

Express Confidence in Controversial Doctor

Two Hereford Women Try Cancer Treatment in Greece

BY SANDY PANKEY
STAFF WRITER

"We don't know what the outcome will be, but we have a lot of confidence in what we did," Mrs. Diane Perkins of Hereford says of going to Athens, Greece for treatment of cancer.

"We all have to die; we have no choice, it's just that I have been made more aware of it at a younger age," says Mrs. Jo Lynn Schilling, who also made the trip to Greece in hopes of finding a cure for cancer.

Both of the local women had conventional treatment in the United States—one undergoing surgery and one taking chemotherapy—before making the decision to try a controversial serum in Athens.

Treatment for cancer varies, depending on the type of cancer involved, but the three most proven and accepted methods are surgery, radiation and chemotherapy. The advances made in cancer research are encouraging, but there still is no definite "cure" in most cases. And, patients and their loved ones have to deal with the emotional strain of the dreaded disease.

Both of the Hereford women had heard of the doctor in Greece through friends and decided to try the serum and diet prescribed by Dr. Heriton Alivizatos. Both said they realized that the serum might not prove to be effective but, after talking with their doctors here and with cancer patients who had been treated in Greece, made the choice to accept the risk.

Mrs. Schilling, 24, was diagnosed as having colon cancer in February. She had not been feeling "normal" since the birth of her first child, Nicole, now three-and-a-half.

"I had several symptoms of the disease including a change in bowel habits and I was always tired. Also, I had a gradual weight loss," states Mrs. Schilling.

After her daughter was born, the symptoms subsided somewhat but reappeared and progressively got worse following the birth of her son, Brent, now one-and-a-half.

Throughout this time, she had many tests run but nothing conclusive was found. "I just knew all along something was terribly wrong with me but I didn't know what. I finally went to the Amarillo Diagnostic Center.

After a week of tests, the doctor explained to me all of the possibilities and as it turned out, it was the worst it could be," recalls Mrs. Schilling. "I think even the doctor was surprised because colon cancer is usually found in people in their forties and early fifties."

Mrs. Schilling underwent surgery. It was then they found that the colon itself was badly diseased and a malignant tumor was growing.

Doctors removed her colon and surrounding lymph nodes.

She remained in the hospital for nine days. It was suggested that she take radiation treatments and possibly chemotherapy.

"I decided not to try the conventional methods because of the possible side-effects it would cause. It can make some people extremely ill and I had felt bad for so long that I just didn't want to go through it all again unless absolutely necessary," said Mrs. Schilling.

Mrs. Schilling had heard of Dr. Alivizatos' treatments before she was diagnosed as having cancer. "One of my friend's cousins had a malignant brain tumor and as a last resort, she went to Greece. She's doing much better."

"I knew there would be a risk involved having those treatments. Also, my facts weren't as complete as I would have liked, but, after discussing it with my husband Richard and my family, I knew this was what I wanted to do," continued Mrs. Schilling.

HISD Tax Raise May Be 13 Percent

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

The Hereford Independent School District board budget committee will not have a complete plan until the July meeting, but admitted Tuesday night that taxes will inevitably be raised. At the regular board meeting it was estimated that a 13 percent increase was probable, however a firm number would not be arrived upon until the next meeting. Serving on the budget committee are James Gentry, Bill Townsend and Bobby Griego. Griego was absent from the meeting.

Dr. Harrell Holder, administrator, reminded the board that legislative changes on feed cattle taxing would reduce the tax base to cause a four percent less total tax intake even with the 13 percent hike.

The average daily attendance also would reduce state funds. The adjusted ADA for the last term was set at 4,532. The budget was set on an estimated ADA of 4,719. The district was cut $199,000. Holder said for the upcoming budget about half of that loss would be replaced by taxes and the other half on cuts.

Tax collections for the year are averaging about 92 percent. The regular collection for June was $36,293.50 and the delinquent collection at $18,911.95.

The cafeteria is $7,234 in the black, according to Larry Wartes, assistant superintendent. Wartes advised that the cafeterias would soon start restocking shelves.

The board voted to contract with the Educational Services Center in Amarillo for computer services, media, and specialized skills personnel.

Mal Manchee, director of program development, presented the board with a thorough computer readout of the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills test results and a grid of California Achievement Test results. Hereford students are performing at a level close to state averages.

High school basketball games will be played in the high school's own gym next season and La Plata's Mavericks will play at home. The board approved the move at the request last month of the basketball coaches. Renovations are planned to improve traffic flow in the high school gym.

The board voted to hire John Dominguez as principal at Shirley and Raymond Schroeter at La Plata.

Resignations were accepted from Karen Bridges, Allen Brown, Sue Brown, Janis Dudley, Bill Hardy, Connie Howell, Bill Huff, Marsha Jones, Judith Kelley, Ronald Kelley, Laurel Owens, Dianne Perkins, Treana Reid, James Salinas and Katherine Shackelford.

Recommended for employment were Marilyn Brazell, Dee Gentry, Jan Kimbley, Paul Lindley, Michelle Merritt, Gayle Thompson and Melissa Tubb.

The board was asked to present at the July meeting any resolutions for the Texas Association of School Boards.

Holder told the board that he would clear up discrepancies between the state and HISD on the bilingual program. Holder said the state had questioned the fact that the HISD system was not totally self-contained (having Spanish speaking students remain in separate classes). The HISD tests students for placement, then mainstreams the students as English proficiency advances.

The Classroom Teachers Association president Teddie Poindexter announced that she and Mel Holubek would be attending a state meeting in July and that Nancy Priest would be conducting one of the workshops.

All members but Griego were present.

Republicans Eat Steak; Demos Enjoy Hot Dogs

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Republicans ate steak with President Reagan and paid $1,000 for the privilege, while Democrats helped their gubernatorial candidate by coughing up $5 for a weiner roast and a bottle of beer.

A who's who of GOP leaders, including former President Gerald Ford and White House Chief of Staff James Baker, joined 3,500 others at Tuesday night's black-tie dinner that raised more than $3.5 million for the re-election campaign of Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

A few blocks away at a downtown hotel, about 2,000 enthusiastic Harris County Democrats raised money for their candidate, Texas Attorney General Mark White, by auctioning off party mementoes and handing out videotapes of "Bedtime for Bonzo," a movie starring the president. Walter Mischer, a Houston businessman and chairman of the GOP dinner, said contributions totaled $3,551,000. Clements' aide Mary Jane Maddox said the amount topped the previous record for a fund-raising event for a single candidate, which she said was $2.9 million at a previous dinner for Clements. Reagan praised Clements as a "great governor" and told the audience, "The best future governor of Texas is the present governor of Texas."

"He has reduced the number of state employees and cut taxes at the same time. He has brought in corporate executives to lend their expertise to make state government more efficient. He launched an effort to control waste and fraud," Reagan said.

Among the speakers at the Democrats fundraiser was humorist John Henry Faulk, who said he was offended by the GOP affair.

"I am fascinated by the crassness of having a

Hospital Hike Under 3 Percent

The Deaf Smith Hospital District board of directors indicated Tuesday at its board meeting that it will not raise that entity's taxes more than three percent, despite the hospital not being in the best of financial shape. The goal to remain under three percent has a "no-promises" clause, through, according to Jim Bullard, hospital administrator.

"Although we are not in the best financial fashion and we have no surplus, it is still the feeling of our board with the times as they are we are going to be as conservative as possible," Bullard said. "We are going to try and limit our taxes to a point that will not exceed a three percent increase."

The tax rate last year for the hospital was .083 percent. Bullard said Deaf Smith General may be able to keep taxes limited because it uses tax money for only 10 percent of its budget, compared to 25 percent for other area

Property Owners Ready To Take Over Cemetery

BY BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

Marian Kreig's year-long struggle to see that the final resting place of her mother and over 500 others is properly taken care of is almost over. Mrs. Kreig, and a committee of property owners at Rest Lawn Memorial Park, Inc. of Hereford, have been notified that the care and maintenance of the cemetery, which she has termed "the disgrace of Hereford," will soon be turned over to the group.

"I began this thing on June 19, 1981, and it's been a long year," Mrs. Kreig said. "I've had a lot of doors slammed in my face since we began."

Mrs. Kreig led a contingent of some 100 plot owners to the cemetery Tuesday morning to meet with Barbara Hurt, an official with the Small Business Administration's office in Lubbock. Mrs. Hurt was requested to appear by the group, which sought help in getting cemetery owner H. O'Dell LaGrone of Canyon to keep better care of the perpetual care facility.

"Our primary purpose is to see that our cemetery lots are taken care of," Mrs. Kreig told Mrs. Hurt when she arrived at around 11:20 a.m. Tuesday. A large group of plot owners and concerned citizens met Mrs. Hurt when she arrived at the site some two miles north of town.

"Mr. LaGrone has refused to take care of it, and we have been put in a position by him to take the cemetery over ourselves," Mrs. Kreig continued.

"If he wants to give it to us and let us form an association to take care of it ourselves we want you to help us get this loan off of it because we don't want to pay it back," she told Mrs. Hurt.

The loan is a SBA loan for $18,100 that LaGrone took out several years ago to make repairs and handle upkeep at the cemetery.

The plot owners contend that the money was never spent at the cemetery.

"I visited with Mr. LaGrone yesterday (Monday) and he said that he understood that the owners association wanted to take over the cemetery," Mrs. Hurt said. "He said that was fine with him, and that he would continue to pay off the loan."

The committee told Mrs. Hurt that something needed to be put down on paper to that effect.

"I need to speak to Mr. LaGrone some more as to getting the paperwork worked out," Mrs. Hurt agreed. "We might be able to have the lien removed from the cemetery if that's something that's bothering the association, but that's something I've got to get worked out with Mr. LaGrone."

After surveying the cemetery and hearing the Hereford citizens' side of the story, Mrs. Hurt promised the group that she would stop in Canyon on her way back to Lubbock to visit with LaGrone. Evidently her efforts proved fruitful.

Ever since the Armour plant closed here, there have been rumors and speculation about the re-opening of the facility. People ask the newspaper why the information is not reported, and the reason is that the stories in circulation have been rumors.

Now, rumors are flying again that another company is planning to open the plant. We know that negotiations have been taking place, but there is still no definite word from any authorized official about the plans. We hope to be able to report something specific within a few weeks.

Whenever we pause to think about all of the things people gripe about, we must remember that some thrive on it. Charles Darwin was known as a chronic complainer, among other things. The story is told about a banquet he and his wife attended. Everything went sour. The speech was dry, the food was terrible, and worst of all, Darwin was seated in a draft, which he detested.

Later, one of the banquet sponsors apologized to Mrs. Darwin. "I hope your husband will forgive us," he said. "We so much wanted him to have a good time."

He had a wonderful time," she assured him. "He was able to find fault with everything."

Coleman Will Attend Meeting

Pct. 3 Deaf Smith County Commissioner Bruce Coleman will be among those considering some important issues when he travels to Baltimore, MD July 10-14 for the 47th Annual Conference of the National Association of Counties.

Coleman serves on the NACO Criminal Justice & Public Safety Committee, and is also a member of that committee's Courts subcommittee.

President Reagan will enhance the meeting with an appearance to bring NACO members up to date in his new Federalism Program.

Other speakers include U.S. Senators Ernest Hollings, David Durenberger, and Jim Sasser, Baltimore Mayor William Donald Schaefer, and Maryland Governor Harry Hughes.

The meeting will feature more than 90 in-depth technical sessions conducted by national experts on topics ranging from airport management to media relations.

Coleman's subcommittee itself will be considering several issues. The panel will be investigating sentencing guidelines used across the country, a uniform system for the cost of attorney's fees for court-appointed attorneys for indigents, and taking a position against national jail standards, among other items of business.

Coleman also said that his group will be looking at measures to reduce funding for the Legal Services Corp.

Ocean Ranger Crew

Families Allege

Negligence, File Suits

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Families of six Canadian crewmen killed when the Ocean Ranger drilling rig sank during a North Atlantic storm have filed suits in federal court here alleging negligence and the rig's "unseaworthiness" caused the deaths.

The damages sought in the suits total $36 million. The families each ask for $1 million in actual damages and $5 million in punitive damages.

Eighty-four men died when the rig capsized Feb. 15.

Filing suit are the families of crewmen Ricky Lewis Sheppard, 25, Kenneth Joseph O'Brien, 22, Robert LeDrew, 23, Ralph Melendy, 52, and Robert and Stephen Winsor, all of Newfoundland, Canada.

Named as defendants are Ocean Drilling and Exploration Co., its subsidiaries Odeco Engineering Inc. and Odeco Drilling of Canada, and Mobil Oil Corp. and its subsidiary, Mobil Oil Canada Ltd.

The suits allege that the accident was caused "by the negligence of the defendants and the unseaworthiness of the Ocean Ranger."

The suits were filed in the Beaumont court Monday because both companies do business in its jurisdiction, said the plaintiff's attorney, Robert Friedman.

Arizona Bans Mexican Citrus,

Citing Medfly Danger

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona agriculture officials, citing a potential danger to the state's citrus crop, have banned imports of citrus from Mexico.

The ban, announced Tuesday, will last until the end of the Mexican growing season, in about a month, said Glen Thaxton, quarantine-division director for the Arizona Agriculture and Horticulture Commission.

Shipment of all fruits from Mexico to California were stopped last Friday, according to officials in Sacramento. Arizona's ban excludes mangoes and other produce, Thaxton said.

Both states' bans followed the discovery of fruit fly larvae in crates of Mexican citrus, officials said.

California officials asked Arizona to halt the shipment of Mexican produce to California through Arizona, Thaxton said.

Thaxton said the ban was intended to prevent spread of the fruit fly into Arizona's citrus industry.

"At this point it does not look like a real serious problem," he said.

Pool Manager Resigns

Over Barring of Blacks

HOUSTON (AP) — The pool manager and three lifeguards have walked off their jobs rather than honor a Czech fraternal order's policy of barring blacks and other minorities from the lodge's swimming pool.

Terry Wetzel resigned as pool manager Tuesday, a day after SPJST

No. 88 Lodge Pokrok directors voted to exclude guests and restrict use of the pool to members and their families. There are no black members of the lodge, order officials said.

Three lifeguards walked off their jobs Friday when the directors ordered the pool closed three hours early rather than admit black members of a boys' baseball team.

"I've resigned because I don't want to be part of any discrimination," said Wetzel, who is a teacher at a local Lutheran school.

SPJST is the abbreviation for the Czech name of the group, which translates to the Slavonik Benevolent Order of Texas. "Pokrok" is a Czech word meaning progress.

Lodge President Larry Pflughaupt said in order to preserve the ethnic integrity of the Czech order, only members of "the Caucasian-type race" are admitted.

"Morally, it's not correct, but I have to go by the wishes of the members," said Pflughaupt, who has been a member of the lodge for 22 years.

Scott Cobb, 19, one of the lifeguards who quit, said the barring of blacks has been unwritten policy during the two years he worked at the pool.

The lodge has 9,500 members, but only a small percentage are active, Pflughaupt said. The order was founded in 1897 by Czech immigrants at La Grange, Texas.

$6 Week More

Typical Tax Home Gets 'Raise'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A typical worker with a spouse and two children who earns the median weekly income of $467 will take home an extra $6 a week under the federal income tax cut that will show up in paychecks starting July 1.

The amount of federal income tax withheld from that worker's paycheck will drop to $53.60 a week, a reduction of 10.1 percent. That is down 14.8 percent ($9.30) from the $62.90 withheld before the first step of the gradual tax cut enacted last year went into effect on Oct. 1.

The cut in withholding will range from 40 cents a week for a single person earning $100, to $13.40 for the $1,000-a-week married worker.

As a rule, the drop in withholding is fairly close to the actual tax reduction at each wage level, meaning most taxpayers are unlikely to see a major shift in what they owe the government or get in refunds when they file their returns next spring. The Internal Revenue Service has mailed new withholding tables to give the nation's employers time to prepare for the second stage of the tax reduction. The third step, also in the 10-percent range, is due to show up in paychecks July 1, 1983, unless Congress changes plans in an effort to reduce the federal deficit.

Taxes were reduced last Oct. 1 at a rate that would average 5 percent on a full year's basis, but that was barely felt because it was in effect for only one quarter of the year. And although tax rates went down an average 10 percent on Jan. 1, most taxpayers have seen no benefit at all because the change has yet to be reflected in withholding rates.

Thus, the reduction in withholding next month will provide, for most Americans, the first noticeable benefit from the tax cut worked out by Congress and President Reagan.

For most workers, the extra money they will pocket starting next month will not be enough to offset the increase in Social Security taxes that took effect on Jan. 1 and the higher income taxes that result when a worker's pay raise pushes him or her into a higher tax bracket.

As an example, the Treasury Department says, the one-earner, four-member family at the median income level — $467 a week or $24,300 a year — will end up with a combined federal tax increase of $127 this year.

Soft Sell

lifeguards test some of the Island Tan they are selling to raise money for cheerleading expenses. The 8 oz. bottles come in oil or lotion and cost $5.95. They are available from any cheerleader or Billie Farr, sponsor.

Reagan Heads For Conference

HOUSTON (AP) — President Reagan, preparing to address a nuclear disarmament conference, is challenging peace demonstrators to make communist regimes as well as Western democracies the targets of their protests.

"A great many of the peace demonstrators are truly sincere ...," Reagan said Tuesday night, "but I'm equally sure that those who plan and promote some of the demonstrations have motives of their own and I will believe in their sincerity when they promote or demand a peace demonstration on the other side of the Iron Curtain."

The president, who was returning to Washington today, addressed a fund-raising dinner for Texas Gov. William Clements' re-election campaign. Walter Mischer, chairman of the event, said it raised more than $3.5 million and claimed it set a national record in political fund-raising.

In his first public appearance since returning from Europe, Reagan reflected on his 10-day journey and meetings with Western allies. "While we did not agree on everything, our allies understand our commitment, our sense of purpose, our strength of character."

Referring to the more than 300,000 peace marchers last week in Bonn, West Germany, Reagan told the black-tie audience, who paid $1,000 each, "I know you have heard about the hostile demonstrations.

"They were well organized and orchestrated," he added. "But they were no match for the people who lined the streets in each of the six cities we visited to cheer as we went by, waving American flags and holding up signs that read, 'We love America.'"

The president will fly to New York on Thursday to address the United Nations second special session on disarmament. In protests earlier this week, more than 1,600 demonstrators were arrested as they tried to erect a human blockade in front of the U.N. missions of the five major nuclear powers.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the disarmament conference Tuesday that Moscow would never be the first to launch a nuclear strike. White House officials shrugged it off as old news.

"We'll look at his remarks, study them, but I believe it's something they've said before," said White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes.

Several hundred persons protesting a variety of causes ranging from nuclear weapons to the Equal Rights Amendment to the Khomeini regime in Iran, demonstrated outside Houston's convention center as Reagan spoke.

The president noted that the House and Senate both have approved Republican budgets. He said there were few differences between the two and that House-Senate negotiators "should have little trouble in reconciling what differences there are."

Taking note of complaints from congressional liberals, Reagan declared "loud voices will be heard — in fact some are tuning up already — denouncing this budget resolution."

Study For Bottler Critizes Houston Water

HOUSTON (AP) — A French bottling company that believes people in Houston are ready to pay about $1 a quart for drinking water launched a $1 million advertising campaign Tuesday and released a study critical of the local tap water.

"Houston's bottled water sales are increasing faster than the industry itself, and Texas is already the nation's fourth largest market for bottled water," said Jack Maguire, U.S. manager for Evian Waters of France Inc.

The campaign to market the non-carbonated mineral water in Houston follows a similar effort begun in southern Florida two years ago.

"We'll be told we're cutting too deep, depriving the elderly, poor and handicapped of the support they need," Reagan said. "There will be charges that our defense spending is out of proportion and should be cut back."

Reagan did not get out of the car and the motorcade then proceeded back to the hotel. Speakes said the "limousine, simply stalled because of a carburetor problem."

A two-liter plastic bottle of the water, taken from the Alpine village of Evian, France, where it bubbles out of a spring, will cost $1.89 — 40 to 50 cents more than a half gallon of milk. A non-returnable glass quart bottle will sell for $1.39.

Sam Kunin, a doctor hired as a U.S. consultant for Evian Waters of France Inc., said it is worth the money because "spring waters are a protection against the potential toxins in the tap water."

Evian released a study saying about a third of Houston's tap water contains suspected cancer-causing chemicals known as trihalomethanes.

Lake Houston provides about a third of Houston, mainly eastern and southeastern part, with water, while the rest of the city draws its water from underground sources.

Hospital

hospitals. The hospital operating report showed an average census of 26 which put total expenses over revenue at $17,506.

The board accepted a bad debt write off of $21,629.63, of which $6,186.68 was indigent care. Bullard said the hospital would still try to collect the remaining money.

The board also approved a consent form for surgery and procedures designed to comply with requirements of the Texas Medical Disclosure Panel.

That cleared one obstacle to the group taking over the control of the cemetery. The other was cleared when the holder of a first lien on the property of some $26,000 agreed to write that debt off as well.

"The first lien holder has agreed to convey the debt free to the cemetery association when it is formed," Mrs. Kreig said.

That process is being done today when the group meets with local attorney James Witherspoon at 2 p.m. to draw up papers for the transfer of the cemetery charter to the association.

"We have fought a long, hard battle," Mrs. Kreig said. "This was the only answer to our problem, and we are willing to accept it as such."

Mrs. Kreig said that a nominating committee has already been formed to nominate officers for the new association. In the meantime, the nine original members of the owner's committee will serve as members of the association's board of directors. "There will be a meeting later to elect a permanent board of directors," Mrs. Kreig said. "We, as a committee, don't want this thing to be ours alone, we want everybody involved."

Members of the interim board will include Mrs. Kreig, Pauline Howard, Dwaine Walker, Revella Skypala, Garland Solomon, Clinton Jackson, John Schneider, Irving Willoughby, and Bartley Dowell.

"God has blessed us immensely with the more than two inches of rain which fell on the cemetery last week," Mrs. Kreig said.

It was that deluge, most of which missed the city proper, that brought the cemetery problems to a head when several of the graves there began sinking.

"We can make a beauty spot that the people of Hereford can be proud of," Mrs. Kreig concluded. "It will be a day of jubilation when we get the job completed."

$1,000-a-plate dinner when within five miles of where they are holding it, there are families that a $1,000 represents an entire year's food budget," Faulk said.

White was in Wyoming on a legal matter and could not attend, but telephoned and said, "I understand the Republicans are going to raise $3 million. Tell them they'll need a lot more than that to beat Mark White."

A few hours before the dinner, Clements appeared at a news conference flanked by former Democratic governors John Connally and Preston Smith, who gave him their endorsements. Clements also claims the endorsement of another Democratic former governor, Allan Shivers.

The Republican incumbent said he already had "well over $3 million" in his campaign treasury before Tuesday night's donations were counted.

Clements said he was "comfortably ahead" of White in GOP-commissioned polls and boasted "I fully intend to win" re-election in November. He declined to reveal any poll figures.

However, White said, his polls indicated Clements was trailing in the race.

Clements, who spent $7 million four years ago to become the state's first Republican governor in 105 years, said he hopes to spend less than that this year, but he said he did not know how much this year's race would cost.

In the 1978 race, "I had no name identification, and there was a lot of money spent in the primary," said Clements, who had only token opposition in this year's Republican primary.

Baptists Elect Conservative

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Conservatives have retained the reins of Southern Baptist leadership, electing their standard-bearer, the Rev. James T. Draper Jr. of Texas, to head the nation's largest Protestant body.

His victory marked the fourth consecutive year in which the conservative-fundamentalist wing of the 13.8-million-member denomination has won its presidency in contest with moderates.

He's a "very solid conservative," said a leading tactician of that camp, the Rev. Paige Patterson of Dallas.

Patterson told reporters the result should "mean a deeper awareness to the fact that a large segment of Southern Baptists hold to the inerrancy of Scripture, and don't want it questioned in our institutions."

That insistence on "inerrancy" — that the Bible is word-for-word without error in literal fact — has been the rallying cry of conservatives. Beyond that lay the presidential power in picking trustees of agencies and institutions.

While the conservative tide has held firm since 1979, the contest was stiffer this time, with the election Tuesday forced for the first time into a second ballot in which Draper beat the moderate Rev. Duke McCall of Louisville.

Draper, 46, who had led a field of four candidates in the initial round, got 8,331 votes in the second, about 57 percent, to 6,292, about 43 percent, for McCall, 67, long-time head of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

"Compared to the recent years, it was a surprisingly close race," commented Porter, Routh of Nashville, the denomination's former chief administrator, now retired.

"It seems to me McCall's strong showing should signal some moderating influence in the conservative drive," he added. "Baptists have a tendency to come together in the center after the dust has settled, and the results this time should add to that tendency."

In late-night voting, the convention later elected a moderate, the Rev. John Sullivan of Shreveport, La., as first vice president. He has been among the original four candidates for the presidency.

His winning the second highest office by an overwhelming 68 percent of the vote in competition with a conservative layman, U. S. Rep. Albert Lee Smith Jr., of Birmingham, also added a balancing note to the new leadership.

Draper, 46, has been pastor of the First Baptist Church in the Dallas suburb of Euless for about seven years. He previously served churches in Bryan, Iredell, Tyler and San Antonio, Texas, and in Kansas City, Mo., and Del City, Okla.

There, he preceded the outgoing Southern Baptist president, the Rev. Bailey Smith, a strong fundamentalist, who presently leads that Del City congregation.

Draper, born in Hartford, Ark., the son and grandson of Southern Baptist preachers, is married and he and his wife, Carol Ann, have three children. He is the author of four books, and enjoys golf and racquetball.

He's a "spirit-filled, God-appointed preacher," the Rev. Morris Chapman of Wichita Falls, Texas, said in nominating Draper.

The convention, which runs through Thursday, had before it a swarm of about 50 introduced resolutions, many taking opposing sides of issues, and reflecting the friction over policy.

CBS Wins Ratings Race

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS won the networks' ratings race in a week dominated by reruns, listing five of Top 10 programs, including the only new show, "60 Minutes," among the 13 highest-rated, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

Indeed, one of the three segments on "60 Minutes" had been broadcast before. CBS' broadcast of the National Basketball Association championship game, Philadelphia vs Los Angeles, was the only other original program among the 23 highest-rated — No. 14 in a tie with NBC's "Quincy."

CBS' No. 1 finish was the network's second in a row. ABC claimed the week's highest-rated program, "Hart to Hart," which compiled an average rating of 22.1. Nielsen says that eans in an average minute of the country's TV-equipped homes were watching.

CBS' rating for the week ending June 13 was 13.6 to 12.4 for ABC and 11.2 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average minute of prime time during the week, 3.6 percent of the nation's homes with television were watching CBS.

NBC's ratings was the lowest for any network in nearly a year. Despite the low mark, NBC had two programs among the 10 highest-rated: "Hill Street Blues" in eighth place, and "Gimme a Break" 10th.

NBC had the five lowest-rated programs, starting with "nbc magazine" in 65th place and followed by "Chicago Story," "Fater Muphy," "Fit for a King" and an "NBC White Paper" called "Facing Up to the Bomb."

Man Issued Ticket; Found To Be Wanted

A driver stopped on a traffic violation Tuesday was found to be wanted in Dallas for several unresolved traffic tickets and on a warrant for theft by check. Oscar Zallar, 20, is in custody at the county jail.

Evidence from a burglary at the VFW Hall may never be found. County deputies report that a case of beer and six bottles of liquor were stolen between Monday night and Tuesday.

The hall was entered through the south window.

City officers received a report of two truck bumpers stolen from Crown Auto, 131 East Park. Value for both was set at about $400.

Tires were reported cut in the 400 block of Long.

Police checked one minor accident, issued seven citations and made 12 calls.

Firemen were roused at 2:05 a.m. to douse a trash fire in the 200 block of South Texas today.

Approximately two months after surgery, Mrs. Schilling began her treatments in Greece. "Once the decision was made to go, Richard and I were in Athens within two weeks."

Dr. Alivizatos' treatment consisted of injections taken every week day for three weeks. Following every sixth shot, a blood sample was taken. The patient was also put on a low-acid, low-salt diet. She was instructed to stay on the diet for six months following her treatments. The doctor also advised her to drink large quantities of water, get plenty of rest, avoid emotional stress and extreme temperature changes and stay out of direct sunlight.

When asked what the serum consisted of Mrs. Schilling replied, "As I understand it, 90 percent of the elements are found in the average kitchen."

The approximate cost of her treatments, not including the air fare or hotel accommodations was $900. "The doctor tries to keep the cost minimal so that everyone can afford them," continued Mrs. Schilling.

"While Richard and I were there, we were aware that two of the patients had died but we, of course, took in consideration that these people were gravely ill when they came. There were also many patients who seemed to be doing so much better."

"I saw one elderly man who had a malignant brain tumor. When they brought him in he couldn't talk clearly and he seemed confused. Following his treatment, he spoke much better and was aware of his surroundings."

"What's really amazing is that we have heard of countless reports that without knowing what type of cancer the patient has or where it is located, he seems to be able to diagnose the cancer from just taking a blood sample."

"Dr. Alivizatos told me to continue to stay under my doctor's care in Amarillo. I owe a great deal to the doctors who I was seeing before I went to Greece. The surgery saved my life and I feel so much better."

"I will continue to follow the diet suggested by Dr. Alivizatos for six months and, if need be, I will try the conventional methods suggested," says Mrs. Schilling.

"I have no fear of dying. This day is forever. I want to give of myself and for myself as best as I can. The only time I feel really frightened or sad is when I think of my children. They would still have their daddy if I died, but they need their mother too."

"I can't be constantly worried about the possibility of dying. We all have to do that, we have no choice, just that in my case, I have been more aware of it at perhaps a younger age," says Mrs. Schilling.

"I don't want to sound morbid, but I have had to think about it, death. I have a good attitude and I just want to be remembered in a good way."

Five Are Awarded Ag Scholarships

Five students from Hereford have been awarded scholarships from the West Texas State University School of Agriculture for the 1982-83 academic year.

The scholarships are made possible through three gifts each of $75,000 to WTSU from the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

Recent graduates of Hereford High School who received the scholarships are Kevin Kelley, $400, who plans to major in agriculture education; Alan Koenig, $200, who plans to major in agricultural business and economics; and Kenneth Schlabs, $200, plant science.

WTSU students receiving the scholarships are Roy MacCain Hager, a freshman animal science major, $200; and Darron Kirk Jones, also a freshman animal science malor, $400. Kelley has been active in high school as a member of Future Farmers of America for which he served as president and district treasurer and received honors as Star Chapter Farmer and the Lone Star Farmer Degree.

At Hereford High School, Koenig has been a sentinel of Future Farmers of America and a member of the livestock judging team. He resides at Route 3, Hereford.

Schlabs, of Route 4, has been active in FFA as a Lone Star Farmer, and in band, and has received the crop production award.

At WTSU, Hager is a vice-president of Area 1 FFA and a member of Block and Bridge. Jones is a member of Block and Bridge Club and participates in intramurals.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

A mother of a high school junior was lamenting the other night about the cost of class rings. She ended her argument against them by saying, "Does anyone ever know what happens to them?"

I know. Class rings are what you take off every time you wash your hands the first week you have them...and after that are never seen again.

Class rings are what are lost before your check for them clears the bank.

Class rings are what make the strange noise in your washing machine and what you paid $26 to a washer repairman to retrieve from under the pulsator.

Class rings are what you wear to bed and your hands swell and everyone panics and gives you advice on how to get it off and when you lather up your hands with soap, it falls off into the commode.

Class rings (belonging to boys) dangle from chains in cleavages of girls as a promise of commitment against the day when both of you pass Tragedies of Shakespeare and are ready to make a life together.

Class rings (belonging to girls) dangle from the first knuckle of the baby finger of boys who say they'll wear them forever, and are later found in their gym bags.

Class rings are what you take the plumbing apart for when you don't know how to put the plumbing back again and discover the class ring in the glove compartment of the car.

Class rings are the mark of identity and camaraderie when sighted by a stranger who says, "Hey, I see by your ring you went to Farnsworth High," and you say, "No this is Rucknell's ring," and discover they're both alike.

Class rings are what were thrown into a drawer when mood rings came out.

Class rings are what college freshmen leave home along with the letter sweater when they go away to college.

Class rings are what multiply, grow feet and appear in the knife and fork drawer, the sewing basket, tied to a blind cord, and in the corner of the bathtub.

Class rings are what are discovered quite by accident by a mother who rubs her fingers over it gently, slips it on her finger, and for a moment relives that time of her life when the end of an era was sealed with a ring.

MEDIA MONITOR

By STEVE K. WALZ

The three major networks once signed top-name stars to exclusive performing contracts. But if you look at the new fall schedule, you won't be able to tell who's who without a TV magazine.

The networks have found that it's cheaper to pay a star a substantial fee once a project is tailored for him or her than to sign the star to a long-term deal.

NBC learned the hard way last year when they signed veteran stars to exclusive performing contracts without having series concepts. Thus, James Arness ("McCain's Law"), Angie Dickinson ("Cassie and Co."), and James Garner ("Bret Maverick") found themselves in series that seemed to be recycled from their original shows.

Here's a rundown on who'll be switching networks in the fall:

Robert Ulrich — Formerly of ABC's "Vegas," he'll now star in "Gavilan," a James Bondish adventure series airing on NBC.

Lee Horsley — He'll star as a rich playboy-detective in ABC's "Matt Houston." He was featured last year opposite William Conrad in NBC's "Nero Wolfe."

Joel Higgins — NBC tabbed him to star opposite Ricky Schroder in "Silver Spoons." He headlined ABC's "Best of the West" in 1981.

Robert Ulrich

Demond Wilson — Once the co-star of NBC's "Sanford and Son," he'll co-star in ABC's "All New Odd Couple."

Richard Crenna — After failing to attract audiences in NBC's "All's Fair" in the late '70s, he'll star in ABC's "For Better or Worse."

Tim Conway, Carol Burnett, Vicki Lawrence — Once purveyors of slapstick on CBS' "Carol Burnett Show," this comical trio will rehash their humor on NBC's "Mama's Family."

Meredith Baxter-Birney — After starring in ABC's "Family," she'll be featured in NBC's "Family Ties."

Pamela Hensley — She goes from NBC's "Buck Rogers" to ABC's "Matt Houston."

Meeno Peluce — Switches from ABC's "Best of the West" to NBC's "The Voyagers."

ONE-EYED WONDER — I have a $5 bet on this. Does Sandy Duncan have a glass eye?

She doesn't have a glass eye, but she did lose the sight and muscle control of one eye following surgery on a tumor.

JUMP FOR JANE — I am a big fan of Jane Powell and have a bet with a co-worker regarding her. Recently she was seen dancing with Ricardo Montalban on "Fantasy Island." I told my friend she danced with him in a 1950s movie called "Two Weeks with Love."

You get to keep the Jane Powell fan title. The movie was made in 1950 and had Powell and Montalban dancing and cavorting in the Catskills. The two played Debbie Reynolds' parents in the picture, although going by their actual ages, he would have been 12 and Powell 13 when Debbie was born.

YES OR NO — There's a rumor circulating that Brad Davis (recently seen in "Chariots of Fire") played Pruitt in the TV mini-series "From Here to Eternity." I say nay.

The peaceable G.I. was played by Steve Railsback, whom you may recall as Charlie Manson in "Helter Skelter" or in the title role of "The Stuntman."

REDGRAVE RELATIONS — Is Vanessa Redgrave, who recently starred in "My Body, My Child," related to Lynn Redgrave of "Teachers Only"?

Sandy Duncan

How could two 6-foot English actresses named Redgrave not be related? Lynn's the baby sister. Their father is Sir Michael Redgrave.

DID IKE STRIKE — Was Ike Eisenmann, the boy in "Escape from Witch Mountain" on a recent episode of "Strike Force"? I thought I recognized him.

Yep. That was Ike as the drug-crazed teen.

Misunderstanding Cleared Up

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently a reader who signed herself "Stunned in Yakima" said she was absolutely shocked to read that the highest abortion rate in the United States was recorded in Iowa City, Iowa, according to the Alan Guttmacher Institute. The figure was 150 abortion for every 1,000 women of reproductive age. By contrast, the comparable figure was 33 in Chicago.

You replied, "I hope you're not standing on one foot waiting, because I don't have the foggiest notion why Iowa City emerged at the top of the list." You then said, "A state university is in Iowa City, which means there is an unusually large concentration of females of child-bearing age in that city. But Chicago has several large campuses, and it has less than one-third as many." Your closing line, "I am baffled, nonplussed and without a clue. Any answers out there?"

How about it, Annie? Did anyone come up with anything?—Also Stunned In

DEAR ALSO: Several responses were received, but most of them were too long, too complicated, or too angry and not sufficiently factual.

The best letter was from Jane Murray, director of communications and developments for the Guttmacher Institute. Here is an edited version. (I did the editing.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am replying to your appeal for an explanation for the curiously high rate of abortion in Iowa City.

It is important to understand that the abortion rate we are referring to represents the NUMBER of abortion that occurred in a particular area, NOT the number of residents who have obtained an abortion. The inflated abortion occurrence rate in Iowa City does NOT imply that local residents are obtaining more abortions than women in other parts of the country, but rather reflects the number of women who must travel from outside the area to obtain needed services.

There is not a high abortion rate in Iowa City, but rather a lack of adequate abortion services being offered in the adjacent areas. Iowa City is filling the need.

Actually, Iowa City ranks only 98th among all the 305 metropolitan areas in the country in terms of the absolute number of abortions provided.

I hope this clears up the misunderstanding.—Sincerely Yours, Jane Murray

DEAR JANE: It certainly does. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our local paper printed an obituary of a 71-year-old bartender.

The following appeared: "Survivors include his wife,—a companion,—, a son,—, a brother,—, etc., down to great-grandchildren.

I have never heard of a newspaper including the name of a man's "companion." What do you think of this?—Northern California Reader

DEAR READER: I think it is most unusual, especially since the man has a living wife. Let us be charitable, however, and assume the "Companion" was a housekeeper-nurse.

CONFIDENTIAL to It's Hell on the Grocery Bill: I'm not surprised. Let his new romance feed his face. Too bad you didn't write to me 10 dozen eggs and 15 pounds of bacon sooner.

Couple Exchanges Vows On Saturday

Sheryl Ann Beller and Barry George Muller were united in marriage Saturday at St. Hyacinths Catholic Church in Amarillo. The Rev. Peter Di Benedetto performed the afternoon ceremony.

Nicklaus Aiming At Fifth Open Victory

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The finest golfers in the land had their last chance to practice on the demanding Pebble Beach course today preparing for the 1982 United States Open championship, an event many of them consider the tour's crown jewel.

"Worldwide, perhaps the British Open is more important," said Jack Nicklaus. "But to an American, this is the biggest event, because it is our national championship."

It holds particular significance, of course, for Nicklaus, who is bidding for a record fifth Open title. The only other men to win the title four times are legendary names out of golf's history books — Willie Anderson, Bobby Jones and Ben Hogan.

And, the Pebble Beach layout has been kind to Nicklaus. He won his third Open crown here in 1972, the only other time Pebble Beach hosted the event, shooting a 290 that year, the highest winning score in any pro golf event since 1963.

Nicklaus has also won three Bing Crosby titles and two of that tournament's four rounds are played at Pebble. And in 1961, he captured the U.S. Amateur championship here. So his familiarity with the course and record of success over it, coupled with the incentive of a fifth Open championship, makes him one of the favorites.

Others in that category include hot-shooting Craig Stadler, winner of three events including the Masters and the leading moneymaker on the tour this year with $312,058.

Besides the Masters, Stadler has captured the Tucson, opening event of the year, and the Kemper in his last start.

Then, there are Tom Watson, Lanny Wadkins and Ray Floyd, each of whom has won two events this season.

Watson, winner of the Los Angeles and Heritage tournaments this year, has had his share of success at Pebble Beach. He has won two Crosbys here and is familiar with the course, playing it frequently when he was a student at Stanford.

"I've won here twice," said Watson. "That might give you a little edge. But those tournaments were in wet conditions. What if it's dry?" Pebble Beach was misty for Tuesday's practice round with heavy fog burning off early in the day.

Floyd is flying with two wins and a second place finish in a playoff in the last three tour stops he's played including last week's Memphis Open.

Stadler Refuses to Let His Images Bother Him

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Craig Stadler, the golfer who doesn't look like a golfer, refuses to get all hot and bothered about images.

"I guess I don't fit the mold people expect of a pro tournament golfer," says the paunchy, mustachioed Californian, rated by many as the player to beat in the 82nd U.S. Open Golf championship, starting Thursday.

"I admit I look like any ordinary guy. I don't know why people make such a big deal over it. One good thing is that they at least know I am around. I only wish they'd appreciate me more for my golf."

Winner of the Masters, the first of the Grand Slam events, he is the only player to have won three tournaments on the tour this year and he is the leading money winner with $312,058.

Such dignitaries as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Tom Watson are labeling him as one of the chief threats for the title over Pebble Beach's exacting ocean links.

Stadler is a pillowy, jovial fellow with a heavy reddish mustache, a receding hairline and a 46-inch waist.

They call him "The Walrus."

Stadler is more amused than annoyed at the nickname, the constant references to his poorly distributed 200 pounds and what has been hailed as an explosive temper.

"That's exaggerated, too," he says. "Sure, I get sore when I make a stupid shot. But it only lasts until I get to my next shot. That's better than letting it seethe in your gut and letting it all out when you get home."

Stadler has become the hero of the truck drivers and the brick layers and little old ladies who do their crocheting on the subways.

He's the prototype as well as the idol of the guy who carries his own bag around the park courses and afterward douses his frustration with a half-dozen beers.

Winner of the National Amateur championship while a sophomore at the University of Southern California, he failed to pass the TPA qualifying school in 1975 but finally made it in 1976.

Hindered by an ungovernable temper, he struggled through his first few years and didn't win his first tour event until he captured the Bob Hope Desert Classic in 1980.

Two years later, he's the golfer to beat.

New Owners Dish Out $12 Million for Rockets

HOUSTON (AP) Owing a National Basketball Association franchise is no more risky than being in the automobile business, says the Houston Rockets' new owner.

"I don't see any more problems in the sports business than in the car business the last four or five years," said Charlie Thomas, who owns 20 Ford dealerships here and is chairman of the Great Southern Bank of Houston.

Thomas and Sidney Shlenker, president of Pace Management and former president of the Houston Sports Association, which owns the Houston Astros baseball team, signed a letter of commitment Tuesday and made a cash payment between $11 million and $12 million, said Rockets' General Manager Ray Patterson.

The sale will be presented to the NBA owners in San Diego next week for their approval, and Rockets officials said they do not anticipate any problems.

At a news conference, Thomas said he planned no immediate changes and supported "100 percent" the offer to keep free-agent center Moses Malone with the Rockets.

"We don't plan on doing anything differently. The record stands on its own," Thomas said. "You're going to see the same team."

The new owners were among a half dozen groups who had offered to purchase the franchise from Maloof Industries of Albuquerque, N.M.

Contacted in Albuquerque, former owner Gavin Maloof said the amount paid for the team was "substantially more than what we purchased it for."

"The Rockets have been a great investment for us, no question about it. There was no reason for us to sell the team except it was like any other business transaction. We got an offer that was too good to turn down," Maloof said.

Thomas, who said he has wanted for nearly four years to own a professional sports team, said he decided last week to make a bid for the team and set a 5 p.m. deadline Tuesday for the Maloof family to accept or reject the offer.

"He cut right through the tape," Patterson said. "That's the kind of operation and the kind of commitment we need — the ability to make decisions."

The Maloof family, under the direction of the late George J. Maloof, took over the Rockets in May 1979. They were the sixth owners of the franchise, which started in 1969 in San Diego.

Rumors that the club would be sold surfaced shortly after George Maloof's death on Nov. 29, 1980.

The Rockets finished last season with a 46-36 record — third best in the franchise's history. They were eliminated from the NBA playoffs by Seattle in the first round. In 1981 they stunned the NBA by advancing to the championship series before losing to the Boston Celtics.

Thomas acknowledged he had no experience in running a sports organization.

"That's where I'm looking to get expertise from Sidney. I know what I'm getting into and what it going to take to run the ball club the way it's supposed to be run," Thomas said.

"I have the resources to run the club properly and am prepared to use them. My first intention is to keep the club in Houston and secondly I'd like to have Moses Malone stay with the team. I think he's necessary to have a first-rate team and we'll do what we can to keep him here," he said.

People who don't believe in hell have never tried to remove a short piece of flint stuck in a pocket lighter.

Reuss Rallies Dodgers; Braves Blank Houston

By MIKE EMBRY AP Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers may be breaking out of their doldrums if pitcher Jerry Reuss' last two starts are any indication.

The defending world champions, sitting 7½ games behind the Atlanta Braves in the National League West, haven't been setting the league on fire this season.

But Reuss, a big 6-foot-5, 225-pound left-hander, has given other teams in the league reason to believe the Dodgers will be challenging the Braves somewhere down the line.

Reuss, coming off a one-hitter against the Cincinnati Reds, stopped San Diego 3-0 Tuesday night, limiting the Padres to only five hits while striking out seven.

The victory, his third shutout of the season, raised Reuss' record to 7-5. It also was the 150th of his career.

And in both games he used a pitch he developed back in high school to puzzle the hitters.

"I can't describe it," Reuss said. "I throw it like a curveball, but it's faster than a curveball. It's not necessarily a strikeout pitch, but I use it to set up strikeouts."

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta beat Houston 7-0, St. Louis edged Montreal 3-2 in 11 innings, Chicago whipped Philadelphia 8-5, Pittsburgh trimmed New York 13-3, and San Francisco defeated Cincinnati 4-3.

"There's no doubt I'm back in the groove now," said Reuss, who had lost four of his last five decisions before he resurrected his pitch.

The Dodgers scored all their runs in the seventh inning to break a scoreless duel between Reuss and John Curtis, 5-4.

Ron Cey led off the inning with a homer and Dusty Baker's had a two-run single.

Braves 7 Astros 0

Bob Walk's four-hitter and Atlanta's 14-hit attack strengthened the Braves' claim that they are for real this season.

"I realize things look a little upside down to some people," Walk said of the NL West standings. "They had better get used to it. We've always known we could win. We just needed a little confidence. Everyone knows we are a contender now."

In registering his first shutout of the season, Walk struck out five and walked one in improving his record to 6-4. He threw 2-3 innings of no-hit ball before Ray Knight singled to right-center.

"We haven't seen Walk very much," said Houston Manager Bill Virdon "but that's the best we've seen of him."

Bob Horner provided most of the power for the Braves, driving in three runs on a pair of doubles.

Bob Knepper, 2-8, was tagged with the loss.

Cardinals 3, Expos 2

The Cardinals opened their lead in the NL East to four games with their victory over the second-place Expos.

Willie McGee was the unlikely hero, breaking out of a 1-for-16 slump to deliver an RBI-single with one out in the bottom of the 11th inning.

McGee's hit scored Lonnie Smith, who had a leadoff double off loser Ray Burris, 2-8.

St. Louis tied the game 2-2 with two outs in the eighth on a throwing error by Montreal second baseman Tim Raines. Keith Hernandez scored from third when Raines' throw to first on Smith's hard grounder pulled first baseman Terry Francona off the bag.

George Hendrick stroked his 11th homer of the season with one out in the second inning to give the Cards a 1-0 lead.

Cubs 8, Phillies 5

John Johnstone cracked a two-run homer in the third inning to spark the Cubs to their second straight victory after losing 13 in a row. It was the fourth consecutive defeat for Philadelphia.

Johnstone's homer, his third of the year, came after Bump Wills hit a two-out single. It gave Chicago a 2-0 lead.

Chicago took control with four runs in the sixth for a 7-3 lead, the big hit being Leon Durham's two-run single.

Bo Diaz led the Phillies with three RBI, one in the fourth on a fielder's choice and two in the sixth on a single.

Starter Doug Bird, 4-6, was the winning pitcher while Dick Ruthven, 5-4, took the loss. Mike Proly pitched the

Hoyt Wins 10th Game; Texas Whips Seattle

By TOM CANAVAN Associated Press Writer

LaMarr Hoyt has the fundamentals down again. It's just the pain in his pitching arm that's bothering him now.

Hoyt fired a masterful three-hitter to become major league baseball's first 10-game winner this season as the Chicago White Sox blanked the Oakland A's 7-0 Tuesday night.

"I was just happy to keep my fundamentals straight," said the bearded right-hander after ending a personal three-game losing streak. "I mixed up my pitches very well — a good slider, sinker, and fastball. I just wanted to get back to the way I throw the ball best," he said after his first shutout of the season.

Hoyt, who won his first nine decisions, says he's been bothered by stiffness in his right forearm and bicep recently.

"It happened two starts ago in the Texas game," said Hoyt, 10-3. "I could still pitch, but I was in some pain."

In other games Tuesday night, Milwaukee downed Baltimore 6-3, New York edged Boston 5-4, Kansas City whipped Minnesota 7-4, Toronto whitewashed California 2-0 and Texas defeated Seattle 5-2. Detroit at Cleveland was postponed by rain.

White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa downplayed Hoyt's apparent problems, which have not caused the pitcher to miss a start.

Hoyt walked one and struck out seven in lowering his league-leading earned run average to 2.24.

Wayne Gross got the first two hits off Hoyt, an infield single in the second inning and a single to right in the seventh. Rickey Henderson doubled to lead off the A's ninth.

The White Sox scored three times in the first inning on Greg Luzinski's RBI grounder and Harold Baines' two-run double. Steve Kemp's run-scoring ground out made it 3-0 in the second.

Henderson, who leads the league in stolen bases, swiped his 64th base 63 games in the first inning after reaching on an error.

Yankees 5, Red Sox 4

Ken Griffey's two-run homer off reliever Mark Clear capped a three-run eighth-inning rally as New York downed Boston.

"I was just trying to hit the ball hard and keep it going," Griffey said after his third home run of the season and first in the Yankee Stadium made a winner out of reliever Goose Gossage, 3-2.

With the Red Sox leading 4-2, Dave Collins led off the eighth with a double, chasing Boston starter Bruce Hurst. One out later, Collins scored on Andre Robertson's single and Griffey, who earlier extended his hitting streak to seven games, homered to right field.

Boston took a 4-2 lead in the seventh inning on Rick Miller's sacrifice fly and RBI singles by Gary Allenson and Jerry Remy.

final 21-3 innings for the Cubs to gain his first save of the year.

Pirates 13, Mets 3

The entire Pirate lineup got into the offensive act as they battered New York pitchers for 17 hits in the romp.

Jason Thompson did most of the damage, stroking two doubles and a home run and driving in five runs. It was Thompson's 14th homer of the season, but only his first in June.

Pitcher Rick Rhoden, 3-6, helped his cause with two singles, two runs and two RBI. New York's Charlie Puleo, 5-4, was the victim of the onslaught.

Dave Kingman hit a two-run homer for the Mets in the second inning, his 16th homer of the year.

Tom Seaver, 3-7, continued to have his troubles, lasting only 11-3 innings in the Cincinnati loss. He pitched to 11 batters, with eight of them reaching base by hit or walk.

The game was delayed more than two hours by three rain delays.

Chili Davis singled twice and scored a pair of runs and Joe Morgan rapped three hits to lead the Giants.

Bill Lskey, 5-4, was the winning pitcher, but needed relief help in the eighth after the Reds rallied for three runs. Gary Lavelle picked up his fourth save of the season.

Glenna West Wins Top Place In 4-H Food Show

"Chicken Demi Tarts" aren't exactly your traditional tarts, but that might be partly why Glenna West was the top winner in the nutritious snacks and desserts division at the State 4-H Food Show last week at Texas A&M University.

"I changed the recipe - it just had a mushroom filling, and I added chicken to it," she grinned.

Cooking is only a part of 4-H Food Show competition, West said. Stringent tests on knowledge and skills in nutrition, food buying and storage are a major part of the contest and top winners must score higher than any other state entrant.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill West worked up to state contest through county and district competition.

As top state winner, Miss West was awarded a $750 scholarship by the Morrison Milling Company of Denton.

She also received a four-year $6,000 scholarship from the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo to be used at any state school. West plans to attend TAMU as an agricultural economics major.

Miss West has been in 4-H for 10 years in the foods division, clothing, livestock, dog care and training, recreation and electricity.

She was recently awarded the Maggie Barry Scholarship by the Texas Extension Homemakers Association and was named the county

Gold Star Girl.

She is a two-time winner of the Danforth "I Dare You" Award and has won state honors for 4-H record book compilation.

She has served in several county and local 4-H offices and was a county and district delegate to the Texas 4-H Electric Camp. She has been a staff person and secretary for district 4-H teen leaders and a delegate to the state council.

At Hereford High, she was a member of Student Council, VOE president, National Honor Society and participated in the gifted and talented student program.

She is an active member of Avenue Baptist Church.

Tarts Bring Top Honors

Farmers In Conservation Get Added Tax Incentives

COLLEGE STATION--Farmers investing in soil and water conservation now get additional tax incentives.

A recent announcement by Secretary of Agriculture John Block indicates that farmers receiving payments made for conservation practices approved under the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) after Sept. 30, 1979, can exclude them, under certain conditions, from their gross income for federal income tax purposes.

"This will affect landowners who don't qualify for special tax treatment of soil and water conservation expenses and farmers for whom these expenses are high relative to their gross income," points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist in management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Previously, farmers were allowed to treat as current deduction certain expenditures for soil or water conservation or the prevention of erosion that would otherwise be capitalized. As capitalized expenditures, they would be added to the cost of other basis of the land and deducted for tax purposes as depreciation or according to the new accelerated cost recovery system.

To take soil and water conservation expenses a current deduction, that taxpayer must cultivate, operate or manage a farm for profit, either as an owner or tenant, notes Hayenga. For an owner receiving farm rental, the rent must be based on farm production.

"Someone receiving cash rent not based on production does not qualify unless he participates materially in the farm's operation or management," says the economist.

Also, the total deduction of capital expenditures for soil and water conservation in any tax year is limited to 25 percent of the gross income for farming during that year.

In the past ACP payments received as incentive for soil and water conservation practices were included in income but were offset by the allowable deductions for these expenditures up to the 25 percent limitation, if the farmer qualified.

"Now, landowners need to include only those payments that are for expenses that can deduct in the current tax year," Hayenga explains.

Farmers receiving ACP payments for expenses exceeding 25 percent of their gross farm income can now exclude them from their income.

Also, those individuals who don't qualify as farmers and are not allowed to report these expenses as current deductions can exclude ACP payments from their income.

However, before such payments can be excluded, certain other conditions must be met, says the economist. For example, the IRS must find that the payments do not substantially increase annual income from the property involved. And no deduction, depreciation or investment credit may be claimed for any expenditure made with excluded ACP payments.

"A landowner who disposes of property that was acquired, improved or otherwise modified with money excluded from income under these rules must treat all or part of any gain from the disposition as ordinary income," add Hayenga.

The decision to exclude all or part of any ACP payments from gross income must be made no later than the tax filing deadline including extensions.

Since these tax regulations are rather complex, Hayenga advises farmers and landowners to seek advice from a tax consultant.

Further information is available from the Internal Revenue Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

US To Expand Research In Australia And India

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has cooperative plans with Australia and India to expand efforts in areas of research and development activities, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Monday that the program involving India will include research in soybean processing and utilization, peanut research, and the post-harvest technology of fruits and vegetables.

The two countries agreed to continue exchanges of economic information on agriculture and a variety of technical projects.

In the program with Australia, projects will include development of salt-tolerant citrus root stock to overcome soil salinity problems in both countries.

Other projects will include the development of improved management practices for arid grazing land, ground water conservation and agricultural drainage technology.

Shipments Of US Grain To Soviets Increasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has boosted its sales of grain to the Soviet Union sharply from year-ago levels, but farmers and trade officials still are wondering what will happen in the next few months.

According to Agriculture Department statistics, the Soviet Union imported more than 14.8 million metric tons of grain from its primary foreign suppliers during January-April, compared to about 10.8 million tons in the first four months of last year.

But in the four-month period of 1981, according to the figures, the United States provided only about 4.13 million tons of the total — about 38 percent.

In January-April of this year, however, U.S. shipments of grain to the Soviet Union totaled approximately 7.69 million metric tons or 52 percent of the total imported by the Soviets during that period.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The big change was the removal in April 1981 of the partial embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union, a lid which for nearly 16 months had put a damper on U.S. exports.

Argentina, which became the Soviets' biggest supplier during that time, provided about 4.3 million metric tons of grain during January-April, some 40 percent of the total imports.

This year, with the U.S. lid removed, Argentina's grain exports to the Soviet Union totaled 4.48 million metric tons, representing only 30 percent of the total during the four-month period.

Other suppliers included Canada, Australia and the European Common Market.

In a new analysis issued last week, the USDA said the Soviet Union probably will import a record 46 million metric tons of grain from all foreign sources in the international marketing year which runs through June 30.

That will be a 32 percent boost from the previous record of 34.8 million tons in 1980-81. The huge imports result from poor Soviet harvests the past three years and prospects that the 1982 output will fall far short of Moscow's goal.

According to USDA projections — which are based on published reports within the Soviet Union, satellite information and other crop data — the 1982 Soviet grain harvest may produce about 185 million metric tons, 53 million less than Moscow's target.

Soviet grain imports in 1982-83 are expected to continue large, probably at around 42 million metric tons, although USDA experts say the actual total could vary by as much as five million tons either way.

One of the big questions will be the levels of purchases from the United States, Argentina and the other suppliers.

The Soviets have not bought significant amounts of U.S. grain since mid-March and some experts think another major round of purchases may be near at hand.

Last week, for example, U.S. Wheat Associates said in its weekly news letter that "all outstanding Soviet grain purchases are expected to be shipped in the next few weeks."

The market development group said the three-month lull in Soviet buying "has been variously attributed to a shortage of hard currency" and, before the latest production forecast, "expectations of improved Soviet crop prospects." Efforts to depress U.S. and Argentine markets also were said to have been factors.

Planting Making Gradual Headway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corn planting gradually made headway the past week, although rain-soggy fields continued to plague farmers in some major production areas, according to the government's latest survey.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that 97 percent of the intended 1982 corn acreage was planted by June 13, two percentage points ahead of a year ago.

States tabulated in the weekly report included:

Colorado, 96 percent of the corn acreage planted as of June 13 and 94 percent planted a year earlier; Georgia, 100 and 100; Illinois, 100 and 97; Indiana, 100 and 75; Iowa, 95 and 100; Kansas, 90 and 96; Kentucky, 99 and 87; Michigan, 100 and 99; and Minnesota, 97 and 99.

Also, Missouri, 95 and 94; Nebraska, 98 and 100; North Carolina, 100 and 100; Ohio, 100 and 80; Pennsylvania, 96 and 93; South Dakota, 85 and 100; Virginia, 97 and 95; and Wisconsin, 98 and 100.

Yuma, Ariz., receives more than 4,000 hours of sunshine a year, twice as much as Seattle.

WTSU Students Going Over Meat Process

WTSU—Animal science students at West Texas State university have been practicing meat processing techniques for several years and when a kill floor addition is completed, they will learn the entire process from animal to grocery store.

Construction of the kill floor addition soon will begin and the facility is scheduled to be ready for instruction for the 1983 spring semester, said Dr. James Thompson, dean of the WTSU School of Agriculture.

Planning for the kill floor facility began in November of 1980. Since that time, the university has received approval from the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System for the estimated $300,000 project. The plans also were approved by the United States Department of Agriculture following a trip to Washington, D.C., by Dr. Ted Montgomery, head of the Department of Animal Science.

The addition, measuring 2,470 square feet, will be constructed at the north end of the Meat Lab which is part of the Applied Science Building on the north side of campus. The kill floor addition will edge the intramural playing field.

The facility will include holding pens and loading chutes for the animals who will enter the building and be weighed before proceeding to the "knocking pen" where they are killed.

The body falls to the dry landing area and blood is drained in the bleeding area. Animals, except swine, then are skinned and the carcasses are halved. Pork may be skinned or the hides dehaired, said Thompson.

Carcasses then are transported by rail in the building to be inspected by a person certified as a federal USDA meat inspector from Amarillo who comes to WTSU when requested. A cloth is placed on the carcass and the meat is placed in a cooler for 24 to 48 hours to allow the meat's fat to harden and to be shaped. The cooler will adjoin the Meat Lab cooler.

"The process is going to be controlled. We won't process the byproducts, but they'll be sent to plants, probably in Amarillo," said Thompson.

A five-foot brick wall will surround the holding pens and special storage facilities will be built to include by-products, and hides for pickup on the same day.

The kill floor addition also will provide a variety of research projects, said Thompson.

For Maximum Potential

Proper Feeding Important

COLLEGE STATION — Feeding young horses for maximum growth and sound skeletal structure is important, particularly when the horse is being developed for strenuous events such as racing, jumping, cutting, roping or polo.

"Major concerns of the horseman should toward developing sound skeletal and muscular tissue," said Dr. Gary Potter, professor and horse program leader in the Department of Animal Science at Texas A&M University.

"Horsemen should not be concerned with trying to develop faton young horses because they develop this on their own if they get enough feed," noted Potter, who also is on the research staff of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Some reports have indicated that young horses fed for maximum rates of growth and development are destined to become unsound late in life, but Potter explained that no conclusive scientific research supports this claim.

"The ultimate objective in the horse breeder's plan has to be considered in planning a rate of development expected in young growing horses," Potter said.

Ration formulation and feeding management should be designed for sound skeletal development, he said, because without adequate development, horses will never become desirable performance athletes.

Feeding improperly balanced diets is a common cause but is not the only cause of skeletal disorders in young horses.

"There are at least three factors frequently associated with skeletal problems in horses and other animals," Potter noted. "These are genetic predisposition which is associated with large mature size and rapid growth, nutrient imbalance in the total ration, and excessive forced exercise combined with confinement."

Any one of these factors or a combination may result in skeletal disorders.

And, Potter continued, the horseman should know that nutrient imbalances are as bad for a growing horse as nutrient deficiency.

Potter offered these feeding guidelines for successful management of young horses: feed some long roughage daily, feed individually in a trough that encourages chewing, and feed in individual feeders when horses are in a pasture.

Also important when feeding young horses is to thoroughly mix different feed ingredients, feed horses at a specific time each day, and watch the feed box for any indication that horses are sorting ingredients.

Entomologist Trying Fumigation

On Space Below Grain Bins

MANHATTAN, Kan.—The space under grain bins with perforated floors for drying and aeration provides a perfect home for insects, says James K. Quinlan, USDA research entomologist at the U.S. Grain Marketing Research Laboratory.

"Broken kernels, dust and chaff fall through the floor and make an ideal environment for insects," Quinlan says. "Usually the bin floors are not easy to remove, making it difficult to clean or spray the area below the floor."

Because fumigation seemed to be a likely solution, Quinlan and another Agricultural Research Service research entomologist, William H. McGaughey, tested four fumigants for control of red flour beetle adults and eggs, and immature stages of the rice weevil, in empty 3,250-bushel circular metal bins.

They tested four fumigants: chloropicrin, phosphine, carbon tetrachloride with carbon disulfide, and ethylene dichloride with carbon tetrachloride and ethylene dibromide. Chloropicrin is labeled for fumigation of empty grain bins, the other materials are not. Phosphine was used in tablet form, the others in liquid form.

Test cages of insects were placed in cotton bags containing cracked corn. Bags were placed under the perforated floor, on the floor of the bin, and suspended 4 feet above the floor. The bins had galvanized steel perforated floors supported by concrete blocks 1 foot above a concrete subfloor. Bin doors, fan openings, bin auger and roof vents were sealed with masking tape and polyethylene when treatments were applied.

Mortality counts were made on adult insects following the 48-hour fumigation period and larvae counts were made four and six weeks after treatment.

The chloropicrin at 16 fluid ounces per bin, one-half the rate called for on the label, did not do an adequate job. Quinlan says, but the recommended 32 ounce application killed all stages of the test insects on and below the floor. Some of the insects suspended above the floor survived.

Two-gallon applications of ethylene dichloride-carbon tetrachloride-ethylene dibromide also produced 100 percent mortality of all stage of insects except those suspended above the floor.

Phosphine was effective only when a plastic sheet was placed over the perforated floor and a 60 tablet dose was used. The carbon tetrachloride and carbon disulfide combination was not effective, Quinlan says.

Quinlan pointed out that chloropicrin is easily applied, is already labeled for use in empty grain bins, and works effectively. He stressed that users should seal all openings around the bin door and fan openings to achieve good results. After 48 hours of fumigation bins should be opened and aired out for four hours before being entered.

USDA Considering End Of Four Quarantines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials say they're considering cancellation of interstate quarantines against four pests including the gypsy moth, which caused defoliation over about 13 million acres in the Northeast last year.

Harvey Ford of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said the possible quarantine cancellations, which also involve the golden nematode, the pink bollworm and witchweed, were being announced to give state and industry officials and the public a chance to prepare for such action.

Ford said public comments will be sought before any final decision is made.

He said the gypsy moth quarantine is on the list because federal and state control efforts are already focused on the artificial spread of the pest by people or vehicles carrying it to new areas. He said there is no means to prevent the moths' natural spread.

Adequate control and eradication programs have been developed, eliminating further need of federal quarantine action, for the golden nematode, which infests potatoes in New York, and the pink bollworm, a cotton pest found in California and areas east of the Mississippi River, and witchweed, a feed grain and sugarcane parasite found in southeastern North Carolina and northeastern South Carolina.

Johnny Appleseed

John Chapman, alias Johnny Appleseed, planted nurseries of apple seedlings in clearings out West before the pioneers arrived. He planted to his dying day, March 18, 1845, near Fort Wayne, Ind., where his grave is now the center of a small park. Some of his trees still stand, though many believe the last one toppled in a storm near Mansfield, Ohio, on June 2, 1959 — after bearing apples for more than 100 years.
