

Session Re-Scheduled For Wednesday

Air Force 'No-Shows' for MX Hearing

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor
AMARILLO - In brilliant bureaucratic form officials of the U.S. Air Force failed to show up for their own scheduled briefing on the MX missile system at the American National Bank building here Monday.

A crowd of approximately 100 area residents, many of whom had driven from distant points on the South Plains, had assembled for the hearing but were informed that the Air Force officials had cancelled Monday's briefing, the first of a series in the Texas Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico area scheduled by the Air Force to receive commentary from local residents and to disseminate information on the controversial MX system. Don Richards, an aide to 19th Congressional Dist. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock spoke with Pentagon officials concerning the cancellation of Monday's briefing and was informed that "mechanical problems" with aircraft in Denver, Colo. prevented a pair of Air Force officials from reaching Amarillo.

A spokesman for the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission in Amarillo, the group which arranged for hearings to be brought to the local area, reported that the Air Force provided only 30 minutes' notice of the cancellation of Monday's hearing, however, with the word coming too late to notify area residents.

The cancellation by the Air Force left many of those who had gathered in Amarillo for the hearing cynical, if not bitter. News crews from the South Plains as well as the local area were on hand for Monday's session and farmers, merchants and other interested individuals from throughout the Panhandle and South Plains were on hand for the session that wasn't.

Despite the cancellation, however, opponents of the basing of an MX missile system in the local area took advantage of the gathering to garner support and plot strategy for the Amarillo hearing, which has now been re-scheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Blue Room of the American National Bank.

Frank Ford of Hereford headed up an impromptu session of commentary and Ford also circulated petitions that were first drawn up by concerned Deaf Smith County citizens in mid-November following a presentation on the MX missile system here by David Cortright, executive director of the Sane Nuclear Policy Committee.

The petition calls for the White House to "pull its bureaucrats back" on the MX project and refers to the proposed MX as "a gross waste of taxpayer's money." The petition adds "any consideration of placing the MX in the Panhandle will be met with fierce and determined opposition by the citizens of this area."

City Commissioners Turn Down Contract With Tax District

City Commissioners unanimously turned down a contract with the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal Board last night stating the wording of the contract was unacceptable and vague.

One problem with the contract is the consolidated tax statement. Nobody wants to come in and pay all three taxes, school, city and county, at one time. Also, the contract does not state who would be held responsible if taxes were not collected," Dudley Bayne city manager, said. City Attorney, Earnest Langley, who advised the commissioners to turn down the contract, will draw up a new contract that will be acceptable to the city and Bayne said he looks for the contract to be on the agenda at the next commissioner's meeting.

The wording of the contract doesn't even sound like a contract. "There are so many things wrong with the contract I don't have time to elaborate on them, but one of the problems is the responsibility of the collections of taxes," Bayne said. According to Bayne, the city did not receive the contract for review until Nov. 24 and Langley was not able to review the contract until yesterday. Commissioners also discussed the repair of the Santa Fe Railroad crossing on South Main.

Here Comes Santa Claus

A special visitor from the North Pole proved the star attraction Monday night as the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce held its annual community Christmas tree lighting ceremonies on the south lawn of the courthouse. Santa made an early visit here to help kick off the holiday season in Hereford. Christmas decorations are expected to go up throughout the city this week as businesses and residences are decked out with lights and trimmings. A crowd of about 100 braved the chill winds of a norther to attend last night's ceremonies, which included performances by the Hereford Chamber Singers and the First United Methodist Church ladies handbell choir. County History Committee Announces Logo for Project

The Project County History Committee has announced the completion of the mailing list and logo for the county history book currently being compiled.

H.L. Hershey-Progressive; Mrs. Ira Ott-Wyche; Mrs. Ray Johnson, Summerfield; Mrs. Leta Kaul-Westway; Mrs. Julian Perrin-Simms; and Mrs. Don Hicks-Ford.

Hereford representatives are Mrs. Aileen Montgomery, Lucille Hughes, Mrs. Bartley Dowell and Mrs. Clarence Betzen.

The logo was designed by the committee with local artist Mrs. Marguerite Newell doing the art work.

The logo is a map of the state of Texas. Deaf Smith County is outlined within the drawing of the state. Hereford is indicated by the dot within the county lines.

Other drawings within the state are to indicate industries that have been prominent in the growth of the area. The first development here was the large ranches in the area. There was farming, primarily of wheat and milo, on a dryland basis. This is indicated by the sheaf of grain.

After extensive use of irrigation became possible, farming of other crops became possible on a commercial basis. An irrigation well and sugar beets were used to indicate the expanded agri-business that has developed here.

The mailing list, according to Kathryn Ruga, publicity chairman, "is as complete as possible and letters are to be mailed to county residents this week."

Anyone knowing of someone who was a resident of Deaf Smith County but has moved and feels they would be interested in obtaining space in the county history book, are asked to contact Sue Coleman, office manager for Project County History, at the E.B. Black House, 364-4338. The office is open every afternoon from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Area representatives for the project are: Mrs. H.H. Miller-Dawn; Mrs. C.L. McBroom-Palo Duro; Mrs. H.D. Fowler-Wildorado; Mrs. N.A. Brown-Walcott; Mrs. C.F. Hornfeld-Bippus; Mrs.

Iraq Says Forces Poised For Final Assault in Iran

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Iraq said today its forces were poised for a "final assault" on the three main cities of Iran's oil-rich Khuzistan Province.

A spokesman for the Iraqi command said his nation's infantry and armor were now in advantageous positions for a "final assault to overrun" Khuzistan's capital of Ahwaz, the giant oil refining complex of Abadan and the army garrison town of Dezful.

"Once the political leadership of Iraq issues the order, forces in the battlefield are ready for, and capable of decisive action in Ahwaz, Abadan and Dezful," the spokesman said.

Abadan, on the eastern shore of the Shatt al-Arab estuary, has been besieged for the past six weeks. Last week, Iran claimed it broke the siege and Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr reportedly made a daring trip that included a motorcycle tour of Iranian frontline bunkers to underscore the claim.

Iraq maintains artillery positions three to six miles west of Ahwaz, 75 miles north of Abadan, and 10 to 15 miles west of Dezful, which is 70 miles north of Ahwaz. The three cities control Iran's oil refining operations plus distribution pipeline networks from the south to rest of the country.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Saadoun Hammadi said the 72-day-old conflict could be brought to an end by an agreement to stop shooting, negotiate a delineation of the border and then withdraw from each other's off-shore and territorial boundaries. "This is the only practical and reasonable solution," Hammadi said in a letter to (See IRAQ, Page 2)

Swift Move Seen On Aid to Italy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress, heeding a Carter administration plea to help a friend in need, is moving swiftly to send $50 million to earthquake victims in southern Italy. One U.S. official said even that much money may not be enough.

The disaster relief bill was rushed through the House with no opposition Monday as Democrats and Republicans put aside partisan differences in their lame-duck session to beat Friday's scheduled adjournment.

Sens. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., and Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., were adding their support today as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee prepared to whisk the bill to the floor.

The legislation was sponsored in the Senate by Massachusetts Democrat Edward M. Kennedy and strongly supported by President Carter, who called the quake "the worst natural disaster to strike Western Europe in half a century."

The bill authorizes $50 million for relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction assistance for victims of the earthquake that struck a remote part of southern Italy Nov. 23.

Joseph A. Mitchell, director of the Office of U.S. Foreign Disaster Assistance, said $3.5 million in immediate U.S. relief already has gone to Italy.

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which approved the bill only hours before the House acted Monday, Mitchell said the

Brand Will Forward Santa Letters

Santa Claus made his first appearance in Hereford Monday night in the annual Christmas Lighting ceremony, and he asked The Brand to again handle his mail from local children.

The Brand will accept "Letters to Santa," publish them in the newspaper and forward them to the North Pole.

Some letters will be published prior to Christmas as they arrive in the newspaper office, and the remainder will be included in the "Christmas-greeting" edition of The Brand.

Jim Hillwig, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Hillwig, 323 Stadium, picked up some Hereford Bucks for Christmas shopping this week as he emerged the grand prize winner of The Brand's Football Contest.

Hillwig, who had just qualified last week as one of the contestants for the grand prizes, missed just seven games out of the 26. It was a tough week for picking the winners, but it earned Hillwig the first prize of $100 in Hereford Bucks.

John Keating, who lives just down the street at 349 Stadium, was one of five contestants in the winner's circle who missed nine of the games. His total tie-breaker score of 24 points was the closest, however, and he took the second prize of $35. Tracy Shepherd, 628 Ave. J, took the third-place prize of $15 when she guessed 30 on the tiebreaker total. Valley beat Klondike, 6-0, in the tiebreaker score.

Others in the grand-prize contest who missed nine games were Armando Alaniz, Jerry Morgan and Karen Marsh. All their guesses on the tiebreaker were higher.

Winning the Hereford bucks in the last weekly contest were James McNaney, Lani Walterscheid and Dub George. McNaney missed only six games to win the $25 prize, while a number of entrants missed seven games.

Mrs. Walterscheid took the $15 award with a guess of 26 points on the tiebreaker, while George, a Dimmit entrant, took the $10 third prize with a guess of 28 on the tiebreaker.

Also missing seven games but guessing higher on the tiebreaker were Mike Wartes of Muleshoe, Jackie Murphy, Doris Bryant and Jim Marsh. A host of entrants missed eight games.

The winner's circle contest-composed of weekly first-place winners for the previous 12 weeks - was judged separate from the last week's regular contest. Ansel McDowell and Susan Crosby missed 10 games in the contest among the weekly winners, while Lela Duggan missed 11, David Caldwell 12, Kham Sao Phommvong and Scott Debord 14 each.

Sponsors of the Brand Football Contest this season have been: Stairway to Fashion, Simmons Carpet, Town & Country Irrigation, Wall & Sons Drilling, West Texas Rural Telephone Co-Op, Hereford State Bank, Deaf Smith REC, Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union, Hi-

First-Hand Farmer Desired as Ag Head

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas farm organizations are hopeful President-elect Ronald Reagan will appoint an agriculture secretary with first-hand experience of farm and ranch problems.

"We would hate to see the individual come just out of the processing or trade industry or service industry other than farming itself," Bill Nelson of the Texas Wheat Producers Association said in a typical response to an Associated Press survey. Nelson, however, said the Amarillo-based group had decided not to endorse any specific candidate in order to avoid potential embarrassment.

He said the wheat producers would respond if the incoming Republican administration sought their opinion but did not plan to volunteer any evaluations of possible Cabinet members.

Jay Naman, president of the Texas Farmers Union in Waco, had an eye on the farm policies of the Carter administration when he said farm experience might not be the cutting edge for an agriculture secretary.

Outgoing Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has a family farm in Minnesota. "He was not, in my opinion, a good secretary of (See SECRETARY, Page 2)

Kiwanis Tree Sale Underway

Hereford's Noon Kiwanis Club started its annual Christmas Tree Sales program Monday, according to committee chairman Dempsey Alexander.

Headquarters for the Christmas tree sales will be the old Penney's Auto Store at Sugarland Mall. Interested citizens can go by and pick out their tree.

Sale of the trees will continue through Dec. 22. Proceeds from the project are used by the Kiwanians for local community projects.

Texas Oil Firm

Executive Indicted

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An executive of a Texas oil firm has been indicted by a federal grand jury here on 15 fraud-related charges involving two oil companies, an FBI spokesman said.

Billy G. Young, 45, of Mounds, vice president and general manager of Compton Petroleum Corp. of Abilene, Texas, is charged with selling 200,000 barrels of refined industrial fuel oil to the Apco Corp., of Oklahoma City, and Vickers Petroleum, of Wichita, Kan., while labeling it stripper crude oil, spokesman John Warren said Monday.

Young allegedly received some $1.3 million for the sale of the oil, which he allegedly claimed was of a higher grade.

"A product which has been previously refined is obviously not the same as unrefined, crude oil," said Larry Patton, U.S. attorney.

The 15 counts include charges of mail fraud and giving false information on oil certifications. They allege it occurred in 1977.

Warren said the FBI's 1½-year investigation of the alleged scheme covered several states.

Young faces a maximum 55-year prison term and $45,000 fine.

Syria, USSR

Treaty in Force

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A 20-year friendship and cooperation treaty between Syria and the Soviet Union came into force today amid rising fears of war with Jordan. But a top Soviet envoy urged all conflicts be settled peacefully, and so far only angry words were being exchanged by the two Arab neighbors.

Soviet First Vice President Vasily

V. Kuznetsov, who flew from Moscow for the ratification ceremony, said, "The treaty has a special importance as far as liquidating the dangerous element of tension in the Mideast and we in the U.S.S.R. greatly appreciate the (importance) of cooperating with Syria in this important manner."

Kuznetsov said the treaty, signed by Syrian President Hafez Assad and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev in Moscow Oct. 8, does not pose a "ghost of a threat" to the region, and indirectly referring to the border crisis, urged all conflicts be settled in "peaceful ways."

The Soviets are the Syrians' chief arms supplier, and the pact is viewed as another attempt by the Kremlin to bolster regimes friendly to it in the Middle East and offset American influence in the area.

Conservation Bill

Signed Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting on legislation he has called the most important conservation measure of his administration, President Carter is signing into law a bill protecting more than 100 million acres of pristine Alaskan wilderness.

The monumental bill, debated for four years before winning congressional approval last month, was being signed at a ceremony today in the East Room of the White House.

Congress approved the bill after conservation-minded Democrats reluctantly agreed to accept a compromise version rather than risk delaying the debate until the Republicans take control of the Senate and the White House.

By any standard, the bill is historic. Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., chairman of the House Interior Committee and the measure's chief sponsor, has compared it with President Theodore Roosevelt's decision to create the national park system.

The bill amounts to the nation's decision on how it will manage its last big frontier — the mountains, glaciers, tundra and forests of Alaska. It also largely determines to what extent the nation can use the rich natural resources of the land — the oil, gas, timber and minerals.

The bill that finally emerged from Congress puts 104.3 million acres — an area larger than California, but still less than a third of Alaska's land mass — into protected categories.

That includes 43.6 million acres of new national parks, doubling the size of the park system; 53.8 million acres of new wildlife refuges, also doubling that system; 3.4 million acres of national forests; 1.2 million acres for the national wild and scenic river system; and 2.2 million acres in other conservation areas.

Of that total, 56.7 million acres will be designated as wilderness, never to be touched by a development and accessible only by foot, horseback, raft or canoe.

While the land areas are huge, the total is less than environmentalists had wanted. The version of the bill originally passed by the House would have put 127.5 million acres into protected status.

U.S. Reply to Iran

Arrives in Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher arrived in Algiers today carrying the latest American response to Iran's terms for freeing the 52 American hostages.

Christopher was accompanied by Redha Malek, Algeria's ambassador to Washington, and a delegation of other American officials.

The deputy secretary is scheduled to meet with Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia to relay the U.S. reply. Algeria has been acting as intermediary in the negotiations between the United States and Iran.

There was no immediate indication of a breakthrough on gaining the release of the hostages after nearly 13 months of captivity.

While the Air Force had indicated that a Utah-Nevada site is the most desirable for the MX system, deployment of the missiles in that area has been intensely opposed, forcing the Air Force to look at the local area as an alternative site.

Deployment of the MX under alternatives outlined by the Air Force could directly affect Texas counties including Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer, Randall, Sherman, Swisher, Bailey, Cochran, Dallam, Hartley, Hockley, Lamb, Moore and Oldham.

Also affected would be New Mexico counties including Chavez, Curry, De Baca, Guadalupe, Harding, Lea, Quay, Roosevelt and Union.

"This area produces 25 percent of the world's fiber and 20-25 percent of the world's food supply, and they want to take our land away," said King.

"In my opinion this meeting's only a formality. What's regrettable is that $15 million has been spent on a feasibility study. Its asinine," he continued.

The Air Force was scheduled to conduct other hearings at Dalhart, Clovis and Portales at previously scheduled times, in addition to the rescheduled session at Amarillo.

Richards reported that the Pentagon relayed "great apologies" concerning the failure of the Air Force officials to appear for Monday's session.

Christmas Tree Lighting

Despite the cold windy weather Monday night, many Hereford residents turned out for the annual Chamber of Commerce Community Christmas tree lighting which officially kicks off the Christmas season. Viewing the community

Two Arrested For Shoplifting

Two 19-year-old females were arrested Monday afternoon at Gibson's Discount Center for shoplifting and were charged with theft over $50.

Janie Montana, was charged with theft over $50 for taking a pair of boots valued at $49.99. Josie Bustamante, labor camp, was also charged with theft over $50 for taking a pair of boots valued at $59.99.

Both females were charged and placed in Deaf Smith County Jail.

Hereford police have issued a warrant for a man charged in the beating of Cindy Hankins, 22, of 519 Ave. H, Apt. A.

An ambulance was dispatched to Ms. Hankins' residence yesterday at 8:33 a.m. According to police reports, she had been hit in the face. Police expect to make the arrest today or tomorrow.

Saturday afternoon officers received a call to assist the ambulance at 115 Gough where a shooting had taken place.

Upon arrival of officers, the man involved in the shooting, Agapito Perez, had already been taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital. When officers arrived at the hospital

Perez said he had shot himself accidentally. Perez was transferred to Northwest Hospital in Amarillo where he was reported in serious condition.

In several minor reports, Mike Richardson, 511 Schley reported to Hereford police that a tire on his vehicle had been slashed Sunday while at 1420 Ave. K.

The Service Company, P.O. Box 1692, advised that sometime Sunday after 3:30 p.m. someone had broken in to the van parked at the business on South 385. Several cases of soft drinks and pastries valued at $15 were taken from the van.

Alex's Hair Styling, 343 Main Street, reported that sometime between Friday night and Saturday the front window had been broken and the door damaged. Total damage amounted to $300.

Kyla McDowell of Norman, Okla., reported her purse was taken from her car while she was visiting her mother at 240 Ave. J Saturday. Items taken included $300 in jewelry and $10 in cash.

Five traffic citations were issued Monday and six arrests made including three for public intoxication and three for DWI.

the foreign ministers of European Common Market countries whose leaders are meeting in Luxembourg. The official Iraqi news agency reported excerpts from the letter.

Iraq has been claiming a 124-square-mile area plus the entire Shatt al-Arab waterway as an integral part of its territory. About 60 miles of the waterway, Iraq's only waterway to the Persian Gulf, divided pre-war Iran and Iraq.

Hammadi's stress on a cease-fire first and then a negotiated delineation of the border before a withdrawal contrasts sharply with Iran's insistence on an unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from an estimated 8,000 square miles of territory in western and southwestern Iran before a truce could be considered.

agriculture," Naman said. "He was a farmer. Maybe in the inner sanctums he stood up for the farmer, but he didn't prevail. I don't find that is a particularly necessary background."

Naman added that the next agriculture secretary should have "a general ideological commitment" to the family farm, but other than that he had no preference.

Some cattlemen say the time has come for the agriculture secretary to come from their ranks.

Brenda Higley at the Texas Cattle Feeders Association in Amarillo said the group had contacted Reagan about the possibility of appointing Richard A. McDougal to the agriculture post.

McDougal was formerly president of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Kania Advises Labor Leaders to 'Sober Up'

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Communist Party leader Stanislaw Kania opened a two-day session of the party's Central Committee with a warning to militant independent labor leaders to "sober up" and cooperate with the party. He said they are threatening the peace of Europe.

Kania in a speech Monday that was broadcast nationally offered to cooperate with leaders of the independent labor movement who showed restraint. But he warned against "prestige or downright political strikes" and rejected demands of the Warsaw chapter of Solidarity, the largest independent union, for a reduction in the budgets of the prosecutor's office and other police agencies.

"It is high time to sober up, to understand that the basic condition and chance for a further favorable development of the nation is an immediate halt to activities weakening and undermining the functioning of the people's state," he said.

Such activities "threaten to eventually destabilize the peaceful order of Europe," he said, apparently referring to the possibility of Soviet military intervention if challenges to the political system continue.

Kania thanked the Soviets for their "understanding of the nature of our difficulties and the conviction that we shall find a way out of the crisis." He said the Soviet Union provided $600 million worth of goods to Poland in 1980 and would advance $1.3 billion in Western currency next year to pay for consumer goods and other commodities.

Paul Harvey News

The Sky is Not Falling Down

Do you remember when in late July a longtime Michigan autoworker held several people hostage at gunpoint for several hours? Did you hear what the psychiatrists finally concluded?

William Waterman felt that the people he worked with "were against him"; indeed that "all society was against him."

Now, we know there is a very fine line of distinction between rational and irrational fear.

And some of the overwrought ecologists who are chewing their fingernails up past the second knuckle worrying about "the sky falling down" are themselves borderline nuts.

A lot of Americans have been infected with a germ of truth that's "festering."

The burning of fossil fuels does generate carbon dioxide. Generating synthetic fuels releases into the atmosphere even more carbon dioxide.

Since pre-industrial times, the amount of carbon dioxide in the air has increased measurably by as much as 17 percent. It is still less than 1 percent of atmospheric gases.

Yet, among some, anxiety over carbon dioxide is escalating past the point of reason.

Theoretically, more carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere will create a "greenhouse effect," ultimately trapping the sun's heat and raising temperatures on earth.

The effect of temperature change by a few degrees could snafu farming and fishing and, scariest of all, the predictions are that it might melt polar ice and drown us all!

David Slade of the U.S. Energy Department compares this prospect to "nuclear war."

MIT Professor David Rose calls it "an international problem of enormous dimensions."

Most other countries think America's environmentalists have gone bananas.

Worried by the constant stream of alarms they hear from every scientist who wants to see his grant renewed or his name in print, most foreign observers are more amused than anxious.

Farmers, the world over, welcome any increased carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. Crops and trees love to breathe carbon dioxide and would thrive on more of it.

Agriculture is accustomed to adapting to climatic changes and is not going to be panicked by speculative uncertainty.

If the world wants to counteract any increase in carbon dioxide it has only to plant more trees, more crops; vegetation as well as oceans are natural reservoirs for containing carbon dioxide, for locking it away from the atmosphere.

Perhaps that would be a good idea for aesthetic reasons as well. Developed nations have indeed cleared more trees than they've replanted. If anxiety about balancing carbon dioxide in the atmosphere should motivate us to reserve this willful erosion, good!

But the more ominous imbalance is not biological, it is psychological. We must all make a conscious effort to maintain emotional balance so that unreasonable anxieties will not motivate us to do — or to undo — unwisely.

The sky will fall down only on the unstable.

Small Animal Projects Natural for Children

By ROBBY VANN
County Extension Agent
Kids feel a natural affection for all kinds of animals - cats, rabbits, hamsters, birds. You name it and they like it. That's why a 4-H small animal project is such a natural.

But there's another reason animal projects are important for youngsters. Today, those in towns and cities need more direct contact with nature and living things. In suburban homes or city apartments, a small pet can compensate a little for the increasing mechanization of life. Small animal projects can and will do for city kids what larger animal projects do for farm youth.

Small animal projects include pets such as cats, guinea pigs, hamsters, mice, gerbils, cage birds, pigeons, dove and tropical fish. Dogs and rabbits are generally in separate project categories of their own and are not included in the small animal category.

In the 4-H small animal project, 4-H'ers learn things like breeds of animals, care and feeding, purchasing animals, and careers. 4-H'ers learn about their project through meetings, demonstrations, shows, tours and record books, all under the guidance of an adult volunteer leader.

In addition to volunteer leaders, other resource people such as animal breeders, veterinarians, pet shop owners, and animal control officers give their time to talk to local 4-H project groups. Literature on many small animal projects is available from libraries, veterinarians, pet product companies, and the Extension Service.

If you're a youngster who likes animals, or an adult who can spare some time to teach kids about animals, there is a place for you in 4-H. Small animal projects are a natural.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

Do you ever get the feeling that life is a parade and you're standing behind Bill Russell?

While I was watching television the other night, a commercial came on about a shower nozzle that massaged your entire body with four different sprays. The bathe twisted and squealed with such delight that I sat forward in my chair to see what was turning her on.

Finally, she flipped her head and whispered huskily, "Have a GOOD time with your water spray."

I shrugged and figured here was a woman who could make a party out of a tax audit and forgot it.

During the next break, a commercial came on of a man so beat I thought he was going to expire before my eyes. All he wanted out of life was a decent burial. Then he stepped into the shower and began to cover himself with lather. Within seconds, his entire body sprang to life. The last glimpse showed him sniffing his soap in pure ecstasy, and yelling to his wife to get his bowling ball out of the closet.

After that I began to watch the bath commercials closely. They were all the same. Everyone had such a swell time I felt guilty watching them. One woman who looked like a walking ad for sweat eased herself into a tub of suds and immediately turned into a sex kitten. She snuggled down under the bubbles, closed her eyes and purred, and invited everyone to join her.

What really sent me to the plumbing supply was a commercial for a water spray filmed at a resort in Florida. A hidden camera and microphone recorded the rapture felt by the people who stood under the assault of water. (The last time I saw that look on anyone's face, it was worn by my mother at my wedding.)

Maybe that's what was missing in my life. I had tried raucous parties, jet travel, and baking from scratch. Maybe all I needed to create some excitement was a shower spray to sweep me off my feet.

It took 45 minutes for my son to relinquish the bathroom to me. The steam opened up pores that had been closed for repairs. Turning on the spigot caused the shower to drench my head in water as he had forgotten to push down the plunger. The soap was in a liquid form in the soap dish. A bottle of shampoo without a lid spilled onto my feet. The spray was at eye level and knocked me into a wall.

I don't think showers will ever replace volleyball.

Ann Landers Serving Others

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll bet you've had it with the secretaries who resent being asked to get coffee for the boss, but please hear me out.

I get coffee not only for my boss but several other bosses in this office. This means collecting money, getting the paper cups and plastic spoons, making the coffee and serving it, cleaning the urn - along with a cheerful "Good morning" for everyone who comes in.

I love it! It's not a chore. It's a ministry. Some people say thanks, other don't. But I don't care. I don't need praise. I do this simple chore because it makes me feel good to be of service to others. Sign me - A Very Happy Secretary In Columbus, Ohio

HELO MARY SUNSHINE: A "ministry," yet. I'm glad you didn't sign your name. Knowing your identity would be more responsibility than I want. Too many secretaries out there would cheerfully strangle you, dear.

Thanks for letting me know you exist. You're the last of a vanishing breed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going out with "Jake" for a year and a half. We have done almost everything two people can possibly do together except DANCE.

For the whole year and a half I have been ducking any invitation that might include dancing. Jake is extremely good-looking and very sexy. All my girlfriends would give anything to get him away from me. The problem is that he is a very good dancer, and I am a klutz.

The other night a friend of mine had a block party. Suddenly, everyone was dancing. I wanted to die right then and there. Jake asked me to dance at least four times, but I turned him down. When he danced with my girlfriends I became very jealous. The evening was a nightmare.

I have tried dancing in the mirror, but I look like a fool. I've asked several people to teach me to dance, but they tell me I am too stiff.

I'm afraid I'm going to lose this guy because I now know how much he enjoyed dancing and I don't fit in. This whole thing is killing me. What can I do? - Two Left Feet East Of The Hudson

DEAR N.Y.: If you've managed to hold Jake's interest for a year and a half with no dancing, it can't be of such great importance to him.

Since you feel threatened, I suggest you ask Jake to teach you to dance. Make up your mind you are going to learn, and you will. Start by standing together and swaying with the music. Then, let him show how to move. Pretend you are a rag doll in his arms. Relax. You may never win the magnum of champagne, but at least you won't suffer an anxiety attack whenever Jake gets near a dance band.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on the mother whose young daughter went to work as a groom in a stable. She said the girl went from "Pardon me" to "Stick it in your ear, lady." The implication was that jockeys and trainers are a bad influence - generally disreputable people.

What gives her the right to make such a generalization? I've met quite a few people who work with horses and there hasn't been one I didn't like. The woman owes a lot of apologies - especially to the jockeys. They may be smaller than most men but they are really a great group of guys. Just sign me - I Love Longacres

DEAR LONG: AND gals. Ask Fred Astaire. He recently married one.

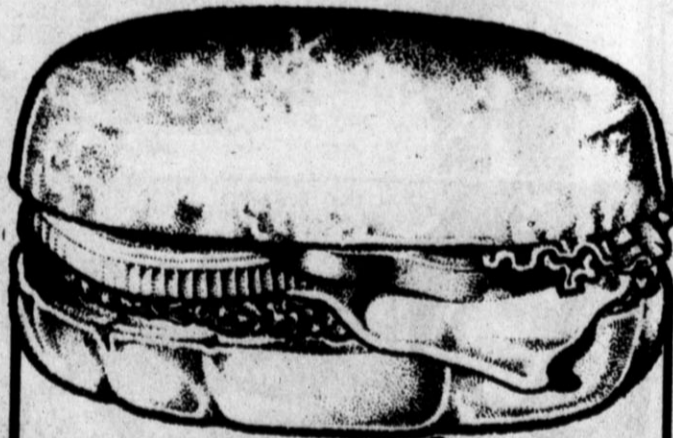

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex - Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Display of X-Mas Items

Sue Bookout, the wife of Steve Bookout, pastor of First Assembly of God Church on 15th Street, was selected as the displayer of the month at the County Library. Mrs. Bookout who works with ceramics, has displayed several of her Christmas items in the library. Among them being a Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, Christmas tree with lights, two nativity scenes, chorus people, and a Christmas candle holder. Mrs. Bookout has been doing ceramics since 1974. Originally from St. Louis, the couple came to Hereford 8 months ago from Oklahoma. They are the parents of a daughter, Cheri age 2, and are expecting another.

Merry Mixers Schedule Square Dance

The Hereford Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will have a dance Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Hereford

Community Center. All area square dancers are invited to attend. A business meeting will be held at 7 p.m.

The club recently had a western theme dance with an old-fashion cake walk included. There were six squares of dancers including guests from Hereford, Arizona and Washington.

A Christmas dinner will be held for members Dec. 18 at the Community Center. Dickie's Restaurant will cater the dinner.

Enquirer's Class Set At St. Thomas Church

St. Thomas Episcopal Church has scheduled their Winter Enquirer's Class for Thursday, Dec. 4 from 7:30 - 9 p.m. at the church.

Participants will study all aspects of the tenets of the Anglican Communion.

The public is invited to attend the classes. Although the class will prepare those who so desire for membership in the Episcopal Church, there is no obligation to join.

For further information, one can contact the Rev.

Charles Threewit at the church, 601 W. Park Ave., or call 364-0146 or 364-0939.

Powell of Boys Ranch To Exhibit Artwork

Opening with a reception from 1 to 5 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 7, a one-man show of paintings by Carroll Powell of Boys Ranch will be on exhibit at the Art Center Galleries, 100 West 7th, Dumas, through December.

The reception hosted by the Moore County Arts Association is open to the public.

Carroll Powell is a realist - painting in all media and depicting a wide range of subject matter from sports to snowscapes. Of particular interest to historians and art collectors are his watercolor paintings of old Tascosa that was and what has endured to become Boys Ranch. Occasionally he produces an edition of bronze sculpture. His work has been exhibited in Arkansas, New Mexico, Washington, and Texas.

Powell is a native-born Texan, growing up in Abernathy, a few miles north of Lubbock. Early in life, the unlikely combination of physical as well as artistic development led him to earn a B.S. degree in Art and Physical Education from West Texas State University at Canyon. At the present time he is putting both these talents to work by coaching and teaching art at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, northwest of Amarillo.

In addition to his degree in art, Powell has studied with such well known artist-teachers as Dr. Emilio Caballero of Amarillo, Bud Biggs of Dallas, Maurine Brotherton, and Carl Crager of Arizona.

Away from his easel, teaching, and coaching, Powell is sometimes involved with Archeology. He spends some of his spare time hunting arti-facts and occasionally digs with various University groups.

Powell and his wife have two children, a daughter, Terry aged 14, and a son, Barry, 10 years old. Both are interested in Powell's art and help with his shows.

The Newspaper Bible

"COME OUT, YOU EVIL SPIRIT!"

When they arrived at the other side of the lake a demon-possessed man ran out from a graveyard, just as Jesus was climbing from the boat.

This man lived among the gravestones, and had such strength that whenever he was put into handcuffs and shackles - as he often was - he snapped the handcuffs from his wrists and smashed the shackles and walked away. No one was strong enough to control him.

All day long and through the night he would wander among the tombs and in the wild hills, screaming and cutting himself with sharp pieces of stone.

When Jesus was still far out on the water, the man had seen Him and had run to meet Him, and fell down before Him.

Then Jesus spoke to the demon within the man and said, "Come out, you evil spirit." It gave a terrible scream, shrieking, "What are you going to do to me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? For God's sake, don't torture me!"

"What is your name?" Jesus asked, and the demon replied, "Legion, for there are many of us here within this man."

Then the demons begged Him again and again not to send them to some distant land.

Now as it happened there was a huge herd of hogs rooting around on the hill above the lake.

"Send us into those hogs," the demons begged.

And Jesus gave them permission. Then the evil spirits came out of the man and entered the hogs, and the entire herd plunged down the steep hillside into the lake and drowned.

The herdsmen fled to the nearby towns and countryside, spreading the news as they ran. Everyone rushed out to see for themselves.

And a large crowd soon gathered where Jesus was; but as they saw the man sitting there, fully clothed and perfectly sane, they were frightened.

Those who saw what happened were telling everyone about it.

And the crowd began pleading with Jesus to go away and leave them alone!

So He got back into the boat. The man who had been possessed by the demons begged Jesus to let him go along.

But Jesus said no. "Go home to your friends," He told him, "and tell them what wonderful things God has done for you; and how merciful He has been."

So the man started off to visit the Ten Towns of that region and began to tell everyone about the great things Jesus had done for him; and they were awestruck by his story.

Reagan's Economic Challenge Growing

NEW YORK (AP) — In the short time since his election as president, Ronald Reagan's economic challenge has become even greater. And it is likely to become greater still in the weeks before his inauguration.

Recession may be returning, food and heating oil prices are rising, interest rates are rocketing, and much needed housing construction is becoming paralyzed. This is only the beginning of the list.

Perhaps the toughest problem of all for the incoming president is what to do about the surging hopes of Americans, a phenomenon that contrasts mightily with the perverse state of economic conditions and prospects.

Following his election, Reagan received the greatest one-week surge of confidence ever recorded by the 26-year-old Sindinger Survey. Even as incomes declined, people told surveyors that Reagan would lower taxes, tame inflation and put more spendable dollars in their pockets.

There was always some doubt about how much and how soon Reagan could deliver on such expectations, and those doubts now grow by the day and with each new statistic telling just how badly off the economy is.

It isn't difficult, for example, to discern some doubts arising about applying the Kemp-Roth tax cut proposal that Reagan seemed to endorse during the campaign. It would cut taxes 30 percent over a three-year period, but indications now are that something less will be applied.

A big puzzle for the Reagan people is how to raise military spending while lowering taxes, a formula that many hard-nosed, street-smart analysts are telling clients can push inflation into the stratosphere.

And interest rates, following a similar course into space, might conceivably destroy the productivity increases on which so much of the Reagan return-to-stability program is based.

Many small businesses already are on the verge of giving up, says the National Federation of Independent Businesses, not just because of high interest rates but because of taxes, regulation and material costs.

And Wednesday, the National Association of Purchasing Management is expected to report that the vigor shown by the economy for a few weeks in the summer seems to be waning again, perhaps for the same reasons.

One of the most depressing of recent business reports was released today by Citicorp Real Estate, Inc., showing that the commercial mortgage market has deteriorated to an alarming degree.

This market, which always provides a pretty good measure of the economy, is now on the edge of despair, with "virtually no long-term mortgages available for apartments."

Most of what mortgages are available, says Citicorp, are going for prime office buildings and downtown hotels, on which there is relative freedom to raise rents.

The Final Touches

Dixie Benjamin, Herman Oltmann and Frank Byrd put the final touches on several of the ceramic pieces to be sold at the Westgate Nursing Home Bazaar Saturday Dec. 6.

Residents, staff members and volunteers have worked together to prepare for the third annual bazaar which will be at Westgate, 430 Ranger, from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

$350,000 in Precious Metals Gone

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities today questioned employees who entered Texas Instruments' plant over the holiday weekend to determine who might have had access to $350,000 worth of gold and platinum that vanished from a safe.

The metals, used in defense projects, were discovered missing late Sunday when employees found the safe lock broken, a company spokesman said Monday.

Norman Neureiter, corporate relations manager for the electronics company, said "several thousand people" could obtain entrance to the building by showing proper credentials.

But "there is some speculation that the person who did it knew where to go," he added. "I work here and I don't even know where it (the safe) exactly is."

Neureiter said the safe was located on the ground floor of TI's main building - a security-oriented structure with "double doors monitored by TV and controlled by a guard."

Sheppard May Eclipse Houston by '85

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The airport shared by Sheppard Air Force Base and the city of Wichita Falls now bears the third heaviest load of air traffic in the state.

And if Air Force officials have their way, it could eclipse Houston Intercontinental in traffic congestion by 1985.

"Right now, Sheppard Air Force Base-Wichita Falls Municipal is the third busiest airport in Texas," said wing safety officer Capt. John R. Ragan. "Much of this is civilian. However, we expect the military traffic at Sheppard could triple ... from the present 120 training (flights) flown each day ..."

"Within the next five years, we may well move up to the second busiest airport in the state (behind Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport)," he said.

Controllers at Sheppard-Wichita Falls Municipal handled 108,372 from April to June of 1980 and that figure likely will increase if the proposed Euro-NATO joint jet pilot training program is implemented, said a spokeswoman at the base.

The plan, which is awaiting approval by the Pentagon, would bring future fighter pilots from every NATO country to Wichita Falls for training, said the spokeswoman, who did not wish to be identified.

Because of the already crowded traffic pattern over this North Texas city military and government officials have formed a committee to hammer out safety precautions for the anticipated heavier load.

"It has become evident to me that we are already running into some traffic congestion problems ... mainly in connection with Sheppard Air Force Base," said William Pedigo, a Federal Aviation Administration accident counselor at nearby Kinkaid

Hereford Girls Cripple Palo Duro Dons

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

Sand in the hour glass had sifted OUT for the Palo Duro Dons here Monday night, the majority of Hereford's roster was almost fouled-OUT and HHS girl's cage coach, Larry Sowers, was worn OUT.

The last two items in the out-list were relatively sure of only one thing — "There was no place like home for wrestling your way INTO a 58-37 win over the reckless Amarillo squad."

Yet as kick-and-scratch as the tilt seemed at times, it was a mere needle in a haystack as compared to the explosive encounter between the two squads a week before according to Sowers.

On that occasion, Hereford and Palo Duro met under similar but more brutal circumstances in Amarillo — actually a football clash under the guise of true-blue basketball fervor. Even so, Hereford hacked its way to a 78-76 overtime victory at the conclusion of the slugfest.

"This was a hard fought battle, but wasn't anything compared to what we went through last week. Still, games like this are going to kill me yet," said a happy but drained Sowers following the second match with Palo Duro. "We barely got past them in that overtime game because we got into foul trouble early and I was afraid it was going to happen all over again tonight. I'm just glad we don't have to play them again this year."

garnered high point honors with 16 points on the night), team captain Terri Harkins who followed with 14 total points and junior post Deborah Rogers (hitting nine as the third highest scorer) — Hereford rammed its way to its biggest advantage of the match 33-20 in the third quarter. It wasn't until that point in the game, that the Whitefaces found themselves able to overwhelm Palo Duro's consistent array of charity line shots with field goals.

Hereford's largest scoring delivery had come in a blazing first quarter purge for 19 points, but fell commonplace against Amarillo's 13 (seven of those coming on free-throw shots during the outset — eventually the PHS squad clipped off a total of 21 for 47 attempts as the basics of its scoring).

"The key was our defensive game this week, which was very much improved since the last time we met Palo Duro," said Sowers. "That Tonya Folsom (Amarillo's leading scorer with 10 points) burned us with 32 points when we played them last week, but our defense kept her from getting all she wanted this time. Of course she had a lot of free-throws, but giving her those was better than constant field goals."

And that lead was soon hastened to a 52-34 tally midway in the fourth as Harkins and Cathy Lane teamed in a quick scoring flurry.

Louise Mays and Joyce High added the final thunder to Hereford's point drill as both added a six point sum with minutes left to send the Whitefaces over the Dons 58-37.

"We got in foul trouble there in the third quarter — we were in trouble before that, but that's when it looked like we might run out of people. I think most of the starting girls had three or four fouls on them and we still had a ways to go before the thing would be over," Sowers said.

But we had some fine effort put in by people coming off the bench. Stephanie Foster really added to our defense from the very moment she came in. She's a really heady player who's always looking for the opportunity to pick up the bad pass or careless dribble, and she did a great part in keeping Palo Duro disorganized with seven steals for the night. That's tremendous for a sophomore."

"I'm happy with the way all of them played though. We made some mistakes like fouling people when they were going up for a bad shot, but I'm impressed with the way our defensive game has come along. It gives me better peace of mind to know that aspect of our game is improving. And I think it will continue to get better with more time," he added.

The Whitefaces, now toting a 5-1 ledger on the season, are scheduled to stay at home again this week as they prepare to pit their talents against tournament opponents in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Basketball Tournament set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A bracket of the tournament will be run in the Wednesday edition of the Hereford Brand.

And only one quarter (the third) separated Monday night's "Close Encounter of the Worst Kind" from reharsing and reviving memories of the hand-to-hand combat a week past.

The contrast came not in the foul category (more than 20 fouls were levied against both crews in Monday's aftermath), but in scoring as Hereford realigned a double-figure point burst that had gone awry early in the second period.

Led by three quick scoring jabs on bullseyes from Louise Mays (one of the mainstays from last year's squad who placed fifth in that particular segment with a time of 10:349.

Rita Ward, did her part as the only member of HHS's female squad this year, after she placed fifth in pole bending competition with a time of 20:981.

The squad will have a three month layoff before competition picks back up in March. The next scheduled outing for the crew is slated to be March 7-8 in the Hereford Rodeo.

Trying To Pry

Hereford girl's varsity post player, Deborah Rogers (white), tries to pry the ball loose from the hold of Pampa's Keva Richardson in a battle off the boards while PHS guard Tamra Wilson (11) watches. The HHS girls team returned from a four-game road trip to tassel the Harvester squad 80-27 last Saturday, and then took that home-turf success to heart as it overturned the

Palo Duro Dons 58-37 here Monday night. The victory sent the Whitefaces sprawling season mark to 5-1 as the squad prepares to enter the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Tournament which is slated for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

HHS Varsity Slips to Pampa

Hereford's Alan Wartes, Norman Hill and Gary Parman knocked in respective tallies of 14, 11 and 10 to push the Whitefaces within six points of the Pampa Harvesters in Pampa this past weekend before the squad eventually wound down to a 67-52 deficit — its fourth straight loss of the year.

And even though the contest wasn't recorded as a win, it held a certain charm in head coach Dan Giliuson's mind. "I thought we played really well — a lot better than the score indicated and we showed some marked improvement over some of the things we've been doing in the past," he said. "We started showing signs of coming on in some of the areas we were hurting in earlier and I'm very pleased with the attitude they've showed in making that progress."

Under the pressure involved in facing an awesome 6-8, 6-7, 6-5, 6-2 wall comprising the defending 3-AAAA champion Harvester squad, the Whitefaces found themselves outscored in every quarter of the contest. But the squad closed to within six points (59-53) with just over a minute remaining in the final quarter of the game.

"We worked our way to within six points of them and really had a chance to win the game, but Pampa rose to the occasion and dumped some critical go-ahead shots right there at the last," Giliuson said. "We still have some

To Lead Area Teams

The Hereford Boy's High School rodeo team continued its dominance over area clubs this past weekend in the Amarillo Tascosa Rodeo after it swept places in five of the six possible events en route to winning the team trophy for the sixth week in a row with a total of 34 points.

The 34 team points brings the squad to a total of 150½ points on the year to lead squads from New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas in rodeo competition.

All-Round Cowboy designation.

Other augmenting performances were turned in by Lee Washington who finished first in the steer wrestling segment with an elapsed time of 9.851, and Steve McConnell and Tony Wilcox's respective second place finishes in steer wrestling and bull riding.

McConnell netted second in steer wrestling after reeling off a time of 13.229 in the event while Wilcox took his second place berth in bull riding with a score of 62.

Brent Self finished sixth in bull riding behind Wilcox after accumulating a score of 57.

Blake Johnson and Brett Cunningham cinched second place honors in team roping competition with a combined placed fifth in that particular segment with a time of 10:349.

Rita Ward, did her part as the only member of HHS's female squad this year, after she placed fifth in pole bending competition with a time of 20:981.

Rogers Wins Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — As a high school sophomore, George Rogers remembers he was "scared of contact."

"One time, I was chicken-ing through the hole, not going full speed, and my coach reached down and picked me up from the bottom of the pile. I wasn't but 180 pounds and he was 6-foot-5 and 220. He started shaking me and said, 'You're gonna run the ball or I'm gonna kick your rear end.' I was, like, crying, but that helped motivate me."

Rogers has been running the ball ever since and Monday the University of South Carolina tailback ran himself right into the Heisman Trophy, awarded annually to the nation's outstanding college football player.

"The bad times," said Rogers, the fourth leading rusher in major college football history, "happened a long time ago."

Rogers is now a 6-foot-2, 220-pound senior who may be the first player chosen in next spring's National Football League draft. That would culminate a real life poverty-to-riches drama that has seen Rogers escape an Atlanta slum to win college football's most prestigious individual award.

"I lived in a real bad neighborhood," he recalled. "But being in the situation I was in, I didn't have any choice but to stay around."

Rogers' parents were separated and his father recently was released from jail after serving almost eight years for fatally shooting a girl friend. Meanwhile, Rogers, his mother, two brothers and two teen-age sisters — each with a baby — moved from town to town, eight in all. Eventually, an aunt, Mrs. Oletta Rogers of Duluth, Ga., offered him "a chance to come up there and go to school. It was the best thing I ever did."

The rest is history. Rogers single-handedly lifted South Carolina from the ranks of football ne'er-do-wells into the bigtime. He rushed for 4,958 yards — excluding 133 against Missouri in last year's Hall of Fame Bowl — good for fourth place on the all-time list. He has gone over 100 yards in his last 21 games and he is South Carolina's career total offense leader without ever having thrown a pass.

Along the way, Rogers built himself up from a 190-pound freshman. "The training table played a big part in that," he explained. "I was eating three times a day. I was just lucky. I've got some friends who are still back there in that Atlanta neighborhood."

In nationwide balloting by more than 600 sports writers and sportscasters, Rogers won the 46th Heisman Trophy fairly comfortably over defensive end Hugh Green of Pittsburgh and Herschel Walker, Georgia's sensational running back, whose third-place finish was the highest ever for a freshman. The only linemen besides Green to finish as high as second who weren't also pass-catchers on offense were defensive tackles Alex Karras of Iowa in 1957 and John Hicks of Ohio State in 1973.

Rogers received 216 first-place votes, 179 seconds and 122 thirds. On a 3-2-1 point system, he totaled 1,128 points. Green had 179 firsts, 125 seconds and 74 thirds for 861 points while Walker's score was 107-120-111-683.

Rogers won four of the six Heisman voting regions — the Mid-Atlantic, South, Southwest and Far West. Green carried the Northeast while the Mid-West went for Purdue quarterback Mark Herrmann, who finished fourth over-all with 58 firsts, 71 seconds and 89 thirds for 405 points.

"I don't know what to say," Rogers repeated.

Grand Prize Winner

Jim Hillwig, 9, captured the grand prize of $100 in Hereford Bucks as a climax to the Hereford Brand Football Contest. Brand Publisher Speedy Nieman presented the bucks to Hillwig Monday. The first-place winners in the 12 weekly football contests were eligible to compete for grand prizes the final week. John Keating won the $35 second prize, while Tracy Shepherd won the $15 for third place. Local Marchants sponsored the annual football contest.

Patented Shot

Hereford's Cathy Lane sends one of her patented set shots from the baseline toward its mark and seems totally undaunted by the efforts of Pampa defenders Deanna Porter (21) and Keva Richardson (55) to stop her attempt. Lane and the Whitefaces drilled the Harvester squad by a 53-point margin en route to another winning decision over the Palo Duro Dons here Monday night.

The Dons had previously given Hereford all it wanted a week ago, as the two squads battled to a close-quarters 78-76 overtime decision in favor of the Whitefaces. But the oneupmanship feud of a week past cascaded into a relatively easy 58-37 slugfest for the HHS squad here Monday night. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

West Texas Clips Tech

By The Associated Press
The scoreboard gave the University of Houston Cougars almost as much trouble Monday night as did the Southern California Trojans in a 71-51 non-conference basketball victory for the Cougars.

Scoreboard problems in the first half delayed play for about 15 minutes and for a time the public address announcer called out the score and time remaining for the final seven minutes of the first half. A backup scoreboard was installed for the second half.

In other games involving SWC teams, Southern Methodist had to come from behind to take a 49-47 victory over Texas A&I of the Lone Star Conference, Texas beat Biscayne, 91-76, and Texas Christian beat Pacific, 74-62, West Texas State edged Texas Tech, 64-62, and New Mexico State slipped past Baylor, 61-60.

Tulane plays at Rice and Texas Southern is at Texas A&M tonight.

It took the Cougars some time to get their offense moving against USC as they fell behind in the early going.

"I looked up (at the scoreboard) and it was 18-8 and I thought they were going to run us out of the country," said Houston coach Guy Lewis. The Cougars then took over, moved to a 29-25 halftime lead and never looked back.

Rob Williams was the leading scorer for Houston with 19 and Barry Brooks had 18 for the Trojans.

Texas Christian Darrell Browder scored 29 points as the Horned Frogs beat the University of Pacific, 74-62. The victory broke a 12-game losing streak for TCU and featured some fine defensive work as the Frogs held high scoring Ron Cornelius to 21 points.

Cornelius had scored 34 points Saturday as Pacific beat the University of Texas at Austin.

SMU needed a three-point play in the closing seconds from Gordon Welch to take a 49-47 victory over the Texas A&I Javelinas. Welch scored a basket, was fouled in the process and made the free toss to insure the victory. The Javelinas held a 27-20 halftime lead.

Welch had 13 points for the Mustangs while Ed Turner of A&I was the game's high scorer with 21.

Terry Adolph had 22 and George Holt had 15 points as West Texas State edged Texas Tech, 64-62.

Jerome Akins hit only free throw for the entire game, but it proved to be the winning margin as New Mexico

State edged past Baylor, 61-60. Terry Teagle had 22 points for the Bears.

LaSalle Thompson had 30 points and 13 rebounds in leading Texas to an easy 91-76 victory over Biscayne.

Q. Is there anything which can be done by the car owner to avoid: The Early Morning, Ten-Below-Zero Dead Battery Shock Syndrome?

A. There are warnings that your battery is fading and, since the battery is the heart of the electrical system, it pays to take heed. If your headlights become noticeably brighter after the engine is started than when the engine is off, your battery could be telling you something. If a new battery dies, and can't hold a charge, talk to your dealer. Excessively hard cranking when starting is another sign. And, if your battery has reached the stated life expectancy, don't wait and hope for a second childhood — replace it. Preventive maintenance is always appropriate, including keeping the electrolyte level topped up, keeping the terminals clean, free of corrosion and lubricated, plus occasional checks on the charge on the battery.

Bulldogs Hold Top Spot

By The Associated Press
The Georgia Bulldogs, completing their first perfect season since 1946, held onto the top spot in The Associated Press college football poll with a chance to win their first national championship.

Georgia ended its regular season with a 38-20 victory over Georgia Tech and an 11-0 record. The Bulldogs received 52 of 60 first-place votes and 1,187 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Notre Dame and Florida State were the only other teams to receive first-place votes — four each — and remained Nos. 2 and 3. Both were idle over the weekend and wind up their regular seasons on Saturday, Notre Dame facing Southern Cal and Florida State hosting Florida.

Notre Dame received 1,116 points, Florida State 1,092.

Georgia and Notre Dame meet New Year's Day in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans in what very well could turn out to be the game that determines this year's national champion.

Pittsburgh was fourth with 1,007 points after a 14-9 triumph over Penn State.

La Plata Cagers Topple Stanton

The La Plata girl's basketball teams rolled to a clean sweep over town-rival Stanton as the two squads locked horns here Monday.

Paula Masson punched in nine total points to garner high point status for the 9th grade Mavericks while Angela Richburg drilled in eight to lead the La Plata team to a 35-24 victory over the Stanton Dogies.

Maverick shooters Kristi Lytle and Vanessa Sims followed in the winning scoring display with respective tallies of six and five as the La Plata team nudged its overall record to 6-2 and 3-0 in district play with the victory. Darla Alford helped push the La Plata 8th grade cage team to a 5-2 season mark and 3-0 in district contention after she led the Mavericks to a 32-19 decision over Stanton with eight points on the contest. Following Alford in the high scoring bracket were Connie Zinser who netted seven, Troyce Shuder with six points and Ruth Compuzano with a point spread of five for the affair.

In 7th grade competition, Shannon Owsley and Becky Curiss knocked in six points apiece to send the Mavericks to a 27-14 win over its Stanton rival. Adelia Rodriguez capped a tally of five as the La Plata team improved its overall mark on the year to 2-6 and molded a .500 record in district play to a winning 2-1 ledger.

The next scheduled competition for the La Plata teams is on tap for Thursday.

Friday and Saturday as the 8th and 9th grade crews compete in the Canyon Tournament. All three squads will then meet Gattis December 8 here in the La Plata Gymnasium.

IT'S A BIRD. It's a plane. No, it's a balloon. This 104-foot-long Superman recently made a test flight in Rockmart, Ga., before heading on to New York for the city's annual Thanksgiving Day Parade. The balloon holds 12,000 cubic feet of helium — equivalent in volume to the amount that would be carried by 15 tanker trucks.

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Fats and sweets can go

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do you have any information on low caloric cooking? My husband needs to eat less and I have growing boys who need a well-balanced diet. I'm interested in filling them up without filling them out. What foods can I safely eliminate?

DEAR READER — The two main sources of excess calories are fats and concentrated sweets. The really high caloric foods are the ones that contain little water, such as sugar, lard and flour. Lean meat is 73 percent water so it is a low caloric food. A raw potato is all carbohydrate in the form of starch but it is nearly 80 percent water.

A lot of the calories in our food come from what happens in the kitchen or what we add at the table. Most vegetable salads are low in calories but when you add a fatty salad dressing they become high in calories. A package of frozen green peas is not high in calories or fat but when you add a tablespoon of butter it is no longer a low caloric food.

You can help your family have a well-balanced diet and avoid excess calories by eliminating fat and sweets in the foods you prepare. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 9-12, Kitchen Power for Weight Control, to give you more ideas on how to do this. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You can make white sauce without fat and you can use corn starch with artificial sweeteners for a dessert topping. Spices also help make tasty food without relying on fats to provide flavor.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm having difficulty in finding a doctor who understands my problem. The styloid process on the left side of my neck is elongated so much that it comes down to my Adam's apple and it extends inward so that it seems to press against my thyroid gland.

Most of the doctors I have visited have never heard of the styloid process much less an elongated one. One doctor thought it was a tumor. He told me to see a dentist.

I have difficulty in digesting and eliminating my food. My thyroid is low but the doctor said no amount of pressure on my thyroid could cause my problem. I think the styloid process is also pressing against my jugular vein. Can part of this styloid process be removed and what kind of doctor does this type of operation?

DEAR READER — We all have a styloid process. Normally it is a spike-like bone originating from the base of the skull just in front of the mastoid bone. The mastoid is the heavy bone just behind the ear. The styloid process is covered from the outside by the lower jaw. It does point inward and forward.

You have described a very unusual condition. I would also doubt that it is affecting your thyroid gland. The question is not if the styloid process can be removed or shortened but whether it is necessary or not. Why don't you see an ear, nose and throat specialist? I note you live near a large city. Call the county medical society and ask for ENT doctors' names that you could see for a consultation in that city.

—Grocery Bills Surge—

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Grocery bills jumped by almost 2½ percent last month — six times faster than they did in October an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

Economists, meanwhile, are warning that the worst is yet to come, as the full impact of the summer drought makes itself felt at the supermarket.

The AP survey covers 14 food and non-food items, selected at random. Prices for the items were checked at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. A 15th item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list after the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

November brought higher prices up and down the aisles. Eggs increased at the checklist store in 12 cities; milk went up in seven cities; sugar and pork chops each rose in six cities. Coffee — which dropped in price at the checklist store in seven cities — provided the only bright spot.

The AP found that the marketbasket bill went up at the checklist store in 10 cities during November, rising an average of 3.2 percent. The bill decreased at the checklist store in only one city — Atlanta, where it dropped half a percent.

Morgan Passes State Bar Exam; Formally Sworn into Law Practice

Jerry Morgan, associated with the Thomas and Burdette law firm here since Aug. 1 this year, realized an important goal last week with the word that he had passed the State Bar exam.

Morgan was formally sworn into the law practice Monday morning in a brief ceremony conducted by District Judge Wesley Gulley.

The 25-year-old attorney completed his law school work at the University of Texas in Austin. A native of Arkansas and graduate of Corning High School, Morgan earned his bachelor's degree in accounting from Harding College in Searcy, Ark.

Morgan and his wife, Teri, moved to Hereford from Austin. She is presently employed as a physical education teacher at Shirley Elementary School. The couple was married in 1973. They reside at 512 Sycamore.

Mrs. Morgan is a member of the Women's Division of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce and the local Texas State Teachers Association chapter.

He is a member of the American Bar Association and in 1979 was selected as one of the "Outstanding Young Men of America." The couple's hobbies include sports and photography.

Mechanical Hand Replaces Hook

Dave Cooper tapped his hand in time with the music coming from the van's radio as he waited for the traffic light to change on Main Street in Boulder, Colorado. The metallic tapping of the "Farmer's Hook," which replaced his right hand, attracted the attention of the driver in the car next to him.

"This guy started shouting for us to pull over, he had something to show me," Cooper recalls with a smile. "I thought he was a kook — a big guy with a beard. But, we pulled over anyway, and I'll tell you, it really changed my life."

The big man with the beard turned out to be Ron Dick, co-inventor of the Prehensile Hand, a device he says offers new hope for people with below-the-elbow amputations. Within two weeks Cooper was doing things he thought he'd never do again, thanks to the device Dick made for him.

There are no precise figures on the number of below-the-elbow amputees in the nation, but Dick says it is the most common amputation to occur. And, he says, until now such amputees have had to be content with a hook device that has seen little improvement through the years.

Current hooks use rubber bands to provide their limited gripping power and do not call on body functions to be involved in their use. As a result, Dick says, atrophy of muscles is a very common side effect of amputations.

The Prehensile Hand changes all that. The device requires the user to activate it with muscle power and to think about what he is doing. Dick says the lack of mind-muscle coordination is another drawback with the familiar hook.

Cooper backs up the inventor's contention. "My shoulder muscles were atrophying, but I felt my muscles shaping up two weeks after I started using the new device," Cooper says. "I can do anything from applying gentle pressure to pick up an egg to locking it like a vice so nothing will fall from my grip. It's been a Godsend to me."

Dick first started working on the device four years ago with Bob Radocy, a student he taught in one of his therapeutic recreation classes at the University of Colorado. The two men are now partners in Therapeutic Recreation Systems; of Boulder, the firm they started to manufacture the device.

"We actually started out trying to design something that would enable me to participate in sports activities," Radocy says. "But the more we worked with it the more it appeared to us as better than just a sports device."

Attempts to interest major manufacturers of prosthetic devices were met with disinterest, Dick says. As they searched for more information they found that very little research had been done in the mechanical hand area.

"There's a great deal of interest in bio-electric devices, but the big manufacturers seemed to consider our device just an improved version of the old hook," Dick says. "This is not the case at all. The Prehensile Hand not only does a much better job in gripping, it also helps improve the user's muscle and mind."

Despite the rejections and lack of interest, the pair have devoted their savings to development. They've been unable to do the advertising required to get their story out. But, some recognition has come in the farm press.

"Our study indicates that about 60 percent of the below-the-shoulder amputees are farmers," Radocy says. "Many of them occurred before new safety devices were used on farm machinery."

A few articles in some Midwest farm publications have resulted in a lot of inquiries. And, once they show the device they have almost 100 percent reception by amputees.

"There have been some who felt it is too heavy, that it's too big, or that it doesn't look nice," Dick says. "However, everyone who has one says they'd never part with it. And, we are working on a lighter, smaller device to answer the most common criticism we've received thus far."

Dick feels this is important because he especially wants to be able to fit the device to adolescent emputees. He feels it is important to get them using the mind-muscle coordination right away.

"If they get used to using an ordinary hook they are going to experience muscle atrophy and once they lose the use of those muscles they won't get it back," he says.

The two inventors have dozens of stories of what the new hand has meant to amputees. One of the most revealing is that of Bill White, a construction worker in Waterford, Pa.

White lost both hands in an explosion and tried to go back to work using the typical hooks. However, after breaking several hooks and finding that he simply could not keep up with the work he was told he was going to have to be replaced.

In desperation, White sought out a better method. A prosthesis house in Erie had heard of the Prehensile Hand and put White in touch with Radocy and Dick. In a matter of weeks he was back on the job, able to keep up his old pace.

But, it didn't stop there. White had been an avid target shooter. Last year, after resuming target practice, White captured the National Rifle Association 100 yard .22 caliber championship.

Radocy, an avid archer before losing his left hand, says the Prehensile Hand means amputees can resume many sports activities that would be pretty much precluded by ordinary hooks. Soon after perfecting the device he again took up archery and in the 1978 season bagged a doe at 45 yards.

The major problem Radocy had was glare of the sunlight on the stainless steel hand. He solved that quickly by spraying the steel hand with easily-removed cameo paint.
