County Commissioners Okay Revised Juvenile Resolution

The county commission, hoping to get the resolution before the state legislature early next year, Monday adopted a revised version of a resolution to establish a juvenile board for Deaf Smith County.

The endorsement of the resolution marked the second time this month the county has approved the proposal. The commissioners endorsed a similar bill Dec. 14 after the school board had endorsed it in its meeting Dec. 18. The city commission, however, rejected the resolution on Dec. 21 because it said the resolution gave the juvenile board too much power.

The school, when it adopted the resolution, made the stipulation that its endorsement would be effective only if the county and city both okayed the proposal.

The main concern of the city was the wording of the proposal which said the juvenile board would disburse the money needed to operate a juvenile office. The original resolution set no boundaries on how much money the juvenile board could or could not spend.

City attorney Earnest Langley and county attorney Andy Shulmet met with the county commissioners and three representatives of the city commission Monday and revised the resolution. The county wanted the resolution speeded up so that it could be presented to the state legislature during the early days of its next session.

The county commissioners said they saw no harm in the way the resolution was worded since the resolution was an exact copy of the same one used by Moore County when they asked for the formation of a juvenile board.

Langley told the commissioners the terminology of the bill was the main concern of the city commission.

"The board, under the resolution the way it is, would have the authority to write their own budget," he said.

The budget section of the resolution was finally agreed on to include a clause that would allow the juvenile board to disburse the money for the operations, provided it was approved by the county commission, with the advice of the city and school boards.

Also, the resolution read that the state would create the juvenile board and this was changed to where the state would give the county the authority to create a juvenile board when it felt necessary and to provide that the juvenile board can be dissolved when the three governing bodies feel it necessary.

Under the resolution, the city, school and county boards will provide one-third the cost of operating a juvenile office.

Langley said in changing the resolution to read where the county commission would have the authority to create the board this would give the county the "enabling statute" instead of the "self-executing" statute where the state creates the board.

Registration End Is Near

Voter registration in Deaf Smith County goes into its final month as the Jan. 31 deadline draws near.

Nell Miller, tax assessor-collector, said Tuesday that about 4,000 county residents have already registered since registration began Oct. 1 but this number should increase only slightly because 1971 is an "off" year in politics.

Last year 6,099 registered, Mrs. Miller said, but her office does not expect that many.

Voters who register by the Jan. 31 deadline will be able to vote in all local city, county, school and bond elections and any national elections that might come up.

Mrs. Miller said the county tax office is holding applications for 18 year-olds to vote until she receives word from Austin. There are no elections known at this time for the coming year that will give 18-year-olds the opportunity to vote.

A recent Supreme Court ruling upheld Congressional action that gave 18-year-olds the right to vote, but only in national elections and not in state and local elections.

Loans To Veterans Remain In Question

Direct loans for the purchase of mobile homes by service veterans is still pending and no information will be available until mid-January, according to county service officer Benny Womble.

The federal government enacted legislation earlier this year that would give service veterans the opportunity to buy a mobile home through a direct loan from the government. However, Womble said, for some reason the official okay on the direct loans has not come into being.

The loans were scheduled to be made available to veterans beginning Dec. 23, but Womble was notified this week that this is not available at this time and is not to accept any applications from veterans for the loans.

"For some reason this has not come through for us, and the office in Waco said it would probably be about the middle of January before we find out anything more," Womble said.

The government will loan up to $17,500 for the purchase of mobile homes to veterans of U.S.-involved wars, including World War II and the Korean War. The money will be disbursed at $10,000 for the purchase of a trailer, $5,000 for the purchase of land on which to locate the trailer, and $2,500 to use in improvements of the land if necessary.

The loan can be paid back in a period of 12 years and 32 days, Womble said. The amount of the down payment still is not known.

2nd In A Series: Tax Reform Broadens New Home Changes

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles prepared by the Texas Society of Public Accountants offering advice on filing 1970 Federal income tax returns.

The 1969 Tax Reform Act made significant changes in the 1970 tax consequences of moving to a new home because of a job change or transfer by one's employer, according to Miller Montag, President of the Texas Society of CPAs.

The new law broadened the allowable deduction for the costs of such a move, Montag said, and extended the moving expenses deduction under certain circumstances to self-employed individuals. But the law also added new limitations.

One test of whether moving costs are deductible is the distance moved. Under the prior tax law, the distance from one's former residence to his new job had to be at least 20 miles greater than it was to the old job. That minimum has now been increased to 50 miles, Montag said.

There is still a requirement, he said, that the taxpayer work full time at the new location for at least 39 weeks in the 12 month period following the move, in order to qualify for the deduction.

Moving expenses formerly and still deductible include the costs of transporting household effects (which covers packing, crating and in-transit storage as well) and the costs of travel, meals and lodging for the taxpayer and his family in making the move.

The new law permits the further deduction of travel, meal and lodging expenses incurred in pre-move house-hunting trips and, after obtaining employment, meals and lodging during a period of up to 30 days while waiting at the new job location to take occupancy of the new home.

Also, Montag said, attorneys' fees, real estate agents' commissions and other expenses incurred in disposing of the old residence and acquiring the new one can be deducted.

Expenses incurred in moving the taxpayer's household goods and transporting members of the household to the new home are not subject to any limitation. But the other, indirect expenses of moving have an overall limit of $2,500, he said, including no more than $1,000 for the cost of house hunting trips and temporary living costs.

Any reimbursement of moving expenses made by an employer must be included in the recipient's gross income and is subject to withholding.

Five Up For Induction In January Draft Board Call

The January draft call for the local four-county board has been set at five men for induction and 41 for pre-induction physical examination, according to a spokesman for the local board.

The five for induction and 21 for physicals will be called on Jan. 12 and the remaining 20 for physicals will be called Jan. 25.

The state quota of 905 for January will be filled with men from the Extended Priority Selection Group and with men from the First Priority Selection Group for 1971.

Col. Charles Duncan, Lt. Colonel, USMCR, said the Extended Priority Selection Group includes all those men in I-A or I-A-O on Dec. 31, 1970, whose random sequence numbers were reached by their local boards during 1970 but who were not called. This group is made up of young men born between 1944 and 1950 who have not reached their 26th birthday.

The First Priority Selection Group for January will include men with random sequence numbers 100 and below and random sequence number 100 is expected to remain the ceiling for several months. This group is composed of young men who reached age 19 during 1970, and who received lottery number in the July 1970 drawing and have not received deferments or exemptions from service.

Colonel Duncan stressed that those men in the Extended Priority Selection Group will be ordered ahead of those in the First Priority Selection Group, and the 100 ceiling applies only to the 1971 First Priority Selection Group and does not affect the liability of those men in the Extended Priority Selection Group.

The January figure of 905 is up from 489 in December, and is the state's share of a national quota of 17,000 men, all for the Army.

The state quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations is 4,340, up from 3,378 in December.

Party To Honor Velma Hodges

On her last day as Deaf Smith County Treasurer, an office she has held for 30 years, Velma Hodges will be honored with an informal farewell party today by other county office holders and courthouse employees.

Not a candidate for reelection this year, Mrs. Hodges will be succeeded as county treasurer by Vesta Mae Nunley at the beginning of 1971.

Her friends in this area are invited to call at her office on the second floor of the courthouse, where open house will be held all day today.

Card Drive Nets $2,900

The 14th Annual Project Christmas Card drive, sponsored by the Hereford Medical Auxiliary, collected $2,930 to be used in purchasing equipment for the local hospital.

The auxiliary, made up of wives of Hereford dentists and doctors, promote the project idea — to donate to the fund the money usually spent to send local friends Christmas greetings.

The 1970 gift will be a Motorola emergency radio communication system. The project will pay for the base unit, tower, and receivers for key hospital personnel such as anesthesiologist, X-ray and lab technicians.

Doctors will purchase their own receivers to be carried in their pockets at all times. A loud "beep" which can be heard no matter what the wearer is doing, will be the signal for help.

Past drives have provided Deaf Smith County hospital with furniture for the children's wing and the obstetrical floor, operating table and isolette and bassinets for the nursery, community center, dishwasher and disposal for the hospital kitchen, obstetrical table, cardiac and defibrillator monitor and closed circuit TV for two rooms, infant respirator, cast table, doctors in-hospital call system, dental equipment and recovery room equipment.

Within the past decade Project Christmas Card has raised more than $30,000 in funds. Amounts raised have varied from the highest, $5,537 the first year, to the lowest, $1,106 in 1962.

Other uses for the funds have gone to provide a scholarship each year for a spring graduate of Hereford High School who plans to further her education in nursing.

Businesses To Close Friday

Hereford businesses will greet the new year with closed doors.

Almost every business at Sugarland Mall and in Downtown Variety Park will close Friday in observance of New Year's day only while city and county offices will observe an extra long weekend.

The businesses at Sugarland Mall and in Downtown Variety Park will close only for Friday then re-open their doors on Saturday morning.

Both the Hereford State Bank and the First National Banks will close at their regular times Thursday and will not open again until Monday. The same is true of High Plains Savings and Loan Association and the Credit Union.

City and county offices will follow the same procedure by closing at their regular time today and remaining closed until Monday.

Nolan Grady, Postmaster, said the post office will be closed New Year's Day only and then open back up for the regular Saturday morning business until 10 a. m. Special and post office box delivery will be provided New Year's Day, but no window service.

"LITTLE BUT MIGHTY" — At Stanton Junior High's recent Christmas musical, the seventh grade boys' choir, above, overcame the handicap of several absent members and gave an accomplished performance under the direction of Douglas Morris.

The program also included carols by the seventh grade girls, eighth and ninth grade girls and mixed choirs and the school band.

CANYON — West Texas State and the Tulsa Golden Hurricane will renew football relations next fall, making the Buffaloes eligible for the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

The Oct. 2 game at Buffalo Stadium was announced jointly last week by Joe Kerbel, West Texas State director of athletics and head football coach, and Dr. John Dratz, Tulsa acting athletic director. No future games were announced but Kerbel said other dates would be worked out. With the addition of Tulsa, the Buffaloes now have the required four conference games to make them eligible for the MVC title in 1971.

Questions About Veterans Benefits

Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office. Q — I am a disabled veteran receiving additional compensation for my 17-year-old son who recently enlisted in the Navy. Must I report his enlistment to the VA, and will VA stop the additional compensation because of his enlistment? A — The answer to both questions is "no." The additional compensation will continue until your son reaches 18, regardless of his military service. Q — My son received 36 months of training under the Dependents Educational Assistance Program and has now been ordered to active duty. Will he still be eligible for educational assistance under the GI bill? A — Yes. If your son serves on active duty at least 181 days and receives an other than dishonorable discharge, he will be eligible for additional education assistance. A veteran may use up to 48 months when he is entitled under two or more programs, but all time used under laws administered by the VA will be deducted from this maximum entitlement. Q — My father was a World War II veteran, and after his death I received $40 per month death pension. I am now a 22-year-old Vietnam veteran enrolled in college under the GI Bill. Am I still eligible for the pension benefits in addition to my veteran benefits? A — Yes, if you have never married, and meet the income limitation of $1,800 maximum, you will be eligible for the $40 pension benefit until you reach 23. Your GI Bill payments, in excess of the amounts expended for training, are considered income. Q — My father has a service-connected gastritis condition which, for several years, VA rated him at 60 per cent disabled. Since the condition prevents him from being employable, am I eligible for an educational allowance as a child of a disabled veteran? A — No. The veteran must be rated by the VA as permanently and totally disabled. However, since you indicated your father may be unemployed, he should submit proof of this fact and request his claim be reopened. If he should be rated 100 per cent disabled based on individual unemployability because of his disability, you might then become eligible.

Texas Gets $25 Million In South Plains College Offers Federal Vocational Funds Advance Placement Exams

AUSTIN — Texas this year will receive more than $25 million in federal support funds for vocational education programs. According to John R. Guemple, Texas Education Agency associate commissioner for occupational education and technology. Hereford Schools will show in most, if not all, of this appropriation through programs already in operation.

The $25,639,669 allocation released by the U. S. Office of Education is the third highest in the nation, topped only by California and New York.

In addition to these federal funds, Texas vocational programs are also supported by $11,266,370 in state general revenue allotment. Total budget for the 1971 fiscal year is $36,906,039.

New funds released directly to Texas for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971, include $20,539,898 in basic grants to help finance vocational programs for both students and adults in the public schools, community colleges, and special training programs. Additional grants include:

Consumer and Homemaking Education — $1,357,368. One-third of this allotment must be used in Texas' economically depressed areas, including both the inner cities and other pockets of high unemployment. Regular programs in other areas must also put strong emphasis on consumer education, including the use of time and money by the homemaker.

Research — $1,142,217. Research and development projects will focus on a number of factors, including the influence of vocational education on school dropout rates, specialized curricula for teaching new skills, adult programs, future employment needs, and long range planning.

Disadvantaged — $1,277,466. One of the most successful programs in this key area is the Coordinated Vocational-Academic Education (CVAE) offered in both junior and senior high schools. CVAE combines vocational and modified academic instruction enabling students to develop salable skills and, at the same time, strengthen their basic knowledge of mathematics, English, social studies, and science.

Cooperative Education — $646,382. Business and industries cooperate with the public schools to provide on-the-job programs for students 16 years and older. Firms may be reimbursed for cost of tools, uniforms, transportation, and other expenses of training programs.

Work-Study Programs — $311,766. These funds pay the salaries of secondary and community college students employed part-time in the schools or other government agencies. These students must need the jobs in order to continue training in vocational programs.

Exemplary Programs — $253,309. Programs now under way in Texas include bilingual office education, occupational orientation for elementary and junior high age students, and a totally new concept of a curriculum designed to train personnel for the entire construction industry.

The overall allocation also includes $91,245 for the Texas Advisory Council on Technical-Vocational Education, a citizen group of leading business, labor, industrial, and professional men and women working closely with the Agency to develop future programs needed in the state.

This program allows students to obtain credit for courses by proving their knowledge of the course material on an examination approved by the department under which the course is offered.

One of the testing programs used at South Plains College is the College Level Examination Program (CLEP Tests). Tests in English Composition, College Algebra, Trigonometry, General Psychology, General Sociology, American Government, Biology, and American History will be available. Students who score satisfactorily on one or more of these tests will be given credit for the courses covered by the examinations.

Credit for the first semester of General Chemistry may be earned by satisfactorily completing an examination prepared by the Chemistry Department at South Plains College. Departmental examinations are also available in several other areas and information will be furnished upon request.

There is a charge of $5 for each examination taken. The testing program is open to students who are currently enrolled in South Plains College and to high school graduates who plan to enter South Plains College.

The following limitations have been established by the College:

- (1) credit by examination will be awarded only after the student has officially enrolled in South Plains College;
- (2) a maximum of 18 semester hours of college credit can be earned by examination;
- (3) students may not receive credit by examination for a course in which they have officially enrolled in any college;
- (4) examinations cannot be repeated to make a higher grade.

A&M Offers Adult Education Course

A Texas A&M University graduate level course on adult education principles is being offered for the spring semester at the Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland.

The course — Agricultural Education 610, Principles of Adult Education — will be taught by Dr. James E. Christiansen of the A&M Agricultural Education Department. It will have three semester hours of residence credit.

Main objective of the offering is to show how adult education programs can be set up under a variety of conditions and situations.

Christiansen said the course should be of interest to high school and college teachers, Extension Service personnel, company training directors, church school leaders and other persons dealing with teaching or organizing adult education programs.

He said Agricultural Education 610 can be used as a course in the block of 12 semester hours allotted to "Resource Areas" in the programs for secondary supervisor and vocational agriculture as approved at Texas A&M.

Prerequisites are a bachelor's degree and admission to the A&M Graduate College before completion of final registration.

The course will have 12 late afternoon and evening sessions of four 50-minute periods each. Christiansen said final dates for class sessions will be set after consulting with class members at the first meeting Jan. 20. Registration is at 5 p. m. Jan. 13 at the Southwestern Great Plains Research Center.

 And we point with pride
 every single year

It has been 18 years now since we decided to make Hereford our home and established McDowell Drug in the second block of Main. Since that time, we have continued to grow with Hereford, and have moved twice—each time to larger quarters. We're eternally grateful that we did decide to stop in Hereford because not only has our business prospered and grown, but we've also found this to be the finest community with the finest people in Texas. And on our 18th Anniversary, we want to express our deep appreciation to our many friends and customers who have made our stay possible and profitable. Thanks, and we're looking forward to many more years of service to Hereford and surrounding territory.

Adventure Tale Of Shirley McLaine

An extraordinary memoir of an extraordinary movie star is now available at the Deaf Smith County Library. If you're interested in Shirley McLaine's story, check into this one today.

DON'T FALL OFF THE MOUNTAIN

By Shirley McLaine
This is no ordinary memoir of a movie star. Miss McLaine is no ordinary movie star. This is, of course, the public career that has taken her to the top of her profession via roles in such films as The Apartment; Irma La Douce; Some Came Running and removed her from a roach-ridden walkup in New York to a house with a view of the San Fernando Valley.

She tells that story. But beyond her career, she has an insatiable curiosity about people and places, and a sense of identity with the entire human race which has led her to decidedly un-Hollywood adventures.

Shirley McLaine has lived alone among the Masai in Africa, wandered through India, lived in Japan, and climbed into the Himalayan mountain regions of Bhutan, where only a few Occidentals have ever penetrated.

She has been caught in a revolution, and spent time behind the scenes in the red-light district of Paris to prepare for a movie role. She has taken an active role in politics and has vigorously involved herself in problems of race.

Married to a man who works at least half of every year in Tokyo, Miss McLaine tells of their strange and wonderful marriage. She writes of growing up in Arlington, Virginia; of years of ballet lessons; of making the rounds in New York; and of the miracle of being finally discovered; of the thrill and private loss of becoming a public success.

This is an adventure story, a personal odyssey, a jaundiced view of fame, and an appreciation of mankind.

A THEME FOR REASON

By Elizabeth Ogilvie
For nine years Shane Mannerling had been the center of her existence — all the lover, all the friend Alix had ever dreamed of.

In a way she and Shane lived for their summers—the summers they sent on Tiree, their HERSLEY HONORED — Harold Hersley of Hereford, left, received a Master Supervisor plaque in recognition of his Dairy Herd Improvement Association service to area dairymen. J. W. island home off the coast of Maine, where every year three months together almost compensated them for the winter, when their two worlds had to be kept apart.

But now, suddenly, with the promise of another summer close at hand, Shane was dead; and when she at last had made herself believe it, Alix saw clearly that her very reason for being was gone.

So, she resolved, she would finish the children's portraits she'd been commissioned to paint, and then she would go to Tiree, put the house in order, and quietly end her own life. It was the logical solution, not even frightening to contemplate.

But Tiree that summer confronted Alix with the unexpected. At first too absorbed in her somber plans to realize what was happening, she was drawn unavoidably into abrasive contact with two other people — a man and a young girl — who also had decided that their lives had become pointless.

Instinctively Alix set about persuading them that they had every reason to live, and one day found that in spite of everything she was persuading herself.

Baptist Workers Are Entertained

A holiday party for workers in the extension department of First Baptist Church was given in the home of Mrs. Reed Williams. Mrs. Robert Wagoner poured coffee as refreshments were served from a prettily decorated table.

Mrs. S. C. Ramey read the devotional lesson and the Rev. Gerald Mann gave the prayer. He and Mrs. Mann were special guests, as was Judson Nowotny, the church's education director.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ball, Mmes. Grady Parsons, Edgar Moseley, Abe Martin, Jess Buckner, G. P. Owens, W. W. Hill and Jeff Robertson.

Jim Blacks Are Party Honorees

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Black, Hereford residents since their marriage 50 years ago, were honored Sunday afternoon at a reception marking their Golden Wedding anniversary.

Scores of friends called during the afternoon at their home 508 West Third, where hosts were their nieces and nephews, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Prichard of Bartlesville, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Don Duncan of Duncanville, Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Davis of Post.

Mrs. W. Jesse Stanford, sister of Mr. Black, received guests and Mrs. A. H. Prichard of Canyon, sister-in-law of Mr. Black, was at the registry.

Also in the house party were Mrs. Ed Clark and Mrs. Lloyd Rector of Friona, who made the tiered anniversary cake with bride and groom figurines on top; Mmes. Bob Wilson, S. S. Williams, J. J. Durham and other members of Mrs. Black's Sunday School class, the Friendship Church of First United Methodist Church.

Special guests at the reception were Mr. C. E. Birkmeyer of Amarillo and Frank A. Giles, who attended the honored couple at their wedding on Dec. 29, 1920. The marriage was read in Amarillo by the Rev. J. W. Story, a former Methodist pastor here.

Mrs. Black was Miss Prudie

Prichard, a member of a pioneer Canyon family. Mr. Black had come to Hereford as a child with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Black, only a few years after the town was established.

The couple lived on West Fourth Street, then in the early 1940's moved into their present home, which was built in 1909

Antelope Hunters Had Good Year

SAN ANGELO — Pronghorn hunters had a good 1970 season according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. A total of 896 bucks were harvested in the Trans-Pecos, Permian Basin and Panhandle.

In the Trans-Pecos the kill was 610 bucks and the hunter success was more than 97 per cent.

Panhandle hunters had 89 per cent success, killing 209 animals.

Permian Basin counties, with 80 hunters on the range, harvested 77 bucks for a success of 96 per cent.

The antelope range got rains in time to add body weight to the antelopes, and most of them were in good shape when harvested.

Its spacious rooms were decorated for the reception in

The Man In The Black Hat Isn't Considered A Villain

DALLAS — All you westerners — amateur or professional: Go ahead and buy a black hat. It no longer makes you the villain, says an expert.

Or if black isn't quite what you want, you can try pine green, granite grey, silver belly, sorrel, wheat, ivory, desert sand or just plain white.

"That story about the black and the white hat is not really true. It was just a way to identify the hero and the villain, but that doesn't mean anything today. We sell a lot of black hats," said Arnold Jaffe, vice president and director of purchasing of the Byer-Rolnick Co. at Garland, a few miles north of Dallas.

What is today's fashion in western hats?
"Basically a higher, thinner and longer shape," said Jaffe, who also is in charge of the design of the company's western hats.

There are two main details, however, which will make you the western fashion man this year.

First is a higher crown. The crown of the western hats was about 5 inches high few years ago. The style is 6½, 6¾ or 7½ inches now. This makes a cowboy look up-to-date.

At the end of the 19th Century, there were very tall, round hats of 8 inches, but they are not anymore available, except for the movies or TV.

Round crowns have gone the way of the open range. And, when you look at a western hat, note the crease. They are as varied as the personalities of the cowboy — or cowgirl.

You can have your choice of Byer-Rolnick creases called Star, Wichita, Hi 7, Spurridge, Cascade, Teton, and Fort Worth. There are many more.

Once, there were three major colors: black, white and brown. Today, new colors have been created. The choice is very broad.

The most fashionable now are pine green, granite grey, brass silver belly, forest green and dark-brown or cordoba.

"Among those colors, the silver belly is the most popular," Former President Johnson had a silver belly western hat. It has flat, narrow edges and has a "cattlemen" crease, a very popular one.

There are many stories about hat creases. All the creases have their origins and their peculiarities.

The "A&M" crease originated at Texas A&M University. The "RCA" is named after the "Rodeo Cowboys Association," the "Tetan" from the Teton Mountains, the "Cascade" from the very tall falls in the Rocky Mountains, the "Fargo" from the hill country of the Dakotas, the "Wichita" from the city in Kansas, the "Star" after a ranch and the "Cody" after William "Buffalo Bill" Cody.

The very popular "Fort Worth" crease came when riders slammed their crown with their hands to push it tighter on their brows. This forms new creases front and back.
"But," said Jaffe, "we are selling some hats without a crease and our customer is free to create it and to shape it with loving care as he wants."
The styles? Hat manufacturers originate some and rodeo performers often develop their own that catch on and become fashionable.
There are about 40 different styles. Nevertheless, among these, there are basically two: The hats with flat and narrow edges like the "San Antonio" which is an authentic western style, or the "Deming," popular with the man who likes a more dressy look.
Then, there is the "Pecos," one of the most popular among rodeo performers throughout the United States and Canada. The "High Sierra" and the "Cheyenne" were inspired by a trend to the rough leather look in western apparel.
"The fashion today is mostly with the brims up. It comes from the fact that in the old days, the hats were softer and when the cowboy was riding fast, the wind blew the edges up," said Jaffe.
To be fully up-to-date, the last detail is the band.
The most fashionable one is a rib or corded band of five-eighths inch. Those who like fancier bands can wear a leather band, a silver chain, a pheasant feathers band, or a band composed of various shells or metal rings as do many Indians.
Who really needs a western hat and what is it for?
Jaffe, whose office is filled with western hats carefully ranged on several shelves, has the answers.
"Western hats are used by people who work in the open such as cattlemen, oil people, timber workers, rodeo performers, riding club members, police and members of other law enforcement agencies. They are for work and for fashion at the same time. In the East they are worn for fashion and in the West for both," said Jaffe.

About one million people, mostly men, wear western hats, he estimated. Some women wear them, usually of very bright colors such as red, blue, green or gold.

Basically, working people wear them for protection against the sun, the rain or the cold. But, they also wear them for protection against a blow, a branch or a fall.

"Occasionally, some use their hat to feed their horses or water them, but these are not the basic reasons," Jaffe said.

What are hats made of? Some hats for summer are made of straw and rather light. Other hats are for winter, although in the West these heavier hats are worn in all seasons. The heavier hats can be manufactured from many things, but mainly with cloth, cotton or fur — rabbit fur mostly.
The fur felt hats are the most expensive. Some of them are $250, but one can get one for $25 or $40.
Western hats are more than just a U. S. fashion.
"We sell western hats in Germany, Great Britain, Switzerland, Japan and France," said Jaffe.

Hunting Season Ends At Howe

SAN ANGELO — Hunting season for deer and turkey is over for the year on the Gene Howe Wildlife Management Area, according to Vernon Morse of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Despite a relatively low harvest, hunters seemed to be extremely pleased with the bag of game during the three two-day hunts.

Following a drawing, 31 permits were issued and 28 hunters showed up for big game. They hunted a total of 427 hours. Included in the harvest was a 20 pound turkey gobbler that will likely grace a Christmas dining table, and a large whitetail buck that dressed out at 160 pounds even though he sported only eight points.

Wildlife in many parts of West Texas is showing the pinch of dry weather. Biologists believe many quail will survive the winter but only if rains come soon. There are some indications that a few isolated areas are already seeing the beginning of intensive search for food by quail and turkey.

Lunar Laser Project is 'Complete Success'

FORT DAVIS, Tex. — The lunar laser project being conducted by The University of Texas McDonald Observatory here has been labeled a complete success by the project scientist.

The bold experiment, sponsored by UT Austin and NASA, involves bouncing a laser beam of a reflector on the moon's surface daily to measure the distance at any given time from the earth to the moon. The reflector was placed on the moon's surface by Apollo 11 astronauts.

From data received through the measurement experiments, scientists are studying polar motion of the earth, continental drift, the length of a day and information on gravity and relativity.

Consumers who ordered Brother typewriters by mail from Timber Wolf Sales, using an International Falls, Minn. address are advised by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce not to expect delivery of the merchandise.

The Council of Better Business Bureaus, which is affiliated with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, has been informed by Brother International Corp., the manufacturer, that only four sample machines were purchased by Timber Wolf Sales, although advertisements offering them were placed in a number of national and regional publications.

According to Postal authorities in Minnesota and the International Falls Chamber of Commerce, the firm is no longer in International Falls, left no forwarding address, didn't pay its bills and cannot be located.

Consumer complaints of non-delivery have been received by both the Post Office and Brother International Corp. from persons who ordered typewriters from Timber Wolf Sales.

Brother International said that Timber Wolf Sales could not have sold Brother typewriters for a profit at the low prices advertised.

Timber Wolf Sales is a trade-style used by Richard P. Doty (a-k-a Robert Scott), John R. Frascione (or Fascone), and Sue Christy (a-k-a Mrs. Richard Doty). Another trade-style used was Timber Wolf Trails, which was connected with the offering for sale of real estate in Canada.

Although some of the checks sent with orders to Timber Wolf Sales have been cashed, the Postmaster in International Falls stated that no mail has been collected from the box there since the firm left town.

Timber Wolf Sales' Minneapolis bank account was closed in mid-November. A cancelled check from a complainant was cashed in a Twin Falls, Idaho bank, but contact with the bank revealed no account, and no number is listed by the telephone company in Twin Falls.

Mrs. R. G. Ehrlich, Advertising Vice-President of Brother International Corp., told the Council of Better Business Bureaus that his firm has no connection with Timber Wolf Sales or any of the persons involved. The company wasn't consulted about the advertisements and at no time sold a substantial quantity of typewriters to Timber Wolf Sales for the fulfillment of orders.

Members of the public who have placed orders with Timber Wolf Sales are advised to write to the Postal Inspection Service,

St. Paul, Minn., if they have not received the merchandise.

Tech's Education College Undergoes Structure Change

LUBBOCK — A new structure within Texas Tech University's College of Education — allowing both students and faculty to work within a broader, more flexible educational framework — was announced Friday by Dr. Gordon C. Lee, dean of the college.

The new organization will officially take effect with the start of the fall semester 1971.

Under the reorganization, the existing departments of Education, Elementary Education, Secondary Education and Special Education are to be replaced by five academic areas or faculties. These, Dr. Lee said, are more accurately reflective of the present and projected programs offered by the college.

The new areas and their coordinators are: Curriculum and Instruction, Katherine Evans, former chairman of the Department of Elementary Education; Higher Education, Kenneth Freeman who also is director of the Junior College Center for Professional Development; Foundations and Services, Assistant Dean Julian Biggers; Educational Administration, Associate Dean for Graduate Studies Berlie J. Fallon who formerly was chairman of the Department of Education; and Special Education, Bruce D. Mattson who has been chairman of the Department of Special Education.

"Perhaps the most important aim of the reorganization," Dr. Lee said, "is the reduction of rigid lines of demarcation between areas of programs, and the consequent encouragement of flexibility in faculty assignment, of freer flow of instructors and students from one area or program to another."

The changes, said Lee, should also serve the college in facilitating the assignment of members of the faculty to teaching in more than a single area, a process which is much more difficult to achieve under the conventional divisions.

Approximately one third of the faculty have chosen to assume some degree of dual assignment.

The modified organization, according to Lee, is the outgrowth of extensive self-study conducted within the three-year-old college.

This is the type of innovation which was envisioned when the college was established in 1967, Lee said, characterized by flexibility and change as older concepts become encumbering while demonstrated educational needs call for new thinking and creative action.

By MELVIN YOUNG
When you pick up your Sunday comic section this weekend you will notice a few changes in the package. Primarily, we have picked up Prince Vallant on the front page and we also pick up the Steve Canyon adventure strip on the inside pages. In the shuffle, we'll lose Mandrake the Magician which has been one of our more popular strips. Actually, we retain most of the old strips that we've had for years including Beetle Bailey, Iodine, Blondie, Hi and Lois, Bringing up Father, Smooty Smith, the Walt Disney strips and others.

The reason for this change is that we can now get the comics printed in Texas rather than Pennsylvania and hopefully we will have eliminated the freight problem which has bugged us over the years. The new "package" will be printed in Lufkin, Texas, and will be shipped into Hereford via motor freight. Also, by going this route, we can squeeze the strips into 6 pages rather than 8 and offset a little of the rising cost of the comics. You'll note that, except for the front page, all pages carry 3 strips.

—HB—
We have known about the change for a couple of months and have been asking a few friends about their favorite strips.

It's amazing the variety of answers we get. All the way from indifference to almost fighting mad over losing this strip or that strip. And some are elated over the new ones. "Buz" Gillentine, a former Hereford resident and a member of the Brand's board of directors, is a Mandrake fan, while Mary Harman was most concerned about Iodine. She was real happy when we informed her that Iodine would remain in the package. Betty Koelzer, a member of the Brand staff went over the new and old page by page and had various comments about the subject, but finally decided that the new package would be okay.

And we sure appreciate that since the contract is already signed.

Anyhow, we're sure we'll catch some flak over the changes that have been made, but it can't compare with the trouble we get when the comics fail to arrive from far away Pennsylvania.

—HB—
By the way, we learned this week that Glynn Bilbrey has made another "hole-in-one" down at the local links. He aced No. 2 again, this time using a five-iron.

It's really uncanny. The man has played golf all his life and never made a hole-in-one until this year and he has now aced the same hole twice within 30 days.

"It ain't fair," said local pro Cal Garrett. "I've never made a hole-in-one."

Well sir, there are a lot of other folks who haven't either but we keep trying.

—HB—
Which reminds us of the fellow down at Lubbock who made a hole-in-one on the Treasure Island 3-par course, but unfortunately it was in the wrong hole.

During the winter time, the course superintendents usually like to have two holes on each green, alternating the flag from one to the other. The gentleman in Lubbock holed-out in the hole that didn't contain the flag. And you just don't win any marbles that way. It doesn't count.

—HB—
T. E. Seigler, administrator at Deaf Smith County Hospital, learned this past week that the new water fountain at the local medical unit has been dedicated to him.

The employees at the hospital paid for the new water cooler through various money raising projects, some of which Seigler participated in himself, but it wasn't until the Christmas holidays came along that he learned that the cooler was to be dedicated in his honor.

Seigler has been administrator at the hospital for some 20 years, and in our opinion, has done an excellent job. And we know the folks who work with him at the hospital appreciate him too.

—HB—
Lloyd Sharp has been rebuilding a 1929 Ford — that's a Model A, isn't it? — and has received a great deal of good-natured kidding around the Coffee Shop breakfast table about the project.

Recently, Ray Cowser, who almost always can come up with some appropriate remark, allowed that perhaps the Sharps weren't doing so well this year. "After all," he said, "look what they're having to drive!"

Not so, says Lloyd. "Ray ought to buy some of the parts for that thing and he'd realize that it's a pretty expensive hobby."

Anyhow, if he ever finds a seat for that "thing," we're looking forward to a ride around the city. That should be more fun than riding an elephant.

—HB—
It is true, we've been told that alligators won't approach you if you carry a lantern. This is, if you carry it fast enough.

this NEW YEAR

We speak blithely of The New Year, as though there were some magic in the month of January. We talk as if bad things will, of themselves, become good things, with no effort on our part except to rearrange the calendar.

We have proof in II Corinthians that old things really pass away and all things become new. And what a boon that is only for the turning of a new leaf. How sweet it is that we can begin again. For some of the old would be a pill much too bitter to swallow.

But underneath all this, all of us know, the newness must be within us. We must think new thoughts. We must become new persons.

We must cultivate new attitudes and even develop a new heart. If we love, it must be stronger this year. If we create, it's got to be better.

We can't have a New Year unless we make it a new one. Let us make Christ our pattern, our ideal.

This New Year would be a grand and beautiful New Year if we could make it a Church-Going-Year.

Happy New Year, Everybody!

SANTA VISITS KINDERGARTEN — Santa Claus, impersonated by Ed Dziuk Sr., visited St. Anthony's Kindergarten Wednesday morning with his bag full of candy. The Christmas party was given by St. Anthony's room

Post-Christmas Party Continues Holiday Mood

Between Christmas and New Year, holiday entertaining continues in Hereford. One of the season's gala events was the open house Sunday evening at the home of the Jack Wilcoxes.

Numbering about 150, callers during the evening were greeted with big cutouts of a jolly snowman and woman on the lawn, colored lights and a pine swag over the doorway.

The Wilcox daughter, Margaret Ann, was at home from Oklahoma University at Norman for the holidays to join other members of the family as hosts.

Out-of-city guests included Mrs. Hazel Davis of Rule, Mrs. Homer Garrison's mother who is a visitor in the Garrison home; Miss Linda Alexander of Dallas, fiancée of Joe Reinauer Jr., and Miss Cissy Reinauer, student at Oklahoma State at Stillwater, here for the winter vacation.

Mrs. Keith Simmer and Mrs. Garrison took turns serving punch from a cut glass bowl which belonged to Mrs. Wilcox's grandmother, and which was placed at the head of the rectangular table in the dining room.

A gay red cloth appliqued with holiday motifs and greetings covered the table. In the center an Advent wreath with its four green candles was placed. Red votive candles set in scallops of holly were lined up across the top of the sideboard, where Santa Claus mugs smiled cheerfully.

In the den decorations were in red and green, focused on a tall tree sparkling with tinsel. The religious aspect of Christmas was stressed in the living room, with a white tree decorated with white doves and gold-

'Misfit' Production To Be Shown Tonight

'Misfit,' a new, dramatic motion picture by Gospel Films, Inc., exposes with devastating reality the truth about drop-outs — home, school and church. It will be shown tonight at 9:30 in Thompson Memorial Mexican Baptist Mission, 385 North.

This action packed length, dramatic, color motion picture filmed on location in Fort Lauderdale, Florida takes you into the teenage world of drag racing, teen hangouts, hootenannies, water skiing, bowling, baseball and fun at the fabulous Enquire Hotel on the beach.

While presenting the high school drop-out's problems, Misfit portrays his real need and the answer to it.

You will thrill as Corky wins at the race track, be jolted by his near miss with juvenile delinquency, sympathize through his frustrating search for an answer to the jigsaw puzzle of life and become involved as he wrestles with the answer that makes the difference.

The humor of Clyde, with his foot continually in his mouth; the romance of Diane and Ray in their "going steady" relationship; the athletic ability of Buckets, the school sports hero; and the concern of Debbie, who likes but misses Corky, the drop-out, makes this film powerful in its impact.

Cleverly woven through this artistic presentation is a never to be forgotten message that is realistically presented with teenage appeal that will forcefully answer the question, "Is there hope for the drop-out?"

Misfit doesn't end here. It counter-tells the story of Ray who, lacking spiritual commitment, defends the actions of his buddy, Corky and discovers his life, influenced to the point of surrender.

Brought to his senses through the honesty of his friend and youth pastor, Bo, at a hotel party, Ray faces squarely his responsibility and vows to accept it without reservation and regardless of cost.

The result of this proclaims the answer to the biggest need of youth programs today. The combination of stories in Misfit make it one of the most needed films of our day.

Filmed in beautiful Eastman color, Misfit presents a challenge for the entire family as it carefully and honestly delves into existing home situations. You dare not miss this presentation produced by the leader in the field of Christian films, in Muskegon, Michigan, with distributors in 50 strategic areas across North America, 113 countries of the world and with films in 26 languages.

Youth films, the teenage ministry of Gospel Films, is the only religious film producer that offers its productions free of charge to any of America's high schools for assembly programs.

In releasing the production, Billy Zeoli, president, remarked "The variety emotion and depth of Misfit marks a new step in our teenage productions."

This could well be one of our most penetrating and meaningful motion pictures of teens. It portrays that victory in Christ can transform a mis-directed teen into one with purpose and direction."

Prior to registration, Cates said, the American College Test (ACT) will be given to all beginning freshmen Jan. 11 in the auditorium of the old Administration Building. Freshman orientation will be Jan. 12 in the Activities Center.

No estimated enrollment figure for the spring semester has been given. Last spring's enrollment was 7,013 and the recently completed semester's enrollment was 7,905.

Spring Semester Registration Set Jan. 14-16 At WT

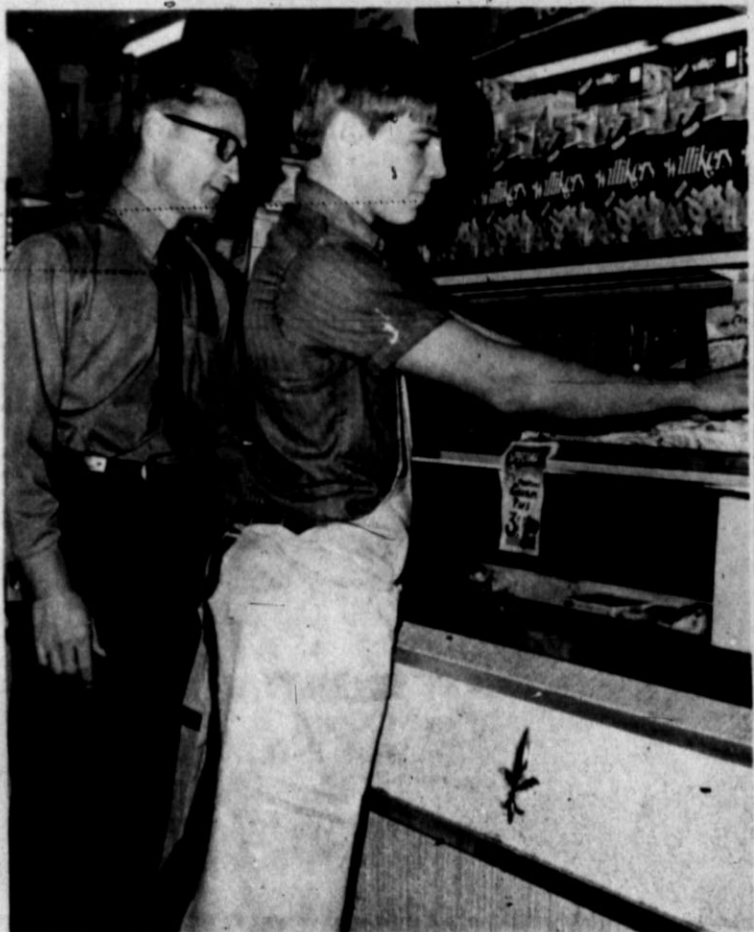

Registration for the spring semester at West Texas State University will be Jan. 14-16 in the Activities Center, Dr. Donald Cates, dean of admissions and registrar, said today.

Cates said that former West Texas State students who were not enrolled last semester but who plan to enroll for the spring term should visit the registrar's office Jan. 4-8 to fill out an application for readmission.

"This will save those students some time during registration," he said.

"When returning students come to register we ask that they bring with them the registration materials they received the week of finals and their fall grades.

SO DOES OUR HOUSE PAINT!

That's why it lasts longer...

SUN-PROOF® FOR THE HUSBAND WHOSE IDEA OF "GETTING OUT" DOESN'T INCLUDE PAINTING THE HOUSE.

Your wife says, "Paint the house before you do anything else this summer." So what do you do? As little as possible.

That's why you need Sun-Proof Latex House Paint. It does as much as possible.

To begin with, it normally allows you to skip priming completely. Further, it stretches and shrinks with your house. Which eliminates cracking and peeling. Also, a special paint film resists air pollution, smog, and mildew. This all means that your paint will last up to four years longer. So you spend less time painting and more time relaxing.

DALLAS — A brake drum from an automobile has noble possibilities as a musical instrument.

Are the new tire sizes driving you crazy?

F78-14, G70-15, E60-15. No wonder you're confused.

But don't give up hope. Here's a brief explanation to help you select the right tire size for your car. (And for the right brand, be sure and select quality Lee tires!)

In tire size designations, the letter refers to the size and load-carrying capacity. Basically, the higher the letter, the larger the tire size and the more weight it can carry.

The numerals following the letter refer to the ratio of a tire's height to its width.

A "70" series tire is 70 percent as high (from rim to tread) as it is wide. A "78" series is 78 percent as high as it is wide. Etc. The lower the number, the wider the tire.

The last two numbers refer to the wheel size — most compact cars have a 13-inch wheel. Medium-sized cars, 14-inch wheel. Large cars, 15-inch wheel.

BUT WHAT ABOUT YOUR OLD 8.25-15?

Fort Davis---A Step Back Into History

(Editor's Note: Not so very long ago, when the West was still young, Ft. Davis was important in the wars against the Indians. It is still important today because it is a place where you can step back into history.)

FT. DAVIS, Tex. — The breeze slips with the shadows down Hospital Canyon toward the parade ground. It ruffles the flag with its field of 37 stars. The bugler sounds Assembly. The shrill, tape-recorded notes bouncing off red canyon walls and echoing through old stone buildings summon to the imagination troopers in dusty blue uniforms forming double ranks of foot and horse.

It is the recorded retreat ceremony at Ft. Davis, the old frontier post restored as a National Historic site by the National Park Service.

It is today, a chill evening in late 1970.

It is also yesterday, a blazing afternoon in August, 1875, when the General Order tells of the death of former President Andrew Johnson.

And here you are listening with the ear, seeing with the mind, feeling with the heart.

The fort stands in the Davis Mountains of West Texas on the edge of the Big Bend, the sprawl of mountain and desert cut from Mexico by a southward hook of the Rio Grande.

From 1854 to 1891—except during Civil War years when Ft. Davis was abandoned by the Confederacy—soldiers based here guarded immigrants, freighters and stage coaches on the El Paso-San Antonio road. They fought the Comanche, the Kiowa and the Apache, whose war trails skirted the Davis Mountains and ran south through the Big Bend into Mexico, their favorite plundering ground.

From Ft. Davis, the U. S. Army tried camels as cavalry animals in the thorny Chihuahuan Desert. Col. Robert E. Lee wrote that one reconnaissance would have failed but for the camel's "endurance, docility and sagacity." The experiment was ordered by Secretary of War Jefferson Davis, for whom the fort and the surrounding mountains were named, and it ended when the Civil War began and Davis became President of the Confederacy.

After the war, union troops moved back into the fort in 1867 and renewed the fight against the Indians. Except for their officers, the garrison troops were Negro soldiers—the 9th and 10th Cavalry and the 25th Infantry—recruited during and after the Civil War. Indians called them buffalo soldiers because of their dark skin and crinkly hair.

And, led by Col. Benjamin H. Grierson, it was the buffalo soldiers who outmaneuvered and outfought the Apache warriors of Chief Victorio. They drove Victorio across the Rio Grande, where he was killed by a scout for the Mexican Army. These battles ended the Indian wars in West Texas.

By 1891, Ft. Davis was no longer needed as a military post. The Army moved out. Civilians occupied and owned the fort for many years and kept much of it repaired. So in 1961, when the National Park Service took it over, Ft. Davis was one of the best preserved examples of the western frontier fort.

The park service has completely restored many buildings. But some collapsed buildings are being left as they are—a constant reminder that the fort was real, that the old days are gone.

Even before the reconstruction began, a visitor at dusk standing in silence on the parade ground, could imagine the sights and sounds of cavalrymen ending their day.

To heighten the illusion, the park service commissioned the University of Oklahoma to produce at Ft. Sill, Okla., the sounds of the retreat ceremony as it would have been performed at Ft. Davis, or any typical cavalry post, in 1875.

The tape recording, usually played at 4 p. m., is authentic even to some ragged notes. Cavalry bandmen in the old days were usually soldiers who could not ride or could not cook. To get the genuine old-time sound, junior high school bandmen were mixed in with the expert Ft. Sill musicians.

And now, at Ft. Davis, it is the hour for retreat. The 9th Cavalry band, two troops of the 9th Cavalry, three companies of the 25th Infantry and a half section of artillery—one horse-drawn three-inch rifle—fall in to Assembly call.

Adjutant's call sounds, and the adjutant orders "parade rest." The band "sounds off" trooping the line to "Hail Columbia." The bugler blows "Retreat." The sunset gun thunders against the canyon walls. "To the Colors" rises imperiously and fades away.

Then the band plays "The Star-Spangled Banner" in its Nineteenth Century scoring, long before it became the National Anthem. It is nothing like the full-throated martial version of the 1960's. It is slower, thinner, almost reflective.

The music is followed by inspection and a leather-lunged reading of the General Order: Because of President Johnson's death, the garrison will parade the next morning, then take the rest of the day off.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Dish For Winter Days

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor
Her father's work for the Santa Fe Railroad kept her family moving frequently during her school years, but her husband's occupation as a farmer has kept Mrs. J. B. Caraway living in the same home near Dawn for the past quarter-century.

longer-existent station near Panhandle, she started school at Woodward, Okla., attended high school in Hereford through her junior year and then was graduated at Canyon. In between there were other schools, but Helen Oglesby enjoyed moving and making new friends.

Perhaps she developed then the gregarious nature which makes her an enthusiastic member of the Music Club and Home Demonstration Club in Dawn community, and of the executive board of First District, Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

She has been a district TFMC officer for nine years and is currently serving as treasurer. A former president of both Dawn Music Club and Dawn H. D. Club, she is vice president of the latter group now and has held offices in Deaf Smith County H. D. Council.

MRS. CARAWAY HAS for a number of years taught a class of children in the Church of Christ at Canyon. As her three children grew up she has been interested in school activities; right now her special interest is Hereford High School choir of which her youngest, Bill, is a member.

The Caraways' only daughter, Alice Ann, is a senior in Oklahoma Christian College in Oklahoma City, and the older son, Robert, lives at Perryton after completing military service including two years in Viet Nam. He is the father of the couple's first grandchild, a boy born earlier this month.

Music is one of the mutual interests of the Caraway family and they have always played and sung together. Helen Caraway began piano lessons when she was a child and continued studying music in West Texas State University although her major was in business. Caraway plays the violin to add to the family ensemble.

MRS. CARAWAY LIKES to use her hands for other things than playing piano, such handcraft hobbies as knitting, sewing and refinishing furniture.

Making candies is a new skill she learned this year to produce some attractive Christmas gifts. Also on her gift list were coats she knitted for her daughter and daughter-in-law.

She and her husband work together on the old furniture which adds its mellow charm to the big rooms of the two-story house set on a rise three miles west of Dawn, which is the Caraway home.

They have bought some pieces to add to furniture handed down in their families. Especially handsome is an oak dining room suite of round table, chairs, large sideboard and hutch cabinet.

Cooking is another activity Mrs. Caraway likes. One of her favorite recipes is for a main dish just right for winter meals. And it offers a different way to use leftover holiday turkey or chicken.

GREEN ENCHILADAS
3 dozen tortillas
1 medium onion, chopped
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 small pkg. cream cheese
1 small can green chilies
1 tall can evaporated milk
1/2 pound sharp cheddar cheese
1 cup chopped cooked chicken

Pre-heat oven at 375 degrees. Mix cream cheese, chopped green chilies and soup in blender for about 30 seconds and place in a saucepan with chopped onions and milk. Slowly heat this mixture while softening the tortillas in hot fat.

Grate cheddar cheese and when all is prepared place a layer of tortillas and a layer of grated cheese in a shallow baking dish.

Top this with the chopped chicken or turkey and then pour in a small amount of the hot milk mixture. Continue until all tortillas have been put in the dish. Top all with more grated cheese and the remainder of the milk.

Bake until cheese is melted. Serve hot with a tossed salad. The chicken or turkey may be omitted from this dish and it is still delicious, Mrs. Caraway says.

—Small Talk—

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor
One anniversary coming at Christmastime certainly didn't get overlooked this year, that of Dorothy Conkright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flanery of Sherman. And for reasons enough; it was their 65th.

DOROTHY AND COLBY Conkright went down to act as hosts for a family dinner and a small reception afterward on Christmas Eve, the anniversary date. Also from Hereford were Jimmy and Janice Conkright and their daughters, Robin and Leslie, the honorees' great-grandchildren.

To make the occasion even more important, Janie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Berry of Rosston, celebrated their 37th anniversary the same day so they went over to Sherman to join the party. Special guests for the day were J. J. Flanery's brother, F. D. Flanery, and his family. The F. D. Flanerys observed their own 65th wedding anniversary last September. As newlyweds they were among the wedding guests when his brother married on Christmas Eve of 1905.

You'd seldom get a family group together with more special events to remember. A FAMILY WITH A LOT of visiting kinfolks during the holidays, the H. V. Crawford, had their daughter, Nancy, and husband Fred McDonald here from Flint, Mich., to supply a good reason for others to come.

Christmas visitors were Dr. and Mrs. Olan Key and Miss Nita Lee of Lubbock and Tom Key of Clarksville, then on the weekend Mrs. Tom Stith and Mrs. Alice Poff came from Tulsa and Mrs. Irene Ball from Canyon.

AT ONE OF THE holiday open house parties I heard of expected visitors whom a lot of friends in Hereford will be glad to see. The Melvin Cordrays said the Dexter Lillies are to be here Jan. 19.

My acquaintance with Ann Lillie was through her membership in a study club and a garden club (in this job I'm lucky to know many area women that way) and I certainly hope to see her while she is here. The Lillies moved to California a few years ago when he had a job transfer in the Holly Sugar organization.

A CHRISTMAS VISIT that ended on an unpleasant note: Meredith Wilcox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Golden of Belton, who spent a week or so before Christmas in the Wilcox home and were to have been special guests at a holiday open house Sunday evening, were called home Sunday morning.

The news that cut their visit short was that Meredith's 91-year-old grandmother had suffered a broken hip.

TWO COUPLES in the Dawn community are bragging about new grandsons, born shortly before Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Caraway of Perryton announce the birth of Edward Asa Dec. 15 in a Perryton hospital. Paternal grandparents are the J.B. Caraways of Dawn and grandparents on the other side are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cox of Canyon.

Five days earlier, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Nele of Abilene became the parents of a son, Kevin Duane. Mrs. Nele is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stewart of Dawn. The father's parents are the E. T. Neles of Rio Grande City.

IT SORT OF SHOCKED me when I listened to one of those year-end news broadcasts the other day, and the prosperous looking "experts" took a deeply gloomy view of 1971 with not much hope that 1971 could be any better.

Maybe we don't realize how well off we are here in Hereford; I know quite a few happy people, and count myself among them. In spite of the weepers and wailers I have a feeling the world will survive, and hope you the same, at least. In fact, I'll go so far as to wish you the happiest of New Years.

Located on major caravan routes, Jordan enjoyed prosperity as the Roman province Arabia Petraea. Its capital was the rock-carved mountain fastness of Petra; conduits and cisterns kept its terraced fields green and productive.
