'It's Time For A Change'

Bush, Price, Eggers Ask For Switch To GOP

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

U. S. Rep. George Bush, U. S. Rep. Bob Price and governor candidate Paul Eggers carried the Republican banner into Hereford Friday and told about 70 persons at a moon luncheon the best way they can reverse trends toward inflation and rising crime is to change leadership.

They said the Democrats have controlled the Texas Legislature and Congress for too long already.

Price is hosting Bush on a tour throughout the Panhandle in behalf of the Houston Congressman's bid for the U.S. Senate against Democratic nominee Lloyd Bentsen. The winner of the November General Election will win Ralph Yarborough's seat, since Bentsen beat Yarborough in the Democratic primary.

Price, who is running without opposition for another term as representative for the Panhandle in the U. S. House, asked for financial support for both Eggers and Bush, as well as for other GOP nominees.

"It's time for each of us to ask ourselves what we have done for our nation. We reap in direct proportion to the time we spend in being concerned about our government and our country," Price said. "We've got a long way to go in coming up with a representative government that really represents the people, and without your help, we're dead," the Pampa congressman added.

"We can't do it without your votes and your tens and your twenties. We're campaigning at a time when it costs $300 for one minute on television. If you are not concerned about your business, the way to do it is to go home and forget about it. It's the same way with your country. We need your help."

Eggers has the toughest job, in his uphill fight to unseat Democratic incumbent Preston Smith as governor. His campaign tour was independent of Bush's but their paths crossed at Hereford. He arrived at 9:30 a. m. Friday and stayed in town for the $2-a-plate luncheon in the Civic Club Center where Bush and Price were to be.

County Republican chairman Kenneth Rudd introduced the visitors, saying it was the first time Hereford had been honored by the presence of three top GOP candidates at the same time.

Bush received a standing ovation when he was introduced. He said his campaign could be easily contrasted with that of Bentsen. The Democratic candidate has been telling voters to cast the ballot for him just because he is a Democrat, Bush said.

"The issue seems to be boiling down to one candidate who's saying that and to another candidate who's asking who can be the most efficient in the U. S. Senate, who has the most clout."

Chemicals Involved Court Gets Anders On Area Thefts

County Sheriff Travis McPherson and Deputy Harold Wheeler went to Vega Friday and brought to Hereford a 39-year-old Anton man charged with the burglary of the Ford Elevator last November.

They jailed Joe Pat Anders, who on Thursday was convicted and sentenced to 10 years in the state penitentiary for the burglary of 20 cases of propazine and five cans of treflan from around Wildorado in August and September of 1969.

Wheeler, who began an investigation of Anders last August while he was sheriff of Oldham County in Vega, said the charges were part of many filed throughout the Panhandle in connection with chemical burglaries over the past five or six years that may amount as high as $1 million.

Propazine is a powdered chemical valued at about $112.50 wholesale.

"Harold did one of the best investigative jobs I've ever seen, on this particular job," McPherson said of Wheeler's work in the case. "It was his testimony that convicted him (Anders) in Vega, and he will testify in our trial here, too."

McPherson said Anders "is one old boy we're really tickled to get. Farmers ought to be happy about it too."

Charges placed against Anders and two other men after their arrest last December in Lubbock concerned a series of herbicide burglaries in a six-county area. Officials have called Anders the head of the gang.

Local authorities involved themselves in the case after a number of burglaries began occurring around the area in May of last year. Forty cases of herbicides were taken at Dalhart and 16 in this county. Later, 50 cases were stolen in one instance. Then came the break-in at the Ford community, the theft of 56 cases of chemicals from near Farwell and the 16 cases at Dalhart.

The arrests late last year came after the recovery of more than 200 cases of herbicides at various locations in Castro County. Thirty-two cases of the stolen chemical was found near Hart, 10 cases at another location near Hart and 100 cases at a gin in Pecos County.

Some 125 cases of chemicals called Atrazine, valued at $11,650, were discovered on another farm near Hart. Trucks were stolen from the chemical dealer's establishment in several of the burglaries. Trucks stolen from Dumas, Dalhart, Farwell and Wildorado were recovered near Plainview but had been unloaded and left empty.

The first charges filed in the case were in the burglary of 25 cases of the chemicals in Moore County.

Wheeler, who began an investigation of Anders last August while he was sheriff of Oldham County in Vega, said the charges were part of many filed throughout the Panhandle in connection with chemical burglaries over the past five or six years that may amount as high as $1 million.

Both Teenagers Accident Claims Two

Funeral services for Rodney Lee Brooks, 19, and Larry Paul Lance, 18, both of Hereford, were conducted Saturday in separate services at Avenue Baptist Church.

The Rev. Don Larkin and the Rev. Clarence Powell officiate for the Brooks services and the Rev. Ron Harpster, of Stamford, officiated for the Lance services.

The two youths died Thursday in a car-pickup collision about two miles east of Hereford.

Injured in the accident were Virgil John Owens, 55, of Route 1, and Tom McGowan, 19, of Summerfield. McGowan was reported in good condition at Deaf Smith County Hospital Saturday and Owens was reported in satisfactory condition.

Brooks and Lance were killed when the late model Chevrolet in which they and McGowan were traveling, was struck broadside by a pickup driven by Owens.

Investigating Highway Patrolman Roy Marion said the Brooks vehicle was traveling east on U. S. 60 when it attempted a left turn, into the path of the pickup.

Brooks was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Bill Rowland and Lance died enroute to Deaf Smith County Hospital.

Businesses Form Downtown Assn.

Downtown merchants have joined together in a promotional and advertising organization "on the premise that together we can do things a lot better than separately."

The new organization will be known as "Downtown Variety Park."

Freddy Cooper is chairman, Jim McDowell vice chairman and Phil Guerra secretary of the group.

The first downtown promotion is scheduled Monday with a "Downtown In-Or-Out Sale." Some stores will have sidewalk sales and others will have sales inside.

Ten merchants were in the organizational meeting, and other businesses will be added to the organization in the next week.

"We are getting a list of all merchants downtown and we will contact each one. We believe we will get 90 per cent of them to join," Cooper said.

The organization will meet the second Thursday of each month at 7 p. m. The downtown merchants will meet again next Thursday, "and we hope to get something rolling by then. We will be splitting up and contacting each business personally."

LOOKING AHEAD — Billy Hodges, just named as the juvenile officer for Deaf Smith County, circles the day — Sept. 1 — when he takes over in his new duties. Until then, he will remain as an officer on the Hereford Police Department.

Hodges Takes Over Sept. 1, As Juvenile Officer For City

Billy Don Hodges, 27, has been named by a seven-man screening committee to fill the newly created post of juvenile officer for Deaf Smith County.

Hodges will assume the duties of juvenile officer Sept. 1, according to Lowell Sharp, chairman of the screening committee. Sharp said the delay is necessary because of a shortage in the number of city police officers at this time and because an office is still needed for Hodges' use as a juvenile officer.

Hodges is currently serving with the city police force.

Born in Hobbs, N. M., Hodges attended Palo Duro High School in Amarillo, but quit school to join the Army. While in the service, he was a medical corpsman and when he was discharged, he returned to Amarillo where he received his high school diploma.

He first began working in law enforcement in 1964 with the Amarillo Police Department and was with them three years. He then joined the Hereford Police Department and stayed one year before quitting to attend Amarillo College.

After one year at Amarillo College, Hodges returned to the Hereford police force where he has been since May of 1969. His father was chief of police in Tulsa.

"It has been a long time since the kids have had anyone they could turn to and alot have been mistreated," he said. "Judge Williams has done a fine job, but the kids need someone to get out with them. Someone they can talk to." Hodges is licensed as a minister in the Church of the Nazarene.

Because of legal matters, Hodges was appointed as a deputy in the sheriff's department and he will be responsible to the sheriff and to the county commissioner's court. He will not carry a gun or wear a uniform since he will be dealing mostly in juvenile matters. He will be authorized to make arrests, however.

Hodges was one of seven original applicants for the position of juvenile officer. He was one of three which the field was narrowed to at the last meeting of the screening board.

Hodges was selected to the position after the board had considered him, and city police officers Johnny Holbrooks and Floyd Burke.

The new juvenile officer will be working closely with County Judge H. C. Williams, who has handled all juvenile cases since he was elected to the judge's post.

"I am real pleased with the committee selection and the juvenile court will certainly cooperate with him," Judge Williams said.

While Hodges will be the juvenile officer, Williams will remain the juvenile judge, in charge of dealing with the juveniles brought before his court.

Melvin Young Wins Presidency Of Press Assn.

Melvin Young, general manager of the Hereford Brand, was elected Saturday as president of the West Texas Press Association for the next 12 months.

Young was first vice president of the organization for the past year and was chairman of the 40th Annual WTPA convention, which concluded its two-day meeting Saturday in El Paso.

He succeeds O. G. "Speedy" Nieman of Slaton, editor-publisher of The Slatonite, as president. The newsmen named Frank Baker of Pecos as first vice president and re-elected Bob Craig of Hamlin as secretary-treasurer.

Donald Smith, special agent with the Bureau of Customs, addressed the newspapermen Friday on the drug problem from a law enforcement officer's point of view, and Richard Lindblad, an official with the National Institute of Mental Health, talked on the problem from the standpoint of usage and rehabilitation.

The newsmen also received an in-depth look Friday at the state's pollution problem from Gordon Fulcher, chairman of the Water Quality Control Board.

Marijuana Laws Should Be Changed, Eggers Feels

Paul Eggers, the Republican candidate for governor, said in Hereford Friday he's getting a much different reception over the state this year than in 1968, when he lost to Gov. Preston Smith in the General Election.

When he walked the streets of the small towns of Texas two years ago, he said, about 40 per cent of the people told him they liked him, but that they were Democratic and planned to vote Democratic that November.

"It's a different mood this time. People are thinking maybe it's time for a change. They're saying we have a crisis-to-crisis administration in Austin now and that yes, they do think they might vote for me this time.

Smith's own poll, according to the Houston Chronicle, shows him with 38 per cent of voters' support and Eggers with 38 per cent. The 50-year-old Eggers said Friday.

"I think we're going to win. We've got unity within our party and people who are going to give of their time to see that we have victory. We need a two-party system in this state. I don't think after 100 years that it's asking too much that we have a change here."

Eggers, in an interview at the Hereford Brand office during the morning, said he considers his biggest obstacle the fact that many people take it for granted that the Democrats will win again.

"But even his polls show us running neck and neck and gradually people are coming across to the belief that we can win, after all," he said.

The biggest issue? "I'd say the failure of Preston Smith to give strong leadership as governor, all the controversy in the Legislature in 1969 where they passed a one-year appropriations bill and he vetoed it without communicating with either the speaker of the house or the lieutenant governor. We had a welfare crisis, where the governor had to appropriate $13.5 million out of the college building fund to take care of it. We seem to have a crisis-to-crisis government."

Eggers said the success of Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in Arkansas and of several governors in Oklahoma were ready examples that a GOP governor could achieve meaningful goals with a Democratic-controlled legislature.

President Nixon appointed Eggers in April of 1969 as General Counsel for the Treasury Department, a position he held until early this year, when he resigned to make the governor's race.

While in Washington, Eggers also was chairman of the ethics committee and director of Equal Employment Opportunity, both in the Treasury Department, and a member of the President's Task Force on Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

To solve the dope problem, Eggers said communities and states must first work with the federal government.

"Some of this comes from Mexico, which means we have to stop it before it gets into this country," he said.

"Also, as a result of the task force study, scientific research is being done into marijuana, and we have to get the results of this out to the young people immediately so they'll know of the danger.

"A preliminary report made by the Institute of National Health says marijuana is definitely a mental health problem in itself, without even considering the problems that occur from graduating to other drugs. They're not certain yet, but the research they've been doing with cats and other animals indicates marijuana definitely does some damage to the brain. We have to get the information out when the results are final. You can't scare teenagers any more. Scare tactics just don't work."

Eggers is among those who favors making first possession of marijuana a misdemeanor instead of a felony, as it now is.

"According to the statistics brought before the task force, nine out of 10 young people who first use marijuana are just experimenters. A lot of the time it is difficult to get cooperation from school officials, and many district attorneys are reluctant to prosecute. Right now, you can put a kid in jail for two years on a misdemeanor, anyway," he went on.

The real war should be against the pushers, he feels. And because of that, he favors a recent move by the state of Washington "which says if you have so much on you, you're a pusher. This lets you concentrate on them and this is where our main thrust should be. To catch a man in the act of selling is difficult, but if you've got a law like this and he's got so much in his room, then you've got a case."

Most persons who use heroin started out on marijuana, not necessarily because of any stair-step graduation forced upon their bodies, Eggers feels, but lations they develop.

because of the personal association. "As you use it, you gradually come in contact with other people, who have other things and this is how you get hooked.

A lot of people just stumble into it. A guy comes up to you at a party and says, 'You don't want marijuana. Here, try this.' A dope pusher gets a kid on heroin and he's got a customer forever. It takes $45-60 a day to stay on heroin once you get hooked, and how are you going to get it? You steal."

Amarillo Dope Raid Jails 3 Herefordites

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson teamed with law officers from throughout the Panhandle in a drug raid in Amarillo Thursday that resulted in the arrest of 13 youths.

Among those arrested were three from Hereford. They were:

—Johnson H. Benefield, 21, sale of LSD.

—Danny Lynn Allen, 20, sale of a dangerous drug.

—Charles Ray Dones, 21, sale of a dangerous drug.

"We made a sweep through Elwood Park, in Amarillo, where all the drug people hang out, in a raid that took about five hours," McPherson said.

The sheriff said he feels the arrests and charges will "definitely" help in attempts to reduce the drug traffic in the Hereford area. Many of those named in the Amarillo charges were under investigation for possible violations of narcotics laws here, McPherson added.

The raids climaxed eight months of investigation.

"A number of them had been involved over here. It seems like Hereford, Canyon and Amarillo all are about the same.

They had been working back and forth."

All the charges alleged sale of narcotics. None were for mere possession alone.

The arrests came after a grand jury delivered sealed indictments.

The charges were made after the testimony of Mark Keith Brown, 22, who entered West Texas State University and worked undercover for Amarillo police. After breaking the case, he now is enrolled in the academy of the Amarillo Police Department prior to becoming a full-fledged policeman.

Hereford Youth Stays In Jail On Dope Charge

Guadalupe Martinez, 19, remained in Deaf Smith County Jail Saturday in lieu of $5,000 bond set for him last week on charges of possession of marijuana.

Martinez, who gave police his address as 710-B South Texas, was arrested by city police early last week when a small match box, containing what was believed to be marijuana, was found under the seat of his car.

According to reports, city officers observed a vehicle traveling east on Park Avenue, weaving and crossing the center stripe. When they stopped the car, they walked up an unnoticed Martinez attempting to push something under the seat of his car.

Reports said the officers believed at first it might have been a weapon so they asked Martinez to step out of the car. When they searched under the seat they found the match box which was full of the substance.

Bush, Price...

(Continued from Page 1) with this administration, and who is in most in line with the Texas policy of decentralization," he went on.

The 46-year-old Bush made a specific reference to recent claims that Bentsen is more conservative than Bush.

"I don't know where they get all this," he said. "The ADA (Americans for Democratic Action), which is about as liberal an organization as there is rated him as having a 41 per cent liberal voting record and me 5 per cent. The labor unions put out another poll, and they rated me about 5 per cent again and him at 28 per cent." Bush said, drawing comparisons between his voting record and that of Bentsen when the Democrat served in the House of Representatives several years ago.

Bush referred several times to the "liberal" element in the Senate.

Bush said both he and Price have pursued bills to aid rural development "but we can't get them because the Senate is controlled by the Fulbrights and the Kennedys and the Muskies who don't want it that way."

In the U. S. Senate, he said, "the first vote, the very first vote you cast, is for the leadership—whether you want new leadership or stay with the old. Mansfield and Fulbright. Bentsen has said over the state that he wants to keep that leadership. I want to know how, if he believes what he says in Texas, can he be effective in Washington. It can't be done with that leadership in Congress."

To try to solve the growing problem of civil unrest in the United States, "we got 12 crime bills, but they too were blocked by the Bentsen leadership in the Senate, and yesterday Bentsen said he would have been for the lower limit on farm subsidies. I was for the higher limit, knowing small farmers would be ruined if large farmers are forced to go outside the program."

Processed Milo Rations May Boost Swine Production

GOOD FOR SWINE? — West Texas State University nutritionist John McNeill believes that processed milo rations, a success in beef cattle production, may also be a boon to the swine industry. McNeill, working under a cooperative swine research program with Texas Tech University, used a self-feeding system to simulate actual production methods used by commercial swine operations.

CANYON, Tex. — West Texas State University nutritionist says that processed milo rations, proved successful in beef cattle production, may also be a boon to the swine industry.

John W. McNeill, 23, is conducting research in the subject as part of a cooperative swine research project by West Texas State and Texas Tech University.

The object of the study, begun last March at the WTSU Farm, was to "see if we get the same improved performance with swine as we have observed with cattle on processed milo rations," McNeill says.

His preliminary findings, he says, were from the first of a series of experiments in which he examined four methods of milo processing and the effects on the swine's average daily gain in pounds.

The feed's efficiency, which concerns the number of pounds of feed needed to put one pound of gain on an animal, was also evaluated, he says.

At the conclusion of the trial the pigs were slaughtered and the carcasses were evaluated to detect any possible differences in back fat for thickness, cutability and dressing percentage induced by the methods of processing.

All the grain was purchased from the Producers Grain Corp. elevator of Amarillo, McNeill says.

The 8 crossbred barrow pigs used in the experiment weighed 50 pounds each at purchase and were fed to a final weight of 220 pounds, he adds. The animals were placed on a self-feeding system which gave them access to food and water at all times "to simulate actual production methods in this trial," he says.

The pigs were first divided into groups of 20 and placed on rations processed by either the hammer-mill grinding method, the most commonly used, the coarsely rolled method, the steam flaking method or the micronizing method, the newest and most revolutionary process, McNeill says.

The latter two methods of processing utilize heat as an integral part of the technique in preparing the grain for consumption. Heat can damage protein and make it less available to the animal for utilization.

To examine this relationship between protein availability and each milo processing method the groups were further divided into five sub-groups each, according to different protein levels.

The steam flaking and the micronizing methods were under close scrutiny, McNeill says, because the former has been used extensively in cattle feeding for years, but never commercially with swine.

The micronized method developed recently by Chard Pierce, Lubbock, Tex., engineer, is still in the experimental stage as far as commercial production is concerned. The patent for the process belongs to the Chard Pierce Micronizing Co., owned by Pierce and Jay Taylor of Amarillo.

The two methods contrast in that the steam flaking method uses steam from an external source to penetrate the grain from the exterior to the inside.

"The gas-fired generators used in the micronizing process emit micro-waves that are selectively absorbed by the grain. These waves cause the grain to heat uniformly to convert the grain moisture to steam. Compared to the steam flaking method, the micronizing method appears to be cheaper in the initial investment, maintenance cost, and cost of operation," McNeill says.

He adds that the day-by-day reports revealed that the pigs consuming the rations containing milo processed by the coarsely rolled method and the micronizing method had significantly higher average daily gains than the other two treatments. However the pigs receiving micronized grains gained significantly more pounds on fewer pounds of feed than the pigs in the remaining groups.

The pigs receiving steam flaked and micronized grains increased their performance with progressively higher levels of protein, McNeill says. This response suggested that protein levels may be more critical to the two heat-treated feeds since animals fed with the other two rations did not register the response.

Pigs fed the coarsely rolled ration had a noticeably lower dressing percentage, he adds. The carcass evaluation revealed no other differences.

"This trial uncovered some interesting observations that merit further study," McNeill says. "The response of different varieties of milo to various processing methods would be of interest. Due to the difference in their chemical composition, one would expect a difference in the type of product which is produced by these various techniques."

McNeill, a graduate of Happy, Tex., High School, attended Texas Tech for two years before entering Texas A & M University, where he received a Bachelor of Science Degree in 1968, and a Master of Science Degree in 1970.

He came to West Texas State last January as an instructor in animal science. This fall he will coach the livestock judging team and sponsor Block and Bridle Club.

The sale of tickets for the 1972 Olympic games in Munich will begin this fall. The tickets will be in the form of vouchers which may be exchanged for admission tickets in January, 1972.

Air Force Academy football teams have 'played from one coast to the other, but next season will mark the Falcons' first visit to St. Louis. They will play Missouri Sept. 26 in Busch Stadium.

Strong Fight Killed Lower Crop Limits

Defeat of the $20,000 per crop limitation on farm payments under the House-passed farm bill August 5 was the result of an exceedingly strong effort from all concerned, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

Johnson, who was on the scene, said industry representatives, USDA and leading members of Congress, on both sides of the aisle worked tirelessly in diluting support for the lower limit and to make it possible to retain the $55,000 per crop limit sponsored by the House Ag Committee. He added "We are highly grateful to our own Texas Representatives and to others in Congress who gave such solid support when it was so badly needed."

Johnson noted that all of those voting from the Texas delegation voted with House Ag Committee Chairman Bob Poage of Waco and said "This is quite a tribute to Mr. Poage and to our Representatives' ability to understand the severe effects a low level payment limit would have on the nation's largest industry."

He also had special praise for 19th District Congressman George Mahon, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, saying that Mr. Mahon

"used his influence energetically and unflinchingly in fighting off the lower payment limit." Also singled out for recognition by Johnson were Congressman Bob Price, Graham-Purcell and George Bush of Texas, Speaker John McCormack, Majority Leader Carl Albert, Majority Whip Hale Boggs, Minority leader Gerald Ford, Minority Whip Leslie Arends and Page Belcher, ranking minority leader of the House Ag Committee.

WHO WON THE HEAVY-WEIGHT TITLE ON A FOUL?

MAX SCHEMELING, IN AN ELIMINATION, WON THE ONLY TITLE ON A FOUL IN THE FOURTH ROUND FROM JACK SHARKEY, JUNE 12, 1930. SCHEMELING LOST THE TITLE TO SHARKEY TWO YEARS LATER IN FIFTEEN ROUNDS!

Illustrated by Bob Sudyk

But Johnson cautions that this is not the last word and that many changes may yet be made both in the basic provisions of a farm law and in the type and level of a payment limit. The next hurdle of course is the Senate Ag Committee where Johnson pointed out that USDA and others, including Plains Cotton Growers, will be seeking to improve on the House version.

"PCG's efforts at the Senate level will be directed primarily at changes which would (1) improve producer income, (2) eliminate the limitation on payments to individual farmers, and (3) institute the expanded and more comprehensive merchandising approach on which we have been working for some time," Johnson stated.

Some farm leaders in the Senate have expressed the opinion that the Senate might be able to pass a farm bill by Labor Day, but others believe it will be impossible to meet that schedule.

A crucial test for the $55,000 payment limit will come when the Agricultural Appropriations bill is sent to Conference Committee. The Senate version of the Appropriations measure carries a rider limiting payments to $20,000 to any one farmer on all crops, and Representative

Silvio Conte of Massachusetts has indicated he will move to have House Conferees instructed to accept the Senate amendment. If he were successful the House action of August 5 on a payment limit would become meaningless. On PCG's position, Johnson reiterated the organization's position of total opposition to any form of payment limit. He said "In order to get a farm bill passed we may be forced to enforce limitation of payments, but we will not relent in our feeling that a payment limit is unjust, unjustifiable on any basis and that it will greatly impair the effectiveness of any farm program."

Time To Plant Fall Gardens

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

The 4-H girls from Deaf Smith County who were at the District 4-H Dress Revue made a very good appearance. Joann Wagner, Monica Herring and Sue Shirley were attractive in their dresses. Patsy Paetz old was an outstanding commentator. Sue Shirley was scored best fashion, which was well deserved. Mickey Ginn was a handsome escort. We were very proud of each who had a part in this event and want to thank each of you.

It is now time to plant fall gardens as bush beans, greens, lettuce and some other have time to make before frost. There is a fact sheet, Planning Your Vegetable Garden, L-911 in the office that will give you all the information you need for planting as for seed or plants per 100 feet, depth of seed, distance between seeds and rows, number of days before ready for use and amount of production expected. If interested, call the office for a copy of the Fact sheet, L-911.

Canning, freezing and pickling is in full swing from questions received in the office and repairs being made on cookers. Here are some choice recipes you might like to try, this season.

CORN RELISH
Yield: 7 pints
Corn, whole kernel — 2 qts.
(use fresh (16 to 20 medium size ears) or frozen (whole kernel, six 10-oz. packages)
Sweet red peppers (4 to 5 medium) diced — 1 pint
Green peppers (4 to 5 medium) diced — 1 pint
Celery (1 large bunch) chopped — 1 qt.
Onions (8 to 10 small) chopped or sliced — 1 cup
Sugar — 1 1/2 cups
Vinegar — 1 qt.

gar, water, vinegar, and salt. Tie spices in cheesecloth bag and add to syrup; boil 5 minutes. Add carrots, boil 5 minutes. Remove spice bag. Continue simmering while quickly packing one hot sterilized jar at a time. Fill to within 1/4 inch from top, making sure vinegar solution covers vegetables. Seal jar at once. Makes 2 1/2 pints.

The agents will be at Staff Conference at College Station this week. Kay Cockrum will be in the office to give you the bulletins and other needed information.

Process in boiling water for 18 minutes (start counting as soon as water returns to boil.) Remove jars and complete seals if necessary. Set jars upright, several inches apart, on a wire rack to cool.

SPICED CARROTS
2 lbs. carrots
1 1/2 c. water
1 1/2 t. salt
2 t. whole cloves
1 t. whole allspice
1 1/2 c. sugar
1 1/2 c. distilled white or cider vinegar
2 t. mixed pickling spice
2 3-inch cinnamon sticks
Peel carrots, cook in boiling water until tender crisp; drain. With a fluted cutter, cut carrots into 1/4-inch slices. Combine sugar, water, vinegar, and salt. Tie spices in cheesecloth bag and add to syrup; boil 5 minutes. Add carrots, boil 5 minutes. Remove spice bag. Continue simmering while quickly packing one hot sterilized jar at a time. Fill to within 1/4 inch from top, making sure vinegar solution covers vegetables. Seal jar at once. Makes 2 1/2 pints.

What is the A.B.C.?

Chatting with a merchant the other day, we mentioned our "ABC figure."

"What," he asked, "is an ABC figure?"

Perhaps what we told him will also interest you. This newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, an independent, nonprofit organization of nearly 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies, and publishers.

Its purpose is to provide accurate and factual reports on the circulations of member publishers. In the advertising and publishing industry, the ABC insignia is often referred to as the "hallmark of circulation values."

At regular intervals, an ABC traveling auditor visits our office to check our records. The findings of this physical audit are embodied in an Audit Report published by ABC — the report literally tells us what our circulation is.

Virtually everything an advertiser should know about our circulation is found in this report, facts and figures without opinions.

Few retailers bother to ask to see a copy of our report, yet we want you to know one is available anytime you are interested in the quality and quantity of our circulation audience — the audience for your advertising messages.

What is an ABC figure?

It is our way of assuring you that you get full measure for your advertising dollar in this newspaper.

Work Progresses On Tech Museum

LUBBOCK — Technicians are in the final phases of installing the new planetarium at the Texas Tech University Museum. It not only looks like some thing from outer space, but it also projects on a domed ceiling a simulation of much of outer space, particularly all of our solar system and the skies as they appear from any part of the earth at any given time during the day or year.

One planetarium lecturer described it as an "indoor universe." The service and installation expert for the new Spitz Model A4 planetarium, Howard Estes of Newark, Del., expects to complete his work by the middle of August. Before leaving he will explain to several Museum officials how to operate the sophisticated equipment. The new planetarium represents a system "with educational features not found in former instruments," Estes said. "It is designed to provide the instructor with a specific group of star field projection features each of which is important to his educational purposes."

This group of features increases the reality of the planetarium environment and offers the instructor not only a beautiful sky, but also presents an opportunity to use observational, inductive and inquiry approaches in his teaching — all of which are important scientific procedures.

Estes said a "special mercury-xenon arc light source is combined with selected optical systems and computerized star positioning" in order to produce a star field with several special features.

They are pinpoint images, 200:1 range of brilliance between star images without significant variation in image size, stability and permanence of star field, correct star location and constellation construction, parallax correction, a density of star distribution proportionate to dome sizes for projection and appropriate for educational purposes.

Other features of the star field include the Milky Way, Praesepe Cluster, Andromeda Galaxy and Magellanic Cloud projection illuminated by the star light source and therefore proportionately illuminated.

The $24,000 instrument is valuable in the teaching of astronomy, physics, earth sciences, geometry and other fields of mathematics, Estes said.

The projection will be onto the domed ceiling of perforated aluminum. The perforation provides the proper surface for projection, acoustics and air circulation.

The planetarium was made by Spitz Laboratories, Inc., of Chadds Ford, Pa.

It will be dedicated along with other portions of the new Museum this fall.

ATTENDED FUNERAL OF FORMER RESIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ethridge attended the funeral of Emmett O. Sprinkle Thursday afternoon in Claude.

Sprinkle was a former resident of Hereford. He was engineer with the Texas Highway Department from 1942-46.

Carroll Hardy, who played major league baseball as a Boston Red Sox outfielder and pro football with the San Francisco 49ers, directs scouting for the Denver Broncos of the National Football League.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Roberts of 313 Western, will be honored at a reception in recognition of their 25th wedding anniversary from 2 to 5 p.m. today at their home.

Co-hosting the occasion will be their son Ricky, of the home, who is a senior at West Texas State University; their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Miller of Canyon; and Messrs. and Mmes. Weslie B. Owen, Harold Kids, Rudy Metz, O. G. Hill Jr., Verdon Watts, Joe Deavenport, Lonnie Skelton and Ellwood Skypala.

Jimmy Roberts and Miss Betty Joe Littlejohn were married Aug. 6, 1945 in Louisville, Miss. and moved to Hereford in May, 1948. They have been in the appliance business here since that time.

New Brochure Describes State Park Services

AUSTIN — A colorful and informative new brochure has been published by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Park Services to give Texans and out-of-state visitors a visual sampling of the scenic, recreational and educational features of the State's park system.

Illustrated with beautiful color photographs taken by the department's staff photographers, the foldout includes a detailed introduction into the State's geographical regions, a review of outdoor education opportunities, information about accommodations and services and an illustrated map pinpointing park locations.

The brochure stresses the variety of geographical features in Texas and the sundry activities which can be enjoyed in the park system which is no less varied than the terrain.

There are now 69 parks distributed throughout the State including four new facilities recently opened. They are Hueco Tanks near El Paso, Dinosaur Valley near Glen Rose, Pedernales Falls near Johnson City and Lake Colorado City at Colorado City.

The publication may be obtained free at any of the State parks, Texas Highway Department tourist bureaus, or from the Department's Austin headquarters.

The new brochure is more than just a digest listing places to go and things to see. It is a complete travel guide for anyone who wishes to get the most out of the State's extensive park system.

Famous Flag Collection Goes On Display Here

A Clovis couple who have what is considered the most complete collection of U. S. flags in existence will display them in Sugarland Mall Wednesday and Thursday.

The quality of the collection is such that Charles and Leola Oakley have been asked to turn the collection over to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

There is the only complete set of United States flags in the world. They date from the first flag and progress with each change in design that has come about.

He has 92 flags in all. Twenty of the flags are those of the 50 states, and 42 are early designs for the flag or other banners which have flown over the nation since its beginnings.

The exhibit will begin at 9:30 a. m. both days. During the day, Oakley will talk about the flags, their individual peculiarities and histories.

"The flag is a symbol of everything good we stand for as a nation. I never see it that I'm not moved," Oakley has said.

Sue Coleman Returns As Women's Editor

Sue Coleman, women's editor for the Hereford Brand for six years from 1964 to 1969, will assume those duties once again, effective Monday.

She replaces Barbara Swimmer, who has resigned to become manager for a new credit union that is setting up operation in Hereford. The firm, Western States Collection Agency, will operate out of her home.

In another staff appointment, Betty Koelzer has been placed in charge of photography for the Hereford Brand and Sunday Brand. Although she will continue, as in the past, to write stories about cultural and historical groups, charitable organizations, volunteer agencies and churches, Mrs. Koelzer's primary duties will be to supervise the taking and processing of pictures for the newspaper.

Mrs. Coleman has been contributing stories to the newspaper for the past several months, even though not associated with the Brand in an official capacity during that time.

She will be assisted in the women's department by Janie Reinart, a 1970 Hereford High School graduate who has become a part of the newspaper's permanent staff after working afternoons during her senior year in a cooperative school vocational program.

Area Lunch Room Employees To Attend Workshop Here

Hereford will host its first area cafeteria workshop Wednesday, Thursday and Friday for area school lunch program employees.

The three-day workshop will be the first of its kind in Hereford with many instructors from the state's head offices to be on hand to teach classes.

As of Saturday, 250 out-of-town persons had registered representing some 40 towns throughout the Panhandle.

The classes will be conducted each of the three days from 8 a. m. to 3:45 p. m. with a breakfast to be served each day at 7:30 a. m. The classes will be conducted in classrooms in the high school building.

In the past, personnel of the local lunch program had to go to Denton to attend such a workshop and because of the distance, many could not make it.

Mrs. Ruby Smith, director of school food service here, said Hereford held a one-day workshop last year, and it was such a success that Dr. Charles Hicks, with the Texas Education Agency, asked if a longer, more extensive workshop could be held here this year.

Instructors will include Harold Bryson, Regional Information Officer, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Consumer & Marketing Service, of Dallas; June Burkett, Home Economist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Dallas; Audette Larkins, School Lunch Supervisor, TEA, Austin; Hicks; Frank Ackson, director of Teacher Retirement System, Austin.

Also, Mary Kuhlman, Home Economist, director, Consumer Service, Br. Pepper Company, Dallas; Allehe Landess, director of School Food Service, Brownfield; Pauline Mostill, School Lunch Supervisor, TEA, Dallas.

Tyler; Eunice Reaves, director of School Food Service, Plainview; Mrs. Smith, Hereford; Enda Spinks, School Lunch Supervisor, TEA, Big Spring; Rhita Sullivan, Regional Home Economist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Fpbd and Nutrition Service, Southwest Region, Dallas; and Dulcie Wilroy, School Lunch Supervisor, TEA, Dallas.

Anna Jo Wilson Is Director Of Day Care Center

Mrs. Anna Jo Wilson, of 289 Ave. D, has been named as director of the new Day Care Center.

She was hired Tuesday night after the board of directors interviewed seven applicants for the position.

"I am so excited about the position, even though I know it is such a responsibility. I think the Day Care Center is one of the greatest services this community has undertaken to help the relationship between the races," she said.

"When we get to a place where we are just people instead of Anglo, Mexican or Negro and break the barrier of prejudice the next generation will have less problems.

Mrs. Wilson and her husband, Gerald have owned and operated a Spanish cafe in Hereford for the past 10 years. She works part time as a checker at a local grocery store.

The Wilsons have two children, ages 24 and 13 and have had five foster children in their home. They are active members of the First Baptist Church and she is nursery school superintendent at the church.

Applications are now being accepted for teaching assistants and a cook, said Tom Burdett, drive chairman. Any interested persons should contact Mrs. Wilson, the Chamber of Commerce office or write to Day Care Center, Inc., Box 806.

Burdett said the center hopes to be in a position to accept enrollment by Sept. 1 if the renovation of the building is completed.

He said the drive to collect $20,000, which began July 13, is progressing very well. Any one wishing to contribute is asked to call the chamber office or write to the center, Box 806.

Homecoming At Bippus Is Set For Today

The annual homecoming of the Bippus Community is being held today at the Bippus Community Church.

Registration begins at 10:30 a. m.

A basket lunch will be served at noon, followed by a program and visitation.

The Bippus Community invites all interested persons to come and join in the celebration.

Tech Tires Big Sprinkler System

LUBBOCK—An automated irrigation system containing nine big fixed sprinklers has been put into operation irrigating a 10-acre tract of Texas Tech University farm land with effluent. The system was given to the university's College of Agricultural Sciences for research by the departments of Park Administration, Horticulture and Entomology, Agricultural Engineering, and Animal Science. Each of the nine sprinklers will send a stream of water over a circle 390 feet in diameter, dumping 345 gallons of the effluent a minute over the area.

The components of the system, including the sprinkler heads with one and three-eighths inch orifices, were presented to the university by their manufacturers through Venable Sprinkler Sales, Inc., of Irving, Texas.

The automated system can be programmed for two weeks at a time through sophisticated controls and can be pre-set to use any or all of the sprinklers on any kind of rotation system. The effluent will get one treatment by the city before it goes into the irrigation project.

They Have Calories, Too If You're On A Diet, Beware Of Liquids

If you've been eating like a mouse during the past few weeks, but looking more like an elephant in spite of it, you might take a look into that tall, frosty glass you've been holding.

Contrary to popular belief, the long hot summer is not a great time for the sophisticated, figure-conscious weight-watcher who tries to cool off and crash-diet by filling up on thirst-quenching liquids, says leading nutritionist Professor Jean Mayer.

Professor Mayer points out that some beverages are more fattening than others and dispels several myths about weight reduction.

"Though anxious to reduce our weight, we often act as though no liquid beverage could possibly contain many calories. We have been encouraged in that belief by fads like 'the drinking man's diet,' or the old wives tale that beer is fattening, but hard liquor isn't," according to Professor Mayer.

"The mistaken belief that alcoholic beverages contain no nutrients, but do contribute calories. Cola beverages vary between 100-120 calories per cup; gingerale, about 80 calories.

When it comes to juices, tomato is the best bargain of all—only 50 calories per cup—followed by fresh lime juice, 60 calories, and fresh grapefruit juice which contains 90 calories.

While orange juice—fresh or canned and unsweetened—is a good source of Vitamin A and potassium, it contributes 110 calories, and on a hot summer afternoon in August, it's easy to chug-down the 300 calories in a six-ounce can of frozen orange juice.

Milk contains a variable number of calories, depending upon its fat content. For example, one cup of whole milk contains 65 calories and 3.5 per cent fat; skim milk and butter milk, about 85-90 calories per cup. Malted milk beverages contribute 280 calories per cup, chocolate-flavored milk, 185 calories.

The words alcohol and calories are synonymous. Alcohol contains seven calories per gram, and no matter how you look at it—booze is fattening.

For example, the alcoholic content of beer, ale, and stout varies between three and seven per cent. An eight-ounce glass of light, four per cent ale contains about 100 calories. However, this can go up to 200 calories in very strong beer or stout.

In dry wine, alcohol contributes almost all the calories; with sweet wines, there are sugar calories in addition. U. S. wines surpass French and German wines in both alcoholic and calorie content. Four ounces of dry French wine—with an average of nine per cent alcohol—usually contain 70-75 calories; U. S. dry wines, with 12 per cent alcohol, 100 calories.

Gin, rum, Scotch, and Irish rye are usually 96 proof, which is equivalent to about 40 per cent alcohol. A shot glass, or 1 1/2 ounces, of whiskey contains about 110 calories.

With the exception of water or club soda, anything added to a highball increases the calories. Depending on which mixer you use, a highball will average about 200 calories.

In the cocktail category, once again calories come from sugar, but with the greater bulk coming from the alcohol. If your "dry" Martini contains a stiff amount of vodka or gin, with only a trace of vermouth, of course the calorie content will be higher than in the sweeter alternatives.

Unfortunately, those who must watch calories have a limited choice. Professor Mayer suggests tomato juice, diluted lemon or lime juice, iced (light) tea with lemon—not sugar—and that old standby, water—which is light, healthful, refreshing, and absolutely calorie free.

Open Meeting--Repercussion And Follow Through

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an account written by Sam D. Logan Jr., editor of the Clifton, Tex., Record, of a part of the recent Texas Press Association meeting that was devoted to the Texas Open Meetings Law. The law is one that generally has been unpublicized, despite its impact on every community.)

HOUSTON — After qualifying himself as an "expert" by virtue of his claim to "some sort of a track record for being chided out of school board meetings as a young reporter," Mike Kingston, editorial and editorial feature writer for The Dallas Morning News, presented the more than 400 registered at TPA's 91st Convention with some serious and up-to-date facts about our state's "open meetings law."

Then—in his address to Texas editors and publishers at Houston's Astroworld Hotel—Kingston challenged the Texas newspapermen to follow-through with the law and bring pressure upon officials to comply with the Texas statute which is designed to guarantee all persons the right to know what's being done by public officials.

After citing examples from his own experience as a reporter for The Breckenridge American, Abilene Reporter-News and Irving Daily News, he said:

"It was problems like these, and worse, that prompted various press and journalism organizations around the state to promote the law. It wasn't easy. The effort began 19 years ago when a relatively unknown legislator from Lubbock named Preston Smith introduced a bill in the State House of Representatives."

"After 16 years of prodding, threatening, pleading and lobbying, the Legislature passed the Texas Open Hearings Law," he continued.

"From the buildup that the law had, one would think that the courts would be full of villainous public officials challenged by newspapers for flouting this precious new law," Kingston said.

"There have been few, however, and most of these have been filed by private citizens—not newspapers," he emphasized.

"It is difficult to understand. Have all our public officials turned law abiding? Are they actually airing their dirty linen in public?"

"I doubt it." No court tests have been carried far enough to give very good precedents on the law, but Attorney General Crawford Martin has rendered five opinions that give some good guidelines, according to Kingston who gave a brief review of what the attorney general had to say.

"The Open Hearings Law simply provides that every regular, special or called meeting or session of every governmental body shall be open to the public."

"Frankly," Kingston said, "this language is about as plain as one could hope for. Nonetheless, Attorney General Martin has been asked to clarify the definition of a 'meeting' or 'session.'"

"Martin's opinion: A meeting or session is one in which the members of the governmental body transact official business with which such agency is charged to perform."

"The terms, meeting and session," Martin added, "are synonymous."

Kingston said the definition of an "open meeting" and a "closed meeting" is relatively obvious, but the attorney general clarified it further: "An open meeting is one that the public is permitted to attend. A closed meeting is one that the public is prohibited from attending."

Also the term "governmental body" was defined to include the following: "any board, commission, department or agency within the executive department of the state, which is under the direction of three or more elected or appointed members; every Commissioners Court in the state; every deliberative body having rule-making or quasi-judicial power and classified as a department, agency or political subdivision of a county or city; every board of school trustees and county board of education; and the governing body of every special district heretofore or hereafter created by law."

Kingston explained, "Some sessions are excluded and I think we can understand the reasoning."

"The act allows executive sessions on 'deliberations during a meeting to consider the appointment, employment, or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges brought against such officer or employee—UNLESS THE EMPLOYEE REQUESTS A PUBLIC HEARING.'"

"It also excludes deliberations pertaining to 'acquisition of additional real property'."

Kingston stressed, however, that the section dealt only with purchase of property and not with the sale of property as some officials would lead you to believe.

Also excluded are legislative investigating committees and, of course, grand juries.

Violation of the law is a misdemeanor and recourse is available through either mandamus or injunction.

Any official who calls or organizes a closed meeting, or who participates in one without entering his dissent on the minutes of the meeting, is subject to a fine of from $25 to $200 for the first offense and from $100 to $500 for each succeeding offense, Kingston pointed out.

"In 1969, State Rep. Russell Cummings of Houston, who sponsored the original bill three years ago, strengthened it by adding a requirement that a notice must be posted three days in advance of any meeting. In the case of a special meeting of an emergency nature, a notice is to be posted as soon as possible in advance of the session," Kingston said.

Notices are to be posted at some convenient place in the city hall or the county courthouse, School boards, under the amendment, are required to post notices at the courthouse, as well as the school administration building. Districts located in more than one county are to be posted in each county in which it is located.

"The law is not without loopholes. A section in the original law excludes meetings with attorneys. It was abused, so this was knocked out of the revision in 1969," he said.

The Legislature, however, passed a resolution to the effect that the general attorney client relationship was still excluded. Presumably, public bodies can go behind closed doors with their attorneys to discuss litigation. But still this exclusion is abused.

"Representative Cummings wants to further strengthen the law," Kingston said. "He thinks that the security matters should be defined as prevention of violence and insurrection, among other things."

"Personally, I think that the notice requirement should be strengthened by requiring that the presiding officer of the board or commission be responsible for seeing that the hearing notice is posted. And penalties should be provided for failure to do so."

Fourth Court of Appeals in San Antonio. The Reeves County Board issued an order for annexation of the Toyah district to the Pecos-Barstow district in a closed meeting.

"A district judge upheld the action saying that the law was discretionary and not mandatory."

"Two cases have been filed against the Robinson City Council in Central Texas. One was for a closed meeting and the other under the notice provision."

"The mayor was fined $150 in justice court," Kingston reported, "for the closed meeting, but has appealed. The second case was dismissed by the District Attorney for unknown reasons."

At Haltom City in Tarrant County, a district judge has not rendered a final decision on a "closed hearing" complaint, although he gave city officials a tongue-lashing and told them not to do it again.

"In Texarkana, a district judge enjoined a school board from holding further closed hearings."

"And just this week in Dallas, the educational television station filed a closed hearing complaint against the Dallas County Commissioners Court," he added.

In the Toyah case, the Texas Daily Newspaper Association filed a "friend of the court" brief, in which it not only asked the appeals court to overturn the district judge's decision that the act was only discretionary, but also asked the court to rule void any decisions made illegally in a closed hearing.

The Texas Education Agency already has put the state's school districts on notice that it would rule invalid any actions approved in closed sessions in violation of state law. And in one case, TEA did turn down a proposed annexation of a school district by another because the decision had been made in a closed hearing.

"TEA, to my knowledge," Kingston said, "is the only state agency to place itself on record as backing the law in this manner, although it would be helpful if all would."

Kingston said that because no one on paper had ever asked the Supreme Court, the press may be reluctant to file suits, and may feel that filing charges should be a last resort in encouraging public bodies to discuss public business in public.

But legal action shouldn't be forgotten and certainly the letter of the law should be followed.

Many readers have the same criticism of their local press. We can sit back and say that they're mistaken—that the Vice President was not talking about the weekly newspaper or small daily, but it is difficult to convince some readers of that.

"They think we are trying to deceive them by distorting the news; by failing to report it or by propagandizing," Kingston said.

"When an editor sits back and lets a public body get away with foolishness behind closed doors, it only convinces readers that their fears are justified. This is, particularly true in a small town where rumors are apt to spring up at the drop of a hat."

"Americans have a natural distrust of government anyway, and they become even more suspicious when the doors are closed on meetings and information is suppressed. When this goes on too long, they become suspicious not only of government but of the press that is supposed to prevent the secrecy."

We give a great deal of lip-service to "freedom of the press" but inherent in this freedom is our obligation to give our readers all the information possible on the operation of their local government. This means information about the deliberations on which the final actions are based, as well as the simple facts of the action.

Kingston said, "We all know the six basics of news writing: Who, What, Where, When, Why, and How. But there is no way that a newspaper can do an adequate job of reporting the 'why' of an event if it allows itself to be excluded from deliberations of governmental bodies."

Since the law has been passed, and the situation has improved, and many newspapers are getting advance notice of meetings and even advance copies of agendas. Some public officials are still unaware of the open hearings law and will honor it when they find out what it's all about.

But there are others who still have a "public be damned" attitude and will push you past the letter of the law if you allow it.

For example: In the Toyah case, some officials indicated that an open meeting would "serve no real purpose."

Regardless of other considerations, the Delta Project, a flood control plan scheduled for completion in this decade, will add more than 5,000 acres of reclaimed land to Netherlands territory.

tions, it would have served a real purpose by being a legal meeting under Texas law.

"In effect," Kingston said, "the state press is the law enforcement agency to see that the open hearings law is carried out. Thus far, citizens, more than the press, have used it. Why do many of us sit around and watch public officials abuse a state law when there is recourse available in the courts?"

"To do less than demand that public officials in your area obey the dictates of the open hearings law is an abdication of that responsibility that is inherent in a newspaper's freedom," Kingston added.

Jamaican Visitor Finds Hospitality Good In Hereford

BY SUE COLEMAN
A friend they made in Jamaica while they were there on a Church of Christ mission several years ago, Mrs. Beatrice Barrett of Kingston, has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Patterson, 610 East Fifth, this week.

her retirement from the government education service in Jamaica, came to the United States principally to visit her three sons, one a medical student in Washington, D. C. and two in California.

When the Pattersons learned she would be traveling across the continent, stopping for visits with friends, they invited her to include Hereford in her itinerary. This is her first visit to this part of Texas, although she has been in other sections on previous trips.

"In Jamaica I have met a number of Texans and been well impressed with them, but I kept wondering, you know, whether they were playing the part of guests and putting the best foot forward. So I am pleased to find so cordial a reception here," she says.

Speaking softly with the British accent characteristic of her island home, the teacher expressed keen interest in the advanced design and teaching plans for Hereford's newest elementary school Tierra Blanca, which she and her hosts toured under the guidance of Principal Phillip Shook.

She also enjoyed Deaf Smith Historical Museum and its collection of county history, and the views of Plains farms and farm-related industry seen in drives over the area.

She remarked that the kind of industry found here "does not make smoke and smog," partly, perhaps, because it is spread so widely over the spacious Plains. And she expressed the hope that growing industry "will never spoil the Plains' big, clean look."

Talking of U. S. influence on Jamaica, which she believes is even greater than the English, Mrs. Barrett says her fellow-countrymen like to study and work in this country. Many wage-earners try to come to the U. S. for jobs, even on a temporary basis.

American tourists are liked, she says, and the government works to attract them. Another type of American visitors, the Peace Corpsmen, were praised by Mrs. Barrett especially for their contributions to education, from primary to university levels. They have helped relieve a critical teacher shortage, she adds.

Mrs. Barrett was interested in the Mona Heights Church of Christ, where the Pattersons worked on their mission tour, and later became a member and a teacher of the Ladies Bible Class.

She spoke to a similar class in Central Church of Christ here Wednesday morning, reporting on progress of the church where Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Crowson, formerly of Hereford, are in charge. Its original 16 members doubled in the campaign while the Pattersons were there. The church has continued to grow, now has 71 members and has established a school to train preachers, with 21 enrolled. The visitor also brought news

Along The Frio

From Frio Baptist Church attending Camp at Glorieta, the past week were Mrs. Sam Ogan, Mrs. Jack Andrews, Mrs. Frank Robbins, Mrs. B. H. Baldwin and Mrs. Floyd Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Elza Warrick and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lindley were in Sulphur, Okla. last weekend attending a reunion of Mrs. Lindleys and Mrs. War-to the Crowsons' friends of the birth of a son to the couple on July 4. She showed women of the Bible Class color snapshots of the young man with the patriotic birthday, who has been named Murphy Athel.

ricks mothers people. They also visited relatives at Ardmore, Duncan and Tishomingo.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace White, Mike and Rhonda came Saturday to visit her mother, Mrs. E. B. Berryman and her sister's family, the Clark Andrews, and to get the other two White children, Renda and Gary, who had visited here the past two weeks. They left on Tuesday, to visit relatives in Amarillo and Hammon, Okla., and to go to Kansas to visit White's brothers before returning to their home at Biloxi, Miss. Mrs. Berryman accompanied them as far as Hammon, to visit her brother, Earnest Lowery, and his wife, who is critically ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Fellers and children, from north of town, visited the Joe Andrews, Wednesday night.

Mrs. Carlton Dobbins, the Robert Dobbins and Edgar Vintons were attending a reunion of Mrs. Carlton Dobbins family, the Scotts, at Oak Creek Lake Resort, near Blackwell, this weekend.

Mrs. Wesley Earp and Jeanette came Monday to visit mother, Mrs. B. H. Baldwin and the Homer Wests and Eugene Baldwins. The other daughter, Joy, and Earp plan to come for a short visit next weekend and go back with them. Joy is on a three week tour, with a Young Peoples Choir from First Baptist Church in Denton. The tour is to take them through Midwest and Western States. They already have been into Canada.

Marsh Pitman and his grandmother, Mrs. Isabel McCormick, of Amarillo; are on a Far Eastern tour. The Ogans received a card written Aug. 3 from Tokyo, that they were enjoying the country. They were taking in the Worlds Fair. Plans are to return home the last of next week.

Thirty-three per cent of the teen-age girls do not date, but a much higher percentage of them get married. This must mean that it's easier to get a mate than a date.

ENTERTAINS JAMAICAN FRIEND — Mrs. Elmer Patterson, left, hosted a friend from Jamaica the past week. Staying in her home while on a tour of America was Mrs. Beatrice Barrett.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

Peter Skellerup, a botanist, has said that a sure way to measure the strength of character of the people who live in a house or town, is by the flowers which grow around the door, or in the parks of the city or town in which they live.

This is also true of a home where cut flowers are used. A single beautiful rosebud cut and placed in a graceful bud vase and used on an entry table in the hall, or the breakfast table shows culture and interest in the beautiful.

Flower arrangement is the art of organizing the elements used according to the principles of design, to attain beauty, a simplicity, expression and harmony.

Before making an arrangement it is necessary to know where, when and how the arrangement is to be used. The placement sets the selection of the type to be used, the color, and effectiveness.

Another important phase is that of selection of materials. Cut the materials on a good long slant, with a sharp knife. Place in deep water. Groom, by removing unsightly blemishes, and harden by placing cut materials in deep water. Let stand for at least two hours or longer, before arranging.

Select proper container for the arrangement. The container sets the pattern or design of the arrangement. A low round bowl could well be used for a low mass; a tall slender A-line modern styled container or one in the manner of a certain period would denote the period style. It is necessary to remember in selection of a container, that it hold sufficient amount of water to preserve the fresh cut material.

Color of container should harmonize with placement and materials.

The arranger should have some mechanics to make the material more usable. Sharp scissors or knife, pin point holder or oasis, floral clay to make holder stationary, wires of various weights, color etc, paper towels to keep hands and wipe flower stems, oiled or old newspaper to work on.

Some cut materials keep better, after hardening, if they are wrapped in newspaper and left for a period of time. The ink of the type aids in preservation. There are other preservatives, but usually if materials are properly hardened and groomed that is enough for a satisfactory and lasting arrangement.

Types of flower arrangements:

One of the most popular is the mass arrangement. This type has been used for centuries. One of its chief characteristics is the proper use of flowers to aid in bringing out the beauty of each flower. Do not crowd materials in making a mass arrangement. Use color and variety of flowers to attain beauty and effect. The contour of the mass arrangement is usually symmetrical.

Many of the period arrangements use mass for their type. This type was very popular in Europe, when the various periods were being made and used in the courts, and governmental functions.

Line is another type of arrangement. Characteristics are small amount of plant materials, emphasis placed on line development, simplicity, and restraint. In this type the Japanese excel, but Americans have become very skilled in the use of the line.

Line-Mass is the combination of mass and line, that Americans have developed in the art of contemporary flower arranging. This type utilizes a variety of forms and texture and employ the principles of transition and dominance, to achieve beauty and effectiveness.

In arranging, if these three types are familiar to the arranger, adaptations of other ideas can be incorporated, and it is well to always keep in mind that a flower arrangement depicts characteristics of the arranger, as to taste, selection and proper use.

Color is most important to the flower arranger. Color harmony is the agreeable combination of colors, to satisfy the vision and emotions of the arranger. Harmony of colors is most interesting. If properly used an arrangement can be a thing of beauty and inspiration. Study of color harmonies is an education within itself, for the arranger.

GARDENING IN AUGUST: There are many garden chores in the month of "hot" August. Watering takes top priority. Running a close second is the matter of controlling insects, and garden diseases. This is the month when the insects are busiest; therefore, it is necessary that a continued, consistent spraying program be followed. Be alert in watching for diseased plants, also for insect damages.

Give the lawn attentive care, mowing regularly, and following up with a thorough watering. Also keep alert as to foreign grasses appearing this month. Do not use grass clipping for mulch if there are grasses which have seeded.

It is time to feed and groom chrysanthemum plants. Keep lower leaves picked off. This aids in making a stronger plant and keeps down diseases. If you desire large blooms, well matured, pinch the buds, to produce the kind of blossoms you wish to have. If growing for fall flower show specimens, extra care must be used in the growth pattern of the chrysanthemum. For extra quality in specimen plants, it is usually necessary to stake the plants. Exercise extra care in this, using strong stakes, and those which will not mar the plant. Continue care of hedges. Keep well clipped and groomed.

Water shrubs, especially those which will bear colorful berries for fall and winter arranging. Since we have many new holly plants now growing in our area, to produce matured berries a consistent and careful watering program should be used. Lack of moisture will cause the berries to dry up and fall from the plant.

Also, in proper watering of spring flowering shrubs, the flower buds for the next seasons flowering is being established. Give extra attention to newly set shrubs, and other plantings. Fall flowering zinnias, should be sprayed, and cultivated. Keep the blossoms cut, and the flowering time will be lengthened. My new zinnias are now producing lovely blossom. These are very nice for arrangements for patio suppers, or early backyard breakfasts.

If turnips have not been planted, they should be dark of the moon in the moon time if you wish to produce turnips, in good size and flavor.

This is a delightful time to see Hereford. There are so many beautiful yards. Many gardeners have gone all out to have colorful and beautiful petunias. The Abelia shrubs are especially beautiful at the Viegel home on Roosevelt and sixth. Also the planter box filled with pretty roses at Mrs. Newsoms on Ave. C is worth seeing. The pony-tail evergreen at the Carroll Newsom home on Liveoak is most interesting, and places just the right touch for this modern typed home. Rose garden at the Flood home on Liveoak is beautiful.

Take time out to see the Beauty Spots of the month, 200 Elm, at the L. H. Jones home, is the residential selection. This is a new home, but the handling of the plants has been done most successfully. The Seventh Day Adventist Church is the non-residential beauty spot. There is always something pretty and attractive, and continued care shows what can be accomplished, as to beautification, and cleanliness.

The gardening program, at Glad's is again receiving much attention (very needed). Is so good to have Art (my husband

A Woman's Guide To Mutual Funds

How much do you know about mutual funds? If you're like eight out of ten women recently surveyed, the answer probably is "very little."

In the past decade, mutual funds have achieved the fastest asset growth rate of any investment medium, soaring from $13 billion to over $50 billion. And 2.5 million women currently own shares in this investment medium — about half the total number of mutual fund shareholders.

With more and more women becoming interested in mutual funds, Paul A. Johnston, a vice president of Wiesenberger Financial Services, a major reporter on the mutual fund and financial service industries, explained the basic principles of the funds.

A mutual fund is a company whose only business is the proper investment of its shareholders' money in stocks and bonds.

Few individual investors have the time, information and know-how of the full-time, professional managers of mutual funds portfolios, Johnston said. In addition to professional management, mutual fund shareholders have the advantage of diversification, owning through a typical fund, part of 50 to 100 different stocks rather than just a few.

The difference between open-end and closed-end investment companies often causes confusion, Johnston noted. A mutual fund is an open-end investment company, which means that the fund can create shares to meet public demand, the value of the stocks and bonds the company is holding.

Shares in closed-end investment companies, on the other hand, are sold on the open market, such as the New York Stock Exchange, and there is no fixed or constant relationship between the value of holdings and the price per share.

The charges involved in buying mutual funds depend on whether it's a "load" or "no load" fund, Johnston explained. Most mutual funds are called "load" funds because there is a sales commission charge of from 7.5 to 9 per cent at the time of purchase. No load funds employ no sales force and charge no commissions.

A number of funds also are sold on a contractual basis, with much of the commission being charged at the outset. For all mutual funds there are management fees, and operating expenses which usually cost the investor less than $10 per year for each $1,000 invested. The investor must pay a commission both when buying and selling shares in closed-end investment companies, but only when buying mutual fund shares.

Although some mutual funds have minimum requirements on the amount of money to be invested, most funds are for investors of any size, the Wiesenberger executive said. The "bid" price you may see in your newspaper (mutual fund prices are usually listed with over-the-counter stocks represents the net asset value per share of the fund. The "asked" price includes the average cost per share with commission.

To determine which mutual fund is best for you he advised reading the prospectus. Each of the more than 400 mutual funds currently available to the public must state its goals in a prospectus. Some seek current income, some growth, some seek long term growth of capital and future income and some mutual funds seek capital stability.

There are three ways to profit from mutual funds, Johnston explained. If the value of the fund's holding increased, you can sell your shares back to the mutual fund at a profit. Also, you may receive dividend pay-

Ex-Resident Is Bride Of Lonnie Mac Coker

The Joseph A. Hill Chapel in Canyon was the setting at 7:30 Friday evening for the wedding of Miss Barbara Ann Brook and Lonnie Mac Coker, both of Canyon. The Rev. J. Frank Peery, pastor of First Methodist Church in Canyon officiated for the double ring service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Doyle K. Brook of Balinger, Tex., formerly of Hereford; and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd V. Coker, Hereford.

Mrs. Glen Thompson of Snyder presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Ben Gollehon of Hereford as he sang "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Cheri Roberts of Farwell as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Christi Byrne of Canyon and Miss Donna Coker of Amarillo, sister of the bridegroom.

Robert Hogue of Canyon served as best man and groomsmen were cousins of the bridegroom, Jerry and Wade Coker, both of Hereford. Guests were ushered by Ken Brook, the bride's brother, of Tucson, Ariz. and Roger Ruland of Hereford.

Angel satin and Alencon lace made the formal A-line gown and chapel train of the bride. Alencon lace formed the empire bodice, wedding ring collar and long French puffed sleeves caught at the wrist with tapered cuffs. Delicate lace appliques enhanced the center of the train and were repeated on the formal hemline of the gown. Tiny satin covered buttons complimented the bodice and train. Her veil of English illusion was caught to a headpiece of pearl encrusted petals of Chantilly lace and she carried a silk linen handkerchief from France which belongs to her grandmother, Mrs. Reese Meador.

The feminine attendants wore yellow sleeveless floor-length gowns complimented by white daisy trim. Their headpieces were yellow and white daisies and they carried matching bouquets of daisies.

A reception honoring the bride and groom was held in the Methodist Student Center where guests were registered by Miss Sharon Hagans of Hereford.

The service table held an arrangement of white and yellow daisies and a 3-tiered wedding cake. Miss Susan Read of Canyon served cake and punch was ladled by Miss Glenda Dillard of Hereford.

Members of the houseparty included Miss Shari Dameron of Hereford, Miss Darlene Blackman of Amarillo and Miss Mary Griffith of Van, Tex.

For a wedding trip to Red River, N. M., the bride's traveling ensemble was a navy and white suit with navy accessories.

They will be at home Wednesday at 2416 5th Ave., Canyon, where they are attending West Texas State University.

They are both graduates of Hereford High School. The bride is a junior elementary education major and her husband is a senior, majoring in business administration. He is employed by Excel Enterprises of Amarillo.

And have enough hot water left to do the uniforms.

A GAS WATER HEATER does it all, and does it better, because with gas there's always plenty of hot water when you need it... at the cost you want.

Here are seven reasons why a gas water heater is best:

1. Fast recovery keeps your gas water heater way ahead of every demand.
2. The thermostat on your gas water heater automatically maintains a constant temperature, even when you use large amounts of hot water.
3. Gas is efficient. Gas burners start up instantly, deliver more heat to the water. And gas is clean too.
4. Nothing is more dependable than gas.
5. Automatic gas water heaters cost less to buy and install.
6. Gas burners last longer and give years of trouble-free use. That's another saving.
7. Gas costs so little to operate that you can afford to use all the hot water you want.

So, if it's hot water you need, and plenty of it, you need an automatic gas water heater. Call your plumber or gas appliance dealer soon.

Miss Pam Turner Weds In Ceremony At Home

Mrs. Lonnie Noyes nee Pam Turner

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Davis, 130 Ave. C. was the setting Wednesday evening for the wedding of Miss Pamela Kay Turner and Lonnie C. Noyes, with the Rev. Jim Bozeman of Pleasant Hills, Tex., conducting the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jim Strickland, Route 4, Hereford and Bill Turner, Abilene. The bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Noyes, 222 Ave. C.

A large bouquet of pink carnations marked the place of ceremony in the living room.

Miss Connie Rodgers of Lockney, cousin of the bridegroom attended the bride as maid of honor and Miss Linda Williams was bridesmaid.

Serving as best man was Ronnie Rodgers of Lockney, another cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a street-length white knit dress in A-line silhouette.

Marking the empire waistline was a lace band with velvet trim with an inverted pleat down the front of the dress.

FORMER RESIDENT VISITS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. John Pace and four children of Long Island, N. Y. visited here briefly Monday with friends. Mrs. Pace is the former Vivian Olson, daughter of Mrs. John Olson and the late Mr. Olson, formerly of Hereford. Mrs. Olson is a resident of Santa Fe.

HOT PRO SCORES

SEBRING, Fla. — Don Roman host pro at the Harder Hall course for the past 16 years won the annual pro-amateur best ball tournament here with a net 58.

Roman was playing with Paula Leichtman of Roslyn, N. Y., Lew Sommers of New Haven, Conn., and Jack Schwartz of Armonk N. Y.

She wore a brief lace veil and carried a nosegay of white pom-pom chrysanthemums. Her only jewelry was a pair of diamond earrings of her grandmother's. Miss Williams registered guests at the reception following the ceremony.

An arrangement of pink and white chrysanthemums centered in the lace covered serving table which held the 2-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Buri Rodgers served cake and punch was ladled by Mrs. Davis.

For traveling the bride wore a blue dotted dress with navy trim and matching accessories. They are at home at 222 Ave. C.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Hereford High School and his bride is a senior student.

Charley Greer, 24-year-old safety for the Denver Broncos of the National Football League, is vice president of an employment agency.

Death Before The Crash

Recent research in California comes up with the finding that an unexpected number of drivers dying within 15 minutes of a single-vehicle accident were dying of natural causes which produced the accident. The researchers discovered that natural deaths at the wheel accounted for 15 per cent of the deaths in single-vehicle crashes.

This pinning down of why some road accidents happen illustrates the need for adequate postmortem examinations of drivers killed in accidents of all kinds. If the overall proportion of natural deaths is as substantial as these special findings suggest, the case is strengthened for much more stringent licensing regulations.

The California study shows that 96 per cent of the drivers dying of natural causes were men, in 94 per cent of cases the cause of death was a heart attack and, significantly two thirds of the victims were between 50 and 70 years of age. Of the drivers who died of heart episodes at the wheel, 40 per cent had no previous knowledge of a heart condition.

The California team of researchers—a coroner, a highway patrol representative, a member of the state justice department and a public health official—urge that all physicians should advise patients with coronary heart disease about their fitness to drive. In the first five years after a coronary attack, other studies show, mortality is 20-40 per cent.

There is no doubt that drivers with heart conditions who insist on getting behind a wheel are a menace to others and are taking unnecessary risks with their own health. The Journal of the American Medical Association states that the stress of driving has an adverse effect on cardiac function among drivers with coronary artery disease.—Financial Post.

'Airport'--A Good Movie

The best-selling novel "Airport" made its long-awaited appearance on the screen at an Amarillo theater during the past week. A number of persons from Hereford and other surrounding towns were among those who saw it.

It is an outstanding movie, and a number of Academy Award nominations seem likely to come out of it. One teen-aged girl was overheard to say, "That's the best movie I've ever seen!"

That's encouraging, when you consider that "Airport" carries a "G" rating, considered suitable to be seen by all persons. With the large number of "X" and "R" rated movies hitting the theaters—and the apparent belief by many theater operators that they have to show these types of movies to draw adequate crowds—it's heartening to see a show such as "Airport" and its instant success.

Coffee And Kisses

Love makes the world go round on wheels, it may be said to modify an old saying, if the director of the New Jersey State Division of Motor Vehicles is right. Commissioner Jupe Strelecki told the Women's Traffic Safety Forum that coffee and kisses would make the average citizen a more considerate driver and therefore a safer one. "If you and your family start out the day in a good frame of mind, you'll be a courteous and safe driver," was the philosophy she offered.

That is such sound logic we wonder why she stopped at the happy effect on the driver. Surely, the coffee and kisses that send a man off to drive happily and safely will carry him into the business day and make him a pleasant and courteous associate. They should enable him to do better work and be a more agreeable associate.—Asbury Park (N. J.) Press

Clumsy Jergens

Anyone who has ever learned to type, or tried to learn, found out early how to demonstrate skill he didn't have by rattling off, "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party." This was much easier on the fingers than the line the teacher liked—"The quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog." The teacher's preference was explained by the fact that the jumping fox line contained all the letters of the alphabet, thus giving the pupil exercise on teaching some of the awkward keys.

A columnist with nothing better to do, Brad Williams of the Oberlin News-Tribune in Ohio, decided he could improve on this all-finger exercise. He produced five sentences containing all the letters. Four of these weren't carried in the story reporting his amazing feat, one should suffice:

"A pox on you, Jergens, old beanbag, you've squashed my favorite Zwieback." Kentucky Irish American

What's In A Name

We understand that Spiro Agnew's Greek-born father changed the family name to Agnew from the original, which was Anagnostopoulos. In a way this fact is disappointing.

It would have been interesting to see how radio and TV announcers would have handled the pronunciation and how newspaper headline writers would have handled the name in headlines and how bumper sticker makers would have gotten Nixon-Anagnostopoulos on the stickers.

And a Greek restaurateur named Gus Papolopolus, who has named a sandwich for Agnew, could have had a really distinguished name for his concoction. He could have called it Papolopolus' Anagnostopoulos sandwich. Dallas Times Herald

Kansas Senator Is Young, But He's Moving Up Fast

By BERT MILLS
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Stars rise slowly in the United States Senate but a freshman Senator from Kansas named Robert J. Dole is already attracting attention as a prospective Republican leader, despite being at the bottom of the seniority ladder.

Although a Senator for only 19 months, Dole has a solid legislative background. He served in the Kansas legislature, was county attorney and came to Washington in 1961 for the first of four terms in the House. Only 46, he is being mentioned as a possibility for Republican floor leader, maybe as early as next year.

Dole is a conservative and a 100 per cent supporter of President Nixon. His fighting speeches in defense of the Administration have not gone unnoticed at the White House. Although a self-appointed champion of the President, he is being used more and more as a spokesman for Nixon. Dole often occupies the center-aisle chair of the G. O. P. leadership in the absence of Minority Leader Hugh Scott (R., Pa.) and Minority Whip Robert Griffin (R., Mich.) The Kansan won his spurs in three of the bitterest battles of the current session. He led the unsuccessful fight to gain confirmation of Supreme Court nominee Clement Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell, and won his greatest fame by besting the venerable chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, William Fulbright (D., Ark.), during the prolonged debate over the Cooper-Church amendment to the military sales bill.

SPONSORED TONKIN GULF REPEAL
Sen. Dole caught the majority napping by offering an amendment to the Cooper-Church proposal to repeal the 1964 Tonkin Gulf resolution, which President Lyndon Johnson had used to claim Congressional approval of expansion of U. S. involvement in the Vietnam war. Fulbright himself had planned to sponsor Tonkin repeal at a later date.

When Dole surprised Fulbright with his maneuver, the Arkansan complained that the Kansan had "stolen my cow." Dole said, "No, we just milked it a little." The headlines that Fullbright so dearly loves went instead to the freshman. It was Dole's own idea to beat Fulbright to the punch on the Tonkin matter.

Another freshman who does not share Dole's conservative views, Sen. Robert Packwood (R., Ore.), admires his gut-fighting tactics. "He's one of the toughest guys I ever met, the kind of guy I'd like to stand back-to-back with in a knife fight," Packwood said. When Dole first assumed his Senate seat, he was unhappy to hear Democratic spokesmen make attack after attack on the President, without drawing a Republican response. So Dole made it his business to be on the floor and to answer partisan criticism. Before long, the newcomer was being referred to as "the President's man in the Senate."

Was World War Hero
Sen. Dole comes by his fighting tendencies naturally. As a young man he led an infantry platoon in the mountains of northern Italy, near the close of World War II. He was hit by an explosive shell. His right shoulder was shattered and he was completely paralyzed. It was 15 months before he could feed himself.

The Army therapist who helped treat him became Mrs. Dole. When he went to law school, she took notes for him and wrote his examination papers. Later he learned to write with his left hand. President Nixon always remembers to offer his own left hand on handshake occasions.

Dole admits that he is more conservative than the President. While he was in the House, Dole was the proud possessor of a 100 per cent conservative voting record, as measured by Americans for Constitutional Action. But he believes a Republican should support a Republican President on important issues.

He told an interviewer recently that he believes liberal Republicans should "swallow hard and stay loyal." He said: "There comes a time when you have to respond to the call of party responsibility." Such words are greeted with enthusiasm at the White House.

Dole's tactics on the floor are too rough for some Senators, and he has made enemies as well as admirers. One colleague grumbled that Dole "approaches everyone the same way, with a sledge hammer." But there is no complaint from the White House, which badly needs fighting Republicans in Congress.

An unabashed admirer is Sen. Barry Goldwater (R., Ariz.). He backed another conservative, Sen. Howard Baker (R., Tenn.), for Minority Leader last year but says "Dole's my man now. He's the first man we've had around here in a long time who will grab the other side by the hair and drag them down the hill."

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY—Like Texas, Vermont also was an independent republic before deciding to join the Union. When the original 13 colonies formed the new United States of America in 1776, Vermont wanted to be among them: New York opposed the idea, however, and New Hampshire hoped to take over a portion of Vermont's land for its own. George Washington and other leaders felt that Vermont was too close to the British to join the new nation as a state.

On March, 17, 1778, Vermont reacted by electing officers and declaring itself an independent republic. For the next 13 years, Vermont remained a republic, finally becoming the 14th state in 1791.

CONVIVIALITY IN A CEMETERY—This summer, as they have for many years, people came from miles around to attend a two-day party staged in a Hill County Graveyard. Site of the unique get-together was the Peoria Cemetery, southwest of Hillsboro. For more years than most can remember, families with loved ones buried there have gathered for a couple of days in mid-summer to weed the burial plots and put flowers on the graves.

This year, the party was highlighted by the unveiling of an historical marker at the cemetery which has been a community burying ground for almost 140 years.

NO HELP NEEDED—One of the most successful train robbers to operate in Texas was a loner named Eugene F. Bunch who always performed his holdups alone.

Known around Fort Worth, where he headquartered in the 1890s, as Captain Dick Bunch, he was one of the few of his kind who refused to work with a gang. Bunch needed no help to keep train crews and passengers covered because he concentrated only on the mail and express car.

Boarding a train late at night at some distant way station, Bunch would walk slowly forward to the express car and knock on the door. When the messenger inquired who was there, Bunch would identify himself as some well-known railroad official. When the messenger opened the door, he would find a gun in his belly.

After disarming the messenger and taking what he wanted from the safe, Bunch would pull the emergency cord near the next way station, stop the train and disappear into the darkness. By the time the lawmen could be alerted, he was well on his way back to Fort Worth.

HISTORY IN JEOPARDY—Texas' only quarantine station may soon be torn down to make room for a park unless interested citizens act to save it.

The old station, where incoming ship passengers at the port of Galveston once had to pass quarantine, has been leased to the city by the Federal government. Plans are to tear it down and use the area for recreation.

Several historical groups, however, are opposing the plan. They want to restore the Galveston quarantine station as an historic monument.

65 YEARS AGO—1905

On the 11th and 12th of August the editors of Northwest Texas will assemble at Hereford to hold an experience meeting, after which they are to adjourn to the mountains of Colorado to drink snow water. The vicinity of Hereford seems to be the only place which received rain according to order this week. The absence of the hard, beating rains which visited other sections was supplanted by a steady downpour for three or four days which resulted in the greatest possible good to the growing crops. For the benefit and information of our advertisers, we wish to state that we now have considerably over 1,000 subscribers, the greater portion of them being paid a year in advance. In view of a very rapid growth of our circulation, we have ordered a latest model folding machine which will be in operation in our office within the next two weeks.

50 YEARS AGO—1920

Through Mr. J. P. Hodge, the Great West Mill and Elevator Company's manager at that place, the Brand has learned that the company is to increase the capacity of the plant to 35,000 bushels, by either remodeling the old elevator or building a new one. Among the improvements to be made will be new sheds for overnight grain storage and for housing trucks and automobiles. Scoutmaster Sharp has plans under way for a big outing for the local boy scouts during the last two weeks of August. He has called a meeting of the boys for this Monday evening, when he hopes to have his plans materialized and ready for their approval.

35 YEARS AGO—1835

Officers at Hereford, Dimmitt, Farwell and several New Mexico cities yesterday were attempting to pick up the trail of a man who used the name of Harvey C. Stanley, believed to be an escaped convict from the Colorado state prison. His trail was lost west of Clovis after he had been spotted in that city. He robbed the Dimmitt elevator Tuesday night. Thirty-two girls living in and around Hereford will compete tonight on the stage of the Star Theatre for the title Miss Hereford and the right to go to Roswell as a contestant for the title of Miss Queen of the Southwest. The fairest lasses of these parts finished rehearsals this morning and will appear on the stage tonight at 9:30.

20 YEARS AGO—1850

Hereford got a taste of the "big town" crime Friday night when the safecrackers entered both Kinsey and McCullough Motor Companies. About $90 was missing from Kinsey's and apparently nothing was missing at McCullough's. Frances Young discovered the robbery at Kinsey's Saturday morning when she got to work about 7:30 a. m. She said tools were lying all around, with a jack out in the middle of the floor. She called Mr. Kinsey and Bruce Woodell immediately. The same party broke into McCullough's, but didn't take anything since it had no safe.

5 YEARS AGO—1965

A recommendation that the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce initiate action to correct inconsistencies in numbering of houses in Hereford was passed by the chamber's governmental affairs committee here Friday. Thirty-three Boy Scouts were given awards in an Honor Court held during parents' night at Boy Scout Camp Don Harrington near Canyon. Two men received almost identical injuries in the Friday evening performance of the Hereford Riders' Club rodeo. Loyd Hodges was treated and released for a fractured left leg, and Jim Fox was treated for a fractured left ankle. Hodges' accident occurred at 9:15 p. m. and Fox was injured a few minutes later in the same bull-dogging event.

Riches Of The Spirit Transcend The Material

The story of a beautiful girl, who is born to immense material wealth and finds that through devoting her life to the services of others she is wealthier and happier, is now available at the Deaf Smith County Library. Check into them today.

RICHER WEALTH

Ophelia Von Tresco, daughter of the owner of a vast South Carolina plantation, was born to immense wealth and reared in the still-living cultural tradition of the Old South. She has many suitors, among them two of exceptional endowments—Edwin, heir to riches, and Christopher, a young man of modest means. Her choice between them brings her to understanding of the richer wealth that gives life its finest, truest meaning.

A richer wealth—the riches of the spirit that transcend the material—is to come to Ophelia, but not before this beautiful girl, accustomed to every luxury that generous parents can provide, knows suffering, and a testing of her faith in the sorrows of sudden tragic loss. For she marries Christopher, against her parent's wishes, only to lose him, and is left to face the realities of bereavement essentially alone. But her sufferings deepens her sympathy for others, and she is to find, in the selfless service of a life devoted to other people, the compensating radiance of spiritual awareness that is the only wealth that dignifies.

This simple, eloquent message is conveyed against a background that brings vividly before the reader's eyes the countryside, its historic plantations, such names as those of Lafayette, who visited here of Theodosia Burr, a bride in the Allstun family, of Francis Marion, the Swamp Fox who won a battle with the British within this setting, of the famed gardens world travelers come to view, of the busy river traffic amid scenes blazing with color, that history has known.

And here are the customs, the beach parties, the river cruises, the gaiety of Ophelia and her young friends; and here described are the deep sense of moral responsibility that governed such plantation owners as her father, and the harmony of relationships—racial and personal—at Palm Bluff, on the Black Mingo and Black Rivers, where the Von Tresco family had its home.

THE LITTLE WAX DOLL

It was too good to be true. The position Canon Morby offered Deborah Mayfield as head mistress in his private school included a generous salary, a lovely cottage and even a cat. After twenty years as a missionary in Africa and several unpleasant years in a public school near London, it seemed that Miss Mayfield had finally found a place to settle. It was too good to be true.

Farmers Urged To Vote In All ASC Elections Here

Deaf Smith County officials of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service are encouraging all eligible farmers to vote later this summer in ASC committee elections.

"Decisions made by farmer-elected ASC committees can be important to almost all farming operations in the area. That's why we want to be sure every farmer who is eligible to vote in ASC elections is on the list to get a ballot," Frank Bezner, Chairman of the Deaf Smith ASC Committee, said.

"We urge any farmer who has not previously participated in an ASC election, has changed the location of his farming operation or has any other reason to believe his name may not be listed in ASC records to contact his County ASCS Office as soon as possible. In this way, he will be assured of receiving a ballot enabling him to vote in the upcoming election."

The ASC elections this year will be held September 11. Ballots will be mailed to voters about September 1. Farmer voters will elect three community committeemen and two alternates in each ASC community in the county.

The ASC Committee Chairman said that in addition to trying to be sure that every eligible voter will get a ballot, ASCS officials are urging farmers to nominate candidates for community committee posts by petition.

"Any sheet of paper listing one candidate and having signatures of at least six eligible voters will serve as a nominating petition. And voters may sign as many petitions as they want," he said.

The nomination-by petition period for ASC community elections opens July 28 and continues through August 17.

Farmer-elected ASC committee members are responsible for local administration of farm programs. These responsibilities include setting individual farm acreage allotments and bases, approving applications for conservation cost-share funds, providing information to farm program participants and similar duties.

"Through the ASC committee election system, farmers can nominate and elect people of their choice for these important responsibilities," Bezner said.

He explained that after the community committees are elected, the newly-elected members hold a convention to fill vacancies on the County ASC Committee. The county committee makes all local farm program decisions, with the assistance of community committees.

A list of known eligible voters in the county is open for inspection at the Deaf Smith County ASCS Office.

The ASC Committee Chairman said that to be an eligible voter, a person must be eligible to participate in any ASCS program administered in the community where he has his farm interest. Also an eligible voter must have a farm interest as an owner, tenant, or sharecropper and be of legal voting age. If he is not of legal voting age, he may vote in ASC elections if farming operations on an entire farm. Also Texas being a community property state, spouses are eligible to vote.

Bezner said that as a general rule all farmers are eligible voters in ASC elections.

Full details on voter eligibility, nomination by petition, community boundaries and election procedures are available from the Deaf Smith County ASCS Office.

Miss Nelson Of Tulsa Weds Danny Loerwald

Marriage vows of Miss Sue Anna Nelson of Tulsa and Daniel G. Loerwald of Amarillo were spoken in a double ring ceremony at the Ascension Lutheran Church in Tulsa at 11 a. m. Saturday, with the Rev. Raymond Flachmeier and Father Dorney, conducting the service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dale R. Nelson of Tulsa and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Loerwald, 715 Blevins, Hereford.

Tapers burning in candelabra entwined with greenery and satin bows flanked an altar arrangement of white carnations and greenery which formed a background for the ceremony.

Ralph Loerwald served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Jerry Tucker, Billy Albracht of Amarillo and Steve Loerwald. Paul Loerwald was usher, assisted by the groomsmen.

Miss Shannon Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Sullivan Jr. was flower girl. Lantie Nelson, the bride's brother, lighted the candles.

Mrs. Raymond Flachmeier, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and played the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of acetate and Venice lace in cage silhouette. Venice lace, encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestones, formed the yoke and short sleeves. Appliques of lace daisies lined the yoke and were appliques at random on the chapel length train. Her veil of illusion was caught to a pearl encrusted floral headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white carnations centered by an orchid carried atop a bridal Bible.

The feminine attendants wore mint green formal crepe gowns accented with white braid trim. Their headpieces were white satin bows with satin pastel streamers and they carried nosegays of pastel asters with matching streamers.

A reception honoring the bride and groom was held in the church fellowship hall where guests were registered by Miss Carol Wright of Perryton.

Misses Gloria Shields, Gail Spies and Martha Vaananen, all of Tulsa and Miss Janice Newsom of Hereford presided at the bride's table which held a 3-tiered wedding cake surrounded with a garland of greenery and pompon asters.

Rice bags were distributed at the reception by Misses Sheri and Brenda McCollum of Tulsa.

For a wedding trip to an Oklahoma lake resort, the bride departed in a 2-piece multi-colored ensemble with black crushed patent accessories. Her orchid corsage was lifted from her bridal bouquet.

They will be at home Wednesday in Amarillo where he is employed by Connally Implement and Supply Company.

The bride and groom are both students at West Texas State University.

Richard Craig Fuller and his bride, the former Deborah Jan Hodges, departed on a honeymoon trip to Honolulu, Hawaii following their wedding at 4:30 p. m. Sunday in First United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Clifford Trotter and the Rev. Norman Cobb officiated for the double ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hodges, Country Club Drive, Hereford, and Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Fuller of Borger, formerly of Hereford.

A pair of topiary bird cages filled with pompon chrysanthemums and a dove-centered the altar area with flanking pedestal arrangements of gladiolas and roses with stock and pompons. Completing the all-white nuptial setting was a massive arrangement of gladiolas and roses with stock and greenery on the communion table. White satin bows on the pews marked the white satin bridal aisle down which Mr. Hodges escorted his daughter.

The bride was attended by Miss Carmen Malouf as maid of honor and Misses Brenda Formby, Margaret Wilcox and Carla Fuller, the bridegroom's sister, as bridesmaids.

David Keast of Dalhart was best man and groomsmen were Fred Cozby, of Dallas, Gary Porter of Dalhart and Steve Robbins. Guests were ushered by Larry Kopp and Joe Dick Bell of Amarillo, Brent Caviness and Mike Higgins.

The bride's and groom's sisters, Kiska Hodges and Cathy Fuller were junior bridesmaids. Lisa Williams, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Roger Williams was flower girl.

Mrs. Evelyn Hacker, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Sherry White as she sang "A Time For Us" and "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a formal fitted gown and chapel train of candlelight silk peau de soie and embroidered Venice lace. The lace, encrusted with pearls and sequins made the empire bodice with a high-rise collar and long petal point sleeves. Her 4-tiered veil of imported French illusion was caught to a highly decorated Juliet bonnet. She carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Yellow and mint green taffeta and nylon made the empire styled gowns of the feminine attendants fashioned with lace bodice and short puffed sleeves. They wore matching garden hats and carried white net baskets of matching pompon chrysanthemums.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hodges wore a mint green silk 2-piece ensemble with matching accessories.

Mrs. Fuller, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue lace 2-piece dress with accessories matching her costume. They, both wore all-white corsages of roses and pompons.

The reception was held at the Hereford Country Club where guests were registered by Misses Laurel Davis and Carol Turrentine.

Topiary bird cages filled with white mums and roses flanked the bride's table which held the 4-tiered wedding cake. The groom's table was flanked by Grecian urns filled with roses and gladiolas with stock and baby's breath. A 3-tiered chocolate cake centered the table.

Presiding at the tables in formal spring colored gowns were Misses Connie Hooyer, Janie Zinser, Jan West, Kay Lynn Lyman, Cissie Reinauer and Debra Wilson.

Others assisting were Misses Teri Beth Line, Kay Lynn Ward and Cordella Suttler.

The bride departed for her honeymoon in a blue and white checked suit with blue accessories. They will be at home at 2301 7th Apt., Lubbock, where they will be enrolled at Texas Tech University this fall.

The bride is a recent graduate of Hereford High School where she was a twirler and a member of Tri-Hi-Y and FTA. She will be a freshman student at the university. The bridegroom was graduated from Dalhart High School and is a sophomore at Tech.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted Saturday evening at the Hereford Country Club by the parents of the bridegroom.
