Nanninga Free On Probation

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

Prehn Nanninga, 19, won his freedom Wednesday through a deal worked out by Dist. Atty. Jerry Tucker for eight years of probation in exchange for a guilty plea to burglarizing Spangler's Diamonds, Ltd., of an estimated $41,000 in watches and other jewelry May 28.

Chief of Police Don Brush, whose department broke the case, didn't hear of the action in district court until the next day, Thursday, although he was in the courthouse Wednesday to question Tucker about another case.

Sheriff Travis McPherson said he learned of it only from Brush.

Nanninga appeared before Tucker and Dist. Judge Archie McDonald Wednesday, entered the guilty plea and waived a jury trial. Nanninga's lawyer reportedly was asking for four years of probation and Tucker for eight, and judge McDonald assessed the eight year probation.

Up Or Back? Gain Or Lose? Did You Or Did You Not?

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

Did you notice the time when you got out of bed this morning?

Do you remember setting the clock back an hour, or did you set it up an hour? Did you gain an hour or did you lose an hour when you did? Are you going to have to rush to get to church on time, or do you still have plenty of time for that second cup of coffee?

Well, you had better remember whether you did or didn't and if you did set the timepieces back all is well, and if you didn't all is still well, because you got an hour back.

Are you pretty well confused now?

At 2 a. m. this morning (Sunday), all timepieces across the country were turned back one hour to 1 a. m. thus getting back the same hour people gave up the last Sunday in April. So, nothing is lost and nothing is gained, it is just back where everything started six months ago.

Daylight Saving Time went out the window at 2 a. m. this morning so this means the sun will come up later, or that the sun will just be up in the farther than it has been on our way to work.

This of course, means it will be getting darker earlier in the day.

Daylight Saving Time was signed into law by former President Lyndon Johnson and was first tried in 1967. The bill is not compulsory and any state or community within a state may switch to and from the standard times whenever they choose.

When Daylight Saving Time was first tested, more than 100 million Americans living in 20 states made the time change, but more than 80 million others either did not go on DST at all or did so at a later date in the spring.

Benjamin Franklin is credited (blamed?) with the DST concept when he said it would conserve and lengthen the working day if the clocks were moved ahead one hour. The concept was first utilized 200 years later in World War I as a temporary emergency aid to conserve fuel for lighting and heating.

Officers Prevents Tragedy

Quick thinking early Friday morning on the part of three members of the sheriff's department might well have saved the life of a local man when he was removed unconscious from his late model car, moments before it was demolished by a train.

Art Lewis, 58, of 407 Western, was reported in fair condition late Saturday after suffering injuries in the automobile accident east of Hereford.

Deputies Harold Wheeler, Gary Gillispie and Leon Gotrel were working a burglary report just south of the Dawn community and were returning to U. S. 90 Highway when they saw what appeared to be the lights of an automobile, resting on the railroad tracks.

Wheeler said Lewis was traveling from north to south on FM 809 when his car apparently went out of control at a dead end road just west of the Dawn elevator. His car, a late model Oldsmobile, hit an embankment and careened onto the railroad track, knocking him unconscious.

"We saw the lights of the car about 50 yards east of the intersection and we got out and discovered the car, with the left front fender extending over onto the railroad track," Wheeler said. "The doors were jammed and we couldn't get in."

He said he ran back to the patrol car and radioed back to Hereford for the highway patrol and at the time he was returning to the Dawn community.

He said Lewis had stuck his foot through the rear window of the car and had crawled through and kicked the doors open.

"Leon went up the tracks and saw a train coming and ran back to tell us. We notified the depot but the lights were already upon us so we had to drag and pull the man out of his car," Wheeler said.

He said Lewis was wedged between the front seat and the floor board of the car and they just barely got him out and away from the car before the train hit the vehicle.

Under terms of the probation, Nanninga must remain in Deaf Smith County and report to probation officer Lowell Sharp each month for the next eight years. Nanninga was ordered to pay $46 in court costs and $480 for probation supervision for the next eight years for a total cost of $526. He will be allowed to pay that in 21 installments of $25 a month.

In the same day in court Wednesday, Tucker also went along with probation sentences — in exchange for guilty pleas — on four other cases.

Arturo Pena de la Cerda was assessed four years probation for possession of narcotic paraphernalia.

Trinidad G. Ramirez was assessed five years probation for driving while intoxicated, second offense.

Janice Thomason was assessed three years probation for defrauding with a worthless check.

Anthony Stanley Jungmann Jr. was assessed two years probation for driving while intoxicated, second offense.

On Oct. 7, two weeks previous, two other cases were handled the same way. Paul J. Turnbow was given four years probation for intent to defraud with a worthless check and Pablo Lara Jr. three years probation for burglary — both after they agreed to plead guilty and waive a jury trial.

Another man, Rodolfo C. Saldivar, who was indicted in November 1967 for obtaining narcotic drug by using a false name, also pleaded guilty Wednesday and waived a jury trial. The trial-by-judge will be held later.

Nanninga stands convicted as a result of the Wednesday action, with the loss of freedoms affecting any convicted felon. The terms of his probation read:

- break no laws;
- avoid drinking, gambling and other "injurious or vicious habits";
- avoid persons or places of disreputable character;
- work at suitable employment.

Coronado Rallies For 30-20 Victory

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

Hereford's season of frustration continued Friday night.

Lubbock Coronado administered the defeat — a 30-20 decision before 3,000 Homecoming fans in the Whitefaces' first district game as a Class AAAA team.

The game was frustrating, partly because it was the seventh loss in as many games this season and partly because Hereford had many opportunities that slipped away.

Coronado advanced its league record to 2-0 for the undisputed lead over Monterey, which is 1-0, and its season mark to 4-3. The victory came, after some anxious moments, however, because when the two teams retired to their dressing rooms at intermission, Hereford held a 10-0 advantage.

Coronado quarterback Gary Olivo — unsuccessful in his passing efforts the first half except for the final few seconds — could hardly miss when he returned to the field at Whiteface Stadium in the third quarter.

He hit split end Joe Byrne four times in the third quarter and the early part of the fourth quarter for a staggering 150 yards and two touchdowns, plus hitting a 48-yard bomb to Gene Perry that set up another score.

A short pass that Byrne dropped was Olivo's only other pass in the second half, but he didn't need any more.

Coronado racked up 30 points on its first 15 plays of the second half and then sent in the second offensive unit to await the end of the game.

Besides Byrne's two scoring touchdown passes of 35 and 62 yards — both in the left flat and designed for short yardage — the league's yardage leader, Charlie Carpenter went over from 2 and 9 yards for touchdowns.

Carpenter was the game's leading rusher with 68 yards in 14 carries.

Olivo completed 7 of 14 passes for 226 yards, with Byrne getting 176 of it on his five receptions. Byrne, who went into the game as the runner-up in league receiving statistics, with 13 catches, didn't gain any ground Friday night. He now has 18 receptions for 393 yards.

Hereford's Harold Schmucker was the leader going into the game, with 24, and caught six Friday for 86 yards under double coverage, raising his season's total to 30 receptions, 12 more than Byrne, for 57 more yards. The Herd's Jeff Loerwald caught three passes Friday night for 91 yards, including one TD reception.

Coronado out-rushed Hereford 104 yards to 51, although the Whitefaces had a 21-17 edge in first downs, thanks to the 9-5 bulge in the first half. Hereford had more passing yardage, 271-236.

In the last quarter, Hereford passed every down but one, trying to get back in the game.

Coronado set its defense to stop the wide running game and the passing attack, since those are the two things that have made the Hereford offense tick so far.

Loerwald kicked a 35-yard field goal and Alan Wagner scored from seven yards out to give Hereford its early lead. After giving up four touchdowns, the Herd jacked on 10 more points in the last 32 seconds of the game to raise the score to its final margin. Monty Smith and Richard Sierra dumped reserve Coronado quarterback Tim Samson in the end zone for a safety and second team Hereford quarterback Rudy Gonzales teamed with Loerwald for a 44-yard touchdown pass.

Hereford played without two of its top defensive players. Defensive end Pat Betson missed his second straight game because of a head injury and tackle Charles Ray Black was absent from the team because of the recent death of his father. Both players have been honored this season as Defensive Players of the Week.

Sophomore running back Danny Harris limped off the field after his only carry of the night, a one-yard gain on the Whitefaces' first possession, and sat out the rest of the game. He has been nursing a leg injury since the second game of the season.

You Can't Teach A Child If His Stomach Is Empty

(Editor's Note: A writer with the U. S. Department of Agriculture visited the Hereford school system recently and then wrote a story about the breakfast and lunch program for migrant students. The story, as it was prepared for release nationwide, follows.)

Cold beans for breakfast? Many children from the migrant labor camp at Hereford has a breakfast of beans or nothing at all — until the school began serving breakfasts under the U. S. Department of Agriculture's school breakfast program.

"The children pay 15 cents if they can afford it, whatever they can pay, or nothing at all," reports Mrs. Rubye Smith, school food service supervisor for the system. Many of the migrant children eat meals free during the times of year when there is little work available, and then pay for their breakfasts and lunches when the family can get work.

Since Hereford is a part of the "Salad Bowl," a large segment of the West Texas area producing commercial vegetables, the migrant labor force, largely Mexican-American, is a vital part of this industry.

However, the seasonal labor situation creates an erratic school attendance.

"In 1968" one elementary school had a better than 89 percent turnover in the student body during the school year," said Supt. Roy L. Hartman. The situation has shown some change for the better, as new industry in the community is a stabilizing factor, and many families can make permanent homes. There are now eleven feedlots in the area, three packing plants and a beet sugar factory.

Penny Young Wins Kissing Marathon

Penny Young of Hereford wins a share of the world's kissing championship.

She and a San Antonio boy stood in the middle of the football field at Southwest Texas State University Thursday afternoon and part of Friday morning in a kiss that lasted for more than nine hours.

The couple and one other finally stopped by mutual agreement after a kiss that lasted nine hours, 17 minutes. The spectators that were on hand at the start of the marathon championship had all departed.

The story of the kiss that lasted some 33,426 seconds got nationwide publicity. In the next two days, Penny got telephone calls from radio stations and newspapers throughout the United States, seeking additional comment on the spectacular.

Area residents whose gifts and work have made possible the new Day Care Center here are invited to see it next Sunday at an open house, set for 3 to 5 p. m.

Located at 215 Norton, the Center is a community project, designed to care for children through eight years of age whose mothers must earn or help earn the family living, or are attending school, whether public school, college or a technical school such as a cosmetology school.

Anna Jo Wilson, director, and the staff will be on hand to greet visitors during open house in the building which formerly housed the Thompson Memorial Baptist Mission.

It has been renovated inside and out, and even had its face washed as Hereford firemen hosed it down with soapy water and then rinsed it, to give it a fresh new look on the outside.

Day Care Center Has Open House Sunday

Key Club boys cleaned the yard and one side was fenced to make a play area outdoors.

Inside, paint in cheerful light colors, wood paneling and bright curtains have transformed the old assembly hall and classrooms into a big activity room, smaller rooms for special groups, a nursery, store room, bathrooms and kitchen.

Furniture, some new and some refinished, and a variety of play and teaching equipment provide facilities for the Center's program of play, rest and guided activity.

All facilities are ready for enrollment of as many as 50 children, Mrs. Wilson says, but she adds that items are constantly being added, the most recent a supply of low canvas cots on which the children will nap during their rest periods.

Snacks are served at mid-morning and afternoon, and a full balanced meal at noon. Care is given children from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m.; some pupils from kindergarten and the first three grades come only after school, others for the full day.

A trained staff including a licensed vocational nurse is at work, and the Center has been approved and licensed by the Texas Department of Child Welfare and Development.

Parents may still enroll children in the Center, Mrs. Wilson emphasizes, but she repeats the announcement that this is not a free facility although fees are set on a scale considering the parent's income.

Some scholarships have been given to pay for the care of children whose families cannot afford even the lowest fee, Mrs. Wilson says, and she hopes that more will be given by individuals or organizations.

She says state officials who checked the facility have been surprised to discover the extent to which the Hereford Center has been able to enroll children from all income brackets, various races and differing social status.

"But that was our aim from the first," she says positively.

Probation...

- support any dependants;
- report to the probation officer once monthly;
- permit the probation officer to visit his home;
- remain in Deaf Smith County;
- inform the probation officer within five days of any arrest;
- incur no debt in excess of $100 without permission of the probation officer;
- do not change marital status without permission of the probation officer.

Violations of any of those provisions could mean revocation of the probation and transfer to the state penitentiary.

Brush said he had heard earlier this year that Tucker was planning to let Nanninga off with a probated sentence and that he called Tucker at Dumas to ask that he not do it.

"He said a jury would give him a probation anyway," Brush said. "This is what our court system is for. At least put him before a jury and let them decide."

The other youth arrested in the Graduation Day burglary of the Sugarland Mall jewelry store is free on $5,000 bond, as Nanninga was before his court appearance Wednesday.

Neal Duncan, 18, cooperated with officers and gave the early statement after his arrest that led to the recovery by Brush of most of the stolen jewelry under a small wooden bridge on the west edge of Hereford the same day the crime was committed.

Kent Hance, whose Hereford law firm is representing Duncan, said he plans to ask next month for a continuance of his client's trial "because he is working and going to college. What we're going to do, in any case, is not affected at all by what happened Wednesday with the other boy." Duncan is going to Amarillo College.

"I wish they'd just make it where it would be against the law for a district attorney to make deals like this," one law officer, who asked to remain unidentified, said about the Thursday cases in district court.

Brush made the earlier-mentioned trip to district court Wednesday after reports reached him that one of the deals in the making involved Dennis Latham of Hereford, indicted and arrested recently on charges of possessing marijuana. An undercover agent said Latham, 21, had sold him the drug.

Latham was prepared to plead guilty Wednesday in exchange for a probated sentence from Tucker but backed out after he learned through his attorney, Ernest Langley, who the informer was, and when and where the incident took place. Latham claimed the informer sold him the marijuana and said he will not plead innocent.

Latham's $10,000 bond was wiped off the slate Wednesday, however, and he was ordered released on his own recognizance. If he failed to show for trial, the $10,000 would have to be put up.

Criminal case records in district court this year show 75 cases, have been disposed of to date, with 35 dismissals. Twenty-eight guilty pleas were accepted in return for probation, and a jury assessed one probated term, one fine, seven penitentiary sentences, two jail sentences and acquitted one man. A scattered few other cases are on appeal after a jury assessed a penitentiary term.

Of the 28 probated sentences shown as given out after guilty pleas, 1 was for one year, 9 were for two years, 10 were for three years, 4 were for four years 4 were for five years and 1 — Nanninga's — was for eight

School feeding is part of the overall plan to educate these children from migrant families. One of the more obvious results of the breakfast program is improved attendance. The number of migrant children who complete their education has risen noticeably during the last few years. A decade ago, only two or three Mexican-Americans were in the high school graduating class, according to Hartman. And even then, they made up around one-fifth of the total enrollment. This past year, there were 73 Mexican-Americans among the 285 graduating seniors.

A firm believer in school feeding, Hartman considers the school lunch and breakfast programs a vital part of the help the school can give to these migrant families. He conveys this idea to his teachers by pointing out that "You're not going to teach a child anything when his stomach is empty."

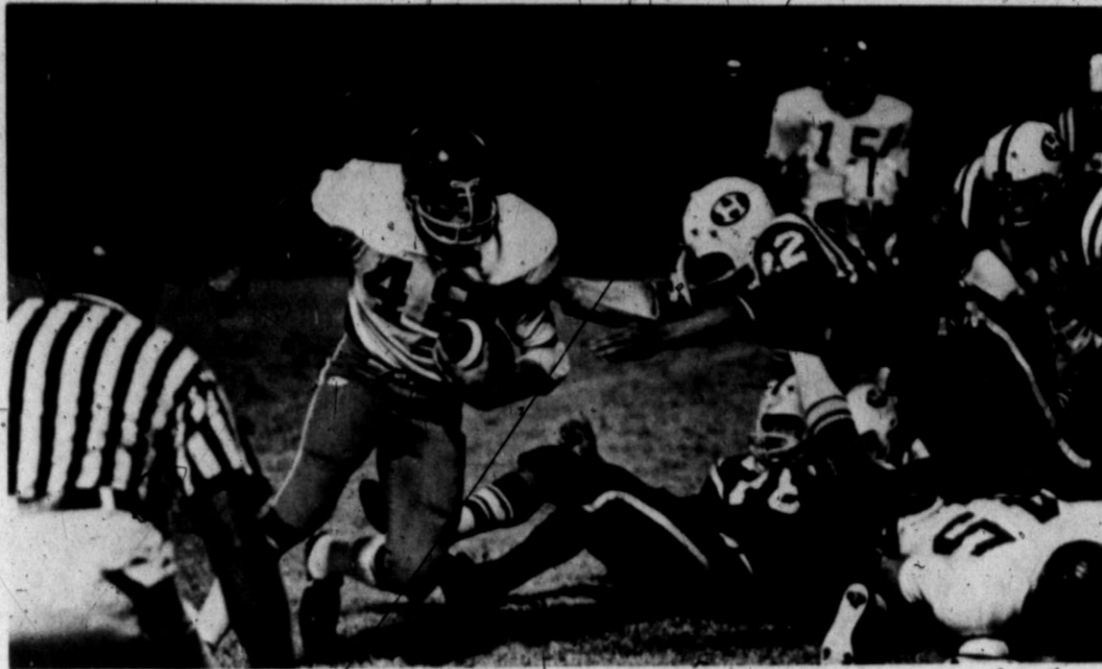

Many of these children have to learn to eat new foods and different types of foods. The superintendent feels that one of the ways to accomplish this is by example, so he insists that teachers in the elementary schools eat at the table with their students.

Introduction to new foods became an important part of the training in the summer migrant program conducted this year for the first time in Hereford. The program was financed with "Title I" money. More than 700 children from low-income families, kindergarten through sixth grade level, attended the summer sessions. They were served breakfast, lunch and snacks during the day.

Some of the smaller children refused to eat canned fruits at first, said the school lunch supervisor. However, before the sessions ended, they had learned to enjoy them.

Of this year's school enrollment...

Broken down by category, the probations were for assault with intent to murder, 1; swindling with a worthless check, 3; DWI; 9; narcotics charges, 2; theft; 3; burglary, 6; forgery, 2; assault with intent to rape, 1.

THERE HE GOES — Coronado's Charlie Carpenter, (48), goes to the outside for a short gain in Friday night's 30-20 win over the Whitefaces. Carpenter was the big ground gainer for the Mustangs, getting 68 yards in 14 carries and catching one pass for 12 yards.

ment; of around 5700 more than 2600 come from low-income families, according to Hartman. All but about 300 of the students from low-income homes are Mexican-American.

The system's sixth elementary school, an ultra-modern "Learning Center," opened this year. Naturally, the school's lunchroom is in keeping with its modern surroundings. Part of the cost of the lunchroom equipment was financed by non-feed assistance funds provided by the Texas Education Agency.

The National School Lunch and School-Breakfast Programs are handled in Texas by the Education Agency and administered nationally by USDA's Food and Nutrition Service. The school breakfast and "Type A" lunch required in all participating school cafeterias each provide at least one-third of a child's daily nutritional requirements.

Although the Hereford school system is much concerned with feeding low-income students, Hartman emphasizes that school feeding programs are important to all children, and not just those from poor families.

"The school lunch insures a balanced diet that many children from high-income families do not receive," he stated.

H.D. CHATTER Fall Fashion Spotlight

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

The "World of Fashion for fall 1970 is parading an exciting line of fabrics, including corduroy. Corduroy is a washable, all cotton pile fabric which is one of the sturdiest fabrics made. Also on today's market is Durable Press corduroy made with polyester fibers. Corduroy's long-wearing quality plus low cost make it one of the most economical fabrics for family use.

Corduroy will spotlight the fashion scene in long pants, vest suits, jumpsuits and pants with long tunics. Corduroy is also great for sport coats as well as mid-length coats.

Corduroy is washable and easy to care for, but there are some guides to follow. In fact, corduroy was one of the first drip dry fabrics we had.

Wash the garment often before it becomes too heavily soiled. Turn all garments inside out to avoid lint clinging to the pile. When machine washing corduroy, use mild detergents, warm water and a short cycle. When hand washing, squeeze suds through fabric and rinse by pressing water out; never wring or twist corduroy. Group similar colors together whether machine or hand washing.

Corduroy garments can be dried in a dryer at a medium setting but should be removed while slightly damp. Hang on a hanger, smooth in shape and allow to dry thoroughly. When dry, brush in one direction to fluff up the pile. If pressing is necessary, use a steam iron, holding it slightly above the fabric on the right side. If using a regular iron, press on the wrong side with a damp press cloth.

To press seams in a garment that is made of corduroy or other pile fabrics: Cover ironing board with terry toweling; hold steam iron two or three inches from seam; steam lightly. Press with fingertips to shape seams. Pile fabric can be overpressed and can have too much moisture. Pile fabrics are a pleasure to wear but do need some special care.

We had a telephone visit with Mrs. W. R. Thurber to ask if they are related to Joanne Thurber. Miss Thurber is Extension Consumer Education Specialist in textiles and clothing at Texas A&M University. They may want to "claim" kin as both are nice people. Miss Thurber writes leaflets and new releases for Extension.

Did you know? About 26 percent of the U. S. households had a bank credit card in mid-1969? The proportion with cards varied from ten percent of family income under $3,000 to 44 percent of families with $15,000 and our income group, according to the Federal Reserve Board study. The credit limit for bank credit cards is typically $300 to $500 for most new cardholders.

Many small merchants give credit through bank credit card plans and families find the card a real convenience.

NEEDED: Cookie mix that can be stored on the cabinet shelf and used as needed. This was used in demonstrations at one time. Loreta Fowler Henderson wrote asking for the recipe. Loreta and husband, J. C. Henderson, have moved to Stratford. They have two boys in school and say they are enjoying their new home. We miss them in the area.

The apple demonstration has been well received in home demonstration clubs this month. A recipe for frosting has been suggested for topping for your favorite cake or cup cakes. More to come

FLUDDY APPLE JUICE FROSTING

1-cup sugar
1/2 cup apple juice
Pinch of salt
1 T. lemon juice
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
Mix sugar, apple juice, salt and lemon juice. Cook until the syrup forms a soft ball (234 to 240 degrees) when a little of it is dropped into a cup of very cold water.

Pour very slowly over stiffly beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until mixture stands in soft peaks. Spread between layers and over top and sides of cake.

For variation, when the frosting is ready to spread, stir in 1/2 cup chopped pecans or hazelnuts, or shredded almonds. For more festive cake, sprinkle 1/4 cup pink-tinted shredded coconut over the top after frosting is spread.

A request at the office for Mrs. C. F. Homfeld's Peanut Brittle recipe. She has become famous with this for gifts, as well as serving to family and friends. Try pulling apart with two forks. This is the method used by commercial candy makers.

PEANUT BRITTLE

3 cups sugar
1 cup water
2 T. butter or margarine
1 T. soda
1 cup white corn syrup
2 1/2 cups raw Spanish peanuts
1 t. salt

Cook sugar, corn syrup, and water until it forms a hard ball in cool water or candy thermometer registers 250 to 260 degrees. Add unblanched peanuts and continue to cook until the mixture turns a golden brown or candy thermometer registers 300 degrees. Remove from heat and stir in butter or margarine and salt.

Stir in soda. Pour on a greased slab and pull out to thin sheet. Break into pieces when cold or pull apart with two forks.

Mrs. Blanche Hardin makes delicious potato candy, the recipe can be altered to make potato-fudge frosting, which is very good and remains moist along time (if cake lasts very long) and too it freezes well.

POTATO-FUDGE FROSTING

One-third cup butter or margarine
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
One-third cup mashed potatoes
1 1/2 t. vanilla extract
Salt
3 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
2 T. milk

Melt butter and cook until lightly browned. Add chocolate and stir until melted. Stir in potatoes, vanilla and salt dash of salt and mix well. Gradually blend in confectioner's sugar and milk, beating after each addition. Makes enough frosting to cover the top and sides of a 9-inch tube cake.

Frank Annen and Edwin "Goose" Ramey got into an argument about what else, but coons. Frank called the Drappers to get proof or sympathy. It seems they argued about raccoons always having a ringed tail. In talking to people for an opinion we've found every person has a firm conviction one way or the other.

Is it reasonable to say maybe the climatic conditions and terrain could have some effect on animal coloring?

The animal dictionary describes the raccoon with the tail semi-bushy, and generally ringed. Also, spelled raccoon, racoon and coon, a colloquialism that has become accepted in ordinary usage. Too, the southern species are shorter and poorer in color than the northern.

Also, in the dictionary we found "raccoon dog" is a canine mammal of Japan and China, smaller than raccoon but looking remarkably like it. The short tail is not ringed. So there it is.

Naturally, things like this will cause arguments even among the best of friends. It is like a lot of discussions no one loses but no one wins, either.

Chuck Cosper, says a raccoon puts food in water for reasons other than sanitation and hygiene. Chuck says the raccoon has taste buds in the soles of his feet, which are naked. By soaking the food, the soles of the feet soften and the taste buds when soft become more acute and the animal can tell if he wants to eat the food. Personally, we're in favor of calling the whole thing off.

Religious Teaching Is Program Topic

Mrs. John Keveton of Abernathy spoke to fifty members and guests at St. Anthony's Guild meeting Thursday evening concerning "Changing Methods of Teaching Religion." "Instead of the old method of questions and answers that were memorized, we try to relate everyday living with Christ. Religion is really man's relationship to his fellow man and their relationship with God," she said.

Mrs. Keveton brought Misses Juanita Lopez, Patsy Lopez and Margaret Flores, all from Abernathy, to present a song and guitar selection emphasizing religious teaching through music.

Two new members, Mrs. Walter Paetzold and Mrs. Clarence Betzen, were welcomed into the club.

Hostesses for the evening were Meses, Elmer Reinart, Tony Hoffman, Carl Kleuskens and Erwin Bartels.

Tax Refund Is Still Available

Persons paying personal property tax during the month of October will get a 3 per cent discount of the total shown on the statement, county tax assessor-collector Nell Miller said Friday.

The statements, sent out in early October, did not have the 3 per cent discount shown on them because of an error on the part of the computer in Amarillo used in processing the statements.

Mrs. Miller said the error was caught in time to have the discount printed on the receipts, which will be given to persons when they pay their bill at the county courthouse.

After Good First Half, Hereford Loses, 30-20

(Continued From Page One) That three points came with control the first half that the Mustangs never got into Hereford territory — much less come close to threatening — until with less than 30 seconds left in the first half Olivo connected on a 26-yard pass to the Hereford 44. He then shot a 12-yard aerial to the 32, before one final pass was broken up in the end zone as the first half ended.

Those two completions were the only ones of eight attempts by Olivo in the first two periods.

On the other hand, Hereford and its fans — were on a rampage.

The Whitefaces controlled the ball 39 plays and the Mustangs 22 plays in the first half, and 33 of Hereford's 39 were snapped from inside the Coronado 30 and 25 from inside the Coronado 30 and 25 from inside the Coronado 30.

The defense was superb — blocking a punt, intercepting a pass and recovering two fumbles.

But of six serious scoring drives, only two put points on the scoreboard. Unsuccessful field goal attempts followed drives that carried to the Coronado 13, 16 and 15, and a fourth down pass fell incomplete from the Coronado 5 on another march.

There was more of the same in the last half, with the Mustang defenders holding at their 11 and 3 and thwarting another drive by intercepting a pass in the end zone.

It was the third of the first-half drives before the Whitefaces got any results. Wartes hit flanker Alan Railey for 18 and fullback Ricki Ward for 10 to move the ball to the Coronado 30 before the Mustangs jumped offside, advancing the ball to the 25. Three plays later, John Page went six yards and then Wagner 10 to give Hereford a first-and-goal situation on the Coronado 7.

Page, Hereford's leading rusher with 34 yards on 15 carries lost one yard and two straight passes went wide, setting up a 31-yard-field goal attempt. Loerwald's boot was low and to the right.

From the 20, Coronado, then moved only 10 yards in six plays and had to punt but defensive tackle David Campos came in to block Byrne's kick and the Whitefaces took over on the doorstep, at the Coronado 9. On the first play Page bruised his way past several tacklers for a seven-yard gain to the 2, added another yard on second down and then was thrown for a four-yard loss to the 5 on a pitchout. The Mustangs took over on downs when Wartes' pass in the end zone was too high.

The first quarter ended a couple of minutes later, after Coronado ran three plays and kicked. That put Hereford on the Mustang 35, and after two plays Wartes' 10-yard pass to Loerwald made its first and 10 at the 20. Page made 3. Ward was stopped cold and Wartes' pass to Loerwald in the end zone was broken up. Loerwald then kicked Hereford into a 3-0 lead with his field goal, placed down at the Coronado 25.

Olivo directed Coronado the 72 yards in just six plays. He hit Byrne in the right flat and the elusive Mustang receiver maneuvered past Hereford's defensive half back for 31 gain to the Hereford 40. Carpenter made five yards in two carries and a pass fell incomplete to get up a 4th-and-5 situation on the Whiteface 35. Olivo tossed a quick short-yardage pass in the left side to Byrne, who turned it into a touchdown by stepping around a Hereford defender and going the remaining 30 yards untouched, putting Coronado into the lead for the first time, 14-10. Olivo hit Gene Perry with a two-point conversion pass that made it 16-10.

Hereford kept the ball five plays and punted to the Coronado 38, and fireworks went off again.

Olivo called on Byrne again for the short pass in the left side, and after squirming out of the arms of a tackler, Byrne scooted the rest of the way on his 62-yard TD play. With Olivo's PAT run around right end, Coronado widened its lead to 24-10, with 2:32 left to play in the third quarter.

The next series, a Wartes-to-Loerwald pass of 37 yards and a 15-yard penalty against Coronado put Hereford into threatening position again, but Coronado held on its 11. It took Olivo seven plays to go those 91 yards.

Carpenter made 3, 10 and 7 yards before Perry broke loose for a 48-yard pass play from Olivo to the Hereford 21. Carpenter made 5 and Coronado was penalized back to the 31 for holding. But Olivo passed to Byrne again, this time for 22 yards, and Carpenter went the remaining nine yards for the score on the next play.

Schmucker caught passes for 16, 10, 10 and 18 yards under heavy coverage in the fourth quarter — all good for first downs. And Wartes also hit Ralph Waits for a 21-yarder. Suttle on a five-yarder and John Sparks a nine-yarder during three back-to-back fourth quarter drives that all ended in Coronado territory but without a score.

Sparks' catch was a fourth-down try on the Mustang 3, a yard short of a first down. Three plays later, Sierra — playing well in his first varsity game — and Smith dumped Samson in the end zone for the safety.

After Coronado kicked from the 20, Hereford took over on its 46 with just 27 seconds to play and Gonzales came in for Wartes at quarterback. Gonzales' first pass was incomplete, to Waits, and then he sent Page through the middle on a draw play good for the first down at the Coronado 44. Gonzales scrambled away from a heavy rush on the next play and found Loerwald all alone downfield behind two Coronado defenders. Loerwald caught the ball on the six-yard line and cruised over for the TD with five seconds to play.

On a fake kick attempt, Wartes threw to Sparks for the two extra points.

Mavericks Play To 7-7 Deadlock

The La Plata seventh grade "B" team, in its first game of the season, Wednesday played to a 7-7 draw with the Friona seventh grade "B" team.

The two teams will meet again in Friona Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. for another game.

Mark Denson tallied the only Maverick score when he went across from four yards out in the second quarter.

Outstanding players included Brian Edwards, Cassanova Hill, David Howard and Tommy Hickman.

Gorman Considered Top Tech Prospect

Tony Gorman, Hereford's 1969 blue-chip defensive tackle who reaped all sorts of recognition while a member of the Whitefaces, is considered by Texas Tech freshman football coach Jess Stiles to be one of the best prospects recruited from the West Texas area.

Now Gorman is starting defensive tackle for the Texas Tech Picadors, the freshman team, and he is leading perhaps one of the stingiest defenses around. In the two games he has played this year, he and his comrades have yielded only 13 points while allowing an average of only 105 yards per game rushing and 84 yards per game passing.

Coach Stiles says he feels Texas Tech was "very fortunate" in getting Gorman to attend Texas Tech.

Gorman, 6-1, 230 pounds, was a highly sought-after all-star after this senior year at Hereford when the Whitefaces went 8-2 on the year, losing only to Dumas and Plainview, Oklahoma, Texas A&M, TCU, Texas, SMU and a host of other schools were trying to get Gorman's signature for the next four years after his graduation from Hereford High School in 1969.

Gorman, however, was more impressed by the coaching techniques of the trans-planted West Virginian, Jim Carlen, who he fingered Tech as his choice.

"I think coach Carlen was a big influence on me when I visited the Tech campus last spring," Gorman said.

Gorman earned three letters in football and track during his time at Hereford High School. He was named to the All-District, All-Regional and All-State teams in football for two years.

"Tony has still not played up to his potential yet. We were thinking about his defensive possibilities when we recruited him. He is an outstanding prospect for us and we hope that he keeps improving his game," Stiles said.

Stiles said Gorman is quite accident-prone, having played all season with bruised elbows and various other injuries all the time. Despite that, Stiles feels Gorman is a prime candidate for the varsity next year as a sophomore.

Right now Gorman is looking towards the Oklahoma University freshmen who visit Lubbock for a game Monday. The Sooners ground out 407 yards rushing against Tulsa University in their last outing and the

The definition of teenage togetherness—her hair curlers getting caught in his hair curlers.

"If we can get this one," Gorman said, "we can have an undefeated freshman season. We want this one real bad. Believe me, we're going to make it as hard on them as we can."

GOOD PROSPECT — Tony Gorman, a 1969 all-stater from Hereford High School, is considered by the Texas Tech coaching staff as one of the best prospects now playing on the freshman team.

Mavs Win, 20-0 Over Clovis Team

The LaPlata Maverick ninth grade downed Clovis 20-0 Thursday and now prepare to get back into the thick of the High Plains Conference race Thursday when they host the Plainview Blub Pups.

In their romp over the Clovis team, the Mavericks picked up 10 first downs and a total of 295 yards, with 285 of that coming on the ground.

The Mavericks scored in every quarter but the second, beginning with a five yard scamper by Tommy Allen in the first period. James Harris converted for the extra points.

James Waits, in the second quarter, extended the Mavericks' lead when he busted loose from the La Plata five yard line and traveled 95 yards for the second touchdown. The try for the extra points failed.

Jim Marsh snagged a James Harris pass from 10 yards out in the final minutes of the game for the final touchdown, and again the attempt for the extra points failed.

2-3 fumble, 1 p teams keep La Plata's seventh and eighth grade teams kept their hopes for a conference title alive here last week as they both dashed the Canyon White teams in conference play.

The eighth grade stopped the Canyon team 18-6 and the seventh grade team held on for a 22-6 win. Both the seventh and eighth grade teams will travel to Canyon Tuesday for another conference game.

Marvin Harris and Terry Yerby accounted for all the eighth grade scoring, Harris getting two touchdowns and Yerby getting the other. Harris plunged over from the five in the first quarter for a quick Maverick lead and Yerby intercepted a pass on the Canyon 25 yard line in the second period and ran it back for the score.

Harris made his final tally on a three-yard run in the third period.

The seventh graders scored in the opening moments of the game on a 95-yard run by Joe Martinez, and were never behind after that. Dave Charest went over for the two point conversion and the seventh grade held an 8-0 lead throughout the first half.

Charest went 55 yards on a punt in the third period and just moments later Martinez again hit paydirt, this time from 25 yards out. Charest made the two-point conversion on the second third quarter score, after the first had failed.

Standouts for the seventh grade were Bill Martin, Greg Yosten, Fernando Garcia and Mike Cabbiness.

Hereford Sophs Drop Dumas, 21-6

The Hereford sophomore team Thursday night handed the Dumas junior varsity its first loss of the season, 21-6, and will be pitted in a rematch of the same game here Thursday.

After a scoreless first period, quarterback Barry McNutt hit paydirt on a keeper and Terry Poindexter added the point after.

The Dumas Imps retaliated with a score of their own late in the same period to narrow the Shorthorns' lead to 7-6, but the score remained that way until the half when the attempt at the extra point went astray.

On their first possession, of the second half the Shorthorns began a drive from the Dumas 45 that ended in the end zone for the second touchdown. Larry McNutt, busted loose from the 30-yard line and rambled into the end zone for the score. Poindexter added his second

"Oh, I have that," replied Jimmy. "You see, I am the lawyer."

FOUND EGGS

DUBLIN — Workers at the North Wall railroad junction heard a bird tweeting from beneath a freight car. They found a mother thrush who had been dutifully sitting on her eggs during the car's 60-mile journey from Carlow. Transport authorities ordered the freight car not to be moved until the eggs were hatched.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — For a short time in 1935 Rhode Island had no justices to sit on its supreme court. The general assembly, in an all-night session, declared vacant the seats on the court and that of the sheriff of Providence County. It later named new justices and another sheriff.

Vote Is Set For Directors Of Local Chamber

The Board of Directors of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Wednesday approved the report of the nominating committee to place on the ballot the names of A. J. Schroeter, Floyd Cole, Dr. Joe Whitley, O. Z. Golden, Gene Parsley, Earl Stagner, Bobby Veigel and Jim Conkwright.

Ballots will be mailed to chamber members on Friday and are to be returned for counting on or before 5 p. m. on Nov. 13th.

Members will vote for four of the eight nominees and those elected will serve a three-year term beginning Jan. 1st. The new directors will replace Dr. Joe Whitley (serving the unexpired term of Don Baugous who moved from the city), Dr. Millard Nobles, Don Zimmerman, Virgil Marsh and Earnest Langley. Marsh will remain on the board for an extra year as immediate past president.

In other business the directors heard a report from Roy Faubion on the reprint of the brochure financed by the city of Hereford and Deaf Smith County. Twenty thousand of the brochures were delivered to the Chamber office the first of this week.

Milt Durham, chairman of the Membership and Finance Committee, reported that after a careful analysis of the Chamber income and the demands being made upon the Chamber as the community continues to grow the committee recommends an increase of the basic dues structure from $60 to $72 for businesses and from $30 to $36 for individuals effective Jan. 1 or on the members' due-date following Jan. 1st.

The recommendation was approved by the board. Irene McKinster, who headed a sub-committee to work out preliminary plans for a membership drive, announced that the committee had challenged the Dumas Chamber of Commerce to compete for a trophy to be awarded to the Chamber which produced the greatest dollar increase in dues income during the week of Nov. 16.

Details of the competition have not been agreed upon with Dumas as yet but are being studied. The committee recommended a goal of 100 new members to be secured during that week.

This report was also approved by the board.

Rodney Laubhan, chairman of the Recreation Committee, discussed the recommendations of the committee he headed. That committee, over a period of six months, conducted an exhaustive research into recreational administration in a number of cities of comparable size and economy. The committee's recommendations are based on the result of the survey and were approved by the board of directors to be presented by Laubhan and his committee at an early city Commission meeting.

The board heard reports on the Governor's Industrial Development Conference and the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce board of directors, then approved the format of the annual report to be presented at the annual meeting on Jan. 14.

UF Drive Hits Quarter Mark Of 1970 Goal

The 1970 United Fund drive in Hereford has reached more than one-fourth of its $39,500 goal, with six days still remaining.

The drive began Tuesday. Friday morning's check-in meeting revealed a total of $10,658.10 collected, which is 26.9 per cent of the over-all proposed goal of $39,500.

Drive chairman Melvin Jayroe and Debs Knox expressed confidence the percentage will increase sharply during the early days of this week, since many firms pay employee salaries on Friday and Saturday.

"Fair share" donation set for employees is one hour's pay per month throughout the year. Officials encourage employers to use the payroll deduction procedure for the convenience of these employees.

Biggest Youth Problem Is Drinking, Juvenile Officer Says

Scientists Laud Grain Research

Grain sorghum, a crop marked by news-making scientific advances in the past 20 years, has another major discovery in the offing. The new find is known as apomixis, or seed production without fertilization by pollen. Apomixis in itself is not a recent revelation. Scientists have observed the process in some forage grasses, such as buffel, for many years. New interest is created though when it turns up as a possibility for a commercially grown grain crop like sorghum.

The phenomenon is reported in a current issue of "Science" magazine by geneticists of Texas A&M University, a center of apomictic research. The work is a cooperative program of the Soil and Crops Sciences Department, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Crops Research Division.

The scientists, W. W. Hanna, a former graduate assistant at Texas A&M and K. F. Schertz and E. C. Bashaw of the USDA point out the potentials of this discovery. They say it could revolutionize the grain sorghum industry.

Why is seed production without fertilization so important?

The geneticists say apomictic grain sorghum could make available to the farmer maximum yielding, true-breeding hybrids of high purity.

"When properly manipulated, it will permit the use of hybrid vigor without repeatedly producing new hybrids," Schertz explained. "Superior hybrids can be maintained generation after generation because the offspring are exactly like the plant from which the seed was harvested."

Apomictic sorghum would simplify hybrid seed production the scientists believe. They point out that for the commercial seed producer it would simplify stock maintenance. No crossing fields would be needed, thereby reducing problems of pollen contamination. For the farmer it should mean a larger selection of superior hybrids of high purity. These advantages would be accentuated in developing countries.

But like many new scientific developments, apomictic grain sorghum isn't something that will be available to the industry within the next few years. Much research remains to be done.

The researchers emphasized that the advantages will be realized only when the apomictic tendency is developed to a high level and in a line devoid of undesirable characteristics. It can then be transferred to other lines in a breeding program.

The total impact of this discovery will be known only with time, but in grain sorghum, where hybrids are already used, apomixis should be of extreme importance, Schertz said.

Juvenile officer Billy Don Hodges, after almost two months in the newly created office, said alcohol among teenagers has confronted him more often than anything else since he took office.

"I've handled approximately 60 cases in the past two months and probably the biggest problem I have come up against is the drinking juvenile," Hodges said.

is not monopolized by any one sex or age group, but by kids anywhere from 10 years of age up, mostly boys.

Of the 60 cases he has handled, he said some 20 of these have been placed on probation and records have been filed on about 35 of the total. On the cases where he is called on to assist other law officers, he is sometimes required to go to the juvenile's parents and talk with them.

"What we want to do is get the parents interested in the drinking problem, because we need to find out where these kids are getting the booze," he said. "If the parents would help, all we really want is to get the ones who are selling the stuff to the kids."

Hodges said in the cases he has handled for drinking, the juveniles would not say where they got the liquor because they did not want to get anyone else in trouble. He said if the parents would just approach their children when they smell the liquor on them and ask them where they got the stuff, the kids might confide in them more than they would to an officer of the law.

"We need something to attract the attention of some of the businessmen around town that some of these kids aren't actually troublemakers, but they could be if they have too much idle time on their hands," he said. "We need for them to have jobs available to these kids. A lot of them actually would like to work if they could just find a job."

Hodges has found out he doesn't work the proverbial "banker's hours," sometimes putting in as many as 60 hours a week. His job makes it necessary for him to be called any time a juvenile is picked up by a city, county or highway patrol officer.

Paperwork keeps him pretty well tied up at his office in the courthouse. And at nights when there are activities that attract large crowds of youngsters — such as a dance or a football game — Hodges attends and mingles with the youth.

"Really, I think they have pretty well accepted the fact that I am someone they can come and talk to without divulging any information they might choose to give me," he said. "I feel like, to have the kind of trust they give me, I have to hold it in confidence just like a minister does."

He said he feels the youth are finally placing their confidence in him instead of being afraid of being thrown in jail for a crime they commit.

"Really, the job is turning out a lot better than I ever thought it would. I feel I'm finally developing a trust among the youth and I am being accepted a lot better."

Hodges said he hopes the number of juvenile cases will not increase although he knows there is "quite a problem in drinking and in drugs here."

"My job is to help and not persecute the young people," he said.

PRESTON SMITH

Deserves A Second Term!

Governor Preston Smith's performance during his first term as governor of Texas has earned him another term. Under his quiet but forceful leadership, Texas government has continued to increase its responsiveness to the needs of all the state's citizens.

If we are to continue to have an efficient and economical state government, one which does serve all the people of our state, it is important that Texas have a governor who can work with the state legislature and state agencies. Democrat Preston Smith is such a governor.—(Editorial Page—Houston Chronicle, Thursday, October 15, 1970)

Preston Smith is also the first Panhandle resident ever to be elected Governor of this great state. In its 134 years of existence, this is the first time the Panhandle citizens have had a fair share of representation in Austin and it behooves us all to go to the polls Tuesday, November 3rd and give Preston Smith a big vote of confidence. Let's show him we appreciate the work he has done in Austin as Governor of Texas.

Smith Is Logical Choice

There are many logical reasons why Preston Smith should be returned to the governor's office for a second term, but there are a few that are of special interest to the people of the Panhandle. Texas has been a state for 134 years and until Preston Smith was elected two years ago, the Panhandle has never had a native son in the governor's office. Nor is there another on the political scene from our area who might soon follow in his footsteps. After Preston, we may have another long dry spell.

But loyalty to a native son is not the final consideration, Preston Smith, although not a suave politician, has been a public servant for many years and because of his background in the legislature has insisted on a sensible and sound fiscal policy in state government. He has demonstrated his ability to keep the state of Texas on a "pay-as-we-go" basis, a virtue that has long since been forgotten on the national level. He has shown by his actions that he is also concerned with the welfare of all the people of this state and that the god of all the people must come first. Yet, he did not forget the people of the Panhandle and has done more for this area of the state during his short tenure than any of his predecessors.

Last but not least, these are trying times and for the first time in our history we are faced with unrest on our college campuses as well as discontent in certain of the minority and laboring groups. For whatever it's worth, we believe that Preston Smith will use good judgement as well as a firm hand in dealing with the situations. This is not the time to "rock the boat."

Smith's Republican opponent has never served in public office and with all due respect to Mr. Eggers, we doubt seriously the wisdom of placing an apprentice in the governor's office. Therefore we would ask your consideration for Preston Smith's bid for a second term as governor of Texas.

Courts Vs. Terrorism

If the American system of justice will work effectively against terrorists now, we may in the future be able to avoid extraordinary antiterrorist measures like those invoked recently in Canada.

A few hours after a tough anti-crime act gave U. S. lawmen sharp new tools for use against terrorism, the Canadian government went after its own terrorists with blunt instruments.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau invoked the Canadian government went after its own terrorists with blunt instruments.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau invoked Canada's War Measures Act, which gives the government almost unchecked powers. It allows the government to suspend civil liberties, censor news, conduct unlimited searches and seizure of citizens, and carry out other emergency measures not subject to the normal restraints of law.

Shortly after the emergency was declared, the authorities rounded up 154 persons in Quebec and Montreal. The Canadian campaign against the terrorists mobilized not only law-enforcement agencies but the armed forces to smash the terror gangs.

spending traditional rights of the individual, the police can bring before the bar of justice the few who have attempted to terrorize society.

It will then be up to courts to prove that the system of justice is still capable of determining guilt or innocence and promptly meting out punishment to the guilty.

In past years the strange convolutions of some trial and appeals courts often have raised questions in the public's mind about these capabilities. If the trial and conviction of terrorist assassins and bombers have the net effect of increasing their celebrity value on their lecture tours, it may be expected that the public will begin to look toward harsher, more repressive policies to deal with the lethal lunatic fringe.

Terrorism can be stopped by law, if the law is effective. The public looks now to the courts for a demonstration that the law can be effective in its own defense.

How To Improve Mail Service

How to improve mail service 1610 pt. Much, much criticism has been fired at the post office department for slow, inefficient service and while a majority of the criticism has been justified, the public is to blame for some of the delays.

The post office has been urging, for some time, the posting of mail earlier in the day.

If folks realized just how much faster service they would get if they posted their letters during the noon hour they would be more willing, we're sure, to cooperate.

The average business-house puts its mail into the post office around 5 p. m. and this creates a back-breaking task for the clerks and sorters.

The department says more than half of a typical large city post office's volume is received in the two hours after 5 p. m. Business mail accounts for 75 percent of this.

This volume has to be sorted, routed and put aboard late night planes, and very often doesn't reach the designated city until up in the day of the next day, and has to be held over for the day after delivery. There was a time this late posting of letters wouldn't make much difference but now that most of the mail is going by plane, it does.

A letter posted by noon gets faster sorting, due to lack of volume, and can catch an earlier dispatch, to be delivered, quite often to the terminal in a distant city that very night and be ready for the routemen the next morning. Patrons can save as much as 24 hours in the delivery of a letter.

Therefore, while we are ripping the post office up and down, put some of the blame where it belongs — on the general public for its obsolete thinking that mail can wait until just about closing time to be stamped and posted.

Mail that letter by noon and see how much better service is reaped.

Nevertheless, we still think the service is terrible and something should be done about it.

Average Family Income Is Expected To Rise Sharply

By BERT MILLS
Washington, D. C. — Average family income is expected to rise from $8,600 a year today to $15,000 in 1985, measured in dollars of constant purchasing power, according to Dr. George H. Brown, Director of the Bureau of the Census.

At present, about one-third of total income is received by families in the $15,000-and-up bracket. By 1985, families at this level will receive nearly three-fourths of the income. Because of the combined impact of both income and population growth, the number of constant dollars at this upper level will be about five times as great as it is today.

In a speech to the Downtown Economists Club in New York recently, Dr. Brown declared: "We are heading into a society of an affluent majority. That statement has tremendous economic, social, moral, political and other major implications." He suggested it could be that "the danger to our society lies not with our political and personal freedom but with our new found affluence."

By 1985, America will have achieved more affluence than any nation has ever seen. The problems of the next 15 years, according to the Census Director, will be to attain not more "quantity in life" but "balanced and purposeful growth."

Population Bomb Defused
Recently the Census Bureau has revised downward its 1967 population projection. D. R.

Brown now expects U. S. population to grow from the present 204 million to between 240 and 250 million by 1985. The reason is that women are having fewer children than they did in the 1950's.

Of four projections made only three years ago, based on various female fertility rates, the top range has been dropped as no longer a reasonable possibility for 1985. The current fertility rate is in the fourth range, about 2.5 children per woman. A fifth projection has now been added, assuming 2.11 children per woman.

If this latest projection turns out to be accurate, zero population growth would be reached in time, except for immigration. Under current law, there is a ceiling of 270,000 alien immigrants per year but refugees and special classes of immigrants raise the annual total to about 400,000. These immigrants have a lower fertility rate than Americans but contribute more to their share of total births because of the large proportion of entering aliens who are in the prime child-bearing age bracket.

If the trend toward liberalizing abortion laws continues, Dr. Brown foresees a further reduction in the fertility rate. This has happened in other nations which have lifted the bars against abortions.

Growth Centers Identified
Based on preliminary results of the 1970 Census, the population experts have begun to identify "possible growth centers" outside of the major metropolitan areas. These "growth centers" are all within counties where the population has declined in the past decade.

One group has a central city of 50,000 or more and is growing even though the area around them is on the downgrade. Examples cited by Dr. Brown are Cascade County, Montana, (Great Falls); Lubbock County, Texas (Lubbock); Polk County, Iowa (Des Moines); and Ouachita County, Louisiana (Monroe).

A second group of "growth centers" features small cities under 50,000, including Campbell County, Wyoming (Gillette); Portage County, Wisconsin (Stevens Point); Dale and Coffee Counties, Alabama (Orzark and Enterprise); and Grand Isle County, Vermont (Alburg).

The Census Bureau is working on finding the reasons for exceptional growth in these communities. Through the use of data obtained from other studies, an evaluation will be made of each potential "growth center." Hopefully, the experts will be able to identify those kinds of business which tend to be associated with areas of unusual growth.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reflects on a proposed new law, more or less.

Dear editor:
I remember reading it in a newspaper, I forget which newspaper and which town it was, but some city government, tired of willful mischief and serious destruction by kids and students, if there's any difference, has passed an ordinance making parents responsible for their children's actions, even to the point of fining them and sending them to jail.

"Maybe this will put a stop to it," officials said, tired of the whole matter.

I have thought this over and I don't know whether this law ought to become widespread or not.

Sure, when a kid throws a rock through a hundred-dollar plate glass window or sets fire to a library it looks like his parents must have slipped up, and they probably feel that way too, but there's another side to it, to be thought about before you send the parents to jail. Some good people might wind up behind bars.

What I mean is, occasionally some kids who turn out the best come from what is considered some of the worst families, and some who turn out the worst come from what is considered some of the best families. Kids don't always follow a formula.

Now if a neighbor's kid pulls up all the flowers around your house and smears paint on your new car, a law punishing the parents seems like a splendid idea, but if it's your kids... this requires more level-headed thought.

On the other hand, if the parents are going to be punished for their children's misdeeds, what's to keep somebody from bringing out a law to punish grandparents for producing children whose children break the law? Or great-grandparents? Or great-great-grandparents?

To hold down on the prison population, it would be better to hold down on the grand-grandparents responsible. Be very few prison riots that way.

On still another hand, it does look like some parents are not doing all they could, to be generous about it, to train their kids to live in an organized society.

Probably before this new law becomes universally enacted it ought to be turned over to a Congressional committee for further study. This will delay the matter for years.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN? — Is it possible that the Colorado River once was known as the Brazos — and that the Brazos was named Colorado? John Wallace of Austin thinks so. To prove that the names of the two rivers once were reversed, Mr. Wallace sends along this excerpt from "Topographical Description of Texas" written in 1840 by George W. Bonnell.

The early historian relates the story of the miraculous salvation of a priest who escaped the Comanche sacking of Mission San Saba in the 18th century by crossing a nearby river (today's Colorado). Legend has it that the waters parted to permit his safe passage on dry land just as the Bible says the Red Sea had done for the Israelites.

The priest lived to tell the story. Those hearing it, Bonnell writes, "pronounced it a miracle, and the river, from that circumstance, received the name 'Brazos De Deos,' or 'Arms of God'; but in the little which is known of this country, the name was changed to the Colorado, which was formerly applied to the Brazos River."

Since Colorado means "red" in Spanish, Bonnell thought that it was an inappropriate name for such a clear, beautiful stream. The Brazos is always red with mud and probably was dubbed "Colorado" by the liberal Spaniards.

ENJOYING THE SIGNS — On the outskirts of a small Jim Hogg County town: "Slow, No hospital."

TRAVELING TEXAS — Loving County, which the 1970 census designated as the least populated county in the U.S., has fewer dead citizens than live ones.

The county, which is larger than the state of Rhode Island, has only two known graves within its 647 square miles.

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — Texas' most publicized horse race was staged in 1855 in McKinney, Collin County, when fans from all over the state gathered to watch two quarter horses run the one-fourth mile course.

Business closed in towns as distant from McKinney as Sherman and Jefferson to permit citizens to see for themselves whether "Monmouth" or "Steel Dust" was the fastest runner in the quarter mile. Both horses had won every race in which they were entered, and this encounter was to settle the unofficial state championship.

"Steel Dust," from Lancaster in adjoining Dallas County, was the easy winner and went on to sire a strain of quarter horses that dominates the field even today. And soon Lancaster will have a marker on its public square commemorating the stallion that was undisputed champion of Texas tracks in his day.

TONGUE FOOLERY — Around Castroville, Medina County, many of the residents still speak an Alsatian dialect. The town was named in 1842 by Henri Castro and was populated originally almost entirely by Europeans from Alsace-Lorraine. The community still calls itself "The Little Alsace of Texas."

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

HARTFORD, Conn. — When the four Kent State students died earlier this year, there were untold thousands of mourners. But who mourns for the slain policemen in America's big cities? No lament is heard from the liberal news media in the Northeast. No armbands are worn as a symbol of loss. Yet there are mounting casualties in police ranks around the country as Black Panthers and other extremists wage terrorist war against the men in blue.

The seriousness of the attacks against policemen, guardians of law and order in American towns and cities, has been accurately stated by Mayor Ann Uccello of Hartford, Conn. In a recent public statement she declared that "we are dangerously close to guerilla warfare in our cities." She proposed that Congress make it a federal crime to attack or kill a policeman.

Mayor Uccello who is the Republican nominee for Congress in the First Connecticut District, warned that terrorist attacks on policemen across the country will lead to anarchy.

"We saw it," she said "in the form of sniper fire upon police, right here in Hartford this summer, in Chicago where four policemen have been slain from ambush since mid-June, in Omaha where one policeman was killed and seven wounded in a bomb explosion, in Minneapolis where a policeman was killed in his squad car and, most recently, in Philadelphia where a police officer was brutally shot five times sitting at his desk and where three other policemen were wounded during the same weekend."

Homegrown terrorists in our cities know what they are doing when they attack the police. It is violence, but not violence without an objective. The aim of urban terrorists is to hit at both the symbol and reality of public order and authority—the agencies of law enforcement. Verbal assaults on policemen as "pigs" were the prelude to the assaults with pistols, snipers' rifles and fire-bombs.

Parallel to the ambushes and sniper attacks on policemen are radical campaigns to disarm the police and to lessen their effectiveness in every way.

For example, political pressure is mounted in some communities to deny police the weapons they need to protect themselves and the general public. Recently, policemen in Atlanta, Ga., asked for chemical Mace, shotguns and other protective devices necessary for their job in an era of anti-police violence. Their request was turned down by city authorities. It is utterly unreasonable, however, to ask policemen to protect life and property when urban terrorists are more heavily armed than law enforcement personnel. In some situations, militants simply demand elimination of entire law enforcement agencies. An instance of this was the demand voiced by militants in Texas for abolition of the famous Texas Rangers, a historic symbol of firm law enforcement in the Lone Star State.

Miss Billie Jean Kee Bride Of David Crump

Mrs. David Crump
nee Billie Jean Kee

Frio Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding when Miss Billie Jean Kee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Kee, 325 Avenue K, became the bride of Robert David Crump Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Crump of Lubbock. The Rev. Prentice D. Smith, pastor of Greenwood Baptist Church, officiated for the Saturday evening ceremony.

A large heart outlined in greenery, framing three white candles, centered the altar before which the couple stood. On each side candelabra, tied with green and white ribbon, were green and white ribbons, were flanked by green plants. Candles set in clusters of greenery and white ribbons marked the pews.

Presenting the program of nuptial music were Miss Patricia Herr, organist, and Miss Carol Scott, vocalist. Miss Scott's selections included More and Oh Perfect Love. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin princess style gown with lace panel front, featuring lace yoke and lace sleeves pointed at the wrist and fastened with tiny satin buttons.

A cluster of satin roses held the tiered, waist-length veil sprinkled with appliques of roses cut from the lace. The bridal bouquet of white orchids was surrounded with pompon mums and stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Kee served her sister as maid of honor and Mrs. Larry Mosley was bridesmaid.

The attendants wore sleeveless blue satin A-line frocks and carried white carnation corsages. Mothers wore corsages of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Donna Sommers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Sommers of Lubbock, and Jimmy Kee, brother of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer.

Phil Spector and Eddie Matthews of Lubbock were ushers. Candle lighters were Buddy Rogers and Dale Sommers of Lubbock.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall with Mrs. Tom Poss of Ft. Worth, sister of the bridegroom, at the guest registry.

Mrs. Ernest Harder and Mrs. Betty Williams served cake and punch from a table laid with white lace over blue and centered with blue candles and blue flower arrangement. White three-tiered colonnade cake was trimmed in blue.

Others assisting at the reception were Mmes. Jack Funk, James Whitson, Aubrey Bell, Annie Freeman, and Misses Diane Lange and Glenda Cooksey.

For a wedding trip to Ruidosa the bride wore a navy blue coat style dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage from her bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Lubbock following the trip.

The bride is a senior at Hereford High School. The groom is a 1968 graduate of Lubbock's Monterey High School. He attended South Plains Junior College in Levelland and is now in business with his father in Lubbock.

Cattle Program Is Eyed At Plainview

Wheat pasture for cattle back-grounding studies is being established on the High Plains Research Foundation's Steinie Research and Demonstration Farm east of Plainview.

The planting of 125 acres of wheat marks the Foundation's full scale entry into livestock production programs.

In 1969, the Foundation began small scale swine feeding studies. The Steinie Research and Demonstration Farm offers the Foundation an opportunity to expand its swine feeding program and develop a meaningful program in cattle feeding operations.

The Steinie Research and Demonstration Farm was inaugurated during a meeting of the Foundation Board of Trustees September 10. Board members voted to accept the terms of lease for the 480-acre farm located seven miles east of Plainview.

The wheat pasture study will compare beef cattle on a 65-acre pasture of Caddo wheat and on 55 acres of Sturdy wheat.

To be installed later is a swine feeding operation for 200 feeder pigs with future plans calling for expansion to feed all grain sorghum produced by the Foundation through swine. Dr. Tom Longnecker, Foundation director, estimates this number to reach 4,000 pigs per year.

The Farm is served by three irrigation wells and will be utilized for its grain sorghum and pasture production. It is owned by John G. Steinie, Phoenix, Arizona and is under a lease agreement to the Foundation.

Mrs. Jim Bookout--Retired After 31 Years Of Teaching

By JANIE REINART
Staff Writer

Mrs. Jim Bookout's love for children and main interest in teaching have best qualified her for 31 years of teaching prior to her retirement in May.

"When I retired I certainly didn't intend to sit down. There is so much to do in Hereford—so many places that need volunteer help," she said.

As a child her secret desire was to be a doctor or surgeon. "I would have loved to be a doctor. I used to watch them perform operations, when they let you do that, and I was really fascinated."

Mrs. Bookout is presently doing volunteer work for the Hereford Health Center and enjoys the opportunity to work in medical surroundings.

Other activities include tutoring two reading students twice a week in her home and helping a young bride from Thailand get a foundation of the English language.

She is a member of El Llano and Lone Star Study Clubs and of Kings Manor and Westgate Auxiliaries.

Throughout her teaching years she was an active member and officer in Delta Kappa Gamma, Texas State Teachers Association, Classroom Teachers Association and National Education Association.

Opal Hays was born and raised on a farm near Bonham and attended school at Bailey until her senior year, at that time eleventh grade.

She commuted seven miles to and from Bonham the first semester of her senior year and last mid-term went to East Texas State at Commerce. She began her college work the following summer at age 16 and received her teachers certificate. Two years later she began teaching at Ector.

The Hays family moved to Black on Christmas Eve, 1928, at which time Opal was teaching at Bailey. During the summer months she attended school and went on to teach in Summerfield.

Fall of 1930 she attended Lincoln Memorial University in Tennessee on an offer by the physical education head whom she had known in Commerce.

In Tennessee Mrs. Bookout was student assistant in the P. E. department and did junior and senior work.

The following year she went to Hartley and taught for four years before her marriage to Jim Bookout in November of 1933.

Mrs. Bookout quit teaching in 1935 to have her first son, Bill, returned to teach in 1937-38 and quit again to have daughter Martha in 1939.

Spring 1940 they moved to Deaf Smith County and in 1941 had another daughter, Jane.

"I lived the life of housewife and mother while my husband was manager of Fraser Farms. We moved into Hereford in 1944," she recalled.

Fall, 1950, George Graham, superintendent of Hereford schools, asked Mrs. Bookout to finish the year for a second grade teacher who had taken ill.

At the end of the term she was rehired for fifth grade social studies at Shirley. The following eight years she taught at Central and when Northwest opened in 1959 she transferred. She taught second grade there for 10 years until her retirement in May.

She earned her BS degree following 18 hours elective work in the summer of 1962.

"I would not have kept teaching so long if it had not been for my husband's death in January, 1961. It was wonderful to have had the experience," said Mrs. Bookout.

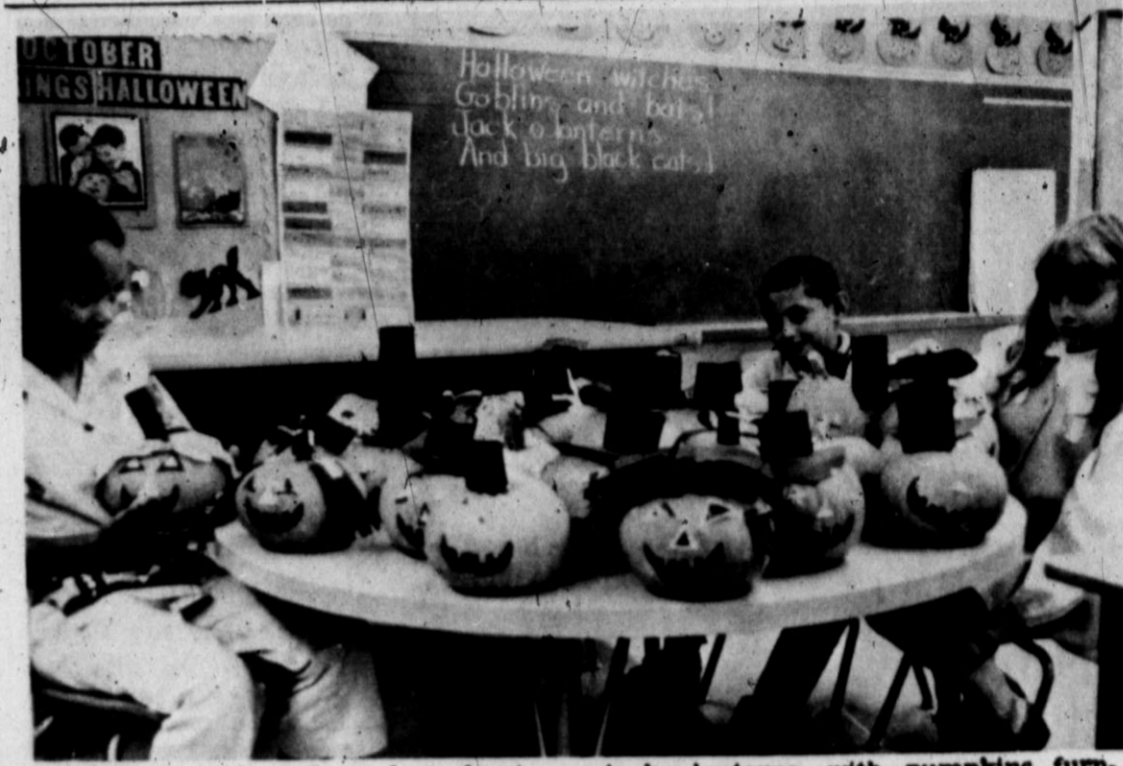

"I like to stay active and never let myself become bored nor sit around and rock all day. I love life and people," she said.

After doing school work at home evenings while she was teaching, Mrs. Bookout now fills her evening hours reading.

"I feel a teacher should teach more than just the basic reading, writing and arithmetic. There are so many other things a child needs to be taught, like honesty and kindness," she said.

Mrs. Bookout has two grandsons and four granddaughters living in Ft. Worth and Wichita Falls whom she sees only three or four times a year.

Death came to two persons, last week, who have been active in Frio community during the past years.

On Thursday, Mrs. J. E. (Fannie) Warrick, 86, passed away in Deaf Smith County hospital after failing health for several years. Mrs. Warrick, with her husband, who passed away in 1948, and son of J.E. Jr. moved to the family home a mile east of Frio Church in 1942, coming from Wellington. A grandson, Bill, with his family also lives in the community and another, Dan lives in Hereford. One son, Velmen, lives at Wellington and the other Lawrence lives in Eureka, Kansas. Mrs. H. M. Mobley and her sister, Mrs. Claud Price of Floydada, spent last week visiting relatives, including Mrs. Mobley's daughter, Dorothy and her husband Earl Reno, at Midland, a brother of the ladies, J. W. Taylor and family, Odessa, their sister, Mrs. George Bentley and Mr. Bentley at Monahan.

On Sunday morning, Mrs. A. T. Jones, 78, a cousin of Mrs. Warrick, died at her home 1/2 miles south of Hereford, suffering from a heart attack. Mrs. Jones had been happily preparing for several days, for the 60th wedding anniversary reception the two had planned for that day.

The Jones family lived on their farm, about two miles south of Frio for about 25 years before moving to the present home in the early fifties. Their children attended school at Frio school and were active in community activities. The Jones were members of the Frio Methodist Church; for several years before it disbanded in the early thirties.

Frio Homemakers Club met Tuesday, Oct. 13, in the community room of First National Bank, with Mrs. Ronnie Andrews as hostess. Mrs. Dwane Nelson brought a program with discussion and illustrations of different types of window coverings. Attending the meeting were Mesdames T. L. Sparkman, Jr., Annie Springer, E. F. Vogler, Herbert Bruns, Laura Recent visitors of the John Simpsons were their daughter, Mrs. Leon Roberts and her daughter, Patsy Ford, Wellington and Dodson, also the Joe Simpsons, Wellington and Mrs. Elmer Gardner, of Clovis.

The Bill Struves were going to Arizona, this weekend to spend a few days visiting their children, the Clifford Hargroves at Yuma. They were flying and expected to visit Bills sister at Lawrence Warrick underwent surgery in St. Anthony's hospital, Amarillo, on Thursday, on blood vessels in the neck and arms. He was progressing as well as was expected at last report. He became ill while here after his mother's death. Relatives and friends of the family have been checking and going to Amarillo to see about him this week.

SHOCKING BILL
BOKSBURG, South Africa—The monthly electricity account carried a shock for householder A. M. Barker — it was for Rands 672.08 ($940.98). Barker sarcastically asked electricity officials if he could pay in installments. A red-faced meter reader checked the meter and corrected the amount of electricity used from 300,360 units to 360 units. Barker paid the amended account of Rands 4.43 ($6.20) in one installment.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS" did they swap the BIBLE for a PRAYER BOOK?

Indeed not! From beginning to end, the Episcopal Prayer Book IS the Bible in some form or another. It's possibly the finest key available to understanding the Bible. The person who uses this book, faithfully finds himself reading the New Testament twice and the Old Testament once in a year's time.

The Prayer Book is so arranged that the minister cannot depart from the Bible. He is prevented from dealing in ideas that have no Biblical foundation . . . or from belaboring his congregation, over and over, with his own favorite passages.

Episcopalians are never required to accept any belief that cannot be proved from, or is not agreeable to, the teachings of Holy Scripture.

Your nearest Episcopal minister would be happy, to explain why, for him and his congregation, the Bible will never be obsolete. It's all a matter of viewpoint . . . and there's no obligation on your part if you'd like to understand the Episcopal viewpoint.

One of a series presented by "Those Crazy Episcopalians" in your area.

Comings and Goings at King's Manor

By ANNA BLAKE

The four cottages being built on Kings Manor campus are nearing completion, and now look like they are ready for occupants to move in.

Dr. and Mrs. John English are to be in Borger Friday for a meeting of the Texas Panhandle Conference on Aging, to be held in the Gold Room of First United Methodist Church.

They recently were in Pampa to tell the story of Kings Manor, and went to Abilene Oct. 15 and 16 for Dr. English to meet with the McMurry College board and commissions. They were entertained there in the home of Dr. James K. Kim, president of the college.

TWENTY RESIDENTS of the Manor spent last Sunday at Lazbuddie, guests of the United Methodist Church there as it celebrated Harvest Day. This is an annual event to which the Lazbuddie church invites Manor residents each fall. They always enjoy the visiting and dinner.

MRS. CHARLES PRYOR and Mrs. Winnie Hale recently entertained La Costura Club of Amarillo, inviting the Kings Manor family as guests. Mrs. Jessie Boardman poured tea and Mrs. Anne Higgins served coffee from a table laid with lace and centered with a beautiful autumn arrangement of mums and fern.

Miss Lillie Hostetler had as guests over the weekend two of her great-nephews, Charles Hostetler of Raeford, N. C., and Carl Moser of Crawfordville, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams are taking a week's vacation and Manor residents are looking forward to a show of the pictures they take on their trip.

MRS. BYRDIE FELLERS, accountant at the Westgate unit, is spending a vacation in Fort Worth. Another staff member, Mrs. Don Anderson, secretary to the executive director, is visiting in Nebraska, her former home.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Winchester of Enid, Okla., were weekend guests of Mrs. Faye Gauggel.

The Arts and Crafts Club is grateful to Mrs. Lou Ella Patterson of Canyon for the gift of a sewing machine.

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Patterson have presented the library at Kings Manor an appreciated volume, Maus' Artists and Fine Arts, in a revised and enlarged edition.

MRS. MAGGIE HAMILTON spent several days in Matador last week.

Mrs. Thelma Chisum had as guests Monday Mr. and Mrs. J.

H. Chisum of Modesto, Calif., who are visiting relatives in Oklahoma and New Mexico as well as Texas.

Mrs. Ida Wilcoxon spent last week in Dallas visiting her sister, Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. Bessie Petty was in Lubbock over the weekend visiting relatives.

The Chicago headquarters of the National Association of Real Estate Boards houses the largest real estate library in the world.

GOOD FOOD is the hallmark of L'Allegra Club's annual tasting luncheon, which area residents have come to anticipate as a time for taste treats. Past luncheons have featured gourmet dishes from the cuisine of countries all over the world, but this year the theme turns home and the menu will offer favorite foods of American pioneers, especially those of West Texas. Serving hours are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. next Thursday and the public is invited.

GOOD CAUSE is the reason for efforts of young Hereford matrons in L'Allegra Club, who each year prepare food for the benefit luncheon. Money raised in this event goes to some worthwhile community cause, this year to the Deaf Smith County Health Clinic which L'Allegra members also aid with volunteer service. Since it began five autumns ago, the luncheon has attracted customers until now the County Bull Barn is needed to accommodate them all.

NOT ONLY FOOD, but promotional material is being prepared in advance for the luncheon. Posters in eye-catching colors, made by members, are on display now in Hereford stores to announce the event. At a poster making session are, from left, Mrs. Buddy Bloomer, club president; Mrs. Gary McQuigg, Mrs. Jeff Carlile and Mrs. Dale Furr.

WHAT'S BETTER than fried pies for dessert? Favorites in pioneer days and favorites still, the pies will be featured at the lunch, and dozens of them were made and frozen recently. At work here, from left, are Mrs. J. H. McCrary, Mrs. James Carnahan and Mrs. David Gibson.

FINISHING TOUCHES to a batch of pies are given by Mrs. Bobby Veigel, left, and Mrs. Rudy Metz at one of the work days held by the club for advance preparation of the huge quantities of food.

PRETTY SCALLOPS are put on the edges of the fried pies by Mrs. James Carnahan and Mrs. Danny Martin as Mrs. David Gibson gives the operation her attention. Other items on the menu will be as typical of old-time western tastes as the pies.

Lunch Honors Guest In City

A visitor from the West Coast who is a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wes Fisher, was complimented with a luncheon Wednesday when Mrs. Warren Jorde was hostess.

Mrs. George Wilson of Clarkburg, Calif., is renewing acquaintances she has made on several previous visits in Hereford while she is spending some time in the Fishers' home. Some of those friends were invited to the luncheon, with a few of Mrs. Jorde's neighbors.

Quartet tables were covered with gaily-printed cloths and centered with small pumpkins and bouquets of bronze mums. More of the flowers were circled with lace paper to make a nosegay at each plate. Entertainment was informal conversation.

Guests with Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Fisher were Mmes. Elvina Jorde, Reuben Anslund, D. W. Palmer, Betty Battey, Bud Thurner, Paul Corbett, Keith Jorde, A. Petersen and Floyd Coleman.

Retired Persons Are Invited To Special Meeting

Insurance plans for retired persons who are members of the American Association of Retired Persons or the National Retired Teachers Association will be discussed at a called meeting of local units of the two groups here Tuesday morning.

The meeting is set for 10:30 a. m. in Community Center, Virgil Dodson, AARP president, announces. All residents age 55 or over are invited.

Nita Youngblood of Dallas, insurance consultant for both associations, will be here to

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor
 That old remark about needing to know more than the dog before you try to teach a dog anything, applies as well to teaching a child, or so I always think when somebody asks for volunteers to lead this or that organization of youngsters, and looks my way.

IT COULD APPLY TO parents, too, you can easily believe when you look around at a lot of unmannerly, badly-brought up children in public places. But this is not my three-dollar lecture to parents.

It's just a place to mention that good leaders can occasionally flub, as I was reminded when Cathy Polan had a luncheon table in the giggles telling about an experience with her Camp Fire group.

She and another adult in camp with some girls were assigned the task of laying a trail for the young campers to follow in practicing their woodcraft. It was fun, Cathy said, and they marked a fine trail.

But they were paying no attention to the marks when they started back to camp, and that was too bad. They were lost.

IN HIS WORK with highway associations and motor clubs, Guy Lawrence does a lot of traveling — a good deal of it this week. He was in Hawaii at an American Automobile Association convention, then flew back just in time to go down to southern reaches of Highway 389 for a meeting of its association.

Mrs. Lawrence met his plane in Lubbock and they visited their daughter, Melba Cooper, and her family before starting down to Crane and Odessa.

THE ELMER PATTERSONS travel a great deal, too, visiting their children and working for their church, and Elmer takes pictures wherever they go.

They have arranged several groups of slides which they are ready now to show to any organization that would like a travel program. There are trips to Hawaii and Jamaica, as well as to northwest, southwest and southeast states.

NEXT TO TRAVELING talking to people who have been places, and seeing their pictures, sort of satisfies an itching heel. I certainly enjoyed meeting and talking with Pat Fisher's mother, Isabelle Wilson, a few days ago.

Mrs. Wilson is visiting the give information. Persons attending the meeting are invited to bring insurance policies to be reviewed.

Fisher family from California, but she has spent a good deal of time in Iran, where her husband has business interests; he is in that mid-east kingdom now.

Her talk about the life of a westerner in a small town far to the south of Tehran is fascinating, but there is one point that would make me think carefully about the time of year I'd choose for a visit there. Temperatures get up to 120 degrees quite often.

Of course there is air conditioning in houses and cars, but you do have to go from the car to the house and you feel like you're stepping into an oven. Mrs. Wilson says.

Thompson Takes Doctor's Degree

Wade H. Thompson Jr. of Muncie, Ind., former Hereford resident, completed work for the doctor of education degree at Indiana University in Bloomington Sept. 24, and received his degree with a major in higher education and a minor in school administration.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thompson of Route 3, he received BS and masters degrees from Texas Tech and taught agriculture in Hereford High School from 1958 to 1961.

Thompson's current post is director of campus residence facilities at Ball State University in Muncie, where he lives with his wife, the former Kathleen Dunsun and their three children, Ann, Steven and Jeff.

Guild Workshop Is Announced For Next Month

Reporting a district meeting she attended recently in Amarillo, Mrs. M. H. Richie, president of First Methodist Wesleyan Service Guild, announced Wednesday evening a district leadership workshop Nov. 15 in that city.

Plans were made for the Guild's annual sale of fruit cakes from a Corcicana bakery.

Mrs. Joel Hodges was hostess to the Guild in her home and served a dessert course from a table brightened with autumn flowers, assisted by Mrs. J. J. Durham and Mrs. Irving Willoughby.

Mrs. Charles Bell presented the program a discussion of the United Nations on its 25th anniversary, with a closing poem read by Mrs. J. W. McIver and prayer by Miss Judith Miller. Mrs. Norman Cobb was a team on this particular series, just short of a score in the second quarter. The eighth grade also won its game over Canyon White, 18-6.

Women Golfers Make New Plans

Changes in by-laws of the Women's Golf Association, providing for play each week instead of alternate weeks, were agreed upon by members at their October luncheon this week, when officers for a new year were elected.

Mrs. David Gibson was returned to the president's post and other officers are Mrs. Dwayne Pittenger, vice president and reporter; Mrs. Mike Patrick, secretary-treasurer; Mrs.

John Carrothers, parliamentarian.

On the events committee are Mrs. V. A. Allen and Jan Garrett; handicap committee, Mrs. J. McWhorter and Mrs. John McCleskey; social committee, Mrs. Joe Easley and Mrs. Vernon Swanson.

Members voted for the group to withdraw from the High Plains Women's Golf Association and operate as an unaffiliated club.

A business meeting was scheduled Nov. 4 at a luncheon in Hereford Country Club, to officially adopt the changes. All women of the area who are interested in golf are invited to this meeting, and to membership in the association.

Beginners and women who want to learn golf will be welcome as members, Mrs. Gibson says; the organization is not one for experts. Weekly play days will be on Wednesdays in the future, and lunch in Hereford Country Club will follow the morning of golf on the first Wednesday of each month.

JoEd Cupell explains algebra problem

Teacher Of Year Likes Contacts In Classroom

By SUE COLEMAN
Staff Writer

A teacher who chose that profession in college and has never wanted to change it, who has been a coach and school administrator but prefers the personal contact with students in classroom teaching, JoEd Cupell has been named Teacher of the Year for Deaf Smith County by the local unit of Texas State Teachers Association.

In the fifth year of his second hitch as a teacher in Hereford Public Schools, Cupell heads the high school mathematics department which has six teachers, and is instructor in geometry and algebra. He previously taught here four years, then spent 13 years as superintendent of schools at Hartley and Estelina before his return to the classroom.

His career began at Pylon School in Scurry County, where he was mathematics instructor and coach at the age of 21, when he had a couple of students older than he. He had earned his BS degree from West Texas State University in three years after graduation from high school in his home town of Quitaque.

Playing basketball, baseball and making the track team in high school gave him his background for coaching those sports, which he continued at Hartley and Plemons, where he also served as principal. Then he taught math and industrial arts at Dalhart before coming to Hereford the first time.

He received the master's degree in administrative education in 1957, as he took up the work of school administration.

Even while he was serving as superintendent, he managed to teach a class or two each year, charter member of the Evening Lions Club here, and attends First Baptist Church.

His family includes his wife, who was Anita Williams of Hartley before he married her when he first taught in that North Panhandle city, two sons and two daughters, one of each married and the other in school. There are also four grandchildren, he notes with proper pride.

Lately he was asked to state his philosophy of education, and found it hard to put into words. "The worth of an individual is the most important thing a teacher can remember," he says, "and I want to help each student develop to the limit of his own capabilities. In my view the most satisfaction a teacher can get, is to see a student or former student take full advantage of all his potential."

In addition to memberships in professional groups, he is a

Supplement Will Present Nuclear Attack Material

A supplement, which tells what to do in case of a nuclear attack, will be published as a supplement to the Nov. 1 Sunday Brand, according to Bill Thomson, Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce manager and civil defense director.

"The new community shelter plan for Deaf Smith County indicates that there is enough public shelter for most of our people," he said. "The plan provides official information that will tell the people what they need to know to have the best chances for survival in the event of a nuclear attack."

He said if there is not public shelter available or if for some reason residents cannot go to a shelter they will have to seek the best protection they can find in their homes. The plan tells of the ways a person can improve by use of basements, storm cellars and other means.

"It is hoped that every citizen

Psychic World Of Bishop James Pike

A firsthand story of Bishop James Pike's dealings with ESP and other psychic phenomena, is now available at the Deaf Smith County Library for your reading entertainment. Check into it today.

THE PSYCHIC WORLD OF BISHOP PIKE

By Hans Holzer

The psychic World of Bishop Pike is traced here from his early years to his death—and even beyond—by the country's most notable parapsychologist, Hans Holzer. According to Psychic Magazine, Holzer is "at the top of the list in the popular field" in dealing with psychic research subjects.

From personal interviews with the late Bishop Pike and on-the-spot investigations of psychically active places where he had undergone his experiences, Hans Holzer has written a convincing, highly dramatic account of the Bishops' encounters with the world of spirits and ghosts as well as communication beyond the grave.

In this firsthand report by a scientifically trained investigator we learn for the first time of Bishop Pike's early repression and rejection of extrasensory perception, his continuing involvements with such matters—as well as the traumatic experiences of direct contact with his dead son, James, Jr., and his gradually growing conviction that death is not the end. Most of this material has never been published, not even by the author. The book will not only read and keep the official information, but will develop his own family protection plan. This plan should include the "where to go and what to do" for each family member at home, at work or at school," Thompson said.

Fallout shelters can be included in the design of new buildings at little or no extra cost, Thompson said, and citizens are urged to take an interest in having a shelter designed into all new public buildings, particularly schools.

"We hope you will remember that this is the Defense Department's, as well as Deaf Smith County's, plan and that it is based on the latest and best scientific data available. We hope that you will talk to your friends and neighbors about this plan and help them understand its value to them, to the community and to the nation," he said.

Bishop himself.

Even before sudden death came to James Pike in the desert, psychics all over the world started to come forth with their impressions of the Bishop's strange disappearance and violent demise. Hans Holzer here analyzes this material, most of which came from mediums and psychic people working exclusively with him.

A challenging picture of death under mysterious circumstances and the possibility of foul play emerges from these disturbing psychic reports: Hans Holzer puts them together and presents the psychic evidence, pointing out that things may not have been what they seemed at first.

Finally, in a dramatic confrontation, the author makes contact with the spirit of the Bishop himself through the trance mediumship of the eminent medium Ethel Johnson Meyers.

The Psychic World of Bishop Pike is a unique account that only the author could have written, for he knows intimately both Bishop Pike's world and the psychic world as well.

Hans Holzer had also worked with Bishop Pike in making a documentary film about the Bishop's experiences which will be shown nationally in the spring of 1970.

He is the author of sixteen books on extrasensory perception and psychic subjects, a university lecturer and television personality as well as a trained journalist and historian.

THE BIND

By Stanley Ellin

Only a few days after his huge insurance policy went into effect Walter Thoren was found dead in his smashed automobile.

Rich, respected, happily married, Thoren had everything to live for. Surely the crash was an accident. Or was it?

Free-lance investigator Jake Dekker doesn't think so. With a wide-eyed member of the New Generation posing as his bride (a last-minute substitute for the hard-bitten professional he has hired), Jake sets up a stakeout near Thoren's luxurious Miami Beach estate.

Using the ruthless tactics of his antagonists against them, Jake must involve his vulnerable hired wife in a world of conspiracy, betrayal and murder.

How she responds to it is as much the story of The Bind as the stunning revelation of who and what Walter Thoren really was.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manieot

The following is an old Chinese proverb, "If you would be happy for a week take a wife; if you would be happy for a month kill a pig; but if you would be happy all your life, PLANT A GARDEN." Only to those who have the "soul" of a gardener, will one find truth. Others, perhaps don't even see the miracle of a growing plant, let alone enjoy giving it a helping hand.

To give a helping hand to our garden for the next season, we must take care of the bulbs, tubers, corms, and the ripened seed.

Helps in lifting and caring for some of the means by which plants are propagated:

1. DAHLIAS: As soon after a killing freeze the dahlia stalks should be cut at ground level. Mound the soil around the base of stalk and over the top of the cut stalk, and allow for the stalks to bleed out before digging the tubers.

In digging the clump of tubers be careful not to break necks of the tubers when digging and lifting them. Leave the clump of lifted tubers in the sunshine for a few hours. Divide clumps, number and catalogue for spring planting. To identify them as to name and variety use an indelible or crayola pencil to put numbers on tubers.

Make a list and designate on the list the name etc., as per number of the tuber. File for safe keeping, and identification for spring planting. Let the tubers dry out for a day or more, then store in containers with holes in the sides and bottoms for air circulation. Pack in peat moss or pure sand. Check on them two or three times during the winter.

Store containers, where there will be no danger of freezing. Check tubers before storing to see that all particles of old stems are removed until healthy tissue shows, because, if left on, they will decay and destroy the tubers. Tubers should be allowed to rest (in our area) until May.

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS: In the autumn, when the foliage turns yellow, withdraw the water gradually and when the growth dies down entirely, take up bulbs and wash off all the soil, taking care not to bruise the bulbs, and dry in the sunlight for a day or two. When thoroughly dry store in dry peat moss in shallow boxes in a cool dry place. See that all parts of the stems of the old plants are removed, this will keep down decomposition, and assure that the stored bulbs will be well cured for Spring planting. They should have several months of dormancy.

The foliage of the tuberous begonia is easily killed, so it has already been killed after the early freezes here. Proceed as suggested above, cutting completely off, all of the plant. Clean tubers carefully, and after storage check on them during the winter months, if they seem to be drying too much, sprinkle lightly with warm water. Store, where there will be no danger of freezing.

CANNAS: Cannas grow large, and the roots or tubers multiply well, producing large clumps. The roots should be lifted each fall, especially where the winters are severe. As in the above listed tubers, care should be exercised in working with them. Do not scar or mar the tubers, and when the clump has been lifted from the soil, all attached soil should be removed, and the tubers or roots stored in large sturdy boxes or barrels, in layers. For layering, use sawdust or sand (dry) and it is advised to dust or spray with an insecticide. When planting time arrives, divide and plant as per directions. The leaves and stalks of the canna are succulent, and just as soon as a killing freeze comes, the tubers should have attention.

GLADIOLI: Each fall after the foliage has died the corms should be dug and stored in frost free storage space. Lift the corms from the soil.

Remove all of the old bulbs and root system, also any attached soil. Save the small bulbs, which are attached to the new grown corm. Cut stem 1/2 inch from corm and spread the corms out in a shady spot to cure. (As late as it is now, and with the previous freezes spread the corm in a dry place for curing.)

When dry, store in heavy brown bags, in which a number of holes have been made for ventilation, and keep down sweating, and other moisture. Before placing in the bags, dust with a recommended insecticide (dusting sulphur is one of my favorites)

WARNING: Do not remove the husks off the corms (bulbs) as they need the protection of the husks during the storage period. However it is recommended that these husks should be removed off before the disinfecting at planting time in the spring, as this will ensure more effective disinfection as well as kill any thrips that might have wintered over on bulbs in storage.

(Note: If foliage has not thoroughly died, since we have had freezing weather, it is suggested that the entire plant be lifted, and placed to dry out, as the strength of the corm, produced the following season depends on the foliage content as it recedes back into the corm.)

Congratulations to all of the participants in The Fall Festival. It could indeed be called a success, even though the weather was not co-operative.

The flower show "The Bud to Blossom Club stage was one of the best it has had for several years. The use of materials, the effective simple staging the placement of exhibits, and the general quality of all arrangements, as to design and beauty was exceptionally good. Horticulture was not up to par, but did unusually well considering the weather conditions before the show. Personal congratulations to every winner, and to all who had any part in the success of the show "Flower Power."

Mrs. G. W. Newson, 130 Ave. C, has one of the loveliest plantings and blooms of "Fushia Fairy" Chrusanthemums, in town. They are used as a border planting for a rose bed, and all together is very lovely.

Computer Aids Local Duckwall Store's Service

Customers of Duckwall's variety store here are assured computer-based efficiency because of an IBM system in Abilene, Kansas.

"The data processing power of an IBM System-360 Model 20 helps manage inventory and insure what a customer wants will be on hand when he wants it," said Gary Parrack, Duckwall's manager in Hereford.

In the past, manual inventory taking at a store required closing it one full day once a year to let clerks manually record quantity and price information. The data was sent to Abilene where other clerks used desk calculators to complete the total dollar inventory figures.

This not only took time but also provided opportunity for errors to creep in.

Now, using portable punched card recording devices, store clerks punch quantity and amounts of each store item. The central computer then calculates total inventory values accurately and quickly, making inventory reports more timely and allowing store operations to continue uninterrupted.

Resupplying the local store also has been streamlined by means of the computer.

When the manager orders items, his order is broken down by item number. The computer compiles a master invoice from the order, listing items by location in the main Abilene warehouse. Order fulfillment clerks there use the report to guide them in selecting items for shipment to Hereford.

Do you know what to look for when buying belted tires?

Look for fiberglass belts to reduce squirm, and improve mileage.

Look for a polyester cord body for a smooth, comfortable ride.

Look for a wide tread for great traction and excellent cornering.

Look for a price tag that makes a good belted tire cost less per mile to operate than a conventional bias-ply tire.

Look especially for the name "LEE". Because the Lee GT Belted RM has everything a good belted tire should have. It has fiberglass belts, a polyester cord body, a wide tread, a price tag that saves you money in the long run, and the name that stands for years of valuable experience in producing belted tires.
