At least five match American's cuts

DALLAS (AP) — At least five major airlines have scrambled to match American Airlines' dramatic fare reductions as Wall Street fears of a renewed fare war fueled selling on the stock market.

Wall Street fears start of fare wars

American announced Thursday its new "Ultimate Super Saver" plan, a limited number of seats at up to 70 percent below full coach fare, that undercuts even some discount airline fares.

Duncan said the lowest fare would not be available on every flight, and he estimated that system-wide, about 30 to 35 percent of American's seats would be available at the low fare.

The fares, ranging from $39 for short trips to $129 for one-way cross-country travel, will be available in all 92 cities the carrier serves. Five million seats at the lower fares will be available in the first five months of the program.

The restrictions also include 30 days advance purchase and a provision that 25 percent of the ticket price is non-refundable once tickets are purchased.

The new fares may soon "stimulate traffic" as one American official predicted, but they have already sparked matching commitments from several other airlines.

Hanneman said those restrictions "are if anything tighter than anything now in effect" and that the penalty provision is new for the industry and appears to answer a long-standing problem of "no shows," when people with reservations fail to show up and flights depart with empty seats.

Trans World Airlines, Pan Am, Delta Airlines and Northwest have announced they will match the fares, and spokesman Joe Hopkins said United Airlines Inc. would do so "reluctantly."

American, which posted record earnings for 1984 despite a fourth-quarter slump and which reportedly has $1 billion in cash and short-term investments available, said it didn't believe it was touching off a fare war.

Hopkins called the reductions "a tremendous offer" that will "bring affordable travel within the United States within the reach of most Americans."

"These are fares that in most instances exist in marketplace today," Duncan said. "What we are doing is making our fare structure much more competitive in the marketplace."

"But it's an open question as to how much new business will be stimulated. In 1982, when there was the $99 fare, carriers lost their shirts," he said.

But United's Hopkins countered that the move did place airlines in a fare war.

Some investors are worried the same thing could happen again because any talk of fare-cutting "is clearly a red flag," said Charles Hanneman, an airline industry analyst at Thomson McKinnon Securities in New York.

"Certainly," he said. "This undercuts prices that are in the market place right now."

"People start running for the doors" because of the prospect that reduced fares would reduce earnings at a time when airlines are still attempting to recover from a severe slump, he said.

Following the disclosure of the fare cuts, stocks of airlines and aircraft manufacturers were battered on Wall Street.

But American is betting that the restrictions it has imposed on its "Ultimate Super Saver" will ward off a repeat of 1982, spokesman Lowell Duncan said.

AMR, the parent of American, plunged $2.37 1/2 to $34.75 a share after a delayed opening and was the most active issue late in Thursday's trading session on the New York Stock Exchange. More than 2.6 million shares changed hands.

American's new fares apply to travel beginning Feb. 18 and within the 48 continental states, and require a Saturday night overnight stay. The number of seats available at the lowest price will be limited, and certain peak days such as holidays will be blacked out.

UAL, the parent of United, fell $2.37 1/2 to $45.25; Pan American World Airways edged down 12 1/2 cents to $4.25; TWA dropped 62 1/2 cents to $11.25; Delta Air Lines tumbled $2.25 to $43; NWA, the parent of Northwest Airlines, fell $1.50 to $43; Boeing dropped $1.87 1/2 to $57.75; and USAir Group declined $1.25 to $35.

Troubled spots seen as topics for talks

U.S.-Soviet meeting intentions formed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, seeking a broader dialogue with the Soviet Union, intends to propose talks on Central America and other unstable areas of the world now that it has a new agreement to exchange views on the Middle East, according to U.S. officials.

House, he followed the same hard line, denouncing the Soviet Union as an "evil empire."

"To the extent that we can clarify positions, it makes the world a little less dangerous place," an official who spoke on condition of anonymity said Thursday.

But Reagan signaled a shift in a speech last Jan. 16. "We must and will engage the Soviet Union in a dialogue that will serve to promote peace in the troubled regions of the world," he said. Then, in a U.N. speech Sept. 24, he called for a "better working relationship" that included talks at the expert level.

In the Nixon and Ford administrations, the United States tried to reach an accommodation with the Soviet Union to lessen tensions around the world. Ronald Reagan, campaigning for the presidency, led a charge by conservatives against detente. And in his first three years in the White

The agreement reached Jan. 8 in Geneva to resume talks on reducing nuclear weapons reopened the dialogue on an issue that is central to U.S.-Soviet relations. It also cleared the way for talks on other topics, although the agreement on the Middle East actually had been reached earlier. It surfaced when Mark Palmer, a State Department official, briefed the Israeli government on the Geneva meeting a few days later. The time and place for the Mideast talks have not been set, although Washington and Moscow are likely sites. Richard W. Murphy, a former U.S. ambassador to Lebanon and Saudi Arabia and now assistant secretary of state for the Near East, probably will represent the United States.

However, Secretary of State George P. Shultz may take on the assignment if he makes a trip to Moscow after the arms control talks open.

"We'd be happy to chat with them about any number of different regions," a U.S. official, who declined to be identified, said. "This (the Middle East) is the only one where there is an agreement of principle thus far. We have offered to talk about a number of other regions as well. We'd be happy to have that."

Malpractice suit's trial set

A malpractice suit against Dr. Howard Johnson and his partners at Hereford Medical Clinic and Deaf Smith General Hospital is set to go to trial Monday in 22nd District Court.

The petition was filed by surviving relatives of Noemi Frausto, a Hereford woman who died April 27, 1982 while in her eighth month of pregnancy. The fetus also died.

Filed Sept. 15, 1983, the suit says Mrs. Frausto was not taken to her doctor in Friona as she requested the Deaf Smith County Ambulance Service to do and claims that fact contributed to her death. The suit also accuses Howard and the hospital of failure to properly diagnose and treat the woman's illness, and of "abandoning" her in the DSGH emergency room.

Attorney Jim Brown of Canyon, who represents the plaintiffs, said Friday a settlement of "several hundred thousand dollars" would be sought for the husband, six children and parents of the deceased.

The defendants are represented by attorney Mike Worley of Lubbock.

Police report theft of games

A television video game set - including 15 game cartridges - were stolen Wednesday or Thursday from Janie Galan of 126 Ave. D, Hereford police reported this morning.

The theft, valued at $280, occurred between 11 a.m. Wednesday and the same time the next day.

Meanwhile Thursday, police officers made one arrest, with the charge being disorderly conduct. Incidents included two tire thefts and one spiece of burglary of a vehicle, domestic disturbance, juvenile problem and vandalism.

Sugar banquet slated

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

One of Hereford's biggest banquet attractions of the year is set Saturday night when the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association holds its annual membership and guest dinner at the Bull Barn.

Featured speaker will be Bob Lewis, better known as "Tumbleweed Smith" and as the originator of the popular daily radio program, "The Sound of Texas." The banquet begins at 7 p.m. and tickets are $7.50 each.

Other banquet highlights will include the recognition of top sugar producers by Holly Sugar Corp., and the presentation of the "Man of the Year in Agriculture" award by The Hereford Brand. Jan Waiser will provide dinner music.

The association held its annual business session today at the Community Center with U.S. Rep. Larry Combest and Jack O'Connell, Sugar Association president from Washington, D.C., as special guests. Three directors were to be elected.

Larry Roberts was the recipient of the "Man of the Year in Agriculture" award last year. The award is sponsored by The Brand and the recipient is selected by a panel of ag officials and past winners. Others who have received the award include Carl Straffus, Bill Cleavinger, Donald Hicks, Carl Kleuskens, Jim Perrin and Charles Schlabs. The award is based on all-around farm practices and service. The recipient does not have to be a sugar beet grower.

Bill Cleavinger, president of TSBGA, emphasized that the banquet is open to all interested citizens.

The principal speaker, "Tumbleweed Smith," is a former NBC newsmen who quit his job in 1969 to do what he really wanted to do...capture Texas on tape. He talks to the people of Texas and records their attitudes and philosophies, their lifestyles, and their fast-disappearing dialects.

His brief daily radio program, heard on about 100 Texas stations, has drawn many listeners to hear the flavorful stories about Texans. His real name is Bob Lewis but people started calling him "Tumbleweed" because of the name of his radio show. He took up the name, but added his middle name of "Smith" instead of Lewis because "it had a better ring."

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says some people are so organized that they don't have time to mind their own business.

A delinquent customer received the following letter from a creditor: "After checking our records, we have concluded that we have done more for you than your mother did—we've carried you for 13 months!"

When the Associated Press wire filed a story Thursday morning that Bill Clayton, former House Speaker, is giving serious consideration to running for governor in 1986, we contacted him by telephone in his Austin office.

"I was surprised by that article," said Clayton. However, a business friend has recently mailed out more than 200 letters to conservative supporters to seek their support for a Clayton race.

"I've never closed the door on another political race, but I've got a lot of soul-searching to do before I make a decision," said Clayton. "Within the next 120 days, we'll be doing some research and looking at the situation before we make a decision." Clayton, a West Texas farmer from Springlake, served this district of Texas as a House representative for 20 years and was elected to the speakership for an unprecedented four terms. He is now a lobbyist in Austin.

The Dallas Morning News reported that Clayton may switch to the Republican party. Clayton would only say that anyone considering a statewide race "must look at it both ways" as a Democrat and Republican.

Clayton said his phone had been ringing all morning Thursday after the news report about a possible race in 1986. A lot of folks in West Texas would love to see Clayton make the race.

"There will be no dismantling...no retreat," Gov. Mark White has said of the state school reform bill and he pledges to veto any measure he feels would "dismantle" the legislation.

But the Texas State Teachers Association, and most other teacher organizations, are not being bashful about asking for changes in the Cotton growers listen to report

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas cotton growers must vault their operations into the computer age to keep up with a U.S. public that is buying more cotton products now than at any time in the last decade, a study says.

Texas already produces about half the annual U.S. cotton crop, and despite intensive advertising about competitive synthetic fibers, cotton use will continue its upward trend, according to a report given to 800 Southwestern cotton growers Wednesday.

Robert Boslet, chief executive officer of the marketing and research firm of Cotton Inc., said in presenting the report that Texas' high volume means Cotton Inc. must intensify its efforts in High Volume Instrumentation development — a computer-assisted sales technique.

HVI classing of cotton is a method where cotton growers sell their product to mills based on detailed computerized information about the quality of a particular bale by its fibers.

Senator given Feb. 20 flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Utah Sen. Jake Garn will blast into space Feb. 20 and will be participating in an experiment that may require him to deliberately get sick, NASA officials say.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Thursday that Garn, a 52-year-old Utah Republican, will be one of seven crewmembers, including a Frenchman, on space shuttle Challenger for the four-day mission in February.

Garn was not available for interviews Thursday, but NASA spokesman Terry White said the senator will be participating in medical, or life science, experiments aboard the shuttle.

Garn said in an interview earlier that his main contributions may be vomiting while in orbit.

"I told them I would be willing to be a guinea pig," he said earlier. "Apparently they're going to take me up on that."

He said he was prepared to take part in a medical experiment on space sickness, a motion ailment that affects about half of all space fliers.

Gov. White tops money list

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White, having received nearly $2 million in political contributions during the last six months of 1984, led state officeholders in fund-raising, according to campaign finance reports.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby raised the second-highest amount, $1.3 million, while the other statewide officeholders collected less than $1 million each.

The report filed Thursday for White showed that his political organization, The Texas Committee, spent more than $1.1 million during the period from July 1 to Dec. 31.

White, midway through his first term as governor, has not formally announced whether he will seek re-election in 1986. But he has left little doubt about his intentions.

"Any of them who can raise the $1,500 filing fee, we'll take on," White said last week when asked about Republicans who might run for governor next year.

The finance report filed Thursday showed that The Texas Committee took in $1,995,715 during the six-month reporting period.

Warranty rule may be dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shoppers who want to read the warranty before buying a product might have to wait for the information under rules being considered by the Federal Trade Commission.

Under the proposed rule changes taken up Thursday by the FTC, merchants would still have to provide warranties to consumers who want to read them before making a purchase. But retailers could give customers an address where the warranty could be obtained rather than keeping copies in their stores.

Considerable discussion and revision are likely before any final action is taken before the FTC.

Commissioner Patricia P. Bailey, who proposed the reconsideration of the current rules, asked that the commission staff look into various ways of providing warranty material to people, including an assessment of ways to reduce the burden on merchants.

The commission voted 5-0 to issue what it terms an advance notice of proposed rulemaking, to change the warranty rule which has been in effect since 1976. Such a notice merely means that changes are being considered, but the final form they take won't be known until after comments are received and a formal rule proposed.

Hijacker tricked by crewmen

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A man who threatened to ignite a can of gasoline aboard an Eastern Airlines jet unless he was taken to Cuba was apprehended when the plane landed here today and he was told he was in Havana, authorities said.

No one among the 120 other passengers and nine crew members was injured aboard Eastern Flight 403, which left Newark, N.J., at 10:30 p.m. Thursday en route to Miami, said airline spokeswoman Paula Musto.

The hijacker, identified as Lazordo Hernandez, 30, of Passaic, N.J., was arrested by Orlando police after Flight 403 was forced to make an unscheduled landing, said Carolyn Fennell, a spokeswoman for Orlando International Airport.

The A300 Eastern jet made an emergency landing here at 1:14 a.m. today, and "by 1:50, it was all over," said Roger Myers, spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta. "The passengers were taken off the aircraft and the hijacker was taken into custody."

Upon landing at the airport, 2nd Officer Dennis Lawrence spoke with Hernandez, who had been holding a package and a cigarette lighter, said Ms. Fennell.

Woman vows to continue work

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Alabama abortion counselor, whose clinic is one of more than two dozen planning overnight vigils this weekend, says she won't surrender to anti-abortion terrorism despite injuries she suffered during a protest.

Kathryn Wood, a counselor at the Women's Community Health Center in Huntsville, and others from clinics around the state spoke Thursday in support vigils planned by the National Organization for Women at 25 clinics in 18 states. The vigils, to begin tonight, come just before the 12th anniversary of the Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

NOW says the overnight stays by women supporting the right to abortion will "signal our determination to stand up to the terrorists and the bullies" who bombed or burned nearly 30 clinics last year.

But some of the clinic workers also said the bomb throwers have taken their toll.

Ms. Wood, who says she underwent surgery for her injuries, told reporters of anonymous letters to her neighbors calling her a baby-killer and of bomb threats on her home.

Maharishi has plan for making world safe

By ROBERT FURLOW Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sitting quietly, just five blocks from the White House, one of the world's most famous wise men proclaims a simple solution for any military, economic or other troubles the nation might face in President Reagan's second term.

In fact, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi says his plan could turn world chaos into pure coherence, creating a literal "heaven on earth."

All he needs, he says, is 7,000 good men and women, trained in the advanced principles of his already widely practiced Transcendental Meditation, blending their mental efforts a few minutes every day — all together in one place, Washington, D.C.

The diminutive, gray-bearded maharishi, going strong nearly two decades after his meetings with pop music's Beatles multiplied his cult fame, was in Washington the past week to officially open a new university in the nation's capital.

Maharishi Vedic University will join Maharishi International University College of Natural Law, which already has several hundred students in Washington.

In a news release from his Continental Capital of the Age of Enlightenment, a converted hotel in downtown Washington, the mission of the new university was described as providing a center for studying the ancient knowledge of India, "which maharishi said makes the mind familiar with the most basic laws of nature, the unified field of natural law, and trains it to function from this level."

One basic law the maharishi says he's discovered is that 7,000 minds meditating together on such a level — the number represents the square root of 1 percent of the world's population — can, simply, make everything better.

U.S. capitalism, Russian communism, democracy, dictatorship, it just doesn't matter. He says every system of economics and politics "can begin to bring satisfaction to all people" if such a relatively small group can concentrate its mental and spiritual efforts daily in "this capital of the most creative country of the world, where the destiny of the world is designed day and night."

To be sure, the maharishi and his followers have made similarly bright contentions about the potential for groups of 7,000 elsewhere, most recently in Europe, the Philippines and Brazil.

But the United States is special, he told reporters at a news conference, because of its influence as a world leader.

Still, he added, the nation suffers "a fundamental weakness, a non-alliance with natural law" — shown in the small thanks the United States gets for help it sends other countries and in the fact that "little, little countries challenge it."

His followers include men and women with scientific degrees from widely recognized universities. And they — and he — say experiments the past several years have proven the effectiveness of his "technology of the unified field," the idea that mass meditation can fix world problems.

Simply the presence of hundreds of practitioners in Washington has helped the economic revival in the United States the past two years, the maharishi said.

The new university in Washington, besides its function as a research center, is intended as a magnet to help draw members for the capital-based group of 7,000.

Price boost demanded

Protesters fail to stop farm auction

By WILLIAM CORMIER Associated Press Writer

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP) — Angry protesters jeered an auctioneer as he sold off a farmer's machinery after it was seized by a bank, while thousands of farmers from three states rallied in Sioux City to demand a boost in commodity prices.

Roger Escher's two tractors were the last to go Thursday, while more than 200 people crowded at the auctioneer's lot.

The tractors and 14 other items went in less than two hours, despite protests by dozens of farmers wearing adhesive tape crosses on the backs of their coveralls and shouting "No sale! No sale!"

"Anybody that's here today who'll tell you they don't have a problem isn't farming," said Joanne Neuzil, who with husband, Paul, runs a farm southwest of Iowa City. "We've got farmers here who were millionaires a couple of years ago."

In Sioux City, 4,000 farmers from Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota jammed an auditorium to demand a 1985 Farm Bill that would shore up commodity prices and rescue farmers in financial distress.

"Let's send a message very loud and clear — there's one thing we need in agriculture today, and that's a decent price for our product. That will cure everything," Sen. James Exon, D-Neb., told the crowd.

The rally was organized by the Emerson, Neb.-based Farm Crisis Committee, whose leaders said the Rev. Billy Graham has promised to deliver a petition against the proposed 1985 farm bill to President Reagan during his inauguration.

For Escher, the auction was the end of years of work raising livestock, corn and soybeans on a 300-acre farm in Kalona that he said once was valued at $850,000.

"His equipment was taken up for non-payment of loan, in this case more than $300,000 he owed the bank," said President Allen Kloess from the United Central Bank & Trust Co. in Kalona.

"This is my machinery. It belongs to me. It's still in the courts. It has not been decided whose it is. I ask you to refrain from bidding," Escher shouted.

Frank Cordaro, a deacon intern at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church in Corning, shouted to auctioneer Robert Mallinger: "You don't need to sell the equipment. You don't need to sell it. Give the farmer a break. You don't need this blood money, sir!"

"It's not blood money. I'll tell you what, fellows: You've had your say. It's been consigned here ... and I'm going to sell it now," Mallinger replied.

"I feel sorry for everybody that loses stuff," he said before the sale. "It's an unfortunate circumstance, but he's not the only one."

Forced farm sales have prompted many farming coalitions to urge Gov. Terry Branstad to declare a state of emergency, which would invoke a Depression-era law temporarily banning foreclosures.

In Des Moines on Thursday, the state Senate passed a resolution, 46-3, calling for immediate federal aid to farmers. But the legislators stopped short of urging Branstad to invoke a state of emergency, which Iowa bankers oppose.

Since 1981, Iowa farmers have lost millions of dollars in assets as land values have declined by as much as 40 percent, according to Branstad.

Devalued assets also mean that many existing loans no longer have full collateral behind them. It is estimated that up to 30 percent of Iowa's farmers will soon face significant financial difficulties.

Dioxin caused no harm in 1981, officials claim

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The scare that began after Army officials disclosed that Boy Scouts from around the world camped in Virginia near dioxin-contaminated soil in 1981 was all for nothing, officials say.

Dr. Walter Menninger, who headed the private team that evaluated test results from soil at Virginia's Fort A.P. Hill, said at a news conference here Thursday that extensive testing has shown that dioxin levels were minimal and could cause no harm.

None of the 30,000 Scouts and leaders who attended the 10-day 1981 Boy Scout Jamboree needs to be tested for exposure, he said. Scout officials said they plan to return to the site in July for the 1985 Jamboree.

"The officials who first set loose the dioxin scare were irresponsible in playing on people's emotions rather than medical evidence," Menninger said.

Eating it, inhaling it or absorbing it through the skin are the only ways to be poisoned by dioxin, he said, adding that "unless one were bathing in the dirt or eating in the dirt, one should not be concerned."

The discovery of the pesticide byproduct, which has caused cancer in laboratory animals, in soil at Fort A.P. Hill last November alarmed parents of Scouts who camped at the base for 10 days.

Army tests released Nov. 9 showed contamination of up to 228 parts per billion under a storage shed where herbicides had leaked. The Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta says the safe level of dioxin is 1 ppb.

Scouts from Texas and other Southwest troops had camped within 150 feet of the shed.

But 401 subsequent soil and water samples by the Army and Environmental Protection Agency, and a series of tests by a Boy Scout-hired consulting firm, revealed only one area just outside the fenced shed had over 6 ppb, Menninger said.

Other traces of dioxin were isolated and below 1 ppb, he said.

"The likelihood of Scouts having contacted, inhaled or ingested the dioxin is so remote it can be ignored," Menninger said.

The contaminated soil will be cleaned by the Army in a few weeks, Scout officials said, and letters explaining the results of the organization's investigation have been mailed to the 1981 Jamboree participants and all Boy Scout Councils.

"As you can see by our actions over the last two months, we are committed to the health and welfare of every Scout," head Scout Ben H. Love said at the Thursday afternoon conference at the Scouts' national headquarters. "We're very relieved."

Love said less than 1 percent of the Scouts had canceled their 1985 jamboree registration after the dioxin reports were publicized.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Army Secretary John O. Marsh Jr. said he was "pleased" with the Boy Scouts' decision, adding that "the Army's goal has been to support the Boy Scouts of America and to provide them a location for their Jamboree."

Marsh said the 1985 Jamboree will be held away from the contamination site, but "clean-up of the contaminated material will begin next week and will be completed well before the Jamboree."

reforms. TSTA was one of three major teacher groups that withdrew support of the bill during last summer's session, suggesting that it had more wrong than good in it.

TSTA says major flaws in the bill include increased and unnecessary paper work, longer school days, non-payment for tutoring sessions, an underfunded career ladder which subverts the promise of reward for career teachers, and pay that is generally too low for all school employees.

Locally, some teachers will tell you individually that paperwork and pressures to include all the essential elements in the limited time available is literally driving them up the wall. Despite Gov. White's stand on the matter, we look for changes in the school reform bill.

Ann Landers

Grandmothers pilots, too

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it possible for a man to be happily married and still have a close friendship with another female?

My husband is very chummy with a woman at work. I must admit to being uncomfortable with the amount of time they spend together.

Am I crazy to accept this? We have discussed the matter at length and my husband assures me there is no need to worry. He says our marriage is forever. Am I looking for trouble where there is none? We have been married 10-plus years and I am very much in love with him. Please advise.—No Name, No Town

DEAR N.N.: There is always the possibility that something might ignite. You accomplish nothing by letting your husband know you feel threatened.

Keep the woman's name out of your conversations. Turn up the thermostat in your bedroom, if you know what I mean. A husband who is well-nourished at home is less likely to dine in restaurants, but of course there are exceptions. You may be married to one.

DEAR ANN: Shame on you for your sexist comment that "pilots are husbands, sweethearts, fathers, sons and brothers." They are also wives, sweethearts, mothers, daughters and sisters!

Keep up the good work. Your column is the best thing in the newspaper.—A (Female) Navy Pilot In Honolulu

DEAR HON.: Sorry about that sexist remark. It will please you to know that about 2,000 readers complained. I should have said, "Pilots are husbands, sweethearts, fathers, sons, brothers, mothers, sisters, daughters, aunts, nieces and grandmothers." Next time I'll be more careful.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a problem that plagues me every holiday season. One set of relatives comes to my house for a few days and brings their dog. I never take my dog when I visit in their house. Why must I be imposed on like that? My place is crowded enough with the extra guests. I like the people very much but not the dog. How can I handle this problem tactfully?—A Sticky Wicket In Peoria

DEAR PEORIA: Never mind about being tactful. Tell the relatives straight out, "Please don't bring the pooch this year. We love having you visit, but the dog is a nuisance."

If they cancel the visit, so be it. You have every right to set the house rules.

DEAR ANN: I have been going with Doug for three years and we plan to marry in a few months. Ever since I've known him we have spent Sundays with his mother. At first I enjoyed it, but it's beginning to get on my nerves.

I don't feel I want to spend every Sunday for the rest of my life with "Mama."

Do you think this attachment could mean trouble later? I'll be looking for your answer, as my wedding date is drawing near and I'm having—Second Thoughts

Dear S.T.: yes, I do. Have a long talk with your fiancé. Make sure he understands exactly how you feel. Remind him of the biblical phrase, "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one flesh." (Genesis 2:24) Good luck. You'll need it.

Got those wedding bell blues over cost...guest list...what to wear...and other details? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will help. For a copy, send $2.00 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Hereford hammers Lubbock

A Dance Step

Hereford's Darla Alford (right) pulls down a rebound of a missed Lubbock shot Thursday night in District 3-5A girls basketball action. Alford appears to be showing Adelia Rodriguez (24) the proper way to haul in a defensive board, one step at a time. Alford led Hereford scorers with 17 points, all in the second half.

LUBBOCK — For the first time since Nov. 29, the Hereford Whitefaces have a 500 won-loss record in girls basketball at 8-4.

More importantly, however, Hereford now sports a 7-3 District 3-5A record, partly the result of Thursday night's win over the Lubbock Westerners. The Whitefaces scored the first four points of the game Thursday and never trailed enroute to a 58-42 victory over Lubbock in the LHS gym.

Hereford coach Larry Sowers was glad to get out of south-plains city still in a tie for third place with Amarillo and Palo Duro.

"I think we were playing not to lose tonight," he said after the game, "not to win. We haven't had a game this big in years. If we'd lost tonight, it would have killed us."

Sowers indicated Hereford couldn't seem to put away the Westerners. Lubbock shot 24 free throws, including eight the last quarter. And the 16-point margin of victory for Hereford was the largest spread of the game, once as close as three points in the fourth period.

"We missed too many little easy shots," Lubbock coach James Mays said. "And you can't afford to do that against a team like Hereford. We knew we would be getting some inside shots. It's too bad we couldn't take advantage of them."

Lubbock made only four field goals the first half and finished the night with a 30.8-percent mark in field goals (12 of 39).

"You can't score in single-digit numbers for a quarter against Hereford," Mays added, dismayed with his team's 16 points at half.

Natalie Sims hit a jumper from the side with less than a minute gone, and Stacie High hit two free throws to give Hereford the lead at 4-0. Lubbock's Dorsey Jennings got the ball rolling for the Westerners with an inside shot to make the score 4-2.

The teams traded buckets on High's layup for Hereford and Stephanie Hedlund's 16-footer for Lubbock. Shelly Edwards made good on a three-point play and added another two points near the end of the quarter. Sims scored a basket to give Hereford a 13-8 lead at period's end.

Hedlund and Nancy Bals each added two for Lubbock in the first quarter.

Hereford extended its lead in the second quarter to 25-16. The Whitefaces got the first six points on baskets by Lori Niblett, Sims and Edwards. Dorsey Jennings scored four for LHS before Hedlund hit two free throws to make the score 19-14. For Hereford, High scored four more points and Kim Williams hit an 18-footer before intermission.

Hedlund, who led Lubbock scorers with 15 points — including 11 of her total on free throws — got four more points, and the score at half was 25-16, Hereford.

Thirteen free throws were attempted in the third quarter, nine by the Westerners as they pulled to within seven points, 37-30, at quarter's end. Darla Alford, who didn't have a point in the first half, got hot and scored seven of her game-high 17 points in the third quarter. Edwards and Sims each scored two, and Adelia Rodriguez one in the period.

"We finally started running a little offense," Sowers said. "Darla is going to get open all the time if we'll run it the way we're supposed to. We didn't have any motion to our offense in the first half."

Lubbock made a run at the Whitefaces in the final period. Jennings made a steal and took the ball in for a layup to make the score 41-38 with 5:43 to go. Following a Hereford timeout, Alford got four quick Hereford points to put off any rally hopes of LHS. High scored five more in the quarter, and Alford had six more.

Carla Alford hit the final bucket of the game to close out Hereford's 40.8 field-goal percentage mark.

"We're one game behind (second-place Plainview, Hereford's opponent next Tuesday) now," Sowers said, "and we were three a couple of weeks ago. We had to win."

Deadline nearing for female cagers

First- and second-grade girls interested in playing in the YMCA Youth Basketball still have until Monday to sign up at the YMCA, officials reported last week.

Girls in kindergarten who are at least 6 may also register.

Not enough girls originally had registered to play in this age group, so YMCA officials are planning to combine the younger group with an older division if a larger number still hasn't signed up by Monday.

Turnovers cost Whitefaces

LUBBOCK — Plagued by 28 turnovers and an 11-of-29 free-throw shooting performance, the Hereford Whitefaces saw Thursday night's game with the Lubbock Westerners slip away from them, 63-51.

Staying even with Lubbock in the first half, and even leading at halftime, the Herd died in the third quarter. The Whitefaces scored only eight points in the period following intermission while the Westerners got 26. LHS then led 52-35.

"They came back the second half and just out-hustled us," Hereford coach Mike Fields said following the game. "That's the first time all year that somebody's done that. We let them take the game away."

The loss drops Hereford's district record to 2-6. Overall, the Whitefaces stand at 8-11. Lubbock moves to 3-5 and 9-11.

Lubbock took a 6-5 lead on four points by Troy Sciermeyer and two by Isreal Gonzales. Kevin Redus canned the Herd's first five points, and Daniel King gave the Whitefaces a 7-6 lead on two free throws with 2:56 to play. But that was all the scoring for Hereford in the first period. Sciermeyer scored two more for LHS as did Gonzales, and Forrest Rashada added two.

The last 7:22 of the second quarter belonged to Hereford, as the Whitefaces outscored Lubbock by a 2-to-1 margin, 20-10. After Sciermeyer opened the period for Lubbock, Hereford got going with one free throw apiece by Rodney Torres, Bobby Baker and Redus. Redus scored five more over the next 2:57 and Sammy Suarez got two after a rebound to make the score 20-16, Lubbock.

Mike Scott hit a long jumper and Redus added another free throw before Torres pulled up about 10 feet short on a fast break to hit a shot that gave Hereford the lead.

At half, the Whitefaces led 27-26. "We were a little lackadaisical in

In the 1961-62 NBA season, Oscar Robertson, playing for Cincinnati, averaged 30.8 points per game, 12.5 rebounds and 11.4 assists.

the first half," Lubbock coach David McKinnis said after the game. "Our team was down because we weren't playing with our two leading scorers (Toby Christian and Mayo Gonzales)."

In the third quarter, Lubbock didn't need Christian and Gonzales. The Westerners scored the first four points of the third period, the last four points, and just about every other four points in between. Alvin Hargers hit the first two buckets, Rashada hit two baskets and Gonzales scored six points.

Also, Ronnie Rush scored eight and Gonzales added four more for Lubbock.

In the third quarter for Hereford, Redus scored four points, Scott and Baker hit two.

"Taking the lead at halftime may have hurt us more than it helped," Fields said. "We just seemed to relax, and it seemed like we thought we were supposed to win."

"They did a good job of hittin the boards in the third quarter. They got a lot of second shots."

Trailing by 17 to start the fourth quarter, the Whitefaces refused to give up. And for awhile, the momentum of the game was going in the Herd's favor. But the brief success Hereford enjoyed was just that — brief.

Redus opened the period by banking one in, and Suarez followed that by putting an offensive rebound in for two. Redus scored another basket and Torres took to the hoop a pass from Baker to make the score 52-45. But that was as close as Hereford would get, even though more chances presented themselves.

When Hargers displayed emotion about a personal foul call against him, he was hit with a technical. McKinnis complained, and he, too, received a technical. Three different Whitefaces then went to the line with a chance to cut five points away from Lubbock's lead.

Redus missed the front end of a

1-and-1 foul shot. Rogers had the opportunity at the first technical shot, but missed. Torres took his turn by shooting the two-shot technical, but he, too, missed.

Hereford had a better field-goal shooting percentage mark than Lubbock. The Whitefaces connected on 20 of 41 attempts (48.8 percent), and Lubbock was good on 24 of 52 shots (46.2 percent).

Redus led Hereford scorers with 21 points. Lubbock had three players get into double figures, Isreal Gonzales with 16, and Rush and Sciermeyer with 11 each.

Fires no bogeys

Peete first-round leader

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Calvin Peete, the most successful black golfer the sport has produced, said two factors have contributed to his fast start this season.

"The weather was gorgeous — ideal," said Peete, a notorious hot-weather player who has scored all his eight PGA Tour triumphs in summer heat.

And, too, there was some work during the offseason.

"I worked on my game over the holidays," Peete said Thursday. "Usually, I don't do that, just put the clubs in the closet and forget about 'em for a while."

The result was a no-bogey round of 6-under-par 65 that staked Peete to the first round lead in the $450,000 Phoenix Open.

"It was a very enjoyable day," said Peete, 41, who last season won the Vardon Trophy as the leading scorer on the PGA Tour.

Isao Aoki of Japan, Morris Hataalsky and rookie Phil Blackmar shared second at 66, a single stroke back. Blackmar chipped in two chip-ins, including an eagle-3 on the 18th, and used only nine putts over the last nine holes.

The group at 67 included Nick Faldo of England, Gary Koch, Ron Streck, Doug Tewell and Jeff Thomsen.

PGA champion Lee Trevino and Tom Purtzer, the defending titleholder in this 50th anniversary edition of the Phoenix Open, led a group at 68.

Lanny Wadkins, a winner last week in the Bob Hope Classic, could do no better than a round of 70 on the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course, and Masters champion Ben Crenshaw struggled to a 73.

Girls win J.V. game; boys lose in OT

Hereford High School junior varsity girls blew past Lubbock Thursday night, 74-34. Tonya Redwine scored 20 points and pulled down 17 rebounds for the Whitefaces.

The boys junior varsity team from Hereford lost in overtime to Lubbock, 46-44. Todd Shire led Hereford with 10 points, and Vincent Brown added 9.

Texan's homespun play now opening

WACO, Texas (AP) - Waco may be a Texas town on the lips of New York theatergoers if off-Broadway audiences find a warm place in their hearts for the Central Texas found in "Outside Waco," a new play making its New York debut Jan. 30.

For its creator, Patricia Griffith, "Outside Waco" was not only a pleasant return to the Texas of her childhood, but an invigorating change of pace from her novels and short stories, two of which are included in the O. Henry Prize Stories of 1970 and 1976.

Although the daughters of Bright Light resident George Matthews hail from Dallas, Nashville and Washington, D.C., Waco is still the big city for Bright Light residents.

For the playwright, a 1958 Baylor University graduate, Waco represents the Texas she knows best.

"I grew up in East Texas," Ms. Griffith said in a recent phone interview. "Waco is kind of the center of Texas, in my mind."

Her play premiered in Dallas in a Theatre Three production, running for four weeks before enthusiastic Dallas audiences who found the play an appealing slice of Texas life, one dead perfect in detail.

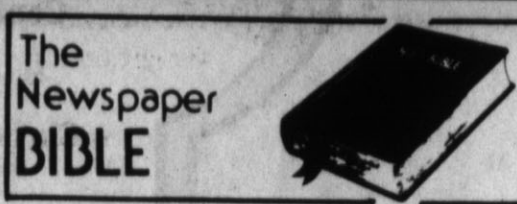

Matthews' daughters Sarah, Georgia and Juanita return to Bright Light when their mother suffers a stroke and dies. But before they can return to their individual pursuits, a tenacious Sarah demands they resolve the question of who will take care of Daddy.

Turning loose of individual careers and lifestyles proves easier said than done, however. Georgia, nicknamed Georgiberry, is on the verge of making the big time in country music.

AT&T on Thursday asked the Public Utility Commission for a $123.4 million hike that features a 3.2 percent drop in tolls for basic intrastate long distance calls.

You have to look beyond the big numbers to find the possible effects on residential customers said Boyle, the state lawyer who represents consumers.

"It's like the old saying when writing contracts. The big print giveth and the small print taketh away," said Boyle. "The rate decrease could be a Trojan horse, actually increasing rates for local ratepayers."

THIS IS REALLY LIVING! Well then, shall we keep on sinning so that God can keep on showing us more and more kindness and forgiveness?

Of course not! Should we keep on sinning when we don't have to? For sin's power over us was broken when we became Christians...

For when you are deadened to sin you are freed from all its allure and its power over you. And since your old sin-loving nature "died" with Christ, we know that you will share His new life.

Christ rose from the dead and will never die again. Death no longer has any power over Him. He died once for all to end sin's power, but now He lives forever in unbroken fellowship with God.

Texas had most prisoners, sailors

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas had more prison inmates than either California or New York but far fewer residents in mental institutions, according to 1980 data recently released by the U.S. Census Bureau.

Government statisticians have been putting the information into various comparative packages and releasing them to the public as they are finished.

The majority of people living in "group quarters" in Texas were college students. According to the report, 96,484 were living in dorms.

In its state prisons, including reformatories, Texas had 28,256 male inmates, 27 of them under 10 years of age.

AT&T requests requests hike. AUSTIN (AP) - The AT&T Communications' rate hike package that includes a cut in basic long distance rates may not be the consumer boon it seems, says a skeptical Jim Boyle.

In a separate request filed Thursday, AT&T asked the PUC to approve a $1 monthly charge for single-line business and residential customers.

The AT&T plan would cut $24.7 million from annual tolls for intrastate long distance calls.

Speaker Gib Lewis names committees

AUSTIN (AP) - Reps. Bill Blanton and Talmadge Heflin say they knew their education committee seats were jeopardized last June when they joined in the "Fathers Day Massacre" that threatened to kill the public school reform program.

Speaker Gib Lewis - who was on hand at the June session when the committee gutted the school bill he favored - on Thursday announced this session's committees.

Blanton, R-Farmers Branch, said he did not request reappointment to the education panel because "I didn't think I had much of a chance to get on it."

Asked if that belief was based on the Fathers Day Massacre, he said, "You got it, man."

Heflin said Lewis apparently wanted to "split up the conservative group" on the committee. Heflin, R-Houston, wanted back on, but said he "knew at the time" that his June vote killed any chance of reappointment.

"I don't hold any grudges or feel that the speaker punished me," said Heflin, who was named vice chairman of science and technology and a member of the ways and means committee.

Center Rep. Bill Haley was re-appointed as chairman of the committee that seems set up to defend inevitable attacks on portions of the new school law.

Here is a list of the committee chairmen:

Robert Saunders, D-La Grange, agriculture and livestock; Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, appropriations; Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, business and commerce; Bill Messer, D-Belton, calendars; Gary Thompson, D-Abilene, county affairs; Terral Smith, R-Austin, criminal jurisprudence; Ralph Wallace, D-Houston, cultural and historical resources; Clint Hackney, D-Houston, elections; Ed Emmett, R-Kingwood, energy; Fred Agnich, R-Dallas, environmental affairs; and Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, financial institutions.

Also, Gene Green, D-Houston, general investigating; Charles Evans, D-Hurst, government organization; Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, higher education; Mike Millsap, D-Fort Worth, house administration; Erwin Barton, D-Pasadena, human services; John Gavin, D-Wichita Falls, insurance; Frank Tejada, D-San Antonio, judicial affairs; Bob Bush, D-Sherman, judiciary; Lloyd Criss, D-La Marque, labor and employment relations; and Ray Keller, R-Duncanville, law enforcement.

Also, Billy Hall, D-Laredo, liquor regulations; Nolan Robnett, R-Lubbock, local and county calendars; Tom Craddock, R-Midland, natural resources; Bill Haley, D-Center, public education; Brad Wright, R-Houston, public health; Jerry Clark, D-Buna, retirement and aging; Sam Hudson, D-Dallas, rules and resolutions; Al Luna, D-Houston science and technology; Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, state affairs; Paul Regsdale, D-Dallas, state, federal and international relations; David Cain, D-Dallas, transportation; George Pierce, R-San Antonio, urban affairs; and Stan Schlueter, D-Killeen, ways and means.
