The Deaf Smith County grand jury, involved in an explosive and controversial special investigative session, concluded Tuesday after calling for the resignation of Sheriff Ed Roberson and Judge H. C. "Hank" Williams and warning of an alarming organized crime trend in the area.

Roberson, who had told friends previously that he was thinking of quitting because of personal problems agreed-formally resigning Monday morning at the regular meeting of the county commissioners court. Williams refused to resign, however. Pointing out that no charges of misconduct or dereliction of duty had been placed against him, the judge said he felt "no good purpose would be served at this time by the submission of my resignation as county judge." The grand jury made the recommendation for both to step down after hearing testimony from several persons concerning disharmony between the sheriff and judge. The grand jury also discussed the judge's strict treatment of juveniles in his capacity as juvenile judge, and the degree of effectiveness in the sheriff's office. After ending its session at 3:35 p. m. Tuesday, the grand jury released a statement of its findings. Testimony from law enforcement officers, county officials and private citizens indicated that discord among elected county officials is among five major problems prevalent in Deaf Smith County, the statement said. "Cooperation among elected officials of the county has been at a low ebb," the panel emphasized. The grand jury said its investigation, which began April 17 and continued on April 18, April 22, Monday and Tuesday, also indicated: -"A large Mafia-type" organized crime operation "is moving into Hereford and the surrounding area at a rapid rate. Local citizens are involved and running the organization locally." -Gambling in the county is "organized and growing." Large bets are being placed on sports events and both private and public games of chance are going on in clubs.

-State laws concerning "marijuana, hard drugs, pills. . . are not being adequately carried out."

The panel said it had received information "that many areas of the United States call Hereford 'the' area for narcotics. Deaf Smith County is growing rapidly. This is inducive to criminal elements moving in. We can be in real trouble if the citizenry does not become aroused." The grand jury's final statement made no mention of either Roberson or Williams by name. District Attorney Jerry Tucker of Dumas directed the grand jury probe. Lloyd Sharp is the foreman. Other grand jurors are Charles Cabbiness, Jerry Skaggs, Jonny E. Cloud, A. E. Hodges, Don Baugous, Charlie Holt, Mrs. Elbert Vance, Jim Conkwright and Semmle Peters.

Roberson had been informed by commissioners Marcus Latham, Donald Hicks, Earl Holt and Bruce Coleman last Wednesday that the grand jury wanted him to leave office. He told them he would do so on Monday, and followed through with his commitment.

The grand jury's decision on Williams apparently was not made until Tuesday. The commissioners, who had set up a 10:30 a. m. meeting Tuesday with members of the county Democratic and Republican committees, to discuss the appointment of a successor to Roberson, entered the grand jury room at 10:18 a. m. and exited at 10:32 a. m.

"Will you gentlemen excuse us for a few minutes until we have a closed-doors meeting with the county judge?"

Latham asked members of the two committees The commissioners met - first with Williams and then with both Williams and advisers he summoned - for 51 minutes and told him the grand jury wanted him to resign. They had a letter, signed by Sharp, that expressed the feeling that "no smooth working relationship between the county judge and other elected officers of Deaf Smith County can be had as long as H. C. Williams is county judge." The four commissioners left the judge's office at 11:23 a. m. to meet again with the grand jury and came out at 11:28 a. m. and Latham told the waiting Democratic and Republican committeemen with a smile, "We're ready to start this Democratic-Republican convention."

Williams did not attend the meeting. He was working on a two-page statement announcing that he was keeping his job and explaining his reasons.

In the statement, released about 2 p. m., Williams said it was noteworthy that the grand jury "makes no charge of dereliction of duty, misfeasance or malfeasance in office, or inability to conduct the office of county judge in accordance with the constitution and laws of this state."

He understood, he said, how persons concerned with disharmony among courthouse officials "might find it expedient to recommend that we should, in effect, start over again with new people in several of the offices. I nevertheless feel that no good purpose would be served at this time by the submission of my resignation as county judge."

Whether an attempt will be made to have Williams removed from office, since he refuses to resign, was uncertain. The county commissioners said their part in the matter was completed when they relayed the grand jury's request. For the judge to be removed, specific charges would have to be raised against him and proved.

At the time of his resignation Monday, Roberson made reference to "the past and present conflict of views between myself and the county judge" and said he was sure of the grand jury's "desire to reach accord in the various departments of our local government."

treat from facing the court when possible. Therefore, after due consideration, I ask the court to accept my resignation." The unanimous, 5-0, vote by the four commissioners and

Williams Monday to accept Roberson's resignation came after an hour of discussion. The commissioners were concerned about options it had available in naming a new sheriff. Specifically, the commissioners were interested in naming a deputy sheriff as "acting sherif" until they could agree on the best available successor to Roberson,

Under law, the county commissioners' appointment would serve until the general election, at which time the person placed on the ballot by county political parties and elected would serve the remaining two years of Roberson's term.

County Attorney John Aikin cautioned the commissioners against making any type of temporary appointment - even an informal arrangement with members of Roberson's staff about which one would be in control until a new sheriff could

"If you make any type of appointment, take any action whatsoever, it could be considered exhausting the one action you are empowered to perform," Aikin said, "even if it's an informal arrangement."

That appointment would be the first and last available, and the appointee, however temporary it was meant, would have the right to the job until the general election, Aikin said he interpreted state laws to provide.

"Let him (Roberson) stay, until you decide, and at that time accept his resignation and appoint someone else," Aikin advised.

The commissioners decided, however, to accept the sheriff's resignation immediately, after learning that state law provides that an officeholder who resigns must stay on duty until a sucessor is named. They went to work immediately, however, trying to set up meetings with the Democratic and Republican committees to agree on a common choice.

"My idea is that no one would take the job without the assurance that his name would be on the ballot in November and be sure of serving the rest of the term," Hicks said.

In their Tuesday meeting, the committees of the two parties arranged to meet Thursday night or early Friday morning and meet with the commissioners in another joint meeting at 10 a. m. Friday to try to come up with a new sheriff. "We owe it to Ed to do this as quickly as possible," Holt

At least two members of the Democratic committee said they had been contacted by deputies on Roberson's staff about the job already, but one added, "we should also have some candidates with more age on them, to consider in this." Hicks said "We've had some approach us on this also, individually, but we haven't met as a group on this."

The commissioner and the committees of the two parties indicated the man they decide on probably will be filed on the Democratic ticket. Because of the circumstances, the job is not one that is subject to individuals filing for and obtaining a place on the ballot. Each party has the right to place one, and only one, name on the general election ballot. Those at the Tuesday meeting indicated they are not interested in making a political issue of the matter.

Whoever is selected must have lived in Texas for the past 12 months and in the county for the past six months.

HOW DOES LLOYD BENTSEN STAND

on the major issues facing our nation today?

The Quality of Life and Pollution

"I stand for strong federal standards to fight pollution. Water and air pollution are not restricted by state boundaries. We need uniform controls that should be enforced on a state and regional basis. We have to face up to the truth that this generation is being asked to pay for 200 years of sins against environment. Pollution is also tied closely to overcrowding and to urban expansion. We're crowding too many of our people into small areas. One idea I've suggested to help us come to grips with overcrowding is a ten per cent investment tax incentive for industries willing to locate plants in the smaller communities. I am for federal tax sharing to help state and local governments meet their growing responsibilities. I want to de-centralize government and de-centralize our problems. The people will get faster and better solutions that way."

What Can We Do About Inflation?

"High interest rates are inflationary and the present high rates are increasing costs across-theboard, all the way to the level of consumer goods. High interest rates already have brought about a recession in some areas of our economy and could cause a recession in other areas. The housing industry already is suffering a recession. The worker today-blue collar and white collar alike - is disturbed by what he sees happening around him."

Postal System

"Our government cannot continue to operate on deficit. A good example of this is the postal system, which, according to three former postmaster generals, should be a self-sufficient operation owned by the government." With reform in the outmoded postal system, the more than $1 billion deficit in the postal system could be put to use in other needed areas."

Dissent and the Moratorium

"There are some deep problems in this country and we would be ill-advised to hide them in a closet. But in solving these problems the road to violence is the road to ruin. Somehow, someday, we must learn to distinguish between intelligent dissent and mindless violence, between legitimate protest and calculated rebellion. My opponent endorsed the Moratorium movement. I think it's wrong for a public official to lend his prestige to demonstrations of this kind, nearly all of which eventually lead to violence. We ought not lend aid and comfort to people who are waving Viet Cong flags in the streets of America while our young men are dying in Vietnam."

Compulsory Busing

"I am against forced busing and for the preservation of neighborhood schools. Freedom of choice is a basic right of all citizens, black and white. Forced busing is wrong for both black and white. My opponent has dodged voting on this issue when it has been before the Senate."

The Vietnam War and Southeast Asia

"The President has the facts and the responsibility to scale down the war and turn it over to the South Vietnamese. I support the President in his efforts to do this. I want this war to end, but I am not for bugging out for the ports and forgetting our prisoners-of-war and our commitments. I am opposed to the use of American land forces in Laos and Cambodia."

Law and Order

"I don't think anything we aspire to in this country is going to come about until we do something about the epidemic of crime that is sweeping this notion. This is one priority we can't shove down from the top of the list and try to postpone. I believe the national government must do more to bolster local law enforcement with research and training. We may be spending too much money on hardware, however, while we neglect the hands we put it in. It's time to upgrade the entire profession of law enforcement . . . to attract intelligent, dedicated young men and to train them and pay them enough to keep them. I also think we must speed up the process of justice. We need more courts and better procedures. Swift justice is a crime deterrent . . . and it also gets hardened criminals off the streets where they now go free on extended bail while awaiting trial. This whole question of crime is related to the so-called permissive society. Unfortunately, there are people in Congress and people in the Judiciary who have spent so much time and effort trying to preserve the rights of the criminals that they tend to forget the rights of the rest of us. We've got to get this back in balance. It's time our government set a national goal to reduce crime in this decade. We can't wait any longer."

The Welfare Problem

"We must stand ready to aid those who are unable to help themselves, but it concerns me to see families on third generation welfare. More people should be encouraged to learn new skills or improve old skills through vocational-technical training programs. My opponent has had plenty of opportunity to help write better welfare legislation. Like so many people who refuse to budge from the old political ways, he would prefer to pour billions of dollars more into an outdated welfare system. Let's straighten out the mess now - and write welfare laws that help more people help themselves and provide fair support for those who are unable to help themselves."

Urban Problems

"Rather than talk solely about urban problems. I think we should speak in the broader context of population problems — the great migrations of the past thirty years, the crowding of our major cities at the expense of rural areas, the mobility of people and yet the restrictions imposed upon them by transportation tangles on the land and in the air."

"The dispersal of population is a worthwhile anational goal. Let's use some imagination to keep rural areas from dying. . . to keep small towns from stagnating . . . to keep big cities from bursting at the seams with people who can't get good jobs elsewhere."

BENTSEN SENATOR FOR THE SEVENTIES

Pd. Pol. Adv. by Citizens for Bentsen, Earnest Langley, Chairman

By MELVIN YOUNG

As you will see on the front page of today's BRAND, the Deaf Smith County Grand Jury has recommended that two county officials submit their resignations to the Commissioner's Court. Sheriff Ed Roberson, admitting to personal problems that have prevented him from handling the office of Deaf Smith County Sheriff as the people would want, submitted his resignation to the Court Monday morning. Roberson has come under fire in the past few months concerning his handling of the drug usage investigation. We believe that Ed did the right thing under the circumstances, and certainly we do not intend to dwell on the point. Another Sheriff will be named by the Commissioner's Court in the near future and we assume that Ed will continue handling the affairs of the office until that appointment is made.

However, the Grand Jury, in it's exuberance to do that which is best for the county, has also recommended the resignation of County Judge H. C. "Hank" Williams. Their letter to the county commissioners asking for that resignation says in effect that the County Judge has trouble getting along with other elected county officials.

This is partly true. And more power to him.

The Sheriff has admitted that be and the Judge did not see eye-to-eye on many matters, and there have been instances when the County Judge has taken the Commissioners to task over various points. And in most cases, we feel that he has been right.

It is interesting to note that the letter from the Grand Jury makes no charges of, as the Judge's statement said, "dereliction of duty," but merely that he has had problems getting along with other county officials. And obviously there has been good reason.

Frankly, we feel that the situation in the courthouse has been intolerable for more than 20 years, with each office operating as a separate little "empire" within the county, and it was not until "Hank" Williams entered the County Judge's office that anyone had the intestinal fortitude to do anything about it. We feel that he has been one of the few who are sincerely interested in the welfare of the people of the county, rather than securing a permanent lease on his own little office.

Judge Williams could have taken the easy way out Tuesday after the Grand Jury made its recommendation to the Commissioner's Court, but decided to fight instead.

We're in his corner for whatever that's worth, and would like to suggest to the local Grand Jury that they not worry so much about this man whose record has shown his effectiveness, particularly in the Juvenile department, but concentrate rather on doing something about the District Attorney, whose only real victory since he has taken office has come with the resignation of the County Sheriff. In other words, our present DA has not won enough cases in District Court to "wad a shotgun,"

We feel that "Hank" Williams has earned the respect of a majority of the people of Deaf Smith County. We will be the first to admit that he has also made many enemies within the county. It could not be otherwise. He has stepped on some toes, and apparently it hurts.

But the battle lines have been drawn, and if the DA and the Grand Jury can find anything in the Judge's background or in the conduct of his office that will warrant an indictment, then perhaps they should act. Otherwise, there are a lot of people in this county who feel that the Judge is doing "an excellent job" for the county and we want to keep him where he is.

Grand Jury Seeks Creation Of Juvenile Court

The special investigative session of the Deaf Smith County grand jury made two recommendations to the county commissioners, according to a document filed with the district clerk's office Tuesday.

Both concerned County Judge H. C. "Hank" Williams and apparently were spurred by complaints that the judge is too strict with those who appear before him in juvenile court.

One recommendation called for "creation of a juvenile board and the employment of a juvenile officer" and the other called for "the resignation of County Judge, H. C. Williams."

The juvenile board, headed by a juvenile officer other than the county judge, had been recommended by some private citizens in the past who disagreed with the judge's philosophy of handling the youth. A strict disciplinarian, Judge Williams requires juveniles in his court to stand before him at all times, to say "yes, sir" and "no, sir," and is noted for the "dressing down" he gives youth who he feels have strayed from the mark. Another trademark is his habit of ordering burr haircuts to those who come before him, although he has made exceptions and has at times - although not often - changed his mind and rescinded an order for a short haircut.

Most teen-agers who come before the judge are scared because of what they have heard of Williams' strict treatment of other youth, some parents have complained.

There are both strong supporters and strong opponents of Williams in the community.

"That's just the thing we need in this job. You'd be surprised how many boys come before him, later go to the Army or something, and when they come back in town, he's the first one liams. they go see," one support e r

The grand jury, in its recommendation to the commissioners Returns To U. S. that Williams be asked to resign, said it felt there could never be cooperation between the judge's office and other elected county officials as long as Williams held the post. Williams agreed there has been disharmony in the courthouse and also made note in his statement that his method of handling his office were not always in accord with all of the community.

SUPPORTING

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two-line space.

A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wideawake and liberal advertising business man".

HAVE SAID IN THEIR ENDORSEMENTS OF

LLOYD BENTSEN for U. S. SENATOR

Bentsen sees correctly that there are two problems which we as a nation need to start solving: (1) the mass migration of capable people from smaller communities, leaving the small towns to stagnate; and (2) overcrowding in major cities, resulting in many problems which appear insoluble. such as air and water pollution, rising crime rates and traffic congestion.

He sees correctly that local governments have so far been unable to stop these alarming trendsthat only a national effort can deurbanize our cities and preserve our rural areas.

Bentsen proposes to offer federal tax credits to industries which will move to the country. The dispersal of population is a worthwhile national goal. Perhaps with this goal achieved, we can cope with out other problems more effectively.

For these, and other, reasons we think Bentsen is the man to carry the Democratic banner in the November elections as the nominee for U.S.

-The Texarkana Gazette

Although a conservative in contrast with Sen. Yarborough, Bentsen correctly characterizes himself as a moderate. He has proposed, and properly, a new kind of leadership that would seek solutions to the nation's problems without regard to conservative or liberal labels. We believe him when he declares that his intention is to offer Texas the kind of imaginative, innovative leadership that will promote, rather than impede, the general welfare of the state.

-The Beaumont Journal In our opinion, he is qualified by ability, temperament and legislative experience to become a distinguished representative of the Lone Star State in the Senate.

Equally as important, we believe he will prove a unifying force among the citizenry.

Mr. Yarborough, on the other hand, has engaged in a running political feud with respected state leaders for years and has done little to achieve a co-operative Democratic party.

We contend that Texas needs a new and effective voice in the nation's capitol. We say that Lloyd Bentsen should be that

-The Port Arthur News Forty thousand Americans die in Southeast Asia for a cause they and their government believe in, only to have a committee of senators, including a Texan, turn it into an all-or-nothing investigation of political corruption among a few Asiatic pol-roomful of President Thieu's henchmen! We think it's high time that Texas start a new man on his climb to the senior senatorship of our state - a man who thinks like Texas thinks, not like some far-out liberal college professor or labor boss from Minnesota or California.

And we don't see anybody in sight we think is better qualified than Lloyd Bentsen.

-The Amarillo Daily News Consider the issues of our State and Country. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. has the qualifications to help push back the tide from the left. Bentsen, a successful Houston Insurance Company Executive and former Congressman from the old 15th District of the Rio Grande Valley, has the necessary energy and enthusiastic characteristics and leadership qualifications to make an outstanding United States

Senator. Bentsen appears to be a Progressive Conservative that can return dignity to the people of Texas. -The Stephenville Empire-Tribune

Not often do Texas Democrats have so clearcut choice as confronts them in the U.S. Senate race between Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. and Ralph W. Yarborough.

The choice is between sound, responsible leadership and reckless, wrangling partisanship; between statesmanlike concern for all the people of Texas and cantankerous obsession with the interests of splinter groups and factions.

That is why The Times Herald unhesitatingly and wholeheartedly recommends the nomination of Lloyd Bentsen and the defeat of Ralph Yarborough.

Texas, we believe, is fortunate to have such a man as Bentsen offer himself for the Senate seat. He is a remarkable gentleman, this congressman-turned-business executive.

Intelligent, experienced, hard-working; a man of broad outlook and strong character-Bentsen is all these things.

-The Dallas Times Herald The Globe-Times endorses the candidacy of Lloyd Bentsen of Houston in the Democratic Primary, May 2nd.

In the opinion of many knowledgeable people, Bentsen is the best qualified candidate for the United States Senate who has come along in many Bentsen has both spirit and integrity. Politically, he has "class." He has appeal to both men and women, young and old. Moreover, he comes across as a leader who cares. He cares for principles, he cares for people, regardless of their color or economic status. He can talk to them. He is a man of mature and moderate views. In the past he has proven he can take a stand and defend it effectively.

And the frequent irrigation schedule encourages weed germination and growth."

Fuqua points out that weeds are costly in onions since the crop is usually planted with two rows on each bed for maximum production. Cultivation between each row is impossible, yet hand labor is expensive and hard to locate.

Dear Editor,

Your endorsement of Senator Yarborough's opponent does not surprise me, however I would doubt that his or any politician's record support of minimum wage and rent control legislation to curtail federal involvement in these areas did not, I am sure, benefit anyone who either drew the minimum wage or paid rent.

My political views will include me in that "ultra liberal" group with the Senator. Also, I would say along these lines that it seems strange that for 13 years Senator Yarborough has consistently voted against the wish-

KLAGENFURT, Austria - A Klagenfurt businessman was laughed at by his family when he told them he dreamed a bur lar ransacked the house. Their laughter died when they discovered a burglar had really entered the house and taken off with 77,000 schillings ($3,000) worth of valuables.

While the man was sleeping upstairs, the rest of the family watched a television program in the living room.

Dimmitt Expands Pageant

Officials of the Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation Pageant in Dimmitt have announced intentions to expand the 1970 contest through two days. Dates for this year's program will be Aug. 7-8 in the Dimmitt High School Auditorium.

The chairman for the 1970 Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation Pageant is Elvon Devaney.

"We are adding the extra day so that the judges can see each girl's talent act since it is a large portion of the judging standards. We have not had time in the previous shows for every girl to perform their routines, but we feel the new policy will give each girl an equal chance at the top prize," Devaney said.

The first-place winner in the annual show will receive a $1, 000 college scholarship to the school of her choice. Se c o n d place is worth a $500 scholarship and third place carries a $250 scholarship.

The program is under the direction of the Castro County Chamber of Commerce. Merchants of the Dimmitt area make available much of material for the contest and money and other contributions for the prizes come from the Grain Sorghum Producer's Association, seed producers and other closely related grain sorghum inter-

Past winners have come from Dimmitt, Olton, Mules hoe, Pampa, Ulysses, Kan. and last year from Farmington, N. M.

The winner becomes the official representative of the Grain Sorghum industry and each year makes a number of appearances. The scope and number of those appearances is increasing. The present title bearer is Karen Lafferty, a senior at Eastern New Mexico University at Portales. Miss Lafferty has appeared before conventions, chamber of commerce dinners and other social functions during the past year representing the industry.

Girls interested in participating in the 1970 Pageant may write to the Castro County Chamber of Commerce, Box 924, Dimmitt, for rules and on entry blank. Inquiries concerning the next contest have already been received from Colorado, Kansas and Texas.

VACATIONERS SURPRISED

DURBAN, South Africa - Vacationers on Paradise Island, off the coast of Portuguese Mozambique, were astounded when they spotted a hippopotamus swimming in the sea. The huge beast apparently paddled eight miles from the mainland. A game ranger shot it after it had swum around the island for about three days. A game expert said the hippo was probably driven from the mainland after a feud with an older bull.
