

Business Grosses $4 Million

Ramirez Family Life Centers Around Tortillas

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer
On the first day the Cipriano Ramirez family sold and delivered tortillas made in a little house in the labor camp they grossed $15. Today,

Ramirez and Sons

grosses nearly $4 million a year and aside from the largest factory in Hereford, has branches in Pueblo,

Colo., and Wichita, Kan.
Rene Ramirez, brother in charge of the Hereford plant at 121 Pine, once was embarassed to be seen eating tortillas.

"When we were growing up and going to Shirley School we were so poor we didn't have lunch money," he related. "Mom would cook tortillas and fill them full of beans. We'd tell the other kids we were going to the grocery store to eat - then go eat our beans and tortillas in the dugout."

Now, the family's life centers around tortillas.
Brothers Joe and Ray run tortilla factories in Wichita and Pueblo. A sister, Rose

Medrano, is a partner in the Hereford plant; a brother, Manuel works for Rene; and another sister, Maria, operates Copa Cabana restaurant downtown.

Rene said his father and mother, Eva, were "just trying to make a living" when they started the business in 1958. As the demand grew, so did the company. It moved to 130 Main Street and eventually employed about 45.

At 23, Rene took over the business.

"I had to take it over," he explained. "Dad didn't know English, my other brother was in Viet Nam and the oldest wanted to move to Colorado. Somebody had to take it over."

And jobs were scarce for someone with just an eighth grade education.

"I take that back - I went to one semester in ninth grade," he laughed, then warned, "I wouldn't want to encourage any kids to do the same. There's been a lot of hard years. The family has been pulling together to prosper though."

"Anybody can make a tortilla,"
according to Rene,
"but to make a quality product you really have to know what you are doing. It takes experience."

Mother Ramirez is the base of that experience. Before he was born, Rene said, she had always had little tortilla factories.
Her recipe (secret, of course) and encouragement to her children are main threads in the success of Ramirez and Sons.

"She's really kind of the power behind the whole operation," Rene admits, Although she is bedridden
now. "We're so in love with

County Fathers Anticipating 15 Percent Tax Increase

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

Deaf Smith County Commissioners, looking at an expected loss in revenue of some $200,000 next year, indicated Monday that county taxpayers will probably be facing a 15 percent increase in county taxes during the next fiscal year.

The county fathers met in a special session Monday morning at the courthouse to hold a work session on the 1982-83 budget, and are trying to hold expenses down in the wake of the passage of a constitutional amendment last

November, which reduced the county's tax base from $408 million to $354 million.

"We decided to base budgets on last year's levels, and make adjustments where necessary," County Judge Glen Nelson said. "It looks like we're going to raise taxes to offset the loss from the tax base."

An amendment to exempt livestock from taxation passed in the general election last November, and Deaf Smith County is one of the hardest hit counties in the Lone Star
State as a result.

Nelson said that the county's current 40 cents per $100 valuation tax rate will probably go to 46 cents to help erase the $200,000 estimated loss in revenues due to the decreased tax base.

The commissioners are looking at a proposed budget of $2.6 million next year, with $1.5 million in revenues from taxes, and the rest from fines, fees, and lateral road funds.

A final draft of the 1982-83 budget is expected to be ready sometime in July.

In other action Monday the court received a set of rules for use of the library from Librarian Diane Pierson, and

authorized Sheriff Travis McPherson to advertise for bids on radio equipment for his office.

Mrs. Pierson had been asked by the court to revise the library rules due to some inconsistencies that existed.
Nelson said the court will act on the new set of regulations at the next regular meeting on June 14.

McPherson was authorized to seek bids on radio pagers, with approximately $5,200 of the cost of the equipment to come from Criminal Justice Grant funds, and about $1,800 to be contributed by the county.

Rev. Manning Leaving FBC

Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, announced to his congregation Sunday, that he is resigning that post effective June 30. Manning, 50, has served with the church since July 15, 1973.

Manning, a native of Frederick, OK, plans to keep busy with seminars on various topics; speaking engagements, and with his writing. "Hopefully, I'll be able to also some counseling," he said.

Manning is currently working on a book on self-esteem, having been contracted to do the work by Prentice-Hall Publishing, Co. He is about halfway through with the book, which is due to the publisher by Jan. 1.

He will also continue to write his "Penultimate Word" column for The Hereford Brand.

Manning came to Hereford
after a 10-year stint as pastor of Southern Hills Baptist Church in Tulsa, OK. He attended

Hardin Simmons
University, Oklahoma Baptist University, and received a Master's degree from Southwestern Oklahoma
State College.

He was previously associated with the First Baptist Church of Custer City,
OK, and First Baptist Church of Woodward, OK as well.

He participated in the Billy Graham follow-up meetings in the Phillipine Islands in 1963, and held a revival in Ewa Beach, HI in 1966. He was also the state college oratory champion in 1966.

Manning and his wife Barbara will continue to reside in Hereford. He will remain as co-emcee of the bi-monthly chamber of commerce's fun breakfasts.

He will be working out of his office at 104-A East Park Ave.

British Parliament Cheers Reagan's Support Speech

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) - President Reagan won cheers from members of Parliament today for a ringing defense of Britain's fight for the Falkland Islands and a challenge to Soviet leader
Leonid Brezhnev to address Americans on television, on condition that "he will allow me the same opportunity with the Soviet people."

Reagan also publicly urged Israel to "bring its forces home" from Lebanon. But he offered Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin
some succor in the war against Palestinian guerrillas by saying, "We must all work to stamp out the scourge of terrorism that in the Middle East makes war an ever-present threat."

Proposing a worldwide promotional campaign for liberty and democracy, Reagan offered Brezhnev television exposure in the United States and suggested a periodic exchange of television news commentary, to invite Soviet participation in a peaceful "competition for ideas and values."

He did not explain how he could guarantee Brezhnev access to the independent television networks in the United States.

Reagan addressed parliamentarians in the 120-year-old Royal Gallery of the Houses of Parliament, speaking from a blue-carpeted dais underneath portraits of British monarchs.
Many Laborites, opposed to Reagan's nuclear policy and support for right-wing governments, were absent.
The president's audience totaled only about one-third of the 1,813 members of the House of Commons and House of Lords.

As Reagan left the chamber for lunch with British Prime Minister
Margaret Thatcher at 10 Downing St., a group of women peace demonstrators with blackened faces shouted
"Reagan Out." It was not known whether Reagan noticed them in the crowd.

The parliamentarians, who could be expected to maintain a dignified reserve during a world leader's speech, interrupted Reagan with applause twice - once when he proposed dual television appearances with Brezhnev and again, more vigorously, when he defended Britain's battle in the Falklands.

Reagan said British forces were fighting for more than "lumps of rock and earth so far away." They fight "for the belief that armed aggres-

Syrian Involvement Enhanced

Israeli Troops Invade Lebanon

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets shot down two Syrian MiGs over the Galilee region of northern Israel today and two more MiGs in dogfights over Damour, 10 miles south of Beirut. Israeli commandos battled north along the Mediterranean coastal highway toward Damour and Israeli warships shelled the Palestinian stronghold.

Palestinian broadcasts claimed 60,000 Israeli troops were now in Lebanon and that they controlled the 50 miles of highway running from the border north to Damour. U.N. officials said five Israeli brigades plus commando units were in Lebanon. An Israeli brigade numbers about 3,500 men.

The intrusion of the MiGs over Galilee, as well as indications that Syrian artillery batteries were shelling Israeli forces inside Lebanon, marked a major escalation of Syrian involvement in the hostilities.

Israel launched an invasion Sunday to drive Palestinian forces out of southern Lebanon and prevent PLO artillery from shelling northern Israeli settlements. The Israeli government calls the operation "Peace for Galilee."

The flight of the MiGs over Galilee was the first incursion into Israeli airspace by Arab forces since the 1973
war. The Tel Aviv command said the MiGs were downed by Israeli interceptors, and an Israel radio correspondent said the MiGs apparently were trying to attack an Israeli army convoy in southern Lebanon.

The Tel Aviv command
also said its jets downed two Syrian MiGs in northern Lebanon. The Syrian command in Damascus confirmed two of its MiGs were downed in dogfights over Damour, and claimed an Israeli Skyhawk also was shot down.
Israel denied any of its planes was hit.

Mosquito

Spraying

Wednesday

Aerial spraying of insecticide will be Wednesday morning just after daybreak, weather permitting, according to Dudley Bayne, city manager.

If weather does not permit,
the spraying will be done
Thursday to eliminate mosquitoes.

Another Syrian communique said Israeli jets and artillery blasted the Syrian-controlled Lebanese town of Jezzin, killing 20 civilians in the predominantly Christian town. Jezzin is about 12 miles east of Sidon.

In another development,
the Lebanese government announced electricity would be rationed because the power plant in the coastal town of Jiye, 14 miles south of Beirut, was bombed out of action by Israeli forces.

In London, President
Reagan said in a speech to Parliament that "the fighting in Lebanon on the part of all parties must stop and Israel should bring its forces home.
It was Reagan's first call for an Israeli withdrawal, although Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. had done so earlier.

The Palestine Liberation Organization and Lebanese radio stations said most of the coastal highway south of Beirut was in Israeli hands following a landing during the night by helicopter-borne paratroopers and amphibious commandos who overran the town of Saadiyat, 13 miles south of Beirut.

Twelve miles to the south and 37 miles north of the Israeli border, Israeli tanks and troops were besieging the port of Sidon, while 25 miles farther down much of the port city of Tyre was afire after its capture.

"Sidon is within an Israeli noose," Associated Press correspondent Edmond Shedd reported from the outskirts of the city. "All hills around the city have been taken by paratroopers, and the beach is crowded with tanks and commandos north and south of Sidon."

This morning, telephone contact with Sidon was cut off. The Lebanese Christian radio station Voice of Lebanon said the city was under relentless air and sea bombardment.

Inland, the Israelis on Monday captured ancient Beaufort Castle, the cliff-top fortress from which the guerrillas shelled the Galilee panhandle; the eastern mountain town of Hasbaya,

British Appeal For Surrender

By The Associated Press

Britain made another appeal for surrender to the Argentine garrison at Port Stanley as its troops captured high ground north of the Falklands capital and closed the ring on some 7,000 Argentine troops.

"In another jump forward, marine commandos have outflanked the Argentines north of Stanley," reported Michael Nicholson of Britain's Independent Television News. "Strong British positions have now been established on the mountains.... British sea and land forces control and move freely along the northern waters of East Falkland and large quantities of stores, guns, ammunition and men have been moved up there."

In London the Defense Ministry said the British troops, believed to number 7,500, were "consolidating" their position and "patrolling forward territory."

Argentina said its patrols routed British units laying siege to Stanley and seized abandoned equipment for the second straight day. An Argentine communique also claimed anti-aircraft fire

Treasury Bill Interest Rises

By STEVEN P.
ROSENFELD AP Business
Writer

The interest rate the government pays on Treasury bills has risen again
- a boon to investors but the bane of the federal deficit.

But gold prices, which have slumped because of high interest rates, on Monday registered their largest single-day increase since last summer, jumping $17 a troy ounce as investors responded to the outbreak of fighting in the Middle East.

Interest costs rose Monday
as the Treasury auctioned about $10 billion in three-and six-month bills. In the first seven months of the current fiscal year, interest expense on the federal debt totaled $65.3 billion.

Concern over the heavy federal borrowing needed
later in the year to finance expected massive deficits is one factor keeping interest rates high.

At the Treasury auction, the average discount rate on three-month bills rose to 12.074 percent from 11.52 percent at the previous auction

Alligators Once Rare Becoming Domestic, Threatening Other Pets

HOUSTON (AP) — Alligators occasionally are meandering down residential streets, dining on pets and livestock and in general making themselves a nuisance in places along the Gulf Coast where once they were almost extinct.

"We're up to our ears in alligators. They're all over the place around here," said state Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, who helped get a state ban on hunting the reptiles lifted this year.

As many as 90,000 alligators thrive in the waterways of Chambers, Jefferson and Orange counties, and their population also has increased in Harris County, officials said.

State wildlife officials are considering an alligator hunting season in 1983, but the must get approval from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Chambers County ranchers have complained that alligators are eating young calves.

"I know personally of 15 baby calves that have been eaten and three of those belonged to me," said Joe Lagow, 72.

Lagow said alligators catch a young calf at water's edge, slap it with their tails and grab it with their jaws. Alligators also are "death to pigs and dogs," he said.

"We've just got gators all over the place, anywhere they have access to water," said Kitten Bohle, a Missouri City animal control officer.

Ms. Bohle said she once found a 15-foot alligator wandering down a street in a subdivision of $200,000 homes.

"When this happens, it creates quite a sensation," she said. "But the problem is that developers are building subdivisions around waterways which have been the alligators' natural habitat."

Bob Le Blanc, 50, executive director of a resort area near Port Arthur, has had little patience with alligators since his hunting dog survived having its stomach ripped open by an alligator.

"A dog to an alligator is like ice cream or steak to humans," Le Blanc said. "That reptile may have been protected but I killed it anyway. Today, if I see a large alligator that might hurt any of my other dogs, I kill it. I can't stand by and watch it happen."

Surgeons Plan To Use Anti-rejection Drug

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors at the University of Texas Medical School, using an experimental anti-rejection drug, are planning 35 heart transplants in the next two years.

Dr. Barry Kahan, chief of organ transplant service, received permission from the Food and Drug Administration to use the new drug, Cyclosporin A, on heart transplant patients.

The first operation could be performed within a few weeks under the direction of Dr. Denton Cooley, who pioneered heart transplants here, UT spokesman David Moore said Monday.

The biggest problem for transplant recipients has been their natural rejection of the transplanted organ by the body's immune system.

Cyclosporin A, which is extracted from common soil fungus, has shown promise in reducing rejection without greatly weakening the body's defense system.

The medical school already has been using the drug, manufactured by Sandoz Inc., in kidney transplants.

Heart transplants have been performed sporadically in Houston. Since 1968, Cooley performed 23 transplants and Dr. Michael DeBakey did 12. None of the patients are alive today.

Officials said the drug has improved Stanford's 1-year survival rate, the percentage of patients who live at least one year after their operations.

However, officials have said the drug can cause side effects and overdoses might cause cancer.

Texaco To Lay Off 1,000 Workers At Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Reduced demand for petroleum is forcing Texaco to make staff reductions at its refinery here, the company said.

Texaco notified its union representatives that it wants to lay off a quarter of the 4,000 hourly workers who have been on strike since January at the refinery.

"The adjustments are necessary as a result of the industry-wide situation of reduced petroleum product demand," a Texaco spokesman said.

Texaco hopes to accomplish the reductions through normal attrition, the spokesman said, and possibly by moving surplus employees to other work assignments.

Any lay offs would be made when the strike ends.

Mesa Petroleum Rejects Cash Offer

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Mesa Petroleum Co. directors have vowed to press their efforts to takeover Cities Service, an oil company with 20 times Mesa's assets and three times its revenues.

The directors made the pledge Monday after they unanimously rejected a cash tender offer by Cities Service to acquire Mesa.

Cities Service, the nation's 20th largest oil company, had offered $17 per share for up to 37 million Mesa shares, and backed its offer with a $1.7 billion line of credit.

Paul Harvey News

A Catalyst For Dormant Hate

Paul Harvey is something less than a full-fledged "sports fan." I play golf only and only occasionally.

My enthusiasm for the Dallas Cowboys reflects largely admiration for Tom Landry.

Baseball I watch only on TV and only at World Series time.

I enjoyed ice hockey the way it used to be played.

Any respect for prize-fighting ended with Joe Louis.

But the hullabaloo over the upcoming black-white Holmes-Cooney fight is distasteful, distressing.

I recall in the heyday of the incomparable Henry

Armstrong—who was Hank Jackson of Papin Street, St. Louis, before he became the windmill winner of three titles simultaneously—his every victory would be celebrated by the blacks of his old neighborhood all night, usually violently.

Similarly, Detroit blacks celebrated each Joe Louis win.

But they got over that. After blacks demonstrated excellence in most all facets of athletic competition, racial resentments were diluted, diminished, eventually happily reduce to nil.

Now along comes this June 11 fight, worth $10 million to each of two men only because of the "great white hype" which is repolarizing Americans.

That is a Bunyan step backward.

I suppose the undefeated records of the two men entitle them to fight for the title, though neither has the charisma to command this kind of price.

So the promoters have promoted the event as a race-race and the fighters themselves, who both seem like decent fellows, have been forced to shift the focus from their skills to their skin-tint.

Some of us think the "all men equal" premise is silly.

Maybe we don't like to see this contest reduced to a race-clash because the blacks have been beating the sox off the whites in all kinds of sports—including this one.

If only because they're leaner, hungrier.

But prize-fighting is headed for the disrespect suffered by professional wrestling if it artificially manufactures its heroes out of hype.

Yet here I am, with this discourse contributing to the build-up for which I profess distaste.

I resent seeing anybody "used."

I'm hearing TV ads for cable companies promising that if I will sign up now I'll get to see this June 11 event. Yet I'm told even subscribers-for this event—will have to pay extra.

And the ads show the two fighters mean-mouthing one another with obvious emphasis on pigment.

Not since Louis fought Schmeling has a prize fight been such a catalyst for dormant hate. Maybe animosity is better vented, but I'll be glad when it's over.

Cryts Ordered To Pay

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Saying Missouri farmer Wayne Cryts is a thief, a federal bankruptcy judge has ordered Cryts and four others to pay a judgment of more than $287,000.

Cryts took 33,000 bushels of soybeans he said were his from an elevator at Bernie, Mo. in July. Baker had issued an order that the grain be sold as part of a complicated bankruptcy case involving James Brothers Co. of Corning, Ark. Cryts had removed the grain earlier from one of the company's bankrupt elevators near New Madrid, Mo.

In a 19-page judgment filed Monday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Judge Charles Baker said if the five don't pay by today, they would be fined $1,500 more a day. Baker said any defendant could pay the money.

In another development Monday, Baker recommended to U.S. District Court and the U.S. attorney's office that the five be prosecuted for criminal contempt of court.

In addition to Cryts, the defendants are his wife, Sandra; his father, William Cryts Sr. of Dexter, Mo.; Evans

Ipock of Buffalo, Mo.; and Bill Jewell of Long Lane, Mo. Pictures introduced into Baker's court recently showed them helping remove the grain.

Police Investigate Burglary

Hereford police have no suspects as investigation continues for a burglary which occurred sometime Sunday night at Pot Pourri.

Joy Vasek reported Monday morning that someone entered from an unknown point and took a stereo valued at $250, a telephone valued at $180, $200 cash and a diamond necklace with an undetermined value.

Other reports Monday included an attempted burglary around 2:30 a.m. at 830 West First. Someone came to the door of the residence and knocked, but did not respond when the resident answered. The resident then heard glass break and saw a subject running.

A leather billfold containing $65, two credit cards and a driver's license was reported stolen from a car in Veterans Park.

Carthel Real Estate reported a broken window at a house on Stanton.

A bike was reported stolen from the 500 block of Avenue K.

Weekend police calls included four assault investigations.

Around 7 p.m. Saturday a woman reported that her estranged husband had tried to run her down with a truck and threatened that he would do it again.

An Amarillo woman reported that when she and her boyfriend were on their way to El Monterrey a car bumped theirs in the rear.

Both cars pulled up on the restaurant parking lot. The driver of the alleged bumping car got out and an argument started. According to the report she got a crowbar out and began swinging it, hitting the couple's car.

An ex-husband reportedly came to his former wife's home, cussed her out, then later followed her to her brother's and slapped her.

Another domestic problem included an assault.

Weekend vandalism included a burglary at 123 Kibbe where a $50 glass was broken, a camper door window at 621 Star knocked out, and a part removed from an air hose.

About $100 in clothing and toiletry items were reorted taken from a 617 Avenue H.

Two reports of harrassment were taken.

Two were arrested for public intoxication, one for driving while intoxicated and one for fleeing from police, operating an unregistered vehicle and operating a vehicle after hours.

Eighteen tickets were issued.

Firemen were called to three fires Monday.

The crew reported to a wheat field at 2:08 p.m. Monday five miles south on 385.

At 2:41 p.m. they reported to the city dump to control a pit fire and at 5:30 p.m. went to the 200 block of Hickory alley to douse a dumpster fire.

capital of Arkoub province, 9 miles north of the panhandle and 5 to 10 miles south of Syrian forces in the Bekaa Valley, and Nabatiyeh, a forward PLO command post 10 miles from the Israeli border, along with nearby Habboub and Aiyehiyeh.

Israel's announced goal was to push the Palestinians back at least 25 miles from the border so their artillery and rockets could no longer hit northern Israel.

Israeli military analyst

Haim Herzog, a former brigadier-general, said if Syria's 30,000 troops in Lebanon did not intervene, the Israeli's might achieve their goal by Wednesday or Thursday.

The invaders brushed against the Syrian troops in air skirmishes and artillery exchanges, but the two governments appeared to be trying to avoid a major confrontation that would widen the conflict.

Late Monday afternoon,

Israeli planes flashed over southern Beirut and attacked several high-rise buildings housing the PLO's information, political, and military offices as well as the internal security forces responsible for protecting the PLO's leader, Yasser Arafat.

Lebanese police said five Syrian MiG fighters scrambled to intercept the Israelis, and one of the Syrian planes was shot down. The Syrians claimed two Israeli jets were also destroyed, but Israel confirmed only the Syrian downing.

A Syrian military communique reported five Syrian soldiers killed in artillery exchanges in southeast Lebanon Monday.

Israel announced total casualties up to midnight Monday of 25 Israeli troops killed, seven missing, one air force pilot captured and 96 wounded, 11 of them seriously.

There has been no PLO announcement of casualties in the ground fighting and no report of casualties in the air raid on southern Beirut Monday. Lebanese police reported at least 230 people killed in Israeli air strikes Friday and Saturday.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin flew to Beaufort Castle to congratulate the troops who took that prize, then met in Jerusalem for an hour with Philip Habib, President Reagan's special Middle East envoy. But Begin and his government ignored calls from the United Nations and the United States to agree to a cease-fire and withdrawal of the invasion force.

Argentine stronghold at Port Stanley, according to the British domestic news agency Press Association.

At the White House, meanwhile, Vice President George Bush met with top administration officials and decided to put aside any threat of imposing U.S. sanctions against Israel for its invasion of Palestinian strongholds in southern Lebanon, prompted in part by the shooting of the Israeli ambassador to London last week, while pursuing a diplomatic solution.

The group's recommendation to back special envoy Philip Habib's efforts to arrange a cease-fire and Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon was being relayed to Reagan, who was beginning the seventh day of his fast-paced European journey, which concludes Friday.

As if international tension spots and his hectic travel schedule weren't enough, Reagan also was confronted with an outburst against America's participation in the United Nations delivered in New York on Monday by his U.N. ambassador, Jeane Kirkpatrick. Describing the United drove off three British Harrier jets attacking Stanley, and "one of the planes was observed trailing heavy smoke."

The Argentines also said the two forces exchanged artillery fire Monday, but the communique did not mention damage or casualties.

With the British assault on Stanley expected at any time, Maj. Gen. Jeremy Moore, the marine commander of the British ground forces, called on the Argentine governor of the islands, Brig. Gen. Mario Menendez, to surrender and "end the killing."

States' "unhappy fall from influence to impotence," Mrs. Kirkpatrick contended, "We simply have behaved like a bunch of amateurs."

When asked about Mrs. Kirkpatrick's speech to the Heritage Foundation, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, traveling with the president, said, "No comment."

Mrs. Thatcher managed to defuse a controversy sparked by the opposition Labor Party by switching Reagan's address to Parliament today to the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords.

Originally, Reagan was scheduled to speak from 900-year-old Westminster Hall, the only surviving part of the original Palace of Westminster. The less prestigious Royal Gallery was selected after Laborites, who do not share Mrs. Thatcher's enthusiasm for Reagan, threatened a boycott.

The president's arrival at Windsor Castle capped a grueling 14-hour day that began in Versailles, France, hopped to Rome for a seven-hour visit, and ended with an elegant dinner party hosted by the queen and her husband, Prince Philip.

her, she's quite a lady."

His father is proud, too, of the growth from a 14 by 14 room to a 20,000 square foot plant.

"He comes out here and pulls our ears," Rene grinned.

The Ramirez family's hard work has been enhanced with a boon in ethnic food.

"Mexican food is the fastest growing ethnic food," Rene said, reporting that business is growing at about 25 percent a year.

"The first real good year was '71," he said. "People were just becoming more familiarized with Mexican food. They (non-Mexicans) used to just eat it in the wintertime."

Most of the 40,000 lbs. of tortillas made daily are sold wholesale. A truck services restaurants within a 100 mile radius. All is sold under the Ramirez label.

All the corn used at the factory — 400,000 a month — is contracted from local farmers. Ramirez also uses 250,000 lbs. of Oklahoma wheat flour a month.

Ramirez and Sons is using the old building on Main Street to maintain and manufacture the equipment used at the food plant, such as feeders and conveyors.

Rene said his plant has about 70 employees and he is thinking about expansion. He said the requests for chips exceeds his capacity to produce what is needed. His next step is to get an automatic chip fryer.

The plant starts production about 4 a.m. and when that shift leaves at noon, workers come in for another eight hours.

At the new plant, Rene said, "We are much more efficient, we have more room to work with."

But the higher expense for the government will mean a greater return to savers starting today at banks and savings and loan associations.

The maximum interest those financial institutions may pay on six-month savings certificates is tied to the results of the auction of six-month bills and rises this week to 12.367 percent from 12.172 percent. The certificates are available in minimum denominations of $10,000. Gold, which had fallen $50 a troy ounce since April 14, jumped to $336.40 an ounce Monday in contracts for current delivery traded on the New York Commodity Exchange, up from Friday's close of $319.40. Dealers attributed most of the gains to reaction to Israel's invasion of Lebanon.

The increase exceeded the $16.50-an-ounce jump of April 2, after Argentina seized the Falkland Islands and was the biggest single-day advance since the metal rose $22 an ounce on Aug. 18, 1981.

Donating Goods

Miss Merritt Honored With Wedding Shower

A bridal shower honoring Micki Merritt, bride-elect of David Baulch of Odessa, was held Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Lynton Allred.

Receiving guests were the honoree; her mother, Mrs. Gladys Merritt; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Bates Baulch of Odessa; Missy Merritt, sister of the bride-to-be; her grandmothers, Mrs. Otis Lee and Mrs. Irene Merritt; and Mrs. Allred.

Those in the receiving line were presented with blue and white daisy corsages.

Also present as special guests were the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. S.A. Pence, and her great-aunt, Mrs. Emily Bailey, both of Seminole.

According to the bride's chosen colors of blue and white, the serving table was covered with a pale blue cloth and had a centerpiece in a crystal bowl of white daisies and blue baby's breath. The guest register was also adorned with a bouquet of white daisies and blue baby's breath. Serving punch was Carla West. Markay White registered guests. Fresh fruit, tea cookies, finger sandwiches, nuts and mints were served.

Hostesses included Betty Martin, Mary Herring, Mrs. Allred, Elaine Raines, Ruth Black, Dorothy Mercer, Ella Marie Veigel, Georgia Marie Sparks, Marie Stringer, Marlene Watson, Charlotte Clark, Nancy Russell, Ella Oglesby, Eunice Boyer, Jan Dudley, Louise Kinsey, Regina Kester, Nancy Priest, Margaret Young, Jenna Simons, Donna Parris, Carolyn Ray, Nancy Paetzold, and Doris Rush.

Hughes Retains Scholarship

Vila Hughes of Hereford has been named among 26 students whose scholarships have been renewed through the A.A. and Hattie Mae Bush Scholarship Fund.

Established in 1978 by long-time Amarillo residents, Alvin A. and Hattie Mae Bush, the fund gives financial assistance to area students who have exhibited potential expertise in accounting and related fields.

The students may retain the grant throughout their period of study, as long as scholarship requirements are met. Fifty-six scholarships have been awarded by the Foundation since its inception.

Game Night, Cookout Planned

A get-acquainted and game night has been scheduled by the Singles Round Up tonight at 8 in the Community Center lounge.

The group is also planning a cookout at the home of Opal Johnson, 434 Ranger, at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Everyone should bring food.

All single people are invited to Singles Round Up activities. For more information, contact Jackie Chapman at 364-4518 or Gene Holden at 364-0359.

Class Of '73 Plans Meeting

An organizational meeting for members of the graduating class of 1973 has been scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Energas Flame Room.

The meeting is open to all former students of the class. Those who cannot attend but who have suggestions for the reunion should contact Steve Hysinger, president, at Schlabs-Hysinger Commodities, or Mrs. Phil Coker or Mrs. Greg Black.

Ann Landers How About More Compassion?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother-in-law was a constant complainer and a heavy drinker for many years. In 1978 the doctor told her if she didn't stop drinking she would die. The New Year's Eve she took an oath never to take another drink.

In 1979 she fell and broke her wrist. She said she was on a ladder cleaning a cupboard. I had a sneaking suspicion she was drunk but I didn't say anything. She never acted intoxicated, but her breath was always mint-flavored, a common sign of cover-up for closet drinkers.

Last September she fell, this time in the bathroom, and broke her shoulder in two places. When I mentioned to my husband that maybe she was back on the bottle, he became furious and told me to shut my ugly mouth.

This morning her youngest son called to say she broke her hip-get this- during the night while turning over in bed. I hate to be taken for a fool. Will you please comment?-Tall Story in Kentucky

DEAR KENTUCKY: Sorry to disappoint you, but mother-in-law may have osteoporosis, a condition that makes the bones brittle and easily broken. It is not uncommon for elderly people who are osteoporetic to suffer fractures while turning over in bed. How about a little more compassion?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to the woman who wanted to marry a bisexual tank. I have been happily married to a bi for three years and get along better than most straight couples.

I kept hoping he would drop his male friends after we married, but it didn't work out that way. When I caught him fooling around, he explained that this way was normal for him and I should accept it. He didn't want a divorce-just freedom to do what came naturally.

After thinking about it for awhile, my anger disappeared. You owe it to those who are in my shoes to print this letter. There are a lot more of us around than you think.-Peace at Last

DEAR PEACE: If it worked out well for you-fine. But it did not work out for many others. The following letter contains a different message.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I respond to "Having it Both Ways in New York"? I was married to a bisexual for 20 years. Why? Because I loved him and had two children before I discovered he was bi. I kept hoping that one day I would be first in his life, but it never happened.

I have been divorced for three years and have fallen in love again. You guessed it-another bi. How did I know?

Because he repeated the same pattern of my first husband-very charming and attentive, then he began to back off, saying he didn't need sex. "I love you, but..."

I broke up with him, but my heart still melts when we meet around town. I'm determined not to let myself fall under his spell again. My strength returns when I think of the years I wasted waiting for my husband to put me ahead of his boyfriends.-Twice Duped in Central Texas

DEAR DUPED: Thanks for the testimony. Your story is one I've heard before, and it's a sad one.

Elks Swim-a-Thon Scheduled June 14

The Hereford Elks Lodge will again sponsor a Swim-a-thon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association, it was announced this week.

Scheduled Monday, June 19, at Elk's Lodge Pool in Denton Park, the annual event is open to anyone who would like to participate.

First prize will be an Atari video game. There will also be second and third prizes for those with the most pledges.

Pledge sheets may be obtained at the pool. For more information, call the pool at 364-4511 or Harry Stevens, MDA chairman, at 364-1840. Robert Holmes is co-chairman of the project this year.

Jan Kirby Feted At Bridal Shower

The E.B. Black House was the setting of a bridal shower Saturday morning honoring Jan Kirby, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Wallace Kirby.

Miss Kirby, bride-elect of Mike Hoover of Seagraves, received guests with her mother and her fiance's mother, Mrs. M.G. Hoover of Seagraves.

The bride-elect was presented a corsage of spring flowers in her chosen colors for the wedding. An arrangement of spring flowers was on the serving table, where coffee, summertime tea, quiche, sweet rolls and fresh fruit were served.

Mrs. Brad Clark of Amarillo and Mrs. Tony Calkins served the guests. Mrs. Steve Clements and Mrs. Francis Hill assisted in the house party.

Other guests attending from out of town were Mrs. E.J. Shafer of Muleshoe, aunt of the prospective bridegroom.

Hostesses for the shower were Mmes. David Hutchins, Bill Walden, Bob Josseland, and Earnest Langley.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

While standing in the checkout line last week, I noted that everything in my basket has a stalk of wheat on the package and was stamped "100 percent natural."

Every box, every can, every package contained a disclaimer: NO SALT! SUGAR-FREE! LOW FAT! NO ADDITIVES! LITE! POSITIVELY NO PRESERVATIVES! NO SUBSTITUTES!

Never have I been so paranoid about what goes into my body. Was it only eight or ten years ago when we used to kid around about the late Euell Gibbons coming for lunch and grazing on the front lawn? Now I don't care what cereal tastes like just as long as it has a log cabin with smoke coming out of the chimney on the package and the words, "CONTAINS NATURAL FIBER." It makes me feel virtuous even though I haven't the slightest idea what natural fiber is.

Something very weird has happened to my buying habits. When the kids were growing up I threatened to buy a trough with an entry starting at the stove. It would snake around the kitchen table and return at the kitchen sink. It was my plan to pour the spaghetti, baked beans and chili from the stove to the table and what they didn't eat, hose into the sink. They were meals of convenience. I never squeezed a tomato, looked for brown spots on bananas or put a cantaloupe to my ear to see what month of development it was in.

I bought anything that was stamped 100 percent sugar, vitamin enriched, made with pure cream, real butter, no skimping, artificial color added. It was the American dream to eat natural foods that had been improved upon.

Then everyone got on a health kick and work began to trickle down that all research rats were living long eating natural. (Or it seemed longer.) The first time I discovered apples didn't grow in cans swimming in heavy syrup was a big day in my life.

The kids don't want to come home anymore. They complain there's nothing to eat. I told them, "Of course there are things to eat. It's all just natural."

They said, "You call blue milk, ice cream without sugar, peanuts without salt and bread so thin you can read a newspaper through it natural?"

Maybe it's just the shock of seeing all of them in that trough side by side.

Hereford Unit Hosts Saturday Night Meeting

Lady Viva Cunningham, president, Department Association Ladies Auxiliaries Patriarchs Militants of Texas, was guest of honor Saturday evening as Hereford L.A.P.M. No. 36 hosted a meeting which also included guests from Palo Duro L.A.P.M. No. 38 of Amarillo.

Lady Dottie Boring presided at the open meeting, which followed a supper and get acquainted fellowship. Lady Cunningham, of San Angelo, was presented by Lady Ursalee Jacobsen.

Unity of all units of independent order of Odd Fellows was stressed in the president's program, along with practicing obligations of Odd Fellowship.

Lady Cunningham presented her program and yearbook, bringing out the programs the Odd Fellow units are privileged to take part in. I.O.O.F. is the only fraternity allowed to send young people on a pilgrimage to visit the United Nations each year, she said, adding that it is also the only fraternity allowed to place wreaths on the grave of the unknown soldier.

Cheveliers from Cantons No. 36 and No. 38 were presented. Those recognized were Brigadier General Ben Conklin; Captain Charlie Wise; Captain George Campbell; and Captains Retired W.G. Marsall, Frank Snyder, and Gene Bishop.

State officers recognized were Ladies Dottie Boring, guard; Wilma Wise, officer's report; Vera Cole, committee on chaplains charge; and Carolyn Campbell, musician.

Amarillo visitors included Cheveliers Conklin, Bishop, Wise of Friona, and Snyder of Tucumcari.

Also, Ladies Wise of Friona, Allie Snyder of Tucumcari, Jacobsen, Anna Conklin, Susie Curtsinger, Lydia Hopson, Ada Hollabaugh, Ruth Rogers, and Helen Bishop, a new recruit.

If Air Conditioning doesn't have it here it probably doesn't have it.

Gas Air Conditioning Has It!

No other air conditioner has a warranty like a gas air conditioner because no other air conditioner is built like a gas air conditioner.

Gas air conditioning has fewer moving parts and no compressor to wear out or break down. This means less wear and tear and lower maintenance costs.

That's why gas air conditioning is so dependable and why it has a warranty that's twice as long as other types of units... a full 10 years!

Find out more about the air conditioning that's backed by the best warranty available. Call Energas today for a free cooling survey and cost estimate. There's no obligation.

Remember, all air conditioning was not created equal. And we have the paper to prove it!

Manufacturer's limited warranty covers all defects in materials and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for ten years from the date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of installation.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, June 8, the 159th day of 1982. There are 206 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:

On June 8, 632, the Prophet Mohammed died.

On this date:
In 1942, Japanese submarines shelled Sydney, Australia, in World War II.

In 1965, U.S. troops in Vietnam were authorized to engage in offensive operations.

In 1971, President Salvador Allende declared a state of emergency in Chile after an anti-leftist politician was killed by terrorists.

And in 1973, Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco relinquished some of his power by naming Admiral Luis Carrero Blanco as Premier.

Ten years ago: A Czechoslovak jet pilot was killed when his plane was hijacked to West Germany.

Five years ago: The House Ethics Committee voted to require Congress members to disclose details of any associations with South Korea in an effort to determine the scope of that government's influence-peddling on Capitol Hill.

Bitterness Remains Following Deaths

LEE, Mass. (AP) — One year after two teen-agers drowned during a graduation night brawl with youths from a rival high school, students are gathering again at Laurel Lake, a picturesque pool in the Berkshire Hills.

And although seven teen-agers were convicted of involuntary manslaughter, some of the bitterness over the deaths that shook two small western Massachusetts towns remains.

"As far as I'm concerned, there's been no justice. None whatsoever," says the father of 19-year-old Barry Griffin, who was found in a white Cadillac when it was pulled from the lake on June 5, 1981. The body of a second youth, 18-year-old Richard Retzel, was also in the car.

Griffin and Retzel were from Lee, a working-class mill town south of the lake. The youths were 1980 graduates of Lee High School.

The seven others were members of the June 1981 graduating class of Lenox Memorial High School, Lee High's athletic rival. Lenox, northwest of the lake, is the site of the Tanglewood Music Festival, the summer home of the Boston Symphony.

It was never established how the car went into the water, but, according to the prosecutor's closing arguments, the two victims may have panicked, putting the car into drive instead of reverse, hurtling it into the water.

Court records indicate that the incident began when Griffin, Retzel and a third Lee teen-ager attacked Joseph Burke, one of the Lenox defendants, and David Carpenter, also of Lenox.

In a statement to police, Burke said the Lee youths attacked him and his friend, saying "They were sick of you Lenox kids."

Carpenter suffered a broken jaw in the fight and went home. But Burke met the other six defendants at a party, and they later found the Lee youths at the boat ramp.

Superior Judge William Simons said the incident was like any other manslaughter case, except for the fact that it occurred "at a place we all love to look at and a picture postcard setting." The judge dismissed high school rivalries and graduation party drinking as mitigating factors.

The seven Lenox students were sentenced in December to 2½ years in the Berkshire House of Corrections, but remain free pending appeal. Arguments are set for September before the state Court of Appeals in Boston.

Barbara Holmes, Griffin's mother, says she occasionally sees some of the defendants when she shops.

"I just grit my teeth every time I see them. They haven't said anything...It's just hard on us," she says.

"They'll never do a day behind bars," says the boy's father, Barry Edward Griffin, who now lives in Houston.

The younger Griffin graduated in 1980 from Lee High School and went to live with his father in Texas. He returned home three days before the incident.

Mrs. Holmes and other relatives of the two dead teen-agers attended nearly all of the legal proceedings which were held in nearby Pittsfield. They sat in the Berkshire County courtroom watching the seven defendants, who were together in the first row.

On Nov. 19, the jury convicted each youth of two counts of involuntary manslaughter and one count of assault and battery. They were acquitted of another count of assault and battery.

Since the sentencing, the 18-year-old Burke has married his high school girlfriend, his attorney, William K. Danaher of Springfield said.

Burke, a carpenter, holds a full-time job at Tanglewood and runs a part-time house painting business, Danaher said.

"He's stoic. If the appeal fails, he is willing to do what the court says," Danaher said.

Another defendant, 19-year-old Robert Walker, owns and operates an ice cream truck in central Berkshire County, according to his lawyer, Andrew Campoli of Pittsfield.

But attorneys for Burke, Walker and the other five defendants — Peter Bianco, Bruce Kern, Mark Hinman, Stephen Piretti and Todd Terpak — said their clients did not want talk about the incident.

The other defendants either hold jobs or attend school. None has been in any other trouble, according to Jim Overmyer, spokesman for the Berkshire County District Attorney's Office.

Meanwhile, steps are being taken to prevent similar incidents. Parents in Lenox plan to provide rides to seniors too drunk to drive home after parties this week.

Seniors who graduated Saturday from Lee High School dedicated their yearbook to Griffin and Retzel and a third member of the 1980 class, who died in a traffic accident last year.

The dedication reads: "We learn from them that we should make the best of our present time."

Getting A Taste of 21st Century

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight years ago the U.S. Chamber of Commerce offered a frightening forecast of inflation to come. By the year 2002, for example, the median price of a house was forecast to reach $62,500.

Inflation flies, faster than time. Here in 1982 we are getting a taste of the 21st century. The median priced home already is close to $70,000, and now, says the chamber, it might cost $363,000 in 2002.

Shocking, of course, but no more so than the federal debt, which was expected to reach $1.2 trillion in 2002 but which, 20 years early, is already bloated to nearly that size. Similarly obese is the federal budget, expected to reach $762 billion in 2002 but already beyond that.

The typical automobile was foreseen as costing $7,500, a suit of clothes $312, and a pair of shoes $75, prices that anyone can recognize as having arrived in advance of the chamber's warnings.

No surprise therefore that Americans suffer from inflation shock, a lingering malady that now prevents them from believing price rises have been brought into check, despite an abundance of single-digit evidence.

The malady shows up most destructively in the form of extremely high interest rates, but in a half-dozen other ways too. In, for example, the fears of savers, stock market investors and corporate managements.

The latter are in a dither. Should they assume that inflation and related problems are under control, making it safe to commit funds for expansion? They're not making that assumption. They're cutting instead.

Throughout the economy there is evidence of a siege mentality, of digging in, hunkering down. Consumer buying plans for big ticket items are as indefinite or negative as are corporate expansion plans.

Searching through government, business and academic analyses of the economy, you find broad agreement on high interest rates as the cause.

Who can borrow at 16 to 20 percent, when those rates preclude profit for the business person and sometimes represent 50 percent of gross pay for the would-be homeowner? Perhaps more important, who dares borrow at such rates, knowing they are symptomatic of deeper economic ailments? One of those ailments is inflation shock. You may recall the first casualties 15 years ago, when inflation's roots spread like crabgrass in the nation's lawn, destroying the economic illusion of prosperity.

What happened? For one thing, the solid saver who had put away little bits year by year found his savings eaten up in big bites. Insurance policies that had been dutifully maintained lost their value. The consequences are still with us, and now represent one of the big obstacles to economic recovery. While inflation had been reduced to 5 percent or so, millions of people refuse to believe it is permanent.

DON'T KILL YOURSELF: THERE'S A WAY OUT!

Trembling with fear, the jailer called for lights and ran to the dungeon and fell down before Paul and Silas. He brought them out and begged them, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

They replied, "Believe on the Lord Jesus and you will be saved, and your entire household." Then they told him and all his household the Good News from the Lord.

That same hour he washed their stripes and he and all his family were baptized. Then he brought them up into his house and set a meal before them. He and his household rejoiced because all were now believers!

The next morning the judges sent police officers over to tell the jailer, "Let those men go!" So the jailer told Paul they were free to leave.

But Paul replied, "Oh no they don't! They have publicly beaten us without trial and jailed us -- and we are Roman citizens! So now they want us to leave secretly? Never! Let them come themselves and release us!"

The police officers reported to the judges, who feared for their lives when they heard Paul and Silas were Roman citizens. So they came to the jail and begged them to go, and brought them out and pled with them to leave the city. Paul and Silas then returned to the home of Lydia where they met with the believers and preached to them once more before leaving town.

Hinckley Thought of As 'Twerp'

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Hinckley Jr., the man who shot President Reagan, had no delusions about his one-sided relationship with actress Jodie Foster and suspected that she considered him a "poor little twerp," a psychiatrist says.

Dr. Park Elliott Dietz, a psychiatrist called by the prosecution, said Monday that Hinckley "recognized throughout the relationship (with Miss Foster) was one-sided."

Dietz, a Harvard Medical School professor, testifies again today, his third day on the witness stand.

On Monday, the psychiatrist described Hinckley as a man who "controlled his conduct, decided what to do and carried out his goals. ...This is not a man who is wild, but a man who chooses the precise moment when the time is right."

That assessment contrasted with the view offered earlier by defense psychiatrists who described Hinckley as an insane man, driven to shoot Reagan by his fantasy of achieving eternal love with Miss Foster.

Hinckley has acknowledged shooting Reagan and three other men outside the Washington Hilton Hotel on March 30, 1981, but he contends he is innocent because he was insane at the time.

Dietz, who has testified in hundreds of trials where the defendant raised the insanity defense, spoke steadily and without emotion during the friendly questioning by chief prosecutor Roger M. Adelman.

Hinckley's mood shifted during the day. He displayed a wide grin in the morning session, but by afternoon he appeared edgy during the unfavorable testimony.

He covered his eyes, shifted in his seat and tapped his knuckles on the defense table, gestures that in the past have preceded his asking to leave the courtroom. But Monday, he stayed.

He heard Dietz debunk testimony of psychiatrists who testified in his behalf. The defense experts said Hinckley believed Miss Foster would be willing to enter a "magical union" with him after he impressed her by shooting Reagan.

But said the defendant never had a delusion — a fixed, false idea — that she would ever love him.

"He knew all along it was not going to work out," Dietz said, and cited a poem of Hinckley's written after Miss Foster brushed off his letters and phone calls.

Hinckley wrote, "Even a phone conversation seems to be too much. I really can't blame you for ignoring a poor little twerp like me."

At most, Dietz told Adelman, Hinckley "had unrealistic hopes" of getting to know a movie star, a "not uncommon" feeling.

Dietz said Hinckley wanted to gain "fame and notoriety" by shooting the president. He quoted Hinckley as bragging in one psychiatric interview, "Actually, I should feel good that I accomplished everything on a grand scale."

Dietz agreed that Hinckley was trying to impress the ac-

Anything goes for compost

DEAR POLLY — What, besides grass cuttings, should I use to make a compost pile? — MRS. E.L.

DEAR MRS. E.L. — Almost any vegetable waste matter can go into your compost pile including trimmings from vegetables (carrot tops, celery leaves, etc.), leaves, weeds and other garden refuse. Coffee grounds and crushed egg shells (rinse the egg shells clean of egg white, first) can also be added to the compost pile.

To speed up decomposition and add nutrients, toss in a few cups of a standard 5-10-5 fertilizer. Horse, sheep or cow manure can also be added. Keep the compost pile moist, too. If you turn your compost over every five to seven days, you will speed up decomposition, and you should be able to start using the compost as garden mulch within three or four weeks. You'll know your compost is ready to use when it looks dark, rich and crumbly — like good black topsoil. A compost pile is a wonderful way to enrich and mulch your garden. And your only investment is time, since the materials are things you normally just throw away! — POLLY

Quisenberry Quietens Twins, Chisox Nip A's

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer
How does Kansas City's ace reliever Dan Quisenberry pitch to the heart of the Minnesota Twins' lineup?
"Very, very carefully," he says — particularly when he's pitching in the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in Minneapolis.

Quisenberry was in such a situation Monday night, with the Royals leading 5-4 in the 11th inning and the same three batters coming up that hit consecutive home runs in the eighth — Ron Washington, Tom Brunansky and Kent Hrbek.

Quisenberry blew the ball by both Washington and Brunansky, then got Hrbek for the final out on a fly ball to left field, helping the Royals win their sixth straight game.
Hrbek, incidentally, had hit a homer off Quisenberry in that explosive eighth. Washington and Brunansky hit their blasts off Kansas City starter Keith Creel.

"Hrbek has very good plate coverage," said Quisenberry. "Most players hit a zone — but not him. He's interesting."
The Twins were losing 4-0 before tying the game with four runs in the last two innings. After the three homers in the eighth, they tied the game 4-4 in the ninth on an RBI single by pinch-hitter Jesus Vega.

Then in the Kansas City 11th, Amos Otis led off with a single. He was forced at second by Hal McRae's fielder's-choice grounder. McRae then scored the Royals' winning run when Jerry Martin singled to center and Brunansky misplayed the ball.
Quisenberry evened his record at 2-2. Pete Redfern, 2-7, making his first appearance out of the bullpen after nine starts, was the loser.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was Chicago 6, Oakland 5 in 11 innings; Seattle 6, Texas 0; Baltimore 7, Milwaukee 2 and Toronto 7, Cleveland 3.

White Sox 6, A's 5
Bill Almon's bases-loaded single in the 11th inning scored Harold Baines from third to give Chicago a comeback victory over Oakland.

Baines led off the 11th with a single and Carlton Fisk, who earlier hit two successive homers to help the White Sox wipe out a 5-0 deficit, doubled to send Baines to third. Marv Foley was walked intentionally before Almon lined his game-winning single.
Kevin Hickey, 2-1, was the winner and Dave Beard, 4-3, the loser.

Hill Unanimous All-Loop Pick

Hereford second-base man Mike Hill was one of only two unanimous selections to the first team All-District 4-5A baseball team announced Monday.
Hill joined Coronado hurler Gary Beard (11-4) as the only players tabbed by all five loop mentors at their respective positions.

The Mustangs, who lost in the quarterfinals, had the league's top player in Beard, and the top coach in John Dudley, who led the Ponies to a 29-10 overall record.
In addition to Beard, a lefty, two right-handed pitchers drew all-league laurels. They included CHS' Richard Smith (11-2) and Monterey's Rick Dillman (14-2).
The Plainsmen's Doug Hatch was the first-team

backstop, while Plainview players rounded out the all-star infield. PHS' Ronnie Ortegón won the first base spot, while teammates Andrew Dunlap and Alton Jackson drew the nod at third base and shortstop, respectively.

The all-loop outfield consisted of Quennoth Dunlap of Plainview, Jerry Foster of Coronado, and Monterey's Kevin Short.
The Ponies' Mark Gilham was named the outstanding designated hitter, while Ortegón won Sophomore of the Year honors, nosing out HHS soph Mickey Stengel for that honor.

Hereford's Mike Mason also received honorable mention as an outfielder.

Trailing by five runs, Chicago cut Oakland's lead to two in the bottom of the seventh on a two-run homer by Fisk and a solo shot by Jerry Hairston off A's starter Rick Langford.
Steve Kemp's sacrifice fly in the eighth off Beard gave the White Sox their fourth run and they tied it in the ninth on Fisk's second homer of the game.

Mariners 6, Rangers 0
Gene Nelson pitched a brilliant two-hitter, allowing only those two Texas runners to reach base, as Seattle beat the Rangers.

Buddy Bell spoiled Nelson's bid for a perfect game with a two-out single in the seventh inning. The second hit off Nelson, 3-7, was a one-out single by Dave Hostetter in the eighth.

Texas left-hander Jon Matlack, 1-4, retired the first 12 Seattle hitters, but Richie Zisk opened the fifth with a single, Al Cowens walked and Todd Cruz singled to load the bases. Terry Bulling's single drove in Zisk and Cowens for a 2-0 Mariner lead.

Emory Brownlow and Ronnie Osborne were runners-up in the third flight with a 157.
Involved in a tie for third place in the third flight were John Stagner and Vega partner Steve Brorman, Tommy Bowling and Weldon Gilcrease, and Dock Weaver and Clovis partner Ray Fritz.
B.J. Gilliland and Steve Nieman tied for first place in the fourth flight with two Canyon golfers, while J.R. Blackwell and Leo Hollowell tied for second in the fifth flight.
In the seventh flight, Francis Backus teamed with Tony Brorman of Vega for first-place honors.

Bob Baker and Jeff Loerwald teamed up to win the tournament with a 142 low-ball total. Cal Garrett and Virgil Marsh, also of Hereford, tied for second place with two Amarillo golfers at 148.
Shorty Roark and Charles Skinner were second in the first flight with a 152 score;

Beat St. Louis, 3-2

Expos Nudge Closer to Cards

By DENNIS D'AGOSTINO Associated Press Writer
It took an angry young man to nudge the Montreal Expos just a little closer to the front-running St. Louis Cardinals in the National League East.
Warren Cromartie — the not-so-proud possessor of a .211 average — led off the ninth inning of a 2-2 game

Monday night facing St. Louis bullpen ace Bruce Sutter. As .211 hitters are wont to do, he was not happy with his recent performance.

"It wasn't frustration or a lack of hustle," said Cromartie. "It was just anger at myself."

It didn't take much to make Cromartie happy, though. He belted Sutter's first pitch over the right-center field wall for the game-winning homer as the Expos beat the Cards, 3-2, to move to within 3½ games of first-place St. Louis.

In other National League games, Atlanta beat Los Angeles 4-3; San Diego nipped Cincinnati 6-5; Philadelphia topped Chicago 7-5 and Pittsburgh beat New York 4-3 in 12 innings.

"I've been getting inspiration from my teammates, family and friends," said Cromartie, who hit .304 last season. "It's just a matter of me putting it all together."

The Cards stranded 11 baserunners, leaving Manager Whitey Herzog none too pleased.
"We never were ahead," said Herzog. "We had our chances early and we couldn't do anything with them. But it was a good game. We battled to the wire."

Ray Burris, 1-7, got the victory in relief for Montreal. Braves 4, Dodgers 3

Cardinals Last Hope for West

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Texas carries college baseball's best record into Tuesday night's winners' bracket semifinal against Stanford, the team now carrying the hopes of the West in the College World Series.

Texas, ranked No. 1 with a 57-4 record, and Stanford, No. 6 with a 49-16-1 mark, meet at 7:10 p.m. CDT with the winner advancing to the winners' bracket finals at 7:10 p.m. Thursday. The loser meets Maine in an elimination game at 8:10 p.m. Wednesday.

"We had a really good season," said Longhorn Coach Cliff Gustafson. His club also had a good start in the CWS, blasting Oklahoma State 9-1 on Roger Clemens' five-hitter in Saturday's first round.

Stanford possibly is the hottest team in the field, scoring at an average of over 14 runs per game through the NCAA playoffs. The Cardinal shelled South Carolina 15-4 Saturday night and equalled a CWS record with 11 runs in a single inning.

Following the elimination of Cal-State Fullerton Sunday night, Stanford is the lone western school's representative remaining in the playoffs. But the Cardinal must now get past Texas, whose 1975 team was the only NCAA Division I baseball champion outside the West since 1967.

"Obviously we're very proud of the baseball we play out west," said Marquess. "And I think it makes a difference in the tournament. Every other team is shooting for you and you get their best shot. But it helps us out there because you're playing top-notch competition throughout the year."

Stanford came through a regional playoff, besting three top 20-rated teams in Hawaii, Fresno State and Pepperdine.

league-leading 17th homer — a three-run, seventh-inning shot of reliever Tom Niedenfuer — to pace the Braves' victory, which enabled first-place Atlanta to maintain a 1½ game lead over San Diego in the NL West.

The Dodger defeat did not diminish the feat of first baseman Steve Garvey, who played in his 1,000th consecutive game.
"It's a source of pride to be able to produce every day of my contract, almost every inning," said the 33-year old Garvey, owner of the fifth-longest consecutive-game playing streak in major league history.

Veteran knuckleball artist Phil Niekro, 4-2, got the victory for Atlanta. Steve Bedrosian picked up his third save.
Padres 6, Reds 5
Garry Templeton's two-run single ignited a five-run Padre third inning outburst, lifting Chris Welsh to his fourth victory against one defeat.

The Padres once held a 6-2 lead, but the Reds scored three late runs before Luis DeLeon came on in the ninth for his third save.

"There's no way the West has a lock on this title ... not any more," said Fullerton Coach Augie Garrido, who had picked Stanford as his pre-tournament favorite. "These programs are getting better and better. Maybe we used to have the edge because many of the quality players were right in our backyard but now with better recruiting programs and more aggressive coaches those kids aren't all staying home."

"There was a time when being from the West meant something and made a difference, but now the best thing the West does for us is provide us with good day-in-day-out, quality-brand competition."

Garrido, whose 1979 team won the CWS, said it took two special pitching efforts to eliminate his team. "But that's what makes this tournament special. The unexpected can happen," he said.

Accident Kills Popular Umpire

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Baseball officials today mourned the death of one of the game's most popular umpires, Louis John DiMuro, who died after being struck by a car on a busy street near Arlington Stadium.

DiMuro, 51, a 19-year veteran American League umpire, walked into the path of a car late Sunday after officiating a Chicago White Sox-Texas Rangers game and was on his way to a fast food restaurant.

"He was certainly one of the most popular and personable of all our umpires," American League President Lee MacPhail said in a prepared statement Monday.

"His sudden passing is a loss to all of us in baseball," MacPhail added.

A special team of umpires was called to Milwaukee to work the Baltimore Orioles-Milwaukee Brewers game because the crew that had included DiMuro did not work the game because they were grief-stricken.

A moment of silence in DiMuro's memory preceded the Baltimore-Milwaukee game.

"I had goosebumps when they had a moment of silence for Lou. It was a great tribute and it showed how close of a family we have here in baseball," said Rocky Roe, one of the substitute umpires.

Roe described his feelings as "shock and disbelief."

"It always seems like the misfortunes happen to the really good people," Roe added.

Asked about reports that he will join the crew as DiMuro's replacement for the rest of the season, Roe said, "You can't replace a guy like Lou DiMuro and I wouldn't attempt to. It's really just a time for sorrow."

Noting that DiMuro was survived by a wife and five children, ranging in age from 2 to 16, Roe said, "It's not only a loss of a fine gentleman in the game, but he was a great family man. Just an incredible shame for the kids."

An autopsy Monday showed DiMuro died of massive head injuries, the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's Office said.

Witnesses told police DiMuro, who lived in Tucson, Ariz., walked into the path of a car driven by David Ray O'Toole at about 11 p.m. and smashed against the windshield on the driver's side of the car.

Two registered nurses who happened to be passing the scene administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation until DiMuro was taken to Arlington Memorial Hospital.

Police Capt. B.N. Wiggins said he was pronounced dead about 1 a.m.

DiMuro was second in seniority among American League umpires behind Bill Haller. He began umpiring after a broken finger he suffered while serving in the U.S. Air Force benched him as a player.

He had umpired in two World Series in 1969 and 1976, worked league championship series in 1971, 1975 and 1978, and officiated at All Star Games in 1965, 1967, 1972 and 1981.

Mood of NBA Playoff Series Now Changing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was only a few days ago that the Los Angeles Lakers were being touted by many observers as one of the greatest teams in National Basketball Association history. Now, there are those who believe the Lakers have their backs against the wall.

The Lakers, with a 3-2 lead over Philadelphia in the best-of-seven NBA Championship Series, entertain the 76ers tonight in Game Six. The contest begins at 9 p.m., EDT.

The series moved back to Los Angeles because the 76ers rolled to a 135-102 triumph on their home court last Sunday. If the 76ers win tonight, a seventh game will be played at the Spectrum in Philadelphia Thursday night.

On the whole, the Lakers would rather not be in Philadelphia, at least not right now.

"It's going to be a heck of a basketball game because the Lakers are going to treat it like it's the seventh game," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham, speaking of tonight's contest. "They don't want to come back to Philly to play us."

Of course, the 76ers aren't too fond of playing the Lakers at the Forum, either. Los Angeles has won 40 of its 58 home games against Philadelphia over the years.

Philadelphia is trying to become the first team in the 36-year history of the NBA to win a Championship Series after trailing 3-1. As Lakers' guard Norm Nixon pointed out, the 76ers still have a lot to accomplish.

"Who's down 3-2?" asked Nixon after Game Five. "They have to win two games, we have to win one. They have to play two great games."

One 76er who played a great game Sunday was 6-foot-11 center Darryl Dawkins. However, about the only consistent thing about Dawkins seems to be his inconsistency.

Dawkins came off the bench to score 20 points, grab seven rebounds and play a key role as the 76ers held Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to only six points. In Game Two of the Series, Dawkins played only eight minutes. He scored nine points, but picked up five fouls.

Rockets Owners Ponder Offers

HOUSTON (AP) — The owners of the Houston Rockets say they are listening to offers to buy the team, but insist it is routine and the National Basketball Association franchise is not on the auction block.

Ray Patterson, general manager of the Rockets, confirmed Monday that the team's owners have received four or five offers to buy the team.

"I assume there will be more discussions next week. If one of the parties concerned shows that it is really serious, then yes, there is a possibility that the club will be sold," Patterson said.

But Rockets' President Gavin Maloof said Monday in Albuquerque that the franchise "definitely is not on the selling block."

George Maloof purchased the Rockets in 1979 for an estimated $9 million to $10 million. After Maloof's death in 1980, his widow Coleen and son Gavin, took control of the team.

Offers to buy the Rockets — currently involved in high-stakes negotiations to sign star center Moses Malone to a new contract — are nothing new, said Mrs. Maloof.

"We've had offers all along," she said. "George had an offer a week after he bought the team."

"An offer really has to be attractive," Mrs. Maloof said.

"Nothing has come up we would like to take on," said Gavin Maloof.

Bud Reynolds, chief financial officer for the Maloof Companies, owners of the Rockets, said the Albuquerque-based company, which often finds it difficult to manage the team

Abdul-Jabbar hadn't scored fewer than 11 points in his previous 109 playoff games. The last time the 35-year-old, six-time NBA most valuable player failed to score in double figures in any game was opening day of the 1977-78 season. He scored two points then before getting into a fight with Kent Benson and being ejected.

Asked about the 76ers' strategy against him Sunday, Abdul-Jabbar said, "They just pushed and shoved."

"Philadelphia just wasn't going to allow him the kind of position he had in the two games in L.A.," added Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley, who said it would be a different story Tuesday.

If the Lakers win tonight, they'll equal the finest playoff record in league history. Los Angeles has an 11-2 mark; the best post-season record is 12-2 by the Milwaukee Bucks in 1971.

from New Mexico, is listening to offers.

"Because because of the fact that we had a good gate this year, there have been a lot of inquiries," Reynolds said. "In any business, it's the management's prerogative to explore all options."

Patterson declined to name potential buyers "until there is something firm on the table."

Patterson also said the Rockets would sign Malone, who would become a free agent when the current NBA playoffs end.

Huntington Behind Cooney All the Way

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — "Cooney Power." "I love Gerry Cooney."

This sprawling Long Island community, renowned as the home of poet Walt Whitman, is wearing its heart on its sleeve this week for a fighter, favorite son Gerry Cooney.

The above accolades are emblazoned on T-shirts and car bumpers and the name buzzes in the school corridors throughout the day and in the local pubs until the wee hours of the morning.

Will the 6-foot-7 neighborhood kid with the knockout punch wrest the world's heavyweight boxing crown from Larry Holmes in their $50 million showdown at Las Vegas, Nev., Friday night?

It's a rhetorical question. To Gerry's family, friends and fellow townspeople there is no doubt.

"Just a matter of when," is the common reply. "It'll be quick."

Walt Whitman High School, which Cooney, now 25, attended, is declaring Friday "Gerry Cooney Day."

"There will be no holiday — classes as usual," said assistant principal John V. O'Farrell. "But we'll probably have buttons and banners. I'm sure there will be an after-school rally."

O'Farrell is sure to find some of his teachers missing. Geraldine Gorman, who was profiled in a national magazine as Gerry's favorite English teacher, and other members of the faculty were to join Cooney's mom, brothers, sisters and close family friends today in a flight to Las Vegas.

Earlier, Gorman went into seclusion to avoid reporters hunting for details about this powerful iron worker's son who could be the first white man in more than 20 years to rule the heavyweight division.

"I don't get a chance to comb my hair in the morning," said Mom Cooney. "The phone never stops ringing."

To reach the small brick bungalow where Gerry grew up, one must turn off the Jericho Turnpike, pass the Walt Whitman Mall and take Holland Street to a dead end. The house is protected by a steel fence and an disarming sign, "Beware of Dog."

The living room breathes with the influence of the famous son — magazine cover stories and a red boxing glove on the coffee table, on the wall plaques and photos of some of his 25 fights, 21 won by knockout, 11 in the first two rounds. Only a color portrait of Pope John Paul II breaks the theme.

Eileen Cooney is a handsome, dark-haired woman who never sought to steer her third oldest son into a more peaceful profession.

"His father had his heart set on Gerry being a fighter," said Mrs. Cooney. "I wouldn't have changed that for the world."

The father died six years ago, living only long enough to see his son win the Golden Gloves heavyweight crown. Gerry declined to go to Montreal Olympics because he didn't want to leave his ailing dad.

"I get nervous when he's even sparring," Mrs. Cooney said. "When he's in the ring, I hide my eyes, finger my rosary beads and get weak in the knees. Fortunately, his fights don't last long. As far as I am concerned, if he got it over in a second I'd be happy."

Sports Briefs

NEW YORK (AP) — Cecil Cooper of the Milwaukee Brewers, second in the American League in hitting this season at .360, was named the American League's Player of the Week. Cooper batted .476 from May 31 to June 6.

Cooper was 10-for-21 last week with three doubles and four home runs for 25 total bases. He drove in seven runs, scored four slugged 1.143 and had an on base percentage of .476.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Driessen of the Cincinnati Reds was named as National League Player of the week for the period ending June 6. Driessen hit safely in all six of Cincinnati's games with 15 hits in 26 at bats for a .577 percentage. He hit three home runs and drove in 10 runs, one of which won a game for the Reds. Driessen also scored four runs and hit three doubles, helping him compile a slugging percentage of 1.038.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Diego Clippers of the National Basketball Association will move to Los Angeles this fall, the team's owner announced.

Although Donald T. Sterling hedged at specifics, it was reported the Clippers have signed a three-year contract to play in the Sports Arena with options for up to an additional 70 years.

Missing Stars Won't Hurt Wimbledon

LONDON (AP) — The absence of five top tennis stars will not hurt Wimbledon this time, says Sandy Mayer.

"But if players continued to stay away because they don't like playing on grass, then it could make a difference after a few years," the 30-year-old American said. "In that case, they would probably have to change the surface."

Wimbledon is one of the few major grass court tournaments left, and the world's leading players are starting to tune up for the big event beginning in two weeks. Mayer is playing in the Stella Artois Grand Prix Tournament at London's Queen's Club and began his campaign by defeating 18-year-old Henri Le Conte of France 2-6, 7-6, 6-4 Monday.

High Schooler No. One Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Shawon Dunston's major league timetable starts in just over two weeks when he graduates from Thomas Jefferson High School in Brooklyn, N.Y.

The slugging 19-year-old shortstop then will report to the Chicago Cubs' Sarasota farm club in the Gulf Coast League to begin what scouts describe as a can't-miss baseball career.

"Four years exactly and I'll be up there," Dunston promised after the Cubs made him the No.1 selection Monday in baseball's amateur free agent draft and immediately signed him to a one-year contract which included a hefty bonus.

"It felt really good to be on top of all those people," said Dunston. "But this is just the start. I have to mature and get experience. I'm a young man and I'm really not ready yet. But in four years, I'll be there."

The Cubs think so, too. "We obviously feel that Shawon has the most physical potential of any player our scouting staff has seen this year," said Gordon Goldsberry, the Cubs' director of minor leagues and scouting. "We had five of our people watch him play at Missing from Wimbledon will be reigning champion Bjorn Borg, Argentinian stars Guillermo Vilas and Jose-Luis Clerc, Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia and American Eliot Teltscher. They have all chosen not to play for one reason or another.

"I like grass," said Mayer, "but a lot of players don't. It's certainly no joke preparing for Wimbledon. It's not only the surface that's different. Even the balls are different."

Mayer said he and his brother Gene had been practicing on a grass court in New York.

"It is never used for tournaments, but it's useful before we come over here," he said. "I had a case of Wimbledon balls sent over, but when they were arrived they were not like the balls we used at Wimbledon last year."

Mayer said the tennis balls at Wimbledon are slightly spongy and do not spin much.

"So I'm always tentative hitting my second service," he explained. "In the last two or three years the balls at Wimbledon have become more and more dead."

Borg is not playing Wimbledon because he has not played in the minimum number of Grand Prix events and was asked to qualify.

Vilas and Clerc are avoiding Britain because of the Falkland Islands dispute between England and their country. Lendl and Teltscher said they dislike Wimbledon.

Queen's Club week is traditionally a try-out on grass and produced a lot of upsets in the past. But in the last three years John McEnroe, current Wimbledon champion, has won the Queen's Club title. Most of his rivals prefer to avoid tournament play before and concentrate on practice.

McEnroe is seeded No.1 in the $172,000 tournament, and Jimmy Connors No.2. Neither played Monday.

Le Conte, one of Europe's young hopes, was strongly in contention until he served a vital double fault to lose the second set on a tiebreaker. He double faulted twice more at the start of the final set, and Mayer nosed ahead.

Le Conte said he knows of only six grass courts in France, and he seldom gets to play on them.

"I practice for Wimbledon on wood," he added.

Oscar Hernandez, Local Manager, Tucumcari.

Southwestern Public Service Company is part of the Southwest Power Pool, a voluntary group of power suppliers. Membership in this pool increases the reliability of SPS' electric service, since such membership allows transfer of power from another utility system to ours if necessary. Power pools are regularly reviewed by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

SPS is planning for your future energy demands. Because it takes many years to finance and construct a power plant, SPS' long-term forecasters begin planning 15 to 20 years before the plant will be needed. Through "load forecasting," SPS can predict how much electricity our customers will require in the future. If our forecast is too high, we could build expensive plants prematurely. If it is too low, we might not have enough energy to go around. SPS takes its forecasting responsibility seriously, to bring you reliable electric service next week, next year, and into the next decade.

Larry Simms, Division Superintendent, Lubbock.

Buildup of indoor pollutants may present a serious health risk, since people spend more than 85% of their time indoors. Indoor pollutants can be found in some furniture cleaners, office machinery, fireplaces and building materials. SPS encourages our customers to insulate their homes, yet they should be aware that an airtight home requires daily airing, particularly during winter months or on cleaning days, when household cleaners that may contain dangerous chemicals are used.

Joe Don Parrott, Building & Records Coordinator, Amarillo.

Knowing what electricity is worth is worth knowing. For answers to your questions, call or write your SPS manager.
