

Congress extends farm credit

Veto threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has moved to extend credit to struggling farmers just in time for spring planting, but the White House says the proposal is too expensive and will likely be vetoed.

Both the House and Senate on Wednesday passed separate legislation offering various forms of credit relief to farmers having trouble getting operating money this spring. They include interest rate subsidies and loan guarantees and advances — all opposed by President Reagan as unnecessary.

Backers of the credit-aid moves, mostly Democrats and farm-state Republicans, hailed the moves as a way to keep farmers caught in a credit pinch alive for at least another year. But Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., said the action signaled a breakdown in budget discipline early in a year when Congress is grasping for ways to reduce the federal budget deficit.

"We haven't demonstrated we're willing to face up to the deficit," Dole told senators. "We're adding a billion-plus (dollars) to our problem."

Dole vowed that the credit legislation is "never going to become law," and that was backed up by a threat from deputy White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, who said: "In all likelihood, we'll veto" if the measure reaches Reagan in its present form.

The GOP-dominated Senate slipped from the control of its leaders and approved the credit help 62-35 under the pressure of the mounting problems in rural America. Many producers, particularly highly leveraged farmers in the Midwestern grain belt, have found themselves unable to get planting loans as the value of their land and crops have plummeted.

Senators first passed, 54-45, a measure that would provide $100 million to "buy down" interest rates for farmers whose income is unable to meet payments on a loan at market rates. Commercial lenders would match the interest subsidy to bring down interest rates as much as four percentage points.

Young Farmer of Year

The Hereford Lions Club recognized Frankie Bezner as its "Young Farmer of the Year" during the club meeting Wednesday at the Community Center. Bezner and his wife, Jeri, are shown as he was presented a plaque by Lion Donald Hicks. The Lions' ag committee, headed by Hicks and Virgil Walker, sponsor the award.

Bezner Lions' farm honoree

Frank Bezner Jr. was named as the Hereford Lions Club's "Young Farmer of the Year" during a special presentation Wednesday in the Community Center.

Bezner and his wife, Jeri, were presented with a plaque by Donald Hicks, chairman of the Lions' selection committee. A native of Hereford, Bezner graduated from Hereford High School in 1972 and attended West Texas State University.

Bezner returned to the family farm in the fall of 1975. He had grown

Hidden Fire

Hereford Firemen explored inside and outside of an apartment at 117 Lawton Wednesday to check for fire caused by a broken gas line. The line broke on a bathroom wall heater and a wall contained the smoke and fire. Residents smelled smoke in the second floor apartment and called the firemen. The apartment suffered a scorched wall and some water damage.

vegetables, cotton, grain sorghum, sugar beets and corn. He is presently farming more than 1,200 acres and runs about 300 head of heifers.

A lifelong member of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, he is involved in many activities to help support the school. He and his wife teach a dating and marriage class for high school seniors at the church. They have three children—Rachel, 6, Jacquelyn, 5, and Trey, 2.

During the Lions' regular weekly meeting Wednesday, District Gov. Hal Oschner of Amarillo paid his official annual visit and stressed the areas of service available to all Lions. The club also passed a resolution to submit Rocky Lee's name as a candidate for district governor at the summer convention April 19-20.

B.J. Gilliland, president, announced the club netted approximately $2,700 on the Lions' auction last Friday. The pancake supper was a success, reported Gilliland, but all ticket sales have not been reported as yet. W.H. Andrews and Cawthon Bryant were recognized as top ticket-sellers with 320 and 100, respectively.

'Difficult' water bill clears state Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — A water package described as a "difficult" and "delicate" balance among conflicting interests has cleared the Senate, which reversed itself on a key environmental vote that could cause problems in the House.

Legislators have predicted from the beginning that a far-reaching statewide water effort could only be resolved in a conference committee dedicated to a compromise.

The Senate on Wednesday approved two proposals described by Sen. John Montford as "probably the most comprehensive water program that has been attempted in virtually any state in the United States."

A proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize the sale of $1.2 billion in bonds was approved 28-1, and the Senate voted 29-1 for Montford's bill to carry out a statewide water program.

Bond proceeds would be used for water development, water quality and flood control. The Senate proposal includes a $5 million pilot program for irrigation conservation that could be expanded into a $200 million loan program for farmers.

The proposed constitutional amendment and bill both go back to the House, which approved an $800 million addition to the Texas Water Development Fund, plus a $250 million bond guarantee program. Montford, D-Lubbock, noted that the Senate proposal omitted the bond guarantee.

If the Legislature approves the proposed constitutional amendment, it would be submitted to the voters at a statewide election in November.

Sen. John Sharp, D-Victoria, cast the lone "no" vote against both measures. He said, "I've got a bunch of folks in my district not interested in regulating ground water — rice farmers."

The Senate on a 27-3 vote adopted an amendment that would authorize the state to regulate underground water in areas designated as "critical" if voters in that area refuse to set up a district to protect the wafer. The House bill has no such provision.

"It's a hot potato in my district," said Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville. "I'm going to have a lot of problems with that."

What the Sierra Club called "two crucial tests" on protection of the coastal environment were approved by the Senate but it took two votes to clear one of the amendments.

Sen. Carlos Truan offered an amendment that would require the state to "maintain the productivity of the bay or estuary system" rather than "a productive habitat in the bay or estuary system."

The Senate voted 15-15 on Montford's motion to reject the proposed amendment, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby broke the tie, 16-15, which defeated it.

The amendment is expected to remain controversial in the House.

Tonight's hearing lengthened

Testimony was to begin at 4 p.m. today during Department of Energy sponsored public hearings on the possibility of burying radioactive nuclear waste in the Texas Panhandle.

A full slate of citizens and governmental officials was expected to testify at the hearing in the Hereford High School Auditorium. The session was scheduled to end at 9 p.m., but there were indications this week that the testimony might be extended as much as one hour.

Reinauer joins race

Joe Reinauer Jr. has filed for city commission Place 1, a position he has held since appointed in August.

Reinauer was appointed August 6 to complete the term held by Melvin Jayroe, who moved to Amarillo. He was sworn into office Aug. 20.

He has served on the city's zoning commission for four years and is the owner of Deaf Smith County Abstract. He also has farming and ranching interests. He was also appointed to serve on the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District board of directors.

Reinauer said he filed simply to make himself available for the job as part of his civic responsibility.

The controversy over the Texas Rural Legal Aid office in Hereford continues with U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm reporting Wednesday that he will "support vigorously" a cutoff of funds for federal legal services for the poor.

Gramm declared that he had "seen enough data on legal services...in many cases it has abridged its mandate" of serving the poor and instead has undertaken a campaign on behalf of social issues.

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest Tuesday had issued a statement calling for a more complete investigation of the Hereford operations of TRLA. He wrote the Legal Services office of compliance and review and said the "situation in Hereford needs immediate attention."

Combest's request came after he reviewed a report filed by Wendell Wylie, an investigator with the office of compliance and review. Combest wants the office defunded if an investigation confirms Wylie's report.

David Hall, head of the state's TRLA operations, claimed Wylie's allegations were unfounded and demanded an apology from LSC. However, Joel Thimell, an LSC official, announced there would be no retraction.

As the situation now stands, it appears there will be further investigation of the alleged abuses at the Hereford TRLA office.

Slayings may be drug related

CONROE, Texas (AP) — The Montgomery County sheriff has asked the Texas Rangers to help investigate the shooting deaths of a popular folk singer and his booking agent-girlfriend.

Sheriff Joe Corley says he asked for the help because he believes the deaths of John Duncan Vandiver, 39, and Debra Lynn Davis, 32, may be related to the activities of a drug ring.

The victims were found dead in Vandiver's home near Magnolia last Friday. Both victims had been shot repeatedly and Ms. Davis' throat was slashed.

Corley said he is asking Texas Rangers for assistance even though his investigators are "making good progress. We believe we're on the right track, but we have no definite suspects now."

No arrests have been made in the slayings, Corley said in a news conference Wednesday.

The sheriff said a different-caliber weapon was used on each victim, leading authorities to believe more than one assailant was involved in the killings.

Corley said the motive for the killings was probably the result of a "drug deal that went bad."

Investigators searching the singer's home found 236 grams of cocaine, two 30-pound bales of marijuana and $13,000, Corley said. The sheriff estimated the street value of the drugs to be about $100,000.

Corley also said law enforcement officers have intercepted $28,000 from a man allegedly delivering drugs for Vandiver in Denver. Vandiver may have been a middleman in a cross-country drug network stretching from Miami to Denver, Corley said.

Revised Blue law repeal offered

AUSTIN (AP) — Two lawmakers thought they had a Blue Law bill that would appeal even to Texas automobile dealers.

But a spokesman for the dealers says they were wrong. Reps. Hugo Berlanga and David Cain planned to file a bill today that would allow all stores — except auto dealers — to open on Sundays.

The Texas Auto Dealers Association long has fought to preserve the Blue Law that effectively closes most stores on Sundays.

Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, said Wednesday he thought the measure gives the auto dealers what they want, a law that would bar auto sales on Sundays.

But TADA lobbyist Tom Blanton called the bill written by Berlanga and Cain, D-Dallas, a "terrible idea."

"Anytime you carve out small areas of the business community for any reason it's not good," he said. "The reasons we have the law are good and they apply to everyone. This would leave us out there isolated, and I don't know that that's a good place for us to be."

TADA supports a "cleaning up" of the current law that would allow stores now opened on Sundays to sell everything they offer. The current Blue Law bars the sale of 42 items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays. That sometimes makes it difficult for supermarkets and convenience stores to determine what they can legally sell on Sunday.

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Vice President George Bush said nothing about a tax reform plan denounced by oilmen but had words of encouragement for the petroleum industry in a visit to the heart of the West Texas oil patch.

Here Wednesday night to kick off Midland's 100th birthday celebration, Bush called the domestic oil industry "essential to our national security."

"We know that and we're not going to do anything to jeopardize that," the vice president said to heavy applause during his keynote speech at the Midland Centennial kickoff.

Bush planned to travel today to Austin, where he was to address the Legislature and a foreign policy council meeting. Then his schedule called for a stop in Dallas.

Many state officials, including Gov. Mark White, say the "modified flat tax" proposed by the Reagan administration would do away with tax breaks important to the oil industry, especially independents, and destroy the incentive for exploration and drilling.

Earlier this week in Washington, White charged that the tax plan would "destroy" the U.S. energy industry and cost 200,000 jobs in Texas alone.

Bush, himself a former Texas oilman who once lived in Midland, told his audience that the economic growth during the Reagan administration will "protect cities like Midland from future economic swings caused by outside forces."

He acknowledged that the oil industry has been dealt some setbacks during the past few years but said: "We can also be confident that our domestic oil industry will come back strong."

Bush also promoted the administration's newly mounted campaign for a showdown vote on the MX missile.

A vote in Congress against the MX would take away an important bargaining chip at upcoming arms negotiations, he said.

Bush also called on the Soviet Union to join with the United States in a chemical weapons ban.

"The worst thing we could do with our negotiations" that begin March 12 in Geneva, would be to reject a controversial MX missile, Bush said.

"We ought not to make unilateral concessions before we even sit down with the Soviet Union," the vice president said.

Bush said the United States lags behind the Soviet Union in modernizing its nuclear missile force. He called the MX "essential" to the administration's policy of "peace through strength."

He reiterated the administration's resolve to win a vote on the multiple-warhead nuclear missiles next month in Congress.

"It is essential and it's going to be tough, but we're going to fight it in the Congress that we achieve our objective of modernization," said Bush, who last June cast a tie-breaking vote in the Senate to save the missile.

Bush also suggested that the scope of the Geneva talks be expanded to include chemical weapons.

"I think we've got to go that extra mile in working with the Soviet Union to see that we ban — I mean totally ban — chemical weapons from the face of the Earth."

Researcher finds asbestos in lungs of infants

CHICAGO (AP) — Asbestos has been found in the lungs of infants less than 10 months old, suggesting that the flame-retardant mineral fiber linked with lung cancer is "probably everywhere," a researcher says.

"Nobody had ever looked at (possible asbestos exposure in) either children or infants," said Dr. Abida K. Haque, a pathologist at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

"I started looking at ones that had died of various diseases," Ms. Haque said in a telephone interview Wednesday. "I was surprised that in the first one I looked at, I found a few asbestos bodies."

Asbestos bodies are microscopic fragments of asbestos that become coated with iron and proteins after they lodge in the lung. Over several years, they give rise to fibrous tissue that displaces lung tissue and reduces breathing capacity. Researchers believe prolonged exposure can cause lung cancer.

Concentrations of asbestos bodies in some infants were comparable with those in some adult lung-cancer patients, Ms. Haque and her colleagues said in a report in the March issue of the American Medical Association's Archives of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine.

"The number (of asbestos bodies) I found was really small," Ms. Haque said. "What I was concerned about was the duration of exposure — being exposed when they are small ... what effect it might have when they are 20 or 30."

The study was based on 17 autopsies on infants ranging in age from 2½ months to 10 months. Ten had died from sudden infant death syndrome and seven had died from pneumonia, skin infections, meningitis and other diseases.

Ms. Haque cautioned that the Galveston study was "very preliminary" and that at least 50 to 100 more infants will have to be studied to determine whether the findings are meaningful.

The infants might have been exposed to asbestos sprayed on ceilings, used in incubator gaskets or found in other sites in the home or hospital, Ms. Haque said.

Hereford parent expresses concern

Mrs. Tom Lange, a Hereford parent who has expressed concern over testing methods, said it was not a teacher who administered the particular test in question, but another educator.

Mrs. Lange, in a special school board meeting last week, referred to a test taken by her kindergarten child on Feb. 15. Mrs. Lange was present for the test and recalled that the test administrator had not gone to the next question after the pupil answered, but kept asking the child if the answer given was positively the correct choice and suggested other answers for the question. The test was the Peabody Picture Vocabulary test.

The parent's inquiry was made known at the school board meeting of Feb. 19. A letter dated Feb. 21 was mailed to Mrs. Lange, warning of serious violations of copyright laws if the testing session had been taped. Mrs. Lange said she did not tape the session and wondered if she was suspect since she does tape portions of school board meetings.

Southland executives saved

NEW YORK (AP) — The statute of limitations saved two top Southland Corp. executives from a bribery conspiracy conviction, according to two of the jurors who convicted one of the men for violating federal securities law.

A federal court jury in Brooklyn Wednesday acquitted Southland Senior Vice President S. Richmond Dole and Clark J. Matthews II, the Dallas-based corporation's chief financial officer, of conspiring to bribe a New York state tax official in 1977 and defrauding the Internal Revenue Service by deducting the bribe money as a business expense.

The same jury, however, found Matthews had violated federal law by failing to tell Southland's shareholders he took part in the alleged conspiracy when he was elected to the corporate board in 1981. Southland operates the nationwide 7-Eleven convenience store chain.

It was the second trial on the charge for Dole. His first trial last June ended in a hung jury.

Lawyers said Wednesday's seemingly inconsistent verdict was based on statute of limitations guidelines set down by U.S. District Judge Charles P. Sifton in his instructions to the jury.

At least two jurors confirmed that in telephone interviews with The Associated Press Wednesday night. The jury deliberated for about 12 hours over two days before reaching its decision.

"The statute of limitations was the determining factor," said Jerome Harris of Holbrook, who said that issue kept the jury of seven men and five women from convicting both men on the first count.

"My own personal feelings are that both defendants were guilty on the first count," said jury foreman Paul Santilli of Hauppauge, who said there was disagreement in the jury room until the panel asked Sifton for a second explanation of the statute of limitations.

"With that, we turned in the verdict of not guilty on count one," he said. "I can rest with the decision I made. It was the right one."

The indictment accused one or both defendants of committing 14 overt acts in furtherance of the bribe scheme between Oct. 1, 1976 and Nov. 24, 1980.

Teenager awake, responsive

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Texas teen-ager who underwent the world's third heart-liver transplant was awake and responsive despite two emergency operations necessitated by oversized donor organs.

"She responded to my voice and tried to talk," a weary JoAnn Cheatham said Wednesday after visiting her daughter, Mary, 17.

Miss Cheatham of Fort Worth improved dramatically after the emergency procedures Tuesday night relieved pressure on her new heart, said liver transplant pioneer Dr. Thomas Starzl.

"It looked like she ... might even die," Tuesday night, Starzl said. "Her blood pressure was too low. The space in which the heart was situated was restricting its activity. It was too small."

Miss Cheatham was in critical but stable condition early today, considered normal for transplant patients, at Presbyterian-University Hospital. The nearly 18-hour transplant operation ended at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Starzl helped perform the world's first heart-liver transplant last February and helped remove Miss Cheatham's new organs from the body of Mark Diggins on Monday at Allegheny General Hospital.

Diggins, 22, a computer operator for Nationwide Insurance Cos. in Columbus, Ohio, died from injuries he received Feb. 18 in a skiing accident at Seven Springs, a resort in Somerset County.

Diggins was "about 35 pounds heavier and three inches taller" than Miss Cheatham, Starzl said.

Starzl said two physicians twice opened Miss Cheatham's chest bone Tuesday night, the second time leaving it open. The organs will shrink to fit the space around them, and doctors then can close the chest bones.

The bill, sponsored by Sens. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and John Melcher, D-Mont., also would earmark an additional $1.85 billion in loan guarantee authority, on top of the $650 million or more set aside by Reagan, and boost the level of guarantees to 90 percent of principal.

The provisions are virtually identical to ideas advanced several weeks ago by the Independent Bankers Association, and Dole and other opponents labeled the amendment a bailout for banks that had made questionable loans. Proponents argued that the health of rural banks is essential to the survival of farmers and small towns.

The Senate also approved, 50-48, legislation to give farmers immediate advances on crop loans that normally would not come until harvest. Both were tacked onto a bill authorizing non-food aid for drought-ravaged areas of Africa, similar to one passed by the House earlier this week. The measure now goes to a House-Senate conference to work out differences.

At the same time, the Democrat-dominated House voted 318-103 for a bill, similar to one of the Senate amendments, offering advances of up to 50 percent of next fall's price-support loans to farmers unable to get loans to plant this spring. That measure, which also boosts money available for loan guarantees by $3 billion, was sponsored by Rep. Tom Daschle, D-S.D.

Unlike the Senate version, Daschle's bill restricts the advance loans to farmers who are unable to find credit through conventional sources.

"I've said many times that my life has been lived on (Highway) 385," Lucile Hughes said. "I've thought lots of thoughts on that road."

Born in Hereford, Hughes taught school for 48 years in towns adjacent to Hwy. 385. With her first teaching assignment in Easter, where she herself first attended school, she also taught in Deaf Smith and Castro Counties before moving to Vega and finally to Dumas. There, she taught for 31 years, retiring in 1975.

"I remember being hired at Flagg," she recalled. "It was during the depression years and jobs were hard to find. There were 40 people trying for only four positions. They hired me at 4 a.m."

Even with such experiences, Hughes said that she always wanted to be a teacher.

"I was raised to be a school teacher. I never wanted to do anything else."

During her years in the classroom, Hughes developed some personal philosophies. She believes that the most important elements in teaching are the personal relationships and the students.

"I think it is most important to teach the students personal values like honesty and for each person to do his part," Hughes said.

"Each child deserves to feel like there is one teacher who put him on the path that is valuable to him," she added.

One of the nicest things Hughes has found as a result of teaching is the contact with her students years later. With all of the rewards, though, she admitted that teaching was a tiring profession.

"It's hard when you are involved every minute from 8 to 5 and then some at night," she said.

When asked how she feels about the success of changes currently affecting extracurricular activities, Hughes was pessimistic.

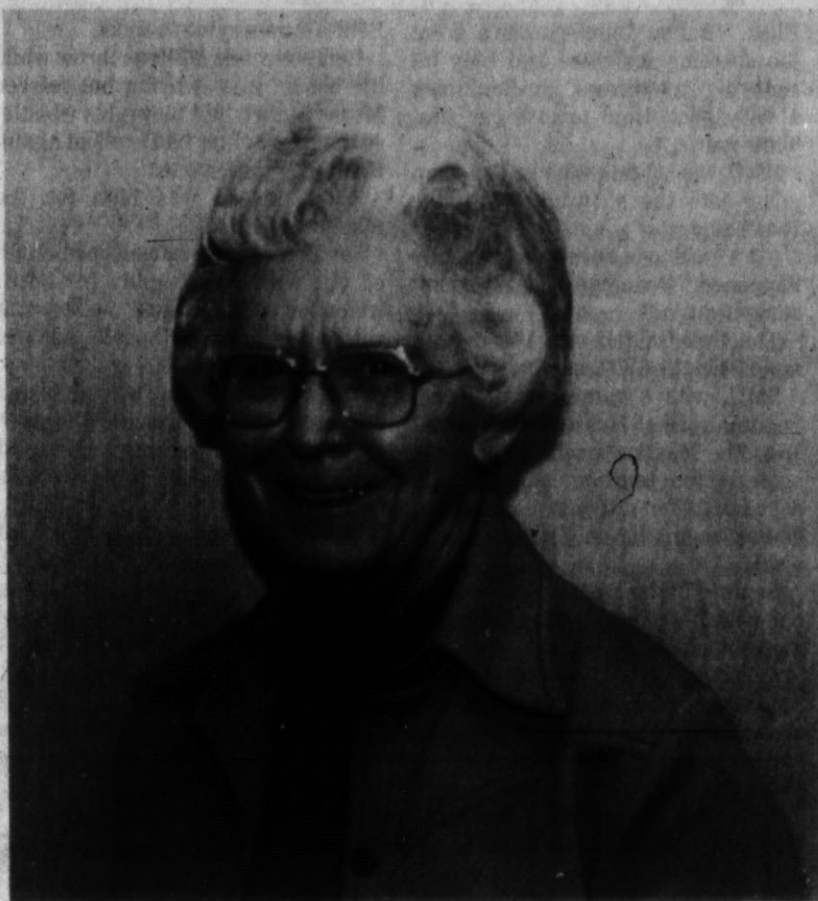

"I think the schools need a better balance between academics and extra activities," she said, "but the cuts which have gone into effect just won't work."

"Kids work better when they can succeed in something," Hughes said, "and sometimes that means doing well in athletics, debate or whatever."

Hughes attended West Texas State University for one year, and then completed the remainder of her degree requirements in the summers and through correspondence.

"I never really got weaned away from Hereford," Hughes laughed. "I always came back here. My sister and I bought a house in 1976, and I came back to stay."

Since returning to Hereford, Hughes has found time to be active in United Methodist Women at First United Methodist Church. She is also president of the Friendship class and treasurer of the Carrie Black circle.

LUCILE HUGHES

She is a member of numerous professional organizations including the Texas State Teachers Association, National Education Association and Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary. She is the recording secretary for the American Association of University Women and is a charter member of the Business and Professional Women's Club in Dumas.

"The nice thing about belonging to large, national organizations," Hughes said, "is getting to know such a large number of people."

"It's also fun to go to the conventions," she added with a twinkle in her eyes.

Her most enjoyable endeavor was helping to establish the Moore County School Federal Credit Union. As president for the first 17 years, she finally "gave it up" in 1977.

The only solely social organization of which Hughes is a member is La Afflatus Estudio Club which originated in the Ward community. Joining with her sister, Aileen Montgomery, Hughes said she most enjoys the association with the other women.

The club, whose name means a group for inspiration and studying, is concerned with the Deaf Smith County Library, Deaf Smith County Museum and the E.B. Black House. Members helped furnish a portion of the money needed to build the gazebo at the Black House.

Returning to Hereford for retirement, Hughes recalled many changes she has seen in the town.

"Everything is much bigger and places that were landmarks are now gone," she reminisced. "Hereford used to raise mainly cattle and wheat. All these vegetables are new

"The biggest change I noticed was at my church," she continued. "So many who were leaders when I was younger are all gone."

With the time she has available since retirement, Hughes continues to read all kinds of novels and magazines. She also has three collections: paper weights, goblets which are replicas of various Early American patterns and Sabina of Paris glass ornaments.

Hughes submitted two recipes she enjoys making.

ORANGE DATE FRUIT SALAD

- 3 oranges, sliced
- 1 can of chunk pineapple, in juice
- 1 C strawberries, sliced
- 1 C snipped, pitted dates
- 2 Tbsp. honey
- 3 tsp. lemon juice

Drain the pineapple. Keep the juice to add if more moisture is needed. Combine oranges, pineapple, strawberries and dates. Add enough of the pineapple juice to the honey and lemon juice to make one-half cup. Pour over the other fruit mixture. Chill in the refrigerator until ready to serve.

COCONUT-ORANGE BALLS

- 1 box powdered sugar
- 1 large box of vanilla wafers, crushed
- 1 stick margarine, melted
- 1-6 oz. can frozen orange juice, thawed
- 1 C chopped pecans
- 1 small package flake coconut

Combine all ingredients except coconut in large bowl and mix well. Shape mixture into small balls and roll them in coconut until well coated. Place in refrigerator if going to keep any length of time.

Council discusses future seminars, trainings

The Extension Homemakers Council met Monday afternoon in the Bull Barn, with Gayle Carter, chairman, presiding over the Appreciation Luncheon.

Following the luncheon, the council met for its regular monthly meeting. Nine clubs were represented, eight of which had 100 percent attendance. The opening exercise was given by Helen Caraway of the Dawn Club. She read Paul Revere's Ride as told by his horse.

All clubs reported that the Standing Rules for 1985, as presented by the committee, had been accepted. It was also reported that there were 125 in attendance at the luncheon during which Carol Odom of Wyche was recognized as the Woman of the Year with Nell Pope of Cultural as runner-up.

Carter extended thanks to all who had helped to make the luncheon a success. Louise Walker, county extension agent, reminded the council members of the upcoming seminars and leader training sessions.

The Adult Sitters Clinic was today and March 7 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the library. Meetings are open to the public. On March 5, the leaders training "Organizing Your Storage" will be presented at 1:30 p.m. at the library by Louise Walker.

"Solar Energy Awareness will be given March 19 at 7 p.m. at the Community Center. Jimmie Walker will be the guest speaker. On March 28, the leaders training by Johnnie Messer on leadership will meet at 1:30 p.m. at the library.

Finally, a short course on home gardening given by Dennis Newton, county agent, will take place April 1 and 15 at 7 p.m. in the Community Center.

Susan Raney, extension agent, reported on 4-H activities. She said that there were 16 demonstrations being prepared to present to the various clubs. These programs will be given by 4-Hers during the weeks of April 22 and 29.

The 4-H clothing seminar has been set for April 20 and the Fashion Show will be June 1.

Leathercraft is a new craft being taught to the 4-Hers. Members of the Pioneer and Horse Club will be working in this craft. Raney also said the 4-H clubs were having dances for the teenagers in order to raise money for their expenses.

The five-year history of Extension club and council work in Deaf Smith County was on display during the luncheon and council meeting.

Visitors to the meetings were Sue Farris, district extension director of home economics, and Hazel Stewart of the Dawn Club.

Mrs. L.A. Ashlock celebrates 105th birthday with party

Lizzie Attaway Burton Ashlock recently celebrated her 105th birthday at Westgate Nursing Home with a party given by her children and grandchildren in Hereford.

Born Feb. 20, 1880, she married James Meredith Ashlock Feb. 4, 1906. They had seven children: Leta Curtsinger, Marie Cornelius, Elsie Russell, Frank, Jimmie, R.C. and Billy.

Moving to Hereford in 1920, the Ashlocks moved to California in 1942. Mrs. Ashlock returned to Hereford 16 years ago and has lived at King' Manor the past four years.

As a young woman, she taught piano lessons and a junior boys Sunday School class. She retired from teaching Sunday School when she was 85 years old. At the age of 89, she wrote a book of her life titled "Family History and Memoirs of Attaway 'Burton' Ashlock."

Her three daughters live in Hereford, and three of her sons reside in California. Mrs. Ashlock has 20 grandchildren at 16 great-grandchildren.

No. 1 loses Wednesday

Hoyas get revenge

By DICK JOYCE

AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest surprise was not that Georgetown beat St. John's, but that All-America Patrick Ewing was able score from the outside.

"He just put a few more dollars in the bank for himself," Lou Carnesecca, coach of top-ranked St. John's, said after No. 2 Georgetown won 85-69 Wednesday night, ending the Redmen's 19-game winning streak.

Ewing, a 7-foot senior who is coveted by the pros because of his intimidating defense and rebounding ability, wound up with 20 points on 10 of 13 shooting from the field, including several sky hooks and outside jumpers.

He also grabbed nine rebounds and blocked six shots as St. John's fell to 24-2, 14-1 in the Big East Conference.

Georgetown, the NCAA defending champion, looked in postseason form as it shot 60 percent from the field in raising its record to 28-2, 13-2 in the league.

Sophomore swingman Reggie Williams, who scored only two points against the Redmen earlier this season, also was a major factor, making nine of 13 from the field and a career-high 25 points, plus grabbing seven rebounds.

Ewing had been averaging 14.3 points with slam dunks and inside play his specialty.

"I was behind him," said Bill Wennington, St. John's 7-0 center. "There were guys in front on him, on the sides on him. We had five guys around him and he still put the ball in."

Hoyas coach John Thompson said early in the game the St. John's defense was "packing it in on Patrick, collapsing back. I told him to circle around outside and take the jump shot. He did just that."

In the previous meeting this season, Ewing scored only nine points as the Redmen hung on for a 66-65 triumph at Landover, Md.

That broke a 29-game winning streak. The Hoyas then lost another to Syracuse, but now have won eight straight.

"We're a much better team than we were before," said Ewing, who added that one of the Hoyas' practice drills includes Ewing shooting from the outside.

Chris Mullin, the 6-6 senior guard who is the leading scorer in St. John's history, scored 21 points on eight of 16 shooting from the field.

But he admittedly worked hard to free himself against the Hoyas' box-and-one defense.

Walter Berry, a 6-8 sophomore, added 16 points and 10 rebounds for the Redmen, who hit 43 percent.

With the pressing Georgetown defense unsettling the Redmen at the start, the Hoyas jumped to a 7-0 lead. Five straight points by Mullin tied it at 22 and Wennington's two free throws gave the Redmen their only advantage at 24-22.

By halftime, St. John's had committed 11 turnovers and trailed 44-33 as Williams and Ewing combined for 25 points.

Outspoken McEnroe hit with fine, wins match

HOUSTON (AP) — John McEnroe was fined $2,500 for "verbal abuse" of his opponent, but scored a 6-4, 6-7 (7-4), 7-5 victory over Wojtek Fibak Wednesday night in the $375,000 World Championship Tennis Houston Shootout.

McEnroe was given a code violation for audible obscenity after a changeover early in the third set. Later in the set, Fibak was given a time violation point penalty that caused him to start the 11th game down 0-15.

At 5-5 in the set, Fibak's time violation came when he went to the sideline saying he had to cut a string on his racket.

The score went to 30-40 and then Fibak lost his serve when he hit a long forehand. McEnroe held in the 12th game, scoring with an ace to make it 40-30 and a took a service winner on match point, two hours and 20 minutes after the match began.

K.V. Johnson of Mount Vernon, Wash., Grand Prix supervisor, announced later that McEnroe had been fined $2,500 for verbal abuse.

Officials would not say what McEnroe said to Fibak, and neither would the players.

"He acts like he's 2 years old," McEnroe said. "He's one of the best if not the best con artist in the game. You don't see people getting penalized for talking to people in other sports."

Fibak said, "He was at his best behavior in the first and second set, and when I was up 1-love in the third" McEnroe got angry. "Then I told the officials I didn't want him to talk to me and he kept talking. It's one of the ways of getting back in the match."

In another night match, Kevin Curran defeated Steve Denton, 6-4, 6-4.

Earlier in second-round play, Mark Dickson upset No. 4 seed Jimmy Arias, 6-3, 4-6, 7-6 (7-4), while 5th seeded Tim Mayotte was downing Mike Bauer, 6-4 6-2.

Shahar Perkiss whipped Terry Moor, 6-7 (5-7), 6-4, 6-4.

Dickson placed four points to take a 4-0 advantage in the third set tiebreaker.

Tech claims SWC co-championship

Raiders punish Ponies, 59-54

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Surprising Texas Tech locked up the No. 1 seed in the Southwest Conference post-season basketball classic on Wednesday night, and the troubled Baylor Bears fought through their frustration to nail down the No. 8 and final spot.

The Red Raiders also earned their first piece of a Southwest Conference title since 1973 with a 59-54 victory over 13th-ranked Southern Methodist. They can win the title outright Saturday in Fort Worth against Texas Christian.

The hero for Tech was reserve Tony Benford, who also killed off the Mustangs in January.

In the other SWC games Wednesday, Baylor ripped Rice 97-78 to knock the Owls out of tournament consideration, Texas Christian nipped Texas 54-52, and Texas A&M beat Houston 81-77.

Benford nailed three clutch free throws in the final 40 seconds to beat the Mustangs.

Benford's 15-foot jump shot in the final three seconds defeated SMU 64-63 in Lubbock in January.

"To be able to come in here and defeat an outstanding team like SMU is just exciting for us," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers.

"Benford did it again with some big free throws at the end. Who would have thought we would be playing in this game for this (the title) at the beginning of the year?"

Myers answered his own question, saying "Nobody thought that we would be here except those guys in there (the team)."

Benford said, "I was hoping it wouldn't come down to this (last second heroics) again, but I was ready."

Bubba Jennings scored 23 points to pace the Red Raiders.

SMU Coach Dave Bliss gave the Red Raiders their dues.

"Right now, they're the best team in the Southwest Conference," said

Bliss. "Bubba Jennings did a great job shooting for them and they hit some big free throws. We didn't pick a very good time to lose our first home game."

SMU was 15-0 in Moody Coliseum going into the showdown with the Red Raiders.

"It's hard to believe this has really happened," Jennings said. "It hasn't sunk in yet."

The Red Raiders are 19-7 overall and 11-4 in the SWC race.

SMU, with a game remaining on Sunday against Houston, is 21-7 and 10-5. The Mustangs will be the No. 2 seed in the tournament, which is scheduled for Reunion Arena in Dallas beginning on Friday of next week.

Benford hit both ends of a one-and-one with 22 seconds to play to put the game out of reach.

An unruly crowd of 9,007 fans in Moody Coliseum pelted the floor with ice and even shook the basket while Benford was trying to shoot.

Benford made one free throw while the basket was swaying but referee Moose Stuben had blown his whistle, so the Red Raider had to shoot again. He made the next one.

Butch Moore was high for the Mustangs with 13.

Seven-foot center Jon Koncak fouled out with 1:27 to play for SMU, which led 54-51 but went the last 4:54 without scoring. Koncak had 10 points and 9 rebounds.

Carl Wright, who was arrested earlier in the day for over $500 worth of speeding and parking tickets, hit only 5 of 16 shots and scored 10 points for the Mustangs.

"I feel the same disappointment that the teams does," said Bliss. "Carl's deal is a personal thing, something that could happen to anyone. I don't think it hurt our effort."

Three of the four SWC games Wednesday night were decided in the final minute. The exception was Baylor's tournament-clinching triumph over Baylor.

Carlos Briggs was the hero of Baylor's win in the battle to see who would go to the tournament and who would stay home. His 41 points gave him 536 points for the season and made him only the eighth player in Baylor history to go over 500 points in a year.

Briggs was also the only player who refused to sign a statement,

Coming off Abilene contest

Hereford hosts tennis tourney

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Teams from Plainview, Canyon, Dumas and Borger invade Hereford Friday for a two-day tennis tournament at the Hereford High School courts.

And the Whitefaces will be mixed in among those groups, Hereford tennis coach Ruben Vargas said Wednesday, hoping to show just how much they've improved since the Abilene Tournament last weekend.

"We need to do well coming off our trip to Abilene," said Vargas of his team, which finished eighth in that competition. "I told our players it would be tough there. But I wanted to get some tough matches early in the year."

Such state-ranked schools as Abilene High were competing in the released Monday by the team, that indicated their backing for former reserve center John Wheeler, who drew unfavorable press after he taped a conversation with Baylor Coach Jim Haller and saw that university officials got it.

"Carlos Briggs obviously picked a great time to show what a great player he is. He played up to his ability tonight," Haller said.

Hereford High School tennis player Lana Kosub barely has to move to return a shot Wednesday in practice at the HHS courts. Kosub and her Whiteface teammates from both boys and girls teams are to be in action Friday and Saturday when Hereford hosts a five-team tournament at the high school.

Nazareth puts streak on line

AUSTIN (AP) — Nazareth brings its 67-game winning streak to Austin today to try to win its eighth girls' state basketball title in the past nine years.

The Swiftettes, 32-0, have not lost since a 38-23 defeat to Sudan on Feb. 26, 1983. Sudan won the state title that year, marking the only time since 1977 that Nazareth did not win the smallest school division.

The Panhandle school opens the 35th annual University Interscholastic League girls' tournament today with a Class A semifinal contest against Snook, 27-4.

Three 1984 state champs — Nazareth, Abernathy and Waco Richfield — are back to defend their titles. Abernathy, 3A champ last year, has dropped to 2A and plays Honey Grove, 29-2, Friday. Waco Richfield, 30-0, plays Fredericksburg, 25-6, in a 4A semifinal today.

Today's other A semifinal matches Priddy, 25-3, vs. Petty West Lamar, 30-3. Today's 3A semifinals feature Sweeney, 36-1, vs. Boerne, 26-5, and Midlothian, 28-1, vs. Vernon, 31-2. Livingston, 26-4, plays Sweetwater, 30-3, in a 4A semifinal today.

Class 2A and 5A semifinals are set for Friday. All finals are Saturday.

This year's Nazareth steamroller is led by 5-foot-10 junior Ramona Heiman, who is averaging about 18 points a game. Nazareth had little trouble in last year's state tournament here, beating Priddy 59-32 and Petty West Lamar 64-32.

The Swiftettes have beaten Abernathy, defending 3A champion, twice this year by scores of 77-40 and 52-40. Nazareth has 96 students, Abernathy has 254.

The 5A semifinals on Friday feature Houston Yates. The Lions are 27-0 this year. Their last loss was a 72-52 decision to Longview in the 1984 state title game.

tourney, but HHS players fared well against their opponents, according to Vargas. For instance, he said, Hereford's No. 1 girls doubles team, Connie Zinser and Natalie Sims, upset Abilene in the third set to finish seventh of 16 teams.

"I was pleased with the way all the players played at Abilene," Vargas added. "All of them have improved since the fall, and I think they realize that no matter who they walk on the court with, they've got a chance to beat them."

"That was the main thing that came out of that tournament."

And that may be the main thing players need to concentrate on this weekend. Some of the Whitefaces were involved in basketball and just now are out for tennis. Having the entire team together again should provide a boost in morale, Vargas said.

Hereford's coach welcomes 20 players out for individual tennis this spring. That number is down by two from the fall, when the Whitefaces competed in team tennis.

HHS was 4-4 last semester.

"That was our team district record," Vargas said. "We really had a better record than that, though. Every dual match we played we won."

"Of course, spring tennis is different. You've got a chance to win the team trophy, but it's more of an individual thing, where players win individual matches to accumulate team points. I expect to do better this spring."

Vargas said he had made a decision on his top female players, but was not completely ready to announce his boys team. He did say, however, that Blair Rogers was to be his No. 1 singles player in boys competition, and Don Flood and Chuck Garcia would comprise the top doubles team.

Robin Hopper is the No. 1 singles player in girls tennis, and Kristen Cassels is second. Behind Zinser and Sims in doubles are Lana Kosub and Markay White.

"We're coming along," Vargas said, "but we're not where we need to be yet. We're on the right road."

"Without a doubt, the guys are enthusiastic, and the girls are going for it, too. Everybody believes they have a chance. I had a hard time convincing them of that, but I think they believe it after the Abilene Tournament."

District 3-5A's tournament is set for April 19-20. In between now and then, though, Hereford is to travel to the Fort Worth Invitational (March 8-9), Lubbock Invitational (March 22-23), and the Amarillo Relays (March 29-30). Then, the Whitefaces are to host a dual match with Tascosa on April 2 and a four-team tourney on April 6.

The final tuneup for league play will be the Wichita Falls Spring Classic on April 12 and 13.

Assistant tennis coach for HHS is Pat Privett.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, Feb. 28, the 59th day of 1985. There are 306 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On Feb. 28, 1854, about 50 people opposed to slavery met at a schoolhouse in Ripon, Wis., to call for a new political organization. The group would later take the name of the Republican Party.

On this date:
In 1704, American colonists in Deerfield, Mass., were attacked by Indians.

In 1827, the first U.S. railroad chartered to carry passengers and freight, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, was incorporated.

In 1844, Secretary of State Abel P. Upshur, Navy Secretary Thomas W. Gilmer and several other people were killed when a 12-inch gun aboard the USS Princeton exploded during an excursion down the Potomac River.

In 1849, the ship California arrived at San Francisco carrying the first of the gold-seekers.

In 1861, the Territory of Colorado was organized.

In 1917, The Associated Press reported the U.S. government had in its possession an intercepted German communication. The "Zimmerman Note," as it became known, proposed an alliance with Mexico and Japan should the U.S. enter World War I.

Today's birthdays: Actress Molly Picon is 87. Nobel Prize-winning chemist Linus Pauling is 84. Movie director Vincente Minnelli is 75. Actor Charles Durning is 62. Svetlana Alliluyeva is 59. Actor Gavin MacLeod is 54. Actor-director-dancer Tommy Tune is 46. Auto racer Mario Andretti is 45. Actor Frank Bonner is 43. Former football player Bubba Smith is 40. Actress Bernadette Peters is 37.

Thought for today: "A Republican has to have a sense of humor because there are so few of us." — Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, quoted in 1976.

Preview of spring fashions given to Veleda members

D'Aun Sisson, owner of Ruthie's Dress Shop in Friona, served as hostess and gave a preview of spring fashions to her fellow-members of Veleda Study Club when the group met Monday evening in her store.

Those present browsed through the shop and enjoyed new fabrics and styles.

During the business meeting, minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and it was announced that the next meeting will be held March 11 in the home of Jean Ruther.

Those present included Juanita Brown, Frances Crume, Betty Gilbert, Joyce Ritter, Ruther, Sisson, Norma Walden, Margaret Zinser and Suzane Stevens.

Landscapes explained

Hereford Art Guild met Tuesday in the Community Center for a program by Jean Lyles of the Texas Gallery.

As guest artist, Lyles painted a blue landscape using the colors pale green, ultramarine blue, gray and white.

During the business portion of the meeting, Carrie Mae Doak, president, read a reminder for courtesy as the opening statement. Members were informed that the March meeting will be a workshop for teaching gold leafing. Those present were also told what materials to bring.

Roll call was answered with each member telling his or her favorite color for painting and the reason for choosing that color. With several members absent due to illness, those present were served cake squares, crackers, dip and hot punch by Doak.

In addition to Lyles, four guests were present. They were Joe Solomon, Grace Tinnin, Ethel Braxton and Billie Thornton.

Finding a needle in a haystack is child's play when compared to the task of finding a contact lens in a shag carpet.

Ann Landers

Don't condemn all physicians

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several days ago I sat in a funeral home with family and friends, sharing the grief of losing someone we loved. We all watched and waited for the doctor who had taken care of Mother for 15 years. He never came, nor did he send a message of condolence or make a phone call. His bill, however, arrived seven days after the funeral.

I have lost all respect for today's physicians. I realize compassion cannot be taught in medical school, but the students who have been getting in don't seem to have any, and I suspect they never did. Granted, we can't fill our medical schools with simple-minded, compassionate dummies, but neither do we want only insensitive, stone-hearted students who choose the profession because it's lucrative.

I have spent a lot of time in hospitals these last few months and witnessed a great deal of death and dying. Invariably it was the nurse who made that dreaded phone call to the family to say, "Sorry, he didn't make it through surgery." I don't believe I ever heard a doctor break the news.

If you have any clout with the American Medical Association, please tell them the doctors had better clean up their act — and soon. Time is running out. — SHAMOKIN, PA.

DEAR SHAMOKIN: Of course there are doctors with cash registers for hearts and dollar signs on their eyeballs, but if you look, you will find many more who are caring and dedicated. They spend hours at bedside during a crisis, asking nurses to "call home and say I don't know when I'll be there. I can't leave."

I have also seen doctors shed tears and struggle to regain composure before telling parents their child had died.

There are good and bad in every profession, so I ask you not to condemn American medicine because you ran into a few lemons. I can assure you there are plenty of peaches out there. I know this is a fact because they are my friends.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for "Alice Blue Gown." Please print it.

Dear Alice: I was sorry to see your letter in Ann Landers' column. You reminded us that there are still women who equate "high standards, decency and morality" with a man who will buy dinner, take you to a movie and not expect to collect on the couch.

Your righteous indignation is understandable since we live in a society that assumes men will make the big money, handle the important jobs, wield the power and reward the woman with an intact hymen by declaring her "a good girl," then expects her to stay home and take care of the kids.

Cut the malarkey, ladies. How about asking a man out to dinner and a movie? I know women who make a lot more money than I do. They are screaming for the Equal Rights Amendment but they wouldn't dream of treating a man or even splitting a check. I, for one, am — SICK OF 'EM IN YONKERS

DEAR SICK: When was the last time you left Yonkers? The song you're singing is at least 15 years old. Wake up, Rip.

Granted, some "liberated" women are still reluctant to invite a man out and pay the check, but I predict that within five years they will be as rare as the whooping crane.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Few things are more complicated than a "simplified" tax form.

Club Sweetheart

Margaret Bell, center, president of The Pilot Club of Hereford, was honored as Pilot International Foundation Sweetheart recently. Presenting the flowers to Bell were Donna West, left, and Jeanne Dowell. A donation was made to the Pilot International Foundation in honor of Bell's support for an involvement in foundation activities and other programs aiding handicapped individuals.

Sand and scrub

DEAR POLLY — Recently, I found a cutting board that had been stored in a clean, dry basement for a long time. It has suffered no damage, but I would like to sanitize it for use. My find is one of the older, sturdy, heavy boards. Any tips for a rejuvenation would be appreciated. — ELSIE

DEAR ELSIE — There's no reason why that cutting board can't give you many more years of service. Use the following procedure to get it into shape.

If there are any scratches, gouges or heavy stains on the board, sand them away. This will give you a fresh new surface. Be sure the entire surface is sanded to a smooth and silky finish.

Scrub the board with a solution of half chlorine bleach and half water. Rinse thoroughly and quickly. Don't let the board soak in the washing solution or water at any time. After rinsing away the bleach solution, rub the board with white vinegar. Again, rinse thoroughly. Finally, wash the board quickly in warm water with a mild dishwashing detergent. Dry quickly and thoroughly. Letting the board remain wet too long or soaking it can cause warping or separation of the wood strips. The board is now ready for use. If you like, you may rub it with a very fine film of mineral oil to give it a smooth finish. Your board will now be clean and ready to use. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — For the most part, children try to live up to the expectations of their families and teachers. If we expect good behavior, achievement and success, they seem to try their best. But we must be realistic in what we expect. And we must take time to tell them that we love them and are proud of their efforts, even when they do not succeed. Praise the fact that they have tried and praise their small successes. Before long, you'll see them making greater effort and having more accomplishments. — OLIVE

DEAR OLIVE — Thank you for an excellent reminder. Too often, we forget to teach children that one can't succeed in everything — and there's nothing wrong with you if you fail at something.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective February 22, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.

AT&T Communications has filed restructured tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for private line, DATAPHONE® Digital Service, OCC Facilities, WATS and 800 services.

Also proposed is the institution of a charge for directory assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service, and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls.

AT&T Communications is proposing to restructure its AT&T Long Distance Service and to reduce its overall revenues from basic long distance approximately $25 million.

While long distance rates will, in most instances, be reduced, certain AT&T Long Distance rates are proposed to be increased to more nearly recover the access charges approved by the PUC for such service.

The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $123.4 million, or 11.3 percent.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Police artists try to see lighter side

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — As a rule, fighting crime is no laughing matter to the men and women of the Beaumont Police Department, but then again, as with all rules come exceptions.

Detectives Pat O'Quinn and James Hale, the department's self-proclaimed "outlaw cartoonists," prove the exceptions. With pencils in hand and working during their free time, the men have put on paper those awkward and embarrassing moments when things just don't work out the way they should.

The detectives worked undercover at the start of their careers as cartoonists. Their parodies would circulate from hand to hand, guarded like top-secret papers, often hidden from those caricatured in the cartoons.

"I kept mine confined to the third floor," O'Quinn says. "Some guys just didn't get the ha-ha the way I did."

But now, with the approval of Police Chief John Swan, the men find their cartoons posted on the department's bulletin board — next to departmental memos and index cards offering boats and cars for sale.

"They are good political cartoonists," Swan says. "I think it's a good morale factor."

As for their artistic backgrounds, both say they are pretty much self-taught. "I've been drawing since I was a little kid," Hale says. "I just taught myself."

O'Quinn, the department's official sketch artist and a professional painter known throughout the state for his oil paintings, says he obtained his love for drawing and painting while taking art classes at South Park High School.

The two men say they have unlimited subject matter from which to work. "I get my ideas from all the things that go on around here," O'Quinn says.

Hale says he is "hard-pressed to keep up" with the humorous incidents that take place within the department. "A patrolman might come up and say 'did you hear about this or that?'"

"He'll tell me about it, and I'll work something up," Hale's recent works include a caricature of a copperhead snake who commandeered an officer's air-conditioned patrol car on a warm July day. The car eventually had to be taken out of commission after several failed attempts to rid the vehicle of the serpent.

A reorganization of the department early this year gave Hale the opportunity to caricature the detectives leaving the comforts of their offices to go out in the field as supervising patrol sergeants:

In the caricature, a "Sad Sack" looking character holds a clipboard in his hand — "which must be surgically removed after two years (maybe)" — and a holster full of pencils. "His service revolver was hooked to cover uniform cleaning bills, due to the city cutting out his detective clothing allowance."

A grin comes to O'Quinn's face when he looks back at one incident he put to paper.

During a raid on a house, O'Quinn says, one lieutenant, armed with a shotgun, broke through the door and found himself sliding on a throw rug. After his unexpected journey, the officer found himself lying on his back, his feet sticking up and his weapon pointing to the ceiling. Keeping his cool, the officer shouted, "Freeze!"

"It wasn't funny at the time," O'Quinn says. "He was actually in a dangerous situation. The people in the house could have had their own guns pointed at him." After the tension of the moment subsided, the officer could laugh about what happened, he says.

O'Quinn's roving pencil also captured the unlikely incident when an officer was checking two revolvers in his office, one loaded. The officer ended up with a bullet hole in his office wall.

And then there was the time when an officer, giving directions to his wife backing a boat into a lake, ended up with not only a floating boat, but a thoroughly waterlogged van as well.

Both men say they try not to get too vicious when it comes to bringing those embarrassing moments to paper. O'Quinn says he recently came out of a self-imposed retirement from going a little too far with one cartoon.

"Several years ago I did a cartoon on a guy that really hurt him," O'Quinn says. "I wasn't thinking of the aspect of how it might hurt him, but he was really hurt by it."

Both men say they try to be careful, though they concede they do slip over the line from time to time.

"Police officers in general have a good sense of humor," O'Quinn says. "Ninety percent of the time they will laugh. If you can't laugh at yourself, my God, it's really going to hurt."

Hale agrees, saying, "The majority of officers get a kick out of the cartoons. They might be slightly embarrassed about it, but they usually shrug it off. We all get in a situation where we make a mistake or do something funny."

Hale says he does cartoons about himself "in all fairness."

"There's so much seriousness to the job," Hale says. "The cartoons help to relieve the tension and stress. A lot of guys say they enjoy going to work so they can see what's on the bulletin board."

But drawing is more than just a sideline for O'Quinn, who has brought to paper images of suspected criminals, as well as an unidentified accident victim, to help bring about a speedy arrest or identification.

Each case presents its own problems, O'Quinn said. In the case of the accident victim, he had to use his imagination to piece together a recognizable drawing of the woman. He had no witnesses who could describe the way the woman looked in life. All he had to work with was a decomposed and mangled body.

"I didn't like doing that drawing. The body was almost beyond recognition," O'Quinn said. When drawing crime suspects, O'Quinn says he must depend on the memory of those who last saw the suspect, usually for a brief, fearful moment.

Most witnesses remember only some specific features of a suspect's face and are vague about the rest, he says. For that reason, "all the drawings seem to blend together and look alike. For some reason most people can give a good description of the eyes. There is something about the eyes that people remember."

To refresh the memories of witnesses, O'Quinn says the department sometimes uses hypnosis, with excellent results.

Once a suspect is arrested, O'Quinn says he will take a look to see how well his drawings match.

Disatisfaction with public schools has grown since the mid-1970s, leading to increased enrollment in both religious and nonsectarian private schools

March big month for South Texas Paradise

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP) — This 5-mile stretch of South Texas paradise soon will be transformed into a gigantic party palace for some 100,000 college students seeking "suds, sun and surf," officials say.

March, which usually signals the end of winter in South Texas, also is the month that more than 100,000 people, mostly college students on spring break, flock to Port Isabel and South Padre Island.

The big week this year is March 10-17 when an estimated 50,000 people will be sunning, swimming, sailing and surfing at South Texas' version of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

"Spring break is hectic for everybody, but it's good," said Kathie Hawkinson, executive director of the Port Isabel-South Padre Island Chamber of Commerce. "It's a busy time, but it's an economic plus for the community."

Capt. Tommy Atkinson, the acting South Padre Island police chief and a lifelong Rio Grande Valley resident, said many take advantage of the holiday break.

Asked if alcohol plays a role in the celebration, Atkinson said, "You'd better believe it. It's suds, sun and surf."

The 5,315 rooms at area condominiums and hotels, usually less than full during the winter months, are booked solid for all of March, Ms. Hawkinson said.

Rates usually go up during March, but fun-seekers still converge no matter the price, she said.

"Everybody looks forward to it," Ms. Hawkinson said. Economically, money pumped into the local economy is expected to match or exceed last year's tally of nearly $4 million during March.

Development on the island, whose population is about 1,000, slowly is increasing after a drop during the 1982 peso devaluations.

Students and other Valley residents are a blessing this month because "Winter Texans" — northern residents who spend their vacations in the Rio Grande Valley, usually started heading north at the beginning of March, Ms. Hawkinson said.

"The two elements don't get along," she said about the young and the old. "It's difficult to combine the two because their lifestyles are so different."

The most popular spot on the beach is Isla Blanca, where most of the activities are scheduled.

Entertainment on March 10 will feature Joe King Carasco and the Crowns, Stevie Ray Vaughn and Double Trouble. On March 15, Cheap Trick and Molly Hatchet will give a concert.

In between, beach-goers will be treated to games and contests, including tanning, Frisbee, tug-of-war, car driving and sand skiing competitions and a photo session with Dallas Cowboys veteran defensive tackle Randy White.

South Padre Island has been a gathering place for students the past 20 years, but the volume only began to increase about seven years ago when commercially sponsored entertainment began, Ms. Hawkinson said.

Atkinson remembers going to the island as child, but the only thing that was there were sand dunes. "This is a totally different world down here during spring break," he said. "People are now beginning to realize that it is a resort area. There has been a drastic, dramatic change the last 10 years."

Atkinson said officers will be working a minimum of 12 hours a day during the busy weeks. He said most of those arrested are jailed for public intoxication, disorderly conduct and driving while intoxicated.

The one-cell jail is expanding to two cells and a drunk tank, he said.

Ms. Hawkinson, former general manager of Bahia Mar Resort, said some hotels are beginning to charge a damage deposit because some rooms have been vandalized in recent years.

"It came down that we had to charge the damage deposit. It was the only way we could make college students understand they had a responsibility in the rooms they were staying," she said.

The Newspaper BIBLE

GOD WILL NEVER LET YOU DOWN

We are saved by trusting. And trusting means looking forward to getting something we don't yet have—for a man who already has something doesn't need to hope and trust that he will get it. But if we must keep trusting God for something that hasn't happened yet, it teaches us to wait patiently and confidently.

And in the same way—by our faith—the Holy Spirit helps us with our daily problems and in our praying. For we don't even know what we should pray for, nor how to pray as we should; but the Holy Spirit prays for us with such feeling that it cannot be expressed in words. And the Father who knows all hearts knows, of course, what the Spirit is saying as He pleads for us in harmony with God's own will.

And we know that all that happens to us is working for our good if we love God and are fitting into His plans. For from the very beginning God decided that those who came to Him—and all along He knew who would—should become like His son, so that His Son would be the First, with many brothers. And having chosen us, He called us to come to Him; and when we came, He declared us "not guilty," filled us with Christ's goodness, gave us right standing with Himself, and promised us His glory.

What can we ever say to such wonderful things as these? If God is on our side, who can ever be against us? Since He did not spare even His own Son for us but gave Him up for us all, won't He also surely give us everything else?
Romans 8:24-32

Science Project

The eighth grade Special education earth science class at La Plata Junior High recently completed projects in conjunction with their solar system unit. Pictured with the projects, which aided students in learning the characteristics of the various planets are, from left, Robert Cantu, Johnny Herrera and Wesley Eubank. This is the first year a project has been completed for this class.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Exercise

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell your readers of the importance of exercise to a diabetic. I am 41 and have had diabetes since I was 16. I began a running program approximately six years ago. I cannot begin to tell you how beneficial this has been to my diabetic condition.

I am 6 feet tall and weigh 160. I take only half the insulin I did several years ago.

I now run approximately six miles a day and have more problems with low blood sugar than with high blood sugar. I do not wear glasses or have circulatory problems, which are known to plague diabetics.

Everyone knows the importance of insulin and diet to diabetics, but I have discovered the tremendous advantage of an active exercise program in controlling blood sugar and diabetes' side effects.

DEAR READER — Thanks for sharing your experience with others. For some time, I have recommended exercise for diabetics who could do it safely. Exercise will lower the blood glucose level because the working muscles use glycogen sugar. The blood glucose is transported to the muscles to provide fuel.

That poses one problem that diabetics who exercise must be aware of: Acute exercise may alter your insulin requirements. To regulate your insulin properly, you must standardize both your diet and your level of physical activity.

Exercise seems to increase the efficiency of insulin, affecting the cell walls and enhancing the movement of glucose into the cells.

Aglow meeting slated Friday

Dan and Rachele Redd will share their gospel music when Women's Aglow members meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Center.

The Redds have been singing together since they married 17 years ago. They have ministered in many churches in the Tri-State area, appeared on television programs and have sung for civic club meetings and conventions. In December of 1982, they recorded their first album,

Bill Coffin is recent graduate

William Coffin participated in graduation ceremonies at Texas State Technical Institute recently in the Amarillo Civic Center auditorium. State Representative John Smithee, District 86, delivered the commencement address.

Coffin received a certificate from aircraft mechanics and is the son of Doris Coffin of 415 Paloma Lane, Hereford. He is also a graduate of Hereford High School.

"He's Proving His Riches."

Mr. Redd is employed at Southwestern Public Service as supervisor of special marketing services in Santa Fe, N.M. Mrs. Redd works as a secretary to the purchasing director at Santa Fe Energy Company.
