Onions, Potatoes Roll to Market

Vegetable Harvest Begins Here

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

Harvesting of the area's onion crop picked up momentum this week and was expected to be running at a peak during the middle of July provided weather remained fair. Harvesting of potatoes was expected to start this week also. Prices on both crops were expected to remain good and the harvest should pour millions of dollars into the local economy. Onion harvest, after a delayed start due to wet weather, shifted gears and got into full swing at all packing sheds and the outlook for the remaining three months is one of great optimism. Total income from the Hereford area for the single crop is expected to near the all-time high as it is predicted to top the $3 million mark.

In addition to the onion market, potatoes look as if they too might reach a good high for the season before their harvest is completed sometime in September.

George Jones, manager at E. C. Reinauer & Sons Inc., reported that the onion harvest, after being delayed because of rains throughout the area in recent weeks, has just started moving with enough efficiency to make it noticeable. The early onion crop, which was begun harvesting early this month, is considered "heavy", bringing about $2.25 on the market.

Jones also reported that the acreage is about normal or slightly below this. He stated, is having no great effect on the onion crop, as the quality is very good and the demand is high.

White onions are bringing from $2 to $2.50 per hundred, depending on their quality and size, and the jumbo variety is listed for $2.75 to $3 on the market.

Handling the harvest from about 400 acres, E. C. Reinauer & Sons provide markets throughout the country with onions from the local area. Though they ship the bulk of the crop north, east and south, harvesting operations in Arizona, western New Mexico and California now provide areas in the western United States with sufficient supply, while the local crop will be marketed in all other points of the nation.

Griffin and Brand, located west of the city on the U. S. 60, reported this week that the harvest was going along "real good" over the "several" acres under their supervision. Last Monday was the first day for harvest at Griffin & Brand and manager, John Seiver expects completion sometime in early October. One of the major reasons for the lengthy harvest season is the number of acres being handled by the company and its approximate 600 employees.

Potato harvest, another of the major vegetable crops, is expected to begin this week, according to sheds throughout the area, and this season's harvest should be another good one.

E. C. Reinauer & Sons Inc. is handling approximately 1,000 acres during the season and prodicts that again it should be a profitable year. "The potato harvest looks real good", Jones reported. "A few shipments have already left for the markets but things will really begin picking up this week."

Employing some 200-plus during the peak of the potato and onion seasons, E. C. Reinauer & Sons handle potato shipping along the same routes as they do their onion crops, going north, east and south with their loads, but not west due to the conflicting harvest seasons.

As is the case every year, labor forces from the Southwest have begun slipping gradually into the area for the harvest seasons, and they are expected to turn the dollar over several times in the local economy before the seasons are terminated. Men, women and children have found work either in the fields or in the sheds during the season peak and their turn-over of the dollar is expected to be another high for the community.

Of the 3,000 acres of High Plains onion crops this year, the majority is located in the Hereford area and will produce a great part of the expected 1.5 million bags of the crop. Hereford growers received a great deal of notice when recent hail and weather damage destroyed much of the crops in the other onion-potato producing areas of the South Plains, forcing markets to rely heavily on the Hereford area.

The potato and onion crops for the immediate area are considered the backbone of the vegetable market, as they are marked as two of the top three crops in the area, threatened only by the growing sugar beet industry which has had sharp rises in recent years.

Shrine Barbecue Success

A capacity crowd of 750 people attended the first annual Handicapped Benefit barbecue luncheon sponsored by the local Oasis Shrine members held at the Bull Barn Friday.

The feast was held between 12 noon and 2 p.m. following the annual Fourth of July celebration on the courthouse lawn.

The barbecue will replace the Oasis Shriner's Circus, and the proceeds will help finance the Crippled Children's Clinic which was held in May.

Cost of this year's clinic was near $3,000 and additional funds are needed for follow-ups on several of the cases.

During the July 4th festivities on the courthouse lawn, Wesley Gulley gave a welcoming address and Mayor Henry Sears led the audience in the pledge of allegiance followed by a program consisting of portions of historic speeches read by community leaders.

Music was provided by the Hereford High School band directed by Ben Gollehon and by the Community Choir directed by Doug Morris. The Bell Choir was directed by Doug Morris.

Roy Hartman was in charge of arrangements.

Holman Selected As Consultant For Workshops

Bob Holman, assistant superintendent of Hereford public schools, will be a consultant to the Region One Education Service Center during the last week of July in Edinburg, Texas, on training and utilizing teacher aides in an academic setting.

He will be working for two days with state school administrators from schools involved in teaching English as a second language. The workshop is sponsored by the Texas Education Agency and Region One Education Center.

Holman will serve one day as a consultant to the Educational Personnel Development Institute on the Pan American College campus. He will conduct a workshop on reading difficulties diagnosis and techniques of teaching reading and comprehension in secondary subject areas.

Anton Huckert Services Today

Funeral mass for Anton Huckert, 89, who died at 2:30 a.m. Thursday at his home, are scheduled for 10 a.m. today at St. Anthony's Church. Father Michael Graham will officiate. Burial will be in St. Anthony's Cemetery directed by Gilliland Funeral Home.

Mr. Huckert was born Feb. 1, 1880 in Grendelbrook, Germany and came to Deaf Smith County in 1907.

He is survived by two sons, A. F. of Hereford and Harold of Manhattan, Mont.

Nine LPN Pins Are Presented At Meet Here

American Red Cross orientation certificate and Licensed Practical Nurse pins were awarded to nine volunteer nurses including a business woman, Tuesday night in the Community Room of the Hereford Bank.

Mrs. Carolyn Neely, chairman of the local Red Cross Chapter, presented certificates to her guests and Mrs. Veda Grady, chairman of nursing services, presented LPN pins to volunteer nurses: Katie Koch, In Hardy, Dorothy Simons, Cheryl Mendoza, Shirley Brown, Irma Ray, Emma Watson, Lavette Wirth and Jerry Jackson.

The LPN pins were presented here for this year's award for recognition and interest. Mrs. Grady said it is a part of the program to encourage participation and carry out the Red Cross mission.

On the job services offered by these nurses are the sharing of community projects such as first aid, water safety, blood and disaster programs. A meeting on nursing fundamentals in this way the nurses are able to expand their service to the community.

Others present at the presentation were Gray Lyles, Mrs. T. B. Thomas and Mrs. Paul Carlyle and Mrs. Geneva M. Mer, executive secretary.

HARVEST ACTIVITY — Onion harvest has taken the spotlight throughout the area this week as it swings into full force. Work for the field hands begins the process (from left to right) as onions are harvested then sent on trucks to the vegetable sheds.

Workers sort the good, the bad, the large and the small at the sheds (bottom left) and additional labor sacks and prepares them for shipment to various points throughout the United States. —Staff Photos

Mishap Causes $900 Damages

An estimated total damage was $900 in an accident involving two vehicles Wednesday at the intersection of U.S. 85 and Park Ave.

The 1966 Plymouth driven by Hilda Anderson sustained $600 damage and the 1961 Chevrolet sedan driven by one of King sustained $300 in damages.

The driver of one of the vehicles attempted a left turn off U.S. 85 onto Park and in doing so, moved into the path of the other vehicle, which was northbound.

Investigation was conducted by the state Texas trooper, and charges were filed.

Citation Issued In Wreck Here

A citation for improper lane change was issued by investigators Wednesday following a collision near the intersection of U.S. 60 and Progressive Road.

The citation was issued to the driver of a 1967 Plymouth driven by Edger Anderson, who was driving on the 1962 Pontiac driven by Virginia Turner, $100 damages.

Both vehicles were traveling west on U.S. Highway 60 when one of the drivers attempted a left turn from the outside lane and pulled into the path of the other vehicle, which was in the inside lane.

Local Golfer Joins Professional Club

By VICKIE INMAN
Staff Writer

You're on your own in golf. If you don't do good, you can't blame it on anybody but yourself.

That is the excuse in golf says Terry Albracht, 19, the assistant golf pro at the Hereford Municipal Golf Course. Albracht turned professional in August, 1968, and received membership in the Professional Golf Assoc. last week.

Golf is not a hobby for Albracht. He plans to make a living by playing golf. "I'm not concerned with being another Arnold Palmer. I'm more interested in becoming a good golf teacher."

Albracht does not think it will be hard to earn a living from golf. "If you use your head, it's not hard. If you go at it right and treat your members right, you can have a good job."

Teaching golf is harder than playing golf because the teacher has to make the beginner understand golf techniques. "If you are going to play golf, you have to play it the right way."

Learning is not easy, it is hard, Albracht says. "If you take lessons from somebody who knows about golf, it will make golf a lot easier."

A person who learns to play by himself never will be good because he never will know how to swing correctly. Albracht says. Albracht teaches the fundamentals of swinging and explains the golf etiquette and rules. Albracht has been playing golf two and one-half years. He was half a year before I started playing golf seriously. I did not play it too serious, even then.

He is listed in the PGA as a non-associate member and will receive Class A professional standing when he completes 20 to 25 credits. The credits work just like college credits. I will get so many credits every month I work under a Class A pro.

Albracht is planning to attend the PGA business school Dec. 1 in Oklahoma City. He will receive 10 credits there.

The more credits I get the better job I will be able to get. Experience counts for a lot. Albracht hopes to get a job at a bigger golf course in a few years, possibly around Dallas.

Amateur tournaments are the best places for young pros to gain experience by playing against other pros. Albracht placed Monday in the Littlefield pro-am tournament. He and his partner won the pro-am partnership competition.

He played in a tournament in Berger last year but did not win anything there.

Albracht had been playing six months when he and Jimmy Young won the city partnership golf tournament in 1967.

He practices one and one-half hours a day or plays at least nine holes of golf a day when he is not too busy. He gives credit to Bob Baker, Cal Garrett and Donald Bridges for encouraging him to learn.

Albracht is planning to attend the PGA business school Dec. 1 in Oklahoma City. He will receive 10 credits there.

Bad Habit Forms Holiday Breaks

Breaking a leg has become second nature to James McCutchen, 135 Ave. H.

Last Thanksgiving, he fell off a house he was painting and sandblasting and hurt his right leg. The leg still becomes stiff now and then, he says.

Thursday, the day before Independence Day, he was sandblasting Stanton Junior High School when the sandblasting tank fell on his left leg. The bone in his left leg was broken and smaller bones were fractured.

McCutchen was taken by ambulance to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. Doctors performed surgery on his leg and put in a plate to hold the bone together. McCutchen may need bone grafting done later.

Talking by phone from his hospital bed to a Brand reporter, McCutchen says he feels "pretty miserable."

Legislature Back To Work

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
Austin, Tex. — Now it's official: The special 30-day legislative session to draft a biennial budget and a $300 million tax bill will start July 28.

Gov. Preston Smith has issued the call and put lawmakers on notice to report back to work on the final Monday in this month.

As expected, Smith worded his session-summoning proclamation so as to try to prevent the legislators from giving him another one-year appropriations bill like he vetoed on June 21.

However, the Governor told newsmen that if Texans approve a Constitutional Amendment on August 5 calling for annual legislative sessions he might relax his directive to permit a single-year spending pattern. Actually, Smith sees no chance of the amendment being approved. What he expects is for voters to strengthen his demand for biennial budgeting by firmly rejecting annual sessions — as they have done before.

Governor Smith will permit lawmakers to consider other subjects in the 30-day session only after they have completed their mandatory duties of financing the government for a two-year fiscal period extending until August 31, 1971.

Apparently Smith will hold no pre-session conferences on taxation with House Speaker Gus Mutscher and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes since Barnes is now in Tokyo, Japan.

However, Mutscher plans to hold a series of appropriations committee meetings on the budget before July 28 and also endeavor to arrive at a negotiated understanding with the Senate on the perimeters of spending.

"The real key to the success of the session," commented Mutscher, "is how much work we put in before it actually opens."

DRAMA CHANGED
PIETERMARTITZBURG, South Africa — Heavy cuts have been made, at the request of police, in the Tennessee Williams play, "Night of the Iguana," being staged by the Natal Society Drama Group.

A half-hour scene in which Shannon, a former priest, reveals his past life is cut to a few minutes. Copies of the full script can, however, be bought through any bookshop. The film version of the play was also cut when it was shown in South Africa.

The United States in 1785 was the first nation to adopt decimal money.

ens." He has already conferred with his tax and appropriations committee chairmen and most of the individual House members.

The speaker wants the House Committee to complete both appropriations and tax bill hearings during the first week of the session and send the measures to the Senate by the end of the second week.

Smith indicates that he will spell out his tax program on the opening day of the session. He has been swapping revenue ideas with staff members but still isn't offering any hints as to his final decision on the type of tax or taxes he will propose.

COURTS SPEAK
An historic federal court decision prohibiting a cut in welfare payments to mothers with dependent children also prevents the State Welfare Department from receiving federal funds unless a new plan for aid to families with dependent children is worked out.

So, the Welfare Department is boxed in.

A Constitutional restriction limits welfare payments to $60 million a year. At the same time, court rulings continue to make more families eligible for AFDC. This problem will be relieved only if voters approve a Constitutional amendment on August 5 to increase the welfare fund to $80 million. If this amendment fails, an emergency condition will exist which may bring federal action to invalidate the constitutional restriction altogether.

Liquor Control Board has no authority to prevent managers of private locker clubs from buying liquor for club members. So held the Third Court of Civil Appeals in affirming a trial court decision.

Even a "basically illegal" and "fundamentally erroneous" school district assessment procedure does not restrict a district from collecting taxes, says the same court in a Bertram school case. Twenty-eight taxpayers, alleging that assessments ignored market values, sought an injunction to prevent collections on 1968 tax rolls.

Texas Supreme Court refused to reverse two lower courts' decisions and ruled against 80 Sanger ISD taxpayers in their suit to keep the district from raising taxes by more than doubling assessed valuation of property.

Port of Beaumont Navigation lost a $6,300 damages judgment awarded by a local jury when the Texas Supreme Court upheld a court of civil appeals reversal. Suit was against the AT&SF Railroad for an accident in the port's facilities. High court held that AT&SF employees were working for the navigation district when the accident happened.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED

Governor Smith named R. G. (Randy) Pendleton of Andrews to head the governor's Washington office on state-federal relations. Then he called a special election for July 22 in the 73rd district (Andrews, Dawson, Gaines, Lynn, Martin and Yoakum counties) to pick Pendleton's House successor.

Nine members of Texas Tech University board of regents were appointed by Governor Smith. They are: Marshall Formby of Plainview, Roy Furr sr. and Retha R. Martin of Lubbock, Waggoner Carr of Austin, Charles D. Mathews of Dallas, Judson F. Williams of El Paso, R. Trent Campbell of Houston, Frank J. Jannell of San Angelo and James J. Ling of Dallas.

Smith also named nine to the State Manpower Advisory Committee and designated Thomas M. Maes II of Beaumont chairman. Other members include James D. Abrams of El Paso, Gerald R. Brown of Austin, Fred Dillard Coy of San Antonio, Jose L. Gonzalez of Laredo, Marion A. Graham of Houston, Harold D. Levy of Fort Worth, Odys Rhodes of Nacogdoches and Mrs. Mae Simmons, Lubbock.

Dr. Billy M. Jones of San Angelo will become president of Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos on September 1. Dr. Frank Harrison, who has been acting president of the University of Texas at Arlington, was made president effective July 1.

Former House Speaker Jim

Liney of Texarkana has been named chairman of the Real Estate Developers group, a subdivision of the Governor's Committee of 500.

REPUBLICANS REORGANIZE
First complete change in the state Republican guard in seven years has just been approved by the GOP executive committee.

William M. (Bill) Steger, Tyler attorney, was elected state party chairman in a close race with Millard K. Neptune of Austin. Steger was designated vice chairman. She won over Mrs. John Andujar of Fort Worth. Peter O'Donnell Jr. of Dallas, who has served as chairman since 1962, moved into a national GOP committee post in Washington thus creating the opening in Texas. Steger pledged his efforts to improve communications with all elements of party.

DRUG CLAIM PROCEDURE VOID

Texas with claims against five major drug companies involved in a state anti-trust suit were advised by Atty. Gen. Martin. Mrs. Malcolm Milburn lost 16.

Under Federal court order, consumers must file a verified statement certified to by a local pharmacist showing their total expenditure for 1964-1966 for Aureomycin, Terramycin and tetracyclin products, the name of the product and where purchased.

Martin urged all citizens who bought the antibiotic drugs during this period to submit their claims for refunds of overcharge. Refunds probably will be delayed at least six months.

ON THE ROADS

The Highway Commission has been busy with two days of hearings. Requests were heard for big roads, little roads and farm-to-market roads from lots of folks, including the delegations from Franklin, Titus, Reeves, Anderson and Borden counties.

East Texans came to suggest routes for connection from Houston to the Indian Nation Turnpike, with Kilgore, Palestine and Tyler-Jacksonville routes proposed.

Gregg County presented a 12-point highway-need package and Jefferson County asked for the State to take back a bridge linking Port Arthur and Pleasure Island and Louisiana — a bridge the State built and gave to Jefferson County.

Calhoun County wants a road from Indianola to Port O'Connor with a bridge over Powderhorn Lake.

Chairman DeWitt Greer says the department won't know how many roads it can build until it gets some money — which is up to the legislators.

SHORT SNORTS

State Commissioner of Health Dr. James E. Peavy has been named as an adviser on the United States delegation to the 22nd World Health Assembly in Boston, July 8-26.

Planning assistance grants of $27,000 were awarded by the State to Nortex Regional Planning Commission, Ark-Texas Council of Governments, Brazos-Valley Development Council, Deep East Texas Development Council and Smith County-Tyler Area COG.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr., told a six-state criminal justice council meeting cooperation between all law enforcement groups is the key to combatting crime.

State Board of Dental Examiners will meet in San Angelo on September 19.

THE FIRE-DWELLERS

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — The boy least likely to succeed—that's what Wayne Newton was if there was a class book on show business personalities five years ago. There he was, at 245 pounds a round, pudgy, pink-faced singer standing up there trying to make it with clean records like "Duke Schoen," telling wholesome jokes in Las Vegas, going to church on Sunday while other singers like The Beatles were experimenting with "pot," refusing to swap double entendres jokes as a guest star on TV. He wasn't even sexy.

Wayne Newton

But he went straight to the top. Today, he is one of the hottest record sellers, highest paid entertainers in Las Vegas and in concert, a smash in his first TV "special" and currently starring in his first film, "80 Steps to Jonah," of which Wayne's independent company owns 50% along with Steve Brody's Motion Pictures International. How did it happen?

"For one thing," said Wayne at lunch at MGM where his picture is shooting, "I'm 80 pounds thinner. That helped." But not enough.

There's some sort of magic he exerts over an audience which has to be seen to be believed. I noticed it first three years ago at a SHARE party where Wayne was booked to entertain along with Jack Benny and Dean Martin, plus a fellow named Frank Sinatra.

He took over that show and sent it straight through the roof. As everybody there that night can tell you, he had the place crying for more. When he wanted to quit, they would not let him. When Jack finally got on he started right off the stage again. "If you think I'm going to follow this kid, you're crazy!" is what he said.

Same thing happened in Las Vegas where he was predicted to bomb. At the end of his first week headlining the Frontier Hotel, they were paying him $52,000 a week to stay on and his new deal there calls for three times as much. And I mean real money, not a press agent's dream.

The question now is—can he repeat on the screen? "We won't know 'til we find out, will we?" he asks amiably, settling on a green salad for his noonday meal. "Trotting me out as an actor, I sing only twice in the picture, is a gamble on both sides. But the story has heart, and I say, heart still sells."

He told us briefly about the story of a boy named Jonah on the run from a false charge of murder, who stumbles into a camp for blind children. The "80 Steps to Jonah" comes from a little game he teaches them to play—take 80 steps in a certain direction and Jonah will be there. Maybe it's a corn, but it's sweet corn.

Wayne has saved his money, invested it well. He owns ranches of 300 acres near Reno, 42 acres in Arizona, nine acres outside Las Vegas (where he lives) and raises Arabian horses. He has hefty real estate holdings in Virginia, where he was born. Recently, he acquired a wife, a charming little ex-airline stewardess, a pretty Oriental named Elaine.

"We met on a commercial flight out of Saigon," says Wayne. "I had been doing shows in Vietnam, and was wearing GI combat clothes. Also I was in foul humor. On boarding the plane, Elaine's co-stewardess, mistaking me for a non-commissioned soldier, had ordered me to the back of the plane. Did I ever blow my top. I told her she ought to see the soldiers get the first class seats and put the civilians in the back."

"I was so furious with her. I would not even let her serve me food. Finally, after a lot of loud noise on my part, Elaine came back with my tray. I took one look at that cute, smiling, happy little Japanese face and there was my fate."

By Margaret Laurence

In the FIRE-DWELLERS Margaret Laurence gives us a woman more wholly alive, recognizable, and compelling than the memorable Rachel Cameron of her novel A JEST OF GOD (filmed as RACHEL, RACHEL). The heroine for whom she commands the reader's total involvement is an ordinary woman of 39 (house in a development, four children, salesman husband) fearful of—and struggling to shelter her family from both a world she perceives as a world on fire and her own consuming emotions.

A brilliant creation, Stacey MacAindra. She is unique and she is legion—now riding high, with all her capacity for strength and sass, for joy in love-making, for bursts of terrier courage in response to external threats; and now giving way under the psychic pressures of daily living, tearing herself down, childishly retreating to the comfort of daydreams and the solitary drink.

She is both earth mother and scared girl, and her interior life strikes universal chords far beyond her social milieu. The marriage of today that is sexually successful but fragmented by the pressures of job and home; the parental love that is almost vitiated by feelings of inadequacy; the striving to connect morally and humanly with those one loves—and with some larger, more generous pattern of life—all this is powerfully evoked, experienced, felt. Margaret Laurence's ordinary and extraordinary Stacey embodies the terrors and gulfs and fleeting graces—and the incredible aptitudes for survival—of a whole world of fire-dweller.

THE GOOD-BYE LOOK

By Ross McDonald

acknowledged master of the "whipcord thriller," he is increasingly recognized as "not only the best in his field but an important American novelist on any level" (Chicago Tribune). In his new novel, MacDonald's famous non-hero private eye Lew Archer—embodiment of cool—picks his way through the overheated and explosive mazes of a wealthy family's long-hidden secrets. A lost heirloom, a murder that breeds more murder, a boy's life poisoned by a money crime committed before he was born—these are the elements of THE GOOD-BYE LOOK. It is Ross MacDonald at his unnerving best: a novel at once brilliantly perceptive of the world it anatomizes—the freeway culture of Southern California—and from first to last unflinching in its dramatic excitement and suspense.

Laundry Tips

From The Professionals

Take a tip from the professionals, suggests the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Home & Fashions Bureau. They recently conducted a study of professional laundry techniques and believe many of the procedures used by the professionals will be helpful to the homemaker.

A professional launderer carefully inspects all draperies for damage before washing. For excessively soiled draperies, the professionals pre-rinse in warm water for a few minutes; drain; add enough warm water for the draperies to float freely, a low suds detergent, and then wash. A homemaker should gently squeeze and dunk the draperies. Fiberglas should be washed alone, not with other fabrics.

Extremely soiled white draperies are treated by adding one half teaspoon sodium perborate or safety-type bleach per gallon water with the detergent. For cigarette smoke, or similar type soil, soak draperies after washing in a solution of one teaspoon ammonia per gallon water for from 5 to 30 minutes. Do not use the ammonia soak if you have used bleach in the washing procedure, and use only the amounts recommended.

To treat persistent stains, saturate the stained area with concentrated detergent, rub gently with soft sponge, and rinse with clear water. Fiberglas draperies should be rinsed in warm water until water runs clear. Rinse tub or basin thoroughly after each washing.

Commercial laundries, like homemakers, never machine wash or machine dry Fiberglas draperies. While they are damp, draperies should be hung over a line to drip dry. The seams and hems are gently pulled to insure smoothness. Fiberglas never needs ironing and should not be dry cleaned.

The professionals all agree the key word in handling Fiberglas draperies is gentle. Fiberglas products require the minimum amount of care, and that should be done delicately.

Hog Program Is At Phase Three

COLLEGE STATION, July 3. Texas will advance to Phase 3 of the National Hog Cholera Eradication Program Aug. 1, the Texas Animal Health Commission has announced.

Dr. Don Hudman, Texas Agricultural Extension Service swine specialist at A&M University, said Phase 3 is a continuation of immediate reporting of hog cholera outbreaks and more vigorous inspection of garbage cooking and feeding facilities.

Infected herds will be quarantined and premises depopulated by marketing healthy animals in a federally inspected slaughter plant. Diseased animals will be eliminated on the premises by burying, burning or rendering under supervision of Travis C. Briggs, social security district manager. Many of these students were high school graduates this spring, planning to continue school in the fall.

Briggs said that under certain conditions, benefit payments can continue during the summer vacation. A student in full-time attendance this fall can continue receiving his benefits. This is true whether or not the 18 to 22 year old student is a high school senior. Benefits for the summer break cannot exceed four months.

However, the student needs to take two specific actions to see that the benefits continue. He must have applied for admission or been accepted by the school he plans to attend and he must make an "end of school year" report to the Social Security Administration indicating his intention to stay in school full time.

Briggs urges all high school seniors between 18 and 22 and receiving student social security benefits who have not already done so to call or visit the nearest social security office.

The office in Amarillo is open from 8:15 am to 4:30 pm to serve you Monday through Friday. For those who are unable to come in during regular office hours, Briggs reminds you the office is open until 6:30 pm on Thursday evenings.

regulatory veterinarians.

Phase 3 also provides an indemnity payment due to an outbreak, Hudman added. The indemnity is shared equally by the state and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Maximum indemnities for infected herds will be $100 per head for purebred, inbred and hybrid swine and $80 a head on grade swine," the specialist explained. "Payment will be limited to living swine present when a regulatory veterinarian arrives on the premises. Hog producers should report sick animals to local veterinarians to qualify for payments if cholera is present."

Another important part of the program is the ban of interstate shipment of vaccines and vaccinated hogs, Hudman added. A change in shipping rules will halt interstate shipment of modified live virus and inactivated cholera vaccines after July 1.

Regulations do not affect use of anti-hog cholera serum. Interstate shipment of hogs vaccinated with modified live virus, or exposed to hogs vaccinated with modified live virus, will be prohibited after Jan. 1, 1970, unless the animals were vaccinated before July 1 of this year, Hudman said.

State Safety Week Set By Governor

AUSTIN — Texas Governor Preston Smith has proclaimed July 20-26 Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Week and called on rural residents to make use of the new SMV emblem on slow moving agricultural vehicles as added protection when traveling on Lone Star State highways.

He also urged rural residents to take advantage of modern technology designed to remove many of the hazards in agricultural enterprises and cited that in spite of a declining rural population and advances in agricultural technology, farm and ranch accidents in Texas continued to steadily increase. Last year 297 persons in Texas died as the result of farm accidents, an increase of six percent in the number of fatalities over the previous year. Injuries for the past year are estimated at $3,200 as compared to 1,400 in 1967.

"If we are to reverse this trend, we must renew our efforts to prevent accidents among our rural residents as they go about the hazardous task of producing the commodities needed by the entire population," the Governor said in his proclamation.

The Texas observance coincides with observance of National Farm Safety Week, proclaimed by the President, to focus attention on farm accident prevention throughout the nation.

During this special week, a unified statewide farm accident prevention education program will be undertaken by a number of Texas organizations. Joining in this concerted effort will be the Texas Safety Association, Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Future Farmers and other groups.

"Such a campaign can do much to call attention to the need for accident prevention among our rural residents," the Governor added.

Joe Smetana, Waco, Vice President for Farm and Ranch Safety Council, said all county judges in Texas will be called on to participate in the campaign by making local proclamations for the safety week observance.

"In addition, there will be a number of special events taking place throughout the state to call attention to rural accident prevention," he added. "Special emphasis will be placed on the advantages of use of the SMV emblem on farm vehicles."

Use of the emblem on all motor vehicles, designed to operate at a maximum speed of 35 miles per hour or less, will be required beginning next January 1 under a new Texas law.

The triangular-shaped SMV emblem features a red and orange reflective surface that is visible day or night for a distance of at least 500 feet.

"Operators of slow moving farm vehicles are especially vulnerable to high-speed traffic," the safety leader noted. "In an emergency, their vehicles do not have maneuverability that high-powered vehicles have and operators are often dangerously, physically exposed in case of an accident because of no cabs on the vehicle."

NON-TRAFFIC TOLL HIGH
Firearm accidents accounted for the greatest number of non-traffic rural deaths last year—49 persons were killed. Other major causes of the 297 deaths were burns, 54; falls, 44; tractor accidents, 33; drowning, 33; and farm machinery other than tractors, 22.

Most of the increase in 1968 is attributed to the increased number of deaths due to falls and tractor accidents. The only category that showed a marked reduction in fatalities was drowning. Thirty-three rural drownings occurred last year as compared to 1 in 1967.

Ask Dr. QUIZMEE

If you are the first to submit a question which Dr. Quizmee, our information specialist, answers in his column, we will present to you, free, the complete, illustrated, 25-volume set of Funk & Wagnall's Standard Reference Encyclopedia.

Mail your question to Dr. Quizmee in care of this newspaper.

This week's winners of encyclopedias are: Mrs. Sam Knapp who asked: "How old was Methuselah?"

In the book of Genesis, (9:27), we read: "And all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred sixty and nine years; and he died."

Mrs. Henry Kramer for asking: "In some states, national convention delegates are elected in primaries. How do the other states choose their delegates?"

State laws, party rules, unwritten customs and traditional practices determine the selection of delegates to conventions of both major parties. Primaries are held in about one third of the states. In most states, delegates are selected through party machinery, rather than by caucus or state committee.

Lloyd McMillan, whose question is: "What's the difference between a tornado, a hurricane, and a typhoon?"

In general, tornadoes occur in land areas, hurricanes originate over oceans, and typhoons are peculiar to the western Pacific and the China Sea. All three are characterized by violent winds moving in a circular pattern.

Let's Go Fikin'

BY BOB BREWSTER
Outdoor Editor,
Mercury Outdoors

THE THINKING MAN'S GAME
It's been said that a good fisherman is almost a genius. Somehow he solves all the problems and catches fish when no one else does.

Consider the variables connected with fishing. They include water temperature, depth and clarity, vegetative growth, underwater terrain, the lure, the fish itself, and many other factors which must be taken into account. It really doesn't take a genius to understand these things and apply them successfully. Almost any angler can learn how, according to fishing experts at Mercury outboards. The solution lies in developing a fishing system—a method of quickly finding out what it takes to catch fish at any particular moment.

First you must experiment. Call upon all your experience to determine where the fish are and what lure they'll take. If your first guess isn't correct, change both lure and the method of presentation. Don't try any one method too long. Use all the fishing tricks and tips you know. Keep changing things until you get a strike.

When this happens, stop fishing and analyze each step of the successful cast and retrieve. Understand exactly what you did. Where was the lure? On top, bottom or in between? Was the retrieve slow, medium or fast? Did the strike occur in shade or sun? How far was the lure from the boat when the fish hit? What does the bottom of the lake look like?

When you've answered these questions, and any others you can think of, you're ready to make another cast—exactly like the one which earned you the strike.

This then is the system. Experiment and analyze. Apply your findings to the next cast. Anglers who practice a system, say the Mercury lads, are the ones who consistently bring home good catches. They've put some thinking in to their sport, and find it more enjoyable.

Officer Resigns Water Inc. Post

L. Dean Rea, Associate Director of Organization for Water, Inc., regrettably tendered his resignation to Executive Director, Bill Clayton, President K. B. Watson, and members of the board of directors at their regular board meeting in Lubbock today. Rea is resigning to become Vice President of Mesa Agro, Inc., a subsidiary of Mesa Petroleum Company of Amarillo.

Rea made the following statement, "It is with mixed emotions that I must resign. I have enjoyed working with all the officers, staff, and directors of Water, Inc., but I do not feel that I can pass up the opportunity that Mesa Agro, Inc. offers to me and my family. I will be in charge of the Grain Division of Mesa Agro, Inc., a business that I have devoted much of my life to, but I have assured Bill Clayton that I will continue to devote as much time as possible to help Water, Inc. fulfill its goal of securing a supplemental water supply for West Texas, New Mexico, and the Panhandle of Oklahoma. I worked to help start the water import movement and hope to still be working when the first water runs through the Texas Water System to provide Texas with water they are going to need for years to come. I have made my resignation effective for August 5th for two reasons: First, every effort must be made to inform every voter in Texas and I, along with every Texan, must do my part. Second, I want to go to the victory dinner when Amendment No. 2 passes because that will be a great day in Texas History — a day that I want to remember. Working for Water, Inc. has been a great experience and I hope the people will continue to give Bill Clayton, Tom Williams, and Gerald Ivey and other members of the staff the full support they have given me, because I sincerely believe that they are providing the energy and leadership that will secure our area a future water supply."

Bill Clayton, Executive Director, commented, "It is a great loss to Water, Inc. and myself, personally, in losing L. Dean Rea from the organization. Dean has been a right hand to me in directing the operations of Water, Inc. His knowledge, leadership and energy in the field of water resource development will be hard to replace; however, I am happy for Dean in receiving this tremendous promotion. I think we all have to look ahead and dream bigger. Dean has fulfilled every expectation of service we had planned for him and now has the opportunity to go on to even bigger things. We congratulate L. Dean Rea for a job well done with Water, Inc. and hope him all the success in his new position, but with the understanding, which Dean has assured us, that he will always be on the front lines plugging for the prosperity of this area and promoting the well-being of Water, Inc."

K. B. Watson, President, noted that Mr. Rea would continue in various capacities with Water, Inc. and expressed the appreciation of the organization for Mr. Rea's contribution during the expansion of Water, Inc. activities.

Mesa Agro, Inc. has recently acquired the 6 1/2 million bushel grain elevator complex at Tullia, Happy, Olney & Wayside, owned by Harman & Toles, to provide feed grains for a 100,000 head cattle feedlot business in Swisher and Randall Counties.

Rea and his family will continue to live at 16 Travis Circle in Tullia, Texas, where they have resided the past 10 years.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Doctor, I'd Like To Know—

I HARDLY pick up a newspaper or magazine without seeing a warning about cataracts and glaucoma being responsible for blindness. Like all elderly people, I live in constant fear of ill health, but I am particularly scared about losing my vision.

Dr. Coleman

When the eye tears a great deal is it a sign that some form of trouble, either a cataract or glaucoma, is forming? I notice that it is worse after I watch television for even a reasonable period.

Mrs. J. S., Ohio
Dear Mrs. S.: I am afraid that medical education of the public can sometimes become frightening and undo all the good it starts out to do. It is my personal feeling that when people are bombarded with statistics of blindness, deafness, cancer, arthritis, tuberculosis and a host of other diseases, they eventually pay a penalty by being unnecessarily "scared to death" as you have been.

Yes, cataracts and glaucoma, particularly, unrecognized blindness, can be responsible for blindness. Every complete eye examination, however, includes a very simple tonometer measurement of the tension of the fluid within the eye ball. When this is high, drugs are used to control it. In some cases, it is necessary for surgery, which is simple and safe, to be performed to prevent damage to sight.

Dr. Byron Smith, a famous eye surgeon at the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital in New York City, has been devoting his energies to a better understanding of the causes and control of the more difficult problems of tearing of the eyes. Before his excellent research, this annoying condition was too casually taken for granted and too readily dismissed. Now the basic cause of tearing is being tracked down, in order to be sure that the same cause is not responsible for any more serious, permanent effects on the eyes, and sight.

The relationship between tearing and over concentration on television may be due to one or two factors. The first may be the general condition of your eyes, which certainly need and deserve thorough examination. The second may be tears that are shed for the impoverishment of so many of the shows upon which we concentrate.

I have had a special type of operation on the ear to close up a puncture or perforation of the eardrum. I have had considerable difficulty with my ears from childhood on. The operation was probably successful but the feeling of fluid and pressure still bothers me. When I ask my doctor about the cause of this and the ringing in the ear he says, "I don't know." I am dissatisfied with my doctor's answer and I feel that there must be more logical answers to these questions. I don't know where to turn.

Mrs. D. T., New York
Dear Mrs. T.: It has been only ten years since delicate surgery on the ear was first performed under a microscope for conditions like yours. We have learned much about how to relieve deafness in very special cases. Perforations of the ear that formerly could never be closed are now being repaired by an operation called tympanoplasty. Some of the results are spectacular, yet there are thousands of questions for which there are still no answers.

I am very much impressed by your doctor's mature and adult ability to say to his patients "I don't know" when he doesn't know. How much better this is than to guess at an answer that has no validity and only confuses you more and sends you on a "shopping spree" that is both expensive and time wasting.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH—Do you remember the terror when polio struck its first case in a community? If you do, don't cheat your child of the vaccination that will prevent such an occurrence.

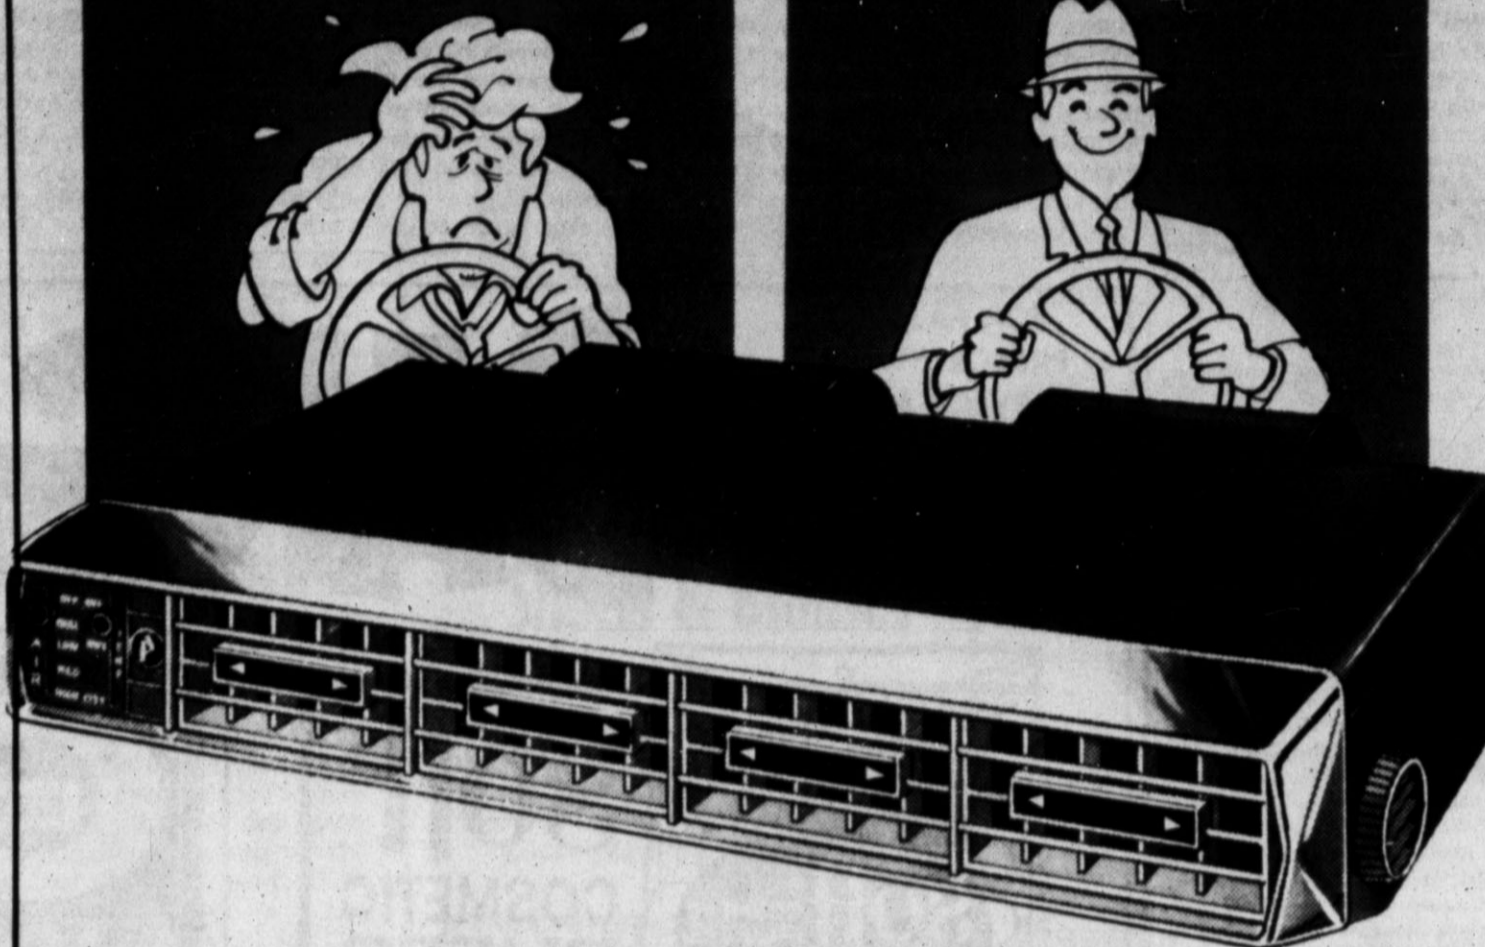

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Tower Speaks Out On Americanism

This July 4th marked the 193rd anniversary of the signing of our Declaration of Independence. No day has greater significance for Americans. The spirit of July the 4th is the spirit of our nation.

The Declaration of Independence sets forth the fundamental ideals upon which our nation was founded and for which we have fought continually to protect, perfect and more fully achieve.

As we celebrate the 4th by taking an extra day off from work to visit friends and relatives, to picnic, to see an elaborate fireworks display; we remember that those ideals which have made this country great are still worth protecting.

The Declaration of Independence states this basic principle: "... that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among men, deriving their power from the consent of the governed.

That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive to these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. . . ."

This ideal is the backbone of our system of government. It has not lost relevance in the nearly two centuries since it was enunciated and signed by our founding fathers.

In fact, this ideal is the basic reason we have made for ourselves the international commitments which we sometimes find quite vexing and the basic reason we must continue to honor those commitments.

At this time in our nation's history this country has the role of leadership in behalf of self determination for the free world.

The Communist world is attempting to thwart this basic ideal of freedom. The Communist are attempting to force upon the world a system of government directly opposed to our ideal based on the consent of the governed.

Any move towards new isolationism as a policy for our nation means giving up the basic ideals set forth in the Declaration of Independence.

We are all concerned about the situation in Vietnam. The people of South Vietnam desire the freedom which stems from a government which derives its power from the consent of the governed. The Communists would impose a government in which the people of South Vietnam would be governed not by themselves, but by the Communist leaders.

We have committed ourselves to providing a climate with in South Vietnam which will enable the people of South Vietnam themselves to determine their own form of government. We must live up to that commitment.

Special guest for the meeting will be a member of the Amarillo division of the Department of Public Safety who will present a film on fatal accidents. All members are urged to attend and bring a guest.

CLIFF PICTURES
CAMPO, Colo. — Picture Canyon along the southeastern Colorado-Oklahoma boundary is well named. Indian pictographs, some in excellent condition, dot the cliff faces of the canyon, which is set incongruously in a vast stretch of flat grasslands.

SHORT STORY ENDS
ORKNEY, South Africa — Municipal employees in this Western Transvaal town may no longer wear miniskirts.

The town council made one concession: the girls who have nothing to wear were given a week in which to shop for longer dresses.

Ruthless, a filly, won the first Belmont Stakes in 1867.

I am confident that we can achieve this basic goal. It will take continued patience here at home. But the goal is worthy of our great nation and worthy of the support of all our people.

This goal of self determination is represented by our flag. The Stars and Stripes has represented self determination since it was first created. It will continue to do so as long as we keep the ideals set forth in the Declaration of Independence clearly in mind.

It is my opinion that we can keep those ideals more clearly in mind through appropriate reverence for the symbol of those ideals — our flag.

It is only fitting that the emblem under which so many millions of Americans have lived and for whom so many Americans have given their lives be properly honored and that its desecration be prohibited.

That is why I have introduced legislation to establish a presidential flag commission whose duty it would be to study the usage, customs and laws relating to the flag of the United States and to make specific recommendations in this regard.

I have proposed a 10-member commission which would, after full study, recommend to Congress comprehensive legislation for proper care of our flag.

The laws of this country concerning the proper use and display of the flag are virtually nonexistent and what few laws we have are confusing.

The commission which I have proposed would serve a great purpose in establishing what is the proper method of displaying the flag and this legislation would also prevent desecration of our national emblem.

I believe that appropriate respect for our flag would continue to remind us of the basic ideal set forth in the Declaration of Independence. It would continue to remind us of the need to continually work in behalf of that ideal.

Without the commitment of every citizen to protect the basic ideals for which our country was founded and for which our flag stands, the worldwide challenge before us cannot continue its role of protection of freedom for all men, and our country, as we know it, shall surely perish.

Swine Specialist To Talk On Physiological Factors

LUBBOCK — The physiological factors which help to increase the size of litters of pigs will be discussed by Purdue University swine specialist Richard Hollandbeck at the 17th annual Swine Short Course at Texas Tech July 10-11.

Dr. Hollandbeck, professor of animal science at the Indiana institution, will team with J. K. Butler Jr., executive secretary, North Carolina Pork Producers, one of the nation's most progressive hog producer groups, to headline the panel of speakers.

Butler will discuss methods of organizing and operating strong producer groups and promotion of the industry from production through consumption.

Tech Prof. Leland Tribble, general chairman of the short course, said Dr. Hollandbeck will tell West Texas and Eastern New Mexico pork producers how good breeding, feeding and disease control, tied together by good management, result in successful swine production operations.

Dr. Hollandbeck has been an extension swine specialist at Purdue almost 15 years, since receiving his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Illinois in 1955.

He was born on a Central Indiana general livestock farm and after service in the Seabees during World War II began his college education at Purdue, moving to the University of Illinois for his master's and Ph.D.

He is secretary of the National Institute of Animal Agriculture, member representative of the Agricultural Research Institute, chairman of the National Pork Industry Conference Program Committee and a member of the Purdue Swine Day Committee.

Burtler was reared on a farm and holds a master's degree

"What You Ought To Know About Truth in Lending," Federal Reserve Regulation Z, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C., 20580.

from North Carolina State in animal husbandry.

From 1957 until 1965 he was with Gwaltney, Inc., meat packers of Smithfield, Va. He has been executive secretary of the North Carolina Pork Producers Association almost four and one half years.

"Our program is educational in nature," Dr. Tribble said, "and is designed to help the rapidly growing swine industry in this area."

"It's tough to find out just how many swine are being produced and fed for marketing in this area," Tribble said, "but without a doubt the industry is growing."

He said it was not growing as fast as the cattle feeding industry, but the same factors which have contributed to the explosion of the cattle feeding industry also support increased swine production.

"It is difficult to estimate with any degree of accuracy the number of swine being produced because there are many more individual producers and the industry is not so well organized and centralized as cattle feeding," he said.

One of the advantages the pork industry offers in this area, he said, is the ability to get into it without as much capital as is required by the cattle industry.

"It offers a real opportunity for the smaller operator," Dr. Tribble said. He pointed to the recently establishment of the Jimmy Dean Sausage Company as an indication of the expansion of swine producing in this area.

SHIPPING PLAN

MELBOURNE — A fleet of more than 50 refrigerated ships has been assembled by the Australia to Europe Shipping Conference to transport this season's Australian apple and pear exports.

The ships have been drawn from West Germany, Norway, Denmark, the United Kingdom and Israel.

This season's crops are estimated at seven million bushels and will be moved in container ships for the first time.

Cooperatives Are Urged To Read New Law

COLLEGE STATION — Farm cooperatives that extend credit are being urged to study the new Truth in Lending law.

The legislation was enacted by the last Congress and went into effect on July 1.

Johnny R. Feagan, Texas Agricultural Extension Service economist in farm organization, emphasized that the government is not attempting to regulate the amount of interest or charges made to customers. Instead, the act simply enables customers to examine in detail the credit terms of the sale.

Cooperatives that extend credit on sales will need to examine the law and make changes necessary to comply, the economist said. For those cooperatives that do not have a credit policy, it would be wise to establish one which will meet the regulation's requirements.

Feagan said a cooperative is affected by the act if it extends credit up to $25,000, along with a finance charge, to a person, or if credit is extended with no finance charge but repayment is to be made in more than four installments.

He advised a cooperative that will come under the regulation to contact its auditor and avoid chances of penalty.

The economist added that details on the new law can be had by writing for the pamphlet,

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Bill Collector in Action

One way for a bill collector to prod a lagging debtor is to punch him in the nose. Obviously, that way is illegal. It is assault and battery, for which the bill collector could be fined or even put in jail.

Another way is to send the debtor a polite letter reminding him that he may have overlooked his payment. Obviously, that would be perfectly legal.

But what about collection techniques that fall somewhere in between? How rough can the bill collector get before he is overstepping his legal rights?

To start with, assuming the debt is a legitimate one, the law is on the side of the collector. Obligations are to be paid, not shirked.

As one court said, when a debtor complained that a bill collector was annoying him:

"The right of a creditor to inflict some worry upon a debtor by reasonable means is necessary to the very existence of the credit system."

However, the law is taking an increasingly stern view of harsh tactics. Not only may a collector run afoul of criminal statutes but he may also have to pay damages to the debtor.

That may happen, for example, if he unfairly exposes the debtor to public disgrace. In one case, a collector sent dunning letters in envelopes marked "WE COLLECT BAD DEBTS." The debtor sued the collector and won damages. The court said the phrase "bad debts" carried the implication that the debtor was not only delinquent (which was true) but also dishonest (which was false).

What about the common collection practice of telephoning a debtor to demand payment? Within reasonable limits, such calls are perfectly proper. But here too the law draws a line.

One collector, telephoning a woman about a debt, used such violent and abusive language that she became seriously ill. Later, she sued for damages, and the court held the collector liable. Said the judge:

"Neither he nor a debtor nor purposely sick or him sick is a permissible collecting a debt."

Third Leg Of World Tour Started By Area Farmer

LUBBOCK — L. D. (Don) Anderson of Crosbyton, cotton farmer turned world traveler, has started on the third leg of a 40-day, triple purpose journey to Africa, Greece, Turkey, Pakistan, Thailand, Hong Kong and Japan.

As of this writing on July 3 he is in Hong Kong making contracts with prospective buyers for the cotton he and his neighbors on the Texas High Plains grow each year.

He attended the annual meeting of the international Cotton Advisory Committee in Kampala, Uganda, Africa June 1 through June 11 as the cotton producer adviser of the official ICAC delegation from the U.S. He was invited to serve in that capacity by Secretary of Agriculture Clifford B. Hardin.

His trip is sponsored by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., of which he is president, with financial assistance from other segments of the High Plains cotton industry.

The second objective of the trip was to study foreign cotton production, with particular emphasis on production costs and potential ability to compete with Plains-grown cotton in foreign markets. These studies were carried out in Uganda, at Mwanza and Tabora in Tanzania, at Nairobi in Kenya, at Athens, Greece; Ankara, Turkey and in West Pakistan.

The production studies were completed earlier this week and Anderson arrived in Bangkok, Thailand on July 1 for the beginning of his market-building activities.

He is expected to finish his work with spinners and cotton buyers in Hong Kong on July 4 and will go from there to Tokyo and Osaka, Japan on a similar mission.

He is accompanied on the trip by his 21-year-old son, Robin, a Junior Marketing student at Texas Tech. Robin is traveling at his own expense.

The two are expected back in the U. S. about July 13.

"There is little doubt in my mind that non-woven, disposable textile products in the years ahead will be an increasingly significant factor in the market for textile fibers, including cotton."

This comment was drawn from Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, by a newspaper reporter at the annual meeting of the Disposables Association, held recently in Washington, D. C.

A speaker at the new association's meeting, Samuel Fleming of Arthur D. Little, Inc., forecast that for the next decade sales of disposable products should experience a growth rate "that is among the highest for any industrial sector or product group in the U. S. economy."

The Disposables Association was formed by 15 firms in 1968 and now has a membership numbering 148 companies, including firms from the U. S. and 12 other countries.

The president of Blessings, Inc. Robert Alpert, stated not long ago that "The disposables field is growing at an annual rate of 20 to 25 percent."

Most disposables are made by the non-woven process, which involves bonding a web of fibers together by a variety of methods both mechanical and adhesive. Two new processes, electrostatic and controlled extrusion bonding, are said to be almost ready for commercial use.

Currently most companies in the disposable field are concentrating on the sanitary, surgical and industrial applications for fabrics, such as wiping and polishing cloths, diapers, surgical masks and gowns, institutional bedsheets and pillowcases, placemats etc.

But Johnson believes this may well be just the beginning and that as the technology of non-woven constructions progresses, the use of non-wovens for clothing is the next logical step.

He points to the phenomenal growth of permanent press fabrics in both men's and women's apparel and says "The same people who don't like to iron clothing don't like to wash them, too."

And while Johnson is concerned that most non-wovens are now being made of synthetic fibers, he does not necessarily think this will always be the case.

"With research that will show manufacturers how to make maximum use of cotton's inherent qualities and minimize its shortcomings, I believe a sizable market for cotton in non-wovens can be developed," he said.

Among cotton's advantages over most synthetic fibers in non-woven fabrics are its high absorbency, high wet strength, soft hand and resistance to heat. Its principal disadvantages are poor resiliency and shape retention and a relatively limited range of staple lengths and diameters.

Johnson said PGC is moving in two directions to increase the amount of research done in cotton in non-woven fabrics.

"First, we are taking steps to determine what research projects we ourselves may be able to carry out through the Textile Research Center at Tech within the bounds of our financial limitations. And second we are conferring with USDA's Southern Regional Research and Development Laboratory at New Orleans and with officials of the Cotton Producers Institute as to their capability and willingness to conduct non-woven research on cotton."

The big economy of non-wovens and knit fabrics comes through the saving of labor in the spinning and weaving systems.

And as labor becomes a bigger and bigger part of the cost of all manufactured items, non-woven fabrics will become more and more attractive to manufacturer and consumer alike.

Labor costs, the rising cost of dry cleaning and other fabric-related services, and the public's consuming desire for convenience items all are expected to help accelerate the trend toward non-woven, disposable textile products.

"When all these things are taken into consideration it is not at all difficult to envision the day when much of our apparel and many of our household items will be worn or used once, twice or three times and then discarded," Johnson said.

Tonga is the last island kingdom in the Pacific.

"... And now, a suggestion from one of our members for our official field costume ..."

ENMU To Sponsor Iron Curtain Tour

PORTALES — A total of 74 persons will take part in the "Study Tour of Europe and the Soviet Union" Aug. 2 to 23, sponsored by Eastern New Mexico University, Dr. Vance Holland, tour director, announced today.

"We still have a very few openings for persons interested in the tour," added Dr. Holland, associate professor in political science at Eastern. "Time is short, however, since they will need to get passports and such and there's not much time left before we leave."

The tour itinerary includes Moscow and Leningrad in the Soviet Union, as well as London, Paris, Rome, Florence, Venice, Geneva and Salzburg in Europe. The tour is being offered on either a credit or non-credit basis by the university. Up to three hours in political science may be earned by tour participants.

Contact Dr. Holland for further information about the tour.

Up... Up... and Away!

Women Take to the Skies...

Blue skies. A curious kind of quiet blending into the roar of the engine. A feeling of air. Below is the earth. Above, the universe.

Oldtimers say once you fly, it's in your blood and you'll never quit. Never.

Why do women learn to fly? Mrs. Jim Easley wanted to be an airline stewardess long ago. Now she wants to learn to fly in case anything happens to her husband when their family takes airplane trips.

When Mrs. Jack Carrothers was a girl, she rode in the back seat of her father's plane to hold the tail of the plane down. She got a taste of flying that she never lost.

Others have no reasons. They just want to fly, such as Miss Ginger Goodin and Mrs. Mary Gibson. Mrs. Gibson wanted to do something that she could do alone. Flying was the answer.

Many took the aerospace science course at night at Hereford High School. Miss Kaylanette Battenfield received a scholarship through the school for complete flying lessons.

Some learn to fly because their families fly. Miss Dianne Smith is beginning her flying lessons. Her mother, Mrs. John Smith, is the only one of the group of women who has her pilot's license.

Those are the reasons women give. Maybe, just maybe it's the blue sky and strange quietness that compels them to learn.

Below the earth. Above, the universe.

Story and Photos by Vickie Inman

Recording flying time is an important job for the beginner and for all pilots. Mrs. Jack Carrothers has completed 25 hours.

A mother and father who have their pilot's license are incentives for Miss Dianne Smith to try for her own license.

An engine check takes only a few minutes but is necessary for a safe flight. Miss Ginger Goodin, high school junior, has 30 hours to fly before she receives her license.

When women take to the skies, they do it with grace and style. Usually Mrs. John Smith wears slacks when she flies, but she was on her way to a church convention in Lubbock minutes after the picture was taken.

Aspiring pilots have to sign up for planes at certain times. Mrs. David Gibson has been taking flying lesson since March.

Airplanes have progressed since the early days when pilots gave the propeller a push to get it started. Miss Kaylanette Battenfield, high school junior, checks the propeller.

Many families travel by airplane, as do Mr. and Mrs. John Smith. Debbie, left, and Dianne share the back seat on a 45-minute flight to Lubbock.

Hails From California

By BARBARA SWIMMER
Women's Editor

"It rained eight days a night," says Mrs. Adolph Shoppa, as she was telling of the devastating conditions of the flood which occurred several months ago in California where they lived at the time.

Hailing from Corono, near Riverside, Mrs. Shoppa said they were evacuated from their home and were forced to stay in a motel for two days before they could return home. "However," she said, "the damage to our home was not as bad as compared to some of the others."

Pat Shoppa said she enjoyed the California weather most of the time, though, when it was pleasant. "It was very hot in the summers, there," she said, "but the heat was a dry heat," without the high humidity we have here, which is a little hard to get accustomed to."

The Shoppas moved to Hereford about two months ago, with their two young sons, Larry, 8 and five year old Ronnie, who has decided to change his name to Michael, and will quickly let you know about it.

They are still trying to get settled in their new home at 135 Cherokee Drive, but the boys wasted no time getting acquainted with the many in the neighborhood. The Shoppas both enjoy working in the yard, she says, and they have been busy planting grass and landscaping the grounds.

Mrs. Shoppa is very enthusiastic about living in Hereford, saying she had been here several times in the past to visit her family. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Dees, have lived here about two years and she has several brothers and sisters living here also.

Shoppa is associated with the Dees in the D & L Cattle Co. Pat loves her role as homemaker, but says she hasn't had much time lately, because she has enrolled in La Plata Beauty School and will receive her license sometime in January.

The Shoppas enjoy the outdoors and their favorite sport is water skiing. When they lived

Ex-Residents Are Visitors

The saying that "They always come back to Hereford" holds good especially for C. F. (Charlie) O'Dell, who first left Hereford at the ripe old age of almost seventeen when he rode a bicycle to Amarillo the night of July 17, 1917, and enlisted in the Army for the duration of World War I. Since that date his Hereford friends have been hearing of him from various parts of the world, most recently from Alaska where he lived about twenty years.

Charlie and his wife, Margaret, arrived here June 27th after a leisurely trip down the west coast from Eatonville, Washington, which is located on the west slope of Mt. Rainier and near Tacoma. Before heading for Hereford they visited from El Paso to Del Rio to San Antonio, Austin, Houston, Galveston, Ft. Arthur, and most of east and central Texas.

They are presently the guests of Floyd and Lloyd Botsford at 706 East Third, but we understand that they have agreed to remain here at least one year and work with the local Seventh-day Adventist Church as lay Bible teachers. Mrs. O'Dell is a Registered Nurse with a history of many years with the U. S. Public Health Service and the Methodist Church Health Service in Alaska.

Lutherans Set Denver Meeting

Twenty-six hundred representatives of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod will converge July 11 to 8 on Denver for the 48th regular convention of the church.

A proposal to the three million member synod to declare "pulpit and altar fellowship" with The American Lutheran Church is expected to be the top issue of the convention.

One thousand of the 2,600 expected registrants will be pastoral and lay voting delegates to the convention which will be held in Denver's new Currihan Exhibition Hall. Six hundred advisory people and a thousand visitors will make up the balance.

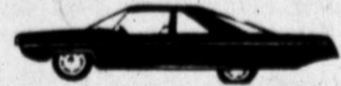

The opening worship service of the convention will be held at 7:30 p. m. July 11 at the Red Rocks Amphitheatre southwest of Denver.

The 122-year-old synod will also act on a proposal to apply for membership in the Lutheran World Federation. It has previously declined invitations from the federation to join on the grounds that there is too great a doctrinal latitude among the member churches of the federation.

Other proposals to the convention include overtures to drop membership in the Lutheran Council USA, to approve selective conscientious objection, to combat racism and to condemn violent dissent.

The proposals are printed in a 550-page "Convention Workbook" which has been sent to all pastors, male teachers, officers and lay delegates of the synod. The workbook also contains 70 reports, beside the 500 resolutions submitted by various officers, boards, congregations, pastors and conferences of the

Art Works On Exhibit Now

An art exhibit featuring the works of a local artist, Mrs. H. H. Smith, is now on display in the lobby of the First National Bank.

Mrs. Smith's paintings, mostly oils, include techniques such as rag painting, encaustics and washes. Her specialty is landscapes and still life, but she says she has done a few portraits.

The exhibit will continue throughout July.

A resident of near Dimmitt for seventeen years, Mrs. Smith owned and operated an art gallery and school of art for two years at Dimmitt. They have lived here for the past two years.

Also on exhibit is a study of oils painted by the late Mrs. Hattie Calson, an aunt of Mrs. Smith. The lovely painting is in yellow and brown tones.

Mrs. Smith began her painting career about ten years ago.

Man in the Body Shop

When a customer goes in to buy a suit, the tailor goes over him with a piece of chalk. He marks a little off the sleeves, a little more room in the shoulders and the proper length of trouser leg.

So, some day, after heart and other transplants have become routine, medical science may give us body tailoring.

The child, perhaps along with his vaccination, may be checked and measured. Then he'll be altered suitably, so he'll grow up to be a Greek god or goddess as the case may be.

Even an adult, we may imagine, could be fixed up. He would go into the body shop, where a crew of sculptors, equipped with scalpels and micrometers, would go over him.

The experts might say:

"A bit off the nose. Trim the ears. Take 15 pounds off that disgusting stomach and add two inches in height. Put wavy brown hair on that bare skull. Emphasize the bicep." And so on.

Delicacy forbids speculation on what the anatomy renovators might do for women, but they know. Cosmetic surgery, it is said, is already off to a flying start.

With good diet and exercise, it's to be hoped human bodies will tend to grow better naturally. But if some need correction, we may dream of a time when science will come to the rescue and repair Nature's mistakes.

What life would be like, were all men strong and handsome and all women beautiful, we can only wonder. Boston Globe

No Reason to Cheer

LIBERALS are calling Atty. Gen. Mitchell's plan to abolish literacy tests for voting — while otherwise letting the provisions of the 1965 Voter Rights Act lapse — a sellout to the South and a settlement of Mr. Nixon's 1968 debts to Dixie.

As a political proposition, it may be. For the parts of the act that Mitchell would let die are distasteful to the South. No Southerner wants federal registrars coming in and registering people. No Southern state wants to go all the way to Washington (presumably because federal district judges in their region aren't "trusted") to prove before the Circuit Court of Appeals that it has reformed and no longer discriminates against Negroes.

And nobody in the five attained states believes for a minute that the mass registration — whether by state registrars or federal registrars — is a benefit to two-partyism. Almost all the new illiterate registrants are Democrats.

But the South, for all that, would still be better off under an extension of the Voter Act that restored literacy tests. Illiteracy is higher in the South than elsewhere in the nation.

ATTY. GEN. Mitchell correctly based his plea for legislation to end the literacy test everywhere in the country on the argument that one section of the country should not be discriminated against while the other sections continue to apply literacy tests.

As a general proposition, that argument is reasonable and praiseworthy. But the South should ask itself whether it gains or loses by the proposal. It seems to us that it is a moldy loaf that Mitchell proposes to cut; whatever end the South gets, it would lose.

Getting rid of federal registrars and being spared the ignominy of purging itself before federal judges in Washington is a mixed consolation, if the new law merely continues loading the rolls with illiterates.

Retention of the literacy test — restoration of it in the case of the South — is preferable, even if the federal presence continues so as to assure fair play. Special courts could handle complaints of discrimination. And the quality level of the electorate would be raised.

Some of the liberals obviously want literacy tests in their own states continued more than they want the South to receive selective punishment under a renewal of the Voter Rights Act that would keep its old punitive provisions. New York State is a good example.

NEW YORK HAS A literacy test, which applies mostly to Puerto Ricans literate in Spanish but not in English and also to Southern Negro immigrants. That is why Rep. Emanuel Celler is really in bed with the South. He knows that illiteracy and responsible politics don't go together. But he can't say it.

Ideally, if the federal government is to enforce anything, it should be a literacy test. The whole country would gain, the South included. Mitchell may have the liberals in a forked stick with his argument that the South has been reconstructed vote-wise and should not be penalized further — and that literacy tests, if evil there, are evil everywhere. But that argument pinches the South even more than it does the liberals.

Payment of the Nixon political debt to the South on these terms isn't a settlement that should raise too loud a cheer. — Dallas Morning News

Fast And Noisy

A Colorado inventor has come up with a device for automobiles which he describes as "an inconvenience design to keep the driver alert, awake, and alive."

About the size of an auto radio, it works this way: When the car reaches 45 miles an hour, a small blue light on the dashboard goes on. If the driver does not press a floor button within 10 seconds, a small speaker emits a loud clang.

Within three seconds, if the driver doesn't react to the sound the auto's horn goes on and the car's lights start flashing. If the driver still hasn't switched the device off, the throttle linkage between the gas pedal and carburetor is disconnected, and the car slows to a stop. —Charlottetown (P. E. I.) Guardian

Customer Is Still King

Everyone knows that the major industries in the United States are so powerful, and so persuasive in their sophisticated and beguiling advertising, that they are able to work their wills with the buying public, or, more precisely, they are able to convince potential customers that they really want what the companies want them to want.

That doctrine is supposed to be especially true of the auto industry. Well, the biggest of them all, General Motors, (GM), decided to kill off one of its products, the Corvair. As persuasive as GM no doubt can be the company couldn't persuade enough people to continue buying that car.

The consumer, apparently, remains at least a limited sovereign. — National Observer

ON THE WAY TO HIS OFFICE

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — On July 7, 1890, citizens of Colorado County gathered at Columbus to lay the cornerstone of their new courthouse. What they actually witnessed was the beginning of a bloody feud that was to last for almost two decades.

It began when Warren Stafford, son of Robert E. Stafford, the town banker, got drunk while awaiting the courthouse dedication. When this had happened on other occasions, friends had taken young Stafford to his home. This time, however, a pair of brothers, Deputy Sheriffs Larkin and Marion Hope, decided to put Stafford in jail.

Friends prevailed and Stafford was released. But when his father heard of this indignity to his son and heir, he decided to teach the law a lesson. With his brother, John, a millionaire rancher, he located the two deputies in a saloon and an argument began. The officers drew their guns and killed both of the Staffords.

Columbus was so shocked that it never did get around to dedicating the courthouse. And the murder of the town's two most prominent citizens set off a feud that was to last until 1906. Eventually it cost the lives of four other men, seriously injured several others and made it necessary for the county to call in the Texas Rangers to restore order.

TRAVELING TEXAS — Taylor Town, in Lamar County, still has one of those business rarities — an operating general store. It's a two-story establishment that first opened its doors 48 years ago.

HOW HISTORY REPEATS —The much-publicized claims of Barbara Joe Rubin to the contrary, America's first girl jockey was a petite Texas.

She was Miss Betty Bowdle (now Mrs. Betty Heidelberg, an Odessa housewife) and she was riding winning horses across the finish line before Miss Rubin was born.

Mrs. Heidelberg began her career as an exercise girl at a Tucson, Arizona, track when she was 17, won a couple of "Powder Puff" derbies riding in local rodeos and then decided to apply for a real jockey's license. Between 1948 and 1953, she rode 338 mounts and won 55 races.

HELP WANTED — One of Texas' oldest and most historic homes is going to be restored if the Sabine County Historical Survey Commission can find the funds.

It's the two-story, hand-hewn log landmark that James Gaines built in 1812 at the point where El Camino Real, the King's Highway, crossed the Sabine River. When the Toledo Bend Dam was built and the area was flooded, the home was taken down and moved a mile and a half up State Highway 21.

Texans interested in helping Sabine County restore the old Gaines house may send contributions to Mrs. Ettie Elliott at Hemphill 7948.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — An inveterate pipe smoker who thought more of his briar than he did of his life is responsible for the unique name of a community in southeastern Bandera County.

Legend has it that a pioneer, chased from his creek-side camp by Comanches, returned to retrieve his old pipe. Since then, both the stream and the village that later was built on the spot have been known as Pipe Creek.

65 YEARS AGO — 1904

On the morning of the Fourth which came around last Monday, a Brand representative watched with grave apprehension the indications of rain which were made manifest by the gathering clouds and remembered with prophetic regret how seldom a Fourth of July passes down in Texas without a downpour, for an invitation had been previously extended him to occupy a seat in the carriage of R. N. Mounts, which carriage was to have an early start for Bassett's school house on the North Draw where the people in that part of the county were to celebrate the Fourth in a Union Sunday School picnic.

MAIN STREET, U. S. A.

Courage or Cleverness?

By BERT MILLS
Washington, D. C. — President Nixon is not beloved by Democrats in Congress but they are bound to admire his political performance in his first half year in the White House. Nixon has either closed or is in the process of closing all the doors the Democrats planned to use to unseat him in 1972. That goes for foreign as well as domestic issues.

It takes a politician to understand another politician and to recognize the hidden political motives that often inspire an action. Therefore, politicians should be judged by other politicians, who think the same way. On that basis, Nixon is a winner up to now.

Top Democrats on Capitol Hill won't raise their right hand and swear that Nixon has made no political mistakes up to now but they do concede privately that their ex-Congressional colleague has been amazingly successful at being on the politically correct side on all major issues.

That makes it tough for Democratic politicians, who have been waiting and hoping, and setting traps calculated to ensnare even the ablest political operator.

Is It Courage Or Cleverness?

Nixon has displayed the political courage (Republican view) or the unprincipled cleverness (Democratic view) to do a lot of things to capture the middle-of-the-road sentiment on both foreign and domestic issues. The seemingly unpopular things he has done, fellow politicians understand, are really the popular course and add to the stature of the President.

For example, consider the tax issue. Nobody likes higher taxes, and Nixon committed himself to a reduction during his campaign. But Nixon is now fighting to keep the surtax, and politicians recognize this is the proper course right now.

Inflation is an even bigger public worry than the tax rate. Nixon has described his tax recommendations as "crucial to an orderly economy at home, and to a strong dollar in the world economy." That kind of argument makes political sense to most observers, even if it does hurt a bit.

There is some evidence that the inflationary trend may have crested. Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans said recently: "We have begun to see the first signs of a slowdown and a reduced level of inflation." If so, Nixon will get the credit for stemming a tide that has been running for several years.

War Deescalation Popular — Soon the first American troops will be withdrawn from Vietnam and Nixon has promised to have all U. S. combat units withdrawn by the end of 1970. How can Senator Edward Kennedy (D., Mass.) top that one, assuming the President can make good on his pledge?

Nixon has taken a hard line on campus unrest, again doing the popular thing. He has proposed to reform the draft system, much as Kennedy had suggested earlier. One by one, issues for the Democrats are being taken away from them.

Nixon has even gotten tough with business, adopting a nongovernment policy the Democrats never dared impose. This may cost some big business support but the public at large will applaud. And so it goes. Nixon looks very much like an increasingly popular President, one who will be difficult to defeat.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnsongrass farm attacks the traffic problem this week, but we're not sure he wins.

Dear editor:

Five cars drove past my mail box on the road near this Johnsongrass farm yesterday morning in a span of two minutes and I walked down to see what was causing all the heavy traffic and while I didn't find out, any more than I've ever been able to figure out where all the cars are going bumper to bumper seven days a week on a regular highway, I did find a newspaper some passenger had thrown out.

In it I found an article that reported that a big bridge built four years ago to allow traffic to go around Manhattan — which certainly is a good idea, I've never seen a city yet I hadn't rather go around than through — last year handled 29 million cars, trucks and buses. Faced with such a mess of cars, the city decided to solve the problem by adding a second deck.

The second deck will now enable the bridge to carry 48 million cars a year, after which, when that proves inadequate, I don't know what they'll do.

It is hard for me to imagine 48 million cars passing by one spot every year — can you imagine that many going past The Brand office? — and the problem is increased when you realize half are going in one direction, you could maybe hope to see the end of the procession some day, but like it is, they aren't getting anywhere. The thing could go on forever. Every time you add another deck, you invite another 29 million cars.

I have a theory on solving this. What we ought to do is to stop trying to keep a highway or bridge from becoming obsolete. Like it is now, one end of a new highway is obsolete before the other end is finished, then the last section just in time to start over on the first section.

The entire policy should be reversed. Where we made our mistake was, when we found dirt roads were obsolete, we rushed in and built paved roads, then four lanes then six, then eight.

Anybody should have seen that the more roads we built the more cars we invited, since highways attract cars like sugar does ants.

If we really want to stop the traffic jam-ups we'll stop building highways.

If this is not perfectly clear to you, I'll come into Hereford and explain it further if you'll get somebody to fill up a chug-hole in the road going by my house. Actually it's too narrow too for safe driving.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Class of 1944 Holds Reunion

Members of the 1944 graduating class, with their families and friends, held their 25th anniversary reunion Saturday at the Community Center.

An attractive punch table featuring a maroon and white floral centerpiece decorated the room with other tables holding scrapbooks, football trophies, clippings and photographs of high school days.

Cattle Grub Open Season Is Here

One of the most destructive cattle insect pests in the United States is the cattle grub, with losses ranging from $200-$400 million annually. But something can be done to reduce these losses right now. Open season on the cattle grub is here.

Furthermore, grubby slaughter animals are often docked because the carcass-blemishing warbles must be trimmed. This means meat waste and unattractive, less valuable carcasses. Hides with holes are also less valuable for leather use.

Grubs, the larval stage of heel flies, can be controlled with a number of systemic insecticides — chemicals fed or applied to the animal's body which are then distributed through the body tissues to control grubs inside the animal.

Transferred To Okinawa

"Best results can be obtained now since the heel fly season is over and grubs in the animals are small," says Dr. Bill Clymer, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Recommended insecticides include coumaphos (Co-Ral), ronnel (Korlan), ruclene and trichlorfon (Neguvon). Methods of treatment vary and include dipping, spraying, pouring on the back or feeding free choice or as a ration mix."

Airman First Class, Lynn Worthington and his wife Barbara have been transferred from Lowry A. F. B., Denver, Colo. to Naha, Okinawa, where he will be stationed for eighteen months.

The life cycle of the grub is about a year with the adult, or heel fly, laying its eggs on the back legs of cattle in late winter and early spring. These hatch in three or four days and the young grubs then burrow into the animal's skin and slowly work their way through the body until they reach the gullet (throat region). This occurs about September or early fall. The grubs remain in the gullet for several months and then migrate to the animal's back, says Clymer. Treatment should be stopped by September since killing the grubs in the gullet may induce shock to the animal.

She is the former Barbara Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Walker of Hereford. Mrs. Walker just returned from Flagler, Colo. where she visited her daughter before she left, and also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sutter, formerly of Hereford.

Later in the evening, members and their husbands and wives convened to the banquet hall where they enjoyed dinner and a well planned program.

The banquet tables, placed in the shape of a horseshoe, were gaily decorated in a maroon and white motif with white hurricane lamps and maroon streamers with featured events which took place during school days.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Rodford Hutcheson and Mrs. Ruth Tucker Hess presided over the program of special interests.

Nolan Grady, who was the reunion chairman, also served as presiding host for the banquet.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Since canning season draws near once again, I feel compelled to tell the world of the dangers involved and of my horrible experience last year.

Since it was never publicized, few people knew about it, which is why I'm writing this letter. Those who did know became much more conscious of the dangers and more cautious.

Personally, I never had any fears of a pressure cooker. More than ever now, I realize it was carelessness on my part which caused my accident. I never had my cooker checked before canning season and it was old. I tried to do too much in one day. It never pays to rush.

This particular day I had six bushels of blackeyed peas, which I felt must be pressured that day. I never got past the first cooker. With God's help, I did live but will be scared for my life. My gauge was not working and steam was escaping from the cockpit.

In my haste to finish the first cooker, I propped a weight on the escape valve, in hopes the pressure would come up. With the light on high, I busied myself with preparations for the next cooker. Later I stepped in to check my gauge. The next thing I knew, glass, hot peas and steam were flying everywhere. The house was almost a total loss not to mention myself. I was rushed to the hospital for five and one-half hours of surgery and two weeks of hospitalization.

All of this could have been avoided with the proper precautions. I shall never can again, but many of you will. Please, please take the advice of one who knows and do not take any chances. Do the things Argen Draper advises in her column each year. Better to be safe than sorry.

Have you heard the story about the little hippie girl who decided not to get married because she heard some of her friends were going to give her a shower?

—HB—

And speaking of showers, the one we had Friday night was very refreshing. Understand that we had about 35 in the city. That's not a lot but it sure did cool things off after a "hot" July 4th.

The skies were still cloudy Saturday morning as this column was being written so we may have more before the day is over.

—HB—

Area people always meet rainfall with mixed emotions however. Those farmers who have onions in the field would like a continuation of the dry weather for about three weeks in order to get their crops out of the fields, and since the potato harvest is beginning also, we're sure that the potato farmers would also like dry weather. Mill farmers, on the other hand, would probably appreciate a good rain right now, as would most of the homeowners in town who are having to pour the water to their lawns and flowers. It's awfully hard to please everyone.

By the way, vegetable producers are reporting good yields, good quality, and a better than average market on onions this year and if the trend continues to hold, we should be getting a little extra agricultural money pumped into the local economy soon. It will be good to see also, since last year's crop didn't turn out so well.

There has been some early lettuce harvested in the area also, but this is apparently just a drop in the bucket to the crop that normally comes off in the fall. Some growers in the area have been experimenting with early lettuce for several years and we understand have been relatively successfully not only in getting a good yield, but finding a good market at this time of the year.

—HB—

Sometimes we forget how much the agricultural products of the area mean to all of us, but when the farm economy as a whole is down, the lack of business along main street should jolt us back to our senses. You just can't make it in this country without a strong farm economy.

—HB—

Took a cook's tour Thursday of the Wilson & Co. plant that is now under construction. Tommy Thomas, construction superintendent for the project gave us a quick tour of the construction site, and needless to say, you cannot possibly realize how big that building is until you get inside. It also includes a large basement area.

Thomas tells us that he now has about 150 men on the payroll out there and that within a few weeks he will probably peak out at about 250 in the crew. After that, some of the men will be leaving, other crews coming in for different phases of the work, but chances are there will never be more than 250 on the job at one time. It will probably average out at less than 200 he said.

Although the plant will not be completely finished by that time, Wilson expects to be killing beef by the 1st of January. We're looking forward to the beginning of operations out there. We feel that Wilson & Co. is going to be a real asset to the area. Certainly the coming of the plant has not hurt the cattle feeding industry, and the fact that they will employ from 250 to 300 full time people at the plant, certainly will not hurt the retail business of our city. The opening of the plant should ensure the growth of our city and the economy of the area. We believe also, that Wilson & Co will find the venture profitable and that they will be pleased by locating their plant here.

—HB—

The essence of refinement, according to the Decorah (Ia.) Public Opinion, is the ability to respect him with whom you differ.

Growers Request Hearing

Texas peanut growers have requested a hearing before Agriculture Commissioner John C. White on July 16, seeking certification to hold a state-wide referendum for protection and promotion of their crop.

This is the first group to approach the Commissioner under the new "commodity checkoff program" authorized by the Legislature this year, White noted.

A public hearing has been set for 10 a.m., Wednesday, July 16th, in Austin to consider the certification of the Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association of Gorman as the authorized organization to conduct a state-wide referendum. Evidence presented at the hearing will determine whether or not certification is granted. The petition to the Commissioner also proposes a nine-member commodity producers board to represent peanut farmers all over Texas.

If the Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association is recognized as the proper group to conduct the referendum, the balloting on a crop assessment is expected to be set after a lapse of 60 days. Voting procedures will be formulated and given state-wide publicity by the organized group White explained. The vote of peanut growers over the state will determine whether the growers will assess themselves to finance peanut research, disease and insect control, educational work, promotion and marketing of their crops.

All action by commodity groups seeking to organize under the check-off system must conform to House Bill 764, 61st Legislature, Commissioner White said. The program is a "self-help" project, with the Texas Department of Agriculture merely certifying that an organization truly represents a majority of producers of a specific commodity.

Any party needing information on the peanut grower's hearing should contact the Commodity Services Division of the Texas Department of Agriculture in Austin.

Farm Group To Ask Congress For Spending Cuts

WACO — The Texas Farm Bureau is asking Congress to make substantial cuts in federal spending as a means of balancing the budget, slowing inflation, and permitting early termination of the income surtax. The state farm organization is also advocating retention of the 7 per cent investment credit as a permanent feature of the national tax system.

Sidney Dean, president of the 110,699-member organization, sent a telegram to all members of the Texas delegation in the House of Representatives calling for their vote against HR 12290, the bill to extend the income tax surcharge and excise taxes and terminate the investment credit.

"Recognizing that excessive deficit spending by the federal government is the chief cause of current inflation, Texas Farm Bureau respectfully requests your opposition to pending bill HR 12290 to extend the income tax surcharge and excise taxes and terminate the 7 per cent investment credit," Dean told the Congressman. "Logical way to slow inflation is meaningful reduction in federal expenditures.

The House subsequently voted passage of the measure by a vote of 210 to 205, and the Senate is expected to act on it soon. Some modifications of the bill are expected in the Senate.

Hereford Youth Graduated From Job Corps

SAN MARCOS —Rosendo Guerra, Jr., 18, of Hereford, Tex., was among 218 Gary Job Corps Center trainees to receive a certificate of completion at formal graduation ceremonies last Thursday.

Guerra completed the Drafting course and has been in training at Gary for 21 months.

The graduating class represented all six vocational clusters which include the 34 trade programs offered at Gary. The young men spent an average of 11 months in Job Corps.

Twenty-one percent of the group earned their high school equivalency certificate during their stint in the program. The average Corpsman reads at less than fifth grade level when he enters Job Corps.

Principal speaker was the Honorable Thomas Routt, Houston Corporation Court Judge and a former staff member in the Texas Attorney General's office. He advised the graduates of the importance of using bad experiences as well as good in building a good life. "Use your background as a stepping stone — not as a crutch," he said.

The Gary Center has an average enrollment of 3,000 young men between the ages of 18 through 21 and offers skill related basic education as a part of its training program.

Information concerning Job Corps opportunities is available through the local State employment office or Youth Opportunity Center.

Wins Give 'Birds Hope For Playoff

Hopes for a district play-off berth remained alive Thursday night as the American Legion Redbirds swept a double-header from the Groom nine, taking the first game 5-4 and the second 8-0.

With two games remaining on the slate, the Redbirds met the Canyon team Saturday night under the lights, and results were not available at press time. If they emerged the victors in the Saturday game, they will be assured a place in the district tourney if they defeat the Caprock team when they meet this afternoon at 2:30 here. Should they have lost the game with the Canyon team and win today, they would be tied with the Canyon team and a play-off would have to be completed by Monday.

In Thursday night's first game, the Redbirds opened up the game with three runs in the top of the first when third sacker Donnie McDermitt reached first on a Groom error and scored on a bloop double by centerfielder Sid Shaw. Shaw scored on a follow-up-double by catcher Jim Loerwald and Loerwald then scored on a throwing error by the Groom catcher.

Groom tallied one run in the bottom of their first at-bat when the lead-off batter drew a walk, stole second and scored on a single by the Groom leftfielder.

Leading 3-1, the Redbirds scored another run in the top of the third when Loerwald drove one out of the park to make the score read 4-1. Groom then tied the game up in the bottom of the third when their lead-off batter singled and worked his way around to third and scored on a sacrifice fly. A single put another runner on and a double scored him and a triple scored the inning's third and final run.

Hereford came up with the winning run in the top of the fourth frame when McDermitt reached first again on an error, was pushed to second on a base-on-balls to Jeff Loerwald, and scored on another bloop single by Shaw.

Groom threatened in the bottom of the final frame when, with two down, a runner reached third with the clean-up batter at the plate. The number four batter walked and Redbird pitcher Ishmael Urias got the final batter to pop out.

In the contest, Hereford tagged the opposition's pitching for four hits while Groom collected seven off Urias. The difference was seven base-on-balls given to the locals.

In the nightcap, Hereford jumped on the Groom pitching in the first inning for one run when McDermitt drew a free pass and scored on a scorching triple by Jeff Loerwald. They then scored four runs in the bottom of the second when second sacker Keith Duncan walked and scored on a line-shot doubled by Keith Anderson. Anderson scored on a sacrifice by

What would happen if you lost your wallet? Could someone go on a shopping spree at your expense? This is one hazard of the new credit world and facts of life. If you're a good manager, and who doesn't try to be, record names and addresses of credit card companies so you can phone or write to the company and stop payment. Also, list licenses and other items in your wallet. Keep the list in a safe place for emergencies.

Since the sugar industry has become a leading source of income to this area you might be interested to know where all the sugar has gone. Sugar for home use has decreased from about 80 percent (of all sugar deliveries) to 27 percent in the past generation.

The sugar has gone to institutional and industrial use. This shift from home use is caused by homemakers buying more convenience foods.

Pre-sugared items and "ready-to-eat" products lower the needs of sugar in the home. Liquid sugar users by quantities show that over 50 percent of all liquid sugar goes to the beverage industry. Next comes the canning industry, ice cream and dairy products, confectionery and the baking industry. It is second only to the beverage industry in terms of total sugar usage. So these are the markets for sugar production.

We had a nice visit with Homer Henslee as he was working on the county budget. He called to our attention the growth of the County's business in the last eleven years. The evaluation in 1956 was $15,979,293; 1958 it was $18,750,000 and the amount in 1968 was $47,500,563. The growth has tripled which is an astonishing growth.

This week we heard from that nice Dessie Mae Ramey Beene of Friona. She is planning to bring her Head Start Class over for a visit. We're always glad to have company.

To help solve the storage dilemma for space-starved apartment dwellers, modular storage systems come to the rescue.

One New York firm produces a new system which works in any size home and includes storage cubes, and shelving, all modern, all completely portable.

Jane Berry, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist, points out the advantages: It's completely furnished, assembled and disassembled without tools quickly, adjusts to three heights by turning pieces. "Mobile Module" shelving units can be expanded both horizontally and vertically and comes in six colors and two natural wood finishes.

According to the manufacturer, prices for both shelves and cube systems are low enough to be competitive with unpainted furniture. Like the shelves, the storage cubes come in oiled walnut, birch or six colors — white, black, yellow, purple, orange and green. Based on a 15-inch tube, the "Mobile Modules" system adds a 15 x 30 inch rectangle, plain, with sliding doors with drawers or with record dividers.

Next week: The Pants Shortcourse will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, July 8 and 9 at the Bull Barn. Each session will begin at 2:30 P. M. and last probably two hours. Rita Huckert and I will be glad to see you at the Shortcourse.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

If you are getting a divorce during the year you may be creating a tax problem to add to all of the other problems that go with marital troubles. Since Texas is a community property state, Internal Revenue is required to consider the income earned by each spouse up to the date of divorce as community income. This should be split with the withholding credits also being split between the spouses at the time of the divorce.

Internal Revenue and probably your attorney will advise you to agree on who will support the children and who will claim the income tax dependency exemption for the children. Internal Revenue reports that thousands of Texans prolong old marital problems through their failure to settle this issue. The Internal Revenue auditor has to settle the disagreement and he does not find it pleasant, but only one parent can claim the dependency.

Congress has simplified the rules, but it is up to the individuals involved to reach an agreement.

PIPELINE PEOPLE

Custodian of the pipelines

The Foreman of a natural gas pipeline maintenance crew cannot be just a problem-solver; he must be a problem-preventor.

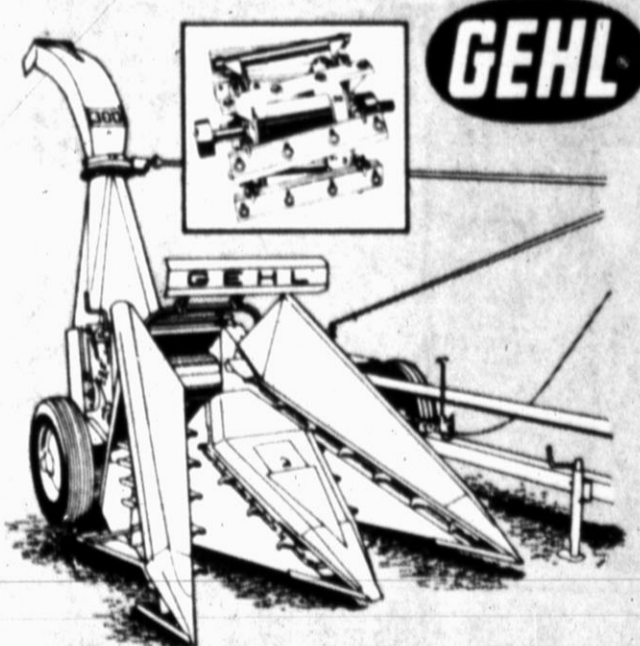

With his experienced crew, an NGPL Pipeline Foreman regularly patrols the pipelines in his territory. He examines above-ground equipment, inspects the right-of-way. A Pipeline Patrol Pilot questions a specific area, and the Foreman closes in for an on-the-spot check. The mere hint of a fault is his signal to investigate further, quickly and thoroughly.

Thousands of communities and industries depend on natural gas as a primary source of energy. And it's our Pipeline Foremen who are responsible for maintaining the network of pipe which sends the gas where it is needed.

They are pipeline people — vital links in a giant private industry serving the public interest.

American Legion Annual Meet Set

San Antonio, July —The 51st Annual Convention of The American Legion, Department of Texas, to be held here July 17-20, promises to be the most colorful and entertaining in history, according to Jodie Balcar, the general convention chairman.

Department Commander Robert P. Walsh of San Antonio will preside over the Legion convocation. Heading The American Legion Auxiliary will be Mrs. B. B. Hester of Houston.

Many special events are planned honoring veterans of World War I, founders of the Legion in 1919, as delegates conclude a 15-month observance of the Golden Anniversary of the world's largest veterans group.

According to the Commander, The American Legion will have some 3,000 delegates and alternates in attendance and the Auxiliary anticipates approximately 1,000. In addition to the of-official delegation, Legionnaires and Auxiliary members from all over Texas will attend, many of them bringing their families to vacation in San Antonio following the convention.

U. S. Governor Ben Barnes of Austin is scheduled to deliver the keynote address on Friday afternoon.

Other outstanding speakers on Saturday will include the Department Oratorical Contest Champion, Rick McPherson of Perryton, who will deliver his winning oration, and James R. Wilson, Director, The American Legion's National Security Commission, Washington, D. C., who is scheduled to address the convention at 2 p. m. Wilson will elaborate on the Legion's standon the Anti-Ballistic Missile System proposed by the President.

Friday evening at 5 p. m. the Parade of Champions Contest for Uniformed Organizations, Robert Engbrock, Chairman, will take place at the Convention Center. More than $2,900 in prizes will be awarded the winners of the colorful contest. This will be followed by a barbecue for registered delegates and guests. A Bathing Beauty Pageant will follow where Miss American Legion of 1969 will be crowned.

Aside from the color and entertainment the Legion and Auxiliary have mapped out a full four-day program of serious business pertaining to the vast Texas program of the Legion and Auxiliary. The Executive Committee, Board of Trustees and key standing committees and commissions will be busy throughout the convention.

The Memorial Service, under the direction of Rev. Dow H. Heard of Houston, Department Chaplain, is scheduled for 9:30 a. m., Sunday. The election of Department Officers for the ensuing year will conclude the convention.

Students Must Apply For SS

There are 720 students between the ages of 18 and 22 in the Panhandle area receiving social security benefits, according to Travis C. Briggs, social security district manager. Many of these students were high school graduates this spring, planning to continue school in the fall.

Briggs said that under certain conditions, benefit payments can continue during the summer vacation. A student in full-time attendance this fall can continue receiving his benefits. This is true whether or not the 18 to 22 year old student is a high school senior. Benefits for the summer break cannot exceed four months.

However, the student needs to take two specific actions to see that the benefits continue. He must have applied for admission or been accepted by the school he plans to attend and he must make an "end of school year" report to the Social Security Administration indicating his intention to stay in school full time.

Briggs urges all high school seniors between 18 and 22 and receiving student social security benefits who have not already done so to call or visit the nearest social security office.

The office in Amarillo is open from 8:15 am to 4:30 pm to serve you Monday through Friday. For those who are unable to come in during regular office hours, Briggs reminds you the office is open until 6:30 pm on Thursday evenings.

THEY VOTE TOO

DUDLEY, England, Joe Payne, 28, announced his candidacy to the town council on the labor party ticket and then went out and bought a razor.

"I was asked whether I would shave off my beard if I were selected by the party," Joe said. "I said I would leave it to the ladies and they decided it had to come off."

So it came off.

At The Library

Murder Breeds Another Murder

Now available at the Deaf Smith County Library are two new exciting novels telling of the ways of a private eye and the psychic pressures which drive a woman to near self destruction.

THE FIRE-DWELLERS

In THE FIRE-DWELLERS Margaret Laurence gives us a woman more wholly alive, recognizable, and compelling than the memorable Rachel Cameron of her novel A JEST OF GOD (filmed as RACHEL, RACHEL).

The heroine for whom she commands the reader's total involvement is an ordinary woman of 39 (house in a development, four children, salesman husband) fearful of — and struggling to shelter her family from both a world she perceives as a world on fire and her own consuming emotions.

A brilliant creation, Stacey MacAindra. She is unique and she is legion — now riding high, with all her capacity for strength and sass, for joy in love-making, for bursts of terrier courage in response to external threats; and now giving way under the psychic pressures of daily living, tearing herself down, childishly retreating to the comfort of daydreams and the solitary drink.

She is both earth mother and scared girl, and her interior life strikes universal chords far beyond her social milieu. The marriage of today that is sexually successful but fragile is picked by the pressures of job and home; the parental love that is almost vitiated by feelings of inadequacy; the striving to connect morally and humanly with those one loves — and with some larger, more generous pattern of life — all this is powerfully evoked, experienced, felt. Margaret Laurence's ordinary and extraordinary Stacy embodies the terrors and gulfs and fleeting graces — and the incredible aptitudes for survival — of a whole world of fire-dweller.

THE GOOD-BYE LOOK

By Ross McDonald. The "whipcord thriller," he is increasingly recognized as "not only the best in his field but an important American novelist on any level" (Chicago Tribune).

In his new novel, MacDonald's famous non-hero private eye Lew Archer-embodiment of cool — picks his way through the overheated and explosive mazes of a wealthy family's long-hidden secrets. A lost heirloom, a murder that breeds more murder, a boy's life poisoned by a money crime committed before he was born — these are the elements of THE GOOD-BYE LOOK. It is Ross MacDonald at his unnerving best: a novel at once brilliantly perceptive of the world it anatomizes — the free-way culture of Southern California — and from first to last unflinching in its dramatic excitement and suspense.
