John Pool Elected Mayor Pro Tem

The City Commission elected John Pool Hereford's mayor pro tem Monday night, appointed Don Baugous to the Board of Adjustment and had a surprise visit from John Tyler, general manager of KVII-TV, Amarillo.

The commission also approved two zoning requests, but tabled a petition for annexation until Mayor Ray Cowsert and Commissioner Dick Barnard could be present. In the Mayor's absence, Pool was in charge.

The petition for annexation had been presented by Paul Schroeter for property south of the city, a 150-foot by 150-foot lot — or one-eighth of a city block.

However, City Manager Dudley Bayne presented an annexation report for 1950 through 1967, and displayed a city map which outlined the consistent growth throughout this period. In 1950, the report and map indicated, Hereford was confined to 1,300.42 acres. On the last day of 1967, it had expanded to 2,980.50 acres — a total of 1,680.08 in eighteen years, more than doubled in size.

John Bell and E. W. Cawthon, Jr., were the two property owners who had zoning changes approved. Bell's property, in a D Zone, was changed to an E (business) Zone, for a proposed gasoline service station to be constructed on 25 Mile Avenue. Cawthon's property, in the northwestern part of town, had been in a B (residential) Zone but was changed to a D-1 (restricted).

Mayor pro tem Pool had been a member of the Board of Adjustment for some time, but he felt that since being elected to the commission there was a possibility of a future conflict of interests between the two posts and resigned. The commission explained that they had not as yet approached Baugous toward taking the adjustment board appointment but felt that he would be well qualified for the position.

There was still some past business in regard to the State Highway Department desiring to run a sewer line, at their own expense, from the city line to their new building location, which had been brought up previously. It was agreed that if this was to meet with the city's approval, it would definitely have to be stipulated that the highway department would be responsible for all maintenance after the tie-on was completed.

A report on the bids for the 8 Citizens Band radios the city had advertised for sale, revealed three bidders. But the commissioners rejected them all at this time.

The Texas Education Agency authorizes all of the State Colleges and Universities in Texas to grant a scholarship to the highest ranking senior in the graduating class of each high school in the state.

Each year, the Texas Council of Church-Related Colleges awards a scholarship to the highest ranking student of each graduating class, and one to the second highest ranking senior.

Kendrick, 18, has kept a straight-A average throughout his four years in high school, and has been a member of the National Honor Society for four years. As a member of the Key Club, Kendrick enjoyed the relationships of his fellow students. He has attended Hereford schools since the first grade and plans on attending the University of Texas at Arlington to major in psychology.

Miss Young, 18, came to Hereford in her third year in school and has been attending Hereford schools with an A-average ever since. Miss Young is connected with many activities and has been presented many awards. She has been a member of the Future Homemakers for two years, pianist for many clubs and organizations. She has been in National Honor Society for three years, served on the Student Council, and the school yearbook staff. She was chosen for the 1965 Rotary Club Sweetheart and was football queen candidate her junior year. As a Most Beautiful candidate for the '63 yearbook, Miss Young was chosen by Johnny Carson as Most Beautiful. A few of Miss Young's courses in high school consisted of Algebra I and II, geometry, biology, chemistry, and advanced English. Her plans are to attend the University of Texas at Austin to major in math and psychology.

The top ten seniors were awarded next by Bill Michael, high school principal, and the awards were presented to the following students in order of their rank: Jerry Kendrick, Cathy Young, Frank Nobles, Glynda Landers, Carla Stengel, Shelly Rush, Cynthia McMinn, Jan Miller, Susan White, and

Feedlot Industry Will Be Studied

Deaf Smith County will be included in a tour of the rapidly developing cattle feeding industry today by members of the board of directors of Texas A&M University and University administrators, including President Earl Rudder and Dean of Agriculture H. O. Kunkel.

The tour, which is being hosted by the Texas cattle feeders association, will leave the villa Inn Motel this morning and inspect cattle feeding operations in Amarillo, Hereford, Friona, Dimmitt and Tulla areas. Also included on the tour will be a visit to the Missouri beef, Inc. at Friona. The new beef packing operation which has just recently been completed, will be the largest beef killing plant in the nation.

The tour was planned to provide the Texas A&M officials with a first-hand view of the state's most dynamic agricultural industry. Cattle feeding in Texas has grown from 227,000 head fed in 1955 to 1,614,000 head fed in 1967. This volume is estimated to double by 1975.

This billion dollar a year industry depends heavily on the research and extension activities being carried on by Texas

Local Citizens To Get Awards

Betty Hodges and Jamie Edmonson, both Hereford High School sophomores, and F. A. "Spec" Marnell have been named regional winners in Soil and Water Conservation contests. Sponsored by the Fort Worth Press, they will receive awards during a banquet in Plainview tonight.

Marnell is the regional winner in the "Comeback Farmer of the Year" contest. Jamie Edmonson and Betty Hodges were chosen in the essay portion of the competition.

Wilton Green, of the U. S. Soil and Conservation Service, explained that there were five regions in Texas under the contest. The region covers 51 counties.

Marnell was chosen for his award on the basis of work done on his farm about 13 miles west and one mile south of Hereford.

Green said that Marnell had an erosion problem, and he had to develop the land for irrigation and solve the problem at the same time.

The awards will be presented by Walter Humphries, publisher of the Fort Worth Press.

Gene Fooks To Head Committee

The United Funds Budget and Commissions Committee met this week and elected members and a chairman, it was announced.

Gene Fooks was elected chairman of the committee and other members included Rocky Lee, Wayne Williams, Mrs. John Pitman, and Mrs. Walter London.

The committee urged all other organizations and clubs for their participation and if they desire to become an agency of the United Fund, they should submit their requests and their budget outline before June 1st. The requests and outlines should be sent to Box 407, Hereford.

The public is invited to see this exhibit.

Teenagers as well as adults will be included as summer students. Those interested may register at the Yardsstick during the exhibit, or telephone school administration offices for further information, it was announced by Mrs. Bob Wert, the instructor.

Jr., Sr. Banquet Set For Friday

Some 243 seniors and 233 juniors will attend a buffet dinner with entertainment at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn at 7:30 Friday night. It is the scene of the Junior-Senior Banquet of Hereford High School.

Texas Tech will furnish the entertainment, as the Kappa Pickers, a folk group, will appear from Lubbock.

Wayne Winget, junior class president, will give the welcome and senior class president Tommy Betzen is to deliver the response.

Various awards will be presented and various people recognized as major assets to the 1968 graduates.

Following the dinner, a party sponsored by the churches in Hereford is to be held at the Community Center. A dance will also be held at Sugarland Mall afterward.

Over 650 Persons Attend First All-Sports Banquet

By MARSHALL DAY Staff Writer

Presentation of awards, recognition of coaches and athletes, and an inspiring speech by Dan Reeves of the Dallas Cowboys all highlighted the first annual All-Sports Banquet Tuesday night in the Bull Barn.

With an overflow crowd present at the banquet, parents, athletes, and sports enthusiasts were packed elbow-to-elbow as they saw each athlete recognized for his or her achievements through the past athletic season and the presentation of seven News Service Awards to those deemed worthy of the awards.

Those receiving awards included Nancy Howard for volleyball; Berry Johnson, baseball; Tony Malouf, football; Steve Hendon, golf; Jim Childers, basketball; Gary Goodin, track, and Bobby Burwick, also in track. Following the presentation of these awards, the three past season football captains presented gifts to all the high school coaches and the cheerleaders.

Following the awards presentations, Jim Wiman, the first president of the Hereford Whiteface Booster Club when it was first organized, introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Dan Reeves, running back for the Dallas Cowboys.

Reeves began his speech by saying that the banquet was by far the largest sports banquet he had spoken at and that he was highly pleased with the enthusiasm shown by the citizens of Hereford and the community.

Discussing some of the eventual things that have happened to him in climb to fame and fortune, Reeves sprinkled the evening with jokes and anecdotes that kept the crowd smiling, laughing, and most of all listening. He reminded all present that today's youth is faced with more trials and strife than at any time in the history of the world and said also that they, the youth, because of this, are becoming more and more responsible for the future.

Integration, he said, was one of the major things which at first hindered him, and then later helped him during his rise in pro football due to the fact a number of the players on the Cowboy's team were Negroes. A native of Americus, Georgia, he was from the center of riots and disorder prior to his becoming a Cowboy, and when he became a rookie he found himself among the Negroes of the team, and lost. Through these team mates, he found the truth of integration and feels he is a better person

Khiva Circus Schedules 2 Performances For Friday

The "Big Show" will be in town tomorrow for two performances at the Whiteface Stadium, Hereford, under the auspices of the Khiva Shrine Temple. The Khiva Circus will begin at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Admission is $1.25 for adults. When adults purchase tickets, the local Shrine Nobles permit the students and children in free, accompanied with their parents.

Glittering with new costumes, new acts and new production numbers, this year's Shrine Circus offers 42 different acts that will keep the fans on the edge of their seats, with breathtaking feats in the air and on the ground — or rolling in the aisles at the antics of the clowns in Clown Alley.

All proceeds will be donated to the Shriners Hospitals for Cripple Children and the Shriners Burns Institutes, continuing their vital role toward returning crippled children and young burn victims to their rightful place in society.

Since opening the first such hospital in 1922, more than 156,000 children have been cured or materially helped. This achievement represents a significant investment in the future of our country.

The first Shriners Hospital opened on September 16, 1922. Since then, eighteen more have been added — including the Scottish Rite Hospital for Cripple Children at Dallas — and three Shriners Burns Institutes. Annual operating costs continue their upward spiral. The Shrine presently budgets over $10-million each year for the 19 Orthopedic Units alone. An additional $4-million annually is earmarked for the Burns Institutes, and this is expected to increase appreciably as the vital program is expanded.

Per patient costs in the Orthopedic Units during the past year total $1,519. It has been estimated that $10,000 is required to adequately treat a severely burned patient. Records indicate that costs for some burn cases have already exceeded $20,000.

Thus far, a staggering $113-million has been used for hospital operating expenses.

These figures are impressive (and are intended to be.) However, weighed against the return of young lives to their rightful place in society, even such huge sums become insignificant.

Shrine Nobles throughout North America firmly believe that "never does a Shriner stand so tall as when he stoops to help a crippled child."

Certainly this motto is appropriate for all men — and women and able-bodied children.

From the opening Grand Entry to the awesome finish by a Grand Finale, the Shrine Circus will provide thrills and chills packed into a fast-moving two-hour circus program of the very cream of circus talent.

Tickets are on sale now from any Shrine member.

KPAN Receives Service Award

At the conclusion of a three-day convention marking the 90th anniversary of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, a new award of presentations were handed out with the local radio station, KPAN, receiver of one of these.

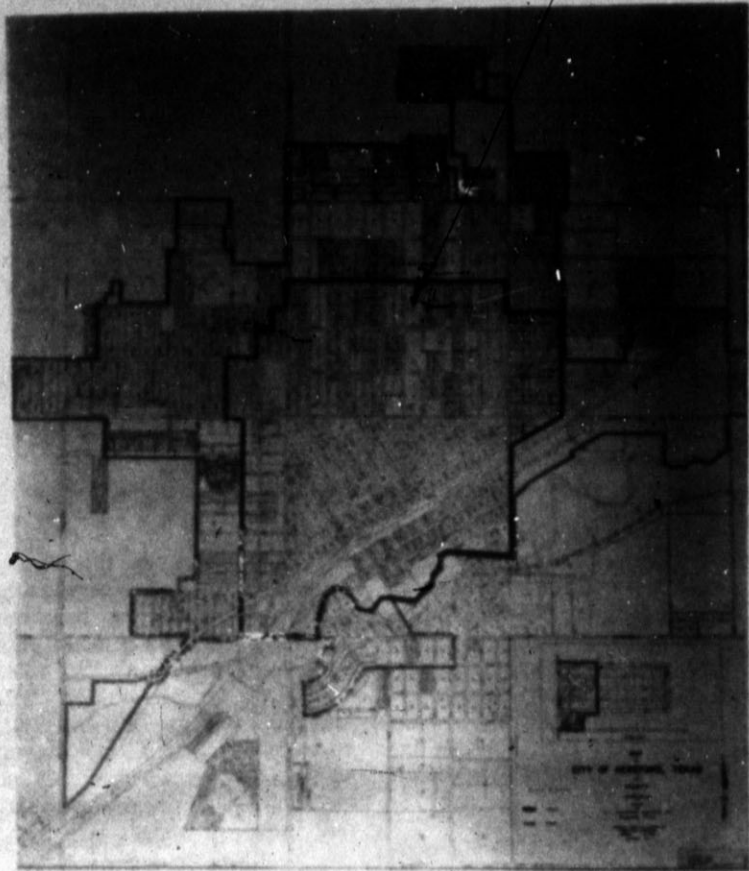

Community Service Awards, as the new additions are tagged, were handed out to two categories and these included the small town market and medium size markets. Hereford's own KPAN was awarded the small town market while KCRS of Midland was honored with the medium size market award.

Jr. College Plan Meet Set Friday

A meeting has been set for Friday at 7:30 p.m. to further enhance the chances in the area for a junior college. Representatives of Deaf Smith County, Oldham and Parmer counties will congregate at the Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperative building on East Highway 60, according to Mrs. Jimmy Gillentine, one of the five local steering committee members.

"HERE COMES THE CIRCUS — The Greatest Show on Earth!" It's the Khiva Shrine Circus, set for two performances on Friday at Whiteface Stadium. All proceeds will go toward the Shriners Hospitals. There are 42 exciting acts with this circus — including acrobats, as shown above.

tant contract of twenty legal-sized pages was presented for the mayor's signature. Bayne explained that through the Texas State Department of Health, it set out exactly what had been agreed upon originally, with the exception of the aerial photography (which the city had agreed to pay for themselves) and the change in name of the new planner. The planner originally set is no longer with the planning consultant and it is merely a formality, Bayne said.

The commissioner voted approval of the contract with the stipulation that Mayor Cowser would sign it upon return.

Tyler explained that his presence before the commission was simply to explain that Channel Seven is now under new ownership, with a Panhandle family, and that it was desired that they be looked upon as the area television station, "to be a part of Hereford's growth."

Bayne pointed out to the commission that "Channel Seven is the only one who came down to Hereford during the water pollution crisis last year, and who made an outside effort toward factual reporting" of the television stations in the area.

City attorney Ernest Langley, who is also president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, invited Tyler and his facilities to the All-Sports Banquet and the luncheon the following day with Dan Reeves. Tyler accepted.

Flag Winners Are Named By Pioneers

Winners have been announced for the Hereford official flag contest through the Mid-Plains Pioneers, according to Gladys Manjeot, their publicity chairman.

First place winner is Marguerite Newell of 133 Ranger Ave., Hereford. Mrs. Newell will receive $25.

The flag, according to Mrs. Newell's design, will be shown on May 30 at the Mid-Plains Pioneers celebration. There will be a preview of it in the Hereford Brand, Mrs. Manjeot said, but the design will remain secret until then.

The flag is being made by Rena Rae Newton of Rena Rae of Texas Draperies, Hereford.

The other winners in the flag contest are Juandell Wade of 128 Mimosa; who will receive $15 for second place, and Paullette Reinart of St. Anthony's School, for third place.

Honorable mention for her design was given to Jeanne McGee.

Mrs. Manjeot said that the contest "received a nice response."

Deadline for the Pioneer of the Year nominations has been announced. All nominees for this award should be mailed to Clint Formby of Radio Station KPAN, Hereford, on or before 5 p. m., Monday, May 20.

Mrs. Manjeot reported that these nominations were coming in "real good."

She said that the oldest man and woman attending the celebration will receive gifts pertaining to Hereford, as will the man and woman traveling the most miles to attend the celebration.

Money prizes will be awarded to the members in attendance, she said. "These names will be drawn. It is for members only — and we want everyone to join." The prizes will be $10 and two $5 at the drawing.

The Pioneer Study Club will be in charge of the registration and the coffee hour.

TV Caravan To Visit Here

Kurt Kaszner, soon to be seen in the new television show on the ABC network, "Land of the Giants," will be in Hereford from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Saturday in front of Sugarland Mall, as part of the KVII caravan which is touring the area.

Also appearing here from national television is Edith McLaughlin, seen currently on the daytime serial, "General Hospital."

Molly Grubb, the current "Miss Texas," will be a part of the troupe, and the Chordsmen, a vocal group.

John Patrick, promotion manager for Channel Seven of Amarillo, said there would also be back-up music by the Torrents, "and of course, our local personalities, Bob Izzard, Jack Tompkins, Jim Taylor, Carol Kelly and Tuggie."

Patrick said the Caravan Show is programmed to last approximately one hour.

He said that Kaszner could be remembered for his role as the assistant to the puppetmaster in the motion picture "Lili," recently shown on the Friday night "We're Off to See the Wizard" program, or "Casino Royale," "A Farewell to Arms," and "55 Days at Peking," among many others in theatres.

His television roles have included "The Trials of O'Brien," The Kraft Theatre and the Chrysler Theatre. He usually plays foreign parts.

Earnest Langley, master of ceremonies at the fete, then introduced the cheerleaders who ended the banquet with the leading of the school song.

Reeves also spoke at the Joint Civic Club meeting which was held in the Bull Barn on Wednesday at noon.

Highlighting the multi-club meeting was Reeves' showing of a film on the high spots during the Cowboys' pennant winning drive through last season and their narrow defeat at the hands of the Green Bay Packers in the NFL championship game. Following the presentation of the film, Reeves concluded with an open floor question and answer period.

Somewhere around 350 persons were in attendance at the meeting.

Schroyer Slated For Navy Duty

Keith Schroyer, who has been with Casa de Amigos as a VISTA since February 1967, is slated to leave Hereford for service in the Navy. Plans are now to ship out on May 23.

Schroyer, who is 22, has been writing most of the Casa de Amigos column for the Hereford Brand almost entirely since last September, when he came here after a training period of six weeks at the University of Oregon at Eugene. His home is in Jacksonville, Florida.

He said that he plans to re-enter college when his military service is completed, for his final year and his Master's degree.

Schroyer said, "Hereford is my first experience at living in a small town. I lived at Jacksonville and at Greenville, South Carolina, which are much larger. But I like small towns very much. I made friends here in Hereford — in many respects, closer friends than before. I like the people very much."

Letter To The Editor

Dear editor,
I read Mr. Scott's column in your paper, and I agree with him. I myself say Hereford is the best community in the world.

I can say, I am proud to be a member of that community. When someone asks me where I am from, I tell them with pride.

I am looking forward to returning to that lovely town.

PFC Dennis D. Sutter, U.S. Marines.

Dennis Sutter To See Duty Overseas

PFC Dennis D. Sutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Sutter of 419 Ave. G in Hereford, left Tuesday for Camp Pendleton, California. A Marine, Sutter will go overseas shortly, but reported that he did not know where he would be shipped until he arrived at Camp Pendleton. "Might be Okinawa," he said.

He has been visiting his parents and sister here, and a brother with KVII in Amarillo. His father is with Shur-Gro Liquid Feed and his mother is a nurse at Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic.

PFC Sutter is a graduate of Hereford High School and had had one year at Texas Tech before going into the Marines last August. At Texas Tech, he belonged to the Saddle Tramps. He is 20 years old.

In October 1967, Sutter was graduated from eight weeks of "boot" training, first ITR, at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego, California. Then he took his second ITR training at nearby Camp Pendleton for an additional four weeks. The intensified recruit training emphasizing physical conditioning and survival techniques.

He was in Supply. "Everybody was supposed to get leave," he said, "following the second ITR. But instead, I went to Area 22 of Camp Pendleton for one month of OJT (On-the-job-training). I came home on December the first, after I finished that course."

But Private Sutter became Private First Class Sutter when he had been in the Marines only three months.

"They usually take ten per cent and promote them to PFC," he explained. "They picked 6 out of 70 out of our ITR."

But he became PFC even then one month prior to the regulated time period.

However, he took his twenty-day leave and got an extension of five days — to report at the El Toro Marine Base, California, at Christmas. He was assigned to the 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing.

"This was supposed to be my permanent duty station," he said.

County agent Justin McBride reported that several instances of onion maggots have been received in his office during the past week. Several of the county's farmers were severely affected, McBride said, with an estimated 10 - 15 per cent of the entire crop included.

The insect is described as about half the size of a house fly. It produces larvae of about one-third inch long. They burrow into onion bulbs and kill them before they mature.

McBride said, "It hasn't been a problem in the past, however, some damage did occur last year near Plainview."

The best period to stop this onion maggot is during the egg-laying period, by eliminating the adult male, Jack Kyle of the Lubbock experimental station reported. This is done by spraying a number of insecticides on the crops.

Also recommended was the use of a spray that had the

The tax increase that we are now faced with is the direct result of excessive spending by this and the preceding Administration. The result has been a tremendous rise in the cost of living, the highest interest rates in 100 years, a crisis in our balance of payments, a growing threat that we might have to devalue the dollar and a general weakening of the American economy.

The cost of living is rising at an annual rate of almost 4 percent as wage increases in union settlements during the first quarter of 1968 averaged almost 6 percent and these increases are sure to be passed on in higher prices.

Concerning Veterans

Some World War II veterans still have more than two years to obtain GI guaranteed or insured loans, Jack Coker, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco said today.

Final deadline for World War II eligibility is July 25, 1970, he said.

Those eligible may obtain a guaranteed loan to purchase a home, a farm, or to buy or start a business.

Eligibility has been expiring for World War II veterans according to a formula that adds 10 years to the date of their discharge from active wartime service, plus one year for each 90 days of that service plus four days for each additional day of active duty. The date reached by this formula is the individual deadline date for each veteran.

Thus eligibility has already expired for most World War II veterans, but the program will end for all on July 25, 1970.

World War II veterans who were discharged for a service-connected disability will be eligible until the final termination date of July 25, 1970; this also applies to widows of veterans who died of service-connected disabilities.

Coker invited World War II veterans to visit or call the Waco VA Regional Office for answers to any questions they may have concerning the GI loan entitlement.

Loan applications are ordinarily sent to the VA by lenders. The veteran, therefore, should see that his loan application reached the VA before his entitlement expires, Coker said.

longest effect, according to McBride, who specified two kinds which are approved by the USDA. They are Diazinon and Malathion.

McBride added that there are also other methods, but none that would be effective during the period of crop growth.

been accumulating steadily." An Associated Press story on the nation's fiscal crisis was headed, "U.S. Pickpocket 'Inflation Again Makes Off With Loot'." Inflation is not just an unwelcome guest but is the unofficial tax collector for the nation. It has been called unjust, ruthless, greedy, villainous, irrational — and all these derogatory descriptions and more apply to it.

It is also cowardly, for it picks on those who can do little about it, on elderly men and women and others on fixed incomes, for example; on people who can't go out and earn more to replace the money taken from them.

"Inflation is an insidious tax. It is tricky. Often it cannot be seen, for it disguises itself as prosperity. It would have you measure the economic engine, for example, by the heat it gives off rather than by the power it produces.

"To put it another way: you're just spinning your wheels. You're not moving ahead. This is not quite the case at the moment. Living costs are increasing, but so is buying power. Wages might be increasing for corporations but so are corporate profits. Still, much of what looks like improvement is just motion.

"People are making more money but their living standards cannot reflect this completely. A steady amount of the dollars they put in their pockets is fingered quickly and silently by the pickpocket.

"It really doesn't make much sense to raise wages only to see the increases wiped out by rising prices and so on. But what is utterly irrational about inflation is that it can be spotted and headed off — but usually isn't.

"There is also an aspect about taxes on the present economy that is sometimes hidden as effectively as the pickpocket's fingers. It involves the transfer of power involved in a tax-increase.

"To impose taxes on the private economy would weaken it. At the same time it would make even more powerful the public economy, whose spending already is the cause of inflation."

Saul, Vasek Enter Regional Contest

Bill McDowell, auto mechanics teacher at Hereford High School, has announced that Tommy Saul and Donald Vasek have been named as the two contestants in the 20th annual Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest. They will appear at Lowery Field on Saturday at 1 p.m. for this year's regional event.

All West Texas-area high schools will participate. Each will have two contestants — picked from students who are enrolled in auto-mechanics classes.

They will compete for school honors and college scholarships.

Each team will be given a car to put into running condition, new cars supplied by area Plymouth dealers. Each car will have been tampered with, and it will be up to the contestants to show their skills as mechanics.

The winning team and their teacher will represent the West Texas area at the National Trouble Shooting finals, to be held at Indianapolis, Indiana, on June 18, 19 and 20.

Competition will be in two divisions — Industrial Arts and Vocational Arts — and schools may enter a team for each

Tournament Collects $377; Outstanding Players Named

The Women's Volleyball League collected $377.19 during the four nights of their tournament last week at the Hereford High School gymnasium.

The entire proceeds will be donated to the Revisit Center of the Institutes For the Achievement of Human Potential of Texas, Inc., which moved from Hereford to Amarillo on April 29.

Don Zeman, director of the Revisit Center, said that he would like "to express on behalf of the Institutes sincere appreciation, and to thank each team member who took part in the tournament, and to each spectator who came out to support them, for the money that was raised in this project."

The Revisit Center specializes in brain-damaged children. Zeman said that they would use the contribution for the purchase of a 16mm sound projector, which is vitally important in their work.

The Center was located in Hereford for more than a year, but its medical director, Dr. Bruce G. Beene, passed away shortly after it was moved here from San Antonio. Its new medical director, Dr. Dudley Moore of Canyon, completed arrangements for it to be moved to Amarillo.

However, the representatives of the Women's Volleyball League felt that the work that was being done through the center with brain-damaged children was still worthwhile, irregardless of the move, and worked toward the goal of raising additional funds for project.

Several Deaf Smith County children are still active in the Institutes' program.

Trophy winners for the matches were:

Women: First place: Ann's Clan, Charlene Richardson, captain, Vega, by Rena Rae of Texas Draperies; Second place: The Mustangs, Doris Walterschied, captain, Hereford, by The Dairy Queen; Third place: Co-op Cadets, Louise Godsey, captain, Bushland, by Gibson's Pharmacy.

Also, Jean Schumacher and Glenda Wisenart for judging every team for an outstanding player.

A special thanks to the 150 donors of food for the concession stand, and Cooper's Market, Piggly Wiggly and Taylor and Son for supplies.

Admission To Be Charged At Lake

Persons are reminded that beginning May 10, a charge of $1 per car for each day spent at Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge will go into effect.

The new rules include that a person walking or riding a bicycle will be charged 50 cents and also that all boats are required to have safety stickers by the same date. Stickers for boats will be handed out free of charge if the boat meets federal and state requirements. Requirements include rear view mirrors, fire extinguishers, lights when required by the length of the boat, and life preservers.

Due to the charge and new rules, there will be only two entrance gates to the lake and these will be closed after 11 p. m. and re-opened at 6 a. m. Re-admission will not be allowed, if a person leaves, until 6 a. m.

An educational program will also be included in the new program at the lake and this will be conducted on Saturday evenings with lake personnel to show slides of wildlife and conservation projects.

Gordon Hansen, refuge manager, explained that while 40 per cent of the money collected will go to the federal and state government, the remaining 60 percent will be returned to the state for matching funds to be used in development of other lakes and parks.

It was also announced that a Golden Eagle Passport, which is available for $7 a year, can be purchased and will allow entrance into Buffalo Lake and other national wildlife refuges.

Baseball Mothers Schedule Meet

Mothers of all Pony League players are urged to be in attendance at a meeting which is set for 5 p. m. Thursday, May 9, at the Community Center. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss plans for the upcoming season.

Culpepper Wins Speedway Opener

Excitement and fast cars were the words heard as the season began at Hereford Speedway for the first weekend. The track has been made larger this year and a new track record has been set by Jim Culpepper in the time of 17 seconds flat.

Several new cars made their first appearance of the year and the word is speed. The second week of racing will have a special attraction—the ladies strap themselves in for their turn at the circle track.

Results for the first weekend:

The trophy dash was captured by none other than Jim Culpepper. His new car is sponsored by Hereford Wrecking Co. Second place went to Mike Burns of Amarillo and third place was captured by Bobby Byers.

Heats went as follows:

Rebs Nip Nazareth In 11-8 Slugfest

Behind the five-hit pitching of Alex Diaz, the Hereford Rebels, who are sponsored by the Paisano Lions, downed the team from Nazareth in the initial outing of the regular season by a score of 11-8.

Jumping on the opposition's pitching staff in the first frame, and then relying on the shaky defense, the Rebels notched four runs in the bottom of the frame after the visitors had collected three in their half of the inning.

Neither team managed a tally in the second as the pitching appeared to go into a duel, but things changed in the third as the two teams matched each others score and the Rebels held on to their one run advantage. After allowing the Nazareth team no score in the top of the fourth, the locals proceeded to trounce upon the oppositions pitching again as they added four more runs to their credit, to take a 9-4 lead.

The Rebels then allowed the visiting team only four more runs that were scattered throughout the rest of the game while they themselves split with half of the oppositions score in totaling two additional runs.

Big gun for the Rebels was Gary Tucker who connected on four-of-five trips to the plate including a homerun.

The next contest for the team will be Sunday, May 11, when they play host to the Amarillo team of the Irrigation League. Gametime is set for 2 p. m. on the high school field.

Giant Games To Host Activities

Little Rock, Memphis, Dallas-Ft. Worth, and Shreveport, in that order, will be the four teams set to do battle against the Amarillo Giants when they return from their first long road trip, it was announced.

To highlight the upcoming home games, Amarillo Giant manager "Chick" O'Malley has come up with a good number of promising pre-game activities for the fans. This Friday, a fashion show by the players' wives will take place before the game between the Giants and the Little Rock team. Also on the agenda for other activities, there will be children who will also model clothes for the occasion.

Ladies night will also be a featured occasion as this will take place on May 15 and May 22 while the youngsters will see a little participation on May 19 on "All Kids Day." This will include the giving away of prizes ranging from a pony and saddle to bicycles.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING!

He-Men Eat Sandwiches

By SUE COLEMAN

Women's Editor
Main Street of Mrs. Melvin Sumner's home town stretches from Vernon, Tex., to Minot, N. D., and she travels it every year, seeing friends at each stop along the way.

HER RESIDENCE is a shiny modern house trailer, a far cry from the tents and makeshift mobile homes she occupied some 20 years ago. A migratory business has become an accustomed way of life for the Summers, and Mrs. Sumner says emphatically, "We couldn't quit now!"

At 515 Irving, their "permanent" home where they are getting ready to leave on the cross-country route again soon, the Summers spend the time from the end of the maize harvest season just before Christmas until the beginning of the North Texas wheat harvest at mid-May.

Their business is custom combining, and they work northward as wheat ripens in fields from this area to the Canadian border, then get back home just in time to harvest maize across the Plains.

THERE IS TIME after that to visit relatives, take a vacation trip on a different route from the work tour, then get equipment in shape for the next harvest season.

With the self-contained trailer home, Mrs. Sumner lives as comfortably on the road as she does here, but she was fascinated by "following the harvest" even back in the early years when the family sometimes slept in their car because tents are not entirely rainproof.

They began the business 22 years ago. When the operation was smaller and the Summers traveled as a family, they ranged more widely and some seasons went on into Canada to work. The two children attended schools in Canada at times, an experience they came to value highly.

NOW THAT IT IS a bigger business, they stick to the same route and have many of the same customers year after year. In addition to combines, trucks and the Summers' trailer, they have a converted school bus which serves as sleeping quarters for ten men and a smaller trailer home for the foreman, a bachelor whose mother sometimes travels with him.

Almost always there is another woman in the group to share Mrs. Sumner's duties, usually a wife or relative of one of the crew members. The Summers' daughter was her mother's aide until she married.

Those duties, in addition to the bookkeeping, are principally concerned with keeping the men fed and the machinery in repair.

"FEW PEOPLE give any thought to the fact that it's a big job just to buy supplies," Mrs. Sumner says. Grocery shopping for a crew of hungry harvest hands is not a small chore; ice must be bought daily and there is frequent need for a part to repair some of the working equipment.

This year the outfit will have radio-telephone to make communication easier; the Summers have used two-way radio several years, and usually have telephone service so Sumner can call from a field to his wife at the trailer, and she in turn can phone to the nearest town to relay an order for a part or tool.

"Farmers are sometimes surprised when a combine is disabled and they expect to wait a day or two for repairs, to see a part delivered in an hour or two and the machine operating again without delay," she says.

DELAY IS THE thing wheat farmers dread when their grain is ready to harvest and the weather is good, since a rainy spell can cause a big crop loss, so it is important to keep the machines moving.

When it rains, the Summers don't sit bored and idle. "That's the time for checking and servicing all equipment," Mrs. Sumner explains, "and for me to catch up on the bookwork and housework — which are always a little behind during busy weeks."

They also visit friends, those they have made on previous trips and like to see again every year.

"FARMERS HAVE plenty of time when it rains during harvest season, and like to visit them. We always enjoy such times; it's fun to go back to friends, and there are some we've known the entire 22 years." The Summers see that crew members find something pleasant to pass the time, too, and avoid boredom. Things like fishing excursions for the whole group help.

Nucleus of the harvest crew is the few hands who have been with the Summers for years. Some are new each year, as they like to employ boys from the farms and towns where they are working. Many schoolboys work with them through the summer and they frequently have sons of their customers on the crew.

THERE IS a family in North Dakota with six boys, and we've used them right down the line, with two more still to go," Mrs. Sumner laughs. Boys who work with them often go right into military service, "and then we have more letters to write," she adds.

Letter writing is one of her hobbies, and reading another. Many of the letters go to her children, Phyllis, now Mrs. Larry Boston of Odessa, teacher and mother of two, and Ted L., civil service worker at Concord, Calif.

She also claims as a daughter Elizabeth Brummer, the girl from Sweden who lived in the Sumner home when she attended Hereford High School under the American Field Service program several years ago, and who this year is completing study in Sweden for a masters degree.

THE SUMMERS moved to Hereford from Wichita, Kan., in 1950 because the warmer, drier climate here benefited Mrs. Sumner's bronchial condition and her son's asthma. She was born and grew up at Delia, in northeast Kansas, and was a nursing student when she ended her schooling to be married.

She became a member of Cultural Home Demonstration Club soon after she came here and says she has benefited from its programs on home management and nutrition, as well as enjoyed association with other members. She is serving this year as foods leader.

AS COOK FOR harvest workers, Mrs. Sumner says her best friend is "a pound of hamburger meat. Give me that and I can feed a crowd well. With a can of cream soup, any kind-and that's something I keep a stock of at all times — some onion and green pepper for flavor, and ground meat, it takes only a few minutes to fix a hearty dish."

She makes sandwiches by the dozens, not the dainty tea-party variety, but big meals on a bun for he-man appetites. Hamburger in many combinations is the most popular ingredient.

"Anything hot that you can get to the field is always welcome, and iced tea is the drink the men want. I think if they had to choose, they would do without food in hot weather if they could have tea. I put it in one-pound coffee cans with plastic lids, with lots of ice."

"SOMETHING FILLING and good-tasting" is her description of the sandwich she tries to make, and when the men express preferences she considers their particular likes. She wraps each sandwich and puts each man's lunch in a separate sack.

"Whatever is available at the grocery that day goes into the sandwiches, so I can't give accurate recipes," she says. "Sometimes the men will ask me to make some more just like the ones they had today, and I have to tell them I can't because nothing was measured and sometimes I even forget just what I put in today!"

For a popular sandwich, she grinds cold roast beef or chicken with raw carrots, green pepper, onion, lettuce and tomato (any or all) and mixes it with salad dressing. She usually puts it on buns but sometimes on bread slices — nearly always white bread because it's liked better that way.

Gary Stagner In WTSU Project

Gary V. Stagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl V. Stagner of 210 Ave. J, Hereford, participated on April 20 in a Community Service Day program in Amarillo and Tulia, as a student at West Texas State University at Canyon.

Sponsoring the project for the thirteenth consecutive year was the Phi Delta Theta General Fraternity of which Stagner is a member.

The Texas Theta Chapter of Phi Delta Theta undertook a two-fold project this year. They divided their forces and sent one-half of their men to Amarillo, where they carried buckets and solicited $290 which went to the Heart Fund.

In Tulia they revamped and painted a children's nursery home, for which they received a thank you from the city mayor.

By MELVIN YOUNG
The recent gubernatorial race surprised a lot of people over the state, this writer included. However, we've found over the years that any time you predict the outcome of political races, you're apt to have to "eat crow."

Of course Wayne Thomas, who just happens to be the Deaf Smith County chairman for Preston Smith has been giving me a bad time. The fact that Smith was picked in this column to come in a poor third behind Yarborough and Eugene Locke, didn't set too well with Wayne in the beginning, so he's having his fun now. Actually, we predicted the top five candidates — we just didn't have them in the right order.

It is interesting to note however, that although Preston Smith came through in Deaf Smith County as expected, the Number 2 man in this county was Dolph Briscoe; Eugene Locke, third; Carr, fourth and Don Yarborough a poor fifth. If the campaign had lasted two more weeks, with the Briscoe forces working the way they were, it's entirely possible that Briscoe would have been in the Number 3 spot.

Actually, it makes little difference since the run-off will be between the two top men and that happens to be Don Yarborough and Preston Smith.

We're a little surprised that Texans passed the liquor-by-the-drink referendum, although we had heard many rumblings concerning the present state of affairs. Apparently the citizens backed up their discontent by going to the polls and voting for the referendum. Parimutuel betting, on the other hand, just couldn't make the grade, although it came up sharply from the last time. If our memory serves us correctly, the parimutuel betting issue received only 80 votes in the county the last time it came up, but garnered a total of 1237 this go around.

We may be in for some surprises if it comes up again two years hence. This vote we feel, demonstrates that many Texans believe Texas' liquor and betting laws to be archaic and unworkable. And perhaps they're right.

Of course, the passage of the liquor-by-the-drink referendum, doesn't mean that we'll have open saloons in the area. In fact, it is a recommendation only, and without action by the Texas legislature, nothing will take place. Even then, it will not materially affect dry counties such as Deaf Smith. We're dry (supposedly) and will remain so until such time as the citizens of this county vote in a local option election and approve such.

Texans are becoming more "museum conscious" each year and down in the Rio Grande Valley city of Weslaco where Cecil E. Massey holds fourth, the citizens have converted a former "eyesore" into what they call the "World's Smallest Museum." The museum building was built before the Weslaco townsite was laid out in December 1919, and is constructed of hand set native pebbles with a solid concrete oval roof in dutch barn fashion. The heavy bars on the front of the quaint building were salvaged from the original jail building in Weslaco.

The museum, though small in size, is long in history. It is designed to be viewed from outside the bars by switching on lights from the outside of the building and flooding the antique interior where the historical items are numbered to correspond with a bulletin board outside giving a brief description of the contents, as well as facts of interest surrounding the items on display.

But the city of Weslaco has come up with another unique idea. The citizens of this south Texas town have converted an old 150,000 gallon, round, water storage tank into the first theater-in-the-round in South Texas.

The building for the aptly named Tower Theater was actually constructed in 1928 during the first decade of existence of a small Texas-Mexican border town. Built for the City of Weslaco by the Public Works Administration, this surface water reservoir was used for the municipal water supply until a new overhead tank was begun in 1938 to meet the needs of the growing community. Since that time the huge concrete white elephant — too costly to remove because of its massive walls — has been used merely as an odd-shaped storage building of city supplies and welfare clothing.

Designed to hold 150,000 gallons of water, the old reservoir will now house some 130 mahogany arm chairs for comfortable viewing of the evening's entertainment. The constant coolness of the theater's interior is maintained because of the thick walls required to withstand the tremendous pressure of the water it once stored. Municipal pumping equipment for it's water system occupied the room that has become the lobby concourse for this unique theater.

Many problems had to be overcome before this old water reservoir could be used as a theatre, and the people had little money to work with. But their interest in this project brought them through with flying colors. As the people of Weslaco say, "a vision, less than one thousand dollars, and an abundance of American ingenuity, has turned a lowly, abandoned water tank into a cultural asset for one small Texas city."

It can be done. In fact, it sounds much like the story of an old school building that was turned into one of the finest little museums in the country. And that one is in Hereford, Texas in case you haven't been by to see it.

Yale, we understand, takes the position that grades aren't the most important thing, which is what a lot of students have been telling their parents for years.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

ANNUALS IN THE GARDEN
Day by day the telephone rings, and interested gardeners ask questions. Some are experienced gardeners, others are beginners. It is always a pleasure to visit with each, and the chief desire is to be of assistance. Perhaps the beginners receive a bit more time, and soul searching answers, because it is really a thrill to know that another person has become interested in gardening, and the matter of creating beauty.

Annuals, could be termed the beginners real friend, and stand by. For a beginner to gain experience, one of the best and most recommended ways is to plant and grow Annuals.

An annual, (true annuals) are plants that COMPLETE their life span within one year. (Climatic conditions, especially temperatures will cause a plant to complete or lengthen its life span. Soil also effects a plant to this degree. For example low temperatures freeze kill, and some plants that grow as perennials in our area will be known as an annual in another area. Where the soil is overly damp, and certain nutrients are in it, seed and bulbs that grow as perennials here will be an annual. For example in the Houston area, they have much difficulty in growing bulbs as perennials, as the bulbs tend to decompose, and therefore have to be planted anew each year. In our area they are grown as perennials.)

that the plants themselves will live through the winter, and are those which are tender; will stand the winter out of doors if slightly protected. Included in this group are the ones which drop seed, or which are planted in the fall. For example larkspur, California Poppies, cornflower, annual phlox, and nicotiana. Others which most gardeners have grown here are sweet alyssum, oenothera, scabiosa, wallflower, portulaca, cleome, sweet William, and statice. (Petunias, if in a well protected place. Last week I saw a very pretty bed of petunias in bloom.)

The second class of annuals are those which are tender; that is, whose foliage cannot stand cold at any time. These should not be sowed out of doors in the ground until danger of frost is past and the soil is warm and mellow. (So many gardeners get in too big a hurry to get seed in the ground, and plant when the soil is cold this is a waste of time and energy, seed will not germinate until conditions are right and one of these is that the soil be warm.) When planting seed, care should be used, in that they must not be planted too deep. Carefully read instructions on the packet and follow same. The soil should be mellow and fine. Included in this class come such plants as ageratum, sweet peas, zinnias, gailardia, salvia, Nasturtium, marigolds and others.

The third class of annuals are all of those which require a long period for seed germination and a long period of growth before blooming. These plants will give best results if the seeds are started in protected place — such as seed flats inside, or coldframes. It is advisable that if you do not have the proper equipment to grow these, it is best to purchase them from the greenhouse growers, and then plant them directly outside) Included in this class are verbena, snapdragons, (a friend called me last week and he had had some snapdragons to withstand the winter. However remember this past winter was very mild. I too have had some plants to go through the winter, which had not been true other winters.) asters, scabiosa, annual carnations, lobelia, begonias, canterbury bells, coleus, and some other foliage plants.

For the beginner in gardening — I would recommend the growing of annuals. Each year hundreds of thousands of new home-owners move from the city into suburban homes. Their only experience in growing plants has been a sanseveria (Mother-in-laws tongue) on a window sill or a pot of chives or parsley in the kitchen. Perhaps the only flower they can name is the rose. All too often a novice is thrown into gardening by impulse. They have seen a lovely garden or have shared cut flowers of a friend, who has a well grown garden, and they get the FEVER. Yes with experience, study and a real desire one can grow beautiful flowers such as the neighbor or friend, but exercise patience and do some studying. Don't rush hurriedly down to the dealers or the nursery and purchase a rose this is usually one of the first purchase the new gardener makes) It is one of the most difficult of all plants for the inexperienced to grow.

If the purchase is a bare root rose, wrapped in a foil package, it may have laid on the counter or in the bin for a week or so and is completely dried out and is practically dead. One should know how to select roses before purchases are made. Those grown in containers, have a much better chance to grow. However these too must be properly grown if you wish to have a beautiful plant and one in which you can take pride.

Along with study, selections of experience is still the very best teacher for the beginner, therefore the easiest and last expensive plants to grow are the annuals. Gardening can be real expensive and wasteful, if care is not used in purchasing seed, or plants. Now don't go to the seed rack and purchase several packets of seed, which is a mixture of annuals. They will be named "Surprise Garden Mixture", or "A complete Garden" or maybe "Rainbow Mixture." When planted and come up, you will have some plants which are not best for this area, their heights will be varied, their growing habits different, and the color will be mixed. Even in choosing annuals for planting select colors that are harmonious, and remember some of the best and prettiest effects come from massed color.

There are some secrets in growing annuals, namely: Soil should be good friable soil. A good rule to remember is the finer the seed, so should the soil be fine. Do not overfeed, annuals do not require quantities of plant food. If the soil has been overproductive the season before or is poor soil, when these conditions exist then correct before planting. Dig deep, add sand, peat moss, plant food or well matured manure (the later is the best for our plants, but when using it should have been treated to kill weed seeds).

Annuals are grow by all gardeners, because they have definite attributes for our gardens. They can be grown among the spring flowering bulbs by either sowing seeds or setting out plants. Now that the bulbs have completed their bloom, break off the bloom head, the foliage can be braided and fastened to the ground with wooden picks, and the annuals will soon grow and be in bloom. The foliage of the bulbs MUST be left on the bulbs until matured.

In the school last week which was held in The New Amarillo Garden Center, the horticulturist, Mrs. Shirey told us that if we wished the bulbs could be lifted and replanted NOW, but DO NOT cut off the foliage, plant as they are lifted from their bed. Prepare the place where you are going to plant the lifted bulbs before digging so that there will be no drying out in the transplanting. She also stated that we could replant most any kind of plant anytime we desired, IF care was used in doing so. The chief requirement being that the roots should not be exposed to sunshine or air, and the re-planting done quickly.

Grow some annuals... they pay the gardener big dividends.

The Garden Center, and other building in the Medical Center in Amarillo is worth your time to go and see. It was a real joy to see the happiness and satisfaction of our Garden Friends, as we took a tour of the new garden center. In truth it was a DREAM come true. Much effort, tears, WORK, and joy have gone into the completion of this project. Has been good to have been associated with such a wonderful group of garden friends through the years, and

So many pretty spots in Hereford are not going to mention them, but do take time as you drive around in our Home Town, and enjoy the gardens. If so, you can help us elect Frank Ford as our next State Representative.

Frank has overwhelming support among those who know him because we know he uses a common-sense, down-to-earth approach to every problem in a quiet, effective manner. He is a successful farmer and working manager of Arrowhead Mills, Inc. He has been successful in the home-building business, and has always worked to see that everyone associated with him shares in the progress and profits of growth.

As a political conservative who believes that there is a dangerous concentration of power in the Federal Government, Frank has been consistent in his efforts to find solutions at the local and state levels. He has been a strong supporter of education and community progress. He has served as President of the Hereford Migrant Ministry, Vice-President of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and United Fund, and is well known for his extensive work with youth, including seven years as Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 52. He plans to continue with this work if elected.

Frank was raised in the Panhandle-South Plains area where his father served several counties as County Agricultural Agent. He graduated from Texas A and M in 1955 with top military and scholastic honors, served 30 months in the U. S. Army, attaining the rank of captain in artillery, served the 56th Texas Legislature as Bill Clerk in the Speaker's Office, worked with the State Board of Water Engineers, and has long been interested in the water problems of this area. He knows the people involved in water importation efforts, both in the political and engineering areas, and will work hard to see that water is available for the future growth of our communities and farm economy.

These are just a few of the reasons why Frank Ford is qualified to do an outstanding job for this area in the Texas Legislature. More important, those of us who know him have confidence that he will never trade the best interests of the people he represents for personal power or recognition. We know that he will be honest and conscientious. We know that he will represent the people of the 72nd District.

YOU CAN HELP WIN THIS RACE BY SENDING THIS AD TO FRIENDS AND KINFOLKS IN THE ABOVE LISTED COUNTIES AND JOINING THE HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE WHO HAVE ALREADY VOLUNTEERED THEIR TIME AND EFFORTS TO WIN THIS RACE FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT IN NOVEMBER.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

On Carbon Monoxide Poisoning

THE THREAT of carbon monoxide poisoning demands all-year-round safety precautions. When the weather becomes severe and the automobile windows are closed, this threat is increased considerably. Indoors, too, gas heaters are used more often, pouring the hazardous gas into the lungs of unsuspecting victims. It is almost inevitable that each year painful stories are reported in the newspapers of unnecessary fatalities due to gas-operated refrigerators, defective gas heaters and poorly repaired mufflers.

The warnings by public health officials that automobiles should not be warmed up in closed garages are overlooked by hurried motorists and garage mechanics who develop drowsiness and sluggishness that encourage accidents.

Carbon monoxide is an odorless, tasteless gas that creeps up and does its damage before one is sufficiently aware to protect himself against this treacherous poison. Flames can find their way through the floorboard of an automobile and produce carbon monoxide intoxication.

A driver can be threatened by the leaks in his own car, but can also be affected by picking up the deadly exhaust from a car in front of him. Trailing too closely in tunnels can cause poisoning in the people in your own car. The heater's fan actually picks up the carbon monoxide exhaust from the car in front of you and brings it into your own car.

Bruce Miller Makes Statement

Hereford attorney Bruce L. Miller, who will not be in the runoff for the position of Associate Justice of the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals, made the following statement to the Brand: "I wish to thank all of my supporters. My vote in my home county was most gratifying. For the runoff on June 1st, I urge my supporters to vote for Jack Hazlewood. He, in my opinion, is the only remaining candidate who has the necessary appellate experience and high qualifications necessary for this very important position — Associate Justice of the 7th Court of Civil Appeals. "It would have been a great honor for our county to have someone elected to this position. Maybe some day this will be possible."

New Policies Of LCB Are Headed For Early Showdown

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN, Tex. — Texas Liquor Control Board is heading for an early showdown test of its new get-tough policies on subterfuge private clubs.

"A Refugio County woman who granted a pipeline easement across her property in 1943 is still stuck with the deal for future extension of parallel lines.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, chairman of the Veterans Land Board, said the sale was necessary to continue purchase of land for the Texas program recently revived by constitutional amendment.

Some club operators, who already were complaining mightily about an earlier LCB directive prohibiting manager-members from issuing guest cards to walk-in customers, were hard hit. One promptly filed a lawsuit here to enjoin the board's regulations.

Third Court of Civil Appeals supported a Nueces County trial court view that voter registration applications cannot be submitted en masse.

Before used for buying veterans land, money will be invested in short-term government securities to offset any interest costs accruing against the Veterans Land Board. Sadler said AAA bond rating and the excellent pay record of the Veterans Land Board made it possible to sell bonds below market.

Net result of the cash sale requirement will be to eliminate the casual guests, since operators wouldn't want to run the risk of granting total strangers a month's credit for a highly-perishable commodity.

Construction index fell almost 31 points from the previous month and was eight per cent below March, 1967. However, the January-March overall average of index this year still is 12 per cent above that for the first three months of 1967, due to the record February bulge.

Water Development Board has contributed $1,750 to an experimental project to be conducted by Dr. Horace R. Byers, dean of the College of Geological Science at Texas A&M University, to employ modern rainmaking techniques to storm clouds which develop within a 200-mile radius of the University between now and August.

More rules are expected to be forthcoming from the LCB. Times may be hard for all but strictly-private and proper clubs in the near future.

County clerk of Parker County may accept for filing a city subdivision plat of property in an area overlapped by extrajurisdiction of two cities in the county if approved by the largest city's planning commission.

Supreme Court will license 222 new lawyers, who passed bar exams, here May 13.

Situation is expected to bring new pressure for liquor-by-the-drink legalization. Club owners claim they are being made political footballs.

APPOINTMENTS — State Liquor Control Board named Homer M. DeGlandon of Austin as its chief of staff services and Donald R. Fishel of Boerne its director of special investigations.

Supreme Court held taxable natural gas used as fuel for engines that pump oil.

In a variety of other opinions, High Court ruled as follows: "Lower courts were right in concluding that a Houston fireman was suspended improperly for buying two mink stoles and a color tv set (believed to have been stolen) from another fireman. (Suspended firefighter denied any knowledge of stolen goods.)"

State Bar of Texas appointed Leon Jaworski of Houston and W. O. Shafer of Odessa to the governing house of delegates of the American Bar Association.

Women should be enjoined from operating an alleged house of prostitution near Brenham.

"American Travelers Insurance Company, LTD., a Bahamas-based corporation, cannot do business in Texas without a state permit.

VETS BONDS SOLD — Texas veterans land bonds worth $30,000,000 sold for an average interest rate of 4.33 per cent.

First National Bank in Dallas, Harris Trust Bank in Houston, and First National City Bank of New York and Associates were successful bidders on bonds.

Dr. George Ennis, of Texas Tech illustrated his arid lands and its studies talk with color slides. He explained that he was a mathematician and that his department had "just come up with a two-year contract with the Office of Water Resources through the U. S. Department of Interior, to make a study of actual water resources on the High Plains."

He said they were to determine if there was enough water present now whereby future importation could be delayed or perhaps we are already late.

Dr. Ennis said the contract was jointly with the High Plains Water Project District, and that he had not "actually talked with anyone with Water, Inc."

He told the group that "some several billion dollars had been spent forty years before it was needed" on a California water project. "We are now trying to apply the California Water Resources study to our own Ogallala formations here."

He also said that they were interested in all aspects of man in this area of arid land, not just agriculture.

Don Blankenship, principal at Bluebonnet School and chairman of the recreation committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the group to request permission from them for use of a section of their park, jointly owned by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, for summer camping space. The Legion agreed with the project's principles and voiced approval of the use for a trial period of one year. Blankenship said that he had already spoken to the VFW membership.

Cecil O. Wilkins, who has a barber shop at the Jim Hill Hotel and lives at 108 Ave. G, Hereford, was awarded a lifetime membership in the American Legion Post 192. Wilkins was one of the 50-year members who was also honored.

The owner of the only other life membership in Post 192, Ira W. Ott, made the presentation to Wilkins — who had been post commander three times in the past.

The 50-Year members other than Wilkins who were honored Tuesday night were Jesse E. Ford of 512 Irving, J. C. Ricketts of 311 N. Roosevelt, and W. C. Hromas of 307 Sunset.

Other 50-Year members honored who were not present were Ed Warren, Frank G. Smith, C. C. Acker, Ruben H. Roundtree, Carl G. McCaslin, Alvin L. Hewitt and W.R. Williams.

Post Commander Milton C. Adams explained that although the American Legion is not yet quite fifty years old, this honor was accorded to the men who had nonetheless paid their Legion membership dues that far in advance.

Those present and honored for five years were Leroy Williamson and Benny Womble. For 20 years were C. L. Walker, Lawrence Carlsson Dr. Adams

"700 acres of PIONEER sorghum averaged 8,568 pounds for me."

Elvin Wilson, Friona, Texas

Many of last year's bumper yields came from small acreages. But Elvin-Wilson had 735 acres—all Pioneer hybrid 820—that averaged 8,568 pounds per acre.

Good weather, good farming and good seed boosted Elvin's yields. He double rowed on a 40" bed, watered four times in addition to pre-watering, controlled weeds with Propazine, and put on 280 pounds of nitrogen.

Hybrid 820 makes the most of his good farming—shades the ground fast, produces big yields, stands right up to harvest. Isn't this the kind of sorghum you want, too? See me soon.

Ira Ott Continues With Lafayette Escadrille In War And On Tour

(Editor's Note: This is the second and concluding installment of Ira Ott's story, which was begun in the Sunday Brand.)

Ira W. Ott of Hereford became part of the Lafayette Escadrille in early 1918, shortly after the aerial outfit was recognized as part of the United States Army. He was in France at that time and World War I was in its final grim year. Ott was 22 years old.

In April, the 103rd Aero Squadron had been shipped to a little town called Leffinghove. It was in Flanders, a place later immortalized in the poem which read: "In Flanders fields the poppies grow..." and told of the many crosses over the graves of American "dough-boys" who gave their lives in combat on foreign soil.

There, the 103rd was bombed 52 nights out of 59. On the other seven nights it was either too cloudy for the Germans or it rained.

"We made two other moves while we were at the front," Ott said, "one taking us into Belgium, near Bergues. The reason for all the air activity was, when a trench was dug two feet deep, it would fill up with water. A foot soldier had no protection without the air activity."

At another time they were only a few miles from the ocean. "The Germans would follow the canals and streams to guide them to their targets. My job was to keep our planes supplied with gas — this was quite a job!"

He said at times they were able to go to the French commissary to get their supplies and rations. But they always took several extra men on these trips. "While we were loading the food, the extra men would try and steal some extra food. One time they thought they had something extra special — a quarter of beef." Pause. "It turned out to be horse meat."

But their casualty list was growing long and replacements were coming in fast. "As time went by, the sleepless nights were beginning to tell on us all. And, we received orders to report back to the U. S. Army. Again, we loaded our trucks on flat cars and headed south. Several days later, we arrived in Toul, France. Here we joined the First Pursuit Group.

"And for the first time in five months, we were able to sit down in a mess hall and eat a meal off of a table. We were served coffee — not chicory — butter, white bread, bacon and fruit. For dinner we were served roast beef, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans and peach cobbler. Yet these men at Toul thought that they were underfed. They couldn't believe that a person could live on the little food and sleep that we had been receiving.

"At this time the discipline became more strict. We found out that we were not in the French Army. Even our officers were snubbed. The people in Toul soon found out who we were. They laughed at our French equipment and called us 'The Gypsy Squadron.'"

Ott was detailed to haul the Infantry to the front lines — either the 90th or 91st divisions. "We would load these men at night, 25 men with packs and rifles, to the truck."

He continued, "The first few nights nothing unusual happened, but one night we got lost — as we were driving without lights. We were not allowed to strike matches. I was driving the lead truck with a captain beside me. We came to a fork in the road. I asked, 'Which way, Captain?' He said, 'Turn right.' He had been there before and I thought he knew the way. But soon it was apparent — we had taken the wrong turn. The road was under fire!"

A light rain was falling and the road had begun to get slick. Suddenly a shell burst in front, a little to the left.

"I said, 'Captain, do you think this is the right road?'" "He replied, 'Straight ahead.'"

Ott confessed, "I knew I had never been that close to the front before, but I was taking my orders from the captain. So we traveled on with our convoy of 150 trucks. Suddenly, a flare was dropped, no more than a 100 feet ahead of us. I was familiar with those flames! They would light up the area to where you could read a newspaper.

"After this the captain said, 'We are lost. Turn this truck around!'"

This time Ott turned that old Fiat truck around without getting stuck!

"The captain was giving orders for the other trucks to turn around — I have never understood what kept the whole bunch from getting killed. I went back to the turn in the road and waited for the other trucks. The rain had stopped by now and the men were getting restless. The captain finally showed up. We then went on — reaching our destination about 4:30 a.m."

Nothing else unusual happened at Toul. Ott and the others simply marked time.

But they were losing many of their older officers and men to a new squadron — who had very little experience at the front.

"Soon we received orders to move to Voucauleurs. Here we were put in the 3rd Pursuit Group. We were receiving new replacements daily. Capt. Robert Soubiran was our Squadron commander. He was a real great guy — one of the Lafayette Escadrille's early pilots. And he was always looking out for his men. He could speak both French and English very well."

The Battle of St. Michel began on the morning of September 12, 1918. On the morning of the thirteenth, the 3rd Pursuit Group put 101 planes into the air.

"This was the largest concentration of planes I had seen in the air," he said. "They left the field at one-minute intervals. And all but one returned. By this time we were carrying four 25-lb. bombs on some of the Spads."

In late September or early October, they moved again — to a town about 20 kilometers from Bar La Duc. By this time the big Argonne offensive was underway. The roads were jammed with troops, many times the traffic was at a standstill. Every available man was thrown into the last big push. Ott was again detailed to haul men and supplies to the front.

"I did not see my outfit for more than two weeks. I was finally released to join my group, just in time to move again to Triacourt. The rain was still coming down, and we were stuck in the mud most of the time."

On November 10, rumors were (See OTT, Page 2)

Ira Ott . . .

"Of course, no one would believe it. The next morning, though, the sun came out — it was like a spring day after a shower. The guns did stop firing at 11 o'clock. We could hear one group firing late in the afternoon, but perhaps they could not hear the news — or else they were celebrating."

Soon after the signing of the armistice, Ott's group received orders to join the 94th and go into Germany. However, these orders were rescinded and they did not get to go. "The 94th got the honors. But ours were to come later — when we got back to the states."

The next few weeks Ott's job was taking various officers and men to different cities on passes — mostly to Bar La Duc and Dijon. "This turned out to be quite an experience for me. I was expected to get the men back by a certain time, but when it came time for the return trip, only about half of them could be found. If I was late getting them back, I would catch hell. If I went off and left them, I would likewise catch the same hell!"

They got orders finally to turn all their equipment in to the First Air depot, near Bar La Duc. Thence they went to Colombey L'Belles—where they merely relaxed and marked time until January 1919. Finally, they received orders to report to Brest. "This was what we were looking for. It sounded like we were going home."

Ott arrived in Brest about one a.m. He and the others were marched to a soup kitchen where they were given a bowl of hot soup. Afterward, they started the 8-mile hike up the hill to camp, arriving about 4:30 a.m. — and were told to report for breakfast at 6:45.

All this had been done after they had ridden in on American-made box cars — 54 men to a car, with pack. "We were five nights and four days on this trip. You have no idea how slow this train traveled. We had a few cups of coffee then — and the food was corn beef and hard tack."

At this camp there were 250, 000 troops — and all were fed in twelve kitchens!

"We did not look much like American soldiers. Some had lost caps, shoes — some were wearing overcoats, others raincoats. No one had shaved or washed their face. We were finally fed and started back, when we met a captain of the Military Police on horseback. He stopped us, and said to our commanding officer: 'And what Army do these men belong to?' He told our C. O. politely that he did not want to see us men looking like that again."

They were marched to the bathroom, issued clean clothes and had a chance to shave. "All the 250,000 troops used the same bathroom. If your company's time came at 2 a.m., you took your bath at 2 a.m. This way each soldier got a bath every ten days. Since we were to be shipped out, we got three baths in the 18 days we were there."

Came February 18: "I was sitting on my bunk writing a letter home. A poker game was in progress close by — further down in the barracks a crap game was going on. At the other end of the barracks the old Rusty Hinge Quartet was singing 'Sweet Adeline.' In walks Sgt. Kerns with paper in hand. After yelling 'Attention!' several times, he read — and I quote: 'The 103rd Aero Pursuit Squadron Lafayette Escadrille will hold itself in readiness to move at any moment, and sail on the U. S. S. Fredrick bound for the U. S. A.'"

"Those were the sweetest words I had ever heard. We were marched to the bathroom for baths and clean clothes. We spent the rest of the night packing and getting ready to leave.

"We put our packs on our backs at 6 a.m. and began our 11-mile march to the boat. We made the march in less than 5 hours, marching to attention most of the time. We were allowed to rest occasionally, but not once did I take my pack off until we reached the boat. I felt by that time that I could not make another step."

"The fourteen days across the ocean was uneventful — except the three days of seasickness. I thought for sure I would never make it!"

Ott landed at Prier 3 in Hoboken, New Jersey, on March 3, 1919 — the same pier that had sailed from a few months before. After sending a telegram to his mother — who had moved back to Wisconsin — he was put on a train and sent to Mitchell Field, Mineola Long Island, New York — where he and the other men were put through the de-louser, given a medical check-up, and prepared to be discharged.

"While we were still in France, we received our second citation from the French Army. This gave us the authority to wear the fourragere as part of our uniform. But we did not receive official notification of this until we arrived back in the United States."

While Ott was still in New York, the colonel of the field received a telegram from the Secretary of War. It read, in part: Hold 103rd Pursuit Squadron for Victory Loan purposes. "Can you imagine how we felt when we were just getting ready to be discharged? This was on Friday. Then on Sunday a captain came up from Washington and explained the situation. He said, 'I want to tell you boys something. You are God's chosen few. You will not be treated as soldiers but as civilians. You will ride in class.'"

"We were to be divided into three groups — the East, the West and the Far West. I had never been on the West Coast, so I signed up for the Far West."

The Far West group went to San Diego from New York, in special cars, to Rockwell Field. There they received their instructions. "I was assigned to a Spad, together with 3 other men and the pilot. Now I was an airplane mechanic — the one thing I had wanted since joining the army."

"We got our special train — with 18 baggage cars, four first-class Pullman's and a diner. We were to make a city a day for the next 30 days. Most cities did not have a landing field and these planes had a range of only 150 miles. So it was necessary for us to dismantle the planes, take the wings off, load them in the baggage cars and haul them to the next town. We would then put the wings back on, gas up and trail them out to the park, golf course, paved road — or sometimes the cow pasture. We would then fly over the city for about an hour, dropping pamphlets which read, 'Buy more Bonds. If these were German bombs, how many bonds would you buy?"

"Then the same order of business followed — dismantle the planes, load them in the baggage cars and be ready for the next stop. And our train carried a big sign reading: The Victory Loan Flying Circus."

"We would then clean up and be the guests of the town until time to leave."

They had an advance man who went ahead of the group to make all arrangements for publicity and other necessities. Sometimes they would have 25, 000-people out to see them perform.

"We had German Fokkers, French Spads, British S. E. 5's and U.S. Curtis. We visited 30 principle cities in 12 states, covering 9,000 miles without an accident or mishap. Lt. Col. Bill Thaw was our commanding officer. He was an early pilot and had been with the Lafayette Escadrille since it was organized."

"We arrived back in San Diego around May 10, 1919. Needless to say, the Victory Loan Drive was over-subscribed."

They were now ready to be discharged. Ott asked to be sent to Camp Grant, Illinois, which was located only 50 miles from where his mother was living.

"Now came the hardest part of the trip — saying goodbye to my buddies."

Ott went to headquarters to get his travel orders and was told that his service records had been mailed to Camp Grant. But when he arrived at Camp Grant, no one there had ever heard of him!

"I was given the run-around for 3 or 4 days. Finally, I asked to see the colonel of the post. He listened to my story sympathetically — and wrote an order which read: Discharge this man immediately. He told me to take it to the head of the line. This I did.

"During the process of being discharged on temporary records a lieutenant said, 'Captain, here we have a man from El Paso, Texas, up for discharge. What will we do with him?' The captain looked at me and said, 'What the hell difference does it make as long as the quartermaster pays him?"

"The quartermaster paid me. I was discharged on May 23, 1919."

He and Mrs. Ott, who now live at 120 Northwest Drive, attended a three-day reunion of the Lafayette Escadrille in San Antonio last September. (See OTT, Page 4)

But according to Ott, at the right, the little French boy stole numerous items and finally had to be turned over to the authorities. They had given the boy the uniform he is seen wearing. Continued from Page Two ven of the men got together there for the first time since the squadron was disbanded in 1919.

Plans are now being made for a second annual reunion to be held at San Francisco during the first week of August. Ott said that he has plans to attend.

"There aren't very many of us left now," he said.

Mr. Ott is now 72 years old. But actually nothing has changed in his appearance so much since 1919 — except the color of his hair. He can still get into his old uniform without much difficulty.

And as evidenced in his story, which began Sunday and was concluded today, he has a priceless sense of humor. But it actually goes much deeper than that. Ott moved to Hereford in 1921 and entered the farming and ranching business — which he continued until retirement in 1959, but he has another side entirely:

"My wife and I do volunteer work in the Veterans Hospital at Amarillo. We have over 500 hours of volunteer service and expect to get our 1,000-hour pin before too long. My wife serves as Department Hospital Representative for the American Legion Auxiliary. At the present time, I am serving my second 3-year term on the V. A. V. S. Advisory Committee for the 18th District, and am chairman of the Park Board. This has been the most rewarding experience of my life."

Ott first joined the American Legion at Plainview and helped name the Roy Blakemore Post there. Then he became a charter member of Hereford Post 192. He has served it as Commander for two years, as chaplain, and as Commander of Zone One. He has attended all zone and district conventions, division and state, and in 1965 was elected delegate from Texas to the National Convention at Portland, Oregon.

At the last Legion meeting, Ira W. Ott was elected Legionaire of the Year. He is thus far the only member of Post 192 to receive a life membership.

Mr. Ott is also a member of the V. F. W. and a 40 and 8 member of World War I. He is also a Presbyterian.

Much of his story has been taken from his own notes. He said, "If I could write everything, it would make a book." True.

OES Friendship Night Brings Dinner Guests

Friendship night, an annual event in the Order of Eastern Star, was observed with a dinner Saturday evening in the Masonic Hall, attended by 75 persons. Guests of the Hereford Chapter came from seven other cities.

Welcome to the visitors was spoken by Mrs. R. B. Hutson, worthy matron, who read a group of poems on friendship. Mrs. A. L. Manjot was in charge of a program which included songs by Miss Mona Gall Gibson accompanied by Mrs. Sam Long and a piano solo by Mrs. Wilton Green.

Couples from Hereford, Dalhart and Dimmitt competed in a newlywed game with the Dalhart couple winning.

Guests were here also from Friona, Happy, Muleshoe, Turkey and Clarendon, and several were residents of Kings Manor. Dinner arrangements were made by Mrs. B. E. Roberson and Mrs. C. V. Darden of the hospitality committee and table decorations were supervised by Mrs. Deward Roberson.

Birthday Of Mrs. Tiefel Celebrated

The birthday of Mrs. Susie Tiefel, who was 81 Saturday, was celebrated with a family get-together on the weekend. A decorated birthday cake was served with coffee Saturday morning at Mrs. Tiefel's home, 336 East Fourth.

Her daughters, Mrs. Jim Loving and Mrs. P. B. Sowell, with Mrs. Loving's daughter, Mrs. Tom Johnson, Mr. Johnson and sons, Brent and Blake; Mr. Sowell and the Sowell's daughter, Mrs. Buck Cunningham of Amarillo, were in the family party. Gifts, cards and calls from friends added to the birthday merriment. Mrs. Tiefel has lived in Hereford since 1910. Her husband, Henry Tiefel, died in 1963.

Inter-City Visit Made

Mrs. Merlin Kaul, Misses Della Stagner and Lucille Park, officers in Delta Xi Chapter, Delta Xi Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, were guests at a dinner given in Plainview Saturday evening by Gamma Iota Chapter of the women educators' society.

Mrs. Lunelle Anderson of San Marcos, state parliamentarian, was the speaker. Mrs. Kaul, president of Delta Xi Chapter, and Blanche Johnson of Muleshoe responded to the welcome by Faye Rampley, president of the host chapter.

Other Delta Xi members at the dinner were Mmes. Ike Moore, Claude Forson, Elizabeth Huckabay, R. B. Strother and Miss Hazel Merritt of Dimmitt; rs. Carl Rambo, Mrs. Lanny Tucker, Nancy Wecott and Flora Bledsoe of Hart.

Democrats To Meet Saturday

Leo Witkowski, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Democratic Party, reported that the County Democratic convention would meet Saturday at p.m. at the Community Center in Hereford.

He recommended that all local Democrats attend this convention.

They will elect delegates then, for the State convention which will be held in June.

Fetsh Home Is Scene Of Barbecue

Surprise Shower Given At Coffee

A surprise shower was given Mrs. Charlie Russell Monday morning in the home of Mrs. O. R. McCutchen, with Mrs. James Holmes and Mrs. Otto Olson as other hostesses. Layette gifts were presented during an informal coffee hour.

Gift packages were heaped around the figure of a large stork centering the table where refreshments were served. A series of games and contests entertained guests.

FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD

about My MOTHER

Most all other things come by twos, threes, or even by dozens. See the roses, the stars, the sunsets. Ah, there's brothers and sisters, too, and uncles and aunts and cousins a plenty. But in all the whole big world there's just one mother. There's much more about my mother and good it all must be. In fact she's as good as goodness-in, and that's enough for me. Her words are kind, her faith is strong, and her hope as high as the highest tree. You can see from here that she is a dear, — she means everything to me. Not one single emotion comes nearer the divine than my mother's love for me. She is the soaring cloud of radiant rapture that lifts me to new attempts and the strength I need to see me through. I'm taking my mother to church this Mother's Day — what about you???

Miss Huckert Honored At Pre-Wedding Shower

A compliment to Miss Betty Huckert, whose marriage to Larry E. Lance of Lubbock is planned for June 15, was a shower Saturday at the home of Mrs. Leo Witkowski. Miss Huckert was here from Lubbock, where she and her fiancé are both senior students at Texas Tech.

She is the daughter of the Frank Huckerts, who reside west of Hereford, and was assisted in receiving callers at the shower by her mother; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. H. E. Lance of Lubbock; and Miss Patsy Huckert, who will be her sister's maid of honor.

Mrs. Witkowski greeted guests at the door and Mrs. Joe Frank Huckert was at the registry table. Miss Myrna Bodkin poured punch and Miss Louann Witkowski assisted in serving refreshments. Misses Barbara Huckert and Jane Witkowski were in the gift display room.

Pink and white will be the wedding colors, and were used to decorate the tea table. Covered in white, it had a centerpiece of large pink daisies.

In the hostess party were Mrs. Raleigh Rule, Andy Ker-shen, Walt Warren, Ed Loerwald, John Gallagher, Arnold Betzen, Henry Kuper, John Henderson, Edward Schilling, F. A. Marnell, Ed. Bezner, Doc Bezner and Norbert Skypala.

School Transfer Has May 31 Limit

Students who wish to transfer from one school district to another for the 1968-69 term have a deadline of May 31 here. They must file application papers, signed by their parents, and have them in the office of the County Superintendent at the Court House prior to that date.

CLASS MEETS

A business meeting of JOY Class, Avenue Baptist Sunday School, was held Monday with Miss Carolyn Farmer as hostess. Present were Jane Combe, Mmes. Ross Saiz, Robert Duggan, Tex Rhodes, Elwood Jones and John Hix. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Duggan's home at 7:30 p. m. June 3.

W. D. Kelleher was appointed a special commissioner of Hereford in May 1968 to head the work of numbering the houses and naming the local streets.

Elmer Combs Independent Executor of the Estate of Rial Marshal Gunn, Deceased, No. 1977 in the County Court of Deaf Smith County, Texas. T-19-1c

Ed Connell came to Deaf Smith County as a Texas Ranger and stayed to serve three terms as sheriff. I. N. Dillard was one of a group of five who bought the first of the XIT land to be sold when it was dispersed in 1900. Alfred Ellison and his brother came to Deaf Smith County in 1907 and built the first house in the Escarbada pasture when land from the XIT was being sold. They were strictly cattlemen until about 1920. Afterward, they farmed. Hereford adopted the commission form of government in 1912.

Frontier country had a way of demanding use of every man's skills. When ranchers in the county learned that the new ranch hand on the Dr. Rucker Ranch was a veterinarian, his ranching days were over. Dr. F. E. Bove established an office in Hereford and practiced here until 1941. Hereford had a population of 803 in 1900.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Etiquette books aren't paying the proper attention to it yet, but sooner or later they are going to have to face the question: Should a first-class restaurant supply a wastebasket at each table or maybe for each diner?

IT'S GOT SO nearly everything is served with a wrap of cellophane, plastic, cardboard, paper or foil, and the matter of graceful disposal of the debris is no light one.

A few years ago I remember reading a query to the writer of a newspaper etiquette column, asking what to do with the little paper envelope after the sugar was emptied, and the arbiter of manners told her to just lay it quietly beside her plate and ignore it.

THAT WAS fine, but now it isn't just sugar. By the time you put cream in your coffee, salt on your foil-wrapped baked potato, butter on your bread and tartar sauce on the filet of trout, then drink your milk from the carton with the straw and wipe your hands on the paper napkin, you've got a collection of wrappings that isn't easy to get rid of.

Pile them beside your plate, and you're short of elbow room. Push them to the center of the table and they clog the flower bowl. Put them on or around the ashtray and you could start a blaze that would burn the place down.

In the interest of sanitation, and ease of storing and serving food, it probably isn't wise to return to the day of bare butter and nude jelly at the breakfast table, but it's reaching the point where something is going to have to be done. Somebody else can figure out what; I'm just raising the question.

VISIT OF A daughter, Mrs. I. W. Heaton of Claremore, Okla., and her husband in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Smith set off a chain reaction last weekend. Other relatives and friends came to see the Heaton while they were here, until there was practically a family reunion.

Another daughter of the Smiths, Mrs. Gene Hester, Mr.

Hester, Garry, Dorette and Billy, live here and were a part of the gathering.

Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Annie Hawkins, and a grandson, Jerry Heaton, came from Amarillo. Other grandchildren and great-grandchildren were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dorris and Levy, Gail and Mary Leda, from Clovis, N. M.

Along with the family were some visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barker and Franky of Borger.

These are the first Beauty Spots chosen in 1968; one will be named for residential and one for non-residential grounds each month through the summer and fall.

Plaques will be posted at each place to remain through this month, marking spots selected by the judges. Mrs. M. C. Adams is chairman of the beautification committee which sponsors choice of the Beauty Spots
