigel of Route 4. Ranging from $550 to $1,200 per year to be applied to tuition costs, the awards are given to encourage and to recognize young men and women who give promise of becoming leaders in their chosen fields. Academic achievement is the single criterion for the awards. The awards were made for the 1980-81 academic year to incoming 1980 high school graduates who ranked in the top 15 percent of their graduating classes and who had minimum scores of SAT 1100 - ACT 26. TCU, an independent institution related to the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) since its founding in 1873 on the Southwestern frontier, also offers M.E. Sadler Merit Scholarships for students selected by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation as well as an extensive program of other special awards, federal and state grants, part-time employment and loans.

Hereford Music Study Club Elects Convention Delegate

Mary Carter was elected to serve as a delegate for the Hereford Music Study Club at the District I Texas Federation of Music Clubs Convention. The convention will be in Spearman on Nov. 1. Mrs. Tom Burdett and Mrs. W.T. Carmichael will join Mrs. Carter at the convention.

"Show Boat" is considered his most impressive work. The group presented several selections from "Showboat" including "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," "You are Love," "Only Make Believe" and "O! Man River." Hymn of the Month was another Kern selection, "All the Things You Are," from the play, "Very Warm For May." Co-hostesses for the October meeting were Mrs. Burdett, Mrs. Thomas Betzen and Mrs. Brent Caviness.

Lloyd McGee and Bill Devers were guest at the meeting. Other members present included Mmes. Lynton Allred, Bill Bradly, Tom Burdett, Allen Cansler, W.T. Carmichael, W.E. Dameron, Lyle Holmes, Ed Line, J.C. McCracken, J.D. Neill, Sid Shaw, Bob Sims, Wayne Thomas and Ken Walser. Patron members present were Mmes. Harold Close, Ellis Coombes, J.T. Gilbreath, D.W. Palmer, William McReynolds and Miss Frances Dameron.

Through its five undergraduate schools and colleges, TCU offers 14 bachelor's degrees in more than 50 fields of study and master's degrees in 50 areas of specialization. Doctoral degrees are offered in English, physics, mathematics, chemistry, history and psychology in addition to three master's degrees and the Doctor of Ministry degree through TCU's Brite Divinity School.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Wesley Fisher led the program, "The World of Musical Comedy" in which the group studied the life and work of Jerome Kern. "Kern was a real pioneer in the creation of genuinely native musical theatre with songs that were introduced logically and meaningfully into action of play," Mrs. Fisher said.

Montoya Will Speak At WTSU

Jose Montoya, director of Chicano Studies at Eastern New Mexico University at Portales will speak about education in the '80s at West Texas State University Oct. 19.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. at the Activity Center Ballroom on campus.

Montoya is an authority on education having served with the Education Department in Washington, D.C.

The public is invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

SARPALIUS FOR SENATE
An Effective Conservative

Humanitarian:
Bill Sarpalius and his two brothers were raised at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch. After college graduation, Bill returned to Boys Ranch with his wife, Donna, and his son, David, to work for five years as a staff member and teacher.

Agriculture:
A former State President of the Future Farmers of America, Bill Sarpalius has earned both Bachelor and Masters degrees in Agriculture from Texas Tech University and West Texas State University. He understands the importance Agriculture plays in our economy.

Educator:
As a school teacher Bill Sarpalius understands the value of a good education. As a parent, he is concerned with the role quality education plays in the future of our state.

Businessman:
As a businessman, Bill Sarpalius can relate to the problems facing businesses in the 1980's. A longtime District resident, Bill is sensitive to the needs of business in the area.

Experience:
Bill Sarpalius understands the Texas Legislative process. He believes that to be an effective State Senator you must make yourself available to the people. Bill intends to do this through the use of a mobile office.

"I believe we must go back to having an effective voice in the State Senate ... someone who will listen to the people and work for their concerns."

It's Time For A Change
Bill Sarpalius for 31st Senatorial District

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dentures make a difference

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 38 years old and I have no teeth. Neither does my husband but he doesn't have the problems that I have. My stomach stays full of gas all the time. It is also bloated. I have never been able to eat spicy or citrus things or milk or eggs without my stomach getting upset. Now everything I eat upsets my stomach. Also my sides hurt. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER - There are many reasons why people have trouble with gas. The two biggest factors involved are swallowing air and fermentation of undigested foods. That happens, for example, in a person who is intolerant to milk and can't absorb it. The carbohydrate in milk sugar ferments and acts like a chemical laxative.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 6-8. Controlling Gasousness. It will discuss this problem in detail for you and offer suggestions you can follow to help control your symptoms. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I was struck by your comment that you don't have any teeth. It could be that your dentures don't fit properly. As one of our readers pointed out some time ago, having ill-fitting dentures can lead to gas problems.

Why? Because that stimulates a person to swallow air.

So it might not be a bad idea, among other things, to check with your dentist to see if you have proper fitting dentures or not. One difference between you and your husband may be that his dentures fit and yours don't.

DEAR DR. LAMB - It is generally stated that offspring of incestuous relationships, or for that matter close cousins, are deformed. Is this true? Have there been any scientific studies done on this where actual numbers were counted? There have been many famous people married to their cousins without producing any deformed children.

DEAR READER - It's strictly a matter of genes. All of us have two sets of genes to determine each one of our characteristics, such as blue eyes or brown eyes or blond hair. One of these genes is dominant and that's the characteristic we see.

You may have two healthy people because their dominant genes are good and control their health but if they mate and have an offspring and the two bad weaker genes are present in the offspring, the child may have an abnormal characteristic. This is more apt to occur in close relatives because they have similar genes.

If there are no abnormal genes to begin with, there will be no abnormalities in the offspring. In fact, if you want to look at what's been done in the genetics of animals, the development of purebred animals is really a form of inbreeding. You take the desired animals that have the same characteristics and mate them over and over until the breed characteristics are established.

Some royal families in history have had a prominent history of familial disorders. The intermarriage of individuals who had genes for these diseases increased the frequency of these diseases.

Today if cousins are going to marry or there's any question about the problem, genetic counseling can be done to assess the likelihood of abnormal births.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 41-year-old male and I had a kidney stone removed last summer. In order to remain on-flight status and retain my job, it's essential that I do not develop another stone. My first one was an average calculus type. However, I have talked to two urologists and two other doctors and they don't seem to agree as to the proper diet to prevent the formation of another stone.

If you could give me some guidance, I would be most appreciative. Coffee is one item in question and it would be tough for me to give that up. But, of course, I would if you think it best. I do not smoke or drink. However, it was suggested that I drink beer.

DEAR READER - The concepts about treating kidney stones have changed in recent years. Most stones can either be prevented from enlarging or recurring with careful medical management. The first requirement in deciding how to prevent recurrences of stones is to know what kind of stone you had in the first place. That requires chemical analysis. Most men in your age group who have their first stone do have a calcium oxalate stone. You're fortunate because many times one stone is all a man will have.

It used to be said that you should limit your calcium intake if you had stones. Now it's appreciated that the big problem for people who form calcium oxalate stones is the oxalate and not the calcium. Beer just happens to be a rich source of oxalate, so current thinking is that you should not drink it if you have this problem.

Regardless of the type of stone you or anybody else has, the one recommendation that everybody agrees upon is that it's important to keep your urine dilute. You do that by drinking adequate amounts of acceptable liquids. One of the best is water. To do this properly a person should drink enough water to pass about three quarts of urine a day. It's important to space the liquid intake around the clock so that you have dilute urine all day and night and not just part of the day.

There are chemical substances that act like water conditioners and help keep chemicals in solution. These are believed to prevent stone formation. Milk is loaded with water conditioners that help in this regard.

The current recommendation of restricting milk and calcium to prevent kidney stones is primarily for stones associated with a kidney infection. These are more often seen in women than in men.

As far as the kidney stones are concerned, I see no reason you couldn't use coffee but for other reasons I don't like for people to use an excessive amount of it.

Sometimes people have high blood levels of calcium because they have a fundamental hormone imbalance in the body. These conditions are independent of the diet and are detected by a comprehensive diagnostic evaluation.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

Case of static curtains

DEAR POLLY - What can I do about the static electricity in my polyester-cotton lace curtains? I have used fabric softener in the rinse water and sheets one puts in the dryer. I've sprayed on a guard against static. They have even been dry cleaned. What can I do? - ROSEL-LA

DEAR ROSEL-LA - You seem to have tried all the usual things. If you dry the curtains in your dryer try removing them while they are still a bit damp and then hang them and smooth into place with your hands. How about this, readers? I am sure some of you must have had the same problem at one time or another. - POL-LY

DEAR POLLY - I am answering Helen who has trouble with wrinkles in her permanent press curtains after a certain length of time and a few washings. I have extra large curtains and had tried everything and they had been ironed many times. Then I tried the following procedure, after which they never have to be ironed.

Fold the soiled curtains neatly as you remove them from the windows and keep them folded through each step. If they are white soak in a dry bleach and warm water and press down with the hands to force the soil from the fabric. Next follow the same procedure using detergent and warm water. Rinse but keep curtains folded. Place the folded curtains in the bottom of the empty automatic washer and run them through the spin dry cycle only. Remove while damp dry and, for the very best results, stand on a step stool while putting them on the rods and hanging. This method is really easy and far superior to any I have ever tried. I never put permanent press curtains in the dryer. - RUBY

Elkettes Sponsor Sale To Help Bartels Family

Hereford Elkettes will sponsor a garage sale Oct. 25 to raise money for the Erwin Bartels family.
 Erwin Bartels was seriously injured in an automobile accident and according to Virginia Dickson, "the family needs a great deal of financial support due to the amount of medical bills."
 The Elkettes are asking for donations of clothes, appliances or furniture to sell in order to raise the needed amount of money.
 "If anyone has items they would like to donate but cannot deliver them, we will be happy to pick up the items," Mrs. Dickson said.
 Interested persons can call Mrs. Dickson at 364-2555 or 364-5582 in the evenings or call Janice Homes at 364-5135.
 Donations can be taken to The Hereford Elk Lodge at 131 East 2nd after 5 p.m.

Kingdom Seekers Plan October Church Revival

Kingdom Seekers began making plans for a revival at the Avenue Baptist Church at its Tuesday meeting at the home of Juanita Houle.
 The group has scheduled the revival for the weekend of Oct. 24 at the church.
 Roll call at the meeting was answered with members describing how they look when they fix breakfast.
 Coy Tice presented the devotional on Psalm 66, verses 13-20. Erma Dean Bain conducted Bible games.
 The group will meet again Nov. 11 at 3:30 p.m. at the home of Velma Carroll.
 Refreshments were served to members including Louella Thomas, Erma Dean Bain, Juanita Houle, Shirley Brown, Dora Mae Barnett, Rosie Wall, Velma Carroll, Coy Tice and Nancy Duncan.
