Mayor Signs Proclamation

A proclamation was signed this week by Mayor Jim Sears, designating April 28 through May 3 as "Clean-up — Fix-up — Paint-up Week" in Deaf Smith County.

Orientation Course Is Now Being Conducted

With a dozen women enrolled, a Red Cross orientation course is under way, instructed by Mrs. Corinne Neely, who was for a number of years executive secretary of Deaf Smith County Red Cross Chapter and so is familiar with all phases of its work.

At present Mrs. Neely is orientation chairman for the county chapter. She is conducting the class in weekly meetings at her home, giving six hours of instruction.

One member of the class, Mrs. Clinton Jackson, is taking the instruction as a possible Red Cross Volunteer, the others as work toward designation as Red Cross nurses.

The Beautification Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce women's division is urging all residents to observe the week, which begins today, by cleaning up their alleys, vacant lots and rent properties in order that we might have a lovelier and cleaner city in which to live.

"Litter is a Family Affair" is the theme chosen for the annual anti-litter campaign, sponsored by the committee, according to Mrs. Pete Caviness, chairman. Special emphasis on the campaign will be work units from the various Campfire groups who have planned the removal of litter from areas designated them by the committee.

Also helping in this capacity will be Gene Brock and his Special Education classes from LaPlata Junior High School.

Jerry Don George, principal at LaPlata and Keith Munnerlyn, assistant principal at Hereford High School have enlisted the help of the art departments of the schools by making some 48 posters which have been distributed throughout the city.

Leaflets will be distributed in grocery bags urging families to work together in the cleaning of alleys and all premises in an effort to keep weeds to a minimum as mosquito time is near.

The committee is asking the cooperation of everyone patronizing our drive-ins to be most careful about placing all papers and left over food in the containers provided.

The petunia has been designated as the flower of the year and it is hoped that it will be planted profusely throughout the city.

The Beautification Committee members include Mrs. Caviness, chairman, Dudley Bayne, city manager and Mmes. J. O. Clark, Bill Lamm, Bruce Brown, Harry McCauley, Ernest Wade, T. J. Carter, Ray Cowser and Tom Draper.

Combs, Matthews Can Be Called For Carry-All

Soil Conservation Service manager J. C. Brown reported that anyone in the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District who wishes to rent the new carry-all should contact either Gene Combs at 364-4500 or Ronald Matthews at 364-0017, or the SCS office at 364-0112.

The chain-loading, pull-type carry-all has a rental fee of $40 per day, Brown said, with a minimum rental time of one day. Farm tractors should have 70 horsepower or more to handle the machine. Also, four fast-connect hose and couplings are needed to operate the cylinders. A 540 rpm power take-off shaft and gear box is presently equipped on the machine. A 1,000 rpm shaft and gear box will also be made available.

The carry-all can be used for land leveling, digging tailwater pits, constructing terraces, and for waterway shaping. However, Brown specified that pickup of the carry-all should be made with the tractor which is to be used to operate the machine. Rental arrangements should be made a few days prior to pickup.

The new carry-all is being kept at the County Maintenance Barns, east of the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, Brown said.

Driver competed against seven other students from senior high school, Stanton Junior High and St. Anthony's to win the honors. He is a ninth grade student at La Plata Junior High School.

Theme for this year's contest was "Respect For Law — Cornerstone Of Citizenship." Zone competition will be held today beginning at 2 p. m. in Room 6, Durrett Hall, Amarillo College at 22nd and Jackson in Amarillo.

Hereford Voted Convention Site

At presstime Saturday it was announced that Hereford has been voted the site for the National Highway Builders Association Convention for 1970 to be held April 9-11.

The honor was announced by Chamber of Commerce Manager Bill Thompson who is attending the 1969 convention at Ponca City, Okla.

Hayes Charged In Theft Case

James J. Hayes, of Hereford, who was recently charged with swindling with worthless checks amounting to $52,000 and on three charges from the state of New York, was released from Potter County jail Friday after posting $2,000 bond on a charge of theft over $50.

In March, Hayes was taken into custody by Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department authorities after receiving word from New York that he was wanted on three felony charges. The charges were for possession of a forged instrument, grand larceny and forgery. He was charged for passing worthless checks amounting to $52,000 in Deaf Smith County.

A warrant was issued early Friday when two employees of the firm found 30 head of unidentified steers in the packing house pens. An investigation revealed that the cattle belonged to Benny Lippold of Canyon and there had been no transaction for the purchase of the cattle by Hayes or the feedlot.

Sports Banquet To Honor 147 Athletes

Monday night, some 147 Hereford High School athletes will be honored at the second annual All-Sports Banquet at which John Niland, offensive guard for the Dallas Cowboys, will be the guest speaker.

Ticket sales as of Saturday morning, had reached 500 and the deadline for obtaining tickets was Saturday night.

Niland, married and 25, is a native of New York State. He attended Iowa University where he participated in football and won recognition as the heavyweight weightlifting champion of the Big Ten Conference while he was attending school there.

Niland lives in Dallas and is public relations man for Channel 39 besides being one of the outstanding offensive players for the Cowboys.

Gifford-Hill Western, who made it possible for Dan Reeves another outstanding Dallas player, to speak at the first annual All-Sports Banquet last year, is also responsible for Niland's coming this year.

At the first banquet of this type held last year, a crowd of over 600 persons attended, and Earl Stagner, president of the Whiteface Booster Club, expressed hope that this year's event would be just as successful.

Awards in baseball, track, volleyball, tennis, golf, basketball and basketball will be presented by radio station KPAN and the Hereford Brand in the form of a News Service Award. Presentation and selection of the awards is based on one athlete's performance, desire, competitiveness, achievement and initiative in a particular sport during the past year.

For Commissioners Wednesday Petitions Signed For Hospital Bond

Deaf Smith County Hospital administrator T. E. Seigler reported that some 1,333 signatures have been collected here on 40 petitions which have been circulated during the past week in behalf of a $500,000 bond election for an addition to the hospital.

Seigler said that it impresses me that three or four people who are not even connected with the hospital had asked us for permission to circulate petitions. Also, petitions were circulated in most of the local civic clubs and the banks and schools.

Deadline for the petitions was Saturday at noon. Seigler reported that each will be turned over to County Tax Assessor-Collector Nell Miller early Monday so that all names on the petitions can be checked against the qualified voter lists. They are to be turned over to County Commissioners Court during a special meeting at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Actually needed are 381 qualified names.

Requested date for the election is Tuesday, May 20. Seigler also reported that those who have circulated the petitions have told him that they had met very few people who refused to sign.

However, there has been the question: Will this raise taxes here? "This question cannot be answered at this point," he said. "Any change in the taxes will have to be handled by the county commissioners. But we See PETITIONS, Page 2

Senior Class To Be Honored

May 4 is the date scheduled for a Coke Party honoring the graduating seniors of 1969. Hosted by the Hereford State Bank, the event will be a "come and go" affair between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30 p. m.

The bank will distribute brochures to all in attendance on banking and its services.

Door prizes and other gifts will be given. The Hereford School Board Trustees have been extended an invitation to attend.

Training Program Scheduled

Owners, managers, and supervisors in Hereford businesses will have the opportunity to participate in a special training program entitled "Build Better Employer-Employee Relations" starting May 12-15.

The objective of this study is to learn proven techniques of supervision designed to insure high employee morale and maximum production.

The 10-hour course is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and the Hereford High School Distributive Education Program with meetings scheduled at 7:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. in Room 121, Distributive Education Dept., Hereford High School.

Sessions will be conducted by Mrs. Mary Frances Bowden, supervisory and management training specialist from The University of Texas at Austin.

Mrs. Bowden regularly conducts similar programs throughout Texas. She has had broad experience in personnel administration, with training in service fields and retail merchandising.

W. T. Thompson, manager of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, urges all local business people with supervisory responsibilities to attend. The sponsors feel that this program will ultimately result in better business for the entire community as authorities agree that high employee morale is essential to good customer relations.

Subjects to be discussed are getting employees started right, following up with purpose, making corrections, handling grievances, and building employee morale.

ART EXHIBIT OPENS MONDAY — A one-man showing of oils by Bob Taylor, a well known Southwest artist from Cordell, Okla. will open Monday in the lobby of the First National Bank and continue for the next two weeks. Open house, originally set for Sunday, has been cancelled because Mr. Taylor could not be present. The art exhibit, which will feature an estimated 25 oil paintings, will be open from 1-5 each day. —Staff Photo

Alcoholism Is Subject By Hill, Curtis Engine Prexy

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Harold E. Hill, a successful engineer and president of Curtis Engine and Equipment Company of Baltimore, Maryland, has filled a variety of speaking engagements in Hereford since Thursday and is scheduled to speak today at 11 a. m. in the Avenue Baptist Church.

However, Hill's subject under discussion has had nothing to do with engineering. To the contrary, his subject was alcoholism — a disease which he also professed to be of great personal knowledge.

Hill told local members of Alcoholics Anonymous, students in health classes at Hereford High School, a group at the Community Center meeting of the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism, and other interested parties, that he had begun drinking at the age of 14 and did not quit until 1951 when he was in his forties. His rate of liquor consumption, he reported of his past experiences, was a quart or more per day.

"I had my last drink on Good Friday that year," Hill said. "When my wife asked me that day what my excuse was for drinking, I surprised myself by not having any excuse. I leaned back and said, 'God help me!' On the following Tuesday I attended my first AA meeting."

Whereupon, he told Alcoholics Anonymous members and their guests at its open meeting Thursday night that the AA program "really works."

He spoke to a near-capacity crowd in their Jaycee Park headquarters which included both alcoholics and non-alcoholics. However, the peoples could not be readily identified as such. The alcoholic appeared no different than the non-alcoholic and there were no badges which distinguished the two. Moreover, Hill, who readily admitted being a reformed alcoholic, appeared to be the typical engineer type (who is a graduate of Pratt Institute) — a far cry from the Skid Row bum.

Perhaps the only thing that separated the two at the meeting was the informal way the other reformed alcoholics present laughed through self-identification with the speaker's statements — with occasional statements of their own — while the non-alcoholic guests accepted the statements with awe.

Hill (who was introduced as Hal H., in strict accordance with the AA's policy toward complete anonymity) described non-alcoholics as "civilians" and the alcoholics as "drunks." AA members were in agreement with his statement that the civilian does not understand the drunk, but that the alcoholic understands his fellow alcoholic.

But he did issue information that seemed to be new to AA members here. The danger of mixing a drug called Librium with alcohol, Hal H. said that more and more fatalities are resulting from this mixture but doctors continue to prescribe it. "Somebody should tell the doctors!" he said. "But it does solve the problem of drinking. They die."

Hal was also critical of psychiatrists. "In Baltimore, the head shrinkers go to other head shrinkers," he said. He vowed that none of them understood alcoholics. "They want you to trace back and see what eased you to begin drinking — find the cause. Why? Now, I am a reformed alcoholic. I am happy. What possible good would it do for me to go back and uncover the cause?"

His primary topic — as it is with all AA member-speakers — was to relate the details of his recovery, his problems and turmoil. But his principal outline was the problems he encountered over a period of years through fully understanding the 12 Steps of AA. "I read them one way in the beginning — gave them an entirely different meaning in some cases, others I skipped entirely. But as time passed, all of the true meaning finally came to me and I covered all the steps."

He related that the hardest portion of the 12 Steps for him to understand were the portions which stated, "God as we understand Him." He said that there had never been a God in his life and that he had to start at the beginning — that present time is filled with gods and goddesses and sin" and wanted people to be religious. "But I didn't want religion. I wanted the spiritual."

He finally made it and accepted God. "After all," he said, "there is bound to be a God. I said See PREXY, Page 2

GUEST SPEAKER — The Dallas Cowboy who wears number 76, John Niland, will be the guest speaker at the annual All-Sports Banquet Monday night at 8 at the Bull Barn. Tickets sales have been extended until noon Monday for the event.

Winner of the recent Hereford Optimist Club's Oratorical Contest, Driver will compete today in the zone contest. Seated at left is Ann Pritchard, English and speech teacher at La Plata Junior High.

are going to be completely honest about it — there is a possibility that taxes will have to be raised slightly.
He stressed the need for the additional space through the already-increased patient load at the hospital due to the unexpected expansion in the county and the addition of Medicare.
"When we made a study of the hospital needs ten years ago," Seigler said, "we based it on all the available population forecasts and predictions at the time. All of them underestimated the population gains then and so did we. Therefore, it is necessary for us to increase our facilities now."

Plans for the new addition call for it to be the modern circular type, Seigler reported. It is to be located between the east wing and the present nurse's home. However, the nurse's home — now occupied by only three nurses — is to be converted into a maternity delivery room area. He said that construction costs for the circular type is "about the same price as the old type" and will offer more comfort and convenience to patients and medical personnel.

LAST 14 YEARS

Seigler issued a report on the financial condition of the Deaf Smith County Hospital figured over a period including 1955 through 1968:

Increase in assets (including depreciation): $801,580.17. Absorbed charity (at no cost to taxpayers): $590,246.50. Spent for maintenance and repairs, $227,129.27, less tax money for this purpose, $73,264.09 — net repairs and maintenance, $153,865.18.

Total increase to county: $1,545,691.85 (less bond money from the county in the amount of $540,000.00), total $1,005,691.85.

"The hospital has returned $1.64 for every $1 invested here by the taxpayers," Seigler reported. "I think that is very good."

He said, "We definitely have the need. Naturally, however, we are going to follow the wishes of the voters. But I do feel that the voters know that we do have that need."

Seigler said that all facts are to be presented to the public as soon as possible following the decision of the county commissioners regarding the election. They are in preparation now for publication in the Hereford Brand.

He stated that he felt the election date should be as soon as possible in view of current construction costs. Should there be a delay, he said, the project could conceivably cost much

"God help me" on the last day I took a drink."

Behind him on the wall of AA headquarters is inscribed: God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, courage to change the things I can, and wisdom to know the difference.

On each side of the plaque are The 12 Steps — which one member said could be used with all problems. But Hal pointed them out for the alcoholic:

1. We admitted we were powerless over alcohol — that our lives had become unmanageable.
2. Came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity.
3. Made a decision to turn our will and our lives over to the care of God as we understand Him.
4. Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.
5. Admitted to God, to ourselves, and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.
6. Were entirely ready to have God remove all these defects of character.
7. Humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings.
8. Made a list of all persons we had harmed, and became willing to make amends to them all.
9. Made direct amends to such people wherever possible, except when to do so would injure them or others.
10. Continued to take personal inventory and when we were wrong promptly admitted it.
11. Sought through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God as we understand Him, praying only for knowledge of His will for us and the power to carry that out.
12. Having had a spiritual awakening as a result of these steps, we tried to carry this message to alcoholics, and to practice these principles in all our affairs.

"That's why AA works," Hal said.

RAILROADED

After speaking to between 500 and 600 teenagers in six sessions at Hereford High School Friday, Hill told the gathering at the Community Center for the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism meeting that he had been "railroaded" into Alcoholics Anonymous.

"In a strange twist of fate it turned out that my next-door neighbor in 1951 was a member of AA," he said. "My wife talked to him and they railroaded me to my first meeting."

Although he admitted that this practice may not be the best way to handle most alcoholics, it had worked in his case. However, Hill pointed out that he did not fit the mold of the alcoholic "image." He said that he never lost a job due to his drinking, nor had he ever lost his family. On the contrary, he had gone "uphill" in his profession. "But I was bored," he said.

But Hill said that he had made a serious mistake after a little more than a year in AA. He had tried to take care of another alcoholic all by himself (they are supposed to go in pairs). The alcoholic had spilled wine all over him and the urge to drink had returned. But it turned out that he did not take "that first drink" and it proved to be the beginning of his understanding of "God as we understand Him."

After trying all the other religions, he said that he began to go toward the God of Christianity. "Why do we try everything else when it is so simple to have the best?"

But he said there were other problems — such as his wife telling him finally that she wished he would drink again "so that I would know where you are." (He had spent almost every night with AA meetings). "Now that is something that I didn't need to hear!" But he said that all of this changed when his wife became active in Al-Anon and came to understand that he "had a responsibility toward other alcoholics."

Hill also advised that young people should attend AA and Al-Anon meetings for an understanding of themselves. Asked what he thought was the current greatest peril for alcoholics, Hill stated it was television. "I have seen too many alcoholics go home for an evening in front of the boob tube and come out drunk. The boob tube has subliminal advertising on the subject that conquers us. In my area, they show the people on a boat in Chesapeake Bay on the rail just having a wonderful time with liquor. But they never show the same boat coming back with these same people — who have turned green — hanging over the rail!" Hill said that he did not own a television set and had no plans to buy one. Saturday became a full day with "bull sessions" with teenagers in a private home in Hereford, and he is scheduled to speak at the Homebuilders Class at the First United Methodist Church at 10 a. m. today before going to the Avenue Baptist Church.

But Hill said, "I like to talk to the young people. After all, I had my first drink when I was fourteen."

He had become chief engineer for a company by the time he was 28 and was transferred to England. "I ran around with the Rolls Royce crowd there — they would be called the Jet Set now. And I drank along with them continually." He was transferred back here as supervisor over Canada and North America — and he continued drinking. He finally formed his own company.

But he said that he was an after 5 p. m. drinker. "I had heard that those who drank in the mornings were alcoholics." Hill related that in 1951 he had attempted suicide by mixing "pills" with liquor and water. "But I couldn't hold it on my stomach. In those days I wasn't used to water!"

After going to AA, he said, he knew what they stood for would work. "I had been in science all my life. I had long been accustomed to making problems on paper work. It simply required a man's ability. And since that time, I have not been bored one time!"

Guests Give Program For Guild, Circle

Guests of St. Anthony's Guild for a salad supper in the parish school auditorium Thursday evening were the speakers, the two European students in Hereford High School under the American Field Service program, also members of the Antonion Circle who were invited to hear the special program.

Sharon Watson, whose home is in Sale, England, and Theo ten Have, from Holland, were the program guests who each told of his home, family, school and country, showing pictures on slides to illustrate.

Miss Watson was accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. Grant Hanna and her daughter, Joette, in whose home the English girl is living during the school term. Other visitors in addition to Circle members were Mrs. David McClure and Mrs. Albert Simmacher.

The door prize for the evening went to Mrs. Simmacher. Hostesses were Mmes. Eddie Reinauer, Edward Beznar, Mark Koenig and Mark Lindeman.

Coach Eddie Crowder of Colorado called Mike Schnitzer "the best defensive end in the country" for 1968. He was drafted by the Denver Broncos.

WINGLESS AIRCRAFT — This wingless aircraft, called a lifting body, is one of the many exhibits being shown at the Sugarland Mall by the United States Air Force. The exhibits will be at the Mall until Tuesday afternoon.

AF Equipment Is On Exhibit At Mall

A wingless aircraft called a lifting body, is on display at Sugarland Mall through the courtesy of the United States Air Force and will be on the Mall parking lot until Tuesday afternoon.

A lifting body is a wingless craft which derives aerodynamic lift from the shape of its fuselage alone. It may replace the parachute-descent atmosphere re-entry system now used by our astronauts.

Both the U. S. Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) are presently developing manned lifting bodies to test this concept.

The Air Force's lifting body, the rocket-powered X-24, is designed to explore flight characteristics at speeds from above 1,000 miles per hour down through landing speeds of below 200 miles per hour.

The test program calls for the X-24 to be carried aloft by a B-52 mother ship and released at an altitude of 45,000 feet.

First test flights, which are planned for later this year, will be conducted without rocket power. The pilot will maneuver the craft in a powerless glide to a landing at the Air Force Flight Test Center at Edwards Air Force Base, California.

On later flights, the X-24 will be hurled to an altitude of 100,000 feet by its 8,000 pound thrust Thiokol XLR-11 rocket engine. The pilot will then shut off the engine and maneuver the craft back to earth.

The Air Force already has tested the X-24 shape — a flat iron without a handle — in orbit at hypersonic speeds with smaller, unmanned models put into space by Atlas boosters in 1966 and 1967. They were successfully maneuvered by remote control back through the atmosphere to their prescribed landing zones in the Pacific Ocean.

The X-24 is 24 feet long and 10 feet high, with a span of nearly 14 feet. It is constructed primarily of aluminum alloy and stainless steel and weighs 10,700 pounds fueled.

Future uses of lifting bodies may include ferrying crews and supplies to space stations, satellite inspection and repair, and space rescue. Their expected adaptability to many uses could mean economical mass production, and a further stimulus to routine space flight.

The model now on display at the Mall does not represent any specific existing vehicle, but will provide visitors a clear visual impression of an important space travel concept.

Two From YHT Attend Annual Activity Day

Mrs. Jim Culpepper and Mrs. Charles Weatherford represented the Hereford Chapter, Young Homemakers of Texas, at the annual Activity Day for Area I in Plainview Friday. Rural electric cooperatives of the area sponsor this event each year.

Beginning with coffee at 9:30 a. m., the day included talks and demonstrations of interest to the young homemakers, social periods and a luncheon. Clark Ellzey, professor of home and family life at Texas Tech, gave the principal address on Parenthood.

Josephine Blanch, home economist with Corning Ware, showed the new concept of electric stoves from that company, a "counter that cooks." Representatives of a Lubbock craft shop demonstrated mod purses. Wayne Martin, manager of the caster oil mill at Plainview, spoke of production of that product.

Cultural Club Will Repeat Cited Project

Work again on a project which has earned citations the past two years for Cultural Home Demonstration Club was planned by members at a meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. Grady Parsons. The group will make and fill ditty bags for U. S. servicemen in Vietnam.

These bags, filled with such small gifts as writing material, toilet articles and games, are sent by the American Red Cross for distribution at Christmas to men in combat areas. Cultural Club has received two citations for past work.

Mrs. M. W. Sumner and Mrs. J. G. Gandy gave the program Friday, on Money Management and Credit. Preceding their talks Mrs. J. D. Love read a poem, Children.

A rummage sale to raise funds for club projects was set for May 17 in the former J. C. Penney store location on Main Street. The next club meeting will be a guest luncheon at the

Gibson Expands By One-Third

Grand opening for Gibson Discount Center's new grocery department addition is scheduled Monday.

Gibson manager Jim Anderson reported that approximately 10,000 square feet has been added to the store which now gives them about 30,000 square feet of space. "We have also enlarged all the other departments in the store to handle a larger and more complete variety of merchandise."

Anderson said that it was Gibson's first expansion program for Hereford after being in business here five years.

The store is owned by Delmer Watkins and Chester Thompson who also own stores in Pampa, Borger and Canyon.

Management of the grocery department has been assigned to Gregory Rodriguez. Recently out of the service, Rodriguez formerly was employed in Hereford with Taylor & Sons.

Anderson has been manager of Gibson Discount Center in Hereford since January 1968.

Red Cross Asks For Flood Aid

Floodwaters are pounding at the levees from Eau Claire and La Crosse, Wisconsin, across Minnesota to Sioux Falls and other areas in South Dakota, the Sioux City area in Iowa, and the Red River areas in North Dakota. Thousands of families have been evacuated in Minot and Jamestown and are being fed and sheltered by the Red Cross.

A big battle is being conducted by Civil Defense and other government agencies to hold the dikes and avoid more serious flooding, particularly in the heavily-populated areas. Red Cross is feeding the workers who are building the levees higher and strengthening the weak places.

The Red Cross has served over 143,000 meals since the beginning of the operation. More than 9,500 workers are being fed daily by Red Cross mobile canteens and stationary feeding centers. The latest count shows over 4,700 families affected in the disaster area with the possibility of additional thousands by the times the crests are reached.

To meet the emergency, Red Cross has placed 55 trained disaster specialists to work with over 5,000 volunteers actively engaged in the present feeding operation and caring for the needs of the families.

Donations for the flood victims will be accepted in Hereford at the Red Cross office.

"We are not making a drive for funds," Rodney Laubahn said, "but those wishing to contribute for this relief are asked to send contributions to Dept. Smith County Red Cross office, 319 Sampson."

Art Fair Set This Afternoon

Artists and craftsmen at work and available to talk of their work will be featured at the Art Fair which Hereford Art Guild will sponsor from 1 to 6 p. m. today in Community Center. The public is invited without charge, Mrs. Mark Schaffner, Guild president, emphasizes. A special attraction will be a demonstration of painting in oils by Ben Konis, Amarillo painter and teacher, at 2 p. m. Booths have been reserved for displays by artists of West Texas State University, Friona and Amarillo in addition to Hereford. Much of the work shown will be on sale.

The Art Fair will be one of three events this afternoon for area residents interested in art. A two-week exhibit of the work of Bob Taylor of Cordell, Okla., will open in the lobby of First National Bank. Hours today are 1 to 5 p. m. At the same time, Deaf Smith County Museum will be open and will have on exhibit for the last day, prize paintings from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce art contest. Both the Taylor paintings and those on view at the museum feature scenes of the Southwest. No admission is charged to any of these exhibits.

Guests Entertained At Mon Amis Program

Husbands of members and other guests were entertained by Mon Amis Study Club members in Community Center Friday evening, when Sharon Watson, AFS student from England in Hereford High School, presented the program. The group found Miss Watson's pictures of the English countryside, shown on colored slides, especially attractive. Also shown were views of cities and informal pictures taken in the student's home city, Sale. She spoke informally and answered questions. An ice cream supper was served to a guest couple, Mr. and Mrs. Mieckler, the speaker and her Hereford "sister" during her year in school here, Joette Hanna; also to members and their husbands, Messrs. and Mmes. Dale Christie, Raymond Wiley, David Hutchins and Richard Sims, Mrs. J. D. Greeson and Mrs. Jack White.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Miss Nanetta Clearman of Cleburne, formerly of Summerfield, and Gary Steven Thompson of Canyon are to be married June 12, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clearman, announce. The Clearman family lived in Summerfield community before moving several months ago to Route 1, Gorman. Miss Clearman, who teaches now at Joshua, near Cleburne, is a graduate of Hereford High School and Wayland Baptist College at Plainview. The wedding is to be solemnized in Kokomo Baptist Church near Gorman.

Mrs. Parsley To Head Club

Named president of Calliopean Study Club for next season was Mrs. Gene Parsley, in the annual election Thursday evening. The club met in Hereford Country Club with Mrs. Cameron Gault as hostess and heard a program of unusual interest by a member, Mrs. Tom Kendrick. To serve with Mrs. Parsley after installation in May, Mrs. J. T. Gilbreath Jr. was elected vice president, Mrs. Kendrick secretary, Mrs. David Gibbs correspondent, Mrs. Millard Nobles treasurer, Mrs. Emmett Milburn reporter and the current president, Mrs. George Warner, parliamentarian. They were elected after report of the nominating committee, Mmes. Emil Dettman, C. J. Crump and Sue James. Mrs. Kendrick, speaking on Mental Retardation, based the talk on first-hand experience as a teacher of mentally retarded children for five years, one year in Hereford schools. She spoke of progress in educational methods to aid these children, and a new attitude of the public which accepts the mentally handicapped person as one who can take a useful place in society. Mrs. Kendrick had special training for this type of teaching, at the University of Texas in Austin, after receiving her degree from Hardin-Simmons University. Plans were made for members to assist the Campfire Girls group sponsored by Calliopean Club at a garage sale to be held to raise funds for summer camp expenses. A schedule was made for hostess duty of members at Deaf Smith County Museum in May. A dessert course was served to the officers-elect, nominating committee and Mmes. Roy Grubbs, D. W. Palmer, Clyde Cave and D. C. McWhorter.

Cast Of Charley's Aunt Has Acting Experience

Climaxing its first season, Hereford Community Players will present the comedy, Charley's Aunt, in two performances this weekend in La Plata School auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p. m. Friday and Saturday.

In the cast of 10 are a number of actors previously seen on Hereford stages, as well as a few new to audiences here. John Gilliland and Bessie Wood are directing.

John Murdock, who has the leading role of a college youth masquerading as a fellow-student's elderly aunt, has appeared in LaPlata faculty plays, demonstrating a flair for comedy which has full scope in the present appearance. He is a science teacher at LaPlata.

As Charley Wykeham, another of the trio of Oxford students in the 1890's setting, is Rodney Laubhan who has played major parts in the annual LaPlata shows while he was on the faculty there. He became assistant principal at Bluebonnet School this year.

The third student, Jack Chesney, is portrayed by John Gilliland, the co-director, who in his student days at Hereford High School appeared in an earlier version of Charley's Aunt, playing the "aunt." He is associated in a family firm, Gilliland Funeral Home.

Murdock's role is that of Lord Fancourt Babberley, a modest though titled student who has been chosen for an old woman's part in a university play and because he has the costume, is pressed into the masquerade by the other two boys.

They insist on his help because they must have a chaperone when they entertain their sweethearts at tea in their rooms, and they have just been notified that Charley's aunt, who was to have been the chaperone, will not arrive in time.

She is Dona Lucia d'Alvadorez, an Englishwoman who is returning home after being left a wealthy widow in Brazil. The real Dona Lucia, who arrives unexpectedly to complicate the comedy plot, is enacted by Lorene Johnson, a housewife, and teacher of private art classes. She was seen as the jittery maid in the HCP production of Blithe Spirit last fall.

The girls who come to tea are Amy Spettigue and Kitty Verdun, pretty and proper English maidens of the period, depicted by Carole Byers and Deborah Baker, each in real life a young wife and the mother of two.

Mrs. Byers, employe of Hi-plains Savings and Loan Association, is remembered for her performance as the wacky medium in Blithe Spirit. Mrs. Baker lives in Summerfield community where her husband farms.

An unassuming young woman to whom Babberley would like to pay court if he were not handicapped by his disguise, Ela Delahay is played by Viola Moore, also the mother of two children and wife of Dale Moore, a member of the play's stage and lighting crew.

A principal comedy role is that of Ed Schroeter as Stephen Spettigue, a pompous lawyer, uncle of Amy and guardian of Kitty, who wants to marry Dona Lucia for her money.

His rival for the hand of the eccentric "aunt" is Sir Francis Chesney, Jack's father, less greedy but convinced that he must recoup his fortunes for his son's sake. Bill McDonald appears as Sir Francis. Schroeter manages a commodity brokerage office here and McDonald is a science teacher.

Brassett, the "gentlemen's gentleman" who is not only servant but confidant and sometimes money-lender to the students, completes the cast. Chick Holbert and Fred Howard alternate in this role.

Hereford Band Takes UIL Sweepstakes

The Hereford High School Band, directed by Ben Gollehon, was sweepstakes winner at the University Interscholastic League Contest held in Amarillo Thursday.

In competition with 12 AAA bands, Hereford was the only band to bring home a sweepstakes.

They are making preparations to attend the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi where they will be competing with AAA bands from all over Texas.

SIGN OF THE TIMES
MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Another bit of Mississippi River lore is about to pass away.

For years the U. S. Engineers has posted the river stage on a large sign on the bluff overlooking the river for the benefit of the pilots guiding the big Mississippi towboats.

But that information is available now — much faster — by radio and the engineers say they are thinking about removing the sign.

April Bride Honored With Evening Shower

A shower complimenting Mrs. Richard Kreycik, who before her marriage April 7 was Miss Susie Hassell, was given in the Blue Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Company Thursday evening.

Mrs. Kreycik and her mother, Mrs. W. W. Stansbury, received callers and opened gift packages to display the contents. Guests registered in the bride's book where Miss Marilyn Collier presided.

Misses Sandra Collier and Elaine Parker served refreshments from a table where a pink color note was stressed. A lace cloth was laid over pink and sweetpeas in shades of pink made the centerpiece.

In the hostess party were Mrs. Joe B. Bridges, Mrs. Jim Harris, Misses Betty and Ellen Bridges, Patricia Collier and Donna Parker.

Sunday Is Family Day

"We have only one day to ourselves — that's Sunday — and we try to spend it being a family," says Mrs. Bill Gilbert, a Hereford resident who moved here almost a year ago from Rockport, Mo.

"Some people might think we are dull," she said, "but that's the way we like it, always making a point not to do anything unless we do it as a family." She says she guessed people could get too busy, but when the whole family is busy together, it makes it nice.

The Gilberts came here from a very small town in Missouri where they had lived for three years. They have met many new friends and Mrs. Gilbert says the entire family loves it here. However, she said, we were warned by friends that this country was so terribly windy that we wouldn't like it here, but it isn't much different than Missouri except the humidity is so much lower here and that we like."

Mr. Gilbert worked for Missouri Beef Packers at Rockport and when the plant was opened at Friona he transferred here as assistant manager.

Mrs. Gilbert keeps busy with her work at the Northwest School Cafeteria and being a housewife and homemaker for her family of seven. She loves to cook and sew and especially work in the yard. Last year, she said, we were busy just getting the yard in, now I have time for planting flowers, which is my favorite."

The Gilberts 18-year-old twins, Steve and Linda, who graduated from high school the night preceding the Gilbert's move to Texas, are commuting to Draughons Business College in Amarillo. They had their hearts set on attending West Texas State University this year but because of the fact that in Missouri, only one year of math was required to attend the college they had planned on attending, they had to make up an extra year of math to meet the requirements at WT.

The Gilberts' other three children are strung out through

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

This is error correction time down at the old Internal Revenue Service. Of course many taxpayers get a nice little letter from the computer asking them to correct some little error such as a wrong social security number, no W-2's or not enough W-2's, or missing signatures.

In most cases you simply fill out the form that the computer folks send to you and send it back and the computer does the rest.

However, communication is a two-way process-Internal Revenue also hears from thousands of taxpayers who forgot to include three Hereford schools. Mike is a junior student in high school, 15 year-old Mary Alice is a ninth grader at LaPlata and young Carol Anne is in the third grade at Northwest.

Linda and Mike are both accomplished musicians on the piano and organ and Steve, who plays mostly by ear, likes to play the guitar.

The family attends the Christian Church and Linda has furnished organ music for the church at times.

some item of income or who forgot to take a very important deduction or tax credit that is worth money to the taxpayer.

The good tax folks are always happy to have taxpayers correct their errors, but they insist that "X marks the spot." If you are going to amend your return, please send in a 1040X. This raises the red flag to the tax folks who feed the information to the computer, that you have already filed a return that is incorrect, but here is the correct information. When the computer gets the 1040X information it usually takes a few thousandths of a second to realign all the wrong information, send you a refund check, give you credit for the extra tax, or even send you a bill. The thing to remember — put it on a 1040X, when you amend or correct your tax return.

Feedlot Course At WT In Fall

CANYON — Dr. James "Jim" E. Cook, Amarillo veterinarian, was named coordinator of a new feedlot management course to be offered at West Texas State University next fall, Dr. Charles Smallwood, head of the Department of Agriculture at the University, said Saturday.

The new feedlot management course, created in response to the rapid growth of feedlots in the five-state Amarillo trade area, will be offered to junior and senior students. It will be part of a feedlot management option in the animal science major which includes pertinent animal science, biological, economic and business courses within the new area of study.

The course of study will lay a sound foundation for the student to enter graduate school in animal science or, after an internship in the profession, move into management positions within the feedlot industry. Smallwood said.

UP IN THE WORLD
NEW DELHI — The Indian Mountaineering Foundation, which has been in existence 16 years, has so far sponsored 50 expeditions to peaks ranging between 18,000 and 19,000 feet.

The inspiration to found the group came when Tenzing Norgay stood on top of the 29,028-foot Mt. Everest in 1953.

Since then, an Indian expedition has climbed Everest, and one member, Nawang Gombu, climbed it twice on two successive days. It is still a record.

Forty-four 1-6 games were played in the National League last season, a major league record.

Another Dance

At the last meeting of the Catholic Youth Organization, Linda Kluskens and Carmen Malouf were appointed historians. Their duties will include recording the activities of the CYO and taking pictures for a year-book.

Michelle Beckman, Margie Paetzold, and Margaret Schiabs received praise for making up a fruit basket for presentation at King's Manor. Also presented was a song program. Brother John opened and closed the entertainment with a talk that pertained to Easter. Stephen Dziuk was the narrator.

Another dance is planned by the CYO at the Generation Gap. It was announced. The date will be set later.

A recent dance there sponsored by St. Anthony's CYO was attended by a reported 200 high school students. A few days later, they sponsored a skating party at the Hereford Playhouse.

A car wash is being planned for Saturday beginning at 9:30 a. m. on the St. Anthony's Church grounds. President Wendell Albracht is in charge of the project.

A picnic is set for Sunday, May 18, at Palo Duro Canyon

H.D. CHATTER
Story Book Farm

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

Three miles southwest of town a few first glances made me think I had stepped into a story-book of Troy's Visit to the Farm or that I was seeing things or both. A local farmer can show hogs, sheep, goats, chickens, cattle, horses, rabbits, cats and dogs. In fact, name it

State Park. Bus will leave the school ground at 1 a. m., they reported.

Constitution of the CYO of St. Anthony's Parish is set for review with prospects of being updated with Vatican II in mind, it was reported. Members who are set for review are Sandy Betzen, Judy Bezner, Evelyn Kuper, Souad Malouf, Margaret Schiabs, Carole Turrentine, Frank Bezner, Chris Dziuk, Jeff Loerwald, Art Reinauer, and Harold Schmucker.

The two members of the CYO Club who now represent the Parish Advisory Council are Stephen Dziuk and Dolores Betzen.

and look around and likely it is on the O'Dean Nixon farm. If you mention other animals, O'Dean has knowledge of their nature and probably sometime in his farming experience has raised some of them.

The O'Dean Nixons moved here in 1947 representing the American Crystal Sugar Company, but in recent years most of their time and interest has been with livestock, especially hog raising. The Nixons were childhood sweethearts and married soon after school in Colorado. They have no children of their own, but are rearing two nephews — Allen and Gary Dunning. Both boys share enthusiasm for livestock raising and often the responsibility of the hogs is left completely with them, and O'Dean proudly admits they do an expert job.

The basic goal in a commercial hog operation is to produce large litters of fast-growing, efficient, muscular market hogs. Superb knowledge in sound production, management, and hard work seem to be the ingredients for success in a hog program. Visual appraisal coupled with common sense seems to add the magic to the ingredients.

As no breed has a monopoly on all desirable traits, and from years of study of crossbreeding, O'Dean has what he considers a very effective cross. Hogs on this farm are a three way cross of Landrace, Duroc and Hampshire. This scientific crossing results in more pigs farrowed, stronger pigs at birth, faster growth, and more pigs weaned. Naturally, selection for crossbreeding is made so strong traits of one breed will complement the strong points of the other and results in a better combination of traits in the offspring. Thus, a well planned crossbreeding program yields increased production efficiency, according to O'Dean's record keeping.

The sows are left in the pasture until a few days before farrowing time when they are moved into farrowing houses and special rations are fed. There are 10 individual farrowing houses designed to protect the newly born pigs and 15 farrowing pens in the barn. Any hog producer knows he must be on duty when the sow farrows to save the most pigs possible, which can mean the difference in profit and loss. O'Dean says the sows usually have eight or nine pigs, but some sows consistently have 13 pigs. Erratic weather and temperamental sows have cut the average litter this year.

The feed is mixed at the farm. It is felt this gives nutritionally balanced feed for hogs of all ages and in different stages of production and it is also more economical.

Most of the pigs from the farm are sold to others to feed and market as top hogs. However, breeding stock is sold and many prize winning show pigs have come from the Nixon farm. Also, lambs sold to 4-H and FFA members have taken their share of honors at the shows. Hogs shown at the large shows all over the Mid-west. This is a very good way of advertising the breeding stock.

Pork production is by no means a new industry to the area. Income from hogs has been consistently good for a long time for both large and small operators. There are many hog producers in our area along with the Area Pork Association. This organization is aiding in better production of pork to continue furnishing the housewife with quality pork. Yes, pork production has been good for our economy.

As the squealing of the pigs faded, I kept wondering about what I saw or thought I saw: nine different breeds of fowls and animals on one farm; a soft spoken farmer transplanted from Colorado to the Plains of Texas to help set the pace for innovations in the swine business; a sow with 15 babies and, as though that was not enough, she had some neighbor pigs visiting at mealtime; AND most of all I wondered why I left the kitchen, sewing machine and management course to get so involved in a hog story. As I was involved, I hope I haven't hammed it up.

When Bill Mazerowski of the Pittsburgh Pirates led the major leagues in assists at second base last year, he set a major league record. It was his ninth time as leader in assists.

ACTIVITIES TO MARK END OF SCHOOL

With each passing day, the end of school approaches. Various activities at Hereford High School help in getting the students anxious for that final day.

ANNUALS ARE HERE! — The 1969 Round-up was distributed to DHS students Tuesday afternoon. After the pushing and shoving to be the first, or among the first, to receive theirs, the students found the nearest place to sit and look at the book of memories.

GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENTS — For the seniors, the arrival of the announcements of graduation is a big sign that their high school career is fast coming to an end.

STATE FHA CHORUS MEMBERS — Girls going to Dallas to participate in the State FHA Convention as delegates are, left to right, standing, Sharon Watson, AFS student, Diana Adams and Nadine Tice, seated, Marlena Kelly and Shirley Turner.

WESTERN DAY — A favorite among all high school students, and faculty, is western day. Western clothes of all kinds, from big sombreros, ponchos and cowboy hats to squaw beads and feathers are worn.

It's Clean Up Time

The week of April 28th to May 3rd has been designated as "Clean-up, Fix-up, Paint-up" Week in Hereford to encourage local citizens to concentrate their efforts this week in cleaning up the alleys, getting needed repairs made on homes (including new paint where needed) and in general, making an effort to beautify Hereford.

Stick With It Spiro

Have you noticed that the television jokes about Vice President Spiro Agnew have begun to thin out a little bit? The mere mention of his name is no longer good for an automatic laugh. Even the tired gag "Spiro Who?" is beginning to fall flat. The syndicated newspaper columnists, too, are beginning to ease up on the Vice President. Most of them are down to one or two jibes a week?

What's happened? Has Spiro Agnew changed? Have the political wits and the professional funny men run out of jokes? Has the Vice President not put his foot in his mouth lately? Possibly all of those. But we'll tell you what we think has happened. We think the political humorists have run up against a basic and deeply ingrained trait of the American people: the instinctive sympathy for the under dog. When a man gets kicked around too much, most Americans begin to feel uncomfortable they begin to swing over to his side.

Furthermore, the feeling grows that Mr. Agnew isn't such a bad sort, after all. The worst that could be said of him during the campaign was that he was relatively inexperienced in the political big time, and that on occasion he spoke before he thought and came out with a booboo. Like the time he carelessly referred to a reporter as a "fat Jap" instead of a distinguished, if heavy-set Nipponese.

It's beginning to dawn on most of us that we have a lot in common with Mr. Agnew: we too have been known to say something the wrong way, to make a slip of the tongue. Since the campaign of the Vice President has been very quiet. He has also been working very hard and—in the tasks assigned him—getting some solid if unspectacular results. More than a few of the experts who made such fun of the former Governor of Maryland are beginning to have second thoughts about his ability.

We are beginning to suspect that as time goes by, the much maligned Vice President of the United States will rise, rather than fall, in public esteem. We suspect that the beating he has taken from the smart-alecks will boomerang. We suspect that already a feeling of sympathy for Spiro Agnew is beginning to transform itself into a sneaking admiration for the guy. — Washington (Ia.) Journal

Our city has had a reputation in years past of being one of the cleanest, neatest little cities in the area, but unfortunately, in the past few years we have fallen behind in this effort. Motorists who discard drink cups, cigarette packages and other litter from their vehicles, and owners of drive-in eating establishments who do not bother to clean up the litter after the day's business, have aggravated the situation.

But these people are not the only ones to blame. Alleys throughout the city are a disgrace. Weeds have grown up behind fences, trash barrels without lids have been turned over by dogs, vacant lots have been allowed to become cluttered and in many cases, last year's crop of weeds has not been removed.

All these things need to be considered this week during the annual clean-up campaign. Certainly, everything cannot be done in one week, but with a little concerted effort between April 28th and May 3rd, we will have moved a long way towards our goal. We would also suggest that automobile owners purchase litter containers for their cars. These containers are not expensive and do help to keep the automobile clean as well as alleviating the need for discarding trash "out the window."

Let's make a special effort this week to clean up our city. And let's keep it that way throughout the year.

Bankers Should Be Bankers

Other day, Federal Reserve Chairman Martin said banks should not raise the "prime" interest rate again but should instead "ration credit." In the current effort to curb inflation, the chairman's comment raises a couple of questions.

It's perfectly true that high and rising interest rates can and do create serious problems for potential borrowers. It's also true, though, that a prime function of interest rates is to ration credit among potential users.

Interest rates may not always perform this task with 100 percent efficiency, but by and large they do the job well. The borrower who is willing to offer the highest price for credit is usually the one who feels he can put the funds to the most productive use. Is Mr. Martin suggesting that this market mechanism should not be allowed to operate?

Both the Federal Reserve chairman and Presidential economic adviser McCracken have stressed that high interest rates are a result, not the cause, of inflation. Mr. McCracken notes that the "real" return to lenders — after allowing for the erosion in the purchasing power of the dollar — is about the same as it was five years ago.

Once inflation is brought under control, then, interest rates in all probability will begin to decline. Perhaps no further substantial interest rate increases are needed, although some bankers seem to think otherwise. In any case, it would be dubious policy now to hold interest rates below the level needed to equate the supply of credit with the demand.

The second question concerns Mr. Martin's statement that the Reserve System is putting "pressure" on banks to ration credit. The Fed is indeed limiting credit expansion simply by limiting the funds the banks have available to lend. Beyond that it should be enough for the System, and other supervisory authorities, to make sure that bankers tend to their business.

A banker with any concern for his institution's solvency, for instance, will think twice before he lends to a firm that wants to enlarge output or inventory beyond reasonably foreseeable demand. Thoughtful bankers, too, will be cautious about extending credit for speculation, especially with securities markets in their present uncertain state; it isn't the business of banks to abet gamblers.

In other words banks, in the normal course of their operations, always have in a sense rationed credit, and presumably will continue to do so. What's good for a bank may not always be good for the economy, but what's bad for the economy is nearly always bad for a bank.

With more than 14,000 banks in the country, there obviously are some bankers who are less careful and conscientious than others. But for the most part, we suspect, bankers will go on being bankers. — The Wall Street Journal

MAIN STREET, U. S. A.

Representative Wilbur Mills To Spearhead Spending Cuts

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Businessmen generally vote Republican and when they succeed in getting a G. O. P. President elected they are usually disillusioned to learn that the Republican Administration is by no means as friendly toward business as they had expected.

This attitude of disillusionment is common right now. President Nixon has been in office three months and most of the news that businessmen have been getting from Washington does not make pleasant reading for the corporate fraternity. Taxes are going to be kept high, mergers are going to be attacked as never before, and one-bank holding companies are going to be curbed.

Postal rate increases are going to be sought again, an activist is running the consumer program, and the Antitrust Division of the Justice Department is talking tough on monopoly matters. It is enough to make the business community wonder if the right man won the election after all.

The Federal Communications Commission is cracking down in numerous areas, the Federal Trade Commission is acting hostile, and the Security and Exchange Commission is just as militant as ever. Would things have been any worse if Hubert Humphrey were in the White House, business leaders are speculating.

Newspapers which lent editorial support to the Nixon ticket find they are under increasing government attack, from the Justice Department, FCC, FTC, and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Even the Supreme Court does not appear to have read the election returns.

Budget News Not Good

President Nixon has now completed his review of the 1970 Budget originally prepared by the Johnson Administration. A series of "corrections" have been sent to Congress but they are surprisingly modest. Republicans who expected major spending cuts are disappointed.

The revised Budget calls for paring the original spending figures by only $4 billion to only $192.9 billion. Four billion dollars is a lot of money but the cut appears insignificant when it is realized it amounts to less than 2 percent.

One key Democrat on Capitol Hill also shares the Republican feeling that Nixon has not cut deeply enough. Chairman Wilbur Mills (D., Ark.) of the House Ways and Means Committee has concluded that a $4 billion cut is not nearly enough and has announced plans to try to pare spending an additional $5 billion.

It will be recalled that it was Rep. Mills who led the fight to curb spending a year ago. He succeeded in imposing cuts bitterly opposed at the White House. Congress listens to Mills on money matters and his track record for success is excellent.

So there is prospect of another fight between Congress and President over spending, with Nixon cast in the role of a spender. As usual, the economy pressure will come from the House, whose members are closest to the people.

Cuts Called "First Step"

The Budget Bureau document supporting the Nixon Budget admitted that the cuts proposed are only "the first step in establishing control over Federal spending" and said the review "marks the beginning of a major effort to redirect the course of Federal programs in domestic affairs."

Taxpayers will hope these forecasts come true. Government spending is a major cause of inflation and Nixon supporters are anxious that he make good his pledge to curb that devil.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnsongrass farm seems confused by the scientists this week, which is as good a way as any to be confused.

Dear editor:

I was out here on this Johnsongrass farm yesterday wandering around seeing if there's any likely spot here for building one of those ABM's, after all, you can't rely on the accuracy of a gunner, foreign or domestic, and a guided missile aimed at some metropolitan center or even at Hereford might just as easily sail by this place. My theory is that if the world ever gets into a guided missile war, the things are all going off like children's skyrocketers in all directions and it may be years before anybody knows who won. Won't even know which country is supposed to feed the other.

The reason I was hunting for a possible site is that just that morning I'd read that a group of scientists testified in Washington that the Anti-Ballistic Missile system will work, that it can sense an incoming missile, take off and blast it out of the sky.

However, that afternoon I ran across another newspaper and read that another group of scientists had testified that the system won't work, that you can't build a system that'll keep out a tenth of the missiles aimed at this country if somebody lights the fuses.

This is the trouble with listening to two different groups of experts. One bunch of scientists, their pockets stuffed with credentials, says the system will work, another bunch with pockets just as full says it won't.

You mean to say scientists are like psychiatrists? I don't suppose there ever was a murder trail since psychiatry was invented where you couldn't get one psychiatrist to say the accused is sane, another to say he's insane.

I suppose it's still true that with all the scientific information available, a man still has to rely on horse sense, and that doesn't always work as I've seen a lot of horses as loco as some people.

A man usually knows where to turn, but I will delay working the piece of land where I figured it would be a good place to put an ABM until the country reaches a unanimous decision on the matter. It ought to have a good stand of timber on it by then.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — Lily Langtry, the English actress who achieved world fame in the 1890's, died believing that a Texas town was named for her. It wasn't.

Judge Roy Bean, the famed "Law West of the Pecos" and long-time Val Verde County peace justice, started the legend because he was fascinated by Miss Langtry. She had come originally from the Isle of Jersey and billed herself as "The Jersey Lily." Bean named his combination store, pool hall and courtroom at Langtry in her honor, but the sign painter couldn't spell and it came out "The Jersey Lilly."

Bean never met Miss Langtry but he wrote her many long letters which she never answered. She finally acknowledged one in which he told her what he had named the town of Langtry for her.

Langtry actually was named for a construction foreman who built what is now the Southern Pacific Railroad. It got its name long before Bean moved there and made it famous.

GOAL ART — Visitors to San Marcos have no problem finding the Hays County Jail.

Over the jail entrance is a large silhouette of a prisoner slumped in a seated position with a large ball and chain attached to his leg. The sculpture, cut from steel and painted red, has identified the county prison for years.

TRAVELING TEXAS — Fossati's Delicatessen in Victoria, which claims to be the oldest continuously operated eatery in Texas, has been serving up its Italian cold cuts and beer since 1882.

THE MAIL BAG — "Why doesn't Kilgore remove the more than 1,000 oil derricks that clutter its business district?" ask Mrs. H. B. of Vernon.

Kilgore — which has more oil derricks than any other town in the world — finds them such a top tourist attraction that it even puts lights on them at Christmas. They have been a part of the local landscape since the great East Texas oil boom of the 1930's. The derricks were left in place because they are needed when the wells are cleaned and repaired.

Derricks of this kind are rarely used today. In newer oil fields, portable rigs are used for drilling and are moved away as soon as the wells are completed.

TEXAS FIRST — Texas may be the land of cows and cotton, but it's also the favorite home of the butterfly.

According to the Texas Memorial Museum at The University of Texas, butterflies prefer the Lone Star State as a habitat. Butterfly-watchers have identified 327 species in Texas, far more than in any other state.

Central Texas is the special haven of these moths, with 180 species counted.

C. V. Taylor and son, R. E., were in Saturday from their ranch east of town. Mr. Taylor says that he already has the seed for a large crop in the ground and only needs a good rain to start it shooting upward, and he has the requisite faith to believe that the moisture will come in ample time for his purposes.

50 YEARS AGO — 1919

The Government airplanes to aid in the Fifth Liberty Loan drive are scheduled to arrive in Hereford Saturday. The hour of their arrival is, of course, unknown. The School Board of the Hereford Independent District met Monday night. Prof. L. M. Fertsch was unanimously re-elected as Superintendent for the next school year. The Board also voted to add another teacher in the high school on account of increased attendance, and to reinstate the Manual Training Department. The Board considered that we were not paying enough attention to the physical training of the students and will select a Manual Training Teacher who will also be physical director.

Friday night will be one of the high spots of the year, so far as the seniors are concerned, when the class play, "Trouble Ahead," is produced in the high school auditorium at 8:15 p. m. In the cast are Beatrice Buchanan, Virginia Line, Sidney Fuller, Loys Carmichael, Nancy Conkright, Bettye Jones, Barbara Buckner, Henry Jowell, Basil McKinley, Dean Story, Sallie Gilbreath, and Troys Carmichael.

The Deaf Smith County Hospital unit which has spread from an inadequate medical center for a growing town to a modern 40-room hospital, completely equipped with the newest conveniences, may be ready to open about the first of June. At the Star: Robert Mitchum, Barbara Bel Geddes and Robert Preston in "Blood on the Moon," a lusty tale of the West's most violent range war. With Walter Brennan.

5 YEARS AGO — 1964

Hereford's four financial institutions, reflecting the continuing growth of Hereford, hit a new all-time high for deposits as revealed by the April 15 bank call. The two banks, the credit union and a savings and loan association had total deposits of $30,954,870.92 as of the close of business April 15. Edgar Skypala was listed in fair condition at the Deaf Smith County Hospital, following a 2-car collision shortly before 4 p. m. Wednesday. Skypala's milk truck and a car driven by Donald Farmer, 212 Ave. J, collided at the intersection of McKinley and Fifth avenues and both vehicles continued traveling in a northerly direction according to investigating officers.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Without a designated Fine Arts Week such as the one observed here last spring, we are doing pretty well by the arts with a bit longer time spread, points out Mrs. Wayne Thomas, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Fine Arts Committee.

NO SPECIFIC week was set this year because activities could not be gathered into that short a time, but in the past few weeks and the next few, there are these items:

An Art Fair sponsored by Hereford Art Guild will be staged at Community Center from 1 to 6 p. m. today, with exhibits from area artists and craftsmen, many of the works on sale.

A week-long display of paintings which won the top prizes in the recent West Texas Chamber of Commerce art contest will close this afternoon at Deaf Smith County Museum. Its final showing will be from 2 to 5 p. m., free to the public as is the Art Fair.

A COMEDY which has entertained four generations of play-goers, been presented by professional and amateur companies over America and England, made into a hit musical and a movie, Charley's Aunt will be presented by Hereford Community Players Friday and Saturday in LaPlata School auditorium.

Also in the drama department, a traveling company which uses churches as the unusual setting for its productions, the Alpha-Omega Players of Hollywood will appear in an American classic, Spoon River, at First United Methodist Church Wednesday evening.

Not just Methodists, but all residents are invited for this play. The acting company is one which previously gave an Ibsen drama in the same church.

MUSIC HAS BEEN presented on a number of occasions open to the public, including school concerts. The last Community Concerts program of the season was in March.

Music Study Club sponsored an open program by high school singers and instrumental ensembles at a tea March 23, sponsored a music student's senior recital a week later, and now is preparing the musical part of the annual Fine Arts program to be given Tuesday at Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs luncheon. Ceramic art is also to be exhibited then.

SCHOOLS HAVE had a variety of the arts on parade in programs, contests and displays — with more to come. The county's smaller school Walcott, will have its share May 16, when the last P-T-O meeting of this year will feature a show of art by pupils from all six grades, and a short patriotic play directed by Ed Easley, by fifth and sixth grade students.

Pupils of private teachers will also add to the atmosphere of the arts, with teachers already scheduling recitals in music and the dance, and showings of painting by students.

Mr. J. C. Plott of Frederick, Okla. has been named the guild judge for some one-hundred local piano students who will participate in the annual piano auditions, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, to be held at the Community Center Tuesday through Saturday.

The entrants, students of nine local teachers, all NGPT members, will join with over 60,000 enthusiastic piano students who will perform in 600 music centers across the country to be certified and given a gold or bronze embossed pin and a year's membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians.

Local teachers entering students this year include Mesdames Joe Hacker, Glenn Snyder, Tom Burdett, Frances Parker, Paul Lyons, Ellis Combes, Jack Rogers, Buddy Peeler and Alton Evers.

A distinguished guild judge, Mrs. Plott is a graduate of the St. Louis Institute of Music with graduate work at the University of Colorado under John Mehegan of Columbia University; Gunther Schuller, New England Conservatory of Music, Robert Pace, Columbia University; and at Oklahoma University under William S. Newman.

She is a nationally certified teacher of Music Teachers National Association, area vice-president of Oklahoma Music Teachers Association, in the Hall of Fame of the National Guild of Piano Teachers and a member of the American Guild of Organists.

She is a private teacher of piano, organ and music theory in Frederick, and is the organist for the First United Methodist Church of that city.

The Northern Lights

A recent report, which interested many and excited others, who saw it, was the aurora borealis (northern lights). It was seen by people of Dallas, Fort Worth and near-by towns.

Once in the late 1920's the spectacle was seen in this area. Maybe others before and since then. It was by a lucky accident that I saw it along with the members of my family.

We were having a family reunion and camping out under the open skies in the Big Spring pasture on the Tierra Blanca about eight miles east of Hereford.

Equipped with a huge tent, bed rolls, and plenty of food prepared before hand, it was a real camp out.

After a big picnic supper and a talk session around a fire, we had all gone to our bed rolls. The grass-hay along the creek banks was fairly tall and green to make a good mattress. The coolness which comes up from the earth as well as on the breeze had made the fire feel good and now heavy quilts were needed. This coolness most always prevails in west Texas after the sun goes down.

We had all gone to sleep when a summer norther hit with a cold wind. The tent began to flap noisily and the air was pushing into the bed rolls of those who had their beds headed north. This unexpected trick of nature required that several get up and restake the tent and others to change their beds.

It was then the northern lights were sighted. Everyone came out from the warmth of the covers to see the show. A huge curtain high up and down to the horizon in the north covered a wide area. There before us was a beautiful phenomenon in rainbow colors with red, orange and yellow predominating.

For most of us it was a first! Few of the older ones had seen the show before but not always in Texas.

We were fortunate in being at the right place at the right time and by a strange co-incident saw the breath-taking sight. A real technicolor production through that word was not then used. It was something many in Texas will see once in a life-time and was certainly the highlight of our camp out.

Public Invited To See "Spoon River"

"Spoon River Anthology," the Edgar Lee Masters classic, will be staged by the Alpha-Omega Players of North Hollywood, Calif. at the First United Methodist Church in Hereford at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

Bob Wert, music director at the First Methodist here, announced that "Spoon River Anthology" is by no means confined for presentation to the membership of the church only and reported that invitation is open to all the people in Deaf Smith County and surrounding areas who wish to see the performance.

Wert offered the purpose of the Alpha-Omega Players:

"So much was Medieval Man aware of his spiritual significance that we still view his cathedrals and the products of his time as vivid reminders of this living force — a short 550 years later. In those days — not really so different from these disturbed times — the Church was the only theatre. There the community relived its struggle for emancipation — released its pent-up dreams and frustrations in prayer — and renewed each individual's involvement with God.

IN "SPOON RIVER" — Marie Calkins brings a varied background to her versatile acting career. Prior to becoming a theatre arts major at Los Angeles City College, she was awarded a scholarship for her artistic talents at the University of Southern California. In college and community theatres, she has appeared in "Oklahoma!," "Look Homeward, Angel," "Dark of the Moon," "For Cat's Sake," "Carousel" and many others. Currently, Marie is studying voice and guitar and eventually hopes to continue her acting career by studying at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London.

"It is this translation of today's world — the world of everyday flesh transformed into messages of faith and reminders of basic truths — it is this mission to which the Alpha-Omega Players are dedicated."

Masters, lawyer and poet, was in the vanguard of the poetic renaissance that made Chicago and the Middle West a pivotal force in American poetry. Born in Garnett, Kansas, in 1889, he spent his childhood in the Illinois towns of Petersburg and Lewistown.

When "Spoon River Anthology" appeared in 1915, it achieved phenomenal public acclaim. It was also greeted with a great deal of controversy because of its exposure of rural life and its attack upon narrow morality, hypocrisy, fat complacency and inelegant materialism.

By 1961, it had been translated into eight foreign languages, had gone through 70 editions and made into an Italian opera. In 1962, Charles Aidman adapted it for the stage and it opened on Broadway at the Booth Theatre in 1963. Last week, it was presented as a special on CBS television.

Rich in the humor and dreams of America yesterday and today, "Spoon River Anthology" catches the significance of the lives of the people of one

Generation Gap "Bridged" By Teenage Discotheque

By KATHY SKYPALA
Staff Writer

The Silver Lining of the clouds that fogs the "Generation Gap" is awareness on our part that the future belongs to the young.

These words were taken from the sign hanging in the Generation Gap, Hereford's first and only teenage discotheque. The Gap, located at 603 E. Park Avenue, is owned and managed by Phil Sciumbato.

Sciumbato said that he first got the idea for such a place when he was in high school.

Work on the building, which used to be the home of a furniture and appliance store, began the middle of February. Sciumbato and John Gorman started to wash the windows of the building and high school kids and other interested passer-bys stopped in to see if they could help.

That was the beginning of the Generation Gap.

Now, that once empty building is a place for the teenagers, and adults, to go and enjoy themselves either dancing, visiting or in the game room.

A cave, which is later to be supplied with a humidistat to keep it cool and very authentic, surrounds the entrance of the Gap.

The main room is a combination dance floor, bandstand and lounging area with a bar serving various snacks. That bandstand, which is carpeted in red, was said to be "The nicest bandstand that I have ever played on, and I've played on a lot." This comment was made by the drummer of The Facts of Life. The Undertakers, who have also played at the Gap, commented on the acoustics and lighting, saying that it was one of the better places at which to play.

The tables in the lounging area are actually wire spools donated by REC. A plywood top was attached and psychedelic designs were painted on the tops with fluorescent paint. The decor of the main room will change frequently. A South Pacific theme is in effect at the present with palm trees made with IBM cards for the leaves and balloons as coconuts. A mountain with a water fall is a permanent decor in the ballroom as is the posters and lighting effects.

The game room, which is to expand in the near future, is now equipped with a pool table, a bumper pool table, a bowler, helicopter and five pin ball machines.

Sciumbato stated that he is expecting three more pool tables, a ping pong table and shuffle board equipment.

The working staff at the Generation Gap includes Jody Rogers and Robert Bell, lighting and sound; Reese Dawson, John Gorman, State Norvell, Marilyn Smith and Lyn Fisher. The staff does everything from stamping hands at the door and answering the telephone to decorating and running the snack bar.

The Generation Gap is open every night with live bands playing every Friday and Saturday nights. Later in the summer, plans for three live bands a week are being made. Sciumbato has hopes for booking big name bands to play for some of the summer dances. The price for these dances varies with the band.

After school and on week nights the very latest in records and albums can be heard. Later this month, Sciumbato plans to have two record dances during the week. The price for this will not be more than 50 cents per person.

A student discount card is available for $2. To keep the card valid, the owner must pay $1 monthly. This card entitles the holder to get into all the dances and any other happenings at the Gap for half price.

Since its opening in early March, the Gap has registered approximately 200 people at each of the weekend dances. Not only is it popular with the kids in the Hereford area, but Sciumbato said that kids come from Dimmitt, Canyon and other surrounding towns.

Sciumbato stated that the name of his discotheque, which was a suggestion from a local teenager, has nothing to do with the gap between adults and teenagers, but merely expresses the idea of the new generation of music — the new from the old.

The age limit for weekend dances is 15 on up, with parents welcomed and invited.

Hopes for the future include such things as a fog machine, candid camera, and a series of lights which change colors with the beat of the music.

Although there are some adults who are not too pleased with the new discotheque, Sciumbato stated that the law enforcement agents are very well pleased with it.

When asked about how he felt about the Generation Gap, a local business man replied, "I feel that it is one of the better things that has happened to Hereford." A high school student could only exclaim, "Great" when asked how he felt.

Sciumbato commented, "The sole reason for the Gap is to give the teenagers something to do. It is a place to go to keep them out of the country, off the streets and stop the drinking among them."

ABOUT SIX FEET DOWN IN THE CHAMBER, MY HAND RAN ACROSS ROW UPON ROW OF THESE PRECIOUS METAL BARS —

SURVIVORS OF THE CARAVAN HAULED THEM OFF THE DESERT TO INSCRIPTION ROCK, THEN THEY PROBABLY PERISHED IN ANOTHER SANDSTORM!

CAMEL RAIDERS!

RADI HAS REALIZED HE WAS TRICKED INTO LEAVING THE AREA!

IT WOULDN'T BE WISE TO BE CAPTURED WITH THESE SILVER BARS!

FILL IN ACROSS THE OPENING WHILE I SCATTER THE MARKER ROCKS!

PRETTY GOOD COVER UP—NO ONE WILL SUSPECT WE'VE DUG HERE!

NOW RUN! IF WE DON'T REACH YOUR VEHICLE BEFORE RADI DOES, ALL IS LOST!
