Do You Remember?

July 21, 1905

An important event occurred this week when Galbreath and Fox Grain Co. shipped a car of Panhandle-raised wheat to market. The car . . . embraced a portion of the crops of Robert Humphrey, R. L. Boll, B. H. McKinley and B. A. Keithly . . . and was shipped to Dallas. We say this event is an important one as it is the second full car of wheat to be shipped from this place.

The Sunday law has been rigidly observed in Hereford the last two Sundays. Notwithstanding the fact that both days were oppressively warm, no cold drinks could be had and even ice cream was a scarce article. The lovers of cigars were compelled to lay in a supply on the preceding Saturday in order that they might enjoy their usual smokes.

Mrs. Ross W. Davis entertained Misses Celia Robinson, Olla Blanton, Zula Vanderburgh, May Pierce, Margaret House and Imo Gass on Wednesday that they might become known to her sister, Miss Helen Metcalfe, who is visiting her from Dallas . . . The time was pleasantly spent in girlish converse that was appropriately more replete with lightsome gaiety than of wisdom and profundity.

Grand Jurors selected for the August term of district court include J. P. Carr, E. Carter, J. C. Coker, Jno. E. Day, J. R. McFarling, G. A. Stambaugh, John E. Sachse, W. B. Parmer, W. D. Kellehot, H. F. Shelton, J. D. Whitsett and J. H. Kelly.

Don't Condemn Tonsils!

A few sore throats and colds are not sufficient evidence on which to condemn your Tonsils. The tonsils are a useful and important organs of the body.

They are part of a very complex system known to medical men as the lymphatic system. It is composed of glands, ducts and vessels, and produces the white corpuscles of the blood. In addition, they act as the sewage system of the body carrying off the dead cells.

So, before removing the tonsils, consider their usefulness to the body.

Refrigerator Tips

1. Defrost regularly. When 1/4 inch of frost accumulates on the freezing unit, it's time to defrost. Best time is before buying week-end supply of food.
2. Clean regularly. Wash throughout with lukewarm water and baking soda. Wipe dry. Wipe up spilled acid foods promptly to avoid destroying glaze on enamel.
3. Do not overcrowd. Leave room for air to circulate.
4. Do not cover grill at back of refrigerator.

Gas appliances are sturdy, dependable, well-built, and designed to last for years. But they should not be neglected. It's well to remember that "Better Care Means Longer Wear." A small amount of attention to your gas appliances regularly will pay you handsome dividends. It's wise to make what you have last until final Victory, when finer and handsomer gas appliances than ever before will be available.

Our Country Needs Still More Used Fats...And We're the Folks to Save them!

IN between the good news about the war these days, careful readers of the paper will see grave words about a serious national shortage that has a direct bearing on military and civilian production schedules.

Our domestic supplies of fats and oils will be approximately one and one-half billion pounds less than last year. Yet thousands of tons of fats are still needed to help make countless essentials for the battle- and home-fronts.

While country people have been doing an even better job of saving fats than the city folks, we must remember that, because of the meat situation, we are in a better position to save. That's why we can't afford to miss a trick.

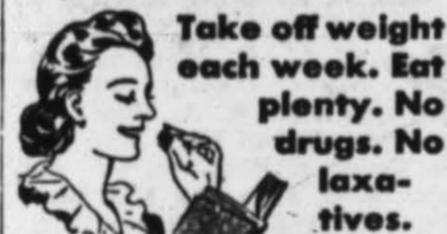

So, let's save not only the big amounts from frying and roasting, but also meat trimmings, plate scraps, and scrapings. Melt them down once a week and add the liquid fat to the salvage can. Skim soups and gravies. Scrape every pan. Every drop is important.

When your salvage can is full, take it to your butcher, and get 2 red points and up to 4¢ for each pound. If you have any difficulty, call your County Agent or Home Demonstration Agent.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year!

THE WONDER FLAME THAT COOKS AS WELL AS HEATS

SEEDS of ADVICE

The Garden Club

NOTE—This article was prepared for the Garden Club by Mrs. D. H. Alexander.

Since the rose has been chosen as the permanent flower for the Hereford Garden Club, not only members of the club, but other flower lovers have become increasingly rose-conscious. Old rose gardens have been given more care and thought than usual; many new and rare roses have been added and new rose gardens have appeared.

With the best of care, many rose plants haven't made satisfactory progress. Some have made a start and are now dying—some leaves are pale or the blooms are blighting, and while many factors may be contributing to conditions like these the big problem now is keeping them alive through the hot summer months.

Roses need a relatively large amount of water during the summer and the best plan is to water them thoroughly when dry and then no more water until the soil is dry again. Avoid surface watering, being sure the soil is wet to a depth of twelve inches or more. Good drainage is necessary for roses do not like wet feet. Overhead watering should be done in the day-time to insure dry foliage at night. Wet leaves at night provide an ideal situation for the spread of black spot. All weeds and grasses should be eliminated from the rose bed by careful cultivation because they are greedy for water and nutrition.

In cutting roses a good thing to remember is that the plants feed through the leaves and when a bloom is cut with a long stem, usually with several leaves, the plant's food supply is lessened. Cutting the rose with a short stem is a much safer method.

What To Do For Blight

Blighted blooms and a gradual die-back of plants have been noticeable this summer. The late freeze and the hot, dry winds may be a cause for these conditions but the treatment of the plant itself may be more to blame. Unless black-spot is controlled the plant will succumb to die-back as a result of the loss of its leaves. Black-spot may be prevented by dusting or spraying with sulphur.

Most Texas soils have enough iron, but some roses do not have the ability to obtain as much as they need, which is shown by the leaves turning a creamy-white. A simple way to combat this is adding iron sulphate or copperas to the soil. Some have used rusty nails or pieces of iron with good results.

The blighted blooms are most likely caused by thrips—a tiny pest that feeds on the blossoms. The edges of the bloom appear to be burned and the bloom opens poorly. Protected as the thrips are in the bud, sprays and dusts cannot reach them and one good way to control this pest is to remove all blooms before they shatter, thus destroying the thrips before they move on to new buds.

Keep your roses healthy. That is the best protection against insect attack. Roses that are full of vigor are seldom full of bugs.

Hereford GI Wonders if Old Home Town "Just the Same" as He Left It

"What is the old home town like since we went away? Have we changed or have our friends changed?"

Thus writes Cpl. Noel E. Washam from Bad Kissinger, Germany, in a letter to The Brand, which we feel perhaps expresses the sentiments of many a GI who is eager to get home and at the same time a little worried about the changes that he will find.

"I have talked with many who feel the same as myself," writes Cpl. Washam, "and I would say that the majority look toward the return to the old home town as not being the same. We have wonderful memories of our school days and hate to have them destroyed by feeling that we are no longer wanted. We have seen a lot. Bulge and St. La. How do the I've only seen two battles—the people feel toward us?"

Maybe this question requires the answer of a philosopher, or a student of social trends; but so far as we see it, this is about the way it stacks up.

No, Cpl. Washam, you won't find things the same. You have grown up since you left Hereford; and Hereford has experienced just about the same changes brought about by the war in other small towns. Appearances have not changed vastly, and you will find that Hereford people are still interested in pretty much the same things—the fate of the current Whiteface football team, job changes on Main Street, weather and crops, the vital statistics of birth and death that are news when they concern people you know.

But don't expect to find things exactly as you remembered them; for in the years you have been in the army you may have formed a slightly idealized picture of life in the old home town and the reality won't be the same.

As for being welcomed at home, you will find that your friends will be glad to see you and they will try to let you know it. Judging from the experience of soldiers who have already returned, we can tell you that you may find the civilian world a "screwy" place—but the civilians, by and large, mean well. It may take some patience on your part—and on the part of the folks who stayed home—but relying on the essential good sense of all concerned, we believe that a satisfactory adjustment can be made.

Streu's Diary

Dear Diary:

Folks had better get rid of their old Stove Purchase Certificates right away. All OPA Forms R-901 and R-901 (Rev. 12-43) will become invalid July 31st. Anyone holding such certificates can either purchase a new stove immediately or re-apply to the Ration Board for a new certificate.

Speaking of stove certificates, I quote the following from Ration Order 9A. "A stove dealer may not set aside or ' earmark' a rationed stove for a consumer or accept a down payment unless and until the consumer turns over to him a Stove Purchase Certificate for that type of stove." which—merely means—that unless you have a certificate, the merchant cannot hold a stove for you.

We just opened up an assortment of the nicest pictures we have had—floral prints with rose, blue or wine background—two sizes—14x16 inches and 17x21 inches. They will make wonderful gifts, or attractive decorations for the home. For wall decorations, folks should see the assortment of plaques on display—plaques for every room from bedroom to bath.

Jean just mentioned a handy item—a wall make up shelf with a Kleenex Holder attached—has a nice large mirror, too.

We have gotten some thirty cases of Pyrex the last few weeks, and the stock is nearly complete—even to those big casseroles (just the right size to roast all the meat you can get now.)

For roasting, we have dozens of glass roasters—from 14-inch to 20-inch.

Getting back to stoves, we have a complete stock of gas heaters and a few oil heaters—certificate holders will do well to select one now—stoves will still be short this fall and winter—particularly the oil stoves.

Wish Hereford had a swimming pool.

OPA Lists Requirements for Use of Lockers for Meat

Requirements for persons who hold frozen food lockers were outlined today by the Enforcement Division of the District Office of Price Administration. Sam H. Alfred, Enforcement Attorney, pointed out that the basis of the locker-inspection program is the requirement that no rationed meat may be transferred or acquired without surrender of ration points.

Under certain conditions, persons are entitled to have point free meat in their lockers. A livestock producer may have slaughtered any animal he produced or raised without giving up points provided:

1. That he either operates a farm at which he resides more than six months of the year, or actually supervised the raising of the animal and was on the premises on which the animal was raised at least one-third of the life of the animal.

2. That the animal was raised by the owner from birth until time of slaughter, or owned and fed 60 days preceding slaughter, or long enough for the weight of the animal to increase 35 per cent of its weight when acquired.

3. That the resulting meat is for the owner's own household and that he does not intend to sell or transfer any of the meat.

If the locker plant does custom slaughtering for his locker patrons he is required to give information to the Local Board of the livestock owner and to the District OPA office showing the weight of the live animal, dressed weight, kind of livestock and facts about the offal. If the locker holder was not entitled to meat point free, then he is required to have a slaughterer's license and to have surrendered points for the meat transferred.

A locker operator is required to grade all meat handled or slaughtered by him, whether it belongs to a locker holder or any other person, before breaking, storing or delivering it. If the locker holder is a farm slaughterer an dis entitled to the meat point free for his own consumption he is required to grade or have graded all of his meat, but if he kills cattle for sale he must grade it or have it graded before the carcass is broken, delivered or stored. He may grade the meat without applying for permission from the Federal Grading Service.

Lt. Fern Landers, former teacher at Vega, and now a member of the WAC, stationed at Washington, D. C., is home on a 30-day furlough. She is visiting her sister, Miss Floy Landers of Amarillo and spent Tuesday here with Miss Lucile Hughes and Mrs. T. W. Robertson.

trust department was included in the bank, but this was discontinued in 1927. Through its entire history, the First State has always been considered a sound business institution and has contributed greatly to the growth of the community.

Following the death of Chas. Williams, Sept. 24, 1941, the controlling interest was sold to R. A. Babcock and C. L. Mann of Colorado, on June 20, 1944. Present directors of the First State Bank are R. A. Babcock, C. L. Mann, J. A. Pitman, C. C. Ackler, Miles Roberson and Cliff Estes.

luncheon, which will be held at the Methodist Church on July 27 instead of at the Presbyterian Church as originally announced.

It can happen here—or anywhere in California (which is a part of the United States, despite some opinions to the contrary). For this week The Brand carries an advertisement for horses and mules from a California buyer, who says that the animals are slated for "immediate slaughter."

The Martin Laundry will close promptly at noon on Saturdays, beginning next Saturday, July 21, it was announced this week by Mrs. T. C. Martin, who said that the Saturday closing is necessary in order to make needed repairs on machinery. The schedule will remain in effect until further notice.

And still the reports come in on these school kids who are helping to solve the manpower shortage. Latest are Dan McAllen, who is working at Penney's, and Robert Bateman, who has been working at the Bob Lindsey farm all summer—and making a regular hand too, according to all accounts.

He hasn't received it yet, but J. W. Dunn is expecting a war souvenir that is almost in the heavy artillery class. His son, Pfc. Cecil Wayne Dunn, has written that he is going to send a German Machinegun to add to his souvenir collection.

Seaman First Class Howard West, son of Mrs. Lura West of Albuquerque and formerly of Hereford, left Friday after a few days visit here with his uncle, Ernest Wade, and family. Howard is a veteran of the war in the Pacific.

used to purchase new literature each year."

The need for a fund to bring to W. T. students each year two or three spiritual leaders for a series of lectures and conferences is also mentioned by President Hill, who says that the project would require sufficient endowment to produce $500 to $1,000 annually or have enough annual gifts to get the same results.

All of these projects, except the chapel itself, offer a splendid opportunity for memorial giving, President Hill states, adding that persons interested in any phase of the program should make checks payable to any of the four causes outlined. Receipts will be mailed from the president's office and will be processed to the First National Bank of Canyon; books and accounts will be audited monthly by a competent auditor and a financial statement will be publicized when the project has been completed, President Hill said, adding that it is hoped to complete the campaign for funds by Oct. 1, 1945.

Boyer Evaded

Questioned concerning conditions in the camp, Boyer answers briefly and to the point: "I was hungry."

"But" he continues, "I would have been a lot hungrier if it had not been for the Red Cross—it's the best organization in the world, as far as I'm concerned."

After the camp was liberated on May 1, Boyer waited until May 15 to be flown out to France by the American Army Air Forces. He then remained in France for a month and caught up on food and sleep prior to his return to the States, where he arrived on June 20.

Lieutenant Boyer, co-pilot on a B-24 liberator, has been in service for more than four years. He was accompanied here by his wife and baby, and expects to report Sept. 1 at Santa Monica, Calif., for reassignment.

His brothers, Cecil Boyer of Lipscomb and David Boyer of Amarillo and their families have been here visiting him this week.

Though the engine was jammed up under the floorboard, neither Kirkman nor his wife suffered injuries other than cuts and bruises; though Mrs. Kirkman remained in the Deaf Smith County hospital throughout the day Friday for observation. Only slick pavements prevented the accident from being even worse, Kirkman believes, stating that in addition to the damage to the motor and transmission, the frame of his car was sprung. Occupants of the car were brought into Hereford by State Highway Patrolmen.
