

Construction Group Asks City For Extension On Sewage, Water Contracts

Jewel Robertson, secretary of the Amarillo-based Texas Panhandle Builders Association, and Ruben Aasland of Hereford Development Association asked the city commission Monday night for a two-year grace period on its sewer and water contracts with the city.

Because the item was not posted on the agenda three days prior to the scheduled meeting, the commission could not act on the request, although they did hear reports by Mrs. Robertson and Aasland.

Hereford Development Association, which is responsible for the expansion of Green Acres estate in the northwest part of the city, was given sewer and water contracts in 1965, but did not meet the deadline for completion and the city canceled the contract several weeks ago.

Under law, a developer must put up a certain amount of money on a development project for utility contracts, and, if by the end of the contract the work is not completed, the developer loses what remains of the money.

Mrs. Robertson told the commissioners that because of the current tight money situation, working capital has been scarce and the completion of the local job could not be handled.

"No conventional loans are being made in Hereford," Mrs. Robertson said, "and because loan money is not available, the Amarillo firm believes the contract should be extended by a two-year grace period."

The Hereford Development Association is a branch of the Amarillo firm.

The board of directors of the Texas Panhandle Builders Association issued a resolution to the city of Hereford, asking for the extension.

Aasland told the commission, "Green Acres is something Hereford Developers have constructed that the city can be very proud of."

"We, through this development, have added over $2 million to the tax roll and we can't see how the 292 feet left to complete on the contract should be the cause of not giving us a two-year extension on our contract," he added.

Because of the law prohibiting discussion or action on a matter not included on the agenda, the commission took no action.

Commissioners approved a bid from Jake Diehl Dirt and Paving contractors of Muleshoe for seal coat and paving to be done in the city. Diehl's low bid was $29,862.26. Other bids were submitted by Lewis Construction Company of Lubbock for $32,181.85, and High Plains Pavers for $33,916.15.

The commission discussed but took no action on an assessment program for paving which included Catalpa St., 300 Block of Ave. E., Lake St. and South Lane. Because of the "spot paving" which would be involved in the paving program, the commission felt it would not be feasible from the monetary standpoint to consider paving the four streets.

On Juvenile Officer

Set Joint Meet Soon

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners probably will decide Monday on a date when they and members of the School Board and City Commission can meet to talk further on the possibility of hiring a juvenile officer for Hereford.

The County Commissioners have indicated their support for such a position, and the School Board voted last week to back the proposal.

The City Commission declined to vote one way or the other in its meeting Monday night, however, saying it wanted more information before making up its mind.

"If other governing bodies decide to call a joint meeting, we have agreed to participate," City Manager Dudley Bayne said, however, speaking for members of the City Commission.

When the topic came up at Monday's City Commission meeting, the question arose as to Judge Hank Williams' juvenile load and whether a juvenile officer is needed. They tried to call him at home to get the information. He was unavailable, however, and tabled discussion. "I don't think we need one," Bayne said at the meeting.

County Commissioner Marcus

Latham said it was his understanding the city was to have decided one way or the other, "but everyone seems to think there is no big rush on this thing, and it is all just kind of in the talking stage right now anyway."

County Commissioners met with members of the City Commission Tuesday night to talk informally about the idea. Donald Hicks, a member of the County Commissioners Court, said a date probably will be set when the commissioners meet Monday.

Baccalaureate Is Sunday Students Near End

Hereford's graduating seniors have reached the climax of their secondary education, and are preparing for the ceremonies denoting this accomplishment. Practice for baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies is scheduled for 4 p. m. Friday.

Baccalaureate services, to be held Sunday evening at 8:00 at Whiteface Stadium, will feature Reverend Clifford Trotter, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, as speaker. Rev. L. V. Mays, pastor of the New Zion Baptist Church, Friona, will deliver the invocation, and Rev. Bill Ray of the Church of the Nazarene will give the benediction.

The high school concert band will play the processional and recessional, and the mixed choir will sing "O Brother Man" by Whittier and Ringwald.

Graduation ceremonies for the 275 students will be held in the stadium Thursday, May 27, at 8 p. m. after final practice that afternoon at 2:40.

Santry Rush, senior class president, will deliver the invocation at the graduation, followed by salutatory address by Stephen Dziuk and the valedictory speech by Laurel Davis.

Senior vice president, Tony Gorman, will present the class gift to the school. High school principal Jerry Don George will give presentation of awards, school superintendent Roy Hartman will conduct the presentation of the class and school board president Dr. A. T. Mims will present the graduates with their diplomas.

Ben Gollehon will sing a solo rendition of the class song, "A Time For Us." The concert band will perform "Carmina Burana" by Orff, as well as the processional and recessional.

The graduating seniors will sing the school song and class secretary, Camille Langley, will render the benediction.

High school assistant principal, Keith Munnerlyn, reports that admission to the section of seats in the stadium reserved for graduates' parents and families will be granted only to those presenting tickets received by the students. Each graduate received four tickets for this purpose.

The west entrance to the stadium will be used and all of the audience will sit on the west side, where approximately 4,000 seats are available.

In the event of rain, on either night, Munnerlyn says the ceremony will be held in the La Plata Gymnasium, which is being placed in readiness.

Final examinations for the seniors will be held Monday and Tuesday.

Worker Is Injured Tuesday

A Hereford feed yard employee was seriously injured in an early morning accident Tuesday.

Jay Smith, 53, of Grand E Trailer Park, was caught in a grain auger at the BigTex Feed Yards, 3 miles north of Summerfield, at 7:30 a. m. as he was checking the grain cleaner at the yards.

Gilliland's ambulance service brought Smith to Deaf Smith County Hospital, where he underwent surgery at 8:30. Doctors Mims and Rush, performing the surgery, removed Smith's right leg, just below the knee.

Chamber Urges Need For High Farm Prices

The Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Wednesday adopted an agricultural policy calling for a farm bill that will support prices high enough to give farmers a reasonable chance to make a profit.

"This could be a program similar to what we have had since 1965," the organization said. The policy was that which the Chamber's feed grain subcommittee had recommended.

The Chamber of Commerce also went on record as opposing changes in the U. S. postal system that would include provisions for a more unionized labor system, and established a committee to look into ways of improving Hereford's relationship with metropolitan Amarillo, and specifically Amarillo news media.

In regard to the farm program, the Chamber said the federal government, commodity groups and local residents "should be encouraged to work on programs that would remove the need for acreage controls, price supports and direct payments."

The organization recommended these programs to help remove such needs:

—The State Department should take more aggressive action to counter common market tariffs on U. S. agricultural products with tariffs on industrial imports from common market countries and other countries that bar our agriculture products from their market.

—Our government and commodity groups should be more aggressive in promoting U. S. agricultural products at home and abroad.

The group also backed a policy of basing parity on the purchasing power which farmers had during a base period rather than an average price of a commodity during the past three years.

"The program should not be extended to other products not now included in the program," the policy also provides.

The chamber also said Wednesday it is opposed "to any type of long-term retirement or whole-farm retirement program" and to proposed legislation calling for a low level of price support and participating farmers agreeing to set aside a percentage of their tilled land.

"Many segments of our economy are subsidized for the benefit of the customer," the Chamber said.

A committee of Earnest Langley, Jeff Carille and Chamber manager Bill Thompson was named to develop a plan or initiating discussions with Amarillo "looking toward an improvement in this area."

The Chamber officials felt the Amarillo news media has shown a tendency to "blow up" any unfavorable publicity concerning Deaf Smith County and to ignore favorable stories or, in the case of the newspaper, to place them in obscure places.

The "no" vote by the Chamber of Commerce on the postal reform question was on a nationwide referendum being circulated by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

"We oppose it for the same reason that the national chamber does," Thomson said. "We feel it sets a precedent for labor unions in other branches of government, which would place all government employees in a bargaining position and set a precedent on compulsory arbitration. The Chamber is in favor of postal reform but not with this labor deal tied with it."

Up for a vote, from the U.S. Chamber, asked for a yes or no vote on this: "Should the national chamber fully support legislation to reorganize the U. S. Postal System which includes provisions under which labor relations questions (such as wage rates, changed procedures for handling the mail, and whether employees may be required to join a union) would be ultimately determined by binding arbitration whenever the postal service management and the unions fail to reach an agreement?"

Lions Present Leo Charter

The Leo Club, a Lions Club-sponsored organization for boys and girls 15 through 20 years of age, will be presented its charter at 7:30 p. m. Friday during a banquet at the Civic Center.

Special guest for the banquet will be Lions Club District 2-1 Governor Ed Flood, of Amarillo, A. J. "Major" Schroeter, president of the noon Lions Club, and Ray Barber, president of the evening Lions Club, along with other club officials will also be present at the charter night.

Tickets for the banquet may be purchased for $2.50 for Leo Club members and for $3 for anyone else wishing to attend the banquet. All tickets must be purchased in advance of the banquet from either Freddy Cooper or Lynn Brisendine or any Leo Club member.

Following the banquet, a dance is scheduled at the Community Center beginning at 9:30 p. m. The public is invited to the dance.

The idea of a Leo Club was first discussed by members of the noon and evening Lions Clubs in late February of this year. Organization plans were put into action and some 35 young men and women expressed interest in the organization.

"The Leo (Leadership, Experience and Opportunity) Club will provide the youth of the community an opportunity to join together and develop their own approaches to solving community problems," an official of one of the sponsoring clubs said.

The Lions will advise the Leo Club members but they will be free to design their own projects and elect their own officers. They will also have their own budget.

Students Study Cleanup Drive, Offer Their Tips

Some of Hereford's young citizens have revealed their frank opinions about the city's litter problem.

The beautification committee of the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsored an essay contest, among fifth and sixth grade English students at Shirley School.

The students were asked to write about the recent cleanup campaign in Hereford.

"Hereford could be and is going to be a clean and beautiful city! If I have to do it myself!" Melinda Matthews of the sixth grade wrote.

"Some questions keep popping up in my mind," Melinda continued, "Does Hereford's people respect what it's city looks like? Would cleanup really help Hereford's looks? I just hope someone can answer these questions."

Luanne Kindsfater reveals the observation of the young.

"When my family and I went on trips this year, we saw signs saying $10 to $500 fine for throwing trash out of cars. This must not be helping very much because there was still trash on the highways," she said.

Karl King has some solutions to the trash problems: "I wish there were such things as trash laser beams. It would be better than nothing. I had a dream that there were trash bombs which would get rid of trash."

Bobby Kearns, fifth grade might have the answer to the cities that are disappointed with the recent census count:

"We would all enjoy a very neat and clean place to live. And if we would help keep our parks and picnic grounds cleaner. More people would like it and like to live here."

"The slogan for our local cleanup campaign is 'Litter is a Family Affair.' It really is because most of us have trash yards or alleys," commented Pam Lee, sixth grade.

Cindy Hoffman, sixth grader, isn't very happy with what she

Citywide Canvass Friday

Members of several civic organizations and churches will canvass the city Friday beginning at 8:30 p. m. to collect money for the Lubbock disaster area.

Rocky Lee, spokesman for the drive, said the group is still looking for help in canvassing the city and anyone who would like to help should be at the Community Center at 8 p. m. Friday. There, workers will be designated streets to cover.

Lee said anyone who wants to give money should leave their porch lights on Friday night and workers will be around to collect for the drive.

Also, each of the local banks will have donation jars available for persons who might be missed in Friday night's drive. "Persons donating," Lee said, "should make checks payable to the United Fund for use in the Lubbock disaster area."

"This duty, the donations will be tax deductible and will see to it that the money goes to the Lubbock area."

Lee said Lubbock officials have indicated they do not need clothing or food now, "Just money to help the people get back on their feet."

"What we want to get across to the people," Lee said, "is that this drive is not organized by any local civic club or organization, but is being done by interested citizens who believe we would receive the same kind of help if the tornado struck Hereford."

Accounts for the disaster area will be kept open through Monday before the money will be disbursed and this will provide people an extended opportunity to donate money to the drive.

A tornado blast from the sirens across town will be sounded at the beginning of the drive, provided the weather is clear and there is no chance of a storm. Organizers of the drive said that citizens should disregard the sirens as a pending disaster alarm and should turn on their porch lights at that time if they wish to contribute money to the drive.

Musical Festival Set For Tonight

Tonight's the night — for the big Spring Musical Festival with more than 500 of Hereford's school students, giving the city a chance to hear what the various groups have accomplished this school year.

This musical presentation will be at 8 p. m. at the gymnasium of La Plata Junior High School. Earnest Langley will be narrator.

Band and choir members in the various schools have been practicing feverishly to perfect the numbers they will perform this evening. Participating in the event are the high school band, under the direction of Ben Gol-lehon, and mixed choir, under the direction of Bill Devers; La Plata's band, directed by Jim Priest, and mixed choir, directed by Mrs. Jane Guiley; Stanton Junior High School's band, directed by Randy Vaughn, and mixed choir, directed by Douglas Morris, and the orchestra composed by members of the various elementary schools throughout the city.

Admission to the festival will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for students. Proceeds will be used to improve the lighting and sound facilities in the high school auditorium.

Gridders End Spring Drills In Friday Night Scrimmage

The Hereford Whitefaces, four months away from their first season in Class AAAA football warfare, clash in an intra-squad scrimmage Friday night to wind up their three weeks of spring training.

Coach Larry Wartes and his staff have divided their squad "as equally as we could" for the match-up, which will be at the football field immediately north of the high school. Whiteface Stadium is being used Friday for baccalaureate practice.

The freshman gridgers will begin scrimmaging at 5:30 p. m., followed by a scrimmage between about 15 of the top freshman players against a unit made up predominantly of sophomores.

Then about 7 p. m. the Whiteface varsity will clash. The scrimmage will be under game-type conditions, Wartes said. There may be punts, although the coach said if punts are allowed, there will be no returns attempted.

Mike Wartes will quarterback one team, and Rudy Gonzales and Charles Allison will alternate in calling the signals for the opposing team.

The other three in the backfield with Wartes will come from Danny Charest, Allen Railway, Eugene Suttle and Alan Wagner.

The starting backfield for the other squad, with Gonzales and Allison, will come from Ricky Ward, Jeff Loerwald, John Page and David Spain, Wartes said.

"Then the linemen have been just kinda divided the best that we can to have offensive and defensive teams out of it," Coach Wartes said. "Most of 'em we'll let go both ways, but we'll switch some of 'em in or out depending on whether the team has the ball."

On the team quarterbacked by Wartes, the ends will be Harold Schmucker, Eddie Gage and Jay Henderson, tackles Dan Gorman and Fidel Vigil, guards Donny McDermitt and Rex Coleman and center Albert Pena.

On the other team are ends George Fuller and Monty Smith, tackles David Collins and Pat Betzen, guards Gary Lemons and Bruce Battey and center Mike Emerson.

There will be about 30 players on each side, and Wartes said he would be shuffling the remaining players in and out to get a good look at every player. "Everyone will play. We want a look at them," Wartes said.

BIG CATCH — Two Hereford couples fished on a trotline at North Anson Lake, near Anson, Tex., last weekend and came up with these three big yellow catfish weighing a total of 74 pounds. The biggest weighed 34 pounds, another 22 pounds and the third 18 pounds. From left are Woodrow Dutton, Mrs. Dutton, Mrs. Clifton Robison and Mr. Robison. The small one Mrs. Dutton is holding wasn't weighed.

Essay Writers Want To Have Cleaner City

First prize winners for the beautification essay contest at Shirley School were written by Renee Payne of the sixth grade and Karen Fox of the fifth grade.

These essays are, in full:

Dear Friends,

I think it is a good idea to have a clean-up campaign for Hereford. It will make Hereford a place that is respected more by the people of Texas.

Our sixth grade class of Shirley has helped in the campaign by cleaning up our alleys and other alleys in Hereford. Some of the pupils have collected money for doing this and the total earned is over $60 in the last semester. Our class thought the Yukon was in Alaska, but when we counted the money we had earned cleaning alleys we decided it was in the hands of Mr. Cope's sixth grade class.

One way to start is to clean up your own house, yard, and alley, then you can help clean up someone else's alley and earn some money. After that get a group together and clean up the streets, city parks, swimming pools, highways, churches and school grounds near you. If there is a vacant lot near you, you can mow it, and pick up the trash in it, it would make you feel a lot better and your street would look a lot nicer.

When some people just throw paper in your yard it makes you furious because you have to pick it up, but all of us have thrown paper down on other people's yards and it makes them mad, so if we have to pick it up maybe we won't throw it down anymore.

The Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts have done their share by picking up litter on the highways.

I think the campaign is a start and an inspiration to everyone. If everyone does their share in the campaign we will have a better place in which to live and work.

Sincerely,
Renee Payne

LOCAL CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Can you imagine what it would be like living in the ghettos of New York? Most of the people live out of trash cans. They don't have good clean houses to live in, in fact some of them don't even have houses.

Can you imagine a town without any trash, tin cans, or paper. That would be a nice place to live. Hereford could look that way.

Some people should be more respectful to our town. Some people just throw trash out on highways and I don't think it's being very respectful.

This clean-up campaign is a good idea. It gives us a chance to clean alleys, paint and fix up old houses, and clean vacant lots so Hereford will be a clean town.

I've gone through towns that I think are real clean and neat. I like to stay in towns like that. I think some people feel the same way about Hereford.

Hereford is a clean town but it could be cleaner. It could be improved by some people taking care of their yards and homes. The alleys could be improved also.

Karen Fox

sees.

"Downtown is not very clean. When people have cokes or something, they throw it on the ground," Cindy said. "So I think the cleanup campaign is a very good idea and I hope all of the citizens of Hereford will help to make it a happier town and a more beautiful one."

Kim Young, added a P. S. to her essay, "I think those signs in the Mall are really effective," she said.

Deanna King, fifth grade, says trash "is one of the biggest problems in Hereford. Some people try to clean up the town, but others don't care. I am one of the people who do care. I hope there's others that do too."

"No wonder they're having to build a new part of the hospital. Because it (the trash) would make someone sick. Sick enough to go to that hospital," says Teddy Pittsinger, fifth grade.

Marcia Trotter suggests, "If you have a dog, keep it inside your fence or tied up. It can get into trash cans and get trash all over your alley."

Jeanne Hair, says "It's not even safe for kids that are barefoot to empty trash for fear of broken glass and beer can rings.

One paper, whose author was identified only as Dora R. sums up the essays, 80 in number, with her closing words, "For your own sake, keep your town beautiful."

Teaching these students are Miss Wilhite and Mr. Cope for the sixth graders and Mr. Mulkey and Mrs. Holmes for the fifth grade.

Tech Students Plan Tours

Several Texas Tech students have made plans for cultural study and touring abroad this summer in such countries as Switzerland, Austria, England, Holland and Mexico.

A number of tours sponsored by different colleges at Tech will give students a chance to obtain a variety of viewpoints on the course of study.

One group will travel with Dr.

Judson Maynard, associate professor of music, who is arranging the program with Work or Study Abroad Schools, Ltd., of Milwaukee.

This group will leave from New York on July 12 for four weeks of study at the world-famous Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria. The remaining two weeks of the trip will include air, train, and channel steamer trips to other European cities such as Geneva, Innsbruck, Paris and London.

The oldest study program of this nature is offered by the department of classical and romance languages. This is a six-week course for advanced undergraduate and graduate students during the second summer school session in San Luis Potosi, Guadalupe and Mexico City.

The courses, Spanish 4323-4329 and 538-539, are open to 30 students who intend to teach Spanish, enter business or government service.

C-C Committee Thanks Residents For Their Help

The Chamber of Commerce committee, sponsoring the month-long cleanup campaign which was completed May 15, is pleased to find Hereford a cleaner city and its citizens more aware of keeping it that way.

"The beautification committee wishes to express gratitude to everyone for cooperation in cleaning the city; we are in hopes of maintaining this attitude throughout the whole year," says Mrs. Pete Caviness, chairman.

"The cooperation and attitude of the youth was remarkable. I am so glad the message was received; the youngsters are perhaps more conscious of debris and neglect about the city than the adults," Mrs. Caviness continued.

The Campfire Girls and Boy Scouts cleaned along Hereford's highways May 2, while the young Bluebirds and Cub Scouts combed Dameron's Park, only to have it cluttered the following day by thoughtless persons.

Leo Club members cooperated with the Evening Lions Club in painting the trash cans about town.

Art students from La Plata Junior High created posters to be displayed in obvious spots in town as reminders of the clean-up campaign.

Fifth and sixth grade English students at Shirley School wrote essays concerning the campaign, along with the winning compositions are to be found in this paper.

Mrs. Caviness remarked that judging such enthusiastic remarks and opinions of Hereford's young citizens was a difficult task.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

General Examinations

WHEN a sigmoid examination is suggested by a doctor, does it mean that he is looking for a cancer of the intestine? I have been so frightened by the idea that I have delayed going for almost six months.

Mr. L. V. S., Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. S.: The sigmoid is a portion of the large intestine leading to the rectum. Every complete examination includes a rectal examination, especially in patients above the age of 30.

Dr. Coleman

Occasionally, a special type of examination of this part of the large bowel is done with an instrument called the sigmoidoscope, through which the lining of the large intestine can be carefully examined.

The fact that your doctor suggested this examination simply means that he wants to rule out trouble in this area. It certainly does not mean that you have a cancer. This misconception occurs frequently in patients. When a doctor orders an X-ray of the chest, he does so in order to see if any disease or disorder is present. He does not order an X-ray of the chest "to find a cancer."

Similarly, a blood study, a kidney test, a cardiogram, or any of a hundred other tests are used as aids in diagnosis and should not be a source of alarm to those patients who are being tested.

Your fear has been unnecessary and hangs over your head as a threat when you might have been spared this anxiety. Had you asked the same question of your doctor, you would have been reassured a long time ago and had the advantage of a completed examination.

Is there any advantage to having vitamin injections over taking them by mouth?

Mrs. S. L., Nebraska

Dear Mrs. L.: Unless there is a specific vitamin deficiency for which injections are recommended by the doctor, taking them by mouth usually satisfies the body's need for daily requirements. A good illustration of the need for vitamin injections is for the control of pernicious anemia. In such cases, the vitamin injections are reinforced by a highly nutritious diet.

I have stated before that I am distressed by over-priced vitamins that serve no real function than those of reasonable cost. There are some physicians who actually believe that vitamins stay longer in the body when taken by mouth than they do when given by injection.

There is a vast group of people, especially those in the theater, who are prone to such attitudes, who believe that regular vitamin B shots are the only way they can get through a day's work. I do not believe that this has any scientific validity.

Can medicine be put on the fingers of children who insist on biting their nails? Is this a good way to break the habit?

Mrs. K. B., Georgia

Dear Mrs. B.: Nail biting in children or adults is evidence of some inner tension or nervousness. It is much wiser to seek the cause of these tensions and eliminate them than to apply unpleasant medicines to the nails. This obviously is the improper approach for high-strung children who need support rather than punishment.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Flush unused old medicines down the drain. They're safer there than in cabinets.

Dr. Lester Coleman has prepared a special booklet for readers of this column, "Alcoholism—A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed 6-cent stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., P.O. Box 5170, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017. State Considers Area For Game

The rugged and rollin Texas Panhandle is experiencing growth as a major game-producing area of the State.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials point out that nine important game birds and animals in the 33-county Panhandle area have either remained stable in population or have extended their range dramatically in recent years.

Mule deer, white-tailed deer, pronghorn antelope, turkey, quail, sheep, ringneck pheasant, lesser prairie chicken and bobwhite and blue quail are found in many of the counties and all have a considerable economic impact.

Department project leader Dick DeArment of Wheeler reports that the white-tailed deer herd has done well, with some unusually large animals harvested recently.

A total of 1,337 pronghorn antelope have been killed in six Panhandle counties from 1965 through 1969.

Aoudad sheep released in the Palo Duro Canyon have increased from an original herd of 44 in 1957 to an estimated 800 in seven counties.

Ringneck pheasants are reported to be extending their range, and increases in the lesser prairie chicken population have been sufficient to allow limited open seasons in the past three years.

The prairie chickens were protected in the State for 45 years while their numbers — and the habitat upon which they depend — dwindled. The situation has improved in some areas, however.

Hunters were able to bag about 300 birds in each of the first two seasons.

Local Man Spends Week As Soldier In Middle Of Tornado-Hit Lubbock

John David Bryant is back at his desk at the First National Bank of Hereford this week. He changed Monday from his National Guard captain's uniform into the normal civilian attire.

Bryant, commanding officer of Company C, 2nd Battalion, 142nd Infantry, is one of the 450 Panhandle and South Plains Texas National Guardsmen who were on disaster duty at Lubbock for almost a week after the death-dealing, devastating tornado ripped through the city May 11.

All thoughts of bank matters were pushed aside during the week. Bryant directed the activities of his company under the leadership of Lt. Col. Jesse K. Barton, battalion commander, of Amarillo. It was a major challenge for the Guard.

In addition to the infantrymen from the Lubbock and Amarillo areas, special engineer teams from the Abilene area and communications specialists from Austin were in Lubbock only hours after the storm blasted a huge portion of the downtown area, some residential zones and the industrial complex north of the city.

Bryant got to Lubbock about 1:10 a. m. Tuesday, just three and one-half hours after the tornado hit.

"There were ambulances everywhere, highlines were down, all the streets were flooded, all the signal lights were down in the middle of streets," he said this week after returning to Hereford.

Bryant had directed the work of National Guardsmen in Plainview about a month earlier after a tornado hit sections of that city, but there was no comparison in the damage.

"Not to say anything about Plainview, but, well, it was just a practice run as far as the Lubbock tornado was concerned. There is no way to compare them. From what I saw, I'd say about a sixth of the city of Lubbock was at least 90 per cent wiped out. They were just real fortunate in that more people were not killed," Bryant said.

TORNADO GREETING — This is typical of the sight which greeted Panhandle area National Guardsmen when they arrived in Lubbock Tuesday to start a week-long tour of duty in the aftermath of the devastating tornado which struck the city May 11. Capt. John David Bryant of Hereford is in charge of one of the companies mobilized for the operation.

Work Through May 9 Needed Just For Taxes

When Saturday, May 9 arrived it should have been called "SATMday." Or, "Stop Accumulating Tax Money Day."

National Chamber tax experts calculate that all the money earned by the average American taxpayer during the first four months and eight days of 1970 went to pay his federal, state and local taxes.

Figured another way, he works two hours and 40 minutes out of an eight-hour day to pay his tax bills.

Here are some other tax facts dug out by the Chamber's taxation specialists:

—Half of the federal individual income tax in the United States is paid by persons who earn between $5,000 and $15,000 a year.

—The federal budget did not hit the $100 billion total until the country was 186 years old, but it took only nine years to reach $200 billion.

—Interest on the federal debt is $20 billion. That's more than the entire cost of operating the government only 29 years ago in 1941.

—State and local governments' revenues are increasing at the rate of approximately 12 per cent a year and will double in less than seven years.

—State income tax revenues have increased four-fold during the past 10 years.

—The $201 billion federal budget for 1971 will cost every individual in the U. S. , from the newborn babe to the oldest centenarian, almost $1,000 — or to be exact, $980.

Towle Announces Resignation At Adrian Growers

J. A. Towle, manager of Adrian Wheat Growers, has announced his resignation to accept a position as assistant manager of the Dumas Co-op, effective on or before June 6.

Towle has served as manager of the Adrian Wheat Growers since May of 1969 after working as bookkeeper at Dumas Co-op before moving to Adrian.

The board of directors of Adrian Wheat Growers made the announcement following Towle's statement Saturday.

Baseball Season Ends With Loss To Dumas

After a two-week layoff, the Whitefaces finally ended their baseball season Saturday, but on a sour note.

They fell to district champion Dumas, 11-1.

Hereford's last contest prior to Saturday's game was on May 2, also with Dumas, and the Herd already was out of the conference race then.

Because of spring football training, Hereford had only one organized workout the past two weeks.

As Saturday's game began, however, it appeared the Whitefaces might draw the last district blood. Hereford held the Demons scoreless in the first inning and then took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the frame.

Eugene Suttle and Jeff Loerwald led off the inning with walks and Donny McDermitt reached first on an error to load the bases. Right fielder Tommy Stoy then sacrificed Suttle home.

But Dumas scored two runs in both the second and third innings and pushed three runs across in each of the next two innings before tacking on their final run in the sixth.

The Dumas pitching performance was almost flawless. Eugene Suttle's single was the Herd's only hit. Bobby Laughry pitched the first half of the game for the Demons and was then relieved by Robert Dunavan.

"We decided to let everybody play this last game," Hereford coach Fred Upshaw said. "We let Rudy Gonzales pitch two innings, Alan Warner two and Paul Loerwald two."

The Whitefaces finished with a 7-15 season record and a 2-6 district mark. Dumas' conference record was 7-1.

WTSU Signs Mays To Track Letter

Percy Mays, 880-yard run specialist for the Hereford Whiteface track team, has signed a letter of intent to participate on the West Texas State University track and field squad.

Mays, who won the District 1-AAA half mile in 2:00.5 and ran 2:00.4 in regional to place third, was given a half-scholarship, with the understanding that he will be given a full scholarship if his performance merits it.

WTSU track coach Bob Kitchens made the announcement Monday that he had signed both Mays and Lockney's Tracy Dickson, a sprint star.

"Both Percy and Tracy have the potential to become outstanding performers," Kitchens said.

Both were standouts in other sports. Mays lettered three years in basketball and Dickson was an all-district selection in football as a split end. Mays is 6-1½, 165 pounds, and Dickson is 6-0 and 165 pounds.

The two athletes maintained a B average in high school. Mays plans to major in speech and Dickson will major in either agriculture or physical education.

Dickson had a best time of 9.8 in the 100-yard dash and 22.0 in the 220-yard dash. He placed fourth in the Class AA region 100-yard dash.

Durham Will Head Boosters

The Whiteface Booster Club has named Milt Durham as its president for the next year.

In a Monday night meeting, presided over by outgoing president Ted Higgins, the group also named Gene Suttle vice president, Bub Sparks treasurer and Jay Spain secretary.

Joan Milton rolled 54 pins over her average last Thursday to dominate Bowler of the Week honors in Strike-Out League action.

Geneva Kilpatrick took high series honors with a 516 score and high game honors with her 195.

Converting splits were Margaret Janssen 3-10, Alice Lueb 3-10, Joy Bunch 3-10, Joan Milton 4-5, Connie Levering 2-7-10, and Geneva Kilpatrick 3-10.

Team standings this season are Sunset Lanes 77-47; One Hour Martinizing 66-58; Furr's 65½-58½; Hereford Flying Ser-

Women Bowlers Set Tourney For Friday

This season's Bowler of the Year Tournament has been scheduled by the Hereford Women's Bowling Association for Friday at Sunset Lanes.

Eligibility for bowling in the tournament is that a girl must have been selected Star of the Week during the 1969-70 season. Names of these girls are posted on the bulletin board at Sunset Lanes.

If a girl is not sure if she has been Star of the Week, she should contact Jean Watts at 364-0033 or Sunset Lanes at 364-9004.

Eligible girls who do not plan to bowl should also contact the locations so the runnerup Bowler of the Week can be contacted.

The 1969-70 Bowler of the Year will be determined by combining the girl's three-game series in the tourney and her handicap.

The decision to hold the tournament Friday was made by the association Monday at its end-of-year meeting in the home of Bertha Arnold, association president.

The members approved a city assessment fee of $1.

Officers elected for the Hereford Women's Bowling Association for the coming season were president, Betha Arnold, re-elected for a two year term; first vice president, Mrs. Eleanor Hudspeth; second vice president, Mrs. Audine Dettmann; treasurer, Mrs. Carol Dyer; Sergeant of arms, Mrs. Wilma Clark; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Doris Wilson.

vice 65-59; Merry Widows 62-62; Hi-Way "60" Truck Stop 61½-62½; Texsun Feed Yards 50-74; and Clark's House of Flowers 49-75.

Some of this is coming from the "extremely good" top soil scraped off the Jones Stadium field before Astro-turf could be put down.

When the project is finished it will provide a scenic background for the historic buildings for the Ranch Headquarters — providing variations in elevation to keep each of the structures in its historic perspective, according to Ranch Headquarters Director Jerry Rogers.

"To get the job done commercially would be costly and," he pointed out, "funds are not available. Yet the land form is critical to the success of the exhibit. This arrangement with the Army Reservists is of tremendous service to the Ranch Headquarters and to the public for whom the exhibit is being constructed."

Changnon said hail caused $284 million worth of crop damage nationwide last year.

Death Takes Mrs. Smith

Funeral services for Mrs. Mayvi Amarillo Cornelius Smith, of Hereford, who was the first girl born in Amarillo, were conducted at 2 p. m. Friday in Blackburn-Shaw Memorial Chapel with Dr. Winfred Moore, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Llano Cemetery.

The mother of Mrs. Mary Whiteside of Hereford, Mrs. Smith died Wednesday morning in Deaf Smith County Hospital.

Mayvi Amarillo Cornelius Smith, named after Amarillo, was born July 18, 1888, the same year the city was incorporated. A true pioneer child of the prairie town, she watched the town for which she was named grow from a "rag town" of cowboys and early settlers to a cattle shipping center with a railroad.

Eventually she saw her birth-place increase to 167,000 residents.

Three years after graduation from High School, in 1907, she and E. L. Smith were married there on June 22, 1910 in the First Baptist Church where she was a member. The couple lived in the same house from 1919 to 1969 when they moved to Hereford.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Whiteside of Hereford and Mrs. Mayvi Weaver of Lubbock; two sisters, Mrs. Carl Knupp and Mrs. Raymond Mock, both of Amarillo; a brother, Leslie Cornelius of Nevada; seven grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Story, Crume Named Officers

Gary Story and Gary Crume, Hereford students attending West Texas State University, were named to offices of the Student Association at the recent spring general elections.

Story, a junior, was installed as student body president and Crume as sophomore senator.

An English major, Story served this year as vice-president of the student body and president of the Student Senate. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, national social fraternity.

Crume, a freshman, was one of seven students from the freshman class elected as senators.

In his first game for the New York Giants, Junior Coffey rushed for 53 yards against the Philadelphia Eagles. Coffey was obtained from Atlanta in midseason.

That means everybody.
That means you. But to STOP, in this world of turmoil and toil, is almost a lost art. We've got to STOP, LOOK, and LISTEN for God. It is that time of day. We must realize we are eternal children of God, on the swift way to destiny.
Just as there must be "rests" in music, to give it phrasing and color, so must man "pause" with God, to refresh his soul.
There are warnings aplenty on the road of life. It would be very wise to STOP for His counsel; LOOK for His direction; LISTEN to His pleading.
His church steeple is a compelling force in every community. It invites you to invest your life in her program of service.

Professor Receives Grant To Study Fossils

CANYON, — Dr. Gerald E. Schultz, associate professor of geology at West Texas State University, was awarded a $16,900 grant by the National Science Foundation for fossil research in the Texas Panhandle.

It was only the second NSF grant awarded an individual at West Texas State. Dr. Paul Wayne Lambert, associate professor of geology, received the first grant last year for studies of deposits of Quaternary volcanic ash in the Panhandle and adjacent parts of New Mexico. The grant comes at a time when there is a general nationwide curtailment of private financing for research done on university campuses.

Schultz, 33, said his research would consist of collecting vertebrate fossils from strata immediately below the volcanic ash studied by Lambert. "This volcanic ash, called the Pearlette Ash, is unique in the Great Plains and provides an important stratigraphic time marker for sediments of the Pleistocene epoch," Schultz said.

Schultz added that Lambert's "work will show whether the ash deposits represent one or more ash falls in the region" while his "will help date the ash beds by means of the vertebrate fauna found below the ash."

He said, "Fossils found so far indicate the types of animals that lived in and around ponds and playas into which the volcanic ash fell or was washed."

"A study of the fauna will also help determine the type of climate or environment which existed in the Panhandle a out one million to one and a half million years ago when the ash was deposited."

Schultz said that similar studies have already been done in North Central Texas, Kansas and Nebraska, thus contributing to an over-all picture of conditions in the Great Plains during the middle of the Pleistocene epoch.

The grant is for two years, Schultz said, and will be used mainly for field work, purchase of equipment and payment to four student assistants.

"Students interested in working as a summer field assistant on the project are urged to apply through the West Texas State University geology department," he said.

Schultz said the work this summer and next will involve removing tons of dirt from a number of sites. The dirt will be brought to the university where watering troughs and cooper screen bottom boxes will be used to screen it for tiny fossils.

The painstaking task for examining and identifying the various fossils found will be done by Schultz during the winter months.

Schultz, a native of Red Wing, Minn., received a Bachelor and Master of Science degrees in geology from the University of Minnesota and a Doctor of Philosophy Degree in geology from the University of Michigan.

Schultz, who joined the West Texas State faculty in 1964, is the author of several research publications in various scientific journals and symposia. He has held previous grants from Organized Research Fund at West Texas State.

Durham Attends National Credit Union Meeting

Mitt Durham of Hereford attended the annual meetings of the international credit union movement last week in Madison, Wis.

Durham, manager of the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union, Hereford, is the League-CUNA Mutual Coordinator in Texas. He was one of more than 120 credit union leaders participating in the 14th annual Policyowners' Representatives Conference of CUNA Mutual Insurance Society, life insurance affiliate of the worldwide credit union movement.

Conference theme was Risk Management and the Credit Union. Participants learned how to take preventive measures against embezzlement, forger y, fire, armed robbery and burglary. They saw demonstrations on safecracking, surveillance cameras, alarm systems, forgery and embezzlement.

Later this year, Durham will assist in conducting a state-level conference for credit union officials in Texas. They, in turn, will help to conduct similar meetings on the chapter level in their locales.

Durham has been active in the credit union movement for 17 years and currently serves as a director and the treasurer of the Texas Credit Union League, and a vice chairman of the Texas Credit Union League Services, Inc.

RECEIVES GRANT — Dr. Gerald E. Schultz, associate professor of geology at West Texas State University, has received a two-year grant totaling $16,900 from the National Science Foundation for fossil research in the Texas Panhandle. His research should give a clearer picture of the climate and environment of the area during the middle Pleistocene epoch, about 1½ million years ago.

Intensive Course In French Will Start At WTSU Soon

An intensified course in French conversation and reading will be offered at West Texas State University this summer to meet a growing demand for such instruction.

"This is not an experiment," said Miss Monica Heiman, assistant professor of modern languages. "We are using a tried and true method of intensified teaching of a language."

The courses — 206 and 207 — will be offered in two three-week periods during the first session of summer school. They will run from 7:30 a. m. to noon Monday through Friday. A total of six hours credit may be earned if both courses are taken.

"Students may take 206 only for three hours credit," Miss Heiman said. "The only prerequisite is having taken the 100 courses (beginners' French) or their equivalent."

She said the concentrated course program is ideal for students who desire to complete their language requirement in three semesters.

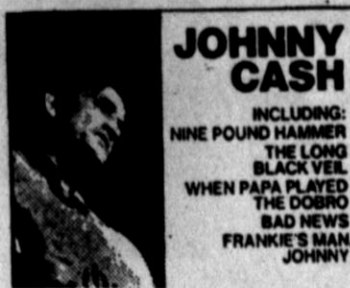

"I would advise high school foreign language teachers to take these courses as a means of improving their language skills," she added.

"The Army and major universities who have offered intensified courses for years have proved that students forget less by living with the language they are learning," Miss Heiman said.

Deadline for registering for French 206 and 207 is June 2. Classes start the next day.

"Early registration is essential because class enrollment will be limited," said Dr. Ples Harper, chairman of the modern language department.

For Women

Japan No Male Paradise,
Female Rules DomaineBy ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
Associate Press Writer

Americans who visit Japan this summer for the Expo 70 festival undoubtedly will return home convinced that Japan, is a man's paradise. Japan, despite modern technology and the increasing inroads women are making in the business world, appears to be a nation where the man is complete and undisputed master of the home — a nation where a man is absolute ruler over his wife and children.

But according to Japanese-American singer-entertainer, Pat Suzuki, this is only on the surface.

"In reality, it's the women who run the home and the children and in many respects they rule with a more absolute and final authority than American women would ever dream of," says the pint-sized pixie, who is 4 foot 11.

Pat says her recent visit to Japan, where she served as part of the U. S. delegation for opening day ceremonies at Expo 70, only confirmed what she had observed on her singing tour of Japan several years ago.

"Indisputably, women are the boss at home. But a casual observer would not realize this. I didn't realize it either when I was a girl living with my Japanese-born parents on a farm in Cressey, Calif. Mamma would say that papa was the boss and I believed her," she says with a smile.

"In retrospect," she continues, "I realize that it's the Japanese women who pull all the strings at home. By using flattery and a certain type of deception and by allowing the man to pretend to be boss, they may build a better kind of mousetrap."

Pat points out the Japanese women are almost solely responsible for disciplining their children. "A Japanese woman wouldn't dream of saying to a child, 'Wait till your father comes home.' The woman administers the discipline that is needed at that moment and doesn't bother her husband about such problems."

Although she was born and raised in the states, Pat took the traditional Japanese approach when it came to raising her son, David, now 9. "When Mark was alive (fashion photographer Mark Shaw, from whom she was divorced before his death this past January), I never would say, 'Look what David did.' After a day's hassle with the commercial world, I couldn't expect him to face those problems."

Pausing to fix one of the many flower arrangements in her Oriental-Victorian furnished mid-Manhattan apartment, where she now lives with her son and a woman friend, Pat gave her views on other differences between Japanese and American women.

"I like American women best of all," said the effervescent singer, shaking her long jet black ponytail. "American women are so honest. They tell you just what they want. You're allowed to be so open."

In contrast, she says Japanese women are trained to practice deceptions as a way of life. "Add to this the fact that the Japanese language is so ambiguous and you can understand how women have confused men into letting them have their way."

Nowadays in Japan it's not uncommon for a girl to attempt to convince her father that she'd like to try a period as a single career girl. "But most women give up careers when they marry."

She claims she personally had no qualms about giving up her show business career for marriage. "I never expected to make it in show business in the first place," says Pat, who originally planned for a career in art education, a field in which she holds two university degrees and a teacher's certificate.

Fresh out of college and as a lark, she auditioned for a small role in the national touring company of "Teahouse of the August Moon." The tour brought her to Seattle, where she landed a job singing in a night club. It was there that she was discovered by Bing Crosby — an event which led to many other night club appearances, television appearances and ultimately to Broadway's "Flower Drum Song," where her rendition of "I Enjoy Being a Girl" made her an overnight sensation.

Then abruptly and impulsively, Pat abandoned her career at its height for marriage and subsequently motherhood. "I was in love and having a home seemed a more natural way of life," she explains. "Actually it wasn't a tough decision at all."

Presently, Pat is intent on resuming her singing career. "Ideally, I'd like another Broadway show — I'm not really enthusiastic about just singing in clubs."

Pat is aiming also for a "solid business association." "A show business career can phase out like that, but a solid business connection... that's what I want," she says.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Lots Of Coconut Cake

BY CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
When you feel like making an elaborate dessert you might consider this Brazilian Coconut Cake. It serves 12 to 16 people and all our tasters approved it.

The recipe is adapted from Margarette De Andrade's "Brazilian Cookery" (Tuttle) — a book we find as fascinating to read as to cook from.

BRAZILIAN COCONUT CAKE

1 cup milk
1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut or one and one third cups grated fresh coconut
3 cups sifted flour
¼ cup cornstarch
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ pound (2 sticks) butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
4 large eggs
¼ teaspoon cream or tartar

Coconut Custard

Grease 2 layer-cake pans (each 9 by 1½ inches); line bottoms with wax paper.

In a small saucepan over low heat, heat milk for about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add coconut and let stand 15 minutes.

Pour mixture into strainer over a small bowl. Drain well, pressing coconut against side of strainer with a spoon; reserve coconut milk.

On wax paper sift together four cornstarch, baking powder and salt; set aside.

In a large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in egg yolks, one at a time. (Put egg whites in a medium mixing bowl and set aside.)

Stir flour mixture into creamed mixture in 4 additions, alternating with coconut milk, beginning and ending with four mixture and mixing until smooth after each addition.

With clean beater, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until very stiff straight peaks form when beater is slowly withdrawn. Gently fold egg whites into batter, blend in well.

Turn batter into prepared pans. Bake in preheated 350-oven until cake springs back when lightly touched — 30 to 35 minutes. Place pans on wire racks to cool for 10 minutes; with a small spatula, loosen edges; turn out on wire racks; remove paper; with another wire rack, turn right side up. Cool completely.

Cut each layer into thirds horizontally. Stack layers (cake will have 6 of them), spreading ¼ cup chilled Coconut Custard between each layer. Spread remaining Coconut Custard over sides and top of cake. Sprinkle top with one third cup toasted coconut reserved from Coconut Custard recipe. Cover; store in refrigerator.

Makes 12 to 16 servings.

What is the A.B.C.?

Chatting with a merchant the other day, we mentioned our "ABC figure."

"What," he asked, "is an ABC figure?"

Perhaps what we told him will also interest you.

This newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, an independent, nonprofit organization of nearly 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies, and publishers.

Its purpose is to provide accurate and factual reports on the circulations of member publishers. In the advertising and publishing industry, the ABC insignia is often referred to as the "hallmark of circulation values."

At regular intervals, an ABC traveling auditor visits our office to check our records. The findings of this physical audit are embodied in an Audit Report published by ABC — the report literally tells us what our circulation is.

Virtually everything an advertiser should know about our circulation is found in this report, facts and figures without opinions.

British Polio Victim Walks Through County During 2,800-Mile Trek

BY MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

David Paul Ryder, a 22-year-old polio victim from London who is conducting a fund-raising campaign for the Riding Centre for the Disabled at Grange Farm, Chigwell, Essex, is walking across the United States, passing through Hereford Monday en route to Amarillo and points beyond.

Accompanied by two men and a woman following in a camp-trailer, Ryder left California on March 30 and is expected to arrive in New York City around the middle of August.

"When I left Santa Monica, he mayor and the British Consul and his wife saw me off," Ryder said, "and when I arrived in Los Angeles the mayor saw me off there. It took me about three days to get just outside Los Angeles."

Relating his experiences along the trip, Ryder said he "met a lot of company — like snakes." He said he had to kill one snake in the Mohabi Desert when it crawled across his foot, and he was faced with the same situation in New Mexico.

So far, Ryder has crossed approximately 1,200 of the 2,800 mile trip. He has crossed California, Arizona and New Mexico. He stopped in Amarillo Wednesday for a press conference and then struck out for Oklahoma.

"On the whole," he said, "the American people have been good to me, except when sometimes they stop and ask me for a ride and I tell them I am walking across the United States and they give me a peculiar look like I am crazy."

Ryder is using publicity to get donations for the Riding Centre at Grange Farm, a center of therapy for handicapped persons. All money raised as a result of his walk will be used to further the objectives of the research center, he said.

"Riding for the Disabled is a modern form of therapy which has been going on in this country for over 15 years," Ryder said. "This was the purpose for which the center was built in 1964 and since then the British Horse Society has started over 50 groups throughout England and has formed The Riding for the Disabled Association to advise new groups."

He said there is a great interest from abroad in this project and mainly as a result of experiences and work going on at Chigwell, centers have opened in Australia, Canada, Germany and France. Recently, he said, a center was built and will shortly be opened at Battle Creek, Mich.

"The association has proved riding is advantageous, both physically and psychologically," Ryder said, "and our intention is to try and build one of these centers in every large town and every state."

In preparation for his cross-country walk, Ryder began training two years ago, slowly building up his muscles. He began with short walks and gradually built them up until he took his first long walk of 54 miles from London to Brighton.

He said he took "many, many training walks of 100 miles or more." The walk he is now on is the third charity walk he has taken.

Ryder said he now walks about 30 miles a day, six days a week, beginning each morning at about 6 and walking about 12 hours each day. He is being accompanied on his walk by John Davies, founder of the Riding Association, Davies' wife Donna and Michael McGary.

"Climate has proven to be my biggest trouble," Ryder said. "I had to travel through snow and cold weather in the mountains and along the way there were a lot of heavy winds."

"When you walk in the wind, you are battling away and using up a lot of energy and not getting anywhere."

Ryder said it was very hot in the desert, the temperature reaching the 100 degree mark several times. It took him about three weeks to walk across the desert, he said.

Ryder's impression of the United States so far on his journey has been good. He said the trip has provided him with a wonderful opportunity to see this "land of many contrasts and many surprises with people who are very interesting and very friendly."

Ryder said one half of the contributions received in the United States as a result of his walk will be given to the North American Riding For The Handicapped Association to enable it to promote its program. He has asked that any contributions be sent to the David Ryder Trust Fund at European-American and Trust Company, 52 Wall Street, New York, N. Y.

Hereford Joins In Observance Of Realtor Week

This is Realtor Week in Hereford.

Mayor Jim Sears signed a proclamation last week making the nationwide celebration applicable locally also.

The slogan for the realtors in connection with the observance is "Under All Is The Land," the five words which open the Realtor's Code of Ethics.

The observance is one of hundreds planned throughout the nation this week to call the public's attention to realtors and the service they render.

In Hereford as in other areas, fighting pollution — air, water and noise — is the newest area in which the National Association of Real Estate Boards is becoming involved in its Make America Better Program.

Anti-crime drives focused on lighting the night as one method of thwarting the criminal have been conducted by hundreds of the boards of Realtors. In New Jersey, for example, 26 of the boards are combining in a crime fighting campaign which will reach 80 per cent of the population of the state.

Light the Night campaigns in Lubbock and various California cities were credited with reducing crime rate.

American realtors presently are taking positive action as a part of a six-objective program in the Make America Better Program. Among these six objectives are 43 proposals in such areas as the field of vocational education.

"The services of the realtor in fulfilling the need of the home seeker and seller too often overshadow his other important roles in the whole spectrum of the real estate field," Melvin Jayroe, president of the Hereford Realtor Board said.

"The expansion and increasing complexity continually developing in industry and commerce point up the mushrooming need for the expertise of the realtor in all real estate matters."

ELECTORAL COLLEGE
LIKELY TO REMAINSENATE HAS QUALMS
OVER DIRECT VOTE

By HENRY CATHCART

Central Press Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Several members of the U.S. Senate are having second thoughts over the House-passed constitutional amendment to abolish the Electoral College and establish direct popular vote for president.

The popular vote proposal, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., appeared to be without meaningful opposition once it cleared the House last year. Even the Nixon administration, which earlier had opposed the measure, withdrew its opposition after House passage of the measure.

Now, however, disturbing arguments have been advanced against this proposal, the most damaging being the charge that the Bayh plan could wreck the two-party system. Opponents of the direct election measure say the plan would be sure to produce a third, fourth and maybe even fifth and sixth party candidates for the presidency.

In 1972, for example, a race with four strong contenders would be a very distinct possibility. In addition to Republican and Democratic nominees, other candidates could include George Wallace or Georgia's Gov. Lester Maddox from the far right and Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., or New York's Mayor John Lindsay from the far left.

● WHAT COULD HAPPEN—This possibility is even more disturbing because multi-party candidates might draw more votes in the first round of voting, if chances appear good for a run-off. (Under the Bayh plan, if one candidate does not receive 40 per cent of the vote, the two top candidates vie in a run-off election.) Conceivably, this could place a minor party candidate in the run-off.

Thus the Bayh amendment, which set out to prevent someone like George Wallace from influencing the Electoral College vote, could establish much the same result in a popular direct election.

Sens. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., and Joseph Tydings, D-Md., two political friends of Bayh, have expressed open reservations. Eagleton and Republican Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas have proposed an alternative to the Bayh plan.

The alternative is extremely complex and unlikely to gain much Senate support. But the very fact that these senators—one a liberal, the other a conservative—are proposing an alternative to the direct election amendment is an indication of its lessening support.

With a favorable vote of two-thirds of the Senate required for passage of a constitutional amendment, the chances of the direct election proposal are not good. Even if the Senate passes the Bayh plan, ratification by three-fourths of the state legislatures would be needed and that appears most unlikely by 1972.

So the Electoral College, which comes under heavy attack every four years, is very likely to select the president again in 1972.

● SEVEN LETTERS WIN AWARD—The tax-supported National Foundation for the Arts recently awarded $750 to Aram Saroyan for a seven-letter poem. The work of "art," which taxpayers financed, consisted of the word "Light" on a sheet of paper.

Rep. William Scherle, an Iowa Republican, protested the award on the House floor. But the money already had been given to the poet by George Plimpton, the editor of the Paris Review and the author of such books as "Paper Tiger," the story of Plimpton posing as a quarterback for the Detroit Lions.

DOROTHY MANNERS' Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—As Exhibit A that virtue still pays off in this bitter, cynical, riot-torn, war weary, strike stricken world of ours today, I offer Mr. Pat Boone.

He's worth a second look. After 20 years of a career that began as a sweet singer of sentimental music, he's still going strong as a top headliner in Las Vegas, a screen star in his yet unreleased "The Cross and the Switchblade," an outstanding athlete frequently paired with Arnold Palmer in pro-amateur golf tournaments, a partner in Wendell West Land Developers (gross business exceeding $80,000,000).

He also has a fat hand in a chain of barbecue stands in the South, a TV repair chain, United Convalescent Hospitals and the Oakland Oaks basketball team.

As entertainment in general became sleazier and dirtier and audiences more permissive, our boy Pat has become richer and richer. And he's never uttered a dirty word in his life or even told an off color story!

How does this all come about is what I wanted to know the day we lunched at the Cock 'n' Bull on Sunset Boulevard, a popular pub where the Bloody Marys are being tramped to those in need of calming hangovers, which Pat did not have, and I'm sure, NEVER had.

Is he living proof that President Nixon's silent majority can maintain and richly support a contemporary entertainer with clean shaven face, short clipped hair and who hasn't even seen "Easy Rider"?

The idea made him laugh. "Let's just say that you hear and read more about the mods, the dissenters, the protest singers. They are splashier and newsworthy. But we square singers still sell a few records." As proof of this, Boone plat- ters have sold over 45 million records, and he has 13 gold records (over a million sales of 13 songs). He also is president of Thistle Productions, Inc., which now produces all his recordings.

"I've just finished a picture, 'The Cross and the Switchblade,' based on the amazing true experiences of a religious man, David Wilkerson, (the role Pat plays) and his fight to bring hope and help to the teenagers of the most dangerous ghettos in cities throughout the country, particularly New York.

"Believe me, I had some eye-openers making this picture on the streets of Manhattan. I saw sights out in the open you wouldn't believe — for instance, four teenage boys giving themselves a 'fix' with the same dirty needle.

"Wilkerson and I talked with kids who hired on as extras in the picture admittedly because they needed money to support their dope habit.

"Wilkerson believes, and I do too, that the youth of the country has lost religion. They are just disillusioned with the lack of it and evidences of bigotry and hypocrisy in the very houses of religion they attend, or have stopped attending."

Pat and his pretty wife, the former Shirley Foley, his Denton, Texas, schoolgirl sweetheart, have four teenagers of their own—all girls—Cheryl, Linda, Deborah, and Laura.

And is it possible that the senior Boones have no typical teenage problems with their brood of youngsters?

"Sure we have teenage problems. My oldest girl told me the other day that a schoolmate of hers had offered her marijuana and speed pills right out of her purse. I asked Cheryl her reaction.

"I was not shocked," she told Shirley and me, "I just don't need them."

Added Pat, "So far—so good, and you better believe it."

Legislators Indicate Support For Teacher's Proposals

AUSTIN — Whatever the outcome of the May 2 and June 6 (runoff) primary elections, and the November 3 general elections, a majority of candidates for the 1971 Texas Legislature have indicated they favor certain proposed changes in laws affecting public education.

Eighty per cent (279) of the 347 first-primary candidates for places in the 62nd Legislature responded to a Texas State Teachers Association inquiry concerning their support for seven specific proposals. Their replies were recorded in the April and May issues of the Texas Outlook, official magazine of TSTA.

Absent from the TSTA questionnaire was any mention of a teacher pay raise. TSTA officials say that no such request will be made by the Association in 1971. At least four of the seven proposals could be implemented at no cost to the state.

Among those responding, unqualified support for the seven proposals ranged — question by question — from 83 to 94 per cent among the 35 Senate replies (including seven incumbents not up for election). Of the 251 House candidates answering, positive support ranged from 76 to 90 per cent.

The seven proposals on which the candidates were asked to answer "yes" or "no," were:

1. I will support a bill that would provide a formula for a cost-of-living increase (in retirement benefits) at no cost to the state, for teachers now retired.

2. I will support a bill providing for a lesser number of years on which to calculate the average base salary (for teacher retirement purposes) at no cost to the state.

3. I will support a resolution to amend the Constitution to provide a vested interest in the retirement system for teachers with a minimum of less than 10 years of service, at no cost to the state.

4. I will support a bill providing career contracts, at no cost to the state, for professional personnel and an orderly procedure for the employment and dismissal of professional personnel.

5. I will support a bill which would provide standards for supervising and regulating private trade, technical, and business schools.

6. I will support a bill designed to meet the established needs of additional staffing to insure an adequate public school system.

7. I will follow carefully the work of the Committee of 18, analyze their recommendations, and support those which are constructive and generally considered beneficial. (The Committee of 18 an interim legislative panel, is currently studying raise of some $1,800 per teacher for the 1969-71 biennium, over the 1968-69 average under the minimum foundation school program plan" which will provide additional 5 per cent annual raises until Texas teachers with bachelor's degrees reach top possible changes in public school financing which would more equitably divide state and local fiscal responsibility for the public schools.)

The 1969 Legislature passed a law to provide an average pay gram. This will make the minimum starting salary of $6,000 per year effective in September, with teachers to be paid on a 10-

TO AID TORNADO VICTIMS

Tech Makes Available Its Manpower, Dorms, Food

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech University, scarred physically by the tornado which struck the city of Lubbock Monday night, has made its manpower and building, housing and feeding facilities available where needed.

The disaster came at a time when most of the students were off campus, Tech President Grover E. Murray said, leaving months basis.

The same law (H.B. 240) includes a "continuing compensation" of $11,040 per year, and those with master's degrees achieve maximums of $12,040 per year.

NEW FACES

IN SMALL FACES

NEW YORK — Small Faces, once a teen-rave group in England, had a personal shakeup and went underground for awhile. Now, in America, Small Faces tours and sells records as Small Faces. However, in England, to prevent anyone thinking the new group is the old group, it's called Faces.

The new lead singer, Rod Stewart formerly of the Jeff Beck Group, also now is a solo performer, recording for a different company than records his new group.

most of the physical facilities free for use by homeless persons and disaster personnel sent to Lubbock by the armed services and service organizations.

Wednesday night 193 storm refugees were housed in Drane Hall. At Gordon Hall eight Department of Public Service personnel were lodged, along with the 6 National Guard officers, 12 regular Army officers from Fort Bliss and 4 from Fort Sill, and 29 Red Cross personnel.

In Sneed Hall were 10 Lubbock Power and Light repairmen, seven power and light crewmen from Andrews and 10 from Midland, 50 National Guard personnel from Snyder and six from Amarillo, and 13

U. S. Corps of Engineers personnel from Fort Worth.

A total of 363 displaced persons were housed Tuesday night in Drane, Weeks, Sneed and Gordon halls. Ninety-three Department of Public Safety officers, electric service repairmen and Red Cross and National Guard personnel were housed on the campus Tuesday night.

Approximately 300 persons were fed in campus facilities Tuesday.

Tech students responded to the need for help in many ways, Dr. Murray said. A dozen members of Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, men from the College of Agricultural Sciences and organizations helped remove debris from the campus and adjoining areas Tuesday and Wednesday.

Members of the Saddle Tramps helped to get civil defense and other service personnel housed in Sneed Hall.

Tech students with equipment and skills in ham radio communications made their services available and early Tuesday in individual students, not representing any organizations but volunteering their help, directed traffic along University Avenue, Fourth Street, 19th Street and neighboring streets while signal lights were inoperative.

The campus itself suffered heavy damage to trees and landscaping, some water damage in buildings, damage to the College of Home Economics Building, and heavy damage to high intensity lighting at Jones Stadium.

Cats Catch Colds, Too, Just Like Anyone Else

If you have ever wondered if "Puff" or "Tom" could have a common cold, you can stop wondering. They can and do.

In fact, according to the Texas Veterinary Medical Association, colds in cats are characterized by almost the same symptoms as those in humans.

If he is sneezing, has a running nose, acts and looks like he feels miserable and could be running a fever, he probably does have the nearest thing to a human cold that our domesticated animals experience, says Dr. W. H. Kirksey of Ft. Worth Vice President of TVMA and chairman of the Small Animal Practice Committee.

The disease, or group of diseases, is commonly referred to as pneumonitis. The cause is the old scape goat, the virus, Dr. Kirksey explains.

No one knows how many different viruses may ultimately be found in the upper respiratory system of cats capable of producing the symptoms of a "bad cold." The duration of the disease may extend from a few days to many weeks, and even become a very unpleasant chronic sinus condition, defying treatment.

The condition is highly contagious to cats only and is transmitted when infected animals sneeze and spray their virus-laden discharge, in the vicinity of susceptible felines. The exotic species of the feline, such as those cats in zoos, are also susceptible to the disease.

While the disease is transmitted readily from cat to cat, the loss from the disease is fortunately not very great. Naturally the degree of severity is frequently dependent upon the speed with which diagnosis is made and adequate treatment instituted.

All veterinarians are thoroughly familiar with the disease in all its varieties and are competent to advise the proper management for treatment in order to lessen the severity and shorten the course of the disease.

Treatment is largely supportive; that is, do anything that'll make the animal comfortable and support him so that the body can fight the disease process. Some of the viruses are considered susceptible to antibiotics, and in addition, other diseases attempt to attack an animal already sick; so antibiotics are very necessary for the animal's well-being and rapid recovery.

Some of the viruses responsible for pneumonitis, coryza, or rhinotracheitis, have been incorporated into a vaccine and are recommended for administration.

When the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves in the National League playoff the three games drew a total of 153,567 fans.

stering prophylactically, especially prior to foreseeable exposure periods such as cat shows. Unfortunately, a large number of the viruses presently known do not lend themselves to use in vaccines.

Constant progress is being made, and it is probable that preventive vaccines will be available in the near future, Dr. Kirksey concludes.

You wouldn't go in there for a million bucks.
A cop does it for a lot less.

You may think a cop takes risks because he's paid to take risks. The kind of risks you wouldn't take for a small fortune. Something else must make it worthwhile. Something inside of him. A desire to help. So, whether it's to probe an alley, stop a burglar, or deliver a baby, he's ready. When you need help, call a friend. Call a cop.

He married a Hereford girl, Roxie Witherspoon, and their one daughter lives in Florida.

The Pioneer Day events will begin Saturday, May 30, in the Bull Barn, at 9:30 a. m. with registration conducted by the Pioneer Study Club and refreshments served by home demonstration clubs.

will give the welcome address.

In 1922, after receiving his B.A. degree, Fertsch moved to Austin to teach math and science until 1932. At this time he became a supervising principal until his retirement in 1954.

Fertsch owns a farm near Austin and spends his time buying and selling cattle. In the past, he has lived on this farm where he raised registered Hereford cattle.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL BY VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN, Tex. — In the space of less than an hour, the State Finance Commission accepted the retirement of "Mr. Banking" himself — State Banking Commissioner J. M. Falkner; named a new banking commissioner; fired State Consumer Credit Commissioner Francis A. Miskell; and named a new credit commissioner.

These actions brought to an end long-time controversies over Falkner's replacement and Miskell's position.

Commissioner Falkner, who has been with the banking department nearly 50 years (23 as commissioner), has been wanting to retire for some time, but the Finance Commission could not agree on someone to take his place.

Falkner wanted his deputy commissioner (since 1965), Robert E. Stewart, to fill the post, but there was dissension on the board. However, the problems were worked out before the meeting, and Stewart was picked unanimously.

In a surprise move, the Commission voted 6-2 to discharge Commissioner Miskell and named Asst. Atty. Gen. Sam Kelley to succeed him immediately.

Miskell weathered one storm threat early this year, when it was rumored segments of the loan industry were out to "get him" because of administrative actions against them. After stern talk, the Commission refused to accept Miskell's resignation in February. There was no warning in this latest round. Commission members blamed administrative differences and the fact that four key agency staff positions had not been filled.

COURTS SPEAK — The State Supreme Court overturned lower courts and held that Texas Aeronautics Commission had full authority to grant the Air Southwest Company of San Antonio a certificate to operate commuter flights linking Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Antonio. Three major airlines have fought the application in a two-year-old legal battle.

The Court of Criminal Appeals ruled that Amos Gaines of Houston, convicted of murder in Harris County in 1962 sentenced to 99 years, should have a new trial. The court said the record of his first trial had been destroyed and the only way to make sure no error was made by the lower court was to have a new trial.

AG RULES — A member of the legislature cannot be paid from funds appropriated by the legislature for goods or services the lawmaker or firm of which he is a member sells the state, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin said in a recent ruling.

The opinion concluded that whether the corporation in which a legislator owns stock is precluded from contracting with the state or county must be determined on the basis of each individual case.

In another ruling, Martin said state agencies may sponsor seminars on appropriate matters and charge registration fees to defray expenses. State employees and officials may be reimbursed for registration expenses.

APPOINTMENTS — Gov. Preston Smith named Sam Kinch Sr. of Austin and John T. Steen of San Antonio chairman and vice-chairman of American Bicentennial Commission of Texas to plan the nation's 200th anniversary program. Other members of the commission include Marcella Perry of Houston, Dr. George Woolfolk of Prairie View, Ina May McAdams of Austin, Dr. Charles Ray Ritcheson of Dallas and Frank Tolbert of Dallas. Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. serves as ex-officio commission secretary.

Smith announced creation of the Texas Urban Development Commission and named Arlington Mayor Tom J. Vandergriff chairman and Dr. Earl Lewis of San Antonio vice chairman. He designated James Goodwin of Austin to represent the state in the Southern Regional Environmental Conservation Council of Southern Governor's Conference.

LI. Gov. Ben Barnes named Senators Bill Moore of Bryan, Jack Hightower of Vernon and David Ratliff of Stamford to the Committee on State and Local Tax Policy.

Speaker Gus Mutscher named former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr; Harry Hubbard Jr., Texas AFL-CIO; Houston Attorney Searcy Bracewell; and Representatives James Slider of Naples, Jack Ogg of Houston and Joe Hawn of Dallas to the Committee to Study Alternative Methods of Attracting New Industry to Texas.

CHEMICALS — Agricultural chemicals containing DDT will not be accepted for registration by the Texas Department of Agriculture until a study on their effect is completed, Commissioner John C. White announced.

Suspension of registration "does not mean that any ill effects from the agricultural use of DDT compounds have been reported or found," White said. He added that household products containing DDT will continue to be registered for use. Governor Smith has appointed an advisory committee to study the use and effects of DDT and other pesticides. It will report its findings, probably before the end of August, White said.

OYSTERING — Parks and Wildlife and State Health Department officials report that tests on oysters, shrimp and fish from state-approved Gulf Coast waters show no significant contamination from mercury or other heavy material.

One sample from San Antonio Bay during a period when it was closed to oystering revealed a trace of mercury, but samples from Chocolate Bay — also closed to commercial oyster harvesting — have shown no trace of mercury although borderline amounts of heavy metals were found.

FUNDS APPROVED — A $326,999 Community Action Grant has been approved for the Community Committee on Youth Education and Job Opportunities in Corpus Christi.

Other grants announced by the governor include:

—$31,429 for operation head start in West Orange Grove school district.

—$10,289 for head start in Erath County.

—$8,938 for a legal services program to the needy in Brownsville.

—$9,288 for City of Fort Worth to train police in traffic administration.

TAXES — Comptroller Robert S. Calvert has released his end-of-April statement on state income and outgo, comparing income with the same eight months (September through April) of the previous state fiscal year. Report shows that inflation and retail sales are continuing to grow.

In addition, the new fiscal year includes a 0.25 per cent increase in the state general sales tax. But even without the increase, the gain from last year's $222.9 million to this year's $295.5 million would show an increase in sales and retail prices.

Car and truck sales are rising, since the tax take rose from $54 to $62 million. Net value of auto sales rose from $2.1 billion to $2.35 billion.

MASSIVE DISASTER — Acting Gov. Ben Barnes immediately called up state agencies for emergency duty in Lubbock following the devastating tornado which struck there May 11. Clean up and security details were coordinated by the State Defense Council.

An estimated 3,000 are homeless.

less. Death toll is figured at 23 and injuries at 500. Property damage, highest in state history from a tornado, may reach $200 million.

President Nixon declared the battered and bruised South Plains city a disaster area. He also applied the same designation to Hockley, Hale, Briscoe, Donley, Swisher, Gray, Cochran, Lamb and Parmer Counties which were hit by storms April 17-18.

Maximum federal assistance thus will be made available in recovery operations.

SHORT SNORTS

Criminal Justice Council, after some discussion of whether it was usurping power only the Legislature has, voted to give the newly-formed Texas Board of Private Detectives $30,068 (Legislature appropriated only $11,000 for the present fiscal biennium) so it can begin its task for licensing every private investigator and guard in the state.

Attorney General Martin's anti-trust and consumer protection division accepted in district court here a voluntary compliance offer from a Dallas retail sewing machine outlet to discontinue allegedly false and deceptive advertising.

Hearing on the Lone Star Gas request for Korrville rate hike has been put off until June 1 by the Railroad Commission.

George Hurt, director of public school occupational programs at the Texas Education Agency, died after a brief illness.

Accident Fatal For Zab Vance

Zab Vance, father of Elbert Vance of Hereford, was fatally injured Monday near his home in Cullman, Ala.

Vance, 75, died after the automobile in which he was riding was struck broadside by a truck.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon in the Jones Chapel Baptist Church in Cullman.

Survivors other than the one son are five daughters living in Alabama, and a sister living in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Vance preceded her husband in death Jan. 26.

Helen Langley--Wife Mother, Civic Leader

BY SUE COLEMAN

Triple roles of wife, mother and volunteer for community service are played by Mrs. Earnest Langley, who combines them into a personality marked by quiet cordiality.

When Helen Langley sits on the speakers' platform at a banquet or stands beside her husband in a public receiving line or acts as hostess in their home on 502 Star, she is playing her principal role, wife of a lawyer who is much involved in civic affairs and in demand as a speaker.

When she shows concern in work with Hereford schools and community youth programs, as well as when she deals individually with her four daughters she is featuring the mother's part.

And when she served in offices of the Camp Fire Girls Leaders' Association (five years as president) and helps direct activities of junior high youth in First Methodist Church, she is giving her time, thought and energy to community affairs. She is in the Women's Division of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, but says she has so far been "mostly a non-working member."

Directing her service to groups involved with young people is a natural outgrowth of feeling for her children. Two of the Langley daughters are still at home; Camille is a senior and Carolyn will be a sophomore next term in Hereford High School.

The oldest daughter, Suzanne, is Mrs. Dan Wall, now living in Florida while her officer husband completes military duty. Barbara, the second, is teaching art in Austin public schools and her husband, Chris Todd, is a law student in the University of Texas.

Mrs. Langley also lived in Austin as a young wife, while the Hereford attorney was in the UT law school. They met while both were students at Texas Tech, and were married in 1941 just as he was going into military service during World War II. She was able to live where he was stationed most of the time, in Colorado, North Carolina, California and El Paso.

One semester of study at Tech remained for Langley after he was discharged from army duty, and they lived at Lubbock before going to Austin. He practiced in Amarillo a short time before they came to Hereford for what they thought was a temporary stay.

They liked it and have been here 17 years, seeing the two older daughters through Hereford schools and the others well on their way. Through their interest in the schools the Langleys "grew to the community," Mrs. Langley says, adding, "This seems to be a community which revolves around its young people.

"That may be true of any community. After all, its young people are its future."

She became a supporter of the Camp Fire Girls program when her daughters were old enough to be members, and has high praise for the leaders who worked with them — Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, Mrs. Lloyd Crume and Mrs. Bill Dameron.

"When Carolyn was eligible to join a Bluebird group, I felt that it was my turn to work as a leader," she says.

She started as the Bluebird leader, continued with the same group through elementary and junior high years and is now directing them in activities as a Horizon Club, the Camp Fire organization for high school girls. Five of the original group are still members, but Mrs. Langley points out that the changing membership is normal for Camp Fire groups.

"They grow like the bacteria that we studied in biology," she explains with a smile. "New members are added until the group is too large, then it divides to make two groups which grow again. Many of our former members are in other groups now."

She likes the Horizon Club program. "It's exciting because the girls have reached an age where they are able to do things which really meet the needs of the community, fulfilling the goals of their years of preparation in younger groups."

Mrs. Langley believes the Camp Fire program has as much to offer adults as the girls, and feels that her experience has added a new dimension to her life. The objective stated by the founders in 1910, to bring womanly qualities out into the field of human relations, has a curiously contemporary sound 60 years later, she remarks.

"Of course changes have been made in the structure of the organization, but its values remain the same. With all the world's technical advances, the importance of human beings is stressed."

Her work with young people in her church she considers just as important if not more so. She has served in all divisions of the children's and youth departments and says thoughtfully, "Church work is the thing that inspired me to want to work with young people at all; it gives me the desire to do more than just meet the demands of the church program itself."

Helen Langley is a native Texan, born in Marble Falls although she came with her parents to the Plains when she was only three years old. As Helen Richter she attended Abernathy schools, then was a student two years in Tech. She spent some time as a wage earner before her marriage, working in a bank at Abernathy.

"It was a small enough bank that my job called for all types of work — as teller, bookkeeper, and sometimes floor sweeper," she says.

Willingness to fill the needs of whatever task she attempts is still characteristic of Mrs. Langley. She is even happy to be useful to her husband in a way familiar to family members of any humorous speaker, as the subject of his after-dinner jokes.

Education Agency Offers History On Bilingual Schooling

Bilingual Schooling in the United States, a monograph which represents the first attempt at providing a comprehensive picture of bilingual schooling in this nation and other parts of the world, is now available through the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

The two-volume monograph, written by Dr. Theodore Anderson, Program Director, and Dr. Mildred Boyer, Coordinator of the Bilingual Education Learning System of the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory in Austin, traces bilingual schooling through its historical, developmental, and cultural perspectives to its current implications for society. The monograph was written under contract with the U. S. Office of Education.

The authors made three extensive field trips to visit sites where bilingual programs are in progress. The first led through the Northwest as far north as Barrow, Alaska; the second was a tour of the Southwest and Hawaii; and the third was from Miami, Fla., north through Washington, New York, New England, and then into Canada.

Besides a detailed history of bilingual schooling, the monograph includes alternative concepts of bilingual schooling, sample curriculum models, an outline of needs as related to action and research, an extensive bibliography, and general discussion of the issues surrounding the subject.

Although there are currently more than 100 bilingual programs in operation in public elementary schools, Dr. Anderson points out that current programs are inadequate in extent and sometimes in quality.

"The chances of successful achievement in school," he says, "are still low for children whose native language is not English."

The authors state that in developing adequate programs, the major difficulties seem to lie in a lack of public understanding about the goals of such programs; a lack of consensus among bilingual educators on appropriate approaches to such programs; and a great shortage of trained bilingual teachers.

"A successful design," Dr. Anderson writes, "must be bilingual to satisfy linguists, bicultural to satisfy sociologists and anthropologists. It must be suited to the particular age of the children involved to satisfy developmental psychologists and early childhood specialists. It must be integrated to satisfy politicians and individualized to satisfy pedagogues, simple to satisfy teachers, functional to satisfy administrators, testable to satisfy research designers, effective to satisfy psychologists, economical to satisfy taxpayers, interesting to satisfy children, and convincing to satisfy the general public. In short, if a bilingual program is to satisfy so many special interests, it should be designed by a team of specialists from many different disciplines."

The program which Dr. Anderson currently directs at the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory, one of the nation's 15 regional educational laboratories, is based on this team approach.

Copies of the monograph may be obtained through the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. The price is $6.00 for the two-volume set. Sets cannot be divided.

Hygiene, Child Psychology Are Offered In Workshops

PORTALES — The department of psychology at Eastern New Mexico University will offer two summer workshops, one dealing with mental hygiene and the other with child and adolescent psychology. "Classroom Applications of Mental Hygiene Principles" is scheduled for June 4-12. The purpose of the course is "to translate some basic principles of mental hygiene into practice, with the problem of psychologically strengthening children and increasing their chances of becoming happy and effective adults."

"Child and Adolescent Psychology for Parents and Teachers" will be offered on Aug. 8-17. Its aim is "to offer concrete, down-to-earth, yet psychologically sound suggestions for constructively coping with the many problems that accompany interpersonal relationships."

Both workshops can be taken for two hours graduate or undergraduate credit in psychology. Both workshops are for those interested in teaching the child psychology workshop but who are below the junior level or who have not had any university level courses should ask special permission from Dr. George Jones, director of summer session.

To pre-enroll for either workshop, send your name and address to Dr. Natividad M. Allen, Department of Psychology, Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, N. M., 88130. Be sure to state which workshop you plan to take. Additional information on the workshops also is available from Dr. Allen.

3-Day Course On Emergency Aid Set For Amarillo

A practical course on emergency care and transportation of the sick and injured to be held in the Amarillo area is scheduled next week in the auditorium of the Psychiatric Pavilion of Amarillo Medical Center, 7201 Evans Street in Amarillo.

Invited to attend the three-day course of lectures and demonstrations are ambulance attendants, policemen, firemen, safety engineers, rescue squads, nurse, public health, civil defense, and other officials or private citizens dealing with the handling of persons who are sick or injured due to accidents. This course, May 19, 20 and 21, is given free of charge and is expected to attract attendance from a seventy-five mile area around Amarillo. It is given by the Texas State Department of Health and the Potter-Randall County Medical Society.

The death rate from accidental injuries can be reduced by improved training of emergency personnel, according to Dr. Henry E. Martinez, a local Amarillo doctor who is acting as Program Chairman for the Training School.

A fast ride to the hospital by ambulance or other means has practically never saved a life.

There is often only a few minutes to reestablish heart action and breathing, time too short for even a 90 mile-an-hour trip to the emergency room of the hospital.

What is really needed are people well trained in emergency care to prepare the injured for transport. This means being able to make a quick survey, to determine medical priority, and to take the necessary life-saving measures.

To furnish this instruction, doctors and nurses from the Amarillo area and members of local police and fire organizations and others will speak and demonstrate on a wide range of subjects, including resuscitation, cardiac massage, splinting of fractures, burns, and other medical emergencies.

Aid to snake and spider bite victims, smoke and gas hazards, handling of emotionally disturbed patients, emergency childbirth, and traffic control at the scene will be covered.

TALL TROUBLE

BLACKDOWN, England — Army recruit Michael Venables is a chap that girls look up to. At 16 he is 6 feet 10 inches tall and still growing.

The Royal Army Ordnance Corps has had to find him custom-made uniforms, boots and bed. Said Mike: "My one trouble is getting through doors. I keep forgetting to duck and have bruises all over my head."

Circus Elephants Understand German, But Not English

It may come as something of a surprise to most people that the elephants of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus understand not one word of English! All of them learned their tricks from German-speaking trainers and that's the only language to which they respond. "Ponderous Performing Pachyderms" are mainstays of The Greatest Show on Earth which arrives at the Amarillo Civic Center on Thursday, June 4 for 9 big performances through Sunday, June 7.

True-blue Circus fans, a devoted and totally dedicated group, are quick to tell you that things backstage at Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey are every bit as fascinating as what happens in those three famous rings.

For instance, as you sit in your comfortable seat thrilling to the Circus' performing animals, you'll never see with what tender loving care longtime circus vet Dr. J. Y. Henders on treats his strange assortment of patients. The vet keeps a constant eye on every one of the 300 performing animals, assuring their trainers that they are in the best of health possible. Doc Henders has achieved such a splendid reputation in the animal world that he's visited constantly by representatives of zoos, asking his advice on the particular medical problems of the animal kingdom.

And unless you somehow sneak backstage (warning: it's not easy!), you'll never hear the Circus' swinging rock and roll combo, comprised of performers from 6 different countries.

As soon as The Greatest Show on Earth arrives in a new town, the musicians search out an empty room in the arena for their practice sessions. They have a ball but are strictly amateur musicians. Professionally, they're jugglers, trapeze artists and tiger trainers!

Another favorite spot with visitors backstage is Clown Alley, the area in which the Circus' clowns dress, make-up and prepare for their appearances. Each funnyman has his own special area of the alley. Between their mirth-provoking visits to the arena, here the clowns can be found reading, writing letters, playing a couple of hands of cards, or perhaps watching a baseball game on TV. In a sense it's their personal living room and an invitation to enter the alley for a visit is considered a high honor and sure sign of acceptance into the Circus community.

When Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey personnel get a hankering for a cup of coffee, tea or hot chocolate, they know what to do. The water is always boiling in the ladies' dressing room and, if you're a girl you just go in and help yourself. Men, of course, are forbidden to enter so much stand near the door and wait for a girl to go in and fetch refreshments. It's not at all unusual to see a long line of male performers and staff members acting like stage door johnnys!

Circus people are a versatile lot and several people with the show operate profitable side-line businesses. For instance, a blond young man who is paid to care for elephants finds spare time to be the busiest shoeshine man on the show. And at the of a dusty day on the arena floor, he finds a lot of customers. Another young man is an expert barber and sets up shop backstage during almost every Circus stand.

Like performers in any area of show business, Circus stars must warmup before going into end of a dusty day on the arena hallways and anterooms are crowded with somersaulters, jugglers, dog groomers and people standing on their heads. The first couple of times backstage, a visitor is amazed by what's going on around him. After a while, it becomes routine and you're not surprised by a anything.

Many of the Greatest Show on Earth's performers put large stock in various good luck charms. It's not unusual to see an acrobat clutch a tiny medalion just before he enters or for a pretty trapeze star to ritually kiss her husband on the forehead.

Backstage at Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey is a little more exotic than Yountown, USA, but its all part of the days work to the people of the Circus.

Thursday show times are 2:30 and 8:00 p. m.; Friday at 2:30 and 8:00 p. m. Saturday at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 8:00 p. m.; Sunday are at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. Tickets are on sale in Amarillo at the Civic Center and Sears, Sunset Center.

SWEETS AND STRIPES—Mary Gill, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey aerialist, bestows affection on a lucky zebra. The 1970 edition of The Greatest Show on Earth comes to the Amarillo Civic Center for nine shows beginning Thursday afternoon, June 4, and continuing through Sunday evening, June 7.

Solons Meet Soon On $$$ Formula In Texas Schools

AUSTIN — The "Committee of 18," special interim Legislative group now working on new formula for dividing financial responsibility between the state and local school districts, will hold its first public hearing in Austin May 25 at 9 a. m.

Two school board presidents, two school district superintendents, and members of the Governor's Committee on Public School Education are expected to attend the hearing at the Texas Education Agency building, 11th and Brazos streets. The Governor's Committee served during the administration of former Governor John B. Connally.

Other interested citizens are also invited to express their views at the hearing, State Senator A. M. Alkin Jr., of Paris, "Committee of 18" chairman, said.

School board presidents Dr. Mervin H. Berkeley of Dallas and Loyd (correct) L. Turner of Fort Worth are expected to speak along with school district superintendents Dr. Jose Cardenas of Edgewood ISD in San Antonio and Nelson Eichmann of Lumberton ISD in Silsbee.

The 18-member committee, authorized by the 61st Legislature, is studying the financial relationship between the state and local school districts and also examining the structure of the current Economic Index. Its recommendations will go to the Governor Preston Smith and to the Legislature in 1971.

Committee members include State Senators W. E. Snelson of Midland and A. R. (Babe) Schwartz of Galveston; State Representatives Joe H. Golman of Dallas, Renal B. Rosson of Snyder, and James L. Slider of Naples; Doyle Corley, New Boston; Norman R. Hall, Lampasas; C. Dana Williams, Corpus Christi.

Also, Gerald B. Wadzeck, San Angelo; Mrs. Carroll Kock, Quanah; John L. Schoellkopf, Dallas; Wales Madden, Amarillo; John Justin, Fort Worth; Dr. John W. McFarland, El Paso; W. R. Baker, Knox City; Lee Hill, Houston; Dr. J. W. Edgar, Texas commissioner of education, and Alkin.

Math Teachers Plan For Tech Seminar

LUBBOCK — An In-Service Institute for High School Mathematics Teachers will begin at Texas Tech University at the start of the fall semester in August.

The National Science Foundation has awarded the university an $8,191 grant for the institute which is expected to alleviate a problem affecting at least a dozen school systems on the South Plains.

Rep. George Mahon notified Texas Tech President Grover E. Murray of the grant for the institute which will be headed by Mathematics Prof. Charles L. Riggs.

Dr. Riggs has been the director of three summer NSF institutes at Texas Tech and consultant to the National Science Foundation and the U. S. Agency for International Development on similar assignments in India in 1967 and 1968.

The institute will advise high school teachers of the development and trends in modern mathematics, investigate methods and encourage the improvement of curricula and courses offered high school mathematics students, and improve the factual knowledge and competence of participants with emphasis on recent developments in mathematics education as well as the classic concepts.

"Telephone calls and conferences with school officials in more than 10 school districts in the Lubbock area last spring," Riggs said, "convinced us that there is a serious shortage of mathematics teachers particularly for eighth and ninth grade advanced or accelerated programs."

"Texas Tech University, as a multi-purpose university and the largest within a 300-mile radius in West Texas, proposed the institute to help find a solution to this shortage."

He said applications for participation will be sent to teachers who are recommended by a principal, superintendent or other authorized representative of the school district.

Participants will be selected from those applicants who have had at least three years of teaching experience in mathematics in the secondary school and have as much as five or more years remaining before retirement, he said.

Priority will be given to the high school mathematics teachers, he added, who do not have a degree in mathematics.

Class schedules will allow teachers to commute to the campus from the community in which they teach, Riggs said.

Graduate credit, applicable toward the master's degree, will be earned by those completing course work.

Working with Riggs in the institute will be mathematics Prof. Paul E. Thompson.
