HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

Does it pay to advertise in newspapers?

The merchant, small or large in resources who tries to persuade himself it is wasteful to advertise in newspapers, or that his particular clientele makes it unnecessary is kidding himself. Sooner or later he awakes to find some of that "particular clientele" gone off to other stores because those stores advertised aggressively what they had to sell and for how much.

That newspaper advertising pays has long been recognized by the leading manufacturers, jobbers and retailers of the country. What they can do with hundreds of thousands, even millions of dollars the smaller local merchant can do with his hundreds and his thousands.

In 1929, according to a very exhaustive survey by the American Newspaper Publishers Association as reported in Editor & Publisher, the trade journal of newspapermen, national advertisers spent $260,000,000 for newspaper space.

Automotive advertising amounted to $80,710,000 including $64,245,000 by 23 automobile and truck companies; $750,000 by five accessory companies; $10,415,000 by 28 gasoline and oil companies and $5,700,000 by 11 fire companies.

Grocery products made up the second largest division of national newspaper advertising with a total of $32,145,000. Five companies spent $555,000 in advertising foods; 12 companies spent $6,895,000 in pushing soaps and cleansers; 15 companies spent $3,770,000 advertising soft drinks; five companies spent $465,000 in advertising miscellaneous grocery products.

Insofar as newspaper advertising is concerned there is no competition in Big Spring on retail grocery prices. However, the public does get the benefit of competitive prices in advertising of dry goods, clothing, shoes and other merchandise.

The third group in point of expenditures consisted of drugists' sundries and toilet goods, $13,875,000. Other items included: tobaccos, $21,835,000; radios and phonographs, $16,320,000; travel and amusement, $12,205,000; house furniture and furnishings, $11,495,000; wearing apparel, $4,245,000; financial, $2,855,000; building materials and supplies, $3,150,000; office appliances, $1,970,000; publishers, $1,550,000; sporting goods, $500,000; miscellaneous, $2,215,000.

Incidentally the Herald of Monday had a full report of the Brady pistol duel. Tuesday, the morning papers circulated here carried the same story.

It pays to advertise.

CITY CLEAN UP CAMPAIGN, OPENED WITH PARADE, GETS INTO FULL SWING

Locations Are Made For New Wells In Penn

Two new producers and a pair of locations staked in the Penn pool of Ector county were features of early week development in the field located 14 miles west of Odessa.

Gulf Production Company took its post among other producing companies reaping the harvest from Ector county's new field with one definite completion and one semi-completion.

Gulf's No. 1 University, 370 feet north and 440 feet west of the southeast corner of section 1, block 25, university land, flowed at the rate of 130 barrels hourly for the first four hours from pay topped at 3,565 feet and drilled to a total depth of 3,631 feet. After testing 130 barrels per hour, the new well was pinched in and allowed to flow 1,600 barrels daily.

Gulf's No. A-1 University, 330 feet south and 440 feet west of the northeast corner of the north half of the south half of section 8, block 35, one-quarter mile south of Cosden's No. B-1 University, topped pay at 3,530 feet and was last reported drilling below 3,703 feet with the hole full of oil. Elevation of No. A-1 University is 2,884 feet, anhydrite was topped at 1,089 feet and brown lime was reached at 3,120 feet.

Cosden Oil Company figured prominently in the two new locations staked. One will be drilled by Cosden without assistance and will be known as No. B-3 University, 2,310 feet from the north line and 1,320 feet from the east line of section 2, block 35.

VERDICT REACHED
BOSTON, April 15 (AP)—A jury in Suffolk superior court today awarded $459,537 to the state in the latter's suit against Edgar B. Davis, former Brockton, millionaire, now of Luling, Texas, for back income taxes.

The clean up and paint up campaign launched Monday with a parade of school children in the afternoon, a play and general mass meeting in the high school auditorium in the evening, was to get into full swing early Wednesday morning when trash wagons will circulate through various districts and collect rubbish and other discarded material.

The play presented in the high school Monday evening was directed by Clara Secret and Mrs. Fred Hopkins. Characters were dressed in appropriate costumes representing cleanliness, fire protection and others were representing the more undesirable elements such as dirt, insects, fire waste paper, rubbish, flies and sickness.

One of the features of Monday evening's mass meeting was presentation of awards and announcement of winners in the essay contest conducted among high school students. James Little, county attorney, presented cash prizes of $3, $3 and $2 donated by the real estate board. The essay of Dorothy Driver was judged the winning manuscript with those of Pauline Melton and Elsie Duff ranking second and third in the order given.

Mrs. M. B. Showalter, Mrs. J. C. Douglas, Mrs. Fox Striplin, James Little and Garland Woodward were judges of the essays entered.

C. T. Watson, manager of the chamber of commerce, explained how the commercial organization's civic has organized the clean up and paint up campaign and read a description of 29 districts in which the city has been divided. Mr. Watson also gave a complete list of district chairmen who are responsible for collecting the rubbish in their divisions.

The 29 districts into which the city was divided for the clean up and paint up campaign have been combined into five units in which trash collecting wagons will operate one half day each.

The schedule for trash wagons follows:

Wednesday morning, districts 21 to 25 inclusive.

Wednesday afternoon, districts 26 to 29 inclusive.

Thursday morning, districts 11 to 15 inclusive.

Thursday afternoon, districts 16 to 20 inclusive.

Friday morning, districts 5 to 10 inclusive.

Saturday, districts 1 to 4 inclusive.

Property owners, tenants and committees in all 29 districts are asked to take cognizance of the schedule and direct every effort during remainder of the week to gathering trash in their districts and piling it in some spot accessible by wagons. The city is cooperating in the movement by furnishing a free trash gathering system and officials hope citizens will cooperate with the movement by taking advantage of the service offered.

A complete list of all districts, committees and other important information concerning details and plans of the clean up and paint up campaign were printed in Sunday's issue of The Herald. Those not familiar with districts in which his property is located may obtain that information from Sunday's paper.

Gas Causes Line To Be Kinked In Andrews Wildcat

Deep Rock Oil Company and others No. 1 A, R. King, which is now drilling at 2,903 feet, the deepest of three tests now being drilled in Andrews county by the exploration organization, is temporarily shut down awaiting delivery of a new line. The oil drilling line was kinked when gas blew tools up in the hole from a total depth of 2,903 feet.

Other markers topped in the Andrews county pool included Deep Rock's No. 1 Hayden Miles, 990 feet south and 1,650 feet east of the northwest corner of section 22, block A-46, public school land, which encountered salt at a total depth of 1,700 feet. The well is located one and one-half miles south of Deep Rock's No. 1 Ogden, the discovery producer.

No. 1 Miles is located 990 feet south and 1,650 feet east of the northwest corner of section 22, block A-46, public school land. Top of salt in No. 1 Miles is 1,700 feet, which gives it a plus datum of 1,496 feet, 12 feet lower than top of salt in No. 1 A, R. King, south of section 11, block A-46. Gas at 2,903 feet topped salt at 1,698 feet, 1,508 feet above sea level.

No. 1 A, R. King, which encountered gas at 2,903 feet, estimated at 2,000,000 cubic feet daily, is a south offset to No. 1 Ogden and 320 feet from the north line and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 11, block A-46. Gas at 2,903 feet corresponds closely to gas in No. 1 Ogden at 2,925 feet. No. 1 King was shut down for a new line, the one in use becoming kinked when gas blew tools up in the hole.

Fourth Deep Oil Producer Gained In Reagan Field

RITA SANTA, April 15.—Group No. 1 Oil Corporation's (Texas) No. B-2 University, indicating itself to be the fourth producer in the Big Lake pool of Reagan county to flow from below the 8,000 foot level, was being conditioned for producing.

Operations were moving rollers back and pumping mud into the hole to kill gas and to test pay topped at 3 o'clock Monday morning at 9,181 feet in shale. It was thought the well would be connected up by Tuesday evening. Gas estimated at 15,000,000 cubic feet daily was spewing from the hole carrying some gas. The flow was directed into the slush pit and had not been estimated, although, it was thought about 800 barrels of oil had been accumulated in the pit.

Pay in Texon's No. B-2 University, was topped higher than in any of the other three deep producers in the field and 21 feet higher than heretofore. The well is located 4,655 feet from the south line and 250 feet from the west line of section 36, block 9, University land. It has an elevation of 2,705.26 feet, making the top of pay 5,425.74 feet below sea level, compared with the top of pay in Texon's No. C-2 University, 5,117 feet below sea level. The new producer is about one-quarter mile north of Big Lake's No. B-1 University, the discovery deep producer and the world's deepest producer from 8,825 feet.

More Suits Filed On Smith Lands

FORT STOCKTON, April 15 (AP)—Despite the fact that the "original Smith suit" was dismissed about two weeks ago, more suits have been filed involving the rich Monroe ranch which has spouted millions in oil.

The latest cases filed are by the Permian Oil Company against Jerry Monroe and others, including a long list of defendants, and by the same company against the Mrs. M. A. Smith estate.

The oil company is seeking a one-sixteenth share in $1,500,000 which is the amount said to have been gained from the old Monroe and Hickok ranches in Pecos county and in what is now the Yates field. The case dates back to 1911 when the land was cheap and before the black gold had sent its value skyrocketing. In that year a boundary dispute arose between the Hickoks and the Monroes. Unfortunately, perhaps, the case was never called to trial because of the cheapness of the land it was dismissed.

New England Solon Issues Statement To Probers

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—A charge that the Anti-Saloon League has repeatedly violated the federal corrupt practices act was made today before the senate job-by committee by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts.

Saying the league had collected and expended $67,565,313 from 1883 to 1926 inclusive, Tinkham testified that only "nominal returns had been made to the clerk of the house of representatives of the sums used for political purposes."

Tinkham, a wet, demanded that the committee obtain the names of at least the larger contributors. He said these had never been made public.

He also requested the committee to summon Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the books and papers of the Southern Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service, of which Cannon is chairman.

Cannon has informed the committee he would be glad to appear and furnish any information desired.

Tinkham already has requested that the committee investigate the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Federal Council of Churches.

PRODUCTION INCREASES VERY LITTLE

TULSA, Okla., April 15 (AP)—Coincidental with increases in oil prices by various companies, the estimated daily average production of light and heavy gravity oil in the United States for the week ending April 12, climbed a modest 32,211 barrels, recording 2,558,496 says the current report of the Oil & Gas Journal.

The light oil increase was 37,054 barrels daily average for the week ending April 5 was 2,526,285 barrels.

Oklahoma's 29,485 barrel gain contributed principally to the gain. Of this 16,260 was added by the Seminola, and 12,045 by the Oklahoma City fields. Declines in the Gulf coast and Southwest Texas fields caused the decrease in heavy oil production. Slight gains were reported in the Eastern and Rocky Mountain areas while California remained virtually constant.

Kansas production was 124,950 against 117,320 barrels for the previous week.

El Paso-Prsidio Road Predicted

EL PASO, April 15 (AP)—Possibility that a new $6,000,000 border highway linking El Paso and Prsidio, Texas, in a 200-mile paved strip traversing the wild Big Bend country would be constructed with State and Federal aid, entirely removing the burden of the project from the counties, is reported here.

County Judge E. B. McClintock of El Paso was authority for the statement that the State Highway Commission was willing to pay half the cost of the road if the national government would furnish the other half. A meandering, nearly impassable road, connects the two points now.

Prsidio, now a mere hamlet, probably will become an important Mexican border point when the Alpine extension of the Santa Fe railway is completed to the Rio Grande at that point.

Concrete Demanded For Rankin Road

RANKIN, April 15 (AP)—The commissioners' court of Upton county has made formal request to concrete highway department to concrete highway 39 through this county, claiming that the election call for the necessary $500,000 bond issue specified that material.

Members of the court said they had been informed the state contracted building the road of macadam at a cost of $10,000 or $12,000 a mile less. In the event this is attempted the commissioners said they would seek to enjoin construction of the road.

Dirt work, drainage and structures from the east side of Upton county to the Crane county line west of McCamey have been started. This will be the first surfacing of roads through the untaxed land of the University of Texas. The highway traverses 11 miles of university lands in this county.

Simmons smacked the second pitched ball over the right field wall for a home run after Haas had walked. Two were out then and Fox grounded to Lazzeri.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15 (AP)—Al Simmons, star outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, has come to terms with Manager Connie Mack and will appear in the game with the New York Yankees this afternoon.

Real Experiment

NO NEWS from Russia has been more interesting than the announcement that a new "Socialist city" is to be built on the River Ural, to provide homes for 50,000 people on a strictly communistic basis.
 Never before has such a thorough-going experiment on so large a scale been tried. According to United Press dispatches, the inhabitants will work, eat and live in common. The women, freed from household tasks, will take their places with the men in industrial life. Children from birth to maturity will be brought up in special children's quarters, living away from their parents. Food for the whole city will be cooked in and distributed from one enormous kitchen.
 You may think what you will of his, but at least it has the merit of being different. When it comes to out and out experimentation, the Russians seem to be afraid of nothing at all.

The New Home

ALTHOUGH ex-President Coolidge describes his new home in Northampton as "a modest place with a little land," it is becoming evident that to the average citizen it would seem quite palatial. An 11-room house with nine acres of ground hardly seems modest to most of us.
 Of course, anything less would hardly be fitting for an ex-president. If any man in the country is entitled to a little luxury and display, it is a former occupant of the White House.
 So modest or luxurious, no American will begrudge the Coolidges their new home. Indeed, all citizens undoubtedly will unite in wishing the quiet Northampton couple a world of happiness and contentment in their spacious house with its roomy grounds.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

The "Lame Duck" Amendment Again.

Leghita Daily Times:
 THE EFFORT to abolish the "lame duck" session of congress has been renewed, and in a hopeful way. A house committee has given a favorable report on the resolution. In the past, it has always been the house that has defeated the plan, the senate having several times approved it. This time the prospect for favorable action by the house seems brighter.
 The resolution would submit a constitutional amendment making Jan. 4 instead of March 4, the date on which presidential and congressional terms would begin, also the date on which annual sessions of congress would begin. Its adoption would do away entirely with the short or "lame duck" session and would shorten by two months the interval between election and inauguration. The changes embodied in the resolution should have been made a century ago, when the railroad first removed the necessity for the long delay. It is hard to understand why congress should have so long refused to make possible such an amendment. San Francisco is now closer to Washington, in point of time required to travel, than New York City was when the constitution was written. The provision under which a congressman or senator who has been defeated in the polls may continue to serve for three months is flagrantly unconstitutional, and the necessity for it long since disappeared. The states will rejoice in the opportunity to ratify the amendment if congress submits it.

BLOOD PRESSURE

There is a saw about that runs: "When the stock market goes down blood pressure goes up."

The stock market is a relatively recent institution, but the study of blood pressure is almost as old as the science of medicine.

The ancient physicians placed much diagnostic value on the pulse, and on the basis of its character attempted to diagnose illness, prescribe treatment and forecast results.

But before the invention of dependable time-pieces and of some means for measuring blood pressure most of the true message of the pulse was undecipherable to the observer.

One of the earliest attempts to time the pulse was made by Galileo in the seventeenth century. He once observed the swinging of a suspended lamp in a cathedral and noted that, no matter how large the arc, the time consumed in its swing from one extreme to the other was the same.

Since he did not have a watch by which to time the swinging, this ingenious thinker conceived the idea of using his steady pulse as a measure.

Then, reversing the process, he measured the pulse by the time it took to swing a pendulum with a cord of varying length. The faster the pulse the shorter the pendulum.

The longer the pendulum the more time it takes to complete its swing. If pulse and pendulum keep in time, pulse rate could be measured by the length of the pendulum.

An ingenious idea!
 But neither pulse nor blood pressure could really be understood until functions of the heart and of the circulatory system were known.

This knowledge was given us by a contemporary of Galileo, the great William Harvey. On the basis of Harvey's discovery it was subsequently possible for Stephen Hales, a clergyman, without a medical degree, to study blood pressure and to give us a first mean for its measurement.

It required the work of many other scientists, among them some of the most famous physiologists, to give us the blood pressure instrument of today.

Investigation Follows Primo Knockout In 6

OAKLAND, Calif., April 15 (AP)—An investigation of reports that the Primo Carnera-Leon Chevalier fight was "faked," was begun today by the California state boxing commission, which withheld the giant Italian's $10,000 purse.

A near riot broke out in the sixth round of the ten-round fight last night when one of the negro's seconds tossed a towel into the ring, awarding the contest to Carnera on a technical knockout.

The second, Bob Perry of Hollywood, immediately became the center of a milling mob which handled him roughly and inflicted a gash over one eye.

Ringriders protested vigorously that Chevalier, who weighed 216 pounds, was not in distress, and some fight critics said they believed he was in better condition than Carnera.

Tim McGrath, manager and chief second of the negro, said he was so surprised at Perry's action he failed to protest to the referee.

Chevalier, with one exception the only fighter to stay more than two rounds with Carnera, put up a good fight. He stood up to his huge opponent and ringriders believed he made an impressive showing, despite a nine count knockdown in the sixth round.

Al Simmons Is Genuine Outlaw

PHILADELPHIA, April 15 (AP)—Al Simmons, left field ace of the Athletics, stood revealed today as a sure-enough holdout, and Manager Mack, announcing he was unable to come to salary terms with the Milwaukee mauler, ordered Spencer Harris, obtained from Detroit, in the lineup in the opening game with the Yankees.

Mack announced the Simmons status yesterday after a final conference with the player and declared "it was impossible to come to a agreement with him. He intimidated Simmons would not be sold or traded and the club would not recede from its stand."

Neither Mack nor Simmons would state the salary offered or demanded, but Simmons, according to newspaper men, said a guess of $35,000 was "very close" to the sum he asked for this year.

Hollywood Sights

HOLLYWOOD—Having made their bed, the screen's two William Boyds are finding the lying in it none too comfortable.

Nearly a year ago, when William Boyd was star of "What Price Glory" on the New York stage came to Hollywood the William Boyd who was star of the screen's "Volta Boatman" was annoyed, to say the least, to see the name of one, but neither would agree. There was also talk, probably for publicity's sake, of the screen Boyd's suing the "interloper" for daring to use his own name on the screen. Nothing came of it, however, and since then the movie fan, seeing "William Boyd" advertised as star of a new talkie, must take a chance on which it'll be.

WILLIAM BOYD

MUCH IN A NAME

The two are no nearer a compromise now than at the beginning of the controversy, but they are having abundant cause to regret the situation. They receive and open each other's mail, they get each other's bills, they answer the telephone to be mystified by the friendly voice at the other end which speaks of things they know nothing about.

William (Stage) Boyd—that's how subtle, imaginative Hollywood distinguishes him in conversation—the other day received checks from admiring ladies in New York requesting his photograph—but mentioning pictures in which the other Boyd appeared.

Maybe here's an opportunity for some enterprising racketeer to establish a "Boyd Clearing House" to attend to the exchange of mail, bills, phone calls, etcetera.

MOVIE VETERAN

It is a little known fact, by the way, that the William Boyd of the stage really preceded the "screen" William on the screen. The stage actor 18 years ago made a movie of his stage success, "Stop Thief!" and intermittently appeared in other pictures, the last of which, in which he supported Anita Stewart, was made about 12 years ago.

After that, he preferred the stage until the screen began to talk.

It looks as though Lon Chaney and Henry Earle, the midget, will be the only players in the talkie version of "The Unholy Three" who appeared in the original.

JACQUELINE ON HER OWN

by RICHARD STARR

SYNOPSIS: Mrs. Porter Mason is revealed as a thief. The $10,000 diamond necklace she stole is carried away from Circo's by Jacqueline unknowingly. When she finds it, she is gripped with fear and hides it in a palm in her hotel suite. She sees Mr. Arthur Carew whom Mrs. Mason introduced, in a new light, when he calls to take her out for dinner, and finds him searching her living room for the diamond necklace. Mr. Carew proposes on the way home from the theatre, as the climax to a 48 hour acquaintance. Jacqueline gently refuses him but permits him to call again. She finds Detective McAllister called in her absence and her fears increase. She longs to have Teddy's counsel and asks on his shoulder when he finally appears. She tells him she has the necklace but a search of the palm shows it has disappeared.

You are well rid of the thing." "But the police," said Jacqueline. "There is this man, Detective McAllister of Scotland Yard. He knows, and he is coming here to arrest me."

"Not a bit of it," returned Teddy, with hearty confidence. "If he had wanted to arrest you, he would have waited for you to return."

"What am I to do if he comes again, as I suppose he will?" "Say nothing," advised Teddy. "Let him do the talking. That's always a good plan. In the present circumstances it seems the best thing to admit nothing at all about the diamonds. You did not steal them and you have not got them. If you stick to that I don't see how they can get past it. If they don't find the stolen goods on you or in your rooms, I don't see how they can prove anything."

Jacqueline determined to follow Teddy's advice and felt much buoyed by his visit.

The grim Inspector McAllister did not come that day. In fact, two days more went by, and Jacqueline was just beginning to recover her normal spirits before he put in an appearance.

Her funds were rapidly dwindling and she was not only not enjoying herself but fretting most of the time.

"From this moment I intend to forget all about everything and enjoy myself, even if Teddy does stay away from me."

Incidentally, Teddy had not been near her for two-days and this was contributing considerably to Jacqueline's depression, although she would not acknowledge it.

And no sooner had she come to this decision, than the red-headed page-boy appeared and announced Mr. McAllister.

She rose with one of her most charming smiles and bowed in response to Mr. McAllister's bow.

He was the antithesis of her mental picture of a Scotland Yard detective—short and stocky; a rufous face, thick neck and lack luster eyes.

Grey," he began, "but I shall not trespass upon your time for more than a few minutes. It's about the affair at Circo's night club."

"The—the what?" asked Jacqueline incredulously.

"Just to save you time," he said softly in a voice that was a purr, "I will go over the points in this little matter. It will save asking questions."

"Of course, you are the young woman we have been pretending to want."

"Pretending to want," murmured Jacqueline.

"Yes. You see it sometimes is necessary to issue a statement like that to throw people off the scent."

Jacqueline gazed at him steadfastly. Perhaps he was not as sleepy as he looked and she sat in silent amazement while he told her all about her adventures and cited her own personal history.

"That is all quite right" was all Jacqueline could say when he concluded. This man seemed to know everything. Perhaps he knew about the diamonds too.

"Thank you, Miss Grey," Mr. McAllister courteously replied. You have showed a readiness to assist police which does you credit. I shall not detain you more than another minute. The question I wish to ask is—where is your friend Mrs. Porter Mason?"

"I am afraid I cannot tell you," she said. "Mrs. Porter Mason did not return after the raid, and I have not seen her since. I had never seen her before I met her at this hotel. Are you suggesting that there is—er, anything discreditable about her?"

"Not at all. Not at all," said Mr. McAllister. We are merely anxious to find Mrs. Porter Mason, because we believe she may be able to help us."

That was all—not a word about diamonds. The interview concluded. Mr. McAllister had looked keenly into Jacqueline's face when he asked his question, and apparently he was satisfied that she was telling the truth.

He took his leave very politely, and although Jacqueline had an uncomfortable feeling that he knew more than he had revealed, she felt a flood of relief when the door closed on him.

There was no more need to worry about the stolen necklace. The thing was gone, and thank goodness that load was lifted from her mind. Also she had no need to worry about the police description of herself as a wanted woman. It was only a blind. The police did not want her.

So Jacqueline's troubles were cleared away, and there remained nothing for her to do but to have the best possible time she could while the rest of her money lasted, so that she would have something pleasant to think about when she went back to work for her living.

A handsome lineup of prizes has been arranged for first, second, third and fourth placers in three classes, for winners in the doubles and for low gun men.

The meet is to serve as a general get-together warm-up of West Texas trappers preliminary to the state tournament next month in Houston.

The West Texas field is so strong that San Angelo shooters are expected to encounter great difficulty in holding the upper hand...

Beall, Bramblett and Bodenheimer are expected to give others a stiff run for the money.

Morton of McCamey, Morrow of Big Spring, Neil of Odessa and the Newman brothers of Sweetwater are all figured to finish high.

35 to Town About First Time in Month

MRS. ALICE BRADLEY

"I don't know what there is in Sargon, but it's the most wonderful medicine I ever took in my life! Today is the first time I've been able to come down town alone in six months and it is due to the wonderful strengthening effects of this remarkable medicine!"

"For months my nerves were upset and I was so rundown that I was unable to do my housework, and hardly able to get out of the house. I was so weak I spent most of my time in bed. My appetite was poor, the lightest foods disagreed with me and I suffered continually with chronic constipation. I am on my fourth bottle of Sargon, my appetite is splendid, my digestion is perfect, I'm strong and energetic, my nerves are strengthened and my housework is really a pleasure. Sargon Pills have rid me of constipation for the first time in years."

Earle Sande Loses Race in Comeback

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 15 (AP)—Earle Sande, for a decade one of the greatest of American jockeys, has begun a comeback that he hopes will again put him at or near the top of the list once more.

Sande who retired as a jockey to become an owner-trainer at the end of the 1928 season, was astride Frank Hayes' Rockside yesterday, but finished out of the money. The public, rallying to the support of the 32-year-old rider, hastened to plunge on Rockside, and the Hayes' entry went to the post a well-backed favorite.
