Herd Drops Harvesters

By JERRY ODOM
Staff Writer

When Pampa's Harvesters marched into Hereford a year ago there was a hard fought 12 to 6 ball game with Harvester fans walking away with smiles of winning satisfaction. The pleasant memories of this night lasted only a year and was suddenly demolished this Friday. This time signs of enjoyment were sparked into the faces of Whiteface rooters as they sat and watched Hereford romp to a 13 to 9 victory on the Harvester's home field.

A bulldozing offense which moved the ball on a 70 yard drive for a TD, a punt return of 48 yards, and a defense which was determined to make use of the pigskin for its own purposes proved to be the key factors in the victory.

Everything started smelling like fresh roses for Hereford in the first quarter as they limited Pampa to 8 yards after the kickoff and forced them to give up the football. From the Harvester 35 the Whitefaces started grinding their own path toward that ever-important goal line. Five plays later quarterback Clark Marsh Pitman raced 8 yards to draw first blood for the Hereford cause. Fullback John Frank Martin divided the uprisings to make the score 7-0 with 8:18 left in the first quarter. Pampa seemed determined to even things up—but were denied the opportunity as they penetrated only to the Hereford 26. Hereford's first spark of luck occurred at this point when Harvester halfback Scotty King fumbled led to defensive end Tom Timberlake. After swapping the football again the quarter ended with the Whitefaces still in the lead.

As the second quarter began the tide seemed to turn a mighty and revive a little life into the Pampa bleachers. Wyatt Earp punted the ball down to the Hereford 1 yard line for Pampa. The next play tailback Richard Lyons was downed in the end zone for a 2 point safety. Both teams attained possession of the ball before Pampa was again awarded with points. This time it was for six. Scotty King was elected as the man for the chore as he dashed 20 yards up the middle for the TD with 4:18 left in the half. Alan Wagner then returned the kickoff 48 yards to the Pampa 47. Luck smiled on the opposition again when Mike Wartes fumbled the ball attempting to pass. The Harvesters recovered on the Hereford 42. The half ended with Pampa in the lead 9-7.

The second half rolled around with very little change. Hereford, seeing that time was running out began capitalizing in every Pampa mistake. The defensive line started reducing the running of King which was so effective in the 2nd quarter holding Pampa to very small gains. Pampa punted and the Hereford started their drive on their own 31. On second down and ten Pitman connected with a pass to running back Ricky Ward which resulted in a 29 yard gain. Ward and Wagner rammed time after time for first downs until Wagner struck paydirt from two yards. The extra point attempt failed but Hereford was in the lead and far enough that a field goal by Pampa would have been to no avail.

The Harvesters now put everything into the hands of their quarterback John Jenkins, Pampa's most reliable contender. Jenkins started mobilizing his team with short and quick passes. He then got the chance to meet Hereford's most reliable contender, its defensive line. John Martin, Tony Gorman, Rondey Dearing, and Tom Timberlake crashed in time after time to drop Jenkins for damaging losses. Pampa punted with seconds left in the game. Hereford ran out the clock to win the opening game of their 1969 campaign.

Head coach Larry Wartes commented that he was very pleased with how the offense moved the ball in the amount of time that they had. He said that this is hopeful to be the beginning of avenging last year's losses in the first four games. Hereford's next opponent will be the Plainview Bulldogs in Hereford's new football stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

Terrell Explains Vocation Rehabilitation Class Here

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Byron Terrell, vocational adjustment coordinator at Hereford High School, reported that it makes him mad when employers will not consider hiring Special Education students because they think these students are retarded and cannot work. "How do you know they can't work?" I ask them," Terrell said. "They will reply that these students are only capable of doing certain things. But I am persistent. I say that the trainable ones can go on outside jobs — and this has been proven many times in Hereford during the past three years with the Vocational Rehabilitation program in progress here."

He said that the old dogma that people used to believe — that a retarded must stay home — is fading away from the public's image because of the success of this program throughout the United States. "Besides," Terrell stated, "a good percentage of the students in this program at HHS are not true retardates. For the most part, they suffer from social and academic handicaps. Our purpose is, 'Build a spark and give them the pride of accomplishment.'"

He gave an example of one student here: "I got a young man a job in a local business here where he comes in contact with many people. When this young man first came into the class, he was about 17 years old and very much an introvert. He spoke to no one — he also had a speech impediment. When I asked for this job for him, I only asked for one hour per day. "Afterward, the owner of the business got interested in the boy, which is very important. And when you walk into this place of business now — where he is working fulltime — you see this boy standing straight, laughing and talking with everyone. I wish I could be half as happy as he is."

Terrell said, "We try to point out to the students, it isn't who lost but who won."

He continued, "They have the feeling they have been failures all their lives. I want to give them something they can do." He stressed optimism.

"Helen Keller was a blind deaf mute. If she hadn't had training, she would have been considered a retardate. Instead, she became noted as an extremely capable person."

Terrell has been "in the school business" for 20 years and was in construction for twelve years. His school career has included such administrative assignments as elementary and high school principal and superintendent. His construction trade has included working with Herbert Brasher of Brasher, Goyette and Rapier of Lubbock, current architect on the new Tierra Blanca Elementary School and the football stadium improvements.

"I came into Hereford with Brasher on the tail end of the high school vocational building and Northwest School construction, but I was supervisor for him at Aikman and Bluebonnet. After finishing Bluebonnet, former superintendent Johnny Clark Jr. told me, 'I have a job for you.' The job was coordinator of Special Education. Being away from education for a while, I had to go back to school myself and I attended a lot of meetings."

At one of these meetings, Terrell said he listened to a speaker who suffered from cerebral palsy. "It was embarrassing at first. But after five minutes, you forgot this man had cerebral palsy and listed to his subject."

He stated, "We all have handicaps, people can overcome handicaps." He added, "I have changed an awful lot on the subject during recent years. I wish I had felt this way in the past. This subject (teaching the handicapped) is enthralling."

His class, he said, is a three-way deal between Vocational Rehabilitation, Texas Education Agency, and the Hereford Independent School District. "We take youngsters out of elementary and junior high Special Education departments. We send them out to work."

Terrell said the first thing in the program is to visit the child's parents in order to get acquainted with the problems first-hand. "Then the child is given a very thorough physical examination."

He pointed out that students must be between the ages of 16 and 21 years before Vocational Rehabilitation can take See TERRELL, Page 2

Police Halt Auto Theft, Find Nude Girl

Frank Hernandez, Sylvia Chavez, Frank Bravo, Jo Ann Gutierrez, and Eusebio L. Prieto Jr. and Lucy Guzman were charged with attempted burglary in an attempt last week to steal an auto from the Orval Watson Ford Co. in Hereford which was thwarted by Hereford Police officers Michael Stutzman and Floyd Burke.

Also involved in the burglary attempt was the discovery of a girl who had gasoline poured over her body.

While on patrol Sunday morning at 2:15, officers Stutzman and Burke observed a car starting from the Watson parking lot. They reported that they pulled in front of it in order to bring it to a halt, and while Burke was checking the vehicle Stutzman encountered a man, identified as Prieto coming around the Watson Motor building.

Stutzman reported that upon questioning Prieto he discovered the man had entered the building and gotten the keys to the car from the board. The suspects claimed they had gotten Watson's permission to take the car. Watson was called, the officers said, and he reportedly denied knowing anything about the matter.

Upon questioning the suspects further, the officers learned there was a nude woman on the west side of the building. When one of the officers went to check it out, he found a woman sitting next to the building, screaming that someone had poured gasoline over her body. She was taken to the hospital.

The building was checked and discovery was made that a five gallon gasoline can had been turned over, police said. Also found was a bottle of liquor which was almost empty of its contents.

Miss Joy McCathern was named sweetheart for the coming year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McCathern.

Sponsored by the Noon Lion's Club, the new organization has over 20 members at this time, with more expected to join.

The charter will close Sept. 22 and anyone wishing to be a charter member is urged to contact members before the closing date.

Charter Night is scheduled Nov. 22. Chairman for the event is Larry Alley.

Barnes Coming As United Fund Spark

Wednesday At 10

Li. Gov. Ben Barnes, who confirmed his appearance here as kickoff speaker for the United Fund drive campaign, is scheduled to appear at the Hereford Community Center at 10 a. m. Wednesday to spark this year's goal of $38,000 for its eleven member agencies.

However, KPAN Radio Station owner-manager Clint Formby, who was assigned by United Fund president Calvin Goodin and drive chairman Clete Corlis to make arrangements with the lieutenant governor in his local appearance, has been in Washington D. C. during the past week. His staff reported that no further details in regard to Barnes' actual arrival and departure time or his mode of travel have been received here through Saturday.

KPAN has expected this schedule for several days and reported it would probably be received early this week.

Barnes' earlier confirmation released the information that he would appear at the Community Center at 10 a. m. Goodin said that the drive would be gin at 9:30 with all majors and captains receiving their instructions at that time.

A reception has been planned for Li. Gov. Barnes, Goodin reported, but this reception depends largely upon his time of arrival here and departure. Barnes will speak at a luncheon in Amarillo after his local appearance.

United Fund advance chairman Melvin Jayroe reported that he is to present the advance collection figures to Barnes upon his arrival here.

With no definite figures set by Saturday at press time because we did not get our cards for the collections until Monday and Tuesday and had Wednesday through Friday to work them," Jayroe nonetheless reported that "it appears we are having real good participation. One captain that we know of at this point will turn in about $1,200."

Corlis has asked for $10,000 from the advance group prior to the kickoff date.

Jayroe said he has eleven captains currently working "each with cards aimed toward their own types of businesses." The captains are Bud Sparks, Cecil Oglesby, Bill Lamm, Jeff Carlisle, Larry Fuller, Rev. Gene Brink, Bill Howard, Bert Boomer, John David Bryant, Jack Nunley, and Charles Cabiness.

Co-drive chairman Ray Moore has also reported good participation in the collection totals and pledges from the local civic clubs and organizations.

Budget for the member agencies here include Council on Alcoholism for their local expansion $1,250, Camp Fire Council $7,214, Cerebral Palsy $150, Colt League $1,023, Boy Scouts $7,400, Little League $2,750, Pony League $2,125, Red Cross, $10,500, Salvation Army $4,000, Texas United Fund $175, USO $475, and local United Fund expense $938.

This year, Corlis has expanded the county major list from one to seven "because we believe the United Fund is actually a county-wide campaign which includes all our citizens."

County majors are Mrs. John Smith, Easter; Mrs. Ray Stewart, Dawn; Mrs. Ray Johns on, Summerfield; Mrs. Bobby Veigel, Milo Center; Mrs. R. W. Duggan, Walcott; Mrs. Clarence Morrison, Westway; and Mrs. Glenn Allred, Daniels.

Local campaign majors named are Lynton Allred, commercial A; Charlie Bell, commercial B; Hilrey Aven, commercial C; Ray Todd, schools; Lester Rape, county, federal and state employees; and Jonny Cloued, utilities, banks and attorneys.

Hereford Night Planned At WT

Tommy Bryant, Sports Information Director for West Texas State University, announced last week that the Sept. 20 Northern Arizona-West Texas State game has been designated as a Hereford Day at Buffalo Bowl.

Bryant reported that all grade school aged children will be given tickets to the game and will be permitted to sit in the end zone during the game.

Also, as a special feature for the halftime break, the Hereford High School Band and Choirs will present numbers and songs for the crowd.

La Plata Jr. High Reports Vandalism

Extensive vandalism resulting in $1,500 damage was reported by officials to La Plata Jr. High School, which occurred sometime Wednesday night. Acid poured on the floors, obscene writing on the walls and general destruction to a large number of rooms was discovered by the school custodian Thursday morning.

In the nurses' office, records were scattered throughout the room and items were reported broken. Also, the glass door to the teachers' lounge was broken and the trash can had been burned.

In several other rooms, checks and cash for insurance were taken or damaged by the vandal and a camera, valued at $80 was smashed, according to Pat Hughes, assistant principal.

"Our schooling is strictly vocational. We endeavor to teach the student job responsibility — kinds of duties — and for him to give his best!"

"Taught a fundamental things that the student will use everyday on his job. We even teach taxation matters," he pointed out.

"Most of the students can read very little — perhaps on the first and second grade level. We teach them to make change, and things of this nature."

But Terrell pointed out, "My main job is to try to get acquainted with the youngster. I must find his preferences in employment and then try to get him that kind of a job — and for them to make a living at it. In a manner, I transfer the teaching responsibility over to the employer while I supervise."

He now has 25 students in morning classes.

"But some of the students do not attend classes at all," he said. "They are strictly on jobs. We graduated four students last year who were strictly on-the-job students."

Terrell reported that some students will attend class only half-year — going to school in the mornings and working during the afternoons. "But within a period of time they will be fulltime on their job."

He described another success

"When I find the student's vocational interests, I go to an employer and say, 'Would you like to try him?' The pay to the employer is $40 per month if he will train the student," Terrell said. The fee is paid one month, nine months, etc., as the course progresses.

It is pointed out, Terrell stated, that for every dollar paid for the training of these students, the student will eventually repay $10 in future taxes.

"But our main problem in this program is the parent," Terrell said. "Many of them still stick to the old ways. If the child can earn $1.75 per hour on a job that will last two weeks, they will prefer their child take it in place of a job that pays $1.25 per hour all year. They cannot see that they are losing money."

But he reported there is slow progress in this area too. Some are getting away from this idea. "Only a few years ago, all were solidly behind the old idea."

Faulty Brakes Cause Accident

Faulty brakes were cited as the cause of an accident which occurred last week at the intersection of Ave. K and Park Ave. in which light damage was incurred to the car involved and a traffic signal was knocked down.

Involved in the accident was James Haney who was driving a 1949 Chevrolet pickup. Damage to the pickup was estimated at $100 while the traffic signal which was struck sustained $200 damage.

The accident occurred when Haney was approaching the intersection and discovered he did not have any brakes on the vehicle. In an attempt to avoid a collision with traffic going through the intersection, he swerved the car to the right, striking the traffic signal.

The accident was believed to have been caused by a burst

Stout Says State Needs Local Help

S. E. Stout, field representative of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, told members of the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism at a luncheon meeting in the Chaparral Restaurant Thursday that the state hospital program for alcoholics "is now going through a revamping" and that the commission feels they should "get with the local councils and encourage them to help alcoholics toward use of the local facilities, such as health programs and Alcoholics Anonymous."

State Panel To Appear At Local Center

A panel of state officials will appear at the Hereford Community Center at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

The panel will address itself to the topic of "A Public Health Clinic in Hereford." Panel members are Ralph Mitchell, State Health Department in Austin; and Jerry Delashaw, Mrs. Geneva Shropshire, and Mrs. Mary Miller, all from the Lubbock Regional Office of the State Migrant Program.

The panel presentation is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Health Clinic Committee. Raymond White is chairman.

Members of the committee will also present the findings of their two-month study.

The panel presentation will be open to the public, and interested citizens are urged to attend, White said. The needs for a public health clinic in Hereford are many, and these needs become more pressing and urgent each month. In response to the expressed concern over this growing problem, it is hoped that this panel presentation and the findings of the local committee will stimulate constructive answers.

Stout dealt at some length on the industry program for alcoholics, and said there is much activity in the industry circles combating alcoholism along the Texas coast.

"They are becoming more and more willing to help," Stout said. "I would say within the next five years industry will become a leader in this program. In the past, industry said, 'Alcoholism doesn't exist.' Some still do, but not as much now."

Council chairman Rev. Fred Howard reported the next regular meeting to be held by the council would be conducted Sept. 23.

However, there is to be a special meeting of the board of directors and committee heads at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday at the Chaparral. Plans are to be set for future open-to-the-public meetings and seminars on the subject of alcoholism.

Arid Lands Meet Set In Lubbock

LUBBOCK — West Texans used to dust storms and long term droughts common to semi-arid regions will have the opportunity this month to hear four of the world's leading authorities discuss the potential of arid lands.

The four will open the Third Symposium on Arid Lands sponsored by Texas Tech's International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies, and they will, in turn, talk about development, protein production, nuclear engineering and modifying the weather.

Speakers for the opening sessions are Ralph Richardson, associate director of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York; Victor MacFarlane, head of the Animal Physiology Department of the Waite Institute, Adelaide, South Australia; Edward Teller, of the University of California's Livermore Radiation Laboratory and consulting professor at Texas Tech; and Peter H. Wyckoff, program director for weather modification of the National Science Founda-

Texas Tech faculty also will present papers at continuing sessions. Thirty-eight will participate at sessions on arid lands interests including water, agriculture, history, engineering the natural sciences and "Arid Lands and the Human Experience." Faculty papers will reflect arid land research underway at Texas Tech.

Director Thadis W. Box of the International Center described MacFarlane is a medical doctor, formerly a brain surgeon, but much of his work has been on water efficiency studies in Merino sheep and with European and Indian breeds of cattle.

His recent work includes water efficiency and protein production potential from large animals (four-stomached animals) in Africa and in domestic livestock of the Middle East.

Among animal physiologists he is also well known for his contributions of chapter on water efficiency in basic animal physiology texts.

His Lubbock address will include the heretofore unpublished results of research on African and Middle Eastern animals and relate its significance to protein production from arid lands.

MacFarlane is past president of the Australian and New Zealand Association of Science, and his presidential address on protein from waste lands received worldwide acclaim.

Wyckoff, a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and an associate fellow for the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, has been director of weather modification for the NSF since 1964. Since that time he has served with numerous study and advisory groups on science in government, weather modification social and legal aspects of weather and weather modification.

He formerly served as a member of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Task Group on Weather Modification. His publications deal with weather and also with rocketry. Among his writings is "The Rocket as a Research Vehicle," and the script for the documentary film, "Frontier Beyond the Sky," which he co-authored.

In Lubbock, Wyckoff will discuss the success of weather modification attempts and the interaction of society with the atmosphere as a national resource.

Richardson, also a AAAS fellow, is a geneticist whose first major academic award was the Burpee Award in Horticulture. His published work deals with vegetable production and Latin American agricultural problems. He has served the Rockefeller Foundation for many years in Mexico and, from 1960 to 1962, was director of the Mexican Agricultural Program for the Foundation.

Following a welcoming address by Texas Tech President Grover E. Murray, Richardson will open the symposium with a discussion of the "Development Potential for Arid Lands."

Teller, who has previously addressed the West Texas water

Institute in Lubbock and has given scientific and classroom lectures on the campus, is noted for his interest in the peaceful application of nuclear energy as well as for his work in the development of the atom bomb.

"Every speaker at this symposium," said Prof. Box, "will be speaking about problems which relate directly to West Texas and the Southwest. Although these are eminent scholars, they also are men who communicate well to their fellow-men.

"The lectures they will give are not prepared only for scientists and advanced scholars. We have asked these speakers to come because they are particularly capable in their ability to talk with laymen about the advanced research which is important to their audiences."

Teacher Tests Set Nov. 8

CANYON — National Teacher Examinations will be given at West Texas State University Nov. 8. The Education Testing Service, a non-profit educational organization, will prepare and administer the tests.

The examinations, which are given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States, will also be given on Jan. 31, April 4 and July 18, the ETS announced today.

Dr. Kenneth W. Waugh, director of the WTSU testing and counseling service said that college seniors planning to receive teaching certificates are required to take the examination.

"Students will be assigned a time and place to take the examination when they register for the test," he said.

West Texas State seniors seeking a teaching certificate will receive further information about the examinations at an orientation following registration.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by the state of Texas for certification or licensing teachers.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations, which measure their professional preparation and general cultural background, and a Teaching Area Examination which measures mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

New Film Set On Angus Herd

The challenges, the benefits and even some of the pitfalls of production testing in beef cattle are explained graphically by outstanding Angus breeders in the American Angus Association's new motion picture "Production Records — Your Biggest Advantage."

The 30-minute 16 mm color, sound motion picture has just been completed and is now available free for showing to any group interested in beef cattle. To reserve a copy write to the Public Relations Department, American Angus Association. The film is expected to be in big demand because of its special nature and those wishing to show it should make your reservation at least a month in advance.

"Production Records — Your Biggest Advantage," was made from a series of spontaneous interviews with progressive young cattlemen from many parts of the United States. All of them have successfully used a production records program for eight years or more and are convinced that it is an indispensable

The idea behind the film is not so much to provide answers it certainly does this, but rather to stimulate interest in the Angus Herd Improvement Record program and the use of production records in general. It is ideal for use to stimulate questions and discussion at a meeting on measuring the productivity of a beef herd.

SWCD Meeting Here Wednesday

By JERRY ODOM
Staff Writer

Fifty-five members of the Soil and Water Conservation District Boards of the Panhandle Association held their quarterly meeting last Wednesday at the Hereford Country Club. Several issues concerning local and state conservation practices were discussed.

Virgil Marsh, secretary of the local hosting Tierra Blanca Conservation Board introduced the speakers, one of which was local attorney James Witherspoon. Witherspoon spoke on the progress of Hereford and the surrounding area. He pointed out that coordination, communication, and cooperation were vital points in using the land, water, and people, the resources of the surrounding region. He also said that agricultural producers of the region have been instrumental in bringing business to Hereford. Witherspoon encouraged the Panhandle Association to promote water conservation by encouraging land owners to preserve their own water.

Friona's A. L. Black, president of the state association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts spoke to the group about matching funds. The Texas Legislature has authorized the Soil and Water Conservation Districts to accept funds from the local governments. He said these funds would be matched by the state of Texas. Black emphasized how this could enable the district to carry out their objectives.

Frank Gray, Lubbock member of the state association board of Soil and Water Conservation and state board field man Audrey Dalripple also attended the meeting and luncheon along with Panhandle Association President James Bible.

The Tierra Blanca Conservation Board presented a resolution that the Panhandle Association

It might seem a little odd to see such a big sheep feeding operation right here in the middle of the biggest cattle feeding area in the nation, but Sheep Feeders, Inc., located north of Summerfield are apparently getting along fine. They have shipped their first finished sheep to market and celebrated Thursday night by serving barbecued mutton to a group of suppliers and feeders. It turned out to be a gala affair, complete with the beans and hot peppers.

Austin Rose, J. W. Robinson, Paul Lyons and Tommy Kemp were all on hand to show the guests through the feedlots and give them a little run down on the current operation. The pens will hold as many as 18,500 of the animals at capacity. However there were a number of the pens empty Thursday evening pending the arrival of 9,000 expected in a few days.

—HB—

Sheep are funny critters. We understand that goats are normally trained to lead the sheep up the ramps and into the trucks when it comes time to ship them out. We're told that it is almost impossible to drive sheep as you do cattle, but they will "follow" right well. Hence, the goat. Wonder if that's where the expression "Judas goat" originated?

—HB—

By the way, if you've never eaten barbecued lamb, or goat for that matter, you've missed a treat. It's really good.

—HB—

The local Kiwanis Club is still in the firewood business and if you have a fireplace in your home and need a load of real good wood, then call one of the members of the local club. They will deliver.

And speaking of fireplaces and firewood, reminds us of the story about the fellow moving into our area from down South where they have lots of trees.

"I couldn't believe my eyes when first coming to the Plains," the fellow said. "I've never seen a place that had so many fireplaces in the homes, or so many boats parked in the driveways, where there was so little water and so few trees."

—HB—

The local Camp Fire organization is seriously in need of additional leaders for the program, according to Mrs. Nita Lea, local Camp Fire administrator. "We are short 11 leaders right now," she said, and indicated that many more Camp Fire groups could be organized if additional leaders could be secured. "This is strictly a volunteer program and we can't operate without the volunteer help," she said.

We didn't ask Mrs. Lea what the current Camp Fire enrollment total was, but it had surpassed the 500 mark last year as the new lodge was being completed, and we would suspect that it has grown considerably since that

Three Hereford Businesses Are Reported Burglarized

Three Hereford businesses were burglarized this week, all apparently in the same manner, according to investigating officers.

The Big T Pump Company, Southwestern Public Service and Gulf Oil Corp. Distributors were broken into during the nights of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, respectively. Entry was gained by breaking a window with caliche rocks in each incident, officers said.

Desks were pried open and ransacked in each case and small amounts of money taken. A soft drink dispenser was also broken into at SWPSC.

And according to the Cut Bank (Mont.) Pioneer Press some of the charity that begins at home is substandard.

Tower Eulogizes Senator Dirksen

The Senate has lost a great leader. It's difficult for me to believe that Everett Dirksen is no longer with us. I haven't known any other leader since I've been in the Senate. From the first day I came to the Senate, he was not only my leader, but my teacher and friend. I quickly developed a deep appreciation for his warmth and kindness and a personal affection for him. I always remember him with the highest esteem. His death has left a tremendous void that I think will not again be filled. Senator Dirksen had a character of leadership which I believe went far beyond that which can normally be expected in a man called upon to lead his party in the Senate. Senator Dirksen had the ability to sense the majority views of his colleagues and at the same time he remained his own man. He knew when to fight and he knew when to compromise. He had a unique sense of humor and a unique charm that can only be called a blessing. We are not likely to see all these leadership qualities combined in a single individual again for many years. Those of us who were privileged to know Ev, as he liked to be called, will keep our experiences with him among our fond memories. But the Senate will go on.

We are going forward with consideration of the several amendments which have been offered to the military procurement bill which authorizes the research and development and the purchase of hardware which is vital to our national defense. The other legislative area of particular interest before the Senate this year is amendment of our tax laws. Legislation in this field is now under consideration by the Senate Finance Committee. The Chairman of that committee has said he plans to present a bill to the full Senate by October 31. The Senate has an excellent opportunity to create an equitable and economically sound tax system. We should take steps to simplify federal income tax reporting procedure. Above all, I believe we must ease the tax burden on middle income taxpayers. In our zeal to achieve a more equitable tax system, however, we cannot afford to act with a vengeance against those 154 non-taxpaying millionaires of which we have heard so much. If we do, we could find ourselves in ever deeper economic straits. This is because many of the currently existing tax advantages for the wealthy, act as effective incentives to channel a significant amount of funds into areas which would require additional tax dollars if funds from wealthy individuals were suddenly not available. One of these areas is philanthropy. Existing tax law encourages the wealthy to donate funds to charitable institutions which serve the public interest. Often these donations are channeled through foundations. If we tax these donations so heavily as to reduce them significantly, we could find ourselves forced to channel government funds into areas where government expenses are not now required. I do believe that some foundations are mis-using the privileges which current tax laws now provides and there should be appropriate oversight to prevent such mis-use. I therefore support the two per cent 'supervisory tax' on foundations which would raise the funds required to exercise necessary oversight. Another area where an existing tax advantage needs to be maintained is that of state and municipal bonds. The law now allows individuals who purchase these bonds to collect the interest on them tax free. This allows the bonds to be attractive to investors even though they offer very low interest rates. Taxation of the interest on state and municipal bonds will require state and local governments to pay higher interest rates. That in turn, means one of two things: a reduction in city reserves to their citizens, or increases state and local taxes to pay those higher interest rates. In Texas, we must be concerned also about taxation in the oil and gas industry. Our state owns extensive oil and gas producing properties, and royalties to our state helps pay for state government services to all our citizens. A change in our tax laws which discourages exploration for additional oil reserves in our state costs all Texans. Texans will have to pay either additional state taxes or will suffer a corresponding lack of state services because funds are not available. And from the national point of view, a drop in our capabilities to produce oil resource will harm our national defense posture. We see new headlines every day telling of unrest in the Middle East. I do not want to find the United States one day faced with international blackmail which might force us to take some action on the world scene which we otherwise would not be forced to take.

In summary, we must ease the tax bite on middle-income taxpayers, but we must not exercise vengeance on the wealthy from which we may all suffer. Sen. John Tower.

Letter To The Editor

(Editor's note: This letter was actually received by Rev. and Mrs. Robert M. Williams of Hereford from their son, TCS Robert M. Williams, in the US Navy, who turned the contents over to the Brand because they believed it should be reprinted for its readers.)

Dear Mom & Dad,
I just thought that I would type you a note to get my typing back in shape. I am doing fine, hope ya'll are the same.

We are in Kaohsiung, Taiwan, now but we will leave tomorrow. We just pulled in yesterday!

I want to tell you what happened last Friday, 22 August.

We were about 400 or 500 miles from Okinawa. A new guy that had been on board only a little over a month (Arthur Davis) was sent from the after engine room to go to the fantail to dump trash. The sea was fairly rough although I have seen it rougher many times. Davis was gone from the after engine room for about 30 minutes and people began to wonder where he was at. Several guys were sent through the ship to look for him. He wasn't anywhere to be found. An all hands muster (roll call) was taken and Davis still didn't show up.

Davis' Chief Petty Officer went to see the Executive Officer and tell him that we might be missing a man. (The Executive Officer is second in command of our ship, only after the Captain). The Chief Petty Officer walked into the wardroom to inform the XO (Executive Officer) about the possibility of us having lost a man overboard. The XO and other officers were eating dinner and told the chief to leave and close the door behind him! Finally, someone listened to the chief and we turned around to look for Davis who had apparently fallen overboard about two hours earlier. One more ship and plane joined us in the search.

A quick look at Davis' service record told us that Davis could not swim. If Davis fell directly over the fantail, the ships screws (propellers) probably cut him into a thousand pieces. If Davis fell over the side or was washed over the side, he would not have been hurt by the screws. We searched through the night using only two signaling flood lamps that lit up a very small portion of the vast ocean. We searched until noon 23 Aug., 25 hours after Davis was reported missing.

Our ship then discontinued our search because our Captain had received orders to proceed to Okinawa for fuel. Shortly after noon, our Captain spoke over the general announcing system, "Our search for Fireman Davis has been called off. As your Captain it is my duty to inform all of you that Davis must be presumed lost at sea..." The Captains voice then broke off and he began to weep.

As I had said, Davis had been on board only a little over a month. But I was one of the fortunate ones that had gotten to know him pretty well. He was 19 years old and he was from Kentucky. He would greet me every time that he would see me with "Hi, Willy" or "How's it going, Willy." We held a short memorial service for him later on that day. We stood with our heads bowed while our Chaplain said the few things that can be said when a tragedy happens. By looking at the faces, you could tell who had known him and who hadn't. Some had tears in their eyes, some didn't. I managed to keep them from rolling down my cheeks although I couldn't keep them out of my eyes.

I tried not to think about his body floating out there in the wide ocean somewhere. I tried not to think about his parents. Here we were having memorial services for him and they probably didn't even know that he was dead yet. I prayed to God that we might have found him, if only for the sake of sending his body back to his home for burial.

What a cruel world. Well, I haven't heard any word yet about the reserves getting out early. Only hear say.

The latest word is that our ship is due back in Yokosuka after serving again off of Viet Nam. We are supposed to arrive back in Yoko on Sept. 30.

That's all I have to say for now. If ya'll can think of anything you need from Japan be sure and let me know. Be careful and I love you. Robert

Mon Amis Fills Ditty Bags

Filling ditty bags to be sent overseas was the project undertaken at the first meeting of the season of the Mon Amis Study Club held Thursday morning at the Community Room of the First National Bank.

In a brief business session, meeting time was changed by members to 9:30 a. m. on the second Thursday each month.

The next meeting is scheduled Oct. 9 at the First National Bank with a program on obesity being presented by Mrs. Frank Short.

Refreshments were served to nine members and one guest.

of the Kiwanis Whiteface Breakfast Club Friday morning.

Wartes, in a very inspirational speech, explained the important part high school athletes play in the development of our youth — physically and concerning leadership abilities.

He urges this community to get behind our teams and support them for they need the encouragement to play a good game.

The Whiteface Breakfast Club was chartered last spring and is a chapter of the Kiwanis Club affiliated with Kiwanis International. The club meets each Friday morning at 6:30 a. m. at the Chaparral Restaurant. Earl Stagner is club president.

Wake Forest has won the last three Atlantic Coast Conference golf titles.

SISSON FARM — Top production can be expected from this 30 acres of land which was previously tagged "marginal land." A series of conservation practices applied here has increased yields and saved soil and water. —SCS Photo

Marginal Land Levelled On Sisson Farm

A complete conservation plan has been completed on the Billy Wayne Sisson farm located twenty miles west of Hereford, Arnold King of SCS reported. Most of the work done was cost-shared through the Great Plains Conservation Program administered by the Soil Conservation Service.

Approximately thirty acres of marginal land has been bench leveled to reduce water waste and erosion, King said. This "marginal cropland" will produce as much as any land on the farm after a couple of years with high residue crops.

A grassed waterway was constructed to carry excess water to a grassed area at a non-erosive velocity. A diversion terrace has been built above the benches to protect them from flood water, and finally an underground irrigation pipeline was installed to eliminate a steep ditch.

McBee Is New Superintendent

LUBBOCK. . . A new superintendent for research has been appointed for the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center north of Lubbock. He is Dr. George G. McBee, who for the past four years has served as assistant professor in the Department of Soil and Crop Sciences at Texas A&M. He replaces C. E. Fisher who is now devoting full time to brush control research in West Texas.

The announcement was made Thursday by Dr. H. O. Kunkel, dean of agriculture at Texas A&M, during a conference with staff members at the Center.

McBee is a native of Eastland which is 10 miles east of Cisco. He was graduated from Carbon High School in 1946 and from Ranger Junior College in 1948. From Texas A&M, he received a B. S. degree in agronomy in 1951, a M. S. in soil chemistry in 1956 and a Ph. D. in plant physiology in 1965.

According to Kunkel, the new superintendent was employed with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for seven years, serving as an assistant county agricultural agent in Bexar County, area agronomist at Weslaco and state agronomist headquartered at College Station.

McBee worked for five years as a research associate in the Department of Soil and Crop Sciences before his appointment as assistant professor in turf research. During that time he has served as sectional chairman at national scientific meetings and is presently chairman of the Southern Region Turf Research Committee.

Commenting on his new appointment, McBee said, "It's a real pleasure to be associated with such a fine, dedicated staff as is here at the Texas A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center. The staff is highly professional and competent to solve the many and complex agricultural problems of the area."

"Many disciplines are represented among our staff members and we will continue to use the interdisciplinary approach and work together in a coordinated effort for the betterment of the agricultural industry on the High Plains," he added. "We will also continue to work closely with county agricultural agents in solving local problems."

"Visitors are always welcome at the Center," pointed out McBee. "We want the public to see what our staff is working on and we welcome all ideas and suggestions on approaches which might be used in solving problems or in conducting research."

The new superintendent holds membership in Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Theta Kappa, Sigma Xi and Alpha Zeta. He is also a member of the American Society of Plant Physiology, Southern Section of A. S. P. P., American Society of Agronomy and Weed Science Society of America. He has authored or coauthored some 35 scientific publications, said Kunkel.

McBee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. McBee of Eastland and is married to the former I-da Jane Maspero of San Antonio. The couple has two daughters, Cynthia and Nancy. The McBees are members of the Baptist Church and reside at 6223 Louisville Drive in Lubbock.

Two-Day Celebration Mexican Fiesta Begins Monday

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

The annual Mexican Fiesta begins in Hereford Monday evening and is scheduled to continue through Tuesday with the main festivities at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, including the crowning of a new queen, two grand marches, a parade throughout the downtown and Sugarland Mall areas — and a lot of dancing.

The fiesta is in celebration of Mexican Independence Day. For those who may think it unusual for such a celebration to be held — that of celebrating the independence of another country — officers of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Mission in Hereford will counter this with the statement that it is for those who have pride in their heritage.

Moreover, the fiesta is also a means for the Holy Name Society to raise funds for their projects at St. Joseph's Mission.

The colorful celebration is expected to draw more than 1,000 Mexican-Americans into the city during these two days. (Usually the celebration spans a three-day period, but all available locations where dancing is permitted here on Sunday night were booked up this year. Holy Name Society reported.)

President of Holy Name Society is Ernesto Tijerina Sr. of 315 Norton.

Tijerina is a field contractor with Reinauer and Sons Inc., the past seven years. Born in the Ballinger, Texas, area, he came to Hereford from Lamesa about twenty years ago.

His son, Army Pfc. Arthur C. Tijerina, a graduate of Hereford High School, became the second casualty from Deaf Smith County on May 10, 1968, in the war in Vietnam.

And Mexico's independence — which was begun 159 years ago — was not fully achieved until some fifty years ago.

Scholars believe that the Toltec Indians came into the Valley of Mexico some time before the year 900. These Indians made beautiful pottery and erected large buildings of finely carved stone, and by the 1100's, they had spread all over central and southern Mexico. But the Aztec became the leading tribe by the early 1300's. Their capital stood on the site of the present-day Mexico City.

Then the Spaniards discovered Mexico and Hernando Cortez was sent to conquer all the tribes there in 1519. Afterward, Mexicans were not permitted to mine or produce any goods which duplicated those in Spain. Mexico not only had to buy these products from Spain, but they were also forced to pay heavy taxes on them. The people became resentful.

In 1808, Napoleon I conquered Spain and forced Ferdinand VII to abdicate. Napoleon then placed his brother Joseph on the Spanish throne. This left the Spanish colonies — including Mexico — without a recognized ruler.

At 11 p.m. on Sept. 15, 1810, Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla, a priest in the town of Dolores (now Dolores Hidalgo), called upon his Indian followers to revolt against their cruel Spanish overlords. From his pulpit, Father Hidalgo shouted the famous "Grito de Dolores": Long live Our Lady of Guadalupe! Long live independence! Death to the Spaniards!

The priest organized 100,000 followers in a poorly equipped army and they began fighting. The Grito de Dolores marked the beginning of the fight for Mexican Independence. Mexicans still celebrate Sept. 16 as Mexican Independence Day.

Each year on Sept. 15, the president rings a bell in Mexico City and repeats the Grito de Dolores. Next day, all Mexicans begin a colorful celebration.

Whereupon, Mexican-Americans celebrate here in the United States, Texas, and Hereford, on these days.

Other officers of the Holy Name Society are Frank Torres, vice president; Johnny Velasquez, secretary; and Jesus Garcia, treasurer.

The first grand march will be conducted Monday night at the Bull Barn here, wherein Elvidia Torres, who has been queen for the past year, is to relinquish her crown. New queen, Elodia Cano, will then enter into her coronation ceremonies.

Ana Maria Rodriguez will become princess and Mary Figueroa dutchess. Second Grand March is to be conducted Tuesday night following the Mexican Fiesta parade during the afternoon.

SAME NAME
WALLSTREET, Colo. — Colorado has its Wallstreet, but it's all one word. It is a tiny community in the mountains west of Boulder.

WILL RELINQUISH CROWN — Mexican Fiesta Queen for the past year, Elvidia Torres of 410 Ave. K, will relinquish her crown to Elodia Cano in coronation ceremonies Monday night at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. Rounding out a year as Fiesta Queen,

Miss Torres said, "It has been quite an honor and I appreciate all the people who voted for me in 1968." Shown with her is Omar Villarreal who was her "prince" in ceremonies then. —Staff Photo

Relish Recipes

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

Food preservation continues in the county. Most of the canning is relishes and pickles. Here's a collection of recipes for pickles and relishes which stimulate the appetite and add tartness, color, and interest to a meal. Relishes are a source of minerals, and vitamins, especially vitamins A&C. They retain most of the vitamins because of high acid content and short heating time in the water bath.

Use coarse salt with nothing added to prevent lumping. A highgrade cider or distilled vinegar of four to five percent acidity. The label should read 40 to 60 grams. Do not dilute vinegar unless the recipe calls for it. If a less tart product is desired, add sugar. Soft water is recommended for pickle making. Boil water and let it settle.

PEPPER-ONION RELISH
4 cups finely chopped onion
2 cups finely chopped sweet red pepper
2 cups finely chopped green pepper
1 cup sugar
1 quart vinegar
4 teaspoons salt

CORN RELISH
2 two-thirds cups fresh whole grain or frozen corn
Two-third cup chopped red sweet peppers or pimento
Two-thirds cup chopped sweet green pepper
1 one-thirds cups chopped celery
One-third cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup sugar
One one-third cups vinegar
2 teaspoon celery seed
4 cups vinegar
1 1/4 cups sugar
3 tablespoons salt
4 tablespoons dry mustard
3 tablespoons celery seed
2 teaspoons turmeric
2 tablespoons mustard seed
Preparation for fresh corn — Remove husks and silks. Cook ears of corn in boiling water 10 minutes; remove and plunge into cold water. Drain, cut corn from cob. Do not scrape cob. Preparation for frozen corn — Defrost corn before starting to make relish. Combine peppers, celery, onions, sugar, vinegar, salt and celery seed and boil for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Mix dry mustard, turmeric and cornstarch, blend with 1/4 cup water. Add this mixture and corn to cooked vegetables and spices. Cook 5 minutes after it begins to boil, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Pack relish to 1/2 inch of top of hot jar. Close. Process in boiling water bath 20 minutes. Start to count processing time when water returns to boil. Makes 3 pints.

CHOW-CHOW RELISH
1 peck or 13 1/2 pounds green tomatoes

3 tablespoons salt
4 tablespoons dry mustard
3 tablespoons celery seed
2 teaspoons turmeric
2 tablespoons mustard seed
Chop tomatoes, onions and sweet green peppers, and sprinkle with 3 tablespoons salt. Let stand 4 to 6 hours in cool place. Drain well, add hot peppers, vinegar, sugar, salt, and spices tied in thin cloth bag. Boil 15 minutes. Remove spice bag. Pack in hot jars. Close. Process in boiling water 15 minutes. Loves Work And Home

By BARBARA SWIMMER Women's Editor
"If you don't love the work you are doing, you might as well not work," says Mrs. Richard Montgomery, a 7th and 8th grade teacher at Stanton Junior High, who recently moved here with her family from Amarillo. The enthusiasm for her work and home is readily apparent when speaking to Pat Montgomery, who brims with love and adoration when telling of her experiences with her students, her home and family. Her effervescent personality is a rare and unique one and she seems to spread happiness to whom ever she is in contact. A teacher for 16 years, Mrs. Montgomery has taught vocal music for 12 years and English for four. She has two 7th grade reading classes and 8th grade English at Stanton. The Montgomerys moved here the last part of July and are still trying to get settled in their new home at 137 Mimosa. Richard Montgomery is industrial relations director for Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative. Their two sons, Mauri, 13 and nine-year-old Jay, are enjoying Hereford and are busily getting acquainted and making new friends. "Pat said she was amazed at the friendliness of the local people, saying that she had heard how amiable the town was, but had to see it for herself before she could believe it."

Calliopian Study Club Views Film On Cancer

A film released by the American Cancer Society was viewed by members to open the new season at a Thursday evening meeting of the Calliopian Study Club held in the home of Mrs. J. T. Gilbreath.

Other members of the social and yearbook committee who were co-hostesses with Mrs. Gilbreath were Mmes. Gene Parsley, B. F. Cain and Sue James. The film was produced by Bill Tolman, who for many years played the prosecuting attorney on the Perry Mason TV Show. A smoker since the age of 12, Tolman died of lung cancer at the age of 53, just one month after the film was released. He emphasized the importance of contributing to the cancer fund, saying that no enemy needed defeating like cancer. A lovely dinner was served to Mmes. Cameron Gault, Clyde Cove, C. J. Crump, Emil Dettman, Alton Fraser, David Gibson, Roy Grubbs, Millard Nobles, Sam Self, George Warner, Emmett Milburn, Meredith Wilcox, Hazen Woods, Bob Word, Paul Coneway, A. T. Mims, Thomas Kendrick and Ansel McDowell. With her full-time teaching vocation and her role as homemaker, she hasn't much time for hobbies but loves to sing and read. Husband, Richard is the decorator in the family and they are enjoying the pleasurable task of decorating their home. The Montgomerys were both reared at Altus, Okla. and attended high school there. Pat is a graduate of Oklahoma State University. Their son, Mauri, who is just entering the wonderful world of being a teenager, loves football and golf and has taken piano lessons for the past six years. Young Jay is an animal lover and enjoys swimming and making model airplanes.

National MS Representative Speaks To Hereford Lions

Mrs. Ronada Lovelady, the wife of an Amarillo minister and a staff member of the Panhandle Chapter of National Multiple Sclerosis Society, was guest speaker at the Lions Club luncheon Wednesday and showed a film entitled "My Friend Joe," the story of a young man struck by the dreaded disease and what happened to him and his family when the disaster hit.

The Panhandle chapter, which serves 26 counties, is making an appeal to the public in order to educate more people about the disease. In her talk, Mrs. Lovelady stated "that an informed public is an interested public."

Multiple Sclerosis is one of the most common organic diseases affecting the nervous system. It afflicts an estimated 500,000 people in this country. It is important not only because it is frequently encountered but also because it almost invariably affects young people. While rarely fatal in its early stages, it may be progressive and cause long incapacity.

The disease is termed "multiple" because it usually affects many parts of the nervous system, and it is frequently characterized by relapses followed by periods of partial and sometimes complete recovery. Thus, it is multiple both anatomically and chronologically.

The disease has no one infallible sign. Almost any portion of the nervous system may be involved. The spinal cord is perhaps the most frequently affected; its involvement may cause periods of partial to complete paralysis of the legs, and, at times, of the trunk and arms. With or without this weakness or paralysis, there may be lack of coordination, staggering and tremor, or there may be poor coordination plus tremor of extremities, sometimes of the body and head.

of county agricultural agents and cooperative efforts with other agencies and groups, the director said.

Rummel will be working with Area Entomologist Dr. Bill Clymer in conducting educational programs in Extension Districts 1 and 2. Clymer is working primarily in the area of livestock insects.

Almand, the director said, resigned to begin work on doctoral degree program.

LaFleur Named VP Of Missouri Beef Packers

Dave LaFleur, 38, has been elected a vice president of Missouri Beef Packers, Inc. (AM-EX). He will be in charge of all plant operations for the company and continue to serve as general manager of the Friona, Texas division.

LaFleur and his wife, Ruth, reside in Hereford, with their six children.

LaFleur has 19 years experience in the meat packing industry. He has been with Armour and Company, Iowa Beef Packers in several capacities.

For the past year he was corporate production and plant manager of Missouri Beef's major Friona plant, said to be the largest single shift meat packing plant in the world.

Missouri Beef Packers, headquartered in Rock Port, Missouri, has become one of the fastest growing meat packing companies in the industry. It presently operates plants in Rock Port and Friona, and has announced a new plant in Plainview, Texas, to be operational by October 1970.

ACCIDENTS COST
LONDON — The government spends 10 million pounds (24 million dollars) a year under the National Health Service on hospital treatment of persons injured in highway accidents, David Ennals, minister of state for social security, estimates.

45 is rare and in most typical cases, symptoms come and go in the beginning, occasionally with complete disappearance.

The disease characteristically differs markedly from patient to patient, and shows so much variation that it is difficult to foretell its course.

Unfortunately, the cause of the damage done to the nervous system has thus far eluded medical science. Throughout the years there have been many theories about its cause; heredity, injury, exposure to heat or cold, a spirochete or a virus, toxins, vitamin deficiencies, abnormalities of blood clotting, spasm of blood vessels, allergy, even psychological factor. None of these has been proved.

Of interest, and perhaps a clue to cause, is the fact that the disease is most common in cold, damp climates. It must be stated, however, that the disease cannot be cured by moving from a cold to a warmer climate.

Many treatments have been tried. Hardly a year goes by without some new theory of cause, mechanism and treatment. But no single cause, no scientific or absolute treatment has been discovered.

The best treatment at present seems to be that of building general resistance, avoiding fatigue and exposure to extremes of hot or cold, and elimination of exposure to infection.

The patient should understand his illness and realize that symptoms are often temporary and that there may be long periods of freedom from all signs of the disease. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society was founded in 1946 by a group of physicians and laymen to whom this disease was both an intellectual challenge and a personal problem. The society has been active in stimulating and coordinating research, particularly to determine the cause and effective treatment, and in helping patients and their relatives to understand the disease better by publishing information about it. Research stimulated and supported by the Society has made promising advances. In the meantime, the patient and his family must realize that although we have no cure for multiple le sclerosis, the outlook is far from hopeless. Continued research will certainly aid in the constant attempt to conquer this baffling and important disorder.

Rummel Is New Entomologist

COLLEGE STATION — Don R. Rummel became area entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with headquarters at Lubbock on Thursday. He replaces Lyndon R. Almand who resigned on August 31.

In making the announcement, Extension Director John E. Hutchison said Rummel is no stranger to the high Plains area since he served in the same capacity from June 1963 until Sept. 1967 when he resigned to return to Texas A&M University to begin work on his doctorate degree.

Rummel, Hutchison added, has completed all work except the final shaping up of his doctoral dissertation. He should receive his Ph.D. in January 1970.

The Collingsworth County native also holds bachelor and master degrees from A&M in entomology. From his headquarters at the A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, his major responsibility will be supervising programs dealing with cotton insects, including the diapause boll weevil control program which he helped to plan and initiate. This program has drawn national recognition.

He will continue the outstanding work already established in the area, including the training

ARE YOU FAMILIAR WITH THE "BANGS CAPLET" HAIR PIECE?

The bangs are generally shaped by cutting them on the wearer's head, and usually include longer strands at the temples. This permits the hair piece to be styled to create a cap effect. The last basic style hair piece is called "bangs 'n tail". This piece has hair sewn in behind bangs with the hair long enough to cover the crown and to blend in with the wearer's hair in back. It is sometimes referred to as a demi-wig. With one or more of these hairpieces, you can create any hairdo. They are all available at our wig salon.

Be sure to get specific instructions on how to attach them, and, also, how to care for them correctly.

Arms Talk Momentum

Washington and Moscow may still be traveling toward arms control talks, but the road has turned bumpy. The talks, once imminent, were delayed by the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and by the change of Administrations in the United States. When the Nixon Administration did propose to start not later than August 15, the Soviets let the date pass without replying.

Despite American officials' professed expectations that the talks will still start shortly, the delays so far raise warnings about the difficulties in reaching any arms control agreement. Since such an agreement is so manifestly desirable, the delays also raise questions about whether the United States can do anything to help restore the lost momentum toward it.

The current delay on the Soviet side, in particular, warns against any inflated expectations once the talks do start. A group of Soviet-studies experts testifying before a Senate committee last June voiced surprising pessimism about reaching any arms control agreement whatever. They did not see any truly compelling pressure on the Kremlin to limit arms in the face of both its traditional defense-mindedness and the rising pressures from mainland China.

The influence of a "military-industrial complex" in American society, also, pales beside the comparable influences on the Soviet side. Even if some of the Soviet's civilian leaders do fully understand the logic of limiting strategic weapons, the question remains whether anyone in the Kremlin actually has power enough to impose effective restraint on the Soviet generals and their party allies.

None of this means that the United States should not press for arms control talks. It is utterly senseless that America and Russia both build huge nuclear arsenals at tremendous expense and no real gain for either side. Reconnaissance satellites have made it feasible to police missile-limitation agreements. Here is a real chance for both sides to save huge sums of money, and — without buying the fuzzy notion that wars are caused by arms races — perhaps even to reduce international tension a bit.

Since it's clearly in the U. S. national interest to promote such an agreement, it's worth pondering whether the current Soviet delay relates to the unprecedented baring of American strategic thinking in the debate over the antiballistic missile. If anything in this debate has given the Soviets pause, it is not the ABM, but disclosures about American development of MIRV, the multiple warheads for offensive missiles.

The Pentagon defends MIRV as necessary to insure penetration of a heavy ABM defense the Soviets might build. Pentagon research chief John Foster has testified there is no evidence the Soviets have started such a system, and that if they do it will take them five years to build it. He now testifies MIRV will be deployed in the middle of the next year.

In other words, the Pentagon is deploying this weapon at least four years in advance of the Soviet development it purportedly is a reaction to. If that sounds as fishy to Soviet diplomats as it does to us, it's scarcely surprising they want to drag their feet on arms talks to think it over a bit. And their generals would inevitably want to press harder with their own multiple warhead testing.

Senator Brooke and others in Congress have been urging a proposal for a moratorium on further MIRV tests by either the Soviets or the Americans. They point out that there is no immediate need for MIRV in either arsenal. Since satellites can detect missile silos but cannot count the warheads on an individual missile, moreover, there is no way to detect whether a missile force is equipped with MIRV. This means that no limitation is feasible after MIRV flight tests are complete, which will be a matter of months.

President Nixon has said that Senator Brooke's points are "constructive," and that the Administration would consider a MIRV ban once arms talks are started. In short, the President has so far copped out of grasping the MIRV issue squarely at least in public.

No one really knows, of course, what arms control initiatives the Administration is preparing behind the scenes. No doubt it is engaged in some serious thinking, since Secretary of State Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko will meet privately at the opening of the United Nations session next week. If the Administration is now ready to face the MIRV issue and decides a moratorium is in the U. S. interest, these talks would be a chance to raise the question quietly with the Soviets.

Given the essential chanciness of arms control initiatives generally, there need be no great optimism about a favorable Soviet response. But if they should agree on a MIRV moratorium, it would seem a step not only toward heading off a particularly dangerous weapons development, but toward giving progress toward arms control the renewed momentum it needs. — The Wall Street Journal

Guided Tours Recommended

By BERT MILLS

(Editor's Note: Bert Mills, who normally reports from Washington, continues his correspondence on a European trip.)

London, England — British restaurant menus often feature "starters" (appetizers), "followers" (entrees) and "afters" (desserts), and these appropriate terms may also be applied to divide the sights most American visitors try to see on a trip to London.

For "starters" there are the landmarks that can often be seen as an airplane approaches the British capital, such as Big Ben, the Tower of London, Hyde Park, the Post-Office Tower, and the River Thames.

For "followers" there are the shrines that must be visited on foot, like Westminster Abbey, Buckingham Palace, St. Paul's Cathedral, Houses of Parliament, and a variety of museums and art galleries.

And for "afters" there are the historic attractions outside London but within easy reach, including Oxford and Cambridge.

Stratford-upon-Avon, Windsor Castle, Coventry Cathedral, and Stonehenge.

Even the most intrepid American tourist cannot touch all these bases in less than 10 days but for those who plan their sight-seeing, a rather complete overview of London and its principal attractions can be squeezed into a 10-day visit.

London is a city of 8 million people, one of the crossroads of the world, and half a million Americans go there every year. A non-stop jet flight from Washington takes less than seven hours. The planes move almost as fast as the sun, for the time difference between London and the Eastern zone of the U. S. is five hours. When it is midnight in Washington, it is 5 a. m. in London.

Guided Tours Recommended

A stranger in London can best become acclimated by starting with a guided tour of the city by motorbus. There is no better vantage point than upstairs on one of Britain's double-decker buses. A guide points out places of interest via an amplifying system. This traveler took three of these tours his first two days in town and found them all worthwhile.

A Sunday morning tour is especially recommended for those arriving on a weekend. The city is at rest and traffic is light. In three hours, one can see more than in a far longer period on a weekday. Also the Sunday tour includes a stop at "Petticoat Lane," an incredible outdoor market which operates only on Sunday morning.

The legend is that this market got its name because a lady could have her petticoat stolen at the beginning of the block and buy it back from the thief at the end. The merchandise on sale is of doubtful origin but the prices are bargains for venturesome shoppers. Almost everything except a petticoat can be bought from peddlers operating from portable stands set up along the curb. The market extends for eight or ten blocks, including side streets, and it takes at least an hour just to walk through the crowds even without stopping to buy.

The Sunday tour, like all morning tours, includes a stop at Buckingham Palace, the London residence of the Queen. Each morning at 11:30 there is the colorful and tuneful ceremony of the Changing of the Guard — a free show which attracts most tourists. Unfortunately, there are no bleachers or other vantage points and visitors line up ten deep behind the iron bars to get a glimpse of the ceremonies.

Coronation Chair Vandalized Westminster Abbey is a "must" for any London visitor. It is over 900 years old, and the scene of crownings and burials of British Kings and Queens since 1066. The Coronation Chair is there, marred by the carved initials of vandals. It dates back to 1300. A cloth is used to cover the chair during coronation ceremonies. The Stone of Scone is in place beneath the chair, having been recovered after Scottish nationalists stole it on Christmas Day, 1950. The stone came from Scotland originally.

Hyde Park is a vast expanse of green and its Speakers' Corner is a living monument to freedom of speech. Anybody can mount a soapbox or ladder and say absolutely anything so long as he or she does not defame the Queen or use foul language. As many as a dozen speakers brave the hecklers on a summer Sunday, declaiming on Rhodesia, Ireland, Israel, socialism, the Tory party, or whatever.

For a trip to the country, a favorite of many is a combined rail-bus tour to Stratford-upon-Avon and the Shakespeare country, with a stop at Coventry, where a magnificent new cathedral has been erected alongside of the ruins of the old one, built in the 13th century and destroyed by a World War II air raid. It is a powerful message for peace.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

THE CRASH AT CRUSH — It was 73 years ago this month that more than 30,000 people paid for the privilege of watching the most famous train wreck in the history of Texas.

The head-on collision between two trains traveling at full speed was staged September 15, 1896, as a promotion stunt by William G. Crush, general passenger agent for the Katy Railroad. For the crash site, he picked a five-mile-long piece of straight track between Waco and West in McLennan County.

The Katy then began publicizing the planned wreck all over the U. S. So many responded that dozens of special trains were operated to the site that had been renamed Crush in honor of the man who staged the wreck. A grandstand seating 2,000 people was built.

At high noon, the crews backed their trains a mile from the collision point, tied open the locomotive throttles and leaped off. The trains were traveling an estimated 50 miles an hour when they hit head-on.

Both locomotive boilers exploded and hunks of steel hit the crowd like shrapnel. At least one man was killed, dozens were seriously injured and 30,000 were frightened within an inch of their lives.

The crash at Crush was the first and last train wreck ever staged deliberately in Texas.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES — At Butler's Riverfront Restaurant in historic Jefferson, the diner has a choice of menus — including all he can eat for the inflated price of $100.

THE LAST BLOW-OUT — Dallas multimillionaire O. L. Nelms wants to continue to attend cocktail parties after his death.

To make sure that he can, he is creating a trust fund of more than $5 million to pay the bills for the parties that he wants held in his memory. And he has decreed that his body, in a coffin, has to be present at every party. It is to be left in the midst of the merriment until the last guest has departed.

What will happen if some surviving relative of the wealthy real estate operator and builder tries to have Nelms' body buried instead of sent on to the next party? Any survivor who tries that will be disinherited under the terms of Nelms' will.

RHYME WITHOUT REASONS — Perhaps the worst pun in all the doggerel ever written about Texas was penned years ago by an Englishman named William Bollaert in his travel journal.

Referring to the fact that many a man came to Texas in the 1830's and 1840's to escape the sheriff or a worse fate at home, Bollaert wrote:

"When every other land rejects us,
Here is the land which freely Texas."

The friends of the College will be glad to learn of the increased attendance this week, which has more than doubled since the opening. People are beginning to realize that the present faculty are determined in their efforts to advance the interests of the school until Hereford can rightly boast of the best institution of learning in West Texas. Enquiries concerning the school continue to roll in and it is believed the faculty will have to be increased by the first of next year.

Oh, for a man with money who will put up a lot of rent houses and help relieve the situation. . . Sunday, September 18, marks the date when the City of Hereford will have the first Lutheran church building in its history. On that day the new home of worship of Immanuel Lutheran congregation will be dedicated to the service and glory of God with three festival services, according to Rev. Lichtsinn, pastor. A member of the congregation, George Tiefel, drew the plans while a student at Texas A&M College. Edward Tiefel, a member of the congregation and a local contractor; and Arthur Tiefel, also a member and a carpenter, supervised most of the work of construction.

Formal dedication of the Merrill E. Shoup Plant of Holly Sugar Corp. Saturday will be the culmination of more than three years of efforts by local citizens and their representatives to secure the modern sugar mill for this area. Nearly all 600 of the construction workers on the Holly Sugar Plant returned to work Friday morning after a temporary injunction was served on the Painters Local No. 544 by officers of the Deaf Smith County sheriff's department, after the painters appeared Friday morning to picket the plant site for a second day.

At The Library Titanic Tragedy Took 1500 Lives

Available at the Deaf Smith County Library this week is the tragic tale of the sunken Titanic and the stirring story of a romantic period in American History, during the decade of trans-continental coaches. Read up on them today.

SIX-HORSE HITCH

By Janice Holt Giles

Starr Fowler was only nineteen when he climbed to the box of main-line stage and threaded the reins of a six-horse hitch between his fingers. This was the beginning of his career as a stagefaring man on the great Overland Mail and Stage Line, whose Concord coaches, drawn by the fast-paced and beautifully matched teams of four and six horses, ran from Missouri to the Pacific. The time was 1859, when the discovery of gold in California and Colorado turned the land beyond the Missouri in the "Golden West" and stage lines competed for the fast postal subsidies to the new territories and states.

During the years when Starr worked for Ben Holladay's Overland Mail, the stage station and ranch at Fremont Springs was like home to him. Here Ed Westmoreland kept store and traded with the Indians during uneasy times of peace. Here Ed's wife Emma made the station notable with her cooking. Here their plucky, impudent young redhaired daughter, Bucky grew up and Emma's beautiful sister Bernie came to trouble Starr's dreams.

The lives of these fictional characters are skillfully interwoven with such historical figures as the stage-line "king," Ben Holladay, the drivers of the Overland, and Jack Slade, division agent turned outlaw, one of the first true gunmen of the west. Made real, also, is the long road with its hazards, the breakneck grades, the grueling sand drags, the dangerous river crossings. The blazing climax of this story comes with the outbreak of full-scale Indian war-Stoux, Arapahoe and Cheyenne- all on the rampage.

Few writers of historical novels can combine Mrs. Giles' concern for authenticity with her narrative power to tell a stirring story about flesh-and-blood people. In SIX-HORSE HITCH she deals with one of the most romantic periods in American History, the fabulous decade of the trans-continental coaches, and in prose which matches the rhythm and drum of the horses' feet recovers the feeling of the great road and the "empire on wheels."

THE MAIDEN VOYAGE

By Geoffrey Marcus

Behold the Titanic! Majestic in conception, awesome in size, luxurious in its accommodations. The pride of the British merchant service, freighted with the rich and sailing to disaster.

Dumas Expected To Take Throne

In the Lubbock Avalanche Journal's annual pre-season grid poll for district 1-AAA, Dumas was given the nod for the district title, but Hereford, Perryton and Canyon are expected to make the run interesting.

According to the Lubbock paper, Dumas will make a "runaway of 1-AAA, but it is a dog fight for the second spot between defending titlist Hereford, Perryton and Canyon."

Hereford received one first place vote in the polling but Perryton, who returns only one starter from last year, received four second place votes as did Canyon. Tulla, looking at another dry year, took fifth place in voting and Muleshoe, having won only two games on their last schedule, wound up in the cellar.

Dumas returns 17 letters from last years team, including eight offensive and five defensive starters.

NEW AWARD

FRANKFORT, Ky. — To encourage new education ideas, Gov. Louie B. Nunn has set up an annual award to the secondary and elementary school with the most outstanding innovative approach to learning.

tic on April 14, 1912, has captured the imagination of people the world over. Considering the scale of the wars, genocidal murders, assassinations, and holocausts that have wracked the globe in the years since, it is extraordinary what a grip the tragedy of the Titanic still exerts on us. For some, the sinking of the great ship, with the death of 1500 passengers and crew, is a symbol of the unforgiving sea; for others, it is a grandiosely eloquent symbol of a complacent Edwardian world sailing straight to its doom; for others still, it is a testament to man's hubris, folly, and naked ineptitude.

Over the years many writers have described this greatest of marine disasters, and their well-told accounts have made readers of all ages familiar with the last hours of the Titanic. In the MAIDEN VOYAGE, Geoffrey Marcus reveals the complete story before, during, and after as it has never been told before. Drawing upon previously untapped sources, he relates the saga of the fateful voyage, from embarkation to the final inquiries on both sides of the ocean. Mr. Marcus presents fresh material on the management and navigation of the giant liners in the heyday of the great Atlantic ferry and on the remarkably effective functioning of the infant Marconi wireless. He examines a new the long-standing controversy about the various ice warnings received by the ship's officers and the ro over the inaction of the Californian, which lay dead in the water within sight of the dying liner's rockets. Dispassionately, he analyzes the reasons why the White Star Line lost in Britain's High Court on a charge of negligence, though it had been cleared at the official inquiry.

Whether the reader is already a Titanic buff or comes anew to the subject, he will find here a wealth of material that has never been published before. And for every reader there is the eternal spell of the doomed rendezvous between the iceberg and the unsinkable ship. Here is a book to match the tragic epic itself.

IRS DISPUTE
CHICAGO — Doctors a dother professionals who organize corporations for income tax benefits are receiving judicial approval which has knocked down opposition by the Internal Revenue Service to such devices.
Most recently, the New Orleans U. S. Appeals Court — joining Appeals Courts at Cincinnati and Denver and other U. S. District Courts — has said the IRS regulations are arbitrary, discriminatory and legislative in nature, resulting in invalidation.
It was the 11th judicial setback for these regulations.
But IRS may not take these rebuffs lightly. One approach may be a tax code section giving the Commissioner discretionary authority to act if the acquisition of control of a corporation is to secure tax benefits.

for the inconvenience. We're in the midst of some remodeling work at the Star Theatre — moving seats back to give you more comfort while attending the show, but it takes a little time and when you start moving something that's been in one spot for over 20 years, you sometimes run into trouble. We hope to be through soon, and we know you'll enjoy the improvement.

LOOK TO SHOOK for MICHELIN
The Original Radial backed by 18 years Experience

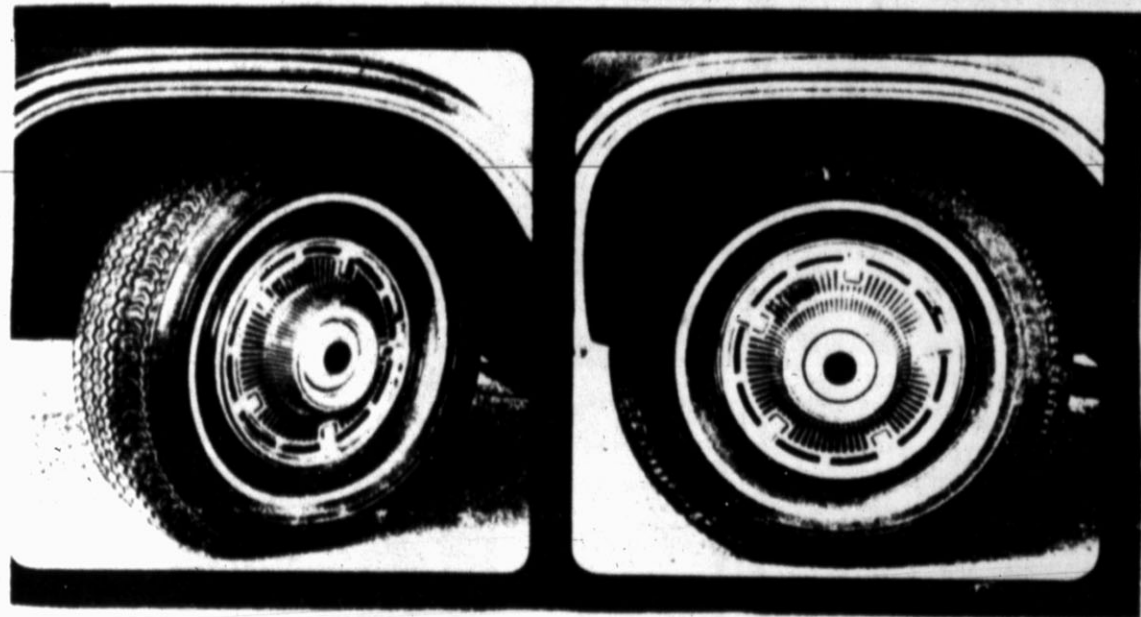

YES!! SHOOK OFFERS YOU SAFETY - QUALITY - RELIABILITY WITH MICHELIN RADIAL X GUARANTEED 40,000 MILES OF TREAD WEAR OUTSTANDING - SUPERB - DIFFERENT

what do these qualities mean for you?

 EXTRA LONG TREAD MILEAGE It's definitely a proven fact under the same driving conditions (same car, same driver) the Michelin "X" Radial tire lasts at least twice as long as many cases much longer than ordinary tires. That's why we can guarantee it for 40,000 miles of tread wear.	 FAR FEWER PUNCTURES Steel dies beneath the tread shield against road hazards. You get fewer punctures and a higher degree of safety.
 FULL GRIP IN ALL WEATHER In tests it proved unmatched for retaining traction on wet roads... and resisted sliding on rain-slick curves. It also proved to give as much snow-grip as a snow tire... plus more ice-grip. You may never need snow tires or chains again!	 VIRTUAL ELIMINATION OF HEAT BLOWOUT RISKS Because of their radial design, Michelin "X" Radials run cooler. Your chances of casing failures or heat blowouts are virtually eliminated.
 ACCURATE BRAKING ACTION The extra large "footprint" and the presence of steel cords do not allow the braking force to distort and pinch the tread pattern. Your braking action keeps it full force where you need it most.	 MEASURABLE FUEL SAVINGS Because Michelin "X" Radial tires provide less rolling resistance, your car uses less energy and goes further on a gallon of gas.
 MORE CAR CONTROL You can steer with less effort and your car won't wander on straightaways. It's like riding on rails!	 UNSURPASSED DRIVING COMFORT Michelin "X" Radial tires absorb bumps and jolts like no other tire on the road because radial cords flex in the same direction. It's like having an extra set of shock absorbers!

They Aren't "Flat" They're MICHELIN RADIAL X

Yes Michelin Radial X tires are different. You can tell at first sight. They have a slightly under inflated appearance for which you could now explain. The sidewalls are able to Flex easily and the braced tread rests on a wider area of the road...

IMPROVE YOUR GAS MILEAGE... DECREASE TIRE WEAR and MAINTENANCE... INCREASE BRAKING CAPACITY... FOR SAFETY - DURABILITY - ECONOMY
