

Tentative Purchase Pact Inked

Swift to Open Idle Plant Here

BY BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
Tentative agreement has been reached between Swift Independent Packing Co. (SIPCO), of Chicago, Ill., and Armour & Co. for the purchase of the Armour & Co. packing plant in Hereford. According to Bill Dillman, SIPCO Manager of Public Relations, the purchase of the plant is pending approval of both corporations' boards of directors and agreement of local utility rates. The agreement was signed at 9:30 a.m. Monday according to Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Mike Carr. "We have been working with both parties for six or seven weeks," Carr said. "We have been going over various aspects of information, including tax information, utilities, local suppliers, figures on the labor force, and the availability of housing." Carr said that the possibility of the 110,047 square foot plant being re-opened "will be the boost that Hereford needs. We're very excited about it," he said. "The plans that Swift has certainly look favorable for a great future there at the plant." The SIPCO Board of Directors will consider the proposed purchase at their next meeting July 15. Terms of the purchase were not disclosed. The beef slaughter and processing plant has been idle since Oct. 2, 1981 when Armour closed down its operations there. The one story building (with basement) also has a 21,000 square foot hide cellar at the 405-acre site located 3.5 miles west of town on Highway 60. The listed capacity of the plant is 120 head per hour for two shifts in the slaughter area, and 50 head per hour in the fabrication area. The plant is served by the Santa Fe Railroad. Carr said that a bevy of SIPCO officials, including President John A. Copeland, have visited the plant and Hereford within the past several weeks. SIPCO traces its roots back to 1855, when Gustavus Swift founded Swift & Co. The business began with fresh meat products and evolved to include a myriad of related product lines and hundreds of physical facilities. SIPCO itself, a subsidiary of Esmark, was organized in late 1980, and sale of common stock began in April, 1981. In fiscal 1981, the company served on a regular basis more than 26,000 customers, comprised of approximately 9,000 retail and 17,000 food service outlets. Well known for its fresh meat products, beef, lamb, and pork, the company has enhanced its product lines with processed meats, fresh sausage, canned hams, cheese, poultry, shortening and oils, smoked meats and sliced bacon. The company also offers canned vegetables, condiments, spreads, fish, ground beef patties, breaded products and portion control beef, pork, and lamb, oriented specifically to the food service market needs. The company currently has four beef processing plants located at Guymon, OK; Des Moines, IA; Clovis, NM; and Dumas, TX. Its six pork plants are located at Sioux City, IA; Glenwood, IA; Marshalltown, IA; National Stockyards, IL; Moultrie, GA, and San Antonio, TX. The sole lamb processing plant is located at Brownwood, TX, and the single poultry plant is in Douglas, GA. The poultry operation, the only segment of the corporation in a loss position, is expected to be disposed of this year. SIPCO maintains 74 distribution units located the United States in support of its sales forces in addition to a number of strategically located distributors and brokers. The company utilizes refrigerated trucks and the interstate highway system to move its products to market. On an average day, there will be 1,000 over-the-road trucks hauling SIPCO products somewhere in the U.S. In addition, there is a company-owned fleet of 500 delivery trucks that operate out of the company's sales and distribution centers. Lard, tallow and other by-products from SIPCO beef and pork plants are distributed by leased rail car. In fiscal 1981, the company replaced its entire rail fleet with 96 jumbo cars, each with a capacity of 23,000 gallons. Approximately 385 persons lost their jobs when the Armour plant ceased operations. About 92 percent of those applied for transfers within that company, a subsidiary of the Greyhound Corp. The loss of the $8-$10 million Armour payroll was a definite blow to the local economic outlook.

Male Robbery Suspect Sought

A medium build black male is being sought by Hereford police as a suspect in an armed robbery of a local convenience store early today. According to police reports, the man came into the Allsup's at 910 East Park at about 4:30 a.m. and approached the clerk, demanding money. The man showed the clerk that he had a large pocket knife. She gave him the cash and he escaped. The amount of money is undetermined. The suspect is described as about 5'5", medium build, wearing a blue toboggan, white t-shirt and jeans.

Officers are also investigating a report received Monday of arson of a vehicle. Rudy Padilla told police that his cousin and some friends came to his home drinking and when he asked them to leave the group became angry. The cousin allegedly threw a fire bomb into the car. Two juveniles, a male and female, were taken into custody Monday after being found staying in a vacant Bluewater Gardens apartment. The apartment manager had noticed some

Jury Finds Hinckley Not Guilty

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Hinckley Jr., the brooding loner who tried to kill the president of the United States, escaped life in prison but today begins what could be years of confinement in a federal mental hospital.

Hinckley cried and his sobbing parents embraced Monday night when Judge Barrington D. Parker, as tense as anyone in the courtroom, read the verdict: "Not guilty by reason of insanity." Not guilty by reason of insanity of attempting to assassinate the president.

Not guilty by reason of insanity of assault with intent to kill four men. Not even guilty, because of insanity, of carrying a pistol without a license. Thirteen times, Parker pronounced the insanity acquittal. Through it all, Hinckley stood facing the panel, his head bowed. The jury of seven women and five men agonized for 24 hours over four days. Their decision makes Hinckley's next stop St. Elizabeth's mental hospital in Washington. One juror told her husband they "hoped they did the right thing." Added juror Virginia Smith to a reporter, "There was not enough evidence that he was sane."

Britons Celebrate Son Born to Royal Family

By MICHAEL WEST

LONDON (AP) — Princess Diana gave birth to a son who cried lustily while Britons cheered, sang and guzzled champagne to celebrate the arrival of the first baby born to a prince and princess of Wales in 77 years.

The blue-eyed infant prince, born Monday night, is second in line to the throne after his father — who was at his wife's bedside for the birth. The baby is the most English heir to the monarchy in four centuries, genealogists say. The nation is still waiting for the royal parents to announce his name.

"Nice one Charlie, nice one son, nice one Charlie, let's have another one!" Prince Charles was engulfed. (See SON, Page 2A)

Ma Bell Wants Rate Increase

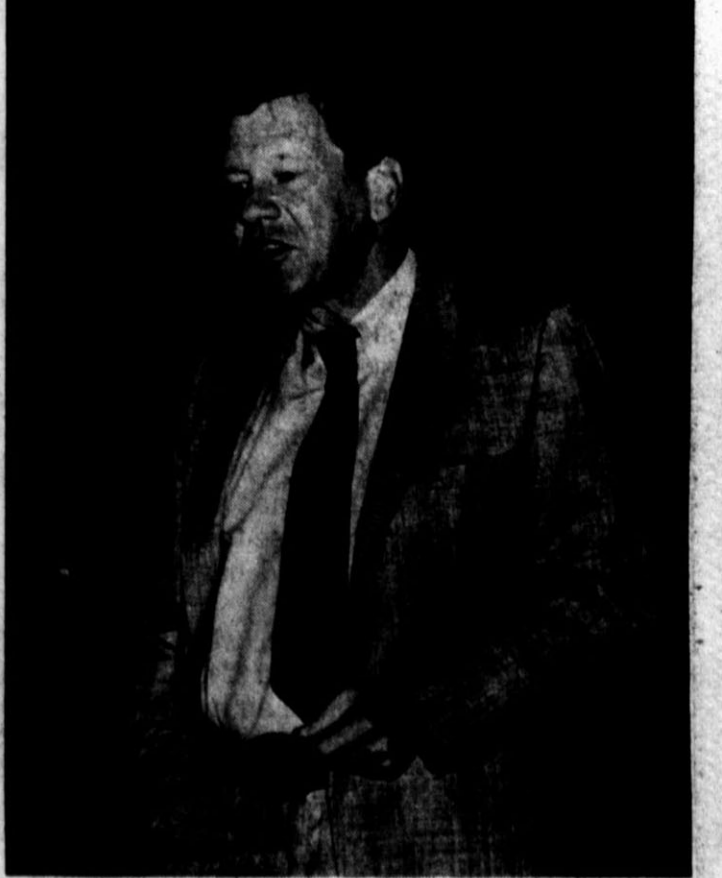

AUSTIN Texas (AP)— Southwestern Bell Monday asked the state Public Utilities Commission to grant it a $471.5 million increase in residential and business rates. The telephone company's last two rate requests both of which were greatly reduced by the PUC are still in court. Bell Vice President Paul Roth told a news conference the increase would mean a $4.60 per month rise in residential rates "across the board." Business rates would go up more in smaller town up to a $6.55 increase he said. The smallest business rate increase is in Houston Roth said at $1.55. Roth also said the company wants to reduce from 10 to three the number of free directory assistance calls a customer can make. Information calls over the limit cost 25 cents each. Bell is making only a 9.25 percent return on its investment of the 11.79 percent return the PUC allows Roth said in explaining the rate increase request. The company wants the rate of return allowance raised to 13.09 percent. Bell "still can't close the gap" because residential rates are lower than Bell's cost of providing service he said. Long distance rates, which Ross said cost

Small Crowd Greets Hobby

A very small turnout of about 25 people greeted Texas Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby in Hereford Saturday as Hobby made a stop here on a campaign swing through the Panhandle. The state's second-highest official had lunch at the Community Center and made a brief statement before answering questions from the floor. Hobby is running for reelection in the November General Election. Hobby expounded on the attractiveness of the United States and Texas in particular in his opening remarks. "I believe that because you have a state government which confiscates fewer dollars, and because you have a state that remains true to the principle that the best government is the least government that Texas has been prosperous." Said one middle-aged man to another: "I'm just going to wait until 'where it's at' gets to 'where I am'." Today's issue of The Brand will be distributed to all homes in Hereford and mailed to homes all around the trade area. The sample copies are being delivered as part of the "Crazy Days" sales promotion in the city. Check the pages for some great buys from local merchants! The announcement by Swift of a tentative contract to open the idle Armour plant is the best news to hit Hereford in many a day. It should be the springboard for taking the hustlin' Hereford slogan to heart again and moving forward to new goals in this community! Rumors and speculation have been circulating around the city for a number of weeks about Swift buying the beef-packing plant. Mike Carr, executive vice president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, helped with some of the arrangements locally, but he was pledged to strict secrecy on the matter. It will apparently be several months before the plant opens for business. Carr said the company officials were not planning on announcing the intent to purchase this soon, but rumors were so rampant that the tentative agreement was reported. The economic impact of such an industry was sorely felt since the plant shut down in October, 1981. Retail business and the housing market should be pumped up in the immediate future, and the news of the plant opening will be a psychological lift, too. The sale of the plant and the opening of Winn's last Week will be a great one-two punch to boost our economy! An Associated Press article Monday announced that Southwestern Bell had requested $471.5 million in new rates. At the same time, Ma Bell delivered us a packet which contained 45 pages of "background information." It contains, one might think, everything you ever wanted to know about telephone rates. Well, not quite. When the government and giant corporations feed you a lot of statistics, it's difficult to swallow the whole mock pie. Bell reports the request represents an overall increase of 13.4 percent in statewide revenues. And, the company reports your residential phone rate (one-party, one phone) will go up $4.60 — from $7.15 to $11.75. What they don't mention is those figures represent a 64 percent increase in the flat rate for monthly local service. Although we're sure the company is correct on its figures, we'd sort of like to know why the overall increase is 13.4 percent and all those home phone bills are increasing 64 percent! There used to be a guy in Hereford who could explain such things, but Ma Bell is saving us money by moving these people into central offices in the big city.

Traffic Crackdown Renders 836 Citations

HOUSTON (AP) — Department of Public Safety officers using portable scales and agents from two other law enforcement offices issued 836 tickets in the first day of a traffic crackdown on highways west of Houston.

Authorities said 144 of the tickets issued Monday were to drivers with overweight trucks.

The operation was to continue today and Wednesday, officers said.

One 34-year-old truck driver was arrested after allegedly assaulting a police officer who stopped him for speeding, Houston police said. No charges had been filed late Monday. The officer was not injured and officials said there were no other violent incidents.

The operation, conducted between 5 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday, involved 64 officers from the Harris County sheriff's department, Houston police and state Department of Public Safety.

It was the second crackdown in as many weeks in the Houston area. Several agencies combined in an attempt to reduce the number of drunk drivers in several sections of town June 11 and 12. Officers rounded up about 100 drunk drivers and issued 320 tickets in that operation.

Man Sought For Houston Bank Robbery Arrested In Washington

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) — Law enforcement officers who arrested a 38-year-old man in a Gorst motel near here found diamonds, gold coins and jewelry worth between $500,000 and $1 million in his room, authorities said.

Garrett Wayne Hueske, a former Kitsap County resident, was arrested on a local charge of possession of stolen property. He also had been sought in the May 24 robbery of the Huffman Bank in Houston.

Bail for Hueske was set Monday at $100,000 during an appearance in Kitsap County Superior Court, and Houston authorities were starting extradition proceedings, said Under-sheriff Chuck Wheeler.

Deputies obtained a search warrant to comb the man's van after his arrest last Friday and found a suitcase filled with $156,000 in cash and a .357-magnum pistol.

Hueske, who now has a Houston address, apparently grew up in the Bremerton area, Wheeler said.

Houston law enforcement officials alerted Bremerton police last week to be watching for a man they were seeking in the robbery.

Israeli Jets Blast Syrian Artillery Posts Near Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli jets blasted Syrian artillery positions east of Beirut today to support a tank advance apparently aimed at seizing the Beirut-Damascus highway in Lebanon's central mountains, Lebanon's state and privately owned radio stations reported.

The military command in Tel Aviv confirmed the air attacks and said they came after an intense duel between Israeli and Syrian cannons.

It appeared to be the worst outbreak of Syrian-Israeli fighting since the two countries agreed to a cease-fire June 11.

The Lebanon radio broadcasts said Syrian positions around the summer resorts of Hammama and Aley took the brunt of the air attacks.

The Tel Aviv communique accused the Syrians of inflicting "a heavy barrage" of artillery fire on Israeli forces from the area of Hammama, just north of the Beirut-Damascus highway in central Lebanon.

It said the Syrians opened fire in the morning, Israeli forces shot back at the Syrian guns and then came under intensified barrages.

Meanwhile, Israel's bombardment of Palestinian slums and residential neighborhoods in west Beirut tapered off today, and the Palestine Liberation Organization proposed demilitarizing the Lebanese capital to avert a feared Israeli onslaught.

Lebanon's newly-founded "National Salvation Council" prepared to reconvene to discuss the PLO offer as a way of preventing an Israeli advance into the beleaguered city to destroy the PLO's remaining military might.

Council members shuttled between PLO chairman Yasser Arafat and U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib, seeking a compromise that would stop a bloody Israeli-PLO showdown in the 16th day of Israel's invasion.

As political efforts intensified, the dreaded roar of artillery and rocket barrages in and around Beirut stopped at daybreak, when Islam's holy month of dawn-to-dusk fasting began throughout the Arab world.

There was no explanation from Israel for the lull, but the Jewish state has said it will honor a cease-fire declared last Friday unless its gunners are attacked.

A PLO communique said the largely deserted Palestinian camps on Beirut's southern flank as well as major residential neighborhoods with large civilian populations in west Beirut were pounded incessantly by Israeli tanks field artillery and naval gunboats for more than 30 hours.

"Dozens of martyrs have fallen in this ceaseless genocide," said the communique, giving no specific figures. But Beirut police said at least 36 people were killed and 82 wounded in shelling that began Sunday night.

PLO security chief Salah Khalef made the demilitarization proposal in an interview with the French newspaper Le Monde broadcast by the PLO's Beirutbased Voice of Palestine radio station.

The radio said Khalef's plan "represents the ultimate concession to which the PLO can possibly go to save Beirut."

It called for demilitarization of west Beirut, which has long been the PLO's nerve center; withdrawal of guerrillas to regroup within their two major camps and two neighborhoods on Beirut's southern flank; deployment of the regular Lebanese army throughout west Beirut, but not in the four areas where the Palestinians regroup; a six-mile roll-back of Israeli forces from their positions around Beirut; and reopening the Beirut-Damascus highway.

PLO gunners claimed the constant shelling Monday was a cover for the long-awaited Israeli invasion despite Israeli denials. Guerrilla communicues claimed PLO fighters forced the attackers mobilized outside the city to retreat.

ed by the applauding, cheering well-wishers when he emerged beaming from the hospital. A woman pushed forward and kissed him, smearing lipstick on his cheek.

Charles, 33, said he was "relieved and delighted" by the birth. Asked if the baby was like his father, he replied: "No, he is lucky enough not to be. It is a bit difficult to tell at the moment."

The prince said his son was "fair, sort of blondish." He said Diana, who will be 21 on July 1, was well but tired and that the baby was "in marvelous form."

Charles's mother, Queen Elizabeth II, broke out champagne in Buckingham Palace and a spokesman said she was "absolutely delighted." His grandmother, 81-year-old Elizabeth the Queen Mother, was reported "overjoyed."

Diana's father, the 8th Earl Spencer said: "It was a very worrying day, and Prince Charles told me Diana was absolutely wonderful."

Reporters outside the hospital asked Charles if he and the princess had decided on a name.

"Well we've thought of one or two," he replied. "There's a bit of an argument about it but we'll find one eventually."

"Prince Charles is quite a traditionalist in many ways, and I should think he will follow the usual pattern," said Patrick Montague-Smith, former editor of Debrett's, which traces the lineage of Britain's royal blood. "I would think there are about two dozen boys' names they could choose from."

Bettors on the street favored George, the name of six British monarchs starting with George I of the royal House of Hanover in 1714. Other names hotly tipped were James, Charles, Edward, David, Philip and Louis.

The palace said the baby's title would be Prince (followed by his first name) of Wales. Charles's title is simply The Prince of Wales.

The baby is the first born to a Prince and Princess of Wales since Prince John, youngest son of the couple who became King George V and Queen Mary. John was born in 1905 and died 13 years later of natural causes.

she had no relationship with Hinckley set him off on the first of five walk-outs from his own trial.

When his own attorney, Vincent Fuller, referred to Hinckley's unreturned love for Miss Foster as a delusion, Hinckley broke out in tears.

Hinckley had never met the actress, though he traveled 10 times to New Haven, Conn., where she attended Yale University, and he telephoned her dormitory room and stuffed love letters under her door and in her mailbox, according to defense testimony.

With its verdict, the jury said that Hinckley, because of "mental disease or defect, lacked substantial capacity to conform his conduct to the requirements of the law or lacked substantial capacity to appreciate the wrongfulness of his conduct." That is the legal test for insanity.

The jury spared Hinckley from possible life sentences on each of five major counts.

It is doubtful that Hinckley's wealthy parents, who footed the half-million-dollar defense bill, will want him released anytime soon. His mother, JoAnn, testified in early May that John was in "total despair" in the months before the shooting and the parents decided he should be hospitalized.

But Mrs. Hinckley said they were dissuaded by Dr. John Hopper, a psychiatrist in their hometown of Evergreen, Colo., who told the parents, "no, no, that will make a cripple out of him. If you think he's sick now, he's really going to be sick if you put him in a hospital."

Last March, Hinckley's father said: "John is truly ill, and we're anxious to get that point across in court." Fuller did so. He left the courtroom satisfied, telling reporters, "Another day, another dollar."

Before he set out for the Washington Hilton Hotel to shoot Reagan, Hinckley wrote a letter to Miss Foster saying, "I'm going ahead with this attempt now because I just cannot wait any longer to impress you...I'm asking you please, look into your heart and give me the chance with this historical deed to gain your respect and love."

Hinckley's obsession with the actress was termed the act of a "superfan" by prosecutors. They told the jury that Hinckley planned the assassination attempt in an effort to gain fame and get back at his parents — and asked that he be found guilty — criminally responsible for his act.

The prosecution's failure

prompted Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., to predict legislation would pass to redefine the insanity plea.

"I'm personally outraged at the whole Hinckley trial. It's just not right, the result of this thing," he said.

But Dr. David Michael Bear, a Harvard Medical School psychiatrist who testified for the defense, said, "I'm deeply gratified by the thoughtful verdict of the jury. This is a triumph of fairness and common sense. It is also a victory for modern scientific methods in psychiatry."

The Lt. Governor said he felt that a solution to probable water problems in the future will have to be "more than statewide. There will have to be a solution involving this entire region, and it is going to require a lot of originality because it is going to involve as many as eight states."

Hobby termed the controversy of a possibility of nuclear waste being stored in the area as "a national problem which we can't resolve within the lines of one state."

"Any resolution of that problem is a number of years off," he added.

As to the growing apathy among voters, in particular the Mexican-American sector, Hobby said, "if there had been one more democratic vote in each precinct we would have a Democratic Governor right now, and if there had been one more Democratic vote in each precinct two years ago we would have a Democratic President... I don't know of any other figures that better support the importance of getting out and voting."

Hobby said that he felt that an increase in teachers' salaries is needed in Texas, and that he supports a recent Supreme Court decision to make the state provide free public education to children of illegal aliens.

"I agree with that decision," he said. "It would be the height of folly to deny free public education to any group of children in the state. Otherwise they'll wind up as unproductive citizens and on the welfare rolls."

He added that he felt that the education of illegal alien children should be a federal responsibility, but that he "would support" whatever effort it takes to get it taken care of on a state level.

less than the revenues they produce, would remain unchanged.

Roth insisted the rate increase was not affected by AT&T's divestiture agreement with the U.S. Justice Department reached last January.

The increase also would hike installation charges. The current minimum cost is $43.70. That would go up to $63.85 if a customer goes to a Bell service center picks up a phone and goes home and plugs it in.

If the phone company comes out to install jacks the cost jumps from $68.00 to $95.50 under the Bell proposal.

Roth said he expected the PUC to take up the proposal in a "six-to-seven week hearing" by the end of August or early September.

In mid-October Roth said he will decide whether to institute the higher rates under a bond pending the PUC's action.

Earlier this year Bell had to refund $23 million to customers because the PUC did not grant the increase Bell had begun charging before the PUC decision.

Bell's 1981 rate request was for $469.8 million. The PUC granted it a $243.7 million increase. That case is before an Austin appeals court.

The company's 1980 rate case is still in district court in Austin with oral arguments scheduled for Friday. Bell requested $326 million but got only a $114 million increase from the PUC.

Telling Children About Getting A Divorce

Parents can help their children deal with divorce, one of the most traumatic events in a child's life, second only to death, says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist.

Taylor explains that there are three important steps in helping a child through these times:

- 1) Understand that divorce does impact children,
- 2) Choose a "least-stressful" time to tell them, and
- 3) Guide and assure children through the period after the divorce.

Taylor is with the Home Economics Program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For children, divorce, like death, is the "loss" of a loved one except the parent is not dead - just gone, Taylor explains.

Research suggests that the really difficult part for youngsters, however, is the conflict surrounding a divorce, not the divorce itself, she says.

Once parents understand how divorce affects children, the next important step is choosing the best time to tell them about it - in the least damaging way, the specialist says.

Thoughtful planning for this step will set a "coping" direction for the adjustment period to follow, Taylor adds.

Here are her suggestions: Make sure the divorce is certain before you even think about telling the children. Don't upset them with this security - shaking blow before you've made the decision.

Talk to the children after you have calmed down, not following that "final, ferocious" quarrel.

When the time comes to tell the children, it is best for both parents to tell them. At this point, tell the children immediately so they will not feel left out - or be told by outsiders.

Tell the truth - evasions and half truths only return to haunt both parents and children.

Recognize that emotional disturbances, such as fidgeting, restlessness, withdrawal, thumb sucking, bed wetting or excessive crying may be your child's response to the tension associated with divorce.

Difficult as it may be, the explanation should come from both parents, if possible.

Words come hard, but tell the child in a manner appropriate for his age and level of understanding.

Above all else, help the child understand that he did NOT cause the divorce - many children suffer tremendous feelings of guilt thinking they have somehow caused their parents' divorce.

When children plea for a reunited family, don't confuse the issue with long explanations about how the other parent is "wrong" or "no good." This only forces children to "take sides." And in the long run, this hurts a child. Children need both parents.

Finally, remember, just as a widow is apt to exaggerate the dead spouse's virtues, divorced persons tend to magnify the other partner's faults, Taylor notes.

Hearing either extreme is hard for children, because it shows them only a one-sided view of life.

Healthy lives for both adults and children involved in a divorce cannot be rebuilt until each person is free of guilt, harshness and revenge, Taylor says.

Preparing for Bike-a-thon

A bike-a-thon to benefit the American Cancer Society is scheduled Saturday. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. that morning at the La Plata Junior High School parking lot and the bike-a-thon will start at 8:30 a.m. Participants will ride 10 laps (the equivalent of 10 miles) around Northwest Elementary School, the stadium, and Kings' Manor. Prizes will be awarded for the person who raises the most money. Anyone interested may contact Jim Bullard at Deaf Smith General Hospital or Suzanne Duvall. From left to right are Lori Albracht, Whitney Drake and Joani Kalka.

Manning Honored With Reception

The Rev. Doug Manning will be honored with an "appreciation reception" from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, it was announced today by the hostess committee of First Baptist Church.

Manning recently resigned as pastor of the church and will conduct his final Sunday worship services this week. His resignation is effective June 30, but he will continue to reside in Hereford and pursue other interests.

All interested citizens are invited to the reception in Fellowship Hall and refreshments will be served, according to the announcement.

"It is not a farewell party," said one of the hostesses. "We just want to give church members and others in the community an opportunity to express appreciation for his service to church and community the past nine years."

In addition to his pastoral duties, Manning has been active in counseling and community affairs. He has also been a popular speaker on college campuses across the nation, as well as chamber banquets and other events.

Manning has been active in the United Way campaign in Hereford and was a local coordinator for the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center funding campaign. For several years, he has been a co-emcee of the C of C Fun Breakfasts.

A native of Fredrick, Ok., Manning plans to keep busy with seminars, other speaking engagements and book publishing. He is the author of several books and is currently under contract for a new book to be published by Prentice-Hall.

House To Vote On Federal Spending Limitation Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House was set to vote this afternoon on a GOP-drafted 1983 budget blueprint that calls for limiting federal spending to $769.8 billion and holding next year's deficit to $103.9 billion. There was a chance the Senate also would vote on the measure late today.

And Republican leaders were expecting both chambers to endorse the compromise plan, which would require raising taxes $21 billion in this election year.

Budget matters were expected to be on the agenda when Reagan met with top congressional Republicans at the White House today before the House and Senate convened.

Reagan met Monday with conservative House Republicans and Democrats for what a House GOP aide described as a "rah, rah go get 'em speech."

The compromise budget plan was drafted by congressional Republicans - with some help from White House officials - and endorsed by a bipartisan group of House-Senate negotiators last week.

However, the months of Capitol Hill brawls that produced the compromise plan were expected to pale in comparison to the struggle expected over the legislation necessary to enact the multibillion-dollar tax hikes and spending cuts called for in the plan.

The blueprint instructs congressional panels to rewrite laws - primarily those governing benefit programs - to achieve savings of $6.6 billion in existing programs for 1983 and $27.2 billion over three years. Included are 1983 reductions of $3 billion in Medicare, $900 million in food stamps and nutrition programs, $640 million in Medicaid and millions more in other benefit programs.

Meanwhile, the latest round of feuding over congressional finances is stalling a $3 billion home mortgage subsidy program approved by both chambers.

The compromise housing plan, aimed at boosting the nation's depressed housing industry by making it easier for Americans to afford new homes, was approved in the Senate on Monday by voice vote. The House adopted the identical plan last week.

But the dispute over congressional finances must be resolved before an $8.9 billion emergency appropriations bill containing the housing program can go to the president - who may veto it anyway. Dozens of cash-short federal programs and agencies, which would receive emergency operating funds for the current fiscal year under the bill, are also being kept in limbo by the impasse.

Senators are briding at a House amendment to the spending bill that would extend to senators the same $18,200 a year limit on income from speeches, publications and other outside earnings that now applies to representatives.

The House amendment was passed in retaliation to an earlier Senate vote to repeal the $75-a-day audit-proof tax deduction Congress voted itself last year to help offset the cost of living in the nation's capital.

Officials Regain Control Of Prison

GARDEN CITY, Ga. (AP) — Officials canceled work schedules today at the Coastal Correctional Institution following a 12-hour uprising that left one guard injured and denied charges that overcrowding contributed to the melee.

The Monday disturbance ended with authorities promising to address every issue in the inmates' list of demands for better living conditions and to "make changes immediately where it is feasible," said state prisons spokeswoman Sara Englade.

Authorities, however, refused to grant prisoners' requests for amnesty from charges stemming from the uprising, which involved six of eight cellblocks.

Officials canceled prisoners' work schedules, but otherwise ordered a return to normal at the 1-year-old facility.

Authorities were unsure how many of the prison's 740 inmates were involved in the takeover. Each cellblock houses 100 to 124 prisoners, said Paula Putney, another department spokeswoman.

Warden John Weldon said some inmates will be transferred, some will receive disciplinary reports and others probably will end up with longer sentences as a result of the disturbance.

The only reported injury occurred when a guard was struck in the eye by a shard of glass as inmates broke into the control booth in one of the cellblocks at the start of the disturbance at about 10 a.m. Monday. The guard was not hospitalized.

Mrs. Englade estimated damages in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, but said that all cell blocks, including two that were heavily damaged, remain habitable.

The uprising began with a confrontation between an inmate and a prison guard at about 9 a.m. Monday that was joined in by several other inmates, Weldon said.

"It was a chain reaction," he said.

The rioting inmates destroyed windows, lights and beds, and burned clothes and blankets, officials said.

When officials pledged over the prison intercom system to review inmate complaints, the inmates began leaving one cell block at a time to go to a dining area for their first meal since breakfast.

While the inmates were eating, guards searched the cell blocks and found several weapons such as homemade knives, Weldon said.

The guards re-established control of the prison by the time the last group returned from dinner around 10:30 p.m., Weldon said.

Shopping for health insurance?

Be sure to record the agent and company names, addresses and telephone numbers, or ask for a business card, so you can keep a record of those you're comparing, says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Bob Cullen, who handles prison litigation for Georgia Legal Services Inc., blamed the uprising on overcrowding and Gov. George Busbee's failure to put into effect the so-called Michigan Plan — releasing some nonviolent inmates to fight overcrowding.

The prison, the newest facility in the Georgia system, was designed to hold 525 prisoners, but the state Board of Offender Rehabilitation ruled in April that the institution's actual capacity is 758.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas, effective July 27, 1982, unless otherwise determined by the Commission.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 13.4 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas. The Commission staff has contended in the past that all rates are subject to change as a result of Southwestern Bell's rate application.

Notice to El Paso Area Customers

Effective January 1, 1982, Southwestern Bell adopted the Mountain States tariffs in effect for El Paso County. Southwestern Bell proposes to merge the separate El Paso tariffs with its tariffs applicable to the rest of Texas. The resulting new rate schedule is on file with the PUC and the El Paso area municipalities served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection at our El Paso business office.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs. While Southwestern Bell has proposed no increase in long distance rates, any change in those rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies.

Southwestern Bell

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 27 de julio, 1982, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 13.4 por ciento en los ingresos intraestatales de la compañía.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública. En el pasado, la Comisión ha sostenido que toda tarifa está sujeta a cambios que resulten de la manera en la cual Southwestern Bell aplique sus tarifas.

Aviso a Clientes en la Región de El Paso

Con vigencia a partir del 1o de enero de 1982, Southwestern Bell ha adoptado las tarifas de Mountain States efectivas en el condado de El Paso. Southwestern Bell propone unir las tarifas de El Paso con sus otras tarifas que se aplican al resto de Texas. El nuevo arancel que resulta de esta unión se ha archivado en la Comisión de Servicios Públicos (Public Utility Commission), al igual que en las municipalidades de la región de El Paso servidas por Southwestern Bell, y está disponible para inspección pública en nuestras oficinas de El Paso.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propuestas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interexchange private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio también afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell. Aunque Southwestern Bell no ha propuesto un aumento en las tarifas para larga distancia, cualquier cambio en las mismas también afectaría a los clientes de otras compañías de teléfono.

Rose Ties Aaron's Hit Mark

By PAUL LeBAR Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pete Rose stands tied with Hank Aaron for second place on baseball's all-time hit list and feels he should be ahead of the Hall of Fame slugger.
"If I get the bunt down, they can't field it," the 41-year-old Philadelphia first baseman said Monday night of his ninth-inning attempt to surpass Aaron. "Oh well, there's always tomorrow."

Three innings earlier, a Busch Stadium crowd of 19,141 rose to its feet to cheer Rose's 3,771st career hit, a single.

"I've always appreciated the crowds here," Rose said later. "They have a great tradition with Stan Musial and the Gas House Gang. They know their baseball."
Rose, needing only two hits to tie Aaron, wasted little time in zeroing in on the target posed by the game's greatest home run hitter.

He singled sharply into right field on an 0-1 pitch in the first inning. He grounded out in the fourth and singled again on a 3-1 count in the sixth.

Both singles came off St. Louis rookie Dave LaPoint, as did an RBI fielder's choice grounder in the seventh.
Rose grounded to shortstop in the ninth after bunting foul on the first strike off relief pitcher Bruce Sutter, who picked up the victory in a 7-5 triumph by the Cardinals.

WTSU Coaches At HSB Friday

The West Texas State University Quarterback Club will have a booth set up at the Hereford State Bank during regular business hours Friday. The Buff Boosters will have a display set up on a table, and will be offering for sale season tickets for 1982 Buff football games.

Two members of the WTSU football staff will be on hand to man the table.
Hereford residents have a vested interest in the upcoming season with former Whitefaces Paul Bell, Jim Fish, and John Josseland already at the Canyon school, and 1981 HHS grads Wayne High, John Phibbs, and Barry Josseland heading there this fall.

The Buffaloes will be under the direction of first-year head coach Don Davis, who took over the reins after former mentor Bill Yung left to go to UTEP after last season.

"I'm hitting pretty well," said Rose, who in Philadelphia's last 11 games has been batting at a .369 pace. "I was glad that it was a good game."
Rose's accomplishment in reaching the hitting milestone left him trailing only the 4,191 hits compiled more than half a century ago by Ty Cobb.

"I'm not really aware of records as such," said Rose, who over the weekend played in his 3,000th game. "If you can hit a baseball at a 300 clip, everything else is going to fall into place."
Rose said his two singles came off a slider and a fastball.
"I hadn't faced LaPoint that much. He was throwing a lot more palm balls tonight than I'd seen him throw before," he said. "The ball I really should have got a basehit off was the ball I hit to third. I popped it real well. He just got in on me a little bit."
True to his character, Rose was more concerned about Philadelphia's defunct than he was over his personal accomplishment.
"I'm hoping though we'll have a good contest tomorrow," he said. "I'm hopeful also we'll get back on the winning track."

Clippers' Owner Begging for Move

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — It's a scenario that's been played out before: a sports franchise owner wants to move his team to the happier financial hunting grounds of Las Angeles.

First, it was Al Davis trying to move the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League.

Now, Donald T. Sterling of the San Diego Clippers wants to shift his national Basketball Association team. Those who favor and oppose the move are drawing most of the attention at the NBA meetings here this week.

Sterling and representatives of the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission presented their cases to the Advisory-Financial Committee of the NBA Monday.

The Los Angeles Coliseum Commission and the San Diego Clippers presented an overwhelmingly powerful case as to why the Clippers should move to Los Angeles and why they could not be successful in San Diego, commission lawyer Howard Daniels said after the 40-minute session with the committee.

Sterling, who has come under fire for his management of the team in San Diego, left the Hotel del Coronado hurriedly and would not comment.

Asked for the committee's response to the presentation, Daniels said, "I couldn't discern an attitude other than intense interest."

After the pro-move faction saw the committee, a delegation from the Greater San Diego Sports Association presented its case to the committee.

"We asked the committee to make a commitment to keep a team in San Diego," said Leon Parma, president of the association.

He also announced that the group "has a potential buyer for the team that would keep it in San Diego."

The committee, which is made up of nine NBA team owners, including Jerry Buss of the Los Angeles Lakers, could make a recommendation concerning the proposed move to the NBA Board of Governors today or Wednesday.

Eighteen members of the board, which consists of one member from each NBA team, have to approve of the move.

In other action at the meetings here Monday, Commissioner Larry O'Brien announced that New York labor lawyer Joe Barbash would handle the league's negotiations with the players' union.

O'Brien said Barbash would work with a management negotiating committee consisting of two owners, NBA General Counsel Russ Granik and Executive Vice President David Stern.

Bird Tops NBA All-League Choices

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Moses Malone, the Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association last season, was only the third-leading vote-getter in balloting for the all-league team.

Larry Bird, who led the Boston Celtics to a 63-19 record in the regular season, best in the NBA, was a unanimous choice on the team that was announced Monday at the NBA meetings here.

Bird collected 138 points in the balloting, which meant that all 69 media members on the voting panel, three from each franchise city, selected the Celtics forward for the first team. A player got two points for being on a voter's first team and one point for being on the second team.

Malone, the Houston Rockets center, got 130 points, one less than forward Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers. The all-NBA guards were leading scorer George Gervin of San Antonio and Gus Williams of Seattle.

The second team consists of forwards Alex English of Denver and Bernard King of Golden State, center Robert Parish of Boston and guards Earvin "Magic" Johnson of Los Angeles and Sidney Moncrief of Milwaukee.

Gervin had 114 points, Williams 94, Johnson 80, Moncrief 79, Parish 42, English 37 and King 34. Williams was named to the all-league team for the first time in his career.

Will my insurance provide liability protection in case there is a fire on my property which spreads to an adjacent house?
Yes, protection is provided in the Personal Liability section of your basic Homeowner's Policy. The coverage pays on behalf of the insured all sums which the insured shall become legally obligated to pay because of bodily injury or property damage. In this particular situation you might have a problem in obtaining adequate limits. It is often difficult to say what would be adequate coverage on your property in case of a catastrophic occurrence such as a fire spreading throughout the neighborhood. Lloyd Begins Wimbledon Defense; McEnroe Breezes in His Opener

cer action here Sunday. The Twisters took a hard-fought 3-1 victory on a semi-muddy field. (Brand Photo by Bob Nigh).

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — In the formal manner of the All England Lawn Tennis Club, the schedule for the day listed Mrs. J.M. Lloyd of the United States among those who would play on its hallowed courts.

To the rest of the world, Chris Evert Lloyd took Center Court to begin the defense of her Wimbledon title against fellow American Barbara Sue Gerken.

It was the day for the women to make their 1982 debut at this prestigious tournament, along with five ranked men who did not get on the courts during the rain-shortened opening day program.

Defending men's champion John McEnroe was among those who did play and breezed through opening day unscathed.

"I hit the ball pretty well today," John McEnroe said as he blasted through fellow

American Van Winitsky, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 Monday. "Winitsky's serve is not too strong and he tends to stay back. He is the kind of player I can get in (to net) on."

Both because of the speed of the grass courts and their unpredictability, the 22-year-old left-hander made charge after charge into the net, forcing Winitsky to pass him or suffer the consequences.

McEnroe provided his own covering fire with six aces and followed a consistently strong service into net, from where he made quick work of short returns with sharply angled volleys.

There was very little of the antics that last year resulted in $10,000 in fines that were quashed on appeal.

His behavior was — for him — exemplary as a packed Center Court crowd looked on. McEnroe several times had words with the officials, but always in quiet tones, and often punctuated the conversations with a smile, even in those instances when he received questionable calls.

"There were no problems today," he said. "I hope it continues."

Advancing to the second round with McEnroe were all of the seeded players who saw action Monday, with the exception of No. 9 Andres Gomez, the reigning Italian Open champion, who was ousted by former Wimbledon titleholder Stan Smith.

Connors, the No. 2 seed, overpowered South African Mike Myburg, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2; third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis handily dispatched Brent Pirow of South Africa, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1; No. 4 seed Sandy Mayer downed Haroon Ismail of Zimbabwe, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3; fifth-seeded Johan Kriek of South Africa outlasted a tiebreaker loss and American Craig Wittus, 6-7, 6-3, 6-1, 6-0; and No. 7 Mats Wilander, the 17-year-old French Open winner who has become the teen idol in the absence of fellow Swede Bjorn Borg, defeated Heinz Gunhardt of Switzerland, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Thirteenth-seeded Brian Gottfried of the U.S. outlasted France's Giles Moretton, 7-6, 7-6, 6-2; hard-serving Roscoe Tanner, seeded No. 14, traded bullets with France's Henri Leconte before winning a 6-4, 7-5, 6-4 shootout, and No. 16 Steve Denton won a marathon outing against fellow American John Sadri, 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Oakland May Have Fuel for Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The city of Oakland may be able to use a California Supreme Court decision to keep the Raiders professional football franchise from moving to Los Angeles.

On Monday, the high court voted 6-1 to overturn a Monterey Superior Court decision dismissing a city lawsuit to acquire the National Football League team under the city's power of eminent domain.

"The city and Raiders should be afforded a full opportunity to present the facts and circumstances of their respective sides during a trial on the merits," said the decision written by Justice Frank Richardson.

The Supreme Court's decision means that the city of Oakland has the authority to pursue acquisition of the Raiders through the same municipal authority it has to acquire other properties necessary for the public benefit.

"The acquisition and, indeed, the operation of a sports franchise may well be an appropriate municipal function. That being so, the statutes discussed herein afford the city the power to acquire by eminent domain any property necessary to carry out that function," the decision said.

Chief Justice Rose Bird, in a concurring and dissenting opinion, said she was troubled because the "potential for abuse of such great power is boundless."

She said she was forced by the law to agree with the result reached by the majority, but she did not sign the opinion because it endorses unprecedented application of the eminent domain law "without even pausing to consider the ultimate consequences of their expansive decision."

Oakland's eminent domain lawsuit is separate from one involving antitrust allegations against the NFL, which had attempted to block plans to move the team to Los Angeles. In that case, a federal jury ruled in May that

Managing General Partner Al Davis could move the team to Southern California.

Decinces Moving Up 'Tough Ladder'

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer
 Doug DeCinces is moving up in a very tough world. In a batting order packed with sluggers and superstars, the California Angels third baseman has 23 RBI in his past 20 games, and Manager Gene Mauch has moved him from No. 7 to No. 3. "I love any RBI situation," DeCinces said Monday night after his four RBI gave him 40 on the season and paced the Angels to a 10-2 victory over the Texas Rangers. "That's what you play the game for." A single by Rod Carew touched off California's seven-run eighth inning and extended his hitting streak to 25 games, the longest in the major leagues this year. DeCinces capped the burst with a two-run single in his second trip to the plate in the inning. DeCinces doubled home two runs in the third inning off knuckleballer Charlie Hough to wipe out a 2-0 Texas lead, then scored on a single by Reggie Jackson, who was credited with his fourth game-winning RBI of the season. Around the rest of the league, Baltimore blanked Cleveland 7-0, Milwaukee downed New York 6-2, Boston whipped Detroit 5-1, Chicago edged Minnesota 5-4, Oakland got by Kansas City 4-3 and Seattle shaded Toronto 5-4. Steve Renko handcuffed Texas on seven hits, striking out three and walking only one for his seventh victory in eight decisions. Orioles 7, Indians 0

Baltimore right-hander Dennis Martinez pitched his second shutout of the season, blanking Cleveland on three hits. Martinez struck out five, walked none and received big support from Cal Ripken Jr. Ripken drove in four runs with a homer and a double, adding a single later in the game. Martinez, 7-4, allowed just one runner past first. Alan Bannister singled and stole second in the Cleveland third but was stranded by Martinez, who also allowed singles to Von Hayes and Rick Manning. Brewers 6, Yankees 2

Ben Oglivie, who had three home runs Sunday, continued his hot hitting with a home run, and Paul Molitor added a homer to pace Milwaukee over the Yankees. Cecil Cooper's RBI double off Dave Righetti snapped a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning. Molitor also scored three runs and went 4-for-4. Bob McClure, 5-2, scattered six hits over six innings for the victory, leaving in favor of Dwight Bernard after walking two men in the seventh. Red Sox 5, Tigers 1

Carl Yastrzemski reached another career milestone with his 3,253rd major league hit, helping Boston extend Detroit's losing streak to eight games. Yaz's hit moved him past Nap Lajoie into ninth place on the all-time hit list. Dave Stapleton drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly, backing left-hander John Tudor to his sixth victory in 11 decisions.

Chris Chambliss singled with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning to cap a three-run rally and lead Atlanta over San Francisco. Reliever Greg Minton gave up an RBI triple to Larry Whisenton and a run-scoring single to Biff Pocoroba prior to Chambliss' game-winning hit. The victory went to Rick Camp, 5-3, and Minton, 3-4, was the loser. The Giants had gone ahead 6-4 with single runs in the seventh and ninth.

Trailing 4-1, the Padres loaded the bases and Tim Flannery scored the first run of the inning on a passed ball. Sixto Lezcano then singled off reliever Mike LaCoss, 2-2, for another run and Kennedy followed with his double to give the Padres a 5-4 lead. Luis Salazar then sacrificed and LaCoss threw wildly down the right-field line as Kennedy scored. Boderick Perkins then singled in the final run of the inning. Eric Show, 4-2, the fourth Padre pitcher, worked the final three innings for the victory. Reds 10, Dodgers 2

Darrell Porter and George Hendrick cracked run-scoring hits in the eighth as St. Louis beat Philadelphia and overshadowed Pete Rose's climb into a tie for second place on baseball's all-time hit list. Rose had two singles to give him 3,771 hits for his career and tie him with Hank Aaron. Ty Cobb is the leader with 4,191 career hits. Willie McGee opened the eighth with a single off Ron Reed, 2-2, and took third on Keith Hernandez's single. Porter greeted reliever Tug McGraw, making his first appearance of the season, with a double for the winning run. Hendrick followed with a single to drive home an insurance run. Padres 7, Astros 4

Terry Kennedy's two-run double keyed a six-run rally in the eighth inning to lead San Diego over Houston. Trailing 4-1, the Padres loaded the bases and Tim Flannery scored the first run of the inning on a passed ball. Sixto Lezcano then singled off reliever Mike LaCoss, 2-2, for another run and Kennedy followed with his double to give the Padres a 5-4 lead. Luis Salazar then sacrificed and LaCoss threw wildly down the right-field line as Kennedy scored. Boderick Perkins then singled in the final run of the inning. Eric Show, 4-2, the fourth Padre pitcher, worked the final three innings for the victory.

Cubs Hurting After Play At Home, Bucs Get 4-3 Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer
 Pittsburgh catcher Tony Pena was nursing a sore foot and Chicago Manager Lee Elia a bruised ego as the result of a bang-bang play at home plate that helped the Pirates beat the Cubs. "We haven't gotten a close call in a month," Elia lamented after Cub shortstop Larry Bowa was called out at home in the eighth inning of Monday night's game in Pittsburgh, depriving the Cubs of an important run. Elia was ejected from the game by umpire Lee Weyer after storming from the dugout in protest of the call and the Pirates went on to a 4-3 victory. Pena suffered a foot injury as a result of the home-plate crash, although it was not believed serious. Pittsburgh's Paul Moskau, 1-3, got his first victory as a starting pitcher since Aug. 28, 1980. Chicago's Lee Smith dropped to 1-2 as the Cubs lost their fourth game in a row. Moskau allowed six hits in five innings and Kent Tekulve finished up to register his eighth save. In other National League action, Philadelphia beat St. Louis 7-5, San Diego stopped Houston 7-4, Cincinnati routed Los Angeles 10-2, Atlanta trimmed San Francisco 7-6 and Montreal turned back New York 5-1. Phillies 7, Cardinals 5

Eddie Milner hit a three-run homer and drove in four runs while scoring three to help Cincinnati's Mario Soto win his fourth straight game for Cincinnati. The victory snapped the Dodgers' six-game winning streak. Milner's third homer of the season, off Bob Welch, 7-6, put the Reds ahead to stay in the second inning. Soto, 7-4, handcuffed the Dodgers on five hits and struck out 10, raising his National League-leading strikeout total to 125. Braves 7, Giants 6

Demmings Withdraws From Ayala Fight

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Doug Demmings has withdrawn from his scheduled fight Saturday with third-ranked junior welterweight Tony Ayala, fight promoter Lester Bedford said Monday. Replacing Demmings on the Will Rogers Coliseum fight card will be Frank Medina, a Nicaragua native training in Miami.

Demmings' manager said he withdrew the fighter from the bout because Demmings could not meet the contracted weight of 160 pounds, Bedford said. Medina's last fight was May 29, in which he knocked out Kenny Whetson, Bedford said. In his last fight, May 2, Ayala knocked out Steve Gregory.

At Southwestern Public Service Company, we keep our customers in mind when selecting the type of fuel to use in our electric generating stations. That is why we chose coal as the fuel for our newest power plants. Coal meets the tests of availability, technical and economical feasibility, reliability, environmental standards, and is in line with national energy policies.

Morris Rantz, Fuel Administration Manager, Amarillo.

The economy affects utility companies just as it does all of us. Despite their regulated status, utilities still face the problems of inflation, high interest rates, and soaring fuel costs. And regulation does not guarantee that a company will make a profit. Instead, regulators establish a "ceiling" or maximum amount of profit which a utility may make, a profit level which few utilities are able to reach because of the expenses involved in providing reliable electric service.

Jo Barnes, Chief Clerk, Levelland.

Using major electric appliances during "off-peak" hours can help keep down the cost of electric service. Certain times of day, usually between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., are "peak" hours, when SPS' full generating capacity must be used to meet customer demands. America's Tennis Queen Recalls Net Career

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent
CARMEL, Calif. (AP) — The start of the Wimbledon tennis championships stirs fond memories for Helen Wills Roark, the all-time queen of American tennis.

"I had planned to return to England this year but I injured my hip when a door shut on me in a supermarket," said the woman who gained international fame as Helen Wills Moody.

"I haven't been back since before World War II — 1938, I think it was. That is too long. I love the place.

"I hope to make the trip next year."

This is exciting news not only for the ancient Wimbledon Croquet and Tennis Club, grandmother of the game, but also for everyone who treasures its rich traditions.

Since winning eight Wimbledon and seven U.S. ladies' singles titles in a career that stretched from 1924 through 1935, Queen Helen has lived a reclusive life.

Since the breakup of two marriages, she has lived alone in beautiful Carmel Valley in a cottage on an acre of statuesque pines and cypress trees, reading avidly, painting and following world events on a black and white

TV set that can get only one channel. She does her own house and yard work, rarely goes into the village and more recently, because of her hip injury, has had to forsake her periodic matches with an old friend and tennis partner, Clarissa Mitchell. She takes a two-mile hike daily.

"I've mislaid most of my medals and trophies," she said. "I can't even find the Olympic gold medal I won in Paris in 1924."

In March, 1981, she was persuaded to go to San Francisco to be inducted in the Bay Area Sports Hall of Fame. Although she shared the honor with Lefty Gomez, Frankie Albert and Bob Mathias, she was the hit of the show.

"It was a marvelous experience," the 76-year-old court legend said over luncheon last weekend during the U.S. Open Golf Championship at Pebble Beach.

"Everyone was so nice to me. Unfortunately I had to speak after Mr. Gomez — he's a baseball player, I think — and he was so funny he had the audience in stitches.

tion that would make Chris Evert Lloyd look like an extrovert.

They called her "Miss

Poker Face." "No, I never resented the reference," she said. "I thought it was rather cute."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

It Pays The Patient

DEAR DR. LAMB — A recent correspondent questioned the need of "unnecessary" examinations, thinking they were just a plot of the doctors to "fatten" their bank accounts. Let me tell you my experience. About 11 years ago, some six months after my 68th birthday, I went to my doctor for a checkup. It was my idea and I had no symptoms. In the course of the examination they discovered bilirubin under my fingernails. My gallbladder was on the verge of causing me some real trouble.

Arrangements were made to have my gallbladder out. The day before the surgery the doctor asked, "Just how did we discover this anyway?" I said, "Don't you remember, Doctor, I came to you and requested a complete checkup."

I had the surgery with no complications. Many of my friends had pain, nausea and all kinds of trouble when they had a gallbladder attack. I recovered well and have no discomfort. So I continue to have my annual checkup. As far as I am concerned it pays. Not the doctor but the patient. Please keep on telling people of the necessity to have "unnecessary" examinations.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your experience with others. There are lots of important medical problems that are first discovered as a result of a regular medical examination.

Recently the American College of Physicians has said that you do not need an annual physical examination. But that has been misinterpreted in some reports. A physical examination is only one part of a medical examination. Those tests, including measuring your blood pressure, and finding out what your cholesterol level is are very important in preventing illnesses.

The American College of Physicians really wanted doctors to tailor their medical examinations to the needs of the patient. Certainly the recommendation is not intended to be in conflict with the wise advice of the American Cancer Society that a woman of 40 or over have an annual pelvic examination and breast examination by a physician and that men 40 or over should have a rectal examination each year.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you give me some information about Morton's neuroma? For years I suffered with severe pain in two of my toes. Sometimes I could hardly walk. I just had an operation by an orthopedic surgeon. He removed two of these things which I understand were quite large and one was very deep.

DEAR READER — Remember the ending "oma" means tumor and since "neuro" means nerve it is a benign tumor of a nerve.

The tumor usually develops from irritation of trapped nerves between the heads of the metatarsal bones. Those are the long bones in your feet that attach to the base of your toes. Tight pointed-toe shoes contribute to the problem. Ballet dancers may develop them. The point is you need to be sure you have good shoes that don't pinch the heads of the metatarsals together. High heels with pointed toes are a contributing factor in some cases.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — I know you've talked about cooking mushrooms, but I have never seen any advice on how to clean them. I find it a problem to remove all that brown film covering the tops. Once in a while, I prefer them whole, but when I try to clean them, the stems usually fall off and the tops crumble. Also, how long will they keep before spoiling? And what are the chances of getting a mushroom that is not edible? I worry about this every time I chop down on one. — BROWNS MILLS

DEAR BROWNS MILLS: Mushrooms require very gentle handling. As you already know, they break easily. And since they absorb moisture readily, any washing should be done as lightly and quickly as possible. Fortunately, mushrooms purchased in the supermarket or vegetable market generally need very little cleaning. That brown film you've been struggling to remove is absolutely harmless and does not detract from the mushroom's flavor or texture. It is a natural discoloration. Just quickly rinse the mushrooms in cool running water, gently rubbing off any bits of dirt (which, by the way, is actually peat moss) and trim off the tough bottom of the stem. Some people prefer to just wipe the mushrooms clean with a damp paper towel. Others give them a quick going over with a very soft brush (a soft toothbrush works well). Don't clean them at all, however, until just before you're ready to use them. Mushrooms should keep in a loosely closed plastic bag for three or four days in the refrigerator. As they age, the caps open up and they become somewhat tough and leathery. And don't worry about whether those store-bought mushrooms are edible or not. The type of mushroom grown and sold commercially does not closely resemble any common poisonous varieties. So long as you buy your mushrooms and don't forage for them in the woods, you're perfectly safe. Chomp away! — POLLY

The Wagman File: Campaign '82

No Definite Trends Seen in Primary Voting Season

By Robert J. Wagman
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — The spring primary season ended June 8 with the busiest election day of Campaign '82.
 No more primaries will take place until September, so the political analysts will have a long, slow summer to decide what messages from the voters might be hidden in the latest balloting.
 But initially there appears to be no unifying thread running through the returns from the eight states that held statewide primaries on June 8. In fact, the returns are contradictory in many ways.
 Take, for example, the importance — or lack thereof — of political "star quality."
 One might have expected

Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. — the son and namesake of the GOP's "Mr. Conservative" — to have been the brightest star in the race for the Republican senatorial nomination in California. But the younger Goldwater was defeated handily by a relative no-name, Mayor Pete Wilson of San Diego.
 Goldwater was not the only bearer of a famous political name who lost badly in that race. Maureen Reagan, the elder daughter of the president, could place no better than fifth in the field of candidates.
 The polling power of the political name was further devalued in Ohio, where Seth Taft lost his bid for the Republican gubernatorial nomination to Rep. Clarence Brown. Taft is the grandson

There appears to be no unifying thread running through the returns from the eight states that held statewide primaries on June 8. In fact, the returns are contradictory in many ways.

of President William Howard Taft and the bearer of the most illustrious family name in Ohio political history.
 But this "trend" against star quality was not evident in another GOP primary.
 In New Jersey, Rep. Milliecent Fenwick — a 72-year-old pipe-smoking former model who inspired a character in the comic strip "Doodlesbury" — won the senatorial nomination over a young conservative who campaigned on the issues.
 Thus, her victory might be seen as one of style over substance.

In California, Lt. Gov. Mike Curb turned his campaign for the GOP gubernatorial nomination into a test of whether he or his opponent was more loyal to the president. Curb may have proved himself the stronger Reaganite, but he lost the race to state Attorney General George Deukmejian.
 In Ohio, Rep. Ron Mottl, a

Democrat, was challenged in his race for renomination because he had abandoned his party last year to vote in favor of Reaganomics. This time the nomination went to his opponent, Edward Feighan.

Do the Curb and Mottl defeats mean that voters are unhappy with the president or his policies? Perhaps not. Among the questions asked by several news organizations in their exit polling was whether voters thought that Ronald Reagan and Reaganomics had failed.

"No," said a substantial majority of the respondents. They did not blame the president for the recession. Moreover, many said that his economic program had not yet been given a chance and would eventually succeed.

Thus, it is difficult to read any sort of anti-Reagan vote into the results of this primary day.

The returns probably do show that the political barriers continue to fall for women and minorities.

In California, Tom Bradley, the mayor of Los Angeles, easily won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. If elected, he will be the nation's first black governor since Reconstruction.

Iowa Democrats gave their gubernatorial nomination to Roxanne Conlin, a former U.S. attorney. If elected, she will be the sixth woman governor in U.S. history — the third not to succeed her husband in office — and the first in the Midwest.

The recent primary results showed again that a single campaign decision can lead to disaster.

In California, Goldwater, who was far ahead in the early polls, subscribed to the conventional political wisdom that a frontrunner has everything to lose and nothing to gain by debating his opponents.

His foes jumped on his refusal to debate, suggesting that Goldwater was afraid to do so or that he lacked faith in his own ability and intelligence. Thus, they said, he would be a poor candidate to face Gov. Edmund "Jerry" Brown in the fall general election.

Goldwater started to fall in the polls almost from the day he decided not to debate.

The primary results were also contradictory on the importance of money to a winning political campaign.

In New Jersey, millionaire businessman Frank Lautenberg emerged from a crowded field to narrowly take the Democratic senatorial nomination. His victory has been attributed in part to his spending far more money — much of it his own — than any of his eight opponents.

But in California, losers Curb and Goldwater proved that spending the most is no guarantee of electoral success.

In sum, if the various results of this busiest primary day of Campaign '82 prove anything, it is that politics continues to be unpredictable. That's what keeps the pollsters and pundits in business.

Sporty Coverups For The Beach

NEW YORK (NEA) — Beach coverups have broken out of the super-glamorous mold. There are still plenty of splashy-print capes, sarong-type skirts and lacy shirt-jackets, but sportswear looks now have become an equally big trend.

One reason for using such sports styles as bomber and blouson jackets for the beach is the arrival of "shell" fabrics, those thin, soft, wind- and water-resistant fabrics first used in summer rainwear and obviously just as useful for the beach. One of the newest is Du Pont's Tyvek, an olefin-fiber fabric so thin and light you can fold up a jacket to fit into a pocket, then shake it out ready to wear.

Tyvek takes clear, bright prints, so Jantzen's blouson zip-front beach jacket is printed in yachting pennants of blue, black, red and gold on white. Bobbie Brooks does a drawstring-bottom white Tyvek jacket with turquoise and orange palm trees swaying around the hemline.

Even Western looks go to the beach, in jackets with Western yokes or a vertically quilted nylon shell coverup fringed in Western style for wear when the breezes turn colder. They're good for boating, too, because it's always colder on the water than on shore. At Les Halles, Western-lok beach coverups even come in denim, with fancy yokes, pearl snap buttons and push-up sleeves.

Shamrock, Chemnor Plan To Form New Company

DALLAS (AP) — Diamond Shamrock Corp. announced Monday the signing of a definitive agreement with Chemnor Corp. to combine their electrochemical technology businesses to form a new company, Eltech Systems Corp.

Under the agreement, Diamond Shamrock and Chemnor will combine their assets concerning electrochemical research, manufacturing and marketing.

The agreement calls for Chemnor to pay Diamond Shamrock $65 million by the end of this month.

The two companies had announced on April 27 the signing of a letter of intent to form the new company, which will supply electrolytic technology and equipment to producers of chlorine, caustic soda, potassium chemicals and other electrochemicals.

Eltech will be based in the United States in a site yet to be determined, Diamond Shamrock said. Chemnor is based in Geneva, Switzerland.

Diamond Shamrock's vice president of technology, Marlyn Milberg, will be the chief executive officer of the new company. He is retiring from his Diamond Shamrock job effective July 1.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc. announced Monday that Charles H. Everill has been named president of Consumer Distribution Marketing, one of the three principal areas of the company's business.

Everill succeeds C. Ben Rodgers, who resigned April 1 to start his own company.

Harte-Hanks said Everill will continue as senior vice president-marketing of Harte-Hanks and direction of the company's cable television operation will be turned over to Larry D. Franklin, executive vice president.

HOUSTON (AP) — Cooper Industries on Monday announced an agreement in principle to sell two of its subsidiaries to Electrical Insulation Suppliers Inc., which is based in Atlanta, Ga.

The two subsidiaries — Complete-Reading Electric Co. and Electrical Speciality Co. — were acquired by Cooper in its acquisition of Crouse-Hinds Co. in April 1981.

Cooper said it expected to close the deal in about two months. The sale is subject to approval by the Federal Trade Commission.

Cooper makes compression and drilling equipment, tools and hardware, and electrical and electronic products.

State Negotiating Federal Prison Suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, Attorney General Mark White and the Texas Board of Corrections met today to discuss negotiations aimed at wrapping up the 10-year-old federal lawsuit against state prisons.

Participants in the meeting entered the closed session with varying degrees of optimism. Clements recently said he is optimistic a settlement can be reached.

However, T. Louis Austin, board chairman, said today he is not optimistic.

"I've been to the table before and we haven't gotten anywhere," Austin said. "But we'll always sit down and talk."

The parties in the lawsuit — including lawyers for the state, the federal government and the inmate plaintiffs — will meet in Houston on July 7 to discuss remaining points of contention.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler has issued an order mandating sweeping changes in the overcrowded, 34,000-inmate prison system.

Portions of the order have been appealed and other portions have been resolved by agreement. The biggest obstacle to a complete settlement could be "single-celling." Justice has ordered individual cells for all inmates.

Attorney General Mark White said before today's meeting that the state is not willing to "surrender" and agree to single cells.

Begin Getting Cool Reception From Skeptical Members Of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin is getting a cool reception at the White House and on Capitol Hill as he attempts to persuade U.S. officials to contribute troops to a peacekeeping force in Lebanon. President Reagan reserved judgment Monday on committing U.S. forces to the peacekeeping unit, saying he would reach a decision based on the best interests of the United States. Begin got a similar response at a meeting with the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Unusually sharp criticism of Israel erupted both at that meeting and at a session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which meets with the Israeli prime minister today. The proposed international peacekeeping force would move into a 25-mile buffer zone after Israel withdrew its troops from Lebanon. Reagan agreed to Israel's demand for withdrawal of Syrian troops from Lebanon and establishment of the buffer strip. But a senior administration official, who asked not to be identified, said the president told the prime minister during their 2 1/2-hour White House meeting that having American troops participate would involve "potential problems here at home," and he was "not enthusiastic" about it. Rep. Clement Zablocki,

D-Wis., chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said, "I don't think there will be any enthusiastic support in Congress of U.S. participation in a peacekeeping force." He made his comments after the panel met with the visiting Israeli prime minister. At the Senate Foreign Relations Committee meeting, Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., said the United States needs "to say (to Israel) at some point, 'For God's sake, enough is enough.'" "I think we are there," Tsongas added. "The question is at what point does the United States simply say, 'This is wrong,'" he told the committee. The committee voted to authorize $50 million in emergency relief for Lebanon, $30 million more than the administration requested and a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee approved. Zablocki began the meeting of the House panel, which was open to the press until the last few minutes, by saying that his constituents are telling him Israel is "flouting our laws" by misusing U.S. arms against Lebanon. Begin responded with a lengthy emotional defense of Israel's intervention in Lebanon, saying, "The U.S. people can be proud of Israel." He said he did not understand why any member of Congress would oppose U.S. participation in the peacekeeping force, since stability in the Middle East is in the best interest of the United States. Begin was host to about two dozen House members at a private dinner at a Washington hotel Monday night. Standing at Reagan's side after the White House meeting, Begin promised that Israeli troops would be withdrawn "as soon as possible."

Donovan Not To Be Driven From Job By 'Wonderland School Of Justice'

By JAMES H. RUBIN Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An angry, combative Raymond J. Donovan says he will not be driven from his job as labor secretary by a "wonderland school of justice" that wants to convict him on charges of having ties to organized crime before a trial. Donovan, hoping for vindication from a pending report by a special federal prosecutor, said Monday that when the report is out, "I will have a great deal to say about the many vicious attacks that have been made." Without identifying his accusers, Donovan said he has been victimized by unsubstantiated news leaks "by an alliance of individuals who have a total disregard for the truth." Donovan said he expected the report of court-appointed special prosecutor Leon Silverman to be completed within a few days. But Silverman, reached at his New York law office, said, "I don't know where he got that from." Silverman declined to say when the report will be finished. Some of President Reagan's principal advisers reportedly favor an immediate leave of absence for Donovan. But Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Monday that Reagan feels there is no reason for the labor secretary to resign or step aside since all the facts in the case are not known. Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia has called for Donovan to take a leave until the special prosecutor's report is done. Last week, the 46 Democrats in the Senate endorsed Byrd's suggestion. And Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who heads the Senate Labor Committee, said he did not see how Donovan could stay on in the face of that united opposition. But Donovan said Monday, "Quite obviously, some of our elected officials are not content to allow facts to be determined in an orderly manner. They seem more interested in the wonderland school of justice that stands for judgment now, trial later."

The charges against Donovan include bid-rigging and mob-influenced labor contracts involving his former company, Schiavone Construction of Secaucus, N.J. After reading his statement, Donovan strofe from the stage of the Labor Department auditorium, ignoring questions from reporters. In the latest round of allegations, Time magazine, quoting an FBI memo, said a purported "bagman" for organized crime who was found shot to death in Manhattan eight days ago allegedly "socialized on a regular basis" with Donovan years ago. The report said Fred Furino, 52, the victim of the gangland-style slaying, disappeared after repeatedly flunking a polygraph test given by the special prosecutor's office which quizzed him about Donovan.

Junta Sets Deadline For '84 Democracy

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The ruling junta declared today that military rule would end "without fail" with a return to democratic government in early 1984. But the three-man junta failed to agree on a new president. The generals that seized power from President Isabel Peron in March 1976 have stated since then they intended to return the country to civilian rule, but never fixed a deadline. Monday night, the army issued a declaration saying the definitive transition to civilian rule would not begin until 1984. Today's communique appeared to represent concessions by the army to the air force and navy, which have argued for an accelerated return to democracy and been opposing naming an army man to replace Gen.

Leopoldo F. Galtieri, forced to resign last week because of the Falkland Islands defeat. The junta, comprised of the army, air force and navy commanders, met for a fifth straight day today in an effort to designate a new president.

Giant Companies Vie for Mobile Phone Licenses

HAVING A GARAGE SALE
Advertise it in the Hereford
Brand for best results.

By Robert J. Wagman
WASHINGTON (NEA) —
The Federal Communications Commission soon will begin awarding licenses that could turn out to be worth billions of dollars.

The intense competition for these licenses will pit the giants of the communications industry against one another in a lobbying free-for-all.

The licenses are for the operation of wire-free communications services that make use of a new technology known as "cellular" mobile radio transmission.

Today, mobile phone service in a given city usually is broadcast from a single radio transmitter over the few channels that the FCC has reserved for radio-telephone use.

In New York City, for instance, only 12 mobile conversations can occur simultaneously; service is thus limited to 700 customers. Because of this limited capacity, some people who want the service have been on a waiting list for years.

The new technology employs a series of "cells"
— that is, low-powered transmitters operating in a small area. A computer tracks the caller's movements and automatically switches the call from cell to cell.

The low power of these transmitters enables the same frequencies to be reused within a metropolitan area. This means that many more people can use the same frequency.

In New York City, a cellular system could increase the number of available mobile phones to 250,000.
Except during the busiest hours, all customers could expect to get a free channel whenever they wanted to place a call.

Moreover, phones using the cellular technology will be truly portable. Mobile phones now require a heavy radio; even those designed to fit in a briefcase weigh 30 to 40 pounds. The new phones will weigh only a couple of pounds and will easily fit into a briefcase or purse.

Within a few years the phones will be even smaller.
There may even be a real-life variation of the Dick Tracy wristwatch phone!

All of this demonstrates the potential bonanza await-tion for those licenses will pit

ing the companies that are licensed to offer this service. It is estimated that within 10 years cellular phone systems will have 1 million customers, nationwide and a yearly income of more than $3 billion.

In February, the FCC
licensed the new technology — which eventually will replace all existing mobile phone service — and limited each metropolitan area to two licensees: one
"telephone" company and one radio communications company (commonly referred to as an "RCC").

The agency will initially license 30 metropolitan areas. It will shortly announce those areas and the licensing schedule.

A who's who of the communications industry has lined up to apply for the first licenses. Among these companies are GTE, MCI Communications, Metro-media and Western Union.

They will be joined in the bidding by the biggest communications company of all:

American Telephone & Telegraph, whose Advanced Mobile Phone Service subsidiary developed the cellular technology at a cost of some $200 million since 1970.

AT&T intends to form a new subsidiary, as yet unnamed, to operate its cellular systems; this subsidiary is to be merged with Advanced Mobile Phone Service.

Eventually, the rights to operate the cellular systems will be transferred to the 22 local phone companies that AT&T agreed to give up as part of its recent antitrust settlement with the Justice Department.

Many in the industry are worried that AT&T has the inside track on obtaining licenses because the company took the lead in developing the technology and has the capital to get involved in a big way.

Money will be a crucial issue in license applications, because it will cost an estimated $10 million to install the necessary low-powered transmitters and computers in an average metropolitan area and perhaps several times that amount in the big cities such as New York.

This need for major capital investment has the local radio communication companies worried. Although one of two licenses in each area will be reserved for an RCC, both licenses may not be issued at the same time.

If no RCC has the capital available when the licenses are first issued in a given area, the FCC may well award only the license earmarked for a telephone company. That company would then have a great advantage over any RCC that later was licensed to serve the same area.

To combat this possibility, many smaller RCCs are banding together to obtain the financing that would enable them to bid for a license.

The behind-the-scenes jocking — among the communications giants and between the RCCs and the telephone companies — is already intense and will become even more so once the first 30 areas are announced.

It seems that everyone sees a pot of gold at the end of the cellular rainbow and everyone wants his piece of it.

Recession And Recovery - First The Good News, Then The Bad

WASHINGTON (AP) —
Suddenly, there's broad agreement that the recession is over — or nearly so — after dominating the first 17 months of Ronald Reagan's presidency. But there's hardy universal confidence that good times are coming to stay.

Recent improvement in a variety of economic signals crystallized Monday in the Commerce Department's estimate that the national economy seemed to be expanding slightly in the current April-June period after shrinking steadily in the previous two quarters.

But worries about the stiff-ing effects of high interest rates kept officials and analysts from predicting any big economic surge, any big drop in unemployment, any quick arrival of what Treasury Secretary Donald
T. Regan called "that robust recovery that we need."

As the Labor Department reported today that consumer prices, spurred by sharply higher fuel prices, soared by 1 percent in May — the biggest increase since September — Regan said economic recovery depends on reducing interest rates.

Interviewed on NBC-TV's
"Today" show, Regan said:
"If these interest rates continue to stay up where they are, I think the recovery will be anemic at best. If, however, they were to come down, we will have a very robust recovery."

The treasury secretary was critical of the independent Federal Reserve Board, which controls fluctuations in interest rates by regulating the money supply. "When you get the Fed pulling one way

the other way, as could hap-

he said. "In no other country is this permitted."

In markets sensitive to interest rates, the value of the American dollar rose to new peaks in relation to the Canadian dollar and the Italian lira Monday and gold's price slipped below $300 an ounce in Europe, the lowest since

of depressed earnings and an

the action of other steelmakers this year in saying Monday that it is cutting

UNCLE SAM'S SHARE OF GNP

Federal Spending as a Percentage of National Output

SOURCE: The Conference Board NEA/Moffitt Cecil

Federal expenditures as a percentage of the American economic output have been climbing erratically in recent years with an especially sharp upturn in 1980-81, reaching a new high of 23.5 percent. In major spending categories, Social Security has recorded a steady increase throughout the period while the defense share, after the Korean War peak, has declined. A major contributor to increases in other spending is interest on the national debt.

Flash Flood Watch in Texas

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms, some very heavy, moved into North Central Texas and Northeast Texas early today as upper level disturbances continued to move across the state from west to east.

The thunderstorm activity dumped enough heavy rainfall over portions of the state to prompt the National Weather Service to issue a flash flood watch for a portion of North Texas. The watch covered the area along and south of a line from Comanche to Hillsboro to Palestine.

Thunderstorms formed late Monday over the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas and began moving across the state.

Elsewhere, skies were clear over southern, western and northwestern sections of the state.

Early morning temperatures were in the 60s in the Panhandle and mountains of Southwest Texas and in the 70s elsewhere. Extremes ranged from 62 at Amarillo to 79 at Galveston. Some early morning temperatures around the state included 66 at Wichita Falls, 70 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 67 at Lufkin, 78 at Houston, 72 at Corpus Christi, 76 at San Antonio, 70 at Midland and 64 at El Paso.

Forecasts called for scattered showers and thunderstorms over South Texas and widely scattered showers and thundershowers over north central sections of the state. It was to be clear in western and northwestern portions of Texas.

Highs were to be mostly in the 90s, ranging from the 80s in the mountains and along the coast to near 105 in the Big Bend valleys.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 60s and 70s. Highs Wednesday will again be mostly in the upper 80s and the 90s.

The cakes like grandma used to bake are the reason there are so many flourishing bakeries today, says our resident cynic.

Newspaper log directions

DEAR POLLY — My newspapers are piling up now that it is summer and I would like to make fireplace "logs" out of them to use next winter. Could you give me directions? — JOANN

DEAR JOANN: And K.B. and MRS. J.W. and all the other readers who have written in asking for this information to be repeated. We printed directions for making these newspaper logs several months ago, and it seems that now is the time of year when everyone wants to start preparing the logs for next winter's icy evenings. Here's the procedure.

Basically, you just need to roll the paper into a tight cylinder and tie with twine or string. If you're going to burn the logs in a stove, a diameter of four to five inches is perfect. Logs for fireplace burning should be a bit thinner. You can soak the paper before rolling it in water to which you've added a spoonful of detergent, then roll the logs while the paper is wet. This allows you to get a tighter roll and some say it will make the logs burn better. Allow the logs to dry thoroughly before burning.

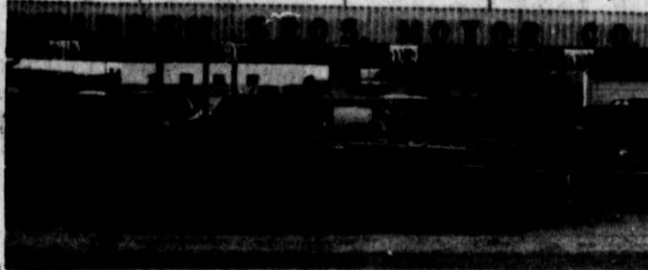

Never use color comic sections or magazine supplements. The colored inks used in these sections can contain heavy metals which could give off toxic fumes when burnt. Slick, coated papers should also be avoided.

DEAR POLLY — Someone wrote about sewing a one-sixteenth inch "crease" into the front of her husband's blue jeans. Well, my Pointer is that you have to ask permission first! I sewed such a crease in I don't know how many pairs of pants for my two sons, age 20 and 30, and my grandson, age 12. They screamed when they saw the pants. It took me hours and hours to rip all the stitching out. So it pays to ask first! — ALICE

DEAR ALICE — My heart goes out to you as I think of you sitting there ripping out all those stitches. Ah well, we know what they say about good intentions. But many thanks for passing along your sage advice — it DOES pay to ask permission. For reminding us all of that bit of wisdom, I'm naming yours the Pointer of the Week. Hope you enjoy your copy of Polly's Pointers: 1981 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer. — POLLY

Sixth grade graduation exercises at St. Anthony's Catholic School took place recently during a Eucharistic Celebration with Father Xavier Butler as the celebrant.

Students were challenged to continue their walk in the ways of the Lord in a broader environment and with greater responsibilities.

After receiving their certificates, the sixth graders presented lighted candles to the fifth grade as a symbol of their receiving the responsibility of being lights to St. Anthony's students in the ways of the Lord.

James Ed Andrews, son of Joe Ed and Judith Andrews, was named Student of the Year at the conclusion of the 1982 school term. A sixth grade student is chosen for this honor each year by faculty members of St. Anthony's.

Student of the Year is cited as being outstanding in Christian attitude, dedicated to total application to classroom learning, cooperation, and consideration, and having respect for the dignity of the human person as reflected in a polite and courteous manner toward all persons.

Recognized as honor students in academic achievement and Christian behavior for this school term were Marcia Geiger, sixth grade; Bridget Baker, Bradley Blum, Dana Gerber, Rose Hund, and Camie Struve, fifth grade; Russell Backus, Sheryl Drerup, Delinda Hernandez, and Fred

Melendrez, fourth grade.

Also Christie Bartels, Audy Sciumbato, Gail Walterschied, Gina Alley, Jennifer Betzen, Camille Betzen, Cynthia Hernandez, Brenna Reinauer, Cari Reinart, Christy Urbanczyk, and Grey Urbanczyk, third grade.

4-H'ers Preserve Tomatoes

BY ROBBY VANN
County Extension Agent
Growing a garden can be fun and productive, whether you live in the country or city. One of the most adaptable plants for growing in a large garden, a small plot or a window box is the tomato. It has great potential not only as a fresh vegetable, but for preserving as well.

4-H members in the 4-H gardening and food preservation programs are discovering this versatility.

If your plot is small or is just a window box or barrel, choose cherry, or pear tomatoes rather than the larger varieties.

4-H members in the national 4-H gardening program, sponsored by the Ortho Consumer Products Division, Chevron Chemical Co., have learned that an apartment terrace or backyard garden needs plenty of sun.

Use aluminum foil, chrome reflectors or mirrors to make sure that your crop gets the equivalent of six hours of sun a day, whether direct or reflected. If possible, put your crop on wheels and roll it to the sun as it moves.

Once tomatoes are ripe, 4-H members in the preservation program, supported by Kerr Glass Manufacturing Co., have lots of ideas for using them effectively. Soup, pickles, preserves, sauces and relish are a few favorites.

Incentives and recognition for participants in the 4-H gardening and food preservation programs are provided by Ortho and Kerr Blass. Medals of honor are awarded to four members in each program in every county.

In the gardening program, one 4-H'er from each state earns a $75 U.S. Savings Bond, and 18 sectional winners receive expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

In the food preservation program, one member from each state earns a trip to Congress.

During the event, national winners in each program are recognized and receive $1,000 scholarships. All awards are arranged by the National 4-H Council.

For more information on the 4-H gardening and food preservation programs, contact the County Extension Office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Mike Moon Speaks At Conference In Lubbock

Mike Moon, the Director of the Hereford Family Services Center, was one of the speakers at the West Texas Mental Health Mental Retardation Conference held at the Lubbock Civic Center June 16 and 17.

Moon spoke on the voluntary program of group therapy which he conducts weekly in the county jail. Specifically, Moon explained how the program had originated in November 1977 thanks to the cooperative efforts of Sheriff Travis McPherson, his staff, and County Commissioner Bruce Coleman.

He went on to state that the program is intended to be an initial building block in the rehabilitative process of prisoners.

"Developing trust from the prisoners is a gradual process, and since many have never participated in therapy before, I try to make the experience as positive and helpful as I can," Moon stated.

Generally, an average of eight prisoners attend the weekly sessions.

Mental health workers from Lubbock, Plainview, San Angelo, and other West Texas communities were in attendance at the conference.

The Family Services Center is a member of the Deaf Smith County United Way.

Father's Day Child ... Almost

Michael Rodriguez, born at 1:46 a.m. Monday, almost made it for Father's Day. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Rodriguez, he was the first baby to be born on or after Father's Day at Deaf Smith General Hospital. Joan Coupe,

Alcohol Syndrome Affects Unborn

No child needs to have it. It's the third most common form of mental retardation, and is totally preventable.

Fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS) is a pattern of birth defects associated with drinking during pregnancy. It includes mental retardation and physical deformities. Other problems include facial abnormalities, growth deficiencies and malformations of the skeleton, heart and urogenital system.

Many drugs have been found to cross the placenta and affect unborn babies. Alcohol is one.

Some drugs cause babies to be born addicts and suffer withdrawal, after which they recover from their addiction. This is not the case with alcohol. The pattern of birth defects associated with heavy alcohol use is irreversible and permanent. The child with FAS will never recover.

Drinking during pregnancy is risky. The safest decision is not to drink during pregnancy. No one really knows at what level of drinking harm to the fetus occurs. What is known is that the more a woman drinks during pregnancy, the greater the risk to her baby.

Children born to women who drink may suffer fetal alcohol effect (FAE). These children may not suffer from the full syndrome, but may have one or more symptoms associated with maternal alcohol consumption.

Dr. Geraldine Wilson, associate professor of pediatrics at Baylor Medical College in Houston and director of Jefferson Davis Hospital's follow-up clinic, notes that while "a textbook case of FAS is pretty recognizable" it can be more difficult for a physician to spot a child with one or two features of the syndrome.

She notes that FAS children may range in intellectual ability from a dull normal IQ (who may be able to function in regular classrooms with special help) to severely retarded (who can learn some self-care skills).

A study published in the "Journal of Pediatrics" found the average IQ of 20 FAS patients to be 65, with a range from 16 to 105. Average intelligence is considered to range from 90 to 110 points. Some researchers have found brain malformations in infants with the syndrome.

Microcephaly, a condition of abnormal smallness of the head reflecting deficient brain growth, is often a feature of FAS, according to an article in the "New England Journal of Medicine." The same article states that FAS children are frequently hyperactive.

FAS is caused by prenatal exposure to alcohol — it doesn't matter whether it is beer, hard liquor or wine. Not every woman who drinks during pregnancy has an FAS baby.

No woman who abstains from alcohol during pregnancy has an FAS baby.

The Texas Commission on Alcoholism, is currently conducting a public awareness campaign on the subject of FAS.

"It is sad to think that there are children today who are retarded and who, genetically, had much greater potential," Ross Newby, TCA executive director, said. "I hope that women who are pregnant or planning to be will heed our slogan, 'A pregnant woman never drinks alone.'"

Good Timers Meet For Dance

The Good Timers Square Dance Club met for their regular dance Friday evening. Members danced to caller James Novak of Amarillo. Rounds were cued

Good Timers' next dance will be July 2 with James Petus of Portales calling. A workshop was held Monday and will be held each Monday hereafter. All members are urged to be present.

Ann Landers

Accused Of Having Affairs

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please say something about an old, worn-out stud who is impotent? We have been married for 30 years. I do not now, nor have I ever enjoyed sex.

In his heyday my husband was after me all the time. He was so persistent I decided early in our marriage to go along, fake it (millions of other wives) and not hurt his feelings.

Now that he can't perform, he keeps accusing me of having affairs with our minister, the mailman and our son's teacher. His theory: "Nobody can get along without sex. You must be seeing somebody."

I am sorry that my husband has high blood pressure and the medication has made him impotent, but I sure wish he would get off my case. Can you say something to help? — Tired of Defending Myself in Cleveland.

DEAR TIRED: Yes, I can,

but I'm afraid you don't want to hear it. The help is for HIM — not you. There are many different kinds of medication for high blood pressure. If one produces impotence, the physician should change to another. A caring doctor may try three or four before he hits on one that helps the patient and leaves his macho intact. Have a good day.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Regarding the reader who called her clergyman while in a state of hysteria and yelled, "I'm going to commit suicide!" (He replied, "You'll have to make an appointment.")

My husband (a Methodist minister) received an urgent call from a distressed parishioner while we were in the middle of a bitter argument. I was accusing him of never being home to help with our four preschoolers, never taking a day off, always being involved in problem-solving for members of his flock and never being available when I had a problem. I had just threatened him with a divorce when the phone rang.

A word, please, to those folks who call their clergyman for help with personal problems. Don't wait until you are suicidal. So many people fail to reach out until they are seriously disturbed. Troubles nipped early are much easier to deal with. — Sorry If I Made My Husband Look Bad

DEAR SORRY: No apologies are necessary. Charity begins at home.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I didn't care for your answer to the mother whose daughter moved out and kept the keys to the house. In my opinion the daughter should have handed the keys over when her mother asked for them.

I have five children. They all moved out so they could do their own thing. Not one of those kids ever offered to give me the keys to their apartment. Not long ago, when I asked them to return the keys to the house, their noses were out of joint. Well, that's just too bad. They can walk in on ME, but God forbid I should ever walk in on one of them! I'm signing this — Your Irate Mother

DEAR IRATE: You certainly have a point, but those children LIVED at home which is why they had the keys. I see no reason for them to give YOU the keys to their apartments — unless, of course, they want you to come in and clean up or do the laundry.

Now that you are living alone and would like your privacy, you have every right to ask that they hand the keys over — and they should do so without hesitation.

Dispute Threatening Junta

Next President Still Undecided

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's generals are still quarreling over who will be the country's next president in a dispute that threatens to shatter the ruling military junta in the wake of the nation's defeat in the Falklands war.

Leopoldo Galtieri. The three officers said they would meet again today.
Galtieri, an army general, was forced by his fellow generals to resign last week because of Argentina's humiliating loss in the undeclared 74-day South Atlantic war.

peacekeeping force to maintain the security of the Falkland Islands.
Britain retook the Falklands on June 14, 10 weeks after Argentine troops invaded the British colony 250 miles east of Argentina's southern tip.
The air force threatened to withdraw from Argentina's six-year-old military regime if the army, traditionally the most powerful military branch here, insists on replacing Galtieri with another army general, a high military source told The Associated Press.

"The air force does not want to be part of another dictatorship," said the source, who asked not to be identified.
Argentine news media, apparently getting "leaks" from the secret junta sessions, said the air force and navy favor a civilian to head a government of transition to civilian rule.

But the Justicialista Party, the nation's largest, did not participate, apparently because Deolindo Bittel, a top party official, was in the interior of the country. The Justicialista Party follows the doctrines of the late dictator Juan Peron.

Court Will Hear Case: Orders Payment To Athlete

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court said it will decide the legality of a Texas law that refuses free educations to students who move into a community for the "primary purpose of attending school."

Morales, who moved from Mexico to McAllen in 1977 to live with his adult sister, Oralia Martinez.
McAllen school officials cited a state law in refusing to admit the boy. When the case went to court, a federal judge upheld the law. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the judge.

father filed suit in a Florida state court against the school, basketball coach James Gudger and trainer Delmar Brown.
Texas officials appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court on grounds that the Florida state court had no right to hear the case.

The army is said to want another of its own to succeed Galtieri until its proposed "democratic, institutional, negotiated solution" to Argentina's domestic political situation, "starting in 1984."
This coincided with information from military sources that all three service branches agree on March 29, 1984 — the date on which Galtieri would have stepped down voluntarily — as the time for ending exclusive military rule and permitting the participation of political parties.

More than 1,000 additional Argentine prisoners of war from the Falklands fighting arrived Monday in the southern coastal town of Puerto Madryn aboard the requisitioned British North Sea ferry Norland.
Britain says it will hold about 1,000 officers of the nearly 11,000 Argentine prisoners it took on the Falklands until Argentina formally declares an end to hostilities.

The case, filed on behalf of a young boy whose parents are Mexican but who is a U.S. citizen, marks the second time recently the high court has agreed to hear cases in which Texas schools have refused free educations to children of Mexican citizens.

Morales' lawyers argue that the state law interferes with the right of travel and unlawfully creates an "irrebuttable presumption" of non-residence for people moving into a school district because of the educational opportunities provided.

Firefighters Union Vote On Civil Service Compromise

Last week, the court ruled that children of illegal aliens are entitled to free public education.
In another action Monday, the court ordered Texas officials to pay a former East Texas State University basketball player more than $145,000 in medical disbursements the college denied him.

In the ETSU case, school officials said Briggs was operated on without their permission.
Briggs sprained an ankle during a 1970 basketball scrimmage at ETSU. He was operated on while at home in Miami during the Christmas holidays. ETSU officials said they wanted a doctor they designated to examine him.

HOUSTON (AP) — About 1,000 members of Houston's firefighters union met in a closed session Monday night to discuss and vote on a proposed compromise on the city's civil service laws.
Results of the vote were to be kept secret until Wednesday, when the two police unions were to cast their ballots.

A citizens' group to temporarily suspend its petition drive to force an Aug. 14 referendum on the matter.
Mayor Kathy Whitmire had proposed to take the police and firefighters out of the state civil service system and place them under a locally controlled system. Mrs. Whitmire argued that the state system prevented department administrators from choosing their staffs.

Bill Wright, coordinator for Citizens for Local Civil Service, said the drive would resume Thursday morning if the tentative agreement was rejected.

Frederic Briggs of Miami, Fla., and his father, James Briggs, sued the ETSU, and its trainer and basketball coach 11 years ago when the college refused to pay for surgery on an ankle he injured in basketball practice.
The justices said Monday they will study a legal challenge filed by legal aid lawyers on behalf of Roberto

Personal Income Averages from the 1980 Census

American families are better off than they were 10 years ago, but some are a lot better off than others, according to a preliminary sampling of data from the 1980 Census. Families of Asian origin topped the list both in income and education, with the highest percentage of high school graduates. Families are getting to be smaller and those headed by women are especially hard hit by poverty. Some 27.5 million Americans were living at or below the poverty level at the time of the Census. The data comes from long forms containing detailed social and economic questions that were distributed to one out of every five households in the nationwide population count.

Ranch Heir Awarded $2 Million Settlement

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A lawyer who represented a great-grandson of King Ranch founder Capt. Richard King says he hopes the end of a federal court suit will help restore good relations among the King descendants.

A federal court jury has ordered the King Ranch to pay $2 million to B.K. Johnson, who had filed a suit asking for 30 times that amount. He claimed his relatives and family owed him that amount as a share of a $158 million settlement that King Ranch Inc. reached with the Exxon Corp. over oil and gas royalties.

Cecil Munn of Fort Worth, who represented Johnson, said he was satisfied with the verdict after it was returned here Saturday. He said the amount of money was unimportant to either side.

"They can spill more than that," Munn said. "I hope the people interested in the future welfare of the King Ranch and the Johnson family will both be able to see the good in this and re-establish harmonious relationships," Munn said.

Johnson contended in the suit that he did not receive everything to which he was entitled in 1976 when he sold his 12 per cent share of the 825,000-acre ranch in South Texas for $70 million. He claimed that ranch officials did not tell him at that time that the ranch was pressing Exxon Corp. for additional royalty fees the ranch sought.

He said this involved violation of federal security transaction laws that require full disclosure of such matters before stock sales. Ranch officials denied that claim.

WHO AM I?

My real name is H. Carabina. I have an Italian, French and Romanian heritage. I grew up in St. Louis, where I became famous. That was after jobs in Joliet, Ill., and Kalamazoo, Mich. My trademark is: "Holy cow!"

ANSWER: HARRY CARRY, who is now the play-by-play announcer for the Chicago Cubs on WGN. He broadcast St. Louis Cardinals baseball games for 25 years.

(c) 1982 NEA, Inc.

Owners of the huge ranch contended that Johnson was paid an inflated amount for his share because he had become a "dissident stockholder" and payment of the inflated sum was worthwhile since they could get rid of him that way.

Johnson, a prominent San Antonio businessman, said he decided to sell his share of the ranch in 1974 when the board of directors did not choose him to run the ranch.

Ranch lawyers argued during the trial that Johnson filed the suit only after discovering that the ranch was prospering without him. He denied that accusation, saying he did not sell his interest in the ranch because he believed it was a "sinking ship."

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A condemned prisoner who said he has asked his lawyer not to appeal his murder conviction any further is scheduled to die by lethal injection on July 23.

State District Judge George Dowlen scheduled the execution for Charles F. Rumbaugh, who was convicted of killing an Amarillo jeweler seven years ago.

Dowlen also denied a defense motion Monday requesting him to order Rumbaugh examined by a court-appointed psychiatrist to ensure he is sane.

Rumbaugh, in a June 11 letter to Dowlen, said he planned no further appeals and asked the judge to schedule the execution date "without further delay."

"...The poised sword of justice demands that a date be set or appointed for it to strike with the awesome weight of the State of Texas and jurisprudence behind it," Rumbaugh said in the letter.

Potter County District Attorney Danny Hill said Rumbaugh still could appeal to federal courts.

But if he does not, the American Civil Liberties

Union probably will intervene and ask that the execution be stayed, Texas ACLU director John Duncan said.

Rumbaugh, who turns 25 Wednesday, was convicted of robbing and murdering Michael Fiorillo, 58.

D.J. Day Stubben, who wrote a book about Rumbaugh and who joined three deputies in escorting him to comment about Dowlen's decision Monday.

Rumbaugh's father, mother, aunt and two nieces, who all sat on the front row of the courtroom during the proceedings, wept quietly as Rumbaugh was returned to the Potter County Jail.

Rumbaugh was convicted twice of the murder. The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals overturned his 1976 conviction but a second jury convicted him in 1980.

"I would respectfully remind this honorable court that two duly empaneled juries... convicted me of... capital murder and determined that there exists a probability that I would commit future crimes of violence that would constitute a continuing threat to society," Rumbaugh said in the letter written from death row.

"In short," wrote Rumbaugh, "I perceive that these two juries determined that I am a defective humanoid who must be eliminated because I allegedly possess some sort of defect which might cause me to run amok and do all manner of strange things should I ever be released upon society."

Anne Delighted With Nephew

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — England's Princess Anne, expressing delight at the news she had become an aunt, today was resuming a tour of New Mexico, with scheduled stops at two of the state's Indian pueblos.

The princess received news of the birth of a son to her brother, Prince Charles and sister-in-law, Lady Diane, shortly after her arrival in the New Mexico capital city Monday.

"The princess is delighted and has already sent her congratulations to London," said Richard Tallboy, consul general of Her Majesty's British Consulate-General's office in Houston, who is traveling with the royal party in New Mexico.

During brief exchanges with well-wishers, the princess asked what they knew about the birth of the future heir of the English throne.

Helen Mann of the consulate-general's office said the birth would not cause any change in Princess Anne's plans.

She planned to visit the San Ildefonso and Taos pueblos today with members of the Save the Children organization in New Mexico.

Much of the princess' time in Santa Fe Monday was spent in private receptions and dinners, although she did make a brief stop at the Greer Garson Theater Center at the College of Santa Fe.

The London-based National Theater of Great Britain, of which Queen Elizabeth II is a patron, is to perform at the theater July 16 to Aug. 1.

Gov. Bruce King held an invitation-only reception for the princess at the Palace of the Governors Monday afternoon and a dinner in the evening at the governor's residence.

News reporters were invited on the tour of the pueblos, but were told the princess would give no interviews.

The princess planned to fly to Houston Wednesday morning. She will return to London by commercial airline Thursday evening.

The world's first traffic signal was installed outside the British Houses of Parliament, London, in 1868, decades before the automobile was invented.

Frolovs Celebrate Reunion

By KEITH GAVE Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Soviet emigre Andrei Frolov was still celebrating his reunion with his American wife when they got more good news: fellow Soviet Yuri Balovlenkov may be allowed to leave soon.

"We're thrilled, just thrilled," Lois Becker Frolov said, holding her husband's hand Monday as the couple strolled along the streets of Chicago's Loop. "This makes everything complete."

Frolov, 51, and his wife, 27, fasted separately in Moscow and Chicago for 25 days to pressure immigration authorities to allow him to leave the Soviet Union. On Sunday afternoon, just more than a year since the two were married while she was an exchange student in Moscow, they were reunited.

Early Monday morning, the news came from Moscow that Balovlenkov — perilously weak from a 43-day fast — soon may be permitted to join his American wife and 2-year-old daughter in Baltimore.

"It was very good news," Frolov said. "He was very sick."

Balovlenkov and Frolov were among six Russians who began a protest fast in an effort to get out of the Soviet Union.

Frolov explained why they chose "starvation diplomacy" to highlight their cause.

"A person can say he's going to shoot himself, and when he does, it's over," he said. "But a hunger strike — that's slow suicide."

The couple remained uncertain as to why the Soviets decided to let Frolov leave. And they were unsure which of their tactics — a hunger strike, a law suit, diplomatic pressure, or the accompanying attention from the news media — ultimately gained his release.

"It was probably a combination of many factors," Mrs. Frolov said. "Anyone who has studied Soviet policies knows it is very difficult to explain how the Soviets arrive at their decisions."

Nevertheless, she vowed to continue a suit filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago on May 20 — 10 days after she began her fast.

The suit seeks an injunction barring the Soviet Union from doing business in northern Illinois until her husband was released.

She noted, however, that the suit also seeks $50 million in punitive damages because of the forced separation.

"And that is as viable today as it was when I filed it," she said.

A hearing is scheduled for June 28. She said any money she wins from the case would be turned over to the newly formed National Coalition for Divided Families, to take court action in other cases of divided families.

The Frolovs are staying with her parents in their Chicago home, and had planned Monday to see lawyers, have lunch with friends, shop and begin looking for a place to live.

Frolov, a former free-lance journalist, brought little out of the Soviet Union besides his new camera.

Along their walking tour of the city, the Frolovs stopped to admire a mosaic by the Russian-born painter Marc Chagal.

"It's a very beautiful city," Frolov said looking around. "I am glad to be here."

American General Files Injunction Against NLT

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for the Tennessee-based American General Corp. say officials have informed them of their plans to file preliminary injunctions in four state courts to prevent NLT from acquiring American General stock.

NLT attorneys said Monday the Houston-based American General planned to file the petitions in Washington, D.C., Maryland, Indiana and California state courts to block NLT from acquiring 9.9 percent of American General stock.

In a statement released Monday, NLT said, "The issues raised in these suits appear the same as those in the Federal District Court in Houston, in which the American General application for temporary injunctive relief was denied."

U.S. District Judge Gabriell McDonald refused Friday to block a revised tender offer by NLT. McDonald ruled the Texas firm failed to prove NLT's initial purchase would disrupt the management or policies of American General.

American General filed a notice of appeal with the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals after McDonald's ruling.

American General, which owns more than a dozen insurance companies and has assets of $8 billion, filed suit against NLT, claiming federal securities laws and state insurance statutes had been violated. Similar suits also have been filed in Indiana, California, Washington and Maryland, the spokesman said.

The Nashville-based NLT owns National Life Insurance Co., WSM Inc., Opryland U.S.A., the Grand Ole Opry and has assets of $4 billion.

On May 19, NLT made a tender offer of $50 for each share of American General common stock, up to 51 percent of the outstanding shares. NLT later increased the offer to $55.

NLT also offered $40 for shares of American General junior preferred stock.

But American General directors denounced the revised offer as "unsound, inadequate and of questionable legality" and urged that it be rejected.

An American General offer for NLT stock now is under consideration by various state and federal regulatory agencies. The American General offer, submitted April 15, was for 100 percent of the NLT stock.

American General offered to exchange .8 of a share of its common stock for each share of NLT's outstanding stock or, as an option, a share-for-share exchange of a new American General preferred stock issue guaranteeing a $3.50 annual dividend.

The American General offer was rejected by the NLT board of directors, which then responded with the May 19 offer.

Five Sentenced In 'Copter Scam

DALLAS (AP) — Five men who pleaded guilty in a conspiracy to sell military helicopters to Libya have been sentenced to prison for as long as four years. The judge ordered three of them deported once they are freed.

A grand jury in Dallas indicted a total of seven men March 4 on charges they schemed to sell Libya 15 heavily armed helicopters from Bell Textron Co. near Amarillo. The conspiracy violated provisions of the U.S. code governing exports of war materiel.

U.S. District Judge Robert W. Porter imposed four-year terms on Carl M. Kulungian, owner of an executive search firm in Encino, Calif., and Savario Nuccio, an Italian who lived in the Los Angeles County suburb of Sherman Oaks.

Another Italian, Paolo Marucci, was sentenced to two years in prison; Alfonso Lopez-Quesada of Madrid, Spain, got a one-year sentence.

A fifth defendant, Thomas R. O'Connor of the Los Angeles suburb of Torrance, was sentenced Monday to six months' imprisonment and five years' probation after pleading guilty to the lesser charge of attempting to export war materiel.

Commodities broker Max Field of Los Angeles awaits sentencing on a conspiracy charge. The seventh defendant, Daro Ronca of Italy, remains at large.

Dinosaur Tracks' Quality 'Excellent'

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (AP) — Ken Thayer had a lot of visitors last week, and it's not surprising. He has unearthed about 400 dinosaur tracks whose age is estimated at 100 million years. Since the discovery, the retired U.S. Postal Service employee has hosted a steady stream of scientists and news

Lawyers Deliver Motions to Court

By MACK SISK Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Defense lawyers have challenged key government electronic surveillance evidence and the propriety of a judge to preside in the trial of five people charged in connection with the slaying of a federal judge.

justice and perjury. Mrs. Chagra's attorney, Charles Campion, said Sessions attended Wood's funeral and was instrumental in getting the federal courthouse here named in the slain judge's memory.

Joseph Chagra's lawyer, Billy Ravkind of Dallas, said Sessions should step down to "sanitize subsequent proceedings from any appearance that bias, prejudice, or personal knowledge of feelings coming from outside the record will influence" judgments on the truth of the indictments.

Ravkind and Mrs. Chagra's lawyer, Warren Burnett of Odessa, asked the judge to prevent introduction of evidence gleaned directly or indirectly from "unlawful electronic surveillance" of Joseph Chagra in Houston and Leavenworth, Kan.

Ravkind has contended the government case rises and falls with after-the-fact electronic eavesdropping on the defendants and that it would "tumble like dominoes" if the court rules the tapes inadmissible.

All the attorneys asked the court to dismiss the indictments against their client.

Ravkind contended the indictment against his client should be dropped because Joseph Chagra lacked "specific intent to the offense charged due to excessive use of cocaine."

Harrelson's attorney, Thomas G. Sharpe Jr. of Brownsville, asked the court to identify witnesses hypnotized during the investigation, witnesses who will receive rewards, people who confessed to killing Wood and the judges who approved electronic surveillance.

Jimmy Chagra's attorney, Oscar Goodman of Las Vegas, Nev., has been given until Friday to file motions.

All five defendants earlier asked for a change of venue to move the trial out of Texas on grounds of prejudicial pre-trial news coverage.

Harrelson, Chagra, his wife, Elizabeth, 29, and his brother, Joseph, 35, were indicted for conspiracy to murder the judge and with obstruction of justice. Harrelson's wife, Jo Ann, 41, was indicted for obstruction of reporters to his hillside property near Canyon Lake northwest of New Braunfels.

The site is probably as big as any in the United States, says Dr. A.L. Barrier, a surgeon and amateur paleontologist who joined a Texas Lutheran College team from Seguin making plaster casts of the tracks this past weekend.

"There are other sites around the country with multiple tracks," Barrier said. "The quality of these are just excellent. We're going to call the Smithsonian Institute in Washington to send someone down. They keep data on these things."

"I think they'll come," he added. "They can do some hard-nosed analysis."

Thayer had part of the hillside bulldozed and leveled off about a year ago to make room for some trailers and a septic tank. But his bulldozer operator got through five feet of dirt and hit the rock.

"He told me, it's solid, and I didn't want to blast," Thayer said, so he filled in one side and put his septic tank elsewhere.

Only one trailer was there in early June when its tenant, Joe Stellar, began throwing a Frisbee around with a college friend. The Frisbee landed next to a bare patch of rock, and the young man saw the faint outline of a footprint covered with mud.

"Joe, this guy's got dinosaur tracks or something," the young man said.

Thayer recalled that he had noticed the indentations before.

"It was only a matter of time before we'd have realized what they were."

Thayer, his sister and her husband, Edith and Les Smith, cleared the area with a water hose and bristle brush.

Some tracks were three inches deep, others were barely visible even without the cleaning. The largest was 19 by 23 inches in size. Some were three-toed, others were rounded like an irregular elephants hoof.

Dr. Juann Langston, a research scientist and paleontologist from the University of Texas at Austin, went to the site and estimated the prints came from the Lower Cretaceous epoch, which would 100 million years old.

There are also two human shaped footprints which Thayer and Langston argued over last week.

Langston told him the rock layer was older than the human race, but Thayer was adamant. "Don't they look human to you, that's where his big toe was. Look this one's a right foot and that one's a left. My theory is that's a human footprint," he said.

The prints disappeared into the embankment on one side of the flat area, and Thayer is thinking about digging further to see how far they go. He estimated he would have to move two million cubic yards of earth and gravel over an 11-acre area.

Barrier said the large tracks could be those of a brontosaurus, one of the largest land animals ever to walk the earth.

The tracks go in different directions and come in all sizes. Small holes from 1 to 4 inches in diameter, and as deep as 3 inches, dot the rock here and there. A shallow trough, with little ridges in it, snakes across the track area for several yards.

Barrier thinks it may have been formed by a tail dragging in the mud, but "it could easily have been other things."

As to the find, Barrier said Thayer was lucky. "He could have dug the whole thing up and not have known about it. Another inch of the bulldozer blade and it would have all been lost."

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The rich just keep getting richer—or so it seemed in Houston recently when Gov. Bill Clements set a new record for raising the most money at a single fundraiser.

The Republican governor, who is seeking his second four-year term, took in $3.5 million at his $1,000-per-plate shindig that was attended by not only President Ronald Reagan but former President Gerald Ford and three former Texas governors.

Clements broke his own previous record of $2.9 million in campaign loot gathered in one event.

The Dallas Republican probably will put every cent of the $3.5 million to good use since he is expected to spend some $10 million in his re-election bid.

Among the 3,200 persons in attendance were former

Texas governors Allan Shivers, John Connally and Preston Smith, all of whom have endorsed Clements for re-election.

And while the Republicans were enjoying champagne, Texas Democrats were feasting on hotdogs and beer at a cross town gathering that was not quite as auspicious as the GOP gathering.

The $5-per-person Democratic affair was organized by Harris County Democrats in order to point out some of the differences between the two parties.

While President Reagan tried to convince the Republicans that his economic program isn't to blame for the current recession, the Democrats were hearing Harris County Commissioner Squatty Lyons explain his longevity in office.

Lady Justice

Texas will have its first woman holding a permanent position on the state Supreme Court—at least for six months.

Gov. Clements has appointed Houston Judge Ruby Sondock to fill the Supreme Court vacancy left when Justice James Denton died of a heart attack.

The only other time a woman has served on the high court was in the 1920s when Gov. Pat Neff appointed three women to hear a single case in which the members of the all-male court had disqualified themselves.

Sondock will serve until January, when the remainder of Denton's term expires.

Denton had won re-election to the court by beating fellow Democrat Bill Kilgarlin in the May 1 primary. There is no Republican in the race.

The state Democratic organization will now pick a nominee to replace Denton on the ballot, and that nominee is expected to be Kilgarlin.

Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle congratulated Sondock, a Democrat, on her appointment, and said he was "not surprised by Gov. Clements' sudden sensitivity to women since he is running for re-election."

However, Slagle let Clements know that the Democrats plan to pick their own candidate.

Bell Rate Hike

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has announced it is prepared to ask for another rate hike from the Public Utility Commission.

Those who thought Bell just raised their rates are right. The PUC granted a $244 million rate hike for Bell last year.

But that increase, the company says, just wasn't enough. This year's request is expected to be roughly equal to what the company sought in 1981—$470 million.

The increase, which will be officially filed soon, will be the sixth sought by the telephone company in as many years.

The proposal will seek to increase rates for local service without affecting long distance charges.

Allen Education

The U.S. Supreme Court has struck down the Texas law allowing local school districts to charge tuition to children of illegal aliens, and some officials are predicting the ruling could result in $50 to $60 million in additional costs.

Officials of school districts along the Texas-Mexico border in South and West Texas say they fear that the court decision, coupled with the current poor economic condition south of the border, could result in a new wave of illegal aliens coming to Texas.

Some officials have said as many as 30,000 students could be added to the school roles because of the ruling. Other officials, including

U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen and Texas Attorney General Mark White, have indicated that, if the federal government thinks those children should have a free education, the federal government should pick up the tab for it.

Spokesmen for Mexican-American groups, on the otherhand, say they are "very happy and ecstatic" over the decision.

Border Dispute

Another U.S. high court ruling has stirred little debate.

The court recently decided that the border between Texas and Oklahoma should stay where it has always been—the south bank of the Red River.

It had been suggested that the boundary be changed at Lake Texoma, which is located on the Red River, so that the Texas boundary would be the south shore of the lake.

However, Texans weren't willing to give up that small bit of land, even though it's covered with water.

A FISHY PROBLEM

AUSTIN — There aren't enough fish in Mackenzie Reservoir. Despite all the clean, blue water in that lake, the fishing could be better.

Some biologists from the Parks and Wildlife Department say the lake isn't fertile. That may be so, but it seems strange that there are plenty of shad (baitfish) in the lake.

The problem, according to the Parks and Wildlife Department, is that the lake is so clear and deep. The best habitat for most game fish is 15 feet deep or less, with lots of vegetation. Mackenzie is short on both these properties.

Even so, the state should not give up on this lake. The people who fish this lake buy the same fishing license all other Texans buy, and they are entitled to all the state services the other fishermen get.

Parks and Wildlife seems to agree. Since 1975, the department has put about 6 million fish into the lake, including smallmouth bass, rainbow trout, brown trout, channel catfish, walleyes, blue catfish, flathead catfish, hybrid stripers (bass) and Florida bass. The agency has used a standard formula to stock the lake, stocking a certain number of fish per acre.

Even if Mackenzie cannot support large quantities of gamefish right now, there are other ways to keep fish in the lake. One is the "put and take" method that works like inventory in a store. The department puts in about as many fish as the fishermen take out. Parks and Wildlife has been using this method with hybrid stripers. The next stocking of the fish should be next year.

One of the unfortunate things about stocking fish is the time it takes for the fish to grow up after they are introduced into the lake. This long lead time makes it difficult to judge how well the new fish are doing in the lake. Despite the lead time required, Parks and Wildlife biologists are hopeful the hybrid stripers will flourish.

Long-term plans for the lake include some floating structures in the middle of the lake to give the fish some shade and protection. These structures will encourage the fish population.

Parks and Wildlife's position on Mackenzie Reservoir seems to be that it will not be easy to improve the fishing there, but it's worth a try. We will be encouraging Parks and Wildlife to try whatever it takes to give people who live near and visit Mackenzie Reservoir a good fishing lake. They deserve it.

We have many sportsmen in our district. Many of you probably have some ideas about how the Parks and Wildlife Department could improve hunting or fishing in your area. We would like to hear from you. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711, and we will pass your suggestions along to the proper people.

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — A man said his son and neighbor were sickened by drifting insecticide, a rancher contended he lost six calves to the poison and a government inspector testified she saw farmworkers sprayed by a crop duster.

The three were among dozens of witnesses who testified Monday before a legislative subcommittee looking into the use and possible misuse of pesticides.

Floyd Zahn said he lost six calves on his ranch near Corpus Christi because his cows were poisoned by chemicals sprayed nearby to defoliate a cotton field.

More than 300 miles away in the East Texas community of Kirbyville, Danny Elder this year saw his neighbor and then his own son become ill after a pesticide was sprayed over the nearby state forest.

Norma Adams, a wage inspector with the U.S. Department of Labor, says she was interviewing farmworkers in a cabbage field near Harlingen when a crop duster passed over twice and some spray drifted onto her and the workers.

Chairman Rene Oliveira, D-Brownsville, said the panel was not out to ban pesticides but to discover if existing safety regulations are adequate.

"I think everyone here acknowledges that farmers are dependent on pesticides to grow their crops," Oliveira said.

Much of the testimony concerned chemicals sprayed in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, a four-county area with extensive crops of cotton, grain and vegetables.

"I think even the crudest estimates say that 25 to 35 percent of all pesticides used in the state are used in this area (the Valley)," said Tony Mollhagen, director of the Texas Tech University pesticide laboratory in San Benito.

Mollhagen said his lab documents perhaps a dozen acute, one-time cases of pesticide poisoning each year. These involve chemical overexposure to applicators, farm laborers and individuals living near sprayed fields.

A more difficult problem is discovering the long term effects of pesticide exposure, he added.

Several witnesses complained of aerially sprayed chemicals drifting from their target fields into neighborhoods.

"Drift is a problem and we recognize this. The smaller the particle size of the chemical, the better control of insects. But the smaller particles will drift more," said Charles Allen, entomologist with Texas A&M University extension service in Weslaco.

Farmers cannot afford to wait until the prevalent southeast wind calms down to spray their field, said one Cameron County cotton farmer.

"These insect problems sometimes develop overnight," said Mark Wick. "If I wait for a day when it's going to be calm, I may lose my crop. I wish there was an easy solution to this problem. But if we're going to continue to have food and fiber in this country, we're going to have to have pesticides or something to take their place to control crop-eating insects."

The use of cottonseed oil instead of water as a spray base has cut down drift problems, said Ron King, chemical manager of the Valley Co-Op Oil Mill in Harlingen.

In addition, a line of synthetic pesticides called pyrethroids is gaining use, King said. These chemicals are safer than the organophosphates now prevalent, are less expensive and generally need fewer applications, he added.

Satellite-to-Home Broadcasting Coming

By NORMAN BLACK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission is poised to push television toward a new future this week, one in which the magic of receiving programs from 22,300 miles in space will become commonplace for the average viewer.

The technology is known as satellite-to-home broadcasting, or Direct Broadcast Satellites (DBS). As its name implies, a DBS system cuts out the middleman transmission role of a local TV station or cable system by providing programming directly to individual viewers throughout the country.

The idea of such service has proven controversial. But if the FCC accepts the recommendations of its staff, it will vote Wednesday to establish ground rules for satellite-to-home broadcasting.

The FCC has already accepted nine applications to build DBS systems and Wednesday's vote could clear the way for conditional approval of those applications. Final approval, however, must await the results of a 1983 international conference that will decide the number of frequencies and satellite orbital positions available to the United States.

If the current timetable is followed, the commission estimates the first DBS systems could become operational in late 1985 or 1986.

The process of providing programs directly from an orbiting satellite to the home depends on special high-power satellites that can beam a signal to the earth with so much intensity that very small antennas can be used.

The DBS applicants — led by the Satellite Television Corp. (STC), a subsidiary of the Communications Satellite Corp. which filed the first application in December 1980 — say they can build satellites with enough power to allow the use of antennas only 2½ feet in diameter.

Such an antenna could easily be installed on the roof of a home, allowing a consumer to receive programming directly from the satellite.

STC has been joined by a number of other huge communication companies as well as some smaller firms in applying for a direct broadcast license. The stakes for each applicant are huge, with the ultimate cost of developing a nationwide system expected to total as much as $1 billion.

Besides STC, the applicants include CBS; RCA; Western Union; the U.S. Satellite Broadcasting Co., a subsidiary of Hubbard Broadcasting; the Graphic Scanning Corp.; the Direct Broadcast Satellite Corp., and Video Satellite Systems Inc. The ninth applicant, Focus Broadcast Satellite Co., wants to offer DBS service by using the satellite of another firm instead of building its own system.

Each of the applicants has proposed a different type of service. Some intend to program each of their three-to-six channels themselves; others propose to lease time to interested programmers. Some propose a subscription service, charging a monthly fee of consumers, while others foresee an advertiser-supported service.

CBS, on the other hand, wants to use direct broadcast to develop a new technology known as high-definition television. High-definition would allow the transmission of a TV picture so sharp and clear it would rival that of a motion picture in a movie theater.

Existing television sets could not display a high-definition picture, however, and the FCC has so far refused to accept the network's position that the satellite systems be reserved exclusively for high-definition.

Each of these proposals presents a policy issue for the FCC. Should direct broadcast operators be treated as regular broadcasters, facing requirements to provide minimum amounts of news and information programming? And however they're regulated, what effect will DBS systems have on existing broadcasters?

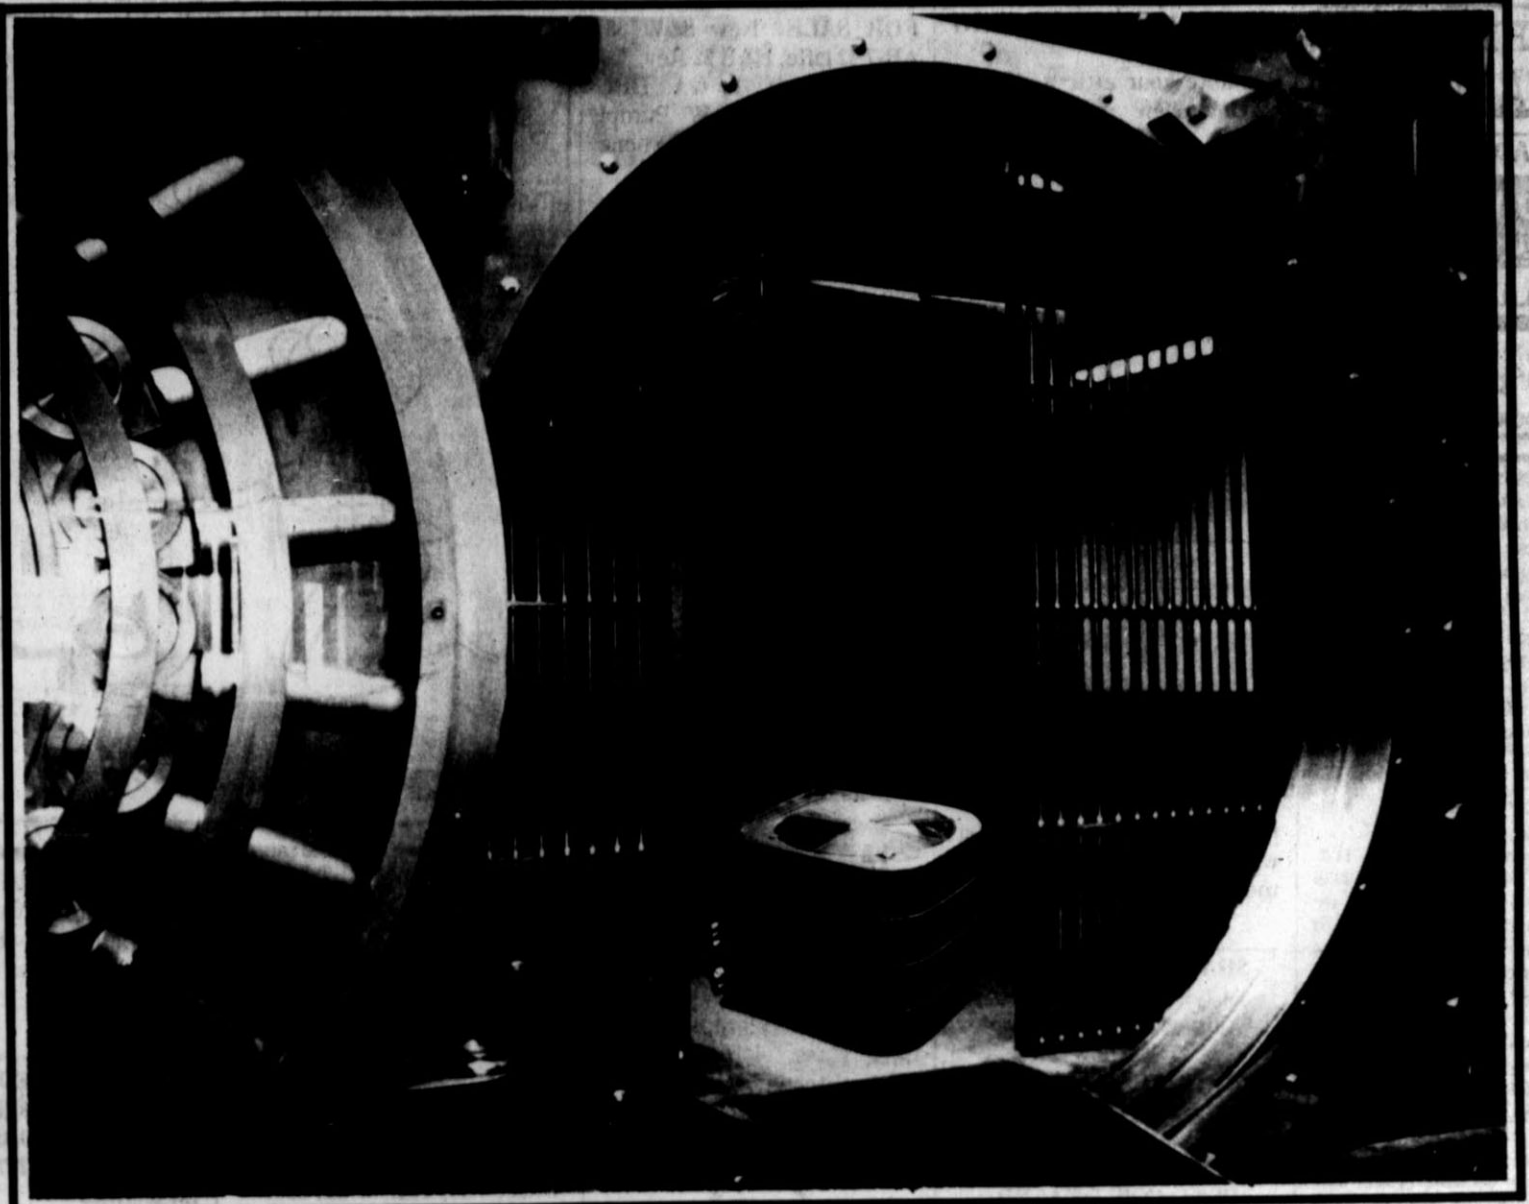

And what should be done about the estimated 1,400 to 1,800 radio systems that now rely on the frequencies that would be used by DBS systems? Those private radio systems are used by railroads, electrical utilities, manufacturers, local governments and even publishers who transmit newspaper pages to satellite printing plants.

The National Association of Broadcasters (NAB), that industry's largest trade group, argues only Congress can establish ground rules for satellite-to-home broadcasting. It maintains the entire system of American broadcasting is jeopardized by direct broadcast service, because an operator will have no burden of serving the specific needs of a local audience.

The FCC has already rejected that view once, stating in a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking issued in April 1981: "We believe that authorization of a DBS system would not conflict with the commission's longstanding commitment to local broadcasting."

"Direct broadcast satellites promise to offer valuable services by providing several additional channels of video programming throughout the country," the FCC continued. "In many areas, particularly rural ones, they would offer the only good-quality video reception and might offer the only pay video service."
