West Plains Notes Change In Billing

Friday night, the Muleshoe Mulettes ended their basketball season with an impressive 71-32 victory over the Floydada varsity girls.

Debbie Brown and Michelle Cox shared high scoring with 16 points each.

The Floydada Whirlwinds put the Mules down 97-65 following the varsity girls' game. Frank Precure had 27 points and Brian Bush, 15, to lead scoring.

Friday night ended the basketball season for both the Mules and Mulettes for this school year.

Muleshoe High School Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Dale Keeling has submitted a letter of resignation to the school.

The resignation will be considered at the February 20 meeting of the MISD Board of Trustees.

According to the coach's office Friday afternoon, he will be going to New Deal, a 'AA' school as athletic director.

Students and parents interested in the Lee Palmer Memorial Scholarship fund will meet Monday, February 13 at 7 p.m. in the Superior Medical Supply building located at 623 West Second in Muleshoe.

Robby L. Vaughn, 22-year-old Muleshoe man who was shot January 31 by a Lubbock police officer staking out a stolen pickup truck, was indicted by a grand jury in Lubbock on Thursday for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Vaughn was shot by police Cpl. Dennis Kelley during a foot chase. Vaughn is recuperating from his wounds at a Lubbock hospital.

The stolen truck was found parked in front of an apartment complex on the afternoon of Jan. 31 and police officers maintained surveillance on it in case the thief returned. Vaughn and another man drove up to the vehicle at about 6:30 p.m. and Kelley attempted to stop the men.

Vaughn rammed Kelley's unmarked police car with his vehicle and was pointing a gun at Kelley when he was shot, according to police reports.

Austin College athletes are making the grade both in the classroom and on the field. Of the 232 students participating in athletics, 40.51 percent have a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or better on a 4.0 system, according to athletic director Dr. Bob Mason.

FARM BUREAU PROCLAMATION SIGNED BY COUNTY JUDGE--Friday morning, Bailey County Judge Jim Watson, seated, signed a proclamation designating the week of February 12-18 as Bailey County Farm Bureau Week. During the week, the local farm bureau office will be seeking to add to their current 936 member families. ### Farm Bureau Week Noted By Judge

Bailey County Judge Jim Watson has signed a proclamation designating February 13-18 as "Farm Bureau Membership Week" in Bailey County.

The week is part of a statewide observance during which county Farm Bureaus will make a special effort to enroll new members, according to Ronald Scott, president of the Bailey County Farm Bureau.

Curby Brantley, Jr. is chairman of the Membership Committee which is responsible for membership acquisition and maintenance.

"The Texas Farm Bureau, with more than 325,000 member families, is the largest Farm Bureau in the nation," the proclamation reads.

"Farm Bureau is a grass-roots organization and its foundation is the county unit. There are 216 organized county Farm Bureaus in the state, including the Bailey County Farm Bureau," the proclamation states.

Scott said the local county Farm Bureau has 936 member families and is seeking to exceed that figure in 1989.

He said that the Farm Bureau is a general farm organization that seeks to improve income and living conditions of farm and ranch families. It represents the farmer and rancher at the local county courthouse, in Austin, and in the nation's capitol, Washington, D. C.

The local Farm Bureau will be having their second Personal Computer Workshop in the county office on Tuesday, February 14, at 7 p.m. People from the Waco office will conduct the meeting and will answer questions on members computers.

West Plains Medical Center is under new local management and important business office matters relating to patient accounts are being studied. These relate to the hospital's overall financial condition, according to John A. Chisholm, the new administrator, and form a test that has to be met by citizens, if it is their intention to keep the hospital open.

The hospital has over $400,000 in bad debts and a concerted effort is being made to counsel patients in regard to their accounts. Chisholm said this may be the first time a previous notice regarding hospital management activities is released to the public before it begins to happen, but it is felt citizens of the area need to be made aware of the importance of taking care of their personal interests in relation to having a viable local hospital.

Essential repair to the facility is extensive and must be addressed before the hospital can receive Medicare/Medicaid certification.

The Board of Directors and department supervisors at the hospital believe it is in the best interest of the citizens to know of these important matters of the hospital.

Bailey County area residents, except Medicare and Medicaid patients, will be receiving further notice by mail soon. The hospital is not certified to take care of Medicare/Medicaid patients at this time, although the Muleshoe Nursing Home is Medicare/Medicaid certified.

New Colorectal Scope Added To Equipment

On recommendation of the American Cancer Society, Muleshoe doctors now offer a new service to local and area residents.

They have purchased a Flexible Sigmoidoscope, which is a screen for colorectal cancer.

Dr. Mark McClanahan explained that he went to Baylor to learn to use the machine, which is especially recommended for use by everyone age 50 and over.

No anesthesia is involved and it is an office procedure, with no hospitalization involved.

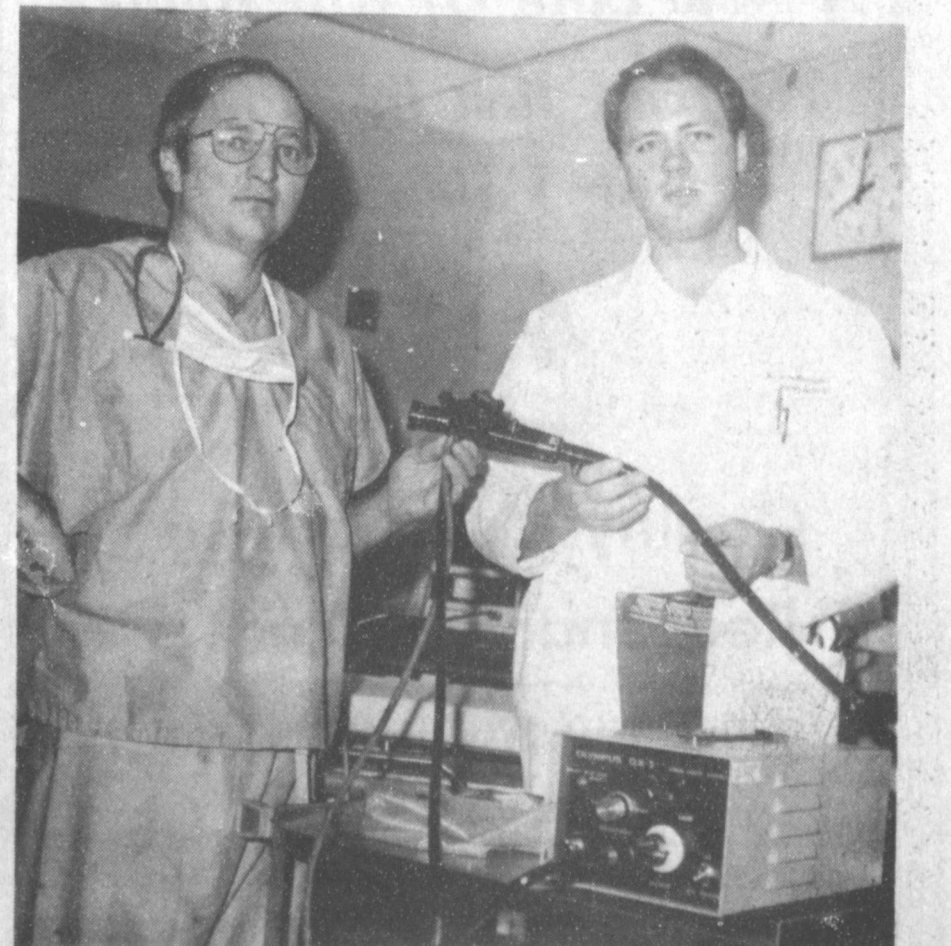

Dr. McClanahan explained that persons over the age of 50 needs to have a checkup on the scope yearly for two years, and if those tests remain normal, then testing should be done every 3-5 years.

He said the scope, coupled with occult blood testing samples and a yearly rectal examination, are all recommended by the American Cancer Society. He explained that the preventive tests detect polyps and pre-cancerous conditions, as well as cancerous conditions.

By shifting the emphasis of cancer detection to local doctors with cancer screening, there is a better chance of picking up possible cancerous growths in their very earliest stages.

Dr. McClanahan explained that the scope examines 20-24 inches of colon.

The device has a powerful light on the very end, and by looking through the scope, the doctors can examine, with the light, every inch of the 20-24 inches of colon. If suspicious growths are

KNOW THE WEATHER

So far the 1988-89 winter is providing dramatic evidence that the greenhouse effect, so much talked by scientists in recent months, may be evidence.

The winter has been mild in most parts of the country and especially so in the southeast. Florida hasn't seen anything like January's weather in many years, very warm through the month and very dry.

It's too early, of course, to speak of this winter as over-cold weather may come late, in February and March—and it's too early to say one winter is conclusive evidence about a greenhouse effect.

But this winter will fuel more speculation about a warming trend because of the thinning of the gas layer around the earth.

If the next two or three winters turn out to be similar to this one, the trend will be established. For now, it's enough for easterners and northerners who come to Florida every winter to be thankful for.

Not in many years have visitors to the Sunshine State been able to swim every day in January, not in heated pools but in the Gulf and Atlantic and in unheated pools.

The 1988-89 winter thus far has been a rarity, one which will be remembered for years to come as unusually mild in the two months which are the usual cold-snap months in Florida, December and January.

Records show that if the pattern holds until February 18th, chances of a severe cold period in Florida are over.

Underground Tank Leaks Found All Over State

Area county and city government representatives were told that leaking underground storage tanks pose serious threats to groundwater quality in most cities during an underground storage tank seminar held January 26 at the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG) office. The meeting was co-sponsored by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, the Texas Tech Water Resources Center and the Texas Water Commission.

"I believe I could find a leaking storage tank problem in each town on the High Plains," says Dr. Billy J. Claborn, Associate Professor of Civil Engineering at Texas Tech. "These underground storage tanks have been buried too long and their contents are either enroute to the aquifer, floating on top of the aquifer, or mixing with the groundwater."

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) defines underground storage tanks as any tank with 10 percent of its volume below ground, including any piping attached to the tank. Exemptions to the Federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, which regulates underground storage tanks, under section 9002, include farm and residential tanks containing less than 1,100 gallons of motor fuel used for noncommercial purposes, septic tanks, some pipelines, storm water and wastewater systems, and liquid traps or associated gathering lines related to oil and gas operations.

"With underground storage tanks and groundwater contamination, we can't see the liquid leaving the tank. The contamination is usually discovered after a small leak occurs over a long period of time or a large spill occurs and the contaminant appears in surrounding water wells," says Dr. Ken Rainwater, Assistant Professor of Civil Engineering at Texas Tech.

Factors contributing to underground storage tank leakage include corrosion, loose tank fittings, physical breakage, over-spills, dipstick puncture, backhoe puncture and storage of incompatible materials in the tank, says Rainwater.

He adds that even the smallest underground storage tank leak can have damaging effects over time. "If an underground tank is leaking a half gallon of gasoline per day, it will leak 182 gallons in a year's time."

Not only can gasoline enter the aquifer, but its vapors could enter sewer lines or migrate below home and building foundations to cause a fire or explosion hazard.

Municipalities should begin examining their storage tank problems and formulate a common sense approach to solving the leakage, says Don Smith with the Texas Water Commission District 2 field office in Lubbock.

"People are going to have to look at their storage tanks, determine the tank age, analyze its location and determine if a risk exists. Cities will have to set a priority on these tanks and do what needs to be done to correct any harmful situations," says

Smith.

Smith notes that regulated tank owners are required to register all existing tank systems currently in use or those currently out-of-service which were not filled with a solid, inert material prior to January 1974, with the Texas Water Commission.

"Towns and cities should begin a storage tank inventory," adds Rainwater. "They should determine the number of tanks in operation, their age, their contents and whether the tanks have spill protection devices or not. Other factors to consider are soil characteristics, the water table level, any nearby buried utility service and the tank's electrical power source."

As part of the site investigation, soil samples may be taken at the land surface, midway between the surface and the bottom of the tank and one to two feet below the tank to determine if gasoline or other hydrocarbons have entered the soil. If hydrocarbons are detected, the Texas Water Commission should be notified immediately.

Smith stated that various tank regulations, such as corrosion protection, fuel release detection alarms and on-site storage of all tank records, will be added during the next decade.

An estimated four million underground storage tanks are in use at gas stations, convenience stores, dry cleaners and fleet operations in the United States.

Of the steel tanks that have been in operation for 17 years or more, there is a 77 percent chance that these tanks have leaks, according to a model corrosion survey by the Woodward-Clyde firm in San Francisco.

The firm says that of the leaking tanks it has worked on, 85 percent have averaged $36,000 to seal the tank and clean up the soil and groundwater contamination. Approximately 10 percent of the leaking tanks averaged $300,000 to clean up and repair, while five percent of the repair jobs averaged in excess of $1 million to correct.

Production Company Sets Tryouts For Local Play

Muleshoe Production Company has set its first community-wide meeting to formulate concrete plans for Muleshoe's own theatre production! The date everyone has been waiting for is Thursday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the High School auditorium.

Not only are actors and actresses needed (or should the term be used loosely at this point?) but other volunteers are needed in numerous capacities: musicians, ushers, sets, stage hands, costumes, programs, music, dancers, electricians, carpenters, artists and tickets.

If you didn't find your niche in those, also needed are several good-natured gofers! Or, perhaps you'd like to be in the cheering section! In other words, Muleshoe Production Company wants YOU!!

Try-outs are set for Friday night, April 29, at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon, April 30, 2-4 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Tentative dates for the play are Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 23, 24 and 25 and the following weekend of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 30 and July 1 and 2.

Everyone is needed at the community meeting on March 23, so that the fearless leader, Kerry Moore, can see the number of people available and be able to choose a play adaptable to that number.

Since the company is operating on enthusiasm at this time, donations would be sincerely appreciated. These may be given to Pat Prater at the Muleshoe State Bank. Donations of other types will also be appreciated as the production gets underway.

A number of people have already contacted the steering committee and volunteered their services. You may contact Kerry Moore, 272-3297; Darla Rhodes, 272-5074; Pat Prater, 272-4561 or Arlene Phelps, 272-3485.

Mark your calendar for March 23 and be there -- YOU are needed!

Overshadowed by merger mania is another trend in corporate America—restructuring.

Ironically, while some companies fatten their operations via megamergers, many companies are becoming leaner due to the sale of assets and the closing of certain operations.

* IBM recently announced it plans to sell most of its Rolm telecommunications operation.

* Du Pont's incoming chairman has said he'll take a hard look at the firm's vast Conoco energy operations with an eye toward possibly trimming this sector.

* GE, which has been aggressive in reshaping its business portfolio in recent years, recently sold its solid-state business.

Eat Your Heart Out Valentine Souffle

This Feb. 14 smooth the path to romance with a raspberry-and-cherry-sauced white chocolate expression of your love and devotion. This luscious souffle made expressly for your special one impresses and delights...yet is so deceptively simple.

Surprisingly, the perfect souffle is not nearly as elusive as you may believe. Nonetheless, if you are among the many otherwise capable cooks whose confidence wavers on this technique, the American Dairy Association offers—in addition to its sumptuous kitchen-tested recipe—the following step-by-step strategies to assure success.

1. Take a good, long look at the recipe before you start. Organize ingredients and equipment you will need.

2. Butter and dust every square inch of your souffle dish with sugar. The sugar provides traction for the baking souffle to climb up the slippery sides of the dish.

3. If the unbaked souffle comes to within a half-inch of the top of the dish, add a collar. Use a triple thickness of foil to fashion a 4-inch wide band that will go around the dish and overlap 2 inches. Butter the band and dust with sugar.

4. Wrap the collar around the dish, sugared side in, with the edge of the collar extending at least 2 inches beyond the top of the dish; fasten with paper clips. After baking remove the collar.

5. The best souffle goes to the oven ASAP. If necessary, however, you can refrigerate an unbaked souffle, covered, in the dish for up to 2 hours.

6. By all means, preheat the oven before baking the souffle.

7. You have heard it before: Once the souffle is in the oven, do not peek. Nothing de-puffs a baking souffle like a blast of cold air.

8. When is the souffle done? To test, gently move the oven rack. If the souffle jiggles in the center, return it to the oven for a few minutes more baking.

8. Better that your sweetheart should wait for the souffle than your souffle should wait for your sweetheart. If your souffle must wait, however, let it stand in the oven with the heat off for no more than 10 minutes.

Camouflage cracks prettily with a dusting of confectioners sugar.

10. Serve your souffle with savvy. Gently break the top crust into portions with two forks held back to back. Spoon our portions. Include some crust with each serving.

WHITE CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE WITH RASPBERRY-CHERRY SAUCE

SOUFFLE:
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup all-purpose flour
¾ cup plus 2 tablespoons milk
¼ cup creme de cacao, divided
5 ounces white chocolate, melted
5 egg whites, at room temperature
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
2 tablespoons sugar
Confectioners sugar
Sauce:

1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries in syrup, thawed and drained

6 tablespoons raspberry preserves

1 tablespoon raspberry liqueur, if desired

½ cup chopped sweet cherries, well drained

For Souffle, beat egg yolks and 3 tablespoons sugar in small mixer bowl until creamy, about 1 minute. Add flour and beat just until blended. Gradually beat in milk and 2 tablespoons creme de cacao. Transfer yolk mixture to a medium-sized heavy saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens; do not boil. Cool mixture until just warm to the touch. Preheat oven to 375F. Stir melted chocolate into cooled custard. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons sugar; beat until stiff but not dry. Place custard mixture in large mixer bowl. Stir in remaining 2 tablespoons creme de cacao. Gradually, fold in egg whites, ¼ at a time. Pour into buttered and sugared 6-cup souffle dish. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until puffed and just firm to the touch. Dust with confectioners sugar.

Meanwhile, for Sauce, combine raspberries and preserves in small heavy saucepan. Bring to boiling, stirring constantly; boil 1 minute. Strain to eliminate seeds. Stir in liqueur and cherries. Let stand at room temperature until souffle is baked. Spoon over each serving. Serves 4.

In Fashion

Rent-a-dress boutiques are opening in large cities across the United States. These were once only available in such cities as New York, Washington, Chicago and other major cities.

These reputable shops offer glamorous gowns—some valued at thousands of dollars—to rent for one night at a cost of $40 to $350. This is convenient for those who want to wear a gown only one time. Some shops also rent accessories such as fur capes, costume jewelry, shoes and clutch bags.

Eye Care Program Helps Learning Disabled

A happier outlook is on the way for many youngsters with reading and other learning problems. It's an eye care program called vision therapy.

To improve vision skills, children in vision therapy may use sophisticated training equipment that resembles everything from old-time stereo viewers to today's video games.

It may seem like child's play but optometric vision therapy is really a precise science with over 50 years of solid research behind it, according to experts at the American Optometric Association. It's based on the knowledge that vision involves developing skills such as using the two eyes together as a team, changing focus quickly and judging depth and distance.

tain the vision skills needed for learning. With those skills, the child will be better able to respond to educational efforts directed at the learning disability. Many become better students and avid readers.

It's estimated that four out of every 25 elementary students have vision problems that can interfere with learning and could be treated with vision therapy. Optometrists who provide vision therapy can be located through state optometric associations. For a free listing of associations, send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to: Communications Center, American Optometric Association, 243 N. Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis, MO 63141.

A new treatment helps children have the vision skills needed for learning.

Vision therapy is not used to treat learning disabilities but, rather, vision problems that are contributing to the learning disability. The optometrist's job is to help the child ob-

Child Care Class Offered

At Lubbock

Persons who operate child care facilities or keep children in their homes can sharpen their skills and gain new ideas to help them in their day-to-day tasks by attending a conference March 11 in Lubbock.

The program will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. at the educational building of the Broadway Church of Christ, 1924 Broadway, Lubbock. Course completion will provide participants six contact hours toward state required training.

"In Bailey County, a large percent of our families rely on child care providers each week," said County Extension Agent, Kandy K. McWhorter. "These providers play an important part in the growth and development of our children."

The training conference is being presented by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with the assistance of several other state and community agencies. It will stimulate professional growth and provide an exchange of ideas and technical information to help child care providers.

Information and advance registration is available at the county Extension office.

MICROWAVE TIPS

One tip helpful to those using microwave ovens concerns vegetables, and how to prepare them for best results.

First, it's often true that frozen vegetables require less cooking time than fresh ones. Why? That's because frozen vegetables have been blanched.

4-H Provides Valuable Experience

Most of the things we want young people to become are a part of the 4-H program, said Kandy K. McWhorter, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The whole idea of 4-H is development of young people, 4-H provides experiences that can help people become responsible, self-respecting members of society.

The 4-H program can provide valuable learning experiences through family, church and community involvement.

4-H starts in the family, where influence is high, McWhorter said. It goes down to the "grass roots" because the people in it--from Extension Service staff to local leaders and even young people themselves--actually help decide programs and activities. So, besides involving the family,

For best results when whipping cream, place cream, bowl and beaters in the freezer 5 to 10 minutes before whipping. Use a bowl that is small and deep enough to accommodate beaters and maintain good contact with cream. Beat rapidly on medium high speed until cream begins to thicken, then lower the speed. Stop beating when stiff peaks form. If over-beating occurs to the point where the cream is turning to butter, add 2 to 3 more tablespoons cream.

4-H closely involves the community.

Anyone who works with young people can tell you that most of them want and need to belong, to be recognized, and to be respected for what they are. Young people also need to develop a sense of responsibility and a sense of freedom which disciplines, and they need to have the good feeling of doing something meaningful by themselves. The 4-H program, a people development program, can provide these things, McWhorter said.

Ms. Harper Inducted Into Texas Woman's Hall Of Fame

Margaret Harper, former Sudan resident, was inducted into the 1988, Texas Women's Hall of Fame on Wednesday, Feb. 8 at the Four Seasons Hotel in Austin.

The Texas Women's Hall of Fame was established in 1984, by the Governor's Commission for Women to honor outstanding women in Texas and to provide visible examples for tomorrow's leaders.

Her gift to the state and the nation is an unforgettable outdoor musical drama called "Texas" that has attracted two million people in 23 summers to Palo Duro Canyon near Amarillo.

At 76, Mrs. Harper remains active in the production which she envisioned in 1960 and brought to life in 1966.

She and her husband, Ples, with Bill and Margaret Moore of Canyon recognized the possibilities of this 120 mile canyon with its primitive, untouched beauty. They understood that the area needed an economic boost and wished for a way to capture the history of the area.

After reading an article in the Reader's Digest about Pulitzer Prize winning author Paul Green and his outdoor dramas, Harper began the letter that captured the famous playwright's attention and intrigued him to come to Texas.

"My husband and I had lived for some time in South America, and sometimes when you return to a place you see things differently" she said. "This glorious canyon was virtually unknown and closed in the evenings."

Green, intrigued by the vast miles of magnificent cliffs and the spirit of the people, began the script. And, Harper started the campaign to raise money.

It was not an easy task. Many were skeptical. A nonprofit foundation was formed, of which over half of the original directors are still active.

A theatre was built in the State park, and an agreement was reached that five percent of the show income and ten percent of all other earnings would return to the state. (A renewal contract signed in 1986, now collects ten percent only for concessions.)

Two other shows, one co-written by Harper, had already revealed the possibilities of an outdoor production in the canyon.

Six years later in 1966, the script was finished, and "Texas" opened with 61,000 in attendance during the first season.

Ceremonies of induction into the Texas Women's Hall of Fame on Feb. 8 were open to the public. Tickets to the event were $30 per person.

"Texas" plays nightly except Sunday at 8:30 p.m. from mid June through late August in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon State Park. In 1989, the show begins its 24th season on June 14 and continues through August 26.

Calf Scramble

Colin Tanksley, a 16-year old 4-H member from Muleshoe, and the son of Spencer and Linda Tanksley, will compete in the 1989 Houston Rodeo calf scramble on March 4 in the Astrodome.

The calf scramble is an exciting part of Houston rodeo action, featuring The Oak Ridge Boys as part of that matinee performance.

He will compete for one of 252 calves to be awarded at the 1989 show.

Additionally, as many as two youngsters from each of the 18 rodeo performances will be awarded "hard luck" certificates for their hearty efforts in attempting to catch a calf, resulting in 36 more certificates actually given.

An entertaining event whose net proceeds provide educational contributions to Texas students, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo ranks as the nation's largest donor of agricultural scholarships. Currently, more than 1,000 students are on Show-sponsored scholarships with more than 30 agricultural research projects funded by the Show.

Equally important is the commitment to youngsters competing at the event itself. The calf scramble is one of the Show's major programs benefiting the youth, requiring a year long commitment from the winner to the animal project.

Beginning with athletic competition in the Astrodome, the program ends 12 months later with top-notch competition in the Astrodome showing.

The actual calf scramble event involves 28 energetic youngsters pitted against 14 vigorous calves. Each youngster is committed to capturing a calf, haltering and bringing it to the finish line - but only the successful ones receive a $600 calf purchase certificate.

The certificate, donated by a generous sponsoring firm or individual, is used to purchase a purebred registered beef or dairy heifer. This year, several companies have strengthened their commitment to the calf scramble program by sponsoring a calf for each of the 18 rodeo performances.

The calf is raised by the winner for special showing competition in the Astrodome at the following year's Show. The yearlong project is closely supervised by the appropriate county extension agent or agriculture science teacher.

Letter To Editor

January 30, 1989

Dear Editor:

As the population of Texas increased to more than 16 million in the 1980s, the demand for clean water reached record levels. The trend is expected to continue.

Today, Texans use approximately 14.5 million acre-feet (one acre-foot is 325,851 gallons) of water each year, an amount equal to approximately 13 billion gallons each day. Another way to look at the extremely large amounts of water used each year is to envision using all of the water in four of the state's largest reservoirs, Toledo Bend,

Sam Rayburn, Amistad, and Richland-Chambers, each year. Alternatively, when all water used for residential, industrial, and agricultural purposes is lumped together, the average Texan requires, both for direct residential use and indirectly for products, about 300,000 gallons of water annually.

An estimated 22 million acre feet of water is projected to be needed by the turn of the century—a mere 12 years from now. While the construction of new reservoirs can help meet some of the state's future water needs, water conservation programs authorized by Texas voters in 1985 and 1987 will also play a pivotal role in ensuring adequate future water supplies.

We hope you will help, as a public service, in getting the water conservation message out to the state's citizens. Please use the enclosed fillers, as space permits, in your publication.

artwork was provided by school-children throughout Texas who entered a water conservation logo design contest sponsored by the Texas Water Development Board. People who respond to these fillers will receive free information on saving water from the Board.

The Board is the agency statutorily responsible for administering the State of Texas' water conservation programs. If you need assistance in developing additional information about water conservation and water supplies, please feel entirely free to call or write me. Sincerely,

Safe Shoveling is No Snow Job

Snow shoveling may seem like a simple activity, but it actually is a chore that may be dangerous if not done properly, according to Richard A. Feely, D.O., clinical associate professor, Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine. He says that while shoveling snow can be an invigorating activity, some precautions must be observed for safety's sake.

"First of all, be sure to dress properly for any winter outdoor activity," says Dr. Feely, an osteopathic physician. "When the windchill dips below zero, frostbite can be a danger. Make sure to wear adequate protection on your feet, hands, ears and nose—because these areas are most vulnerable to the cold. You will be most comfortable wearing thin layers of natural fabrics which will conduct sweat away from your body. And make sure your clothes are roomy enough to allow you to move freely."

One hazard of snow that people rarely think about is snow blindness. Dr. Feely explains, "Snow reflects the sun's dangerous ultraviolet rays even on cloudy days. If you will be out in the snow for a long period of time, wear a pair of mirrored or polarized sunglasses and a hat with a visor. Minor sunburn in the corneas of the eyes will make them feel gritty for several hours after exposure, while severe corneal sunburn can lead to permanent blindness."

"Since snow shoveling requires a lot of muscle power and energy, an individual who is overweight or unaccustomed to vigorous exercise may be susceptible to heart attack," Dr. Feely warns. "You should have regular medical checkups to determine if you are in a high risk group for heart problems. But if you are in pretty good shape, it is safe to shovel if you go at a leisurely pace and take frequent rest periods. Remember to seek medical attention immediately if you ever experience pain in the chest, upper abdomen, neck or arms; weakness; shortness of breath; or nausea."

To avoid back injury, always warm up before beginning to shovel. "Grasp the shovel near the blade and bend your knees slightly to ensure your legs, and not your back, do the lifting," Dr. Feely suggests. "Only lift as much snow with each scoop as you can comfortably. To help protect your back, alternate throwing the snow to the left and right side. But if you experience low back pain that doesn't go away in 24-48 hours, be sure to see your osteopathic physician.

"Once you have cleared your walk and steps of snow, be sure to clean your boots thoroughly so you don't track snow into the house," Dr. Feely continues. "Melting snow can make indoor floors slippery and cause a nasty fall."

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTIONS

CAN LOWER THE PROPERTY TAXES ON YOUR HOME

A homestead Exemption lowers the property taxes on your home by lowering its taxable value. For example, if your home is valued at $50,000 and you receive a $5,000 homestead exemption, your home will be taxed as if it were worth only $45,000.

below for all exemptions you may qualify for. Application forms are available at this office. If you received a homestead exemption on your present home in 1988, you won't need to apply again for 1989 unless the chief appraiser requires you to reapply.

You qualify for a homestead exemption if you owned your home on January 1 and used it as your primary residence on January 1. It doesn't matter whether your home is a house, a condominium or a mobile home. Exemptions are available to all homeowners on their school taxes. Additional exemptions are available to homeowners who are disabled or age 65 or over. Other exemptions may be offered to homeowners by school districts, counties, cities, and special districts. All taxing units offer exemptions to disabled veterans.

However, if you passed your 65th birthday or became disabled before January 1, file a new application to receive the additional exemptions. If you haven't received an exemption on your present home, or if you've moved to a new home, make a new application for 1989.

The deadline for applications is April 30, 1989. Contact your appraisal district before then if you need more time.

Alaskan Video Shown Kiwanis Friday Morning

By R. A. Bradley

A total of thirteen members, three guests and Sweetheart Justine Hanes met Friday morning at the Old Corral. Keith Turner called the meeting to order, Reggie Johnson led the club in the pledge to the flag and James Roy Jones gave the invocation.

R. A. Bradley had been looking for a friend for a week and heard Justine say that she had to perform an English paper today and thought she might need a friend. Brad started to hold up on the friendship coin since he heard Justine say that she and her mother were going shopping and might try to spend the friendship coin. But, deciding that the friendship coin might be hard to spend, Brad gave the friendship coin to Sweetheart Justine Hanes. Justine, may your English paper and your shopping trip be good.

Guests were Lacy Morris, daughter of Glen Morris; Chad Johnson, son of Reggie Johnson and Jon Keith Turner, son of President Keith Turner.

James Roy Jones brought a video film entitled, "Post Card From Alaska". The Last Frontier.

It stated that if you could see 1,000 square miles of Alaska per day - after a year, there would still be Alaska to see. That's large!!

The glaciers, huge mountains, beautiful land, fish, seals, bears, moose, caribou, etc. make this state fantastic.

It showed the beautiful flowers and cabbage. James Roy stated that if a cabbage didn't weigh over 100 pounds, it couldn't be in the state fair. That is also large.

The film was very enjoyable -- Thanks, James Roy.

HUSTLE AND BUSTLE

The big city throbs with business life, heavy traffic, and the comings and goings and doings of many people. Whether you live in the city or you just come to town occasionally from the small town or farm, you have experienced this hustle and bustle. It reminds you that all life sometimes gets too hurried, too frantic with all we must do. We need a time to stop and somewhere to go to find peace and respite from all this. Have you thought of trying God? Job 22:21 says, "Acquaint now thyself with God and be at peace."

How sweet it is to be in God's house, to feel close to Him, to listen to His word. Tension leaves. Peace of soul arrives. Won't you attend God's house this week and see what he can do for you?

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Coleman Adv. Ser.

Money Talks

By Charles B. Carlson, CFA
Dow Theory Forecasts, Inc.

It's hard to imagine that a $650 million penalty is a light sentence for a crime, but that's the opinion of many Wall Streeters in the wake of Drexel Burnham Lambert's guilty plea to securities fraud.

Perhaps the biggest story yet to unfold is how all of this will affect the financial markets, specifically the junk bond market as well as takeover activity that has been fueled to a large extent by Drexel's financing capabilities.

So far, it seems the markets have taken it all in stride. The bottom has not fallen out of the junk bond market, and merger activity is predicted to remain steady.

Nevertheless, junk bonds still have their risks, and a total unraveling of Drexel Burnham would create tremors in this market.

It's our opinion that junk bonds had their share of risks even before the recent events and should be pursued only by aggressive investors.
