Iran Claims U.S. Plans To Attack Persian Gulf

By FAROUK NASSAR Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) -Iran's government spokesman says the United States is preparing to invade Iran. U.S. officials had no comment, but a retired Army general who says he is an informal adviser to Presidentelect Ronald Reagan suggested mining Iran's main oil terminal to free the 52 American hostages.

The Iranian spokesman, Behzad Nabavi, told a news conference Tuesday in Tehran, "We have learned that the United States intends to attack the Persian Gulf under various pretexts. The chaotic situation in the region will possibly provide the necessary excuses."

Nabavi, who also serves as minister of state for cabinet affairs and frequently speaks on the hostage crisis, did not

Iran looked to the Algerian government today for a way out of the hostage deadlock, but reports from Tehran indicated the crisis was far from over and that the Soviet Union might be responsible.

Iran's main hostage negotiator, Behzad Nabavi. indicated Tuesday his government would accept a U.S. counterproposal on Iran's demand for $24 billion if it "contains a kind of guarantee acceptable to the Algerian government."

The Algerian termediaries were leaving Washington for Algiers today with the U.S. answer, and one U.S. official said it could end the 424-day-old crisis for the 52 captives "if the Iranians are willing and able to do so."

However, CBS News correspondent Tom Fenton reported from Tehran that Iran's internal situation is making it increasing difficult for its negotiators to find a compromise which would be acceptable to the United States and politically feasi-

Fast talking quick-change con men have swindled three local businesses out of about $115 since Sunday according to Hereford police. A confusing, well-practiced patter is used to confuse the victim who is usually counting change from a large bill. The con men keep talking and shuffling money back and forth until they receive from $20 to $200 over their initial investment.

Confusion Is Con Man's Edge In Quick-Change Shuffle

By CHERI WARD Staff Writer

"Here, let me give you a twenty, and you give me four fives and a ten.

Some people may scoff at anyone who would allow themselves to be reeled in by such a flagrant scam, but confusion is the con man's most vital tool.

"It's like football," said Hereford police lieutenant Paul 'Ramirez. "They keep the momentum up and shuffle cash back and forth," he explained.

The con artist's technique is to excite, rush and confuse his intended victim, no matter what scheme is planned.

Even if the con artist is caught, successful prosecution is rare because many victims may feel humiliated by the reliazation that someone has swindled them out of money-$5 or $5000.

"Catching short-change artists is like counting backwards from fifty," said Ramirez. "It's confusing," he

The victim is usually approached at the busiest time of day and is hurrying to satisfy customers. It is easy for a con man to confuse his victim while he counts change, said Ramirez. At a Hereford gas station on Highway 85, two men gave an attendant a $50 bill for a quart of oil. They ultimately netted $45 from the station.

A different pair of suspects exchanged a $20 bill for $50 at Mr. Burger, West Park Avenue, on Sunday, and the same pair of men absconded with an extra $20 from Taco Villa on West Highway 60.

Ramirez attributes the success of scams like this to the emphasis on retaining clientele and an eagerness to produce happy satisfied customers. He cited a case in his own background that happened when he was a college student women and explained that a $100 bill was the only cash they had with them. After getting change for the $100 from a friend, Ramirez gave the women their change. Then, the women began switching bills back and forth and keeping up a steady stream of conversation. Ramirez eventually gave the two women between $60 and $80 more than they deserved.

Incidents like this can be prevented, Ramirez says, if the public is aware of the existence of quick-change con men and their method of operation.

Ramirez recommends the use of a pocket calculator to determine the exact amount of change to be given before even touching a large bill. This will prevent confusion, he said. Accurate descriptions of con men, their vehicles, store that employed Ramirez clothing and mannerisms aid and bought a tie. They were in apprehension of suspects, said Ramirez.

"We also need to be informed as soon as possible. We often don't get called until two or three hours after someone is robbed, and there's not much we can do then," he

The men who robbed the service station of $45 were apprehended near Bovina. They had just swindled $188 from a business there, but the victim of the con was able to give an accurate description of the car and its passengers.

According to the board members there are certain steps followed when an abused child is reported to DHR. If the situation is one of life and death, the case worker goes to that home immediately as they are on call 24 hours a day. If the child is not in immediate danger, the case worker will find out more information and visit the home to see in what type of situation the children are living. "If the situation is not life and death, DHR tries to work with the family by establishing what is wrong and possibly refer the family to another agency which could help correct the problem," Mrs. Hoover said.

The goal of child welfare and DHR is to keep the family together whenever possible. No child is taken from a family unless the child is in immediate danger. If that does

Supreme Court Clears Census

By RICHARD CARELLI Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)

The 1980 census count becomes official today, but not without some emergency help from the Supreme Court which overturned a ruling the government said would have delayed reapportionment of Congress.

By a 7-1 vote Tuesday, the nation's highest court cleared the way for the Census Bureau to certify its 1980 count and submit it to President Carter before the midnight New Year's Eve deadline imposed by law.

Preliminary figures showed the nation's population as of April 1 was 225,234,182, or 21.4 million more than a decade earlier.

The high court temporarily aside an order by a federal judge in New York Ci-

Emphasis on Foreign

HOUSTON (AP)- A group of college instructors are convinced there should be more time spent on teaching students how to speak and read foreign languages and less time on the boredom of grammar rules.

Suozzo said he uses French commercials, menus, political writings and literature "to draw students into the language the culture. Plunging into literary analysis after first-year French is self-defeating.'

Chester C. Shristian Jr., who teaches Spanish at Texas A&M, said some instructors are teaching how to speak a language but not how to think in that language, partly "because American textbooks are not intellectually challenging."

Ford Avoids Recall, Mails Warnings

DETROIT (AP) - The federal government has agreed to allow Ford Motor Co. to mail warnings to owners of more than 20 million cars and trucks with automatic transmissions that can slip into reverse, thus avoiding the largest safety recall in automotive history, a Ford spokesman said Tuesday.

The warnings, in the form of dashboard stickers, will advise drivers not to leave the vehicle with the engine running, to use the parking brake and to make sure the transmission has been placed properly in park, the Detroit Free Press reported.

Ford spokesman Jerry Sloan confirmed the settlement.

In June, following a three-year investigation, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration found that slipping transmissions had caused 6,000 accidents resulting in 1,710 injuries and 98 deaths.

Officials advised Transportation Secretary Neil E. Goldschmidt to order Ford to recall 16 million of the vehicles that were new enough to fall within an eight-year statute of limitations.

Ford has contended the problem is caused by drivers who do not shift all the way into park.

Industry analysts have estimated that a recall would have cost Ford $100 million. The No.2 automaker already has lost more than $1.5 billion this year.

Mack's wife, Dolores, 46, slipped from a rope while trying to find a route to safety and plunged to the pavement below. Mack also lost his grip on the rope, but landed on balcony, breaking both legs.

Jamail said, "the hotel had totally inadequate facilities for escape and a totally inadequate warning system. It was gross neglect by the hotel builders and owners.'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) -Representatives of common schools and higher education said Tuesday they don't like Gov. George Nigh's budget proposals, but they said they are confident the Legislature and the governor will find more money during the upcoming session.

Nigh unveiled his budget plans for both groups Tuesday, calling for a $35 million increase for higher education and a $73.6 million boost for common schools.

The governor advocated $1,000 pay hikes for the state's more than 35,000 public school teachers, but said the raises actually would range from $1,100 to $1,700 when previously enacted education and experience raises are included.

In addition to his $35 million increase for colleges and universities, Nigh advocated a $32.6 million capital improvements program. The $35 million would boost the higher education operating budget to $307.4 million.

Nigh's proposed $73.6 million increase for common schools included $41.6 million to fund the $1,000 salary boosts. That would raise the common school operating budget for the next fiscal year to $593.4 million.

Gene Torbett, president of the Higher Education Alumni Council of Oklahoma, said Nigh's recommended college budget increase "is only a start in the right direction since it falls about $27 million short of minimum operating Torbett said a $62 million increase is needed just to maintain current program levels, but he also said he is optimistic that Nigh and legislative leaders, as they usually do each session, will "find additional funds" to increase the education budgets. Spokesmen for two groups who represent public school teachers also complained about the governor's proposal, but also said they are confident his recommendations will be increased by the Legislature.

Education Oklahoma Association President Weldon Davis said his group will stand behind its request for an average $2,000 raise for teachers, with the actual amounts varying for individual teachers based on experience and level of education.

"I think you'll find what comes out of the Llegislature will be significantly different from the governor's proposal," Davis said, which is a shame, since the governor should be a leader in this area."

Mike Barlow, executive director of the Oklahoma Federation of Teachers, agreed the proposed increase was too small, but said giving teachers an across-the-board state raise was the only way to ensure beginning teachers an adequate increase.

"We're tired of seeing the state grant us unrealistic raises and then come up with huge surpluses in the summer," he said.

Mrs. Hoover said DSC is fortunate to have a concerned district judge and a district attorney.

"If the situation arises that we do have to move a child to a foster home, these two people move very quickly to help in any way they can," Mrs. Hoover said.

to get involved to help stop child abuse. Individuals are bound by the law to report any suspicion of child abuse or neglect. These people can remain absolutely anonymous. Even if the case goes to court, the person who reports the case is not involved publically in any way,"

Mrs. Hoover said. The board stressed that child abuse happens in all socio-economic groups.

"This county is average as far as number of cases and types of cases handled by DHR," Mrs. Hoover said.

The board is in the process now of recruiting more foster parents in this area who are willing to take care of children who must be taken from their homes because of extreme situations.

"Our county commissioners have been very generous to our program in paying for the care of these foster children. They appropriate money in their budget to help pay for medical and food expenses,"

Mrs. Hoover continued. Billie Ham, who will serve as chairman of the board in January, spoke about the frustration she feels when people do not inform the DHR about abused or neglected children.

"It is frustrating when I learn of a child being neglected when I know the problem could be corrected if we had more help," Mrs. Ham explained.

He also announced the beginning of a statewide contest to pick a graphic symbol that will be used in connection with the celebration. The winner of the logo contest will be a two-week tour of Texas for a party of four, all expenses paid.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Bishop Vincent M. Harris of the Austin diocese of the Roman Catholic Church offered a $500 reward for the return of his gold and diamond bishop's ring.

Harris told officers he missed the ring after celebrating midnight mass on Christmas Eve at St. Mary's Cathedral in downtown Austin. He said it apparently fell out of his pocket in the church parking lot.

The ring was described as 14-carat gold with nine minecut diamonds and an oval amethyst. He refused to reveal the value of the ring, saying he had always been afraid "someone would cut my hand off to get it." He wore it only for ceremonial occasions.

The bishop said the ring was given him in 1963 when he was consecrated bishop of the Austin diocese. He said it originally was given to Bishop James Blenk when he became bishop of Puerto Rico in 1889 and had been handed down to succeeding bishops

By Robert Walters

No end to crime in the suites

WASHINGTON (NEA) - In a new administration whose washington (NEA) — In a new administration whose most important policy-making positions are being filled by corporate executives, it's hardly surprising to hear of plans for diminished scrutiny of "white-collar crime."

President-elect Ronald Reagan's transition advisers now reviewing the operations of the Justice Department, for example, are talking publicly about de-emphasizing investigation and prosecution of anti-trust violations.

Reagan apparently is committed to a significant shift away.

Reagan apparently is committed to a significant shift away from the government's aggressive campaign of the past dec-ade against "crime in the suites" and a return to the more traditional emphasis upon "crime in the streets.

But before the incoming administration's expatriate businessmen proceed to implement that self-serving plan, they would be well advised to read - and consider the implications of — a new book and a recent magazine article.

of — a new book and a recent magazine article.

The book is "The American Way of Crime," a compelling work written by Frank Browning and John Gerassi. The magazine article is the cover story in a recent issue of Fortune titled "How Lawless Are Big Companies?"

In a meticulously researched book that offers an unusually perceptive view of crime from colonial times to the present, Browning and Gerassi document the fact that the wealthy and the privileged historically have been among the nation's lead.

the privileged historically have been among the nation's leading perpetrators of crime - although they regularly have evaded prosecution and punishment. Some examples:

"Puritan justice, contrary to myth, was not at all evenhanded. For men of wealth and station, punishment was usually limited to fines... Those who actually received the harshed and most frequent punishment were lower-class and working people."

— In the 1770s, immediately before the Revolutionary War, merchant-patriots amassed fortunes through smuggling, tax evasion and other crimes. "Of all the wealthy pre-revolutionary smugglers," say the authors, "John Hancock was the most

In the 1870s, it was a crime for mine workers to strike for better wages — but it was legal for Pinkerton detectives employed by the mining companies to threaten, assault or even murder the strikers.

"So flagrantly was the law abused to defend big business and prevent workers from gaining a decent livelihood" during the late 1800s and early 1900s "that it would not be unfair to characterize it as a dictatorship of the rich."

The book provides a similar analysis of more recent events, but the Fortune article contains an even more detailed - and disturbing — review of contemporary events.

In examining the criminal record of 1,043 major corporations since 1970, the magazine found 163 separate offenses committed by 117 of the nation's biggest companies — including Bethlehem Steel, DuPont, Goodyear, Gulf, ITT, Litton, Rockwell, Tenneco and U.S. Steel.

Fortune confined its list of offenses to "five crimes about whose impropriety few will argue" — criminal fraud, illegal domestic political contributions, tax evasion, criminal antitrust violations and bribery (including kickbacks and illegal concluded. Big-business crime hasn't been swept away by a tide of post-Watergate morality."

Asked Fortune: "What indeed is going on here? Why do some of the largest, most prestigious corporations in America get involved in complex scenarios of illegality that rival the paranoid fantasies of their bitterest critics?" Those questions must be answered by Reagan and his advisers from the business community before they scuttle a bal-

Lawrence Resigns as Chief of Braniff Airways

DALLAS (AP) - Harding L. Lawrence, who directed Braniff Airways growth to the nation's eighth largest air carrier, has announced he will step down Thursday as chairman and chief executive officer of the financially strapped airline.

"I have been in the aviation business for a very long time, and it is time for a change," Lawrence said Tuesday in a statement that signaled an end to 39 years in aviation and 35 years in the scheduled airline industry.

A Braniff spokesman said Lawrence, 60, who denied rumors last August that he was considering early retirement, would not return to his office before the Jan. 1 retirement date.

Lawrence said Braniff directors indicated they would appoint a new chairman an a new chief executive officer at the board's regularly scheduled Jan. 7 meeting. The board also is expected to Lawrence's retirement comes at a time when Braniff and the much larger Eastern Airlines are holding merger talks.

"... I have particularly enjoyed my years with Braniff. Braniff is a fine organization made up of very fine people," said Lawrence.

"Like other airlines, it has been impacted by the shortages and prices of fuel ... by deregulation, lagging fare and by a major recession and slowdown in the economy. But Braniff is on the right course and should do well."

Braniff, which reported second quarter losses of $47.7 million, relied on capital gains of $61,187,000 in October to show a third quarter net profit of $18,049,000.

The capital gains from the sale of 16 jetliners allowed the airline to report it had trimmed its losses for the year to $51.6 million or $2.67 per share of common stock.

Woman Survives 22-Below-Zero Temperatures

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) -Jean Hilliard was literally frozen stiff - "like a piece of meat out of a deep freeze" when a friend found her in the snow after a night of 22-below-zero temperatures. But the 19-year-old blonde has made a miraculous recovery.

"At worst, I might lose a couple of toes," she says.

"I can't explain why she's alive. She was frozen stiff, literally," Dr. George Sather, who helped treat the teenager, said Tuesday. "It's a miracle."

Miss Hilliard was frozen after a midnight car accident in rural northwestern Min-

When she arrived at the Fosston, Minn., hospital, her skin was too hard to pierce with a hypodermic needle or to reveal a pulse. Her temperature was too low to register on a thermometer. Her face was ashen and her eyes were solid and didn't respond to light.

"The reaction didn't appear until two or three hours after she started thawing out. The body was cold, completely solid, just like a piece of meat out of a deep freeze," Sather said.

Her bizarre ordeal began late Dec. 20 as she was returning to her parents' home near Lengby, Minn. The family car skidded off the road on the edge of the White Earth Indian Reservation and stalled in the windy, frigid weather. Clad in western boots, a coat and mittens, she began walking to Wally Nelson's home some two miles away and collapsed only 15 feet from his door. Nelson found her as walked out the door at 7 next morning. "Her face was ghost-like. I figured she was dead," he said.

Her body was so stiff that Nelson loaded her "diagonally" in the back seat of his car and headed for the hospital.

Wrapped in "water-type heating bags," Miss Hilliard received oxygen and hospital staff heard "little whimpers, probably air coming out of her lungs," Sather said.

She took breaths two or three times a minute, about one-fifth the normal rate. Doctors were unable to give her intravenous feedings because "she was frozen too solid to penetrate the skin," said Sather's brother, Dr. Edgar Sather.

Her pulse, hardly registering, was about 12 beats per minute. And her temperature was too low for a thermometer, with a low reading of 88 degrees, 10 degrees below normal. But in several hours, wrapped in an electric heating pad, she began to revive. "By noon, she spoke a little. By evening she was lucid," Sanger said. Tests show her heart, kidneys, blood chemistry "are all OK."

She has patches of gray on her legs and her toes are blistered, but there is no talk of major amputation.

"When I woke up, all I wanted was a glass of water," Miss Hilliard said by telephone. "Here was my whole family. Everybody's eyes were just big. They were saying, 'She's alive.'

"It's more or less like I dreamed about it," said Miss Hilliard, who wants to study heavy equipment operation and maintenance. "It's really eerie when you think about

"Terrible" was the incendiary comment coach Larry wers used in the appraisal of his squad's nine-point deficit midway through the first quarter of play against Lubbock Dunbar here Tuesday night.

After the Dunbar Pantherettes prescribed a scoring flurry that left his inert HHS girls unit facing one of its largest, if not sole disadvantages (14-9) thus far in season play, Sowers exasperatingly called a timeout to explain to his club in no certain terms - he wasn't very happy. It was a communion heard round the arena.

"That's terrible, oh that's terrible! You're just standing around out there, oh! oh! that's the worst. I can't believe it, you'd better get your heads in the game and right now, you hear me! Oh! that's absolutely terrible!"

The remainder of the court conversation was of muffled intensity, but the Whitefaces were behind by one-point at intermission, held an undisputed 47-35 claim to the lead at the end of the third

"We were deadheaded in the first quarter - just piddling around and not very aggressive and you can't do that and expect to win against any team, much less Dunbar. They have a good team and they almost proved they were the better one tonight after that first quarter."

and rioted their way to an outright 61-43 victory to establish their 14th straight win on the year.

"I don't know whether it was the Christmas vacation layoff that hurt our intensity or whether they thought we could just come out here and stand around," said Sowers.

assets this team holds-its ability to make a change when it has too," said Sowers, "but we almost got a chance to find out if that ability was still with us tonight."

Following Lubbock's perceptible first-quarter dominance, a dominance largely derived from attaining three and four shots at the bucket as compared to Hereford's single attempts on each possession, the Whitefaces vaulted back into the contest by outscoring the Pantherettes 18-12 in the second and 20-7 in the third

Led by 5-11 post Deborah Rogers and forward Terri Harkins, (both netting 15 points on the contest to lead all other HHS scorers) Hereford soon cut the early nine-point Dunbar lead to three points with less than three minutes remaining before halftime.

Rogers received a feed from Harkins inside and rolled in for a layup to narrow the scoring disadvantage to 22-13 with 3:55 left to set the mark for the Hereford comeback.

One answering Lubbock shot by Lisa Caviel (Dunbar's leading scorer on the night with a tally of 14) separated the Pantherettes from their own dry spell.

HHS team captian Terri Harkins followed Caviel's score with two back-to-back outer limit shots of 20 and 35 feet to inch the Whitefaces to a 24-17 catch up contest before Rogers stole an errant Lubbock pass and found second-team All-District selection Louise Mays waiting under the goal.

Mays hit a shot from the lane before Rogers added another score from the baseline to put the the two squads' scoring difference at 24-21 with 2:00 remaining.

Hereford capped three more buckets under the direction of Cathy Lane, Carie Jones and Harkins while Lubbock managed only one to close first-half play by a one-point (28-27 margin).

And what was once a clinging Hereford effort to stay near Dunbar's lead became a reversed roll in the third quarter.

Pampa Clips Hereford

By MAURI MONTGOMERY Brand Sports Editor

It was more a matter of logistics - the 'Great Wall' was almost impossible to overcome when you only stood 5-9, 5-8, and maybe 5-10 on a tall day.

The Hereford boy's varsity basketball team knew that all too well after they tried to climb it here Tuesday night against the Pampa Harvesters in the La Plata Gymnasium. They faltered against the 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, 6-plusmore feet obstacle and had a great fall 63-45.

The hard fought and disappointing loss sent the crew to a toppling 3-12 mark on the year, and left head coach Dan Giliuson in hopes that some day a 6-7 walk on skyscraper might appear out of the blue for duty on the HHS roster.

"It's very hard to compete with the size of bigger teams," he said of his team's valiant, but SHORT shortcommings. "I think we played a good game hustling wise - I couldn't have asked for any more effort, but we're still making errors that we can't afford to make because of our lack of size."

We have to be able to hit everything - even the trash that's floating around and we just didn't do that tonight. We missed a bunch of free-throw opportunities and they could have made the difference. The basic thing is though, we've got to hit every shot in order to make up ground with our heighth disadvantage."

Pampa held the trump card in the charity shot category welding 53 percent (16-30) of their stints at the line - while Hereford netted a not to disasterous 48 percent. But considering the Harvesters also dominated the field-goal category (outscoring the Whitefaces in every quarter with the exception of the fourth quarter 20-20 draw) the free-throw attempts were too valuable to give away.

It wasn't until the second quarter, that those missed

Whiteface charity shots dealt their own weight in misery for the HHS crew.

Behind a 20-foot corner shot from Hereford post Don Delozier and a driving inside layup by Alan Wartes, Hereford pulled to within two points (16-12) of the Harvesters with 6:36 remain-

Four unanswered Pampa buckets echoed then. Ed Guerra (one of the shorter members of the wall at the 5-10 mark) popped in a shot from the lane and was followed by 6-3 junior forward Charles Nelson (the clubs leading scorer with 14 points) plus long-distance goals by 6-3 forward Terry Faggins and 6-2 Mike Nelson. And when the Whitefaces scored again with 3:51 left before intermission, it only came in one brief pop - the front end of a one-and-one situation.

After a charging foul adminstered by PHS's Guerra, Wartes sent the first-half of his charity line attempt to its mark, but was unable to finish of the spread. And the missed scoring opportunity became a contagious complication through the remainder of the quarter.

Five HHS one-and-one situations were tried in the ensuing minutes and only the front end of one of them fell

Ironically, Wartes came back to make that last charity shot before Gary Parman (Hereford's leading shooter with 12 points) netted a 35-foot jump shot with 1:56 (See BOYS, Page 10)

Georgia Tries for 1st Collegiate Title

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Georgia can claim its first national collegiate football championship on New Year's Day in the Sugar Bowl, but there will be two groups of especially interested onlookers when the Bulldogs take the field against Notre Dame in New Orleans.

The Bulldogs carry an 11-0 record and the No.1 national ranking into their 2 p.m. EST siana Superdome. If they win, it's tough luck until next year for No.2 Florida State and No.3 Pittsburgh.

If Georgia loses, well ... it's up to the pollsters. "There's no question this is the biggest game I've been involved in," says Vince

Pittsburgh's chances hinge on losses by both Georgia and Florida State, since the Pan-Dooley, Georgia football thers lost a 36-22 decision to Florida State during the regular season.

daddy of all bowls, will have no influence on the national championship. It pits Big Ten champion Michigan, ranked No.5 with a 9-2 record, against 16th-ranked Washington, 9-2, the Pacific 10 Conference champion.

Kickoff is 5 p.m. (NBC). The fourth New Year's Day bowl sends No.9 Alabama, 9-2, against sixth-ranked Baylor, 10-1, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas for a 2:10 p.m.

At 8 p.m. tonight (Mizlou), it's 13th-ranked North Carolina, 10-1, against unranked Texas, 7-4, in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston.

"Any team that wins a national championship needs help," said Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, not that he intends to give any to Florida State. "You have to be lucky and you have to be good.

The Georgia offense is run by quarterback Buck Belue, but freshman tailback Herschel Walker is responsible for the lion's share of the yardage it gains. Walker rushed for 1,616 yards this year, and Notre Dame is fully aware of the importance of stopping him.

Notre Dame is a one-point

Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden says even if a possible No.1 ranking isn't enough to inspire the Seminoles, there is the revenge factor against Oklahoma.

"We got licked pretty good by Oklahoma last year (in the Orange Bowl, 24-7)," Bowden said. "I don't have to remind them."

Florida State's only loss of the season came against Miami, Fla., in the Orange Bowl, 10-9, but the Seminoles boast victories this season over Pittsburgh and Nebraska.

Michigan is a onetouchdown favorite to break a long Rose Bowl jinx. Coach Bo Schembechler has lost all five of his trips to Pasadena. including a 27-20 upset by Washington in 1978, the only time the two teams have met in the Rose Bowl.

"I'm looking forward to our first win in the Rose Bowl," Schembechler said. "Mentally, we'll be ready, and we're not believing that 'favorite' stuff."

Michigan's forte is defense. and Washington Coach Don James knows the Huskies will have to strike hard and quickly to win.

"No one could imagine a better defense that Michigan showed in their last 18 quarters," said James, who will try to counter with the arm of quarterback Tom

Networks to Offer New Year's Hoopla

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writer

Where is the no-announcer idea when we really need it? With many viewers still woozy from New Year's Eve celebrating, what we really need Thursday is some peace and quiet. Instead, the networks will be offering four TV viewers. games, four loud halftime parades and hoopla than any day of the year.

ABC, CBS and NBC will televise the Sugar, Cotton, Rose and Orange bowls. There again will be a 2 p.m. EST logjam with the Sugar and Cotton bowls vying for

For the fourth time in five years, the Sugar Bowl can boast the top-ranked team when the day's football action begins. No.1 Georgia plays Notre Dame for, perhaps, the national title. But if Georgia loses, the championship could be decided Thursday night in the Orange Bowl between No.2 Florida State and fourth-ranked Oklahoma When ABC sought to move the Sugar Bowl-to Thursday night, it tried to lock up the New Orleans-based game for five years at night. That deal, sources say, now is on hold. The Sugar Bowl currently is the cheapest New Year's Day game at $2 million.

Considering the low ratings CBS expects for No.6 Baylor against ninth-ranked Alabama, the Cotton Bowl is highly inflated at $3.5 million. CBS is taking a loss, which would be fine if the game was for the national championship. But this one doesn't mean much and it will be hurt badly by Notre Dame-

Georgia. The Cotton Bowl can't go earlier because CBS does the Rose Bowl Parade until 2 (so does NBC), and the parade beat the games in the ratings last New Year's. It gets cold this time of the year in Dallas and a later start also would collide with the Rose Bowl anyway.

Alabama has lost two games this season and won't win an unprecedented third straight national title. Baylor is 10-1, but doesn't have a big following outside of Texas. When CBS raised the Cotton Bowl ante to counter NBC's attempts to steal the game, it certainly wasn't thinking of Alabama-Baylor.

Odd Odyssey for Master of Mind over Matter

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -James Hydrick moves pencils by pointing at them, catches deer with his bare hands and blocks punches and finds objects while blindfolded.

But there's more to the gentle 21-year-old ex-con than a bag of eye-popping parlor tricks. His mind-over-matter skills are indeed amazing, but his odyssey from discarded infant to master of martial arts is downright bizarre.

Hydrick arrived in Salt Lake last summer to set up a martial arts school based on his knowledge of Wushu Gung Fu, an ancient Chinese discipline aimed at achieving complete mental and Hydrick has, at various times and always in the presence of reporters, done the following:

-Sneaked up on deer at night and grabbed them around the neck.

-Demonstrated a level of martial arts judged by experts to be, well, expert.

Hydrick makes no claims to mystical or psychic powers. "I think it's an energy I put out," he says.

Hydrick appeared this week on ABC-TV's "That's Incredible!" and has been the subject of local television and newspaper stories. But until he spoke with The Associated Press recently, he chose to keep his true origins secret because "they didn't fit what I've become. It's painful as all hell to me.'

To avoid dredging up his emotionally scarred past, Hydrick put out a cover story to explain his amazing skills essentially that he had trained in Tibet at the feet of a high priest.

More than once in the AP interview, Hydrick became agitated and asked to terminate the session rather than answer questions about his youth. Finally he gave in. He supplied a sheaf of documents - mostly reports from state institutions and psychiatrists - supporting his tale.

who changed his life. No documents exist to back up the next part of his story. Hydrick claims he stayed a year with the old man, purportedly a Tibetan high priest before the Communist takeover in 1949. "He taught me to levitate. fight blindfolded. He taught me about hate, fear and love," Hydrick says in a soft drawl. "He said I reminded him of a little lost animal in a new jungle." Which, Hydrick says, is what he was.

Hydrick eventually left his mentor and while hitchhiking in California in December 1977 caught a ride in a van. Police later stopped the van and arrested its occupants, including Hydrick, on charges of kidnapping and robbing two men before dumping them along the highway.

Hydrick says the actual crime occurred before he was picked up and that he was the next intended victim, not an accomplice. But, he continues, because he had personal articles belonging to one of the kidnapping victims in his pockets, he was also charged.

Hydrick says his attorney told him he would be released with time served if he pleaded guilty. Hydrick pleaded guilty - and spent the next 21/2 years in the Los Angeles County Jail. He says he spent much of the time meditating in solitary confinement: "That's where a lot of my power increased."

The guards, he says, were afraid of him. "I would put out the lights and stop clocks" in order to get out of solitary, Hydrick recalls with a laugh.

Hydrick is eager to pass on his peculiar skills to others. Already, he says a 6-year-old pupil can move pencils and plants. "I intend to have a monastery, a temple, to train people the way of life," says Hydrick.

"The whole world has become negative," he adds. "Think positive thoughts and you get positive results."

To illustrate his point, he picks up a reporter's hand, points it at a pencil and knits his brow. The pencil moves.

Short Shattercane Now Problem in Sorghum

cane is normal sorghum gone wrong through chance intercrossing in the field, says U.S. Department of Agriculture geneticist William M. Ross. And the most practical control for this "weed" is rotating out of sorghum.

"Its parents carried genes esponsible for a sorghum lant whose seeds, usually with the glumes attached, spontaneously fall off or are easily knocked off when the plant is physiologically mature," Ross explains.

Sorghum growers have been familiar with tallgrowing shattercane for 25 years. They have pulled these plants by hand or, more recently, eliminated them with the non-selective herbicide glyphosate, put on with rope-wick or roller applicators.

Now, short-statured shattercane is becoming a problem in eastern Nebraska type of shattercane is generally first observed while combining.

No selective herbicides are available for control of shattercane in sorghum fields, say weed scientists Orvin C. Burnside and Alex R. Martin of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

Control of tall shattercane resulted in a natural increase of the short type, the scientists say.

How is short shattercane introduced onto farms? Most often, farmers say, in grain sorghum seed. Shattercane is also brought onto farms in forage sorghum seed, in custom combines or other machinery, and by flooding from neighbors' fields, grazing livestock, soil blowing or LINCOLN, Neb. - Shatter- sorghum fields. The short responsible, but not in the self-pollinated progeny of non-shattering plants.

> Two genes known as Sh2sh2 and Sh3-Sh3 are involved. A shattering plant carries at least one dominant gene of Sh2 and one of Sh3. Normal plants have all recessive genes (sh) or have dominant genes of Sh2 or Sh3, but not both. Normal plants with different dominant genes, when crossed, produce offspring with shattering seeds. Shattering genes could possibly increase in frequency by mutation of recessive to dominant genes. A mutation of tall to short shattercane is also possible, says Ross of the department's Science and Education Administration-Agricultural Research.

Natural selection strongly favors perpetuation of shattering types once they are created, he says. Retention of the genetic combination for shattering is also favored by the high percentage of self pollination occurring in grain sorghum.

The scientists say shattered sorghum seeds generally do not survive over winter in the soil unless the seed is tightly enclosed by the glumes. Over several years, however, one farmer had 583 acres (236 hectares) of land infested. Shattercane often first appears in clumps, then later is distributed over large areas of the field.

Weeds Rob More Soybean Profits

ST. LOUIS - Weeds and pesky grasses rob more profits than other soybean production enemies. To help farmers identify and control their weed problems, the Soybean Digest magazine is offering soybean growers an exclusive 1981 Weed Identification and Control Guide.

The complete guide identifies 35 grasses and 51 broadleaf weeds and provides the herbicide and tankmix combinations to control these problem weeds and grasses.

"Soybean growers have a weed problem, not a chemical problem," says Don Evashenko, general manager of Soybean Digest. "We produced the weed identification and control guide as part of our magazine's commitmentto profitable soybean production. State agronomists in the major soybean producing states provided the list of the most troublesome soybean weeds and grasses while the chemical companies provided the herbicide and tankmix combinations to control the weeds."

The weed identification guide, which includes color photos, lists the weeds and grasses in three categories: small seeded, large seeded and perennial.

The weed control guide provides a foldout chart listing herbicide and tankmix combinations in three categories: pre-plant, pre-emergence and post-emergence. The chart is designed to find the problem weed and identify the chemicals that control it. or find the chemical and determine what weeds it controls.

Area soybean growers who do not receive Soybean Digest may purchase the Weed Identification and Control Guide for $1 by writing Soybean Digest, Box 27300, St. Louis, Missouri 63141. Special rates are available weed control specialists for for large quantities.

Tax Deadline Nears For Some Farmers

Individuals who earned at least two-thirds of their 1979 or 1980 gross income from farming have until Thursday, Jan. 15, 1981, to make a 1980 declaration of estimated tax and pay any taxes due, the Internal Revenue Service says. However, farmers who plan to file their 1980 income tax return and pay the total tax balance by March 3, 1981, are not required to make an estimated tax declaration.

Frozen Food Is Stockpiled

WASHINGTON (AP) -The nation's stockpile of frozen food is substantially larger than it was a year ago, according to a recent Agriculture Department inventory report.

As of Nov. 30, it said, stocks of frozen food in refrigerated warehouses included larger amounts of butter, juice concentrates, pork, cream, eggs, fruits and potatoes.

Pork stocks were up 25 percent from a year earlier, and pork bellies - the source of bacon - were up 71 percent and were the most on record for this time of year.

Butter supplies, at 297.7 million pounds, were up 63 percent from Nov. 30, 1979, the report said. And the stockpile of frozen fruit juices rose 42 percent to 929.7 million pounds.

Althought the abundant supply of pork boosted the total red meat category over year-earlier levels by 4 per-cent, there was still 13 percent less frozen beef in stock than a year ago, the report

Also, the inventory of frozen poultry, at 407.1 million pounds, was down 7 percent from a year earlier.

AUSTIN -- More beef brisket is eaten in Texas than anywhere else in the country. That's because Texans love their barbecue and brisket is their favorite cut for this slowcooking process.

Unknown to most Texans. brisket can also be turned into corned beef or roasted in the oven. Some heretics from the East even put it in a pot, simmer it in water and call it pot roast.

"But connossieurs," says Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, "consider brisket to be the best for barbecue.

Members of Alpha Iota Mu, raised more than $200 with their recent drawing for Ragady Ann and Andy dolls.

According to Sharon Bodner, member of the club, the proceeds were divided and given t the Hereford Work Training Satellite Center, the Christmas Stocking Fund and Meals on Wheels as part of the club's community service project. Rhonda Ness, of New Orleans, who is the granddaughter of Leona Matthews of Hereford won the drawing which was held recently at Sugarland Mall.

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

This is the day when all the listmakers come out of the woodwork. The day when columnists look either backwards or forwards to list their Top Ten: The ten best dressed, the ten greatest moments in sports, the ten top headlines, the ten most outrageous quote, the ten biggest disasters, the ten top movies, the ten best-selling novels and the ten biggest hits.

The list that has always intrigued me is the Most Admired one. Every year I look at it and try to figure out what our criteria are for this honor. I see on it a group of prominent men and women whom we know only through the press."

Today, I should like to offer my nomination for all ten places on the Most Admired list. My nominee is without age or any particular sex.

He lives in a hospital bed, a wheelchair, a rest home, at home, in a world of darkness, or a prison of silence.

His job? Survival. His challenge? Live with disease and pain. His goal? Every day when God opens up a new day for business, he shows up for it.

My nominee never looks back. It's too painful. He never looks forward. It's a luxury. He lives for what he has this day...this hour..this very second.

My nominee exists on a diet of optimism and hope. Occasionally he falls off the emotional diet and pigs out on selfpity, but returns again to do battle

My most admired entry makes those around him comfortable and goes out of his way to help us deal with his problem. He allows us to see in him that nothing is as important as today and nothing as uncertain as tomorrow. He offers to us a legacy of courage which will sustain us for

He shows us the way to laugh at the things we can do nothing about and cry at the things we can. My faceless, nameless nominee will never be on the cover of "Time." He will never covet a statue for excellence, a prize for courage, or make any of the "lists."

But my nominee will touch more lives, effect more change, stir more emotion, and inspire more respect than any other person you will meet in your lifetime.

Ann Landers

Avenue Bridge Open

Lauderdale

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you have more urgent problems to attend to, but this means a whole lot to me.

I have been baby-sitting for a woman for almost seven years. Two months ago they closed the bridge between her side of town and mine for resurfacing. The bridge is now open. I was going to call and tell her, but it was on the front page of our newspaper so I didn't think a call was necessary.

When she came to pick me up quite late that night, I asked what happened. She said she got lost again because she is used to coming across that bridge. When she was driving me to her place she started to take the detour. I reminded her again that the bridge road is open now, and said, "Didn't you see it on Page 1 in the newspaper last night?" She replied, "If it wasn't in Ann Landers' column, I didn't read it."

So will you please put a word in your column telling Mrs. Kreuger that the College Ave. bridge is open? Thanks a lot .- Jeanne B. In Appleton, DEAR JEANNE: Mrs. Kreuger is going to get lots of phone calls today. For sure she will remember that the bridge is open from now on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Help! I am a 26-year-old married woman with two small children. My mother is driving me crazy. She doesn't trust my dad worth a darn, and I am getting the brunt of Mom listens in on all Dad's phone conversations. She goes through his wallet and grills him as if he were a criminal. This goes on constantly. She calls me every day and asks when I last saw Dad, what did he say, where has he been, who did he see there, etc. When I tell her I haven't talked to Dad in several days, she accuses me of covering up for him and being a party to whatever he is supposed to be hiding. Dad is retired but spends a lot of time on his real estate and other investments. I don't think he has any desire to fool around - at least, I have never seen any signs of it. Please tell me what I can do to get my mother off my

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back someone wrote and asked if you could suggest a tactful way to get those last-ditch stragglers to go home after a party. I wanted to write at the time but, as usual, I put it off. I hope I'm not too late to add a gimmick that works very well in our

When people stay on beyond the time we find convenient, my husband stands up and says, "Honey, let's go to bed so our guests can go home." Everyone laughs, but they get the hint and leave.-Silly But Nice In K.C.

DEAR NICE: If it works, it's good. I'm not knocking it. I used to go in the kitchen and come out witha box of corn flakes. That worked, too.

1980, World Wide Migration

By GARTH THOMAS Past President. Deaf Smith County

Genealogical Society "Mama Rudd don't 'low no genealogy talk on New Years Day-just feetball (more than one game)" Translation: no genealogy meeting on New Years Day)

I am ending 1980 with many mixed emotions-some good and some bad. Most of them are not just peculiar to me, and when the same emotions affect a large number of people then there is a significant impact on their geneological records.

Certainly the results of the election were heartening. The changes in the U.S. Senate may prove as beneficial as the change in the White House. Hopefully through these changes, similiar changes may be caused in the Judiciary and Court systems.

1980 was a year of world migration and this, very probably, will trigger more. Thus future genealogists will have many tracks to research, many as poorly defined as those which were made decades ago during periods of great strife in Europe.

1980, a year of great religious turmoil: Northern Ireland, Iran, Afghanistan, Rhodesia, Central America, Southeast Asia.

dants of the French religious wars (Catholics against Protestant Huguenots, and visaversa) have been reading "The Arm and the Darkness" by Taylor Caldwell. We are amazed at the parallelism currently existing in Northern Ireland. Interestingly and amazingly, even the loosers whomever they prove to be, will emerge a stronger people. Only the passives will drop from history, never to be remembered.

And in West Texas, a new issue, a new concern, a growing turmoil: the MX Missile System. Now I don't contend that the system is the best or the worst. I know that what we now have is inadequate. Many are covering their eyes and their ears and are hoping the idea will just go away and leave them undisturbed as their own little plots continue away. Many more have their ears uncovered and soak up every rumor, every exaggeration, every red (some yellow) herring that the enemies of our way of life, of our free enterprise system, of our Americanism are cleverly planting in the adversary arguments against any effort

1980 leaves me frightened. I remember 1940, and I remember the in-between times. I remember the Hostages and the failed attempt to recover them. I remember Vietnam and those who lacked the will to win. I remember the retreats in Korea, the abortive Bay of Pigs attempt. Yes, I am scared but I am willing to stand and fight. Let's strengthen our muscles by shoveling West Texas sand into ramparts, shelters and missile sites, but not bury our heads in it. Or, we can

Large-Woman Fashions Making 'Chic' News

COLLEGE STATION "Larger" women no longer have to confine their wardrobes to darkly colored polyester pantsuits and loosely fitting "housedresses," says Beverly Rhoades, a clothing specialist.

"Women can be big and still be chic, because now many ready-to-wear fashions are available for the larger women," she says.

Miss Rhoades is on the home economcis staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Also, the larger woman who sews has more options because pattern companies are creating more fashionoriented pattern designs especially suited for her.

Larger women should forget the cliches that say they can't wear fashionconscious clothes, Miss Rhoades insists.

"Instead, they now can develop a positive attitude about their looks.

"Looking one's best is simply a matter of taste and appropriateness - for any size person," she stresses.

To look one's best, Miss Rhoades offers several guidelines - and even if the larger woman aspires to change her size, she will look her best while she slims

AVOID HEAVY bulky fabrics.

Ideal fabrics for classic tailored styles are soft tweeds, wool challis, gabardine, poplins, stretch wovens and crepes.

KNOW HOW to choose prints and plaids.

They are no longer "off limits" for larger women, as long as they are chosen carefully and used appropriately. When picking a print or plaid, don't choose something small and fussy or the largest pattern. Either extreme will make you look

KEEP SURROUNDINGS in mind and wear colors that blend with the background rather than colors that stand out and define your shape.

Choose fabric colors that are flattering to your personal coloring, and use texure and color to create an illusion of slenderness. Try some of the rich, jeweltone colors on the market now.

Avoid stark colors, such as all-white or all-black, and avoid bright colors, such as fire-engine red. CREATE HEIGHT illusions by choosing fabrics or styles with verticle (up-anddown) lines and subtle stripes. These help slenderize the figure.

CHOOSE STYLES and fabrics that don't add bulk.

If you are short and plump, never choose fluffy or fussy styles that add bulk. Instead, wear loosely fitted, soft fabrics that produce gentle vertical lines. Also, lightweight fabrics are more comfortable. But avoid those that cling!

If you are tall and robust, choose simple loose-fitting styles that suggest the body rather than tight-fitting styles that actually define it.

. Layered clothes are ideal on the tall woman: tunics over pants and soft wraps. Thicker fabrics for coats can work well, too - if they float loosely over the figure without adding a feeling of

However, keep clothes well defined - even if they're loose fitting. Uncontrolled fullness always exaggerates size. For example, voluminous caf-tansmay conceal body tans may conceal body details, but they also make the entire silhouette look bigand pleats, especially around the bust and hips. Avoid flounces around the neck that make it look fuller. Simple trimmings and flat laces around cuffs and collars look women's clothes today are beautifully accented with embroidered designs, such as flowers and birds. Why pay high-fashion high prices for these highfashion clothes when you can add embroidery yourself to almost any garment in your wardrobe?

To make any plain garment look more expensive and unique, follow these tips on freehand sewing machine embroidery from Ms. Jan Fruchey, education director for White-Elna Sewing Machine Company:

"First you'll need a sewing machine with a good zigzag stitch," said Ms. Fruchey. "You'll use the zigzag stitch more than any other for this type of embroidering.

"Use a No. 70 or No. 80 needle, medium embroidery thread on top, and darning thread in the bobbin," she said. "Remove the presser foot and either drop the feed dogs or cover them with a darning plate that has a slit large enough to accommodate the zigzag stitch. Preparing the machine in this way lets you move the fabric under the needle as if you were moving a piece of paper under a stationary pencil," she added.

Sew a few test swatches using universal thread tension as a starting point. You may have to loosen the upper thread tension to obtain best results.

"Now transfer your pattern onto the right side of the fabric, said Ms. Fruchev "Stretch the fabric taunt in a 6- to 8-inch embroidery hoop by placing the fabric over the large hoop, and placing the smaller hoop inside.

Penny Jessup, instructor of the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth has scheduled another series of Lamaze classes to begin Monday, Jan. 12, for women with due dates up to and through April 15.

"If you're planning on sewing a stretch fabric, be sure to stabilize it by placing a piece of woven interfacing under the work," she advised. "Now you're ready to begin sewing.

"Hold the fabric under the needle and lower the presser bar. Outline the pattern with a zigzag stitch, moving the fabric slowly and the machine quickly. Next, using your zigzag stitch set at 4-5 width and "o" length, fill in the outlined areas, working from the outside in," she said. "Keep moving the hoop from side to side to obtain parallel zigzag stitches.

"You can give the appearance of shading within an area by using different colors of thread in that area,' she said. "When attempting this, always sew the lighter colors before the darker ones."

Tapered lines in a design flower petals, for example can be sewn one of two ways. One is to change the angle of approach as you feed the fabric free-hand. Another is to put the embroidery foot on the machine, set the stitch length to 1/4-1/2, raise the feed dogs, and then gradually increase or decrease the stitch width as the fabric feeds.

"After you master this technique, you'll be able to embroider without the aid of an outline-even attempt such skills as monogramming,' Ms. Fruchey concluded.

For best eating quality, use commercially and homecanned foods within one year, advises Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist. Date the cans or jars as they are processed or bought,

Sheriff 'Booger' Redwine Hanging Up His Badge

TAHOKA, Texas (AP) -The name "Booger" Redwine, associated with law enforcement in these parts for more than 40 years, soon will be used only in those tales told over coffee.

The longtime high sheriff of Lynn County is hanging up his badge Thursday.

Few folks know the grizzled lawman by his given name of Norvell. But almost everyone knows of his service in law enforcement, which has included stints with the Texas Highway Patrol and a spell with the Texas Rangers that led to his enshrinement in the Texas Rangers Hall of Fame.

For a mere $35 per couple, Merle Hays Lanes in Des Moines, Iowa, is offering "moonlight bowling" from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. Beside bowling, there'll be prizes, four drinks, champagne and snacks at midnight, disco dancing and party favors.

streets to count down the old year. But in honor of the American hostages in Iran, the big ball that slides down a pole at midnight won't be lighted the whole time for the first time since 1904.

Frank Palumbo, owner of the Philadelphia nightclub Palumbo's, said his $20-perperson price for filet mignon and dancing includes no complimentary alcohol. "We don't encourage drinking," he said.

A few deals, like the $40 per person at the MGM Grand in Reno, Nev., and the $160 Marriott in Philadelphia, prices are the same this year.

Regine's, money is no object. The $500-a-couple price includes champagne, a gift such as a pen or address book, noisemakers, cham-

Club Owner Offers Reward

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) -Owners of a nightclub reduced to ashes by an early morning blaze offered a $10,000 reward Tuesday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the fire. Fire officials blamed arson through the New West early Tuesday morning, causing an estimated $600,000 damage.

Firefighter Rick McMimimy, 23, suffered slight burns on his hand and neck and was treated and for the blaze that swept released at a Lubbock Hospital.

Flames already were soaring above the roof of the building by the time firefighters arrived at about 3:30 a.m. It took three hours to control the blaze that gut-

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Antacids oft ineffective

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you stated that antacids are not very useful in relieving gas symptoms. If this is the case, why do doctors recommend Riopan or Maalox to relieve gas? If antacids are useless for stomach discomfort, what does one take to relieve gas, bicarbonate? I'm always looking

DEAR READER - You have quoted me correctly. The reason why antacids are not very useful in relieving gas symptoms is best explained by the reason people have gas in the first place.

Most gaseous distention is caused by swallowing air or fermentation of undigested food, and antacids won't stop either of those. The symptoms of discomfort are often made worse by spasm of the colon. and that is not helped by anta-

Antacids serve only one function - to neutralize acid formed in the stomach. Bicarbonate may actually produce gas. It reacts chemically with the stomach's hydrochloric acid and releases carbon dioxide gas from the bicarbonate. That is why people who have complaints of gaseousness should not drink carbonated beverages. Why add gas to a system that is already having a problem handling gas?

There are a lot of causes for stomach discomfort besides gas. If a person has pain from acidity plus gas, the antacids might be used to relieve the acidity problems, not the gas. Antispasmodics to relieve spasms in the colon and free the natural flow of gas may be useful.

Much of what you need to do to control gas discomfort is related to your habits and what you eat. This is discussed in The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box gas-forming foods also need to be eliminated

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm writing regarding a lovely old lady who has a lot of trouble and we, the neighbors, want to help. She has osteoarthritis, bursitis, high blood pressure. thyroid trouble, curvature of the spine and two years ago she developed heart failure. Next she had to have a pacemaker. Then she began to have trouble treathing and the doctor told her she has a bad valve and if she were vounger he would operate. She is 85 years old.

Now, Dr. Lamb, what can she expect? Is there anything load? She doesn't want to see anyone. She doesn't eat and she is just giving up. She is too lovely a lady for that. If there is anything we can do to help her, please let us know.

DEAR READER - It is a safe bet that you have already helped her with love and concern. There is not much vou can do, medically speaking, that is not being provided for her, so emotional support in ways that show you care is the best thing in the world for her. Helping care for her physical comfort, making sure she has the opportunity to eat and giving her compan-ionship while eating and at other times can mean a great deal to a person in severe medical distress. STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Governor Bill Clements has an opinion about Texas prisons different from federal Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler, who recently jarred the political establishment by ordering sweeping and expensive reforms of the state's

The week following the reform order, Clements opened his regular news conference by calling the Texas Department of Corrections a "model" system that is "one of the best if not the best in the United States."

prison system.

However, Clements said he could "probably" agree with about half of the federal judge's reforms, though he declined to elaborate on specifics. The judge came down especially hard on overcrowding and brutality in prisons with a 248-page opinion chock full of stories recounting prison abuses.

As Governor of Texas, Clements does not like to see his home state knocked about. As a self-made millionaire, he seems particularly to dislike any talk about Texas in inferior terms. And as a self-styled budget-cutting Republican, Clements (and many top Democrats) does not like the idea of spending a lot of taxpayer dollars to build several new Texas prisons.

This is, after all, supposed to be a cut-spending Legislature which is scheduled to convene in two weeks. The unexpected and extremely high cost of funding prison reform has caught budget leaders in a bind. The anticipated state budget to be hashed out by legislators over the next six months is already higher than last biennium's because of inflation

Officials who draw up the state government's budget have always taken it for granted that taxpayers-voters would go along with regular cost-of-operating increases in government. But this year, a sufficient number of lawmakers feel a tax revolt rumble when they put their ears to the ground. Thoughts about increasing the cost of state government make them

Many legislators feel taxpayers may support some tax increases if the state government finds a way to significantly cut local property property taxes.

How Much Surplus? No bigger political coup could be pulled this session than the return of tax dollars to taxpayers, but just how much, if any, tax money will be available for return is unclear at present.

Clements is insisting the state will be able to offer taxpayers some $1 billion in tax relief.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock predicts about half that amount, $568 million, including about $200 million which may go unspent by state agencies.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, also chairman of the Legislative Budget Board, said he does not see how Clements could find the extra money in Bullock's figures, but Clements said he has his own sources of information, some the same as House Speaker Bill Clayton who apparently agreed privately with Clements on the $1 billion figure. Clayton has already announced he wants extra money to be put into a permanent fund for waterrelated projects, and Clements is backing the Speaker to a degree. The Governor said he also has other projects in mind to be funded by a surplus.

So there may be a large surplus and there may not. And if it's there, it may be next election more than ever, political futures will be made and undone by votes on spending in the Texas Redistricting Lawsuit

Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White is asking the U.S. Supreme Court to set aside a recent federal ruling in hopes of preventing other states troubles from delaying redistricting in Texas. The city of Detroit, claim-

U.S. Census report, last month won a judgment to delay release of census figures. White said until the De-ing that large numbers of its troit lawsuit is resolved, the Census Bureau cannot report its figures to Texas or any other state, and may put Texas off-schedule by two vears.

The census data was expected to reach the Legislature sometime in April, giving lawmakers a bare two months to redistrict before adjourning on June 1. If the information is delayed until after adjournment, it may be two years before Texas can redistrict, and prove entitlement to two, possibly three extra seats in the U.S. Congress.
